DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

YAMANASHI PREFECTURAL

ECONOMIC INVESTIGATION AGENCY

27, February 1950.

Subject : Report on prospect of production, control and price of charcoal.

To : Commanding Officer, Kanto Civil Affairs Region.

We have an honour of informing you of above-mentioned subject as follows.

Yamanashi Prefectural

Economic Investigation Agency

Director, K. Hatta

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

Prospect of production, control and price of charcoal.

I. Anticipated production of charcoal:

1. Our prefecture, being one of the most important producing one for charcoal and especially by the geographical connection of being located near to Tokyo-Yokohama District— the largest consuming places, has much interest in production of charcoal. Despite that the production of 1,168,041 bales was planned for the 3rd and 4th quarters of this year, actually only 716,687 bales, about 65%, have been produced which is decreased by 27% in comparison with that of the same period of the preceeding year.

2. Common causes of productive inactivities in the main producing districts of this prefecture are:

a) Bad condition of raw-wood;

In order to execute the production scheme of 1,760,000 bales of charcoal per year, 70,400 koku of raw-wood are necessary, estimating 1 koku of wood to be able to produce 2½ bale of charcoal. Though 56,000 koku have been supplied from Ken, Gun, Yokohama Municipal forests and 5,600 koku from other private forests, 61,600 koku in total, still more 8,800 koku are insufficient.

b) High cost of raw-wood;

Almost all the raw-wood being consisted of miscellaneous kinds and never being disposed of by the species of trees, the price of disposed raw-wood have to be decided according to volume only and not to the species of trees, consequently the prices can never be fixed for the species of trees proper to meet standard qualifications of charcoal. Raw-wood supplied from governmental forests costs ¥25 to 30 per bale and of supplied from private forest, it costs about ¥45 to 50 yen per bale.
There is difference of price between superior charcoal such as oak, quercus serrata etc. and miscellaneous charcoal. Much miscellaneous charcoal of low price are liable to be produced, as there is no selecting raw-wood due to characteristics of operations.

Note:

White & oak (superior) charcoal	:	¥261.50 per bale
Miscellaneous & average charcoal	:	¥193.50 "
Black & Quercus serrata (superior)	:	¥227.50 "
Miscellaneous & average charcoal	:	¥165.50 "

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

Miscellaneous & average charcoal	:	¥193.50 "
Black & Quercus serrata (superior)	:	¥227.50 "
Miscellaneous & average charcoal	:	¥165.50 "

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

Judging from the present official prices, if producer used raw-wood of 30 per bale, only ¥32 profit can be obtained per bale & when the raw-wood of ¥50 is used, only ¥12 profit is obtainable. Accordingly if raw-wood of private forest are used, production will never be profitable, but only about 10% of raw-wood are being supplied by private wood in our prefecture.

c) Productive efficiency being lowered;

Owing to schemeless felling during the war, accumulated amount of wood has considerably decreased. Especially such schemeless felling was done remarkably in mountainous districts near villages, it is very difficult to get raw-wood therefrom. Consequently charcoal making points being located 2 to 3 kms, the nearest, from villages and 7 to 8 kms, farther, productive efficiency reduced considerably.

d) Increase of people converted business;

Owing to abolition of control of fire-wood, by the reason that the withdrawal of capital is much easier to ship out fire-wood without being restricted by control than to ship out charcoal, many charcoal makers trend to convert into fire-wood producers.

e) Too much margin;

According to the acting law concerned, there are three kinds of collectors, wholesalers and retailers. Margins of ¥10 for collectors, ¥10 for wholesalers and ¥15 for retailers being agreed upon, producer's nett prices are, though somewhat differences are there according to the kind of charcoal, about ¥130 Black miscellaneous charcoal per bale &
¥150 White miscellaneous charcoal per bale.

Out of the aboves ¥10 of transportation expenses, ¥78 of producing cost and ¥10 of tax & imposition, total ¥98 per bale have to be paid, only ¥32 for black miscellaneous and ¥52 for white miscellaneous charcoal are the dead-netts, while production of charcoal per day is only 3 to 4 bales.

Note: Average working-day are 20 days per month.

f) Special circumstances of this year;

Owing to delayed report of the spot investigators in case of disposal of prefectural forest, location of charcoal ovens was not decided early and naturally the establishment of ovens were delayed. In addition to the facts it snowed earlier & frequently in season hindering treatment of raw-wood, that restricts & decreased working days for charcoal production.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

3. Though it is not expectable for us to do away these necks at once, there should be the measures for improving the production such as:

a) Enforcement of strict raw-wood delivery through close inspection;

To lay up the appropriate plans of production and of allotment to each production asso. after inspecting closely the useable amount & the geographical distribution of raw woods, and to accomplish these by having the production and delivery fully executed by producers without fail.

b) Revision of the law concerned;

In conformity with the present law concerned, the producer, the wholesaler and the retailer are not allowed to deal with any other dealer than the collecter, wholesalers to whom they registered their names in the producing prefecture.
At present, however, almost all the goods are being delivered directly by the collector to the retailer and the wholesaler are doing nothing but documentary settlings.
By means of combination of the collector and the wholesaler into one, we are able to grasp two sides of production & distribution at the same time: consequently not only the distribution business may be carried on smoothly, but also abolition of the stratum of wholesaler may cut the margin of about ¥10, which is to be added toward the producer's income.
The law should be revised to the effect.

4. Marginal Resources for capacity of charcoal production.

a) Circumstances of raw wood;

In the prefecture, the acreage of forest is 332,256 Chobu, & the accumulation amount of the trees is about 65,125,218 koku, one-year growing amount of these trees is about 1,628,125 koku: the total of said two amounts is about 66,753,343 koku.
However, as the amount of trees cut down during the year of 1948 was 3,041,196 koku, it ran behind 1,413,071 koku for the one year.
Under such a circumstances, the Prefectural authorities carried out the executive plan of 50,451 chobu in the year of 1949 and further lays up the same plan of 61,698 chobu in 1950, that will prevent decrease of the accumulation of trees.
Judging from the present situation, the amount of accumulation maybe estimated as about 65,000,000 koku at the beginning of next year.

Accumulation + Amount of growing trees - Amount of trees run behind for one year

66753,343 koku - 1,413,071 koku
= Accumulation in next year
= 65,342,272 koku.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

But it is difficult for us to cut down trees more than 65,000 koku - 1% of the accumulation amount of all trees - as a raw wood for charcoal in every year.
That is to say, the charcoal of 2½bales being manufactured from the raw wood of 1 koku, 1,625,000 bales necessitate raw woods of 65,000 koku, consequently we can hardly expect to get more than the amount mentioned above.

In the long run, the production of charcoal of 1,760,000 bales mentioned above was not only rather unreasonable from the beginning but also the productive plan of 1,625,000 bales is not within limit of possibility under various conditions from traffic & economical view-points,

b) Improvement condition of forest path;

In the year of 1949, the Prefectural authorities appropriated ¥ 15,480,000 of budget for the project of improving the forest path - Newly constructed path ..... 15,160 meters, Path restored from damage ..... 28,096 meters: Total ..... 43,256 metres, for which ¥9,370,000 was subsidized by the National Treasury.

In the year of 1950, ¥11,780,000 of budget was summed up for the projects of constructing 26,245 metres of the new path and as to restoration works, it being now under investigation, definite figures are yet unknown; for which about 10,000,000 is likely to be subsidized by the National Treasury.

The running execution of this plan for one year is only about 5%, if compared with the Prefectural 10-year plan (1948-1957), which can not be helped due to the restrict of the controlling local finance and the national subsidy while the inferior forest path will raise the charge of retail transportation out from mountains, it is desireable to improve the forest path so far as financially possible.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

II. Propriety of the Continuance of Charcoal Control

As to propriety of the continuance of Charcoal Control, each of charcoal-dealers has different views as are mentioned below.

1. Producers.
   The majority of charcoal producers are hoping the continuance of the Control; Not enough capital being owned by them, they are afraid of being pressed by the merchant. In the other words, the producer that have not enough capital, have to sell out their products to carry on business being unable to store them during summer season while the price is cheap, consequently the price is apt to be cut by the merchant.

2. Merchants (collector, wholesale-dealer and retailer).
   Many merchants are hoping the abolishment of the Control, due to the following reasons.

   (a) The quality may be improved;
   If the control is abolished and the time of "Free Competition" comes, inferior goods being unsold, excellent ones are to be yielded.

   (b) Better Service may be offered;
   At present, the register system being enforced, merchants compete each other very little in price, but in case of the Free Competition, they have to acquire customers offering better service.

3. Opinion of our E.I.A.

   (1) Opinion for Charcoal Control;
   The reason why the opinion of producers stands apposite to that of merchants, is that the degree of demand for charcoal is easily effected by the seasons; in the summer last year, many households refused receiving the charcoal ration, and hereafter, we have to expect that the demand of charcoal in the seasons except winter would quite be in low condition owing to monetary tight. Consequently goods will be accumulated in mountains or merchants' shops, however as those producers have neither place nor capital enough to keep the accumulated goods which may be cornered in low price by the merchants.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

The best demand season of charcoal is 3 months in winter and the producing season for supply is another 8 months. In short the producers are enforced to yield to the merchants for the majority of the year, because though the ultimate price is officially fixed, the producer's price in mountain not fixed officially.

Charcoal must be observed as a sort of fuels such as electric heat, gas, fire-wood and briquet. The recovery of electric heat and gas for cocking and heating use being in low tone, the position of charcoal is very important in fuels. Felling being absolutely necessary for charcoal making, a synthetical guidance must be carried out, from the view-point of Control of mountain and water. The above mentioned are the reasons why charcoal-producers must be protected, that is, the control must be continued from the view-points of protection for producers and public benefit.

(2) New idea of carrying out of the Control;

The Control has given a duty to dealers in accordance with the law, but if economically profit is given to the conformity to the Control, it will be smoothly carried on.

If any measures to restrict blackmarketeering is found, not of the national authority to enforce control but of profit-pursuance of dealers themselves, a new originality for control method will be found out.

Therefore we have to think over the new control method, closely observing from where the blackmarketeering springs.

The general blackmerketeering price of charcoal in these winter months is about ¥ 270 per bale. However, the survey of blackmarketeering prices in mountains(Spot-Prices bought by traffic and transportation traders), which was made by the E.I.A. during the period from April 1 to December 30, 1949, showed ¥ 160 per bale — ¥ 5.50 cheaper than ¥ 165.50 of the official price for retail-dealers. Supposing that the commercial channels are also purchasing charcoal at the same price, the difference between their price and the blackmarketeering one in winter months will be ¥ 110 per bale.
The profit of this blackmarketeering is composed of the blackmarketeering interest and commercial profit.

The blackmart-interest is not always meant by blackmart-loan, but by compensation for permanently-idled funds, even of their own. In other words, if there were given fair & proper commercial profit eliminating all the blackmart-interest the blackmarketeering prices of charcoal would be disappeared.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

Example:-

¥ 160 x 0.1 (Blackmarket interest) x 5 (supposing 5-month in-stock) = ¥ 90.

Stamping out the blackmarket financing: this will be established by the National Treasury's low-interest financing (for instance, the Deposit Dept's financing) to the charcoal dealers. That is, all the dealers will be able to secure the enough quantity of charcoal for the winter distributions without their own funds and, further, to expect more increase of distribution-fee as possible. In other words, without giving any responsibility of delivery to manufacturers, there is a necessity of giving charms to all the commercial channels, of the profit of collecting charcoal without funds. However, one fault of this control system, accompanied with the financial operation, is that it might happen not to mitigate the financing at the time of restriction being necessary. But in the future financing situations, it will be rather necessary to mitigate the financing than to restrict it. Furthermore, this financing will be very effective in case of the expansion at the year-end as the funds are withdrawn: this financing should be the one of low-interest and of short-period. However, in order not to depress the manufacturers by means of this, the producer's price must be officially fixed.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

III. Re prices.

The price of charcoal in mountains is as follows:-

¥ 165.50 - (¥ 35.00 + ¥ 10.00 + ¥ 10.00) = ¥ 110.50

Price of retail-sold black charcoal. - (Fee for commercial channels. + Pool-transportation fee. + Tax & imposition).

That is to say, the composition of the mountain price of ¥ 110.50 is as follows:-

Manufacturer's price of charcoal per bale (15 Kgs.)

Item	Price	Remarks
Raw wood	¥ 30.00	Contribution of 15% to Royal-gift Forestry Associations. Other Sundry-expenses 20% (Coop.-Assoc. expenses, fee to communication-office, etc.)
Bale cost	¥ 15.00
Strips	¥ 6.00
Inspection fee.	¥ 2.00	Fee for Prefectural Inspection.
Redemption for charcoal oven.	¥ 15.00	¥ 7,500 for 50-bale kiln. making 500 bales of charcoal, ¥ 200 a day for home-laborer, 3-cooperative works will take 10 days. ¥ 6,000 for woods ¥ 1,500 for sale.
Fee for retail-transportation.	¥ 10.00	6 Kilometers from kilns to wood-yard on the average. 2 bales to be carried on way home.
Sub-total	¥ 78.00
Manufacturer's profit.	¥ 32.50
Total	¥110.50

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775013

The profit per bale is ¥ 32.50, and the capacity of manufacturing averages 4 bales a day at the basis of 20-day working per month — ¥ 2,600 is the monthly income. However, reckoning the amount of rice for a 4-person family engaging in only charcoal-making of 4-"Go" per capita a day as farming family, it will equal ¥ 2,400 a month even by the official price: as a consequence none of families will be able to live on. In other words, the prices in mountains must be raised to make the manufacturer's profit increased. Should the profit per bale be raised ¥ 10.00 higher to ¥ 42.50, the monthly income would come to ¥ 3,400 a month — in almost all the cases, as charcoal-manufacturers are cultivating farm on the other hand, they will live on with this much income.

That is to say, the prices in mountains should be officially fixed at ¥ 120.50 and as to the raised part of ¥ 10.00, it is recommended to appropriate the ¥ 10.00 that is to be saved by unifying collectors and wholesale dealers in producing prefectures.

The ultimate price for retail dealing:-

The prices for wholesale dealers will not be officially fixed — because of preventing the weight-shortage caused purposely, from the charcoal passed through the strict inspection in the manufacturing steps. This is to leave ample room to their free-competition.

Now it comes to raise the retail-price by the very rate of interest of low short-time financing against the present official price. Today's rate of interest of loan being 3.16%, ¥ 165.50 is to come to the last price, including the interest of half year of ¥ 2.00 against ¥ 120.50 of the price in mountains. But adding ¥ 2.50 more to it as a sort of room, the last price should be made ¥ 170.

The prices of charcoal in this Prefecture are to be effected by the fuel circumstances in Tokyo. Herein having a look at the index-number of fuel in Tokyo-to, it has been coming better since November 1948; the index number of blackmarketeering in that month was 1324 (in September 1945, 100) ; in November 1949, 985 — 20% decreased.

This Prefecture having been keeping the proper balance on supply and demands as blackmarketeering in winter months of 1948, if the rate of above decrease is multiplied to the price ¥ 233 at that time, it comes to ¥ 172.42. In other words, this price is the one to cross out the characteristics of speculations, activities of commercial funds, etc. in this Prefecture; and it can be supposed to be the one to revive the golden age of proper supply and demands in 1948. This price being very close to the last price stated herein, this is one of the most powerful material enough for qualifying the validity of the price of ¥ 170.
