The result of the elections in Tennessee and North Carolina will, we apprehend, convince the locofocos that the whig party are not extinct. It will teach them a fact of which they appear to be profoundly ignorant, viz: that the whigs are nearly as numerous now as they were in 1840, and that when they choose to put forth their strength, locofocoism will be crushed as easily as it was in that glorious and memorable political campaign. In Tennessee the whigs determined to contest every inch of ground. Locofocoism flushed with victories achieved in almost every state in the Union, came down held within the past year, [illegible] an easy and overwhelming triumph. They brought their strongest champion as candidate for Governor, and made concerted and well organized efforts in every county to secure a majority in the Legislature. So confident were they of success, that for weeks before hand, they boasted in advance of a triumphant victory. We have before us the Globe, the National [illegible] and other locofoco journals, which vaunted in vain glorious accents their anticipated gains in Congress and the Legislature, and the certainty of POLK's election. But the news came, the wonted energy was prepared to meet the foeman encounter. The election in Tennessee involved the political ascendancy in the United States Senate, and by consequence, the fate of the Tariff and other salutary [illegible] Legislation, which the predominance of locofocoism in the popular branch of Congress threatened to fall and annihilate. A whig victory in Tennessee would avert these disasters, and it was won.—The indomitable republicans of that noble state, undismayed by the darkness and gloom that had fallen upon Louisiana, and overspread the North and the South, and unappalled by the exulting shouts of the enemy, met and routed the train bands of locofocoism, and have, in all human probability, achieved the most momentous political conquest, recorded in the annals of the last two years.

There is this exception in the Tennessee contest to the battles in other states. The vote was extraordinarily large, nearly reaching that of 1840—and verifying the old adage that a full vote is a whig victory. The result confirms the statements so frequently made by the [illegible] which the organs of locofocoism vainly endeavor to controvert—that the whigs have been beaten here by default—the locofocos gaining few votes [illegible] and the whigs losing heavily.

North Carolina is likewise entitled to her full share of honor for the splendid effort she has just made to escape from the toils with which locofoco cunning had thought to circumvent her. In the face of one of the most famous gerrymanders which partizan recklessness ever perpetrated, the gallant whigs of the old North state have more than held their own. Nearly every county in the state exhibits a material whig gain. They have elected four members by increased majorities, have probably chosen a fifth, and have reduced to almost nothing the tremendous locofoco majorities in three districts. In that state, too, did locofocoism praise of life wonderful victories which it was to obtain. At the very farthest, we were not to carry more than three members. The event has shown what the whigs can do, when they will it.

Let the friends of HENRY CLAY and the whig principles derive encouragement from the recent victories. Let them in the coming contest [illegible] in Ohio and unconquerable whigs of Tennessee and North Carolina, and show that courage, energy, harmony and resolution are alone needed to drive back locofocoism to the obscurity to which it was consigned in 1840. The whig party are numerous as ever. Let but our friends take fitting measures to bring them out, and all will be well.

KENTUCKY.—We have received the Louisville Journal of the 8th inst., which contains a few scattered returns of the last day's vote in Louisville and the vicinity. In Kentucky the election lasts three days. There are three candidates for congress in the Louisville district—Thomasson (whig), Lecompte (loco), and Spragg, a sort of irregular whig running on his own hook. In Louisville the first day's vote was as follows: Thomasson, 522; Lecompte, 470; Spragg, 61. The whig candidates for the senate and house are far ahead of their antagonists.

Jefferson county, first day, Thomasson, 518; Lecompte, 125; Spragg 56. An unexpected whig gain.

The following are returns from other portions of district:—

At Shelbyville on noon yesterday, the vote stood Thomasson, 1[illegible]; Spragg, 192; Lecompte, 36. At Taylorsville, when the polls passed, Thomasson, 16; Spragg, 25; Lecompte, 1.

We were jubilant here (Louisville) this morning by Gen. Wilcox, the gallant county clerk of the Little Pilot, who, in defiance of opposition retailing, for which he [illegible] thanks.—

At Greenville and Carrollton, whigs also lost ground in the vote—Thomasson, 1[illegible]; Lecompte, [illegible]; At Bardstown, 1[illegible]; Lecompte, Thomasson, 68; Lecompte, 209; Spragg, 1.

At Milton, at night, Thomasson, 10; Lecompte, [illegible]; Spragg, [illegible].

At Westport, Thomasson, 19; Lecompte, 50; Spragg, 36.

At Lagrange, Thomasson, 1[illegible]; Lecompte, [illegible]; Spragg, [illegible].

In Bedford, Milton, Westport and Lagrange, Crutchfield, on the state senate, had 254, and Harrison, his opponent, 190.

In Bedford and Milton, Johnson 530; [illegible]; Engleman 53—all candidates for the lower branch of the legislature.

In Warsaw and Napoleon, Wall, for [illegible], 210; Trabue, his opponent, 143.

POSTSCRIPT.—We are indebted to our friend of the Telegraphic for additional returns contained in the Louisville Journal of the 9th.

The vote at Louisville at the close of the second day, was for Thomasson 1214; Lecompte 1013; Spragg 59.

JEFFERSON.—Thomasson [illegible] Lecompte 267; Spragg 300; in Shelby county, Thomasson [illegible] 404; Spragg 300; Lecompte 203. In Shelbyville, second day, where the stage left, Thomasson [illegible]; Spragg 256; Lecompte 57. Oldham county, Thomasson [illegible]; Lecompte 50; Spragg 37. The Journal has returns from other precincts, nearly all of which give Thomasson majorities.

BARDSTOWN DISTRICT.—First day, Grigsby (w.) 2333; Stone (D.) 2017; Page (locofoco) 1526.

BESHBOROUGH [illegible] of Mr. Davis's election. Payne [illegible] 1,000 majority over Wickliffe. 76 Precincts [illegible] nearly tied.

COVINGTON DISTRICT [illegible] (w.) has 483 maj. in Gallatin, Boone and Mason; Roberts (L.f.) has 501 maj. in Kenton and Campbell. This is the first day's voting.

Front INDIANA, the returns indicate the defeat of the Hon. J. L. White, by a large majority.

ANOTHER HERO OF THE REVOLUTION GONE.—The Richmond papers announce the demise of Gen'l. WM. MADISON in the 84 year of his age. He was a soldier of both war[illegible] served as Lieutenant in our revolutionary struggle, and participated in our glorious triumph at Yorktown. He perilled his all in the conflict of the old war.

The trial of Wm. Wyman, late president of the [illegible] Bank, at Charlestown, Thomas Brown, Jr. [illegible] and W. H. Skinner, a Boston merchant, commenced at Concord on Monday, before the Massachusetts Court of Common Pleas. Fines are charged with [illegible] the funds of that institution to a very large amount, and the trial excites great interest. The accused are defended by an army of counsel that will [illegible] if any thing can, they have employed Mr. Webster, Mr. Choate and Mr. Dexter.

THE HARMONIOUS DEMOCRACY.—The Bangor, Me. Democrat speaks of Mr Cushing in the following terms, and yet, as the Richmond Whig correctly remarks, Mr. Cushing's friends in the south, are threatening the bastinado if a word their mouths. It is perfectly cruel and merciless on the part of the Democrats to be cavalring in on the back these remonstrances of Mr. Cushing. Don't be cowed Mr. Cushing, be firm in 1840, and should not that component be [illegible] backbiting.

"Mr. Calhoun, from 1811 to 1817, acted with the Federal party, and was associated with Henry Clay and Daniel Webster, in the hope of waging an unremitting warfare against the Democratic party.

In 1832, the year that Jackson vetoed the Bank, Mr. Calhoun voted to override the veto and to charter the Bank. Mr. Calhoun voted to override the veto and to charter the Bank. Mr. Calhoun voted to override the veto for the resolution of censure which was expunged from the record of the Senate by the unanimous request of the Democracy of the Union.

He gave his casting vote as Vice President against the nomination of Mr. Van Buren as a minister to England.

He was at the head of the Nullification movement in South Carolina, which threatened a dissolution of the Union.

Mr. Calhoun not only voted for the Webster resolution made a speech in its favor. Twenty wheels in Maine at her property, and proclaimed herself deeply dishonored the country.

Mr. Calhoun opposed the Suffrage party in Rhode Island, in their struggling for a constitution which would secure equal rights and privileges to the people of that State.

He opposed at the last session of Congress the bill for the security and settlement of Oregon."

PROVIDENTIAL SATISFACTORY.—One of the new members of the British House of Commons voted the "wrong way" on the Irish question. Next morning he published the following very satisfactory explanation of the accident:—

"I wish to explain how I came to vote in the majority last night. I fell asleep some time before the division took place, and on my being awakened by some member, as all his opposition members had already retired to their lodgings, and as I saw a large crowd going out of the door leading to the old lobby, I thought the business had adjourned, and did not perceive my mistake until it was too late to return.

And it passed about three miles farther to the westward, and taken the camp meeting ground at Church Hill in its way, it is fearful to contemplate the disastrous consequences that would have ensued.

In the afternoon of the same day a furious westerly wind passed over the same section of country. The dwelling house of Mr. Francis R. Cacy, about three miles from Millington, was much injured. The fences, fruits and crops were greatly damaged.—Baltimore American.

FLOOD IN NORTH CAROLINA.—The Raleigh Register of Tuesday says:

"Never within the memory of that remarkable personage, 'the oldest inhabitant,' was there such a rain as fell on Thursday and Friday last, in this region.—It is feared immense destruction has been done to the corn crops on the low-lands. Bridges, fences, mills, and mill-dams have been washed away in every direction. Six serious breaches have been made in the railroad between this city and Forestville, a distance of fifteen miles, one of which is about 100 feet long, and the embankment 30 feet high. It will probably require from $1,200 to $1,500 to repair the damage. Arrangements have been made for the transportation of the mail and passengers, so that no interruption will take place to the travel."

There has been a very fair demand for Cotton since our review of Tuesday last, and the sales amount to about 600 bales, the greater portion of which was taken for the northern market. This leaves us with a stock of about 1,600 bales in factors' hands, of which a considerable part is not upon the market. Prices are steady, and our quotations have been fully supported. Amongst the sales we notice one bale of the new crop—quality, middling fair—disposed of at 10 cents, which is about 2 cents more than the real value. Of course, this is a purely fancy price, which is not likely to be repeated with future receipts. Another bale of new Cotton, received from Opelousas, was not sold at the time of closing our inquiries.

SUGAR.—The market continues very quiet, and the demand very limited. Our last quotations for Louisiana sugars, with sales, are 3½—2½@2½ @ 3½ for ordinary to choice qualities.

Havana Sugars—Brown, 6@6½; and white, 10 @ 10½ cents.

MOLASSES.—We have no change to notice in this article, and quote as last—2½@2½ @ 3 gallon—sales are limited.

FLOUR.—The Flour market has remained in a state of inactivity since our last, and we have only heard of one sale of any note—[illegible] of 44 do. We quote Ohio superfine, $[illegible] @ $4 50, and St. Louis brands in fact on shipboard, at $[illegible] @ $[illegible].

WESTERN PRODUCE.—The Provision market has experienced no change since our last, and the business doing is merely in retail. We quote Mess Pork, $11 00; Prime, $10 00 @ $10 25; Mess Beef, $8 00 @ $8 50; Prime, $6 00 @ $6 50; Half Barrels, $4 50 @ $5 00; Bacon, 6@7½ cents, according to quality, but the latter price is only obtainable for very choice, in kegs. Bacon continues very dull and we quote shoulders 2½ @ 3½. Sides, 3½ @ 4½c. Hams 7½ @ 8c, according to quality.

WHISKEY.—The market has acquired additional firmness since our last, the receipts having been small, and we quote rectified, 20 @ 21c. @ gallon.

BAGGING AND BALE ROPE.—There has been good demand for Bagging at 12½ @ 13c. cash, for Kentucky, but the demand for Bale Rope is only moderate for inferior, with an advance for proportions of Rope. Three sales are made at 6c. @ Rope [illegible] to time and quality.

SALT—Liverpool Salt, from store, is selling in small lots, at $1 50 @ $1 62½ for Ashton's and Cheshire's. A cargo of Turks Island was received yesterday, but it was not sold when we closed our inquiries.

COFFEE.—There is no change in the market, we quote Havana price $6 @ $6 [illegible].

CANDLES.—Adamantine remains nominal at the last quotation, which has since not been bettered. We quote New Bedford, [illegible] @ [illegible]; Sanitucket, [illegible] @ [illegible].

EXCHANGE.—The market has taken a turn since our last, owing to the limited demand, and the increased supply. We quote Sterling, [illegible] @ [illegible] premium. The high rate of French bills has caused a large amount of specie to be taken for shipment to France. New York sterling, [illegible] premium. [illegible]
