

SOME RECOLLECTIONS

O. L. KILBORN TELLS OF THEATRICAL LIFE IN EARLIER DAYS

A brief item recently in a Los Angeles paper in the form of a special dispatch from some Minnesota town started a train of recollections in my mind which may be of interest to "News" readers. The dispatch was to the effect that a man had been picked up in a dying condition on one of the streets of said city and that he claimed to be Walter Melville, a brother of Rose Melville of "Sis Hopkins" fame. The absurdity of the claim was apparent at once, as Rose Melville was but a stage name. She was Rose Smock as a girl and was the wife, later, of Sam Young, a newspaper and theater man.

Pearl, Rose and Maud Smock were daughters of a United Brethren preacher living near Terre Haute, Ind., which city of majorodous fame also claims Valeska Surratt. The first time I saw the three girls was in the little old "Harlan's Hall" in Marshall, Illinois, which hall was located over a lively stable. This was the scene of Hon. Kedge Holloway's famous address on "The Past, Present and Future," in Booth Tarkington's book, "Gentleman From Indiana."

Pearl, the oldest girl, was married to a man named White, whom she afterward divorced. The three girls took part in a little play written and staged by Mrs. Minurita Aydelotte, a distant relative of mine. None of the girls gave any promise of future stage greatness. I was at that time in the newspaper business, publishing the Clark County Herald, paraphrased as the "Carlon County Herald" in Tarkington's book, and was local correspondent of the Terre Haute Express, now the Star. Sam Young was theatrical reporter for the Express and I met him frequently. He married Rose Smock and he and she together developed the great character of "Sis Hopkins." My newspaper connections gave me unlimited theater passes and I had the pleasure of seeing many famous actors and actresses—Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Fred Warde, Walker Whiteside, Thomas Keane, Louis James, John T. Raymond, Nat Goodwin, Sol Smith Russell, Joseph Jefferson, Louis Morrison, E. H. Sothern, Melbourne MacDowell, Robson and Crane, Tomaso Salvini, the great Italian actor who recently died; James O'Neill, C. W. Coudock, who continued his stage career far into his seventies; Joseph Wheelock, Ristori, Modjeska, Janauschek, Janisch, Marie Wainwright, Margaret Mather, Lillie Langtry, Rhea, Lotta, Maggie Mitchell, Emma Nevada, Emma Abbott, Lizzie Evans, Mrs. James Brown Potter, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Fanny Davenport, and scores of others. There were no "movies" in those days. The attractions were either tragedies, comedies, melodramas or operas.—O. L. Kilborn, 1317 Lomita.

GLEN EYRIE CHAPTER

Glen Eyrie Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was officially visited by Mrs. Nellie Dean Graham, District Deputy Grand Matron, last evening in Masonic hall. At the close of the exemplification of the ritual, which is always the attendant feature of the visit of this official, Mrs. Graham was presented a beautiful rose bowl by Mrs. Fern Archer Roberts, worthy matron of Glen Eyrie chapter. Later dainty refreshments were served in the banquet hall. Here the tables were prettily decorated in various colors and trailing greenery, which formed a low and artistic background for the tall vases that supported daffodils and ferns. Miss Ruby Borthick, assisted by Mrs. Salo Desky, Mrs. Lettitia Lusby, Mrs. Cora A. Maxwell, Miss Carrie Cornwall, Miss Annie Woodberry and Mrs. E. L. Parke, dispensed the hospitality to Mrs. Graham, the honor guest, and the members of the chapter, in a most gracious and charming manner.

WEST GLENDALE P. T. A.

There was a large attendance at the West Glendale Parent-Teacher entertainment Thursday afternoon. Twenty children—ten boys and ten girls—sang kindergarten songs under the direction of Miss Johnson, who had trained them. Their singing was clever and effective. Mrs. Chappell sang several solos and Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan gave a reading which was received with much appreciation. Miss Fulmer, director of kindergarten work in Los Angeles schools, gave an address on "Kindergarten Training." Tea was served with home-made cakes by Mrs. John Robert White. The picture went to the kindergarten room.

"THE SEED OF DAVID"

DR. PRATT SAYS TIME IS COMING WHEN CHRIST WILL HAVE KINGDOM ON EARTH

"The Covenant With the Seed of David," was the theme of Dr. J. R. Pratt's teaching on Thursday evening, at the meeting of The People's Bible Class, at the Glendale Presbyterian church. The prophet Nathan was God's mouthpiece in making this covenant with David, his servant, whom he had called from the sheep cote, choosing his in preference to all of his older brothers. This covenant, upon which the glorious kingdom of Christ, "of the seed of David according to the flesh" is to be founded, is four-fold: A Davidic "house, posterity; a throne, royal authority; a kingdom, sphere of rule; in perpetuity, "forever." This fourfold covenant has but one condition—disobedience in the Davidic family to be visited with chastisement, but not to the abrogation of the covenant.

This covenant was made with David, but he had a long time to wait for his throne and be persecuted while he waited. In his time of waiting men were drawn to him, so Christ, "the seed of David according to the flesh," was persecuted and in his time of waiting, during these centuries, men are being drawn to him and as David gave places of honor and power to those men who were faithful to him, Christ will do the same to those who are faithful to him.

David's men suffered separation from their families, privation, hardship and danger; Christ's men have suffered in all ages just in proportion to their faithfulness to him. In the epistle teaching, where we are now living, note that suffering and glory are yoked together; suffer here, be glorified there.

The "house" of David has today but one living heir, Jesus Christ, who was dead but is alive now and forever more. Both Joseph and Mary were the lineal descendants of David, the first by Solomon's line had the legal title to David's throne; the other by Nathan's line, Solomon's elder brother, had the primo-geniture claim to the throne. As Jesus was not the natural descendant of Joseph, the legal title was not his until the marriage of Joseph and Mary made him the adopted son, hence the legal heir of Joseph. Thus was established his primo-geniture claim and his legal claim to the throne of his father David.

The throne of David is not occupied today, but it will be by one who will exercise royal authority. The so-called Christian nations of today will not have him. They are saying: "Crucify him! Away with him! Give us Barabbas!" Men are crying peace when there can be no true peace without the "Prince of Peace." The very emblems of the nations show that their thought is not of true peace—the eagle, the lion, and the bear. No nation has the lamb or the dove, the emblems of peace. The day is coming when the "house" of David is to have a kingdom on this earth, and justice shall be done; it never has been yet.

God has promised a people and a land, six times in Jeremiah he has promised to bring them to their own land, to bring them from the north country; it is significant that of the twelve million Jews in the world seven millions are in Russia, and we in our day have seen them come out by the millions, many going into their own land, Palestine. They are a people cast out, seemingly forsaken, but the promise is to them and to their land; as God cannot lie he must fulfil his promise to the seed of Abraham, to the seed of David. When their everlasting king came they rejected and crucified him; again at Pentecost the kingdom was offered to them, again they refused their king and their kingdom.

God's plans for his people, Israel, are held in abeyance, while the church age is being lived out, an age separate and distinct from the kingdom age, the laws of one do not govern the other, while the aim of both is the same, to bring glory to the king. The covenant with "The Seed of David" is awaiting a glorious fulfillment in God's own time.

GERMANS RESUME THE VERDUN OFFENSIVE

FRENCH BELIEVE THAT THE DECISIVE ACTION OF THE CAMPAIGN IS CLOSE AT HAND

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, March 24.—The Germans resumed the Verdun offensive this morning west of the Meuse, directing their attacks against the region of Malancourt, and against the French front at Bethincourt, Le Mort Homme and Cucieres. The French believe that season's decisive action has begun. The Teutons have bent the French front to a dangerous degree. Unless this is rectified at once the French positions on Le Mort Homme and at Bethincourt will be imperiled.

ALLIES' ANSWER TO AMERICAN PROPOSAL TO DISARM MERCHANT VESSELS RECEIVED TODAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—The Allies' reply to the State Department's proposal that armed merchant vessels be disarmed was received today. It is stated that the answer is "unacceptable." The foreign nations think the proposal to leave merchant vessels without protection is unreasonable and contend that this right is too well established to be meddled with at this late date.

IRELAND ON PRAYER

EVANGELIST AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH CONDEMNS SELFISH PETITIONS

With the continuation of the revival mission at the First Methodist church Evangelist Ireland shows that he is indeed a man of God, and brings all his Irish qualities to his work. His optimistic manner, his smile, his humor and deep devotion are contagious. He brings men directly face to face with a God who can give peace, joy and power to all lives.

Last evening the evangelist was in a fine mood. His sermon was on "Prayer." And in direct, earnest fashion he made his hearers see the place of prayer in human life. With keen insight he made clear why multitudes fail to realize from prayer all that is possible, why many only go through the form, why many slight their privileges and thus are living unsatisfactory Christian lives.

"Men are spiritual weaklings because they think more of the body than of the soul. They become slaves to the fashions of God. Some women spend more time before the mirror than on their knees in prayer for the beautifying of the soul. Obedience to the fashions is not a criterion of moral character or spiritual power."

Mr. Ireland dealt with the essentials of prayer and illustrated its place in life when men are seeking God's guidance. He heartened his Christian hearers by pointing out the privileges and possibilities of the art of prayer. With intense earnestness he cried, "I would never pray if I did not believe God answered prayer."

"Selfish prayers are never answered. God will not contribute to your narrowness, meanness and sin. Selfishness keeps men from a great grip on God. When men get out of harmony with men and God, how can they pray?"

The evangelist believes in a whole-hearted religion and complete dedication of the life to God. He hates shams and humbug. The Christian life is to be lived without pretense or apology.

The special musical features last night were a male quartet and a solo by Mrs. Cammack.

Services each evening at 7:30. Church location, Third and Dayton Court.

DOCTORS ENTERTAINED

Quite a unique banquet was given at the Glendale Sanitarium Thursday night when Dr. Wood-Comstock and Dr. Lulu Peters acted as hostesses to Kappa Chapter of the Alpha-Epsilon-Iota, No. 16 of Los Angeles. The Alpha-Epsilon-Iota is a well-known national society of female physicians. The large dining hall of the Sanitarium was beautifully decorated with appropriate symbols and the long dining table at which the lady physicians sat was tastefully laid out with yellow lilies and other seasonal flowers.

Among the guests were: Drs. Ethel Leonard, Eleanor Seymour, Nannie Dunsmore, Elizabeth Kearney, Dr. Ellis, Dr. Keep and Dr. Crowell. A pleasant dinner was enjoyed after the best Sanitarium vegetarian traditions and a business and social session followed.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. E. L. Schuyler, 1435 Ivy St., entertained Wednesday evening from 4 to 7 p. m. at dinner in honor of the birthday of her daughter Lois, who attained her fifteenth year on that date. The decorations were pink and white and a profusion of cherokee roses adorned the rooms. The three-course dinner was carried out in the same colors. Those present were: Ethel Merriken, Cecilia Lyons, Dorothy Woods, Beatrice Heller, Mildred Singleton, Mildred Svenson, Eula May, Gladys Fanset, Agnes Thaxter, Janice West, Margaret Crawford, Dorothy Patterson, Milcent Alvord, Margaret Frazee, Edith Schuyler and Lois Schuyler. Games were played and the guests who excelled gained prizes. Music helped to pass a pleasant time.

RECLAIMING A RANCH

F. J. GETTEN HAS SOME STRIKING FEATURES ON HIS GRAND VIEW AVENUE PROPERTY

After having lain for more than a year without occupancy or care the fine ranch at the northeast corner of Grand View avenue and Sixth street, is now occupied by Frederick J. Getten, who recently came from New York state to take up ranching life in California. Mr. Getten found the property considerably run down and set about getting it in order.

This work has entailed a complete overhauling of the out-premises, mending of old buildings and straightening and rebuilding of fences and corrals. This work has been prosecuted with vigor and now the laying out of the grounds is proceeding as fast as is possible.

Mr. Getten is constructing a wagon road into the property from the new county road which is being constructed from N. Pacific avenue, Glendale, to Grand View avenue. This county road passes the front of the Getten ranch and constitutes a great improvement to the property.

The south half of the property is planted to deciduous fruit—satsuma and Wixon plums and apricots. These trees look healthy and give promise of an excellent crop this season. There is a complete equipment on the ranch for 800 chickens. This outfit is being renovated. Part of the rest of the ranch is planted to Oregon Evergreen corn and a very large and varied vegetable garden is being put in. Potatoes are being planted and all manner of cucumbers, tomatoes, squash and the full round of garden products.

Stretching toward the north the rest of the ranch consists of a large citrus orchard where lemons in bearing show signs of a good crop, navel, Valencia and grape fruit constitute the rest of the orchard. There are more than 300 of these trees. One of the striking features of this orchard is the number of lemon trees which have been grafted with navel oranges. They exhibit the rather unusual yield of the two kinds of fruit.

Another section of the ranch is planted with 150 young avocado trees. These are showing up well and have attained quite a respectable growth since they were planted about two years ago. This fruit is coming into great favor and the market for it is developing every year. Mr. Getten expects to find considerable profit in his avocado section.

There is a very substantial modern home on the ranch and all the usual conveniences are there—electric light, telephone, an ample water supply, good roads and the conveniences of the city at hand. It would be difficult to find more ideal surroundings for a ranch of this character, backed as it is by the beautiful foothills and faced by the lovely valley.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS GO TO JAIL

Miss Dorothy Poppy, teacher of English in the Glendale Union High School, chaperoned a party of her class to Los Angeles Wednesday, where they visited the county jail and several of the departments in the Superior court. The visit proved of great interest and the young girls received much valuable information that will aid them to more fully comprehend the English court and the forms in use there which now is the principal subject studied.

Miss Poppy and her company of pretty, vivacious girls, were the subject of much favorable comment in the different court rooms, and when Miss Poppy and her proteges lunched at a fashionable down-town hotel, one of the staid and dignified judges, whose department had been visited that morning, dined with the students, being pleased with the interest manifested by Miss Poppy and the class. This popular instructor was also pleased with her students, who were keen observers of the practical lesson given them. The class thus favored by Miss Poppy included Miss Beth Smith, Miss Jeannette McLennan, Miss Marjorie Imler, Miss Lola East, Miss Catherine Phillips, Miss Mona Butler, Miss Katherine Renshaw, Miss Evangeline Hunchberger and Miss Mary Wilkins.

PARROT DANCE

On St. Patrick's eve Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Dodge, 101 S. Central avenue, entertained at a most charming parrot dance, for their son, Fred Lee Dodge. Those who enjoyed the delightful evening were: Cecelia Lyon, William Cronin, Jean Anderson, Milton Brown, Lucille Barnes, Floyd Stokes, Nettie Werve, Limben Keys, Lila Shea, Walter Beach, Ardis Heisler, Robert Dewar, Eloise Seaman, and the affable young host, Fred Dodge.

METHODS OF ASSESSING PROPERTY

It is questionable if the ordinary taxpayer is ever really satisfied with his tax rate. City taxpayers have always found great satisfaction in objecting to whatever rate may be imposed. This objecting does them little or no good for it may be observed that almost invariably the rate of taxation in a progressive city goes up yearly. The tax rate is always with us and until some other method of raising municipal expense funds is devised it is likely to remain.

If taxpayers want to make any objection to tax rates that will carry weight and produce effect they should make their objections at the time their property is being assessed. Bit by bit assessments go up until they threaten some time to reach the 100 per cent mark.

Recently the secretary of the League of Pacific Municipalities thought that as a matter of curiosity he would try to find out whether any progress was being made in taxation matters. He therefore sent out a circular to city assessors asking a report as to their method of making assessments and particularly as to whether they had adopted any new or novel method of determining the value of property.

No new or startling methods were disclosed. In a majority of the cases the replies showed that the county assessment was taken as the basis of values for municipal purposes. It is interesting to read the answer of G. B. Hoffman, deputy assessor and tax collector of Glendale. Mr. Hoffman says:

"Numerous scientific methods have been suggested and submitted by bodies of men organized for the purpose of systematizing methods of making tax levies, but as yet our Board of Trustees have not taken up any of them.

"I have assessed this town for the past five years, taking, possibly an average of 45 per cent of actual values of the real estate and as much of the improvements, as a basis of fixing taxable values. As to personal property, it has largely been left to my judgment what shall be properly assessable, the intention being to go very lightly on household goods and other necessary movable property. There has been no protest of any kind against any of the assessments for the past four years.

"However, I am inclined to believe that sooner or later our Board of Trustees will take up one of the systems now in vogue and will aim to deal with the subject in a more scientific way."

The secretary of the league thinks that the creation of a valuation bureau, made up by the county assessor acting in harmony with city assessors, with a staff of expert appraisers, might result in a wonderful improvement of our tax system. What is needed to be done, he says, is to ascertain in the first place the actual value of the property and list it at that value. The result would be lower tax rates, and what is more important, it would shift the attention of the taxpayer from the tax rate to the assessment rate which is the main thing.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE MEXICAN EXPEDITION

As has been pointed out frequently in these columns the task of invading Mexico bristles with difficulties. There is not a United States army man of high standing who has not long ago pointed out that the marching of United States troops into Mexico would be the signal for all manner of complications with the natives.

Mexico's troubles of the past five years have multiplied tenfold since the death of Huerta, who was held up by certain authorities in this country as the arch disturber. The truth is that to interfere in Mexico in any shape or form is to invite trouble of the worst kind. The climate of Mexico is by no means an ideal one in which to operate. Its dusty plains, its burning sun, its arid wastes, its poisonous water, its germ-infested cities, its hostile population—all militate against the success of the primary operations of troops accustomed to easier conditions.

It may well be expected that troubles will be experienced in the matter of food and ammunition supply to the troops that have already marched into Mexico. The cutting of the telegraph lines is but a single indication of what may be expected in a country where the different factions that have been flying at each other's throats during the past few years are now likely to unite against the United States on the mere matter of suspicion that the punitive expedition shelters sinister designs to annex the country.

That idea is being sedulously cultivated in the minds of the peons and the first fruit of the anti-Carranza and anti-American propaganda is to be seen in the report that Gen. Herrera, one of Carranza's trusted lieutenants has turned against him and has joined his forces to Villa, who is to every Mexican peon the typical patriot and the one man who has had the courage of his opinions and has not only dared but even attacked the United States.

If the most famous American expedition that marched into Mexico city under Winfield Scott needed 100,000 men for the operation it may be admitted at once that in these days of machine guns and magazine rifles, the same job or even the much smaller one of seeking the elusive Villa among the Yaqui hills will demand at least 300,000 men. The value of preparedness can easily be seen. When countries are able to dispense with police in their own cities they may be able to dispense with national armies. The national army is a mere matter of national insurance against foreign trouble. If Mexico had known that the United States had at its command an army of 300,000 men, equipped in modern style and ready with all its necessary equipment to march at a moment's notice neither Villa nor any other patriot-bandit would have ventured to lay as much as a finger on an American within Mexican bounds.

One of the first requisites of a town worth living in is the loyalty of its citizenship to the interests of the community. Patriotism is not measured by miles and the one who is not intensely loyal to his home city will not be very jealous of the welfare of his country. Patriotism like charity begins at home and the more a man does for the little spot in which he lives the more loyal he will be to his flag and that for which it stands.

TWO POPULAR FLOWERS

In making out your order for seeds and plants—one of the most delightful of tasks—be sure to enclose seeds of the dahlia and geranium. It is not generally known that plants of these varieties can be easily raised from seed, and that often new, unique, and rare combinations valuable for market and pleasant to propagate are started in this way. If sown early in the house—and this is an easy, happy task—and transplanted into the garden when all danger of frost is over, they will bloom the first year. Every one knows that geraniums make the dearest kind of house plants for the winter. If you do not want them for that purpose just pack them into boxes and store them in your cellar until spring, when they may be trimmed back and set out and will produce more flowers than ever.

The dahlias are a popular flower. The more you gather, the more seem to come to take their place. They resemble the sweet pea and nasturtium in this respect. Lift the roots in fall and store in the cellar for another year's replanting.—"Little Gardens," in The People's Home Journal for March.

THE DESTRUCTIVENESS OF RATS

It is estimated that the annual loss from rats amounts to hundreds of millions of dollars. Their destructiveness is almost without limit. They are prolific breeders, giving birth to young three to five times a year and from six to twenty at a birth. The quantities of grain and foodstuffs which they destroy every year is almost beyond belief. Added to this is the damage done to materials of all kinds by their habit of gnawing. They are responsible for many fires from their habit of secreting inflammable materials and not infrequently matches, which in course of time are ignited.

But the worst charge against them is the spread of disease. Living on and in filth, they spread the germs of the worst diseases known to mankind, especially the terrible bubonic plague, and in this way have been the direct cause of death to hundreds of thousands of human beings.

Do not confuse him with some of his cousins like the interesting trade or pack rat, sometimes called the bushy-tailed rat or the wood rat. This condemnation is of the common rat with whom every one is familiar. He is smart and clever, and doubtless this is why he has continued to live in spite of all the persecution he receives. Kill him whenever you can, but do it mercifully.—Thornton W. Burgess, in The People's Home Journal.

A NEW "LIMERICK"

If a lassie wants the ballot
To help to run the town;
If a lassie gets the ballot,
Need a laddie frown?
Many a laddie has the ballot,
Not so bright as I;
Many a laddie has the franchise,
Overcome with rye.
Every laddie has the franchise,
Nane, they say, hae I.
Hands and heart and brains hae lassie,
Let the lassie try.
If a lassie works for wages,
Tolling all the day,
When her work the laddie's equals
Give her equal pay.
If a body pays the taxes,
Surely you'll agree
That a body earns the franchise
Whether he or she.

The Paris dressmakers are still struggling to popularize the cape. They began the collet or cape collar and gradually lengthened it out until it was about touching the toes. But it has not caught yet. Somehow American women are shy of shrouding their backs and they want their arms free, except in the evening.

Checks are the most fashionable of all and they are bewitching if they are used always with plain goods. A plain coat with a checked blouse, a plain skirt or at least some strips of solid color to serve as frame. The Highlander has the secret of plaids and checks and we cannot do better than study his arrangement.

AN EVELESS EDEN

The great war in Europe is bringing into the limelight some queer and forgotten corners of the world. Until the tide of battle swept up into the Balkans, not many people could have answered off-hand the question, "Is there a spot on earth where the population is confined entirely to the male of the species?" An Eveless Eden would strike most people as a pretty dull place. There is such a domain, however, on Mount Athos, near Salonika, Greece, where not only are all the inhabitants men, but the gender of all the animals is male—cows and hens, nannies and mares, ewes and tabbies being barred out.

ADVERTISERS' DIRECTORY

In Saturday's issue of the Evening News will be published a large list of local business concerns, together with their place of business and their telephone numbers. Preserve the sheet on which this list is published for reference.

GLENDALE BOY SCOUTS

All Glendale boys are urged to join the Boy Scouts, a company of which has been formed in the city for some time. There is no boys' movement that has done more good than that of the Boy Scouts. It teaches boys to be polite, obedient, courteous to strangers and helpful to those in trouble. It also teaches them to discountenance all unworthy ideas and low motives and makes them self-respecting, brave and competent to deal with all manner of emergencies. The Glendale company managed last year to do quite a deal in training and various enjoyable "hikes" and camps in the open air were enjoyed.

All Glendale Scouts and those who may wish to join this admirable movement are asked to report at the Congregational church, at 12:30 sharp, Saturday, March 25. At 1 p. m. the Scouts will leave for Griffith Park, where a pleasant and profitable time will be spent.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

We wish to thank all the kind friends, especially the members of the Presbyterian church, the Masonic Order, also N. P. Banks Post and the W. R. C. No. 67, for the beautiful floral offerings and the kind words of sympathy in our recent sorrow.

TROPICO

Of special interest yesterday was the monthly meeting of the Cerritos Parent-Teacher association. A parliamentary drill, conducted by Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, preceded the meeting. These drills, under the able direction of Mrs. Richardson, are proving of valuable interest to the many patrons who attend. Mrs. Hester Griffith gave a splendid talk on child training, bringing most forcibly to each mother as well as the teachers, the value of early training. Mrs. Griffith demonstrated the fact that not only can she talk on temperance and subjects so dear to the W. C. T. U., of which she is past state president, but that she can give many valuable and helpful suggestions relative to the early training of children.

The auditorium was prettily decorated in Japanese blossoms, under the artistic direction of Miss Edna Brown. The tea tables were decorated in blue iris and here Misses Helen Searl, Frances Musser, Jeanette Seaman, Dorothy Shaw, Ruth Goto and Virginia Chappins, each in pretty Japanese costumes, poured tea and served dainty wafers.

Edward B. Elias has but recently returned from a brief sojourn in San Diego, where the exposition was one of the many interesting places visited.

Owing to the passing of their beloved comrade, Lewis Baker, there will be no ball game on the diamond of the municipal ground Sunday.

Mrs. C. Harry Woolsey and Mrs. Dwight Griswold represented the Tropico Thursday club in Hollywood Thursday at the Federation of Women's Clubs convention.

Mrs. C. C. Chandler, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry Weston visited in Pasadena Thursday as the guests of Chicago friends who are spending the winter in the Crown city.

Mrs. Frank I. Marsh of South Central avenue visited Mrs. Wheelock and Miss Graham in Hollywood Wednesday.

Miss Mattie Bardwell of South Glendale avenue, has returned from a week's delightful motor trip with a party of Los Angeles friends, who visited in Needles, Kingman and at the new mining town of Oatman. In the latter city interesting visits were made to several of the large gold mines.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Brown have returned from a pleasant visit in Oakland.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

One of the latest fruit-growing possibilities in Southern California is the cultivation of the avocado pear. This tree grows rapidly and is soon bearing fruit. The demand for the avocado is rapidly increasing and some of the Foothills ranchers are determined to get into the business before it is crowded. Mrs. Black, whose fine ranch faces on Kenneth road and Grand View avenue, has uprooted all her navel orange trees and planted avocados in their stead.

On the Brown ranch, before its sale to Frederick J. Getten, 150 avocado trees were planted. This ranch lies just below the Black ranch on Grand View avenue.

Mr. Simmons of Kenneth road has five acres of avocado trees.

There is a movement on foot among the residents on Kenneth road and on Grand View avenue to have Grand View avenue put into better shape than it is at present. The rains cut up the road badly and any improvement would be welcome to those who have to make use of the road.

The County road that has been begun from Central avenue has now reached Grand View avenue, where grading is going on busily at present.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Bierbower, 922 Fairview avenue, entertained informally Thursday night, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Downs, and Miss Ruth Downs, all of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Kenneth road are entertaining Miss Beresford Joy, Mrs. Toll's sister.

Mrs. J. McMillin of Mountain street, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now quite recovered.

VALLEY VIEW

Mrs. Flora M. Pixley of 509 Columbus has returned home from a few weeks' visit with a daughter in Imperial Valley.

E. B. Metler and wife have moved into the Walker house at 1565 W. 7th.

Mrs. Mary Comstock of 1526 W. 7th is confined to her home by a severe cold and fever.

Residents of Vine street west of Pacific avenue are becoming exceedingly tired of the incursions of drunken, vicious Japs who make night hideous with their drunken cries and bestial actions. Incited by the wine procured at the vicious winery across the S. P. track in Los Angeles, they set decency and order at defiance. A stiff jail sentence might have a salutary effect. The trouncing given them Tuesday night when they attempted the second time to enter his home may have some effect, however. The majority of the Japanese in this locality are decent and law abiding and perhaps when all these pest holes in the shape of wineries are wiped out, all may become so.

Mrs. J. B. Work and little daughter Patricia of Sherman visited Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Work's mother, Mrs. Sarah Ward, 1438 Hawthorne.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant, 1461 Vine street, have a new baby girl.

The banquet given by the West Glendale Methodist Brotherhood was largely attended. The address of Rev. Barton was right to the point and was enthusiastically endorsed by his hearers.

Comrade Jacob S. Van Why of 1542 Vine street is at the hospital, very low from a second stroke of paralysis. He was a faithful defender of his country during the Civil War and his old comrades will be grieved at learning of his serious condition. John Railsback, meat cutter of Kilborn & Peters, formerly lived near Lee's Summit, Mo., the home of Cole Younger, the bank robber who recently died there. He was well acquainted with the Younger family and with Cole Music, a nephew of Cole Younger.

Mrs. Adam Gibbs of Lancaster is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. G. W. Case, 1570 West Colorado. She says there is a great building boom in Lancaster, her husband and father-in-law, J. S. Gibbs, being rushed constantly with carpenter work.

A police telephone has been installed at the corner of Vine and Pacific, the box having been placed on the side of Kilborn & Peters' store building.

ABOUT ALASKAN INDIANS

Earle Albert Rowell, who is lecturing in the Pasadena and the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A.'s, has been secured to give one of his popular addresses in Glendale Monday evening, March 27, in the Adventist church, corner Third and Isabel. "Experiences Among the Alaskan Indians" is the subject of his talk. For three years Mr. Rowell lived in Alaska among the Indians, and as he was there in 1899 he saw Alaska in its pioneer days. He brings to one in vivid word pictures the peculiar fascination of that country. He has some thrilling stories of actual personal experience to tell.

This address has been given all over the Pacific Coast and wherever given it has drawn a large attend-

BURBANK

Walker Returns from East

W. S. Walker, proprietor of Walker's Department store of this city, returned Sunday from a seven weeks' trip in the East, where he visited his mother in Grand Rapids, Mich., friends in Chicago and other points, and took advantage of the treatment at the mineral springs at West Baden. Mr. Walker had a most enjoyable trip but remarked that he wouldn't trade his home and interests in Burbank for the whole state of Michigan, as the zero weather there was too cold in comparison with Southern California. "Business conditions, however, in the East," said Mr. Walker, "are excellent. Every line of business seems to be on the boom, both retail and manufacturing. At the West Baden resort there were many business men and all seemed flush with money and talked of big deals. With the times as prosperous as they are in the East, business without doubt will soon be better on the Pacific Coast." The trip was also of great benefit to Mr. Walker's health.

Chamber of Commerce Enjoys Smoker

The members of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce held a smoker at Horne hall, which was largely attended and brimful of enthusiasm. The chief address of the evening was by Mr. C. H. Burnett, head of the development department of the Pacific Electric Co., and former secretary of the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce. His subject was "Community Advertising," and he gave a most interesting description of how other cities secured publicity. About fifty members of the Chamber of Commerce were present at the meeting, and nine new members were added, and two more joined the local body of boosters since the meeting, making in all eleven new members this week.

Notwithstanding reports, no definite plans have been accepted for the Burbank city hall, although the trustees have had several informal meetings and gone thoroughly into the subject.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Adams Saturday, March 18, at 3 p. m., a baby daughter weighing seven pounds.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Knapp was doubly blessed on Monday of this week by the arrival of twins, a boy and girl.

E. S. Hogle transacted business in Van Nuys Wednesday.

Death of Mrs. J. E. Kendall

The many friends of Mrs. Mary J. Kendall, one of Burbank's leading merchants, were greatly shocked and grieved to learn of her death Monday evening at 5 o'clock, at the Kendall residence at 509 Angeleno St. The deceased was born at Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1846, and moved to Burbank with her husband about five years ago. She was a woman of sterling character and deeply loved and admired by all who knew her. The funeral was held at the residence on Angeleno street at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the Scovern-Letton-Frey Undertaking Company being in charge. Out of deference to Mr. Kendall all Burbank business houses closed from one until two o'clock. The remains were shipped to Park, South Dakota, where interment will be made.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lane returned from a several days' auto trip to their ranch near Bakersfield. Mr. Lane says he drove to Bakersfield in just 3 hours and 12 minutes in his Ford.

TRAINING THE CHILDREN

"I never allow my children to bring tales home from school," the mother of a pupil once told me. "I expect them to do as they are bidden and the teacher will do the rest."

No, dear mother, teacher cannot do the rest unaided by you. She needs your help, and all the help your child's confidences can give you.

I heard another mother declare:

"It's no use for Abel to bring books home. I've forgotten all I ever knew, and if I hadn't I've no time to help him. Besides, I think six hours of school work enough for any boy or girl below High School. If they and the teacher make good use of school hours, I'll risk any deficiency."

But that mother might have encouraged Abel to bring books home, if only to follow his progress with pride, leaf by leaf. She would not have wasted any precious minutes talking over the lessons while she made him ready for bed. His interest, the vital feature of school life, could have been engaged for all time by her interested sympathy in his little doings and achievements.

"Some say this is a fine teacher we have now," a rural housewife was heard to remark to a neighbor. "I don't know. Others cry her down. I never meddle with school affairs. I bring up my children to go to school and mind the teacher, and my husband votes for as good a superintendent as can be had. If our boys and girls grow up dunces, it's no fault of ours. We do our duty by them. When I was young, my father and mother told us if we got punished at school we'd get more when we got home. John and I don't go as far as that, but we do plan to let the proper authorities look after educational matters."

Result: No sympathy between parent and teacher, child and school, perhaps little between teacher and that child and his home. The parent knows nothing of the child's school life, and if pernicious, it is not remedied. Superintendents are not infallible, nor teachers. The parents certainly have a duty.—From The People's Home Journal.

ONE MORE FOR THE "CAUSE"

A pard uv mine who was toored to town

By a black-eyed gal, an' settled down,

Sends me an invite by U. S. mail

To pack my outfit and hit the trail

Fer his married diggin's; which I did,

Fer I didn't need no secon' bid.

I'd always hankered to have a slant

At what had made him a household plant—

Him, jist nacherul ole cactus stuff,

Sage as myself, which is shore enough.

Besides, her rus'lin' him made me cross,

Fer I love Pete as I love my hoss.

Well, I lopes in an' was met by Pete—

An' Her. I'll be lynched if she ain't sweet!

I fergive ole, Pete right there an' then,

Fer she could a had her pick uv men.

Fer her the best on the range is none

Too good. He shore is a lucky one.

Pete an' his Gerty—Gertrud's her name—

Is havin' a sort uv playhouse game.

They live in a shack that's mighty tall,

But the bunks do seem amazin' small;

An' uv 'em all the littlest yet

Is that cook-shop thing called kitchenette.

When I peeks into the little room,

Thinks I, "The place where they hide the broom!"

"Kitchenette," sez she. I s'pose my look

Wuz dumb, an' she sez, "It's where I cook."

Shoot me if 'twuzn't! Right from that thing

She corkscrewed a meal fit fer a king!

The kitchenette, all furnished up tight

With cookin' tools, wuz a sideshow sight.

"A jugglin' act is nothin' but pie

To gittin' vittles in that," sez I.

"Why, that ain't cookin'! It's slight uv hand!

An' b'lieve me, too, it's the proper brand!"

Mighty few things the gals can't do—

That is, if the gals is vantin' to;

An' lak as 'ot they're compyent.

To take a hand in the government.

I'm strong fer votes for women, you bet,

Since I seen one round up a kitchenette!

THE EMPTY LETTER BOX

On a certain morning every week in thousands of homes, mother says, "Hurry off to the post office, father! This is letter day." And father doesn't need to be told twice—he goes.

But oh, the father and mother to whom the letter does not come! We have seen their faces, too. N-no, they don't expect a letter at all, but father goes regularly to the post office, and mother watches from the door, thinking possibly, just possibly, they might hear from some of the children this week, but she has waited a long time now, and no letter comes. Ah, the unspeakable pangs of the empty letter box! When the children were all at home, that box was usually pretty well filled, but now—

Well, father comes through the gate, but there is no waving arm. He just shakes his head, and walks across the lot and tinkers with the fence a while before going into the house.

In how many homes, after the morning chores are done, does father go to the post office, work his way up the steps, open the door, look along the rows until he comes to a certain box, and turn away empty handed? But wait, wait—it might be wedged in at the back! He takes a second look, to be sure. But there's nothing there!

And the son and daughter, what does it mean to them—the weekly letter to father and mother?

Can a man sit down and write home, beginning, "Dear little mother," and ending, "Your loving son," and not be a better man for it? Must he not be stronger for life's stress and storm. Will not the rush of affection which inspires the tender message sweep his heart and soul clean of evil?

He knows just what will happen back in the old home that night. Father and mother will have their family prayers in the bed-room off the sitting-room, and after they arise from their knees, mother will turn up the light a little, and read that letter just once again before she goes to bed—just once more! We have seen mothers do that. Can a man go very far wrong with this picture before him?

The weekly letter back home means thrilling joy to father and mother, but the one who writes, too, has his reward.

May the loving messages keep flying toward the old home town, for breakfast is over, and father is on his way to the post office. God grant he may not find the box empty!—Editorial from The People's Home Journal.

The United States government has placed a ban on liquor advertising calendars in federal buildings. Atorney-General Gregory has caused the substitution of a neat calendar prepared by the Government itself.

"The boast that prohibition does not hurt the wholesale liquor trade is heard no longer. It does hurt, and it keeps hurting worse and worse," says the Chicago Journal.

Six Texas breweries have agreed to pay $286,000 in fines and to forfeit their charters. They were before the courts for political corruption.

It is estimated that a million and a half dollars in fines can be collected if the brewers indicted in Pennsylvania are convicted.
