Imagine
a world where everybody knows about, feels for and loves Tatar language and related cultural heritage as one's own palm.

We succeeded.

Wiki-path to our dream

Using Tatar Wikipedia, Wikidata, WikiCommons and other Wikimedia projects offered opportunities to support continuous cultural, educational, social and economic development of those speaking Tatar language, as well as feeling the ownership of or belonging to Tatar culture.

Did you actually exist? How can you prove that?

«In 1921, when Russia lived through terrible hunger, Lenin invited American Relief Administration to save Communist Russia from collapse and in two years ARA managed to feed 10 million people.

By 1931 most locals knew nothing of the ARA, whilst those few that have heard of it, were asking:

"The food was paid for by the USSR, not Americans, right?"

In 1992–2007 U.S. provided ex-USSR states with assistance amounting to USD 28 billion.

The amount of Food Aid to Russia by U.S. & E.U. in 1999–2000 surpassed total assistance provided to Africa.

Once again, 20 years passed — and nobody remembers this anymore.»
