WhAT IS JUNIOR RED CROSS?

Junior Red Cross functions in the school. This means that Junior Red Cross organization and activities are integrated with regular classroom work. Junior Red Cross has a definite program of activities. They are distinct and separate from adult activities; however, there are occasions in which Junior Red Cross membership may work in partnership with adults.

The success of Junior Red Cross depends upon the combined interest and efforts of school authorities and teachers and the Red Cross Chapter. It is essential that the Junior Red Cross program serve as a contributing factor in vitalizing learning in school and in making it function in the daily lives of the children in the home and in the community.

WHO MAY BE MEMBERS OF JUNIOR RED CROSS?

All children of elementary school, lower middle, and high school are eligible for membership. The membership is on the group basis. There is no individual membership. Schools join by a class group. Therefore, the boys and girls are eligible for membership in the Junior Red Cross from the time that they enter the elementary school until they complete the high school. When they finish the high school they are no longer eligible for Junior Red Cross but are eligible for adult membership in Japanese Red Cross.

WHAT ARE THE OBJECTIVES OF JUNIOR RED CROSS?

The objectives of Junior Red Cross may be defined as follows:

1. To help the children to learn the full meaning of good citizenship.
2. To promote health and safety.
3. To help the child to cultivate the spirit of Service and an understanding and friendship for his community, the nation, and the world.

The objectives of Junior Red Cross are the same as that of the school, the homes, and other youth organizations. The objectives may be summed up by saying that the chief purpose of Junior Red Cross is to help give the boys and girls an opportunity to learn to be good citizens by acting now as good citizens.

DECLASSIFIED E. O. 12065 SECTION 3-402 / NNDG NO. 775013

INTRODUCTION

Our Junior Red Cross was founded in 19.. and is now over twenty years old.

During these years, it has contributed something remarkable to the development of school education in general as an auxiliary institution carrying out practically and substantially what it has taught school children, inculcating them, at the same time, with the principles and ideals of humanity, altruism and international good-will and also promoting health.

In order to keep step with the reformation of our educational system based upon democ.., the Junior Red Cross has also altered and improved its structure and substance in many different ways accordingly.

This brochure, "The Manual", has been published for those who have been connected with the Junior Red Cross and elder members of the same, briefly describing such alterations as above mentioned.

This "Manual", unlike such books as have heretofore been published, has laid emphasis chiefly upon things practical, not upon those theoretical.

We have no doubt that those who have taken leadership of this institution and been interested in its activities will find a definite principle of education in this brochure.

They must clearly understand that the Junior Red Cross is not an institution intended to teach children things theoretical, but only to help them put in operation what they learn at school.

It goes without saying that this "Manual" is simply a short account of the Junior Red Cross, not touching upon the details of its structure and subject matters.

So, it is quite natural that there would arise various subjects questionable on the part of school teachers or leaders of the Junior Red Cross Groups.

In such cases, they are requested to ask us without reserve anything that they do not understand or to study it by themselves so that they can carry out the Junior Red Cross activities successfully.

Upon publishing this "Manual", we cannot but express our heartfelt thanks for the invaluable advices given us by our American Junior Red Cross Adviser to say nothing of the generosity and kindness shown us so signally by the American Junior Red Cross as to have furnished us with the printing paper more than enough for this brochure.

September, 1947.

WHAT IS THE JUNIOR RED CROSS PLEDGE?

"I, AS A MEMBER OF THE JAPANESE JUNIOR RED CROSS, WILL TRY TO KEEP MY BODY AND SPIRIT HEALTHY, AND STRONG, AND WILL DO MY BEST FOR THE BENEFIT OF HUMANITY, IN MY COMMUNITY, THE NATION, AND THE WORLD."

HOW TO REGISTER JUNIOR RED CROSS IN A SCHOOL

As soon as a school class with teacher's approval has decided to join Junior Red Cross it must be registered at the Chapter Headquarters of the Japanese Red Cross and the Chapters must register it at National Headquarters.

Forms and badges and information about registration may be secured from the Chapter Junior Red Cross leaders.

The annual registration fee shall be five yen per member. For example, in a class of 40 pupils, the membership fee for entire class group will be 200 yen. This fee is sent to Chapter Headquarters with the proper forms filled in with requested information and the Chapter forwards the entire amount of the membership fee to National Headquarters.

It must be noted that the fee in question must be money earned by the members themselves in some way or the other. When members of the group or sub-group wish to earn money there are two ways: one is to work en masse as a group after planning has been done under the leadership of the teacher; and the other is to earn money individually. Under the present circumstances the teacher should consult parents and explain to them the purpose for which children wish to earn the money.

There will be many persons who will not favor the new system of the registration fee; but it should be considered from the educational point of view, that is, how this plan will teach the boys and girls to be good citizens of New Japan. This may be one way to impress boys and girls of their sense of duty to themselves and to the welfare of others. To maintain an organization there must be sufficient financial support.

The senior membership of Japanese Red Cross will have the responsibility for financing the administration of the Junior Red Cross, but boys and girls will be responsible for financing their projects. Through this plan adults will assume their appropriate responsibility in giving youth opportunities to grow and develop in social attitudes. At the same time boys and girls will develop the attitude of beginning projects and seeing them through to the end. They will understand and feel the responsibility of the total job.

WHY IS THERE A JUNIOR RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP FEE?

When boys and girls join a National and an International organization, they are given certain privileges which do not come without responsibilities, both financially and morally. Boys and girls who join Junior Red Cross pledge themselves to help others and to make their country a better place in which to live. They cannot use a national organization's opportunities and its channels without realizing that it cost something to maintain the organization which will bring them the opportunities for serving nationally and internationally. In Junior Red Cross boys and girls have the privilege of joining hands with children in 64 nations of the world for the purpose of promoting health and safety programs, serving children less fortunate than they, and learning about children in other countries and how to make friends with them. (See "What Junior Red Cross Members Do" - how learning can be projected into active participation - p. 4). Every member of a democratic organization should learn about the privileges it offers, understand how it operates, and realize how his membership can make it a stronger and better organization for the welfare of all the people.

Thus a membership fee teaches boys and girls that privileges do not come without cost. It teaches them money values. It gives them an opportunity to perform in an organization in a manner in which he will perform as an adult.

HOW MAY THE MEMBERSHIP FEE BE EARNED?

When boys and girls begin planning ways to earn their membership fee, they should study their community and find the ways which are within their abilities and which give them the satisfaction of learning and being helpful at the same time they are earning. The following suggestions may guide the teacher and pupils in making plans to earn the membership fee:

1. Make craft work from native materials to sell. This may be a pad on which to set hot dishes or it may be a dish lifter which protects the hands from being burned. It may be candle sticks made out of cans, lanterns, broken needle cases made out of match boxes, small toys, dolls, and other articles which are easy for children to make and which will have sales value.

   In making these items teachers and children may wish to visit a nearby factory to learn all they can about their community industries. This will make an interesting lesson in school classes.

2. Repair bicycles.

3. Deliver newspapers.

4. Help gather vegetables.

DECLASSIFIED E. O. 12065 SECTION 3-402 / NNDG NO. 775013

5. Weed vegetable or flower gardens.

6. Sell fish.

HOW WILL THE MEMBERSHIP FEE BE SPENT?

All membership fees will be used to publish a Junior Red Cross magazine when National Headquarters has the facilities for publishing it. The magazine will be an organ through which Junior Red Cross members may speak and learn more about their organization and which teachers may use as excellent reference material in their classroom work.

The magazine will not be a subscription magazine. It will be distributed to all membership groups on basis of one to a classroom registration. It will not be distributed to non-members.

HOW LONG DOES A MEMBERSHIP IN JUNIOR RED CROSS LAST?

A Junior Membership registration campaign shall be held every year in April. This may mean that a class group has registered as members of Junior Red Cross this year, but they may elect not to register as members the next year, however, if they wish to continue as members they must register again and receive new badges.

WHAT DO JUNIOR RED CROSS MEMBERS DO?

A. First Step.

After the teacher and pupils have discussed the Junior Red Cross and have decided to become members, they learn about the pledge which each member takes when the class group registers. Each class member is officially recognized as a member of Junior Red Cross when the pledge is taken and when he writes his name on the membership certificate which may be placed in a prominent place on the wall in the classroom. Now the member is ready to wear the Junior Red Cross badge. The emblem of Red Cross is assured by the Red Cross International Convention and its abuses are forbidden. When a member of the Junior Red Cross wears this emblem, he must not treat it as a simple badge but keep in his mind that this emblem is a symbol of humanitarianism not only internationally, but also in every community in the country.

B. Second Step

Junior Red Cross members around the world pledge themselves to Service. They learn to keep healthy and strong so that they may serve their community, their nation and the world. The services that Junior Red Cross members may do are as follows:

DECLASSIFIED E. O. 12065 SECTION 3-402 / NNDG NO. 775013

1. Community Service.

   a. Send flowers to sick patients in the hospital.

   b. Study in the social studies classes ways they may serve at home, in the school, and in the community. Then make plans to put into action the ways which they have found to serve.

   c. Plan campaign - "Keep Public Places Clean and Attractive."

      (1) In Social Studies class study the condition of the public places in the village. What is a public place? Why are they dirty? Are they unattractive? If so, why? What can we Junior Red Cross members do to improve the situation?

      (2) In language classes boys and girls may prepare speeches which they may give to public group meetings. These speeches should contain information which they have learned in Social Studies class about Public Places in their village.

      (3) Posters may be made in their classroom work to be posted in appropriate places in the city to remind people to do those things which will make the public places clean and attractive.

      (4) Letters may be written in language classes to the parents and to the leaders of all organizations and to the business men of the community explaining the campaign and asking them to support and cooperate with the movement. Specific suggestions may be made in the letter as to how they can cooperate.

      (5) Plan a School Assembly Program stressing importance of campaign.

      (6) School groups may personally interview village government officials and work out plans with them to keep public places clean and attractive.

      (Junior Red Cross members should not feel responsibility of doing the labor for keeping public places clean. Their duty should be to help educate people of community to respect public places and to form habits which will take better care of them.)

d. Each Junior Red Cross group should practice the simple rules of personal hygiene:

(1) Get plenty of outdoor exercise and sunshine.

(2) Keep body clean by taking a bath or washing every day.

(3) Sleep at least ten hours every night.

(4) Eat balanced meals. Eat fruit and vegetables with fish and rice and other main dishes.

(5) Chew food well so that it will be easily digested.

(6) Use good manners when eating.

e. Grow vegetable gardens at home and at school.

f. Help in the hot lunch program in the schools. Promote the proper ideas for balanced meal. Encourage all boys and girls to eat properly.

g. Promote safety programs. Plan a safety campaign. Learn safety rules for crossing streets, walking down the road, riding bicycles, building fires, throwing away rubbish, and other hazards which cause accidents.

2. National Service

Junior Red Cross members should be interested in the welfare of New Japan. They should always be ready to give a helping hand and to learn more about their responsibility to the community. They are citizens today learning how to be better citizens tomorrow. They may engage in following National Junior Red Cross activities.

a. Inter-Country School Correspondence. (See "How to prepare a School Album for Exchange with another School" which can be secured from your Chapter Junior Red Cross leaders.)

b. Serve Red Cross Hospital.

(1) Make vases.

(2) Make toys for children patients.

(3) Prepare poem sheets for patients to read and enjoy.

(4) Make posters and wall hangings and decorations which both children and adults will enjoy.

(5) Make games which patients can enjoy.

(6) Make picture books for child patients.

3. World Service

Junior Red Cross members should become enlightened about the world. The realization of a peaceful world depends upon how much we know and understand about other people. The only activity that Japanese Junior Red Cross can offer in this Service is the School Correspondence Album Exchange. Contact your Chapter Junior Red Cross leader for the bulletin which explains how to prepare the album for exchange with a school group in another country.

HOW IS JUNIOR RED CROSS ORGANIZED IN A SCHOOL?

A. First Step

After all pupils in one class room have been registered and a pledge has been made by each member, then a sub-corps may be organized and be officially recognized.

The next thing to be done by the sub-corps is to create an organization by electing officers. There should be a Chairman who represents the sub-corps and presides over its meetings. A Vice-Chairman and a Secretary should be elected, too.

A teacher in charge of the class room shall guide the sub-corps and its members in their activities and shall take responsibility for keeping the group's activities consistent with the educational objectives. He should, insofar as possible, use the activities, including the organization activity, as a teaching tool. The activities should provide opportunities for children to practice what they are being taught.

(Certain parliamentary rules should be followed in setting up an organization and electing officers. The Junior Red Cross should follow that procedure which is recommended by the Ministry of Education.)

B. Second Step

On organization of over two sub-corps in a school, a Junior Red Cross Corps for the entire registered membership may be organized. This may be done so that each sub-corps may coordinate its activities with the other sub-corps of the school.

To organize the School Junior Red Cross several representatives from each sub-corps should be named by each group to represent them in the School Corps. The number of representatives chosen from each sub-corps may depend upon the size of the school or the number of registered groups. There should be a small group represented on this Corps because too large a group makes it more difficult to do good planning. After representatives from each sub-corps have been named, they should meet and elect their officers, chairman, vice-chairman and secretary. The school principal should name one of the teachers as teacher-guide for the School Corps.

The responsibility of the School Junior Red Cross Corps is to plan activities for the Junior Red Cross. They are a planning group and they provide opportunities for entire Junior Red Cross membership to participate in service projects. After the Corps makes plans each representative returns to respective sub-corps group and informs the membership about the plans. The sub-corps membership has the privilege of deciding how much of the plan or plans they wish to undertake.

The Corps and sub-corps may appoint as many committees as the circumstances may demand. For example, a health committee and a publicity committee may be essential to the success of the program. If so, they should be appointed.

It is important to remember that this is a youth organization and the boys and girls should have the privilege of being the officers and leaders. These boy and girl officers and leaders should alternate. This organization helps to develop leaders and teachers should make arrangements that as many boys and girls as possible during a year's time should have an opportunity to serve as leaders. Teachers and school authorities serve as guides. They should stay in the background except when circumstances demand positive action on their part.

WHAT SHALL BE THE NAME OF THE JUNIOR RED CROSS CORPS AND SUB-CORPS?

Any corps when organized and officially recognized shall have the same name of the school in which it was formed. For instance, the Junior Red Cross Corps consisting of the pupils in Akasaka Primary School shall be called Akasaka Primary Junior Red Cross Corps, the lower middle school shall be called the Akasaka Lower Middle School Junior Red Cross Corps, and the higher middle school shall be called the Akasaka Higher Middle School Junior Red Cross Corps.

The sub-corps shall be designated by a number such as First Sub-Corps of Akasaka Primary Junior Red Cross Corps.

HOW IS JUNIOR RED CROSS RELATED TO THE SCHOOL CURRICULUM?

The Junior Red Cross program calls for a variety of activities which, if properly used, should vitalize knowledge and skills and help develop character, health, and citizenship. Properly integrated, therefore, with the school curriculum, these activities should supplement the efforts of the government to achieve its educational objectives as set forth in the Constitution of Japan.

In order to realize these objectives to the fullest extent, it is important to keep in mind that the pupils will grow and develop in proportion to their participation in the projects that are suggested. For this reason those in position of leadership in Junior Red Cross work should keep the following questions always in mind:

1. In what home and community activities may Junior Red Cross members properly engage which will help develop in them better understanding and a more responsible attitude toward home and community needs?

2. How may the production of articles and the promotion of services for children's institutions, Red Cross hospitals, and similar institutions lead the pupils to greater interest in productive work and to a growing realization of the value of their contribution toward the welfare of others less fortunate than they?

3. How can participation in the International School Correspondence lead to a better understanding of other people and to an increase of friendliness from which a better international relationship may eventually develop?

4. How may one develop in the pupils a sense of responsibility in membership in the Junior Red Cross, and correspondingly in their homes and community?

5. How may the Junior Red Cross program add interest and meaning to school work and help promote greater and more enduring satisfaction, broader understanding, and deeper sympathies in the members?

The Junior Red Cross projects should be suitable to the pupils of every class and subject. Any one class should, however, engage in those activities which are most suitable to the skill, interest, welfare and understanding of the pupils, and which will contribute most to their social growth and development.

Each school should be well informed at the beginning of each school year as to all program possibilities - local, national and international. The school is then free to choose those activities which have the greatest possible educational usefulness to its pupils. The school may initiate activities which are both good Junior Red Cross and good education. The chapter Junior Red Cross program is the sum of all Junior Red Cross activities in all the schools.

The student Treasurer must make out the annual financial report for presentation at the Annual Meeting of the Corps and must hand over all books of account brought carefully to date and other property belonging to the Corps, to a succeeding Treasurer.

ROUTINE PRACTICE OF MEETINGS

A few days before the meeting, the President and Secretary should confer so that an agenda may be drawn up by the Secretary. This agenda or program for the meeting should be carefully followed.

The following is a sample agenda included for information only. Meetings need not follow exactly such a routine.

HONCHO SCHOOL

Meeting to be held in the School Hall on Friday, 14 May, at 3:30 pm.

AGENDA

1. Minutes of Meeting of 12 April for confirmation.
2. Correspondence.
3. Report by Treasurer.
4. Report by Chairman of Program and other committees.
5. Program for June meeting.
6. Address by Secretary of the Fire Brigade.
7. Any other business.

Meetings should always be conducted with dignity and seriousness. The President of the Corps acting as Chairman, must really conduct the meeting and all members when speaking must stand and address the Chair as "Madam Chairman" or "Mr. Chairman." It is the Chairman's duty to indicate which of two or more speakers is to speak first and to call the meeting to order should members be talking amongst themselves or speaking to one another and not to the Chair.

When a visitor has been invited to the meeting, the President, as soon as the meeting is opened, should welcome and introduce the visitor to the members, saying a few gracious words about how fortunate the Corps is to have the visitor, and, if he or she is going to speak, state what the subject of the address is to be.

After the address has been given the President should call on a member to propose a vote of thanks and another to second it. It is usual for these members to be warned beforehand that they will be called upon to fulfil this duty.

PUTTING A MOTION: The following is the routine procedure for decisions, so that they are in order to be placed on the minutes of a meeting:

The President introduces the subject, giving a few words of explanation, and if one member is particularly informed or wishes to speak on the subject, the President asks him to speak and to move a motion covering the item. The matter is then proposed by that member who gives his reasons for wishing the meeting to approve. The motion must be stated in clear careful terms. A member would propose a motion in such words as this:

> "With your permission, Mr. Chairman, I would like to propose that this Corps should, as its next major activity, organize an International Pageant to be presented at the end of the year at a date to be decided later. The proceeds from the pageant to be used to provide a toy cupboard for the children's ward of the hospital. And that Shirley Anderson be appointed Chairman of a committee to organize the pageant."

The matter is not open for general discussion until another member seconds the motion.

Members may only speak once to each subject except the proposer, who is permitted to reply to any criticism or answer questions before the motion is put to the meeting for approval or rejection.

When all members who wish have spoken to a motion and the proposer has been given the opportunity to speak a second time, the President shall say:

> "The motion before you is.....Will all those in favor signify in the usual manner." (Hands will then be counted.) "To the contrary." (Again hands will be counted.)

The President shall then say either:

> "The motion has been carried" or "The motion has been defeated."

AMENDMENTS: An amendment may be proposed and seconded to an original motion before it has been put to the meeting. Amendments must not be a definite negative of the original motion but may modify it in one or more details. Amendments are put to the meeting before the original motion. If the amendment is carried it is then put again to the meeting as the original motion. If the amendment is lost, the motion in its original form is put to the meeting.

PRESENTING A REPORT: The Treasurer presents his report at each meeting, and when a committee or a member has undertaken some special duty a report is usually presented. The routine of presenting a report is simple and must always be followed. The member, after addressing the President, reads the report, moves its adoption and takes his seat. A member seconds the motion and the President, after allowing time for discussion, puts the motion to the meeting and declares it carried or lost.

It is always the Chairman of the meeting, and not the Chairman of the Committee, who puts the motion to the meeting.

THE PRESIDENT CONDUCTS THE MEETING: When the meeting is assembled and the President has taken the Chair, he or she rises and says:

"The Secretary will read the minutes of the last meeting."

When the Secretary has read them, the President says:

"Is it your pleasure that these minutes be confirmed?"

This question is put to ascertain the accuracy of the minutes. Any objection by any members must be proposed, seconded and voted upon by those present at the last meeting. If there is no objection to the minutes, the Chairman receives the answer "Yes," signs the minutes and dates them.

Any alterations and amendments should be made and initialled by the Chairman. Any business arising out of the minutes is then discussed.

The President then says: "I will now ask the Secretary to present the correspondence."

As each letter is read, the Secretary is given instructions from the President, after receiving the consent of the meeting of the action to be taken. The majority of letters are simply dealt with; many need on ly an acknowledgment. In such cases the President shall say "Are you all agreed that acknowledgment and thanks be sent to Miss ....?" If the meeting is in agreement, consent is signified; if a member thinks other action should be taken, he or she says so; discussion follows, then the President puts a motion to the meeting. Some letters will give rise to full discussion before agreement is reached on the action to be taken.

The President then brings before the meeting the other items on the agenda in their order, unless there is some special reason why any one item should be taken out of order.

After the completion of the specific items, the President asks: "Is there any other business?" This is done to allow members to ask questions on any matters or to bring forward for consideration any ideas they may have concerning Corps or Junior Red Cross affairs. Before the meeting ends, the President arranges and tells the members, the date, place and time of the next meeting. When this is done, the President says: "I now declare the meeting closed and thank you all for your attendance."

Outline of Mr. Nobuo Watanabe's speech given at the Junior Red Cross Conference in Koriyama, November 8, 1948

Subject: Difference between the Boy Scouts and the Junior Red Cross.

1.	Character Organization for social education outside of school.	Organization for civic training taken in school education.
2.	Objectives Boys from 12 to 17 years of age shall join individually.	Pupils (boys and girls) of primary and lower secondary school join by class.
3.	Training Troop shall be organized with different aged boys, and trained to be the best useful citizens by three systems such as patrol, advancing, and special merit.	One class organizes one division administrated by pupils and makes them understand and experiance the import of citilization through friendship and service to their community, nation, and the work, according to the plan based on their study.
4.	System Troop cannot be organized by class, therefore when a teacher becomes a leader, he must take charge as a citizen who is interested in guidance for boys. Leader should be a qualified person who has had a certain amount of leader's training.	Activity should be based on their study and each individual cannot join or it shall not be organized outside the school. The class which is convinced, join with all members. Teachers give guidance and help as a person in charge of guidance.
5.	Uniforms. The same uniforms and salute throughout the world.	Only the badge is the same.
6.	Expenses Members and leaders pay and the Club helps.	Registration fee and the fund are raised by members' labors and the spirit of service is fostered.
