The market closes with a moderate demand, on Saturday, with sales of 4,500 bales among the trade, prices generally being full and unchanged to any extent by the sale of a few lots. On Monday and Tuesday morning only 4,200 bales were sold at about previous rates, but on Wednesday, with the steamer's accounts at hand, nearly 6,000 bales were taken, making a total for the week of 11,700 bales, the market closing at the range of our quotations, as follows:

Good Middling	14¼@14½c

TOBACCO.—The telegraph or Monday brought advices from the West of unfavorable weather, with heavy rains and thaws to the south of the Tobacco region, destroying a great portion of the plants, if not all that were up. The intelligence induced buyers to increase their sales somewhat, and to some cause to withdraw their stocks from the market, and although there has been a fair demand, the reported sales for the week have not exceeded 600 hds. Prices have been irregular, but generally considerably higher than our quotations, which are repeated only for the sake of [illegible]
