CANADA INTERESTED IN BRITISH BUDGET

Better Payment of Underpaid Means Greater Consumption of Food

BRITISH MARKET WILL ABSORB ALL SENT

Some Features of the Rival Emigration Policies of Dominion and Commonwealth

(Special Correspondence to the Times.)
London, April 25.—Canada can hardly fail to be interested in the budget of Great Britain which Mr. Lloyd George introduced this week into the House of Commons. The British people are alike the bankers, the investors and the food consumers—at least to a very great extent—from the Canadian standpoint. What then is the outlook—the outlook for Canada?

Before proceeding to discuss these points in turn, it may be useful to comment on the vast increase of expenditure in this country. "God forbid," said Mr. Gladstone twenty years ago, "that the national balance sheet shall ever reach £100,000,000 sterling." What would he say now? Truly the pace is prodigious and there is no harm in uttering a warning note. In 1896 the revenue was £89,204,316; it reached the nineties by 1897, the South African war rushed it up over a hundred million and in a year after the conclusion of hostilities the total was £151,552,000. Then it dropped a little to the normal, or what people thought would be the normal, but it never touched a figure below £141,000,000; soon it started to rise again. In 1908 it was £156,000,000, and up it went steadily, till last year it was £185,000,000, and now this year's budget estimates the revenue for next year at £196,825,000. These figures only take into account the revenue, but on the other hand it is safe to assume that the expenditure absorbs every farthing, for we have passed the period when the chancellor of the exchequer budgetted for more than he actually required. Mr. Lloyd George has done so in the past, but now he has seen the error of his ways.

Hence you can take it certain that we need here all the money we can get and probably more. Primarily the rise in expenditure is due to the increased outlay on the services and the better pay of the employees of the government, together with the extra charges entailed by the creation of so much new machinery. Thus education and the post office cost more to run; more is a rise in the amount of grants made for local purposes and the tendency is still to go up while old age pensions and insurance which formerly did not exist at all now involve the outlay of £20,000,000.

Now in one very obvious respect this is excellent from the Canadian standpoint. The better payment of the underpaid means a vastly greater consumption of food, for whereas the wealthiest individual can only spend a certain amount, which does not vary much, on the satisfaction of his own purely creature comforts there are in this country a vast number of persons who have to stint themselves in the actual necessities of life. There must indeed be at least a few million more people who take but little interest in anything else than how to get enough work to keep themselves and then how to expend to the best advantage the poor pittance that is paid them for the toil they perform. Circulate money better and you will have a much greater consumption of food—the food which Canada can supply and is supplying. There is an insatiable demand for cheap and wholesome food and this is shown by the steady rise in prices. Bread is constantly showing a tendency to mount up in price although it varies according to locality to the extent of 40 per cent, and the success of the bakers' strike is certain in the near future to cause a still further upward movement. Meat still remains very high, for which of course the trusts in North and South America are chiefly responsible, because Australia is practically producing to the full extent of her abilities. At least, so the premier of South Australia, Mr. Peake, told me this week, apparently as a result of special inquiries which he is making since his arrival in this country. His view was indeed confirmed to a very great extent by the premier of Victoria, Mr. Watt, who is also in this country on a commercial mission. In passing it may be explained that the Commonwealth of Australia is undoubtedly about to enter on a more ambitious policy of commercial expansion. It is the states—or some of them—which are taking the lead, and not the central government, but the latter will follow. Both Victoria and South Australia intend to adopt a wider and more energetic immigration policy, and both contemplate a great extension of trade. South Australia is in the first place beginning the system of boy emigration which was recently tried in Ontario, though it seems there for some reason which is not very clear, to have broken down. Mr. Peake has drafted a bill which is to be submitted to the legislature on his return which will enable the scheme to be started on very up-to-date lines, and if successful extended to any number of youthful emigrants. On the other hand Mr. Watt tells me that having converted the community to an appreciation of the need not to say the value of emigration, his state is going into it on very comprehensive lines and the full scheme will be announced at an early date. Obviously, therefore, Canada must look for powerful and determined competitors in the field of emigration. As to the supply of food there is no doubt that the scheme which meets most favor but which is in an embryonic stage is to establish in Lon-

LONDON PHYSICIANS SCEPTICAL OF SERUM

Dr. Friedmann's Claims Rejected by Physicians; New Aspirant to Tuberculosis Cure

(Special Correspondence to the Times.)
London, April 25.—Of the making of cures for consumption there is no end. Such things come with every year, but until lately never a right one. Canada, if events are reported rightly, has lately been taking Dr. Friedmann to its bosom, and in doing so would appear to have made a bad mistake, for London physicians who claim to have been using Friedmann's serum not only declare that it does not produce good results, but that in some cases the condition of the patient is worse after treatment.

It is pleasant, therefore, in view of the apparent failure of Dr. Friedmann, to be able to record that the experiments conducted with the serum discovered by Dr. Mehnarto, some account of which appeared in the London Daily Telegraph on March 1 of this year, go on from success to success. It will possibly be three months from now before the final results will be made public, but when they are issued they will be found to be startling. This discovery will revolutionize the practice of medicine throughout the world, and will give us an entirely new system of serum therapy, practically on what a layman may term a hygienic basis, inasmuch as the new serum contains no poison and is incapable of producing any of the filthy diseases or dangers hitherto inseparable from the use of sera.

Dr. Mehnarto claims, and justly so, according to the many eminent men who are associated with him in his experiments, to have discovered a serum which is capable of fighting and defeating—wherever the patient is not too far gone—any disease in the blood caused by the presence therein of dangerous micro-organisms. This claim is being tried to the highest, and amongst patients under treatment are included cases of mucus colitis, pernicious anaemia, leprosy, malaria and other tropical diseases. All are doing consistently well, and if Dr. Mehnarto's serum could do no more than "has done already," it would have sufficient to have established its right to be considered the greatest medical discovery of all time. Tuberculosis, the one remedy in tuberculosis treatment which may be admitted to have justified itself to some extent, will never be used again when the results of the present tests are published, and it is to be expected, so that Contra-Toxin (as the new serum is called) can be brought into general use at once. The clever men who are making the tests, however, are all of opinion that it is necessary that the method of application to cases in various stages of the complaint should be ascertained and placed soundly on record, for the guidance of the ordinary practitioner, so that it may be used with unvarying and prompt success, and nothing will be issued officially until such time as the doctors think it desirable.

Contra-Toxin is also being tried upon another scourge which can not be described as a tropical disease only, while the tests on sleeping sickness, which have already proved completely successful in South Africa, will be commenced shortly. Sleeping sickness bears some affinity to syphilis, and accordingly a well-known and highly distinguished British specialist will conduct experiments with a view to ascertaining the value of the serum in regard to this loathsome disorder. Should these experiments prove successful—and those associated with them have no doubt on the matter—it would mean that the famous remedy of Professor Ehrlich, "Salvarsan" would be displaced in favor of the safer and more reliable cure.

The only man amongst the medical men associated with this work who is not excited in the discoverer, who sits placidly working in his Harley street house making serum, advising, seeing, and acting patients brought to him by the doctors, and generally directing the enormous work. No loud blowing of trumpets is there about this quiet man, no wild rush through in advance by a frantic press agent, no running after distinguished people, no banquets or public receptions. Dr. Mehnarto sits quietly at his work, and the heads of the land are coming to him in the quiet manner which distinguishes the genuine scientist and the real gentleman. They recognize in this German doctor a fellow worker and seeker after truth with themselves, and they treat him with the respect due to his attainments and his capacity. They will take the public into their confidence when the time is ripe, but not before.

don a huge central emporium where Australian produce can always be obtained and under which there will be avoided the need for the articles passing, as they do now, through so many hands. The only drawback is that Australian produce would not suffice to fill such an establishment at all moments of the year and it would in consequence not be surprising to see eventually a proposal put forward to the Canadian government to co-operate. It would be a good scheme and the idea should not too hastily be "turned down." Hence, therefore, the outlook for Canadian products was never better than at the present time. They will absorb all that can be sent, it, not only now but in the future.

Mr. Lloyd George counts on a boom time, but to be quite candid, no one can speak with absolute confidence. However, the official statement should encourage the investor, who is quite ready to be encouraged if only the war cloud in the Near East would dissipate. At least in a short time it is quite certain that loans will pour on to the London market, not for millions or tens of millions, but for hundreds of millions. One of the allies is raising first ten and then forty millions, so the

INDIANS GET BUT FOUR HITS

Bees Break Into the Win Column; Lynch Secured Three Hits; Score 2 to 1

Now, altogether, doff your hats to Kiddo.

Holding the McGinnity crew to four little singles, widely scattered, Kiddo Wilson heaved the locals to the first victory that the locals have been able to register over the Tacoma club this year. The win was clean cut and the visitors could do nothing with the remarkable twirling of the veteran. Wilson secured nine strikeouts and passed but one man, eclipsing the performance of Iron Man McGinnity on the previous day. The Bees did not find Concannon a great puzzle, garnering eleven hits, the Tacoma mound selection, however, tightened up in the pinches and it was not until the eighth that Lynch's Larupers drove a brace of runs across the platter.

Wilson Had Everything. Perhaps it was the presence of the ladies, for they were on deck in large numbers, that inspired Kiddo to cut loose in mid-season form, but at all events, the Bee veteran was practically unhit. Only two hits were secured up to the seventh, and but four in the entire nine stanzas. That is putting them where they are not, and with the Bees working smoothly, nothing but a complete blow-up would have tossed the game away. As it was, Johnny Rawlings contributed a boot in the ninth that started something and paved the way to the Tigers' solitary run. There was one down when Kellar reached first on Rawlings' failure to handle his slow hit to short and when Brooks failed to hold Rawlings' throw on the next batter, there were two on, with a pinch hitter replacing Lou Nor-dyke. Wilson showed his class by breezing Harris, much to the delight of the crowd. Ed. Kennedy had fanned on two previous occasions but he believed with a single to centre. Kellar scored, but on Lynch's nifty peg to Lamb, Neighbors was out trying to make third.

Twice did the Bees have the bases crowded with no one out, but on each occasion the needed hit was not forth-

Kiddo, the Jinx Killer. Even the knackers admitted Wilson's grand twirling. Of course the break had to come, against Tacoma, too. The Bees will now proceed to win a couple of games. Eleven hits helped beat that old guy, Hoodoo. Felts is no wonder on the base paths, but he gets around. Kennedy whiffed twice in a row yesterday, Kiddo had his Angora. Danny Shea's long fly in the eighth, gave Lynch the winning run. Twice did the Bees hit into double plays, when the bases were soured. Mike Lynch is now hitting at his real clip; and will soon forge to the front in the batting leaders. Lamb got a hit yesterday, but failed to connect when he came up with the sack occupied. Tacoma missed the snap fielding of Ruel at short, Kurfuss booting a couple of easy chances. He also loafed in getting the ball to first. Wilson laid down a perfect bunt in the second and beat the throw, he also breezed a couple of times. Harris, as a pinch hitter, was a little nervous. He bit at one ball that was a foot over his head. Kellar was caught ten feet when he tried to steal after hitting safely in the third. Shea is surely pegging to the middle station. Eddie Gleason added a few peanuts per sack to his public offerings, and says he is willing to lose a million a day if the Bees continue to win. Pinky Grindle failed to get a hit, taking three good healthy swings at the cork centre in the fifth, after McMullen had fanned. Umpire Eddinger continued his good work of announcing the changes. His "Mr." Harris, in the ninth, was real big league stuff. Felts has the speed, but lacks the green matter when he tries to circle the bases. He should have scored easily in the fifth, after Lynch had singled. After playing the wildest kind of ball for over half the distance and five runs down, the Spokane Indians came up with a rush in the seventh inning of yesterday's game at the Fifth avenue ball lot and annihilated the offerings of Frank DeCanerio, showing four runs across the pan and then they forged ahead in the next round when they kept up a bombardment on the Beaver's southpaw. The final score 7 to 5. Ball-all kinds, from the town lot variety to baseball—was played in the game between Portland and Seattle. The final word was 5 to 2 in favor Seattle.

A practice of the Beacon Hill Baseball Club will be held at the Royal Athletic park this evening. Yesterday the Intermediate Third Reader, of the Moss street school, won from Senior Third Reader by a score of 9 to 4. Batteries—For the intermediates, Hall and Riddout; for the seniors, Collison and Smith. McMullen had a busy day at the hot corner, handling six chances without a whiff. Manager Michael reached first on every trip to the plate. Nordyke made a bad peg to second to catch Brooks, in the eighth, but Lynch reached first safely. A couple more wins and the Bees will be out of the cellar. With Hardin bounding to form the team ought to climb after this week.

LIPTON SURE HE WILL GET A RACE

N. Y. Y. C. Has Written Ulster Club Regarding Change of Rules. London, May 8.—Sir Thomas Lipton said last night that he had not yet received a copy of the letter which had been addressed to the New York Yacht Club by the Royal Ulster Club and on the spur of the moment was unable to answer the questions propounded. "But," he added, "the New York Yacht Club's committee who have the matter in charge are thorough sportsmen and are anxious for a race. I have not the slightest doubt that the points they raise will be settled to our mutual satisfaction and the race will take place." London, May 8.—The Royal Ulster Yacht Club has received a letter from the New York Yacht Club copying to Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge to a race with Shamrock IV, for the America's Cup, in which it is said that the New York Club, since 1902, has made radical changes in its system of measurement and time allowance, and that important changes also have been made in the racing rules. The letter continues: "Your reference, therefore, to the regulations of the last contest, as governing the present challenge, leaves us uncertain whether you mean a challenge for a match sailed with or without time allowance, and if with time allowance, whether you propose it to be sailed under the New York Yacht Club system of measurement and time allowance, and under the racing regulations of 1902, which governed the last contest, but which are not in force at the present time." The letter concludes by asking for information on these points "As it is essential that our committee be informed of the specific nature of the match proposed before it can take any action on the challenge."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By RUTH CAMERON

Whenever most of us think of practical philanthropy, we push a mental button labeled "Pastime peculiar to the odiously rich." Therein lies a fallacy that robs us of much of the joy of living; expressed in this instance, in the joy of giving. It is true that the very rich can afford to give largely. It is as true that we can give not largely, perhaps, but we can give in accordance with our incomes.

The trouble with the people who constitute the class to which most of us belong, neither disgracefully rich or disgracefully poor, is that we give in the abstract. At Christmas time and again at Thanksgiving, we hearken to the appeal of the Salvation Army. At various times during the year we respond to the need of the heathen. A famine in India, a flood in China, a lesser catastrophe nearer at hand, wrings a dollar, or ten, from us.

Strange folk that we are, we go no further. We can read "A Christmas Carol" and be divinely touched by the story of Scrooge's softening, yet we fail to grasp the lesson that Dickens tried to teach. The fact that "Tiny Tim" is but a type, and that, I, sins of omission are counted, we are to be reckoned as but other Scrooges, escapes our observation.

The point of all this? I can answer

How to care for baby's delicate skin

Many mothers seem to forget that a baby's skin is much more sensitive, much more readily injured than that of an adult. They bathe the baby with soaps never meant for a baby's skin of such delicate texture and then wonder why the skin becomes raw and irritated.

So little soap is used the first three or four years of baby's life that there is no excuse for not using the best. Woodbury's Facial Soap is the work of an authority on the skin and its needs. Daily baths with its soothing lather keep baby's skin in perfect condition—alloy itching, burning and smarting—leave the skin beautifully soft and smooth. Get a cake and try it today.

Woodbury's Facial Soap costs 25¢ a cake. No one hesitates at the price after their first cake.

best, perhaps, by telling of such things as I have observed. I know of a slimy salaried minister who devotes ten per cent. of his income to helping needy families, he himself searches out. I know of an old couple who would have long since been separated, the one in the poorhouse, the other in a home for the aged indigent, were it not for the charity of a girl who, from the money she herself earns, pays their rent.

I know of a crippled child who has a fairy godmother, whom you would describe as just a colorless little stenographer lady. I know of an old blind woman who prays daily—hourly, I might almost say—for a "vera bona lass" who comes to her, chats with her, and occasionally brings her the luxury she craves, tea, in quarter pound packages.

It may be that you do not know of such cases. Then, you have never looked. It may be that you think it would be nice of you, but dull. You are wrong. Scrooge gave not because he believed it his duty, but because of a strange, sweet warmth that thawed his heart, and because of a strange, new pleasure with which he thrilled in the act of giving.

Far-fetched it may sound to you. But try it.

CHORAL SOCIETY DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Seventh Concert of Organization Comprises Interesting Choruses and Solos

So popular and widely-known have the periodical concerts of the Victoria Choral Society become during the comparatively short term of its existence that they are always assured of a large audience, and, despite the several counter attractions in the city, the Alexandra Club hall was well filled for the seventh concert of the society given there last evening.

An exceptionally interesting programme was provided, although it occasioned disappointment to many to learn that Sir Edward Elgar's beautiful part song, "Weary Wind of the West," would have to be cancelled owing to the length of time occupied by the other numbers. Opening with Dudley Buck's sonorous "Hymn to Music," in which the several voices parts did full justice to the exquisite phrasing and harmonies, the choir showed throughout the entire programme the splendid training to which it had been subjected by the baton of its exceptionally gifted conductor, Gideon Hicks.

A Fine Number.
Of the four other numbers rendered by the choir during the evening perhaps the most popular standpoint, the flowing and lyrical music of Sir Arthur Sullivan's part song, "The Lang Day Closes," with which the programme concluded, was the best number attempted by the choir during the evening. However, in that the effort was greater, and in its entirety, the actual achievement far in advance of any work yet undertaken by the choir, Goring Thomas' cantata, "The Swan and the Skylark," ranked as one of the best choral studies ever given in the city. There were faults, but one was conscious that these were due more to the inadequacy of the acoustic properties of the hall than to insufficient training of the choir itself. The work is really stupendous, although it takes little more than half an hour to perform, and conductor, soloists, choir and accompanist were all called upon for really difficult work during its performance. The music of this cantata is imaginative as the poetry of the words culled from Mrs. Hemans, Keats and Shelley, to which it is set, and the sad beauty of the swan music was admirably and expressively brought out by Geoffrey Webb's beautifully modulated tenor. Miss Eva Hart's fresh soprano was delightfully suggestive of the joy of summer and glamor of a spring morning, her solo, "Summer is Come," with the choral refrain, being particularly beautiful. The contralto part, taken by Mrs. Gideon Hicks, struck a happy intermediate note between the intense sadness of the swan's song, and the carefree joy of the skylark's melody, and was given in the soloist's best style. The choir throughout gave evidences of the hard training to which it had been subjected, and the massed voices in the farewell choruses were particularly well-blended, while the final "Oh! Thou Art Mighty," summed up the merits of the work both as a composition and as a choral achievement, in a fitting climax to a creditable undertaking.

Violin Numbers.
During the evening Jasper Sutcliffe, who appeared for the first time before a Victoria audience last Saturday, gave several violin numbers, in which he showed the musicianly ability which proved him such a favorite at last Saturday's recital. Encores were demanded in both instances when he left the platform after playing the numbers on the programme. Miss Eva Hart's two songs, "A Memory" and "A May Morning," were given with the rare grace and charm peculiar to her voice, these being followed by one of those dainty bird songs of which she is so sympathetic an interpreter. In "Margarita" and "Songs of Araby" Geoffrey Webb showed versatility, excellent voice control and pleasing timbre. The society is to be congratulated on having secured three such finished artists to assist at its concert. As accompanists, Mrs. Herman Robertson and H. G. E. Pocock, A.R.C.M., had no light task to perform, and assisted in no small way in adding to the interest of the performance.

SHOULD BE MORE CAREFUL

Jury Makes Suggestion to Workmen on Repairs at Jap. Inquest.
With a view to the effect that greater care should be taken by workmen when repairs to plant are being made near machinery in operation the coroner's jury found yesterday afternoon that Tomikichi Kodani's death at the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber Mill on Tuesday morning was accidental. It appeared in evidence that Kodani was making some repairs directly underneath the log-thruster and while his partner was away became in some way entangled in the long metal arm and was crushed to death.

PASSING SHOW

"Oliver Twist."

Theatre-goers will have their first opportunity to see Nat C. Goodwin as Fagin in Charles Dickens' famous "Oliver Twist" when this attraction comes to the Victoria theatre Saturday, May 10. Mr. Goodwin is recognized as one of America's foremost actors, and his Fagin is said to be his most wonderful characterization. The play is presented under the direction of Oliver Morosco, who has surrounded the star with a well-balanced cast and mounted the production in a lavish manner. The critics in New York were warm in their praise of the play and Mr. Goodwin's work. The character of Fagin offers him many opportunities for the exercise of his art.

"The Perplexed Husband"

John Drew, the ever-popular stage aristocrat, will be seen at the Victoria theatre, Friday, May 9, in "The Perplexed Husband," by Alfred Sutro. The delightful four-act comedy is aimed at "the new woman" and the suffrage movement. The husband comes home after an extended trip to find that his devoted wife considers herself a slave and a plaything. To combat this idea he pretends to agree with her and brings into the family a beautiful woman with a Greek soul. When confronted with "the new man" it appears that "the new woman" isn't so sure of herself, and her theories topple like fading mirages. The supporting cast includes Mary Boland, Nina Severins, Margaret Watson, Alice John and others.

Empress Theatre.

The singing of Lillian Holmes at the Empress brings back memories of this famous contralto's voice when she appeared in "The Red Rose," "The Gipsy" and "The Prince of Pilsen." In all she was a success, but never more so than in her delightfully sung medley at the Empress. Just what is new in novelty comic cycling W. C. Hoefler has brought here and shows it thrice daily to the delight of children particularly. Al. Herman excels as a comedian in black. The Irish melodies of Broughton and Turner are interwoven in a slender plot built into a one-act sketch, and Frank Stafford and his company, including his trained dogs Rox and Don, conclude the show as the headline attraction, an Al class specialty in every way.

"Pri- of To-night."

Fairyland in all its alluring mysticism is embodied in the first act of "The Prince of To-night," Le Conte and Fleisher's musical fantasy in which Tom Arnold, will appear at the Victoria theatre Monday, May 12. The show opens with a scene at "The Breakers," a world famous hotel at Palm Beach, suddenly changing to the mythical Delft forest in Lunitania, where like the fairies dance in an emerald gloom before the Prince who is to reign for one night.

Rose Stahl.

Miss Rose Stahl will come to the Victoria theatre Tuesday, May 13, in Charles Klein's department store play "Maggie Pepper." Miss Stahl is as well known in London and the British provinces as she is in the United States. Several British managers have been unsuccessful in taking her latest success to England for a season, but it is not likely that she will go abroad with the piece.

CITY GETS INJUNCTION

Allege Excavation in North Park Street Encroaches on Street.

Maintaining that a strip of the land which is being dug by Luney Brothers, contractors, at Quadra and North Park streets, is properly part of the street the city sought and obtained from Mr. Justice Morrison yesterday an injunction restraining Heagerty & Blaquiere and Luney Brothers from proceeding with the work until the argument is decided. Heagerty & Blaquiere are the parties putting up the building and the city alleges that it overlaps by two feet six inches the public highway.

BADLY ULCERATED LEG

Zam-Buk Cured Her When So Bad She Had to Use Crutches.

For varicose sores, bad leg or chronic ulcers, Zam-Buk is without equal as a healer. A proof of this is just to hand from Montreal. Mrs. T. Edwards, of 104 Amherst St., writes: "Some time ago a bad sore broke out on my left leg near the ankle. For a week or two I did not need it, but it got so bad that I could hardly walk. I sent for our doctor, and he told me that I would have to lay up with the wound. I did so for three weeks. At the end of that time the ulcer healed a little, but I could only move about by using crutches.

"The sore then broke out badly, and the doctor told me that the only thing that would cure it would be an operation, and that I should have to lay up for a year. This, I knew, was impossible, as I had a family to attend to. "My son had cured a bad cut on his finger by using Zam-Buk, and he advised me to give this balm a trial. I did so, and in less than a week's time it gave me wonderful relief. It stopped the pain, which had been so bad that many nights I did not get a wink of sleep. In a very short time the wound was so much better that I had no more sleepless nights, and was also able to move about and do my work. I persevered with Zam-Buk, with the result that the wound is now perfectly cured, and the limb is as sound and strong as ever. To any person suffering from ulcerated sores I would say, 'try Zam-Buk.'"

Zam-Buk is just as good for piles, abscesses, boils, scalp sores, blood poison, festering wounds, cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, eczema, eruptions, and all other injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores, 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations. Have you tried Zam-Buk Soap? 25c tablet.

The Real Clowns of Life Are Those Without a Bank Account

To obtain a bank account it is necessary to save and keep saving, and, when you have saved, to invest your savings to the best advantage in some legitimate investment where money makes money.

The clowns of life are those who always thought it funny to spend every cent they made, and still think it funny that they can never get ahead, AND they will always be funny till they cease to be clowns and save their money to invest and make more money.

Don't be a clown all your life; the clown is always laughed at, but never admired.

Picture a few of the prominent cities in Canada to-day: Calgary ten years ago was nothing but a side track on the C. P. R. To-day it has a population of well over 50,000 people. Edmonton at that time was away out in the woods of the far north; to-day it is one of the thriving commercial centres of Alberta. Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert were still in their infancy. Calgary and Edmonton were rich in agricultural areas; Victoria and Vancouver had excellent harbor facilities.

ALBERNI

Has untold wealth in agricultural lands, large areas of unequalled timber and one of the finest natural harbors on the Pacific Coast.

It is not possible to comprehend with any degree of accuracy the future of a city rich beyond the wildest dreams of avarice in everything that is necessary for the making of a commercial centre.

Two transcontinental railways, the C. P. R. and the Canadian Northern Railway, run into Alberni.

Andrew Carnegie once said: "The big money is made in buying acreage near a growing city." Alberni has a future such as no other city on the Coast, and any person who is wise enough to see the future of this thriving city cannot help but be impressed by the way it has progressed and is progressing.

THE CRAIG-TURNER ACREAGE ADDITION

Is situated on the Stamp River, inside of 3 1-2 miles from the centre of Alberni. This addition is NOT divided into small lots, but consists of Blocks of 2 1-2 to 5 ACRES.

The property slopes gently towards the river, and is suitable for fruit raising, all kinds of mixed farming, dairying, etc.

For a Summer homesite it is ideal. The finest of fishing is obtained off this property. There is a first-class public school less than a mile from the property, with a good road to it. We are selling—we repeat, WE ARE SELLING—this property from

If you want a 5-acre farm, where you can make a comfortable living, near a growing town, do not overlook this, but get in at once.

INTIMATE STORIES OF THE LATE LORD WOLSELEY

Wolseley in his younger days lived over the shop of a Dublin bookseller, and from this arose the legend that he had been apprenticed to a bookseller. The young ensign became Sir Garnet and afterwards Lord Wolseley by sheer merit. He became an ensign in the Cheshire regiment in 1857; serving with distinction in numerous campaigns, from the Crimean war, where in he lost an eye through a pebble cast up by a shell fire. In 1888 he became a captain in the Staffordshire regiment by purchase, but did not long remain in that position. His death recently recalls several stories.

Queen Victoria.
Once he was talking to Queen Victoria, and the talk drifted to the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy. Wolseley remarked that some people doubted whether Shakespeare had written his own plays. "Oh, don't talk to me about that," she replied: "that was Lord Palmerston's nonsense."
The Battle Against War.
Lord Wolseley's name has to be added to the list of great fighting men who have denounced war, says the Manchester Guardian. In an article in the North American Review, 23 years ago, he wrote: "Without any doubt, the statesman or the soldier who would not devote all his energies to save his country from what all must regard as the appalling calamity of civil war, or indeed from any war, would be an unprincipled villain."
Under Fire.
As became a soldier, Lord Wolseley knew how to stand still when occasion required, and was apt to be impatient with anyone less proficient than himself in the art of impassivity. Once, when Lord Wolseley and an interviewer were being photographed together, the interviewer took up an unfortunate position in front of a light-colored asbestos stove. A small of burning cloth began to pervade the room, and, somewhat excitedly, the interviewer shouted to the operator to put the camera's cap on. "Dear me," said Lord Wolseley severely, "can't you stand still for half a minute?" "No," said the interviewer, pointing to the stove: "I get uneasy under fire."
Loss of Possessions.
Nothing is more trying than the loss of a purse or household goods, often with a personal history. Probably Wolseley felt such things far more than the dangers of war. In these and kindred ways he suffered much. On his first journey to the East his boat, the Transit, was wrecked in the Malay Straits, and the whole of his kit went to the bottom. A second kit, recruited in Calcutta, was lost at Calcutta, and his Legion of Honor and Crimean medals disappeared, to be recovered later from the corpse of a mutineer. A Cashmere shawl, given him by a brother officer, was stolen, and so were two silver bowls, a present from his company. At the same time his household goods in London, warehoused in the Fantechnicon, were burned in the fire that reduced the building to ashes. When, in 1860 he went out to China, he was wrecked off Singapore, and when he was ordered out to Canada, in 1861, it took his ship a month to cross the Atlantic.
In Burma.
Natural aptitude, no less than hereditary associations (his father being a major) determined young Wolseley's career. His first feat of arms was the storming of a Burmese fort. While leading his men he suddenly disappeared in a deep hole. In the midst of which a stake was fixed to impale the unwary, the trap being concealed with brushwood. His men were repulsed, and when he scrambled out he found himself alone, and had to run for his life. Reforming his men, he returned to the charge, and this time reached the parapet, where a shot tore his thigh open, and nearly put an end to his career.
Concerning this same engagement, Wolseley himself told a story: "At daybreak, when the fog cleared, I was told off, with four men, to a certain point to skirmish. I had never been drilled! My four men—or rather boys—had never been drilled, nor even fired off a musket. I tell you this to illustrate the great nonsense of some people's ideas, who state that the army-to-day is inferior to that of thirty years ago. Though I had not been drilled, I was well up in strategy and tactics, of which I had been a student from my earliest days. We started, and suddenly came upon the enemy. The enemy heard us and opened a heavy fire, killing my four men. More men now came up, and we were ordered to go on the charge. There was a native regiment of infantry extended in skirmishing order, and I well remember kicking a fat old native officer because he wouldn't go on."
He has often advised the endets of Sandhurst and other inquiries, "There is only one way for a young man to get on in the army. He must try to get killed in every way he possibly can." He must be absolutely indifferent to life; if he does not succeed in getting killed he is bound to get on—that is, always assuming he has intelligence and the merits of a soldier."

Throughout his career Lord Wolseley waged endless wars against strong drink, although he did not set up a teetotal standard. On his Canadian campaign his men and officers had to do their hard work on tea, for no spirits were taken, except in the medicinal chest. He himself was an enormous smoker, but he used from time to time to abstain from smoking to prove to himself that he was no slave of tobacco.
He was wounded once without ceasing to work. But in the last week of the siege of Sebastopol he was all but killed. While he was sketching the enemy's works, "in a brave moon-shine," a round shot struck the stone-filled gabion behind which he was supposed to find shelter, and rattled his face with a shower of flints. He was taken up with hardly any human semblance, and the doctor had pronounced his doom, when he managed to gasp out, "I am worth a good many dead men yet." When he recovered, the sight of his right eye was permanently dim, and as some compensation he received the cross of the French Legion of Honor and a brevet majority.
Some of us remember the wordy war between Dr. Russell, war correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who accused the British troops of looting and drunkenness, and Wolseley, who defended them. The quarrel was still in the public mind in 1882, when the Prince of Wales, entering the doors of Burlington House for the Academy Banquet, saw Wolseley and Russell chatting together. "What you two?" he remarked. "You are friends, I see." "Wolseley took a step after the Prince. "I beg your pardon, sir; I didn't quite understand what you said." "Oh, nothing," said the Prince, "only I was glad to see that you were friends." Turning back to Russell, Wolseley said: "I wonder what he means?" "I'm sure I don't know," said Russell. "The subject was never mentioned again."

In the course of the long, trying action at Mahonta in 1882 he beckoned to one of his staff to ride with him towards the cavalry. Suddenly he pulled up and said: "I cannot stand the pain in my leg any more. My con- founded bootmaker has made my boot so tight that it is pressing against a button, as in the dark this morning I put my breeches on crooked. Can you get it right for me?" The staff officer slit the leather, which made the commander-in-chief comfortable, and then asked why he had borne the pain and discomfort all day. Lord Wolseley hesitated, and replied that he was afraid the men might see him having something done to his leg, and that he had been wounded, which would discourage the troops. So he preferred to "stick" it.
Lord Wolseley was a great admirer of the American general, Stonewall Jackson, and when they met he asked Jackson which of the recollections he had carried away with him from England upon which his memory loved most to dwell. Jackson thought for a couple of minutes, and then, turning upon Wolseley his remarkable eyes, lit up for a moment with a look of real enthusiasm, he answered, "The seven lancet windows in York Minister."—T. P.'s Weekly.

One Application and The Hairs Are Gone

(Aids to Beauty.)

Women troubled with fuzzy growths will be delighted to learn that a single application of a paste made with powdered delatone and water will remove every trace of hair or fuz without pain or injury. If the growth is very thick or stubborn, a second application may be required. The delatone paste is spread thickly on the hairy surface, and after two or three minutes rubbed off, then the skin washed and dried. This is a reliable and quick way by which to permanently rid the skin of objectionable hair.
A little pyroxin rubbed on eyebrows causes them to come in thick and lustrous, and thin, stubby eyelashes will grow long and curly by applying pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Be careful and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

tell you the warm-hearted resolution you have sent me. No man in public life to-day has been assailed with such malignant personal bitterness; on the other hand, I am proud to know that no public man has secured truer and stauncher friends.

The bitterness is what I had reason to anticipate, for no man can expect to oppose the most powerful vested interests in this country with impunity, but the loyalty and friendship which I receive are greater than I ever hoped for, and they more than compensate for all my anxieties and worries.—

Yours faithfully,
D. LLOYD GEORGE.

BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
You will remove or make a journey and will be able to take advantage of good opportunities, if your mind is not clouded by worry over small annoyances and lack of personal comfort. Some illness or trouble among your friends will make demands on your time.
Those born to-day will not be contented to settle down in any place. Their education should be along lines that will make for success in travelling or in foreign lands. Quick judgment of people and things, an eye for beauty and a kindly interest in human nature will be of great value to them.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

In 1641, the Sieur de Maisonneuve, leader of a little band of forty men and four women sent out by a religious association to found "Ville Marie de Montreal," landed in New France. It was too late to commence the new settlement that year, so they wintered near Quebec. The Governor, Montmagny, urged that they should settle where their presence would strengthen Quebec, but Maisonneuve declared "It is my duty and my honor to found a colony at Montreal; and I would go, if every tree were an Iroquois!" Accordingly, on this date—May 8th—two hundred and seventy-one years ago, he and his followers embarked on their perilous enterprise. The little flotilla consisted of a pinnace, a flat-bottomed sailing craft and two row-boats. They were nine days on the voyage, and when they approached the site of Canada's greatest city "all on board raised in unison a hymn of praise." Montmagny, on behalf of the "Hundred Associates," from whom the adventurers were obtaining a grant of St. Helen's island, had come with them to give possession in due form; and they landed on the "Place Royale," chosen by Champlain, thirty-one years earlier, as a good spot for a settlement.

FRIEDMANN SCORED AS ADVERSE FACTOR

Collection of State and Local Funds More Difficult Since Scientist Arrived

Washington, D. C., May 8.—One of the adverse factors that are retarding the prevention of the "white plague" by the characterization applied to Dr. F. F. Friedmann's tuberculosis vaccine by President Thomas Polke in his opening address to-day at the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.
"Nothing like the series of events," said the speaker, "which followed the announcement of the Friedmann cure in Berlin has hitherto occurred in the tuberculosis campaign. Only those who have been engaged from day to day in inducing state and local authorities to appropriate funds, can appreciate how vastly more difficult this task has been made in the last few months by extremely effective press agents of Dr. Friedmann. Thus far it has not been evident to me as a layman that any

JAPANESE OFFERS TO GET CARRANZA RECRUITS

Eagle Pass, Tex., May 8.—Sechi Sagami, a Japanese, who claimed to bear credentials from the Japanese consul-general at San Francisco, showing him to be the editor of a Japanese paper in that city, has offered Governor Carranza to recruit a large body of his countrymen for service in the Constitutional army. He said he could secure the enlistment of many Japanese who served in the war with Russia.
Governor Carranza refused the offer, telling Sagami he wanted only Mexican subjects under his banner.
Sagami told immigration officials here he was gathering war news for his paper.

Decrease of 550,000 Bushels in Minneapolis Stocks for Four Days

Winnipeg, May 8.—The market opened higher, with July unchanged and the market steady and dull. Cash was a little weaker and in poor demand. There is nothing new in cash and export circles. The demand is very light and offerings heavy. Receipts were light, with 288 cars inspected and 800 in sight.

Victoria, May 8.—Granby was considerably stronger on the local exchange this morning, and was selling in Boston at 6 1/2 on the bullish copper producer's report. B. C. Copper was correspondingly stronger. Stewart Land stock was in good demand and this was the more noticeable in view of a prolonged dullness. There was some pressure in Canadian Northwest Oil, but the inquiry is only slight. Kootenay Gold was firmer at 10 1/2. B. C. Packers' Association has increased the common dividend to 7 per cent.

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Chicago, May 8.—Wheat futures had a small net loss following an early rise. Early morning advices suggested less depression because of the higher cable from Liverpool. There was a decrease of 550,000 bushels in Minneapolis stocks for four days, and the reports that Duluth is competing sharply with the northwest centre for cash wheat over the Chicago cash sales. The most important feature for the day was the extent of the Chicago cash sales. The business was reported at 250,000 bushels, and there was good reason to believe that it was not all made public. A good portion of this was spring wheat, and the claim was made without details that much of it was for export. The government report showed a condition of 91.9 for winter wheat.

WOULD MAKE BRITAIN SUPREME IN THE AIR

Private and Public Men Meet in London to Assist the Government
London, May 8.—Determined that the supremacy of the air shall one day belong to Great Britain, despite the seeming apathy of the government on this matter, several private citizens and public men are endeavoring to rouse the enthusiasm of the public in respect of their scheme. At a non-partisan meeting at the Mansion House yesterday held with the object of strengthening the government's hands by securing a loan to be applied to the purchase of airships and aeroplanes, it was intimated that the commercial community was willing to make sacrifices in this respect so that Britain might be fitted with an adequate air defence system.

CALIFORNIA CITIES AFFECTED BY STRIKE

Men Leave Work and Issue Demand for Shorter Hours and More Pay
San Francisco, May 8.—All transportation and manufacturing companies depending on light, power and gas supplied by the Pacific Gas & Electric Company were affected by a strike to-day of 3,000 mechanics affiliated with the Light and Power Council of California. The men ask shorter hours and more pay.
At the offices of the council it was said to-day that the cities concerned are: San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, San Jose, Santa Rosa, Vallejo, Stockton, Marysville, Chico, Oroville and Fresno.
The street car system in San Francisco was not affected, except the Geary street municipal line, but even this line was able to give uninterrupted service on current from an auxiliary power house. In Fresno only the gas plant was said to be affected.
Sacramento traction service is entirely a Pacific Gas & Electric subsidiary, and a strike order, if obeyed there, would be felt severely.

NARROW SKIRTS ARE NOT FOR ADIRONDACKS

Saranac Lake, N. Y., May 8.—The "hobble" and all other varieties of the narrow skirts which women wear have received the official condemnation of the guides in the Adirondacks. A recent accident in which a woman was precipitated "into the water" while landing from a boat, and was nearly drowned in only one of several mishaps charged against the skirts, which prompted the guides to meet in a formal convention at Rainbow lake yesterday to act upon the situation.
A resolution was proposed that narrow skirts on women do not belong in the Adirondacks.
