

NEWS & EVENTS

Rochester Institute of Technology

Vol. 12, No. 37, November 6, 1980

Vragel Heads RIT Fund

Alfred E. Vragel has been named to head the 1980-81 RIT Fund Drive.

Vragel, who was RIT's Outstanding Alumnus in 1979, will work with other alumni volunteers, Institute friends and the RIT alumni relations staff to raise $350,000, the goal for this year's campaign.

Vragel served on the RIT Alumni Association Executive Council from 1968-1977. He was president of the council, chairman of the council's Campus and Awards and Citations committees and a member of the council's Constitution Committee.

Vragel worked on RIT's 150th Anniversary development campaign, as well as on numerous RIT fund campaigns and phonathons.

As a community volunteer, he has been involved with the Boy Scouts of America for more than 30 years. He also has served as a cancer fund volunteer, on the 21st Ward Republican Committee and as a Friends in Service Here (FISH) volunteer.

A 1940 graduate of RIT's College of Continuing Education, Vragel received his degree in management. He is retired from Eastman Kodak Company, Emulsion Coating Division.

Awareness Days Add Insights

Al Muna, a student instrumental in organizing Handicapped Awareness Days, gives Joe Donohue a hand with some mobility techniques; Bob Minetti (on the left) and Don Scott head back to their offices in their new set of wheels.

As part of RIT's Handicapped Awareness Days, Oct. 27-31, about 40 students, faculty and staff became "handicapped" last Thursday. It was all part of an attempt to make more people understand the frustrations experienced by handicapped students.

Organized by SCORE, a group of handicapped student leaders, the program included an exhibit of aids for handicapped persons, tips on job searching, and a wheelchair basketball game.

Some "physically handicapped" participants were restricted to the use of a wheelchair or crutches. Others experienced limited mobility by having bands or belts tied around their knees.

Those who were blindfolded were paired up with volunteer guides.

RIT students with these and other disabling conditions designed an obstacle course for the voluntarily disabled. The course included steep ramps, inaccessible bathrooms and elevators,

cont. on p. 8

POLICY & INFORMATION

10/27/80 Meeting of Deans and Administrative Committee with Facilities Planning Committee and Consultants

The single agenda item was review of a draft report from the Facilities Planning Task Force. Comments from those attending were solicited in preparation for the Final Report of the Task Force, which will be submitted to President Rose and then to the Board of Trustees, in mid-November. The draft report covered facility requirements, criteria and potential development strategies.

The focus of discussion was on the following points: 1) Establishment of a facility management office to provide on-going records on space use and studies necessary to obtain optimum use of existing and new space; 2) Potential re-assignment of some college, administrative and support groups to RIT City Center and Eisenhower campus to vacate space for expansion of units remaining on Rochester campus; and 3) New construction options.

Additional comments and reactions were requested for submission to the Task Force by early November for consideration in the revision of the draft report. The Final Report is scheduled for presentation to the Board of Trustees by President Rose on November 17. Discussion and internal studies of the Final Report will begin following this Board meeting.

Faculty Council Meeting 10/30/80

Dr. Rose attended the meeting. Discussion focused on: 1) reorganization within the administration and in support service areas, namely Student Affairs, Financial Affairs, and Institutional Advancement; 2) affirmative action—need expressed by Faculty Council for posting of all open positions, rather than reshuffling of people behind the scenes. Dr. Rose revealed new affirmative action plan to increase graduate stipends to minority students in RIT masters' programs so that a pool of people to recruit from will be created; 3) reorganization of Policy Council—Dr. Rose would like a smaller, more representative group, which could have more substantive discussions.

Recent Administrative Actions

1) to explore the possibility of using Energy House as headquarters for Research Corporation; 2) indicated an intent to discuss possible alternative actions in conjunction with Eisenhower College; 3) asked for a review of purpose and composition of the Campus Beautification Committee; 4) initiated an examination of opportunities for interdisciplinary work in acoustics resulting from the presence of NTID.

Anyone wishing the source or additional information on any of the above call ext. 2527.

Special Service For Thanksgiving

On Sunday, November 16, at 10:30 a.m. in Ingle Auditorium, the RIT Catholic Campus Parish will present a service and eucharist of Thanksgiving for the whole Institute family. The celebrant and speaker will be the Most Rev. Matthew H. Clark, D.D., the new Catholic bishop of Rochester. Feeling it is an ideal time for prayer—both for students beginning their examinations and for all who wish to begin the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons in a spirit of prayerful gratitude—the parish and its staff cordially invite one and all to join in this celebration. The service will be open to all faiths and interpreted for the hearing impaired. A coffee hour and reception will follow for those who might wish to meet and speak with the bishop.

NTID Seminar On Learning

Dr. Richard J. Kraft, professor of education and chairman of the Division of Social and Multicultural Foundations in the School of Education, University of Colorado at Boulder, and Dr. Urban Whitaker, early-retired professor and dean at San Francisco State University, will present highlights of their papers on "Experiential Learning" today (Nov. 6) from noon to 1 p.m., in Room 1145 of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Building.

Later today, Drs. Kraft and Whitaker, and Larry Quinsland, assistant professor of NTID Educational Support Services, and Debbie Veatch, manager of NTID Employment Opportunities department, will conduct a seminar on "Experiential Learning," from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Visitors' Center of the LBJ Building. All faculty are invited to attend these presentations and to read Drs. Kraft's and Whitaker's papers, which are available at the Reserve Desk in Wallace Memorial Library and at the NTID Staff Resource Center.

The presentations are part of the Foundations Seminar Series, a series of 13 lectures and seminars sponsored by the "Foundations" Development Project of NTID on learning, teaching and development.

Energy Hotline

You say your office is too cold and you want someone to do something about getting some heat in there? Or maybe your office is too hot and, patriotic citizen that you are, you want someone to turn the heat down so as not to waste energy?

Well, no matter what your energy concerns, whether too little heat or too much, you can now tell someone about them.

That's right, RIT now has an Energy Hotline. Simply dial ext. 2937 and tell the person who answers the phone what your energy concerns are.

The Energy Hotline is in operation from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and will handle any on-campus energy matters.

NEWS & EVENTS

Published weekly on Thursday during the academic year by the Communications Office at Rochester Institute of Technology and distributed free of charge to the Institute community. For information call 475-2750.

Engineering Conference

The ethics of engineering was the subject of a conference held last week at RIT. Organized by the RIT student branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE), the one-day conference focused on making students more aware of engineering as a profession.

More than 260 RIT electrical engineering, engineering technology and computer engineering students attended the Professional Awareness Conference for Engineers (PACE). John Guarrera, director of research for the School of Engineering at California State University, was the keynote speaker. His talk was entitled "The IEEE in Washington and Legislation Concerning Engineers."

Other speakers were Larry Dwon, engineering consultant; James F. Fairman Jr., attorney and engineer; Hans Cherney, IBM; and Dr. Harry Cronson, Sperry Research Center in Sudbury, Mass.

Such programs have been conducted on a pilot basis across the country with RIT boasting the largest turnout. The students who organized this conference will be submitting a formal report to IEEE, working toward the institution of such programs on a national scale.

RIT faculty member Roger Heintz served as an advisor to the student committee that organized the conference. "It's the students' conference," he said. "They're doing an excellent job and making a good name for the College of Engineering and RIT."

Veterans' Club

In observance of Veterans Day, RIT's Vets Club is sponsoring a talk by Gloria Bischoff, local chairperson of the POW/MIA organization. Bischoff will speak at 1 p.m. in the Fireside Lounge of the union.

Also, on Veterans Day (Nov. 11) the RIT Vets will be handing out red, white and blue ribbons for students, faculty and staff to wear to show their support for veterans.

Dr. M. Richard Rose here thanks Ronald Murtlow, a representative from the Rochester branch of The Travelers Insurance Co., for a check presented to RIT. The check, in the amount of $2,841, was given as part of The Travelers Alumni Grant Program. The program was established to help ease the financial burdens felt by institutions of higher learning, and checks are given based on the number of alumni employed by The Travelers throughout the United States. Approximately 18 RIT alumni are working for The Travelers.

New Institute College Unit

Institute College has created a sixth unit to administer the college's graduate degree program in career information science.

According to Institute College Dean Dennis Nystrom, Dr. Donald Baker has been named to the new post of chairman of Career and Human Resource Development. Baker formerly served as director of the Counseling Center and career education program development.

"We feel the need to explore the potentials in career information and provide increased visibility for the program," explained Baker. He added that one of his immediate goals is to increase enrollment significantly to meet business and industry demands for graduates of the career information program.

In announcing the change, Nystrom said, "This organizational effort will bring significant national attention to the career and human resource development needs of the country's business and industry, which have been climbing at a tremendous rate."

Baker joined RIT's Counseling Center in 1969 and was named director in 1972.

Lomb Menu

Nov. 6—Chop Suey, Fluffy Rice Combination, French Cut Green Beans or Soup of the Day, Egg & Olive Sandwich

Dessert: Lemon Chiffon Cake

Nov. 11—Oven-Baked Lasagna, Warm Italian Bread, Salad or Soup of the Day, Hot Whistle Pig Sandwich

Dessert: Cantaloupe & Copacolla

Nov. 13—Chili Con Carne, Whole Wheat Muffin, Tossed Garden Salad or Soup of the Day, Fruit Club Sandwich

Dessert: Honey-Fruit Cup

Cost of luncheons is $2.25. For reservations, call ext. 2351.

RIT Job Listings

The following positions were listed with Personnel as of November 3. Because Job Mart and News & Events deadlines do not coincide, a few of these positions may have been filled; new opportunities may have been added to the list. For details on these positions, see the job listings posted outside the Personnel Office.

Full-time RIT openings

Director of External Program Development, CCE
 Director of Humanistic Studies, CCE
 Coordinator of Data Processing Applications, GARC
 Manager of Technical Support, OCS
 Programmer, OCS
 Director, Graphic Communications Dept., Research Corporation
 Placement Counselor, Central Placement Office
 Financial Secretary, Communications
 Computer Operator, OCS

Medical Director, Student Health Service
 Graphic Arts Writer, GARC
 Counselor, Counseling Center
 Director of Alumni Affairs & Alumni Annual Fund
 Software Specialist, OCS
 Director/Teacher Horton Center, Administrative Services
 I.D. Specialist, Registrar's Office
 Secretary, Instructional Media Services
 Staff Secretary, Vice President for Student Affairs
 Secretary to Director/Office Supervisor, Counseling Center
 Cashier/Misc. Transactions, Bursar
 Secretary/Receptionist, Communications
 Electrician I, Physical Plant
 Electrician I, Physical Plant
 Maintenance Mechanic II, Physical Plant
 Custodian, Physical Plant
 Operating Engineer II, Physical Plant
 Electrician II, Physical Plant
 Shift Supervisor, Physical Plant

Part-time RIT openings

Area Complex Director, Residence Halls
 Secretary, Athletics
 Evening Supervisor, Bookstore
 Dispatcher, Campus Safety
NTID openings—full- and part-time
 Art Instructor, Art Dept.
 Associate Educational Specialist, Lang. and Lit.
 Career Development Counselor, Business Careers Division
 Rehabilitative Audiologist
 Department Chairperson, Educational Support Services Training
 Chairperson, Dept. of Psychological Serv.
 Assistant Education Specialist, Social, p/t
 Electronic Technician
 Assistant Educational Specialist—50%
 Assistant Educational Specialist
 Word Processing Technician I
 Instructional Development, CDP Administration
 Associate Educational Specialist, College of Business/Computer Science Support Team
 Associate Educational Specialist, NTID Art Department
 Associate Educational Specialist of Business—CS Support Team
 Communication Assessment and Advising Specialist (Speech)
 Rehabilitative Audiologist
 Interpreter/Trainee
 Professional Interpreter/Trainee
 Coordinator, Word Processing Center
 Television Planning Coordinator
 Assistant to Associate Dean, Education Support Programs
 Secretary, Professional Development, p/t
 Secretary, TAP, p/t
 Assistant Scheduler, p/t
 TV Operations Engineer, p/t

Playwright Visits Eisenhower

"I look for a theatrical image—perhaps a flag waving in the wind...a dramatic symbol of some sort—then I write a play around it." During his visit to Eisenhower College recently, Thomas M. Fontana, playwright in residence at New York City's Writers Theatre, talked about how he begins writing a play. Fontana was on the Seneca Falls campus for the production of his play The Underlings by the Eisenhower College Theater.

Arranged by Eisenhower Theater Director Warren Blackstone through the Writers Theatre, the playwright's visit included class lectures as well as discussions with the play's cast. "The college theater could become a vital force in getting new plays by young playwrights into production," said Fontana. "Writers Theatre is very interested in college theatrical productions as a means of aiding in the development of new work."

The Eisenhower version was the first college production of The Underlings. "Because the play is about college students, I was very interested in seeing how real college students interpreted the parts," Fontana said. "I've been involved with the two professional productions of the work, but this has been more exciting because the students brought a greater honesty and sincerity to the parts. They could identify with the characters instinctively. It is a great thrill for me to see them fulfill the play in their own way."

The ability to consult with the playwright about their interpretations of the characters brought the play alive for students in the cast. "Tom came in unannounced during rehearsal one night, but somehow word got around that the playwright was in the theater. Their performance improved 300 percent," Blackstone commented.

A member of the Dramatists Guild, Fontana has spent the last three summers at the Williamstown (Mass.) Theatre Festival, where most recently he worked on a new version of Chekhov's The Cherry Orchard, featuring Colleen Dewhurst, Blythe Danner, Celeste Holm and Christopher Reeve.

The Underlings was the first production in the Eisenhower College Theater 1980-81 season. The troupe has four more productions scheduled for the year: a musical version of "Jack and the Beanstalk" in December; a series of one-act plays by Tennessee Williams in January; Goin' A Buffalo, by Ed. Bullins, one of America's finest black playwrights, in March; and Much Ado About Nothing in April.

FALL TEXTBOOK BUYBACK

Nov. 17-22
 Monday-Saturday
 Regular store hours
 Mon.-Thurs., 8:30 a.m.-9 p.m.
 Fri., 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
 Sat., 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

In Case You Missed It...

(Left) Dr. Katherine Webb, NYS Commissioner of Corrections, confides in Assemblyman Arthur Eve during the President's Unity Banquet that highlighted HEOP's 10th anniversary celebration. Eve was keynote speaker, and Webb presented a symposium. Both received awards for their contributions to statewide HEOP programs.

(Above) Mike Gutierrez wore his sombrero to Horton Daycare Center for UN Day.

(Below) Chenoa Landry, of Horton Daycare Center, shows off her Native American dress and Jewelry to Nita Boudakian, center director, on UN Day.

(Below right) Warren Crichlow, assistant director of HEOP at RIT, beams his thanks for the award presented to him by HEOP students at the President's Unity Banquet, attended by 260 people from RIT and the community.

(Left) Cheryl Baldwin, on Halloween, decided to dress for life in the fishbowl!

NEWS & NEWSMAKERS

Works of Max L. Lenderman and Sheila Wells in the School for American Craftsmen are currently on exhibit at the McFall Center Gallery through Nov. 16, at Bowling Green State University, Ohio. Lenderman is showing about 40 of his fiber wall sculptures, and Wells is exhibiting a number of drawings and paintings.

Instructional Media Services has made four personnel changes. Sue Hubregsen has been promoted from graphics supervisor to producer/designer. Joan Marsh, formerly head graphics assistant, has been named graphics supervisor, with Pat Murphy being selected as head graphics assistant. Carol Lake, formerly secretary/receptionist at IMS, has been promoted to traffic manager in the IMS Television Center.

Dr. Richard Chu, Eisenhower College, participated in the New York Conference on Asian Studies Oct. 10 and 11 in New Paltz, N.Y. He served as a discussant on the panel "Trends in Urban Development in China."

Dr. David Dresser, Eisenhower College, was reelected president of the South Seneca Central School Board of Education for the third year. Dr. Dresser has been on the Board for five years.

Professor Hector Velez, Eisenhower, has been invited to serve as a consultant with the National Institute of Health in Washington, D.C. This 18-month appointment is a result of his involvement with issues of health care and health communication among the Spanish-speaking population in the East and Southwest.

Dr. Y. Stephen Yamamoto, coordinator of experiential learning and associate professor of chemistry, was recently invited to attend the Northeast Regional Conference on Cooperative Education in Chemistry, sponsored by the American Chemical Society, in Morristown, N.J. Dr. Yamamoto chaired the general session on academic involvement in co-op.

Prof. R. Roger Remington, Department of Communication Design, CFAA, made a presentation on his simulation game design work recently at the 19th annual Conference of the North American Simulation and Gaming Association at the University of North Carolina, Asheville. Remington has been appointed to the Conference Committee for 1981.

Dean Mary Sullivan of the College of General Studies is a member of the staff of the Workshops on General Education, which will be held in Boston, Nov. 6-8. The workshops are designed for teams who provide campus leadership for the renewal of general education and are cosponsored by the Project on General Education Models (GEM) and the Association for General and Liberal Studies of the Association of American Colleges.

Dr. Lothar Engelmann, dean of the College of Graphic Arts and Photography, and David Engdahl, associate director of the School of Photographic Arts and Sciences, recently returned from Photokina, a photographic fair held every other year in Cologne, Germany. Many photographic manufacturers throughout the world send representatives to the fair, and by attending, "we can renew our contacts with industry, as well as keep abreast of the latest developments," Engdahl said. Many of the manufacturers represented at the fair support the college with equipment and supplies.

Dr. Charles Plummer has been appointed to the Office of Instructional Development. His principal responsibilities will include assisting in instructional development projects and participating in a variety of Institute projects designed to enhance instructional effectiveness. Dr. Plummer was previously assistant director of the Evaluation Training Consortium, located at Western Michigan University. He is presently editor on the Council for Exceptional Children and program chairman of Simulation Systems Special Interest Group, American Education Research Association.

Patricia Knittel has been named the new editor of the GARC Newsletter. She joined the GARC staff last June and is concurrently working on her master's degree in printing technology at RIT. Knittel is also responsible for the Graphic Arts Literature Abstracts, GARC survey articles and bibliographies, and news releases.

The results of a study conducted by Dr. Robert Barbato, assistant professor of organization behavior, have been published by the Michigan State University Placement Services. The study surveyed career outcomes of 931 recent college graduates.

Marsha Purnell Pickens has been named communications coordinator for Eisenhower College. She will be responsible for developing communications strategies and will produce publications and coordinate media relations for the college. A writer/designer, Pickens was the director of public relations at Wells College in Aurora from 1973-79.

Dr. Albert J. Ossman, Jr., professor of Public Policy at Eisenhower, recently participated in an evaluation of the organization, management, fee structure and relations with the private/commercial providers of services of the City of Rochester Department of Parks and Recreation. He also spoke recently at the Seneca Falls Methodist Church on the subject "Perceptions of the Law and the Art of Judging."

Corinne Guntzel, Eisenhower, presented a paper on "Interpreting Elizabeth Cady Stanton in Seneca Falls" at the Upstate Women's History Conference at the University of Buffalo on Oct. 12. The paper represented part of the project funded by the New York Historical Resources Center on the Domestic Economy of Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

Sheila Holloway (union cafeteria), Mary Ann Cooper and Pat Kimmel (Grace Watson Dining Hall), and Helen Autovino (Hettie L. Shumway Dining Commons) recently represented RIT Food Service Department at a workshop on "Super Salads" sponsored by the National Restaurant Association. Better utilization of their food preparation skills will become evident in the salad serving areas of their respective dining facilities on campus.

Lois Goodman, head of Public Services of Wallace Memorial Library, recently addressed a session of the Academic and Special Libraries Section at the New York Library Association annual conference. The topic was "Patron Use of Data Bases," and Goodman discussed the experiences Wallace Memorial Library has had using an experimental on-line catalog of monographic holdings.

Eisenhower Professor Seiko Mieczkowski recently attended the New York Conference on Asian Studies at New Paltz. She chaired a roundtable discussion on "Japan in the 1980s."

PROFILE

The Continuing Education of Jessie James

When Jessie James, program consultant for the College of Continuing Education, receives the 1980 Social Service Civic Award from the Rochester Area Chamber of Commerce tomorrow, she may be the only person in the hall who is surprised by the honor.

Her civic activities and board memberships alone are worthy of recognition. The list currently includes the United Community Chest of Greater Rochester, Urban League, Action for a Better Community, Bail Bond Advisory Board, Literacy Volunteers and Zonta, a business and professional women's organization.

But James's contributions to the community involve more than board memberships. In the words of CCE Dean Robert Clark, "She has a special ability to reach out to diverse groups and then to translate their needs into meaningful programs that work."

"Jessie James is known throughout Monroe County and in communities beyond the county like Sodus and Albion," says James Papero, associate personnel director and director of Human Resources at RIT. "She has developed programs for blacks, Hispanics, youths, the aged, migrant workers, household workers, nearly every category of group."

James's association with CCE began in 1969. "In those days, RIT was the only educational organization in the area that dealt with community needs," recalls Papero, who directed those efforts through the Institute's Urban Extension Office at 50 W. Main St.

"Jessie worked with us to develop our Inner-City Leadership Training Program, a first for the Rochester area. She went out into the community and helped us to identify what programs were needed. And then she went back out to persuade community leaders to participate, because we had no budget to pay resource people," he remembers. "They knew that if Jessie was involved, the programs would be worthwhile."

How does a young, unknown, uninvolved and uneducated young woman arrive in Rochester from Sanford, Fla., in 1952, and by 1980 receive a civic award from the Chamber of Commerce?

JESSIE JAMES

James recalls that even as a child she was people-oriented and aware of the world as a place to learn. She remembers being a good piece worker at Bond Clothing, one of her first jobs in Rochester, but not being interested in increasing her production to reach higher income levels. "I never had a desire to earn more than I needed, and I always wanted to spend some of my time at work getting to know others who worked there," she explains. "I have always felt that people need to feel comfortable and satisfied at work, no matter what their job."

By the mid 1950s she had married and started the family that eventually grew to four children. While the children were young, she did domestic work, and says of those years, "I always learned from the people I worked for—about books and about the cultural life of the city."

Her first involvement in the community came when she organized the No. 2 School Parents' Association in an effort to upgrade and integrate the school attended by her children.

During the same period she realized that further education would be required to enable her to succeed in any area. "I know I had a lot of experience and certain skills, but that I needed to learn to communicate more effectively. I also knew that there were many people like me who wanted to go back to school but couldn't afford it."

Working with educators she had met through School No. 2, she approached a consortium of area universities and colleges and helped to organize free college courses for credit for inner-city black residents. The classes were held in the city at Immaculate Conception Church, and James was among the first students.

After what she describes as a 10-year struggle, she obtained her BA from Empire State College and last year completed the course requirements towards a master's degree in counseling education at Brockport.

Continuing education has been a major theme of her life as well as of her work. James's view of education is that the world provides an endless opportunity to learn, and she says, "Each course I have taken has allowed me to discover things about myself that help me to understand the needs of others and to develop programs for others."

This year she is excited about a new CCE program she has helped to develop on creative planning for an active retirement. "We have done so little in this country to encourage people to look ahead, and our older citizens have so much to offer in skills and experience," she states.

In looking back at her accomplishments through the years, James says, "I believe you should never accept a job because of the money, but because you enjoy doing it. And then you must take advantage of the benefits of the job to grow. I am never sure where I will end up, but that's what makes life exciting. However, I certainly don't understand why I am being honored by the Chamber of Commerce."

Rochester Institute of Technology

One Lomb Memorial Drive
Rochester, New York 14623

Institute
R. I. T.
COLLECTION
Publications
First Class

Awareness...

cont. from p. 1

trips to the bank and the library, and lunch.

A panel discussion on employment and handicaps was held Thursday evening. On Friday, a team of RIT faculty, staff and students took on the Rochester Wheels, a professional basketball team of handicapped individuals, in the main gymnasium.

Handicapped Awareness Days is sponsored annually by RIT's Special Services Department. This year the program was funded by grants from RIT's Complementary Education program and the Easter Seal Society.

DATEBOOK

thru Nov. 19—"Pastiche" by Sylvana Seelsi, Gallery 2, Wallace Memorial Library*
Nov. 6—Cappy and The Frenchmen and The Bowery Boys at Gracies, 9:30 p.m.-1 a.m. Admission $1 at door.

Broadway Actress Nancy Sellin will perform at 8 p.m. in the Delavan Theatre at Eisenhower. General admission $3; $2 for senior citizens and students. For reservations call 315-568-7111.

Lecture by Varadaraja Raman, 12:10 to 12:50 p.m., Alumni Room, Union.

To Kill A Mockingbird, 7:30 p.m. (I)+

The Gold Rush, 10 p.m. (I)+

Nov. 7—RIT Jazz Ensemble in Concert, Ingle Auditorium. Free.

The French Connection, 7:30 & 10 p.m. (W)+

Men's Hockey—at Brockport, TBA

Wrestling—at Colgate, 5 p.m.

Nov. 8—Hansel and Gretel, 2 p.m. (W)+

Straight Time, 7 p.m. (W)+

Marathon Man, 9:30 p.m. and midnight (W)+

Cross Country—Eisenhower, Vets Run, noon

Men's Hockey—at Brockport, TBA

Wrestling—at Colgate, 5 p.m.

Cross Country—NCAA Qualifier, TBA

Rifle—Pitt-Bradford, St. Bona, Clarkson,

Royal Military, TBA

Nov. 9—"A Pilgrimage to Agion Oros (Mount Athos), the Land of Prayer," a multi-media program by Professor Douglas Lyttle, Kearney Hall Auditorium, St. John Fisher, 3 p.m., free

Teddy Wilson, jazz pianist, Eisenhower, 8 p.m. in Delavan Theatre. Tickets may be reserved at 315-568-7111.

Student musical recital, 8 p.m., NTID Theatre

Skip Evans and Mitzie Collins at Fire Side Lounge, 8:30-11 p.m., refreshments, free

Sleeping Beauty, 1:30 & 4 p.m. (W)+

La Dolce Vita, 7:30 p.m. (W)+

*-Library hours: Monday-Thursday, 8 a.m.-11 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m.-9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m.; Sunday, noon-11 p.m.

+Talisman Film Festival: (I)=Ingle Auditorium; (W)=Webb Auditorium; $1.50 unless otherwise indicated

Campus Escorts Provided

As a preventive action, RIT's Campus Safety Department offer a student escort service to students as well as to faculty and staff who are out on the campus at night.

The escort service, which has been in operation since the beginning of the academic year, provides Campus Safety personnel to accompany, upon request, RIT persons from classrooms, labs, libraries or offices to the residence side of campus or to the parking lots. The service also provides escorts between buildings on the residence side of campus.

"This escort service is a preventive action on the part of Campus Safety," explains Fred Van Dusen, director. "The service isn't limited to women, but is open to anyone who would like company when out on campus at night."

Van Dusen says, "When there is a lot of snow and ice, the service will also help RIT persons who are injured, on crutches or otherwise handicapped. If persons with disabilities will call Campus Safety and tell the staff member on duty where they will be parking, we can arrange to have an escort meet them and assist them to their destinations."

"Although we have had a very limited number of safety problems during the past two years," he says, "we would rather be prepared than sorry." Van Dusen stresses that all students and personnel on campus should be both aware and careful.

The student escort service is in operation on the academic side of campus between 8 p.m. and midnight, Monday through Friday, and on the residence side of campus from 8 p.m. to midnight, Sunday through Thursday, and from 8 p.m. to 3 a.m., Thursday through Saturday.

To arrange an escort, call ext. 2853 and tell the Campus Safety staff member where you are.

Weekend Hockey

The RIT men's hockey team travels to Brockport this weekend to compete in the annual Brockport Invitational. The Tigers face off against University of Ottawa at 6 p.m., Friday. Host Brockport meets Kent State at 8:30. Finals are slated Saturday with consolation game at 5:00 and championship contest at 7:30.

Coach Brian Mason's Tigers are 0-1 following an opening season loss to Seneca last Saturday. Bus service will be provided for the Brockport tourney. Contact the sports information office (ext. 6154) for further details.