The New Orleans Bee.

Office, 73 Chartres street. NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 27, 1860. Vol. XVII—New Series. Vol. XXXIII.—Whole No. 11,815.

THE DAILY BEE.
PUBLISHED BY
C. J. WORKMAN & CO.
C. J. WORKMAN, J. SOUTHGATE, Editors.

Daily Paper, one year (in advance).....$12
Country Paper, subscribers based on the Daily.....$8
In all cases, subscribers must give their post office address.
In writing before they leave the city, subscribers should give the name of the carrier, or otherwise, with the street number, and are expected to pay, unless due notice is given of the fact to the office.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 27.

SUBSCRIPTIONS BY THE WEEK.

The carriers of the Bee are authorized to receive subscriptions to our paper, at the rate of 25 cents a week, payable in all cases to the carriers themselves.

Sales at Auction To-Day.

By E. Roger & Co., at 10 o'clock, at the St. Louis Exchange, a house and lot in the Second District, corner of Crouchon and Bourgat streets.

By R. S. Sykes, at 12 o'clock, at No. 45 Magazine street, furniture, mirrors, bedsteads, bureaus and crockery.

By Vincent & Co., at 10 o'clock, at No. 28 Camp-house street, foreign and domestic dry goods.

By D. E. Murphy, at 12 o'clock, at Magazine street, frosting fin. of, carriages, harness and horses.

By E. Roger & Co., at 10 o'clock, at their auctioneers, Old Levee street, lots, 65 and 66, damaged sheet, and hoop, shoe and brogans.

By Francis Fernandez, at 10 o'clock, corner St. Louis and Chartres streets, No. 114, considerable dry goods.

By M. Bernard, Jr., at 10 o'clock, corner Chartres and St. Louis streets, dry goods; at 12 o'clock, fire-combined and furniture.

SPECULATION.

Since a probability at least exists of the election of ABRAHAM LINCOLN to the Presidency, speculation loves to indulge in conjectures respecting the character of his administration. Many thoughtless persons seem to imagine that if LINCOLN should be successful, all sorts of dire calamities will forthwith befall the South, and that we might as well make up our mind at once to be robbed and undone. We need scarcely remind reflecting men that all this is mere puerile apprehension; and that if ABRAHAM LINCOLN were a perfect political ogre, the very incurable fiend of anti-slavery, he would be unable to injure the South without the consent and connivance of the national legislature. At the same time it is not uninteresting to gather the opinions of those who claim to be well informed in relation to the views and purposes of the Black Republican candidate, should Providence permit the misfortune of his triumph.

The New York Herald of the 20th publishes two very elaborate letters from a correspondent at Springfield, Illinois, wherein LINCOLN resides, in which reference is made to his possible administration. The writer seems particularly anxious to impress upon the public mind the conviction that the policy of Mr. LINCOLN will be pre-eminently pacific and conciliatory; that as a conservative Republican he will respect the constitutional rights of the South, and will wage no aggressive war against that section—that his platform is the one adopted in Chicago in good faith, and that he will endeavor to soothe the South into acquiescence instead of exasperating her into rebellion. The writer assured that LINCOLN's Cabinet will be composed of Southern as well as Northern men, and that his ministerial advisers in the Department of State will be selected from prominent Republican men as HENRY WINTER DAVIS, of Maryland; JOHN M. BOTTS, of Virginia, and JOHN A. GILMER, of North Carolina. There is much more in this effect, and we think it likely, in view of the publicity given to the state matter by the New York Herald, that they are put forth with the sanction of LINCOLN, and as a letter, intended to quiet Southern apprehensions, and persuade the people of that quarter that the rail-splitter, after all, is not so terrible and unreasonable as he and his friends claim.

But whether the correspondent of the Herald is simply giving the rein to his imagination, or is really speaking by the card, is practically of little importance. Nothing can prevent the South from regarding the election of ABRAHAM LINCOLN as a national disaster. The most ardent and uncompromising Unionists, and we claim to belong to that class, will consider as a very grave misfortune the inauguration of the recognized exponent of nationalism over the destinies of the country; and no pacific assurance by the supporters of LINCOLN, nor even his own authorized promises and pledges, would serve to break the crushing force of so disastrous an instance in our political history. It will be fruitful in evil, and the evil, though it may not, and we trust will not, disintegrate the Confederacy, it will assuredly widen the breach between the North and South which sectional animosities have already created.

It is certain, too, that even if LINCOLN were disposed to do his utmost towards appeasing Southern disquietude and indignation, he would be baffled and thwarted by those influences and elements which surround him, and which would compel him in a great measure to shape his course by their direction. The violent anti-slavery leaders of the Black Republican faction would storm every nerve to march him away from those conservative and healthful influences by which he might be restrained. What would LINCOLN accomplish against the wishes and efforts of SEWARD, and WILSON, and SUMNER, and HALE, and STEVENS, and LOVEJOY, and GIDDINGS, and COVODE, and GROW, and other fanatics who preach the radical doctrine of a higher law? If he were to resist their vehement counsels the result would be a schism and an irreparable conflict in the ranks of the Black Republicans. We have no doubt whatever that a schism of this sort would be the upshot of LINCOLN's administration. His camp followers would inevitably quarrel, equally on the policy of his administration and the division of the spoils, and we truly believe that from the moment of his inauguration he would be the commencement of the downfall of his party.

However, after all, this is mere surmise. ABRAHAM LINCOLN is not yet elected President, and if we do not greatly miscalculate the conservative strength of the North, he never will be.

In noticing the special elections to be held on Monday next, we were not aware that a Breckinridge candidate for Representative was running in the 6th Ward. We hasten to supply the omission by stating that W. E. Starke is the candidate in question. There will, therefore, be a triangular fight in the District.

We are pained to learn that the venerable Walter Bispham was of the passengers of our State, died on Tuesday last, at the eighty-fifth year of his age. Mr. Bispham had been a member of the State Legislature, and was well known as one of the most uncompromising Whigs in Louisiana, in those days when the Whig party was a terror of strength.

BAKER'S COD LIVER OIL.—The readers of thought are referred to the announcement in our columns of Baker & Co's medicinal, transparent cod liver oil. Its purity and genuineness, and superiority in quality and effects are attested by a very large number of eminent medical gentlemen, and by the preference in several universities and schools of medicine.

BLACKWOOD FOR NOVEMBER.—Our thanks are due to Scott & Co., publishers, through J. C. Morgan & Co., Exchange Place, for the November number of Blackwood, which, as usual, is replete with entertainment and instruction.

The Hon. Alex. H. H. Stuart of Virginia, who addressed the Bell men of Lynchburg on Wednesday night, had a frightful fall while on his way to the Allegheny gate to return home. While riding the speedier across the canal, near the Promenade, about, after four in the morning, he accidentally stepped over the chain which serves as a guide, and fell a distance of some thirty feet into the water below, whence, however, he was not hurt by the fall, nor suffering any other injury than a ducking.

There are eleven ninety contests in Ohio, in fifty-four counties, simply based from the Bell party basis alone. The majority in contesting districts will about double the vote, which is more than the entire Bell majority in the late election. Had this vote been consolidated with the Democratic vote the Republicans would have been defeated in the State. As it is, they are in a minority.

VOTE OF OHIO FOR SUPREME COURT JUDGE. A table of the returns for the second contest in Ohio shows majorities for Brinkerhoff.....

Majority for Brinkerhoff.....

The Republican majority on the Congressional vote is largely beyond the above. Mr. Brinkerhoff ran greatly behind the other Americans, who supported the Opposition for Congress, voted against Brinkerhoff. This party have a Presidential electoral ticket of their own, and will vote accordingly.

CHEROKEE STRAWS.—Yesterday the people of the Southern Cross coming to the Pale new in groups to the city, and they voted as they came along. Shermanicide Douglas-Democrats to have, and stand as follows:

Bell	39
Breckinridge	76
Douglas	26
Lincoln	26

The vote on the General ran much the same, and stood as follows:

Breckinridge	110
Douglas	26
Bell	39

The latter, particularly, is a pretty combination, and stamps Douglas there which Douglas deserves.

Pub thing the bill for Bell and day the Democrat.—Richmond Whig, 23d.

HONESTY.—Our friends of the Advertiser are sanguine that on the 6th of November there will be cast, in Mobile county, and probably in other Divisions as follows: Bell, 1800; Douglas, 1400; Breckinridge, 200. Mobile county, the Register, dropped at this election, and shows the majority for its favorite, giving, however, 1600 to Bell, and subtracting the Breckinridge vote for Bell. We see which will prove the truer prophet.

"HAMMER," name the adjunct of Henry, the mother of Washington, died lately, aged 90. Mrs. Hampton, of Greenland county, Tn., has 500,000. The male inhabitants only the dwelling and four acres of ground.

BY TELEGRAPH.

[TRANSMITTED TO THE NEW ORLEANS BEE.]

One Day Later from Europe—Arrival of the Canadian off Further Point—Improvement in Cotton—Breadstuffs in Speculation.

Father Point, October 26.—The Montreal Ocean Mail Company's steamship Canadian, Capt. Graham, left this point at this day, and was intercepted by the steam tug Lady Head, off the left the port of Liverpool on Wednesday, the 11th, touched at Londonderry the evening of the 12th inst., and brings one day's later news than was received at Cape Race by the steamship City of Washington.

Mail Steamship Navigation.—The North German Lloyd's steamship Bremen, from New York, arrived, and left the 19th inst., at Cowes on the 11th inst. The Liverpool, New York and Philadelphia Mail Company's screw steamship Hungarian arrived at Queenstown on the 11th inst., with advices from New York to the 29th ult.

Commercial Intelligence.

Liverpool Cotton Market.—Liverpool, October 12.—The Brokers' Circular reports the sales of Cotton for the week just ended at 84,000 bales.

A quotation of Cotton have slightly advanced during the week. Useful descriptions have experienced a partial advance of ½d. Middling Orleans is quoted at 6¾d.

The sales to-day embraced about 10,000 bales, the market closing firm.

Liverpool Breadstuffs Market.—Liverpool, October 12.—Messrs. Richardson, Spence & Co. say Provisions are unchanged.

London Money Market.—London, October 12. The closing quotations for Consols to-day were 92¾ to 92.

European Political Intelligence.

The foreign political advices by the steamship Canada contain nothing of importance.

Additional from Europe—By the Steamship Canadian—Affairs of Italy—Commercial Intelligence.

FATHER POINT, October 26.—The steamship Canadian, which passed Father Point this morning, brings the following additional news:

Liverpool Cotton Market.—Liverpool, October 12.—The sales of the week amount to 82,000 bales, including 20,000 to speculators and 12,000 to exporters.

The Brokers' Circular reports an advance of ½d, partially on the better grades of Cotton.

The market closed firm to-day on the following authorized quotations:

Fair Orleans, 7¾d.; Middling Orleans, 6¾d; Fair Pelhos, 7¼d.; Middling Mobile, 6¾d.; Fair Uplands, 7¼d.; Middling Uplands, 6¾d.

The stock of Cotton at Liverpool is estimated at 757,000 bales, of which 606,000 are of American production.

European Political Intelligence.

The Paris correspondent of the London Times says the accounts from the island of Sardinia represent the commencement of movement by a secret agency there, in favor of the annexation of the island to France by the same means that were employed for the annexation of Savoy and Nice.

Gen. Cialdini has received orders to cross the Neapolitan frontier.

Garibaldi is about to convoke an electoral college of the Two Sicilies to vote by universal suffrage.

The Piedmontese corps d'armée in Naples will reach 20,000.

The new Pro-Dictator of Naples complimented Mazzini on his patriotism, but called him to prudence. Mazzini replied that he would never then