3. NEW OR UNUSUAL ACTIVITIES

a. Japanese Police Orientation on New Fingerprint Program

Orientation on the new Japanese police fingerprint program was conducted at National Rural Police Headquarters in Tokyo, 29-31 January, for approximately 130 identification officials, including representatives from each of the NRP prefectural troops. A PSD Police Administrator and an Investigator, both of whom actively assisted Japanese police officials in all phases of preparation of the new program, attended the three all-day sessions, explaining the operation of a typical American fingerprint bureau and participating in discussions of operating procedure under the new Japanese program. In preparation for the 1 April effectuation of the program, officials who attended the Tokyo meeting will conduct similar orientation conferences in their own prefectures during February and March.

b. Self Defense Training For Japanese Prison Guards

A self defense training course for 25 prison guards, representing the eight prison districts of Japan, was conducted at Kosuge Prison in Tokyo from 24 January to 3 February. The need for such a course was indicated during recent field surveys made by PSD Prison Branch personnel who, upon their return to Tokyo, coordinated with PSD Police Branch to assist Japanese prison officials in the development of the course. The Kosuge course was taught by various instructors from police training schools in the Tokyo area, using techniques developed in the emergency control training courses for police personnel. In accordance with instructions issued by the Executive Assistant Attorney General to the supervisors of the prison districts, graduates of the Kosuge self defense course will be utilized to conduct similar courses in their respective prison districts.

c. Special Training For Tokyo Fire Prevention Inspectors

A special training program for seventy inspectors from the Fire Prevention Division of the Tokyo Municipal Fire Department was conducted during January by a PSD Fire Administrator. Major emphasis of the program was on training the inspectors in the techniques for making fire prevention inspections of schools, factories, mercantile establishments, movies, restaurants and other places of public gathering, indicating the ducted at Kosuge Prison in Tokyo from 24 January to 5 February. The need for such a course was indicated during recent field surveys made by PSD Prison Branch personnel who, upon their return to Tokyo, coordinated with PSD Police Branch to assist Japanese prison officials in the development of the course. The Kosuge course was taught by various instructors from police training schools in the Tokyo area, using techniques developed in the emergency control training courses for police personnel. In accordance with instructions issued by the Executive Assistant Attorney General to the supervisors of the prison districts, graduates of the Kosuge self defense course will be utilized to conduct similar courses in their respective prison districts.

c. Special Training For Tokyo Fire Prevention Inspectors

A special training program for seventy inspectors from the Fire Prevention Division of the Tokyo Municipal Fire Department was conducted during January by a PSD Fire Administrator. Major emphasis of the program was on training the inspectors in the techniques for making fire prevention inspections of schools, factories, mercantile establishments, movies, restaurants and other places of public gathering, indicating the special type of fire hazards which the inspectors are likely to encounter in each type of establishment.

Monthly Report of Activities

PUBLIC SAFETY DIVISION

28 February 1949

1. ORGANIZATION

a. There were no changes in the organization or mission of Public Safety Division during the month of February, 1949.

b. PSD personnel statistics are shown on pages one through four.

2. RESUME OF ROUTINE ACTIVITIES

a. Conferences

	With GHQ Staff Sections	With Japanese Officials	With Japanese (Non-Official)
Police Branch	15	83	3
Prison Branch	4	51	0
Fire Branch	3	44	3
Maritime Branch	8	38	0

Most of the above conferences were held in connection with PSD projects shown on pages 10 - 14. Police Branch conferences, as was the case during the previous month, were devoted largely to the development of various National Rural Police and municipal police training programs. This included (1) final review of the NRP schedule for in-service and pre-service training of Japanese police of all levels during the current year, involving a total of 84,800 police personnel, (2) completion of plans for the establishment of municipal police training schools in Kobe and Nagoya and (3) final review of schedule for training the entire Tokyo municipal police force in emergency control procedures, utilizing 341 instructors especially trained for this purpose under the supervision of PSD Police Branch.

Prison Branch, in conferences with representatives of PHW and Legal Sections of GHQ and officials of the Attorney General's Office, discussed a new draft Offender Prevention and Rehabilitation Service Bill, submitted by the Attorney General's Office in accordance with a previous agreement that the proposed OPARS program should be revised to insure provision for all necessary pardon, parole and amnesty services and to eliminate all other provisions not considered essential at the present time. The new Prison Branch, in conferences with representatives of PHW and Legal Sections of GHQ and officials of the Attorney General's Office, discussed a new draft Offender Prevention and Rehabilitation Service Bill, submitted by the Attorney General's Office in accordance with a previous agreement that the proposed OPARS program should be revised to insure provision for all necessary pardon, parole and amnesty services and to eliminate all other provisions not considered essential at the present time. The new draft, as revised during these conferences, is considered satisfactory by PSD. In other conferences with officials of the Attorney General's Office, Prison Branch assisted in the preparation of regulations governing the organization and operation of national reformatories. These regulations, promulgated by the Attorney General during February, provide that each reformatory shall have a superintendant, responsible directly to the correction and rehabilitation district supervisor, and three assistant superintendants, in charge of medical, educational and general affairs, and outline the duties and responsibilities of these officials.

Fire Branch held almost daily conferences with Tokyo municipal fire officials, assisting them to implement the Tokyo municipal fire department reorganization. This included (1) aiding in the preparation of rules and regulations governing the administrative and operational control of the department, (2) developing plans for the establishment of a training college for Tokyo municipal fire officers and (3) reviewing current operations of the department under the new district-battalion organization.

Maritime Branch, in conferences with officials of the Maritime Safety Board, reviewed current operations of the MSB Competency Section. In these conferences, Maritime Branch recommended that (1) in order to eliminate unnecessary delay in the issuance of competency licenses, authority to examine the qualifications of seamen and to issue licenses should be delegated to district headquarters of the MSB, (2) competency license forms now in use should be revised to provide greater safeguards against counterfeiting and (3) licenses should not be issued to Allied personnel without prior consultation with PSD Maritime Branch.

In other conferences held by the various branches of Public Safety Division during February, the following subjects were discussed:

Police: Proposed draft of NRP budget for 1949-50 fiscal year; clarification of policy on transfers of personnel from municipal police forces to the NRP; NRP proposed revision of the Police Law; plan for establishing municipal police councils at prefectural, regional and national level; clarification of Police Law provision that members of public safety commissions shall be appointed from among persons who have not been in the police service; recommended office procedure under the new police fingerprint program; recommended characteristics for camera lens and magnifier to be manufactured by Japan Optical Company for police fingerprint laboratory; suggested methods for reducing Japanese traffic accidents; status of program for elimination of gangster control over Tokyo street stalls; clarification of police-prison responsibility for handling of detention cases; personnel promotion policies of Osaka municipal police department; proposed personnel changes in preparation for establishment of five NRP troops in Hokkaido.

Police Branch	28	92	1
Maritime Branch	14	48	0
Prison Branch	7	43	0
Fire Branch	2	36	2

Most of the above conferences were held in connection with projects shown on pages 10-14. In addition, numerous conferences were held with representatives of ESS and officials of the National Rural Police, the Maritime Safety Board, the correction and rehabilitation bureaus of the Attorney General's Office and the National Fire Defense Board for the purpose of assisting the Japanese officials to reconcile the estimated budgetary requirements of their agencies with the draft budget recommended by ESS and the Ministry of Finance for the 1949-50 fiscal year. As of 31 March, it was apparent that the original budget estimates prepared by the various Japanese public safety agencies would be reduced substantially in the final budget and PSD representatives were assisting Japanese officials to plan for the maximum efficient use of the funds and personnel which will be available during the 1949-50 fiscal year.

In other conferences held by the various branches of Public Safety Division during March, the following subjects were discussed:

Police: Special policing problems created by refusal of Korean groups in Yamaguchi and other prefectures to comply with school laws; proposed transfer of various municipal police personnel to the NRP
