SUBJECT: Industrial Safety

THRU : Commanding Officer, Kyushu Military Government Region, APO 24-5
Attn: Labor Relations Officer

TO : Commanding General, I Corps, APO 301
Attn: Military Government Section, Labor Relations

1. The Accident Compensation Section of the Saga Labor Standard Bureau has made an investigation of the number of accidents reported from January 1948 to December 1948 in all industries of this prefecture. The following information was gathered:

a. The Saga Labor Standard Bureau has a Mining Section to supervise safety, initiate methods for the prevention of accidents and increase the efficiency in coal mines, but the Japanese Government has delegated the authority of the above to the Fukuoka Coal Board, Saga Branch.

b. The Labor Standard Bureau collects all the premiums for accident compensation insurance from all industries in this prefecture. This bureau also pays the claims for this insurance.

c. During the above mentioned dates, the Saga Labor Standards Bureau paid ¥45,813,549.92 to claimants for injuries sustained in industry. The coal mines workers filed 11,007 claims and received ¥39,832,841.07. All other industrial workers received ¥5,980,708.85 in claims.

d. Coal mining industry employs 28% of the workers in this ken and 72% of the workers in this ken are employed in the other industries.

e. Injuries in the coal industry during the above period were 92.5% of the total and other industries were only 7.5% of the total injured.

f. Claims paid by the Labor Standard Bureau to the Coal industry were 87% of the total and 13% of the total paid were to the other industries.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO.

BASIC: Ltr Saga Mil Govt Team, subj: "Industrial Safety," dtd 16 Mar 49

g. The Labor Standard Bureau through strict inspection of the general industries had reduced the accident rate to a minimum, whereas the coal industry which is under the supervision of the Commerce and Industry Ministry and who inspect the mines for safety measures has had an increasing number of accidents.

h. The coal industry paid ¥22,875,120.15 (76%) and other industries paid ¥7,686,171.65 to the Labor Standard Bureau as premiums for accident compensation insurance.

i. On 31 October 1947 the Labor Ministry issued Ordinance No.9, subject: "Labor Safety and Sanitation Regulation." The Labor Ministry stipulated that this ordinance shall not apply so far as the Labor Standard Law is concerned for the time being with the safety and sanitation in the mining industry. This ordinance and stipulation modified Chapter V of the Labor Standard Law.

2. The following conclusions have been reached by this Headquarters:

a. That, looking at the above figures the Coal Board which is under the supervision of the Commerce and Industry Ministry and has been given the full authority in the supervision of safety and sanitation in the mining industry is overlooking safety for production.

b. That, if the Labor Standard Bureau is given full authority in the supervision and maintenance of the safety in the mining industry that the accident rate will be sharply reduced.

3. The safety in the mining industry should be separated from production and should be thought of as a benefit for the workers and in this way it will decrease labor problems and increase production.

(Attn: Military Government Section)

1. The situation as described in the letter can be summarized in tabular form as follows:

	Coal Industry	All Other Industries
Insurance Premiums Paid to Government	¥22,875,120 76%	¥7,686,171 24%
Claims Paid by Government	¥39,832,841 87%	¥5,980,708 13%
All Injuries	92.5%	7.5%
All Workers	28%	72%

2. Without question, the accident rate in the coal mining industry is high. The fact that the coal industry pays only 76% of the total premiums paid to the government, and then receives 87% of the compensation paid out by the government, is just cause for complaint from other industries.

3. In December 1948, it was established that the Ministry of Commerce and Industry would have jurisdiction over mine safety and inspection. The implication in paragraph 1g of basic letter that the high rate of coal mine accidents results from faulty administration of safety regulations by the Commerce and Industry Bureau does not seem entirely justified, nor is it entirely warranted to conclude that the accident rate would drop remarkably if safety administration authority passed to the Labor Standards Bureau. However, information contained in basic letter is considered of interest and is forwarded for the consideration of higher headquarters.
