A Collect

FOR THE

Songs of the Revolution

A Collect for the Sons of the Revolution

O THOU who turnest the hearts of the children to the fathers, and hast declared that the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance, we thank Thee for the inspiration which called into existence the Society of the Sons of the Revolution; and the blessing which has hitherto attended it: And we pray Thee to continue to aid our Society in this, and succeeding generations, in the pious work of perpetuating the memory of the sacrifices, and sufferings, and valor of our fathers, through which our priceless heritage was won.

And finally, when we also shall have served Thee in our generation, may we be gathered unto our fathers, having the testimony of a good conscience; in favor with Thee our God; and in perfect charity with the world: All which we ask through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Certificate of Organization

Certificate of Organization

BE IT KNOWN, That on the 7th day of September, 1893, Dwight Morris, Cyrus Sherwood Bradley, Henry Walton Wessells, Alexander Hamilton, Jr., Henry N. Wayne, A. Floyd Delafield, Thomas B. Fairchild, Wm. Freeman French and Jesup Wakeman, did associate themselves as a body corporate, pursuant to the statute laws of the State of Connecticut regulating the formation and organization of corporations without capital stock, and the following are their articles of association:—

ARTICLE 1. The name of said corporation shall be "Sons of the Revolution."

ARTICLE 2. The purposes for which said corporation is formed are the following, to wit:—

To perpetuate the memory of the men, who, in the military, naval and civil service of the Colonies and the Continental Congress, by their acts or their counsel, achieved American independence; to promote and assist in the proper celebration of the anniversaries of the birthday of Washington, and of prominent events in the War of the Revolution; to inspire among the members and their descendants the patriotic spirit of their forefathers; to inculcate in the community in general sentiments of nationality and respect for the principles for which the patriots of the Revolution contended; and to promote social intercourse and the feeling of fellowship among its members.

ARTICLE 3. The statute laws of the State of Connecticut relating to corporations without capital stock are hereby particularly referred to and made a part of these articles, and the corporation hereby organized and established under and pursuant to said statute laws shall have all the powers and proceed according to the regulations described and specified therein.

ARTICLE 4. The said corporation is located in the town of New Haven, county of New Haven, and State of Connecticut.

Dated at Bridgeport, this 7th day of September, 1893.

We, the undersigned, President and Secretary of the "Sons of the Revolution," hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the Articles of Association of said corporation.

Attest,

DWIGHT MORRIS, President.

CYRUS SHERWOOD BRADLEY, Secretary.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

George Washington.

From Painting by C. W. Peale.

The Name of Washington

Sons of the youth and the truth of the nation, -
Ye that are met to remember the man
Whose valor gave birth to a people's salvation,—
Honor him now; set his name in the van.
A nobleness to try for,
A name to live and die for—
The name of Washington!

Calmly his face shall look down through the ages—
Sweet yet severe with a spirit of warning;
Charged with the wisdom of saints and of sages;
Quick with the light of a life-giving morning.
A majesty to try for;
A name to live and die for—
The name of Washington!

Though faction may rack us, or party divide us,
And bitterness break the gold links of our story,
Our father and leader is ever beside us.
Live and forgive! But forget not the glory
Of him whose height we try for;
A name to live and die for—
The name of Washington!

Still in his eyes shall be mirrored our fleeting
Days, with the image of days long ended;
Still shall those eyes give, immortally, greeting
Unto the souls from his spirit descended.
His grandeur we will try for;
His name we'll live and die for—
The name of Washington!

GEORGE PARSONS LATHROP.

“G^{OD} be praised for the gift to us of Washington, the patriot, the soldier, the hero, the statesman, the Christian! It is ‘this unblemished gentleman’ who is the central figure of our country’s past; the model for the present time, the heritage of all succeeding years. His life was ‘right as it respected his God, his country and himself.’ His memory is our tie of brotherhood. His name is the watchword of our freedom, and that of all the world!”

“I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country.”

With calm brow, steady brow,
He listens to his doom,
In his look there is no fear,
Nor a shadow-trace of gloom,
But with calm brow, steady brow
He robes him for the tomb.

In the long night, the still night,
He kneels upon the sod ;
And the brutal guards withhold
Ev'n the solemn Word of God.
And the long night, the still night,
He walks where Christ hath trod.

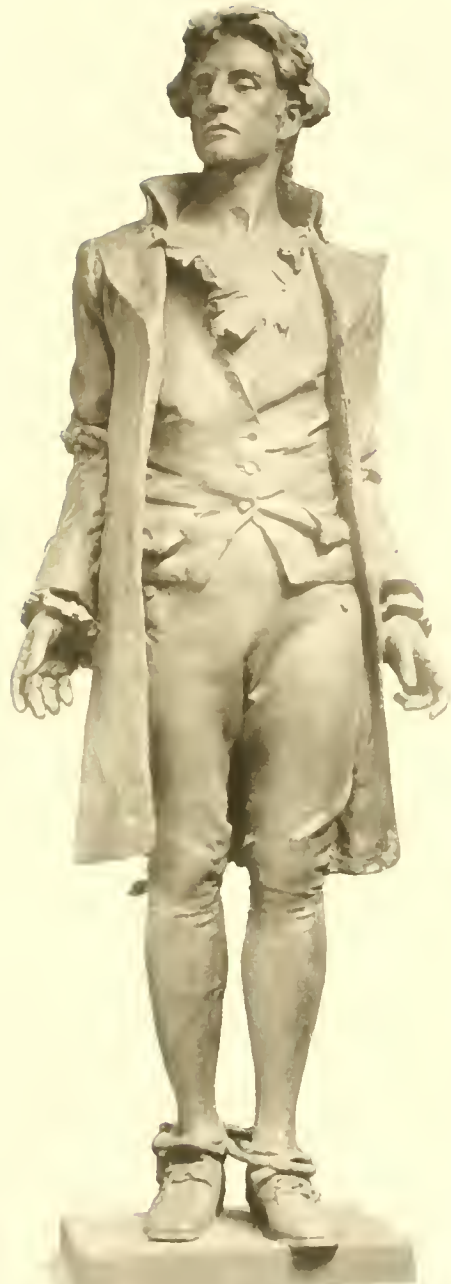

'Neath the blue morn, the sunny morn,
He dies upon the tree ;
And he mourns that he can lose
But one life for liberty.
In the blue morn, the sunny morn,
His spirit wings are free.

But his last words, his message-words,
They burn lest friendly eye
Should not read how proud and calm
A patriot could die,
With his last words, his dying words,
A soldier's battle cry.

From Fame-leaf and Angel-leaf,
From monument and urn,
The sad of earth, the glad of heaven,
His tragic fate shall learn,
And on Fame-leaf and Angel-leaf
The name of HALE shall burn.

Statue of Nathan Hale.

“LIBERTY rose from the flames of war in dazzling glory ; the death of heroes gave her life ; her fostering light still warms the souls of men with the ardor of the martyrs to her cause, and while any share the blood that consecrated her altars, may the Daughters and Sons of the Revolution preserve the memory of those men of lofty purpose, who rank in grandeur of resolve and deed beside the saints of God. Let every freedom-loving soul unite with us to sound the praise of those to whom we owe our broad and favored land—Columbia.”—From an essay by W. V. Goldie of New London, written in competition for the Society's prize-medals, 1894.

April 19, 1775 - 1894.

Praise to the brave and true,
Men prompt to do, and do,
To do, or die,
Blazoned on history's page,
Men for their stormy age,
Scarce less the fight to wage,
Scorning to fly.

They, with prophetic eye,
Saw through the lurid sky,
The goal they sought -
A nation of the free,
A land of liberty,
Stretching from sea to sea.
O glorious thought!

They hailed the coming slave,
Patient to toil and wait,
Sufficed and bleed,
Death strode o'er hill and plain,
With hunger, cold and pain,
Hope rose, - to sink again
The year had fled.

Newton Antie,
April 19, 1894.

But forward onward stole
They of the iron will
Pressed, unharmed;
A nation's love they claim,
Born to immortal fame,
That lustre light's each name,
Never to fade.

Hail, patriots! whose brave hands
O'er these free, fair lands
Their flag unfurled,
Men by all times admired,
To noble deeds inspired,
By whose "the shot" was "fired,"
"Heard round the world."

O sons of noble race,
Who amid war's direst fires
To triumph rode, -
Proud of the deeds they wrought,
With countless blessings fraught,
Cherish the land they bought, -
The gift of God.

In Memoriam

Dwight Morris

DELIVERED DECEMBER 11th, 1894

During the past year death has taken several members of this Society, and among them none will be more missed than General Dwight Morris, who at the time of his death was our honored and loved President. Dwight Morris was born in Litchfield, November 22d, 1816, and came from a family which has been famous in the history of our land.

His grandfather, James Morris, was born in Connecticut in 1717. James, the son of James Morris, was the father of General Morris. He was born in 1758; he graduated from Yale College in 1775, and immediately entered the American Army and was taken prisoner by the British at Germantown, but was afterwards exchanged in 1781. At the close of the war he held the rank of Captain. In 1790 he founded the Morris Academy at South Farms, then in the town of Litchfield, but which is now the town of Morris, named in his honor. He also served as 1st Major in the war of 1812. James Morris died a short time after the birth of his son Dwight Morris.

Dwight Morris entered Yale College, and shortly before the close of his Sophomore year, considering himself unjustly censured by the President of Yale, left that College and entered Union, where he graduated with honors in 1838. Yale afterwards conferred the degree of M.A. In 1841 General Morris was admitted to the Bar and began practice in Bridgeport, where he remained until the time of his death. He was elected a member of the General Assembly in 1845, in 1864 and in 1880.

In 1845-51 and 1852 he was Judge of Probate for the District of Bridgeport. When the Rebellion began General, then Colonel Morris, raised and went to the front in command of the 14th Connecticut Volunteers. He left the State with the Regiment Aug. 25th, 1862, and on Sept. 7th he was assigned to the command of the Second Brigade, French's Division, Second Army Corps. He served for more than a year and ill health compelled him to resign, when he was honorably discharged and retired with the rank of Brigadier-General. The regiment which Colonel Morris commanded and led into battle was called the "Fighting Fourteenth." The records say: "Colonel Morris led his men most gallantly at Antietam." The regiment was in 34 battles and skirmishes, and lost as many men in killed and wounded as almost any regiment in the war. They never lost a color, were present at the surrender of Lee, and had the honor of leading the great and glorious 2d Corps while marching through Richmond, the captured Confederate capitol.

The men with General Morris, from their commander down to the private soldiers, were among the bravest, and history will never forget their deeds. General Morris was wounded while in service, and carried the scar to the day of his death.

In 1864 President Lincoln nominated General Morris Judge of the Territory of Idaho, but he declined the honor, and in 1866 he was appointed Consul General to Havre, France, where he served until 1869. In 1876 General Morris was elected Secretary of State, and he was instrumental in having the Charter of Connecticut framed with wood from the original Charter Oak. It was through his efforts that the old Connecticut Society of the Cincinnati was reorganized. He was chosen its President, a position which he held until the time of his decease. General Morris was probably the only man in the United States, at the date of his death, who was a member of the Society of the Cincinnati by right of his own father, who was an officer in the Revolution. General Morris was always courteous and kindly in his address, and made many friends. His figure was striking, as he was very erect and carried himself with military bearing; he was fond of books and literature and a ready conversationalist on almost any subject.

He was an earnest worker for the success of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the Revolution and will long be remembered.

E. LIVINGSTON WELLS.

Heusted Warner Reynolds Hoyt

Heusted Warner Reynolds Hoyt was born in Ridgefield, Connecticut, November 1st, 1842, and was a son of Reverend Warner and Elizabeth P. (Reynolds) Hoyt. His father, who was rector of St. Stephen's church, Ridgefield, died, October 18th, 1844, when he was two years old. He was educated at Greenwich Academy and at Columbia College, studied law, and after being admitted to the bar, opened an office in Greenwich, where he continued to reside until his death. At the age of twenty-five he was elected to the State Senate, and in 1887 he was Speaker of the House of Representatives. He was also Colonel of the 4th Regiment Connecticut National Guard. On November 14th, 1893, he was admitted to membership in the Society. He died on Sunday, April 8th, 1894, beloved by all who knew him.

Nathan Gillette Pond

Nathan Gillette Pond was born in New York City, May 31st, 1832, and was the son of Charles Hobby and Martha (Gillette) Pond. He was descended from many noted settlers of Connecticut, among them being Theophilus Eaton and Thomas Hooker. For many years he was a merchant and broker in New York City. After retiring from business he made his home at Milford, Connecticut, and gave his time to antiquarian research. He was one of the founders of the Society of Colonial Wars, was most active in reviving the old Connecticut Society of the Cincinnati, and was the first to apply for membership and to be admitted to this Society upon its organization. In all of these Societies he was an honored officer whose loss was keenly felt. He was the last editor of the Magazine of American History, and was an honorary associate editor of the American Historical Register until his death. He died on Sunday, July 29th, 1894.

Report

OF THE

Publication Committee

Report of the Publication Committee

To those who have been patiently waiting for the publication of this volume, is due the explanation that the delay in its appearance has not been without sufficient reason. As a result of that delay the Committee is able to present a fairer and more perfect publication than could otherwise have been prepared.

To the mother society in New York and to the sister society in Iowa, are tendered the thanks of the Committee for their courtesy in permitting the use of illustrations.

This Register, it will be noted, differs from those of sister societies. The credit for the improved method of arrangement belongs to Connecticut, it having been devised by the late Professor Daniel C. Eaton, of Yale University, for the Society of Colonial Wars, by which Society it has been successfully tried.

In giving the references for each record of service, this Society stands almost alone. Yet in this way only can permanent historical value be given to the register of an hereditary society; in this way only can the laborious comparison of proofs and the endeavor for exactness in historical statement be rendered of use, save to those officers and members, by whom and for whom they must be performed. If all hereditary societies would do likewise they would render lasting service to those who cherish the memory of the Nation's patriot dead.

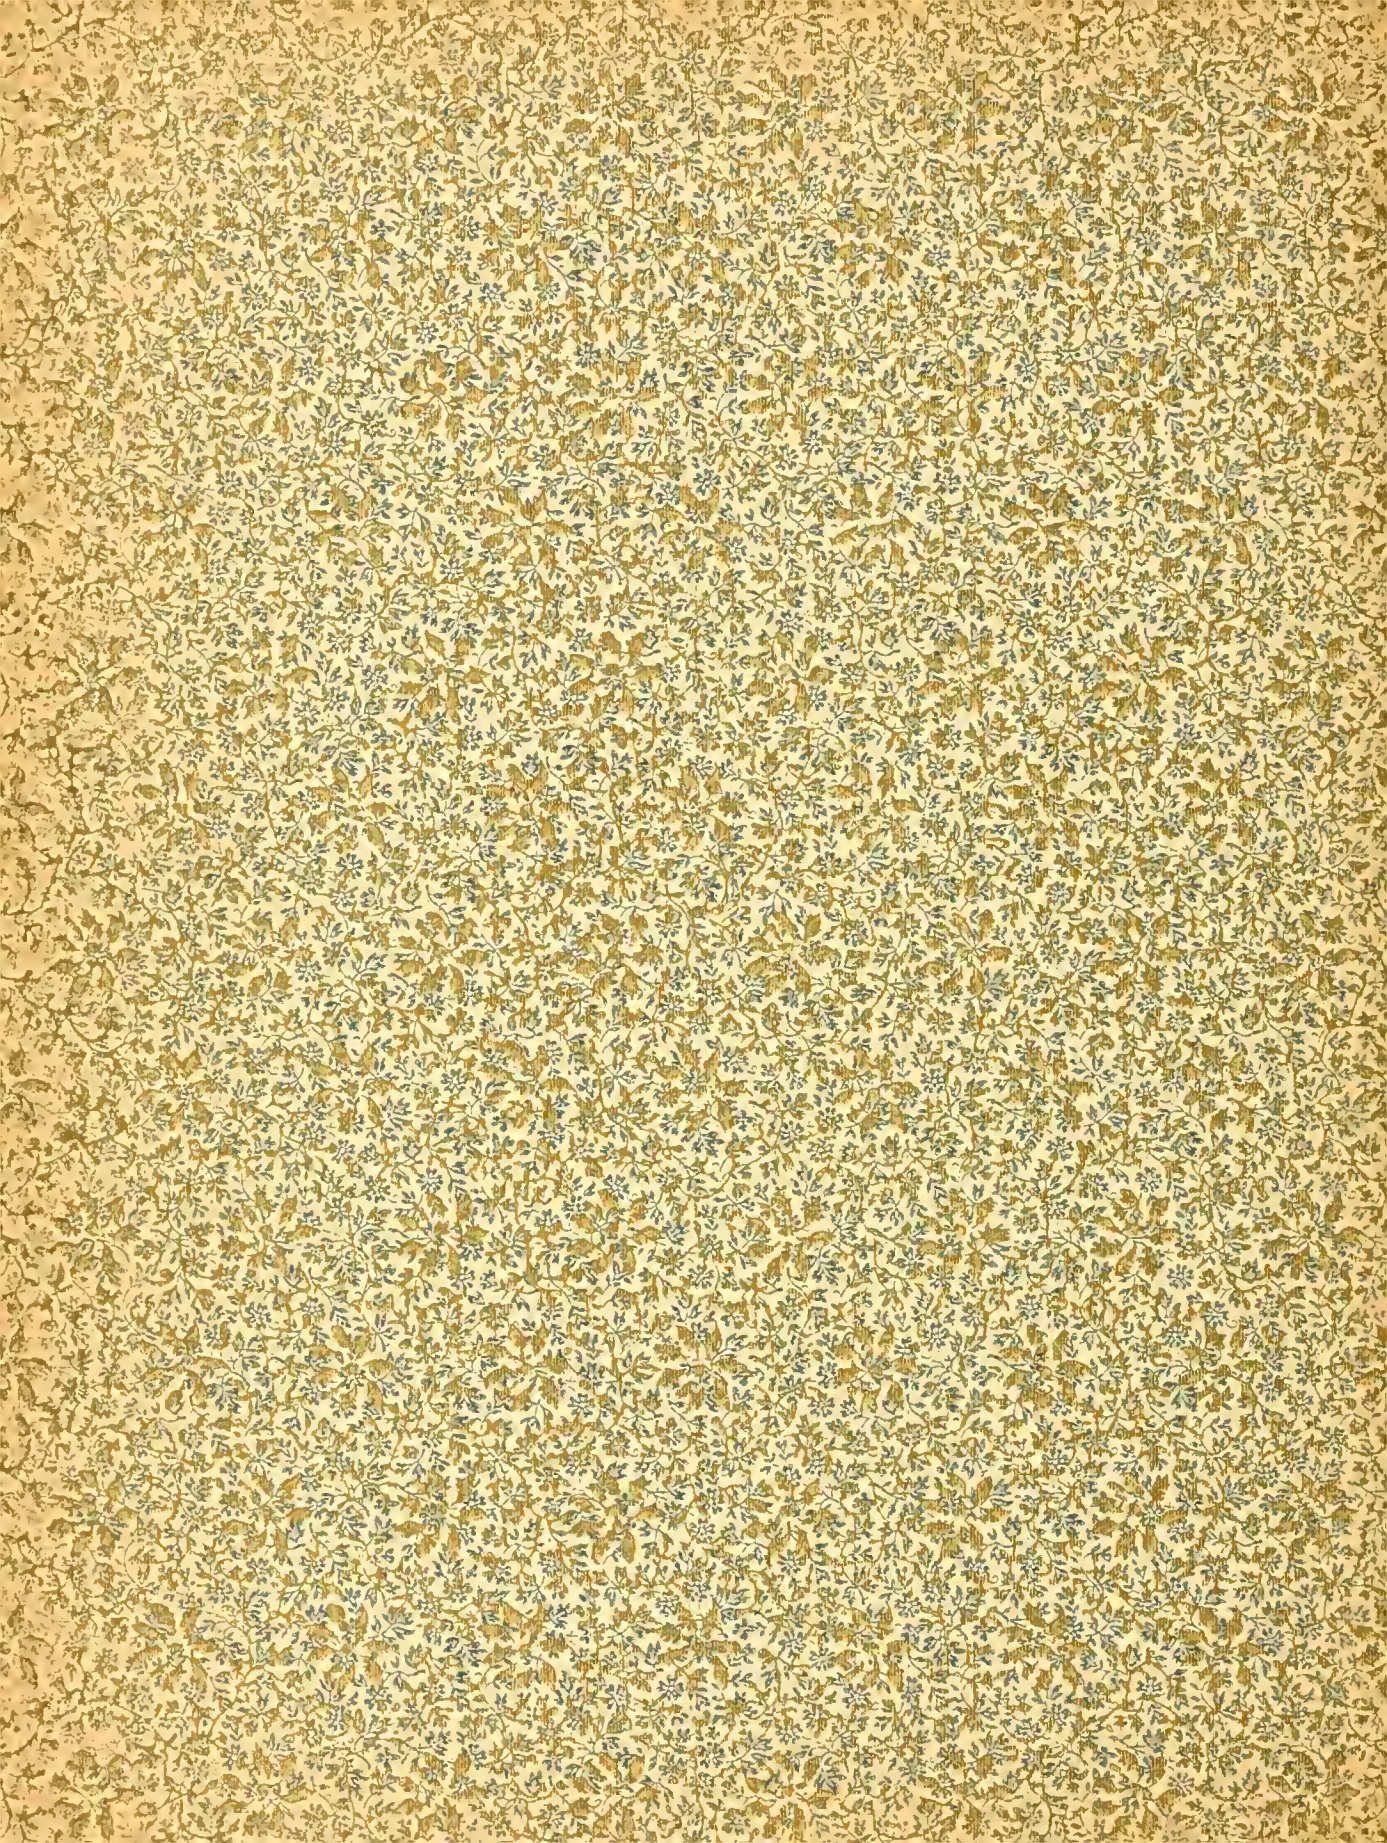

The illustration of the statue of the martyr-patriot, Nathan Hale, erected by the mother society in New York, has a fitting place in these pages, together with the last five stanzas of the poem read by Judge Finch before the Linonian Society of Yale in 1853. Hale was a son of Connecticut, to whom all coming generations may point with reverent pride. By kind invitation, this Society took part in the dedication of the memorial which tells the story of his patriotism to the life-tides of busy humanity throbbing to and fro in the heart of the greatest city of the land that calls him hers.

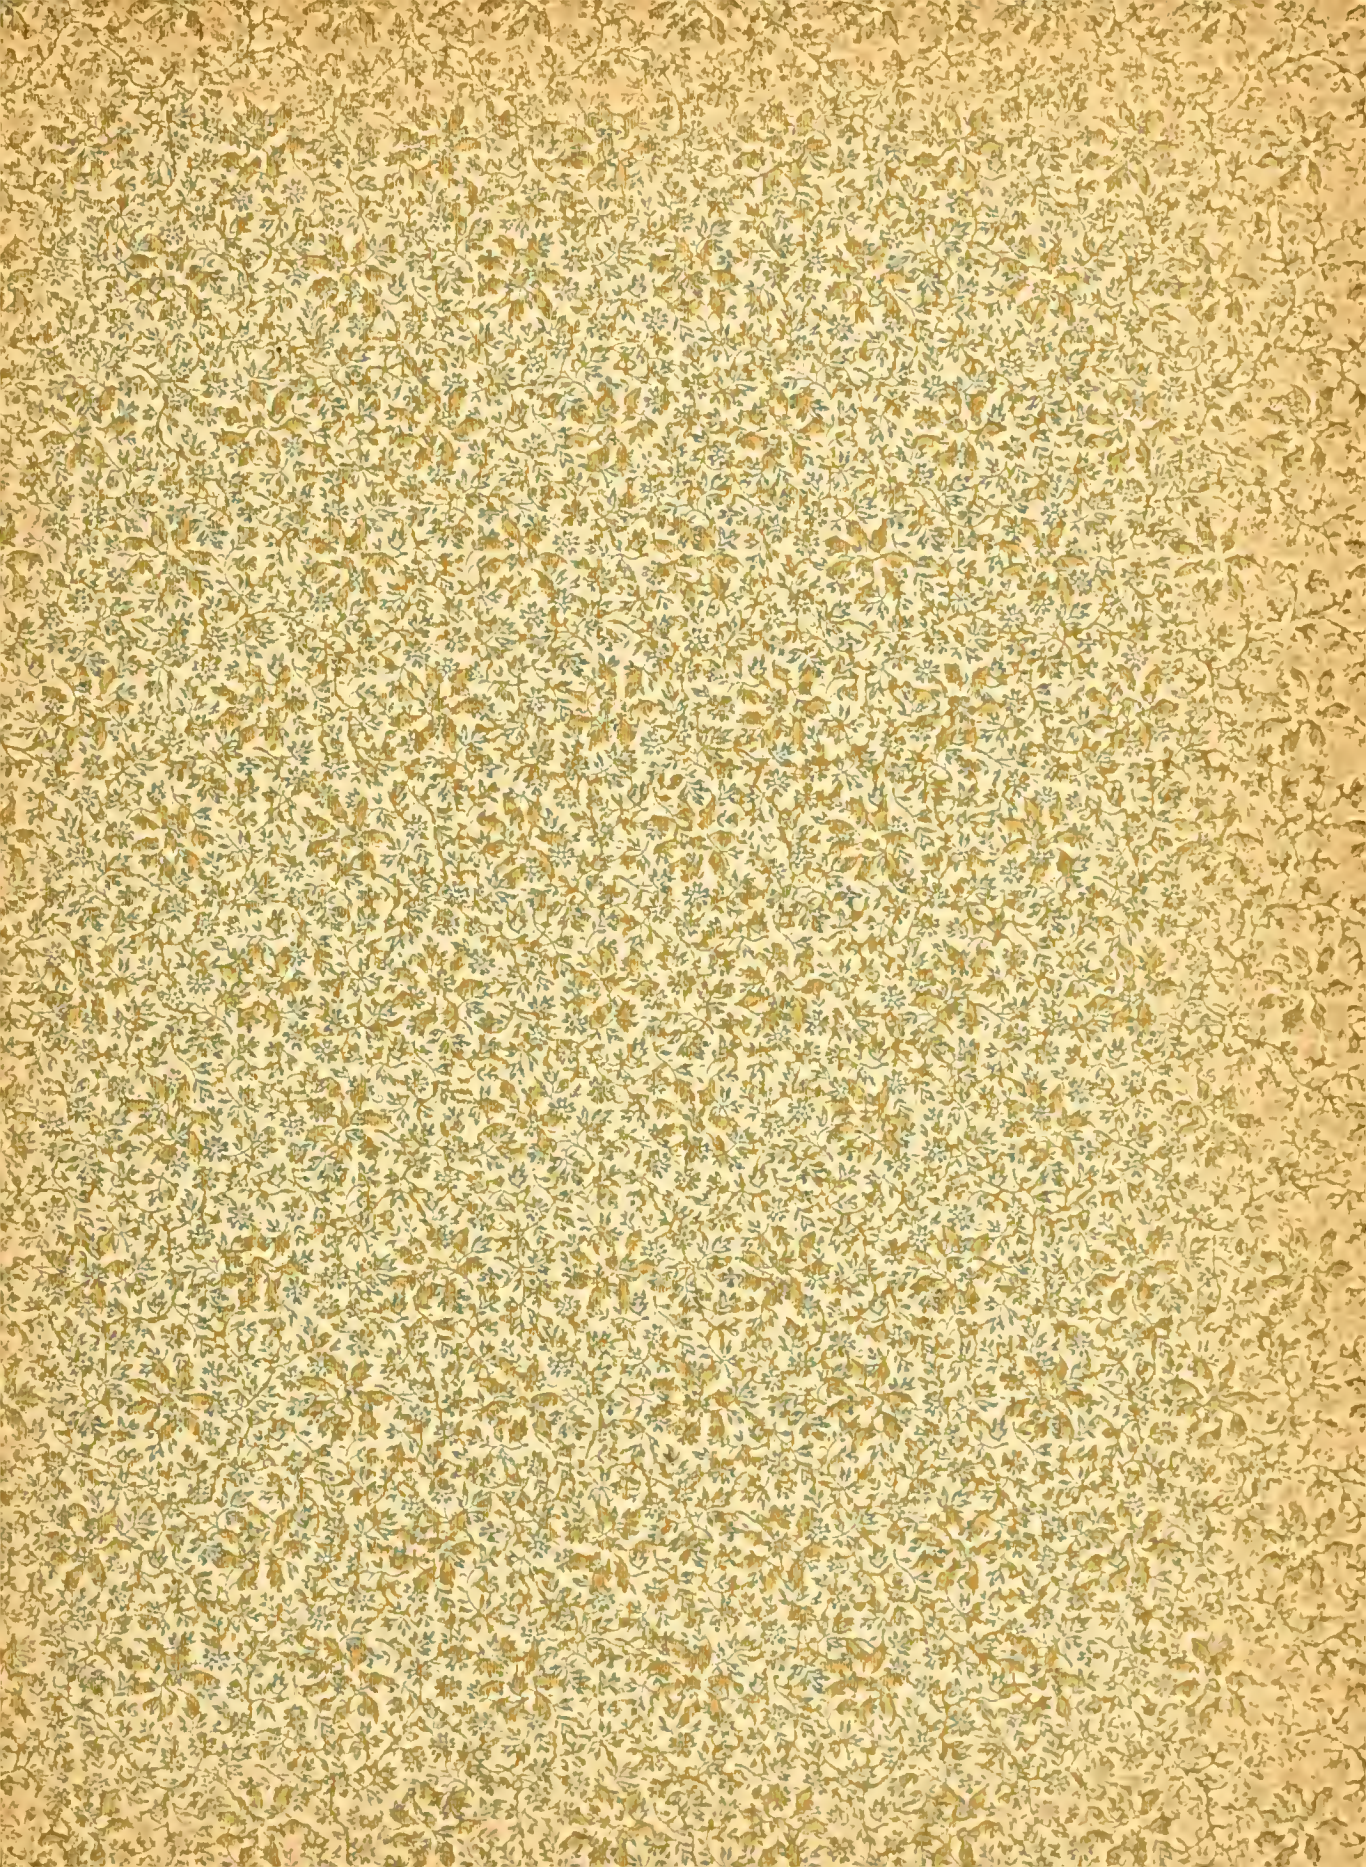

A fac-simile reproduction of the national ode which the author of "America" wrote in 1894 for the sister society in Iowa, also finds a place in this volume.

All persons discovering historical or genealogical errors are earnestly requested to report the same to the Society without delay. Great care has been exercised, but it is not always possible to guard against errors arising through the confusion of two or more individuals of the same name.
