SUMMER HOMES

ON THE HARLEM AND THE HUDSON.

“ And in the woods and meadows I might glean
Such consciousness of Pastoral content
As should compose the frenzy in the eyes,
And cool the fever of the lips that thirst.”

FEW questions are more vitally important and at the same time more perplexing to the average man than these — “ To what place shall I remove my family where they may enjoy the benefit of pure air, good water and pleasant surroundings, which will be at the same time convenient to my business, and where my expenses will be materially reduced ? ” or, “ Where shall we spend the summer ? ”

The object of this book is to present to those in search of either a permanent country home or a temporary Summer residence, the attractions of the delightful country traversed by the picturesque Harlem and Hudson River Divisions of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. Thriving suburban towns within from 15 to 50 minutes' ride of Grand Central Station — in the very center of New York City — present manifest advantages for family residence, in comparison with the overcrowded metropolis, both on the score of economy and healthfulness. In this connection should also be mentioned the admirable service of rapid transit trains now in operation on both lines, and the very reasonable commutation fares enjoyed by suburban residents.

Grand Central Station on Forty-second Street, New York, at which all trains over the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad arrive and depart, is an immense structure, and is regarded by strangers as one of the sights of New York. It extends 696 feet along Vanderbilt Avenue, and with the Annex, presents a frontage on Forty-second Street of 379 feet. The tracks in and about Grand Central Station are controlled by the Saxby & Farmer system of interlocking switches—the most perfect yet invented. An English invention, known as the Sykes system of block signals is in use on the Hudson Division, while the Harlem Division is protected by the Pneumatic System as far north as White Plains, affording as nearly absolute protection from accident as human ingenuity has yet devised.

The four miles of road intervening between the Grand Central Station and the Harlem River are a triumph of genius, and an enduring monument to the most wonderful engineering skill of modern times. As we glide along—now under, now over—this renowned structure, there is something novel and pleasing in the consciousness that we are riding over a road-bed that cost nearly two million dollars a mile, while the fares average lower than on any other railroad in the world. From the substantial iron bridge which spans the Harlem River, and forms a connecting link between Manhattan Island and the mainland, a remarkable scene is presented, especially in the Summer months; a scene combining so much on land and water that is inspiring and lovely, one never wearies of it though it be looked upon day after day. There are, indeed, few places in the world where the eye can so quickly take in a scene so animated, so varied in beauty, extending on one hand to the islands in the East River, with their great institutions of charity and reform, and on the other hand to Washington Heights on the Hudson, and High Bridge, with its graceful outlines and lofty tower. In a few moments after crossing the Harlem River, we arrive at 138th Street Station (MOTT HAVEN), a point deserving of something more than passing notice. The center of population of the metropolis has moved northward so rapidly during recent years as to have created a need for improved train service and station accommodations up town. Realizing the present need, and undoubted requirements in the near future, a new and commodious station has been built at 138th Street that in architectural beauty and utility of design is an ornament to the upper part of the city and a great convenience to the public.

The principal trains of both the Harlem and the Hudson River Divisions stop at this station. On the ridge to the west of the station, commanding extensive views both east and west, are several handsome avenues, dotted with attractive homes, some of them classed among the finest in the city. The ground near the river is occupied by numerous manufactories and other business industries, some of which have a national reputation. The Fourth and Madison Avenue cars runs direct to the station at 138th Street, which can also be reached by the Third Avenue line and connections.

At Mott Haven Junction the lines of the Hudson River and the Harlem Divisions diverge, the former curving westward to the Hudson River, the latter continuing due north.

Extensive improvements affecting the entire line north of the Harlem River, within the city limits — a distance of seven miles — have recently been completed and mark a successful termination of an undertaking of vast importance, involving the lowering of the surface of the old road-bed below the street level and carrying the streets over the track, thus avoiding grade crossings. The new road-bed contains four tracks, laid with heavy steel rails upon standard ties and 18 inches of broken stone ballast. The two central tracks are for the exclusive use of through express trains, and the two outer tracks accommodate the local or rapid transit trains. The track has been depressed an average of eight feet below its former level, the grade of the adjoining streets being raised eight to 14 feet. The excavation is lined with cut stone masonry-walls. Twenty-one of the city streets which formerly crossed the track at grade are carried over the four tracks by iron bridges, of the full width of the road-ways and sidewalks, and five of the old station buildings have been replaced by handsome iron structures, of much architectural beauty, built over the track, on the same level and in connection with the adjacent bridges which form the approaches to these stations. The length of the new station buildings is 69 feet across the track, the width 26 feet. Each accommodates a ticket office, waiting rooms, ladies' retiring rooms, two baggage lifts for handling baggage, and two stairways descending to the platforms at the tracks on either side, for "up" and "down" trains. The platforms are 500 feet in length and ten feet wide. The cost of these improvements was in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, while the benefit conferred upon residents along the line is practically inestimable.

Continuing on our way we pass through MELROSE, MORRISANIA and TREMONT, all handsome suburbs of the City, which have been so rapidly settled within the past few years that their identity is all but merged in that of the great metropolis. In nine miles we reach Fordham, the seat of St. John's College, a noted Roman Catholic institution, whose buildings and spacious grounds are seen to the right of the track. The popularity of Fordham as a place of residence is attested by the large number of tasteful houses built within the last few years, as well as the number now in course of erection. There is an excellent public school here, a number of good stores and several churches.

On some idle afternoon when you feel like rambling, take the train to Fordham; there leave the railway, and keeping St. John's College on the left, stroll along the highway to the Bronx River, and turning up the stream wander along its banks to Williams Bridge, a distance of perhaps two miles. The variety of wood, hill, glen and cascade is infinite, and fine trees shade you the entire distance. This walk will be a revelation to the average New Yorker, and cause him to wonder how it is that such a lovely region, so near the city, could have remained uninhabited until now. The next station is Bedford Park, a beautiful and rapidly growing place, and the residence of a number of well-known New Yorkers, whose tasteful villas embellish the broad and handsome avenues of the Park.

Opposite the station is the site of the new Bronx River Park.

The New York Herald, to whose courtesy we are indebted for several of the illustrations appearing on this and succeeding pages, published in a recent issue a highly interesting article relative to the proposed establishment of a botanical garden, museum and arboretum, fashioned somewhat on the plan of the magnificent Kew Gardens of London, at Bronx River Park, from which the following is abstracted :

“ I suppose there are thousands and thousands and even hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers who have never been in Bronx Park and have no idea of how to get there. This magnificent breathing spot of the future millions of the men and women of the Manhattan of the next generation, however, is hardly a half hour distant from the Forty-second Street Station. You descend from the train at Bedford Park Station and the beautiful vistas of the Bronx Park open out before your astonished gaze. I have been in the remoter regions of the Yellowstone National Park and have seen nothing more attractive than the varied sylvan land-and water-scape scenery of this attractive resort, which is not resorted to even in Summer by the great masses of the population because attention has never been drawn to its wonders. Were it not for a very occasional park policeman jogging by in his Confederate gray, it requires no effort of the imagination to locate yourself in Sherwood Forest or in any other sylvan scene which may attract your fancy. The park is about 800 acres in extent, lying in the 23d and 24th wards of New York City and Westchester County. All that portion of the park north of the Bronx is in Westchester.

“The park was purchased in 1884 for $3,000,000, from the estate of the late Peter Lorillard and several other property owners. Since then the Department of Parks has only been allowed $20,000 annually for the keeping in repair and improving of Bronx, Pelham and Van Cortlandt Parks and the four other parks which were acquired almost at the same time by the department on the northern confines of the city. An insignificant sum with which really wonders have been accomplished.

“Bronx Park, however, it must be said, came into the possession of the city in a magnificent condition. For the most part it was the country residence of the late Peter Lorillard, and along the north side of the Bronx are still to be seen the ruins of the Lorillard snuff mills, which the beautifying if destructive touch of time has made most picturesque.

“Along this woodland stream, which now glides with a contented murmur through mossy banks, now with tempestuous roar through great granite walls, beautifully shaded throughout its course, from Williams Bridge to the Sound, with umbrageous oaks and hemlocks, spruce, maple and pine, was the favorite walk of the Maryland poet—Edgar Allen Poe—during the many years he lived in the Fordham cottage, some ten minutes’ walk away. And it seemed to me that, as I walked along this lovely stream, I recognized here a glade, there a vale, and now a water vista which must have inspired the poet's pen as he painted, as perhaps only Ruskin since his day has painted, the beauties of woodland scenery in his "Magic Garden." Beautiful as Twickenham is, fair and lovely as is the peaceful scene that is beheld from Richmond Heights, the surroundings of the embryo botanical garden are a hundred times more beautiful than the country about Kew with the poet's praised Copper's Hill in view. May the garden be worthy of its magnificent scenic setting!

"On a wooded plateau above the river, just behind the snuff mills, where still hangs the weather-beaten, worm-eaten sign of Peter Lorillard, is the proposed site of the Botanical Garden. The Bronx River furnishes an abundance of water, there is a plenty of protective timber, the soil is fertile, and there is both low and high lying land — in fact, an ideal site, and it is to be hoped that the Legislature making the foundations broad and deep, wealthy lovers of the flowers of the field will before the next spring has come begin the erection of a building at which New Yorkers may point with pride, and in which thousands and thousands who otherwise would never see a natural flower, of even our own flora, may behold the variegated, fragrant plants that the sun beholds in every world and in every clime in its daily course and profit by this elevating and educating sight.

“In the park there are many natural wonders that I have not the space to dwell on here. The reader had better go and see for himself. He will doubtless be surprised, as I was, to find muskrats as large as spaniels racing up and down the river in perfect unconcern at the wonderment of spectators, in whose ears the roar of the elevated railroad has not subsided. In a bosky glade there is a quaint hollow in a massive rock where, carefully shielded from gaze, it is supposed the noble savage was accustomed to bathe. The rock has certainly been hollowed out by human handiwork, and old Peter Lorillard always claimed that the spot was the Indian bathing place." In connection with Bronx Park, people, in looking at the little stream, will be apt to recall the familiar tradition about the British fleet which was ordered to sail up that river to attack White Plains. In traversing this section so near the great city it is difficult to connect it with its aboriginal inhabitants, its primeval forests, and the stirring times antedating the Declaration of Independence, but nevertheless the fact remains that Westchester county is associated with a good deal of Indian history, and relics of these interesting precursors of civilization are still found with surprising frequency.

Williams Bridge, eleven miles from New York, is a very attractive place, and shows year by year a healthful and natural growth in population and land values. A handsome new station with attractive exterior and commodious waiting rooms and baggage rooms, and a tasteful lawn at the rear has recently been erected here. One mile beyond is Woodlawn, where is located the largest and most beautiful of the many cemeteries in the vicinity of New York. The cemetery, however, is not Woodlawn's only claim to distinction. Crowning the hills north and east of the station are many handsome cottages occupied by the families of New York business men who have made the discovery that no locality in the vicinity of the city offers better inducements for residence. The elevation is sufficient to dispel any idea of malaria, the drainage perfect, the surroundings delightful. Also, Woodlawn enjoys with one or two exceptions the most ample train service of any station on the line.

Mount Vernon, thirteen miles from New York, is now a full fledged city, offering inducements for residence which are scarcely equalled by any other place in the vicinity of the metropolis. It has a population of about 15,000. The city is attractively laid out, and contains many fine churches and schools, and also a large number of elegant and tasteful dwellings. The streets are broad and generally well paved, lighted and sewered. The houses are for the most part surrounded by gardens or terraced lawns. A line of horse-cars crossing the town meets all trains of the Harlem road. The growth of Mount Vernon within the past few years has been very rapid, and the march of progress tends steadily onward.

Bronxville, the next stopping place, is set in the midst of exceptionally beautiful surroundings, and the visitor notices everywhere evidences of healthful growth and enterprise. Armour Villa Park, on a pretty hillside to the left of the track, within three minutes' walk of the Bronxville station, is one of the most beautiful and tasteful collection of villas in Westchester county. The park has been laid out with pretty lawns and broad avenues of dazzling whiteness spread with broken marble from the famous quarries at Tuckahoe. Distant views of the Palisades, villas and cottages surrounded by fine trees, and miles upon miles of forest growth, stretching out towards the Harlem and the Hudson, make a charming picture. Opposite Bronxville is Lawrence Park, with many of the characteristics of Armour Villa.

Tuckahoe, sixteen miles from New York, is famed for its extensive marble quarries, whose product is shipped to all parts of the United States. It is a handsome town of about 1,700 inhabitants, and now more than ever before seems animated by the genius of improvement. To meet the demand for building sites several old country seats have been put on the market, and building is rapidly progressing. Seven hundred yards from the station is Mohegan Park, which boasts a location unsurpassed for beauty and healthfulness. Looking toward the west may be seen the Palisades of the Hudson and on the east the waters of the Sound. The foothills of the Berkshires are visible at the north, and the towers and spires of New York City at the south. The soil is dry and sandy and the natural drainage perfect. The water supply is from an artesian well, and is the best and purest that can be obtained.

It is proposed to make Mohegan Park an ideal place for suburban homes and no pains or expense will be spared in laying out and beautifying its public grounds and drives.

VICTORIA PARK, the imposing entrance to which is seen just over the hill to the left of the station, comprises about 70 acres, situated in the city of Yonkers, of which it forms part of the Fourth Ward. The property consists of fine level meadow land, slightly sloping to the west, thus assuring perfect drainage; the soil is a fertile sandy loam. Improvements are being pushed with energy, and a number of handsome houses have already been erected; this season will doubtless see many others under way.

YONKERS PARK, adjoining Tuckahoe, also located in the Fourth Ward of Yonkers, is situated on high ground, and is rapidly developing. Extensive improvements have already been made, and more are promised. Streets and drives of generous width have been not only laid out but they are opened, graded, curbed and flagged. Handsome entrances have been constructed at the approaches to the main avenue, and landscape gardeners and architects are actively employed in beautifying the spot. Three miles north of Tuckahoe is the pretty village of Scarsdale, which offers special inducements to those in search of a healthful and quiet country home. The broad acres of the old Arthur Manor have been purchased by a syndicate of capitalists, who are rapidly prosecuting the work of grading, opening streets and avenues and marking out corner lots. Investors will do well to look the ground over at Scarsdale before deciding upon another location. Less than two miles beyond is

Hartsdale, another attractive Westchester village, containing several Summer boarding houses. Passing Hartsdale we enter a very pretty stretch of country, with rolling hills to the right and left, and skirting the track the silvery Bronx, now broader and deeper than where we left it a few miles below, and wearing more the aspect of a river. Crossing a substantial iron bridge and sweeping around a grand curve we enter

White Plains, the capital of Westchester County, 22 miles from New York, and one of the finest towns on the road. The history of White Plains antedates the Revolution, and is full of interest. In 1663, more than two centuries ago, English settlers from Greenwich, Conn., purchased from the Indians a tract of ground called Quaroppas, or, as they named it, "The White Plains." The title was disputed, however, and the dispute operated to prevent a settlement of the Plains until about 1720. In 1721 certain persons living in what we now call White Plains obtained for themselves a grant from the British Government of 4,435 acres, and divided the land. Among the owners we find the well-known town names of Underhill, Hatfield, Horton and Brown.

On the 28th of October, 1776, the battle of White Plains was fought, the principal and decisive part of the engagement being at Chatterton Hill, a little to the west of the railroad and across the Bronx River. Washington, who was personally in command, made his headquarters just north of the town, about one mile from the railroad station. The principal street is about a mile long, very wide, and, being thickly shaded, forms an attractive feature of the town. It was given to the village by George III. White Plains is especially distinguished for its healthfulness. This fact, with its accessibility, makes it very desirable to many persons for Summer homes. New water works have been recently constructed, and the village is now favored with as good a system of water supply as can be found anywhere. About six miles distant, on the Sound Shore, are HAWTHORN BEACH, RYE BEACH, MILTON POINT, and other attractive resorts that afford excellent fishing and bathing. All of these points are reached by one or another of the beautiful drives for which Westchester County is noted. Proceeding northward from White Plains a charming landscape reveals itself in varied manifestations of wondrous beauty. Rare combinations of mountain, stream and foliage greet the eye in endless variety, the whole forming a panorama of rural scenery incomparable for beauty, picturesqueness and variety. A run of three miles brings us to Kensico, one of the most charming villages on the line. Lake Kensico, of which a fleeting glimpse is obtained as the train enters the station, is bosomed in the hills that rise directly back of the village. It is two miles long and about half a mile wide. Fronting and overlooking the Lake is beautiful Kensico Park, which is being very tastefully laid out, and will soon be the center of a large permanent population. North of the station for some distance, and extending on both sides of the track, is the New Amsterdam Park, where the process of development has only just begun. About 100 rods north on a slope to the west of the track is the handsome new station of Kensico Cemetery.

Unionville, the next station beyond, is most delightfully situated and offers many inducements, either for permanent residence, or a temporary Summer home.

The country is quite hilly, and lakes and streams abound. Buttermilk Hill, said to be the highest point of land in Westchester County, overlooks the village on the west. From its summit are obtained fine views of the Hudson Highlands, the Statue of Liberty in New York Bay and the spires of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Sherman Park, one of the most popular, healthful and picturesque suburban home sites on the line, begins about half a mile south of Unionville, east of and adjoining the railroad property, and extends north as far as Pleasantville. A handsome new station for the Park has been erected about midway between Unionville and Pleasantville, and arrangements have been made to stop a number of important trains there for the accommodation of Park residents. Streets have already been opened, avenues laid out, and a large number of attractive houses erected.

Pleasantville, 31 miles from New York, has improved very rapidly during the past year, from 15 to 25 houses having been erected within that time. Good board can be obtained here for the Summer, and a more desirable spot it would be difficult to find. Two miles further on is Chappaqua, where Horace Greeley lived, and learned what he knew about farming. Unique and aboriginal as the name is, there are many who think the place should have been named Pleasant Valley, for surrounding hills never bosomed a pleasanter. So thoroughly was it drained by the late Mr. Greeley — who spent the happiest hours of his life upon its meadows and hillsides — that malarial diseases never invade its quiet dwellings. The unpretentious but tasteful house that was Mr. Greeley's home, was totally destroyed by fire a few years ago, and his daughter now occupies what was formerly the old stone barn, but has been transformed by a skillful architect into a handsome and commodious residence. The forest, where for more than 20 years Mr. Greeley's axe taught the sapling how to mature into the well-shaped and graceful tree, is still the resort of the meditative and the gay. All about Chappaqua are charming groves and rocky dells, and dotting the hillsides many sightly and comfortable homes which invite the weary denizen of the great city to spend, at reasonable cost, the Summer hours which custom permits him to withdraw from the counting-room or workshop.

The CHAPPAQUA MOUNTAIN INSTITUTE, known as the "seat of Quaker learning," is situated here, and its ample grounds and buildings are thrown open during the Summer vacation to guests who may wish to occupy its comfortable and airy rooms. Here, too, is the old Quaker Church, once occupied by sick and wounded soldiers of the Revolution, and on the surrounding slopes lie the bones of many a hero who fought and died for liberty. There are two good hotels and several desirable boarding places in the village, and the drives are interesting and numerous. Resuming our journey, an entertaining ride of about four miles brings us to Mount Kisco, an interesting and thriving place of 1,500 population, 37 miles from New York. Like most of the towns of Westchester and other counties lying on the east bank of the Hudson, Mount Kisco is favored with charming drives, freshened by fragrant groves and rippling rills, affording many and various glimpses of a landscape charming in the extreme. Situated at a considerable altitude above the sea-level, Mount Kisco enjoys a pure, brisk air, and rarely beautiful natural environments. Like a jewel in its setting, the village nestles amid wooded hills, charming valleys and limpid streams, surrounded on all sides by an ever-changing and increasingly fascinating landscape. A network of country roads, everywhere presenting views that charm the eye, spreads in all directions, affording a never-ending combination of drives whose attractiveness is not soon exhausted. Sharp turns around the bases of steep hills, now wending through a deep ravine, then at the very edge of a precipice, give a variety of views that is really kaleidoscopic.

A short drive over a picturesque road in a northeasterly direction brings the sight-seer to Croton Lake, a beautiful body of pure drinking water for the denizens of the great metropolis. Here is good fishing, and on both sides excellent driveways, while at a little distance back green hills present their irregular outlines against the sky. Two miles farther one is brought face to face with one of the mightiest engineering feats in all ages—the new Croton Aqueduct—which cannot fail to well repay even repeated visits. Just west of the village flows the quiet Kisco, from which the place derives its name (meaning “still water”), and in every direction are streams of more or less magnitude, while springs of pure, sparkling cold water are almost as numerous as wells. At the northwestern limits of the village looms up old Kisco Mountain, like a sentinel over the settlement. Since its incorporation, twelve years ago, a wise administration of village affairs, backed by a commendable degree of public spirit, has done much for the place. There are over three miles of village streets with stone side-walks, well laid and in good repair. The houses are of tasteful design, and their surroundings are neat and attractive. Numerous grocery, dry goods and hardware stores, and meat and vegetable markets, furnish all needed family supplies most conveniently. The churches are all in a thriving, harmonious condition, and the pastors men of ability and earnestness not usually found in a village of this size. The Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal, Catholic, Protestant Episcopal, and Friends denominations have commodious places of worship, all in good repair, and not burdened with the customary heavy debts. The Union Free School is justly a matter of village pride, and is rarely surpassed in excellence even in towns much larger. The non-residence attendance at this school is large, and is steadily increasing.

But all these considerations of attractiveness fade before that superlatively important one — healthfulness. And in this respect Mount Kisco again comes forward with an extraordinary and clean record of carefully kept statistics, showing the average death-rate to the entire population to be ten to 1,000, comparing most favorably and strikingly with the New York City mortality statistics of one to 40, and proving Mount Kisco to be more than twice as healthy as the great metropolis. A syndicate of capitalists recently formed has purchased a vast tract of land here which it is proposed to transform into a park similar to Tuxedo, with fish and game preserves, race-course, etc., and to construct a handsome club-house and cottages which shall be the pride of the country side. After leaving Mount Kisco, the next application of air-brakes brings us to a standstill at chester County. The drives and rambles through and along the valley in which this town is situated, and over the surrounding slopes and hills are the most charming to be met with in this section of the country.

Lying about one mile to the northwest is Croton Lake, studded with green islands, and hemmed in with bold and rocky shores; it abounds with fish of the most gamy sort, offering fine sport to the angler; its waters are frequented by all kinds of water fowl, including black and canvas-back ducks.

The natural drainage of this village is perfect. There are no miasmatic swamps hereabout; the water is the most wholesome to be met with in Nature, and intermittent fever is unknown here. A line of stages connects this village with the historic village of the same name, situated about four miles distant, once a half-stone town, and destroyed by Tarleton and his rangers during the Revolution. The town is also supplied with a line of stores, among the best to be met with along the entire road; in addition, a first-class hotel and livery stable. A large number of the most inviting private boarding houses for Summer boarders are located in this vicinity to meet the demands of those wishing to avail themselves of the advantages offered by this beautiful hamlet. Speeding on, we soon come to a stop at

Katonah, a romantic village named after an Indian chief who originally owned all the lands hereabout, a large tract of which was secured by the Jay family, who for generations past have made it their home. Katonah is 42 miles from New York, has a population of about 700, and is situated near the boundary line between Westchester and Putnam counties. It is noted for its hills and valleys, pure water and bracing air. The extensive traveler will, now and then, find a place where those who become accustomed to its scenery and general surroundings seldom migrate, and contentedly live on to a good old age, when the homestead is handed down to the next generation. Katonah is such a place. A beautiful stream of clear, pure water runs through the village, formed by two branches of the Cross

River and the Beaver Dam, the former finding its origin in Lake Waccabuc, and the latter in Woodland Springs. Both streams abound in trout. The "whirr" of the partridge, the whistle of the quail, the bark of the gray squirrel, as well as of the thieving fox in the poultry-yard, remind one that it is "country," and all afford fine sport when the "law is off." The town is fully up to its rural surroundings, and the enterprise of residents may have carried it a little beyond. It has two fine churches, a village improvement society, composed of its most eminent citizens, who have provided many conveniences and luxuries, including sidewalks, shade trees and street lamps. There is also a commodious reading-room, with an extensive library, largely sustained and patronized by Hon. John Jay, Hon. William H. Robertson and Hon. Henry E. Pellew. There are two stage lines in operation from Katonah; one runs to Boutonville, nine and a half miles, stopping en route at Cross River and South Salem; another runs to Lake Waccabuc, seven miles. The railroad company has set apart a piece of ground along the platform at the station, which is beautifully laid out with flowers during the Summer. A ride of two miles farther brings us to Golden's Bridge.—This quaint little place, 44 miles from New York, may very justly feel a natural pride in its surroundings. About four miles to the east of the bridge, at the terminus of a drive or walk that presents a constant succession of charming surprises of nature, we find little

Lake Waccabuc, smiling back at the sun, or timidly hiding its ripples in the long shadows of high, overhanging foliage. Like all the lakes in this section, Lake Waccabuc is well stocked with the choicest variety of fish.

Twenty years ago the tourist wishing to visit this section of Westchester County could not do so in comfort. The luxury of comfortably equipped cars was wanting after White Plains was reached, and one of the old style four-in-hand coaches was substituted for the remainder of the trip.

But now things are different. A short ride on the Harlem Railroad to Golden's Bridge, and a drive or walk of a few miles over the country eastward, brings him to Waccabuc Lakes. As he rides along he sees some of the innumerable hiding places of the cowboys of a hundred years ago—the "bummers" of the Revolution. A couple of Washington's headquarters are reached, and after winding through a beautiful wood the three lakes of Waccabuc suddenly lie beneath you, strung like glittering jewels on a stream which is so shaded by overhanging boughs that the sun never reaches its waters. These lakes are located among the hills for which Westchester County is justly noted, and are remarkably picturesque. The city authorities of New York have deepened the channels which connect them, so as to have a free flow of water into the last lake, which flows into Croton River near by. The passages between the lakes are from half a mile to a mile in length, through the woods, and each lake is from four to six miles in circumference. Choice varieties of fish are plentiful, and the country abounds with small game, furnishing ample recreation for sportsman and angler.

The country is rich with stories of red-coats and Indians, and many traces of the latter are still to be seen. In the center of the lake is the little island of Juan Fernandez, with its curious Indian ovens, and a little beyond it is the Cedar Grove, a small hill, beautifully shaded, and almost surrounded by water—a spot deservedly popular with picnicing tourists as well as rustic swains and sweethearts.

At Golden's bridge we take the Lake Mahopac branch of the Harlem Railroad, and ascending a grade of 85 feet to the mile for seven miles, we reach one of the most Eden-like spots on the face of the globe—

Lake Mahopac.—The Harlem Road has recently constructed here a handsome new station of the Queen Anne style, containing a spacious waiting room, ticket and telegraph offices and a covered platform 12 feet wide and 200 feet long. It is located at the junction of the Peekskill and Cross roads, and distant about 300 feet from the water line of the lake.

This locality has long been known as a charming Summer retreat, and improved facilities now furnished by the Harlem

Railroad for reaching it, the ample accommodations provided by the excellent hotels and neighboring farm-houses, make it more accessible and popular than ever before. The lake, which has an elevation of nearly 1,000 feet above the sea, although but a few miles therefrom, covers an area of 700 acres, interspersed with lovely islets, and abounding in such rare fish as black bass, white and yellow perch, pickerel, etc. Mosquitoes are unknown here, and boating, which at all times is an attractive feature at Lake Mahopac, is by moonlight a reminder of fairyland. The charm of its scenery ; its unsurpassed drives, including the grand boulevard, which entirely encircles the lake, nine miles ; its healthful atmosphere, the variety of pastimes to be enjoyed, free from unpleasant surroundings, together with the superior accommodations to be obtained at reasonable rates, make Lake Mahopac a place of resort that has few equals.

The principal hotels are Thompson's beautifully situated on the shore of the lake, and with accommodations for about 400 guests, and the Dean House, accommodating about 150.

Lakes Waccabuc, Oscawana and Peach, each with its own special charm, are all within easy driving distance. Situated in the midst of so much that is interesting, it is not surprising that the prettiest little lake in our State should every Summer attract crowds of visitors from near and far. A line of stages runs daily between Lake Mahopac and Peekskill, 14 miles, stopping at Mahopac Falls, Jefferson Valley, Shrub Oak and Lake Mohegan. Situated about midway between Golden's Bridge and Lake Mahopac, on the Lake Mahopac Branch of the Harlem Railroad, we find the quiet little hamlet of Somer's Centre, whose every appearance bespeaks comfort, content and health. It has an elevation of 1,000 feet above the sea, and is entirely free from all malarial influences. The surrounding country is mountainous in character, charmingly clothed with verdure, and liberally supplied with game, both aerial and aquatic, there being four lakes (including Lake Mahopac), within a radius of three miles. The history of Somer's Centre is full of interest, and on every hand can be seen mementoes of the Revolutionary days. The oldest Methodist Episcopal church in America is situated here, and has held continuous service from Sabbath to Sabbath since the year 1790. The drives about the surrounding country are all that can be desired, and the accommodations for Summer boarders are exceedingly good and liberal. Returning to Golden's Bridge, we resume our journey on the main line, and, after passing through PURDY'S and CROTON FALLS, we enter Putnam County, and stop at Brewsters, an enterprising and growing village, 52 miles from New York, with a population of nearly 2,500. Connections are made here in Union Station with the New York & New England Railroad for Danbury, Waterbury, Hartford, Willimantic, etc. The surrounding country is rich in farms, iron mines, delightful drives, lakes well stocked with fish, and historical reminiscences, while its healthfulness is established beyond question by such evidences as the absence of malarial influences, and the long and contented lives of its happy inhabitants. Among the farms worthy of notice may be mentioned the broad acres once tilled by the late Daniel Drew, now occupied by his only son, William H. Drew; the large estate left by the late Joshua Barnum to his son Stephen C. Barnum; "Fairview," recently sold by John P. Kennedy, President of the Mutual Gas Light Company of New York City, to C. C. Fitzhugh; and "Stonehenge," the residence of Seth B. Howe, the wealthiest retired showman in the world. The iron mines are celebrated for the richness of the deposit and the fine engineering displayed in mining and raising the ore. Scores of students from various colleges and mining schools visit the mines to witness the practical part of the work and obtain specimens. They, as well as other visitors, are cordially welcomed by the superintendents in charge.

On DOANSBURG HILL, east of the village, may be seen the birthplace of Chancellor Kent, and a church is still standing on the site that was occupied by Rev. Elisha Kent, the Chancellor's grandfather, about 1740. Houses in which the Minute Men held meetings at the beginning of the Revolutionary War are pointed out, and many near descendants of officers in that war are living in that vicinity. The storage reservoir, maintained for the supply of Croton water to New York City, is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by a macadamized driveway. Another reservoir, known as "Sodam Dam," is now being constructed one mile east of the village. The factory of the New York Condensed Milk Co., on the east branch of the Croton River, receives the milk of 8,000 cows, and produces daily 25,000 pounds of "Gail Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk," which as is well known, enjoys a world-wide reputation. The drives about Brewsters are easy and interesting, and the country around is noted for its fine scenery. Resuming our way again, and passing the pretty little village of DYKEMAN'S, we come in sight of the extensive store-houses of the National Ice Company at ICE POND, the source of New York City's principal ice supply. The pond—certainly worthy of a more distinctive appellation—is a beautiful sheet of water of crystal purity—and lies among the hills a little to the east of the railroad track. It abounds with several varieties of fish, and in Summer is a favorite resort of anglers. Two miles farther on is Towners, delightfully situated in the midst of a fine grazing country. Milk is naturally the chief product, but tobacco is also cultivated quite successfully. Leaving Towners we speed away over a level stretch for several miles, until we come to

Patterson, one of the most beautiful villages in Putnam County, and an ideal spot to spend the Summer months. Farming is the chief occupation, and so fertile is the soil and the conditions of climate so favorable that bountiful crops are the rule. All the surroundings of this place are picturesque, the combination of hill and dale, stream and meadow, being very pleasant to the eye. There are a number of handsome houses in the village and several churches. The stock farm of Mr. E. A. Hayt is one of the finest in this part of the State, and is visited by every one who comes to Patterson. A quarry has recently been discovered just back of the village, which yields a very fine quality of colored marble, resembling closely in its markings and general appearance Mexican onyx. Experts pronounce it the only deposit of the kind in the United States, and it is expected that it will very largely supply the place of fine foreign marbles in interior decorations, etc. The discovery was made by the merest accident a little over a year ago, by a party of prospectors, who were endeavoring to locate a white marble quarry. A company has been incorporated under the title of the Buch-Allen Marble Company, and the work is being pushed with energy. A few minutes after leaving Patterson, we enter Dutchess County, and arrive at Pawling, a charming place of about 1,200 population, 63 miles from New York, and especially fitted by Nature and art for a first-class Summer resort. Situated some 700 feet above the level of the sea, the air is remarkably pure, bracing and delightful. The location is certainly as healthful as any in the country, and, with the rapid transit of the Harlem Railroad, is so near the great metropolis that business men may spend seven or eight hours in the city between ordinary breakfast and dinner hours, and breathe an absolutely pure and healthy atmosphere 14 hours out of 24. Mosquitoes and malaria are unknown here. Pawling is indebted to the enterprise, liberality and public spirit of John B. Dutcher, Esq., for one of the handsomest and best appointed hotels to be found anywhere. In addition to the beautiful grounds about the hotel, which include some eight or ten acres, and which have been laid out with pleasing and artistic effect, a handsomely improved park of 200 acres has been provided for the pleasure and comfort of guests and visitors. Among the varied attractions of the park is the beautiful

Green Mountain Lake, well stocked with bass and other choice fish; a beautiful evergreen mountain, with both walks and a driveway to its summit, which commands a delightful view; there is a club and boat-house of handsome design and ample proportions; also, in the park an excellent half-mile driving course, which is maintained in good condition during the season. Within a few miles of Pawling there are several lakes. The nearest, about half a mile from the hotel, is GREEN MOUNTAIN LAKE, in Dutcher Park. WHALEY and LITTLE LAKES, near by, are noted for their excellent black bass, while HAMMERSLEY'S LAKE, a beautiful sheet of water with shaded lawns encircling it, is especially popular with such as are romantically inclined. From the summits of MOUNT TOM and WEST MOUNTAIN, situated about a mile to the west of Pawling, a view is presented of Catskill Mountains, 60 miles away.

To the east of the village—about three miles—is QUAKER HILL. Upon the summit is the Mizzentop Hotel, situated at an actual elevation of 1,300 feet above the sea, and commanding some of the finest scenery found in the North. The healthfulness of the place is unsurpassed, the sanitary arrangements perfect. The air is cool, dry, invigorating and sleep-producing. The walks and drives in the vicinity of Mizzentop are beautiful. Hammersley Lake, within one and one-half miles, furnishes excellent fishing.

The historical associations of Quaker Hill are full of interest. Here Washington's headquarters were located during the Revolution, and the house occupied by Washington and Lafayette remains but slightly altered. The old Quaker Meeting House, erected in 1764, is within walking distance of the hotel. Continuing our way, we pass the little villages of SOUTH DOVER and DOVER FURNACE, and come to

Dover Plains, an interesting town of between 700 and 800 population, 76 miles from New York. There is no more picturesque region within a few hours' ride of New York City, by rail, than the hill country of eastern Dutchess County lying along the borders of Connecticut, and traversed by the Harlem Railroad. The two ranges of lofty uplands known as QUAKER HILL and CHESTNUT RIDGE may justly be ranked among the most healthful localities in the State. CHESTNUT RIDGE is about three miles in length, north and south, and forms a part of the water-shed between the Hudson and Housatonic Rivers. Its mean altitude is about 1,100 feet above tide-water. It is a fragment of the Blue Ridge branch of the Appalachian chain of mountains, which is cleft by the Hudson at WEST POINT, and, stretching away northeastward, includes the lofty Taghkanick and Berkshire Hills in Western Massachusetts and fraternizes with the Green Mountains of Vermont and White Mountains of New Hampshire. The outlook from the Ridge in all directions is magnificent. From one point there is an uninterrupted view of the entire Catskill and Shawangunk Mountain ranges, west of the Hudson, 80 miles in extent, from the Highlands to the Helderbergh Hills in Albany County. The Ridge itself is one of the richest grazing and fruit regions in the State, nearly every acre being tillable land, and its healthfulness is proverbial. The summit of the Ridge is reached by a picturesque highway, three miles from DOVER PLAINS Station. One of the points of interest to strangers is the magnificent Stock Farm of Mr. D. H. Sherman, the General Live Stock Agent of the Erie Road. Some of the finest Holstein cattle in the country have been bred by him. At DOVER PLAINS are the famous "Wells" and the "Old Stone Church," and both will repay a visit. The small streams flowing from the western hills have worn deep ravines, and in several places have formed beautiful cascades. About a mile southwest of the village of Dover Plains a small stream flows down the mountain in a succession of rapids, three to twelve feet in height, and at the foot of each fall smooth, rounded holes, called "The Wells," have been worn in the rocks to a considerable depth. Above these, on the mountains, in a wooded gorge with romantic and picturesque surroundings, is

The Old Stone Church. — A small stream of water after leaving a little lake at the foot of the slope of Plymouth Hill, glides in murmuring rapids nearly every foot of the way until it reaches a point in the mountains west of Dover Plains village, whence it descends in sparkling cascades to the level fields below. This small stream, in its passage down this declivity for ages, has worn for itself a remarkable channel through the rocks. At a point toward the foot of the mountain it has wrought an extensive CAVERN, the entrance to it at the outlet of the stream being in the form of a GOTHIC ARCH. The "Church" is illuminated by a skylight formed by a fissure in the rocks above. This light is pleasantly reflected upon the rocky sides of the church, and reveals a fallen rock, which, from its position and form, is called the "Pulpit." Out of the arched door the brook — the patient architect of the church — flows gently, and then leaps in cascades and rapids to the plains below. From the apex of the roof the cavern gradually widens until, at the base, the span of the arch is about 25 feet. At the farther extremity of the church is a beautiful waterfall, over which a staircase leads to extensive ledges of rocks at a height of 30 feet, forming commodious galleries overlooking the body of the church. The massive sombre archway of the stone church cave, the pulpit rock, the walls almost perfectly arched, and papered with green moss and white lichen, the sound of falling water, and even the spray behind the pulpit, like the sprinkling of holy incense—all contribute to make it a church of nature's own fashioning, literary a little cathedral "not made with hands."

The Great Preacher continues the same old service within its shadowed recesses that was commenced ages ago, and which proceeds with the same solemn stateliness whether men bear or forbear. Day and night, without ceasing, vespers, midnight mass and matins proceed. The deep-toned organ peals as if it were the wind, and the chant of the choir mingles its silvery tones as musically as the falling of water; trumpet and cymbal and harp peal and fade and echo, and through them tremble tones like the far-off voices of young men and maidens singing. At sunrise, through all the long Summer day, at twilight, at evening, and louder as night deepens, the eternal service proceeds, unwearied by the watchers of the day, by the changes of season, by the lapse of years, or by the procession of centuries. The Indian hushed and heard it; the white frontiersman heard it; and it mingles just the same with silence or with the shriek of the locomotive as we hurry on our journey, and in a few minutes find ourselves at Wassaic, a cosy little town of about 400 inhabitants, 81 miles from New York, that has surprised many tourists, familiar with our own and foreign lands, with the imposing grandeur and beauty of its scenery. A more delightful spot is rarely found. There is a quaintness, too, about the place, its surroundings, the numerous quiet nooks and shady retreats, that is sure to fascinate the tourist, and afford the Summer resident continual enjoyment.

A romantic little story is associated with one especially charming and secluded retreat near Wassaic:

On a hillside, commanding a magnificent view of the valley below, moss-grown rocks have combined with closely intertwining boughs of overhanging trees to form an apartment of almost architectural regularity, about eight feet square (with one open side), and with an altitude of about the same number of feet to the level, thickly-grown foliage above. Many years ago, but whether it was before or since "once upon a time" the narrator saith not. this pretty freak of nature was the favorite resort of a bright, merry little child, named Madge —“ Buttercup and Daisy Madge ” she was called, from her fondness for those flowers. Day after day in the gentle spring-time little Madge would wend her way to her favorite retreat, gathering as she went the flowers she loved best, and would pass hours there counting and arranging them to please her fancy. One day little Madge went as usual to the secluded nook that had so charmed her life, and never returned ; nor has she ever been seen since. But year after year a daisy and a buttercup are said to spring up and blossom side by side in the place where Madge was last seen, and the place is known to this day as the “ Madgie Nook.” The New York Condensed Milk Company have another of their model factories here, which gives employment to several hundred hands, mostly recruited among the sons and daughters of neighboring farmers. The process of condensing the milk and putting it into cans, ready for the market, is intensely interesting, and requires some very wonderful machinery. Three miles farther we come to

Amenia, a handsome and thriving place, 84 miles from New York, with a population of about 600. The valley here widens into a bay of rolling meadow land, very much as the Hudson broadens at Newburgh to one coming up the highlands. The Taghkanick Mountains extend along the east border, and the Highlands belonging to the Fish-kill Range extend through the west part. No country affords finer contrasts of mountain, hill, ravine, wood and cultivated plain. All its approaches from the west are beside streams, through gorges, up and down steep declivities as wild and varied as those of far-famed Switzerland. The contrast between the fairness of a clear Summer afternoon and a rugged thunder-storm in the night is not greater than that of the fair fields of Lithgow and the stern, dark mountains and fearful ruggedness of Deep Hollow.

Standing on an eminence, midway between the east and west ranges, and occupying one of the finest points in the Harlem valley, is the Amenia Seminary, founded in 1835.

Sharon Street, in the State of Connecticut, is three and a half miles east of Amenia Station, or two and a half miles from Sharon Station, with which it connects by stage. Many Summer boarders are attracted to this spot by the rural loveliness of the place, the "Street" being 200 feet wide and about two miles long. Ranging along either side of this superb avenue are grand old elms whose leafy branches intertwine o'erhead, forming a natural arbor of rare beauty and proportions. Situated at an elevation of 780 feet, it commands many and beautiful views across to the Berkshire Hills, the intervening landscape being dotted with thrifty farms and old residences erected more than a hundred years ago, but so well preserved that they scarcely show the wear of two generations. The principal hotel is the Sharon Inn, conducted by genial Solomon Kirby, but excellent accommodations are obtainable at a score of other houses in the village. Indeed, the only business prosecuted with any diligence during the season is that of keeping Summer boarders. The drive across through the Sharon Valley is one of the most delightful imaginable, and unfolds a succession of charming views. The drives in this region are charming, and in point of healthfulness and in freedom from all that is annoying, nothing is left to be desired. Passing through SHARON STATION and COLEMAN'S, we arrive at

Millerton, 92 miles from New York. Population about 700. At this point the Harlem Railroad connects with the Newburgh, Dutchess & Connecticut Railroad for Millbrook, Matteawan and Newburgh. Lakeville, the home of ex-Governor Holly, of Connecticut, is a charming village. Two miles to the north of it is the residence of William H. Barnum, Esq. Millerton is situated on high ground, is exceedingly healthy, and enjoys cool nights through the warmest weather. There are few places that have so many attractions within a radius of from eight to ten miles. Twin Lakes are especially grand, the largest, or north lake, being about eight miles in circumference. Near Millerton is the oldest iron mine in the United States. The ore from this mine was used in making cannon for the patriot army of the Revolutionary War. Continuing on our way, we next come to Mount Riga, 95 miles from New York, and the highest point on the line of the Harlem Railroad, and lies at an elevation of 672 feet above tide level. The village has a population of about 500. It lies in a valley three-fourths of a mile wide, bounded on the east by the mountain from which it derives its name, and on the west by a range of high hills running north about four miles. The principal or most prominent hill, called "Cave Hill," is directly opposite the village, and is covered by a handsome forest growth. On a steep side of this hill is an extensive cave, which, to a depth of 400 feet, contains apartments 50 feet high. It has never been fully explored farther than 400 feet from its mouth, owing to the narrowness of the passage at that point. Three miles distant, on the very summit of Mount Riga are two large lakes, abounding with many varieties of choice fish. Two miles north of the village, Webotuck Brook has its source ; running south through the valley, and augmented by numerous small tributaries, it becomes quite a stream of pure spring water, and affords good trout fishing. Four miles from the village, on Riga Range, is the highest point in the State of Connecticut. The next point we reach is

Boston Corners, an interesting town in Columbia County, 99 miles from New York, and the junction of the Harlem Railroad with the Central New England & Western and the New York & Massachusetts Railroads. Boston Corners will long be remembered as the place where the famous prize fight between Morrissey and Yankee Sullivan occurred. At the point where the "ring was pitched" one can step from the State of New York into Connecticut or Massachusetts. Resuming our way, a ride of five miles brings us to

Copake, 104 miles from New York, and with a population of about 400. Here are extensive iron works, and about two miles east of the station are the famous Bash-Bish Falls, a favorite resort for picnic parties, and, as to scenery, is one of the finest points of observation between New York and Montreal. The waters come dashing down the mountain side in a reckless sort of glee, splashing and leaping from crag to crag, while here and there, in a sunlit opening of the grand old forest, is the tasteful residence of some admirer of the picturesque in Nature. The Gorge, the Rock Cliffs, the Eagle's Nest and Sunset Cliff are well worthy of an afternoon's visit. Five miles from COPAKE (or COPAKE IRON WORKS, as the station is now called) is

Mount Washington, the southwestern township of Berkshire County, Massachusetts. It includes a plateau of several miles in extent, with an elevation of 2,000 feet, and is bordered by mountain tops which rise several hundred feet higher — Mount Everett, which has an altitude of nearly 2,700 feet, being the highest peak. Many of the surrounding mountain-tops are easily reached by delightful drives or rambles, and afford extensive views of the lower country. Looking east from Mount Everett, the Housatonic Valley, including Great Barrington, Sheffield, Egremont and other villages, is in plain view; and to the west from Mount Alandar, the Valley of the Hudson extending to the Catskill Mountains, 35 miles away. Owing to its elevation this place is always cool and breezy, and the absence of manufacturing of any kind renders the air and water pure. The scenery is varied and picturesque in the extreme, and the seeker after pleasure finds an endless variety of attractions — waterfalls, gorges, ravines, lakes, trout streams and excellent roads, which are well kept. The drives are indeed delightful, and include the following places of interest: Sunset Rock, Prospect Rock, Mount Fray, Bare Rock Falls; Sage's Ravine, with its numerous cascades; Bash-Bish Falls, with its hotel; and, by a half mile walk at the terminus of a drive, the summit of Mount Everett. No place in Berkshire County is so favorably situated as a Summer resort as Mount Washington, and the hotels and boarding houses are well filled during the Summer months. The South Berkshire Mountain Club, an association organized for the purpose of securing to a limited number of families a sociable, enjoyable and inexpensive Summer home among the most picturesque and healthful surroundings to be found in New England, has selected as a site the Taconic Woodlands, the westerly portion of the celebrated Sky Farm, in the Town of Mount Washington. The Woodlands are 1,700 feet above tide-water, and are reached by a drive of three miles over a charmingly romantic road from Copake Station. The Historic Sky Farm Cottage has been selected to serve the present requirements of a club house and restaurant. Table board and accommodations for a limited number of lodgers can be had at reasonable rates. Returning to Copake, and resuming our way, a ride of a few miles brings us to

Hillsdale, a lovely spot, appropriately named, 108 miles from New York, and nine miles from GREAT BARRINGTON, which is also a popular center for Summer boarders, lying, as it does, in a lap of hills, surrounded by rare beauty. Many persons who choose Great Barrington for their Summer home come via Harlem Railroad to Hillsdale, so as to enjoy the delightful drive of nine miles across the country. The turbulence in Hillsdale for three-fourths of a century after its first settlement by civilized people, who were composed of different nationalities, has presented any historic record being kept of them. In 1620 the King of England granted to a New England company all the territory in America between the 40th and 48th degree of north latitude, with an unlimited boundary on the west, which, of course embraced what is now the town of Hillsdale. Subsequently the government of Holland conveyed to a Dutch company the territory in America between the Chesapeake Bay and the Connecticut River, the town of Hillsdale being embraced in the conveyance. In pursuance of the English grant, Robert Noble emigrated from Westfield to Hillsdale, and was the first white settler in the town. He, with his associates, procured the Indian title to land five miles square. They built a fort on what is now the land of Leonard Johnson, at which one life was lost in the conflict under land titles, and many arrests were made under both the authorities of New York and Massachusetts, and men were long imprisoned, both at Albany and Springfield. Such is the early history of Hillsdale. One poet has sung that "A competence is all that a man can enjoy," while another has sung, "Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home." Hillsdale possesses the means for many a happy home. There is that about this vicinity which is especially welcome and enjoyable to those who love the beauties of Nature combined with a pure and invigorating atmosphere.

Continuing our journey, and passing through CRARYVILLE, MARTINDALE and PHILMONT, with its manufactories and knitting-mills, we come upon one of the finest views in

Hudson Valley. Well cultivated farms, with their pleasant farm-houses, slope away toward the river, and the hills covered with flocks and the valleys with corn, seem only little patches of various colors reaching away to the blue Catskills. Passing the little town of GHE^NT, with its peaceful population of about 500, we come to Chatham, the terminus of the Harlem Railroad, 127 miles from New York. Population of about 3,000. This is a busy little railroad center, where connection is made with the Boston & Albany Railroad for all points west ; and for Pittsfield, North Adams, Springfield and Boston, to the east.

Connection is also made with the Lebanon Springs Railroad for LEBANON SPRINGS and other points north. Chatham and its vicinity present many attractions to those who, choosing pleasant homes for the Summer, desire to seek rest and quiet from the busy turmoil of the city, and yet remain within easy reach of railroads, telegraph, post-office, etc. With its fine hotels, numerous private boarding-houses, all pleasantly located, accommodations can be furnished for a large number of guests, and at moderate prices. Or, should a more rural life be preferred during the warmer days of Summer, numberless pleasant farm-houses may be found within ten or 15 minutes' drive from the village, where all the pleasures of "life on the farm" may be enjoyed.

From the eminences in and about Chatham beautiful views may be had of the surrounding country, with the Catskill Mountains and the grand old Hudson in the distance. These, together with the pleasant drives, good roads, and pure, bracing air, add much toward making it a most desirable locality in which to take up a residence for the Summer months. The lovers of good fishing can also find numerous trout streams within a radius of a dozen miles, which are prolific with specimens of that gamy species of the fish family which delights the heart of the fisherman. The lakes of Queechey, Kinderhook and Copake furnish ample fishing grounds for bass, pickerel, perch and white fish.

THE HUDSON RIVER DIVISION.

EXTENDING FROM NEW YORK TO ALBANY, 143 MILES.

REACHING YONKERS, DOBB'S FERRY, IRVINGTON, TARRYTOWN, SING SING, PEEKSKILL, GARRISON, WEST POINT, CORNWALL, NEW-BURG, POUGHKEEPSIE, THE CATSKILL MOUNTAINS, AND MORE THAN 100 TOWNS AND VILLAGES, CONVENIENT TO THE CITY, OFFERING EXCEPTIONAL INDUCEMENTS FOR PERMANENT RESIDENCE.

After leaving Mott Haven the line of the Hudson Division turns westward and follows the course of the shallow but sparkling Harlem until its waters mingle with those of the majestic Hudson. High Bridge, Morris Heights and Kings Bridge are passed in quick succession, and the train comes to a stop at Spuyten Duyvil, whose terraced hills are thickly dotted with the magnificent Summer houses of the social and commercial magnates of the metropolis.

The imposing battlements of the effectually stopping the traveler from views of the country beyond. Past field and wood, past hill and dale, teeming with historic memories dating from aboriginal, colonial and revolutionary days, the train is swiftly whirled. A moment after leaving Spuyten Duyvil Creek we pass the little town of Riverdale, one of the handsomest suburbs of New York, containing many elegant residences. A little further on is Mount St. Vincent, where is located an extensive Roman Catholic Convent School for girls, famous for the excellence of its educational system. The large gray stone castle at Mount St. Vincent was formerly the residence of Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, but now belongs to the convent, having been sold by him to the Sisters of Charity, under whose management St. Vincent is conducted.

About two miles above Mount St. Vincent, 17 miles from New York, is Yonkers, beautifully situated on villa-crowned slopes at the mouth of the Nepperhan or Saw Mill River. It has a population of about 30,000, and contains several fine churches, excellent hotels, and many elegant residences. It has gas, water-works and a police department, the latter being connected by telegraph with police head-quarters in New York City. Many important manufacturing establishments are located here, among them being mower and reaper works, silk, carpet and hat factories, machine and elevator works, and the shops of the Eagle Pencil Company. Yonkers is an ancient settlement, and was the home of Mary Phillipse, the first love of George Washington. A halo of romance still lingers round the famous old mansion of which she was an inmate, and tradition renders it literally certain that however she may have failed to reciprocate the attachment of the youthful Washington, she was nevertheless the reigning belle of the period, and well entitled to whatever satisfaction her easy conquest may have afforded her. The manor of Colendock, comprising 2,400 acres, and in colonial days the property of Patroon Van der Donck, was the original site of this flourishing city.

Hastings, most romantically situated, is a thriving village of about 1,800 population. Proximity to New York, and frequent train service, render it peculiarly desirable as a suburban residence. A number of tasteful dwellings lately completed and in process of building, are offered at reasonable rentals. The elegant residences of many wealthy New Yorkers can be seen nestling among the trees that crown the hills, and afford a beautiful view of the river and the surrounding country.

ENTRANCE TO SUNNYSIDE.—THE HOME OF WASHINGTON IRVING.

Dobb's Ferry (Greenburgh), two miles beyond, is a pleasant village lying along the river slope, at the mouth of the Wisquaqua Creek. It is also the suburban home of a large number of New York's business men, and like all places within easy distance of New York, is rapidly taking on the aspect of metropolitan life. The new Glen Tower Hotel, conducted by Mr. Ewen Hathaway, formerly of the Victoria Hotel, New York, occupies a high bluff facing the Palisades. It will be opened for the reception of guests about June 20th. Four miles above Dobb's Ferry is the village of Irvington, named in honor of Washington Irving, whose gifted pen has immortalized many of the neighboring localities, among them the far-famed "Sleepy Hollow" and "Wolfert's Roost." "Sunnyside" cottage, renowned as the home of Irving, is close by, near the margin of the river, almost hidden from view by the dense growth of the surrounding trees and shrubbery. A flourishing ivy vine, which half conceals the east end of the house, is the product of slips planted by Irving, which he secured from Sir Walter Scott on the occasion of his visit to Abbotsford.

IRVINGTON: SUNNYSIDE, THE HOME OF WASHINGTON IRVING.

Lyndehurst, the old Paulding Manor, now the property of Jay Gould, is perhaps the most conspicuous of the many fine residences in the vicinity of Irvington. Just above, 26 miles from New York, is

Tarrytown, delightfully situated on an elevated plateau overlooking the wide expanse of the Tappan Zee and the surrounding country for many miles. Revolutionary memories also cluster thickly hereabouts, and it was at Tarrytown that Major André was captured and the treachery of Benedict Arnold exposed. Had the traitorous plans of the brave but faithless American been carried to a successful issue, the whole succeeding history of our country would doubtless have been materially changed.

Nyack, a thriving and beautiful town, is located on the western bank of the Hudson, opposite Tarrytown, with which village it is connected by ferry.

Sing Sing, a handsome little city of 10,000 inhabitants, has a national reputation as being the abiding-place of many of New York's citizens who for a time have retired into an unwilling seclusion. The train dashes by the cold, gray walls of the prison, and we almost imagine we can hear the clank of chains and the shuffling of feet. The town itself is very beautiful, many elegant residences rising on the long upward slope from the river and having a magnificent view. The Croton aqueduct passes through Sing Sing, and is carried over a ravine by a stone arch 70 feet in height and having a span of 88 feet. Across the river is Haverstraw Bay, into which the gallant explorer Hendrick Hudson sailed centuries ago, and finding no outlet, thought he had arrived at the head waters of the "Shattemuc," as the Indian termed the Hudson. His mistake was afterwards emulated by Peek, a bold Dutch adventurer, who, having discovered another tributary to the river, thought it the main stream. His name and memory are perpetuated by the village of Peekskill.

Continuing the journey, CROTON, OSCAWANA, CRUGERS and MONTROSE, popular suburban places with many handsome villa residences, are passed in quick succession, and the traveler is at the gates of the romantically beautiful region known as the Hudson Highlands. One of the prettiest towns on the Hudson, situated at the mouth of the Peek's Kill, or Annsville Creek, is Peekskill, 43 miles from New York, a bustling and thriving place of about 10,000 inhabitants.

Its history dates back to a period anterior to the Revolutionary War, and in those trying times it played an important part. On the old Van Cortlandt farm, two miles north of the town, yet stands the house in which, for a time, General Washington had his headquarters, and just beyond can be seen the church in which he worshipped. Historic old Fort Independence was situated just above the village, where its ruins are still pointed out to the curious. Many Revolutionary heroes are buried in the surrounding churchyard. Just east of the town is the Summer residence and farm of the late Henry Ward Beecher. The town contains many beautiful residences and is the Summer home of a number of wealthy New Yorkers. Numerous large lakes in the surrounding country afford excellent fishing.

At Roa Hook, a mile and a half north of Peekskill Station, on a high bluff overlooking the river, is the site purchased by the State of New York for the purposes of a State camp, and here, every year from June until September, our volunteer soldiers repair in detachments to undergo for a week the routine and rigorous discipline of regular army life.

TARRYTOWN: OLD DUTCH CHURCH IN SLEEPY HOLLOW.

Opposite Peekskill on the west shore of the river is Jones' Point, above which rises the rocky and storm-beaten crags of the Dunderberg Mountain. Plans are under way to erect a large hotel on the highest peak of the Dunderberg, and to construct a spiral railroad 14 miles in length leading up to it. Near the Dunderberg is Anthony's Nose, rising to a height of 1,200 feet. Forts Clinton and Montgomery likewise on the west side of the river a short distance above this point, at one time constituted the chief fortifications for protection against invasion of the upper Hudson, and were regarded as invulnerable to the artillery of the day and proof against assault.

THE DEPEW HOMESTEAD, PEEKSKILL

Picturesque Iona Island, some 300 acres in extent, lies within a triangle formed by Dunderburg, Anthony's Nose and Bear Mountain. This is a favorite spot for picnic parties from New York. The upper end of the island is devoted to grape culture. Leaving Peekskill the train has fully entered the Highlands, and beautiful views abound. Passing Highlands Station it stops at

Garrison, a charming spot of historic renown, and one of the popular Summer resorts in the vicinity of New York, Its principal hotel is the Highland House, whose charming location and excellent service have created a demand for accommodations which keep the house comfortably filled the year 'round. The Croft House is also very well patronized. At Garrison connections are made by ferry with West Point, the site of the United States Military Academy, and of a fortress erected during the War of Independence. The site commands one of the finest river passes in the world, and the academy is located upon a plateau 180 feet above the river. It was established in 1802. The fort and a chain stretched across the river by the patriots were captured by the British in 1777, but were abandoned after Burgoyne's surrender. Stronger works were then erected by the Continental forces, and these Arnold bargained to betray to the enemy, but his scheme was foiled by the capture of André.

West Point is located in the very bosom of the Highlands, and is their chief attraction. It is a bulwark of the nation in more senses than one, and a favorite resort with Summer pleasure seekers.

The vicinity abounds in delightful walks and drives, and within easy access are the ruins of Forts Montgomery and Clinton on opposite sides of Popoloken Creek. Near by, too, is Bloody Pond, which the simple country folk still believe to be guarded by the ghosts of Hessian soldiers, while Sugar Loaf and Anthony's Nose raise their lofty crests in the background. An object of much interest to visitors is an old furnace used during the Revolution for casting cannon and other warlike material for the patriot army.

Many of the pleasant memories and lasting associations connected with West Point, the Military Academy, and the neighboring hills and valleys, which have re-choed to the strains of "Benny Havens, Oh!" issuing from the throats of generation after generation of buoyant and gallant cadets, many of whom have since achieved world-wide distinction, and these historical and social surroundings make West Point and its vicinity an oasis in the wilderness of the Highlands.

Cranston's well known hotel is situated about a mile south of West Point on a high bluff overlooking the river, and is surrounded by 40 acres of Wooded Park, with electric lights, pure spring water, and every modern convenience and luxury, this hotel has always stood in the favor of the Summer tourist. The commencement exercises at the Academy attract to Cranstons many early comers who make their plans to remain and enjoy the complex charms of wooded hills, the broad flowing river, and the social gaieties which are the natural outcome of such close proximity to a military camp Three miles above Garrison is Cold Spring, a picturesque village with a resident population of about 3,000, which number is largely augmented during the Summer months by the influx of city visitors.

“Undercliffe,” the home of George P. Morris, the poet, stands on a plateau north of Cold Spring, and the celebrated cannon foundry of R. P. Parrott, the inventor of the Parrott gun, is also near. The next stop, a mile beyond, is Storm King Station, which connects the ferry with Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, one of the principal Summer resorts on the river. There are several large hotels and numerous Summer boarding houses here, the whole section being largely given over during the season to Summer boarders.

Near Cornwall the placid Moodna empties its waters into the river. This poetic stream formerly bore the name of "Murderer's Creek," and owes the gratifying change in its appellation to the appreciative nature of the late N. P. Willis, whose home "Idlewild," stands upon its western bank, close to the spot where it mingles with the Hudson. Nigh to Cornwall, also, rise the steep sides of Storm King — colossal, matchless in proportion and position — and Dunderburg, with Cro' Nest and Bear Hill nestling between them. Go only a little way up the pleasant mountain road and you will come to an old farmhouse with orchard and grapery attached, where lives one of the oldest of the old stock of New York brokers, St. John. He was sent up here by his physician apparently in the last stages of consumption, with the hope that the pure mountain air might prolong his life a few brief weeks, or perhaps a month. That was over twenty years ago, and now he is over 90 years old, and as hale and hearty as many a man in his prime, certainly a remarkable testimonial to the healthfulness of this region. Still ascending you finally reach the plateau of the western spur of the Storm King, 1,200 feet above the sea. On this spot the late Dr. E. H. Champlin, a graduate of the medical colleges of New York and Paris, and descendant of the Champlins who discovered Lake Champlain, built a house in which he resided with his family for many years.

The grandest view from Cornwall Heights, always excepting that from the Storm King, is obtained from the summit of a large plateau known as the Storm King Park, and sometimes called the Baby Tuxedo, as it is planned somewhat after Lorillard's Tuxedo Park. On the north-western verge of this plateau an elegant club-house is being constructed for the accommodation of members and their families, and it is proposed to erect in the near future a score or more of small dwellings for such of the club members as desire privacy. The park embraces between 400 and 500 acres, and the club is reported to number about 100 members.

Dutchess Junction is the connecting point with the Newburgh, Dutchess & Connecticut Railway, along which line are located very many attractive Summer boarding places, of which Millbrook is perhaps the most widely known.

Fishkill is a thriving village in Dutchess County, surrounded by fine scenery, and containing many handsome residences. The Verplank House, two miles northeast of the landing, is interesting as having once been the headquarters of Baron Steuben, of Revolutionary fame. Connections are made here by ferry with Newburgh, which is located upon the western bank of the river. The latter town contains about 25,000 inhabitants, and has several large manufacturing enterprises. Hendrick Hudson was so much impressed with this locality, that in 1609 he wrote of it as follows: "It is as beautiful a land as one can tread upon; a very pleasant place to build a town on." Newburgh was the scene of many interesting events during the Revolutionary War, and Washington's headquarters, an old gray stone mansion south of the town, is still preserved under the ownership of the State. Gliding past Low Point, New Hamburg and Milton Ferry, the train thunders into the depot at

Poughkeepsie, 74 miles from New York. This is one of the principal cities between New York and Albany, and contains a population of about 25,000. It is an important trade center, and includes several large manufacturing establishments within its limits, among which are the large Buckeye Mower and Reaper Works of Adraince, Platt & Co., the Poughkeepsie is also noted for its educational institutions, foremost among which is Vassar College, for young ladies, which is situated about two miles east of the station, and is reached by horse cars. The main building, modeled after the Tuileries, is 500 feet long and five stories in height. The college has several hundred students, and is celebrated for its thorough educational facilities.

Prominent among the features of Poughkeepsie must be mentioned the great bridge spanning the Hudson at this point. In magnitude, boldness of design, or beauty of shape and situation, it is not surpassed by any other completed bridge of its kind in the world. Five miles above Poughkeepsie is

Hyde Park, an attractive village containing numerous Summer boarding houses. In the vicinity are several ancient and extensive country seats, including "Placentia," the former home of James K. Paulding, one of the pioneers of American literature. The village of STAATSBURGH is next passed, and a few miles beyond is Rhinecliff, the station for the village of Rhinebeck, a favorite Summer resort, noted for its excellent hotels and boarding houses. It has steam ferry connections with Rondout and Kingston, nearly opposite. The two latter towns are now incorporated as one, and known as Kingston. Connections are also made with the Ulster & Delaware Railroad for Catskill mountain resorts.

About a mile south of Rhinecliff Station are Ellerslie, the beautiful country seat of Vice-President Morton, and the handsome residences of R. B. Buckley, Jacob Ruppert and others.

Kingston is the capital of Ulster County, and has a population of more than 20,000. It was incorporated as a city in 1872, and is a bustling, pushing town. It has a front of four miles on the Hudson. Beautiful scenery abounds in the vicinity, and there are many pleasant and romantic drives in the neighboring country. It is also the terminus of the Ulster & Delaware and the Walkill Valley railroads. Six miles further up the river we come to the next station,

Barrytown, named in honor of General Barry of Revolutionary fame. The town was founded in 1778, and numbers about 250 inhabitants. Old settlers refer to it as Lower Red Hook Landing. In the vicinity are two magnificent estates — one, Montgomery Hall, built by the widow of the brave General Montgomery, who lost his life in the assault on Quebec. stands on a high bluff overlooking the river, about one mile north of the village; the other — Rokeby, the residence of the late William B. Astor. The next stop is

A BRIDGE ON THE PALENVILLE ROAD.

Tivoli, 99 miles from New York, population about 4,000. The residence of the late Colonel Peyster, built prior to the Revolutionary War by one of the Livingston family, stands on a wooded bluff, a little to the north. Tivoli has regular ferry connection with Saugerties, an enterprising village on the west bank. From this place is obtained a comprehensive view of the Catskill Mountains, and on a clear day the Overlook Mountain House, Hotel Kaaterskill and Catskill Mountain House may be easily distinguished. Speeding reluctantly past the pretty little villages of GERMANTOWN and LINLITHGO, the traveler next reaches Catskill Station, 110 miles from New York, which connects by steam ferry with Catskill proper, the capital of Greene County. This is the landing place for thousands of tourists who annually visit the Catskill Mountains lying a few miles to the west.

The new Otis Elevating Railway completed this season connects with the Catskill Mountain Railway at Otis Junction, and will become the popular route for Catskill Mountain House, Hotel Kaaterskill, Laurel House, Haines' Falls, Twilight Park and Tannersville. The ascent of the mountain, from this point will be made in ten minutes.

Catskill Mountain Station, at the summit of the Otis incline railway, is 500 feet from the Catskill Mountain House, one mile from Hotel Kaaterskill, one and one-half miles from Laurel House, four miles from Haines' Falls and Twilight Park, and six miles from Tannersville. Transfer to the first two hotels is made by stage and to the more distant points by stage or rail.

Hudson, finely situated upon a bold, rocky promontory at the head of ship navigation on the river, is one of the oldest cities in the State, having been incorporated in 1785, and has about 12,000 inhabitants. In years gone by it had a large amount of shipping engaged in foreign trade and the whale fisheries. It is now chiefly engaged in the manufacture of iron and the export of agricultural staples. At this point connections are made with the Boston & Albany Railroad ; also with the Kinderhook & Hudson Railroad for Kinderhook and Niverville.

The quaint old village of Claverack, in Columbia County, is located four miles inland from Hudson, and is a historic place. In the present era, however, its chief claim to distinction lies in the fact that it contains within its limits the celebrated "Claverack College and Hudson River Institute," a prosperous and well-conducted school for both sexes, which has attained a national reputation.

CATSKILL MOUNTAIN HOUSE.

The handsome and substantial college buildings, surrounded by beautiful and well-shaded lawns, and commanding most charming views of the romantic scenery in which the neighborhood abounds, are the features of the village. The old Dutch Church, with its staring date of 1767 on its western side, shines out in old-fashioned red among the towering oaks that keep ward over it and its adjoining cemetery. On the opposite crest is "Fairview," the stately mansion built by the late Dr. Flack, who was the founder of the college, and its president for more than 30 years. Down the village street are the residences of the descendants of the Muhlers, the Ostranders, and the Van Rensselaers, and in a quaint old yellow-brick dormer-windowed house are to be seen the lares and penates of Gen. James Watson, and other distinguished — Webbs. The "Spook Rock," in a shady swirl of the Claverack Creek, is visited on moonlight nights by the neighboring swains and their sweethearts, who linger to see it turn in its shiny bed when it hears the Institute bell. Resuming the journey, the hamlets of Stockport, Coxsackie, Stuyvesant, Schodack, and Castleton are quickly passed, and the train rolls into the station at East Albany. This is the point of separation for those traveling still further north and those westward bound. The former continuing on to Troy and other northern points, while the latter are borne across the stupendous bridge over the Hudson, which forms the connecting link between East Albany and Albany.

Albany, one of the most flourishing cities in the East, and the capital of New York State, is situated on three hills on the west bank of the Hudson, six miles below the head of tide-water, and at the point where the Erie and Champlain Canals join the river. Founded by the Dutch

as a training-post in 1614, and called Fort Orange, it is the oldest surviving European settlement in the thirteen original States — Jamestown, Va., founded seven years earlier (in 1607), having long ceased to be inhabited, only the ruins of a church tower and a few tombstones remaining to mark the spot. In 1644 its present name was given it, in honor of the Duke of York and Albany (afterwards James II.). It was chartered in 1686 and became the State capital in 1797. Owing to its commanding position at the head of navigation on the river, Albany is most advantageously situated for commerce, and is the chief emporium for the transit trade of the coast towns with those of the north and northwest. It is also the center in which a number of railways meet, connecting it with the East by the Boston &

THE HUDSON RIVER.

Albany and the Fitchburg railroads ; with the North and Canada by the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's Railroad ; with the West & South by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad ; with the Southwest by the Albany & Susquehanna Railroad. It has water communication with the North by the Champlain Canal ; with the West by the Erie Canal, and with the South by the Hudson River. There are two bridges over the Hudson, built by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. Tourists from the North, East and South, bound for Sharon Springs, Cooperstown, and Otsego Lake, can quickly reach their destination by taking the Albany & Susquehanna Division of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's Railroad. Of the public buildings the New Capitol, recently built, is a very large and imposing edifice, covering more than three acres of ground, and is one of the finest and most expensive buildings in the State.

Troy, six miles above Albany, is a flourishing city with a population of about 60,000. It contains many large manufactories of various kinds, attractive streets and avenues, tasteful houses and handsome churches. Poestenkill Creek flows through the city, and supplies water to numerous mills. The Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and the Willard Seminary for girls located here, are among the most noted educational institutions of the country.

Schenectady, a city of about 24,000 inhabitants, situated on the right bank of the Mohawk River, on a spot which once formed the council-ground of the Mohawks, was founded in 1661 by Arent Van Corlear. It is the seat of Union College, one of the oldest educational institutions in the country, many of whose graduates have attained prominence in National and State affairs. There are also extensive electrical, iron and locomotive works and car shops here, employing several thousand men. The burning of Schenectady and the massacre of its inhabitants, which took place February 9, 1690, was one of the tragic events which marked the early struggles of European nations for supremacy on this continent. The invaders were Frenchmen and Indians from Montreal, under the command of Lieut. Le Moyne de St. Helene, who passed down the Mohawk by way of Lake Champlain and the trails branching southward from the head of that lake. The march was made on snow-shoes, and was one of the most notable undertakings in the early history of border warfare. Success depended on surprising the town at night and preventing any adequate defence. The surprise was complete, and only sixty, old people and children, were spared. Connections are here made with the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's Railroad for Ballston, Saratoga, Lake George and Lake Champlain. Crossing the iron bridge that spans the Mohawk River at this point, the tourist is borne rapidly through a delightful section, and soon arrives at Amsterdam, an enterprising and prosperous city of over 20,000 inhabitants. It has many large factories, including the extensive carpet factories of S. Sandford & Sons, the linseed oil works of Kellogg & Miller, carriage spring, broom and boiler works on a large scale, and is located in the midst of romantic scenery.

Fonda is the county seat of Montgomery County, and a bustling village. Johnstown and Gloversville, two thriving towns with a world-wide reputation for their glove and mitten manufactories, are connected with the main line at this point by the Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville Railroad.

ROUNDING THE NOSE.— MOHAWK VALLEY.

In the Berkshire Hills.

Among the most delightful places within a few hours' ride of New York are the now famous resorts of the Berkshire Hills, which lie partly in Eastern New York, but principally in Southwestern Massachusetts, and are reached by the fast trains of the Harlem Division of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. A ride of 19 miles from Chatham, over the Lebanon Springs Railroad, brings one to Lebanon Springs, famed for the medicinal springs which gave the village its name, its beautiful valley and pure mountain air. The drives in the neighborhood of the springs are unsurpassed by any watering-place in the world, whether it be along the beautiful valley roads leading to Nassau, to Queechy Lake and to Williamstown, Mass., Lenox or Stockbridge, or surmounting the hills and mountains which encompass the place in almost every direction, where new beauties open to the view with every mile. Conspicuous among the numerous places for the entertainment of guests is Columbia Hall, a large hotel situated on the slope, and overlooking the valley and village. This hotel has lately been thoroughly overhauled and refurnished, and now takes its place among the first-class Summer resort houses.

Pittsfield, 26 miles from Chatham, on the line of the Boston & Albany Railroad, is a flourishing town of 16,000 inhabitants, and the capital of the delightful Berkshire region. It is a favorite resort of a large number of New York families during the Summer and Autumn months. The village is charmingly situated at a high elevation, with the Taconics on the west and the Hoosacs on the east, and contains many large hotels and elegant private dwellings. Fast express trains via the Harlem Railroad, in connection with the Boston & Albany, run between New York and Pittsfield in a little over three and a half hours. Wagner Palace Drawing-room cars run through without change.

DON'T MOVE.

In the Litchfield Hills.

Within five hours of Grand Central Station is a beautiful country, just becoming known to, and appreciated by, the citizens of New York. Those who enjoy magnificent surroundings, views of mountain and valley, of lake and river, of meadow and woodland, with pure, bracing air, water of crystal purity, roads that make pleasure riding a pleasure indeed ; society of the highest ; church and school facilities of the best, should give attention to the

LITCHFIELD HILLS REGION.

Leaving Grand Central Station at 3.50 P. M., Norfolk connection is reached at 6.26 P. M., in a through car, via the New York Central to Millerton, thence via the Central New England & Western. Three miles east of Millerton, after passing through "Ore Hill," notable only for the very fine quality of iron ore here found, the car reaches the first of a succession of charming villages, in Lakeville, situated on the shore of a beautiful sheet of water, and supplied with country hotels and boarding houses of moderate charges and excellent accommodations. The next stop, at Salisbury, shows one a neat, attractive country town, where Summer board can be had. Chapinville, eight miles from Millerton, is another of the lake villages of this region, as also is Twin Lakes, another mile further east. Justice to the quiet beauty of these delightful spots cannot be done in so short a space, but a visit to either will convince anyone that too much cannot be said in their favor.

NORFOLK, CONN. HAYSTACK MOUNTAIN IN THE DISTANCE.

The very sight of the surroundings of lake and forest, cool shady nooks, pine grove and general quiet, is restful ; and to one in quest of comfort, quiet pleasure and rest, no place offers greater advantages. Just east of Twin Lakes the Housatonic River is first seen, and its course is followed closely by the railway to Canaan, a beautiful village, comparatively well known, and receiving each season a large number of Summer visitors. A few miles further on we reach the summit of the Litchfield Hills, and the village of Norfolk, the beauty and delights of which can illy be described here.

From Norfolk magnificent views are to be seen in every direction. Bear Mountain (the highest land in the State), Bald Peak, Haystack Mountain, Talcott Mountain and many others are plainly visible. On the top of Haystack Mountain a Belvedere was erected some four years ago, and from this a view is had that is probably not excelled in America, mountain peaks in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York being plainly visible.

Very many Summer cottages of elegant design and finish are located here, and many more are building ; the residents being the citizens of Boston, Hartford, New Haven and New York.

It is but 30 miles to the world-famed Lenox of the Berkshire Hills, and an excellent country road between the two points is freely utilized by those who love long country drives.

Other Resorts.

PLACES NOT ON THE LINES OF THE HARLEM OR HUDSON DIVISIONS, BUT WHICH MAY BE REACHED WITHIN A FEW HOURS FROM NEW YORK BY FAST CONNECTING TRAIN SERVICE.

Ballston, N. Y., is the seat of Saratoga County, and possesses a population of about 4,000. Its mineral springs, of which there are several, are similar to those of Saratoga. It attracts many visitors each season, who prefer its quiet life to the excitement of the more frequented resort.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Bennington, Vt., situated in a picturesque mountain valley, 800 feet above the sea, is one of the prettiest towns in the State. It is handsomely built, and has a resident population of 8,000. Pleasant drives and walks, grand views and good fishing in neighboring streams commend this as a particularly delightful vacation resort.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Columbia Springs, N. Y.—This is a quiet, rural resort in the Claverack Valley, five miles distant from Hudson. A pleasant lake in the immediate vicinity affords excellent fishing, boating and bathing facilities. The Spring House and several well appointed boarding-houses offer superior accommodation to visitors.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Cooperstown, N. Y.—This quiet and storied village, the center of the romantic region made famous through the writings of its gifted resident of by-gone years, J. Fenimore Cooper, is located at the southern extreme of Otsego Lake. It is surrounded by lofty hills, and contains many handsome homes, and several good hotels. The Cooper House, recently destroyed by fire, will probably be rebuilt on a much more extensive scale and under the management of Mr. S. E. Crittenden enter a new era of fame and prosperity. Cooperstown is reached from Albany via the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, and from Utica via Richfield Springs by a pleasant tally-ho coach ride and a steamer voyage down the lake.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Catskill Mountains.—Of all the health and pleasure resorts reached by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, none excel in picturesque and varied beauty, and certainly none equal in legendary and historical association, the Catskill Mountains. Approaching within 10 miles of a great national highway, they have since the earliest days of the settlement of the country commanded the attention of all the voyagers on the Hudson River. These mountains have a beauty and grandeur of their own, and have probably been seen and admired, if not visited, by more travelers than any other mountain group on the American Continent. Many of the beauty spots of the Catskills appeal particularly to the sentimental and poetic side of one's nature. There is very little that is practical and every day about this region, hence its peculiar charm for people of overworked bodies and tired brains. These lofty heights and towering cliffs, — these fertile plains and smiling valleys, awaken thoughts and conceptions far removed from the intruding cares and annoyances of our work-a-day world. That is medicine for the mind. That is what the tired city man and woman want. And oh, the breath of the Catskills! It invigorates. It infuses life. It inspires zeal. Two weeks of it will expand your lungs for the balance of the year. Summer hotels and boarding houses abound in every part of the mountains. Rates are reasonable and accommodations good, the man of modest means can probably get more for his money in the Catskills than anywhere else. In fact, as a rule, it is cheaper to board here than to live at home. While living is apparently cheap in the Catskills, it will prove dear in the long run unless you are sensible and make up your mind where to go before your Summer wardrobe is made, then, have your garments made roomy. In the fall they will fit nicely, for you will surely grow fat. In this way your tailor and modiste will not profit unduly by reason of your sojourn here.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Cranston's-on-Hudson is situated on the west shore of the river, a mile below West Point, and nearly opposite the village of Garrison, with which it is connected by ferry.

Cranston's noted hostlery, with its broad piazzas and dainty Summer houses, is perched high on a commanding cliff, from which point is unfolded a charming prospect of water and landscape.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Fort Edward, N. Y.—The beautiful and enterprising town named Fort Edward, in honor of the Duke of York, brother of King George III. of England, retains few reminders of the stirring scenes enacted on its site in early Colonial and Revolutionary times. It is now one of the favorite Summer resorts of Northern New York.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Glens Falls, N. Y.—This charming village takes its name from the picturesque falls of the Hudson, which tumble over a rocky precipice 63 feet high and 900 feet long, and is a much frequented Summer resort. The island below the falls is associated with some of the most thrilling incidents of Cooper's "Last of the Mohicans."

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Howe's Cave, N. Y.—This remarkable cave is situated on the line of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, 40 miles from Albany, and is a great natural curiosity. The entrance to the cave is but a few rods from the station, and is reached by a short walk through the handsomely laid out grounds belonging to the Pavilion Hotel. Cataract Hall, the Haunted Castle, Stygian Cave, and the Devil's Gateway are some of the main features of the cavern. Through drawing-room cars over the New York & Hudson River Railroad, in connection with the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, run direct to Howe's Cave.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y.—This delightful Summer resort may be reached by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad to Poughkeepsie ferry, to New Paltz Landing, and thence by stage, but the most desirable route is by the West Shore Railroad direct to New Paltz. The lake and its surroundings form one of the most wonderfully beautiful bits of scenery to be found anywhere in this country or the Old World. Two large hotels furnish accommodations for Summer boarders.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Lebanon Springs, N. Y.—These springs, famed for their medicinal properties, are located on the Bennington & Rutland Railroad, 154 miles from New York. The village is 1,000 feet above the sea, and the air is always fresh and invigorating. Columbia Hall, the principal hotel, has been entirely refitted and refurnished, and this season will be conducted under the management of Mr. T. W. Stevens. The Shaker Village near the springs is worth visiting, and strangers are always welcomed and politely entertained.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Millbrook, N. Y.—Situate at high altitude in the midst of a charming country noted for superb mountain scenery, exceptionally fine roads, beautiful walks and drives, this village is becoming a second Lenox, and a number of New York's best people make it their Summer home. Numerous lakes and mountain streams afford excellent fishing. Livery is good and charges reasonable. Millbrook Inn, the principal hotel, is new, artistic, and perfectly appointed. Several other good hotels and boarding houses furnish first-class accommodations. The facilities for reaching Millbrook will be greatly improved this season, and in addition to the already ample service it is proposed to start a fast train from New York at 2.15 P. M., reaching Millbrook about 5.10 P. M., running another train from Millbrook to New York under a corresponding schedule.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

North Adams, Mass. — This is a rich manufacturing village, and is the metropolis of Northern Berkshire. The entrance to the famous Hoosac Tunnel, one of the most wonderful feats of modern engineering skill, is two miles south of the village. The great Natural Bridge, Profile Rock and the "Cascade" are among the objects of interest in the vicinity. Many grand views are obtained from the hills which surround North Adams on all sides. The Berkshire Hills have long been famous as a health and pleasure resort.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Saratoga Springs.—Acknowledged the most popular and accessible of all American Spas, is the center each season of the highest social, educational and political gatherings. The broad piazzas of the vast hotels present a panorama of the best and most varied types of our leisurely classes reinforced by thousands of the affluent citizens of other lands. Primarily famous for its diverse medicinal waters it is still more popular with the world at large because of its constant gaiety and the peerless beauty of its environment. Aside from the beautiful artificial features found in Congress Spring Park, and other improvements of the kind, the drives through Hilton Park and to Saratoga Lake are always enjoyable. A highly interesting feature of Saratoga is "The Pompeia," an exact reproduction of the house of Pansa, buried by Vesuvius in the year 79. The building is over 180 feet long, and has already cost over $100,000. Ranging through the spacious halls, the visitor can follow in detail the life of a Roman noble from his worship before the Temple of Jove in the Forum to the utensils of his kitchen, or his pleasures represented by a carved ivory ticket to his seat in the amphitheatre. The building is a monument that will take its place with the most impressive and unique contributions to the art of this century. It is one of the most interesting exhibits in the world ; in fact, there is nothing like it anywhere else. Enough exquisite work is displayed to warrant the belief that Saratoga's replica of the departed glories of Pompeii will become famous through the land. The hotels of Saratoga are among the largest and finest in the world ; the most noted being the United States, Grand Union, Windsor, Congress Hall, Kensington and Clarendon, while a host of smaller hotels and boarding-houses furnish excellent accommodation at from $7.00 to $25.00 per week. During the season, the famous Saratoga Specials via the New York Central and Delaware & Hudson Railroads run daily in both directions, and the Saratoga Limited, one of the fastest trains run on the continent, and composed exclusively of drawing-room and buffet cars, will leave New York Saturdays at about 2 P. M., and returning leaves Saratoga Mondays at 6 A. M. An elegant dining-car is attached to the south-bound train from Saratoga, serving breakfast immediately upon departure from the station. From Saratoga the visitor may readily enter the enchanted region of the Adirondacks, over the route of the Adirondack Railway or via the Delaware & Hudson Railroad to Lake George, Lake Champlain and the northern portion of the Adirondack Mountains as well as all points in Northern New England and Canada.

Sharon Springs, N. Y.—This is appropriately termed the Baden-Baden of America. Situated in Schoharie County, N. Y., in a romantic valley, 1,100 feet in altitude and surrounded by high hills, Sharon Springs justly occupies a foremost position among the sanitariums and fashionable Summer resorts of the world. Its springs of chalybeate, magnesia, white sulphur and blue sulphur, and its celebrated pine-needle and mud baths possess wonderful curative powers in blood, skin, liver, rheumatic and neuralgic affections. The New York Central, in connection with the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, maintains through parlor and sleeping car service between New York and Sharon Springs for the accommodation of the annual rush of visitors to this famed resort.

For excursion routes and rates see index.

Williamstown, Mass.—This town is beautifully situated in a mountain-enclosed valley, and is noted as the site of Williams College. Flora's Glen, where Bryant, then a student, wrote "Thanatopsis," the Cascades, Snow Glen and Sand Springs, so efficacious in the treatment of cutaneous diseases, are among the attractive resorts in the neighborhood. Drawing-room cars will run through between New York and Williamstown during the Summer.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.

TOURIST SEASON OF 1892.

Special Information relating to the sale and use of Tourists' Tickets.

The special tickets described herein will be sold from June 1st to September 30th, inclusive, and will be available until October 31st, inclusive, unless otherwise noted (except in the case of steamboats that discontinue their trips earlier). The tickets entitle holders to all the privileges of regular first-class tickets.

Children between 5 and 12 years of age, half fare; over 12, full fare.

Stop-over privileges are usually granted on summer tourist tickets; but to avoid misunderstanding, passengers should notify the proper official of the train or boat of their desire to stop over, as the stop-over regulations of the respective lines vary. For a brief summary of the rules now in effect on the lines over which summer tourist tickets read, see page 224.

Summer excursion tickets during the season will be received for passage on LIMITED trains, provided Drawing-room or Sleeping Car tickets are presented in connection with the summer excursion tickets.

Summer excursion tickets will be available on the NEW YORK AND SARATOGA LIMITED trains if presented in connection with Drawing-room Car tickets, as no ordinary coaches will be run on the Limited Trains.

Through tickets by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad are available between New York and Albany by the Day Line Steamers, or all rail, at the option of passengers.

Tickets by Sound Line Steamers between New York and Boston include a berth.

Summer tourists are reminded that many of the steamers and stage lines cease operations or make irregular trips after October 1st of each year. Passengers should consult local advertising matter for proper information.

The Mizzen Top Hotel

QUAKER HILL, N. Y.,

Will be opened June 20, and remain open until October 1.

The hotel is modern and in every way first-class. The table and service unexcelled by any summer resort hotel. Pure and abundant water supply. Sanitary arrangements perfect. No hay fever. No malaria. No mosquitoes. At an actual elevation of 1,300 feet the temperature is even, the air very dry, cool and invigorating; beneficial to weak throats and lungs.

The hotel commands some of the finest scenery of the Catskills and Berkshires. Amusements of all kinds are furnished—riding, driving, bowling, tennis, billiards, croquet, shooting, fishing and boating. Only two hours from New York by the Harlem Railroad.

An illustrated pamphlet describing the attractions of Quaker Hill, its drives, walks, lakes, mountains and glens will be furnished by its proprietor.

Extensive additions and improvements since last season.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.

THE passenger equipment of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad is acknowledged to be the FINEST IN THE WORLD, and it is only fair to give credit to those who have aided in establishing its peerless standard of excellence.

SCHENECTADY LOCOMOTIVES

THE passenger engines are the most powerful and at the same time the fastest in the world. They haul the EMPIRE STATE EXPRESS and the other fast trains of the New York Central, and are the wonder of mechanical engineers everywhere. They are built by the Schenectady Locomotive Works, Schenectady, New York.

THE BARNEY-SMITH DINING CARS.

THE Dining and Buffet Cars, which add so much to the luxury of a journey via the New York Central, and which are models of artistic car building, combining all the very latest devices for the convenience and comfort of the traveler, are built by the Barney-Smith Manufacturing Company of Dayton, Ohio.

THE GILBERT PASSENGER COACHES.

THE new Standard Passenger Coaches of the New York Central, with twelve-wheel trucks, high back seats, upholstered in the finest plush, large windows and enclosed lavatories, are believed to be the finest now in use on any railroad in the world. Some of these coaches are 70 feet long, with a seating capacity of 72 passengers. They are built by the Gilbert Manufacturing Company of Troy, N. Y.

PINTSCH SYSTEM OF GAS LIGHTING.

THE Pintsch System of Gas Lighting, recognized as the most perfect light, adopted by the great railways of America and Europe, gives a steady, soft yet brilliant light, free from offensive odors, enabling a person to read during the evening with perfect ease. It is undoubtedly the most satisfactory method of car illumination ever introduced. The gas is compressed and stored in reservoirs underneath the car. The Safety Car Heating and Lighting Company system of Heating by Hot Water Circulation from Steam is used on through trains and Palace Cars.

GOULD COUPLER AND PLATFORM.

THE passenger coaches, sleeping, dining and buffet cars of the New York Central are all equipped with the Gould Coupler and Platform, which is considered the strongest and safest device of its character in use, contributing largely to the safety of passenger trains. Built by the Gould Coupler Manufacturing Company of Buffalo, N. Y.

WAGNER PALACE CARS.

AT the beginning of the Summer season of 1892, all the through trains of the New York Central will be equipped with new and magnificently-appointed Wagner Palace Cars, directly from the shops of that company, at Buffalo.

They will contain all the latest and best improvements known to the car builders' art, and will be equipped with the Perfected Wagner Vestibule which, patented and used exclusively by the Wagner Palace Car Company, is superior in all respects to any other form of vestibuling device.

No other company approaches the New York Central in the number, speed and elegance of its passenger trains.

Wright

TWO HUNDRED and Eighty Years ago, after traversing the Hudson River from its mouth to Albany, and carefully noting the grandeur and beauty on either side of this magnificent highway of nature, Hendrick Hudson wrote these words:

“It is as beautiful a land as one can tread upon.”

“To breathe the glory of the faintless air
With pleasurable pantings of the blood,
To wander over sweetly smelling fields,
To lie upon the heathery slopes and dream—
To dream, to plan, to picture.”
