SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1828.

STATE LEGISLATURE.
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
(Sitting of Thursday, December 4, 1828.)

Mr. Landry obtained leave of absence for two days.

A member from Avoyelles, gave notice that he would shortly present a bill concerning the navigation of the Bayou Blaise.

The act to amend the act authorising the trustees of the Catholic Church of St. Joseph to raise a certain sum of money by means of a Lottery, was read for the 3d time and adopted, almost without opposition.

The resolution of Mr. Turner authorising the Representatives of this State, in Congress, to ask of the General Government the cession of the Public Lands within the limits of this State, were read for the 3d time and adopted without opposition.

The 3d reading of the act concerning the Bayous Grassy and Montézano, was deferred until Monday next, being made the special order of the day.

The act concerning the establishment of Levees in the limits of the city of New-Orleans—read for the third time and adopted.—This act has for object the preventing any person or persons from advancing any Levee or Wharf into the river without first obtaining the permission of the Mayor and Aldermen of this city, under the penalty of 100 dollars fine, and the expense of demolishing said Levee or Wharf.

The act authorising the Governor to name a commissary and surveyor to trace the boundary line between this State and Arkansas Territory, was read for the 3d time.—The House having formed itself into a committee of the whole, Mr. Mouton in the chair, could not agree on the section, and the committee rained without determining any [illegible] the subject. The discussion of the bill was then deferred until Monday next.

A member from Iberville gave notice that he will shortly introduce a bill authorising the Clerk of the Parish Court to do the duties of the Clerk of the Court of Probates in said parish of Iberville.

Mr. Winfree gave notice that he will shortly introduce a bill authorising the District Court to emancipate minors.

Mr. Boudousquié introduced an act to amend the 2d and 3d sections of an act repealing certain other acts therein mentioned, approved March 31st, 1828—second reading for to-morrow.

The Order of the Day was,

1st—Second reading of the act emancipating J. Smith—3d reading for to-morrow.

2d—Second reading of the act concerning the Elections in the parish of St. Helena—3d reading for to-morrow.

3d—Second reading of the act for the emancipation of G. C. Regocom—3d reading for to-morrow.

4th—Third reading of an act to amend an act approved by the Legislature in 1818, granting to the Mayor and Aldermen of New Orleans, permission to establish a Powder Magazine for the use of individuals, in the limits of the said City of New-Orleans.

Mr. Burthe, author of said bill, exposed in a most lucid and satisfactory manner the necessity of passing the bill in question.—This bill which had for object the building of a suitable Powder Mill in a convenient and secure position, was, after some amendments had been made, adopted almost unanimously.

A message from the Senate informed the House that they had concurred in the bill for the emancipation of Ch. Devall. Another message informed the House that the Senate had approved but with many amendments, the act for the aid of B. S. Haw, former sheriff of St. Landry.

[From the New-York American.]

There is certainly no little respect paid in this land of equality, to the mere possession of rank and title.—However theoretically opposed to such distinctions, it seems to be quite clear that in practice, we, (and in using this term, it is meant to be applied in the broadest sense to all classes of our citizens) pay great deference to them. A most striking instance of this spirit is, in our judgment, furnished by the notices that have been taken in conversation, newspaper, and reviews, of the travels of the Duke of Saxe Weimar. Will any one who has looked at this book—or rather bald, though no doubt, honest and faithful itinerary—hesitate in saying, if such a publication had been made by an untitled or obscure stranger, that it would have dropped unnoticed from the press? We think not. We can scarcely recall a book, in which fewer evidences are given of taste, of refined manners and education, or of sound and comprehensive judgment. It is altogether, a collection of the very ordinary and commonplace remarks, of a very ordinary man: at least, so we are persuaded it would be deemed, if a noble, and royally allied author had not condescended to make them. Yet, thus fathered, this book is spoken of with universal praise—not unqualified, to be sure—but with praise for Tryoghine deserts, and with a sort of national exultation in the idea, that a Duke who has sat at table with Princes, and who is allied to Emperors and Kings; has been pleased to find that Americans are not all savages, or uncivilized boors. We do not make these remarks in any captious spirit—nor certainly with any purpose of censure or disrespect towards the noble traveller, whose book, or rather the notices thereof, has suggested them—but in the genuine feeling of an American, proud of his own country, and conscious that, by this sort of hankering after the opinion of illustrious foreigners, this open homage to mere rank, its character is impaired in the estimation of all sagacious and reflecting men. Americans, of all nations—separated as they are by the dissociable ocean from Europe—should be the last to modify their opinions by those of the old world. Their conscience should be at home and within their own borders, and they should [illegible] from wrong, and practice right; and in lighter matters should do whatever is deemed becoming—not because of what Europe will say, but because of what the character and high destinies of their own nation require.

An attack has been made by the Neapolitans upon Tripoli. It commenced on the 23d of Aug. last.—On the 26th, 27th and 28th, a series of actions was fought at a great distance, and lasted about four hours each day. In those actions 396 shells were thrown, of which not above ten reached the town after the first day. About 50 or 60 rockets were fired, and upwards of 4000 cannon shot, by the Neapolitans—who instead of taking up a close attacking position near the batteries merely put one frigate and a brig under weigh, which were opposed by a small schooner, and a brig of forty guns, who exchanged broad-sides at a distance, and without effect. On the morning of the 29th, the enemy was found under way, at a great distance, with his gun and mortar boats in tow. They have not been heard of since. It is not known to what extent they suffered; but some of their gun-boats were seen in a sinking state, and out of the action. The Tripolitans lost only four men.

Duelling in France.—A duel was recently fought in France between Col. La Borde and Mr. Kaerbout, in which the former was killed. The affair was brought before the Royal Court of Angers; who, after hearing testimony, honorably acquitted the defendant, upon the following grounds: That, although duelling may be reproved by religion and humanity, yet it has not been prohibited by the Penal Code, nor by any posterior law. That this duel was the result of an agreement between the two parties, who in forming it knew that both incurred the same dangers and the same risks. From this it follows that the wounds given and received were caused by the necessity of a lawful defence, as long as they did not violate the laws of honor or the regulations of the combat. And lastly it appears that both parties behaved with courage and loyalty, and although the chances were against the chevalier Kaerbout, yet there was not on his part either perfidy or stratagem, and his whole deportment was strictly honorable and manly.

[N. Y. Statesmen.

From Lima.—We are indebted to a commercial friend for the following extract of a letter from Lima, dated the latter end of July, received via Panama and Carthagena.—"The Colombian troops and Peruvians have had several skirmishes in Bolivia, and a war between the Republics is considered unavoidable. Both parties have a considerable force on the northern frontier of this Republic. News has just reached here that Sucre has capitulated to Gamarra, commander of the Peruvian troops."—N. Y. Gaz.

Valuable Cargo.—The British sloop of war Blossom arrived at Falmouth, Eng. Sept. 26, from Peru, with 1,500,000 dollars, 600,000 of which was the property of Spaniards, expelled from Mexico, and who were obliged, in a hurried manner, to collect what property they could, and ship it on board at San Blas.

Brevity.—A Paris Paper of Saturday describes an occurrence in this singular style:—"Yesterday a drunken coachman, driving a drunken company, cried out 'I'll drive you into the river.' The fellow kept his word, for he did drive into the river, where one of the passengers and one of the horses were drowned."

The Kite Carriage.—A letter, which we recently received from Mr. Pocock, states that two young gentlemen lately [illegible] through a part of Gloucestershire, with the lines and chair velvet, at the rate of 24 miles an hour. A journey of 68 miles had also been performed in one afternoon, in July last.
(English Courant.)

A German Prophet.—In a late advertisement, the Gerdtgner, of Gottingen, thus prophecies:—"In the nineteenth century the transmutation of metals will be generally known and practised. Every chemist, and every artist, will make gold; kitchen materials will be of silver, and even gold, which will contribute more than any thing else to prolong life, poisoned at present by the oxydes of copper, lead and iron, which we daily swallow with our food."
