Ies, the semi-official correspondent of the Baltimore San, writes as follows under date of the 9th inst.:

The departure of Mr. Robert J. Walker for Kansas is fixed for Monday, the 1th, and his advent in the Territory will, without doubt, be bailed as an assurance of continual tranquility and presperity. The Territory is now open to the peaceful influence of industrial pursuits which will necessarily supercede the late actiation. The acting governor, Mr. Stanton, has made a good impression is Kansas on all parties. Some of the sements of discord have disappeared before his firm and conciliatory policy. But nothing is wanting, nor expected, as a further explanation of the reasons which indicanced the British government to reject the amendments which this government had proposed. The formal minister, Lord Napier, has communicated them to the government, and in a much more conclusively maker than that in which they were first presented through the distant organ of Lord Palmerston, the Moon which the give were first presented through the distant organ of Lord Palmerston, the Moon which the Ray Islands was had been often which the Ray Islands were proposed to transferred to Honduras the conditions upon which the Ray Islands when the Ray Islands were the senate in an official form, when the Dalbas and Clarendon treaty was another consideration. The senate, however, chitained a copy as it appeared in the newspapers, and found that the proposed transfer was clogged with so many conditions that it amounted to nothing. A large majority of the Senate was houlde to the acceptance of the treaty on those conditions, even if they were to be considered independently of the clause excluding slavery from the Islands.

It is fortunate, however, that the Senate did not go blindly into the convention between Great Britain and Honduras, for, if they had given their assent to the treaty as it would have proved to be a source of vesation and irritation to both parties.
