EXT. CINEMA, NIGHT

An old, fairly wise man, and a very curious teenager are staring at the movie poster for 'Star Wars' - which they had just seen - what was hung up to the cinema.

TEENAGER

That was one great movie, wasn't it? But I just can't understand one thing...

OLD MAN

Hmm... What's that, son?

TEENAGER

I just can't understand how anyone could ever be 'seduced by the dark side'.

It starts raining a bit. The old man is thinking, he looks like a great ancient thinker.

OLD MAN

What computer do you use at home?

The teenager immediately responds very eager.

TEENAGER

A Macintosh.

A little silence.

OLD MAN

But what computer does your father use when he's working?

A silence falls. The look on the teenager's face changes from thinking into a glance, from a glance in a grin, as he exclaims loudly (but slowly) and amazed:

TEENAGER

--Seduced by the Dark Side!!

The older person glances at the teenager, they have created a bond for life, a bond that will stay forever.

It stops raining as they walk home together slowly.
