SUBJECT: Advance Preparation for Deactivation of Civil Affairs Teams

TO : See Distribution

1. Team Commanders should consider carefully all steps that can be taken at this time in preparation for the dissolution of teams. The following should be taken into consideration:

a. Claim for release and turn-over of property which is on PD and cancellation of Service PD.

b. Plan for packing and turning in all military property and equipment. This suggests a thorough checking of all inventory related to such property, preparing surveys, turning in slips, etc.

c. Provision for the handling of necessary paper should be lined out and as much accomplished in advance as possible.

2. It is desired that each section chief start classifying by content the material in the section's files, in anticipation of the time when this material will have to be reviewed for absorption by this headquarters. As is evident there will be a great deal of duplicated material, especially of that received from higher headquarters. The local prefectural data that has been accumulated through the past months are the material that should receive most careful classification.

3. Teams which are in the vicinity of tactical units should contact tactical commanders to determine a possible use of PD real estate by them. Team commanders should find out whether or not any such property can be taken over by the tactical units before recommending its release.

4. These suggestions are very general in nature in order that considerable advance thought on the procedure and details involved in the pending dissolution of teams will enable teams to act unhurriedly and efficiently when definite directives are received.

1. During his inspection of the Shiga Civil Affairs Team, 4 August 1949, the Commanding General, Eighth Army, expressed his appreciation of the excellent work which Civil Affairs Teams have done in furthering the aims of the Occupation and repeated a comment previously made to him by General MacArthur to this effect: "Civil Affairs Teams should take pride in the knowledge that they did such good work that they actually worked themselves out of a job.".

2. This noteworthy praise is a direct reflection upon the quality of leadership, high sense of responsibility, and devotion to duty demonstrated by all personnel in Civil Affairs Teams throughout the past months.

2. Enclosed is a list of projected conferences for this summer and autumn to be held in the Kinki Region.

3. Eighth Army Priority list states school inspections shall be conducted "during periods when schools are in session". Inasmuch as most schools close between the 10th and 20th of July it may not be possible for the CE officer to make all of the required ten (10) inspections during either July or August. This headquarters desires therefore that the time normally devoted to making school inspections be spent in guidance of and participation in summer teacher re-education conferences.

4. The CE officer should check with the Superintendent of Education to see that an adequate schedule of teachers re-education conferences is planned for his own prefecture in order to reach as many teachers as possible during the summer. Suggested texts to be considered at some of these conferences are the Ministry of Education Handbooks on "Guidance" and "Desirable Characteristics of the New Lower and Upper Secondary Schools", which have now reached most schools.

1. Reference is made to information copy of letter, Tokai-Hokuriku Military Government Region, dated 11 January 1949, subject: "Youths' Day - Tokai-Hokuriku Resion". Copies were sent to all Teams in this Region. (copy attached)

2. A similar program should be encouraged in the Kinki prefectures this year. However, every effort should be made to insure that the program does not become a drain on the prefectural budget. Instead of attempting to fill all public offices with boy and girl office holders, the scope of the program might be confined to a small number of public offices.

3. It is thought that civic-minded individuals and groups should be encouraged to take responsibility for the program. Newspapers, Chambers of Commerce, and industry organizations of businessmen, or YMCAs might be willing to cooperate in making the program a success. The newspapers, especially, should be "sold" on the news value of such a project. As soon as initial plans are formulated, an adequate amount of publicity is desirable in order to bring those plans to fruition.

4. The theme of the program might well be stated as "strengthening the foundations of freedom" through emphasis on the rights and obligations of citizenship. The following, with slight modifications, is taken from a pamphlet published for American Education Week (November 7 - 13, 1949): "Freedom will survive if children of all ages learn in the classrooms that the entire story of man reflects his age——old struggle to gain, protect, and expand his freedom; that man can remain free only if he understands the priceless heritage of freedom, learns its obligations, and accepts the responsibility to preserve and strengthen it."

1. The first region-wide observance of Youths' Day in Japn occurred in this region on 5 May 1948. On that day 778 prefectural and 21,364 city, district, town and village offices were held by boys and girls elected or selected from 2,040 schools with a student registration of 555,500. The plan of enabling the boys and girls of the communities to serve as officials for a day was originated by this headquarters, patterned after "Boys' Day", "Boy Mayor" and similar ceremonials familiar to the Americans. Weeks of preparation by Japanese officials and Military Government teams in this region produced a resoundingly successful event which culminated in colorful and festive attention by many communities.

2. It is the desire of this headquarters that steps be taken immediately to plan and promote the second region-wide observance of Youths' Day on 5 May.

3. Plans should be initiated immediately by the appropriate Military Government and Japanese prefectural officials to prepare for the Youths' Day occasion. The boys and girls of the high school and junior high school should participate in the program. In view of the fact that the school year ends in March, plans for including material in the curricula to instruct the students in good citizenship, local autonomy and local officialdom should be offered to Japanese educational officials and a preliminary step for the 5 May activity.

4. In order to perpetuate the observance of Youths' Day in this region, at least, it is suggested that the scope of the entire program, as far as the holding of office by the youthful aspirants, be confined to a lesser number of public offices, instead of endeavoring to fill all public offices for that day with boy and girl office holders. Selecting the more important offices for students to fill for the day will add greater prestige to the students holding them as well as emphasize the importance of the offices. Another factor would be the curtailment of costs involved, the elaborate organization work required for so large an undertaking, and greater cooperation by the initiators and administrators of the program. The schools could conduct their own assemblies, for example, without using prefectural or city or town halls as a part of the pregram. A determination and desision must be made initially by the planners to create something that will be carried on and not fall because of heavy stress and strain on the part of those who are most likely to be the guiding and assisting hand for the immediate present.

5. Every assistance will be given by this headquarters to achieve the purpose of Youths' Day. A plan for the education section of the MGT is attached. A copy of the story on Youths' Day as appearing in Stars and Stripes, 10 Oct 1948, is attached. A civil information plan will be forwarded under separate cover.

YOUTHS' DAY

Civil Education Plan

1. In general the activities if Youths' Day as observed in this region will be about the same as that held in 1948. Emphasis will be placed on the knowledge of the students of basic democratic institutions, such as the Constitution which make it possible for such activities as observed on Youths' Day. The elections should be stirring and eventful, but must not miss the idea that Youths' Day activity is a basic lesson in citizenship training.

2. Since good citizenship is a broad topic it might be well to concentrate attention on a certain topic. The proximity of Constitution Day (3 May) and Youths' Day (5 May) makes for a very natural linking of themes for the two days. So Youths' Day 5 May 49 should future not only Youth Governors and other officials but a general understanding, by these Youths of what the Constitution of Japan Means to them.

3. A recent survey indicates that the students lack an understanding of their school government constitutions. This lack means that the students must undertake a more serious study before they can appreciate the significance of Constitution and Youths' Days.

4. A conference between Civil Education and Japanese educational and local government officials should be inaugurated at once to prepare a well rounded program which will reach a public acme on 5 May. The following suggestions should be considered.

5. The number of offices to be filled on 5 May, in what communities, the number of schools that will participate in electing those youthful officials, how they will elected (direct balloting or by voting for electors who will vote for candidates for office), the limitation to high schools and junior high schools in participation, the inclusion of boys and girls as candidates, the limitation of one official per office (No co-governor, co-mayor, etc.) and other matters vital to a successful program should be discussed during the conferences with Japanese educational and local government officials and the Civil Education officer.

6. A series of faculty and student conferences should be held to give each school body material upon which the faculty and students can work in organizing and vitalizing school government. By the end of April such a series of conferences should have been held in sufficient frequency to provide every student with a knowledge of the meaning and functioning of the Constitution, election procedures, parliamentary procedure and student activity. This knowlege is desirable prior to the time of selection, by vote or otherwise, of students as officials for the day on the fifth of May.

7. Teachers of social studies should be urged to cooperate by emphasizing the study of the Constitution during April. This study will fit in very well with the student activity in school government reorganization.

8. The school Board should be urged to print copies of the Japanese Constitution for distribution in sufficient copies for every classroom engaged in its study.

9. Large copies of the Constitution might be prepared and placed in a conspicuous place in each school.

10. The school Board, daily newspaper, civic organizations and other agencies might sponsor essay contest on the subject of "What the Constitution of Japan means to me".

11. A student candidate for office on 5 May might be required to have an understanding of the meaning of the Constitution as per-requisite for running for office.

12. Successful candidates might deliver speeches on the Constitution during Youths' Day exercises at the school or public forum.

SUBJECT: Conduct of Occupation Personnel

TO: See distribution

Mr. Konishi may I please have material referred to under 9 checked JC

1. Reference is made to letter, this headquarters, same subject as above, dated 18 March 1949 in which, among other things, it was directed that all personnel assigned to military government units familiarize themselves with the contents of Annex 8, Headquarters Eighth Army, Administration Order 21, 1948 (or Annex 8, Headquarters Eighth Army, Administration Order 22, 1949).

2. Reports continue to reach this headquarters of dealings by section chiefs and other specialists with Japanese officials which leave much to be desired. These reports indicate instances of loss of self-control, threats of removal from office, or threats of other forms of coercion if the Japanese does not conform to the orders of the representative of military government.

3. It is recognized that every day there are many official dealings between section chiefs or other specialists with Japanese which are carried on in a highly satisfactory manner and on which no comment is ever heard. It is the undesirable or unfortunate incident which makes the news and counteracts much of the good work and good will previously established.

4. Section chiefs and all others on military government teams must bear in mind that their mission is to advise, assist, conduct surveillance, and report. Individual members of the teams represent the team commander and whenever a representative of military government discovers failure on the part of Japanese officials and employees, or some other situation which cannot be corrected within the scope of authority of the representative, such facts should be reported to the team commander for appropriate action. Under no circumstances should the team member make statements of proposed action, threats to remove the official from office, or promises of other forms of drastic action which the representative does not have the authority to accomplish. In the event a firm position must be taken and explained to a Japanese official, or a warning of possible recommendation for removal from office under Operational Directive #8, 1948 is deemed necessary, such action should be taken by the team commander in an impersonal and official manner.

5. There is another type of incident of which reports come too frequently to this headquarters, wherein individuals, usually under the influence of alcohol, conduct themselves before Japanese in a manner which not only reflects adversely on their integrity as individuals, but discredits the occupation forces generally. A typical example is where a member of the occupation forces, on off-duty status, orders from Japanese services of a nature or at a time when such services cannot be rendered and when the Japanese are unable to make available the services demanded. The member of the occupation forces then becomes abusive and conducts himself in a manner which discredits himself as well as the aims and objectives of the Occupation.

6. It is the policy of this headquarters to take appropriate disciplinary action (attention directed to GHQ SCAP Circular 7, 1948, a copy attached hereto as inclosure #1) against the offender, together with the recommendation to higher headquarters that, in the case of a Department of Army civilian employee, said employee be returned to the zone of the interior, and in the case of military personnel, the soldier or officer be relieved from duty with military government.

7. It is directed that a copy of this letter and inclosure be distributed to each section of your military government team and made a part of the Policy File maintained by the section.

ACTIONS OF PERSONNEL OF THE OCCUPATION FORCES
(BOTH MILITARY AND CIVILIAN) WHICH ARE INIMICAL TO THE OBJECTIVES OF THE OCCUPATION

1. (Rescission of GHQ SCAP Circular #1, 1947)

2. There are many limitations upon the activities of personnel of occupying forces in occupied countries which are necessary in order to further the objectives of such occupation. The general principle underlying such limitations is that individuals of occupation forces are bound to refrain from all business and professional activities and interests or other actions not directly connected with their occupational duties which would tend to interfere with or influence in any degree the full and proper discharge of their duties or would normally give rise to a reasonable suspicion that such activities would have that effect. Any substantial departure from this underlying principle constitutes conduct which is inimical to the objectives of the occupation, and is punishable under the powers vested with the Supreme Commander for the Allied powers.

3. It is impracticable to enumerate all the various activities and interests which are referred to in paragraph 2. The following examples may be regarded as typical prohibitions:

a. The acceptance by any member of the occupation forces of a contribution, gift, or emolument other than those of small value from nationals of occupied countries.

b. The approval or countenance of the acceptance of a substantial loan, gift, or emolument to the immediate family by any member of the occupation forces.

c. The use of or permission of the use of their titles in connection with commercial enterprises of nationals of occupied countries.

d. The acceptance of entertainment offered by nationals of occupied countries when such entertainment might be intended, or give the appearance of being intended, either as repayment of favors received from a member of the occupying forces in his official capacity, or as a means of placing such member under a business or professional obligation to the host.

2. Women's Week will be the second such program on a national scale to be sponsored by the Women's and Minors' Bureau, the first having been Minor Workers Week, 3 - 10 November 1948. The date chosen marks the third anniversary of the granting of suffrage to Japanese women and its observance should emphasize not only womens' rights as individuals and the laws which support those rights, but also their responsibilities as citizens.

3. For the functions and activities of the Bureau representatives see attached enclosure 2.

4. The Women's and Minors' Bureau performs a community and national service for women and minors. The Bureau is a protective and standard setting agency. As such it should enlist the active support of community organizations, public and private, as well as the interest and cooperation of public-minded citizens. Such cooperation and support is imperative if the Bureau is to function to its fullest capacity. Its budget is minute and in only the major prefectures does the prfe [illegible] representative have an assistant.

5. Each [illegible] to support the Women's Week program by calling attention to [illegible] importance of the Bureau in the life of the women of Japan, in all co[illegible] es with PTAs, labor unions, school teachers and principals, welfare workers, [illegible] public health officials.

The Civil Information Section should assist the Bureau by urging all information media to give publicity to the program. The film "How to Hold a Meeting" -- filmed in Japan -- will be ready for distribution by prefectural film libraries on March 25. Civil Information should see that women's groups are given priority to use this film during Women's Week.

The Civil Education Section, with the Labor Officer, should review the plans in preparation with the field representative, suggesting and strengthening them where necessary.

6. Weaknesses observed in the preparation and carrying out of Minor Workers Week have largely been eliminated in the current program. However, the field representatives are still prone to do too much of the detail work themselves instead of acting as advisor and expert and selling the program to the general committee as its project.

AMERICAN RED CROSS FUND RAISING CAMPAIGN 1949

1. The American Red Cross has asked for sixty millions ($60,000,000) of dollars to carry out its never ending campaign to help those in distress (at times of disaster, such as floods, fires, etc.,) and the magnificent work that is being done in our Army and Veterans Hospitals, both at home and abroad.

2. The President, in a letter to the Secretary of National Defense, has stated that he wishes the Armed Forces be given the opportunity to give, along with the American Civilian Population to this very worthy cause; with the understanding that fifty percent (50%) of all monies contributed by personnel of the Armed Forces will be channeled back into aid programs for the Armed Forces.

3. It is believed unnecessary to cite in detail any particular example of Red Cross activity when disaster strikes. One has only to recall the Texas City blasts and resultant havoc, the great Maine forest fire of last year, and many others too numerous to mention. In each instance the Red Cross, side by side with the Armed Forces and civil authorities was in there fighting --- also providing food, clothing, and temporary shelter for the homeless.

4. It well behooves all of us to think a little about the past history of the Red Cross, and then GIVE, according to our means.

5. There will be a contribution box available in the Chief Clerk's office, both in this headquarters and the Osaka Team headquarters. However, all contributions in excess of one dollar should be turned over to M/Sgt Callahan, Chairman of the Kinki Campaign, or 1st Sgt Forinash, Chairman of the Osaka Campaign, in order to receive credit, and a card showing that you have participated. Campaign will be from 25 Feb to 5 April.

1. Reference is made to letter, Headquarters I Corps, file AG 000.1-GA, dated 20 November 1948, subject: "Training Course for Leaders in Youth and Adult Education."

2. It is desired that Civil Education Officers meet with the prefectural delegates to the training course in order to evaluate the course. The CE officer should emphasize that, to be worthwhile the evaluation should not be a superficial approval or disapproval, but a serious effort to consider the following points:

a. Was the conference subject matter applicable to Japanese problems and situations?

b. What material was most valuable?

c. What, if any, additions or changes would have increased the value of the course?

d. What plans have delegates made to apply the material and techniques presented at the conference to their local situation? What have they done?

3. A summary of the critique by the delegates as well as a constructive evaluation by the CE officer of each region will be submitted to this headquarters.

5. In spite of the fact that in many cases notification of arrival had not been received, Military Government Team officials did everything in their power to facilitate the accomplishment of the mission in their areas. Lack of sufficient transportation was experienced in certain places, but this was no fault of the officials concerned.

6. The objective of the trip was to conduct an investigation concerning the future status of military (Gokoku) shrines. The primary reason for the selection of Yamaguchi Prefecture was the existence of a large number of undesignated Gokoku Jinja. The secondary objective was to study designated Gokoku Jinja (formerly prefectural grade shrines), enroute from Yamaguchi. Investigation proved that the undesignated shrines are different from the designated shrines in three important respects: the size of the district served is smaller, and consequently the number of enshrined spirits is small; some of the undesignated shrines have not enshrined additional spirits since their establishment; none of the undesignated shrines have full-time priests assigned to them, while all of the designated shrines normally do have full-time priests.

The first difference is significant because all of the bereaved families can visit the shrines without a heavy outlay of money or extensive preparation by either individuals or the shrines. The second is important because such shrines did not participate in the ultra-nationalistic activities of recent decades and hence are in a class by themselves. The presence of one or more full-time priests in the designated shrines is important because they naturally develop a great many more activities than is possible where only part-time attention is given to a shrine.

5. Visits to undesignated shrines reveal the following conditions:

a. Some of these shrines are in a rather delapidated condition. The Asamura, Hrayama, Yoshiki and Zeze shrines are examples of this type. They are all old and, not having been well cared for, their timbers and other materials have gradually decayed.

b. Two of these shrines were new, but had been molested by marauders. The Asa shrine is a new structure on a fine site, but all the cloth has been torn away, even from the inside of the main sanctuary, the holy of holies, in which the object of worship (shintai) was placed. The mats also have been removed. The Kumayama shrine in Bofu appears to have suffered from war damage, but a caretaker in the park where the shrine stands stated that the shrine was destroyed by local people. This has not been verified.

c. A number of these shrines have fine new structures which are in good condition and are carrying on routine services but no other activities. The Funaki, Tonda, and Hukumatsu shrines are of this type. These all enshrine recent war-dead. It is interesting that in each case Hachiman shrine priests are concurrently in charge of these shrines.

d. These shrines are in relatively small centers of population. Usually they are in remote spots. Very few were destroyed in the war. The only such shrine visited which was destroyed in raids was at Ube. In this case the original shrine had been left standing and is now being repaired under the direction of a Hachiman priest who serves it. There are very few worshippers.

e. The Sakurayama shrine in Shimonoseki is somewhat exceptional, in that it is in a larger center, but it has not enshrined any new spirits. The priest in charge has continued throughout the years to perform routine ceremonies. Descendants of the enshrined attend the anniversary festivals and also support it.

f. The Gokoku shrine is unique among shrines in its enshrinement of those recently deceased and in the presence of graves or gravestones in many of the precincts. Shinto shrines abhor the pollution of death. Nevertheless, a Gokoku shrine can be within the precincts of another shrine or immediately adjacent to another shrine without defiling the larger (or host) shrine. Zeze is in the precincts of Honda shrine. The Tonda and Oi shrines are immediately adjacent to larger shrines. The Fushi shrine is close to a Buddhist shrine. (There are many other examples throughout the country).

c. Unassigned shrines are not well known to the public at large. They do not appear to have played a conspicuous part in the wartime program.

d. These shrines appear to have no plans for future expansion, but hope to continue much as they are at present.

6. Visits to designated shrines reveal the following conditions

a. All shrines visited are in large centers of population, on level ground, and relatively easy of access. Some are in busy sections of the city, but the general tendency seems to have been to place them somewhat on the outskirts. Some of them are rather close to former military installations, but this does not apply to all. These shrines all had large precincts and have or had imposing structures.

b. The number of destroyed shrines is relatively large. Of those visited, Hiroshima, Nagasaki, Kumamoto, Ogaki and Akashi were completely destroyed. All of these hope to rebuild, but are at immediate prospects of anything beyond a small temporary structure. In the case of Hiroshima, a box smaller than the average desk is all that stands on the site, and in Nagasaki there is nothing at all. At Hiroshima and Ogaki the priests had little hope of ever being able to reconstruct the shrines.

c. Some of the shrines are not very active and the priests have to support themselves by other work. Yamazaki, Oita and Chiyoma are examples of these. In each of these the shrine is on the outskirts of the city. Everyone, all expect to develop activities on an extensive scale at some future time.

d. Shrine shrines in general are desirous of retaining their original site, but this is not a religious necessity. The Nagasaki site is being cleared for other purposes. The report was that a resident is to be built in its place. The Kobe and Ogaki shrines are negotiating for new sites.

e. A few shrines show a great deal of vigor. Atsuta is the outstanding example of this, while Ondon is a close second. The Atsuta shrine is perhaps the best example of what all of these shrines would like to be. It has an ideal site less than twenty minutes walking distance from the steam and electric railway stations. It is in (or adjacent to) a public park, which ranks at the first of the cities. It is only a few minutes walk from the business section of the city. This shrine has grasped the [illegible] festivals of the district in such a way that periodic group memorial services are held. It also has a program for the continuous entertainment of war dead. A group of some thirty to fifty people were in the shrine at the time of the visit and this was regarded as normal. Plans for other activities are being developed. The Ondon shrine is a little smaller, but due to its location in the part on the outskirts of the city it has a larger precinct and an extensive social and recreational program.

f. The Kobe shrine has a much more ambitious program laid out than either of the other two, and it expects to receive a new site nearly ten times the size of its present small but strategic location, which the city wants for a park.

7. General Comments

a. The name, Gokoku Jinja, is not too well known among the people of the country. Many still use such terms as Shoken-sha. The shrines in general have dropped the name Gokoku, but few have made permanent changes in the stone posts which usually stand in front near the entrance. The Aichi and Himeji shrines removed the old names and have had their new names chiselled in. Some shrines have filled in the characters with cement, but some of these are just as legible as ever. Other shrines have built wooden covers for the posts and painted their new names on these.

b. There seems to be little evidence that the people as a whole demand such shrines. The activities of these shrines appears to depend primarily on the ability of the priest in charge and secondarily on the convenience of the location.

c. The torii astride public highways is a common sight throughout the country. Some of these lead to Gokoku Jinja. The question of the propriety of such religious structures on public land was raised in several places, but in no case was removal felt to be urgent.

d. Stone lanterns and concrete signposts designating public highways as approaches to shrines and temples were noted near many shrines.

e. The existence of a few forbidden slogans was also noted and the attention of officials was directed to them.

f. Need was voiced for a document embodying the directives, policies and interpretations of policy in the field of religions and cultural resources. The education officers who handle the problems are so overworked and give such a low priority to problems of religion, etc., that they can give little time or thought to these problems. A concise, up-to-date document clarifying SCAP policy and coordinating the directives and notices would assist them considerably.

SUBJECT: Regional Education Conference for Labor Women

TO : See Distribution

1. A two day conference for representative labor women of Kinki Region will be held September 2nd and 3rd, 1948, in the Chamber of Commerce building, Osaka City. The conference will be sponsored by the Civil Education Division, Kinki Region.

2. Purposes:

a. To train a representative group of working women in the methods of group discussion and group participation.

b. To acquaint conference delegates with laws, resources and problems particularly applicable to working women.

c. To lead labor women to take positive action for the education in citizenship of women union members.

d. To encourage labor women to consider themselves as members of the union rather than of a women's section.

3. Delegates:

a. Prefectural delegates for the conference should include two women representatives from the Women's Sections of each of the seven major unions:

Sodomei
Sanbetsu
Teachers Union
Govt Communications Workers
Govt Administration Office Workers
Govt Railway Workers
Textile Workers

52

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 77504

The Labor Officer will inform the union officers of the invitation to send two women members to the conference and they in turn should notify the Labor Officer of the names of the elected delegates. It is suggested that at least one of the two union delegates be a [redacted] of the Women's Section.

b. It is desired that the Labor Officer and Civil Education Officer of each team attend the conference. Each Labor Officer should attend one of the seven discussion groups in an advisory capacity.

c. In order that every delegate will have a chance to participate, attendance has been limited. However, in some prefectures, there may be labor unions with large women's sections other than those listed above. These unions also may send delegates if the Labor Officer decides attendance is warranted. Names of these additional unions should be sent to Miss A. Aderton, Assistant CE Officer, Kinki Military Government Region, Headquarters I Corps, APO 301.

d. In addition, it is suggested that the Labor Officer in each prefecture invite the following people to attend:

Chief, Women's and Minors' Bureau (and additional women field representatives of the Bureau, if any).
Chief, Labor Standards Section
Chief, Labor Section
Chief, Labor Administration Office, or the Head of the Educational Section of the Labor Administration Office.
Women Inspectors, Labor Standards Section
Women Members of the Social Education Section

The total delegation for each prefecture will thus be approximately 20 people.

4. Preparation: It is requested that the Labor Officer and CE Officer hold a preliminary meeting with the delegates from their prefectures. At that time they will go over the agenda of the conference and will have the delegates elect the following women representatives:

1 - Evaluation Committee Member
1 - Panel Discussion Participant — Equal Pay
1 - Discussion Group Chairman
1 - Discussion Group Secretary

a. It should be made clear to the delegates that this is a training conference primarily for women. On the whole, women in labor unions have been silent, and little effort has been made to include them in the organization. This conference will try to assist and encourage them to take part in the organization as a whole. The men delegates should be aware of the necessity of such education for women union members and should encourage participation. and d

b. Listed on the agenda for the second day are roundtable discussion groups. Each delegate should choose one of the groups to attend. It is hoped that each prefecture will be represented in each of the discussion groups so that they will be fairly equal in size, so that there will be region-wide representation in the group reports, and so that the prefectural delegation will take back to the prefecture, for discussion and action, materials and conclusions on each of the discussion topics. 2nd day 1:15

c. Each delegate should wear a tag listing his or her name, union affiliation, prefecture, and the number of the discussion group which he or she will attend. Each delegate should do preliminary study for the conference and it is suggested that the Labor Officer and the prefectural Labor officials provide the delegates with relevant material. Twenty-five copies of the agenda for the conference in Japanese are enclosed. No further copies will be available so that it is requested that each delegate bring his copy with him.

5. As Osaka is the conference location, there will be no necessity for the delegates to stay overnight with the attending expenses of lodging and meals. Delegates should bring their lunch with them each day. In view of the small budget for travel allowed, for example, to the Women's and Minors' Bureau, it is hoped that the Labor and Civil Education Officers will be able to arrange for priority travel for Japanese delegates. Delegates should report to the Japanese Information Desk in Osaka Station for direction to the Chamber of Commerce building.

6. Follow-up: A strong suggestion should be made in the preliminary meeting by the Labor and Civil Education Officers that a follow-up conference be organized by the delegates in their prefecture as soon as possible after the Osaka conference, and that, in turn, the prefectural conferences be followed by union meetings. The Women's and Minor's Bureau Chief in each prefecture will be the logical liaison person for such follow-up work.

1. As announced at the June conference of CI&E in Kyoto, a number of American youth leaders are coming to Japan to conduct training courses for Japanese youth leaders. It will be noted that in the Japanese plan, (see Incl 1) the committee to select attendants is composed of the representatives of the old federated groups, but that Mil Govt is to advise in the selection. It is suggested that Mil Govt have the names of some of the promising youths from independent organizations ready for the selection committee, and that, wherever possible, old-line youth leaders, with a military background, be eliminated from the list. The criterion should be: is the candidate adjustable, flexible, willing to learn? Is he capable of understanding the meaning of democracy and operating democratically?

2. Inasmuch as the deadline for submission of the list of candidates for the national course is 10 September, it is recommended that the Civil Education officer confer immediately with the committee, if he has not already done so, for the selection of the best possible youth leaders of future Japan.

SUBJECT: Difference Between Women's & Minors' Bureau Field Representatives and Labor Standards Women Inspectors

TO : See Distribution

1. Attached is a memorandum received from SCAP on the difference between the Women's and Minors' Bureau field representatives and the Labor Standards Women Inspectors. There has been some misunderstanding in the past on this point and this memorandum should serve to clarify the relative positions of the two sections.

2. Point No. 5 (Type of Guidance from MG) is of particular importance to Civil Education personnel. The words "Women's Affairs Officer", should be amended to read "Civil Education Officer."

3. The Women's and Minors' Bureau representatives have primarily an educational function, not only for working women and minors, but also for the public in general. It is for this reason that Civil Education Officers are encouraged to support and assist the Women's and Minors' Bureau field representatives in their prefecture. They can be of help to CE Officers as liaison with women's groups, and of assistance in the education of adult groups in the fields of government and labor. The Women's and Minors' Bureau is an entirely new concept in Japan, and it is to be anticipated that it will encounter difficulties in carrying out its functions. Therefore, it is of particular importance that CE use the Bureau and its representatives as fully as possible so that its position may be strengthened, its purposes clarified, and its usefulness extended.

1. A Regional Educational Conference to be held jointly with civil education officers and their Japanese opposite numbers in the prefectural education system will be held August 22nd and 23rd, 1948, on the top of Mt Koya, Wakayama Prefecture.

2. The agenda for the conference will be the School Board law, which was passed by the Diet on 15 July 1948, School Reorganization, and Teacher Reeducation.

3. The purposes are (1) to bring together the education officers and their opposite Japanese education officials for a free discussion of current problems; especially to clear up confusion surrounding the School Board Law; (2) to bring the different prefectures of Kinki together for a consideration of common problems so as to weld the prefectures into a regional entity; and so as to achieve a regional approach to regional problems.

4. Travel orders will be issued from this headquarters for the Civil Education Officers. It will be the responsibility, however, of each CE Officer to invite his opposite number in the Japanese education system. This will most often be the School Education Chief but maybe instead a Chief Inspector or an Education Department Chief, whoever works most closely with Military Government and shows the clearest disposition to cooperate.

5. Adequate housing arrangements, Japanese style, are being provided by the temple at the top of the mountain; bedding will be provided but each officer may, at this own option, bring an extra blanket and sleeping bag, if he has one. C or K Rations should be brought for at least 5 meals. The Japanese participants should bring their own rations since Army rations cannot be legally provided Japanese nationals.

4. Mt Koya was chosen because it is one of the country's beauty spots and it is also cool and pleasant at this season of the year. The housing facilities are adequate for a Japanese-American conference and make it possible for us to get together with the Japanese educators in a clean, comfortable ~~a~~ atmosphere. We want to stress the principle of good fellowship, and urge everyone to come prepared for a good time.
