FOOTBALL AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Coch Whittemore Enthusiastic Over Prospects of Successful Season. Heaviest Line for Years, Backfield Fast and Experienced.

Weymouth High school is in the field this fall with one of the best squads of football men in the history of the school, and a most successful season is looked for by football fans in town.

The team this year is being coached by Mr. Whittemore, the former Everett high school and Tufts College star. Mr. Whittemore knows football from A to Z and also knows how to impart his knowledge of the fall game. He is being assisted in coaching the candidates by Richardson, the Tufts' Varsity center and several former football men of the high school.

Of the experienced men out for this year's eleven, Whittle has the call for quarter back, while Borlenghi, Deane, Rand, Condrick and Talbot are in the race for a backfield position. "Connie" Condrick has been elected captain of this year's team and should make a good leader.

On the line, Greene, Haviland and Reis of last year's team look good, while Bates, and Angorra, new candidates, are promising additions to the squad. Palmer and Tirrell, both seasoned men are out for guard, while the tackle positions will have to be developed, with the probability of the unsuccessful candidates in the backfield being used in these places. At center John Hughes will again hold sway. A good schedule has been arranged and the management and players all hope to receive the undivided support of three hundred odd scholars and every sport lover in town. Bundle up in a sweater or an overcoat, get out and enjoy the crisp fall air and root for the home eleven!

- October 2—So. Boston at Weymouth.
- 9—Rockland at Rockland.
- 14—Dedham at Dedham.
- 16—Hingham at Hingham.
- 21—Watertown at Weymouth.
- 30—Abington at Abington.
- November 6—Hingham at Weymouth.
- 13—Abington at Weymouth.
- 20—Milton at Milton.
- 26—Alumet at Weymouth.

OLD COLONY CLUB.

Not Retiring On Its Laurels But Reaching Out For New Achievements.

For the year 1913-1914 the Old Colony Women's Club of South Weymouth demonstrated that its possibilities were larger and not confined to any one specialty. Its charitable philanthropic and benevolent work won for it favorable comments, its selection of talent for entertainment showed good taste and lofty sentiment and finally it demonstrated that within its own membership, was dramatic and musical talent which outdid professional.

The club, however, is not setting down with folded hands and telling the story of the past but, with renewed energy and vigor, has taken hold of the 1914-1915 work and are to give its members and patrons a year of unsurpassed enjoyment and at the same time larger opportunities to do and get good.

The calendar as arranged, embraces some fourteen events of concerts, lectures, dramas and current event reports.

The season will open on Thursday, the 8th, with a business meeting and for entertainment the musical comedy, "Madam Butterfly" will be given with Miss Grace Marguerite Sage as soloist. Federation reports will be given by Mrs. Jennie B. Worster; Mrs. Stephen Pratt will be hostess and Mrs. Chester Miller will preside over the tea.

Coupon Contest Gaining.

Our point scoring contest is growing in interest and this week we are having much inquiry in regard to it with a prospect of quite a growth in the near future.

The score this week as shown below places Miss Palmer at the head again, Miss Pearce with quite a gain, Miss Gibson on the increase and a promising young musician, Louis S. Loud entering the list. If you want ballots to count for any one please put their names on it before depositing it in the box, blanks go into the waste basket.

Phyllis Palmer	3400
Jennie Pearce	3185
Harold MacRae	1020
Mildred Gibson	635
Lewis S. Loud	600
Russell Riley	510
Ellis Williams	505
Helen Gorman	505
Margaret Schell	30

Height Breathing.

No one can breathe at a greater height than seven miles.

WEDDED IN EAST WEYMOUTH.

Former Telephone Operator at Weymouth Central Office Becomes Bride of North Weymouth Man.

A wedding of much interest in town occurred on Wednesday evening, September 30, when Miss Helen May Burton daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Burton of Hillside avenue, East Weymouth, became the bride of James Joseph Condon, son of Mrs. Theresa Condon of North Weymouth.

The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock at the parochial residence in East Weymouth by Rev. James W. Allison, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church of East Weymouth.

The best man was John Condon of North Weymouth, a brother of the groom. Miss Margaret Hanley, daughter of Selectmen Henry J. Hanley of East Weymouth, was maid-of-honor and Frank Daley and Emanuel Goulart of North Weymouth and James Hanley and Harold Ellard of East Weymouth were ushers.

The bride's gown was of white meteor chantilly lace with pearl trimmings. Her veil was held in place with orange blossoms.

The bridesmaid's dress was of pale blue charmeuse, with Duchess lace trimmings. She wore a large picture hat of black velvet with pink roses.

A reception was held at the bride's home from seven to nine thirty. The newly wedded couple were assisted in receiving by the groom's mother, Mrs. Condon and the mother of the bride, Mrs. Burton. A wedding luncheon was served.

The rooms of the house were tastefully decorated with various kinds of cut flowers.

Guests were present from Boston, Brockton, Hingham, Bridgewater, the Weymouths and several other suburban towns of Boston.

The newly wedded couple left at a late hour on a honeymoon trip to New York and on their return will reside at 19 Hillside avenue, where they will be at home to their friends after November 1.

TUFTS LIBRARY.

Art Exhibition.

Examples of Japanese Textile Fabric in color; Part I is the subject of the Library Art Club exhibit of pictures now in the Congregational church.

"The most beautiful and successful result of industrial printing in color which has ever been brought out."

The collection will remain until Oct. 42.

Weymouth Industrial Association.

The fifth annual meeting of the Weymouth Industrial Association was held in Engine Hall Ward 2 last night.

There was a good attendance of stock holders with the president Frederick Humphrey in the chair, reports of the secretary and treasurer showed the association to be in good condition and a dividend of 2 percent was declared.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Frederick Humphrey, president; Minot P. Garey, secretary; W. H. Pratt, treasurer; Elden B. Keith, Geo. A. Walker, Henry E. Hanley, Geo. E. Bicknell, Gordon Willis and Wm. P. Denbrocker, executive committee; John A. Raymond, Albert B. Smith, trustees; Geo. E. Bicknell, M. Sheehy and Bela P. French, auditors.

On motion of Geo. E. Bicknell it was voted to sell house lots on the unused land between the Keith Factory No. 8 and adjoining property.

D. A. R.

Susannah Tufts Chap. D. A. R., Mrs. Charles T. Crane, regent, met with Miss Mary Loud, Monday afternoon. A paper was read by Mrs. Alvin R. Bailey on "The life of the Rev. Wm. Hazlitt during 1786-7 which period he lived in Weymouth." The paper was intensely interesting to the Weymouth members of the Chapter. A social hour followed with refreshments.

The Weymouth Choral Society.

The Weymouth Choral Society will meet next Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Clapp Memorial Building for the first rehearsal of the season. James W. Caldwell will conduct some well selected music. An effort will be made to enlarge the chorus and associate members are kindly invited to subscribe.

New Market for Ivory.

Although in recent years the ivory imported into London has decreased, the falling off has been caused by a new market having been created by the opening up of the Congo free state. The ivory coming from that region is now sold in Antwerp, so that when the quantities sent to both markets are put together the total imports actually show an increase.

STRUCK BY AUTO.

Garabed Tijenian Dies in Hospital on Sunday.

Garabed Tijenian, of 1029 Commercial street, East Weymouth, was struck by an automobile near the corner of Kneeland and Washington streets, Boston, early last Saturday evening and died just before noon on Sunday. He sustained a fractured skull, lacerated scalp, and never regained consciousness after the accident.

He had on his person when the accident occurred $265 in cash, and documents by which he was identified.

John T. Harrington, of Columbia road, driver of the car, was released on bail under the technical charge of manslaughter.

Tijenian was employed as sweeper at the Geo. E. Keith factory No. 8, in East Weymouth.

Find Missing Man.

Joseph Cella of Rockland, age 72, missing from home since last Friday, was found last Sunday in East Weymouth. The man who has been in this country less than a year, became lost in the woods and when East Weymouth officers found him wandering about town Friday night, they placed him under arrest.

Unable to speak English, he was locked up as a suspicious character. The only English word he could say was Boston. Sunday the aged man's son located his father.

Mrs. Susan M. Robinson Dead.

Mrs. Susan Mardenborough Robinson passed from this life to the Great Beyond on September 23, in Stockbridge, after a long illness.

She was born in Boston, the daughter of William and Sarah Mardenborough. The early period of her life was passed in London, England, where she obtained her primary education.

Later, on returning to America, she finished her education in the public schools of Hyde Park and Boston.

In 1885 she married Edward I. Robinson of Boston. She is survived by three sons, Sturgis, Edward and Vincent to mourn her loss.

Funeral services were held on Sunday. Following prayers at her home, 56 Middle street, public services were held in the Congregational church, Rev. Edward T. Ford, pastor of church, officiating.

The church choir sang. A delegation was present from the Society of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophists of Boston, led by Mrs. Caroline H. Hitchcock of which Mrs. Robinson was a member, and Mrs. Jessie Eldridge Southwick, representing the Boston society, read two poems from the pulpit platform.

The bearers were Sturgis M. Robinson, Vincent B. Robinson and Edward W. Robinson, sons of Mrs. Robinson and Clarence Rhoads. Burial was in the Old North cemetery at North Weymouth.

Railroad Men Pick Runs.

The winter pick of the railroad men for runs, was held last Friday and Saturday at the local barn and several changes were recorded, when the new schedule was put in operation Monday.

Charles Loring who has been on the Rockland-Braintree line for several years, has returned to his old line, the East Weymouth and Braintree route, being teamed up with Otis Wing, fresh from a few weeks' work on the East Weymouth and Quincy road. John Gannon is on the other Braintree-East Weymouth, his running mate being Harry Tabor who took care of the Green Hill line the past few months.

On Rockland and Braintree, George Spith has shifted to Charles Loring's run, now being paired up with George Walker. The other cars are in charge of Parker Condrick and Charles Nash; Bert Loud, late of the Braintree and East Weymouth line, with John Nell and Alfred Sanberg and Bert Nash, the former having been on the "Joy" line lately.

The East Weymouth and Nantasket line is kept moving by James Ford and Frank Maynard, and Everett Clapp and Joseph Little.

East Weymouth and Quincy is kept on time by James Thoms and Charlie Hollis, while William Moore and George Jones, and William Fields and Joseph Ashton are looking after Queen Anne's Corner to Hingham passengers.

Pleasant street to South Weymouth depot is run by William Wilder and George Dunham, and Louis Beach and P. Kearns.

She Won't Believe It.

We don't suppose that it will ever be possible to convince a woman that a neat little round hole in the sitting room rug, where a small amount of ignited tobacco happened to fall, merely serves to make the place look home-like.—Ohio State Journal.

ILLUSTRATED SERIES OF WEYMOUTH HOMES

HOME OF JAMES H. FLINT, WEYMOUTH.

We present our readers this week with the home of Hon. James H. Flint, 20 Front street, Weymouth. When Mr. Flint was quite a young man the town adopted him and for an adopted son he has been quite active in municipal and other matters, serving several years on the School Board, representing the town in both branches of the State Legislature and is at present a member of the Board of Trustees of the Tufts Library and, not least of all, Judge of Probate for Norfolk Court.

CLAPP WINS PLAY-OFF.

Weymouth A. C. Proves Easy For East Weymouth Boys Last Saturday.

What was expected to be a very close and exciting game last Saturday between the Weymouth A. C. and the Clapp Memorial nine at the C. M. A. grounds, East Weymouth, turned out to be a walkover for the Clapp nine 11 to 4.

The cold weather seemed to have a most disastrous effect on Callahan and the rest of the South Weymouth team. Callahan was touched up for fifteen hits, including five two base hits, and the fielding behind him was wretched, the only player who was in the game from the start, being Riley, who played a slashing game at third base.

"Holly" Morales was on the mound for the C. M. A. nine in the absence of Ray Condrick, who was indisposed. The "Vet" had the Indian sign on the South Weymouth boys and for one who hadn't pitched a game for a long, long time, Morales was indeed a revelation in the role of a come back. He struck out 8 men, issued 4 passes and allowed but few hits.

The batting of the entire Clapp nine was a feature.

Mrs. Eliza E. Ludden.

Mrs. Eliza E. Ludden died Tuesday at her home in East Braintree, aged 89 years, 9 months and 24 days. She was a widow of Joseph Ludden who died 53 years ago. She is survived by two sons, George Ludden of East Braintree and Herbert R. Ludden of Brooklyn, N. Y., and two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Loring of East Braintree and Mrs. Lizette Brown of Whitman. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon and the service was conducted by Rev. Melvin S. Nash of Hanover. Interment was at Village cemetery, Weymouth.

Country Side Magazine.

The development of Suburban Life into "The Countryside Magazine and Suburban Life" is announced in the October issue, a greatly enlarged number of striking make-up. The association of Dr. L. H. Baily, for the past ten years Director of the College of Agriculture at Cornell and Chairman of President Roosevelt's Country Life Commission, with The Countryside Magazine as contributing editor is also announced in the same issue, for which Dr. Baily writes an interesting foreword, "The Countryside Outlook." The publisher states, in telling of the broadened field of the magazine:

"The great vital questions of the next ten years will be those which have to do with the open country; the development of rural communities into suburbs; the intensive cultivation of the ten-acre farm, owned perhaps by the city business-man; the conservation of natural resources; reconstruction of the social life of individual communities; in a word, the many problems which have to do primarily with the land and the human interests identified with it."

Beauty of Nature.

Nature is beautiful, always beautiful. Every little flake of snow is a perfect crystal, and they fall together as gracefully as if fairies of the air caught water drops and made them into artificial flowers to garland the wings of the wind.—Lydia M. Child.

ABDUCTION FOILED.

Weymouth Police and Others Work Quickly With Good Results.

Frank Desabo of Belmont, Charles Rosette of 142 Prince street, Boston, and Fred Latorella of 152 Salem street, Boston, in the municipal court in that city Wednesday, were each held in $10,000 on charge of abduction. Miss Rosa Mazilla was held as a witness. The parties were arrested by Inspector Thomas Fitzgerald and Patrolman Charles W. Baker in Washington square Tuesday evening and lodged in the police station. Later the Boston police took the parties to that city. Miss Mazilla, who is a handsome Italian girl 20 years old, was returning from her work early Tuesday evening and when near Dover street, she was grabbed, and thrown into a waiting automobile of which Rosetta was the chauffeur, and the party headed for Providence, R. I. When the automobile reached this town there was trouble with the mechanism and it became stalled. The girl's cries for help drew a large crowd and one of the men in the auto escaped. The police were assisted in arresting the men by Louis Bacherle and Louis Thomas. A loaded 38 calibre revolver was taken from the pocket of Desabo, when, as officer Baker grabbed, he noticed the man reach for his hip pocket. Desabo said that he was to take the girl to Providence to get married, but the girl, who said she had known Desabo but a month, denied any intention of marriage. She was in a hysterical condition and was attended by Dr. D. J. Driscoll.

MEN'S CLUB OPENS SEASON.

Rev. Rufus Dix Presented with Travelling Bag at Meeting Last Monday Night.

What promises to be one of the most successful seasons in its history, was opened by the Men's club of the Third Universalist church of North Weymouth in the church vestry on Monday evening of this week.

After a short reception in the parlors of the edifice, a delicious banquet was served in the vestry by the following special committee of the Ladies Social Union: Mrs. Frank H. Torrey, Mrs. George Ames, Mrs. Manuel Page, Miss Doris Torrey, Mrs. Roy Vining and Mrs. H. B. Stiles.

A special guest and speaker of the evening was Rev. Rufus H. Dix of Newtonville, a former pastor of the North Weymouth church. He spoke very interestingly on the subject "Church Work and Club Work." Rev. Mr. Dix was chosen an honorary member of the club and as a token of appreciation and regard for the good work he has done in the past for the organization, the club presented him with an elegant travelling bag and outfit.

At the business meeting held, it was voted to hold the club meetings on the fourth Monday evenings of the month, with the exception of June, July and August. The following officers were elected to serve the ensuing year:

S. G. Dunbar, president; A. W. Gardner and Dr. R. O. Clark, vice-presidents; H. B. Stiles, secretary; E. D. Williams, treasurer; F. H. Torrey, E. R. Sampson and Peter K. Nesbit, committee on speakers; C. E. Stiles, H. F. Clapp and John Taylor, membership committee; A. W. Gardner, C. C. Howland, I. W. Morgan, George Ames and J. Herbert Libby, entertainment committee.

Salt in the Oceans.

The salt contained in the oceans is estimated at more than 4,800,000 cubic miles, or enough to cover the United States with a layer 1.6 miles deep.

Always Rings True.

Behind joy and laughter there may be a temperament coarse, hard and callous. But behind sorrow there is always sorrow.—Oscar Wilde.

After the Ball.

"Didn't you find him wonderfully light on his feet for such a heavily built man?" "Oh, yes; he was light enough on his own feet."—Life.

Witty, But Rather Unkind.

A friend of mine, says a correspondent of the London Chronicle, took a lady to the Gentlemen and Players' match at the Oval. She enjoyed herself greatly, and begged him to take her to the Eton and Harrow match at Lord's next day. This, for certain reasons, he was unwilling to do, so excused himself on the ground that as he was neither an Eton nor Harrow he did not propose to go to the match. The lady, much nettled, retorted quickly: "Then why are you here, because you are neither a player nor a gentleman?"

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Inconvenience is often caused by losing the names of fruit trees in young orchards. A good zinc label is desirable.

Don't neglect to grease the wagons that do the regular work about the farm. Hard oil is cheaper than horsefesh and a lot more humane.

If your horse falls, don't shout at him or beat him; help him to get up. Feed him well, if you wish him to work well. Give him three good meals per day (four if he does an extra long day's work), and ample time to eat them.

Pull a peach early if you want it for the other fellow away of at market, but if you wish to enjoy it, let it ripen on the tree. Peaches are, in this respect, not like pears.

Barnyard manure, available on every farm, makes one of the best organic fertilizers to use, and every farmer ought to consider ways and means of preserving it. When left in the open in piles for even a short time the loss is very large.

Now is the proper time to make provision for warm shelter for the stock during the coming winter. Bear in mind that boards are cheaper than feed. While you are about it do not forget that antiquated poultry house that offers so little obstruction to the wind.

Corn, maturing rather late in central latitudes, is better than when it matures earlier in the season. If the corn is to be cut for the silo or for stover, it is better cut and handled late than early. Early shock corn often spoils in the shock, it is not best for filling the silo and it will damage more on the stalks in the field before husking.

Oilmeal is so loosening in its effect that it is very easy to overfeed on this ration. While we would feed only about one-fourth pint for every one hundred pounds the animal weighs, there are cases in which this would be too much while in others it would be sufficient. When feeding it, watch the results closely and gauge your future feeding by them.

In planting apple trees, a fine, well-grown one-year tree that is a fair example of its particular variety, has a go-ahead quality which leaves nothing to be desired. There are several advantages in choosing the younger tree. These roots are unutilized, they can be more quickly planted, they can be trained to any form desired, whereas the older tree is already headed by the nurseryman, and is liable in many cases to have a very undesirable form of head.

Winter is the time when tuberculosis is apt to invade a herd of cattle. See to it now that the barn is in the most sanitary shape into which it can be put. Above all supply good ventilation, plenty of sunshine and forage free from dust, and be eternally vigilant to detect the slightest cough or symptom of the dread scourge.

The main trouble with early-planted corn is that it begins to form ears at a time when the days are longest, hottest and when the soil has become almost depleted of its spring store of moisture—just the time when the crop needs the most moisture at its roots. At this stage the yield of grain is lowered by hasty maturity if the weather is so dry at the time that the corn blades roll during the day. It needs shorter days of sun and heat and longer nights to recuperate in order to grow and mature without stunting.

For many years experts and successful farmers have been preaching the gospel of saner animal husbandry and more sensible methods of preserving and using feeds. Wind-proof, rain-proof, snow-proof stables, hog houses and poultry houses have been the results of some of this preaching, and also the silo. Those who have built modern cow stables and poultry houses, where the chickens and cows live in comfort during the winter months, know that these animals pay handsome dividends on the cost of the buildings they occupy. The high production of hens and cows in winter under modern methods of handling is actually more a matter of shelter than of good feed. The same flock and herd, fed in the very best manner but not provided with good shelter, are carried at an actual loss with present prices of feeds during the winter months. Any good farm business manager knows this to be a simple and solid fact.

French Dueling Methods. Many of the duels in France end without bloodshed. When the offense is not very serious it is agreed beforehand that the words of command shall be given so rapidly that the duellists will not have time to take good aim. Sometimes three shots are exchanged without a hit, and then the seconds step in and "honor is satisfied." At the word "Fire!" the pistol is raised instantly, and it must be discharged not later than the word "Three!" so the speed with which these words are given regulates the time in which it is possible to take aim. Therefore the speed with which they are spoken is agreed on beforehand, this depending upon the seriousness of the duel. The words are timed with a metronome. If the encounter be very serious this is set at the lowest speed, eighty beats a minute, which gives time for taking accurate aim. A speed of 140 beats a minute allows no time for aiming, and, therefore, is used when seconds think the duel should be made as little dangerous as possible.—Philadelphia Record.

Sensation of Drowning. This is how a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette describes the escape from drowning: "I and a party of friends had rowed far out into the bay. We all plunged into the sea and swam about. I went farther than my friends, and I imagine I got tired. I went deep down and came up again, and I remember the look of the sky. Then I went down again, and I distinctly heard a sound of most lovely singing. I imagine this was from my ears. I had not the very slightest feeling of suffocation or fear. Only I thought that my husband, who was not with us, would be so grieved. The music became louder and more beautiful, and I saw a dazzling light. The next thing I felt was agony. My friends had missed me, and as I came up for the last time they saw my head. I was hauled into the boat, and then came indescribable agony as I was brought back to life. The lungs filling again was torture."

You're Being Talked About. We do not wish to alarm you unduly, but do you know that you are being criticised? It may be that you do not care, either because you are so abandoned and so bent upon an evil course as to be lost to all sense of shame or because you are so immaculately virtuous as to leave not a single vulnerable point on attack for the slanderous tongue. The fact remains that uncomplimentary things are being said about you, things that do not at all agree with your estimate of yourself. Not one of your friends but objects to something about you. Maybe you do care. If so we are sorry for you, because you cannot stop it. It would be a good thing for you to mend your ways, but don't expect to stop the talk in that way. Figure your life out the very best way you can and then expect your neighbors and friends to disapprove in all possible combinations and permutations.—Life.

Early Earrings. The earring is not a modern invention, for more than twenty centuries ago the daughter of Aristotle wore golden hoops. The philosopher's daughter's earrings were found in her tomb near Chalcis, in Euboea, by exploring archaeologists, and certainly modern workmanship cannot produce their equal. In each golden hoop swung a tiny dove, with precious stones for eyes and bands of minute gems to give the color of the iridescent breast and wings. The feathers were of granulated gold, and the tail feathers were so marvelously wrought and adjusted that they acted like a balance, as in a living bird, so that the exquisite miniature creatures whenever the wearer moved or laughed or tossed her head would move and balance themselves upon their pendent perches.

Message of the Telephone. There is nothing in the sound of the shrill little telephone bell to warn us of the import of its message. More's the pity. It may be that bare whose telephone conversation begins: "Well, what do you know today?" It may be your lawyer to say you've inherited a million. Hence the arrogance of the instrument. It knows its voice will never willfully go unanswered so long as the element of chance lies concealed within it.—American Magazine.

An old woodsman was walking through a forest when he saw a large bear approaching him. Realizing his predicament, he exclaimed: "Oh Lord, be with me!" Still the bear came on, when the man again prayed: "Oh Lord, be on my side." Seeing the bear continue to approach, the woodsman, whipping out his knife, exclaimed: "Oh Lord, if you won't be on my side, just declare neutrality, and I'll show you the goll-darndest bear fight you ever saw in your life."

Pluck of a New Reporter Secured a Beat For His Paper

By FRANK BLIGHTON
Copyright by Frank A. Mansley Co.

You could cut the pity with a knife when Fred Ward first entered the reporters' room at police headquarters. He was poorly dressed. Sunken eyes testified to recent severe illness, and his demeanor lacked the vivacity and spirit popularly ascribed to a twentieth century newspaper man. He had just been engaged by the Outpost, a sheet notorious for the meager salaries it paid, also for the tyranny of the city editor, whose exactions were like unto the laws of the Medes and Persians, only more so. Yet the Outpost men were supposed to cheerfully acquiesce and even outstrip men on other papers whose ed-

"HAS ANY TUG COME IN TONIGHT?" ASKED WARD, HIS HEART THROBBING.

tors gladly paid larger salaries and eagerly approved legitimate items of the same character.

Bonnie Wallace, the Herald man covering police and the arbuter elegantium of the group, rattled the dice suggestively as all hands gathered around the table for their afternoon diversion.

The game lasted until 5 o'clock and closed with Bonnie a good winner. The afternoon men called their respective offices, gave "30" for the day and departed.

Byron Thompson, police reporter for the Tribune, the only other morning paper, arrived a little later, introduced himself and proposed that they "split the police trick."

Ward was willing. Six-thirty found both men with all their fresh afternoon copy and important rewrites from the afternoon papers ready for the messengers from their offices.

"Looks like a light night," yawned Thompson as he lit a cigarette.

"Lots of time for a big story yet," suggested Ward, with some timidity. "I hope I get it if it comes off."

"Don't worry. The only thing I could scoop you on would be a big lake disaster—for which I would hire a tug and get the news, while if you did that for your paper they'd suspect you were out to bust the boss, who has only a paltry five millions."

The evening dragged wearily. It was nearly 9 o'clock when they sauntered again to the desk of No. 1 station.

"Anything new, Tom?" asked Thompson. "Some yacht capsized up at Mouse point, across the lake. Rumored some of the party are drowned."

Thompson tore up the stairs, three at a time, and tugged frantically at the buzzer in the reporters' room. He chatted hastily with his night city editor and turned to Ward with a smile.

"The fortune of war, old man, and on your first day too! I'm off for my tug—and here's where the syndicate dissolves. There's a big gale on, and it's twelve miles across the foot of the lake to Mouse point—but I ought to be back by 2 with the full story for the city edition."

He was gone as Ward was trying for his own office.

"The boss will never stand for a tug," said Smith, the assistant city editor, when Ward asked for instructions. "But we'll have to get that story somehow. Say! The boat at the foot of Ferry street will leave in fifteen minutes for Fort Leary. Take a Yosemite car and catch it. If you don't, a car leaves ten minutes later at this end of the International bridge which will also take you to Fort Leary. On that side, phone or ride to Mouse point. We might phone from here, but they close over there at 8. Swing us a dash if you can, somehow, for the first edition. But anyway, we'll hold an insert on page one for the city edition until 8 o'clock. Hurry!"

And Ward hurried.

The Yosemite street car reached Ferry street on time, but the steamer was even then in midstream, and it was the last boat for the night. In the ten minutes of grace left in which to reach the International bridge car he had to go nine blocks.

Ward sprinted the distance. The car was a twinkling star at the far end of the mile long International bridge when he glimpsed her tail lights.

And that was the last for the night except the "owl" at 2 o'clock, the bridge tender told him.

Ward was in despair.

A glimmer of white showed far out on the slender framework which spanned the mighty river in its mad rush to join the cataraet twenty miles lower down. It grew and grew, and at last a railroad velocipede sped across the final section, the rider stopping within ten feet of the reporter, whose brain was pounding away with the phrase:

"The fortune of war—the fortune of war!"

Ward strode over to the dismounting rider.

"I want to borrow your machine," said he.

"Sorry, brother, but this here is railroad property, and I can't lend it," was the answer.

Ward's brain worked like lightning. Stepping a little closer, he threw open his coat and displayed his police badge in the dim light. The shield was much like that of the plain clothes man.

"Oh," ejaculated the fellow, "I didn't know you were!"

"From headquarters," smoothly supplemented Ward. "Just went on today. Every moment is precious to my business."

Already the other man was lifting the machine around on the track again, and he said:

"Where are you going?"

"Missed the car to Mouse point," said the reporter.

"Keep to the Y switch on your left a mile this side of Fort Leary. The new cut off saves you five miles by keeping straight up the beach. When'll you be back?"

"By morning surely. If you are not here I'll get the bridge tender to put the car in the house."

With hope high in his heart, despite the half hour handicap which Thompson had Ward bent to the lever. His arms seemed tireless. Almost before he realized it he was lifting the car over the frog at the Y switch and again speeding between big pines toward Mouse point.

At Mouse point the road terminated. Ward pointed down the one broad avenue which the summer resort boasted.

Lights flickered along the water's edge. Excited groups of summer idlers from the cottages which fringed the lake and college chaps from the Canoe club's casino were rushing along the beach, while older men from the Yacht club moved among the crowd with grave faces.

Every one knew the story. The yacht Nerida, with six of the most prominent young men of the city, had started up the lake in a race of forty miles and returned.

When the gale broke all the boats ran for shelter behind the bluff at Mouse point. The Nerida's crew had attempted to come ashore in the yacht's dinghy.

It had capsized. Four were rescued by crews of other yachts. Two were somewhere out there in the whirl of the pitiless waves.

There was no sign of Thompson along the waterfront. Ward discerned far in the offing of the harbor a tiny spot with red and green lights and a solitary beam of white high up.

"What's that?" he queried of a sailor who was scanning the lake with a marine glass.

"It's a tug, but she'll never land here tonight with the sea on, and she'll have to be careful in making the turn to get back to the city among those waves."

"Has any tug come in tonight?" asked Ward, his heart throbbing wildly.

"Nothing has come ashore for two hours, and that was the surfboat from the life saving station bringin' in the boys from the Nerida's dinghy after the other yachts had picked them up."

It was now 11:30, and Ward could not find the local telephone operator. But he had gone too far to be balked by merely negative elements of a passive character. He sought the station itself, pushed back the window catch with his knife blade and boldly stepped inside.

He turned on the light and experimented with the switchboard until he had the city connection. Just as he was asking central for the Outpost office some one gripped his arm and pushed the barrel of a pistol against the small of his back.

"Ye're under arrest for burglary!" announced the strident voice of the village constable, who held the criminal destinies of Mouse point somewhere about his person between his star and his six shooter.

The reporter turned and faced him calmly.

"All right, old chap," said he easily; "Anything to oblige. But just as soon as I finish this message I'll present my own credentials. Keep away for a minute, will you?"

"Throw up your hands," replied the guardian of the commonwealth, with a snarl.

Ward started to comply. Then, meditated at the thought of losing his story to a case of arrested mental development, he clinched his right, swooped it up in a wild swing and landed on the peak of the whiskers of justice.

The swing kept on to the inception of the beard, and the crash of the blow mingled with the echo of the thud when the would be captor hit the floor. Ward twisted the automatic handcuffs from the nerveless grasp and easily fitted them to the officer's wrists behind his back.

Just as he was about to resume the phone he heard a voice outside:

"Did ye git him, Jonas?"

The constable on the floor let out a couple of warwhoops.

Ward turned out the lights, hurriedly raised and leaped through the opposite window. He sped softly into the bushes, crouching low, just as three more men surrounded the station and began a cautious reconnaissance in force.

"The fortune of war!" growled the reporter as he broke into a run for his car.

Again came the wild ride through the forest. Again the strange sounds smote his ears. Just as he lifted the car over the Y switch a couple of hundred yards from the bridge he caught the throb of a gasoline motor and down the road sped a big touring car.

"There he is!" shrieked the strident tones of Constable Jonas.

Ward groaned.

They were running fifteen feet to his own.

Before he could reach the bridge the auto would intercept him just where the highway crossed the railway line. He glanced around desperately. The night wind tore at his coat pitilessly. The swash of the waters driving past added a whisper of solemnity to the helplessness of the situation.

But it was not of himself he was thinking. A hysteria of ideas oppressed him, but Ward was now running mechanically toward the water's edge.

Subconsciously he had taken the only step which could temporarily advantage him. The road paralleled the river. To overtake him the occupants of the automobile must abandon their machines.

Into the fringe of willows along the bank the reporter plunged. He crouched low, listening to the whir of a couple of bullets which the angered peace officer had hurled after him.

The reporter could hear Jonas viciously crashing around behind him.

"Playin' a poor hand well," whispered the scribe feverishly.

Then he tore straight for the river bank and dove beneath the waves. His battered derby floated recklessly and at a jaunty angle in a back eddy toward the vindictive constable.

"Dern ye—take that!" cried the personification of the majesty of the law, firing at the headgear.

He was whirled under the slender framework which spanned the mighty river in its mad rush to join the cataraet twenty miles lower down.

A glimmer of white showed at its far end.

"The owl car!" was the last dominant thought of the newspaper man as a great wave slapped him over toward one of the cruelly pointed stone piers.

At the other end of the structure a cursing constable was stumbling in and out of the circle cast by the glare of the acetylene lamps.

The city edition of the Outpost rioted in a "first page spread," carrying a seven column line, a four column account of the drowning of two of Buffalo's most prominent and wealthy young men, with their photographs, and verbatim interviews with the four survivors.

"By Fred Ward" glared in blackface over the snappy, spicy "lead," which whipped its way down the column in a verbal biography of the disaster and the tragedy which unfolded it.

"And we thought he lacked steam!" chuckled the managing editor as he

The Gazette & Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all News-stands in the Weymouths and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

It is in the last few years, comparatively speaking, that removers of newspapers, magazines and printed matter of all kinds, have demanded pictures in all departments. And so the demand has been supplied and a fondness for fine pictures is as deep rooted as a fondness for good reading. In too many instances, however, the picture business has been carried to an extreme in rude characters of men in high position, men of character and respectability, which character and respectability is such that the rising generation should be taught to hold in high esteem, but the picture marring the whole situation. We have gone slow on the picture business for two reasons. First, we are so crowded from week to week with reading matter that we have not the space to use them, and next, many of the pictures which are available, are simply put on the market for personal glorification of the party represented. We are, however, running a series of pictures of our own taken by our own artist and for our own special uses and shall continue the series, covering all parts of the town and any one interested in making an album of Weymouth homes, should have every number from the start. Our next will be a North Weymouth home.

Some Parliaments.

The house of keys of the Isle of Man claims to be oldest parliament in the world. It is said to have been founded in A. D. 938 by King Orry. Channel Islanders will tell you that the constitution of their states has remained practically unaltered since the day their sovereign, Duke William, came over to Hastings and annexed England.

In Jersey it consists of twelve Jurats elected for life by the twelve parishes, twelve rectors, twelve constables, or mayors, of parishes and fourteen elected deputies, elected every three years. The assembly is presided over by the bailiff, and the other officers are the attorney general, the solicitor general and the viscount, or prevot, who speaks, but may not vote.—Pearson's Weekly.

Capital of Holland.

A gentleman—to the best of our recollection, a retired linen draper—went into school one day with the intention of putting the fifth standard through their facings in the geography of Europe. He began, "What is the capital of 'Olland?" "Capital H," was the crushing rejoinder from the smart boy of the class. The ex-linen draper did not pursue his geographical inquiries further.—Cornhill Magazine.

Colored Diamonds.

Diamonds are in many colors, such as black, blue, red, pink, green and yellow. Black diamonds are extremely rare and come from Borneo. The Duke of Richmond owns one big black diamond that for centuries did duty as the eye of an Indian idol.

Illinois River.

The Illinois river was so termed from the Illini, a tribe of Indians on its banks. Another derivation is suggested in Isle aux Noix, island of nuts. Several derivations more or less fanciful are suggested by the etymologists and geographers.

Sunny Thought.

Even if you are lacking in some things, cheer up. The dog with the shortest tail wears the fewest tin cans. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Light Writing.

Photography, as a term, is derived from the Greek words "phos" or "photos," meaning "light" and "grapho," signifying "I write."

Ambition to merit praise fortifies our virtue.

When Liars Are No More.

A Canadian preacher thinks the time is near when there will be no liars. When that time comes obituaries will be much shorter than they are now.—Toledo Blade.

—Frank Curtis, who has been working in Douglas, Arizona for three years, is enjoying a month's vacation with his mother, Mrs. Margaret G. Curtis.

—At the business meeting of the Uwikana club held at the home of Mrs. F. C. McDowell, last Thursday evening, Miss Florence Nash was elected president.

—Norman Loud has returned from a visit with his relatives in Colorado, and is to resume his studies at Harvard.

—Mrs. George Nielson and children left on Tuesday for Panama, where they will join Mr. Nielson.

—The L. B. S. held a food sale in the chapel of the Old North church this afternoon (Friday).

—Miss Hattie Sargent of Belmont was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman.

—The "Wide Awakes" held a sewing meeting with Miss Ruth Freeman last Wednesday evening.

—Miss Mary Loud entertained the D. A. R.'s at her home last Monday afternoon.

—On last Friday evening, a stereopticon lecture entitled "How the Country Feeds the Town" was given in the Old North Church, by Edward I. Farrington, under the management of the L. B. S.

The lecture proved to be very interesting and an unusual fine collection of pictures was shown. Miss Theodora Keith furnished cornet solos during the evening.

After the lecture a sale of ice cream was carried on in the chapel.

—Miss Bertha Nash is enjoying a two weeks' vacation, after which she is to accept a position with the Henry A. Brown Co. Boston.

First Church, (Old North) Notes

"We Call to Peace" will be the thought which the people of our land will consider on Sunday next in response to the President's Proclamation. The service in music and prayer and sermon at the Old North church turning our thoughts to the ways of peace will commence at 10.30 A. M. The community is heartily invited to participate in the service.

The meeting in the evening at 7 o'clock will be held in the church.

How Stilton Cheese is Made.

Stilton cheeses differ from ordinary cheeses in the method of manufacture. Each Stilton is made in a circular mold, or vat, two feet deep and about nine inches in diameter, perforated at the sides and bottom. When the milk has been turned into curd by means of rennet it is transferred into the vat, which is lined with a coarse woven cloth, with a ladle. When a thin layer of curd covers the bottom of the mold a little dry salt is sprinkled over it. This is supposed to create the blue mold often found in Stiltons. Then more curd is added in layers until the vat is full. The whey gradually drains through the cloth and out of the holes into the pan in which the vat stands. After the curd has stood for twenty-four hours a tin disk is laid on the top and a weight applied to hasten the expulsion of the whey. When quite firm the cheese is removed from the vat and placed on a shelf to dry. After some days the cloth is taken off and the cheese is left to ripen in a special room, the temperature of which never varies.—London Answers.

Baiting the Bull.

In the interior of Venezuela and Colombia toro coledado is a feature of fiesta days. A principal street of the town is roped off and a wild bull is liberated. From eight to ten mounted horsemen enter the improvised arena, their only defense against attacks of the bull being their superb horsemanship and a knowledge of how to twist the bull's tail in such a manner as to cause him to tumble over. While the attention of the bull is attracted by some of the party a horseman dashes from the rear at full speed, gives a dextrous twist, and over rolls the bull. This sport is not without its danger, and almost every coledado festival adds to the hospital list. The honor of being champion bull tail twister develops keen competition, for the winner is crowned with flowers by the prettiest girl in the village. Some performers become so expert as to be sure of their twist at a specified point, the great achievement being to bring the animal to the dust just in front of the balcony of one's ladylove.—Argonaut.

Reforming the Boarders.

The boarding house had changed hands, and the regular boarders were changing some of their habits to suit the aggressive new landlady. The sword had fallen rather promiscuously during this pruning of bad habits, but they were all amused when it struck the haughty young professor. Sitting with his head bowed gracefully on his shapely hand, it was his custom to pay no attention to the things that were passed around the breakfast table.

The landlady brought in a plate of hot biscuits and held them in front of him. He did not look up. She jogged his elbow, and, looking up, he said loftily, "I do not care to be disturbed when meditating."

The regular boarders stopped eating, awaiting her reply. She stared at him for a second, then said decidedly: "Hereafter you do your meditating some'ers else. I want these biscuits et."—Indianapolis News.

Remorse Endures.

Though Allah and earth pardon sin, remaineth forever remorse.—Kipling.

At the afternoon service, 3 o'clock, Dr. George L. Cody D. D. of Dorchester will preach upon "The Call of Tomorrow to the Church of Today." A chorus choir will be assisted by Edward Bullock, tenor and Miss Hazel Clark, violinist. At the Young People's Rally in the evening Rev. J. C. Archer of Brockton will speak upon "The Chance for Youth in Spiritual Service."

—About 12 from the Pilgrim church attended the conference at the Bethany church, Quincy on Tuesday. The delegates were Mrs. A. J. Sidelinger, Mrs. S. G. Dunbar, Mrs. G. W. Beane, Deacon R. S. Gilmore.

—The first meeting of the Pilgrim Circle was held on Wednesday of this week. A baked bean supper was served at 6.30 o'clock.

SERIOUS ERROR IN WEYMOUTH.

Weymouth Citizens Will Do Well to Profit by the Following.

Many fatal cases of kidney disease have reached an incurable stage because the patient did not understand the symptoms. Even today in Weymouth there are many residents making the same serious error. They attribute their mysterious aches and pains to overwork, or worry, perhaps, when all the time their rheumatic pains, backache and bladder irregularities are most probably due to weak and ailing kidneys. If you are ill, if your kidneys are out of order, profit by this Weymouth resident's experience.

Asa K. Binney, 112 Broad street, Weymouth, says: "I can't say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have taken several boxes for lame back and other kidney disorders and I never fail to get relief. I am just as enthusiastic about Doan's Kidney Pills now as I was when I gave a statement praising them some years ago. Today I gladly confirm all I have ever said about this remedy."

Mr. Binney is only one of many Weymouth people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Binney had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. LOVELL'S CORNER

—Mrs. Luther Attwood of South Weymouth has kindly given the use of the pipe organ to the Porter church for two years.

—Next Sunday will be Peace Sunday at the Porter church; the service in the morning honoring Pres. Wilson's proclamation requesting church attendance on that day. The subject of the morning sermon is "From Chaos to Cosmos." The subject for the evening discourse will be "Why shed innocent blood for guilty men."

—Friday seventeen ladies of the Ladies Aid society went on an auto ride to Plymouth in the "South Shore Tourist."

—Harold Hawes is confined to his home by a crushed foot sustained while working on an auto at Cushing's garage Monday.

—A meeting of the trustees of the Porter church was held in the church vestry Monday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Monroe are receiving congratulations on the birth of a boy on Monday.

GAS RANGES

There are many types of gas ranges—some good, some bad. Some makers study the principles of gas combustion and make use of their knowledge in the designing of their ranges; some, on the contrary, think that shell and burners are all that are necessary and build their "ranges" without any reference to what construction is necessary for good combustion and the proper circulation of heat in the oven. As a consequence, some ranges are more economical than others—with some good results can be secured, while an expert can not get anything form others.

Our experience has shown us just what make of ranges can always be relied upon and what can not. We can guarantee all of the ranges we sell for we know that they will give good results. We can advise you of other makes, sold by others, which will give good results and of those which will not.

We are not selling appliances to make a profit—only to see that you secure good appliances. We would be just as well pleased to have you buy a good range elsewhere as from us.

Won't you let us advise you before buying a range?

A WARTIME BLUFF

It Was Worked by Stonewall Jackson, and It Won.

HIS MOST IMPORTANT ORDER

It Was Given by the Cool Headed Confederate Commander to a Confused Federal Soldier, and It Was Promptly Obeyed—A Lucky Escape.

Perhaps the most important order that Stonewall Jackson ever issued—certainly the most vital to himself—is not in the official war records. The order was given in person by Jackson to a northern artillery officer as he stood in full uniform ready for battle beside his gun, and, stranger of all, was at once executed by him, with the result that the battle was lost by the Federal arms.

Jackson's action on this occasion furnishes a striking illustration of the value of a cool head and presence of mind in an emergency—on an important occasion when the entirely unexpected happens—at a time when wavering or indecision would result in disaster. That he was able instantly to grasp the situation and daringly make it a tribute to his quickness of judgment and his courage.

It was on a spring morning in 1862, just before the battle of Port Republic. Jackson in advance of his troops, with only a single escort, galloped across the bridge over the Shenandoah river into the town, which stood on the east bank. Learning that the army of General Shields was still a good many miles away and confident that his own troops would be in possession long before the enemy, he rode to a residence at the farther end of the village, where he spent nearly an hour.

But meantime the energetic Shields—whom Jackson declared to be his most formidable opponent—had thrust forward a small, swift column to occupy Port Republic, seize the bridge and halt Jackson's advance. So rapidly did it move that it gained both objects without firing a shot. More than that, Jackson was a prisoner—if any one had known it!

Jackson, in utter ignorance of the disastrous change, mounted his horse and ambled down the main street to the bridge. What was his astonishment to see groups of soldiers—in blue!—busily moving to and fro about the bridgehead and throwing up intrenchments and fortifications. Planted on a little knoll that commanded the bridge and its approaches was a formidable field gun.

Fortunately for Jackson, the recent campaigns up and down the valley had faded both blue and gray uniforms into a nondescript drab. As Jackson sat on his horse and watched the busy scene he formed his plan swiftly. He could not go back. He must cross that bridge. That was his only chance. It was the frowning field gun that he feared. He must put it out of commission long enough to get beyond its range. Throwing up his hand to attract attention, he shouted to the officer in command of the gun:

"What are you doing with that gun up there? I didn't order it there, and I don't want it there!" There were authority and petulance in his voice as he added, "Limber up and run it over on that knob over there!"

The officer at the gun, thinking that he had to deal with some superior officer recently arrived, hastened to obey without question, explaining in self-defense that he had understood his orders otherwise.

Sitting on Little Sorrel while the Federal troops worked busily about him, Jackson calmly waited until the gun was limbered off to its new position. Then he rode quietly across the bridge and up the other bank until he was well out of musket range. Then he turned, waved his hand to the astonished Federals, and putting spurs to his horse, galloped away from the rain of bullets that pattered harmlessly in the rear.

Had he been captured the Confederate victory at Port Republic which he won a few hours later would not have happened. The able and energetic Shields would have defeated his troops, stunned by his loss—YOUTH'S Companion.

Wisdom of the Bee.
"Our plan is very different," said the bee. "We work in the summer to lay up a store of food against the season when we foresee we shall want it; but those who do nothing but drink and dance and sing in the summer must expect to starve in the winter."—Old Fable.

A TESTIMONIAL

WEYMOUTH, MASS., August 8, 1914

C. A. Peabody Co., 5 Main St., Brockton, Mass.

Dear Sirs:—In reply to your favor I want to say that the "Peabody" piano that was offered by Mr. George R. Kempl two years ago and won by me is more than satisfactory in every way. The tone is beautiful and seems to grow better as I use it. I would certainly recommend this piano to anybody who wants a first-class instrument.

Yours very truly,

ALICE G. CORRIGAN.

HATCH CHICKS BY HUNDRED

Incubator is Almost Necessity Where Large Flocks Are Wanted—Get a Good Machine.

(By ELIZABETH PUTNAM.)

If you expect to hatch chicks by the hundred, an incubator is almost a necessity. The hens required for this would be worth more to you for laying than the interest on the machine and the oil. Then the advantage of having a large flock of the same size is a time saver in caring for them and an incentive to buyers when it is time to make sales.

Consult your neighbors on this point and secure as many catalogues as possible from the various firms. Valuable pointers will be picked up from both sources. It is poor economy to get a cheap incubator, unless you can be assured that it does good work. Eggs failing to hatch or chicks which are not up to the average in vitality are always serious losses. The best facilities for hatching are none too good. Do not hurry the eggs into the machine until you have had it working for you at least one day under perfect control. If it has been used before, wash out the egg chamber, trays, etc., with a five per cent solution of creoline as a safeguard against bowel trouble. Use only the best of oil, trim the wick daily, and follow as closely as possible the directions which accompany your machine.

Never trust to eggs bought at a neighboring store. They will probably be a heterogeneous collection, and of uncertain age. If chilled, the value for hatching is greatly lessened. There is some one in almost every neighborhood with a well graded flock of the breed you prefer. Hunt that person out and get her to furnish the number required, even if you have to pay her a cent or two a dozen extra for being able to vouch for their good quality, and for wrapping each in a piece of paper when packing. This latter precaution not only protects from chill, but from jar in transit.

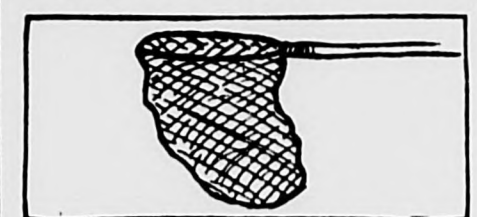

Excellent Device May Be Constructed Out of Barrel Hoop and Netting From Old Hammock.

Who has not seen the farmer, his wife, the hired man and one or more children engaged in the exciting chase for the chicken which is to be served for the family dinner? All around the yard, over the fence, under the barn, through the garden, until somebody luckily falls upon it. An easier way is to make a long-handled net, using a sound, well-made barrel hoop. An old hammock makes a fine net for this purpose. The net should be about two feet deep. Lay it down, mouth up, put a few grains of corn on top, pretend you are looking the other way, and when a chicken steps on the net to pick out the corn, lift up suddenly, tip it slightly to one side, and you have the fowl safe. If you are particularly expert the net may be dropped down over the bird.

CATCHING FOWLS MADE EASY

Handy in Chicken Yard.

Milk cannot take the place of meat, as it is not sufficiently concentrated, hence the hens could not drink enough of it to supply their wants. If a gill of linseed meal is added to a pint of milk, and the milk then used for mixing ground grain, it will largely assist in providing a complete food. Milk should be given in vessels which will prevent filth from getting into it, and vessels cleaned daily.

MILK IS GOOD FOR POULTRY

Chickens Intended for "Fries" Gain Rapidly When Given Lactical Food With Some Grain.

Wheat is a standard food for poultry, and farmers have contented themselves that grain is sufficient, but it has been demonstrated that when fresh milk has been given to chicks intended to be sold as "fries" the gain, when milk is added to the grain ration, is nearly twice as much as when grain alone is used. If milk can be conveniently given to laying hens, larger profits will be derived by thus utilizing the waste products than by feeding it to the pigs, as skim milk and buttermilk contain nearly all the elements of food, the eggs are more easily produced by hens fed upon such food than when they are not otherwise provided, and every farmer should allow the hens a share of the skim milk and buttermilk.

Separate Roosting Places. If your poultry is allowed free range, then have them separate roosting quarters and see that all go to roost there instead of out of doors on the fences and in out buildings, for the hawks and skunks to carry away.

Best Material for Floors. Cement will dry well at this time of the year, and nothing is better for floors.

An Eventful Dialogue

By RUTH GRAHAM

A party consisting of an elderly gentleman, an elderly lady, a young man, a young woman and a notary were gathered in the drawing room of a chateau in the environs of Paris. The notary called each in turn for his or her signature on a paper lying on a table, then affixed his seal, folded the paper, put it into a tin box and, bowing, left the room. The young man and young woman followed, apparently wrapped up in each other.

"This takes me back nearly a quarter of a century," said the elderly man, "when I passed through a like ceremony. I was then as big a fool as Francois."

"And I as addle pated as Lucille."

"Your niece may possibly possess the gift of constancy."

"Your nephew may not be drawn hither and thither by every pretty face he sees."

During this bit of dialogue the man stood with one hand on the table where marriage settlements had been signed, eyeing the lady sternly, scornfully, reproachfully, while the lady had walked to a window and stood looking out, tapping the waxed floor with the toe of her slipper. The man was forty-two, the woman thirty-eight, and both still looked young.

"What has become of De Belleville?"

"How should I know? Why should I care?"

"It was he who rendered that signing of settlements between you and me null and void. But, parbleu, there has been time since then for many such interferences."

"De Belleville never interfered between you and me."

"Did not interfere? Will you be good enough to inform me what did?"

"That actress."

"What actress?"

"The one who was breaking the hearts of so many young fools. She played at the Theatre Francaise, I believe, though it was so long ago I fail to remember. Doubtless by this time she is as unattractive as I am."

"Who told you that I admired an actress at the Theatre Francaise?"

"I saw you there myself the evening of the day the settlements were made for our marriage. I was indisposed and about to go to bed when a friend gave me a bit of information. I went to the theater and saw you gazing upon the woman through adoring eyes."

"H'm! Had the malicious information communicated by your friend anything to do with my eyes appearing to adore the actress?"

"What I saw through my eyes—"

"You mean your imagination."

"—was convincing."

"Then?"

"Then I proposed that two could play at a game like that. De Belleville happened to call the next morning. You came while he was there. I compelled you to wait, and when he went away—"

"I see it all. Why have you waited all these years to tell me that under a false assumption, instigated by—by whom?"

"My cousin, Julie Demourier."

"Julie Demourier! Why?"

"Why what?"

"She threw herself at me as soon as you had broken with me."

"She threw herself at you?"

"Certainly."

"Oh, heavens!"

He strode toward her and stood beside her, looking into her eyes almost fiercely.

"She blighted our lives," he said.

There was no reply. She stood with her back to him, looking intently out through the window.

"You permitted yourself to be made a dupe by one who was not worthy to be your shoe."

"If you had loved me you would have sought me again. You would have given me an opportunity to—"

"How did I know that you were prompted by jealousy and were showing a preference you did not feel for another?"

The argument was unanswerable.

"Heaven grant," he continued, "that no 'friend' will come between these two happy creatures who have just left us before the knot is tied."

She shuddered.

"Hortense," he said in a quieter tone, "there is yet old age for us."

"For me. You are in your prime. A man of your age, if he marries, will unite with a young woman."

"You are as beautiful to me as the day that contract was signed."

"Not to the world. You would become ashamed of me. Only men who grow old with their wives grow old in their affection for them."

"Hortense, let us close the gap between that settlement ceremony and the present so far as we can by a wedding. I will call the carriage; we will drive to the mairie."

She neither answered nor stirred. He placed an arm about her and kissed her. Then he stepped to a bell and called a servant.

"The carriage," he said when the lackey entered.

"That evening the two returned for dinner from a drive and were met at the door by the nephew and niece.

"Why, auntie, where have you been?"

"To the mairie," said her companion. "We have been married."

"Married!"

"Yes; we leave nuptial ceremonies to young fools like you. Thank heaven we have passed that stupid period."

"Mon Dieu!"

Commonwealth of Massachusetts Land Court.

To the South Shore Co-operative Bank, a duly existing corporation having its usual place of business at Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth; Patrick E. Cross, Ellen E. Condrick and Leon J. Auger of said Weymouth; Joel King now or formerly of said Weymouth or his heirs, devisees, or legal representatives; and to all whom it may concern.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Theresa Shea of said Weymouth, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in said Weymouth, bounded and described as follows:

Southerly by Broad street fifty and 75-100 (10-75) feet easterly by land of Ellen E. Condrick one hundred sixty-one (161) feet; northerly by land of said Ellen E. Condrick and Patrick E. Cross fifty and 75-100 (50-75) feet and westerly by land of Leon J. Auger one hundred and fifty-seven and 7-10 (17-7) feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the twenty-sixth day of October, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, CHARLES THORNTON DAVIS, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-eighth day of September in the year nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Pope of Leominster, state auditor; Richard Olney, 2d, of Boston, candidate for senator; and D. J. Slattery, candidate for representative.

Paint or Not.

Is a horse worth more or less after feed?

Hay and oats are high today; shall I wait today and feed him tomorrow? That's how men do about painting their houses and barns and fences.

Paint has been high for several years; and so they have waited. Some are still waiting.

Their property drops a trifle a year and the next job of paint creeps-up creeps-up creeps-up: it'll take more paint by a gallon a year; they don't save a cent, and the property goes-on suffering.

DEVOTE.

Everett Loud, East Weymouth; M. R. Loud & Co., South Weymouth, and A. J. Siddinger, North Weymouth sell it.

Spared Listeners and Himself.

For humor, combined with brevity, it would not be easy to rival the French cleric, who, on the festival of St. James, was called upon to pronounce a panegyric on the saint. "My brethren," he said, "twelve months ago I preached an eulogy on the eminent apostle whose festival you celebrate today. As I doubt not, you were all very attentive to me, and as I have not learned anything new of him, I have nothing to add to what I said at the time."

BOARD OF THANKS.

ON THE ALLEYS.

Norfolk Club Opens Winter's Tournament. C. M. A. To Start in a Few Days. Burrell's alleys and East Weymouth Alleys in Line.

With the closing of the Brockton Fair and the advent of cooler weather the bowling fans are again splitting the pins about town.

Burrell's alleys in Weymouth are being used to the limit already and the Weymouth boys are confident of showing other bowlers in this section a few things about the game this winter. A team of stars has been formed in ward 3 and it will bowl in the Old Colony league, formed this fall, with Wollaston, Hough's Neck, City Square, Colesium and Kincaid team of Quincy, also in the league. The Weymouth home games will be rolled at Burrell's alleys.

At the old East Weymouth alleys at Young's on Commercial street a good season is anticipated.

In South Weymouth the Norfolk club house bottle pin tournament started last Monday night with eight teams in line, as follows: Team 1—W. Philbrick, F. Loud, L. Beaudry, B. Loud and C. Orcutt. Team 2—George Marshall, Calvin Veazie, Ralph Thomas, H. Soule and George Crawford. Team 3—A. Reed, Herbert Rockwood, George Sellars, Earle Bates, A. Francis Barnes. Team 5—W. Baker, A. Loud, A. Raymond, C. Brown, Sidney R. Cook. Team 6—C. Torrey, William B. Nash, C. Gridley, C. A. Shaw and Kenneth L. Nash. Team 7—W. K. Moore, W. Hannaford, William Macauley, F. Clark, H. Selmar. Team 8—H. Elliott, Veazie, C. Clapp, N. Abbott, C. O. Drown and F. Torrey.

At the C. M. A. in East Weymouth a Boston pin tournament will, in all probability, be started in a few days, as many of the members favor a change this season from candle-pins.

WEYMOUTH H. S. 51, SAUGUS H. S. 0.

On the Clapp Memorial field last Tuesday afternoon the Weymouth high school eleven had little difficulty in defeating the Saugus team 51 to 0. The game was called during the latter part of the third period, the Saugus team refusing to go on, claiming that the large crowd present was interfering with the play.

The work of Condrick, Deane, Bates and Borlenghi were features of the game. During the third period, Borlenghi was injured and had to be carried from the field. The work of the three officials who were all Tufts college men, was the best seen on the local field for some time. The summary:—

Weymouth High School—Northrop, Haviland, Whittle, Deane, Twecher II, Newton Ig, Hughes c, Palmer rg, Tirrell, Talbot rt, Bates, Green re, P. Whittle ab, Condrick lhb, Rand rbb, Deane, Borlenghi fb.

Saugus High School—Penney re, Fox rt, Hayes rg, J. Flynn c, Hull lg, McCarthy lt, Lundholm lc, C. Flynn ab, Willams rbb, Garafano lhb, Brown fb.

Score—Weymouth high, 51; Saugus 0. Touchdowns—Bates, Borlenghi, Condrick, Deane 2, Whittle 3. Goals from touchdowns—Tirrell 3. Umpire—Cameron of Tufts '15. Referee—Hewitt of Tufts '15. Line-man—Teel of Tufts '16. Time—10-8-10-8 minute periods.

High School Notes.

On Monday, October 12, the observance of Columbus day, there will be no session.

Those who come to school by way of Pleasant street were given a lecture in the office the other day on taking fruit from the trees on the way to and from school. Times have changed since we were in grammar school, for then all fruit in sight was ours—if we could beat out the bulldog.

The resignation of Clark Page, '15, on account of having to put too much time to his duties as football manager and neglecting his studies, was received Monday and F. L. Vender '15, was appointed in his place.

Following are the recently elected officers of the junior class: Pres., Frank Rand; vice pres., Ralph Green; sec., Arthur White; treas., Miss Marjorie Dunn; pin committee, chairman, Miss Jeanette Shaw, Philip Haviland and Miss Agnes Lyons.

Annual Fair of Universalist Society

The annual fair of the First Universalist society opened at Lincoln hall last evening with a good attendance. The entertainment consisted of the comedy, "All Tangled Up," with the following cast: Lyman C. Williams, Franklin P. Whitten, Lawson Twitchell, Jr., Russell Dexheimer, Donald Carnicheal, Mrs. A. D. Tirrell, Florence Thompson and Mildred Dyer. This evening the comedy "A Model Lover" will be given.

MONDAY CLUB.

A New Year Opened With Cheering Prospects.

The Monday club held its first meeting of the season in Odd Fellows hall, October 5, with the new president, Mrs. Edwin R. Sampson in the chair. The meeting was opened by singing the club hymn. Mrs. Sampson gave a short speech of welcome and Mrs. Merritt sang.

Next the reports of various committees were given. Mrs. Harriett B. Voohees for the committee on by-laws presented a draft of a new constitution and by-laws, pointing out the changes and reason therefor. It was decided not to take action on these for one month. Mrs. Elbridge Nash, chairman of the Visiting Nurse Committee, reported that the nurse had responded to over fifty calls during the month of September. Mrs. J. C. Frazor made a plea for supplies and it was voted by the club that the next meeting, October 19, be set aside as a day on which the club members should bring in pieces of old cotton, linen, sheets, etc., to be used as bandages or any other articles to be used in a sick room. Also it seems necessary to raise about four dollars to purchase a much needed article and small contributions toward that will be thankfully received.

Mrs. Kate Pierce Thayer spoke of the expense of printing the year book and it was voted to charge ten cents apiece for them.

Mr. Calderwood, supervisor of music, spoke on music in our Weymouth schools or rather what he is aiming to make it.

Miss Hazel Grace Brown delighted her audience with "The Southland in Song and Story" with banjo and piano accompaniments. Too much cannot be said in praise of her. She held the closest attention of the members, each number, seemingly, being better than the one preceding. The time allotted her was all too short.

Last, but not least, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served under the direction of Mrs. George C. Drew. During the social hour, old acquaintances were renewed and new members, each wearing a pink bow, were cordially received.

Henry C. Rockwood At Rest.

Funeral services of Henry C. Rockwood of Pond street, South Weymouth, who passed away the first of the week, at the age of 82 years, were held last Friday afternoon at his late home. Rev. Henry C. Alvord, pastor of the Old South church, officiated and burial was in the Mt. Hope cemetery.

Mrs. Josephine A. Finson Dead.

Mrs. Josephine A. Finson, aged 79, passed away at the home of her son, Charles Abbott of Chard street, East Weymouth, last Tuesday morning. She has been ill for a long time and for some time has been unable to speak. She is survived by two sons, Charles Abbott and Will Abbott. Funeral services were held Wednesday at her son's home and burial was in the Fairmount cemetery in East Weymouth.

Miss Etta Cushing Passes Away.

Miss Etta W. Cushing, one of South Weymouth's best known women, passed away last Thursday morning after a long illness.

Miss Cushing worked for thirty two years in Columbus square, her last position being in N. E. Williams' periodical store.

Funeral services were held on Sunday from her late home, 702 Main street, with Rev. L. W. Attwood, a former pastor of the Universalist church, officiating. Fred Bayley, Nathaniel Williams, John Vincent and Charles Stetson were pallbearers. Interment was in the Highland cemetery.

King's Daughters.

The King's Daughter's Union of the town met at the home of Mrs. B. S. Lovell on Station avenue on Wednesday evening and considerable business was cleared up by the sixty odd members present. It was reported that $270 was netted at the recent Garden fete with a few dollars not yet turned in. Mrs. R. S. Hoffman presided at the meeting and also reported for the Fountain committee, which had charge of the erection of the bubbler fountain in Jackson square. Arrangements were made to clear up the deficit of $28. on the fountain, and a report of the dedication exercise was read.

Plans were made by the Union for the winter's work. A feature of the season's work will be the conducting of religious exercises by a different circle each month at the Town Farm, as in the past.

Refreshments were served by the Whatsoever Circle, of which the hostess, Mrs. Lovell is a member, and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

PEACE SUNDAY.

Churches About Town Observe Day. Special Sermons by Pastors.

In response to the request made by President Wilson, last Sunday was observed as Peace Sunday in the churches in this town.

At the Old North Congregational church at Weymouth Heights Rev. E. J. Yaeger preached on the theme "The Call to Peace."

At the East Weymouth Congregational church Rev. G. A. Wilson occupied the pulpit in place of Rev. E. T. Ford, who was ill. Rev. Mr. Wilson preached on the subject "The True Balance of Life."

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception in East Weymouth, Rev. James W. Allison, pastor; the Church of the Sacred Heart in Weymouth, Rev. John B. Holland, pastor and the St. Francis Xavier church in South Weymouth, Rev. D. J. Crammas, pastor, prayers for peace were offered at all Masses.

At the First Baptist church in Weymouth, Rev. C. J. Underhill preached on the theme "The European War and the Worth of Human Life."

Rev. W. L. Newton of Rochester, Vermont, occupied the pulpit of the Universalist church in Weymouth.

"Progress and the 'Sword' was the theme of the sermon by Rev. William Wallace Rose at the Universalist church in South Weymouth.

"From Chaos to Cosmos" and "Why Shed Innocent Blood for Guilty Man" were the subjects of the sermons by Rev. Karl R. Thompson in the Porter M. E. church at Lovell's Corner.

At the Trinity Episcopal church in Weymouth, Rev. William Hyde, pastor, used the special program prepared by Bishop Lawrence and preached on the theme "The Coming Peace."

At the M. E. church in East Weymouth, Rev. W. M. Newton preached on "Lasting Peace Only by Doing Right."

At the Universalist church in North Weymouth Rev. Clifford Newton of Orange occupied the pulpit.

"The Sermon on the Mount and Peace Day" was the theme of a sermon at the Union Congregational church in South Weymouth by Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy.

"Hezekiah's Prayer in the Crisis of War" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. H. C. Alvord in the Old South church in South Weymouth.

All the services about town were well attended.

REDEDICATION EXERCISES.

Interesting Services at Pilgrim Church North Weymouth Last Sunday Afternoon.

With the completion of alterations on the Pilgrim Congregational church in North Weymouth, a service of rededication was held in the church auditorium last Sunday. At the morning service, Rev. Charles Clark, pastor, conducted a baptismal service.

"The Call of Tomorrow to the Church of Today" was the theme of the sermon by Rev. George L. Cady of Dorchester at the service held in the afternoon. A chorus choir with E. E. Bullock, tenor soloist; Miss Hazel F. Clark, violinist, and Herbert Hayden, organist, rendered special music. Clergymen from other places who took part in the service included Rev. E. J. Yaeger of Weymouth Heights, Rev. J. W. Lees of South Weymouth, Rev. S. P. Long of Quincy and Rev. H. C. Alvord of South Weymouth.

In the evening a very well attended rally was held by the Y. P. S. C. E.

C. M. A. Men's Club.

The C. M. A. Men's club of East Weymouth held its first meeting of the season in the Clapp Memorial building Wednesday night. Following a well served supper, H. W. Kimball spoke on "Savings Bank Life Insurance."

W. R. C. Notes.

P. P. Mrs. Emmeline Vining was agreeably surprised at her home Monday evening by a number of the Glee Club and other W. R. C. friends, and incidentally presented with a fitted travelling bag for use on her trip to the South. Both Mrs. Vining and Mrs. Jennie Bates start for Florida on Saturday next.

Several members of the Norfolk County Association will attend the Plymouth County Association meeting at Plymouth on Columbus Day.

Thirty five officers and members attended the funeral of Corps member Mrs. Eliza B. Ludden, the mother of D. I. Mrs. Carrie Loring, on Thursday last. The delegation were present at the cemetery also, where the colors were dipped during the laying away of the departed member.

OPEN SEASON WITH VICTORY.

Large Crowd Sees Weymouth High School Defeat South Boston High at C. M. A. Last Friday.

Weymouth High school opened its 1914 football season in an auspicious manner last Friday by defeating the fast South Boston High school eleven 6 to 0 on the Clapp Memorial field, East Weymouth.

After witnessing the game last Friday, it is the opinion of local football fans, that Coach Whittemore has developed the best team for years at Weymouth's highest institute of learning.

Led by Capt. Connie Condrick, the boys got into the game from every angle, using their heads as well as their arms and legs and fumbling, a bad fault in the past, was practically unseen in the contest last week.

The only score made was by Quarterback Whittle, whose playing last year was a feature. He ran the local team well and his selection of plays was excellent. He scored the touchdown after a fifteen yard dash around right end. Weymouth failed to kick the goal.

The Weymouth line held like a rock in the pinches and South Boston was unable to penetrate it for any gains of much size.

The local boys also flashed some fine, unexpected forward passes "Connie" Condrick, Rand, Deane and Haviland excelled for the winners, while Ware and Kane starred for South Boston.

The summary:

Weymouth H. S.—Haviland lg, Deane lt, Newton lg, Hughes c, Palmer rg, Talbot rt, Bates re, Whittle 2b, Condrick lhb, Rand rbb, Borlenghi fb; South Boston H. S.—Dee re, MacMahon rt, Collins rg, Collins c, Coholan lg, Donegan lt, Ware lb, Kane qb, Hickey rbb, O'Meara lhb, Hayes fb.

Score—Weymouth H. S. 6, South Boston 0. Touchdown—Whittle. Umpire—Cosgrove. Referee—Burnham. Linesmen—Leonard, Robinson and Green. Time—8 minute periods.

Pilgrim Brotherhood Meeting.

The Pilgrim Brotherhood of the Pilgrim Congregational church held its regular meeting and social in the church vestry in North Weymouth, last Tuesday evening. Following a supper served by the ladies, there was a social hour and Owen Sanders read a paper on "The Brotherhood and the Church," Raymond A. Lane, a paper on "The Brotherhood and Finances," and Harry Gould, a paper on "The Brotherhood and Entertainments."

Necrosis Discovery.

Another thing that interferes somewhat with a man's ambition to get even more than seventeen miles per gallon is the women folks' scientific discovery that gasoline, poured freely around the roots of the burdock plants along the back fence, will kill 'em deadlier than a door nail.—Ohio State Journal.

Vast American Industries.

Private capital invested in timber lands, mills, logging railroads, and other forms of equipment in this country reach an enormous aggregate, and the lumber industry, which employs 739,000 persons and has an annual output valued at one and one-sixth billion dollars, is the third largest.

QUINCY BOY DYING FROM WOUND.

Police At Work On Mysterious Shooting Affair Last Friday Evening.

Lying in the Quincy City hospital since last Friday night, with a bullet through his vitals and refusing to give a complete account of how or why he received it, Leslie Rowe, a seventeen year old lad, has kept the Weymouth police at work on one of the most mysterious cases that has puzzled the authorities for years.

Several stories have been reported about town that the shooting occurred in both East and North Weymouth. The first heard of the affair was when the story was handed about Central Square, East Weymouth, last Saturday, that some one had been shot in that section the night before. Further than this no one seemed to know anything about the case.

Since then, Chief of Police Butler and assistants have been carrying on an investigation and last reports state that young Rowe gave the following account of events last Friday night, on his bed at the hospital on Wednesday. He (Rowe) with four other boys, Charles Nevin, William Scott, Thomas and James Kelley, all of Quincy, went to North Weymouth last Friday evening in search of amusement of some sort. While in North Weymouth the boys decided they wanted some grapes so entered a yard near Sea street. Rowe said that he remained on the sidewalk while the other boys entered the field.

It was a bright moonlight night and Rowe states that the boys saw a man and a woman come out of a house on the yard where the grape vine was. The woman is said to have gone in the direction of a barn located in the yard.

Suddenly, Rowe says, a shot was fired from the direction of the barn. Another shot followed, tearing off the heel on Thomas Kelley's shoe. Three more shots were fired, it is said, the fifth one hitting Rowe in the back.

Rowe states that the two Kelley boys became frightened and ran away. Scott and Nevin, came to Rowe's assistance and carried him to the office of Dr. F. L. Doucette in East Weymouth.

From there he was taken to the Quincy hospital. Chief of Police Butler has had the other boys in the party in town in an attempt to locate the yard where the shooting took place. If the boys can identify the yard they were in, arrests will likely be made shortly.

Rowe is on the dangerous list at the hospital and was in an exhausted condition when he told his mother of the night's events. Physicians in attendance fear blood poisoning.

Rowe is a native of Melrose but has resided in Quincy the past two years, being employed at the Fore River works.

Old Colony Ladies' Club.

The Old Colony Ladies Club of this town opened its 1914-1915 season yesterday afternoon, with a very well attended meeting in the Universalist church in South Weymouth. The program consisted of songs by Chester Miller of Brockton, Miss Grace Sage in "Madam Butterfly," and a social hour at which Mrs. Stephen Pratt was hostess.

Dorothea L. Dix Tent, D. of V.

Sisters are notified to make reservations for the turkey supper and roll call by October fifteenth, as the committee of arrangements must know at that time the number who will be present.

Sisters will attend the inspection of Tent 53 at Quincy this (Friday) evening, at G. A. R. Hall. Those who attend will take the 6:45 car from East Weymouth. D. I. Miss Agnes Barry will inspect.

C. M. A. Loses To White Sox.

On French's common, South Braintree, last Saturday afternoon, the C. M. A. line of East Weymouth lost to the Braintree White Sox 4 to 1. Condrick was on mound for the C. M. A. boys and allowed the home nine but two hits, errors losing the game for him however. The summary:

Braintree White Sox—McCarthy 2b, Jones lf, Simmons c, Pratt cf, H. Hanson 1b, Keefe p, Gilles 9b, Pfau ss, E. Hanson rf.

C. M. A.—Gorman 2b, Fraher c and cf, Wall 1b and c, Drinkwater cf and 1b, Moralles lf, Humphrey 3b, Gloster ss, Condrick p, Warburton rf.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

There is absolutely no excuse for a filthy hog pen.

Rough timber used in the poultry house makes the best harbor for lice. Perches, nests, etc., should be made of smooth lumber in all cases.

The cultivating season is over and all tools should be cleaned up and housed. One winter's exposure to the weather will do more harm than several years' use.

In the fall is a good time to clean up the orchard, cut out the dead branches and brush or remove all rubbish so they cannot harbor insect pests.

The practice of salting stock periodically on the ground is antiquated. It takes too much time if done often enough, it wastes salt and the way it is done, usually, the stock do not get enough salt.

Keeping immature animals growing is the only way a profit can be obtained from them. One should not, however, make the young stock he intends to put on grass along next spring, fat by feeding them corn through the winter.

It is common sense to suppose that as birds are building a new plumage they should be nourished well. At least their appetites should be fully appeased with good strong feed.

Every little while we meet persons who are convinced that hens are a fraud so far as profitable egg production is concerned. These persons, themselves, have failed to make poultry pay, and they are sure that nobody else has ever made a success of it.

The asparagus beetle has nearly destroyed the asparagus industry in some localities. Many remedies have been suggested, among them applying lime freely over the bed late in the fall, after the tops and bed have been burnt over, with another liberal application of lime in the spring.

Where the cow or horse is inclined to eat too rapidly for perfect mastication of grain scatter the feed out well in the trough and mix several cobs, sticks or any clean articles with it, which will cause the animal to lose much time and take smaller bites in shoving the obstacle around to secure a mouthful.

Old, exhausted orchards may be reinvigorated by the use of explosives. In some cases small cartridges are exploded under the roots of the trees, and in other cases larger cartridges, buried three or more feet deep, are exploded midway between trees standing fifteen feet apart. The result is to loosen the soil without injuring the trees.

The fact of the whole matter is, few persons go about keeping poultry in a common sense way. They expect much to come from their birds without much planning, work and care on their part. They have expected their hens to live on thin air and turn out the eggs by the dozens every day. They have treated their flocks unreasonably.

Hens will scarcely pay their way if they lay only in the spring and summer, with a small yield during the summer. But if they are handled to begin laying in the fall and are made to lay reasonably well during the fall and winter, they will return a good profit over feed and care. Fall eggs are always high, and they can be produced more cheaply on the farm than eggs at any other season.

For some years past a number of dairymen in Australia have adopted the practice of blanketing cows during wet and cold weather. The results in every case are spoken of as being highly satisfactory. When cows are kept warm the food they consume, instead of being utilized to maintain bodily heat, is largely devoted to the production of milk, and in this way the dairymen realizes a large profit on the very small outlay required to provide blankets for his cattle in cold weather.

Asparagus is one of our earliest and hardest perennial vegetables. It is extremely easy to propagate and grow. Once established in favorable soil, it will continue to grow and produce without resetting for twenty years or longer. It is a sure cropper every year, being seldom affected by disease or insects. It is extremely hardy in various soils over wide latitudes.

A start of asparagus may be secured either from seed or the purchasing of year-old or two-year-old plants. Where the young plants can be purchased reasonably, it is really cheaper to purchase them than to grow the young plants for seed, especially for a small planting.

The proper time in which to select seeds is late in the fall or winter. The reason for requiring this portion of the year for so doing is because there is then no hurry, and the work can be done better. The common practice of laying the seed corn aside to remain until spring has done great damage to the corn crop, as very often the excess of imperfect grains is such as to cause a failure of germination over the whole field. Every ear of corn should be examined and the inferior grain shelled off. Vegetable seeds also require examination, for insects, dampness and other causes interfere with their safe-keeping.

Subscribe now for the Gazette and Transcript. It will cost you less than four cents a week to get this department.

Military Forces of Servia.
 Servia's plan of military organization is distinctive. Compulsory service is personal for all able-bodied men and pecuniary for all who are incapable of personal service. These latter must pay an indirect tax of 30 per cent additional. The military forces are divided into a national army and the land-sturm, which forms the last line of defense. Service in the national army begins at twenty-one and ends after forty-five. In the landsturm it begins at seventeen, ends at twenty-one; begins again at forty-six and ends at fifty.

The national army consists of three bans, the first ban including all able-bodied men between twenty-one and thirty-one, the second ban all between thirty-one and thirty-eight and the third those between thirty-eight and forty-five.

The first ban has its cadre, a school through which every able-bodied man of twenty-one must pass. No one is allowed to change his nationality while belonging to the first ban, nor can any member thereof receive any outside appointment or become even a monk until he has served his term in the army.—Baltimore Sun.

Titles of the Czar.
 Of all monarchs of Europe the most imposing in his list of titles is Nicholas of Russia, who bears the following honors: Emperor and autocrat of all the Russias, czar of Moscow, Kiev, Vladimir, Novgorod, Kazan, Astrakhan, Poland, Siberia, the Tauric Chersonese and Georgia; lord of Pskov, grand duke of Smolensk, Lithuania, Volhynia, Podolia and Finland; prince of Esthonia, Livonia, Kurland, Semigalia, Samogitia, Bielistok, Carelia, Tver, Perm, Yougoria, Viatka, Bulgaria, etc.; lord and grand duke of Lower Novgorod, Tcherlingoff, Riasan, Polotsk, Rostoff, Yaroslav, Belosero, Oudoria, Obodria, Condia, Vitebsk, Mstislav and all the regions of the north; lord and sovereign of Iveria, Cartalinia, Kabardinia and the Armenian provinces; sovereign of the Circassian and mountain princes; lord of Turkestan, heir of Norway and duke of Schleswig-Holstein, Stormarn, Dithmarsch and Oldenburg.

Reciprocity.
 With a feeling of sadness for the recipient, Dorothy finally concluded to pen a missive to her former fiance.

"Dear Harold," it read. "No doubt you are aware that I am to marry Mr. Anthony the coming month. I shall, therefore, appreciate it very much if you will burn all the little notes I sent you, assuring you of reciprocity in regard to those you sent me.

 Immediately upon receipt of above the young man made this reply: "Dear Dorothy—I shall certainly comply with your request, and at once. And, incidentally, as your new fiance also holds a few little notes of mine I shall count it a great favor should you be able to induce him to burn them with the rest."

All Around the Mulberry Bush

Story of a Wife's Devotion.

By JOHN BARTON OXFORD
Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

All the afternoon the thud of flatirons on the ironing board had gone on steadily.

Now, with the coming of dusk, they began to lag. In the overheated little kitchen, potently smelling of starch and clean linen, Mrs. Whalen paused at intervals more and more frequent to listen for the sound of familiar footsteps on the back steps.

At last they came—dragging, tired footsteps, pausing at the rubber mat on the top step to wipe the mud from the big boots before they should enter that spotless domain.

Mrs. Whalen whisked her iron back to the stove and sped to the back door to throw it open.

"Wherever have ye been all this long, dearie?" she gently chided the gray haired, bent figure on the doormat. "I was beginnin' to feel a wee bit worried about ye."

The pallor of his pinched face made his eyes seem unusually large. His clothes hung loosely and baggily on his shrunken frame.

"Now we'll have supper," she announced. "A bit of tay'll be puttin' the heart into ye. I've made ye the filigant mutton broth this afternoon too."

"Ye've been ironin' the livelong day," said Whalen at length. "I take shame to myself to think av yer doin' it, Nora."

"Tis no wor-rrk for me at all; I love it," she declared briskly, but Whalen noticed how tired her eyes looked and how thin the gray hair was getting at her temples. A spoonful of the mutton broth he was swallowing at the moment seemed to choke him.

"Ye'd say that anyway," he averred, looking at her with admiration.

"There's foin money in doin' this fancy stuff," she declared. "Tin dollars a week we can be countin' on now!"

The little clock on the mantel was striking 9 when from the bedroom she heard sleepy, half audible mumbblings.

She put down her iron and tiptoed to the threshold. Whalen was tossing restlessly on the bed.

"Foin me anny kind av wor-rrk, Brady—anny kind," Mrs. Whalen heard his uneasy mutterings. "Sure, I'm strong enough for wor-rrk now. I can't see her workin' like she does to kape us goin'." She's too old for it, Brady. Foin me somethin' to do. Yep, I'll take tin dollars a week to start in on, if I have to."

"So!" she breathed softly to herself. "That's why he's so tired ivry night, hey? 'Tis no sittin' on a par-rrk bench that does it. 'Tis lookin' for a job already he is and himself not half over the sickness yet."

She sat for a long time staring thoughtfully at the distorted reflections in the polished nickel of the stove.

At last she arose, smiling and nodding to herself as she whisked another skirt from the basket beneath the board and, with a hot iron, began to smooth out its many founces.

There were several bundles of laundry to be delivered the next afternoon. No sooner had Whalen poked abroad, ostensibly for his brief walk to the park, than Mrs. Whalen donned her rusty best clothes and fared forth herself.

The little suburban town was mellow with the warmth of early summer. Mrs. Whalen delivered her bundles and then turned her eager steps to one of the town's more pretentious streets. Here each house had its trim bit of lawn, a few shade trees and not infrequently a hopeful little garden.

Up to one of the smaller houses Mrs. Whalen made her way and whirled the bell.

"Would I be findin' Mr. Evans at home?" she inquired of the trim maid who answered her summons.

Mr. Evans was home, and Mrs. Whalen was ushered into a dim library, where a pleasant faced man was poring over a pile of papers.

"Why, it's Nora Whalen," said he, rising to get her a chair. "You want the money for the past few washings, of course?"

Mrs. Whalen shook her head. She began pulling at the fingers of her black cotton gloves.

"Ye-ye couldn't be usin' a man about the place, could ye, Mr. Evans?" she asked diffidently, "sort of a gardener, say, or the likes av that?"

"A gardener—me?" Evans inquired, with a slow shake of his head. "Why, that little patch of lawn isn't enough to keep me in trim, Nora. A gardener?"

Mrs. Whalen pulled more nervously at the glove fingers.

"'Twill cost ye nothin' at all," said she.

Evans looked puzzled.

"Tis like this," she hastened to explain: "Ye know the sickness Mike has had and the bad shape it's wint and led him in. Well, I'm doin' foin wif the washin' and keepin' things goin' first rate. But Mike do be worried to death all the time about the way I have to wor-rrk. I've found out he's been tryin' ivry day to get him a job instead av pokin' out to the par-rrk to set on a bench, like he tells me he does—him that ain't the strength av a fly back in him yet. And I'm afraid he'll get a job somewhere, wan that'll fay him out again be the wor-rrk in it.

"If he had aisy wor-rrk, now, somethin' that wouldn't hurt him none, but would take up his mind and let him think he was earnin' the money that's keepin' us goin', 'twould not be bad at all, I'm thinkin'." So I thought maybe you'd take Mike on as a sort of a gardener here and see he didn't do too much. And if ye would and pay him tin dollars for it I'd stid ye the tin ivry Saturday mornin', so yer could be payin' it to him Saturday night."

"I see," said he. "Why, yes; I think I could afford a gardener under those conditions."

"There's a letter for ye the post-man just brought, dearie," said Mrs. Whalen that night as Mike came shuffling in somewhat later than usual.

"Who's it from?" she asked when her husband had torn it open and read the brief missive.

"Just a bit of an advertisement that don't amount to annything at all," said he.

"He's afraid I won't have him take the job," thought Mrs. Whalen, noting him closely.

Whalen was early away from the house next morning—indeed, quite early enough to stop on his way to his new job at the Cobb place and catch Charlie Cobb before he should leave for town.

"Well, well, Mike," said Cobb as he met Whalen coming up the walk, "what brings you round here at this time of day?"

Whalen caught the other man by the arm in his eagerness.

"Would ye be doin' me a favor, Mr. Cobb?" said he.

"You know annything I can do for you, Mike?"

"Would ye mind, now," Whalen went on, "takin', say, a few av yer clothes over to Nora for her to press and mend? 'Twill cost ye nothin'," he hurried on, catching the perplexity and doubt in jovial Charlie Cobb's eyes.

"Not many, mind ye, just a few. And I want ye to tell her ye'll be payin' her tin dollars a week to look after the clothes av ye for awhile."

"Ye see, I've just got the foin, aisy job weedin' a few pansy beds and the like that's to pay me that much, but Nora did she know av it would put her fut down and say I wan't yet well enough to do the wor-rrk. She'd say she'd kape on wif the washin' she's doin', which same, God knows, is cruel har-rrd for a woman av her age. But she can't know I'm workin', or she'll be unhappy and worried to death. So I'll slip ye a tin each Saturday, and when Nora brings back the mended clothes av ye ye can slip it to her, and 'twill be aisy for her and she none the wiser where it comes from. See?"

And so, after going into details somewhat more minutely, it was arranged that Cobb should furnish Mrs. Whalen an easier job than the washing she had heretofore been doing.

Now, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Charlie Cobb came into the Evans yard and made for Mike Whalen, who, seated comfortably on a low stool, was holding the nozzle of a sizzling hose with which he watered the lawn.

"Mrs. Whalen's just brought back the suit I sent over to her this week," said Cobb. "She's waiting over at the house for her money, although I've had hard work to convince her the work is going to be worth $10 a week. So, if you'll just slip me the ten, Mike, I'll pass it over to her."

"The boss ain't handed me me pay yet," said Whalen. "She's waitin', yer say? Well, I'll run up to the house and"—

"Oh, never mind," said Cobb. "I'm going to have a word with Evans, anyway, before I go back. I'll just tell him to pass your wages over to me."

"Sure!" said Mike and went on comfortably with his sprinkling.

Evans looked up quickly in the library a few minutes later at Charlie Cobb's request.

"Come again, please," said he. "I say I just saw Mike out here, and he says for you to pass the week's wages that are due him over to me. You see, it's like this"—

Whereupon he explained the deal into which he had entered with Mike Whalen.

"Wait!" said Evans, holding up a hand before Cobb was fairly through. "Now listen to me!"

And he told of his little business arrangement with Mrs. Whalen.

Charlie Cobb began to laugh delightedly, but in the midst of it he stopped short. His face became grave.

"It's a fine circle to chase around, isn't it?" he mused. "But I'm hanged if I'm not going to find a beginning and an end to this particular circle. Why, if you'd see that old codger hatching up that scheme with me so that Nora wouldn't have to wash any more and at the same time not be worried to death about him!"

"Or if you'd seen Nora planning it out so he would think he was earning the money," Evans interrupted.

"I'm hanged if it isn't worth $10 a week to have my clothes looked after!" said Cobb vehemently, bringing down a doubled fist on the corner of the library table.

"Oh, no, it isn't," Evans demurred. "Never in the world, Charlie! But, I'll tell you what, maybe it's worth $5 to you and $5 to me to have Mike look after the lawn. I always did hate watering it and weeding the pansy beds. But we can't be bothered chasing around the mulberry bush with that $10 each week. Suppose you trot back and bring Mrs. Whalen over here in your car, and then maybe all together we can straighten this thing out satisfactorily."

The Gazette & Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all News-stands in the Weymouths and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fee is charged must be paid for at regular rates, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

The open shooting season is now on and up to date only three people in Maine and Massachusetts have been mistaken for game and became the victims of careless and inexperienced hunters.

The question of the moral, social or educational benefits of "movies" is being extensively discussed and one of our exchanges sums it up as follows:

"The today tendency of Americans is toward amusement and if, as in the case of many, an evening at a picture show fills the bill, it is real economy."

The great Salem fire disaster was in June last and the world responded to a call for aid with over $730,000 cash beside unrecorded contributions of a private nature in clothing and other material. This liberal contribution is now exhausted and still there are Salem sufferers. The Chelsea relief fund a few years ago was less than one half of the Salem and it lasted two years.

As the Delavan comet is now visible to the naked eye and will continue through the month of October there will be ample time to take a look at the visitor. Exhibition opens at about 10 p. m. You will find it almost directly below the Pole Star. At that time the comet is low in the sky. As the night wanes, the comet rises higher in the heavens, and in the early morning between two and four o'clock it reaches its greatest altitude above the horizon. Then, it is said, is the best time to observe the comet.

The war revenue bill as it passed the house last week would impose an additional tax of 50 cents a barrel on beer, 2 cents a gallon on gasoline, 20 cents a gallon on sweet wines and 12 cents on dry wines, stamp taxes on railway and steamboat tickets, brokers' contracts, insurance policies, mortgages, telegraph and telephone messages, and special taxes upon theatres, brokers, bankers, tobacco dealers and others.

Commercial and financial conditions are making such rapid changes these days that even the best experts can hardly make an approximate guess as to what the war tax should be and justice and equity in taxation are hard problems.

We have lived a little more than a week under a new postmaster and like the sun, moon and stars, everything thus far has moved in its regular orbits, and mails come and go as before. Ex-Congressman William F. Murray of Charlestown became postmaster of Boston Thursday, October 1, when he received a financial statement of the office from Edward C. Mansfield, who retires after six years' service, and in turn gave the retiring official a receipt for everything turned over to him. The work of transferring the office entailed considerable work, as the account and records of the 76 branch offices and the 216 numbered stations located in stores throughout the district had to be gone over. At the close of business Wednesday, Sept. 30, Postmaster Mansfield remained about his office and received an almost steady stream of department heads and other postal employees who came to bid him good-by. While he was in office Postmaster Mansfield saw the most remarkable six years in the development of the postoffice department. Among the new features added to the service have been the parcel post, the postal savings system, Sunday closing, Boston being the first office in the East to close on Sunday; the adoption of the 8-in-10 hour law for clerks and carriers, and the compensatory time system for postal employees.

His Heaven.

"When I design a heaven," said Noah Count of Chiggerbite reflectively, "one of the many people who will not be there will be the guy who runs around telling you how he loves his work."—Kansas City Times.

WEYMOUTH HEIGHTS

—Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sanders of Dorchester have taken up their residence in the house owned by Miss M. M. Hunt on North street.

—Mrs. Frederick McDowell pleasantly entertained her Sunday school class, consisting of seven girls, at her home last Friday evening. An interesting program of games was indulged in, after which dainty refreshments were served.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bradford spent the week end with relatives in Marshfield.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Champney have moved to Taunton, where Mr. Champney has accepted a more lucrative position.

—Miss Bertha Nash spent Wednesday with relatives in Quincy.

—The Wide Awakes held a sewing meeting with Miss Isabel Jones on Wednesday afternoon.

—A special service was held in the Old North church last Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Interesting addresses were given by Frederick Greenwood of Everett and Frank Batchelder, who represented the "American Minute Men." A selection was given by the Old North trio, and a cornet duet was rendered by Edward Bates and Walter Philbrook of East Weymouth.

—Rally Sunday will be observed by the Old North Sunday school next Sunday. A special service will be held in the chapel at four o'clock. An interesting program is being arranged and it is hoped that a large number will be present. The community is cordially invited.

CLANNISH MANXMEN.

They Still Use Their Own Tongue in Promulgating Their Laws.

The Isle of Man is in the Irish channel, about equidistant from England, Scotland and Ireland and is famed for its lovely scenery, excellent climate and the quaint old world flavor of its places and people.

Home rule has been enjoyed by the Manxmen for many years. Although there are fewer than 60,000 Manxmen, they have their own parliament and courts. The house of keys and the house of lords hold annual sessions in Douglas, the capital, and the laws they pass are read aloud every year from Tynwald hill. The statutes are proclaimed in the Manx tongue, a language as distinct from English as Italian or German.

The Isle of Man was long a bone of contention among the kings of Northumberland, Scotland, Norway and England. The government, as it is in operation today in Hall Caine's island, was established by Orr, a Scandinavian adventurer who made himself king of the island. He divided his kingdom into six shreadings, and this division, with four municipal districts, still serves in the election of members of the house of keys. The bishopric of the Isle of Man is declared to have been founded by St. Patrick, who stopped off and established the see while on his way to Ireland.—New York World.

A FAMOUS OLD FLAG.

The Star Spangled Banner of Fort McHenry in 1814.

Hanging from the walls of the National museum in Washington is one of the most famous flags in the world—the star spangled banner that floated over Fort McHenry during the British attack in September, 1814. The flag measures no less than 26 by 36 feet.

At the time of the battle Fort McHenry, just outside the city of Baltimore, was in command of Major George Armistead. The garrison flag that flew from its ramparts was made by a Mrs. Mary Pinkersgill, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Caroline T. Purdy.

In the battle one of the stars was shot away by a British shell. After the war the banner became the property of Major Armistead and was left by him to his daughter, Mrs. Appleton. It was from the son of that lady, Mr. Eben Appleton, that the museum received it two years ago. The arrangement is that the flag shall remain permanently in the custody of the museum and must not be permitted to leave the building to be exhibited anywhere else. Time has somewhat marred the beauty of the banner, but no American can look at the fading and worn fabric without a thrill. That is the flag that gave birth to the national anthem of his country.—Youth's Companion.

Wait Paint.

There are painters and waiters. Which am I going to do? Paint or wait? Which is better?

How much am I worth with my property waiting? How much if I paint? Will my house be worth more less if I paint?

Say it costs $2 a gallon Devoe—I wouldn't paint any other—and $3 or $4 more for putting it on. That's $50 or $60 a 10-gallon job.

The money is gone. Is it in the house? Is it all in the house?

Suppose I were selling; what should I get for that house fresh-painted and what should I get for it needing-paint? I wonder why men paint before selling!

DEVOE.

Everett Loud, East Weymouth; M. R. Loud & Co., South Weymouth, and A. J. Sidelinger, North Weymouth sell it.

—Rev. Clifford Newton of North Orange, who occupied the pulpit of the Universalist Church last Sunday will preach again next Sunday.

—James Newcomb passed away at his home on Pearl street on Wednesday afternoon. Funeral services will be held on tomorrow, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

—The first meeting of the Ladies Circle of the Universalist church was held on Wednesday afternoon. At this time each member brought in the dollar she had earned during the year and a great deal of fun was caused by the original verses accompanying the dollar. At 6 o'clock supper was served to an unusually large number of members and friends. The supper was in charge of Mrs. F. H. Torrey, Mrs. R. F. Vining and Mrs. E. D. Williams. After the supper a social hour was spent. This was one of the most successful opening meetings in the history of the Circle.

Esthetic.

The Customer—"Oh, but haven't you any other tint in lettuce than this? It won't go with my new blue salad dish a bit!"—Sketch.

His Motto.

"And what is your favorite motto?" asked the reporter who was interviewing the candidate for congress. "Put yourself in his place," replied the candidate.

How Indians Sleep Warm.

The Indian, according to a writer about camp life, resorts to two methods to keep warm while asleep. If it is not unduly cold, he lights a rather large fire and warms the earth, then rakes away the coals, lies down and pulls his blanket over him. In colder weather, besides this, he heats a big boulder, covers it lightly with earth, and curls himself around it. He never wraps himself in the blanket, but uses it exclusively as a covering.

LOVELL'S CORNER

—The subject for the morning service for next Sunday will be "The Hand of God." The topic for the evening discussion will be "What is Atonement?"

Passing of the Epitaph.

A monument dealer says but few people now have epitaphs on the monuments of their loved ones. It is getting so in many cases that you can't guess a fellow's final destination by the way the marble ticket routes him.—Houston Post.

Thought It Stopped to Think.

One day while playing the music box my little cousin was sitting next to it, when she noticed that the music was stopping. She asked me what caused it to stop. I told her it was running down. She studied for a moment, then she said: "Why, does it have to think of another tune before it can play again?"—Chicago Tribune.

GAS SERVICE TALKS, NO. 6

Water Heaters

THE most commonly used gas water heater is the circulating or tank type. The copper coil circulating heater is connected with the kitchen boiler and heats the water stored therein. When the kitchen boiler is already installed this type of heater has a low first cost, although it is not quite as efficient in operation as the automatic type.

Any circulating heater, other than the copper coil style such as the Ruud or Lion and the copper tube Stack heater or others similarly constructed, is not efficient enough and should be avoided.

Then there is the automatic storage system which automatically heats the water contained in an insulated tank. This is the best automatic type, where the water pressure is very low or large quantities of hot water are demanded.

The most efficient type is the automatic instantaneous water heater—the heater which lights at the turn of the faucet. This heater heats the water in just the quantity desired—no more, no less,—consequently gives the best of service at the least expense. It comes in sizes ranging in capacity from one and a half to eight gallons per minute—a size for every house.

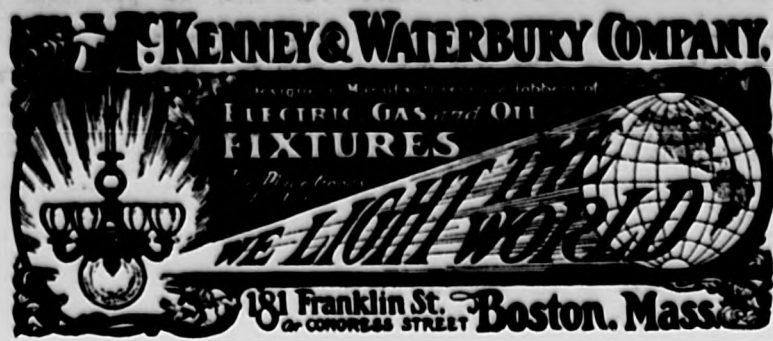

We would be glad to advise you of the cost of an installation, best adapted to your needs.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

THIRTY-THREE YEARS AGO. Wednesday morning the thermometer was down to 50, and Jack Frost had taken possession of everything he could freeze to.

A concrete walk is being laid from the P. O. building to the pump in Washington square, and thence to the store of S. W. Pratt, on the opposite side of the square, making a clean and convenient crossing.

One of the pleasantest occasions of the season took place at the residence of our fellow-townsmen, Jonathan Packard, at his residence on Pleasant street, Thursday evening last week.

A fire which broke out last night, about twelve o'clock, in the building on the Weymouth and Braintree line, in Washington square, occupied by J. Crane as a shoe store, threatened for a time to become a wide spread conflagration, and had it not been for the efficient service of the steamer and an abundant supply of water, the tide being at full in the river, together with a calm atmosphere, the results might have been far more disastrous.

The Gen'l Bates, Conqueror and Extinguisher engines were brought to the scene of conflagration, but fortunately the fire, when they arrived, was under control. The Amazon became choked with mud after playing for some time, and when the fire was conquered, the steamer, from the same cause, broke the pump.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

The electric street lamps were not lighted Saturday, the work not having yet been completed for testing the lights. The transfer of the proposed light at the junction of Washington and Main streets, to the corner of Washington and Richmond streets is under consideration, and it is stated that the light pole near the railroad station should have been placed farther down Commercial street, where it was intended to locate the light.

At the annual meeting of the Ashwood Cemetery Corporation, held at the residence of Mrs. Elias Richard, officers were chosen as follows:—Pres't, Naaman L. White; vice do., Wm H. Chipman; sec'y, Miss Louisa Richards; treasurer, Aug. J. Richards. A board of three trustees was also elected.

Plans for electric railway transit are numerous in this section of the state, and among others the project for a line between Abington, North Abington and Rockland, including a possible extension to Brockton, is being considered. Now that Weymouth is provided with an electric plant for light and power, the question of an electric railway through the town is being considered, and should this be consummated a continuous line of railway could be furnished to Boston by connection with the Quincy system at the bridge.

At the regular monthly meeting of the South Shore Co-operative bank, held at the banking rooms Monday evening, $1200 was sold at a premium of 15 cents per share, and a semi-annual dividend of 3 1/4 per cent was declared.

All the great literary lights that the present generation has hooked up to with love and veneration are passing away. Tennyson's death makes another great gap in the ranks of the world's foremost poets.

The Democrats at North Weymouth firing their banner to the breeze amid the ring of cannon, the burning of red fire, and the cheers of their local party men on Monday evening last. The affair was postponed until that date on account of unfavorable weather Saturday.

At last the so-called Middle street school will have a name. It has been formally named after the great framer of the Declaration of Independence and through the liberality of D. M. Easton this fact will be shortly announced in raised letters of gold in the front of the building. Three cheers for the Jefferson school and a tiger for Mr. Easton.

Happiness. Happiness has a way of hovering near those whose first wish is to make others happy.

Vanity of Life. It would be difficult to rival the epitaph of Cardinal Onuphrio which, in half a dozen words sums up the vanity of life—"Here lies a shadow—ashes—nothing!" and that of Cardinal Mazzarin's beautiful niece, Marie Mancini, who, after draining the cup of worldly pleasure to the dregs, wrote, as she lay dying, her own epitaph, "Marie Mancini, Dust and Ashes."

—A two and one half story dwelling on Pond street, owned and occupied by D. D. Luxton was badly damaged by fire early last Saturday morning. Defective electric light wiring is reported to have caused the blaze. Mr. Luxton was in Chicago at the time of the fire, on business. The loss is estimated at $4000, covered by insurance.

Old South Church Notes. At the Peace Sunday service last Sunday the pastor was assisted by Rev. John W. Lees, and an offering was made for the Red Cross work. The Sunday school rally day service included primary department exercises, a chalk talk by L. ura Fearing, and short addresses by the officers. The Go-to-Church band made a favorable beginning.

Next Sunday the pastor will preach in the morning and speak upon "Paul the Writer" at the 7 o'clock service.

The Ladies Aid society will give a social entertainment in the vestry on Tuesday evening.

Universalist Church Notes. Morning service at 10.30. Sabbath school at 11.45. Music by the vested chorus choir under direction of Miss Annie Deane. The pastor will preach Sunday upon the theme, "The Root of Unrest". Rev. Nicolas Murray Butler of Columbia asks "Should not the governments have sole right to make and sell the munitions of war? It is an interesting question and involves another, "Shall private profit be made upon the weakness and vices of mankind? What is the Christian solution. This is not a war sermon. We welcome you to our services."

STRENGTH IN EXCITEMENT.

Either Fear, Rage or Pain Starts the Adrenal Glands to Work.

Many a person has wondered where he obtained the strength that enabled him to undergo some emergency that called for unusual physical exertion when under ordinary conditions he would be unable to control a tithe of that strength. It was from the adrenal glands, two little glands situated above the kidneys which secrete what is known as adrenaline and when stimulated discharge the same into the blood. The effect of this addition to the blood is to release sugar from storage in the liver and bring it into the blood, drive the blood from the abdominal regions into the heart, lungs, central nervous system and limbs. The resulting effect is to excite the muscles to irritability and enable unusual effort to be made.

Either fear, rage or pain will supply the stimulus required to set the adrenal glands into action. When a muscle is fatigued without any accompanying degree of excitement it may take a couple of hours for it to recover its normal condition, but if adrenaline is injected, or if through excitement the adrenal glands are stimulated to discharge and secrete, the fatigued muscle may regain its "irritability" in three minutes. The sugar set free from the liver and circulated in the blood stimulates the muscles, for sugar is the source of muscular energy. Fear, rage and pain are thus given us by nature as agencies to enable us to use our physical powers to their fullest extent in the crisis that produces the excitement.—Los Angeles Times Foolish Question. A man charged at the Liverpool (Eng.) police court with fighting stated that the prosecutor hit him first on the jaw. "Did you hit him first?" asked the stipendiary. "No, sir," was the reply. "If I had hit him first he would have been in the hospital, not me."

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

Weymouth People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Disordered kidneys give many signals of distress. The secretions may be dark, contain sediment. Passages are sometimes frequent, scanty, painful. Backache is often present day and night. Headaches and dizzy spells may occur. Weakened kidneys should receive quick help. Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys, backache and urinary disorders. Weymouth evidence proves their worth. Mrs. B. W. Hewitt, 191 Washington street, Weymouth, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a household remedy with us. One of the family found Doan's Kidney Pills most beneficial when his kidneys caused him trouble. I gladly confirm all I have ever said about Doan's Kidney Pills, as we know they live up to the claims made for them." Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hewitt recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

A MOST INVITING LIVING ROOM.

Design 1025, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH

INTERIOR VIEW—LIVING ROOM.

The interior view shown with this design presents a long living room, with a good sized den connected by square pedestal columned archway. With draperies the den can be practically closed off from the living room when occasion demands. Note the fireplace, art glass windows above the fireplace and the heavy beamed ceiling. This house is 32 feet 6 inches wide and 30 feet deep. A full seven foot basement, the first story 9 feet and the second story 8 feet. Finish, red gum, oak or birch, with birch or maple floors throughout. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $3,800.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will furnish a copy of Saxton's new 1914 book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains 310 designs costing from $1,000 to $6,000; also a book of interiors for $1.50.

Soothing His Father.
The father of Sir Hubert Herkomer, the great painter, was a poor man, and the professor brought him from his native land in Germany to live with him in his beautiful house near London. The old man used to model in clay in his early life, and now that he had leisure he took to it again in his old age. But his hands trembled, and the work showed signs of imperfection. It was his one sorrow. At night he went to bed early, and when he had gone his son would go into the studio, take his father's poor work and make it as beautiful as possible. When the old man came down in the morning he would look at the work and rub his hands and say: "Ha! I can do as well as ever I did."

For the Good of the Lawyers.
"Say, pa," inquired young Sylvester Snodgrass, "what's a test case?"
"A test case, my son," replied the senior Snodgrass, "is a case brought into court to decide whether there's enough in it to justify lawyers in working up more cases of the same kind."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Old Time Beggars.
In the eighteenth century begging was a frightful nuisance in the German states. In Bavaria whole regiments had to be sent out to arrest and punish the numerous professional beggars, and Cologne, with a population at the time of only 40,000, had nearly 10,000 paupers.

Early Rising.
Some one asked Archbishop Whately if he believed personally in early rising. That witty divine replied that he had on one occasion risen early, but that he felt so proud all the morning and so sleepy all the afternoon that he had resigned in the evening never to do it again.

Numbering Houses.
The now almost universal custom of numbering private houses so that they can be easily identified is only a little more than 400 years old. It was in the year 1513 that this idea struck the fancy of a Parisian architect, but it was not until nearly three centuries later that the system became at all general.

In Berlin an eccentric method of numbering the houses was first adopted. They were numbered without any reference whatever to the name of the street. A tenant's address would be described merely as "1000 Berlin." In St. Petersburg an excellent way of displaying the numbers is employed—little lanterns bear the numbers on the glass, so that they can be seen after dark. "In the latter Stuart times," says Macaulay, "the houses of London were not numbered, and there would, indeed, have been little advantage in numbering them, for of the coachmen, charmen, porters and errand boys of the city a very small proportion could read. It was necessary to use marks which the most ignorant could understand. The shops were, therefore, distinguished by painted or sculptured signs, which gave a very gay and grotesque aspect to the streets."—New York American.

Curious Gaelic Alphabet.
A very curious and distinguishing characteristic of the Gaelic alphabet is that nearly every letter thereof is represented by a tree. While the alphabet of ancient Gaelic comprised but seventeen letters, that of modern Gaelic has eighteen. But with the new forms, as with the old, the letter is represented by a tree. The exceptions are "g," "t" and "u," which stand for "ivy," "furze" and "heather."
The alphabet now stands: Allin, bethe, col, dur, eugh, fernn, gath, huanh, loch, luis, munn, oiv, oiv, peith, ruil, sull, telne, ur, all of which is equal to saying: Elm, birch, hazel, oak, aspen, alder, ivy, whitethorn, yew, rowan or quicken, vine, ash, spindle tree, pine, elder, willow, furze, heath.
In the old Gaelic alphabet the letter
"h" (the huanh or whitethorn) does not exist. The alphabet is called the bet-huluis-nuin, because "b," "t," "u" and not "a," "c," "e" are the first three letters

Elephants Hate Camels.
Elephants in Africa have the bitterest enmity to camels. When the camel scent the elephant it stops still, trembles in all its limbs and utters an interrupted cry of terror and affright.
No persuasion, no blows, can induce it to rise. It moves its head backward and forward, and its whole frame is shaken with mortal anguish. The elephant, on the contrary, as soon as he perceives the camel elevates his trunk, stamps with his feet, and, with his trunk thrown backward, snorting with a noise like the sound of a trumpet, he rushes toward the camel, which with its neck outstretched and utterly defenseless awaits with the most patient resignation the approach of its enemy.
The elephant, with its enormous, shape-less limbs, tramples on the unfortunate animal in such a manner that in a few minutes it is scattered around in small fragments.

POULTRY FACTS

SUITABLE FEED FOR TURKEYS

If Allowed to Run About the Farm as

Up Sufficient Food.

The less turkeys, either old or young, are fed, the better. The breeders need range, the baby turks need range, and, in fact, this is almost all that can be said about the matter. If on a farm, they need no feed only what they pick up, unless the snow is too deep to find scattered grain.

If the weather is fair when the poult. are hatched, they will have a far better chance for their lives, if allowed to go with the mother turkeys, says Wisconsin Farmer. She helps them hunt the kind of feed they require. The best lots of turkeys we ever raised were hatched in nests that remained untouched from the time the first egg was laid. There was a light freeze, once, in the meantime, but the turkey understands her business much better than we do.

She had covered the eggs so carefully that not one was spoiled. From 22 eggs there were 21 strong poults.
There are so many enemies to prey on turkey eggs that they cannot be safely left in this manner. If, when the hatch comes off, the weather is unfavorable, it is well to keep the poults confined until they can hop over a foot-wide board, feeding very lightly of cottage cheese and green stuff.

When the mother takes her brood to the pastures and fields, she goes slowly and rests by the way many times.
Gathers a bug here, calls the little fellows' attention to a morsel there, always between whiles, and they are never stuffed. It is nature's own way; it is in nature's own time; and at the end of the season there will be more surviving turkeys than if they were coddled.

TRAP NEST IS VERY SIMPLE

Weight of Hen Releases Support and Closes Opening—Fowl Is Released From the Trap.

Here is the simplest kind of trap nest imaginable. The hen alights on the running board, a, and walks toward the nest. When she approaches the point xx her weight depresses that end of the board and disconnects the support b, which falls of its own weight. Then when she steps into the nest, the board being heavier on the outside and hinged at c, tips until the opening to the nest is closed.

The hen is removed from the top of the nest, which is then set as shown in the illustration, says Farm and Home. An orange box can easily be converted into this nest.

KEEP POULTRY HOUSE CLEAN

During Summer Weather Lice and Mites Multiply Rapidly—Remove All Litter From Floor.

The necessity of thoroughly cleaning the poultry house at this season of the year is obvious to all who give the subject much thought. During the summer the hot weather has quite likely added filth and disease germs to those which already existed and has assisted any lice and mites that were present to multiply their number rapidly. To put the fowls in winter quarters filled with vermin, disease germs and dirt is to invite trouble before cold weather fairly sets in, and to kill the profit in advance.

The ceilings and wall should be thoroughly swept down to remove all dust, dirt and cobwebs, and all litter should be removed from the floors and nest material from the nest boxes.
The wooden or cement floor should be scraped and sprinkled with lime. The dirt floor should have at least two inches of the surface removed, unless it has been done, and fresh sand put on earlier.

The interior of the house and all equipments should be sprayed with thin whilwash, forcing the liquid into all cracks and crevices. If the first coat does not make the house look bright and clean, put on another as soon as the first is dry, when you will have a building that is clean, sweet and healthful for the fowls.

Pullets Develop Fast.

A lot of pullets which are given all they will eat of a variety of grain, with some meat food, will develop faster and lay earlier and better than those which are obliged to go hungry occasionally.

Confine Birds for Roasters.

If you are raising birds for broilers or roasters, it is well to confine them because they will not fatten as quickly on the range, but breeding fowls should be allowed wide range.

Doughty Berbers.
The ancient Berbers, who still live in the mountain territory of Kabylia, were never conquered by Roman, Goth, Vandal, Arab or Turk. They made their first obeisance before the firearms of the French under the second empire. Through all these millenniums they have lived in their populous villages perched high on the tops of steep hills. Around them in all directions is a zone of trees, with pasture above, beginning at about 3,000 feet, and the oft conquered open valleys below. Here for unknown ages the Berber has lived among and from his trees. There are four staples of life in Kabylia—dried figs, olives, bread and meat. For miles there is one unending succession of villages set in this open forest of figs and olives.—Argonaut.
Cordova Leather Boots.
At the court of Elizabeth the wide topped Spanish boot, handsome and, to our eyes, theatrical, became popular among the rival courtiers, each endeavoring to outvie the other in the queen's eyes. The most handsome and admired of all were made of white Cordova leather, edged with costly lace and having gold spurs. Sometimes buff and red and much more rarely the now prevalent black leather was the material. Boots for men seem to have gone out of fashion during the Stuart era, so far as the upper classes went. Your plain citizen always adhered to a more or less substantial shoe when at home and seldom drew on boots save when on a journey.—London Saturday Review.
Gentle Reminder.
A gentleman, on a visit to another city, entered a restaurant and on leaving took away with him by mistake a hat belonging to another man. The hats were so nearly identical that the mistake was not detected, and the surprise of the gentleman may be imagined when, reaching home, he glanced at the lining of the hat and found written there the words, "You darned fool, what did you take this hat for?"—Lippincott's.
Willie Wants to Know.
"Pa, how can guns kick when they have no legs?"
"Don't ask absurd questions."
"Guns haven't any legs, have they, pa?"
"Certainly not."
"Well, then, what's the use of their having breeches?"—Boston Transcript.
Sunflowers.
The old name for the sunflower was solsoeca, the sun follower. The ancient sunflower or sun follower was the marigold. The tall plants of the present day are of American origin.

LOSS OF ABOUT $40,000

Plant of South Boston Ice Company at Great Pond South Weymouth Burned Early Tuesday Morning.

The plant of the South Boston Ice Co. on the shore of Weymouth Great Pond in South Weymouth, was destroyed by fire early last Tuesday morning. After destroying the ice house, the fire swept through a large tract of woodland. Several houses in the vicinity of the ice houses were threatened and the occupants were aroused and went out into the open, until the firemen, aided by a good sized force of townspeople, succeeded in checking the flames.

The blaze was discovered about 12.15 by Percy Belcher, who sounded an alarm from box 54 near the South Weymouth depot. Although the ward 5 company made good time getting out, the ice house was doomed, and the firemen turned their attention to other buildings and the woodland in the vicinity. On account of the severe heat and flying embers, it was impossible to save the stable, tool house and power plant of the ice company, but the large boarding house was saved.

On his arrival at the fire District Chief Matthew O'Dowd ordered a second alarm rung in and more apparatus raced over the road to the scene of the conflagration. It was some hours later before the all-out was sounded.

The plant is located on the easterly side of the pond and covered nearly three acres. The ice house was erected about thirty years ago and was in five compartments, with a capacity of about 60,000 tons. There was no ice in the house.

The firemen were handicapped by the flying sparks, which fell in showers into the brush for a long distance around. Men and boys in the neighborhood assisted in extinguishing the fires before they reached the summer cottages along the shore. Three cottages belonging to Winfred Dunn were scorched some and a dozen or so others were in danger at times. The stiff wind carried sparks as far as West Abington, a distance of over a mile, and started a blaze in the woods off Randolph street, near the Methodist church. The North Abington firemen were called out by a still alarm and fought the flames until six o'clock, before extinguishing the blaze.

At the time of the fire there were three horses in the Ice Company's stable, and Timothy Sullivan made a heroic effort to save the animals from the burning building. After leading one of the trio out of the structure, he returned for the others. As he was leading the second horse out the first animal galloped back into the stable and perished with a mate. Sullivan was quite severely burned in trying to save the horses.

The loss on the property was estimated at $40,000.

NOTHING GERMAN ALLOWED IN RUSSIA.

East Weymouth Man Tells Of Conditions In Europe. Great Opportunity For American Goods.

Victor C. Lassen, an American metal manufacturer who established a branch factory in Petrograd, Russia, recently, was in town the first of the week, on a visit to his family on Broad street, East Weymouth. Mr. Lassen came on from New York, where he arrived some days ago. He has been in Russia since early last spring. He left the factory in Petrograd in charge of his son, Grover Lassen and came back to the United States to purchase materials for his own factory and incidentally for the Russian government. He expects to return to Europe about the middle of November.

Mr. Lassen left Petrograd on September 10. He had heard that a blockade of Finnish ports would be established the next day, but he got through by train to Stockholm. There he waited several days for a steamer to this country. His credentials from the Russian government permitted him to land at Stockholm, but without them, so anxious are the Swedish people to preserve strict neutrality, Mr. Lassen thinks he would not have been allowed to land.

He states that he has never seen soldiers better equipped than the Russians and besides the armies of from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 men now operating against the Germans and Austrians, there are elsewhere millions and millions under arms to pick from.

In speaking of working conditions Mr. Lassen had the following to say: "My factory is going on but we have only 30 or 40 men at work as the Germans employed had to be dismissed, while the majority of our men were reservists and had to go to war. Many of the large factories had to shut down because all hands went to war. We are making a good deal of submarine boat material for Russia, which has 30 submarines now in progress of construction."

In regard to the statement published that none of the allies would make peace without the consent of all, Mr. Lassen said that from an official source, about a week before he left Russia, learned that the Czar received a telegram from the Kaiser suggesting that he withdraw his troops from Germany and Austria and also making suggestions in regard to peace. The Czar immediately forwarded the telegram to London and Paris. The very next day was signed the declaration by the allies in respect to peace and the same day the Czar in a speech declared he would not rest until every German was driven out of Russia, and that he would not sign a treaty of peace except in Berlin.

"One of the most noticeable things about Russian life just now," said Mr. Lassen, "comes from the prohibition of the sale of vodka and all kinds of spirits, as not a drop will be sold while the war lasts. At the cafe one now finds only coffee, tea and soft drinks."

In regard to German money in Russia, Mr. Lassen said: "German money is not worth much now in Russia. I saw a bank give less than one-fifth of what the rate was before the war. The fact that something like 85 percent of the business men of Petrograd were Germans or of German origin, has resulted in a great change in business there. The Germans had to go. Their language is not allowed to be spoken in the capital. A man wearing his mustache in Kaiser style was seized by the crowd, taken into a barber shop and the objectionable ends cut off. Many Germans have been caught spying or trying to blow up fortifications and were put to death."

W. R. C. Notes.

Mrs. Fannie G. Murphy was initiated and welcomed to our Corps at the last meeting.

Members will send a post card shower to Corps member Mrs. Lydia Webb, Weymouth Town home.

The sympathy of the Corps is extended to D. I. Mrs. Carrie Loring and to the family of Charles Abbott, on the death of their mothers.

Corps No. 102 will visit the Soldiers Home at an early date.

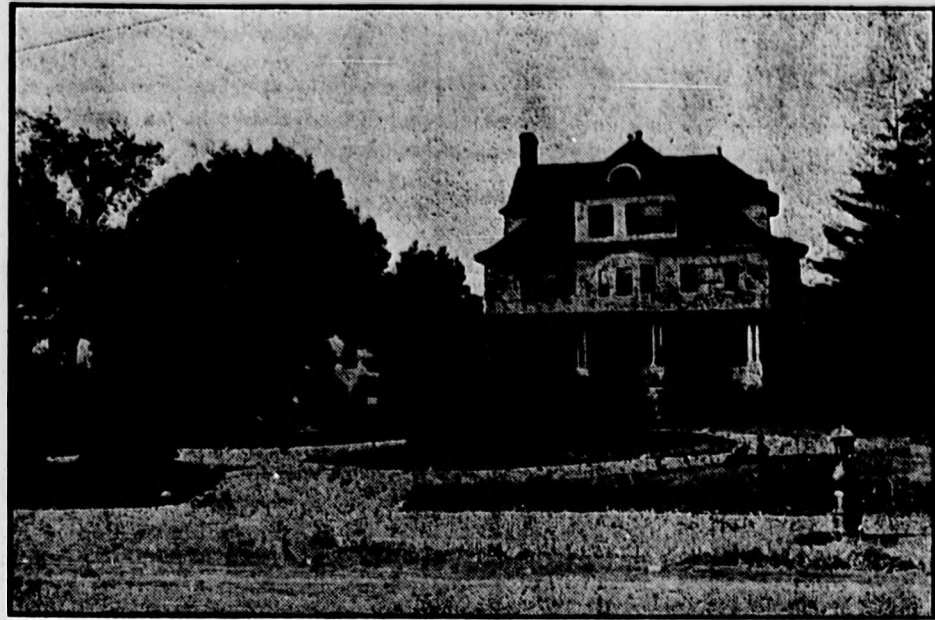

Post No. 11 of Charlestown is the recipient of a gift of money from Reynolds W. R. C. for their coming fair.

Comrade Chandler of the Middleboro Post, the father of P. P. Mrs. Ida Farrington of Tent No. 32 D. of V., is very ill at his home in North Weymouth.

Past Com. Witherell of Post 57, Cambridge, a visitor, related the fact that October 19th will be the fiftieth anniversary of Gen. Sheridan's great feat in the Shenandoah Valley, and in which battle Comrade Witherell participated.

The supper and entertainment following the meeting was in charge of North Weymouth committee. "Billy" Partridge and company gave Vaudeville acts.

ILLUSTRATED SERIES OF WEYMOUTH HOMES

PAROCHIAL RESIDENCE, EAST WEYMOUTH

We give our readers this week a view of the parochial residence of the Immaculate Conception church, East Weymouth. It was while taking a moonlight walk a few months ago that the special beauty of this place struck us and along with it the idea of giving our readers the series of pictures we are publishing. As we have already stated, these pictures are taken for this special purpose and will be continued. Our next is a reproduction of a Weymouth Landing home, the finest piece of colonial architecture in Weymouth and a home replete with historic incidents.

BECAME BRIDE ON ANNIVERSARY

Miss Velma Collyer, Popular North Weymouth Girl Married on 29th Anniversary of Parents Wedding.

In the presence of many guests from Boston, Lowell, Somerville, Quincy, Winchester, Abington, Hingham, Hanson, Braintree and the Weymouths, Miss Velma Lincoln Collyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Collyer of North Weymouth and Mr. Nathaniel Solomon Ford, son of Mr. Solomon Ford, were married on Tuesday evening, October 13th at the home of the brides parents on Sea street. The ceremony was performed at 8.15 o'clock by Rev. Charles Clark of the Pilgrim Congregational church. The double ring service was used. The occasion had a double significance as the evening was the 29th anniversary of the marriage of the bride's father and mother. The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" and "Mendelssohn's" wedding march were played on the piano by Miss Doris L. Torrey. An orchestra led by John H. Tower, played other incidental music and also played at the reception.

Miss Helen Burgess, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Herman O. Collyer, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Alvah H. Bicknell of Somerville and Wallace H. Drake, Dartmouth '14.

The bride was gowned in white albatross with white lace trimmings. Her tulle veil was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her costume was the same worn by the mother of the bride on her wedding day.

The maid of honor wore light blue messaline with light blue veil and carried pink roses.

After the ceremony there was a reception and the guests were received by the bride and groom assisted by the maid of honor and best man. Refreshments were served by Westover and Foss, Caterers.

The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with colored electric lights and the interior of the house was prettily decorated with flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford left on a wedding trip and upon their return will live at 332 Bridge street, North Weymouth, where they will be at home after December 1st.

Board of Health.

The following regulations have been adopted by the Board of Health in the following contagious diseases: Scarlet fever, typhoid fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, whooping cough, measles.

1. No milk bottle shall be received into a house or taken out of a house where such diseases are known to exist. The householder must provide some suitable container into which the milk can be placed. The Board request the family to report any failure of the milkman to observe the above regulation.

2. No case of diphtheria can be released until a negative culture has been obtained said negative culture to be at least one week from date of positive culture.

3. The minimum period of quarantine in all cases of scarlet fever shall be at least four weeks and as much longer as is necessary for the completion of disinquination. All cases to be inspected by a physician of the board of health before released.

4. It has been ordered by the Board that all typhoid excreta shall be covered with unslacked lime in an earthen jar to stand at least two hours before emptying. The amount of lime should equal the bulk of the excreta.

Weymouth 24, Dedham 0.

Coach Whittemore's squad of footballers descended on Dedham, Wednesday and when the dust of conflict rolled away was acclaimed victor by a score of 24 to 0. Not once was the Weymouth goal-line in danger, and only three times did the Dedham team succeed in making first down. Almost every man was used in the game, which was a stiff workout for the all-important match today at Hingham. Whittle, Rand, and Deane did good offensive work, while Clarke showed up well on the defensive play. The right side of the line, consisting of Palmer, Talbot and Bates was invulnerable, but experienced difficulty in opening up holes on account of the peculiar formation of the opposing backfield. The line as a whole charged like a well drilled machine and the generalship of Whittle was far and away better than any thus far shown.

Rev. Sidney K. B. Perkins, Dead.

On Saturday, the 10th inst., Rev. Sidney K. B. Perkins passed away at Revere in the 84th year.

Rev. Mr. Perkins was born in Braintree as the son of Rev. Jonas and Mrs. Rhoda Keith Perkins. His education was received in the public schools of Braintree, Monson Academy and Amherst College. He fitted for the ministry at Bangor Theological Seminary. After graduating from college he was principal of Hollis Institute at South Braintree for two years.

His pastorates were Glover and South Royalton, Vt., Middleton and Raynham Mass., and Perry, Me., covering a period of 48 years' faithful and devoted service.

In 1862 he married Miss Laura L. Brocklebank of Meriden, N. H., who died in 1891. Two children survive, Henry M. A. Perkins of Medford and Mrs. Charles G. Sheppard of East Braintree.

The funeral of Mr. Perkins took place Tuesday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Sheppard, 140 Quincy ave. Services were conducted by Rev. Albert P. Watson, pastor of the Union Congregational Church of East Braintree and Weymouth, assisted by Rev. Charles B. Fisher of the Dewing Memorial, Rev. Sidney K. Perkins of Manchester Vt. and Rev. Oliver Load of West Springfield.

There were vocal solos by Miss Helen Load of Weymouth, a grand piece of Rev. Mr. Perkins. Burial was in Village Cemetery, Weymouth. The bearers were Charles A. Hayward, Charles T. Crane and Arthur L. Hobart of East Braintree and Frank W. Stewart of Weymouth.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING.

Six Articles Cleaned Up In Account An Hour And A Half.

With about two hundred of the townspeople in attendance, a special town meeting was held in Odd Fellows Opera House East Weymouth on Wednesday evening.

Town Clerk J. A. Raymond called the meeting to order at 7.45 o'clock and Judge Louis A. Cook was elected moderator of the meeting.

Article 2. To hear and act upon the report of any former meeting and to choose any committees the town may think proper. This article was passed over as there were no committees to report or to be chosen.

Article 3 read as follows:—By request of the Water Commissioners: To see if the town will vote to authorize the issue of bonds, or notes to an amount not exceeding $98,000 for the purpose of refunding a part of its Water Loan, under authority of and pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 353 of the Massachusetts Acts of 1914: to determine the particulars thereto, not inconsistent with said Act and take any action that may be necessary for the cancelling of its water bonds, maturing subsequent to the year 1921 and which is now held as a part of the Water Loan Sinking Fund.

George Bicknell immediately moved that the town treasurer be authorized to carry out the provisions of the article. Nelson Gardner got the floor and asked for an explanation of the article and Town Treasurer J. H. Stetson explained the situation. Mr. Cunniff, Arthur C. Gerstley, Nelson Gardner, and Mr. Bicknell all had something further to say on the matter and then Hon. George L. Barnes cleared up the situation by a very able explanation of what must be done and what he believed the Water Commissioners proposed to do. On Mr. Bicknell's motion, the vote went 160 in favor and 1 against.

Article 4 was next taken up. It was as follows:—By request of the Water Commissioners: To see if the town will vote to raise $4,000 of the $5,000 appropriation voted March 9th under Article 45 of the warrant for said meeting for the purpose of making further construction of water works, by issuing $4,000 bonds under authority of and pursuant to the provisions of Massachusetts Acts of 1913, Chapter 276, and to consolidate said bonds with the $9,000 bonds proposed to be issued under authority of the vote of the town under Article 47 of said warrant, said consolidated issue to be considered as one loan; to determine other particulars of said issue, and to take any action in relation thereto.

Mr. Bicknell moved to carry out this article and the motion prevailed 134 to 1.

Article 5. On petition of the Fire Apparatus Committee and the Fire Engineers: To see if the town will instruct said committee and Fire Engineers to transfer the unexpended balances arising from the purchase of fire apparatus to be spent for installing heaters and making repairs in connection with same and also for the purpose of maintaining permanent men to May 1, 1915.

Robert S. Hoffman spoke on this article and after some discussion, the motion to carry out the article prevailed.

Article 6. On petition of the Fire Apparatus Committee and Fire Engineers: To see if the town will instruct said committee and Fire Engineers to dispose of such apparatus as in their judgement they deem advisable.

This article brought out a lot of needless discussion and some good, and finally after a half hour of debate, a motion to postpone action on this article until the next annual town meeting was carried 88 to 72. As this completed the business of the evening, a motion to adjourn was carried with a will.

Columbus Day Celebration.

Several hundred people attended the celebration at Webb park, Columbus Day. The game of ball between the single men and married men resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 23 to 2. The game of ball between teams from the Hunt school captained by Rhoda Curtin and Eva Fairley was won by the former 36 to 14. The fat men's race was won by Thomas Slattery. Mr. Kelley was awarded consolation prize. In the girl's race Velma Killman won and Lawrence Corridan won the boys' race. The kite flying contest was won by R. Condrick.

Old Colony Ladies' Club.

The next meeting of the Old Colony Ladies Club will be held next Thursday afternoon, October 22. A musicale will be given in charge of Miss Ethel Freeman Raymond, assisted by Madame Wilhelmina Wright-Calvert, the ever popular soprano soloist, and Carl Webster 'cellist. This will be an open meeting of the club.

ABBRUZZESE — D'ALLESSANDRO.

Newark, N. J. Man Takes East Weymouth Young Lady as Bride.

At the parochial residence of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in East Weymouth last Monday morning Miss Theresa D'Allessandro of East Weymouth and Pasquale Abbruzzese of Newark, New Jersey were united in marriage by Rev. James W. Allison, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church.

Miss Anna Garofalo was maid of honor and Carmine Garofalo was best man.

In the afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock, a reception was held, upwards of 300 persons attending. The newly wedded couple were assisted in receiving by the parents of the bride and the aunt and uncle of the groom.

A wedding banquet was served, and there was orchestral music and dancing.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white charmeuse with pearl and lace trimmings, dress cut entraine. Her tulle veil was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The costume of the maid of honor was shell pink chiffon with shadow lace trimmings and she wore a black satin hat with plumes.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbruzzese left for a trip to New York and other points of interest in the east and upon their return will reside in East Weymouth.

Monday Club.

The regular meeting of the Monday club will be held in Odd Fellows hall Monday, October 19 at 2.30 p. m.

Judge Louis A. Cook will give a talk on her trip to England. Mrs. Harriett B. Bacheider will give a report of the Biennial, and Mrs. Martin E. Hawes will give a report of the Current Events Committee. There will be music by Miss Bessie Bates, contralto soloist.

Members will please bear in mind that supplies for the District Nursing Association are to be received at this meeting.

Rabbi Charles Fleischer Speaks.

The Community Service Forum popularized its course of Sunday evening talks or lectures at the Baptist church last Sunday night by giving to its patrons an evening of much interest.

The church was well filled and the pastor, Rev. Chester J. Underhill, opened the exercises with a brief address of welcome and introduced as the speaker of the evening the popular platform lecturer, Rabbi Charles Fleischer.

Mr. Fleischer's topic was "Community" and he made it exceedingly interesting to his hearers as he portrayed the communities of long ago and those of today. Communities are becoming more and more cosmopolitan and made up of people who think and act along materially different lines from those of a generation or two ago.

Another feature of the evening was several selections by the Pilgrim male quartette.

PRATT—WINSHIP.

East Weymouth Man Weds South Weymouth Young Lady.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the month took place on Wednesday evening of this week in South Weymouth, when Miss Lena Baker Winship, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Winship of 370 Front street became the bride of George Webster Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Pratt of 236 Essex street.

The ceremony was performed at 7.45 o'clock by Rev. Edward J. Yaeger, pastor of the Old North Congregational church of Weymouth Heights, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the couple.

The best man was Frank P. Webber of Wellington, Mass. and Miss Lillian B. Hogaboom of Somerville was bridesmaid. The double ring service was used.

A reception followed the ceremony from eight until ten o'clock. During the reception a wedding luncheon was served by a caterer. Seventy five people from all over eastern Massachusetts attended the reception. Frank P. Webber was master of ceremonies.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a dress cut entraine, of white silk voile, trimmed with pearl beading, silk fringe and girde of white messaline, with loops and tassels. Her veil was caught up with bride roses. She carried a magnificent shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's gown was of pale blue crepe de chine with pearl trimmings.

Guests were present from Boston, Somerville, Medford, Wellington, Cohasset, Roxbury, West Somerville and the Weymouths.

An orchestra of six pieces furnished music during the evening. The rooms were tastefully decorated under the direction of Mr. Winship, with autumn leaves, boughs, ferns, cut flowers and streamers. The couple were wedded under a beautiful floral arch.

A feature of the evening was a guest record book, presided over by Miss Marguerite W. Baker, a cousin of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Pratt began their wedded life with a complete record of the many guests present at their wedding.

The newly married couple were the recipients of many beautiful wedding gifts, among them being an elegant chest of silver, several odd pieces of silver, hand painted pictures, cut glass, china and a grand dining room set from the bride's parents.

After a honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt will reside at Mr. Pratt's recently purchase estate at 65 Hill street, East Weymouth, where they will be at home to their friends after January 1, 1915.

Mr. Pratt is employed on the local street railway and is an esteemed member of several orders in town.

Only Creditable Fears.

The worst hurt of all, and the one which leaves the most hideous scar, is to be wounded in character by cowardice. Fear of being afraid of doing wrong are the only fears that are creditable.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Beg, borrow or buy all the wood ashes you can to use in the garden. Work them well into the soil.

After the fruit harvest in the orchard, go over the trees and grounds and pick up and destroy all worthless, rotten and wormy fruit.

Don't wait until the busy times next spring to clean up your garden, but start in this fall after the crops are out of the way to get everything in readiness for early spring work.

The Canada experimental farms made experiments to ascertain the best methods of storing apples in winter. Specimens wrapped in paper kept better than those not wrapped, and there were few rotten apples, and they lost least by evaporation.

The man who buys a barrel of apples now helps the farmer and helps himself. He gets his winter fruit at a low price and the farmer gets some real money for a valuable product which otherwise would probably rot on the ground.

Every farmer should have some hobby or special side line to his general farming. No man can develop the best there is in himself unless he makes something in particular a special study. What he gains in expert skill and mental interest in his special line will be an aid to him in many ways in his general lines of operation.

Avoid Feeding Kitchen Slop—Do not feed kitchen slop or sour swill barrel slops. They are sources of various infections and intoxications. As a rule, affected cases cannot be cured. Prevent by cutting out such slops. No man can easily or accurately regulate sour slops so that they are always safe.

Weed out all the culls and surplus roosters, which cannot be sold to good advantage, and send them off to market together with all the old fowls, if any are on hand, for they are never very profitable stock to keep after the second year. Early hatched pullets are far superior to two-year-old hens.

If wheat is high next year it will not be the only farm commodity that will be high and profitable to produce. Already horses are growing in demand, the supposed reasons being that Europe will come here to buy horses. It is reported that some have already been purchased and shipped to Canada. Corn, cattle, horses and hogs may be correspondingly as high as wheat next year.

There is always a greater demand, and consequently a better price for a nice fat fowl than for a lean one, especially in dressed poultry. You thus make a gain in the price per pound as well as in the number of pounds, by fattening your poultry before you put it on the market.

A fowl in the fall that shows that it has been doing something the previous year is one to select to keep in your flock. A fowl with pale colored legs and worn toenails was a good layer last year, and the chances are that she will be a profitable hen for at least another year. Keep her not only as a layer but as a breeder.

On the farm in any section where fruit thrives, making some kind of fruit a specialty is very interesting and profitable employment. No matter how large the fruit crop is any year, there is always a market at high prices for extra choice fruit packed in attractive, approved packages and displayed in an attractive manner for prospective customers to examine. There is never any danger of glutting the market with choice fruit of any kind. The best can always be moved at an attractive price.

Now, a good share of the best education that one ever receives is secured through first-hand contact with nature—plants, animals, hills, valleys, rocks, streams and things overhead and underfoot. These things are a material aid in the higher book studies, and in some cases it is not possible to master the higher book studies without an extensive knowledge of natural things. Much of poetry can be rightly understood and enjoyed only by those who have spent years in the country.

All kinds of pears will ripen if picked a week or more before they are ripe. And there are several advantages in doing this. One is that they are prevented from dropping off and getting bruised, which will occur in great numbers if the wind blows hard while they are maturing, and if pears lie on the ground very long they are almost sure to be damaged more or less by being gnawed by rabbits, picked at by chickens and variously injured by numerous other destructive agencies.

The farmer who raises good crops soon will have good stock and he must then have good fences and good farms. Next he wants good roads to market and he wants good bridges in his roads; he wants good stores in his town and he will see the necessity of patronizing the home merchants in order to perpetuate the home town. Likewise he will want good churches and good schools, for he can not go far in scientific agriculture without realizing the value of schools, and when he acquires property he realizes the beneficial influence of the churches on the morals of the community.

"Engaged Man's Panic." "Engaged man's panic" is as familiar a phenomenon as the squawking of a captured chicken or the flopping of a hooked fish. And woman instinctively anticipates it, feels it before it actually begins, deals with it according to her abilities. No woman ever feels that this is a slur upon her. She knows that it does not involve her, but is only the nervousness of the free at the touch of the matrimonial bridle—and that bridle, as she knows and as he knows, is not in her hands, but in the hands of society. Even the man marrying for a home, even the man marrying for children or for money, even the man marrying because only by marriage can he hope to get some one to associate with him, bear with him, listen to him on terms of his own arranging—even these men feel the nervousness as the bridle drops over their heads and the bit presses their quivering lips.—From "Degnarmo's Wife," by David Graham Phillips.

"Knotty" History. Tying knots in a handkerchief to jog one's memory had its origin in China thousands of years ago. Before writing was invented in that country, which did not happen until 3000 B. C., memorable and important events were recorded by long knotted cords. The most ancient history of China is still preserved as told by these knots. When Emperor Tschang Ki invented writing the entire system of "knotting" was abandoned. And today—the memory knots made by us in handkerchiefs are the only surviving descendants of that ancient custom.

Cooper's Hawk. The almost universal prejudice against birds of prey is due to the activities of a few members of the hawk family, chief among which is the Cooper's hawk. Cooper's hawk usually approaches under cover and drops on unsuspecting victims, making great inroads on poultry yards and game coverts. This bird, together with its two near relations, the sharp shinned hawk and the goshawk, should be destroyed by every possible means.

He Wanted to Know. "Charles," said the teacher, "do you know the causes of the Revolutionary war?" Charles looked interestedly at his instructor and replied, as if carrying on a social conversation, "No, do you?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Amber. Amber is believed by the Turks to be an infallible guard against the injurious effects of nicotine; hence its extensive use for mouthpieces of pipes.

Dear Sirs:—In reply to your favor I want to say that the "Peabody" piano that was offered by Mr. George R. Kempl two years ago and won by me is more than satisfactory in every way. The tone is beautiful and seems to grow better as I use it. I would certainly recommend this piano to anybody who wants a first-class instrument.
Yours very truly,

WOMAN'S WAY

By MARJORIE CLOUGH

The ladies of Ringwood, having decided to establish an orphan asylum, met for the purpose and organized. Then they appointed various committees and adjourned for one week, when they came together again to hear the reports. All committees reported favorable results except the committee appointed to rent a house for the asylum.

"The only place large enough for the purpose," reported Mrs. Imogen Brainard, chairman of the committee, "and with grounds such as we must have is the Canfield property. It has been vacant for two years, but has just been taken by a man's literary club, to be called the Goldsmith. Unfortunately a lease was signed by the owner and by the officers of the club only yesterday." "Perhaps," said mild-mannered Miss Blanding, "if the gentlemen of the club knew that we wanted it for the dear children they would"— "Hold on to it," Mrs. Jimber continued, "just as tenaciously as they would if we wanted it for any other purpose. Far be it from me to become a suppliant to them. I prefer a heroic method. I move that a committee be appointed to go to them and demand that they give up the property to us."

The motion was carried, and Mrs. Jimber, Miss Bates and Miss Blanding were appointed on the committee. Mrs. Jimber being chairman.

The three members of the Goldsmith club's committee on house consisted of Mr. Flint, Mr. Downing and Mr. Fairweather. Mr. Flint was among men what Mrs. Jimber was among women. When the asylum committee called upon him to give up to them the Canfield property he replied with an emphatic "No!" Messrs. Downing and Fairweather, though sympathizing with him in retaining the place for the club, could not but feel that Miss Bates and Miss Blanding, who were comely, looked upon the refusal as extremely un-gallant.

Mrs. Jimber issued a request that the members of the club meet, march to the property in dispute, take possession of it and hold it. Mr. Flint got wind of the movement and barred all the doors and windows.

This made a deadlock for both clubs. The men knew that if they opened the house the women would take possession, and so long as it was locked up it could not be used either for a club or an orphan asylum. There was a meeting of the women's committee to take measures for further procedure. Mrs. Jimber was in favor of proposing that every woman interested in the asylum cut every member of the club. Her colleagues did not agree with her as to the effectiveness of this measure. Then the chairman suggested that they use militant methods, threatening to destroy the property. But it was pointed out to her that the club was not the owner of it and might prefer to see it ruined rather than be forced to give it up. Then Mrs. Jimber lost her temper and told the other two members of the committee that she would have nothing more to do with the matter.

One day Miss Bates heard that Mr. Flint had been called away. She wrote a note to Mr. Downing stating that a majority of the asylum committee would be pleased to see the club's committee that evening at her house for the purpose of making a proposition that would, she thought, be satisfactory to the men and end the deadlock upon the property in dispute.

Since Mr. Flint was away and Mrs. Jimber would have nothing more to do with the matter the interview was between Mr. Downing and Mr. Fairweather on the one part and Miss Bates and Miss Blanding on the other. The two men, both of whom were bachelors, went to the place of meeting together, each hoping to parry what was expected to be some sharp move on the part of the women and do it without wounding their feelings.

Miss Bates, by way of smoothing the way, she said, proposed a game of cards, and before it was finished a mild brought in refreshments. After that Mr. Downing paired with Miss Bates and Mr. Fairweather with Miss Blanding. Each gentleman was feeling very comfortable and very happy when Miss Bates whispered to Miss Blanding:

"I have named a price at which Mr. Downing will recommend that the club let us have the Canfield property. I have agreed to give him a kiss before both clubs assembled when we take possession. He has accepted. See if you can get the same terms from Mr. Fairweather."

Miss Blanding succeeded in securing the terms, both men thinking the matter a bluff. As soon as the ladies had effected the arrangement they declared the conference ended.

The next morning the two committees received a note addressed to them by their entertainers of the night before stating that they would be on the steps of the Canfield property the next afternoon ready to keep their contract.

The men now began to consider the position they were in. If the women had the hardhood to face two clubs in such a case of graft the men had not. They drew up a statement giving the best of reasons why the Goldsmith club should assign their lease of the property in question to the asylum managers. Their recommendation was accepted.

Evidently the Spencer Leader has kept in touch with the long drawn out sessions of the Great and General Court of Massachusetts as it has come to the following conclusion: "Come to think of it, when we consider some of the fool legislation that has been ground out by the Great and General Court in the past few years, the electorate ought to be more concerned in a proposition to determine who will stay at home than in whom shall we send to that peculiar manufactory of peculiar laws."

Whitman road is in East Weymouth.
It is a road laid out by the Selectmen a few years ago beginning at a point on Broad street between the residences of Dr. Chase and Dr. Doucette. It goes over the hill to the James Humphrey school house and thence to Lake street.
If you want to get one of the best long distance sunset views in Weymouth by all means take a walk up Whitman road.
Don't look for a sign board but turn in between the two houses mentioned and go up the hill.

A severe illness for some time has prevented Mathew Hale, chairman of the Progressive campaign in Massachusetts, from taking an active part in the work.
Mr. Hale is however so far recovered as to be able to say a few words and predicts a sure victory for his party on Nov. 3d.
We are not so sanguine about the election of Joseph Walker but there have come two good results. According to the platform of the party Mr. Walker is now a total abstainer and also let down the bars for equal suffrage.

The Around the Town man in the Boston Globe says: "The first difficult job that Postmaster Murray has mapped out for himself, as we understand it, is to place the Boston papers in Washington before 11 p. m. What's the matter with his paying a little attention to Boston service, which does not deliver papers within its own district of only a few miles in less than 48 hours?"—Natick Bulletin.

Misery loves company and we are glad to know that we are not alone. Our Friday mailing goes to the Post office before 2 p. m. and for a long time New York, Chicago, Canada and other distant places gets the same mail earlier than places within an hour's transit.

—Miss Addie J. Taylor left the Heights this week to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Perkins of Abington.

—Miss Daisy Nicholson of Somerville spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs.
Wallace Bicknell.

—Mrs. James B. Jones gave a party on Monday evening to a number of her friends and neighbors. A pleasant time was had by all playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served and several selections on the Victrola listened to.

—Mrs. F. C. McDowell entertained friends from Plimpton on Sunday.

on East street.

—Margaret Landry and William Durant were united in marriage at the Parochial residence on Wednesday evening at five o'clock. A wedding lunch and reception followed the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Durant.

First Church, (Old North) Notes

The Old North Sunday school observed Rally Day last Sunday. A special service was held in the chapel at 4 o'clock. An interesting program was given by the school, which was followed by the presentation of diplomas. Miss Bertha Nash and Miss Edna Sladen were presented with diplomas for eight year's perfect attendance; Mrs. Mary Pratt for seven years, Ruth Nash for three years, Miss Louisa E. Humphrey, Miss Isabel Jones and Ruth Sladen for two years, and Miss Florence Nash, Mrs. Annie S. McDowell and John Harms for one year. Special certificates for faithfulness to the school will be awarded to Helen Ries, Miriam Blanchard, Alice and Ruth Freeman.
Rally day pins were distributed by the pastor to all children present.

The record of attendance in the Sunday school commences next Sunday. One absence will be allowed for a quarter-year.
The "cross and crown" pin method has been adopted by the school and the first pin will be given on January 10, 1915, for officers, scholars and teachers having regular attendance for the first quarter.

A missionary service will take place in the chapel next Sunday evening at seven o'clock. The leader is to be Mrs. J. B.
Merrill and the program will be as follows:
Hymn, "Sound the Battle Cry" Question Box, General Discussion
Selection, John B. Merrill Paper, "The World's Organizations for Missions" Leader
Selections, The Wide Awakes Closing Hymn, "Saviour, again to Thy Dear Name We Raise"

Informal Reception.

One of the most pleasing social affairs of the week in North Weymouth, was the informal reception on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H.
Williams of Lincoln street, tendered to Mrs. Frederick O. Streckewald of Milwaukee, Wis. Mrs. Streckewald was formerly Miss Florence Beals of North Weymouth and later of Winthrop.

A large number of relatives and friends were present and a most enjoyable evening is reported. Violin selections by Norman B. Walker of East Weymouth and piano solos by Miss Maude E. Williams enlivened the evening's program and dancing was enjoyed. During the evening refreshments were served by the host and hostess.

Guests were present from Milwaukee, Wis., Campello, Boston West Quincy, the Weymouths and Quincy

The Universal Deluge.

Scholarship has long ago rejected the ancient Hebrew tradition of a universal deluge. It appears that the tradition occurs in the writings of nearly every people, the old Babylonian story being among the oldest. It was from the Babylonian that the Hebrew scribe got his story—a story that has long since ceased to have any scientific value.

Duel Was Called Off.

A young bachelor who was staying at a fashionable spa near Dresden was challenged to a duel by the husband of a young woman with whom he had flirted. The bachelor, who is an expert amateur boxer, replied that the challenge was accepted under the usual conditions—namely, choice of weapons. His choice was for four-ounce boxing gloves. The husband sent word that "the matter may now be considered as settled."

Universalist Conference.

The Old Colony Conference of Universalists will hold their annual business meeting Tuesday, October 20 at Assinipi:
Morning session at 10.30. Speakers:
Rev. Harold Marshall, "The Church as a Community Center;" Rev. F. L. Masseck,
"The Church in Training;" and Rev.
James Harry Holden, "The One Thing Needful."

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

Weymouth People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Disordered kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions may be dark, contain sediment.

Passages are sometimes frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is often present day and night
Headaches and dizzy spells may occur.
Weakened kidneys should receive quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Weymouth evidence proves their worth.

Mrs. B. W. Hewitt, 191 Washington street, Weymouth, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a household remedy with us.
One of the family found Doan's Kidney Pills most beneficial when his kidneys caused him trouble. I gladly confirm all I have ever said about Doan's Kidney Pills, as we know they live up to the claims made for them."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs.
Hewitt recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

widow and one brother, Lucius M. New-comb of North Weymouth to mourn their loss.

Rally Sunday At The Pilgrim Church.

The Rally Day and Promotion Concert was held at the Pilgrim church October 11.
Besides the Processional there were five songs sung by the school led by a choir of young ladies. A solo, "The Starless Crown," was sung by Miss Nellie Carter; a recitation, entitled "Higher Up," was given by Miss Edith McLennon; and another by Miss Sadie MacLennon, entitled "Little Helps." The class recitations were given by the classes of Miss Anna Alden, Mrs. George Bean, Mrs. J. W.
Thomas, Miss Nason and Miss Dyer.

The promotion exercise was given by Mrs. O'Neil's class and was entitled,
"Jesus, the Children's King." It consisted of four songs and recitations giving events in the life of Jesus. The superintendent, Mr. Gilmore presented the diplomas and Rev. Charles Clark the bibles to the graduates who enter the junior class.
There were eleven graduates:—Kenneth Gould, Albert White, Gertrude Culley, Adrianna Coldwell, Dorothy Brown, Isabel Young, Emily Evans, Dorothy Dasha, Virginia Athen, Bradford Mathewson, and Andrew Alden.

The hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," was sung by the scholars and congregation and the benediction was pronounced by the pastor.

A. W. Hastings
PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. Hastings is a native of Weymouth, son of late Captain Hastings.
He left this town when a young man to work in the iron mills of Pennsylvania and Ohio and has continued in that industry up to the present time.
Until the birth of the Progressive Party two years ago, he had not engaged actively in politics, and enters the field in the belief that the working people should and must be better represented. He contends that the privileged few should not dominate the masses, but that the masses can find the best representation within themselves.
Mr. Hastings pledges himself to represent all of his constituents equally.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.
Episcopal services will continue to be held in the hall, corner of Washington and Front streets, every Sunday until the opening of the new church. Morning service at 10:30, evening service at 7:30, Sunday school at 2:30. All seats being free, collections will be taken at each Sunday service.

There was quite a gathering of the friends of temperance at the town hall on Friday of last week. The day was dull and somewhat raining, but a very good audience was gathered. A quartette club under the direction of Mr. Gilbert Nash, favored the company with good singing, and the Weymouth band discoursed excellent music. The convention organized by the choice of Elias Richards, Esq. for president, and Messrs. J. S. Fogg, M. C. Dizer, Wilmot Cleverly, D. C. Earl, Z. L. Bicknell, Cottingham Nash, John Blanchard, J. M. Whitcomb, B. F. White, Wm. Dyer, Darius Smith, Jr., James Humphrey, Abner P. Naah and Deacons J. Reed, A. Raymond, S. W. Nash, F. E. Loud, J. W. Loud and Gen. B. F. Pratt for vice presidents; and Wilmot Cleverly and A. P. Nash for secretaries.

THIRTY-FOUR YEARS AGO.
The Gazette lost a good assistant and Mr. Alexander K. Bates gained a wife last Wednesday evening, when he was united in marriage to Miss Clara D. Hanson, by Rev. P. A. Nordell.

The season has passed with only a little rain. In consequence the wells and cisterns are suffering, and families are discommoded very much by bringing water from a distance. Those families which have a plenty of water may rest assured that their wells are a fortune to them.

Parties who have not supplied themselves with apples for this fall and winter can do so at low rates. With the best of apples at $1.25 per barrel all families can be well supplied. The apple harvest is very large this year in all sections of the land and many farmers consider themselves fortunate if they can find parties who wish the apples at these low rates.

Grant's Pilgrimage to Plymouth and the South Shore, yesterday, was attended with an enthusiastic demonstration at every halting-place of the party. The special stop in this vicinity was at Hingham, and in honor of the event the Grand Army Posts of Hingham and Weymouth paraded with full ranks, and in company with a crowd of spectators gave him a welcome of the heartiest character.

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.
Ward 2 has good reason to feel proud of their fire department.

If appearances count for anything we will have a fire alarm telegraph, by this time next year.

Over two hundred people sat down to the tables that were spread at Reynolds hall, East Weymouth, last evening, it being the occasion of the twenty-fifth annual reunion of the Weymouth high school. Following the postprandial exercises, dancing was indulged in until a late hour, Richardson's orchestra furnishing music. The floor managers were E. C. Porter, F. A. Hunt, C. A. Clapp, H. A. Newton, B. F. Thomas, Willie H. Pratt, J. E. Gardner, N. H. Goodspeed. At the business meeting the following officers were elected for 1888:—President, Abbott L. Spinnery; vice president, Miss Lucy G. Tucker; treasurer, H. A. Newton; secretary, Miss Annie M. Thompson.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

—Several letter carriers and clerks from this town attended the first annual joint reception and banquet of the Boston Letter Carriers' Association and Boston Post Office Clerk's Association, held in Ford hall, Boston, last Monday night. The gathering was entertained with music by the letter carriers' band and glee club and clerks' orchestra and there were speeches by prominent postal and state officials.

—Mary Pickford in "Eagle's Mate," Bates' Opera House, October 21st, Wednesday. (Special).—Adv.

—In the chapel of the Old South church last Tuesday night, the Ladies' Aid Society gave a chaffing dish lunch and provided an entertainment for the benefit of the home mission fund. Mrs. E. E. Barrett was chairman of the committee in charge and Mrs. Wendall Joy was hostess. Fifteen children under the direction of Mrs. Wallace Harris gave a humorous "School Session." Mrs. Frank Loud and Miss Lina Loud played piano duets, William Hill played violin solos and Grace Pierce and Marion Loud sang.

—The alarm from box 51 last Monday was for a woods fire off Park avenue, which the local company had little difficulty in extinguishing.

—The Ladies Social Union of the Union Congregational church held a harvest festival in the chapel last Monday night. The decorations consisting of autumn foliage were arranged by Mrs. Arthur Linton, while Mrs. Jennie B. Morrell was chairman of the supper committee. Judge Louis A. Cook gave a talk on his recent trip to England and Miss Mary Davis sang, while Miss Helen Richards played piano solos. There was an auction sale of vegetables.

—At the meeting of the Old Colony Past Noble Grand association last Saturday in Brockton, Mrs. Florine Ducker of this place was installed as marshal. Among the speakers of the meeting was Mrs. Mary Granger of Pleasant street, warden of the Rebekah assembly.

Old South Church Notes.
"Ancient Galatia and her Descendants of the Gauls" will be the pastor's theme at the 7 o'clock service next Sunday evening and he will at that time, following the last theme of "Paul, the Writer," begin a series of talks on "Paul's Letter to the Galatians." The opening one will consider Paul as a forceful messenger, who exalted his mission.

The annual Halloween party will be held on Friday night October 30. The feature of the evening will be an Indian Pageant given by the Camp Fire Girls of this church.

The Old Colony Conference of Universalists meet in Assinippi Tuesday October 20, at 10:30.

The average gardener is in the habit of storing his manure in the open air, but a better plan is to pile it under a roof of some sort and trample it down tight in order that no air may penetrate through it to drive out the valuable nitrogen. The garden soil should be well treated this year with fresh manure, which has both a sufficient quantity of plant food and nitrogen. To raise good vegetables it is essential to plant them in rich soil, and soil in time loses its fertility.

Morality and Intelligence.
It almost looks as if intelligence and morality were two distinct things, and that it is safer to have intelligence than morality. A person who has the former may get off scot-free, but to him of weak intelligence his morality is of little avail when it suits the purpose of those who have the power of sequestering him, to use it.—Exchange.

How a Baseball Player Recovered His Batting Eye

By ARTHUR CHAPMAN
 Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

When a man has been chief buster and kingpin cleanup hitter of a big league for ten seasons he hates to admit he's lost his batting eye. But that's what I, Walloper Murphy, did one sunny July morning. I remember the stage setting as well as if it had been in the fourth act of my favorite dramma.

It was in a white and gold bridal suit at the leading hotel in one of the biggest cities on the circuit—for, as monarch of all the world's sluggers, didn't Walloper Murphy deserve the best there was on the road, and didn't he always get it?

"Walloper Murphy," I Hamletized to myself, "it's come at last. The thing long dreaded has come to pass, as the novelists say. You're a cadaver—a candidate for an oblong box in the bush league hearse. You have swatted nigh your last swat in the big leagues.

"It's been three months since you lifted one of those home run things into that small but select crowd on the roof of the apartment house overlooking the home grounds. Walloper Murphy, you are an out and downer—a whistling reminiscence of a great epic.

"THE MORE I SWUNG THE CLUB THE BETTER I LIKED IT."

"You have lost your batting eye, and that's all there are to it. You'd better call a bellboy and make him a present of your medals and silver sets and your diamond horseshoe and your automobile, because those trophies will only serve to remind you of glories that are past and gone."

Just then, as I was thinking about a bellboy (it's wonderful how many things happen in real life just like they do on the stage, where everybody gets cues), there comes a regular bellboy knock at the door.

When I opens it the hop is standing there with a long package and a letter. I seen the letter was from my old friend, Doc Bilstruther, and was post-marked Calcutta, India. Allying the terrible itch in the hop's hand with a cool piece of silver, I dragged in the letter and the package and opened Doc's message first. Here is what I read:

Dear Walloper—I am pained to observe by the home papers that have been following me around the world that you show symptoms of having lost your batting eye. I don't know of anything in materia medica that can remedy lost batting eyes, but I have been making inquiries among the dealers in the occult in this benighted land, and I believe I have found something that is going to fit your case. I have a servant whose name is Dinjir Meh. He can do all the fakes stunts there are in the catalogue and then have enough left over for a Broadway show. He reaches so far behind the veil that he is drawn in front of us occidentals that he gives me gooseflesh.

Now, my dear Walloper, I have told Dinjir Meh about your case. He is interested, though he never heard of baseball until I enlightened him. I told him how you have been the star hitter of the game for years and how your batting eye suddenly seems to have left you. He said nothing, but the other day he brought me a baseball bat, which I am sending and which should reach you with this letter. I had explained to him the general size and shape of baseball bats, and from some mysterious source he has produced this one. Maybe he turned it out on a Mahatma turning lathe, or maybe he just reached out and plucked it out of the air. I think he could do either. Anyway Dinjir Meh says this bat has mysterious qualities that will make up for any deficiencies in your eyesight. It will connect with any spitball, inshoot or fadeaway the greatest pitchers can fling you. All you have to do is to wait for something over the plate and strike in its direction. Dinjir Meh says you will be surprised at the results. Swing hard and leave the rest to him.

Dinjir Meh's bat.
 Now, my dear Walloper, there is this proviso: The bat is not a gift, but a loan. When Dinjir Meh wants it returned he will send you word. If you are not willing to give it up he will come for it. I don't think he has the price of a Conroy excursion ticket, but such things don't bother when you can protect your astral body around the world in ten seconds. I wait results with interest. If your batting average picks up I'll know that Dinjir Meh's bat has done it. But be ready to give up the bat when he calls for it. Crossing these orientals is dangerous business. Yours, L. C. BILSTRUTHER, M. D.

It was with feelings of trepidation, as the novelists say, that I undone that long bundle. When the last wrapping was peeled off there was a life size bat. It was made out of some heavy, dark colored wood.

It didn't swell in the middle just to my liking, but it seemed to have a good balance for all of that. When I swung it there came a tingling sensation that shot up my arms and stirred the very roots of my hair, as the novelists say. I never felt stronger—not even in the brave days when I was twenty-one and smashing batting records every week.

I swung from the shoulder and chopped from the wrist and practiced all the other batting moves I know to the imminent danger of the gold plated chandeliers in that bridal suit, and the more I swung the club the better I liked it and the stronger grew my sense of power.

It don't seem quite modest to set down all the batting feats I done in the game that day, but this is a veracious record of unimpeachable fact, as I once heard a stump speaker say, and the details have got to go with the general outline of the plot. Out of five times up I hit for a single and a two bagger and lifted three home runs over the fence, the last one going through the window of a brewery two blocks from the grounds and nearly knocking one of our solid Dutch citizens into a beer vat he was grooming.

The sporting writers didn't whisper to each other and jot down hints about my being a has been without a comeback attachment. Instead, they stood up and whooped with the rest of the wild, crazy crowd. I was carried off the grounds to the hotel auto by an admiring delegation of fans from our home city and even made a seven word speech from the steps of the bus—but through it all I clutched that magic oriental bat with a death grip.

The fear of losing that bat was strong upon me, as the novelists say. My batting average got better and better. Never had Walloper Murphy hit at such a terrific pace.

The care I lavished on Dinjir Meh's bat didn't escape the attention of the newspaper man in the press box. Nothing ever does. They wrote all kinds of fancy stories about that bat—every kind but the right kind. I hired a plain boy at a fancy salary to do nothing but grab that bat, after I had thrown it down, and guard it till I had come back from the base lines.

He had strict orders not to let it go out of his hands when I was playing in the field. I was peevish about letting the other players so much as left the bat, and come near losing some friendships of long standing on that account.

It was getting well toward the close of the race, with our team holding the lead by an eyelash. There were only three more games to play, and the club management was looking to me to pull them out of the fire, for our pitchers wasn't going any too well, and it was only by free hitting that we could hope to win. Then came the demand I had been dreading. It was just a note, in a strange scrawl, handed in by a bell-boy. It said:

Please give bearer Dinjir Meh's bat.

"The note was give to me by a dark-skinned man with blue goggles, and he said he'd wait in the reception parlor," said the boy in answer to my demand.

I rushed down to the parlor, but there was nobody there.

But along about 1 o'clock, just before I was starting for the baseball grounds to begin the final and deciding series of three games with our nearest contenders, along comes another note, handed in by another bellboy. It read:

Dinjir Meh will take his bat this afternoon, since Sahib Murphy will not surrender it willingly.

I clung to that bat with a feverish grip all the way to the park.

I gave my private bat guardian special instructions about grabbing the stick as soon as I had thrown it down after making a hit. Then I bribed a special policeman to keep an eye on the boy. Even then I didn't feel safe.

Dinjir Meh's bat never did any greater execution than on that day. It had the long distance hits caroming off the outfield fences, and up to the ninth inning I had driven in seven runs and had the game practically clinched. In the ninth I sent one to the flagpole in center. I knew I could just stretch it into four bases by hard running.

It was all a matter of machine-like calculation with me. I counted every step and knew I must be two seconds ahead of the ball when I jumped into the ten foot slide at the finish. As I slid and heard the umpire call "Safe!" I glanced toward the players' bench to see what had become of Dinjir Meh's bat.

My bat boy had carried it almost to the players' bench. The policeman was standing at his side, and both had reeled to the excitement of the game and were watching me slide. I saw a dark skinned, blue goggled man reach a long arm over the little gate by the players' bench and pluck the bat from the hand of the boy.

I yelled even before my slide was finished; but, of course, my voice was lost in the roar that billowed down from the stands and bleachers.

Jumping to my feet, I dashed toward the players' bench just as the policeman and the bat boy woke out of their trance. The three of us dashed through the gate, but there was no Dinjir Meh in sight.

I'd like to draw a veil over the events of the next two days, as the novelists say.

I held, constituted my inglorious record. I was back in my old batting slump, deeper than a bogged steer.

We lost the two games and the pennant, and the only blisses that crowd bestowed on anybody were directed at the troubled head of Walloper Murphy. Two days later I got a call from my special policeman, who was more of a sleuth than I gave him credit for being. He had followed a clew that led him to one of the biggest hotels in the city. My goggle eyed man had been seen going in there, carrying a bat that answered the description of the war club of Dinjir Meh.

I was at the hotel as quick as gasoline and a daredevil chauffeur could take me. I hadn't any more than stepped into the lobby than I saw Doc Bilstruther sitting comfortably in an armchair and reading a pluk sporting section. I grabbed him by the shoulder and fairly yelled:

"You're mixed up in all this business. Now you tell me where Dinjir Meh has taken my bat!"

"I see it's all up, Walloper," says Doc, gentle as a lamb. "Come up to my room and I'll tell you the hull thing."

I dismissed the special with my blessing and his wage, and no sooner had I entered Doc's room than I saw Dinjir Meh's bat leaning in the corner. I pounced upon it, eager-like, and as I stood there in the middle of the room, crooning over that stick and swinging it, Doc hit a clear and laughed.

"It's a shame to tell you about it," he said. "I've a good notion to freeze up."

"At your peril," I says, and so he told me everything.

"In the first place there ain't any Dinjir Meh," he says, giving me the cold shock right at the start. "I'm all the Dinjir Meh there ever was. You know I've always been interested in the study of the effect of the imagination upon the human organism. I noticed your batting slump and I determined to find out how much of it was real and how much of it was due to your own realization that you were approaching the age when, according to all physical laws, your eyes must begin to fall a little. I happened to be in Calcutta, and it occurred to me that a little touch of oriental mysticism would help along the case. I got this cheap bat of an American business man—a baseball fan in exile. It probably didn't cost over four bits at the most and is a bat that you wouldn't look at any more than Kubelk would pick out a mall order fiddle instead of a Strad.

"But the charm of the bat was in the story that accompanied it. You thought the bat had magic qualities, and that thought gave you back all the self-confidence you had lost. You hit straight and true and picked out the good ones, and that was why you sent so many balls over the fence. After I had reached over that little gate and had snatched the bat from your guardian's hand it was different with you. You lost your self confidence once more and were back where you stood before the bat reached me. That was why you were struck out seven times and lost the pennant for your team. It's been a mighty interesting case for me, and I'm going to write it up for my medical journal, leaving out names, of course. You don't object, do you?"

I just stood swining the bat without answering. All the tingle had gone out of my arms. The bat, as I looked at it, assumed its true proportions as an ill shaped, faultily balanced piece of wood that had no place in anything bigger than a high school league.

I flung it into the corner, but Doc rose and put his hand on my shoulder. "Now don't go up in the air like that, Walloper," he said. "My experiment isn't finished. You put yourself under my care. I'm going to give you a course in mental gymnastics from now on and will guarantee to restore your confidence in yourself without any aid from Dinjir Meh or any other dealer in the occult. I'll have you hitting as well as ever next season, and you'll be Walloper Murphy for five seasons to come instead of being embalmed in the sporting annuals as an 'ex.'"

And after events proved that Doc was right, as the novelists say.

A Learner.

"Is your new cook willing to learn?" asked the visitor.

"Yes," replied the weary housewife. "She has already learned to embroider, and I think if she stays a few months longer she will know how to play the piano."—Washington Star.

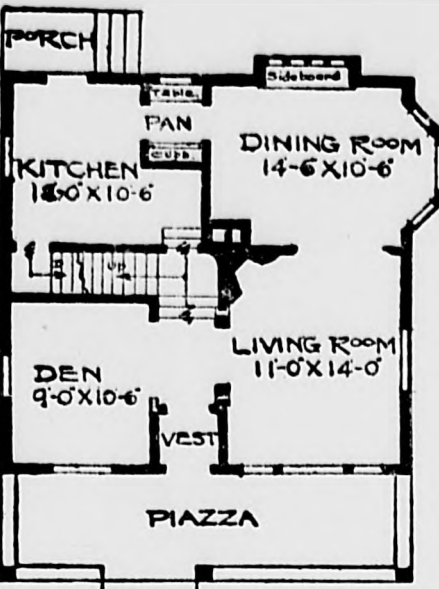

"TELL ME WHERE DINJIR MEH HAS TAKEN MY BAT."

COMFORT AT MODERATE COST.

Design 613, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This little home is well planned for the comfort of every member of the family. Large living room, den and a comfortable kitchen and dining room with pantry. A bay window and a sideboard make the dining room very charming. There are three chambers, each with a closet; also a linen closet and good bath on the second floor. The exterior is treated with a combination of shingles and siding that is very popular at the present time. Size, 26 feet by 26 feet. Full basement, 7 feet. First story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet. Finish, birch or oak in first floor and pine to paint in second story. Birch floors throughout. This house will cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,950.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will furnish a copy of Saxton's new 1914 book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains 310 designs costing from $1,000 to $6,000; also a book of interiors for $1.50.

UGLY DRIVER ANTS

All Living Creatures Fly Before These African Terrors.

THEY BUILD LIVING BRIDGES.

When an Army of These Formidable and Ferocious Insects Want to Cross a River a Suspension Tube of Their Own Bodies Provides the Way.

Why should driver ants cross rivers? The ants of our own woods have no such desire; they are busy little people, too much engaged in the practical task of finding and storing food to have any vagaries of this sort. They are contented and harmless if not disturbed or annoyed. An angry ant is to be avoided, and an angry swarm can make its displeasure felt in a very unpleasant way, as every one knows who has carelessly broken into a nest. But if left alone they are peaceful little workmen, absorbed in their own affairs.

The great driver or Bishikoney ant however, has nothing peaceable in his composition. He is nothing if not aggressive and spiteful; neither is he contented. In the great forests of Africa these insects multiply to an alarming extent. They swarm in thousands, perhaps millions, and, formidable at any time, during the season of migration they are a terror to the whole district in which they live.

Myriads of these insects are seized with a restless desire for change. Obeying some mysterious instinct or following the commands of their queen, they set out upon their travels, and woe betide the man or beast that crosses their path! In a moment the hapless creature is covered with ants, and in an incredibly short space of time nothing is left but bare bones.

The driver ant is so called because it drives away all living creatures. When this most terrible host is on the march men and animals, great and small, take flight. Lions and tigers may be seen rushing along side by side with the timid gazelle. All are too much frightened to dream of attacking or avoiding each other. For once in their lives they are united in their terror of the common enemy. Size and strength are of no avail, and a rhinoceros or an elephant is as much terrified and is in as much danger as a rabbit.

When the vast army of ants arrive on the bank of a river a halt is called. They have no idea of turning back, but to cross that river they must have a bridge, and the making of this bridge takes time, and probably the engineers of the army have to bustle up to the front.

The making of an ant bridge is one of the most wonderful things in the world. The ants swarm on a tree, choosing one which overhangs the river. Upon the bough which reaches farthest over the stream they mass themselves and begin to form a thick rope of their own bodies. This they do by means of holding on firmly with their hind legs, while with the front pair of legs they grasp the bodies of other ants. Constantly fresh ants range themselves in front, and so the rope grows and grows until at last it touches the water.

By and by the floating chain is carried by the current toward the other side where probably grass and great reeds spring out of the water. The foremost ants seize upon the first object they touch, and from one slender foothold to another they climb until at last they reach land. The nearest tree is quickly climbed, the foremost pairs of legs doing all the work, and very soon the living rope is swinging high above the river. The bridge is made, and quickly the army crosses the stream.

Du Challu, in his African travels, had an opportunity of observing one of these bridges, and he declares that it is made with a hollow center, the living bodies of the ants forming the walls of a tunnel, through which the main body of ants travel safely over the water. When the last ant has crossed and the bridge is no longer needed, the ants in the rear release their hold and the rope or tunnel drops into the river. The ants do not like water, but they are soon released from this position, for the vanguard are dispersing as fast as they can, and the self-sacrificing ants who began the great chain are quickly upon dry land.

It is all very strange and very wonderful. Why do they travel at all? By what direction and by what laws do they act, and how did they learn to make bridges? Our naturalists have learned much of their ways and their doings, but these questions they cannot answer; they are part of the mystery of life and nature of which the wisest knows little.—J. Cutler in London Family Herald.

Even Up.
Snobley—Aw—aw—It must be very unpleasant for you Americans to be governed by people—aw—whom you wouldn't ask to dinner. American Belle—Well, not more so, perhaps, than for you in England to be governed by people who wouldn't ask you to dinner.—Christian Register.

Preferring His Suit.
Cynthia—Oh, Tom, think of coming to ask papa's consent in such shabby clothes! Tom—That's right; I had one suit ruined.—Judge.

The surest way not to fail is to determine to succeed.—Sheridan

All Alike.
A Glasgow school teacher was reviewing the assembled ranks preparatory to marching them to their classes the other morning. As he walked up and down the lines he noticed one boy whose boots had not been blacked, and who was standing slightly in front of the others. Wishing to shame him into methods of neatness, the teacher exclaimed: "The boy with the dirty boots, step back into line." And straightaway (says the Glasgow News) the whole line shuffled back a pace!

ANNUAL FAIR.

First Universalist Society Of Weymouth Holds Successful Two Days' Event In Lincoln Hall.

The annual fair of the Universalist society of Weymouth took place in Lincoln hall Weymouth last Thursday and Friday evenings, October 8 and 9.

About the hall were booths and tables filled with seasonable goods and all were well patronized. The sales tables were in charge of the ladies of the society.

On Thursday evening the three-act comedy entitled, "All Tangled Up" was given by the following cast:—Major Hollis Halliday, (who feds some things worse twisted than law) Lyman C. Williams; "Lester MacVey" (his easy going partner in the law firm of Halliday and MacVey) Lawson Twitchell Jr.; "Keeling Platon" (proprietor of an undertaking tombstone business) Franklin P. Whitten; "Lieutenant George Rapley" (a wealthy young man from the West) Donald Carmichael; "O'Toole" (a family treasure) Russell Drexler; "Mrs. Halliday" (inclined to jealousy) Mrs. A. D. Tirrell; "Clara" (her daughter, inclined to Rapley) Florence Thompson; "Vernie" (the undertaker's daughter, inclined to Lester) Mildred Dyer.

The scene of the comedy is laid in the parlor at Halliday's, and the entire performance was filled with amusing incidents.

On Friday night, "A Model Lover," a comedy in two acts, was presented by local talent. The cast follows:—"Colonel Francis" (of the old school) Lyman C. Williams; "Prof. Pelletier" Franklin P. Whitten; "Gustave Pelletier" (son of Prof. Pelletier) Arthur Murphy; "Leslie Francis" (niece to Col. Francis) Bertha S. Johnson; "Betty Trask" (ward to Col. Francis) Sarah A. Trainer; "Mrs. Babbit" (housekeeper to Col. Francis) Carrie S. Robinson.

Garden Soil That Lasts. So valuable is good date garden soil that the Arab will refuse $5,000 an acre for it. Through ages of cultivation it gives no indication of wearing out, hence the exceptional value placed upon it.

DAVID BATES CLAPP MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

Season 1914-15.

The building was opened to the public last Monday night and a large number was present to enjoy the free pool and bowling. The prospects are good for the best year in the association's history.

Under the new plan which was adopted last season whereby all memberships expire Jan. 1st the association has at the present time all its last year's membership to start business with this season.

The building was thoroughly gone over last fall so that very few repairs were needed this season, however the whole interior has been gone over and made as attractive as possible.

GYMNASIUM. The gym floor has been cleared of everything that would in any way interfere with regular class drills and apparatus work and it is the intention of the management this season to insist on regular class work for all who use the gym.

In order that the association may not be blamed in case of accident resultant from physical imperfections among its members all who use the gym will be required to take both a physical and medical examination. These examinations will be given free of charge.

The physical director has a new plan for physical examination once each month allowing a comparison to be made showing the improvement.

Another feature that should interest a large number will be a class in First Aid to the injured. In these days of so many accidents a class of this kind should prove very attractive as well as beneficial. Regular athletic events, with first class prizes will be run this winter in all the classes.

First and second basket ball teams will be selected before the season opens or about Thanksgiving.

Our annual Thanksgiving Day cross country run (distance about 3 miles) will start in front of the building Thanksgiving morning at 9.30 rain, snow or shine. Three beautiful silver cup will be given as prizes. Now is the time to start training for this event.

BOXING. A room in the upper part of the building will be used for instruction in the "Manly Art" and the association feels very fortunate in securing as instructor for this class, Fred Cushman. Mr. Cushman is not a stranger to members, having been connected with the association since last spring. He is a gentleman in every respect, not a fighter, nor a fight promoter, but scientific in the art of self defense and can impart his knowledge to others in a very efficient manner.

WRESTLING. The room on the lower floor formerly intended for a coat room will be used for wrestling this winter. Whenever there is a meet with any outside organization the mat will be placed on the gym floor as this room is not large enough to accommodate spectators.

The prospect of the wrestling team this season is better than ever before as most of last year's men are back together with a number of new recruits that look good. Archie Jeannette will be on hand again this winter to show the candidates the fine points of the game.

BOWLING. The bowling alleys are the best ever and with new pins and balls the equipment is complete. The two men team tournament will start the 19th of this month. The bowlers will be given their choice of pins for this tournament to see if candles or Boston will be used.

The bowling committee are trying to interest several clubs in nearby towns in forming a league.

EDUCATIONAL. Last year the association made a start in educational work and this year hopes to do much more along this line. The class in First Aid is purely educational but in addition other classes such as English for foreigners, etc., etc., will be run.

LADIES' BOWLING CLUB. The Ladies' bowling club now numbers over thirty. Thursday afternoon and evenings the alleys are reserved for their exclusive use. A fine list of socials and entertainments is being planned for this winter. Membership in this club is open to all.

MONEY SAVER. During the present "hard times" a membership in the Clapp Memorial will act as a big money saver for any man in Weymouth. The building has every facility for furnishing wholesome, clean recreation at a cost within the reach of any man. Under our Special Membership offer for nine dollars ($9) paid any time before Jan. 1st your membership will not expire until Jan. 1st, 1916, thus giving fourteen months' membership for twelve months dues. This offer holds good for all classes and ages from twelve years and over.

MEMBERSHIP. Membership in the association is open to any man or boy of good moral character.

Terms of membership as follows:— Men's full membership, $9 per year; men's full membership living outside East Weymouth, $6 per year; intermediates full membership, $5.50; intermediates full membership living outside East Weymouth, $3.50; junior full membership, $3.50; junior full membership living outside East Weymouth, $2.50.

Special men's membership including all the privileges of full membership with the exception of the gymnasium and shower baths $5 per year.

All membership fees must be paid in full at the time of joining.

CLASS SCHEDULE. Men's class, Mon., Wed. and Friday evening, 7.30 to 9.30; intermediate class, Mon., Wed. and Friday afternoon, 2.30 to 4; junior class, Tuesday, 4 to 5.30; Sat. 9.30 to 11. Boxing and wrestling classes will meet directly after class drill on Mon., Wed. and Fri. evenings.

Not Paint. With linseed oil at 50 cents to $1, what sort of oil do you think they use in "paint" at $1.50 and $1.25?

That stuff is counterfeited paint. You can cheat yourself; you can't cheat Time or Weather.

Paint is a rubbery coat over wood and iron to keep-out water.

Counterfeited paint may look like it; counterfeit money looks like money.

What are all counterfeits for? They are all alike.

A. F. BARNES AT REST

Selectman and Prominent Citizen of Town Passed Away Suddenly Last Saturday. Funeral Services, on Tuesday, Largely Attended.

The townspeople were decidedly shocked and saddened last Saturday night when the news of the sudden death of A. Francis Barnes of South Weymouth became known.

Mr. Barnes left his place of business, the Elbridge Nash Drug Co.'s store, in Columbian square about 6.20 o'clock for his home on Union street. Less than fifteen minutes later he had passed away. Just as he was entering his home, he collapsed and died immediately, his death being due to heart failure.

The housekeeper in his home called two neighbors, Mrs. Lottie Richards and Charles Brown and they carried the body into the house.

Mr. Barnes was one of the most honorable and upright men it is the fortune of one to come in contact with. He has been prominent in his life, in all undertakings of an honorable cause, for the good of the town and the community.

He was 42 years of age. He was a member of the firm of the Elbridge Nash Drug Co. and has served as Selectman of the town for three years, and as Overseer of the Poor for four years. He was a member of the Norfolk club, Orphans Hope Lodge A. F. & A. M., South Weymouth Improvement society and for several years was secretary of the Weymouth Industrial and Agricultural society.

It is seldom that a more general mark of respect is paid to a departed citizen than that paid to A. Francis Barnes last Tuesday. All stores and business houses at South Weymouth and in many other parts of the town were closed during the hours of the funeral service which were held at the late home of Mr. Barnes on Union street.

In addition to immediate relatives the surviving members of the Board of Selectmen, Town Treasurer, Clerk, Accountant, Assessors, Police Force, Fire Engineers and other officials were in attendance.

Orphans Hope Lodge A. F. & A. M. of which departed was an esteemed member joined in doing honor to his memory.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. W. Attwood for many years an intimate friend of Mr. Barnes and based on that friendship the eulogy was a beautiful tribute to Mr. Barnes as a citizen leaving behind an example to be emulated by every lover of the town and high ideals of manhood and friendship.

The Orphans Hope Lodge service was by W. M. Geo. F. Farrer and Chaplain M. E. Hawes and at its conclusion the remains, under escort of Weymouth Police, Chiefs of the Fire Department and Orphans Hope Lodge were conveyed to Mt. Hope cemetery where brief services were rendered by Mr. Attwood and all that was mortal of Adrian Francis Barnes was committed to its final resting place by Orphans Hope Lodge.

The honorary bearers were Mr. Barnes' fellows of the Selectmen's board, E. W. Hunt, Bradford Hawes, Geo. L. Newton and Henry E. Hanley. Acting bearers, Gordon Willis, Almon B. Raymond, Frank E. Loud and Wilton L. Hawes.

If floral offerings are tributes of love and esteem then indeed Mr. Barnes came largely within those terms.

Mr. Barnes is survived by three brothers, Albert, Fred T. and Carl; a mother; a sister, Miss Alice, and two children, Adrian, aged 11, and Catherine, aged 9. His wife passed away a few years ago.

MAYOR CURLEY AT WEYMOUTH.

The Third in the Citizen Service Union Course Fills The Baptist Church.

The management of the Citizen Service Union of Weymouth and East Braintree secured a drawing card when they secured Mayor James J. Curley of Boston as the speaker at the last Sunday night's meeting or Forum.

At an early hour the house was filled and standing room was at a premium.

As usual, the pastor of the church was master of ceremonies and had as a prelude to the address of the evening, organ selections by Mrs. Frank M. Bryant and soprano solos by Miss May Fiske Hoffman. Mayor Curley received a most cordial greeting and proceeded to speak on the "Municipal Problems of Boston," and "Citizenship."

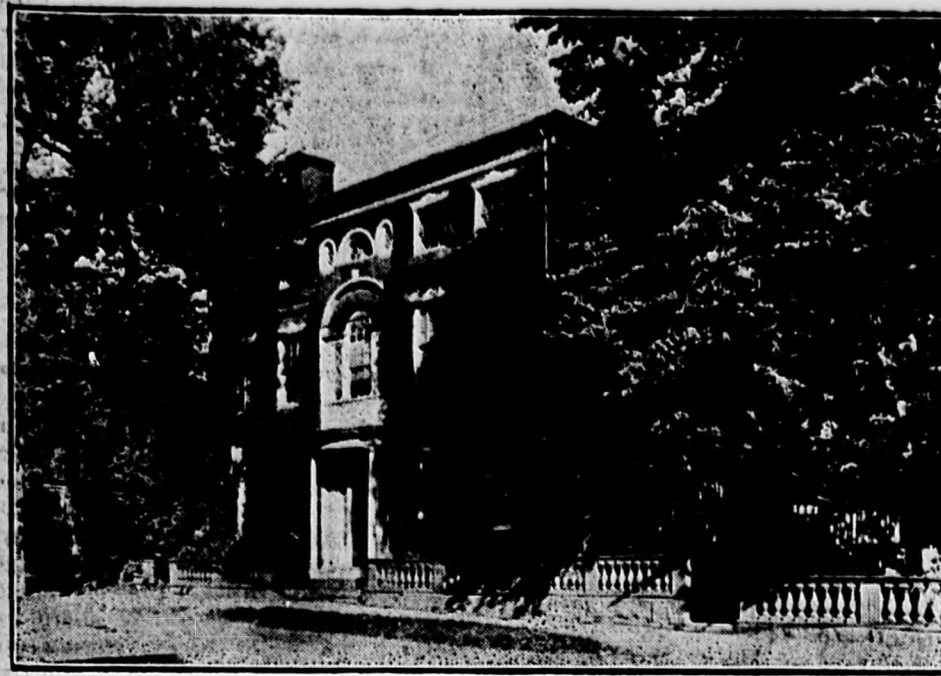

"The last quarter of a century we have been drifting away from the ideal that 'all men are born free and equal,'" said Mayor Curley, in his address, "and we have been tending toward the idea of special privileges."

Mayor Curley said that President Wilson was a graduate from the school-room, a man selected to lead the American people better than any other man in the United States, and a citizen who believed that the sorrow of one mother was a matter of more consequence than the financial interests of any one man who held mining interests in Mexico.

In speaking of the "Municipal Problems," Mayor Curley said that an effort is being made to settle them by the "old-fashioned honesty" of giving the people 100 cents for every dollar taken from them. Mayor Curley told of the work of the New Industrial Bureau, describing it as a place where the business man and the workman get together. "No man has lost his job in Boston who is giving a return for his pay," said Mayor Curley.

Next Sunday evening, Samuel Lindsey, author, soldier and story-teller will speak on "Looking Through Life's Window."

ILLUSTRATED SERIES OF WEYMOUTH HOMES

COWING HOUSE, COMMERCIAL ST., WEYMOUTH

The "Cowing House," so called which we present this week was built by Samuel Arnold in 1803 but became the property of Balch Cowing in 1841 and has since been the home of Mr. Cowing or his lineal descendants. The present occupant is Francis H. Cowing, a grandson. Much valuable history, either written or in legends, cluster around this house. The wife of Balch Cowing was a sister of Joshua Bates for many years merchant and broker of London at the same time founder of the Boston Public Library. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Balch Cowing was the scene of many notable gatherings with Wm. L. Garrison, Wendell Phillips and others, the central figures. Our next will be South Weymouth.

A. FRANCIS BARNES.

Appreciation.

The Selectmen of Weymouth learn with extreme regret of the sudden death of our esteemed colleague, A. Francis Barnes. We wish to express our appreciation of the faithful service of Mr. Barnes as a member of the Board of Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor. He has taken a deep interest in all that makes for the best interests of the town and has labored untiringly for the advancement of those interests. We have found him at all times firm in his convictions of right but courteous in his consideration of the opinions of others when they differed from his own. We have valued his judgment and prized his efforts in advancing the moral and material interests of the town he loved. We have not only lost a faithful and congenial colleague but the town has lost an honest, capable and progressive public official. Mr. Barnes represented the best type of citizenship, therefore we desire to publicly express our great sorrow for the loss his family and our town has sustained.

To the relatives of our deceased colleague we wish to express our heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of sorrow, knowing as we do that while it was characteristic of him to be reticent in regard to his personal feelings, the ties of family were dear to him and that he was held in love and esteem by those to whom he was bound by such ties.

EDWARD W. HUNT,
BRADFORD HAWES,
GEORGE L. NEWTON,
HENRY E. HANLEY,
Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor.

Town Business.

Owing to the death of Mr. Barnes there was but little doing at the meeting of the Selectmen on Monday. Mrs. Kate Pierce Thayer acting for the Monday and Old Colony club had a short session with the Board and completed arrangements for the first in the series of the Tufts lecture and entertainment course which will be a combination of orchestral entertainment and lecture. The event will be at the High school building Saturday evening, Nov. 7, an orchestra of ten pieces will perform and Mr. Calderwood, the musical instructor of the town, will talk on musical instruments, their origin, construction and uses.

Weymouth Board of Trade.

The postponed October meeting of the Board of Trade was held at the Clapp Memorial building, Wednesday evening with the president, E. W. Hunt in the chair. There was the usual routine business, including reports of committees, the membership committee reporting a number of new names.

There being no previously arranged topics or speaker, play-grounds, parks and public bath places were discussed, as also a new topic and one which more attention should be given, i. e., ancient and neglected cemeteries.

The usual lunch was served and the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

Fining Name.

"Why are these things on your dress called high trimmings?" George wanted to know. "Oh," Emily replied, "because pa blows so over the bill."

Free Electrical Information.

The leading scientists, engineers and business men in the electrical industry about two years ago formed a co-operative organization called The Society for Electrical Development, Incorporated. Its membership at the present time includes more than 1,400 firms in the electrical field whose voluntary subscriptions place at its disposal a large fund with which to educate the public in the economy efficiency and safety of electric service.

The society maintains a bureau of information where authoritative but popular answers to electrical questions may be obtained free of charge by any one. The society has nothing to sell, but will be glad to answer by mail, without expense, any proper question on electrical matters submitted by a householder, manufacturer or office executive in any part of the United States or Canada. In all its work the society co-operates with the public in securing the present and future advantages to be derived from electric service in the home, office and factory.

The headquarters of the society are in the United Engineering Societies' Building 29 West 29th street, New York City, which was a gift from Andrew Carnegie to the several engineering and technical institutes and associations located in New York.

PRESENT JUVENILE OPERETTA.

St. Francis Xavier Church Parish Entertains In Fogg's Opera House, South Weymouth Last Friday Night.

Under the auspices of the Church of the St. Francis Xavier of South Weymouth, the juvenile operetta "Robin's Specific" was presented in Fogg's opera house, South Weymouth, last Friday evening. A large audience was present and each and every member of the cast performed extra well.

The parts were enacted by William Howe, Anna Hanson, Fred Melbye, Daniel Madden, Franzanna Walsh, Alice Doran, Bertha Hanson, Catherine Greene, Evelyn Hanson, Katherine Melbye, Elsie Ford, Alice Daley, Leon Horgan, Katherine Mahoney, Margaret Fitzgerald, Ruth Healey, Mary Cullinaue, John Dondero, Katherine Bresnahan, Mary Hainan, Catherine Horace, Mary Sullivan, Lillian Healey, Mary Burke, Mary Walsh, Lizzette White, Marion White, Helen Mahoney, Marian Mahoney, Lillian Horgan, Laura Hirt, Catherine Nolan, Marion Miller, Margaret Sullivan and Mary Fitzgerald.

Miss Bertha May Hanson directed and Miss Mildred Leary presided at the piano. A social hour followed the entertainment. Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Mary J. Cash Dead.

Mrs. Mary J. Cash, wife of Charles H. Cash, passed away at her home on Lincoln street, North Weymouth, on Wednesday, October 14, her 68th birthday.

Funeral services were held from her late home on Saturday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Charles Clark of the Pilgrim church officiating. There were many beautiful floral pieces. Interment was at the North Weymouth cemetery.

Besides her husband she leaves two brothers, Sidney Marr and Milton Marr of North Weymouth and a sister, Mrs. Hannah Libby of Charlestown.

Village Study Club.

The Village Study Club of South Weymouth held a meeting of more than ordinary interest in the Fogg Library building in South Weymouth last Monday night. The theme was "Big and Little Happenings of the Past Year." Miss Frances Wheeler told of her "Trip to Africa," Mrs. Mary A. Holbrook read a paper on "The Boy Scouts," Miss Emma Nickerson told of "The Cape Cod Canal," Mrs. P. H. Tirrell gave an account of "The One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of Brown University," "Home Rule" was the subject of Mrs. Christopher Sissett's talk. Miss Ruth Tower spoke on "College Changes" and Miss Helen Courtney described "The Unveiling of the Statue of Princess Pocahontas."

Cole-Torrey.

Many Weymouth people were interested in the wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Torrey, 25 Spear street, Quincy, when their daughter, Helen Elizabeth, was married to Harold Allen Cole of Malden. Autumn foliage and flowers were used profusely in the decorations of the house. The maid of honor was Miss Lillian Mae Howe of Watertown and Little Carolyn Dana, the ring bearer. Clyde F. Felton of East Boston was best man while the ushers were Prescott H. Torrey of Derry, N. H., Edwin Cole of Malden and Reginald W. Drake of Middleboro. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by C. Elmer Wilson of the Shawmut Congregational church of Boston at the entrance of the bridal party and Lawrence B. Ford of Quincy sang the Barcarolle from "The Tales of Hoffman."

The bride was daintily attired in a gown of white lace over white silk, the tulle veil being fastened with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor's gown was cream lace over pink silk and she carried pink roses.

The bride entered with her father, preceded by the groom and best man, ring-bearer and maid of honor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Perry Bush of the Universalist church of Chelsea, the bride being given in marriage by her father. At the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Torrey and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen P. Cole of Malden assisted in receiving. The wedding cake, which was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Charles Hawes of East Weymouth, was cut and distributed by the bride herself.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole are to reside at 60 Judson street, Malden.

Weymouth and Hingham Tie.

On a wet and muddy field, with a drizzling rain falling, the Weymouth high and Hingham high football teams played a 0-0 tie at Hingham last Friday. The teams were about evenly matched and a good game resulted in spite of the inclement weather.

Whittle, the Weymouth quarterback, was the star of the game. He ran the team well and played a fine defensive game. Osborne starred for Hingham. The summary:

Weymouth H. S.—Bates re, Dean rt, Palmer rg, Hughes c, Newton lg, Talbot lt, Clark le, Whittle qb, Rand rlb, Zwickler lhb, Borlenghi fb.

Hingham H. S.—Governor, le, Olson lt, Hough lg, Driscoll c, Kenney, Bergan rg, Connell, Barrett lg, Henderson, Connell re, Thaxter ab, Knowlton lhb, Osborne rlb, Ross fb.

Umpire—Murphy. Referee—Ronney. Linesmen—Henderson, Damon, Sampson. Time—8 minute periods.

Monday Club.

The regular meeting of the Monday club was held in Odd Fellows hall, Monday, October 19, the president, Mrs. Edward R. Sampson in the chair. The records of the previous meeting were read. Mrs. E. R. Sampson and Mrs. J. B. Worster were chosen delegates to the State Federation meeting to be held at Norwood. Notice was given that a class in basketry would be formed if ten ladies' members of the club or not, cared to join. A class in literature will also be formed.

Mrs. Hawes, chairman of the Current Events committee read a ten minute paper on the war and other current events. One thought that she enforced was that the war events loom so large on the horizon that they crowd to one side matters which at other times would be considered most important to the country, state and people. She spoke of the revival of pageantry in the country and saw no reason why Weymouth rich in historical events should not have a pageant of its own in the near future. She dwelt upon the purchase of Mt. Washington by the government and how much it would add to the Reservation.

A very interesting report of the General Federation meeting by our delegate, Mrs. H. B. Bachelder, was read by Mrs. Ella C. Richards.

The speaker of the afternoon was the Hon. Louis A. Cook who gave a very spirited account of the trip made by himself and Mrs. Cook to England as a representative of Weymouth, Mass., to Weymouth, England, to take part in unveiling a monument dedicated to Gov. Endicott and Richard Clarke, a navigator. The talk was full of interesting showing us with what honor our fellow townsman and his wife were received. Mrs. Worster asked the question, "Whether Weymouth derived its name from Weymouth, England, or from the Indian name 'Wessagusset'?"

Judge Cook said in his opinion, there was not a doubt but that it was named from Weymouth, England. In 1624 a party came from Weymouth, England, and uniting themselves with the ones already here, made this their home and probably gave it the name of Weymouth after their former home.

The afternoon drew to a close all too soon. During the meeting Miss Bessie Bates gave a number of contralto solos which were favorably received. At the Board meeting several new members were admitted to the Club.

MASONIC VISITATION.

Orphans' Hope Lodge of Weymouth Is Scene of Large Gathering.

Masonic building in East Weymouth was the scene on Wednesday night of the largest and most interesting meeting of the kind ever held in Weymouth, the occasion being the annual official visit of the District Deputy to the lodge.

It is quite a number of years since the District Deputy has been a member of Orphans' Hope and the honor has now fallen to Wor. Bro. Gardner R. P. Barker a Past Master of the lodge.

The lodge was opened at 7 o'clock with W. M. George F. Farrar in the chair and the usual routine business disposed of with a constant inflow of visitors from every direction and the register showed guests from all parts of the 26th Masonic District as well as from several other districts and the house capacity was well tested.

R. W. Gardner R. P. Barker, D. D. G. M. of the 26th Masonic District and suite were received by the following committees:—Wor. Bros. M. E. Hawes, Francis A. Bicknell, Joseph E. Gardner, Joseph Chase Jr., T. J. Evans, Frank H. Torrey, William P. Denbroeder, and Leavitt W. Bates, past masters of the lodge and Louis K. Jones and Willard J. Dunbar.

The official suite were W. B. Ernest S. Rogers, D. D. G. S. Warden; W. B. H. Everett Crane, D. D. G. J. Warden; W. B. Walter S. Pinkham, D. D. G. Treasurer; Bro. Henry P. Higgins, D. D. G. Secretary; W. B. Charles W. Dunbar, Grand Marshal; R. W. Charles R. Ramsey, Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts.

There was an exemplification of 2d degree work and the district deputy gave much valuable information in regard to the new Masonic Home at Worcester.

At the conclusion of the lodge exercises the company, numbering more than 250, was invited to the banquet hall where all were seated and after the invocation of Divine blessing by Rev. Charles Clark of the Pilgrim church, North Weymouth, proceeded to discuss a menu served by Bates & Humphrey, caterers.

At 10.15, the scene closed and every road from Dedham to Plymouth soon had on it, guests from the annual visit of the District Deputy to Orphans Hope Lodge.

Hygienic Science

The hearty good-fellowship heretofore prevailing between those old friends Dirt and Disease is beginning to show signs of "cracking" under the strain of the thoroughgoing hostility evidenced by the 62,000 members of the Mass. State Federation of Women's Clubs, who have sponsored the great Domestic Science and Pure Food Exposition held in Mechanics Building.

Besides devoting generous attention to the twin subjects of domestic science and pure food, this exposition delivers a broadside of ocular and aural shrapnel at the well-known enemy Dirt, with the frankly avowed purpose of wiping it off the map of the American family.

The health department of the city of Boston, for instance, has set up a cluttered, disorderly and filthy back yard. And right along side, a spick-and-span sample of the approved variety, with such telling effect, that he who even glances may read, reflect and inwardly cogitate. They show, moreover, no less than twenty actual photographs of unclean stores. And in shining contrast, a real model store, completely equipped, sterilized, swept, dusted and shampooed.

By word of mouth, in lectures, and demonstrations, the necessity for cleanliness in all domestic operations, from heating the baby's milk down to washing the family cat and polishing the fire-dogs on the family hearth, is convincingly brought home to thousands of visitors to the exposition. Sanitary methods in the preparation of all kinds of foodstuffs and approved hygienic methods of heating, ventilating, and even furnishing the home is exemplified in many exhibits and by various lecturers. Even the Boston fire department plans to show the enormous fire hazard lurking in the otherwise harmless bit of news or wrapping-paper, carelessly thrown in the cellar or dropped by the wooden kitchen steps. In short, the campaign for cleanliness is a permanent, rather than a spasmodic nature, will be tremendously advanced by this exposition, to which the clubwomen of New England are expected to flock in large numbers.

Surely.

"Did you ever notice," said Mrs. N. Peck, "that about half of the pictures in the photographers' windows are of bridal couples? I wonder why they always rush off to a photographer's so soon?" "I fancy the husband is responsible for it," said Mr. Peck. "He realizes that it is about his last chance to ever look pleasant."

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Is your shock corn cured enough to husk out? If so get at it before cold weather comes.

A hog to be fattened cheapest, and in the shortest time, should constantly be fed to the full, and fed regularly at about the same hours daily.

When a contagious disease breaks out in a flock of fowls, it is better to destroy them all rather than have the disease get "rooted" on the farm, as the germs may remain for years.

Take care of the plows. Get them under cover. Clean and grease bright parts so that when wanted next spring they will scour and save the time so many farmers lose in putting their implements into working order.

Don't be sparing of water on your window boxes. Ninety-nine cases of failure out of a hundred result from a lack of sufficient water. Being exposed to the air on all sides, evaporation takes place rapidly. Apply water by the painful instead of bowlful and there need be no failure to grow just as good plants in the window box as in the garden beds.

There are a number of "reasons why" autumn is surely the best season for transplanting. Among shrubberies and flower borders it is much easier to judge now, where to plant new things, than when the other plants have died down, and no "landmarks" are left to show where they grew, as is the case in very early spring.

It is generally considered advisable to remove all wood from both currant and gooseberry bushes that is more than four years old. Then thin out the new canes that came up from the ground or near the ground last season to three or four of the strongest ones, and head these back to about two feet in length.

In popular practice alfalfa hay has been found so satisfactory that approximately four-fifths of the country's crop is consumed in this way. There are, however, other uses to which it may be put. Notable among these is its value as a sowing crop. After each cutting it renews its growth with great readiness.

All wealth comes originally from the soil. The so-called economic plants are workers that create wealth for the human race. By their efforts we are fed and supported. It is of obvious importance, therefore, that we should know which of them are the most efficient and capable of producing the largest output, in terms of value.

If manure is not available in generous quantities, a compost heap will help to supply the needed humus, and commercial fertilizers will provide the plant food. A compost heap should have a place in every garden anyway. It is made simply by throwing in a pile all the leaves and garden refuse which comes to hand, with the addition of some manure, including that from the poultry yard. It may be turned occasionally, and when thoroughly decomposed, spread on the garden.

In case no winter cover crop is used the level land should be disked or harrowed two or three times during the winter, provided it is dry enough. Give good drainage to all parts of the field, and any cultivation done after the deep fall breaking should be shallow, not more than 3 or 4 inches deep.

The necessity of thoroughly cleaning the poultry house at this season of the year is obvious to all who give the subject much thought. During the summer the hot weather has quite likely added filth and disease germs to those which already existed and has assisted any lice and mites that were present to multiply their number rapidly. To put the fowls in winter quarters filled with vermin, disease germs and dirt is to invite trouble before cold weather fairly sets in, and to kill the profit in advance.

It is very easy to propagate most varieties of grapes, and others are very difficult. The ordinary way is from mature wood of the last year's growth, cut from the vines almost any time when there are no leaves on them or from November to April. The wood should be of strong vigorous growth. The cuttings should be about 8 to 10 inches long and with a bud near each end. They are best buried in the ground after being tied in small bundles and left until the time for making early garden, when they should be set in nursery rows in good soil.

Having found concrete foundation and cellar wall construction to be so cheap and good in every way, farmers now are beginning to use cement and concrete extensively in the superstructure work of buildings. The all-concrete farm building has not become a success, and it may never become a practical reality, yet

BELGIAN KONGO SAVAGES.

Cannibals in War Paint Whose Past is Black Mystery.

In his book "Hunting and Hunted in the Belgian Kongo" Mr. R. D. Cooper speaks of the remarkable people who live in the forest wilds:

"Threading our way down the stony path, winding in and out among the trees, we began to walk the remaining few miles along the sandy shore to Butaba. A slight breeze sprang up from the southwest, and very shortly the sun had kissed the Bulegga mountain peaks that rose thousands of feet sheer from the water's edge in the west.

"Gaunt forbidding sentinels of the Kongo! What strange people dwell behind you—the dwarfs and others, with their poisoned implements of war—cannibalism with all its attendant horrors—a people that cannot tell us of their past. The ages gone by are all a blank to them. These people are akin to the beasts of the forest, inasmuch as they care only for the present. They live for the present. The past is gone. No records have been written of them.

"The war paint of vermilion colored pigments which is smeared all over their bodies adds to the hideousness of these savages, darting from rock to rock, hiding behind trees, lying hidden in the foliage overhead, waging war with all. Tragedy follows tragedy behind those Bulegga mountains in the Kongo, to the south of which lie the snow capped crests of rugged Ruwenzori."

QUEER JOURNALISTIC FEAT.

It Hit the London Times and Boomed the Manchester Guardian.

Once there was an obscure subeditor of the Manchester Guardian in England. It was a long time ago, and the Guardian was scarcely known outside of its own city.

The subeditor had a habit of drinking ale until he was so drowsy that he could not lift his head from his desk. On one occasion the composing room was yelling for "copy," as the editorial page was absolutely vacant.

The subeditor had been asleep on his desk for hours and his pen had been idle. The foreman of the composing room finally succeeded in arousing the man and yelled in his ear that something must be done for copy.

Whereupon the sleepy one grabbed a pair of shears and clipped one whole column from the editorial page of the London Times. At the top he wrote in a crabbed hand:

"What does the London Times mean by the following?"

It was printed, column and all. That single quizzical introduction made the Manchester Guardian famous. People began to ask what the Times did mean by the editorial, which was on a rather revolutionary subject. The subeditor slept for several hours, but John E. Wilkie says his paper's greatness began from that moment.—Washing

Palace and Hovel.

Probably in Constantinople, which has been described as the "city of hovels," there is a greater contrast between the public and private buildings than in any other city in the world. The streets are narrow, tortuous and dirty, and even the better class of private houses are mean in comparison with those of a similar class in other countries. On the other hand, the mosques and palaces are magnificent in size, design and materials of construction, most of them being of marble, white or gray. The seraglio is one of the finest buildings in Europe.

Often Happens So.

"I wonder," says old Pop Crabbe, "why it is that when you've stood around in a store for twenty minutes and finally given your order half a dozen clerks immediately rush up and ask if you've been waited on."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fixing the Date.

"Say, old man, lend me a five-cent piece, will you?"
"Which? Your pay day or the day you'll pay me?"—Boston Transcript.

Failure is very often the result of waiting for other people to do things first.

KEEPING A RESOLUTION

By MARGARET C. DEVEREAUX

The day I was graduated from the medical school—the only woman in my class—dear old Dr. Phillips, who handed me my diploma, said to me, with a smile:

"There it is, my dear. But it will do you no good."

"Why do you say that, doctor?" I asked, much disconcerted.

"Some young fellow will induce you to marry him, and you will have no time to practice a profession which, if practiced properly, will require all your time."

I was young and headstrong. Moreover, I had spent years preparing myself for my vocation. I grasped the doctor's hand and, raising my other, dramatically said:

"I promise you, Dr. Phillips, that I will devote my life to the sick. I make this pledge that it shall be impossible for me to go back on my profession."

I shall never forget the kindly smile or the twinkle of the eye with which the good doctor received this vow. I strutted out of the room and as I closed the door behind me I shut off part of what he said:

"I'll bet you don't practice three"—I tried to get a position that would give me hospital work, but, failing in this, hung up my shingle as a general practitioner. I had been practicing but a few months when an elderly lady came to my office and said that she would like me to treat her son. From her description of his disease I thought that it was probably melancholia. The young man was up and about and attending to business. I therefore suggested that he call at my office during my consultation hours. But his mother said that it was she who desired the services of a physician for her son and she could only succeed in submitting him to treatment and insisted on my going to the house. Besides, she wished him to see a woman physician, whereas if he went to an office he would probably go to a man.

This argument prevailed, and it was agreed that I was to call the next day after 5 in the afternoon, when the young man—Dick his mother called him—had returned from business. I made the call, was received by the lady and introduced to the patient. There was that about him which reminded me of some one else, but I could not tell who the other person was. He did not appear to be ill, but appearances are often deceptive.

I plied him with questions, which he seemed disinclined to answer, and I succeeded in getting very little out of him. All I could do was to recommend that he take out of door exercise and have what society he relished. His mother was present during the interview, and when I arose to depart she put her arms about me and said:

"Help us out by giving us your company occasionally as well as your professional services, won't you? Dick won't go out, and I know no young persons to invite to the house."

I could give no definite reply to this, of course, and simply bowed assent. "Oblige me by staying to dinner with us," continued the old lady, and she began quietly to remove my hat and coat. I made but a faint resistance, and we were soon enjoying ourselves at table. For my life I could see no sign of illness in Dick, who was very entertaining and charmed me with his conversation.

I am not going to give the history of my professional treatment of my patient, Richard Ashley, for mingled with it is a love story of which he is the hero and I the heroine. He was never ill, though he led me to suppose that there was a nervous weakness about him that did not appear on the surface. I studied his case for months, trying different remedies, which I had my doubts he ever took. Finally I found myself so deeply in love that I was ready to sacrifice my profession for him. Indeed, the great problem of my life became, not how to cure him, or any one else, for that matter, but to appropriate him to myself. It was I rather than he who suffered from a peculiar disease. If any attractive young woman came near him I was seized with a terrible anxiety lest some other woman should take him away from me.

However, time proved that these fears were groundless, for one evening after one of my visits to him and I had been invited to dinner his mother left us alone together in the library, and what I so desired was clinched by a proposal.

As soon as our engagement was made known to the members of our respective families congratulations began to come in. "His sisters and his cousins and his aunts" called on me, and they were all not only very gracious to me, but regarded me with an amused curiosity. One day who should come to see me but my old preceptor, Dr. Phillips, to whom I had made the pledge not to marry. I could not escape him, so I faced him. He was brimming over with amusement.

"You little humbug!" he said. "I knew you would not be saved for the medical profession, so I resolved to get you into my family. I told my nephew about you and your pledge, suggesting that he make you break it. He has done his work beautifully, though his mother has been of great assistance to him."

"You miserable, mean, good for nothing"—I threw myself into the dear old man's arms.

Mildew Stains.
 Mildew stains are sometimes a source of great trouble, and are difficult to remove unless you know just the right way. Rub a little soap over the mildew spots, and on top of this a little chalk and lemon juice. If the garment is then put out in the sun for a couple of hours and afterwards washed in the usual way the spots will disappear.

Tests for Drunkenness.
 In a recent court of inquiry in an Indiana town a former bartender was called to the stand as an expert in the matter of what constitutes drunkenness. "Of course, when a man can't track right, he's drunk," said the former bartender, "but outside of that I'm always sure he's 'tight' if he cries and tells what a good wife and family he has; tells me in confidence he is making $5,000 a year, or preaches a sermon to all his fellow-bar-flies on the evils of drink."

FRIDAY, OCT. 23, 1914

The Gazette & Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all News-stands in the Weymouths and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

Are you a citizen of Weymouth and not a registered voter? If so take notice that tomorrow is the last day to get your name on the list. The registrars will be in session at the Town office from 12 m. to 10 p. m.

All Weymouth citizens, who are not on the town's voting list should mark this date, for no good citizen should find himself unable to vote when the time comes for casting his ballot. American citizenship demands that every one eligible so to do, should assume this fundamental responsibility of community life.

Let those whose names are not registered, avail themselves of the one remaining day of opportunity.

Shall the "Old Town Meeting" and the "Old Town Form of Government" be abandoned is the question which is now agitating many communities. For several hundred years the Town Meeting was the transaction of business which in many respects was the business of a little nation or municipality which was independent of the entire world. The people in the main were a people who knew each his neighbor and also all the wants and conditions of his town.

The last fifty years however has wrought a mighty change, towns and cities are no longer narrowed down to a small class of nationalities in their make up neither are they as a rule made up of permanent citizens.

Cosmopolitan and movable have become the words and this calls for a new order of things, and the problem is what is the proper form of town government, and the problem will not be worked out without more or less friction and many changes. Dayton, Ohio is the first city or town to put its affairs in the hands of a town manager and now Norwood has taken a step in this direction and, in January next, will abandon many of its board of town officers and place its affairs in the hands of a business manager with quite a broad authority and yet in a measure subject to a Board of Selectmen who, with a treasurer and tax collector, will be the only elected officers of the town.

Old Colony Ladies' Club.

A very large audience was out for the musicale given by the Old Colony Ladies' Club yesterday afternoon in the Universalist church, South Weymouth. The program was given by Miss Ethel F. Raymond assisted by Madame Wilhelmina Wright-Calvert, soprano and Carl Webster, cellist.

Too Great a Shock.

Caller—"Very, very sad case—what was the cause of such a mental wreck?" Keeper—"He wrote a hundred good scenarios for the moving-picture companies and they finally accepted one. The shock was so great that he had a mental collapse."—New York Sun.

Seemed to Him Wasteful.

A young Frenchman was being shown about Calderstones park by an English friend. "What a fine place this would make for shooting. Look at the birds flying about," said the Frenchman. The Englishman replied to the effect that, with certain exceptions, it was the spirit of the country to encourage bird life. The son of Gaul shook his head and observed half-sorrowfully. "It does seem a pity that all this food should be flying around and no use made of it."

Some Club Suggestions.

The members of a Manchester club were using the "suggestion" book for grumbles rather than for the purpose which its name implied, and the committee, says the Manchester Guardian, sarcastically put up a notice giving the dictionary meaning of the word "suggestion." Swiftly two of the grumblers got back at them. One suggested "that beans and their strings be served in separate dishes" and another "that smaller egg spoons be provided or larger eggs."

WEYMOUTH HEIGHTS

—Mrs. James B. Jones has been a recent guest of her brother, Charles Bacon of Providence, R. I.
—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bradford leave tomorrow (Saturday) on a week's trip to Niagara Falls and New York City.
—Miss Hope Barnard of Ashmont has been visiting friends at the Heights.
—Mrs. Archibald Gassick and twin boys of Quincy spent last Thursday with Mrs. J. C. Nash.
—The L. B. S. will hold an all day sewing meeting at the Old North chapel next Wednesday. The luncheon at noon will be in the form of a covered dish party.
—Miss Abbie Bates pleasantly entertained the home department of the Old North Sunday school last Friday afternoon. It was decided at this meeting to meet at different homes the last Thursday afternoon of each month for the purpose of studying the lesson for the quarter. The next meeting will be held with Miss M. M. Hunt Thursday afternoon.

—The Ladies Benevolence society gave their first supper and entertainment of the season in the chapel of the Old North church on Tuesday evening. A splendid supper was served at 6.30 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Albert Gladwin, Mrs. James Jones, Mrs. F. C. McDowell and Mrs. Elmer Lunt. The entertainment opened by pleasing piano selections by Mrs. F. C. McDowell, which was followed by readings by Miss Mary Humphrey. Quartet selections were rendered by the Misses Helen Ries, Doris Winters, Marlon Lunt and Isabel Jones and the cornet solos by Walter Philbrook received much applause. One of the features of the evening was the singing of "Star Spangled Banner" by a young men's chorus during which Miss Grace Stevenson held the flag.

—A missionary service was held in the chapel of the Old North church on Sunday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary society, the leader being Mrs. John B. Merrill, assisted by Miss Mary Lou. Part of the service was devoted to comparing our children at school with the children in Mission schools; there being several people to whom questions on the subject had been distributed. A very interesting paper entitled "The World's Organization for Missions" was given by Mrs. Merrill. A selection was rendered by the Wide Awakes.

LOVELL'S CORNER

—The Ladies Aid held a baked bean supper in the church vestry Wednesday evening.

—The topic for the morning service at the Porter church next Sunday is "The Redemption Seal." In the evening Rev. Carl Thompson will speak on the subject "Haman or Mordecai?"

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sherman and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bancroft and son Theodore have closed their summer home on Pleasant street and returned to Dorchester for the winter.

—The gunning club at Bryant's stand gave a goose dinner at the stand Sunday afternoon. Blanchard of South Weymouth was caterer and Adolphus Poole toast master.

—Robert Hoffman and Walter Pratt entertained the Republican town committee at Pratt hall Monday evening. A smoke talk was given and refreshments served.

Diplomacy.

—The Ladies' Social circle of the M. E. church held an all day meeting in the Ladies parlor, Wednesday, Oct. 21. Dinner was served at noon by Mrs. Cushing and Mrs. Harrington. Mrs. Frost, president of the Auxiliary of the Morgan Memorial attended the meeting and gave a very interesting talk on the great work done by that institution.

The Rivals.

It was at Nice. Two English girls are standing at the foot of a hotel staircase roaring with laughter. "For pity's sake, Mabel, don't!" said one of the matrons who were with them. "They'll take you for one of those horrid American girls." An American girl happened to be standing at the head of the stairs and quietly observed: "I guess not, with those awfully big feet!"

Folk-Lore.

The term folk-lore was first suggested by Mr. W. J. Thomas in 1846 to designate what was then for the first time becoming a subject of wide popular interest, considered as a department of the study of antiquities or archaeology, and embracing everything that related to ancient observances and customs, to the notions, beliefs, traditions, superstitions and prejudices of the common people.

Political Advertisement

A. W. Hastings
PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. Hastings is a native of Weymouth, son of late Captain Hastings. He left this town when a young man to work in the iron mills of Pennsylvania and Ohio and has continued in that industry up to the present time. Until the birth of the Progressive Party two years ago, he had not engaged actively in politics, and enters the field in the belief that the working people should and must be better represented. He contends that the privileged few should not dominate the masses, but that the masses can find the best representation within themselves. Mr. Hastings pledges himself to represent all of his constituents equally.

—Illustrated lectures, "What We Can Learn from the Germans," by Dr. L. M. Powers, at Universalist church, Columbian square, Sunday at 7.—Adv.

—Carl Sherman is ill at his home on Pond street.

—Wallace Lyons is recovering from a severe sprain in his arm.

—The Sowena Sewing circle held an interesting session with Mrs. Augusta Ducker last Friday.

—Rev. Harry W. Kimball preached in the Union Congregational church last Sunday morning. His theme was "The War as a Test of Faith."

—Fred Lyman and family of Sharon, Vt., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Melville Blanchard.

—Mrs. James Perry and nephew, Herbert Gibson of Calais, Maine are visiting Walter Gibson of this village.

—Seth C. Vining Jr. has taken a position as chauffeur in New Bedford.

—Representative Kenneth L. Nash is home from St. Louis, where he has been playing ball with the Cardinals the past season. "Ken" had a very good season, hitting for an average of around .280 and fielding about 900. He was particularly prominent, both at the bat and in the field in the inter-league series between the Cardinals and Browns.

—The new store, on the Pleasant street corner of the Fogg block, of the Elbridge Nash Drug Co. is rapidly nearing completion. Three large trees, are to be removed, near the building, giving more light and a better view of the new store.

—Mrs. William Ward Jr. of Panama is visiting relatives in town. Mrs. Ward was formerly Miss Mildred Harding of this village.

—Rev. Henry C. Alvord of the Old South church, gave an interesting sermon last Sunday evening on "Ancient Galahia and her Descendants of Gaul." At the Christian Endeavor meeting held at 6 o'clock, "A Saloonless Nation; Why No, How?" was the topic of discussion.

—The Bassobee club, composed of several ladies in the vicinity of Bates avenue, held a very interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Stephen Pratt on Union street last Monday evening.

—The Kewpie club of Rockland was entertained last Friday evening by Miss Lora Hackett of this place. Miss Elsie Capen took the whist honors. After the whist, refreshments were served by the Misses Alice and Lora Hackett and a musical program was given.

—Several from this town attended the fifth annual barn dance of the Central Social club of Holbrook in that town last Friday night.

—Mrs. Roger C. Holden is visiting in Ringold, Ga.

—William Klingman and family of New York have taken up their residence on Hollis street.

—Mrs. Warren Simpson has been the recent guest of her daughter, Miss Helen Simpson of Northfield Seminary.

—While picking apples twenty feet from the ground last Friday, William Melville of Main street, Nash Corner, slipped and fell to the ground. The fall rendered him unconscious and he was attended by a physician. The young man was fortunate enough to escape with a severe shaking up.

—Deputy Mrs. Florine Ducker and suite of this place will be special guests this evening at the 26th anniversary celebration of Rose Standish Lodge in Rockland.

—Friends from this place attended the linen shower tendered to Miss Geneva Reid at her home in Whitman last Friday evening.

Universalist Church Notes. Morning service at 10.30. Sunday School at 11.45. Illustrated lecture at 7. Music by chorus choir under direction of Miss Annie Deane. Preaching Sunday by the Pastor. A cordial invitation to all.

At the meeting of the Old Colony Association of Universalist churches held at West Norwell last Tuesday Rev. W. W. Rose was elected president for the ensuing year.

Old South Church Notes. The Sunday School expects to hold its Harvest concert in the church next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. All interested will be cordially welcome. The other meetings will be omitted. The Thursday evening meeting next week will be held as a preparatory service for the communion the following Sunday.

Something Like Snobbery. The Montreal Gazette notes that a college woman who has been investigating sociological conditions in New York "was surprised to find that the waitresses in a cheap restaurant where she worked for a while incognitely were honest and kindly and happy." The Gazette wonders at her "surprise," and asks: "Does a person to be decent and good have to be a sociologist of independent means?"

Knew His Colleague. Two Manhattan physicians were enjoying the breeze from the front seat on the "hurricane deck" of a Riverside Drive bus one afternoon, when part of their conversation was overheard. It ran like this: "I performed an operation for appendicitis on the wife of a millionaire yesterday," said the stouter of the pair. "Yes," said the other. "What was she suffering from?"

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO. Verdict Rendered.—A verdict against the town for $32,029 and a fraction, rendered yesterday. At noon Wednesday, after Judge Barker had charged the jury for about two hours, they retired and at a late hour returned a sealed verdict which was announced at the opening of court Thursday morning, which was in favor of the plaintiffs. The amounts are as follows: Quincy L. Reed, exr., et al., $3884; Reuben Loud et al., $2707; Elton Sherman, $3531; John C. Howe et al., $4708; John E. Sanford, et al, ass's of Weymouth Iron Company, $17,199; total amount against the town, $32,029.

This is the largest verdict ever rendered in this court, and is one of the largest known to have been rendered against any town in New England. The town is satisfied, but it is said the plaintiffs are not, and probably will take exceptions.

Precinct Voting.—For the first time in the town's history the citizens of Weymouth will have an opportunity to vote in precincts instead of going to the town hall to exercise their suffrage.

The selectmen announce in another column the following places in the various precincts. The selectmen have appointed the following wardens and clerks for the different precincts:

Precinct 1—wardens, John W. Bartlett, John A. Holbrook; clerk, H. A. Newton.

Precinct 2—Thomas H. Humphrey, George W. Baker; clerk, Joseph A. Cushing.

Precinct 3—wardens, Samuel Curtis, George E. Porter; clerk, William S. Wallace.

Precinct 4—wardens, Charles Hawes, Marshal T. Sprague; clerk, J. Ellis Gardner.

Precinct 5—wardens, J. Clarence Howe, Gordon Willis; clerk, Joseph Dyer.

THIRTY FIVE YEARS AGO

Grand Butler and Woodworth rally Thursday evening at South Weymouth. A flag will be flung to the breeze. Horace Binney Sargent addresses the multitude in Music hall. Simpson's Drum Corps will intersperse some of their choicest selections.

The funeral ceremonies over the remains of the late Robert B. Raymond were observed at the Cong'l church, E. Weymouth, last Saturday afternoon, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Eldredge, officiating, and Rev. D. Waldron, a former pastor, also taking part in the exercises. The body was brought to the church under escort of Orphans' Hope Lodge F. & A. M., Crescent Lodge I. O. O. F., and Mechanics Temple of Honor.

Annual Meeting of the W. A. & I. Society.—At the annual meeting of the Weymouth Agricultural society, held last Tuesday evening, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Albert Tirrell; vice presidents, Josiah Reed, Geo B. Clapp, J. M. Whitcomb; treasurer, George W. Bates; secretary, Wm. Dyer.

THIRTY ONE YEARS AGO.

The wells are still very dry in this vicinity, although the cisterns have been filled up considerably by the brief but heavy rains. Many are still compelled to bring water from a distance and at great inconvenience.

I, the undersigned, hereby challenge any man to row me a 5-mile dory race on Weymouth Back river for any amount. Timmie A. Sullivan preferred, East Weymouth. T. G. Kennedy.

The canvassers political claim a majority on both sides in Weymouth, but the result of the election depends upon the action of Republicans in voting or staying away from the polls. Lukewarm supporters of party principals are a greater hindrance to success than active opposers.

Political clubs have not yet been formed in this village, (South Weymouth) but private discussion is very lively in many quarters, both sides being confident of victory. The republicans expect to throw a Robinson and Ames flag to the breeze in a few days, and the Butler ratification meeting at town hall, tomorrow evening, to be followed by the grand rally on Friday evening of next week.

Poor Chance for Millenium. If the millenium doesn't show up until a mother admits that her own children are naughty and those next door are angels it will never arrive.

$100 REWARD, $100 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Down the Line.

Recently a day city editor entered the Nassau street entrance of a cafe which also has an entrance on Park row. When he slipped up to the bar and looked toward the row he saw about ten men he knew lined up who greeted him kindly. Putting a $2 bill on the mahogany he said gently to the bartender: "This is all I have with me. Send it as far west as possible, old man."—Editor and Publisher.

The Minstrel
A Medieval Story of the Rhine
By F. A. MITCHEL

Not far from Ehrenbreitstein, on the Rhine and on the same side of the river, is a castle, or, rather, the ruin of a castle, which looms up against the sky when seen from the stream below by the thousands of tourists who pass in the Rhine boat. Light clouds sail above it, winds circle about it, as when it was a fortress and the banner of its possessor floated above its highest tower. On looking up at it from the steamer's deck one may fancy its drawbridge let down to the distant rattle of chains, its portcullis raised and the baron himself at the head of a body of his retainers emerge and ride proudly down the declivity.

At any rate, such were my flights of fancy as I watched it while passing up the river and saw it appear faint as mist ahead, reveal itself as we stemmed by, then recede and finally disappear in the distance behind.

I asked a gentleman who was gazing upon it as intently as I if he could tell me anything about it when it was in its prime. He proved to be a student of the history of the castles of the Rhine and gave me an incident pertaining to this particular one that I afterward wrote out as follows:

During the seventeenth century a family known by the name of Wrenthelm occupied the castle, the last possessor of that name being Baron Caspar Wrenthelm. This nobleman had no sons, his only child being a daughter, Bertha. Since this girl would inherit all her father's possessions at his death, besides being a very attractive woman, there were many suitors for her hand. Among them was Count Carl Kellerman, the possessor of an estate lying a few leagues from the river and not far from Wrenthelm castle. He was a commoner who had grown rich in trade and had purchased his title. Very ambitious, he made up his mind that he would marry Bertha, thereby becoming the possessor of a castle and a feudal lord.

One morning when Bertha was walking on the battlements of her father's castle she saw a cavalcade approaching. Seeing that it would enter the inclosure, she went to a room overlooking the courtyard. There she saw Count Carl Kellerman dismount from his horse and enter the living apartments of the castle.

Kellerman was fifty years old and extremely ill favored. He was bent in the back and bald, and his face indicated a grasping disposition. Bertha took a great dislike to him even at seeing him. He had not been in the castle long before her father came to her and informed her that the count had come to propose for her hand. The baron had replied that he would refer the matter to his daughter. Bertha sent back a refusal. The count left the castle showing his spleen at being refused, and the baron knew that he would find some pretext for a quarrel. This he dreaded, for, though the count was not a fugerain—that is, a feudal lord—he was rich and could hire men to fight for him.

Not long after Kellerman's refusal some of the baron's retainers while crossing territory owned by the latter were attacked by him and his hirelings, who were far more numerous, overpowered and taken prisoners. Kellerman sent Wrenthelm word that his men had been trespassing on his property. He would release them if the baron would give him his daughter to wife; if not he would put out their eyes and send them back to him. He gave the baron a week to consider his proposition.

Both father and daughter were much beloved by their retainers because of their kindness and affection for all who were in any way dependent on their bounty. This offer placed them in a desperate position. Either Bertha must marry the hated Kellerman or the captives, some of whom were the fathers of families, while others were dear either as brothers or lovers, would be blinded for the rest of their lives.

Bertha secretly resolved that she would save the prisoners, but before a marriage with the detestable man who had made such an inhuman proposition would take her own life.

One evening when the baron and his daughter were sitting together bemoaning the misfortune that had befallen them a servant announced that a minstrel was without who would, if permitted, afford entertainment. The baron was about to direct that the man be sent away when Bertha interposed, saying that the music might serve to draw their minds from their trouble. The baron assented, and the minstrel was admitted.

Wilhelm—the only name the young man gave himself—was tall and straight as an arrow. He unstrung his harp as easily as if it had been a crossbow and was about to begin a song when the baron said to him:

"I wonder that one should devote himself to the harp whose arm seems far more fitted to wield the battle-axe."
"If you prefer military service to song I will give it," replied the minstrel.
"Would that you could serve us in that way, but it is impossible."
"Why so?"
"The baron gave an account of the application of Count Kellerman for Bertha's hand and of the means he had taken to force the alliance. When he had finished the minstrel asked at what time the terms must be accepted or rejected and was informed that only three days remained for a decision.

"Since you require military service of me," said Wilhelm, "I will not waste time in song. Adieu. Perhaps I shall soon see you again." And the harpist took his departure.

He was not seen after that for some hours. Baron Wrenthelm attached no importance to his coming and was not impressed by his going. Not so Bertha. She had listened with rapt attention to his music and when he had gone said to her father that something told her the young man would bring them deliverance. But the baron was despondent, and she failed to arouse hope in him.

The next day the minstrel returned and asked to see the baron. When the latter appeared Wilhelm said to him:
"I have been to the home of Count Kellerman, where I offered to sing for him. He listened to my song, in which I predicted that he would marry a beautiful woman and become a feudal lord. He was so pleased that he gave orders that I be well treated. I learned where the prisoners were kept and during the night made an inspection of the building. Give me a force of picked men, and tonight I will liberate them. They are guarded by a hundred hirelings, who, if surprised, may be put to flight by half their number of real men at arms."

The baron, inspired by hope, at once gave orders for the selection of the men required. He longed to head the expedition himself, but this would not be just to Wilhelm. Besides, the baron was too deeply interested to retain that coolness which was required. At midnight fifty of the best men among the baron's retainers were gathered in the courtyard of the castle, and the minstrel, who now carried a sword instead of a harp, after telling them that they were to go to rescue their comrades and save the Countess Bertha from marriage with a villain, gave them their instructions. They were to go separately and by different routes to a wood near Count Kellerman's estate, where they would lie concealed till the minstrel appeared to lead them to the rescue. They would hear the castle clock strike the hour of midnight and must then be ready for what was to follow.

As soon as the men had received these instructions they began to leave the castle, some in groups of two or three, but most of them singly. It was an hour before the last man, the minstrel himself, left. Before going Bertha pressed his hand and bade him godspeed. Then he struck out by the shortest route to his destination, reaching the rendezvous just as the castle clock in the distance could be faintly heard striking the hour of midnight.

Kellerman's precautions against a rescue had been fairly well taken. He had put out a picket on the road by which a force might approach from the castle, but he had relied upon this and a guard of 200 men to protect the building containing the prisoners, dividing it into reliefs, so that half the guard would be always under arms. The rescuing party not having gone to the attack in a body and not in any case by the road, the count's guards were ignorant of the few but resolute men in the wood not half a league distant from them.

Wilhelm led his men crouching among the bushes toward their goal till but a few hundred yards remained to be traversed. Six men carried a log, with which they were to batter down the doors of the prison and release the prisoners. When a signal—two shots from an arquebus—was given the attacking party were to engage the guards while the six men used the battering ram.

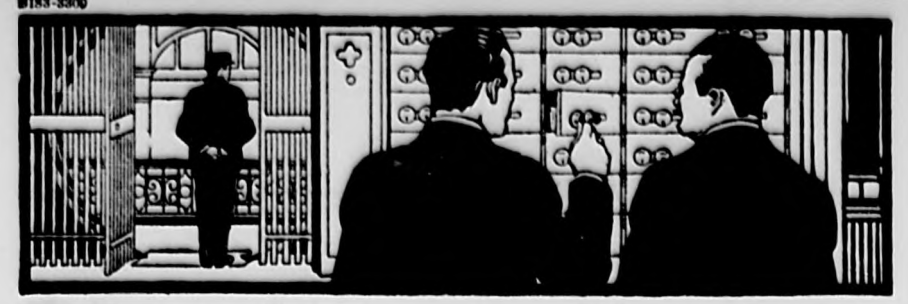

Suddenly two shots rang out on the still air and were followed by terrific yells. The guards on duty sprang to arms, but had not time to form before a wedge shaped body of men split them in two parts, driving them from the building they were charged with protecting. Then commenced a series of loud thuds on the prison door. In a few minutes it yielded, and the prisoners poured forth, each man being handed arms as he appeared.

Meanwhile the hundred men of the guard who were sleeping were aroused. Those who were engaged were rallied, and an overwhelming force was ready to repel the enemy. Too late. A shrill whistle gave the signal for retreat, and Wilhelm, in command of a rear guard, engaged Kellerman's men, while the advance, in which were the released prisoners, made their way back in the direction of the castle. Shortly before dawn all passed over the drawbridge in no haste, for the count, having lost his prisoners, had withdrawn his men.

The courtyard was ablaze with torches; all the inmates were present to welcome their returned victorious comrades and the rescued prisoners. The old pile rang with acclamations. The baron, with Bertha, stepped forth to thank the minstrel, and, after doing so, the baron said:

"What can I bestow upon you for this great service?"

"Nothing, except what I came for. I am Wilhelm Ballenstein, the son and heir of Baron Ballenstein, whose castle stands near the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle. Hearing of the Lady Bertha, I came in the guise of a minstrel to satisfy myself as to the truth of reports of her beauty and good qualities before asking to be honored with her hand. I am more than satisfied and beg to be entered on the list of her many suitors."
The victory was followed by a wedding, and in time the groom drove Count Kellerman out of the country.

IN BRICK VENEER AND ROUGH CAST.

Design 611, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

This floor arrangement is certainly ideal. Note the long living room with fireplace, the den connecting with it at the rear and the sun room next to the den. The dining room has a beamed ceiling and built-in buffet, with windows above. The second story is equally well arranged as the first. Four sleeping chambers with an abundance of closet space; also bathroom with clothes chute. The very large sleeping porch across the rear connects with a balcony. For a combination of brick, rough cast and half timber exterior and well arranged interior this plan has no equal.

Size, 32 feet 10 inches by 34 feet 10 inches. Full basement, 8 1/2 feet. First story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet. Finished throughout first story in birch, red gum or oak, second story pine to enamel. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $5,000.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will furnish a copy of Saxton's new 1914 book of plans, "American Dwellings." It contains 310 designs costing from $1,000 to $8,000; also a book of interiors for $1.50.

SOAPING A GEYSER.
 Food That Roused the Fury of the Sleeping Wairoa.
 Some of the larger geysers in New Zealand will not play unless they are soaped—a process only occasionally allowed, as too much soaping weakens the geyser. Paul Gooding in "Picturesque New Zealand" describes the soaping of a geyser named Wairoa, he being present at the ceremony. The author states that the officiating priestess was a Maori known as Kathleen, who was clothed in a flax mat completely covered with raka, riri and pigeon feathers:
 "The caretaker approached Kathleen with a big white bag in hand. It was half full of yellow soap cut into small cubes.
 "Are you ready, Kathleen?" he asked.
 "Yes," she promptly answered.
 "Taking out two or three handfuls of soap, the caretaker threw them into Wairoa's deep throat and then handed the bag to Kathleen. Grasping the string handle at the bottom of the bag, she opened the mouth, and out poured a saponaceous stream.
 "Ten minutes passed, but there was only a slight increase in the volume of steam at Wairoa's mouth, and there were no subterranean signs of an imminent eruption. Fifteen, twenty minutes passed with very little change.
 "When thirty minutes had gone there was a rumble, then a splash of water. The people near the geyser backed away. Two or three more splashes followed, and each was higher than its predecessor; then came a hoarse roar, a rush of steam, and up past a low sulphur dyed sliter wall flashed a column of water carrying up clouds of steam. Soap, just common washing soap, had conquered Wairoa and forced it from its lair. Up it continued to go—fifty, sixty, eighty, 120 feet.
 "Wairoa would have gone higher if it hadn't been for the wind," the caretaker told me. "It has been known to go 180 feet."
 "While Wairoa played it played magnificently. In its shaft it rumbled, it flung its hot breath upon the venturesome, and for more than 100 feet around it shook the ground until the earth trembled. For ten minutes it rose and fell. Then down it went, like a thermometer on a frosty night, until it was a mere splasher."
 They Need the Money.
 It is no disgrace to die poor—but it's a mean trick to play on your relatives.

FOUR GREAT HEROES.
 Their Fall From the Giddy Heights of Ambition and Power.
 History records that Alexander the Great, who was the pupil of Aristotle at fourteen, and who reigned over the Macedonians at sixteen, while his father was absent, and who succeeded Philip when he was nineteen, after climbing the heights of his ambition, fell from his lofty eminence. Alexander, with his temples bound in chaplets dipped in the blood of countless nations, looked down upon a conquered world and wept that there was not another one for him to conquer, then set a city on fire and died amid scenes of debauch.
 Hannibal, one of the greatest soldiers who ever lived, after having passed the Alps, to the amazement of Rome, and having successfully fought and conquered the armies of the mistress of the world, stripping three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of her slaughtered warriors, fled from his country. He died by poison administered by his own hand, unlamented, in a foreign land.
 Caesar, considered as a general, a statesman and a ruler, has had few equals and probably no superiors. After conquering 800 cities and dyeing his hands in the blood of millions of his enemies, after having pursued to death the only rival he had, was assassinated by those whom he considered to be his best friends.
 Bonaparte, the greatest general of modern times, after having filled the earth with the terror of his name deluged it with tears and blood and clothed the world, as it were, in sackcloth, ended his days in banishment upon a lonely island in the South Atlantic.
 Another Way to Get Even.
 "I want to sue Dr. Blank for heavy damages!" said the angry citizen entering the lawyer's office.
 "What has he done?" asked the attorney.
 "When he operated on me he left a pair of surgical scissors in me. How much can I sue him for?"
 "Oh, don't sue him at all," counseled the lawyer; "just send him a bill for storage." Ladies' Home Journal.
 Or Her Neighbors.
 Even if she had to have a trained nurse for her own children a woman always knows just what to do for her daughter's little ones.

High School Notes.

Friday, the 30th, marking the annual teacher's convention, will be celebrated by a holiday and also by the Weymouth-Abington game at Abington.

The re-organization of the school orchestra took place on Wednesday of this week. Mr. Calderwood, the director, has the following members in charge: Miss May Hanley '13, Miss Marjorie Keith '15, Miss Jeanette Shaw '16, Ralph Hollis '14, Roger Bureau '15, Norman Dizer '15, Edward Bates '15, Percival Ames '17 and Fred Granger '17.

The slaves of the daily grind will be given a treat next week, a treat that comes once a term. Examinations for the present term will be enjoyed (?) on Wednesday and Thursday. Next to the great joy of taking an exam, comes that of receiving a report card. These will be given out the week following examinations.

The senior members of the Domestic Science class spent the afternoon of Tuesday last in attending the Food Fair in Boston.

A short but enthusiastic mass meeting was held in the assembly hall Wednesday.

About one half the squad witnessed the Tufts-Harvard game at Cambridge on Saturday. A good many of the formations of the Tufts team were interesting to our football players. Johnny Hughes, the center, who attended the game was greatly impressed by the work of the Tufts' center. Fifteen minutes after he arrived on Clapp's field the following Monday, he was able to throw the center's spiral, the loop-the-loop, the dip and act just like a college player.

Collector Billings Banquet.

W. C. Earle tendered a reception and banquet to Edward Billings, collector of the Port of Boston, at the Whale Island club house last night. Among the guests were a few other Custom House officials and Maj. Gen. Robert Bottomly of the State Planning Board. Hon. Geo. L. Barnes was master of ceremonies and Mr. Billings, Gen'l Bottomly, Hon. E. B. Nevin, John W. Cronin and D. M. Easton were respondents to toasts, Mr. Billing speaking more particularly of Custom House work.

Worth Knowing.

The laurel was much in favor in olden days, as it meant "love triumphs." The Greek bride wore a wreath of myrtle. A bride of today may choose her own flower if she wishes, stamping it with her individuality. Some girls take the flower allotted to the month, especially if the time happens to be June, with its wealth of roses. Widows usually wear violets, either white or purple, or a combination of both.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

A New Back for an Old One—How a Weymouth Resident Made a Bad Back Strong.

The back aches at times with a dull indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Weymouth citizen.

Calvin D. Packard, 143 Washington street, Weymouth, says: "My kidney trouble was caused by jarring and riding. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and annoyed me at night. I suffered from pain across my back and felt tired nearly all the time. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. In a short time I could see a marked improvement, and I continued using this remedy until I was relieved. I always have Doan's Kidney Pills on hand, and occasional use keeps me in good shape. You may continue to publish my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills as in the past."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hewitt had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Edison Diamond Disc Phonograph

Mr. Edison's personal invitation is extended to the music lovers of this town to hear his latest invention.

It took him three years to perfect it. It will take three minutes for you to realize what a wonderful thing it is, to appreciate its wonderful power of reproduction, its practically limitless possibilities.

Both Mr. Edison's and our invitations to you are most cordial. If you come today or any time, we shall be glad to play your favorite selections on the Diamond Disc Phonograph. It is easier to demonstrate this instrument than talk about it. You'll see why. We would be pleased to place one of these instruments in your home on approval, and if satisfactory, would sell on easy terms, if desired.

FIRE IN GARDNER BLOCK.

Alarm From Box 23 Last Friday Night in East Weymouth. Second Alarm Sent in as Safeguard Against Conflagration.

At 6.50 o'clock last Friday night fire was discovered in the second floor of the Gardner block in Jackson square, East Weymouth. An alarm was immediately rung in from box 23 and the Ward 2 department and the auto combination from Ward 3 were soon on the scene. Fearing a serious fire like that of May 29 last, when the Town hall, Bicknell's garage and the Leatherette factory were destroyed, District Chief John Q. Hunt of Ward 2, immediately on his arrival, pulled in a second alarm.

At this time smoke was pouring out of the upper parts of the building in large volumes and it looked at one time as if a conflagration was likely. However the East Weymouth department and combination 3 men soon discovered the exact location of the blaze and by the time the apparatus from other parts of the town arrived, had the fire under control. In a very short time after the second alarm was sent in, the hose carriages from North Weymouth, Weymouth Heights, Lovell's Corner and Weymouth Landing, the ladder truck from North Weymouth and the steamer from Weymouth Landing were all on deck ready for duty, but none were needed. The all out was sounded at eight o'clock.

The fire was confined to the partition and closet of a tenement on the second floor occupied by a Mr. Pike and family. The fire started in a closet from some unknown cause. The rooms on the first floor, occupied by H. L. Godin's grocery store and the office of the Weymouth Light & Power Co. were damaged by water, but the Light & Power Co. saved considerable of their valuable articles by removing them to safer quarters.

The building is owned by C. L. Spencer of Norwell, a former resident of East Weymouth. The building was insured, as was also the goods of both Mr. Godin and the Weymouth Light & Power Co.

With visions of another conflagration in the vicinity of Jackson square, after a ringing of the second alarm, hundreds of autoists in large, small and medium sized cars of all kinds, raced over the road to East Weymouth and a few minutes after the second alarm, the square and streets leading out, were lined with automobiles.

Captain Hugh Thompson Dead.

Captain Hugh Thompson died Friday at his home, Hampton Hill, Nantasket Beach, after a long illness, aged 81 years, 7 months. He was born in Eastport, Maine. He was for 50 years an officer of the International Steamship line, running between Boston and St. John, N. B. He was for 25 years on the Steamer State of Maine and also ran on the steamers, New Brunswick, Calvin Austin and St. Croix.

He retired ten years ago and came to South Weymouth and resided there for six years. For the past four years he had resided at Hampton Hill, Nantasket. He was a member of the Baptist church at Eastport, Maine.

He is survived by his widow who before her marriage, was Miss Sarah Sullis, sister of Frederick A. Sullis of this town; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth McElwealin of Woodford, Maine, and four children by his first wife, George Thompson of Ashmont, Ottaway Thompson of New York, Mrs. Edward Wilson of Brooklyn, N. Y. and Mrs. Alice Thompson of Hebron, Conn. All four children attended the funeral which took place from his late home at Nantasket Sunday afternoon.

The service was conducted by Rev. Frank B. Cressey of Cambridge, a former pastor of the First Baptist church here. Percy F. Baker sang "Passing Out of the Shadow," "Good Night Beloved" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." There were many beautiful floral tributes. The remains were taken to Eastport, Maine, Monday, for interment in the family lot.

Reynolds W. R. C. Sale And Entertainment.

Reynolds W. R. C. 102 conducted a sale of various articles and provided an entertainment in G. A. R. hall, East Weymouth last Tuesday afternoon and evening. The affair was for the benefit of the corps charity fund.

The sales tables were in charge of members of the Relief Corps. The evening's entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Mary E. Mahoney and consisted of select readings by Miss Helen Corridan, soprano solos by Miss Marion Bowker, recitations, Harold Lincoln and Folk dances with recitations and songs by 16 pupils from the Jefferson school. Mrs. Agnes Baldwin, president of the corps, was presented with a silver ladle during the evening.

TOWN BUSINESS.

At the Monday meeting of the Selectmen a complaint was filed by a number of residents on Charles street stating their tax for street watering was far in excess of the service rendered.

David M. Kidder a member of the committee chosen to purchase the new fire apparatus filed his resignation as a member of that committee and the same was sent to the Town Clerk.

The special committee, Frank E. Loud, D. M. Kidder, Wm A. Wheaton, A. E. Pratt and Theron L. Tirrell, appointed at the March meeting to investigate the conditions of the Fire Department and suggest any changes necessary have completed and filed their report and also filed their resignation.

The Board reappointed Charles W. Baker as night patrol in Ward 3.

Permission was granted the Norfolk Club to hold dancing parties in Fogg's Opera house during the winter.

The matter of filling the vacancy caused by the death of A. Francis Barnes was discussed and according to decision of Town Counsel A. P. Worthen 19 days will be required to fill the vacancy by election which must be by a general Town Meeting called for that purpose with 12 days allowed for filing nomination papers and the usual 7 days for posting the Warrant.

The water loan bonds and serial notes authorized by the recent special town meeting there were several bidders for the loan and the $98,000 went to Jackson & Curtis of Boston and will be in a series of notes of $5,000 each due Nov. 1st 1915, to 1933 inclusive, and one note for $3,000 due 1934. The bid was $102.25 at 4 1/2 per cent.

The $13,000 loan went to a trustee of private funds in a series of notes of $2,000 each due May 1915 to 1920 inclusive and one note of $1,000 due May 1921 at 4 1/2 per cent.

The new piece of fire apparatus for Ward 1 is expected to-morrow Saturday and Edward A. Stone an expert engineer and chaffer of North Weymouth has been engaged as permanent man at the Engine House.

The committee in charge of the purchase and installing the new apparatus meet at the Town Office next Tuesday evening and will meet any applicant for positions on either of the other Engines.

State Christian Endeavor Convention.

The Christian Endeavorers of Massachusetts met at Fitchburg on October 22, 23, 24 and 25 for their biennial State Convention. 3500 enthusiastic endeavorers were in command of the city from Thursday morning until Sunday night. Too much cannot be said of the hospitality shown by the endeavorers, city officials, Y. M. C. A. and all of the residents of Fitchburg who labored for the success of the convention.

The wonderful inspiration and the value derived from this convention through such leaders as Karl Lehmann, Rev. A. Z. Conrad, D. D. of Boston, Mr. A. J. Shurtle, U. S. C. E., Rev. B. A. Willmott of Quincy, Rev. Henry A. Atkinson, D. D., Miss Margaret Slattery of Fitchburg, Rev. William D. Gobie of Fitchburg, Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlain of Newton, cannot be fully expressed only by those who personally attended the meetings and enjoyed the excursions.

The Clark C. E. Union, comprising societies from Cohasset, Scituate, Hingham, N. Abington, Rockland and the Weymouths was represented by 18 members, those from Weymouth being Mrs. Charles Clark from North Weymouth, Gertrude Davis, Ralph Morrison and Ralph Talbot from South Weymouth and Mildred W. Newcomb, Helen J. Murray, Norman E. Dizer and Emerson R. Dizer from East Weymouth.

An interesting report is being planned by the delegates from the East Weymouth Congregational Church and will be given at the meeting Sunday evening at six o'clock. A special invitation is extended to all to be present.

"Salem 1916" is the slogan for the next biennial convention.

Hallowe'en Party at North Weymouth.

The members of the Universalist Sunday school of North Weymouth enjoyed a Hallowe'en party in the church vestry on Thursday evening, October 29. The church vestry and parlor were very appropriately decorated with crepe paper, pumpkins, cats, bats and other Hallowe'en decorations.

Games of all sorts were played and sandwiches, doughnuts, cheese, apples and cocoa were served.

The committee in charge was Miss Mabel F. Sampson, Miss Bertha F. Estes and Miss Margaret Dingwall.

POLITICS IN TOWN.

Rallies Numerous And All Candidates Confident Of Being Elected.

With November 3, the day of election, but a few days away, political rallies are numerous all through this section. All parties are up and doing and besides the usual argumentative rallies on our street corners during the days and evenings, the following gatherings have been noted:

PROGRESSIVE PARTY.

The Progressive Party held a rally in Bates Opera House Weymouth, last Friday night and in spite of the fact that the fire drew a large number away from the rally, a fair sized gathering enjoyed the speaking. Hon. Joseph Walker, candidate for governor; R. A. Wood, candidate for secretary of state; Col. Henry L. Kincaide, candidate for congress; Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast and others spoke.

The Progressives held a rally Tuesday night in Engine hall Ward 1, Sidney G. Dunbar presiding. Campaign issues were discussed by Col. Henry L. Kincaide and G. D. McKinnon.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The Democratic party held a large and enthusiastic rally in Odd Fellows Opera House, East Weymouth last Monday night. C. J. Lynch, chairman of the Democrat Town Committee presided. The list of speakers included, Richard Olney 2nd, candidate for Congress; Charles W. Procter, candidate for Senator; Thomas J. Boynton, attorney-general; D. J. Slattery, candidate for representative; Frank H. Pope, state auditor and Mr. Anderson, and Mr. O'Connell and Mr. Murphy of Boston. Mayor James Curley of Boston was unable to be present.

Monday morning in Washington square five minute talks were given from automobiles by Governor Walsh, Lieut. Governor Barry, Richard Olney 2nd, and F. W. Mansfield, the latter being state treasurer.

SOCIALIST PARTY.

While the crowd was gathered in Jackson square, East Weymouth, last Friday night, the Socialist party took advantage of the large gathering and F. E. Briggs, candidate for representative spoke, along with other adherents to the party.

MUSICAL OF OLD COLONY CLUB.

One of The Largest Gatherings In History of Club Enjoys Program Under Direction of Miss Ethel Freeman Raymond.

The members of the Old Colony Ladies' club and their friends enjoyed a rare treat in the Universalist church South Weymouth last Thursday when the annual musicale was given by Miss Ethel Freeman Raymond, assisted by Mme Wilhelmina Wright Calvert, soprano and Carl Webster cellist.

Miss Raymond's selections were of her usual high order, while the groups of songs by Mme Calvert received the same popular reception as on her former appearances in town. Mr. Webster's ability is well known in town and his numbers were loudly applauded by an appreciative audience.

The following program was given:

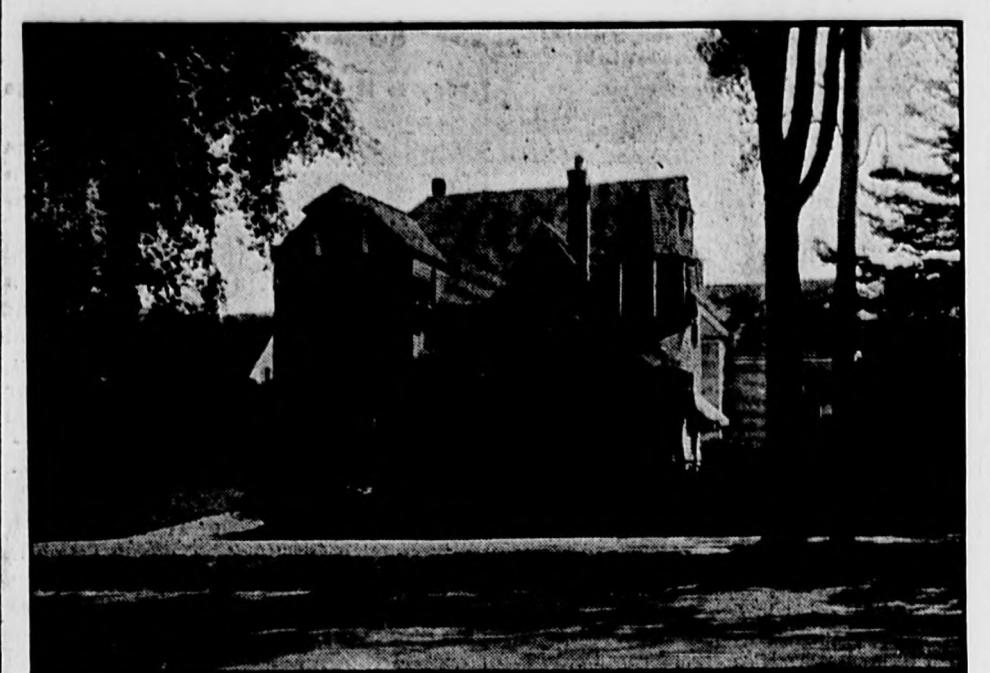

- Overture "Zampa" (Herold) Songs.
- a. "The Garland" (Mendelssohn)
- b. "By Manzanaras" (Jenson)
- c. "Im Herbst" (Franz)
- Cello Solos.
- a. "Aria" (Bach)
- b. "Ronda" (Boccherini) Songs.
- a. "I drink the fragrance of the rose" (Clough-Leigher)
- b. "I know a little garden path" (Arthur Foote)
- c. "Before the Dawn" (Chadwick)
- Cello, "Concerto" (Servais)
- Organ, "Melodie" (Tchaikovsky) Songs.
- a. "To the Moon" (Chaminade)
- b. "Song of the Conoe" (Gilberte)
- c. "The Bee Song" (Gerrit Smith)
- Cello.
- a. "Andante" (Goltermann)
- b. "Tarentelle" (Goens)

High School Notes.

A short time ago, some subscription money for a paper used in school work was removed from the desk in which it was deposited. No trace of it could be found, nor any trace of the culprit; so at a special meeting of the Senior class, it was voted that each member subscribe enough to make up the deficit.

The football contest which was supposed to have been played today (Friday) at Abington, was played there yesterday. "Doc" Fabyan, of the Clapp Memorial, has finally been successful in forming a triangular athletic league between Weymouth, Hingham and Braintree high schools. This is the third year that he has tried to do this, but in other years, none of the three schools have been interested. This year, so far, two have signified their intentions of joining.

ILLUSTRATED SERIES OF WEYMOUTH HOMES

HOME OF JOHN H. STETSON, SOUTH WEYMOUTH

Mr. John H. Stetson, whose home we use in our illustrated series this week needs no introduction to the people of Weymouth. He is now and has been since 1874 cashier of the First National bank of South Weymouth; is and has been Town Treasurer since 1885 and a member of the Water Commissioners of Weymouth since the Water Department was organized. Our next will be a North Weymouth picture.

Tufts Lecture Course.

The Tufts Course of Free Lectures this year will take the form of two distinct courses. An orchestra of ten pieces conducted by Mr. Howard of Boston, will give three evening concerts, the first to take place Saturday evening, November 7 at 7.45 p. m. at the High school building.

Mr. Howard's orchestra has given the municipal concerts in Boston for the last five years and the music will be of the highest order. Mr. Calderwood will add to the interest and value of the evening with an explanation of the make-up of the modern orchestra, the values of the different instruments in the ensemble of orchestral work, and some account of the composition of the music played.

There will be two other concerts, one in December and one in February, in different parts of the town and the same idea will be followed in each, thus furnishing an instructive as well as an entertaining course of musical evenings.

The other part of the course will consist of three lectures, to be given by Mr. Clark Wellington Furlong, F. R. G. S. on South America, taking one country each evening, and illustrating his talks with stereopticon pictures and moving pictures.

Mr. Furlong has lectured with great success before the Twentieth Century Club, at Tremont Temple and at many universities, clubs, etc. He has explored South America more thoroughly than any other man before the public today, his pictures are wonderful, and his contributions to Harper's Magazine alone have made him decidedly popular as a writer and artist.

Seeing South America through the eyes of a young American business man, will give Weymouth people a great opportunity to understand this part of the world as the coming market for our commerce and trade.

Our Board of Trade and all business men of the town should be especially interested in Mr. Furlong's talks.

The tickets to these lectures and concerts are free and may be obtained by application to any of the following:—the Selectmen, superintendent of schools, principal of the high school, Mr. Elbridge Nash's drug store at South Weymouth, Mrs. Edwin Sampson of North Weymouth, and Mrs. William Wagner of South Weymouth.

The lecture course is as follows:—Concert, Mr. Howard's Orchestra, Saturday, Nov. 7, at High School Building at 7.45 p. m.

Lecture, Mr. Charles Wellington Furlong, "Wild Lands of the Gulanas and their Peoples," Friday, Nov. 20. Place to be announced.

Concert, Mr. Howard's orchestra, Friday, Dec. 18.

Lecture, Mr. Furlong, "Brazil," on Thursday, Jan. 21.

Concert, Mr. Howard's orchestra, Friday, Feb. 26.

Lecture, Mr. Furlong, "Chile," Tuesday, March 30.

C. M. A. Ladies Bowling Club Notes.

The Ladies Bowling club at the Clapp Memorial is well started on another successful season both in bowling and in the social field. A large number of members are out for the prizes in bowling and high scores are the result of the keen competition. Last Thursday night Miss Blanche Lovell took the honors in the single string race with a score of 96 and a 3 string total of 231, while Mrs. Hosea D. Farrar won in the 3 string total with 242, but failed to reach Miss Lovell's single of 96 her best being 91.

To-morrow night the ladies will entertain at a Hallowe'en Party.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION.

Orphans' Hope Lodge A. F. & A. M. Pays Tribute to its Oldest Past Master.

On Monday evening just as M. E. Hawes was finishing his supper his telephone rang and was answered by his daughter, who took a message from Geo. H. Farrar, master of the lodge that he would like to meet the Past Masters of the Lodge at Masonic building at 8.15 on a little matter of business and would Mr. Hawes kindly be present. The answer was in the affirmative and at the appointed time Mr. Hawes went to the building expecting at the most to meet not over eight people.

He was met at the door by Dr. Joseph Chase, one of the Past Masters, who escorted him to the coat room where he discovered that every available place held a coat and hat and supposed that some other meeting was on and that the one he was to attend was in one of the ante rooms.

Mr. Hawes was escorted up stairs by Past Master Chase and there light dawned on him. He was met by the long line of reception committee consisting of Rt. Wor. Fred L. Putnam, Grand Lecturer of the Grand Lodge of Mass.; Rt. Wor. G. R. P. Barker, D. D. of the 26th Masonic District; Wor. Bro. F. A. Bicknell, T. J. Evans, F. H. Torrey, W. P. Duntroeder, L. W. Bates, C. W. Dunbar, Past Masters of Orphans' Hope Lodge, also Bros. G. L. Barnes, W. J. Dunbar, Geo. C. Drew and Everett E. Bates of the Lodge.

The greeting as they entered the hall was one long to be remembered for its cordiality and warmth. Mr. Hawes was escorted to the east where he was introduced to Wor. Bro. Farrar, who spoke of his long and faithful service to the Lodge and now on his 80th birthday he had the honor and pleasure of presenting him a slight token of the Lodge's appreciation of that service. Mr. Hawes responded that in his fifty years connection with the Lodge, more than forty of which had been in an official capacity, at times coming far short of his ideal of a proper standard, he had endeavored to do the best he could.

The gift was twenty-one $5 pieces of shining gold on a green felt mat, said mat on being raised from its support showed a beautiful silver plate with the following inscription:

1834 PRESENTED TO 1914

WORTHY MASTER MARTIN ELDREDGE HAWES BY MEMBERS OF

ORPHANS' HOPE LODGE A. F. & A. M. ON HIS EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 25, 1914.

An abstract of Lodge records during Mr. Hawes administration as Master in 1871-72-73 showed 27 as having received the degrees, 7 of whom are now living and among them Herbert A. Newton of Hershey, Pa., from whom an interesting letter was received with congratulations and regrets at not being able to attend.

The scene now changed to the banquet hall where other events were scheduled. When the large party were well seated, Rev. L. W. Atwood was called upon to invoke the Divine blessing and then came a discussion of the vlands, at the conclusion of which Wor. Bro. Farrar made a few remarks and introduced Bro. J. Burton Reed as master of the concluding exercises. Mr. Reed reviewed the long service of Mr. Hawes and introduced R. W. Bro. Putnam as the first speaker. Among the fraternity it is not necessary to say that Mr. Putnam always gets there and fills the place assigned and on this occasion sustained his well earned reputation. Mr. Putnam was followed by Rev. L. W. Atwood and Gordon Willis and we are almost tempted now to say as was said of the wine at the marriage feast at Cana of Galilee. Hon. Geo. L. Barnes was the last and whether speaking of his string of humorous stories at the beginning or his more serious and earnest talk at the last it was a rare treat.

Not the least of the features of the hour was several fine selections by the Arian quartette composed of E. C. Clarke, W. H. Pratt, Wm. A. Hodges and Dr. Joseph Chase; several numbers by Maxim's orchestra and finally popular songs by a strong chorus of fifty or more male voices with Auld Lang Syne as the finale.

Three Score And Ten.

Room 123 at the State House, Boston, is the head quarters of the State Aid and Pension Commissions, of which Maj. F. A. Bicknell is chief, and a visitor there on Wednesday might have regarded his or her second or fourth senses by a most magnificent bouquet of "American Beauty" roses. The visitor might also have seen the commissioner's desk piled high with postal cards and letters marked "Personal" from all parts of the state.

On inquiry what means this display, shower of cards and more than the usual smile on the Major's face, the reply would be, "this is the Major's birthday and it is the 70th."

The writer is just now in a mood to congratulate people who pass birthdays of special significance and we congratulate Maj. Bicknell on his arrival.

Susannah Tufts Chapter D. A. R.

The Susannah Tufts Chapter of D. A. R. held a meeting with Mrs. Senior, Front street, Monday afternoon. There was a good attendance of members and the business meeting was followed by addresses on the history of "Great National Songs" by Mrs. Frank B. McAllister of Cohasset.

Mrs. McAllister is not only an interesting talker but also gave a number of the songs, both American and foreign in their native tongue.

Relics in Bay of Naples.
No place in the world seems to have suffered so much from the sink-the paradise of the submarine archeologist, who is even now making fresh discoveries of buried suburbs and massive blocks of masonry with the stone rings for mooring the Roman galleys. But he has to dive to get at them.

AN OPTICAL ENIGMA.

Why is it the Human Eye Sees Things Right Side Up?

Just why we are able to see things right side up is a mystery which science has not yet been able to explain.

We know that the human eye involves the same optical principles as a camera. Owing to the fact that light always travels in a straight line and never in a curve, the rays which emanate from any object within our range of vision have to descend and ascend in order to travel into the narrow opening in the eye which corresponds to the camera's lens.

These rays finally reach a point where they intersect. Continuing on in straight lines, their relative position becomes just the reverse of what they were when they left the object seen.

Thus the image register on the retina of your eye is topsy turvy, just as it is on the photographic plate in a camera.
If you are looking at a house, for instance, the image your eye gets will show the chimneys down below, the foundation walls up above, and so on.

But the impression your brain gets reveals the house right side up unless you happen to be afflicted with a rare disorder, which results in everything always appearing topsy turvy.

During the infinitesimally short period required to flash the image seen from the eye's retina to the brain all the light rays which created the image are reassembled and put back in their proper places, so that the brain sees the object as it really is and not in the topsy turvy form it was registered on the retina. Just how this miracle is performed is what science would like to find out.—New York American.

GRAVESTONE LUNCHEONS.

One of the Curious Sights of New York's Financial District.

In old Trinity churchyard, where Robert Fulton and Alexander Hamilton lie buried, dozens of girls can be seen through the pickets of the bronze fences every day enjoying their noonday lunches amid the tombs of the old time New Yorkers. All about are high skyscraping office buildings. The elevated trains clatter and bang overhead, and on Broadway the trolley's gongs add tumult to the roar of the city. Within the old churchyard all is peace and quiet. It is here that the girls from these big office buildings come of a noontime to eat their lunch,
"far from the madding crowd," yet within a hand's reach of the bustle of Broadway.

It was only a few years ago that some girl, a typewriter in a nearby office building, chanced to let her eyes fall over the gravestones of old Trinity.
They did not bring thoughts of ghosts to her mind—they only made her think that it would be lovely if she could eat her lunch among such peaceful scenes.
The next day she and a girl friend brought their lunches. They entered the churchyard and, seeking a secluded spot behind the old church, sat down on an old tomb and began to eat their sandwiches. Nobody objected. The next day they came again. Other girls, emerging from stuffy restaurants, saw them and resolved to imitate them.
The next day there were half a dozen there, and nowadays, when the noon hour is bright and sunny, the number has increased to sometimes seventy-five.—New York Cor. Pittsburgh Dispatch.

PROMISCUOUS PICKINGS.

Every summer a great many dairymen reason with themselves that they could get along so much better if they only had ice. Then they say they make preparation to put up some the coming winter.
In most parts of the state, ice may be put up at a very small cost during the winter and farmers should avail themselves of the opportunity and provide a supply for the dairy and family use. Aside from its use in the dairy there are many places where a supply of ice could be used to good advantage; such as for ice cream making and for cooling the refrigerator so much desired by the housewife on the farm.

The down that covers the little chicks at birth is really the tip of the feathers.
As the chicks grow the feathers push their down tips farther out and the fuzz is worn off, while the feathers gradually appear in full form later. A pullet molts four or five times before reaching the laying period, dropping feathers to be replaced by others more suitable with the size of the chick from time to time. This is why such fowls need good carbonae-ceous and nitrogenous feed in the feather-making process.

The amount and kind of grain that should be fed to calves at different ages depends upon the condition of the calves and the kind of roughage they are receiving. A calf at 3 months of age should receive all of the grain it will eat up clean in half an hour if it is not receiving any milk. The number of pounds will depend upon the size and thriftiness of the calf.
If no milk is fed, I would advise the feeding of all grain the calf will eat in thirty minutes, twice per day, until the calf is 6 months old. After this age, if calves are fed a good quality of silage and legume hay the grain ration may gradually be reduced until at one year of age they should get comparatively little grain. From then until freshening time they should be given a good quality of coorn silage and legume hay, or good pasture during the summer.

Strawberry plants winter kill by dry freezing or by alternate freezing and thawing. Both may be prevented by covering or mulching. This may be done at any convenient time through November or December. Straw, garden trash or cornstalks make the best material for mulch-ing. Where straw is used see that too much is not put on. A little may be scattered on now and more and more added as the colder spells come on. Cornstalks are best, and most easily put on. These may be gathered from a pastured stalk field or may be taken from the fodder shock. They should be laid lengthwise along the row, six or eight in width, unless the row is exceptionally wide. These prevent freezing out or drying out, and are very easily removed in the spring.
In case straw has been used, if not used too heavily, it may be left on in the spring.
But it must not be so thick as to prevent the plants coming through readily. We secured best results by removing the straw and placing it between the rows, where it is needed to keep the berries clean.
Garden trash and cornstalks were carried out and burned, and a little straw added between the rows in the spring. The covering should not be taken off until the plants have peeped through it in the spring.

Strange Works to Him.

The hostess asked the solid man of her guest list to take a talkative young woman in to dinner. The girl did her best to keep up the conversation, ranging from Wall street to the crops and back. Only once did the solid man desert the unflinching affirmative, and that was when she asked, "Do you like Beethoven's works?" "Never visited them," he replied. "What does he manufacture?"—Argonaut.

Causes of Evolution.

In looking for the "causes of evolution," one is looking for nothing less than the answer that the wisest minds of all the ages have sought for in vain.
Evolution seems to be the program, but what makes it the program is what no man can answer. The question,
"What are the causes of evolution?" is simply another way of putting the ancient question: "What is God?"—

FRIDAY, OCT. 30, 1914

Germany made its own laws, rules and regulations in regard to the use of Belgium territory and as it now claims that the Monroe doctrine does not apply to Canada, what will we do when, in the movement of its armies, it finds it necessary to cross the New England States in order to get to Canada.

The registrars had a busy time last Saturday and swelled the number of voters up to 229. For the benefit of those and all others, we call attention to the full ballot which may be found elsewhere in this issue. Study it carefully and be sure to vote a ticket without blanks, especially on the amendments on which No is a good place to put your X.

To one or two of our correspondents: Don't say, excepted a position; in the article in question you should have said, accepted. Don't say, baby boy or girl was born, the word, baby, is superfluous in your article. We do not object however to people being born again when they are old. In fact, everybody should be born again every day with new hopes and lofty aspirations.

There are other matters than the election of officers for people to vote on next Tuesday and those are several amendments to the constitution and we had proposed to say a word about them but in looking over our exchanges we find that J. C. Brimbleton of the Newton Graphic tell the story better than we can. We quote the following:

"During the net week each voter will receive from the City Clerk a circular in regard to four referendums which will be on the state ballot on November 2, and earnest and thoughtful consideration should be given each of them.

The first instructing our Representatives to support the initiative and referendum should be emphatically rejected on the ground that it is not at all necessary with our present wide open system of handling legislation. When any citizen can present a petition to the Legislature on any conceivable subject and be granted a hearing on the same, no reason can possibly exist for placing initiatory legislation on the ballot for ill-considered action by all the people. The mere fact that there are four referendums on the state ballot this fall is conclusive proof that compulsory referendum legislation is unnecessary.

The second and third matters are both labor propositions and will undoubtedly be blindly accepted by the unthinking voter. The act relative to two weeks' vacation of all city laborers is a fine example of half baked legislation. It provides for a vacation for laborers "regularly employed for more than one year." With 90 percent of all city labor dependent on the weather conditions, the amount of work on hand and the limit of cost added by appropriations, it will take all the lawyers in the Commonwealth to determine just whom would be qualified to receive this gratuity from the taxpayers. It could probably be settled by giving a vacation to every person who ever worked for the city, a day or a week. The expense to Newton on this theory would amount to ten or twelve thousand dollars.

The Saturday half holiday for all laborers engaged on work for the Commonwealth is only an indirect tax to the people of this city, although it is certain to increase the cost of all work done by the state and thereby affect the state tax, already too high.

The most important referendum, however, is that which would abolish party enrollment at primary elections. Here, again, there is undoubtedly a strong popular sentiment in favor of this remarkable proposition to allow persons, who ordinarily vote for candidates of one party to use their votes at the primary to help nominate candidates of the opposition. The measure should be entitled "An act to allow a majority party to dictate the candidates of opposing parties and so ensure to themselves permanent possession of the government."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. East Weymouth Boy In Fighting at Vera Cruz Recently.

After a seven months' trip to Mexican waters, Martin Fitzgerald of the U. S. S. New Jersey, arrived at his home on Charles street, East Weymouth, last Monday, having come from the Charlestown Navy yard, to his home for a short visit. He was accompanied by a comrade C. Kirchgessmer, who he chums with aboard ship.

In speaking of his travels "Marty," as he is known in his home village, is enthusiastic over the Navy life, and says he is more than satisfied with life aboard the big warship. He was at Vera Cruz during the recent hostilities and saw considerable fighting in the seven days' battle in that vicinity. He also visited Port Guanamoo, Cuba; Port Plata, San Diego; Cape Haiti and other places of interest in the war section.

"Marty" looks well and presents a very natty appearance in his ship's uniform.

PROGRESSIVES, ATTENTION!

A somewhat peculiar situation is presented for the Progressives to judge on Election Day. There is no Progressive candidate for Senator, and the Republican candidate received the Progressive nomination under the following conditions:
No real progressive candidate filed nomination papers for this office. The Republican candidate, Mr. Langelier, decided to steal the nomination long before, and had obtained the assistance of last year's Progressive Senatorial nominee, Mr. Winchenbaugh of Ward 26, Boston, formerly Hyde Park. A Progressive-Republican Club was formed in Hyde Park and Mr. Langelier was endorsed by this Club which also endorsed a Progressive by the name of Robbins, for Representative.
Mr. Winchenbaugh circulated stickers for the Republican Senator among the enrolled Progressives, but met with little encouragement outside of Ward 26.
In the meantime, the Progressives of Quincy decided to nominate a regular Progressive candidate, and on primary day wrote the name of Mr. George F. Baker on the ballot. Mr. Baker was ruled by the Secretary of State's office to be the regular nominee. The Republican appealed to the Ballot Law Commission and had a recount in which he was successful. At the time he told the Progressives that should a majority of the town and city committees in his district ask him to withdraw he would gladly do so.

Every Progressive city and town committee in his district except Ward 26 in Boston, asked the Republican to withdraw from the Progressive nomination before the time for filing withdrawals expired, but he repudiated his solemn promise given to several Progressives, and refused to do so.
The Republican candidate has been repudiated by the Progressive City Committee of Quincy. See Boston Globe, Oct. 16, 1914.

AGAINST LANGELIER

Quincy Progressives Decide Not to Support the Senator, Who Got Their Party Nomination.
QUINCY, Oct. 16—At a meeting of Progressives last night in Wollaston it was voted not to support Senator Louis F. R. Langelier as a Progressive candidate at the State election. Senator Langelier was given the Progressive nomination at the primaries because at Hyde Park stickers bearing his name were placed on enough Progressive ballots to defeat the regular Progressive candidate.
Senator Langelier is a Republican, and has the Republican nomination as well as the Progressive. At the Wollaston meeting last night there was some sharp criticism of the action of the Hyde Park Progressives.

Mr. Roosevelt has spoken of the support of Republicans by Progressives as follows:
"As things are now, it is worse than useless to support the few Republicans who announce they are for me but that they intend to remain in the Republican party, for this simply means that, if elected, they will strengthen the great mass of Republicans who intend not only to oppose me, which is unimportant, but to oppose all the things for which I stand, which is very important.
In all the big States the Republican party is more reactionary, more completely under the control of the bosses than it was two years ago.
Under these circumstances I am sorry to say that I do not believe that it would be right in the contest this Fall for the Progressives to support the Republicans in any State, no matter what the Republicans in these States may say.
If the Republicans of Maryland, Kentucky and New Mexico declare for me, but at the same time keep in the Republican organization, instead of becoming Progressive, they are absolutely powerless before the Republicans of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and the great majority of the other states where they are bitterly, and to the last grasp, against me and against everything I represent.—Theodore Roosevelt's speech at Baltimore, Sept. 19, 1914.

The Republican is an out-and-out standpatter, whose record in the Senate shows that he voted for Progressive principles only when they were sure of passing regardless of his action.
The Democrat has a record as a Representative, which, while it shows that he has always been a party man, yet he has consistently voted for every measure for which the Progressive party was organized, and the fact that he received last year more than one-half the Progressive votes of his home town, Randolph, polled the highest vote of any candidate for Representative ever polled in this town, and was the first member of his party to be sent from this town to the Legislature since 1886, ought not to pass unnoticed.

Progressives must choose between an honest Democrat and a Republican who has taken their nomination by force and held it in spite of his assurances to the contrary.
CHARLES W. PROCTOR is the Democrat and LOUIS F. R. LANGE-LIER is the Republican.

Si, the Siwash,
In a Wreck on Puget Sound

By JOHN H. WALSH
Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

SI is lying on my bunk, wrapped in my Grand Army coat. His name really ain't Si; it's Tom. But I call him Si, which is short for Siwash—a Siwash being a Puget sound Indian.

SI is a Siwash all right, and, though he's only four years old and he's a half breed, he looks like old Chief Seattle. And he treats me as an equal—and he gets away with it, too—though I'm sixty-nine. That shows character.

And SI's had experience. Take just this collision experience. That won't come to anybody else for ten thousand years, and here SI has had it before he's four.

Why, I have had enough adventures myself, for I've been ship keeper on the U. S. S. Stalwart here at the Sierra navy yard for fifteen and three-quarter years. But SI has me sewed up for plenty on adventure, though I could tell yarns of my own.

But first I'm setting it down about SI, his ma and the collision of the Humahuma and the Stalwart. I'll tell about myself when I've got leisure.

However, I do want to say in passing, while I think of it, that ship keeping is the most exacting work there is. You have to know the name of your ship, and to remember what day is pay day, and when to come off watch, and when to go on, and I tell you it takes brains to keep all those things straight in your mind.

Then once in a year they complicate things by putting your ship in a dry-dock or by changing her anchorage a little, and you have to change your habits, which is hard. And it's because it is such exacting work as I've described that they always keep responsible men like us old soldiers on such jobs.

Of course it's a strain, and I suppose I could not have held the job so long if I didn't have iron nerves. You see, I know myself that I have iron nerves, because General Thomas told me so when he saw me eating hardtack in a trench during the Chickamauga skirmish. And I've needed my iron nerves in ship keeping, but a lot of people don't understand why.

For example, there is a gentleman in Sierraton who digs clams with a shovel and peddles them with a wheelbarrow, and he said once he thought he'd try ship keeping for a rest.

I laughed at him, and then I warned him he couldn't stand it, which was true too. However, I'm writing about SI, and I'll write about digging clams when I have time for it, for I'm as good a clam digger as there is on Puget sound, which is saying a lot, for all the smartest men out here were digging clams twenty years ago.

SI's ma used to have an awfully hard time making a living, and from time to time I've helped her a little at it, for I've had $2.20 per day right along, and I'm a bachelor and don't need all that money for myself.

So yesterday, which was pay day, I gave her $5, and I said, "Take SI to Seattle and see the sights." And she did it.

At least she put on her pink waist and her green shawl, and she hauled SI down to the boat by one arm, his feet dragging all the way.

After that I loafed around until evening, when I went to the Stalwart and relieved old man Keller.

After he'd left the ship I walked around and inspected things, as I always do, and I decided, as I've decided every day for ten years, that the Stalwart is still a mighty fine ship.

Pretty soon I moved around a little, and when I got aft and was looking over the rail under the stern light I could see young smelts in the still, oily water, and they looked like shreds cut out with a knife from a silver bar.

And, oh, how solemn and still it was! You could hear a gasoline boat two miles away thumping, missing strokes, stopping and then thumping again, and you could hear orlocks squeaking their course across the bay.

At first it was clear overhead, and I could see the stars and the lights at the navy yard, and I could hear the sentries hail people in loud, important voices. And then the lights faded and blinked out, one by one, and I knew fog was shutting in on us. And the sounds seemed sort of muffled by the fog.

I went forward then to the ship's bell under the bridge, and once a minute by watch I'd ring rapidly, and presently Bill Paterson on the Boston would ring, and afterward we'd hear Bixby on the Concord.

Well, I kept on ringing the bell. At first there weren't any steamer whistles sounding, but after a time I commenced to hear a dull, thrilling ooh-h, ooh-h, from far away down the Narrows.

I knew at once that this was the late boat from the city, the Humahuma, and that she was navigating by echoes, as they always do in fogs on this sound.

And then I got a feeling that SI and his ma would be on the boat, so I rang the bell faster and faster, for I didn't want the Humahuma to go colliding with the Stalwart and smashing SI and me up.

But the Humahuma's whistle got louder and louder until it sounded almost on top of us.

I was frantically disturbed, for I wasn't used to having ships come so close, and I rang the bell as though I were being paid a dollar a stroke—but no effect!

It got so I could hear the engines thump, thump, and hear the water turn off from the outwater with a continuous, moist, rustling sound.

Then suddenly the whole Humahuma leaped out of the fog, coming straight at me, every light burning, coming full speed, right on top of me!

I stopped ringing and jumped to the rail, and during two seconds I swore and roared and pulled my beard, and then she hit us right amidships, and the shock sprawled me on the deck on my back and knocked the wind out of me.

The Humahuma had hit the Stalwart square, and she had cut us half in two. But she backed out so quickly that before I could get to my feet she was driving both engines astern, and she was already clear of us.

Just a moment later she disappeared in the fog, but I saw, nevertheless, that her bow was stove in and ruptured and that on deck there was a barndoor of a woman's figure which had in its arms a child.

I felt sure from their shapes that the woman and child would be Mrs. Siddons and SI.

Would the Humahuma sink? I was sure she would, from what I had seen. And then I noticed that my own ship, the old Stalwart, was sinking too. What to do?

I ran to the splintered hole, and I heard the water whistling as it rushed in, like wind in the treetops, only in sharper notes.

What to do? I jumped and rang the alarm call on the bell, and the ships ahead passed it along. I rang it again and again, and then a frail skiff with a half grown boy in it appeared alongside out of the fog.

"I'll take you off, uncle!" said the boy.

I told him not to be familiar, that I wasn't his uncle at all and that as for going off with him in his skiff I couldn't.

"I'm sort of captain," said I, "and I can't leave. You know yourself a ship keeper can't go without being relieved; his job is to stay with his ship. But I'm much obliged to you, and I'd appreciate it more yet if you'd run down to the Humahuma and pick up some friends of mine."

The boy hollered, "Aw, come on, you nutty old devil; she's sinkin'!"

But I said, "No; I'm staying, though I'd like well to see how SI and his ma are getting along, and I wish you'd go down for me and see."

But just then another skiff came out of the silver fog, and it carried the long old admiral himself, going in a wherry, with two bluejackets h'isting him along.

"Oars!" he cried, abreast the gangway, and then he called to me: "Why don't you get off the ship? She's sinkin'."

I saluted him just as I'd saluted Thomas at Chickamauga and says: "Can't till I'm relieved."

And do you know he seemed to get real mad. He says:

"You're relieved now. Haven't you got any sense in your head? Get out of that into the skiff! Give way, lads!"

"All right, sir," says I. "If she's orders she goes, and I'm much obliged to you."

And I jumped into the skiff with the boy, and we followed the admiral's boat through the fog toward where we could hear muffled shouts and cries.

The Humahuma sank before we arrived, and we were soon in the midst of floating buckets, boards and articles of clothing. But there were a good many shore boats already there, and the survivors were all picked up so far as could be seen.

So we started looking in the various boats for SI and his ma, but we couldn't find them, though we rowed around and around and around.

Finally the other boats commenced to go in shore, one by one, but we kept on rowing until no one was there except the pale faced boy and me.

We'd row a few strokes, then stop to listen and see if the heavy, leaden, foggy silence wouldn't be broken. A faint moaning noise came from out in the white fog some place.

We pulled for it; then we paused and listened, hoping to hear it again.

When we did hear it again I climbed to the bow, and we pulled and paused and pulled and paused.

Sometimes it seemed far off, sometimes close. But presently I saw a shadow on the water.

"Way 'nuff!" I cried. "Give me an oar. I'll paddle."

And so I came to the shadow, gently and carefully, and it was SI and his ma that had made the shadow. SI was all right.

He was wrapped in a life preserver, and he was unharmed, except that his back was wet and that he was hungry and sleepy. But his ma lay face downward, dead—drowned in some mysterious fashion by the very buoyancy of the life preserver she wore.

I called loudly, and some boats came out and helped me with Mrs. Siddons' body. But I took SI myself.

I wrapped him up in my new Grand Army coat, and I took him straight home, and, though some women came in, I fixed for his comfort myself.

I gave him some milk and a teaspoonful of brandy, and then I wrapped him in my army coat again, and he went to sleep chewing his knuckle, which shows that he was perfectly satisfied.

WEYMOUTH, MASS., August 8, 1914

C. A. Peabody Co., 5 Main St., Brockton, Mass.
Dear Sirs:—In reply to your favor I want to say that the "Peabody" piano that was offered by Mr. George R. Kempl two years ago and won by me is more than satisfactory in every way. The tone is beautiful and seems to grow better as I use it. I would certainly recommend this piano to anybody who wants a first-class instrument.
Yours very truly,

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.

Great Yield.—Mr. L. D. North, of Weymouth Landing, has raised this season, 888 beans from a single bean of a blue and white running variety, the stalk being about 12 feet long.

Great improvements are being made in the cemetery grounds at North Weymouth. The old stones are being reset in rows so as to present a much more agreeable appearance. Some of the stones are nearly two-hundred years old. The splendid large receiving tomb is about completed. It is a decided improvement over the old one; being on a level with the street, one does not have to step down in entering.

On Thursday afternoon last, funeral services were held over the remains of the late Noah Fifield, for sixty years a highly esteemed physician of this town, and who died at the residence of his son, Dr. Wm. B. C. Fifield, in Dorchester, on Monday, Oct. 21, at the venerable age of 85 years. The house was filled with a large gathering of friends of the deceased, who listened with interest to a funeral discourse pronounced by Rev. J. Perkins.

THIRTY FIVE YEARS AGO.

The Prohibitionists of Weymouth held their caucus last evening, at the Reform Club rooms, East Weymouth, and nominated as their candidates for Representatives, George W. Dyer, of E. Weymouth; Charles T. Lloyd, of S. Weymouth, and John W. Pierce, of N. Weymouth.

The political ball is rolling in lively manner, and the nominations of the several parties are complete. Last Monday evening the Independents held a caucus at Weymouth Town Hall, Rev. J. Baker being chosen Chairman, and Oliver Burdell, Secretary. On the ballot for candidate for Representative, George A. Cushing, of the Landing, received 74; Rev. J. Baker 40; Nat. Pearce, 25, and Mr. Cushing was declared the nominee.

The Republican caucus was held on Tuesday evening at the Town Hall, and on informal ballot Nathan D. Canterbury, of East Weymouth, received 97, Freeman Hollis 40. Mr. Canterbury's nomination was then made formal, and on a second ballot Louis A. Cook, of South Weymouth had 151; Freeman Hollis 39. Messrs. Canterbury and Cook were then declared the nominees for Representatives on the part of Weymouth.

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.

A large party of the employees from Edwin Clapp's shoe factory went to North Scituate Beach a week ago, to enjoy their annual coot dinner.

Last Sunday being Mr. D. M. Easton's 50th birthday, some seven or eight of his friends from Hyde Park, irrespective of party, called upon him and presented him with a gold headed cane.

At a recent meeting of the school committee, Messrs. Joseph A. Cushing, George L. Wentworth and Dr. W. L. Drake were appointed a committee to ascertain the advisability of introducing instructions in music into the public schools.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO.

The Republican battalion of the Landing formed and went to East Weymouth Monday night and to Rockland Tuesday night. For handsome uniforms and good marching it is said they "took the cake" at both places.

The Republican club battalion of South Weymouth has been kept busy this week, having accepted invitations for every evening from surrounding towns to parade with them at their celebrations and rallies.

Some of the young men of Weymouth took a trip on their bicycles to Newburyport last Sunday. The whole distance travelled was about 140 miles. On the home trip a severe headwind was encountered making pedalling rather difficult.

S. Binney Totman passed into the second quarter century of his terrestrial existence Monday, and the event was celebrated by a large gathering of friends at his home in the evening. A fine collation was served and the hours spent in song and story until another was begun.

Ideal Land for Coffee.

The coffee plant flourishes best in well-watered region, in a tropical climate at an elevation of 1,500 to 5,000 feet, and in a rich soil. All these elements are found to perfection in Brazil, especially in the four states of Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Espirito Santo and Minas Geraes, whose combined areas cover about one-eighth of the vast domain of the republic. This section produces about four-fifths of the world's supply of coffee.

A. W. Hastings PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. Hastings is a native of Weymouth, son of late Captain Hastings. He left this town when a young man to work in the iron mills of Pennsylvania and Ohio and has continued in that industry up to the present time. Until the birth of the Progressive Party two years ago, he had not engaged actively in politics, and enters the field in the belief that the working people should and must be better represented. He contends that the privileged few should not dominate the masses, but that the masses can find the best representation within themselves.

Mr. Hastings pledges himself to represent all of his constituents equally.

—One of the finest moving picture reels ever given in town was presented in five parts last Saturday night in the Odd Fellows opera house, when the widely read play, "Brewsters Millions" was presented. A large crowd was present.
