

USA

On 7 June early morning (UTC), TC COLIN, made landfall in Taylor county (Florida state) with approx. max. sustained wind speed of 85 km/h (Tropical Storm). On 7 June at 12.00 UTC its centre was located 75 km south of Wilmington (North Carolina state) and it had max. sustained wind speed of 85 km/h.

Over the next 24 h it is forecast to continue moving north-east, strengthening but remaining a Tropical Storm. It then may move near and in parallel to the coast of North Carolina state. Heavy rain, strong winds, tornadoes and storm surge may affect the states of Florida, South and North Carolina. As of 7 June afternoon(UTC), a Tropical Storm Warning is in effect for several parts of the state of North Carolina.

According to media reports, heavy rain has been affecting the states of Florida and Georgia causing floods. As of 7 June, local media reported power outages and traffic disruptions in several areas of both states.

GDACS, NOAA, Media

CHINA

Severe weather, including heavy rain, thunderstorms and hail, has continued to affect the central and southern areas of the country, causing more casualties and damage.

According to national authorities, five people have died, one has gone missing, 11 have been injured, over 3 600 people have been evacuated and over 23 600 houses have been partially or fully damaged in the provinces of Shanxi, Henan, Hubei, Sichuan, Shaanxi, Gansu, Guangdong, Guangxi, Hainan, as of 7 June

National Authorities, CMA, NOAA

Countries affected
 Regions affected
TROPICAL CYCLONE
 (max. sustained winds)
 < 63 km/h
 63-118 km/h
WIND BUFFER
 92-118 km/h
 64-92 km/h
 Tropical Cyclone
 Track uncertainty
 Dead  Missing
 People injured
 Damaged houses
 Floods
 Tropical Cyclone
 Severe weather

