Many Protests Against Curtailment Of Trains

ferent wards of Weymouth assembled at short notice in Jackson Square Saturday evening to protest against the proposed curtailment of trains on Sept. 28, especially at East Weymouth, Weymouth and South Heights, the sentiment being that the Weymouths should not suffer, that the railroad might increase fares between Hingham and Boston.

John H. Moran presided. In opening he said we are assembled to create public opinion against curtailment of Weymouth trains, and to secure reasonable facilities for traffic to and from Boston. Weymouth had no idea in fighting the railroad. but in expressing its wants to improve the service. Already some concessions had been obtained, for which we are grateful.

Town Counsel William J. Holbrook of South Weymouth was first introduced. He said it was on Monday that town officials and a few others received invitations to meet with the officials of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to discuss the winter schedule. He read the schedule proposed by the officials which would reduce the service at East Weymouth and Weymouth from 13 to 7 trains each way daily, with no theatre train from Boston, the last train being set at 10.16. However, the schedule was not fixed but open to changes. Weymouth needs more trains than proposed. The situation is serious if the people do not press their claims. The South Weymouth schedule was no more inviting. Mr. Holbrook proposed certain additional trains. It was important that the industries and organizations of the town write to the railroad management and express their needs, and the time was limited elsewhere. as timetables must be issued about the middle of September.

Representative Prince H. Tirrell said he was just back and was not familiar with the proposed schedule, but the Weymouths deserve better than in the past, rather than curtail- Birkenmayer, Washington street ment.

County Commissioner Edward W. Hunt for several years on the board of Selectmen urged prompt action by the people. All wake up and get busy. The commuters in particular should be interested. Weymouth is growing, it is one of the biggest and best towns in Massachusetts. What we need is more service; it is the life of the town. There should have been 2000 at this meeting. Our fares had been increased, and we were entitled to better service. Back up your committee. Don't reduce but give more. We want it and are ready to pay for Theron L. Tirrell, chairman of the Selectmen, said the board would vigorously oppose the reduction. Certain trains should be run during the day, even if they don't pay, because the Weymouths on the whole bring in a good revenue. Hoped all organizations would suggest trains that were needed and work to get them. Frederick Humphrey, formerly on the board of Selectmen, was asked to give his views as a merchant. He said he was glad to protest against the loss of trains. The town needs industries, and must have good train service to accommodate the employees People must have employment, that they may pay taxes. He was pleased to have had a part in establishing the Keith factory here and reorganizing the Dizer factory. The railroad complains that it has lost just revenue, because Hingham people and South Shore people have used 12-ride tickets between East Weymouth and Boston, but the railroad should not lick us to get at Hingham. Not much punishment, either, to give Hingham more trains and express trains at that. No express trains should be run through the Weymouths. We should find out the real reasons for dropping the Weymouth trains and then enter our protest.

Winslow M. Tirrell, secretary of the board of Selectmen, was the next speaker. He had had another conference with Supt. Wilson of the railroad that day and secured some concessions. He read the proposed schedule, giving the hours and stops, which is printed on another page.

Mr. Tirrell said the schedule was being changed daily, and we may if we get busy prevent curtailment.

Chairman Moran wanted leaders of organizations to write to Supt. Moran in protest, and outline trains wanted Representative Lawson of Braintree said if East Weymouth and Weymouth thought they were hard hit, they should put themselves in East Braintree shoes; East Braintree gets nothing. All communities should be interested and get busy. He told what had been accomplished by Avon

Nearly 1000 persons from the dif- people when the town came near losing its train service. He congratulated the Selectmen on work done, and told the people to back them up.

Preston Lewis of Weymouth Heights came upon the platform at this time. He said the Heights would get noth-Weymouth, but also at Weymouth ing. We cannot even get to Boston. It may be a good idea to keep the women out of Boston on "bargain days", nevertheless the Weymouth should have good train service. The fact that there were 462,000 automobiles in Massachusetts was of course a factor, but we want trains and we are going to get them. Why is Hingham favored? Because the vicepresident of the railroad lives there. The railroad counsel, George L. Barnes, should get something for the Weymouths. If fares were reduced, the travel would increase and thereby increase the revenue.

> VOTED, that the gentlemen on the platform be a committee to draft resolutions protesting to the railroad on the curtailment, and urge the restoration of trains.

> In addition to the speakers above mentioned there were on the platform Selectmen H. F. Perry and Fred E. Waite, Town Accountant Emerson R. Dizer, J. Edward Mulligan, Supt. of Streets Irving Johnson, Edwin Mulready, - Frank F. Prescott, N. H. Holmes, Charles L. Gibson, and David J. Toomey, who are serving on the committee.

> It is said that the candidates for the Legislature were on hand and anxious to be heard, but Chairman Moran did not want politics to enter. During the week these resolutions have been forwarded to the railroad another page. Protest meetings have also been held at Whitman, West Quincy and management, and will be found on

HOT DAYS CAUSE

There Must Be Sufficient Quantity of Water Circulated to Care for Heat.

By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.) These hot days will cause your aucomobile to tell you—to the best of its ability-just what condition it is in. There is no reason why it should overheat, for it has been designed to operate in hot weather. Even when the mercury climbs upward and the sun drives you into the shade it should not steam or boil.

The amount of cooling depends in part upon the size of the cooling system and the rate at which the water is circulated through it. The water must carry away the heat from the cylinders to the radiator, give up the heat and return for more. That means that there must be a sufficient quantity of water circulated fast enough to take care of the heat. This is the problem the engineer must solve for his particular car.

Upholstery Injured.

Many owners do not realize that the leather upholstery gets dry and loses its new appearance when exposed to the hot sun. When applied to the car, the leather contains a certain amount of natural oil which is essential to its life. As soon as this oil is gone the leather loses its pliability, becomes dry and is likely to crack and peel. One of the most effective ways of shortening the life of the upholstery is to expose it to the glare of the summer sun for hours at a time. The heat draws out the natural lubricant, leaving the leather dull and lifeless.

As a protective measure, if not for your own comfort, take pains to leave the car in the shade or to raise the top. If the leather shows signs of wear or becomes dry, treat it with a leather dressing to restore it to its original

Watch Battery. When the weather is warm you should watch the battery carefully and examine it once or twice a day for heating. This is especially essential if you are touring. Put your hand on the top connectors. If they feel more than blood warm take the temperature with a thermometer, and if the thermometer indicates 100 degrees or more burn all the lamps on the car while driving. This will serve to relieve the battery and prevent overcharging. If the temperature is dangerously high it may even be necessary to stop and remove the battery cover so as to allow the battery to cool off. Remember that a temperature of 110 degrees is dangerous and that a temperature of 120 ermanently. When the car reaches a certain speed an automatic switch cuts in the generator and current flows to the battery to charge it.

Tighten Windshield Nuts

On many makes of car the windshield is held in place by steel arms, which protrude through the cowl and are fastened on the under side by a nut and lock nut. Sometimes these nuts work loose, with the result that the shield is allowed to move slightly. The first evidence of this is seen in cracked finish in the vicinity of the windshield supports. In making the periodic inspection for loose nuts and bolts these windshield supports should not be forgotten.

Cut Battery Separators

It is possible to cut the little wooden by means of one of the trimming boards that almost any office has. This board comprises a knife with a handle, the forward end of the knife being riveted to the board, so that it can be lifted and lowered. Absolute accuracy can be achieved in cutting the thin slivers of board with this

Simple Suggestions to Help Motorists

You will reach the end of a perfect day of motoring with less weariness in your system and fewer aches in your legs if

Feed gas with the hand throttle control now and again instead of with the foot.

Hold your eyelids closer to gether when the road is wide and the sun glaring. Grip the steering wheel at different points and thus change the position of your arms. Run slower over rough roads rather than hurry and try to steer around the bumps. Always shift to neutral when stopping for traffic rather than remaining in gear and holding the clutch out, and use the hand brake occasionally so as to rest the right foot.

Starter Circuit Quite Simple in Construction

The starter circuit is as simple as a house bell circuit. The current is supplied by the storage battery through a heavy cable, the circuit being closed by the starter switch. Instead of a return wire from starter to battery, the return current flows through the car frame, one terminal of both battery and starter being

On most cars the pinion on the starter motor meshes with teeth cut in the flywheel, while the starter shaft on which the pinion is mounted is spirally cut. When the starter pedal is depressed the starter motor begins to spin and thus screws the pinion gear (which is automatically prevented from rotating) out to the end of the shaft and into mesh with teeth on the flywheel. As soon as engine starts, the flywheel runs faster, screwing the pinion back out of mesh.

Ordinary starting troubles are weak battery, short circuit in cable or starter switch, dirty switch, loose connections, brushes worn, or commutator dirty. Dirt or gummed oil on the starter shaft may prevent the pinion from meshing. - Popular Science degrees will probably ruin the battery | Monthly.

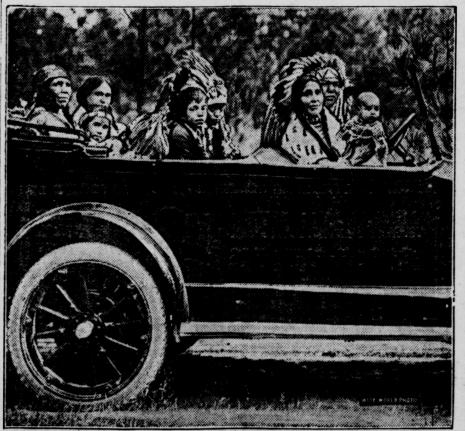

Short Cut When Pitted Valve Requires Grinding

In cases where a badly pitted valve requires grinding, here is a short-cut. Cut a piece of emery cloth in dimensions a little bit wider than the valve seating and twice as long and then double it over so that both surfaces are cutting surfaces. Next cut a hole in the cloth so that the valve stem may be passed through and the emery cloth brought close up against the valve head. The valve is then placed in position for grinding under comparatively high pressure. Both sides or the emery cloth will conform to the valve head and the seating and if the valve turns and the emery cloth remains stationary, the valve will be ground on the upper emery, whereas if the cloth revolves, the valve seatseparators used in the storage battery | ing will be ground on the lower em-

Did You Know-

That because gasoline evaporates and loses its "pep" while standing, a car that is stored for any length of time is quite likely not to start unless encouraged with some fresh fuel?

MOTORING IS A MOST POPULAR PASTIME

In the panhandle part of the sovereign commonwealth of Idaho Uncle Sam has a fairly large reservation for Indians. It's in the beautiful Coeur d'Alene country, Kootenai county, not very far from Spokane, Wash. Motoring is a most popular pastime everywhere at this season, and Chief Wild Shoe (in photograph with his family) isn't a bit behind his paleface brethren in his appreciation of the pleasure and the profit of buzz-wagoning over good roads. Chief Wild Shoe belongs to one of the first families of America, and makes his home on the Coeur d'Alene reservation.

They're called the Stetson shoe." This was one of the community songs sung last evening at the semiannual "Sample Feste" of the Stetson Shoe Company of Weymouth at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston, attended by the company officials and representatives of the factory and the salesmen, which was a very enjoyable occasion, terminating a three days gathering.

Charles T. Heald was master of ceremonies and at his right was President A. C. Heald. An excellent menu was served, interspersed with orchestral numbers and community songs. The "Stetson Sextette" composed of office girls, delighted all with a style revue. In their sporty suits with canes they were an attractive bunch, and Thomas Cathbert, the leader, was proud of them. They led in the songs written by Mrs. Jennie H .Phillips, two samples of which are given.

The speaking was brief and informal, including addresses by A. P. Poole, representing the factory; G. H. Bernhersel of New York city, representing the salesmen; Frank Hol- Heald, Ralph S. Lovell, Edwin C. Rudbrook, at the head of the office force; A. K. Forrest, manager of the stock department; J. W. Melville of the sales force; and A. C. Heald. It was W. Holbrook, J. Edwin Clapp Co. Get-away Party

The week of August 25 was a busy | port, Mr. Lockwood, Mr. Richardson, week at the factory of Edwin Clapp & Son, Inc., at East Weymouth, where they have been bending every energy E. Guillardet, Thomas P. Greaney, towards getting their various lines Henry Burk, Ethel Doble, Alfred Tayof samples ready for the salesmen's lor, William Borden, Mr. Warren, Col. departure on their regular semi-annual trip.

The work of picking new lasts and being sure of getting the right ones, settling upon the right leathers for the right lasts and choosing the patterns, has kept the whole force working at top speed throughout the week.

The wind-up luncheon was held at noon Thursday followed by final discussion of the last little details. Then as a climax came the feature of the week,-the salesmen's get-away dinner. This was held in the new auditorium and proved to be one of the most interesting gatherings of the kind that they have ever held. Dinner was served promptly at 7 o'clock during which the company enjoyed by radio music from the Brunswick Hotel dinner dance. At 8 o'clock the treasurer, Horace R. Drinkwater opened the program by extending a hearty welcome in the name of Edwin Clapp & Son and giving briefly his views on the business outlook which he declared were most promising, predicting one of the best fall and winter seasons in years. He then introduced Mr. Lockwood, editor of the Shoe Style Digest and of the Shoe & Leather Reporter, who gave a truly optimistic talk based upon facts, facts borne out not only by the United States crop reports, but by various business centers and or-

Mr. Lockwood was followed by Mr. in Campello this week. Northrupp of the Boot and Shoe Recorder, who chose as his subject Mr. and Mrs. William Reed spent "Modern Merchandising", treating upon methods and the application of idence.

The next speaker was Guy P. Moses, who responded for the salesmen, giving a most interesting sketch of some of his early experiences on the road when he first started out with Edwin Clapp shoes at the age of 22.

The next speaker was Mr. Malloy of the Shoe Retailer, who brought the greetings of his chief, James H. Stone, president of the Shoe Retailer, together with a very reassuring and encouraging opinion from Mr. Stone as to the immediate future of the shoe business. During the evening Arthur C. Davenport of the Shoe Style Digest rendered several selections on a common, ordinary plebian hand saw, to the astonishment of the whole company, who didn't believe that such weird, sweet music could be produced from such an instrument.

Community singing was led by Mr. Laws, who also rendered several very pleasing numbers accompanied by George Abel.

Walter Cook, entertainer, delivered an address that will long be remembered. The affair was closed by all joining in singing "The Long, Long Trail" followed by "The Star Spangled Banner", after which there was a general inspection of the samples spread for the occasion.

NATIONAL DEFENSE DAY

"By the Selectmen of Weymouth; A proclamation to the inhabitants of Weymouth: "By authority of the President of the United States, Friday September 12, 1924, has been set apart as National Defense Day. "In all our past wars our unprepared condition and lack of prearranged plans for defense has lengthened the period of hostilities, and vastly increased the cost in blood and money. Realizing, therefore, that preparedness is the best safeguard of peace and insurance against the horrors of war, the War Department, by authority of Congress, has wisely made plans for organizing our citizen armies in case of a national emergency, and asks our people to co-operate in testing out these plans.

"In furtherance, therefore, of these plans we call on all the people of Weymouth to display the national flag on that day.

"We also ask that all citizens of 18 years of age and over on September 12th to register, as would be required in time of war. Registration will open at 9 A. M. and close at 6 P. M. and will take place in the following places: "Precinct 1, Engine House and at Weymouth Heights Club "Precincts 2 and 6, Town Office,

East Weymouth "Precinct 3 Engine House, Lincoln Square

"Precinct 4 Citizens' association Building, Front St. "Precinct 5 Engine House, Columbian Square

"Precinct 7 Community Building, Lovell's Corner "This registration is merely for test and patriotic purposes, and imposes no obligation whatever. "In all public schools there will be appropriate exercises at the opening of the morning session.

"In the evening there will be a grand mass meeting at 6.30 P. M. on Clapp's Field, East Weymouth, with community singing, short addresses, and military exercises, to which all are invited.

The fire alarm will sound at 7 A "We call upon all our citizens to enter loyally into the spirit of the occasion and take part in the various exercises of the day, thereby shov lig that Weymouth with its three centuries of glorious history is as loyal today as in the past.

Serious Accident To Bank President Crane

Wednesday evening Charles T. of the skull. Crane, president of the Weymouth | Mr. Crane is one of the most prom-Savings Bank, attended a meeting of the board of directors, which adjourned about 9 o'clock. Several of the directors stopped to inspect the new iron fence around the corner abutting the bank property, but Mr. Crane started toward his home on Quincy avenue. He had nearly reached his home when he was struck by an auto operated by Paul Goodhue of 41 Belleview road, East Braintree. Goodhue picked Mr. Crane up and carried him to the office of Dr. Record. He was suffering from a broken leg, and the right ear was cut off. His condition was such that he was sent to the Weymouth Hospital where he was examined. He has a number inent residents of East' Braintree and is as well known in Weymouth.

He is chairman of the Braintree Municipal Electric Light and is prominent in Masonic circles. Goodhue reported the accident to the police. Mr. Crane is 80 years old, but of good physique. Bank officials did not know of the accident until they read of it in a paper the next morning. Mrs. Crane stayed at the hospital Wednesday night and also last night.

This morning he was comfortable. Mr. and Mrs. Crane recently observed their golden wedding, and Mr. Crane has been associated with the Weymouth Savings Bank over fifty of injuries and probably a fracture | years.

It will be a few days before the seriousness of the accident is known.

WEYMOUTH SEPTEMBER 5, 1924

CONGRESSMAN FROTHINGHAM

Congressman Louis A. Frothingham of North Easton, Republican, who is a candidate for renomination in the 14th district, has put before the voters as his platform his support of the administration and has stressed the necessity of further tax reduction and economy in government as urged by President Coolidge. He has shown that this support won the confidence of the administration so that he was spokesman for Secretary of State Hughes on important phases of the immigration bill when it was before Congress. As more evidence of this confidence he has been urgently sought by the Republican National Committee along with other nationally prominent men to join its speaker's staff in the present campaign.

He believes with administration leaders that the LaFollette threat and the obstruction by organized minorities constitute a real danger and that there is a need to send tried and experienced legislators to Congress who will support the President's program for common sense in government. He is pledged to still further economy.

When first elected he made the pledge to work for the abolition of child labor, and has succeeded so well that his resolution was made the basis of the amendment to the constitution which was passed by Congress. Congressman Frothingham has reminded the voters that he wrested the 14th district from Democratic control by 18,000 majority, running far ahead of his ticket, and believes that his record in Congress demonin him has not been misplaced. He has settled hundreds of service men's pension and immigration cases as part of his office routine, besides giving close attention to those matters of legislation affecting the interests of his district. Free hides has been one of the accomplishments for benefit of the shoe trade, while he succeeded in securing naval construction at the Fore River shipyards, and through Corporation houses in that city.

Mr. Frothingham, besides his public service, has served the nation in two the U.S. S. Yankee in Cuban waters wars. He was second lieutenant on in the Spanish war and commanded the marine guard. In the World war he was colonel of the 13th Regiment, Massachusetts State Guard, in 1917, and in 1918 was major in the U.S. Army. The same year he was a member of the Massachusetts commission to France to look after the welfare of Massachusetts men in the trenches. When the American Legion was organized in the State in 1919 he was first vice-commander and relinquished the opportunity to serve as department commander in Massachusetts to wage the fight to make the 14th district again Republican.

He was born in Jamaica Plain and educated in the public schools, Adams Academy and Harvard, graduating from the Harvard Law School in 1896, when he was admitted to the bar. Harvard thinks so well of him that he is one of its overseers and he has been a lecturer there on Massachusetts constitutional law. He has also published a book on the same subject. In political life he was speaker of the Massachusetts House in 1904 Chicago in its home-study department.

and '05, and lieutenant-governor from egate-at-large to the Republican 1909 to 1911. He was alternate del-National Convention in 1916.

He is a trustee of Thayer Academy in Braintree, of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, the Women's Free Hosnital and the Blackstone Savings Bank. Also he has a wide affiliation with fraternal bodies.

Merchants--Attention

It has come to the attention of the Gazette and Transcript that agents for cut (illustration) and advertising services have told local merchants that "The Gazette-Transcript recommends this service."

The Gazette advertising department recommends no advertising services except on Gazette letterheads over the signature of someone in authority on the newspaper, and very seldom does this, as many of these services are poor.

The Gazette maintains a cut service for merchants which is available at all times and will gladly give advice on others. We will be glad to recommend any outside cut service if it is considered of merit and suitable to the advertiser's needs, as the Gazette-Transcript's own service is not conducted for profit and there is no prejudice because of "competition".

Aside from the shower Monday morning, the Norfolk County Fair had three pleasant days for their annual show at the Weymouth Fair Grounds, and there was a good attendance each day to enjoy the varied attractions.

As already noted there was a large number of boys and girls out for Children's day, the opening day, and they had a good time.

Grange Day

Saturday, the farmers and the dogs divided honors, it being Grange Day and also the day of the big dog show. Several Granges made exhibits of farm and garden products and prizes were awarded as follows:

First to Braintree Grange Second to Westwood Grange Third to Rockland Grange Fourth to Hingham Grange Nearly 400 dogs were entered in the Dog Show under the auspices of the South Shore Kennel Club. Nev-

At Fort Point

There was something for young and old at the annual field day of the Fort Point A. A. on Labor Day, including swimming events, boat races, athletic events, parade, sawdust scramble for pennies by children under 3, with a fine program by the Bingville Band. The concert during the afternoon and evening attracted many, as did the gay white way. A quoit contest at 8.30 marked the formal opening, and from that time until last night Fort Point was the scene of jollity. Wallace W. Arnold, president of the association, was chairman of the general committee and was assisted by the following: Daniel J. White, vicepresident; G. W. Frost, secretary; G. A. Granville, treasurer; R. E. Stein, George Carey, R. H. Baker, B. S. Bush, Albert Thorley, George Durbeck, Norman H. Nash, E. J. Tirrell, H. O. Collier, J. C. Pitcher, W. B. Denbroeder, A. E. Commonwealth of Massachusetts Probate Court Norfolk, ss. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of

DANIEL J. CREAMER late of Weymouth, in said County, de-

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by John P. Hunt of said Weymouth, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving surety on his official bond:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline, in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fourth day of September, A. D. 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Weymouth Gazette and Transcript, a newspaper published in said Weymouth, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, Joseph R. McCoole, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of September, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twentyfour.

JUST A LITTLE

By CLARISSA MACKIE

FOOL

Lin Garnett had been foreman at the Bitter Springs ranch for three months, and as he rode forth this bright May morning, he sighed contentedly. There was a quizzical smile on his thin, good-looking face, out of which shone a pair of brilliant blue eyes, eyes that softened noticeably when he patted the satiny neck of his mount, a beautiful black which he had owned for several years.

"Looks like we'd better tie up to this outfit for life, Chummy, old fellow! The boss says there's a good chance for me to buy him out in a few years, and my savings account tells me this is just the country I've been looking for all these years since I came West! There's dad, too, all ready to grubstake me if I need It, which I don't, and, believe me, this would be some pretty country for the folks to spend their vacations in when the East bores 'em! Well, Chummy, if I'm going to acquire a ranch one of these days, I must pick me a wife! In the meantime, we better get on to the job!" With that, Lin dropped his dreaming attitude and touched his heel to Chum's flank. In an instant they were flying down

The young foreman was on his way to oversee the mending of some wire fences and to look over the ground which the boss had allowed a motion picture company to use as the location for a big picture. It was rather odd that Stevens had given permission to the picture people to use any of his property for the whole outfit knew that the boss and his wife were bitterly opposed to the "movies." Lin Garnett had heard the story soon after his arrival, and thought that it explained why the Stevens never went over to Midvale on "movie" nights, though the rest of the outfit went. Two year before a young sister of Mrs. Stevens, who lived with them, had run away from home and gone to Hollywood. Her name was never mentioned, but the unanimous opinion was that the girl was a little fool. Lin felt rather sorry for her, for he could imagine the disillusionment that was "the little fool's" portion.

Lin found the fences progressing satisfactorily, and from what he heard from the two men working there he learned that the motion picture people were already on location, "and running around like an escaped lunatic asylum," added Billy West, dryly. "Mike and me, we've been holdin' onto our sides laffin' at the stunts they pull off!" Lin smiled as he went off, for in the distance he could see the dark flying specks that he knew were horses and riders; as he went, he reflected that it was a fine day to take pictures, and wondered if he would eventually see the film in the Rialto theater at Midvale.

The trail suddenly turned and followed the course of a narrow creek. He stopped to water the horse, and just as Chum lifted his head and shook a shower of water drops from his muzzle, there came the sound of shots close at hand, a man's voice raised in anger, and a girl's sharp

Chum took the creek in one bound and, rounding the shoulder of a small broken hill, Lin ran right into a little scene that made his blood boil with anger. A rat-faced little man, astride a big bony horse, was pointing a megaphone at a white-faced girl, while he berated her in rough language. The girl, pale as death, leaned wearily against a small buckskin pony; she wore khaki riding clothes-knickers and shirt-and her rich red hair was uncovered. As Lin rode into the scene, the director was screaming with

"You're fired-get your pay from the cashier-and beat it, d'you hear? You'll ruin the pictur-makin' a fool of yourself like that, refusin' to let Big Eagle kiss you—you're to forget yourself, see? He's saved your life from the bad man, and that's his reward-see?"

"You are so painfully ignorant, Green; you must know that an . Indian doesn't claim a reward like that for an act of bravery-" she laughed brokenly; "besides, I won't let any of them kiss me, there! I don't care if I am fired-I'd rather starve to death in my own country than to take another cent of your money!"

"You little fool," raged Green, "you were only hired because of your good riding-you ain't got no looks-"

"Cut it out!" said Lin coolly, riding up to the director and boring into the little eyes with his brilliant blue gaze, hard as the steel that gleamed in either hand. "Lord Chesterfield, beat it back to your paper dolls, and you, Big Eagle, you run along, too! I'm looking out for the lady."

"And what if I don't go?" snarled Green with an evil smile.

"But you are going, young feller, fust like that, and that, and that!" punctuating each word with a revolver shot in the vicinity of the feet of the director's horse, which swung about and headed for the motion picture camp, the man clinging desperately to the saddle. The stoical countenance of Big Eagle relaxed, and he nodded approval as he swung his horse the same direction.

"Please get behind the little hill and wait for me," said Lin to the girl, "I've got to get that outfit off this neighborhood. Will you wait for

She smiled wanly. "I'll have to, because I've lost my job, and there is no place to go-

"Just wait-I'll bring your money back to you-what is your name?" "Dorothy Stone, and thank you," she answered gratefully.

Lin touched the impatient Chum and away they tore after the fleeing director. Lin emptied both revolvers at the heels of the big horse, and as they dismounted before the group of tents, a little crowd of people pushed forward. A big, important-looking man, the managing director, yelled a volley of questions.

Lin answered for both of them, for Green was speechless with the wild terror of his ride. All the fight was out of him. "And I'll take Miss Stone's money to her," wound up Lin.
"This man has fired her, and she wants her pay."

"Does, eh? And who the blanketyblank are you?" boomed the big man. "Nobody much, only the foreman of the Bitter Springs ranch that owns this property. . . and the owner of the ranch happens to be Dorothy Stone's brother-in-law. Good reason for your paying up and moving along to some other location, eh?" Lin galloped back to the hillock, where he found Dorothy Stone. "How did you persuade them to give it to

"Told a whopper," admitted Lin, unabashed. "Told them you were related to Boss Stevens of this ranch-" "Oh, oh!" she interrupted with sudden tears in her dark eyes, "how did you know that?" "Didn't-thought I was making it up," confessed Lin dizzily. "Are you Mrs. Stone's sister? All right, then, they're just breaking their hearts over you-you come right home with me!"

A month later Lin told Dorothy about his plan to make a home in that part of the country. "The adjoining place is for sale—the Wild Rose outfit—and there's just one thing keeping me from buying it," he remarked, looking at the moon. "And that is the price, I suppose?" sighed Dorothy, who, rested and restored to a normal existence, had blossomed forth delightfully.

"I've got the money—just waiting for a wife-how about it, Dorothy?" "But I am just a little fool," she protested. "I want a little fool for my wifeshe'd sure be glad to stay around where I was," argued happy Lin.

Tropical Trees That Bear Valuable Fruit

The shea, or butter tree, is found in Africa, and is similar in appearance to the American oak. The fruit is somewhat like an olive in form, and the kernel, from which the butter is extracted, is inclosed in a sweet pulp, under a thin green rind. The kernel is dried in the sun and then boiled in water, the process producing a white, firm, rich-flavored butter that will last a year without salt.

The bread-fruit tree is a native of southeastern Asia and certain islands of the Pacific, but it has been imported to the tropical parts of America and flourishes there as well as in its original place, says the Detroit News. If furnishes good shade as well as producing its singular fruit, which is oval, from six inches to nine inches round, and when ripe is of a rich yellow hue. It hangs in clusters of two or three on a small thick stalk. The fruit is roasted until the outside is brown and crisp; the pulp is then of the consistency of bread, which it greatly resembles in taste, and is a most nutritious food.

The cow tree grows in South America and has broad leaves ten inches long. The tree produces a fleshy fruit, but is more highly valued for the sap. thick, of glutinous quality, pleasant taste and agreeable odor. The milk is obtained by making incisions in the trunk of the tree, and is largely used by farm laborers, who drink it and dip in it their bread made of maize.

His Own Organization Amongst many good stories told by Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous yachts man, is one concerning a certain amateur sailor whose attempts at joining the exceedingly exclusive Royal Yacht squadron had been repeatedly rejected. At last one day the disgusted candidate turned up at Cowes, flying from his mast head a pennant showing the legend M. O. B. Y. S. There were anxious discussions as to what these letters could represent, and at last the squadron descended sufficiently from its dignity to inquire. "Those letters," said the owner huffily, "stand for 'My Own Blooming Yacht Squad-

Unique Table

The Biblical many-colored coat of Joseph has a rival in the modern world of cabinet-making in the form of a library table made by W. W. TERTAINLY it is good sport to bend without restraint, to look as supple as you feel, and to know that you appear slimmer than you really are.

Delanne accomplishes all this for you. Its light boning provides support and control, prevents your figure from spreading the least bit, and still is comfortable as no boning at all.

The upper section of this new model is composed of a side-closing brassiere while the lower part consists of a lightly boned hip-girdle with a short flexible front steel. Elastic sections at the sides give splendid figure lines with added comfort.

The back part of this garment is lightly boned with washable black boning.

Delanne is made of dainty pink silk striped batiste.

S. OF V. BENEFIT

"The Drummer Boy" is coming to Weymouth Sept. 25 and 26. The old favorite war drama to be presented in the interests of Sons of Veterans Relief Fund at the Gem theatre.

Like good wine "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh" that has been for so many years the medium through which military organizations have raised funds, improves with age, and year after year becomes more palatable.

This popular and famous old play was written and first produced in the A lighthouse of the third mag- at 12. A graded school of Christian old Mozart hall, afterwards renamed the Grand Opera House at Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1870, by its authors, S. J. Muscraft and M. H. Boyden. In the face of numerous predictions of its failure, it met with great success.

It was billed to run a week, but at the request of many people, it ran for three weeks, and the total receipts were $17,812.10. That was the first performance and it never had a failure. Following the death of its owners, A. F. Nail of Mansfield, Ohio, secured control and he produced the play in almost every large city and town from Maine to California.

The play has never been produced by a professional company. It was written and produced solely for amateur use, a kind of home talent affair.

Mr. Nail had the courage and perseverance to keep the play before the public for more than forty years; people went wild over it, and the City Square, open every week day, demand for return engagements was holidays excepted, from 11 A. M. to great. Mr. Nail used to play the chardemand for return engagements was acter of Uncle Joe and his wonderful interpretation of this funny old nigger had made him a host of friends throughout the United States. Mr. Nail passed away some twelve years

> Mr. Baribeau of Worcester, a well known and very capable actor-director has obtained the producing rights from his widow, Margaret C. Nail. "The Drummer Boy" under Mr. Baribeau's management and stage direction has been greatly improved.

> In reviving the old play Mr. Baribeau has a purpose in view and that purpose is to teach patriolism through the power of the drama. "The Drummer Boy" is educating as well as entertaining. It teaches patriotism, love of country, and respect for the flag. Wherever the "Drummer Boy" has been presented, it has created a deep feeling of love, respect and admiration for the G. A. R. With such a weapon much can be done to help keep the spirit of the Grand Army

> The play is in five acts, twelve scenes and three tableaus, and calls for a cast of twenty principals and fiftye supernumeraries. Many of the most prominent citizens in the United States have taken part in this grand old classic; they consider it an honor to participate in a play that has earned such prestige, and stands unparalelled in all the history of amateur dramatics. The complete cast of characters will be published later.

The committee in charge are: Luther S. Files, chairman, Irwin B. W. Edwin Miller and Alfred M. Files.

S. OF V. AUXILIARY

The next meeting of Auxiliary 31, S. of V., will be held in G. A. R. hall o'clock. The ladies circle of the auxiliary met with Mrs. Nettie Steever sale Sept. 22.

THE GLOBE POPULAR It is because of the regular and varied features that the Boston Globe is so popular with the people. There are features for every member of the family, men and women, boys and girls. The comic strips, the household department, the once over, the favorite stories of Irving S. Cobb. the Dorothy Dix letter box, the Teepee Tales, and many others are regular features.

GOOD BYE BATHING GIRLS Pictures of bathing girls and all other cut-outs, pasted on windshields of automobiles, are today under the ban of the State Registry of Motor Vehicles. Registrar Goodwin, in a terse statement, says:

"The absurd practice of pasting bathing girls on windshields and rear windows of automobiles is growing so rapidly that drastic action must be taken at once to stop it. While it may be an interesting study for psychologists to inquire as to why any sane person can be so ridiculous as to engage in this nonsense, it is the duty of this department to stop it, for it is a dangerous thing.

"When these mermaids first appeared, they were thin and sylph-like but the enterprising manufacturers realizing that while some operators might like them thin, others would prefer them plump, introduced a new crop and the fair bathers are increasing in size so that there is every reason to believe that some of these beauties will soon cover the whole windshield.

GOOD LUCK FOR OWLS

The Owls met the Cohasset Town Team at Cohasset on Sunday and almost suffered a defeat, but sensational scoring in the ninth gave the Owls six runs, and game was then called because of the Sunday hours, leaving the score a tie 7-7. The Cohassets excelled at the bat with 15 hits to 7 for the Owls, and made only one error where the Owls made four. The Owls, however, had their usual good luck, and the score by innings

RANGERS WIN OVER OWLS

In the past week the Ranger A. A. took three games. Last Wednesday evening they defeated the fast Braintree All Stars 16-6 at Braintree playground. Mauro pitched a good game for the Rangers.

Saturday the game at the Fair Grounds was easily won by the Rangers. There was a good crowd to cheer both teams, but after the first inning the North Weymouth fans were quiet all the rest of the game while the Ranger fans kept cheering their boys to the end.

Fisher pitched a game that was his best allowing but three scattered hits while the Ranger batters hit Crawford frequently and got 12 hits. Lonergan was the star of the game with two doubles and a home run. Rangers 0 3 0 1 2 0 1 0 x-7 Owls 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1

RECREATION FESTIVAL

The grand fall festival of the Workers' Recreation Center was held on Labor Day, at the Workers' Recreation field, East Weymouth. It rained in the morning but cleared off for the afternoon and many people came to the festival, which was a success in every way. At 7 P. M. the Chevrolet auto worth $680 was awarded to William Leins of Albertina street, Quincy. The second prize was a Chevrolet worth $625 and went to A. Carlson of South Carna.

In the evening there was a dance at the Lake View Park dance hall. Not all were of Finnish birth and the Finnish people were glad to see so many Americans present. Good music was furnished by the Y. P. S. L orchestra of Quincy. All the people at the field day as well as at the dance behaved well. The committee wants to thank very much all the people who were present at the grand fall festival and also the Selectmen of the town of Weymouth for holding a special meeting Saturday night, Aug. Center could get a license to hold a dance at the dance hall.

Good Motto for Life: "Bring Out the Best"

Lighting Fixtures Are Important in Home

"A house may have adequate wiring and include the desired number of outlets and still be a failure from the standpoint of illumination unless care is exercised in the selection of lighting fixtures," states a prominent lighting fixture dealer.

"It has been truly said that the charm of a room is contingent upon its lighting effects, and as the fixture is the determining factor in creating these effects, the style, shape and color to be used in the various rooms is worthy of consideration

"In years past we resigned ourselves to the glare of center domes and chandeliers, unshaded lamps and ugly fixtures, because we thought we had to accept whatever happened to be installed when the house was built. Fortunately, however, there has been a marked change in the marketing of fixtures, so that today we are able to change them as readily as we change our floor coverings or wall papers. The quality and design of fixtures are now determined by the texture and color of the furnishings, and by the size and shape of the room.

"The size and type of the house. likewise, must be reckoned with when in the market for fixtures, as those that would be effective in a cottage or smaller suburban house would be quite out of place in a town house or on a palatial country estate."

Why Glaciers Form in Valleys of Mountains

Many valleys of the Alps and of other high mountain ranges are filled with ice which extends from the snow fields above to well below the tree line. This mass of ice is called a glacier. The winter's snow, falling on the lower part of the glacier, melts away the following summer and exposes the ice, which also melts to some extent, and which, if there were not some source of supply, would entirely disappear. In the snow fields above, the annual snowfall is not all melted in summer, and there is an accumulation of snow. It is evident that in time the snow would grow indefinitely high if there were no means of relief. The necessary relief is found in the flow of the ice, which carries off the surplus snowfalls of the snow fields, consolidated into ice, to the lower part of the glacier. A glacier, therefore, has two distinct parts-a reservoir, where the snow is collected. and a dissipator, where the ice melts. The line separating these two regions is usually called the nerve line. The following is therefore a fair definition: A glacier is a body of ice and snow formed in a region where the snowfall is greater than the waste, and flowing to a region where the waste is greater than the snowfall,

Why Gregorian Calendar Now Is in General Use

The name Gregorian calendar is given to the reformed calendar introduced by Pope Gregory XIII in 1582 to correct an error in the civil year, which in the Julian calendar had been eleven minutes and a few seconds too long. This disparity, although a small one, increased as the years rolled by. so that in the Sixteenth century the civil year was ten days behind the solar year. To remedy this difficulty ten days were omitted from the Julian calendar, thus causing the vernal equinox to fall on March 21 instead of on March 11. Between the years 1582-1753 the Gregorian calendar was introduced into all the principal countries of Europe except Russia, Greece, Turkey and some of the smaller states. The Julian calendar now has been superseded by the Gregorian almost everywhere in the Western world.

Why Pen Does Not "Sputter" If there was no hole in the back of the pen nib, the pen would "sputter" when used. The hole also aids in retaining more ink on the nib when writing. It is to avoid blotting that pens are made in two segments. By cutting away a section between, greater flexibility still is attained. At the same time, a pen cut to certain angles will either take up only a single coating of ink, so needing too frequent dippings. or will take up such a "blob" that it blots the writing. A hole is therefore cut to take a film of ink, kept in place by air pressure, and this film, gradually descending down the nib, causes a regular and even flow of ink.

Why Radium Is Cheaper

There was a break in the radium market not long ago. The price suddenly plunged from $3,300,000 an ounce to $2,500,000, due to the discovery in Katanga in the Belgian Kongo of extraordinary deposits of a radium-bearing ore, from 25 to 30 times richer than the earth ever before yielded. Even more recently new fields of unusual promise came to light in some old copper mines in Czechoslovakia, a circumstance that may drive the market price down still further, though not to such an extent as 25 per cent.-Popular Science Monthly.

Why New York State Leads

New York state leads all the others in the amount of water-power development-1,300,000 horsepower. The largest single development is at Niagara Falls. The second state in the use of "white coal" is California, where more than 1,100,000 horsepower is developed. Washington holds third place. using 454,000 horsepower. Maine is fourth with a few thousand horsepower less, and Montana fifth.-Popu lar Science Monthly.

DM you ever stop to think what kind of a woman your wife would have been if you had not asked her to marry you? Or did you ever imagine what type of man your husband would have been if you had not answered "Yes"? Have you ever crushed any ambition, chased away any talents or driven inspiration from your household? What have you done to increase or develop your life partner's talents? Whether you are aware of it or not, you have either brought out the best side of this partner's life or buried all that was good in him or her.

A good many of us possess two sides. There are more Doctor Jekylls and Mr. Hydes in the world than we realize. How frequently your opinion of a man and some one else's do not tally! You will often say: "I can't see how Brown tolerates Jones; he's the meanest man in the world!" And yet Brown has found the better side

Have you found the better side of your husband or wife? Have you done anything to bring that better side to the front?-Chicago Journal.

China Had Great Ruler in Ch'in Shih Huang

Fifty miles south of the Chinese city of Peking has been discovered the walls of an ancient city, which flourished over 2,000 years ago. The Plumbing and Heating Contractor walls embrace greater area than the walls of Peking and lie buried at an average depth of four feet. Late in the Second century B. C., there arose a king in the then comparatively small China who compared favorably with Alexander in conquests and empire building and whose empire lasted almost until the present day. This was Ch'in Shih Huang, or Shih Huang Ti ("The First Emperor"), whose rule ending in 209 B. C., marks the close of the feudal period and the beginning of the empire in Chinese history. Shih Huang Ti subdued the feudal princes, built the famed great Chinese wall and successfully defended the country PAINTS, OILS and HARDWARE against the Tartars from the north, standardized money, transportation, writing and other things which aided centralization, and destroyed as much of the ancient classics and traditions as possible, with the idea that the history of the Chinese empire should begin with his reign.

Guiana Blow Gun

Perhaps the most elaborate form of of the Guianas. It consists of an inner tube fashioned from a certain palm which grows very thin and straight.

The pithy center and the knots are knocked out with a hardwood stick, and the bore, about one-half inch in diameter, is ground to a machine finish with a rough leaf which cuts like sandpaper. This barrel is then inclosed for protection in an outer casing made of two lengths of hardwood grooved down the center, glued together and bound with ornamental cane and beadwork, says the Detroit

A lip piece of carved wood is carefully fitted, and sights are addedactual front and rear sights, the latter open, the lower jaw and canine teeth weapon is then a completed zarabalan, a field place of some eight to ten or twelve feet in length, according to the available length of the original inner

Joke on Archeologists

Fossils of prehistoric animals which lived during the great Ice age are found in certain layers of blue clay in Tennessee. Man, it has been claimed. Property cared for Rents collected arrived on the scene thousands of Tel. Wey. 0402W years after these blue clay deposits were made. Recently, however, geologists working near the site of an old Indian earthwork found some of this same sort of blue clay. Underneath SELL or BUY this clay were human bones. The discovery was exciting-the geological evidence seemed to place the first Tennesseeans back with Ice age fossils. Then some kill-joy in the party discovered that the Indians had evidently transported this clay from some distance and packed it down into flat layers resembling geological strata.

Valuable Black Walnut

A number of native black-walnut trees have been discovered whose nuts possess superior cracking qualities. By means of scions or buds from the original trees, these are being propagated in greater numbers each year. since the value of the nut crop is thereby greatly enhanced and the timber is of the same high quality as that of other walnut trees. Stocks of these selected trees are available in limited numbers from the owners and make possible the growing of valuable nut trees about the home or in nut orchards, says the American Forestry association.

Forced to Beg Off

An indefatigable traveler, arriving in New York, did not go to the palatial caravansary he usually patronized but put up in an obscure hotel on a side street. But the very next day he bumped into the manager of the downto-the-minute hostelry where he bad always stopped and where he was known so well.

"Why, Mr. Blank," was the shocked greeting, "in New York and not stopping with us?"

"It's this way, old fellow," explained Blank contritely. "I'm too tired this trip to live up to the unparalleled service you give."

KANGAROO RAT STREET

"Thump, thump," went Mr. Kangaroo Rat's hind feet.

"Thump, thump," they went again. And before long another Kangaroo Rat could be seen along the Western desert where they made their home.

"I thought I'd come to call," said Mr. Kangaroo Rat to his neighbor. "I didn't hear you knock at first," said Master Kangaroo Rat.

Mr. Kangaroo Rat said nothing. But to himself he said that probably Master Kangaroo Rat had been putting Court. away some of the food which he stored in his burrow home. Before he had put it away he had had it in his cheek pouches which served as a marketing basket.

He never left his marketing basket anywhere as you can imagine! "I suppose," Master Kangaroo Rat said, "if we had doors with doorbells you'd ring the doorbell instead of Norfolk, ss. thumping with your hind feet to show that you had come a-calling." "Possibly I would," said Mr. Kangaroo Rat. "But it does seem so funny to me to think that some creatures think they're the only ones who live in streets.

"They think they are the only ones who go around and pay sociable calls on each other. They do not know that we, too, have little villages and that the paths or streets between our houses are well-worn trails because we have passed over them so often in going to call on each other.

"Of course at times we quarrel. When some try to get the better of us or take away our things we quarrel, but then often people quarrel about their possessions and about their same should not be granted. rights!

"So we're not unusual about that. "I think you have a nice burrow," Mr. Kangaroo Rat went on. "It is

"I think the homes and mounds and burrows and all about these parts are very attractive and nice, don't you, Master Kangaroo Rat?"

"Well, Mr. Kangaroo Rat, I hear you have three entrances to your home. I found two all I heeded. But I must come over and see yours soon."

"You must indeed," said Mr. Kangaroo Rat. "Perhaps you would come back and see it with me. I made it myself just as we all build our own homes.

"But Master Kangaroo Rat, it seems a pity we should be called by a name which really we shouldn't have. We're not rats and we're not kangaroos. It is true we have short front legs and long hind legs and can jump. It is true, too we have a long tail by which we balance ourselves when we jump. "But our nearest relatives are the Pocket Mice. But come along now and roo Rat street, and it's a pleasant eve-time, do you, Master Kangaroo Rat?" But he knew the answer to that question, so off they jumped together and were joined by some Pocket Mice as they made their way down Kangaroo Rat street.

Funny Little Frog

Miss Teachem had been giving the class a nature lesson. It was a class of little boys and, in order to find out how much of the information had penetrated their somewhat thick heads she asked them to write an essay on the frog. ADVERTISE

Few merchants really have the proper appreciation of what advertising means to them. A writer in an exchange aptly puts it in this

If a man spoke to his wife only once a month or every two months, she wouldn't even recognize his voice, says an exchange. Yet some business men advertise once a month or every two months and then wonder why they don't get more business. Advertise every week. Remember "the used key is always: bright". The store that tells the public what it is doing every day is the store that gets there in the end.-New Bethlehem (Pa.) Leader.

AUTO RAN INTO TRAIN

Fortunately there was a train at the East Weymouth station at 4.30 train due from Boston at 4.22 was just pulling out of the station instead of entering the station, as the truck might have been in the path of the engine, rather than the train in the path of the truck. The chauffeur of the truck was John W. H. Jones and he either lost control of the truck or else the brakes did not work for the truck dashed down Station street, jumped the platform on the easterly side of the depot and banged into the rear car as the train was pulling out of the station. Jones escaped unhurt, but the forward end of his truck was wrecked, and one wheel demolished. The outward Hingham express was close behind the accommodation train and the inward train leaving at 4.46 soon came along.

The truck is owned by Russ Tuttle. He had the wrecked car taken to a garage for repairs. There were wild

GRATEFUL FOR SUPPORT

I would like to express my deep appreciation for the splendid vote given me for County Commissioner by maries Tuesday. I am very grateful 1st of this year. for their support.

COLLECTION OF GARBAGE An indignation meeting was held at the North Weymouth Yacht clubhouse on Monday evening and was attended by about 75 men and women of Ward

The meeting was called to discuss what has become a vital question in this part of the town, namely the disposal of garbage. The assembly which was made up of both summer and year-round residents feel that the, time has arrived when something must be done along this line. The general opinion seemed to be that Ward One is being sadly neglected by the town fathers and inasmuch as this ward returns more taxes to the town treasury than any other two wards combined, fail to see any squareness in the deal. The meeting was presided over by E. R. Walsh. Mr. Walsh, Mr. Cruikshank, Mr. Veader, Mr. Perkins, Mr. Calnan and Mr. Weston, all residents of this section, told of the trouble experienced in the past few years regarding the disposal of garbage. Mrs. John Leighton, vice-president of the North Weymouth Welfare Association, told of the futile efforts of that society to obtain a garbage collection.

A committee with S. A. Perkins as chairman and Mrs. Warren Menchin as secretary was chosen and consists of the following members: Messrs Weston, Perkins, Ferguson, Veader, J. H. Leighton, Salzgebber, Mugford, Brush, Kilduff, Cruikshank and J. Walsh. Mrs. Gertrude Parker, Mabel Perkins, Helen Jackman, Alice Menchin, Katie Damon, Nora Joyce, Viola Gabler, Mary Leighton and Mary Pratt.

Accident to Bank President Chas. T. Crane Proves Fatal

the previous Wednesday evening. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Union Congregational church.

Mr. Crane was born on Quincy avenue, Braintree, Sept. 19, 1843, the son of John and Elizabeth (Nash) Crane, being in his 81st year. He was educated in the schools of Braintree. With the exception of a year in the West, he has lived among us. ten years in Weymouth and then on Quincy avenue, Braintree. He en Quincy, also among church people and tered the bank about five years after bank officials. Although fifty years his marriage. Aside from his connection with the Union church and Sunday School, his only public office is that of an Electric Light Commis- ceiving the congratulations of their sioner in Braintree.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane have a proud record among us. Not only have they lived here as man and wife for fifty years, but Mr. Crane has been associated with the Weymouth Savings Bank since 1878, being elected treasurer in 1879, about 45 years ago; for over fifty years he has been a deacon of Union church, for many years its treasurer, and for 46 years superintendent of the Sunday School. Mrs. Crane was until recently superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday School.

It was on June 27, 1923, that the new banking house of the Weymouth Savings Bank was completed in Washington Square at the corner of Washington and Front streets, and the Gazette-Transcript said at the time, that it would be a monument to the long and faithful services of Mr. Crane as treasurer, little realizing at the time that death was so near. It is a bank building of which any city of 100,000

A new a result of an automobile accident granolithic sidewalk enhances the appearance of the building, and President Crane had just completed the grading of the lot on Front street and caused an artistic iron fence to be erected.

The observance of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Crane on May 1, 1923, was a community affair that over-taxed their home on Quincy avenue, East Braintree, they having so many friends in Weymouth, Braintree, and married and nearly 80 years of age, Mr. and Mrs. Crane enjoyed good health, and stood all the evening reguests. They were assisted in receiving by two nieces of Mrs. Crane, Miss Ethel Walbridge and Miss Marion Walbridge, both of Wisconsin, and a neice of Mr. Crane, Mrs. B. F. Johnson and her husband of Weymouth. A little grandson and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were often in line and added to the picturesqueness of the scene. The rooms were decorated with flowers. The couple received many valuable gifts of esteem.

Mrs. Crane has been prominent in the Union church and Sunday School, the Monday Club of Weymouth, the Philergians of Braintree, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Women's Missionary Circle, and the Benevolent Society, and members of these organizations and numerous friends unite in extending sympathy and assistance to her at this time.

COMPRESSION IS SERIOUS MATTER

President Greer Gives Some Sound Advice on How to Master Grave Problem.

By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.) During our apprenticeship in the auto school, garage or breaking in on our first car, each one of us has been commanded to go out and buy a can of compression. After a conscientious search and being passed from one mechanic to another some one suddenly spilled the beans. It was then that we discovered that a can of compression is similar to a left-handed monkey wrench. We laughed about it and hen took on the next automobile boob. And since the coming of the selfstarter, engine compression might as well be in a can for all the average notorcar owner knows or cares. But the secret of the sweet-running engine s-compression.

Turn Over the Engine. Try the compression of each cylinler by turning the engine over with he hand crank. If it is weak or if it raries in different cylinders, have the rouble repaired at once. Compression past a spark plug. There possibly may be a cracked cylinder, in which case you are totally "out of luck." The piston rings may have turned so that the openings are all in line, or 70u may be using such a light oil that the engine does not get a tight compression seal. Oil when heated, is very thin. In some cases patented piston rings will help eliminate the eakage. If the cylinder is worn oval there is no remedy except that of replacing it. Kerosene will help free the rings of carbon, but it is best to ase it when you are ready to drain off the old crank-case oil.

Make sure that the spark plugs fit tightly and that they are provided with good asbestos gaskets. A cracked porcelain will allow compression to

Look over the priming cups and see hat they all fit tightly and stay

Some of the Symptoms.

During compression the valves should be tightly closed. A broken spring or faulty adjustment will prevent their closing, and this will result in no compression at all, or, in the case of incorrect timing, the trouble will be noticeable as a lack of power in all cylinders. Carbon under the valves will prevent them from seating tightly. The remedy here is to keep the engine free from carbon, the valves clean and be sure that the timing of the valves and the tappet adjustment are as set down in your instruction book.

When an engine that is clean, properly lubricated and has its valves ground regularly shows a serious loss of power, the lack of proper compression may safely be ascribed to the piston rings having worked into line, or the cylinders having worn to a point where the pistons are unduly loose. With the modern type rings, the former is a rare fault nowadays, so that the cause is narrowed down to plain wear.

These are the chief causes of loss of compression. Watch the compression-it will save you money that otherwise you would give to the repair

Removing Studs

A device to remove study without marring the threads can be made from a short piece of cold rolled steel. A portion on each side is filed flat to fit a wrench and it is drilled and threaded to fit the stud to be removed. The device is screwed onto the projecting end of the stud and a cap screw is threaded into the other end to jam the stud, which permits the removal of the stud when a wrench is applied to the flats of the tool.

Steel Block

Car owners who work at the bench seem to make a habit of using the vise as a block, when they are cutting off metal with a chisel. This is not good for the vise, and a square steel block, perhaps an inch thick, clamped to the bench, will give a satisfactory base for this work and save the vise.

 Face and Fear Mark Motorist in Crowd

Imagine a motorist out for a walk! You ought to be able to pick him out of a mob of pedestrians. For he acts and looks as different from the regular run of walkers as does the automobile he drives from the horse it tries to run down.

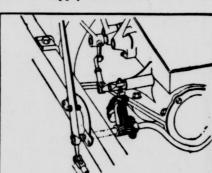

What changed him so? The helter-skelter of traffic, whistles of traffic cops, playing children, crossing pedestrians, stopping street cars, scooting busses, night lights, weird signaling, elusive parking spaces, speed traps-and a thousand and one other annoyances.

The result is he has developed a singular expression brought on by an entanglement of emotions, a psychological complex peculiar to auto driving. His features are drawn, taut, determined. His eyes are set and straining. Deep lines on either side of his mouth turn down. He is serious.

Safety and Controlling Apparatus Is Invented

The Scientific American in illustratnay leak past the piston rings; it may | ing and describing a safety device for escape through a leaky valve, or ooze the clutch-controlling means of automobiles, the invention of J. Calcaterra, 141 East Twenty-third street, New York, says:

Two patents have been issued to this inventor on controlling and safety devices which insure the natural position of the clutch of planetary transmission gears, and without modification of the original construction. The safety device is swung to set position with the movement of the controller shaft to apply the brake, to be en-

Perspective View of Automobile With

Invention Applied. gagable by a screw rocking with the clutch lever, but the Calcaterra device permits the release of the brake without releasing the safety device, the idea being to prevent the accidental running away of a car, when the brake is released, thus eliminating much emergency brake trouble by holding the clutch neutral until it is purposely thrown into low gear position by depression of the pedal lever, whereby the safety device is automatically restored ready to be again operated when the brake is applied. Also it permits the car to be manually moved without being opposed by the brake Stop means holding the device always in position to be operated.

Increasing Generator Output A good way to adjust a generator to increase the flow of the current to the battery is to tighten the adjustment of the fan belt which drives the generator. This will speed up the generator and thus increase the output. Another method is by adjusting the tension of the spring on the regulator armature. Increasing the pressure raises the charging rate and decreasing the pressure lowers it.

Pure Water

Even a novice knows that radiators. piping, jackets, etc., are injured and made inefficient through incrustations resulting from mineral substances in herent in all of nature's aqua pura products, save, perhaps, rain water The only safe thing to use, therefore is distilled water.

Sticking Valves

Tire valves which have stuck and from which the top has been sheared off or which cannot be handled with the tire tool in the ordinary way, may be removed as follows: Use a small three-cornered file, which is driven down to the center of the valve core with a hammer, then using the file as a handle to unscrew the valve.

FRESH AIR?

Some day the world may be crowded that air will have to be measured and rationed out to the people. Today air is free. Why not get your share?

Keep the windows wide open at night so that you can breathe fresh air all night. With cooler nights coming, more covers may be added and the windows opened wide to let in the breeze you have been longing for in the summer-time. Baby and grandfather need fresh air, too. Their windows should be open at night-wide open. They should get out-of-doors in the daytime. Many colds begin in the fall and stick all winter just because people are shut up too much inside Get out-of-doors as much as possible and when it isn't possible open the windows wide and let the outdoors in.

SOME OF THE REASONS

When we come to realize that the yearly expenses of all the governments in this country have reached the stupendous sum of about $7,500. 000,000, we get some idea of what this means. Of this amount about $3,500,000,000 is needed by the national government. Such a sum is difficult to comprehend. It represents all the pay of 5,000,000 wage earners receiving $5 a day, working 300 days in the year. If the Government should add on $100,000,000 of expense it would represent four days more work of these wage earners. These are some of the reasons why I want to cut down public expense.-Calvin Coolidge.

Publications and other materials of all Federal Departments useful to teachers are listed for the first time in a bulletin just issued by the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior.

The materials listed include bulletins, leaflets, circulars, periodicals, maps, charts, mounted exhibits, models, stereopticon slides, and moving picture films. This listing by sources of the wealth of material readily available through the Federal Gov ernment Departments will be very helpful to the educational world as few know the nature of the available material or the method of obtaining it. The bulletin is freely illustrated reproducing types of the material available. Persons desiring the bulletin should address the Commissioner of Education, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C., asking for Bulletin, 1924, No. 23.

-The oldest shoe factory in the country has gone out of business. Since 1762 the shop founded by James Benedict has continued under ownership of his descendants to produce the celebrated New Canaan hand made shoe, which for a century enjoyed the largest sale of any factory footwear. It is said that the competition of machinery, which the House of Benedict refused to install, is responsible for the factory being closed.

-The largest elevated water tank in the world is being erected in San Diego, California. It has a capacity W. M. Collier, United States ambassa of 1,200,000 gallons.

Merchants--Attention

It has come to the attention of the Gazette and Transcript that agents for cut (illustration) and advertising services have told local merchants that "The Gazette-Transcript recommends this service."

The Gazette advertising department recommends no advertising services except on Gazette letterheads over the signature of someone in authority on the newspaper, and very seldom does this, as many of these services are poor.

The Gazette maintains a cut service for merchants which is available at all times and will gladly give advice on others. We will be glad to recommend any outside cut service if it is considered of merit and suitable to the advertiser's needs, as the Gazette-Transcript's own service is not conducted for profit and there is no prejudice because of "competition".

You are invited to visit our Mirro Department

An interesting experience is in store for you. In our Mirro Department we are now showing a complete selection of MIRRO, The Finest Aluminum. You are cordially invited to inspect this unusual exhibit.

You will not be asked to buy a single thing, but we know that you will carry away with you at least a dozen ideas for improving your household equipment, as the result of examining the almost endless variety of fine and useful articles that you will find.

After you have seen this Mirro exhibit, we'll expect only two things:-that you will think of Mirro as being synonymous with quality and true economy, and of our store as being the place where you can buy Mirro with the greatest convenience and satisfaction.

Curtailment of Trains Not as Sweeping as Proposed

trains on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. has had a good effect. When it was put up to General Manager Wilson that the schedule proposed by him would demoralize the South Shore train service and result in great injury to Weymouth and other towns, he was quick to realize the situation and has made several concessions which the commuters will appreciate. In fact as the chedule now stands it is in some respects an improvement on the usual winter schedule, but the railroad will make a serious mistake if it does not restore the complete winter schedule of 1923-24, with all the stops to which the people have

The protest in Weymouth, Hingham, become accustomed. The employees Rockland, Quincy and other towns | and officials of our shop factories against the proposed curtailment of need the morning and evening trains with all the stops, as help comes from Hingham and the South Shore towns, from all the Braintrees and the Weymouths, from East Milton and West Quincy, from Norfolk Downs, Wollaston, Quincy and Quincy Adams. Give us trains and trains that make the stops.

The Revised Schedule

Last week Thursday the Weymouth committee, William J. Holbrook, Edward W. Hunt, Winslow M. Tirrell, John H. Moran, and Preston Lewis were promised the following schedul which, however, is subject to change: (Continued on page thirteen)

WHY SUBSCRIBE

The Publishers' Auxiliary is printing a series of articles from different editors, answering the question-"Why the People in My Community Should Subscribe for My Paper." Here is one of the series by A. J. Heuring, editor of the Winslow (Ind.) Dispatch.

"It is some task to broadcast to an 17 Sept. 1862-Battle of Antietam invisible audience why the people of 17 Sept. 1907-Oklahoma adopted conmy community should subscribe for the Winslow Dispatch. When I go 17 Sept. 1923-Conflagration at Berke-EDWARD W. HUNT C. P. WHITTLE soliciting it is easier to tell the fellow face to face than it is to do it this way. I can tell the fellow I am after that he cannot afford to let his 18 Sept. 1860-Clinton Scollard, poet family grow up in ignorance when the opportunity is at hand for $2.50 18 Sept. 1779-Joseph Story, jurist a year to give them a college education. And so far we have had no trouble in landing him and when once 18 Sept. 1827-John Trowbridge, novlanded, we have no trouble holding him, unless the scythe of time takes him out of our territory.

Because it reflects the community life of this community, the Winslow 18 Sept. 1825-Henry C. Lea born in Dispatch should be in every home in the community, because it gives the local news without color and devoid of all the sensational elements and free from any language the smallest 18 child should not read, it should be the family journal of this community. Established more than a quarter of a century ago, there has never been a time when any language-not a single word-has been used that any child should not read.

Aside from gathering the legitimate news of the community, it gathers 19 Sept. 1790-Northwestern Indian the human interest news of the community; it has always wept with those who wept and rejoiced with those who rejoiced.

The Winslow Dispatch has always heen for the community and has been 19 Sept. 1881—President Garfield died for it with its talent and whatever of prosperity it possessed. It has 19 Sept. fought the battles of this community and this people and is still at it. It has defended this community and its people and has stood as a mirror resessed. Every enterprise has had its G. A. R. for member Grand Army; undivided support and for this W. W. for World War veteran; S. W., reason alone, if for no other, it for Spanish War veteran; C. W. for

Few country weeklies have furnished a community with more features. Throughout more than a quarter of a century the Winslow Dispatch has studied the feature part of the paper and throughout that time has had a working connection with the greatest newspaper syndicate in the country, the Western Newspaper Union. Through this great syndicate it has been able to furnish the best features of the country and has continued to sell the paper at the low price of $2.50 per year.

Thus, the greatest reason why the people of this community should read the Winslow Dispatch is because it gives more good, sound reading matter for the money than they can buy elsewhere.

Then, it furnishes store news, news of where the best places are to trade, pains and aches as natural to their for every store worth while plants sex. They fail to realize that weak its news in the columns of the Win- kidneys are often to blame for that slow Dispatch, thus saving in the run backache, those headaches, dizzy of the year many more dollars than the cost of the paper.

In short, prior to the establishment of the Winslow Dispatch in this community, there was little community life, but since the advent of the paper a community exchange has been established that should be kept here it will be as long as the people con-

WHY HIS COAT WAS SHABBY

By CORONA REMINGTON

(©. 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) "Have a bite of my sandwich?" offered pretty little Hazel West. "Thanks, kid, got a couple o' cream puffs. Eat your own sandwich. What's your name and where're you workin? I'm Mabel Richards, spelled M-a-y-b-edouble l-e, if you please." She tossed her befrizzled bobbed head and giggled good-naturedly at the new girl. "My name's Hazel West and I'm in the hosiery department." "I saw you' yesterday when you were leaving the store, but didn't get a chance to speak to you. Was that your steady waitin' for you at the Main street door last night?"

Hazel flushed, gulped the last mouthful of her sandwich and nodded. "You ought to see my feller. He dresses something grand and got a flivver that goes like the wind. And generous! Oh, boy! You ought to see him when he takes his little Mabel

She screwed up the brown paper bag that had contained the puffs and tossed it in the direction of the tall wire basket. It missed the mark, struck the side and fell to the floor, an inert little bunch of brown paper, lying beside an orange peel. Then she fished out a compact case and lipstick and became totally engrossed in the reflection she saw in the small

"Why don't you make up a little?" she asked suddenly of the other girl. "You wouldn't look so plain. And say, kid. if I was you I'd tell that guy to get him a new overcoat. He looks like he'd come out of the ark. How long's he had it?"

Three years," she stammered. "Gee whiz! Why don't you tell him to send it to the Smithsonian instituote for a relic? They'd pay him big money. Bet he don't spend a dollar a month on you."

"He's saving—" Hazel began. "Well, he wouldn't practice his saving on me. You ought to see Arthur come across when I'm 'round. Takes me to the best place for dinner and everything. And when we get married he's goin' right on the same way. Men ain't got no respect for you unless you make 'em step lively. Well, I'll have to be gettin' back to my hats. So long.

Whistling her own music she foxtrotted out of the rest room and left her new friend uneasy and baffled.

Perhaps after all she did not expect enough from Jim. She knew that he spent little money on her, yet he certainly did not waste it on himself

That night when Jim called Hazel was not quite herself and he felt a peculiar constraint between them.

"What's the matter. Hazel?" he asked in alarm as he took her hand and compelled her to look at him. "N-nothing," she stammered in embarrassment, dropping her eyes. "I believe someone down at that new place has been saying something to hurt you. You oughtn't to be in a store anyway," he growled. "But I'll get you out of it as soon as I can.

"Never mind, honey, don't you worry. It'll all be fine soon." Mabel's poisoned words were getting in their work, and suddenly in a burst of tears she told him the whole thing. He was very quiet while she was talking and surprised her by saying little afterward. "Don't let what other folks say worry you, honey. If you don't believe in me, all right." "Oh, oh, Jim, don't talk like that!" In a frenzy she clung to him.

"Hush now, you're all worked up. Stop crying." He stroked her hair gently and soon peace was restored. But not her peace of mind. She returned to the store next morning redeyed and weary from lack of sleep The subject was not mentioned again between the two girls. Jim waited for her after working hours as usual and as the days went by an odd sort of friendship sprang up between Mabel and Hazel. Late one Saturday at the store Jim

Wilson called her up and suggested that she and Mabel go out with him the next day.

"Sure, I'd be glad to come," said Mabel. "My feller's out o' town, anyway."

Sunday came bright and fair and with it the warmth of an early spring day. Hazel was relieved to see that Jim had abandoned his shabby overcoat and was wearing a rather trim spring suit. As they walked down the steps together she noticed a car standing at the curb.

"Where'd you get it?" she asked. "Did you rent it?"

"Ask me no questions," he quoted as he helped her in.

They stopped at Mabel's place and and candy. One little fellow, the picked her up, then went whizzing out toward the country. He turned off the main road into a little gravel driveway that ran straight into a little brown garage. "This is where we get out," he said, trying to seem casual. He helped the girls out and they all three sauntered toward the tiny that?" bungalow. Ramming his hand into his pocket he found a key and opened the

"Jim!" Hazel exclaimed at last. "I thought we were going to see some of your friends."

"Just entertaining a friend," he said, looking at Mabel. On the dining-room table packages and boxes-potato chips, sandwiches, a lemon pie and three paper plates set with precision around the edge. Beside one was a long envelope with the words, "Happy birthday to my own little girl," written across the front, and inside was a deed to the little brown bungalow and garage.

Hazel looked from the deed to her fiance in stupefied amazement.

"It-it just isn't possible," she managed to say at last as she threw her arms around Jim's neck. And Mabel, because she was a good sport, said without rancor:

"Well, your cocoon sure had a swell butterfly in it, Hazel."

Writer Declares Army Ant Has Been Maligned

Everybody has heard a lot of the horrific tales about the "army" or "driver" ants; how they sweep across the country in vast glistening sheets several hundred yards wide and devour every live thing in their path, pulling down and swarming over wild beasts and reptiles alike, each taking a mouthful and passing on; how more than one brutal criminal-in fictionhas finally met his just deserts amidst grewsome details at their hands, or rather jaws. Tosh. All of it. As a matter of fact the army ants-there are several species-are not bad fellows at all. I venture to assert that nobody in all Amazonas has ever seen a column of them more than a foot in width. I have seen evidences of their trails so wide as eight inches, but never more.

It is true they run to three-quarters of an inch in length and that they can bite a piece of flesh out with each nip, as well as sting like a hornet; but no beast that is able to get up and hop need ever be eaten up by a column of army ants.

No, bugs are what the army ant is out hunting for. Worms, beetles, fat caterpillars, sweet things-and, of course, criminals bound to trees. It is common for an Indian, meeting a column, to lay a honey-trail to his hut, gather up his brats and his string of baccalhao, and clear out for the afternoon. The ants come in thankfully and delouse that hut, with a thoroughness which would be a shining example to any firm of bug exterminators at $10 a room; and with sundown they return peacefully home. Mr. Injun reenters and spends his first peaceful night in months.

Sometimes they happen along without any honey trail. I have camped in a deserted hut to take the siesta while the afternoon sun passed over, and have been awakened by the yell of "Caralho! Formigas maleficas!" and have realized the next second that the poignant words meant malignant ants.

Upon that occasion I waited not upon the order of my going, but just went with speed and sat me down in deep water-and began to understand then why that perfectly good hut hadbeen deserted. With sundown the peons ventured back to collect our

But it was canned grub that evening; for the formigas had eaten up a big potful of dinner.

But at that there are worse ants in Amazonas than the army ant.-Gordon MacCreagh, in Adventure.

Mentality and Morphine

Medical scientists state that the effect of morphine is governed by the intelligence of the man or beast to whom it is administered. If man receives an injection he becomes comotose within a few minutes. If a monkey is subjected to the same treatment, stupor is slightly delayed. A still longer period after the injection is necessary for the dog to lose consciousness. The case of the cat, however, is markedly different. When the domestic feline is inoculated with the poppy alkaloid it becomes at first restive and then frenzied. The lower forms of life react to morphine in a similar but still more pronounced man-has not only a systematic but also an organic reaction, dulling the intelligence center in the intelligent, and quickening it in the stupid.

Where Men Do Sewing

In India "dustoor" or custom is against women undertaking needlework. Nor, when threading a needle, does the male seamstress allow the thread to dangle in the air-he winds the end around his big toe.

Music and acting also are conducted in a fashion which is totally opposed to western ideas. The drummer, for instance, places two small drums in his waist belt and beats them with naked fists; the fiddler holds his fiddle upside down; and the actor stands stock still when the situation makes it imperative for him to bestir him-

Union Meeting of the Junior and Senior Young People at 6.30 P. M. Talk by the Pastor "Our Great New England." A Kindly Spirit, an Open Door to all.

Reception Given

Two hundred members of the First Baptist church and other friends tendered a reception to the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Allen and his wife, Friday evening at the church. It was the occasion of the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Rev. Mr. Allen and Mrs. Allen, who before her marriage was Miss Melinda Burton of Hyde Park, were married Sept. 5, 1899, by the late Rev. C. C. Tilley at that time pastor of the Baptist church in Hyde Park.

The couple were assisted in receiving by Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Brady of Milton and Deacon and Mrs. Frank Leals. The ushers were J. W. Tingley of East Greenwich, R. I., a nephew of a former pastor of the church; George Pettingell of Milton; Frank M. Bryant and Herman L. Allen of this town. Friends were present from East Greenwich, R. I., Wickford, R. I., Hyde Park, Milton, Boston, Milford, Dedham, Hanover, Sharon, Hopedale Hingham, Everett, Braintree and the Weymouths.

Rev. and Mrs. Allen were presented two beautiful baskets of roses, each containing a purse of silver, and Mrs. Allen was also presented a bouquet of roses. The presentation speech was by Rev. H. E. Brady, to which Rev. Mr. Allen feelingly responded.

Their daughter, Miss Gladys Allen, who leaves this week for Atlanta, Ga., where she is to be an instructor at Spellman college for girls, was presented by the ladies of the church with a handsome basket of roses and

Besides a daughter, Rev. and Mrs. Allen have two sons; Herman L., a student at Boston University, and Eugene E., a student at Tufts medical

During the evening there were selections by Miss Gladys Allen, violinist, and Miss Gladys Price, piano, with vocal solos by Mrs. Chipman of South Weymouth and Mrs. Carl Alstrom of Quincy.

Rev. Mr. Allen has been pastor of the church for several years, coming here at the close of the World War in which he served as chaplain. He is not only popular with the members of his church, but of all denominations in town. His first work when coming to this town was to organize a troop of Boy Scouts, which has grown to be one of the largest and best in the State, and he has been active in everything that was for the benefit of the town. He is a member of the "Fighting Parsons Club" made up of clergymen who served in the Civil War, the Spanish-American and World Wars.

The following original poem was read by E. Chester Wright:

It is fitting that we gather with these two, so richly blessed And rejoice, this evening, with them, whom time has but caressed. In this age, where all about us,-when we pause to give it thought, Very few enjoy the blessing that has fallen to their lot.

Couples come and couples go, Hit or miss-tis sometimes so, Many fail to make the voyage that will weather every gale, Thinking naught of "Pilot" or "Good ballast" for the sail. How prone young folks are to blunder, In their haste to make a "hitch" Is it then a case to wonder, That they land into a ditch?

If, in the beginning, they would bury thought of selves,

And among their household fixings find a place for two small elves, "Bear" and "Forebear" these, kind friends, can help a lot

To smooth out the rougher places, that will come, tho never sought. Surely, these folks, learned full early,

The real worth of such true friends; And their lives have grown the richer, As each, the journey, wends.

Twenty-five years have marked seamed etchings on their life And children, reared to manhood, bless their years as man and wife.

Hours of toil, pain and sunshine; days of bliss and mingled tears,-Still these mutual, team-mate Stewards, travel onward thru the years.

Finding more to life than living; Reaping joy in the giving; Spreading Truth, and Hope and Courage, among their fellowmen,- Telling all the blessed Gospel, of the Christ, who lives again. Leaders, chosen by the spirit; Parents, true to home and kin; Guiding into Truth, uprightly-friends to Peace; but foes to Sin, Resting on His precious promise, that

Press on, kind friends, to the goal, of the high calling in your Lord. Conquer every foe that hinders, with the Spirit, your true sword,

Seek the kingdom, in its fullness, staunch and steadfast always For the "Crown of Life" is given. where the "Crown of Thorns" you

Typical of life's journey-may you find beneath each shroud,-We all trust, a silver lining which will outshine every cloud.

interesting story of her experiences was printed in the Gazette at the printed.

The old time railroad official re-Southern Pacific railroad, who directly afterward wrote, commending the article and extending an invitation to Miss Healy for a further trip over their road, the point of interest being Old Mexico.

Miss Healy at the time this story was published in the Weymouth Gazette was a resident of South Weymouth. She and her sister now have a house at 918 Beacon street, Boston, where they have found many avenues are open to women in the business world, one of which is the art of teaching the making of fancy candy. Hundreds of men and women have not only mastered the art of making candies, but have found a lucrative business in the same.

Miss Healy is at the present time manager of a shop specializing in the sale of women's gowns and coats at 59 Temple place,-popular with Gazette ladies. The letter:

Miss Eleanor Healy's route from Boston to Pasadena.

A hurried repast at the "New Congress" which is to be surpassed by a mammoth hotel, soon to be erected.

By 6.30 at North Western station Omaha at an early hour the following morning, arriving in Denver that evening. Let me add here that the cuisine and service over this line was excellent, after that, alas. Denver is a city well laid out, attractive parks, some fine public buildings, new museum which will contain a fine exhibit already safely housed: many of the residences are artistic as well as imposing, some of which mean from the Next came Tennessee Pass, the highest elevation, 10,400 feet above the sea. After leaving the Pass, the first seventeen miles made, was a descent of 2300 feet. I sat in my berth that night with eyes wide open, wondering if we would reach our destination safely. The realization of the grandeur of the Rockies had been far beyond my anticipation.

Forty miles east of Salt Lake we passed the Zion Industry Association buildings, the opening wedge of the first experience of Mormanism, which is flourishing today, despite any talk to the contrary. There is nothing attractive in Salt Lake, except the huge mushroom building called the tabernacle with its famous marvelous acoustic properties and seating capacity, and the magnificent stone building called the temple where unbelievers may not enter. On the central front pinnacle stands a large gilded figure of the angel Marona with his trumpet. During our drive through the residential part of the town, we passed a $100,000 residence. owned by a miner, who seventeen years ago walked over the hills, with all his worldly possessions in the pack slung over his shoulder. Should Mormonism die, Salt Lake City would disappear with its lake. We could obtain no information at the office of the railroad as to our engaged sleeper, or at the station at any time, though repeated inquiries were made not only by ourselves but by others. When we left at 6.30 P. M., six hours late, we found but panies "Kalo" knew how to make three people on the sleeper, one couple having the section which we alas! I then went to the train despatcher and very quietly tried to get some definite information, that we might eat This fad for the North Shore will the only meal, which would have been a standby for the next forty-eight hours, but he threw up his hands and said, "God only knows". Meantime, while I was waiting several train conductors of these various trains were actually quarrelling as to which of their sections should be permitted to go out first, without any regard as en route for Denver, passing through to the one whose right it might be, then someone shouted-Pullman has started! Out rushed the Pullman conductor, walking fairly straight, unable to find his car. I believe it is Thackery who says, "No true friendship was ever found over a bottle".

Thus it continued and one hour and thirty minutes after arriving at Ogden we found our car down the track. wedged in between many others. In the wet and dark we mounted the steps, with some few things for our supper, which we ate on board. Among the articles, we discovered the eggs to have become very near the state in which the Chinese enjoy them (after being buried by them in the ground) and I went to the door and threw them out, regretting too late to the famous mine. Not until this that they had struck one of these bewildered conductors in the back, with the remark, "I beg your pardon, it is only a rotten egg".

The continuation of the food question occurred at the supper hour, when I saw next the grocery, in that small, dimly-lighted, smoked-filled room, Le miners and ranchmen making merry with their hard-earned wages, over the gambling board, as this was Saturday night. Notwithstanding the difficulty in procuring food, we did have dainty meals, and this party so unexpectedly thrown together, proved congenial as we had a very jolly time together. Many interesting places we missed, owing to the delay of the train, and in crossing the alkaline district, the words of to me an unknown writer, kept ringing in my ears-"It has the grandeur of solitude, the splendor of space and color".

We reached San Francisco at 10

for our money. We arrived at the Palace, retaining our good humor, but dusty past endurance, and it did seem the breakfast was the best prepared and served meal possible, after our long picnic en route. The Palace has not only over a thousand rooms, but its attending clerks one and all, have List Your Property with time to answer all questions personally, which is a rare condition to find in the hostelries of this country. The value of attention and the necessity for good manners form two important requisites of a successful hotel clerk. During our stay at 'Frisco, we visited the Golden Gate park with its varied palms and other foliage, most carefully kept in order, the unique Japanese garden, an exhibition relic, thereafter to the Presidio, the govof floral culture, and from this hill superb views of every kind out to the Golden Gate. We next drove to the Cliff House where the seals attract crowds; from there to the Sutro Spring baths, where the many bathing tanks are luxuriously fitted for aquatic sports. The old Sutro Place above them has the advantage of a magnificent site with elaborately lain out gardens, flowers of all kinds in full bloom, stone mushrooms for seats, and is just the place for a "Lawn Party". The visit to Chinatown was most interesting; the gambling dens, joss houses, theatres and restaurants were so vastly different from anything I expected that for three hours I imagined myself in China. The next stop was Monterey, or rather Hotel Del Monte, with its wonderful seventeen miles ocean drive. by its old Spanish Missioin. One of these rare mistakes was made which occur at the best hotels even, and when we boarded at the junction at midnight, the one Pullman on the two sections for Los Angeles to find all accommodations sold, we were obliged to sit in the dressing room, until about 2 o'clock in the morning, when the solicitous Pullman conductor said he had one lower; "Would we take that?" One of us did so, occupying it for an hour, but the severe cold caused by leaving it in the berth.

At seven o'clock, having sat up the balance of the night, the porter located us in a section. which was partly occupied by a gentleman, who made us most welcome, and interested himself in finding the hat which was lost: meantime he was told of our Plumbing and Heating Contractor railroad experience from Denver to date, not in a spirit of complaint, but as a huge joke, and to cap the climax, this man of kindness proved to be an official (Mr. C. Lincoln, Supt. P. Co.) much interested in the tale, who left us at Santa Barbara, his mission there being to superintend the initial trip of one of the new Overlands.

From this gentleman we learned much relative to the causes of delay, which had been such a new experience to us. He then told us of Mexico, one of our objective points for which place a fine round trip is scheduled, for the coming month under the personal care of an official. Mr. Smith which gave the man opportunity to learn all they could possibly wish of that country, and part of Arizona.

Just a word about the bustling. growing little city of Los Angeles. Many fine business blocks, two fine hotels, The Angeles, new and fireproof, the well known Van Nuys, and especially to be noted are the fine residences, of most artistic construction, and covered in many cases, with rose bushes in bloom, and many other blossoming vines, the date palms in full bud, and other foliage which must remind one of the Orient. Los Angeles differs from its neighbor, the far-famed Pasadena, as a winter resort, in that most of its residences are beautiful, while in the latter (Pasadena) comparatively few residences are as attractive, and the smaller homes lack the originality of design, and the care of foliage that is seen in the larger city.

The Hotel Green was our last stopping place, and here we must say a word for this bright hostelry. From our window in the east or older part, we gaze at the entrancing beauty of the new West building, fireproof, with senting an imposing front, the old and the new being connected on the second floor by a spacious covered bridge which affords the winter girl many a fascinating nook for "The same old

An Apple a Day

Apples are a food necessity. As Dr. head the fruit list; they furnish more nerve and brain power than any other fruit,-and even more, in proportion to solids, than wheat.

The Union Pacific R. R. has just issued a booklet with over 150 recipes SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1924 for apple dishes, and the Gazette-Transcript will publish one recipe each

Rice With Apples

Prepare some minced apples, the same as for an apple charlotte not having them too sweet. Blanch eight ounces of picked and washed rice drain on a sieve, refresh and put it in a sauce pan with some milk. Cook it slowly without stirring, keeping it slightly consistent, and lastly mix in four ounces of powdered lemon sugar. a few spoons full of cream and a piece of butter. Remove to a much slower fire in order to allow the liquid to become entirely absorbed, then take up the rice with a spoon and place each one with a layer of the apples; giving the whole a dome shape, and finishing with the rice. Dredge the top with cinramon or vanilla sugar and serve at once.

OXEN WILL PULL ON "GRANGE DAY"

Heavy Horses Will Do Hendricks Club with James L. Lincoln Their "Daily Dozen" at Brockton Fair

The committee having charge of the pulling contest by heavy horses and oxen at the Brockton Fair expects to present a much more elaborate program this year than every before. James Powers, chairman of the committee, has arranged to have exhibitions of the work of oxen on Wednesday, Grange day, at noon. A Cushing great deal of interest is attached to the work of oxen, since they came Boston and South Weymouth back to Brockton Fair. There were several fairs at which no oxen appeared, following the year that neat cattle were excluded from fairs on account of the foot and mouth disease. They have not only come back to Brockton Fair, but have come back strong and better than ever.

A new feature which Mr. Powers and his committee expect to introduce, is to have tests of strength recorded by a wagon to which a measuring machine is attached. This enables the exhibition to take place on ground which is not torn up by the wheels. This exhibition will take place in the commercial horse show ring. Chairman Powers says the committee has decided to have additional 40 pounds classes with two-horse hitches for medium weight horses, weighing from 1200 to 1460 pounds.

-On Saturday members of the Scituate Historical Society presented a novel pageant in connection with observance of the eighth anniversary of the society's incorporation. In its scenes were depicted many important colonial and local characters, includng Timothy Hatherly, Gen. James Cudworth, John Bailey, Ann Vinal.

Squire "Bry" Turner, friend of former President John Quincy Adams; Gridley Bryant, constructor of the Old Colony railroad, and Cushing Otis Briggs, famous North river shipbuilder. All these were Scituate men and women. Their characteristics and incidents of their lives were related by Harvey H. Pratt, president of the society, as the pageant passed in review. An old-fashioned dinner was served at noon. In the afternoon an address was made by U. S. Dist. Atty. Robert O. Harris.

READING ON STREET CARS Reading on the street cars causes a great deal of eye-strain, is the verdict of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Not only is the light very poor, but it is impossible to focus correctly because of the mo-tion of the car. Commuters who have respect for their eyes will be sorry to hear this, as the commuting time would seem wasted without reading urer.

the morning paper or the latest book. However, a much better way to spend the time is in thinking. In the minority. morning plan the day's program. In the evening decide whether you want black or tan shoes to wear with your ahead. new suit, so it won't take so much of your time or the salesgirl's time to buy them the next day. But give your eyes a chance. Don't read!

Local Cast in "Drummer Boy"

There is one American play that has retained its hold on the public for fifty years and has outlived any play of its kind, and still doing business and that play is "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh". To please young and old alike and to continue to do so year after year, is a rare thing in any play, although it is just what the "Drummer Boy" does. To some people, the success of this play is a mystery. Millions of people have seen it and have asked the oft repeated question "What makes this old play so tremendously popular?" Next to "Uncle Tom's Cabin" "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh" ranks second as the most popular of all American dramas. And like the "Tom" show can be presented anywhere and make a dollar. Its fame and tremendous popularity like "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is not due to any individual or individuals, but to the play itself. It is unlike any American drama ever written. It appeals to the masses.

The "Drummer Boy" to be presented in Weymouth Sept. 25-26 under the auspices of the Sons of Veterans is strictly a home talent affair. Many are known to have witnessed the show every time it was presented in their home town. The complete cast is as follows:

Activities at

Pond Plain

Pond Plain Improvement Association is planning to open their fall and winter work with a boom. Their mrst number consisted of a dance of cabaret type and was a grand success. The program for the season is bound to be appreciated.

Saturday night, Sept. 13, a social dance was given, music being furnished by the Colonial Singing Orchestra of Waltham. This orchestra has had a very successful season at one of the most noted beach resorts of Maine, and is well known around and about Boston.

Saturday, Sept. 20, a harvest supper is planned consisting of roast beef and all the fixings. Supper will be followed by a dance.

Saturday, Sept. 27, a food sale is to be held at 2.30 P. M. on the lawn of the Lindsay family. A dance will follow in the evening. Columbus Day night will be celebrated by a costume party. On Oct. 23, 24, 25, the ladies will hold their annual fair, the last night of which will close with a social dance They hope to exceed their success of previous years and that means some effort on their part. An indoor garden party is being arranged for New Year's Eve. This will be a 1 A. M. party. New Year's Eve will see another enjoyable occasion and no doubt will be fully as good as last year and that means a Great activity is being manifested among the members of the association their aim being to have their new hall fully furnished and equipped that they may entertain their community and its friends in the best possible manner. Arrangements are being made to have the best music and the best programs in general that they can obtain.

Town By-Laws

Weymouth, Mass., September 17, 1924 In compliance with Sec. 32, Chapter 40, of the General Laws, I hereby certify that the following additions to Article 5 of the by-laws of the Town of Weymouth were adopted by the Special Representative Town Meeting held on June 30, 1924, and approved by the Attorney General of Massachusetts on September 12, 1924.

CLAYTON B. MERCHANT, Town Clerk

Sec. 7. No street or way shall be laid out or accepted by the Town of Weymouth of a width less than 40 feet, unless the same shall have been actually opened and used for public requested and recommended by the Selectmen and Superintendent of

Sec. 8. No street or way constructed through lands by the owners thereon shall be laid out or accepted or recommended by the Selectmen or any committee of the Town for acceptance as a public street or way of the Town of Weymouth, unless previously constructed and completed to sub-grade in accordance with specifications set forth in Sec. 12. Sec. 9. Any street or way constructed through private lands by the owner thereon in accordance with the specifications set forth in Section 12, may be laid out and accepted as a public street of the Town of Weymouth provided such action is taken in accordance with provisions of Laws of Massachusetts; and provided also, that the owners of at least 75 per cent of the lands through which such street or way passes have signed releases of all property which the Town deem it necessary to acquire for such layout and accepted and have granted sloping privileges and have agreed to pay betterment assessments.

Sec. 10. Wherever it is necessary in the opinion of the Superintendent of Streets to construct catch-basins on any such street or way and lay drains to connect with a permanent outlet, such catch-basins and drains may be constructed and laid, and the cost of such work shall be considered as a part of the total cost of constructing said street or way.

Sec. 11. Side gutters on any such street or way having a grade of five per cent or over may, if in the opinion of the Superintendent of Streets it be necessary, be paved four feet wide, with stone or concrete, the cost of such work shall be considered as a part of the total cost of constructing said street or way.

Sec. 12. A plan and profile on paper or tracing-cloth 19 inches wide by 28 inches long at a scale of not less than one inch to 40 feet of every street shall be filed in the office of the Superintendent of Streets who shall fix the grade thereon.

(a) Every such street or way shall be at least forty feet wide and have a road-bed equal to at least two-thirds of said street or way.

(b) All loam shall be removed from the limits of the street or way to a depth of at least twelve inches below the finished grade for the roadway and six inches below the finished grade for the sidewalk, or such greater depth as may be required by the Selectmen. All rocks or boulders removed from the street or way shall be used in embankment. or way shall be first cleared of all ice, milk, etc., etc.

stumps, brush, roots and like material and of all trees not intended for

(d) All work in excavation or embankment shall be brought accurately to a sub-grade of not less than eight inches for the roadway and four inches for the sidewalk, below finished grade, or such greater depth as the nature of the sub-soil, in the opinion of the Selectmen may require.

(e) All corners of intersecting streets or ways shall be rounded as approved by the Selectmen.

New Studebaker

Has Arrived

The big news of the week in the automobile world is Studebaker's announcement of new models.

Because of the dominating position which this manufacturer holds, motorists throughout the city have been flocking to the Studebaker showrooms to see these newest achievements in motoring luxuries.

There are 15 entirely new Studebaker models and each model is a complete refinement of the previous line. The designs are new-something never before seen on an American automobile. Studebaker has again pioneered in distinctive vehicle building.

Motorists are now offered by Studebaker the following new line: An entirely new type of open and closed car, a new medium weight six, a new 4-passenger closed car, optional 4wheel brakes of remarkable design, genuine balloon tires-15 original and distinctive new bodies.

Open and Closed Features

A creation originated by Studebaker which, it is believed, will supersede the present day open car is the new Duplex body. This new Studebaker is an open car which can be converted magically in five seconds into a waterproof, snug and dry, closed car of unsurpassing beauty. This new Duplex Studebaker body is an outstanding sensation.

This car has unusually beautiful lines, the finest Spanish leather upholstery and an unusual number of equipment features.

Studebaker announces an entirely new Standard Six which takes the place of the former Light Six and while it follows mechanically the general design of that car it has a new and larger motor, the entire car is larger, heavier and much more beautiful and has much more room. Of course the new duplex body entirely supersedes the former open touring car and open roadster bodies, not only in the new Standard Six but in the other two models, the Special Six and the Big Six.

The new duplex body on the Standard Six at the announced price of $1145 for the 5-passenger phaeton and $1125 for the 3-passenger roadster marks a real opportunity for the buyer who likes an open car and also the comfort and protection of a closed car. Studebaker claims that it can satisfy both demands and at the price of the open car.

A New 4-Passenger

Among the fifteen bodies there is an entirely new, 4-passenger Victoria on the Special Six Chassis. This is the cozy, compact, comfortable 4passenger car with the driver's seat slightly forward and for the fourth passenger there is an auxiliary seat which folds under the dash when not in use. The lines of this new 4passenger Victoria are especially original, distinctive and beautiful. The finish is in lustrous varnish in dark Registrar Frank A. Goodwin unless blue similar to that of the Special Six political posters are removed from

Three New Berlines

On each of its three chassis Studebaker provides a Berline type of body, a 5-passenger on the Standard Six and Special Six and a 7-passeng r on the Big Six. This type of car separates the driver's compartment operation. from the rear compartment with a sliding glass partition.

As customary, Studebaker has upholstered all of its closed cars in the finest mohair, which is an expensive and beautiful fabric, and the colors have been chosen to blend beautifully with the extraordinary finish of the cars. The fittings of the closed cars include cut-glass reading and dome lamps, bell silver finished vanity sets, smoking sets, door handles and other metal parts; heavy wool carpets. All of the usual elegance found in the very finest closed cars are present in all the new Studebakers.

Three of the closed models in the Standard Six chassis introduce an innovation in beautiful colors. The lower panels are in light gray and the upper panels in dark gray. The separation is marked with parrallel hair line red striping .. All of the Studebaker closed bodies are made by the Studebaker Corporation in its gigantic new body plant, the last of which, costing ten million dollars, was finished in 1923. It is claimed that these modern plants with the very latest modern machinery are responsible for great savings effected in manufacture and this accounts for the obvious splendid quality of Studebaker cars at the prices offered,the prices for the closed cars range from $1395 for the Standard Six 3passenger Coupe roadster to $2860

for the Big Six 7-passenger Berline. Real Balloon Tires

Studebaker was among the very first of automobile manufacturers to introduce genuine balloon tires as regular equipment. Instead of the compromise on low pressure cord tires Studebaker has gone all the way and offered the public big genuine balloon tires on 20" and 21" wheels,

Designed to Harmonize

Studebaker probably is the first American manufacturer to design a car, not only mechanically but from the standpoint of appearance for genuine balloon tires. Big wide fenders which deeply crown over the tires are the first designed by any manufacturer for balloon tires, so Studebaker claims. Body lines are low and massive and doubtlessly balloon tire equipment was held in mind by the designer in shaping the new Studebakers. Wood wheels in especially light patural finish, together with full nickel plated radiators, are in bright and sparkling contrast with jet black fenders and the dark blue of the bodies and they blend especially well with the light gray and jet black bodies of the Standard Six models.

Four-Wheel Brakes

Although the new Studebakers are regularly equipped with bigger and better two-wheel brakes than ever and with an entirely new emergency brake which operates on the propeller shaft, there is optional equipment offered in four-wheel brakes.

The new Studebaker four-wheel brakes are not only of the hydraulic type but hydraulic power is developed by engine power and not by the driver's foot. Great braking force can be applied instantly and almost without effort by operating a valve which turns on the hydraulic power. The brakes are unique in this respect and different from anything on any other American car. Inasmuch as the braking power instantly stops when the wheels stop turning, the rear wheels cannot remain locked and the front wheels cannot lock at any interest will be created by the new Studebaker four-wheel brakes. Studebaker advises its public, however, that two-wheel brakes are all that is required. But in the event that four-wheel brakes are demanded it is able to give, so it claims, the simplest, most effective, and most durable and safe system every put on time. There are no adjustments necessary for the front wheels and only two points which require lubrication.

Undoubtedly a tremendous amount of

Studebaker Engines

an American car.

Of course Studebaker has made a great many minor changes, betterments and refinements in all the mechanical parts of its car.

Notably the engine now is in unit with the clutch and transmission, but even more important than that a new force feed oiling system has been designed introducing an entirely new feature. The returning oil is strained before it goes back to the crank-case; thus the pump has the entire crank-case supply of oil strained and cleaned. There is no possibility of clogged screens or a lack of supply of oil for the highest speeds.

The entire amount of oil is pumped through the motor three times for every mile of travel under a varying pressure of 15 to 25 pounds according to the speed.

Studebaker still retains the medium compression low speed design the same as that employed by practically all of the leading makers of this country. There has been an increase in the weight of crank-shafts on all models. There are bigger barings and longer connecting rods in two models. Studebaker is one of the very few manufacturers of medium priced cars that uses the expensive system of machining its crank-shafts on all surfaces. By this process it secures perfect balance and thus reduces vibration to the lowest possible minimum.

It is expected that the Studebaker display rooms throughout the country will be the mecca for thousands of people who are interested in new and unusual designs in motor cars for the next several weeks.

15 New Studebakers

Including an entirely new type of car—the DUPLEX-PHAETON

Today Studebaker has made Automobile History and established standards of value and quality more fully and obviously than ever before

ODAY Studebaker proves that beautiful, distinctive, stylish body lines can be originated by American body designers without following precedent or imitating or adapting what has been done be-

Today Studebaker proves that a practical and beautiful type of car can be made to combine the pleasure and performance of the open car and the comfort and protection of the closed car—and this without price or compromised quality-a car"duplex" in open-car smartness and convenience and closed-car elegance and comfort-and at a price no higher than that of an open car!

Today Studebaker proves, in its new Standard Six Duplex model, that a six-cylinder car of fine quality, great power, plenty of room and impressive appearance can be made and marketed at a price of $1145.

Today Studebaker proves in its new Special Six and its Big Six Duplex models that the ultimate in all the essential features of quality in five- and seven-passenger cars can be made and marketed at a price of $1495 and $1875 respectively.

And this is possible only because Studebaker cars are made in one of the most comprehensive industrial plants in this country, 70 per cent of which is new within the last

Every modern method of manufacture and long experienced management are available for the production of Studebaker automo-

Today Studebaker proves that the highest grade closed car bodies—framed in selected hard woods, cushioned with the best cushion work, upholstered in fine mohair fabrics and fitted with expensive appointments—can be made and marketed on superlatively good chassis at moderate prices.

This is made possible by the new $10,000,-000 Studebaker closed body plants. Studebaker designs and builds all of its closed bodies in one of the best equipped and most modern body plants in the industry.

The Three New Chassis

THE STUDEBAKER STANDARD SIX-113 in. wheelbase, 5-passenger. Engine 33/8x41/2, 50 b.h.p.—with 6 different bodies, including Duplex-Phaeton, Duplex-Roadster, Coupe-Roadster, Coupe,

Sedan, and Berline. THE STUDEBAKER SPECIAL SIX-120 in. wheelbase, 5-passenger. Engine, 31/2x5, 65 b.h.p.with 5 different bodies, including Duplex-Phaeton, Duplex-Roadster, Victoria, Sedan, and Berline. Three completely new chassis! 15 completely new bodies! Completely new lines! . . . . Marvelous new performance

Completely new open-closed car!

Completely new radiators, new fenders, new lamps, new seating comfort, new finish, new colors in lacquer finish, three improved engine

Real balloon tires, not low-pressure cords. Sizes: 21 "x 5.25" to 20 "x 7.30" New Studebaker automatic hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—optional

New values, never before equaled—even by Studebaker!

THE STUDEBAKER BIG SIX-127 in. wheelbase, 7-passenger. Engine, 31/8x5, 75 b.h.p.—with 4 different bodies, including Duplex-Phaeton, Coupe, Sedan, and Berline.

The Ten New Closed Bodies

COMPLETELY NEW BODIES - each car a masterly expression of modern style, yet distinctly original in beautiful lines—individual, conservative, impressively elegant, but crisp enough in its de-parture from imitation to be entirely distinctive.

The Five New Duplex Bodics

(A new type of car originated by Studebaker to take the place of the open car) SO ENTIRELY NEW and so different from any other body ever made before that a new name had to be created—the DUPLEX.

The upper structure is shaped in pressed steel and covered with the finest water-proof fabric. The steel construction permits the use of another radical Studebaker creation, the new roller enclosing curtains. There is the permanent beauty and durability of the steel top plus the instant convenience of the roller curta

Thus Studebaker engineers have solved the openclosed car problem.

The buyer who wants the airiness and practical convenience of the open car and who also wants the comfort, protection and beauty of the closed car can now get both in one car and at the price of an open car.

One moment the new Studebaker Duplex is a beautiful open car—a touch of the hand to the over-lapping reller curtains and it is a snug weather-tight closed car.

Balloon Tires

Genuine and full size balloon tires on all models. Every part that functions with the tires has been specially designed for balloon tire equipment—steering gear, steering knuckles, spincles and springs, even the fenders.

New Lacquer Finish

The Standard Six closed bodies are beautifully finished in semi-glaze, satin lacquer. The hood and lower panels are in light gray, the upper panels in darker gray. Hairline parallel striping in oriental red. Burnished nickel radiators, jet black fenders, light golden finished, natural wood wheels and big balloon tires are contrasting touches. The Standard Duplex Models are finished in glossy jet enamel - lasting, lustrous and wear-

The Special Six and the Big Six Duplex models are in soft satin lacquer with dark blue hoods and bodies striped in light blue and ivory. Here, too, the sparkle is added with burnished nickel radiaters and light, natural word wheels in contrast with jet black fenders and big, black balloon tires.

More Power

The universally samous Studebaker engine is more than ever a peer among power plants. The crankshaft is heavier. ALL surfaces are perfectly machined to exact dimensions and balance. The bearings are larger.

The engine is in unit with the clutch and transmission. There is a force feed lubrication system with clean, strained oil always in reserve. There are many changes and improvements which result in MORE POWER, MORE QUIETNESS and SMOOTHNESS and STILL BETTER PERFORMANCE in every way.

New Brakes

Larger, more powerful, simpler and much easier operated two-wheel brakes. An entirely new emergency brake is operated from the instrument board, instantly convenient to the driver's hand where it simplifies the control and frees the floor board from the old style lever. It acts on the propeller shaft. There is uniform pressure at each wheel—equalized through the rear axle.

The regular two-wheel Studebaker brakes with their simplicity, safety and great braking power are entirely adequate.

But Studebaker 4-Wheel Hydraulic Brakes (with disc wheels) can be furnished as optional equip-ment on all models at extra charge if desired. Studebaker 4-Wheel Brakes have three exclusive features not found on any other system in this

1. Braking pressure is furnished by hydraulic power automatically developed. A light touch to the braking pedals controls its great force like a touch to the throttle controls the power of the engine. This feature will appeal instantly to women.

2. The front wheels cannot lock.

at each rear wheel. The front brakes are permanently adjusted at the factory. The oil in the transmission is used to generate the hydraulic power; the action of the gears and the pump keep it in circulation; it cannot congeal or freeze. Braking power is always instantly ready—in winter as well

New Ease of Operation

New Ease of Gear Shifting—New power in braking, a touch to the pedal exerts a giant's strength at the rear wheels—New clutch action, soft as velation. vet-A new steering gear and steering knuckles designed for balloon tires—A new grouping on the dash, including ALL the usual instruments plus a gasoline gauge that always works accurately.

Lighting Control Switches-all on the steering wheel-instantly handy. Automatic Spark Control-No manual attention required, so the lever is eliminated. Automatically governed to all speeds with the precision of ma-chinery.

And the Details

The new cars are longer and lower to the ground. The line from the radiator to the rear is nearly straight. The wheelbase of all models is increased. The fenders are much wider and deeper crowne ! to cover the width of the tires. They fit more closely over the wheels. The rear fenders are long and gracefully curved into the running boards. The radiators are high and set low in the frames and convex curved just below the filler cap. The design is strikingly original and beautifully dis-

Entirely new head lamps and cowl parking lamps designed by Studebaker - artistically appropriate and in perfect keeping with the originality of the body and fender design.

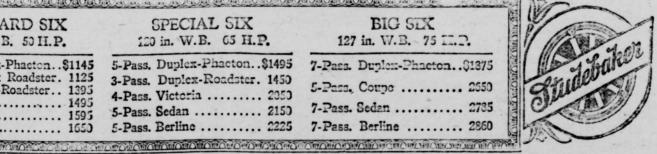

Deeper, stiffer frames, more cross members; shorter, flatter springs for balloca tires. All bodies lower, all roomier, better and more comfortably cushioned. Seats are lower, backs and sides are

Look Forward Into Next Year

The new Studebaker is here today! And no matter how sweeping your ideas of what a new model should be this car will satisfy you. It will thrill you with the very newness and originality of its beautiful lines!

You may not be in the market now, or even this year. But to see the new Studebaker is to look forward into next year-and the year after! SEE IT

Studebaker Hydraulic 4-Wheel Brakes, Optional Equipment. On all Standard Six models, with 4 disc wheels and spare rim, $60.00 extra. On all Special Six and Big Six models, with 5 disc wheels, $75.00 extra, (All prices f. c. b. U. S. factories, and subject to change without notice.)

ST. JAMES, BOSTON

"Just Married" is offered by the Boston Stock Company at the St. James for next week. Here is "a play to ease the anguish of a torturing hour"; a farce by Adelaide Matthews, author of "Scrambled Wives" and Anne Nichols, the run of whose "Abie's Irish Rose" is making history. "Just Married" played two years to New York's delight, with Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman in the leading roles, and thence sailed its popular way through Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, where it made the record run for farces. The unique setting of the play is an ocean liner. Comedy is concentrated in a group of oddly assorted couples, honey-mooners, old and young, willing and unwilling. As the ship sails, a young man, slightly dreamy under the effects of an extra lrop, wanders aboard and into everybody's affairs, tangling them amazingly. The great knot is untied and neatly straightened at the end of three joyful sets.

PLEASANT ST. VS TIGERS At Quincy Point on Sunday the Quincy Point Tigers will play the fast Pleasant Street A. C. of South Weymouth in their third game. The Tigers have fallen twice before the heavy barrage of the Weymouthites and are out for blood and revenge. The scores in both games were very close. The Tigers lost the first at Weymouth by a 3-2 score in the ninth. Then they lost again at the Point by a score of 7-6. Both these games were featured by heavy hitting and spectacular fielding on the part of both teams.

At Weymouth, Lahey pitched a fine 'farmers" with five hits, but they took advantage of the hits they did get and came from behind in the ninth and put across the final marker -Mrs. Parker T. Pearson is home while the Tigers died fighting with two men on bases. The game at the Point was featured by a pitching duel between Freddie pitcher allowed more than five hits and both struck out eleven men. But Jones' long sock to the bushes in the eighth spoiled a perfect Tiger day and squashed what hope they had of winning.

Sunday at Quincy Point these two nines will battle again in what will prove to be a fight to the finish. Weymouth boys while McDonald will endeavor to bring the Tigers out front for his side. The game will start at o'clock on account of the mission. 'Hap" Myers will officiate. Both teams will use their regular lineups, as follows:

PLEASANT ST. TIGERS c, Gunville Fisher If p, Shields Coughlin, ss 1b, Moriarty Shea 2b rf, Jones McDonald p 2b, Smith Gurney rf lf, Mauro Pitts c Pineau 1b cf, Hannon 3b, Couch Smith cf Schofield 3b ss, McCarthy

OWLS LOSE AND WIN At Overlook park Sunday afternoon he S. S. Peter and Paul nine of South Boston defeated the Owls 3-0. The twirling of Crawford and Burke featured the game. The score:

The old Family Album has long since been replaced with modern photographs, but remember the pleasure of accumulating these pictures, and the many pleasant hours years later because they kept safely in the old book.

There is another book that brings even more of pleasure and happiness to those that accumulate and add to the treasure it contains. It can be started in childhood days and years later its treasure will return two-fold. It is a Savings Bank Book.

NEW THEATRE ORGAN

The Quncy Theatre has just completed the installation of a new $20, 000 Wurliter theatre organ which will be in addition to its talented orchestra. This organ was played for the first time for the public of Quincy on Monday at the opening of the vaudeville season on Sept. 15. The purchase and installation of this organ, which is unquestionably one of the finest theatre organs, is in line with Mr. Murphy's policy of giving his patrons the very best programs, both in music and pictures, that are

Illustrative to the last degree of the supremacy of the organ for all musical effect, the new $20,000 instrument, now installed in the Quincy theatre is, even to the casual eye and ear of the observer, a magnificent example of the organ builder's art.

When Miss Mullowney touched the keys for the first time, the few privileged to hear it were amazed, ever despite the descriptions given of the powers of the new instrument, which is the last word in mechanical perhaps, fully appreciate what pages of something of the immensity of effect every scene portrayed on the film in the theatre may be accentuated by music. It is capable of portraying even indeed, without pictures, a storm at sea, for the power and tonal volume of some of these wonderful combinations is stupendous. But this great organ can also portray the mere 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16, 12.46, 3.16, 4.19, shadow of music, the sweetness of the violin, for instance and it may tell again, from some one portion of its for pathos, for interpretation of hu-

The organ will be a great acquisition to the Quincy theatre orchestra and Mrs. Mabel K. DeWolfe, the efficient leader, promises many musical treats for the patrons during the coming season.

-The twentieth amendment to the Constitution, if it is ratified in time by the required number of states, will be that giving Congress the power to regulate the labor of children under eighteen years of age.

MITZI, A WISE DOG

By MARTHA WILLIAMS

(@. 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Andora started violently at the boom of the court house clock. Ten even strokes, faintly echoed by Grace church tower half a mile away. The hour of her promise-yet here she sat supine. Outwardly, that is. Inside she was shivering quivering like a leaf in a storm. Hugh was in wait for her beyond the bridge which was the trolley terminal. He had a new car, light and fast-he could get from it every ounce of power and speed it held-and the state line, across which lay freedom, only thirty miles away. She ought to be there now-it would have been so easy to slip away, pretending an errand at the library. Granny would have suspected nothing, and Sister Beth was safely out of the

Why hadn't she gone? The question puzzled her. Certainly she loved Hugh in spite of his cyclonic rages -also she yearned inexpressibly for free and happy life. She couldn't ever have it here in Johnville. If she had dared either it would have been a town-wide scandal. Hugh had laughed and answered her when he could speak: "We'll go camping for our wedding trip-and you shall wear knickers, and sleep rolled up in a blanket, with not even a tent-and send back snapshots of everything. No doubt they'll make Johnville excommunicate us."

She had laughed with him, thinking of the pictures; but when he had gone, shook her head, saying softly to herself: "No; I musn't let him. Granny has to stay here-Beth, too. I mustn't hurt them any more than is inevitable-my running away will be all they can bear." They would never forgive her-unless Hugh were lucky enough to make a fortune-then she was sure he would let her take from hide-bound if friendly tyranny, they could love and cherish her, even as she would love and cherish them.

If only she had gone! What had withheld her? Again she questioned dog, found a starving puppy, freezing at the roadside, and loved, petted, fought for ever since. hated dogs-Beth likewise. had withstood them stubbornly-she wanted, she needed a playmate. Mitzi was actually and spiritually a godsend. That was two years back. Mitzi had earned her place before a year by foiling and tackling a roost robber making free with granny's prize Rhode Island Reds. Hugh had eyed her with appraising approval, saying after a second look: "Royally bred-must be. Pity you haven't her registry-she'd be worth a hundred dollars if you could show a clean pedigree," to which Andora had quickly flung back: "She's worth so much as she is-nobody can buy her." Then to her pet: "Shake hands, Mitzi. The way real ladies do." Mitzi had obeyed, mincing forward, and held up her paw distantly-then darting back to Andora, bristling the least bit. Hugh had tried to make up to her other times, but though she never growled at him, she went at once behind Andora's chair, and lay there tensely watching, as though ready for a spring. Not so strange-she was Andora's shadow-unless seduced by chance of a motor ride, her sole temptation. All cars, all chauffeurs were alike to her-a fact that gave her mistress many bad quarters of an Naturally she sprang upright at the sound of a horn honking impatiently yet fitfully at the narrow gate. Through screening vines Andora saw Hugh beckoning madly to her, frowning darkly, his mouth set in a crease. But he said only: "Get in-back-so you won't be seen," when she reached and the water is pumped to highthe gate. Silently she obeyed, hardly noting that Mitzi had leaped in joyously ahead of her. She crouched, dazed, marveling that Hugh had come for her-still more that he had not crushed her with reproaches of her drain. The residue is conveyed by bad faith. He was going away deviously-by back streets through the negro section; all the cabins there seemed deserted, with watchdogs made her hug Mitzi tight, murmurchain." Hugh did not look back-he was twisting, turning, half-doubling on his own track. Thus at last they won to the river-at the ford rather than the bridge. The car made it ilized. gallantly-thanks to drought and low water; in a wink they were climbing the hill-had made its steep grades and were headed straight for the turnpike. Still Hugh kept silence, his eyes steadily in front. Mile posts began flashing past. After the tenth Andora began to wander-instead of going straightway to the state line they were headed south.

As she realized the fact, the car stopped suddenly. Hugh turned upon her a shaken face, saying: "Safe! Sure I've given them the slip. Open that suitcase and put on what you find in it-won't look-what would it matter if I did. We're going to run all day, all night. Remember you're my young brother, going into the hills with me, prospecting for oil. We're Eversons-Bill and Ben-and may take options, scattering them well-" "Why?" Andora asked, her lips

Hugh laughed scornfully. "You'll find the reason, with your new clothes," he said. "A hundred thousand in big bills-I had the chance of a lifetime-and took it-that's why I'm taking you with me."

"Wrong! I am not going!" Andora cried, making to leap from the slowly moving car.

Hugh crushed her back upon the seat, then himself fell backward under the impact of Mitzi, who had hurled herself upon him and was trying to throttle him. Andora all but fell out, calling to her pet. Reluctantly Mitzi loosed hold, followed her mistress to the roadside, and stood bristling and growling in front of her. Hugh also had got out-sight of the bared fangs, the flery eyes daunted him; he stooped, gathered a stone and hurled it at the dog's head. sprang aside, took the missile upon her shoulder, glancing, fell a second as though mortally stricken, then

"Stand aside! I'll shoot herdon't want to shoot you-unless I have to," Hugh said, half-shamedly, though his face worked with passion. Andora knelt and shielded the dog with her body, crying: "Shoot if you choose! I'll die for her-gladlynow I know what she has saved me came up to her pose of defense, though a forefoot dragged.

A minute Hugh stood irresolutethen sputtering furious oaths, he got to his seat and sent the car away at top speed. Andora sank down upon the turfed roadside, drew Mitzi into her arms, and sat tearless, waiting for what might happen-life or death. Mitzi could not walk-Mitzi's mistress would not leave her. So they sat together, while the sun burned hot and hotter, the birds fell silent, even the insect chorus hushed itself to brooding mid-summer stillness. Presently Mitzi gave a faint whimpering cry-too faint to be called a bark, with yet a trace of gladness in it. A minute later Andora understood-the dog's fine ear had caught the purring of a motor, coming rapidly, but not too fast. Three minutes later it stopped in front of them. A tall fellow, all dust coat them away. Not to his home, but in- and goggles leaped from it, asking to a new environment, where, released deferentially the trouble, and if he might help? He had a good, tanned, ugly face, but to Andora he was more beautiful than an angel.

She was in a sore strait-truth was imperative—but needs must she speak her conscientiousness futilely. It the whole truth? Her rescuer chose couldn't be because Mitzl held so grave- for her, saying cordially: "Don't ly aloof from Hugh-Mitzi, the crea- bother to explain until we get you ture she loved next to him-her dear home with us-my mother and I. She nothing matters until we get this Granny beauty," touching Mitzi's ear, "as comfortable as we can make her."

> Two hours later Andora made a clean breast of everything to Mrs. Graham Lindsay, and received absolution. They sat either side of Mizzi, who looked love at both of them.

> "You'll let me tell my son-he will know what is the right thing," the elder woman said, rising. Before she made a step the phone rang furious-Her neighbor, ten miles off, was telling her of a shocking road tragedy--a young stranger in a new car had slipped over the edge of the Gorge road and been dashed to pieces. The car, going lower, had been sunk in the deep water, so he was likely to remain forever unknown.

"Except to-the man he robbedhis half-brother, General Armistead," Andora said rising. "He must knowso suspicion shall not fall upon an innocent head."

"Will you trust me to tell him?" John Lindsay asked, coming to her

She nodded-speech was beyond her -but her eyes said: "I will trust you for anything."

Since they spoke truth, needless to add the John Lindsays were a mighty happy couple.

Use Evaporation to Obtain Salt From Sea

One method of producing salt in Australia is through sun evaporation of sea water. A large bay is enclosed by a dam about a mile long. The rising tides flow in through sluice gates, er elevations, where it passes through numerous padlocks, by which means the impurities are removed. It is then pumped into salt crystallizers, after which it is allowed to trucks into the open field, where it is piled in hundreds of mounds.

These mounds are covered with canvas or thatch covers, and here the salt chained to the doorsills. Sight of them is permitted to remain until it has become "ripe," which sometimes takes ing in her ear: "Precious, love is your a year. The crude salt is conveyed to a refining mill, which is equipped with machinery for crushing and eliminating finer impurities, and the salt is subjected to a heat process and ster-

> In the crude state the salt is used in sheep and cattle foods and in chlorination and other chemical processes. The refined salt finds its principal uses in the curing of ham and bacon and in the manufacture of butter and cheese.

TERTAINLY it is good sport to bend without restraint, to look as supple as you feel, and to know that you appear slimmer than you really are.

Delanne accomplishes all this for you. Its light boning provides support and control, prevents your figure from spreading the least bit, and still is comfortable as no boning at all,

The upper section of this new model is composed of a side-closing brassiere while the lower part consists of a lightly boned hip-girdle with a short flexible front steel. Elastic sections at the sides give splendid figure lines with added comfort.

The back part of this garment is lightly boned with washable black boning.

Delanne is made of dainty pink silk striped batiste.

"I Don't Like the Minister"

You hear people give that quite seriously as the reason why they don't go to church. Or sometimes it is the choir they don't like ,or the shape of the church steeple. There's no easy way of finding out, but doubtless some Londoners don't find Westminster Abbey all to their liking. Yet many of our folks who stay away from their church because it doesn't suit their tastes probably feel sure they would go every Sunday if Westminster Abbey were conveniently near.

As a matter of fact, staying away from church because you don't like the preacher is a poor reason. But so is going to church because you do. For the Christian religion is too serious and important a matter to be judged by any particular minister, or choir, or church steeple.

Go to church and go for a better reason than that. Go because you want to find and worattract you unduly, nor will they Braintree. Hour 7 o'clock. keep you away.

Some people find God in Westminster Abbey. Where YOU find Him depends largely upon you. But for most of us, our own church, no matter what ligion' the shape of its steeple, is the for all. first and best place to look.

FRANK W. RICHARDS

Following an illness of several months, Frank W. Richards, a prominent citizen, and for years a contractor and builder, passed away Saturday evening at his home, 32 Walnut avenue. He was born and had always lived in Weymouth. He was 68 years old and a son of the late Ebenezer Richards. His wife died some years ago. A son, Fred H. Richards, and a brother, Loring Richards of Brockton, survive him. The funeral took place from his home Tuesday afternoon and was attended by many friends.

The service was conducted by Rev. L. W. Attwood of Abington. Mrs. Grace Cote sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere". There were many beautiful floral tributes. The burial was in the family lot at Cohasset, and the bearers were, Louis F. Bates, James H. Pray, Harry C. Newman and Jeremiah Don-

CONCERNING FIREWORKS

Editor Gazette-Transcript: I am writing this on Saturday evening at 11 o'clock during one of the several fireworks bombardments we have had in the town this summer. I can imagine that there are hundreds on the field enjoying the splendid dister community spirit than that which provides good entertainment for its people. There is something in firework displays that are interesting as well as exciting. I hope we can have more and more of this good type of

Yet there is an unfortunate feature in connection with fireworks which should be taken into serious consideration by those who plan the programs. It is the noise of the explosion of the bombs in the air. These severe and continued bomb explosions at such a late hour as this when people in their homes have relaxed for quiet and rest for the night is somewhat of an instances in the past when these air fort and rest. I know I may be taking an unpopular side of this matter, but I do it because I know of several instances in the past when htese air bombardments have been of unusual disturbance to invalids confined to beds, and to children who have been awakened by the sound of the heavy bombs and have been both frightened and made restless by the noise. I believe that in a type of entertainment like this, the persons to be considered first are the invalids and the children. No entertainment is enter-tainment which does injury to mind or body even of a few individuals.

This is not intended as a criticism of societies conducting these fireworks for in nearly every instance the societies are not responsible for programs which are furnished, I suppose, on contract. But I wonder if the suggestion might not be welcomed by these societies that fireworks in the future be confined to ground-set displays and those of the air which have none of the bombing features. I do not think this is an unreasonable request for the citizens of the town to make. In accepting this, I believe the societies conducting fireworks will be giving as much entertainment as before without the disturbing features that affect invalids, children and others. May I suggest that our Board of Selectmen in granting licenses in the future adopt a form of rules or agreements which will conserve the best of all the features of the fireworks display in the town with the unpleasant features such as the bombs and noisy explosions eliminated? REV. K. A. HANDANIAN

MINISTERS' MEETING

The Protestant clergy of the town of Weymouth met at the home of Rev. K. A. Handanian on Wednesday, Sept. 17. Eleven ministers were present. Following a luncheon, a meeting was held at which plans were enthusiastically made for its organization and ministers will be held five times a year on the third Tuesday of alternate months. At the meeting on Wednesday it was voted that all the churches observe October 5 as Go-to-Church Sunday. A committee of ministers was appointed to conduct the publicity for that day throughout the town. It will also be Rally Sunday in all of the

The desire to own a home is unfortunately much more general than is the ability to finance a suitable residence. But it often is possible, through careful planning and taking either from the bed closet or from the advantage of all of the most recent kitchen. In addition to the bed closet developments in the building field, to there is a closet for wraps, convenientbecome the owner of a charming lit- ly located near the front door.

Concrete's Many Uses in Beautifying the Garden

The congestion of residence buildings in cities, the close crowding of flats and apartments, has caused an ever-increasing number of householders to move to the suburbs in recent

The automobile, rapid transportation systems of various kinds, the ease of keeping in touch with the heart of the city while living in a suburb, have removed many of the disadvantages which were formerly associated with the smaller outlying communities. Large metropolitan stores now maintain delivery service for residents of the suburbs. One may have the feeling of greater freedom which comes from being not quite so crowded, and at the same time be in close touch with the city.

Modern science and invention, too, have given many home conveniences which make living much more comfortable for the suburban dweller than it was some years ago. A modern development which has done much to aid in improvement around the house is the advance in the use of concrete. This building material, which is plastic and can be molded and at the same time is as enduring as stone when finished, makes many details of home improvement much easier.

The suburban resident who has a plot of ground large enough to permit him to lay out garden and flower beds also finds innumerable uses for concrete. Flower boxes of this material permit him to take his flowers inside when the weather becomes too cold, but while the weather is warm he can have these plants outside in the garden. A hotbed, which is easily constructed, will give him green vegetables at an early season, when this green stuff would be very expensive in the markets. It permits him to get the maximum length of the growing season.

In connection with gardens, there are many uses of concrete which fall more or less under the decorative classification. If the garden is large enough one may want to build a garden seat, and for this purpose concrete is a superior material, for it adapts itself to many methods of treatment. By using aggregates of varying colors and casting these seats in more elaborate molds or "forms" one may obtain almost any color and effect he desires to harmonize with his grounds.

Concrete statuary is being used more and more in garden decoration. A concrete bird bath helps to beautify any garden if it is made artistically; and it makes the garden a much more enjoyable place by attracting a large number of birds. Concrete posts make excellent supports for vine trellises.

The number of concrete fences is increasing constantly. Residents real- be demanded by the purchaser.

ize that fences made with concrete posts are attractive and, more than that, that they are permanent; they will not rot or burn nor split by warping. Concrete posts also make excellent supports for mail boxes. They can be made to suit the needs of the housewife for clothesline posts. In any of these uses they have the same big advantage in addition to their attractiveness-their permanence.

Concrete garages, which are fireproof and weatherproof, afford added protection to the automobile, and they require no repairs-the first cost is the last cost. After a concrete garage is built the material takes care of

Culverts of concrete insure proper drainage of a residence site at all These are only a few of the uses of concrete around the home-with a little thought the average householder can find a score of other uses easily to conform with his individual needs.

Cement Mortar Preferred for Hollow Tile Work

Hollow building tile should be set with cement mortar, composed by measure of one part portland cement to not more than three parts clean sharp sand, to which there may be added hydrated lime not exceeding 15 per cent by volume of the cement,

The percentage of lime added is always figured on the quantity of the cement used; therefore, 15 per cent is equal to about one-sixth part bymeasure of the cement. The lime specified is not needed to make the mortar stronger, but to make it more plastic and easier to handle. Mortar containing lime will adhere better to the tile, makes a neater job and results in a saving in labor. Too much lime must not be used, as it weakens the mortar. A straight lime mortar, however rich the mixture, is not suitable for setting hollow tile. A sand containing a quantity of loam must not be used for cement, plastering or stucco. Sand containing a little clay may be used if the grains are not coated.

Special Taxes

It is advisable in purchasing property to carefully investigate the special assessment taxes and ascertain whether or not any of these have become delinquent and the property sold for taxes. There are many instances of this kind happening every day, and while the situation can be remedied and the tax sale canceled, it is, nevertheless, of considerable annoyance to the purchaser.

The only safe method of purchasing and one in which the buyer feels absolutely protected is in securing title guaranty or title insurance covering the property up to the amount of the purchase price. This can be done at a very little expenditure and should

The First Telephone and Some of Its Successors

New England and the Telephone

THE telephone was born in Boston, was sponsored by I New England brains and New England capital, and from this corner of the United States started out on its world-wide career.

As an agency of distribution, our service ranks with that of the railroads. Ivery business man is concerned quite as deeply with the problem of distribution as he is with the problem of manufacturing.

We believe we are of service in helping to bring to New England the raw material necessary to its factories, and in helping to distribute the finished products not only throughout New England, but to all quarters of the world.

Telephone service means to us the completion of 5,000,000 calls per day right here in New England. It is our desire to handle this immense volume of business expeditiously and correctly. To do this requires not merely adequate equipment maintained to a high standard of perfection, but also individual team play of the highest order by 25,000 employees.

We are preparing to play a larger part in the advancement of New England and the development of its enterprises.

Apple Salad

Take nice red apples, scoop out center nd fill with the following mixture: one cup colery cut fine, one cup chopped apple (chopped with a silver knife), one-half cup chopped peanuts and about three tablespoons of French tressing to marinate. Mix well and ill the apple shells. Serve on bank of ettuce and garnish with papricka parsely finely chopped, yolk of egg grated lemon, etc. Put spoonful of nayonnaise on top of each apple be-

ore garnishing. (Another recipe next week)

A GOOD PICNIC GAME There is a trick in this game and it must be led by one who knows the crick. He stands at one end of a line of players who are standing shoulder o shoulder. The leader says to his immediate neighbor "I see a ghost", the neighbor says "Where" the leader eplies "There" and points up over his left shoulder with his righ hand. The neighbor then says to his neighoor "I see a ghost" and when being questioned points in turn over his eft shoulder. This continues down he line.

The leader then repeats the formula his time pointing over his right houlder with his left hand bringing the arms to an awkward crossed posiion. The third time the formula goes down the line the position is kneeling on the right knee, the fourth time on both knees, the fifth time he head is thrown back and the sixth time it comes the leader's turn he gives his neighbor a slight push with his shoulder which causes the whole line to fall over. This is a good game to play on the lawn.

Gazette Prediction

It was on March 7 last, after the annual town meeting that the Gazette-Transcript commented as follows:

"Although the Appropriation Committee estimated that the tax rate of Weymouth would be about $30 in 1924 under their recommendations which were substantially adopted, a tax rate of $25 is possible, because of the large increase in valuation in 1923-1924, which includes the new station of the Edison Company at North Weymouth, the addition to the Clapp shoe factory at East Weymouth, the addition to the Stetson shoe factory at South Weymouth

Not such a bad prediction for the Gazette-Transcript.

Insurance of

At the annual town meeting $8 was voted to insure the town buildings for a term of three years. At that time the rate was not known and it was thought the sum would be sufficient, but with a rate of $1.42 it will cost about $16,000, and the matter has been held up, although the buildings are covered The Selectmen have appointed a committee, consisting of W. M. Tirrell and H. F. Perry of the board. Town Counsel William J. Holbrook, Robert S. Hoffman and Henry Tobin to arrange and have the insurance divided equally among the insurance

Daylight Saving Ends on Sunday

At 2 o'clock in the morning Sunday,

Sept. 28, daylight saving will end in Massachusetts, certainly for this year and possibly for good. Whether or not it will be continued is a question which will probably be settled on Nov. 4, when the voters of Massachusetts will place themselves on record for or against daylight saving. This referendum has been placed on the ballot by those opposed to the change, with the expectation that the next Legislature will act in accordance with the decision of the voters, repealing the system if the decision is unfavorable. Whatever the result of the referendum may be, on next Sunday everyone in this state will turn the hands of his watches and clocks backward, thereby regaining the hour of sleep which was

OAKLAND CEMETERY

On July 1, 1924, several prominent Providence and Rhode Island men took over the Oakland Cemetery Company from Charles S. Pettee and family, who have been owners of this cemetery for over a century. This cemetery which is located on the border line of Providence and Cranston has been taken over for the purpose of building one of the most magnificent mausoleums in the world as well as improving the cemetery property in general so as to make this spot a fitting companion to Roger Williams park, a most beautiful park.

The new corporation, the Oakland Cemetery Company, is going to spend in the neighborhood of $50,000 improving the cemetery by every means in its power, planting shrubs, plants, trees, flowers, making driveways, paths, magnificent entrance gates of bronze and granite opening into Roger Williams park as well as three entrances on Broad street. Furthermore, the trustees will arrange so as to make this cemetery a perpetual care cemetery, so that it will always be looked after and kept in good shape for all times. The location of the mausoleum will be in the northwest corner of the cemetery adjoining the park where at the present time there are very few interments. It is the plan of the trustees to make this portion in the form of a park cemetery, no mounds or monuments showing. In their place will be footstones or markers at the level of the turf with the family name or any other inscriptions they may desire. The plot of ground immediately surrounding the building will be decorated with beautiful flowers and shrubbery; and in addition there will be nice clean white driveways and footpaths. In the center of this magnificent plot will be an obelisk standing 160 feet in the air, higher than any obelisk in America and at the bottom of this obelisk will be a magnificent fountain.

Scotland Made Game of Golf National Pastime

Three months before the Pilgrim Fathers left Deftshaven James VI approved the contract for the first municipal golf links at St. Andrews, Scotland. Golf may have started in Holland, where a game called "kolf," a cross between golf, hockey and bowling, was played on the ice, within covered courts and even in churchyards. If the Scotch did import the sport they changed it greatly. "Links" for example is the Scotch term referring to rolling close-cropped shore fields which have become the model for all golf courses. "Bunkers" are really cut banks such as are found along a graded country road. Such banks with sand pits are natural to the Scotch shore. St. Andrew's cut banks are now artificially created on golf links wherever golf is played. For many years the original Scotch course consisted of 11 holes, a match being two rounds, or 22 holes, but in 1764 it was decided to eliminate two holes, so today the standard course is in multiples of nine. -National Geographic Society.

Early Navigators Dared Perils of Every Sort

It is a little more than 400 years ago since man made his first-known trip around the globe. The first voyage took three years, and they were years of great privation and discomfort. The early successful navigator was J. S. del Cano, a Spaniard. He returned to port on September 6, 1522. The expedition numbered five vessels, and of the 280 pioneers who set sail only 31 returned-ragged and broken. One of the objects of the adventure was to test the theory that the earth was round, and the ships took a westward course to discover a passage to the Indies. Ferdinando Magellan, a Portuguese, after whom the straits are named, was a leading spirit in the expedition. When the task was almost accomplished he and 40 others were killed by natives in the Philippine islands. Only one ship, the Vittoria, under del Cano, completed the journey.

The girl gave her lover a beaming smile, and the youth rejoiced that he had found such a treasure of modesty.

Poisonous Flower Bulbs

Daffodil bulbs, which superficially resemble onions, have sometimes been eaten for them by mistake and have caused serious poisoning. A case was reported not long ago in Edinburgh, where a cook took a daffodil bulb for an onion and used it to flavor a stew subsequently eaten by five persons. All were made acutely sick before the end of the meal. All recovered in a few hours and apparently suffered no after effects of the dose. The poisoning is supposed to be due to a principle known as "narcissine," found in the bulbs of daffodils and jonquils. Persons keeping daffodil bulbs in the house should take care that they are act confused with onions.

Beginnings of Music

The beginnings of music-making, as it is practiced by uncivilized people, Springfield ...... 32 offer curious reading. Among savage tribes, it is said, the earliest acquired musical phrase is derived quite distinctly from a simple howl, the notes gliding down or up a scale by semitones. And savages repeat over and over again one phrase, their satisfaction in having mastered which is childlike. As the people rise in the scale of intelligence, their favorite musical phrases grow larger and become more elaborate until a systematized making of music can be clearly discerned.

Famous London House

Carlton house was a famous mansion in London, which formerly stood in Waterloo place, near Pall Mall. It was erected in 1709 by Lord Carlton, and was afterward the residence successively of Frederick, prince of Wales (father of George III) and of George IV when prince of Wales. The building was removed in 1826. Carlton club. the famous Conservative club, was founded by the duke of Wellington, in 1831. It occupies a position near the site of Carlton house, whence the

Bathing Suits Of 1894 Were Not For Swimming

Pierce Thayer of Weymouth took the prize in a contest held by the Boston Post for bathing suit design.

The Sunday Post reprinted on Sunday the description of the suit pubished in 1894 recently printed in the Gazette-Transcript, when Thomas Stuart commented as follows:

of a bathing suit of the nineties. 'How in the world did they ever swim with all those clothes on?"

The answer is absurdly simple. Mrs. Kate Pierce Thayer of Weywhich won the Boston Post prize 30 | women. years ago, tells it.

"They didn't swim," she declared out over Fore River.

Antiques! There were enough of

Her prize bathing suit, seen in the suits for girls from 1894, when Kate accompanying illustration, was a radical style-setter then.

> "long bloomers reaching to the ankles were the thing, or at least, the skirt had to reach 'way below the knee. And the sleeves were long, reaching to the wrists.

"In that suit, the best a poor girl "I'd as soon go in the water with a could do was to get wet and paddle ball and chain on my ankle," declares near shore. Her suit, when wet, was could do was to get wet and paddle the modern athletic girl at the sight heavy, and she had no freedom of motion.

So this innovation brought forward by Mrs. Thayer in '93 (when she was young Miss Pierce) was an important step forward in securing the freedom mouth, who designed the bathing suit of the seas for Bay State girls and 24th of May, 1851. As it was the Queen's birthday, the name Victoria was given. She came of distinguished English ancestry. George Frederic Hayter, painter of the "Coronation of the Queen", was a great uncle, as was also Sir Arthur Hayter. Her grandfather, Arthur U. Hayter, was organist of Tranty church, Loston, "Before that time," she explained, for many years ,and his portrait hangs in the choir room. Her father was a musician of note. She possessed a mezzo-soprano voice of great richness, and was called by Carl Zerrahn, his "little Prima Donna" when she belonged to the Handel and Hayden Society. She also sang in a quartette at St. Paul's church, Brookline, and took part in the great Peace Jubilee of 1872.

MRS. E. WILLARD FROST

Emma Victoria Hayter was born

All this was before her marriage in 1875. Then began her happiest years for their life together was unclouded. It was true soul union. In her were combined rare gifts of mind and heart. We remember her simple goodness, her humility and unselfishness, her sensitiveness to the appeals of and settled the mystery. That's what sartorial, is deeply interested in sev- human need, her loyalty. Her life was intensely active. From her home as the center, her helpful influence radiated far and wide. During the World War she worked for the Red Cross, and delighted in that service,

She had need of patience during the long weary eight months when she was laid aside from busy life, and God gave her that compensating grace. Very gently and tenderly with her hand in His hand she was led Home. The love that had always surrounded her with cherishing protection was with her to the end. She walked in love, with love, into God's Presence, where she lives evermore.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Earl E. Story of East Wey-mouth on Saturday, the 20th, at her home in Lake Shore park, East Weymouth. Mr. Story's message was the same that has brought comfort through the ages to those who mourn. The mystery of death is beyond our solving, but our trust is in God. What he doeth, we know not now, but sometime we shall understand and learn to say "Thy will be done."

Albert C. Orcutt sang three selections with a voice that has kept its clear sweet tone since the days when he sang "The Palms" in the "Old Homestead." The large gathering was in itself a perfect tribute to her memory. It represented her family, old friends and neighbors assembled to do her honor. The wealth of flowers all about her was symbolic of the sweetness and beauty of her life, and of the affection in which she was held by all who were privileged to know her.

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATION The Weymouth Visiting Nurse Association has completed another year of service to the people of the town who have needed their help. Nine regular monthly meetings have been held with an average attendance of nine members. At all of these meetings the president, Mrs. A. E. Gladwin has presided.

-Mrs. Katherine Pratt, head nurse and Miss Belle Corliss, the assistant nurse, have rendered their usual efficient service. They report 4551 calls made during the year, the proceeds from paid calls totaling $1622. This year a new Ford coupe has been purchased for the use of the nurses.

Miss Conroy, the dental hygienist, has done most satisfactory work with the school children of the town, and her services are to be continued this

The association has received $1000 appropriation from the town towards the nurses' work and $1000 for the work of the dental hygienist. ### BRAKES REQUIRE MUCH ATTENTION

That Part of Car Should Be Operating at Top-Notch of Efficiency Always.

By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.) Car owners and repair men do not take time enough in adjusting automobile brakes. In your paper this morning you read of a horrible motorcar accident in which "bad brakes" played the leading role. Yet, you glance at the item-and forget it. Worse still, you ignore the moral it sets forth: Look to your own car and see if the brakes are in good condition.

Wheels Running Free.

Possibly you think that as long as the brake drums do not feel warm to the hand after you come in from a drive that the bands are not dragging. But this is not conclusive evidence that the wheels are running free. The only way to be certain of this is to jack up both rear wheels from the ground and then turn each wheel in a forward direction. When this is done, due to the differential action, the wheel on the other side of the car should turn in the opposite direction. That is, it will if the bands are free. While this check is being made the gears should be in neutral. Any swishing or rubbing noise coming from the wheel while you are rotating it is a sure sign that something is the matter, and a something which should be immediately removed if you wish your car to be free from brake drag. You who have not had the experience will find it almost unbelievable what a very slight amount of brake drag will do to your car's performance, especially on a hill,

While the car is jacked up it is imperative that you first free the external brakes, so that there is absolutely no contact between the brake band and the drum. Then, when you rotate the wheels, you can easily discover whether or not the internal brakes are dragging. If the internal brakes run free it is a simple matter to adjust the external brakes, and this is accomplished by first setting the adjustment at the brake support as close to the drum as possible, so that when the wheel is rotated no contact is made between the brake drum and brake band. Most brake drums are more or less out of round, so be positive that contact is not made when the brakes are in the release position.

Repair Brake Linings.

If the brake linings are worn and require replacement, have it done immediately. It is aggravating to have to fool around with adjustments while on the road-furthermore, it is sheer murder for yourself and passengers, for who can tell when the emergency will arise? Therefore have your brakes operating at the top-notch of efficiency at all times. If you don't you'll be sorry, or, rather, your family will, because flowers and caskets cost more than brake linings. Do you understand what I mean?

Call for an Expert

A broken spring plate should be repaired or replaced at once by a skilled spring maker, not by any chance a blacksmith. If the intermediate plates should break at the center bolt, the spring clips should be tightened down until it is possible to have the break repaired. Very often rebound clips are loose or broken. Missing rebound clips may result in broken main plates.

Tip About Nuts

Nuts set into inaccessible places can be tightened or removed by the use of two wrenches and a monkey or pipe wrench. The end wrenches are jointed; one is fitted to the nut and the monkey wrench is then clamped to the end of the second end wrench. Then by carefully twisting the nut can be tightened or loosened.

"Rich" and "Lean"

Gasoline Mixtures

There is nothing mysterious about the terms "rich" and "lean" mixtures. A rich mixture is one with too great a proportion of gasoline to the amount of air, whereas, a lean mixture is possessed of less fuel than it should have for proper combus-

An overrich mixture will cause overheating of the engine. to say nothing of carbon accumulation and such other ills as preignition. loss of power, lack of accelerative ability and loading up at low speeds.

At high speed a lean mixture will cause misfiring and uneven running of the motor. In connection with this improper operation there will be the familiar popping in the carburetor.

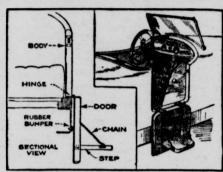

Of course, these troubles cannot always be charged to incorrect mixture, but nine times out of ten such incorrect operation can be traced to it.

Step on Racing Car Is Combined With the Door

In the construction of speedster bodies it is desirable to avoid any projections on the sides of the car, as these break the streamline appearance. For this reason a car owner, who was building a speedster, combined the step with the door, as shown in the il-

In doing so it was necessary to attach the door hinges to the bottom of the door instead of to the side, as usual. Upon opening the door, the small aluminum step automatically drops down and is held by means of two small chains. When closed, the. chains are entirely out of sight and the step is flush with the covering on the inside of the door. Apart from tained with this type of door and step, much less work was involved than if money invested. both had been constructed separately. -Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Locking the Car

Many modern cars are fitted with a battery ignition system, in which the distributer arm is removable. By removing this arm the car owner makes it possible to steal his vehicle only by towing it away or by fitting another | Seasoned Lumber Insures distributing arm. The arm may be removed simply by unclasping the distributer cover to which the wires are attached. It usually happens that there is only one way in which this arm will fit, so that there need be no worry about replacement.

Go Too Far to Right

There is a noticeable tendency among drivers to leave too much room between cars when passing each other close in day time is carried to the other extreme at night. Much of this | is due to the fact that a driver unconsciously allows for a full car width in the belief that the other car extends much further out toward the home as an investment. center of the road than is revealed by the headlights.

The dining room, cheerfully lighted from two sides, is placed conveniently in relation to the kitchen and the pantry, where provision is made for outside icing for the refrigerator.

The three bedrooms on the second floor all are lighted from two sides and permit cross ventilation. All are provided with large closets. The balconies are conveniences which the housewife will appreciate. The sewing room might well be used for a bedroom if occasion demanded, since it is as large as many rooms used

Quality and Long Life Economic factors play a part in determining what kinds of wood are most useful and economical in your community, a choice which should be guided by the advice of competent architects, lumber dealers and contrac-

Important It is, however, to the man or woman who is preparing to invest thousands of dollars in a home at night. The tendency to drive too | to protect that investment by two things:

> 1. Select the architect or contractor who builds the most substantial construction-his fee is the best "insurance" you can take out on your 2. Choose lumber that is accurate-means of preventing the thing most feared by home owners-undue depreciation. By these means homes are being built today just as substantial and just as enduring as those sturdy old homes of the earlier days.

Decorating the Wall of Child's Room or Nursery

There is no room in the home that so well repays us for thoughtful care in the details of its decoration than the nursery or the children's room. Any student of child psychology, no matter how superficial his observations may be, knows the extreme sensitiveness of the child mind to impressions from without-and the effects of the visual impressions are perhaps the strongest.

We must then realize the necessity of making a bright and cheerful atmosphere in the children's room. More than this, wise parents endeavor to create surroundings which will draw the attention and interest of the childish mind away from Itself.

Remembering that we must keep the room where children live and sleep as free as possible from anything which will tend to gather and hold dust and germs-and that every available space must be left free for play space—we find ourselves turning to the walls as the logical areas on which most profitably we may spend our effort and our money. Before discussing the better ways of we wish to create the right impres- and properly fertilized.

sions on the child mind, let us think back to our own childhood to find what we must avoid. How many of us remember walls covered with sad colored papers, or even walls of pretty color, but with designs which, as we now know, tired us and made us nervous. How many of us can recall being put to bed for an afternoon nap under a ceiling paper whose designs of triangles were always changing into squares or some other geometrical figure and which kept us continually busy bringing these figures back into the one which our particular idea determined to be the correct oneor, in the dusk of evening, finding the designs on the walls becoming terrifyingly peopled with grotesque faces and forms. The very fact that we remember such experiences proves to us the lasting impressions that they made, and while, perhaps, we ourselves cannot judge of their effects, psychologists who know tell us that such experiences are harmful, and we must take thought to prevent a repetition of those impressions upon our children.

Trees

In the care of one's yard caution should be taken against irregular growth of trees and means adopted to rectifying any fault in the tree's growth at the start. Many trees are inclined to lean in a certain direction thru being forced into that position by prevailing winds from the opposite point, and unless braced while young, It will be impossible for them to grow upright as they should. It is well that a sufficient space be spaded up around wall treatment for the room by which | the tree, and the ground kept worked

Have you seen this new car? -It is a closed-open car!

A WEEK ago the new Studebaker Special Six DUPLEX-PHAETON was first announced.

Today, countless thousands of people are talking about this entirely new type of car.

One moment it is a closed car-in five seconds it can be transformed into a delightful, airy, open car. But it is always the closed car in deep soft cushions, beautiful fittings and finish and luxurious riding comforts.

When you see it and ride in it you will know why it has made so profound a sensation—you will realize then that it gives you more than the finest open car can ever give you, plus the comfort and protection of the closed car.

And all at the price of an open car!

And this is the new DUPLEX BODY on the famous Special Six Chassis.

Hundreds of thousands of owners all over this country and abroad have given the Studebaker Special Six a name for value, dependability and performance second to no other automobile.

The new Studebaker Special Six retains all the qualities which make great reputation-to these have been added every real improvement which science and ownerservice could suggest.

Even aside from the sensational new DUPLEX BODY—the Studebaker Special Six has no superior in value in any car yet built. It was the conscientious intention of Studebaker in planning and designing the new Special Six to make it just such a leader—to that end every resource of the great Studebaker organization has been concentrated.

Even if we had the space we could not begin to tell you of the very many new and unusual features which indicate its superiority.

Certainly no words could do justice to its distinctive beauty.

In appearance it is unlike any other American car-yet its long, low, broad, sweeping lines are conservative, crisply stylish and in beautifully good taste.

Think of the new Studebaker Special Six Duplex-Phaeton as the ultimate in value and performance in a five-passenger carthink of it as a car matchless in practical convenience and desirability.

But to appreciate the sparkling beauty of its totally new lines you must see it. To know its perfection of operation and performance you must ride in it and drive it.

If you have not seen this NEW type car -come today!

Pelitas tackles, Captain Kelly and Hurlburt, et ux, Summer street for guards, Austin DeCoste Ahearn Alan L. Wingate tr to Martha P. and Swift; and for center, Gibson, Neilson, Pine Point avenue Swift and Austin.

Considerable interest is also being shown among the Trade Course boys, whose schedules do not permit them to practice on full time with the varsity squad.

At present they plan to practice from 4 to 5 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at Clapp field under the ceaching of Mr. Nelson and Mr. Greene. If the present fine spirit continues good results may be expected very soon.

It is hoped that this team will meet the Varsity second team, a trade course team from Quincy High and other teams of equal standing. Here's to the team in working clothes!

THAYER SCHEDULE

Manager Theron Spring of Thayer Academy foot-ball eleven announced Pertainba chepter, R. A. The captain is John Trott of last vear's team. Coach Edward W. Hincks has a large squad. Among the players of last year's eleven are S. Wakeman, Long, Langtrey, Schu-Stephenson, Alden, E. Palmer, Hubbard, Ball and Ketchum. Other candidates are Vallee and Capt. Dingwall Charles M. Bennett, Jr., master of of last year's Quincy team, Kells, J. Palmer and several promising young-

NEW STUDEBAKERS

Records were broken at the initial public showing of the fifteen new Studebaker models on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 13-14, not only in the number of attendance but in the enthusiastic and practically unanimous approval expressed, men long in the auto industry declare. From actual count of the crowds who visited over of a nation for its people."-Selected 3000 Studebaker show rooms throughout America, where new cars were on display, it has been established that a total of over 2,000,000 people went to see what Studebaker had done during the first 36 hours.

From every Studebaker dealer come reports that the rush of keeping up with business, since then, has made it impossible to prepare and send in a statement of the opening-day attendance earlier.

ODD FELLOWS WORK

The Greater Boston encampments will hold a district meeting Saturday in the Scenic temple, Berkeley street. Massasoit encampment will open the meeting at 2 o'clock, followed by the Patriarchal Degree at 2.30 o'clock uner the direction of Manet encampnent of Quincy. Golden Rule degree at 4 o'clock by Lawrence encampment, banquet at 6 o'clock. In the evening at 7.30 o'clock the Royal Purple degree by Paul Revere encampment of Transportation will be furnished by Roxbury, Grand Patriarch George W. the street railway busses leaving East Hall and his board of officers will attend.

BIG EDISON MACHINE

But few people realize the size and weight of some of the equipment now going into the new Edison plant at North Weymouth, and in this connection the Fore River plant showed its ability to handle big jobs when it took a part of one of the big generators now being installed by Stone & Webster at the Edison plant and performed some machine work on it. This job, 4 ft. dia. 24 ft. long, is typical of the machine, tool and crane capacity in the machine shop of the Fore River plant. It weighed 103,000 lbs. or 511/2 tons. Fifty-one tons suspended on lathe centers and driven from one end while turning the outside diameter gives one an idea of the equipment available in Quincy for large lathe work.

This is not the only job of this size which Fore River has handled of late. They were able to assist the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company by doing some repair work on one of their turbine motors. This job was 9 ft. in dia. and 20 ft. long, weighing 22 tons. It requires extreme care Revera, blk. m. (S. Roulston) 2 1 1 in the process of machining such work Bud Todd, br. g. (Budd Todd) 1 2 2 in order to maintain accuracy in all

NOTE:- This news story was in type and printed Thursday morning before the Assessors announced the tax rate for 1924.—ED.

The Assessors of Weymouth received this week a declaration from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, that they were willing to be assessed this year on a valuation of their Weymouth plant at North Weymouth for $3,845,000.

Although the plant will be in commission in a few weeks, the Company proposes to expend $10,000,000 in Weymouth during the next few years.

At present the boiler house has two huge stacks, but ultimately will have eight stacks.

By filling in the flats, several acres have been added to the acreage of Weymouth, and on some of this new land at the east of Bridge street near the Quincy Point bridge a mammoth coal storage field for 300,000 tons has been provided for, and alongside for several hundred feet is a valuable new dock. Several large coal barges can dock here, and unload coal without it being touched by human hands. Machinery also carries the coal by an endless chain through a tunnel under Bridge street and up an enclosed incline to the top of the boiler house, where it is fed automatically to the boilers.

A separate building near the boiler house is used for storage of electricity, which will be conveyed to Boston and all the Metropolitan cities and towns.

An increase of $3,845,000 in the assessed valuation of Weymouth in one year means a decrease of perhaps $5 per $1000 in the tax rate for 1924. Fortunate Weymouth!

The Edison plant is not the only increase in assessed valuation this year. Since April, 1923, there has been completed in Weymouth, a magnificent building for the Weymouth Savings Bank; another for the South Weymouth Savings Bank; a large addition to the plant of the Stetson Shoe Company; a large addition to the factory of the Edwin Clapp & Son, the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company has remodelled its Central Square car barn and added several busses to its Weymouth equipment; the Gem Theatre block has been completed; A. J. Richards & Son have built a new coal storage plant; F. Wayland Preston has built the Post Office block at East Weymouth; and George H. Hunt & Son have remodelled their block and the Telephone Company has doubled the size of its Weymouth Exchange.

These and other new properties,-houses, stores, garages, automobiles may reduce the tax rate more than $5 per $1000 in 1924, soon to be announced by the

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

January 1 we all hail the New Year and make sundry resolutions, which may or may not be kept. But for the majority of people Sept. 1 is the beginning of a New Year. We are back fresh from vacations. The work has been slack in the summer, and will be in full swing again in the fall. Setting aside resolutions, which as was said above may or may not be kept, what can we actually do to start the New Year right? The big-can accomplish so much more when we feel well. Every aparently healthy person should visit the doctor at least once a year for a thorough overhauling. The doctor will discover any small ailments before they are too far along to cause trouble. He will go over the body machine and correct any deof commission. Resolve to have a health examination this fall, and all the other resolves can be carried out twice as easily.

SOMETHING NEW EACH WEEK "We don't make excuses. We make good," reads the motto of the Conway (Ark.) News. So J. B. Parker, editor of the News, is now going to make good in telling the people of his community why they should take his paper: The Conway News is published weekly to be discussed and cussed. We'd rather have 99 readers openly cuss us and only one to approve us than to have 99 silently give us the O, K, and only one make a noise about the News. We avoid in our columns salacious scandal filthy criminal news, details of murder, divorces and other great crimes.

The Conway News caters to the clean and constructive news and tries each week to print something that will be helpful to our city interests. We, too, try to print something new each week,-that is to say, we legitimately seek new openings and advocate or censure civic things that get close to the heart. We have the readers wondering each week what new lay the editor of the Conway News will take and whether they approve or disapprove they hunt up the issue regularly to see what is on tap. The Conway News is run not to make money, but to live and let live. We never figure how much profit is possible, but how much business necessary to "carry on" with a fair margin for replacement, etc., and meeting daily obligations at a discount. The News wants to be useful in its community, constructive in its policy and a staunch upholder of law and clean politics. We have no use for "party bosses" or those who control the greatest amount of business.

WHAT MY NEIGHBOR SAYS Is of Interest to Weymouth Folks

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backache, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills-and has found relief from all this sickness and suffering. that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of a Weymouth resident. Who could ask for a better example?

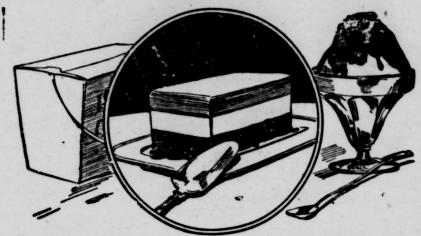

Napoleon Bennett, 53 Vine street, says: "I was suffering with an attack of kidney trouble. My back got mighty lame and sore and it was all I could do to stoop, for when I did, I had a sharp twinge in my back which felt as though someone were piercing me with a knife. I had to pass the kidney secretions too often and they were painful and scalding. I heard of Doan's Pills and after I had used a few boxes, the pains left my back, and my kidneys became normal. I haven't been troubled

MASTER IN HIS OWN HOME

By H. IRVING KING

(@. 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) Carberry Jones was a bachelor of long and confirmed habit. Carberry had two sisters who were confirmed grass widows. Carberry had money in the bank and an exceedingly pretty home in the country. His sisters, being possessed of none of these superfluitles, availed themselves cheerfully of the belongings of Carberry. When they wanted money, they asked Carberry for it; when they felt that the country air would benefit them they descended upon "The Maples," took entire possession of it and its owner, and stayed until ennui began, when they fled back to the city.

The one great fear that haunted the sisters was that Carberry would one day get married. Carberry always disavowed any intention of committing the crime of matrimony, and declared his firm resolve to live and die in single blessedness, under the care and domination of his sisters.

Sad to say, though, Carberry was a hypocrite. Deep down in his heart he had for several years been toying with the idea of taking unto himself a wife.

The fair object around which the Carberry thoughts of revolt centered was Angelica Freeman, who lived about half a mile down the road with her parents and a sufficient company of younger brothers and sisters. She was about Carberry's age, which was -well, it is not polite to tell a lady's age. Suffice it that both Angelica and Carberry, as the vulgar would say, "were not spring chickens." Strange to say, the suspicions of the dominant sisters had never fallen upon Angelica. She had always lived where she did; she was a demure body; she was never seen by them talking to and smiling at Carberry—as so many of the girls round there did. Carberry never mentioned her name, and they never caught her sitting on the front plazza talking with "dear brother" when they made their unannounced descents upon the homestead. Oh, the shocking duplicity of these middle-aged lovers!

Carberry and Angelica did meet and talk and smile at each other. Anmany a time and talked with him. Angelica was as anxious to marry Carberry as he was to marry her. But she began to think that if their mutual wishes were ever to become realities it must be she who would do the proposing. "Why don't Carberry speak?" she said to herself many a time in a rage just after she had seen a proposal trembling on his lips, only to be 'squelched" by his thought of the terrible sisters. One day Carberry received a letter from each one of his sisters saying that she would be down on the following Thursday to spend a week or two with him. Each demanded that "my room" be put in perfect order for her reception and various minor details arranged for her comfort and convenience. Now "my room" was the big front room on the second floor with the southern exposure—the one with the fine old mahogany furniture.

Carberry sat on his piazza with the two letters in his hands and sighed deeply. He foresaw the coming storm over "my room," and, oh, how he dreaded it! Angelica came walking

"Hullo, Car," she called out, "what's the matter? You look as if you had lost your last friend on earth."

"Perhaps I have-or am going to," he replied. "Come up here and talk to me. I've got something important to say to you." The sight of Angelica and the exasperation caused by the letters of the dominating sisters had made the bachelor take a sudden resolve. He would propose to Angelica and abide the issue. Matters could not be much worse than they were, anyway. If Angelica refused him he would probably lose the only real friend he had in the world. But he could live this life of constant supervision no longer.

All well and good; but when Angelica took a seat beside him and said, "What is it that's so important?" his heart failed him again. He almost proposed, but stopped just short of it.

Angelica was vexed, but she put a good face on it and, to the tune of "The Campbells Are Coming" sang merrily, "The sisters are coming, oh, ho! oh, ho!"

"Yes, they are," replied Carberry, 'read these two letters."

"What you need is a wife," said Angelica after she had perused the epistles. "I know I do," replied Carberry,

"but where can I get one?" "Oh, fiddlesticks," said Angelica,

"any girl would marry you." "Who?" asked Carberry blushing, "for instance, now, would-would-

"Certainly, Car, and the sooner the better," replied Angelica. And for the first time in his life Carberry leaned over and kissed her-and she returned the kiss. Imagine the rage of the dominating sisters when, two days later they each received a letter signed, "Your affectionate sister, Angelica Jones (formerly Angelica Freeman), deeply regretting that she could not have the pleas-use of their company at The Maples just now, as she and "dear Carberry," having been married the day before, were about to depart for a month's bridal tour.

Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Jones from their wedding trip the sisters descended upon them and there was a battle royal in which the invaders were routed. For Carberry's marriage had given him a new and unexpected force of character, and for the first time in his life he was master in his own house, Angelica, of course, consenting.

Millions in Diamonds

Dug From "Hell's Hole" In the heart of the Transvaal, near Pretoria, there is a tremendous hole dug in the open veldt. This colossal gap in the earth is half a mile long, a quarter of a mile wide and 400 feet deep. It is known by thousands in sunny South Africa as "Heli's Hole." In reality, it is the Premier diamond

Looking from the surface down into this vast gap, one sees hundreds of tiny black figures, like giant ants, shoveling the rich blue clay for dear life. Small trucks rush along a miniature railway to be loaded with this blue earth, which is taken to the surface through tunnels and there

It sometimes takes 100 tons of this blue earth to produce 30 carats of actual diamonds.

During prosperous times at the Premier mine, hundreds of miners work continuously throughout the whole day in shifts, says London Answers. At night the mine is lighted from the surface by very powerful searchlights, which give it the appearance of a modern inferno.

This sinister likeness is intensified by the continuous blasting of the rock and earth. Sometimes this is like anincessant cannonade, and fragments of rock fly in all directions. At these times the horde of black workers are sheltered in specially constructed

The history of this mine is a romance. The property was at one time an isolated farm, and was offered for sale at £25,000. Diamonds were first found on the farm in 1902, and since then this "hell hole" has produced no less than £23,000,000 worth of dia-

Mining engineers state that there is unlimited wealth yet in the great hole, and for many years to come fortunes will be made from the ugly-looking gap in the open veldt.

Titles for Music

We have long been accustomed think of Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words" as pieces with titles given them by the composer-such as "Spring Song," "Bees' Wedding,"
"Duetto," "Hunting Song," etc. The fact is that Mendelssohn gave them no such titles, all which have been attached to them by later hands. Mendelssohn himself, in a letter to an inquirer as to the meaning of some of the "Songs Without Words," said "You give the various numbers of the books such titles as 'I Think of Thee,' 'Melancholy,' etc. I can scarcely say whether I thought of these or other things while composing the music. Another might find 'I Think of Thee' where you find 'Melancholy'." This warning from a composer suggests with authority the danger of labeling music with meanings which, although they may satisfy one hearer's opinion, will be quite opposed to another's.

Naming of America

America received its name from Amerigo Vespucci, an Italian navigator, who was born at Florence in 1451. Only a few years after Columbus' first voyage to the Western world Vespucci went to South America and upon his return wrote several narratives of his travels. These writings were translated into several foreign languages and wirely circulated throughout western Europe. These accounts of the new continent found an eager reader in Martin Waldseemuller, a young German geographer at Saint Die, in the Vosgian mountains. Waldseemuller in 1507 published a work in Latin entitled "Cosmographiae Introductio," in which he called the new continent America. In a note he gave his reasons for adopting this name and appended a part of Vespucci's narrative to the new work on geography.

Maybe So

The professor saw a worm making its laborious way up an iron telephone pole. He thought the critter had made a mistake, so he removed it and placed it on the sidewalk near a tree. But the worm again started up the telephone pole. Somewhat aroused, the professor called the attention of a passing friend to this.

"I suppose," suggested the latter, that worms have to adapt themselves to living conditions the same as the rest of us. He's probably going up to get some electric juice for breakfast." -Louisville Courier-Journal.

His Substitutes

"Gosh bless the blasted bamdamuality!" said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, after a tree limb had fallen on

"What makes you talk that-a-way?" asked the friend who had pulled the weight off from him. "Sounds like you'd had your mind knocked out, or something of the sort."

"I'm tired of cussing. The old swear words don't seem to express as much as they used to. I've been thinking up some fresh ones."-Kansas City Star.

RTAINLY it is good sport to bend without restraint, to look as supple as you feel, and to know that you appear slimmer than you really are.

Delanne accomplishes all this for you. Its light boning provides support and control, prevents your figure from spreading the least bit, and still is comfortable as no boning at all.

The upper section of this new model is composed of a side-closing brassiere while the lower part consists of a lightly boned hip-girdle with a short flexible front steel. Elastic sections at the sides give splendid figure lines with added comfort.

The back part of this garment is lightly boned with washable black boning.

Delanne is made of dainty pink silk striped batiste.

Organdie Frocks on Fashion List

As Appropriate for Any Formal Affair.

No longer is organdie reserved for the simple frock of the graduate. It has taken its place among the materials considered appropriate for occasions of formality. For several seasons a number of the most exclusive designers have used organdie for dinner and dance frocks and as a result we have had organdie embroidered in silver and color thread, organdie decorated with colorful motifs done in wool, organdie trimmed with appliques of taffeta, but a new note appears this season in organdie frocks which have you. decorative motifs worked out in tiny crystal or china beads.

Recently there have appeared two models of great individuality and much charm. These are developed in black-and-white organdie with a striking touch of contrast in streamers of flame-color ribbon. Some idea of the chic of one of these frocks may be gleaned from an interesting model recently displayed.

The dress itself is of crisp black organdie with swirling motifs of tiny white china beads and white silk embroidery. A wide band of white organdie finishes the skirt and small flat white buttons ornament the streamers of flame-color grosgrain ribbon. If one desires a more practical gown, georgette may be used instead of organdie without detracting in any way from its smartness.

Colored organdie, both plain and hand-embroidered, is used for warm weather frocks, and these in many instances are combined with lace dyed to match the color of the material. Quite lovely are frocks which have decorative borders or one or two large motifs cut from satin, taffeta or organdie and appliqued to the foundation with metal thread.

Directoire Mode Shown in Milady's Accessories

So subtly has the directoire influence crept into the modes of the day that in some cases it has not been recognized, says a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. Fashion followers who have been looking for drastic changes in costume are doomed to disappointment, for good taste does not allow extreme exaggeration of this period. The directoire usually takes expression in frilly jabots or whimsical cuffs and sleeves treatment. The lace jabot is typical, the high stock collar finished with a wide bow tie. Men's styles figure prominently in the fashions associated with this period, hence the long coat-tail effect is to be reckoned with. Slashed skirts worn over contrasting foundations identify street frocks for fall as being of this period. Upon the hat rests the entire responsibility for the success or failure of the costume. The sports hat and hat of careless lines are totally out of place with the costume which gives such meticulate attention to details. It is the high, square crowned the demand. Sleeves of this period are self. finished with decorative touches, either the plain, severe type of cuff. held by a large button, perhaps, or a frill of lace hanging from the underarm below the elbow.

Reads of White Jade

A necklace that will please even the most fastidious woman is made of white jade beads beautifully carved. The beads are very large and the or painted on wood and walls, then on string is long enough to form a striking accessory to any costume.

Hats Like Jockey Caps

Snappy little hats, imitating a jockey cap, but with a higher crown, have made their appearance. There is a deep visor, and above it there invariably waves a half wreath of flowers made from ostrich fronds.

Drawback to Affection Inspired by a Horse

I am not, as I say, sentimental about horses; I have never yet seen a man a horse liked as well as a nice bundle of Delightful Fabric Regarded hay, writes Guy Struthers Burt in the Saturday Evening Post. But on the other hand, if you have ridden one horse a lot and know all his little ways and he knows all yours, and if you have ridden many lonely and sometimes dark miles with him, after a while you begin to cherish an affection for him against your better sense.

There's a sweet, warm, companionable feeling to the rippling muscles of his neck when you put your bare hand against them on a pitch-black deserted trail, almost, although not quite so much company as you get out of a dog in camp. And as for Joe, if you miss the trail in the dark and try to turn off it he will do his best to buck with

Timidity Has No Place Among Arabs of Desert

Bravery is the great outstanding characteristic of the Arab. His judgment of what constitutes cowardice is relentless and terrible. As soon as a man is proved a coward the tribal poet laureate makes a song about him magnifying his fault and ridiculing I did him. If the victim is unmarried no woman will consider him, as the song of his cowardice endures forever in the tribe. If he is already married his wife or wives are permitted by tribal law (not by Mohammedanism) to return to their fathers. The men, too, cease to associate with the coward and he bécomes an outcast and a pariah. To no other tribe can he turn for shelter, and almost invariably suicide is his lot.

Saved by Mother's Spirit

One evening, a short time after my mother died, I was walking along a lonely road near our home when a young man approached and asked the way to a certain street. As we were both going the same way we walked which were handalong together until we came to the crossroads. I stopped to give him further directions. Suddenly he seized me and tried to force me into the tall bushes which bordered the road. I struggled frantically, but he pulled me to the ground and was dragging me backward. Suddenly I felt my mother's presence beside me, although I saw nothing. Just then my assailant moult each time looked up. Without a word he dropped me and ran down the road and out of sight as fast as he could go.-Chicago Journal.

Right and Left Hands

It is a fact not generally known that the fingers of the right hand move much more quickly than those of the left. They are also much more accurate, says London Tit-Bits.

Recent experiments have also proved that the ring finger of the left hand can work more quickly if it is moving in conjunction with the right-hand together, indeed, move considerably

The more a person uses his or her fingers, the more adept they become. A the left hand becomes almost as skillful as the right.

Use of Canvas Modern

It was not until 1520 that artists began to use canvas. The masters previous to that time worked in ceramics canvas stretched to a frame.

Many of the great painters ground the pigments and mixed their own colors, says the Detroit News.

Flounce and Tunic, Says Fashion Writer.

Forecasting the autumn mode has come to be one of the favorite pastimes of midsummer at the exclusive resorts on the continent, observes a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. The clothes worn at Biarritz, Deauville, Longchamps and other modish environs of Paris are closely scanned, and the slightest insinuation of something new is avidly seized upon by the observers, professional and otherwise, at these fashionable watering places. As a matter of fact, these resorts do exert a surprisingly strong prenatal influence over the lesser details of the approaching mode-an influence which will be more than usually potent this year because of the unusual variety of styles that the French designers are displaying. There are numerous artistic innovations and elaborations, but there is no evidence of a new silhouette, although indications point toward an outline more involved than has been offered in many seasons. Sleeves. waistline and skirt length are essentially unchanged, and if these Olympic models be any criterion, it is apparent that the autumn mode will derive its variation from the intricate manipulation of trimming details. Plait, flounce, tunic, plaid fabric and the ensemble are the dominating features of the Colombes costumes, and while none of these is startlingly new, each is being developed in a distinctly original manner.

Another manifestation of the urge toward plaids is seen in a three-piece costume of Philippe et Gaston, and consists of a plaid wool dress in beige tones, accompanied by a beige kasha coat matching one of the tones of the plaid. The coat is widely open at the front and has a shawl collar with square-cut ends.

For Formal Affairs.

Let it not be understood, however, that the vogue for plaids extends to formal clothes. It does not, save when developed in taffeta and chiffon, which are worn on dressy afternoon occasions. At the supplementary formal affairs crisp, full-skirted taffeta models in monotone plaids of rose, clear yellow and pale green are in evidence upon the smartest dressers. Generally, though, the plaid design belongs artificial. to the field of sports clothes, and where it is not used for the costume itself it invariably makes its appearance as a trimming or an accessory. Thus, a plain beige or white kasha wool coat may have a plaid border, either woven in the cloth or cut from a plaid and applied in the form of a border. Or vari-colored soutache braids may be used to form plaid borders for plain cloths. This very charming idea is distinctly new. Many beautiful braids woven in plaid design are employed to give a touch of novelty to demurely toned suits or dresses. Some women who consider plaid effects too striking for the entire costume adopt them only for linings.

The plaid hat and the plaid scarf are two other important landscape notes. The bangkok, woven in plaid design and either trimmed slightly or sn't it?-Proclegiel (Lemberg). not at all is accompanied by a wool scarf, developed in the same plaid or in a different design with the same colorings. The trend toward the ensemble is rapidly gaining momentum at every smart watering place on the Continent. For the benefit of those who do not know just what an ensemble is, it is explained by the translation of its name. Ensemble is a French word meaning together, and an ensemble costume is one in which two or more of the component parts are brought together by a fabric, color, pattern or trimming which is identical on each. Thus one ensemble may consist of a

Add whipped cream and garnish with salted almonds.

Today the apple is king of the market. The care and expense of keeping an orchard fit, is no small or mean one. The apple leads in the number of ways it may be used in the household, and besides this fact, there is also the one that nearly everybody likes apples. And so this once lowly fruit has taken its rightful place in the market, and the crops are carefully harvested. And the average eater Heroic rescue of woman by E.
