Y. M. C. A. WORKERS BUSY IN DRIVE FOR $5,000

Campaign Gets Under Way With Sunday Dinner at Christian Church

Nearly 100 Y. M. C. A. workers are busy today in a financial canvass of the city to raise approximately $5,000 with which to carry on the work of the Glendale organization for the coming year. The drive started yesterday afternoon, following a dinner at the Christian church.

This noon the first announcement of the results to date were to be announced, according to Rex C. Kelley, the local secretary. A noon meeting is also scheduled for tomorrow when it is hoped to report that the sum needed has been raised. The results day by day will be marked on a huge bulletin board.

At the meeting yesterday the principal speaker was George Gleason, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Tokyo. Mr. Gleason, in speaking on world-wide topics, told the men that there is a noticeable "hardening of people's hearts" in this day and age.

"It is our duty to not only be our brother's keeper in the world, but among our young men at home.

"You men have it within your power to make or break Glendale and to mould the future of the city."

Outlines Activities Some of the things which the Y. M. C. A. is doing for young men today were outlined by Mr. Gleason. The organization keeps track of its members, even watching their progress through college, he stated, and in that case has frequently lent a helping hand to some young man and helped him choose the right thing.

The Y. M. C. A. work as it exists in Y. M. C. A. work was explained to the men so that they might better understand the work for which they are asking support.

A. H. Beisner, general secretary of the Pomona Y. M. C. A., told of the need in the near future for a building to take care of the older boys who are moving to this city and need the helpful influences of the organization.

O. W. Andresen and Howard Brown entertained the gathering with a number of songs.

David Black, chairman of the campaign, presided at the meeting. The team captains of the two sides which are taking part in the drive are C. W. Ingledue, the "Go Getters," and W. A. Horn, the "Live Yers."

A start toward the sum needed was made when the ladies of the Christian church who served the dinner yesterday announced that while charging for the meals, all the money made would go toward the campaign.

BACK AFTER TWO MONTHS' TRIP TO CITIES IN EAST

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Spohr Visited Many Points of Interest While Gone

A visit to their former home in Mason City, Iowa, a motor outing trip up into northeastern Wisconsin and a pleasure trip to various cities and points of interest in the east were events of the two months' trip completed by Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Spohr, who arrived at their home at 412 South Central avenue last Friday.

"Iowa's a grand old state," said Mr. Spohr in telling of their trip. "and Mason City is one of its most progressive cities. It is a city of 25,000 people and in their new Hanford hotel they have a building that a city of 100,000 might be justly proud of. It had been six years since I was back and the growth during that time has been very marked."

Mr. and Mrs. Spohr joined friends in Mason City and motorized up into northeastern Wisconsin for a two weeks' outing trip, featured by camping and fishing.

The scenery was wonderful, and according to Mr. Spohr the fishing fine.

On their way back Mrs. Spohr visited her relatives in Chicago and then they went east to Philadelphia, Pa., where they met Dr. and Mrs. William Goodnow of Pasadena.

They visited Washington, D. C., Atlantic City, New York and Boston. One of the most interesting and enjoyable events of their trip was their visit to the factories of the United Drug company in Boston, Mass. Mr. Spohr's Glendale store is a United store and this was his first visit to the eastern factory.

In speaking of his visit to the United factory Mr. Spohr said: "They are anticipating a decided improvement in business conditions. Upon my visit there the manager stated that business was already greatly improved and they are looking forward to better times during the coming year."

With the names of two very popular musical artists announced for the regular monthly concert of the Glendale Music club at the high school Thursday night, when Gertrude Ross, pianist-composer, and Sol Cohen, violinist, will appear, a record attendance of members is anticipated, according to Miss Helen S. Tupper, president of the local music club.

Mr. Cohen attended the Chicago College of Music and later studied at Prague, Bohemia, and also at Budapest, where he was a pupil of the celebrated Master Hubay for three years. Later he concertized throughout the principal cities of the United States.

After serving three years in the army during the war he toured France and Luxembourg and also studied a year at Paris. At present he is first violinist with the Philharmonic orchestra of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Gertrude Ross' compositions are finding more and more favor on the program of vocal artists throughout the country.

Particularly marked attention is being given to the Spanish California folk songs which have been harmonized by her. She has appeared before the music lovers of Glendale on numerous occasions and needs no introduction.

The program to be given on Thursday night includes the following numbers:

First—"Air for the G String" (Hubay); "Pantomime" (Mozart); "Mazurka" (Zarzycki); by Sol Cohen; "Elegie" (Kalinnikov); "Improvisation" (MacDowell); "The Nightingale" (Alabié-Liszt); by Mrs. Gertrude Ross.

Third—Spanish California folk songs harmonized and set for violin and piano by Gertrude Ross; (a) "Mi Parajito"; (b) "Yo No Se Si Me Quiere"; (c) "Nadie Me Quiere," by Sol Cohen.

Fourth—Two western sketches, (a) Spanish Serenade, (b) Ride of the Cowboy," by Gertrude Ross.

Fifth—"Melodie" (Ernest Morison); "Wah-Wah-Tay-See" (Chadman); "Serenade Sepanolo" (Chamand-Kreiser); "Hejre Kati" (Hubay), by Sol Cohen.

Glendale voters are being urged to attend a meeting to be held at the Glendale Union High school next Saturday night, November 4, under the auspices of the Glendale Republican club.

The meeting is to start promptly at 7:30 o'clock, it is announced.

The principal speaker is to be United States Senator Samuel Shorridge, who will speak promptly at 7:30, owing to an engagement at Pasadena for the same evening. Other speakers are to be Congressman Linerberg, Burlingame Johnston, Republican candidate for state senator; Frank C. Weller of Glendale, Republican candidate for legislature.

HEALTH OF SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL RECEIVE HELP

Board of Education Makes Plans to Aid Pupils in Their Studies

Health is one of the requirements for intellectual attainment, according to Richardson D. White, superintendent of the grammar school system of Glendale. He is of the opinion that a number of children attending school have throat, eye and ear troubles of which their parents are unaware. He believes that the correction of these defects will assist these children in their school work.

"The Board of Education has employed a school nurse, whose duty it will be to co-operate with the parents and teachers in looking after the physical welfare of the children," remarked Mr. White this morning. "There will be no general physical examination of the children. Such examination as the nurse will make will be for the purpose of determining the presence of contagious diseases and to detect trouble with the teeth, ears, nose and throat. Where there seems special reason for doing so, an eye-examination will also be made."

Miss Helen S. Tupper of 1005 East California avenue has been appointed school nurse and has established an office in the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school.

"The object of the examination," continued Mr. White, "is to safeguard the general health of the children by methods that are preventive rather than curative. In every case where undesirable conditions are discovered, through the nurse's examination, a report will be made to the parents setting forth the facts.

"Any parent not wishing to have the above described examination made, may file with the principal of the school a written objection. Blanks for such objection may be obtained from the principal upon application.

"In such cases, however, the school authorities and the city health department will be compelled to exclude the child from school whenever they suspect the presence in him of contagious or infectious diseases."

Whenever a child has been absent from school five days or more, including Saturdays and Sundays, on account of illness, he must have a permit to return to school. Such permits may be obtained at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school from 8 and 9 a. m. and between 3:30 and 4:30 p. m., or from the city health department, Grand boulevard and Los Feliz road.

If a physician has been in attendance, it will be necessary in order to secure a permit to present at either of the above-mentioned offices a written statement by the physician that the child is not at the time of his return in a condition to convey to others any infectious or contagious disease.

Children excluded from school on account of contagious disease must not leave the home premises without permission of the health officer.

T. M. BARRETT AND DAUGHTER HOME

Return to Glendale From Extended Trip; Tell of Varied Experiences

T. M. Barrett and daughter, Isabel, returned recently from an extended visit through Oregon, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kansas and intervening points such as Glacier park, and attending the G. A. R. encampment at Des Moines, and from there visiting relatives and friends along the way. Mr. Barrett sons, notwithstanding the abundance of fried chicken and good things for which those sections are noted California looked good to him and he can sing "I Love You, California," with more zest than ever.

"With all due respect to the railroads for their kind and courteous treatment under difficult circumstances, the trip was a wonderful success, with the only difficulty being trains running slowly and carefully and many times arriving as much as seven hours late. However, the comfort and safety of the passengers were well looked after, and traveling slow gave a much better opportunity to enjoy the scenery along the route," says Mr. Barrett.

Mr. Barrett and his daughter went by way of San Francisco over the Shasta route to Portland, stopping in that city with relatives, thence by way of north bank of the Columbia river to Spokane and Glacier National park, stopping there to view the wonders of nature and the handiwork of man, which were truly magnificent. Trains being late, their stay at various points was somewhat short where they would have liked to have spent more time.

Separated Many Years From there through the dry wheat fields of Montana and Dakota they soon arrived at the Twin Cities where they spent a pleasant time with relatives, many of whom Mr. Barrett had not seen since the close of the Civil War. From there they went to Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., where Mr. Barrett visited a sister whom he had not seen for 45 years. The meeting was impressive and the parting touching. From there they went to Des Moines, where Mr. Barrett was a delegate to the National G. A. R. encampment from this department and was one of the national aides to the commander, to whom a special luncheon was served at the Savery hotel.

Miss Barrett being first delegate-at-large from California and Nevada Department, Daughters of Veterans, was also in attendance, pronouncing the convention one of the best ever. Des Moines having shown her guests a most wonderfully generous hospitality.

From here Mr. and Miss Barrett visited the Ames university of Iowa, a most imposing institution and grounds, where Mr. Barrett has a nephew, who was in the late war, and who holds a chair in mathematics and science.

Last but not least, they visited their old home in Cloud county, Kan., finding great changes, many new, modern buildings standing on sites of one-time "best buildings"; groves of trees removed to give place to cornfields.

It was here Mr. Barrett spent twenty-two years fronting it, when he conceived the idea of coming to California, and he has not regretted his move.

LABOR'S 'LIVING WAGE' IS OPPOSED BY RAIL BOARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The United States railroad labor board today was on record as opposed to "the living wage," as advocated by spokesmen of railway union labor. The board, however, concedes "living wages" to be a just standard. Application of the living wage theory as advocated by union labor would, the board stated, in a majority opinion made public last night, wreck every railroad in the country, and, if carried into other industries, "would carry them into communistic ruin." The opinion was voted by the railroad and public member groups of the board. A. O. Wharton, labor member, filed a dissenting opinion. The board's statement was made in connection with a labor board decision made ten days ago in which the wages of maintenance of railway men was increased two cents an hour and a minimum rate ranging from 25 to 37 cents an hour established. The union had asked a minimum of 48 cents an hour.

HONOR COUPLE FOR SIXTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

H. S. Botsford and Wife In Anniversary Celebration and Family Reunion

It was sixty years ago yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Botsford of Pasadena were married at Lake Mills, Iowa, and in celebration of the anniversary they were honored on Sunday with a dinner party and family reunion at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Pefer Hanson at 221 Arden avenue. The affair was arranged and enjoyed by the Botsfords' seven daughters, their families, and a small group of friends.

Hallowe'en witches, black cats, pumpkins and other favors and a centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums decorated the large dinner table. The menu was featured by a fruit cake two feet in diameter and bearing sixty candles.

Reads Poetic Toast At the close of the dinner Mr. Hanson read a poetic toast to Mr. and Mrs. Botsford.

It was entitled "1862 October Twenty-Fourth, 1922," and read: When Indian Summer days were at their best

When early frosts had nipped the vines And turned their tendrils and the leaves Into those golden colors of the fall;

There, in the grand Autumnal days, There, 'fore the altar of their God, Two pledged their faith and common trust,

And looking forward to the years, set forth.

Now sixty mellow falls have come and gone, And looking back across the years They only see the high spots on the way:

Lytile Creek; forgotten are the rest, Alike they shared their common trials, Their joys they shared alike

And so again this glad Autumnal day, We celebrate with you, and you we toast! A toast of wishes hearty; Congratulations true!

And may you oft recline the couch Your loving daughters gave, Who willfully forsook your name; Forgive them, daddy, for you know Their mother did the same.

Present at Affair The Botsfords' daughters and their families present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Whitney of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carcellan and sons, Edgar and Robert and daughter Vera of Gardena; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Field and son Darrell of Gardena; Mrs. Mary J. Wyckoff of Ventura; Mrs. G. A. Shippe and daughter Fern of Tullahoma, Tenn.; and Mrs. C. F. Ruggles of Watts.

The two sons living in Nebraska and Iowa were unable to be present, but their parents received a message from them during the day.

Among the other guests were Harry Sexton of Ventura, and George Hummel of Redondo.

PAYS FINE OF $140 IN EAGLE ROCK POLICE COURT

Man Charged With Giving Officer Wrong Address; Fifty-one Cases Up

The heaviest fine levied in Eagle Rock police court Saturday was assessed against W. L. Green, who enticed the city to the extent of $140.

Green answered to several different charges, and his case had been hanging in Judge Crahan's court for several weeks. It was claimed Green gave a wrong address to the arresting officer, and the testimony developed that there had been considerable difficulty in finally locating Green when the officers went in quest of him to serve a warrant for failure to appear at a previous date when his case had first been called.

Green was accompanied in court by his attorney, Martin E. Geibel of Los Angeles, who put up a masterly defense for his client, and when the testimony was all over his honor fined him on each of the several charges which totaled exactly $140. Green had previously put up $150 cash bail, and the clerk handed him back a ten dollar bill.

A total of fifty-one cases were on the docket Saturday, and the total amount of money paid into the court was $750, making the average fine about $14.75.

Formal Opening on Saturday Night Is Declared to Be Great Success

"Glendale accorded us a most inspiring reception and we want to express our appreciation," said H. M. Butts of the Monarch Auto Supply company this morning in speaking of the formal opening Saturday night of the new Monarch building at the southeast corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street.

Sharing with the Monarch company in the hospitality of the evening were the Fashion Center and the Tregea Art shop. Crowds of visitors and countless beautiful floral gifts were evidences of the good wishes and interest of patrons and friends of all three places of business.

After several weeks of furnishing and arranging the Monarch Auto Supply company's splendid new quarters were in perfect shape for inspection and the hundreds of guests received at the opening complimented the owners, H. M. Butts, F. A. Butts and R. C. Plume, who are also owners of the building, upon the splendid new store home.

During the evening the second floor of office rooms was thrown open to the visitors and they had the opportunity to see the fine piece of marble work in the hall and stairway and the artistic and practical arrangement and finishing of the office rooms.

During the evening there were vocal numbers by D. Ripley Jackson, O. E. Andersen and Ed Montfort's orchestra.

The Fashion Center was also arrayed in its best for the occasion, with special stock on display, an exhibit of Marie B. Kendall's pictures and the awarding of an expensive fur wrap. Numerous floral pieces were received with wishes for continued success.

Tregea Gift Shop Sharing in the honors of the affair was the Tregea Gift shop, Glendale's newest and perhaps most artistic art center.

It would be difficult to think of anything artistic that Mrs. Tregea has failed to give a place in her new shop, which is another convincing reason why Glendale people should buy in Glendale, particularly when they want something in the art and gift line.

Case Dismissed In Eagle Rock Court

When J. I. Reynolds, who was charged with reckless driving, came before Judge Harold Ide Cruzan in Eagle Rock police court Saturday, he was accompanied by J. A. Pyron, a Los Angeles police officer, and together they put up what was declared to be the most novel defense for speeding that has been heard in the local police court for months.

According to their story, Reynolds, who is a youth apparently about twenty years old, was driving through Eagle Rock about three weeks ago, and at the time had over $1800 in cash in his clothes, and when speed cop Harry Williams sounded his siren, Reynolds thought Williams was a bandit and instead of stopping, opened the throttle of his car and Williams had considerable difficulty in finally catching up with him.

ASK US FOR AN INTERESTING BOOK ON INTERNAL BATHS

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell always claimed his life was saved by Internal Bathing.
And after they made him well, they kept him one hundred per cent. well and efficient for many years.
This is not hard to believe when Physicians agree that most human ills are caused by accumulated waste in the lower intestine and no medicine has ever been found to keep it free from these poisons.
Dr. Tyrrell's book tells why and how this has been the means of freeing millions of progressive Americans from "that tired feeling" as well as the more serious illnesses which follow, if the pernicious poisons are not cleansed out.
Simple warm water scientifically administered, will take them out and keep them out.

STEWARDSHIP IS SUBJECT SUNDAY

Not Modern Idea, Says Rev. E. E. Ford to Members of First Baptist Church

"Assets or Liabilities" was the subject of the morning sermon yesterday at the First Baptist church.

"Stewardship is not a modern idea, nor a passing theological fad, nor a novel method for raising money," asserted Rev. E. E. Ford.

"Stewardship is as old as the race. In the dawning of the world's history Cain said: 'Am I my brother's keeper?'"

"But we are not under law but under grace" is the phrase we love to repeat when duty seems to cross words with self-interest.

"Law is not arbitrary. A thing is not right because the law says so; but the law says so because it is right."

"Stewardship is Christ's philosophy of life. In the wide sweep of present day movements, stewardship is at the heart."

"If stewardship is the law of life, then we shall have to revise our bookkeeping and not credit ourselves as 'assets' the things that God has deposited with us as 'liabilities'."

'IDEAS OF JESUS' SUNDAY SERMON

Rev. C. M. Calderwood Tells Congregational Members of Great Work Done

"The Revolutionary Ideas of Jesus" was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at Odd Fellows hall before the members of the Congregational church.

"Every new epoch has been ushered in by a new idea and most of these ideas can be traced directly back to Jesus," asserted Rev. C. M. Calderwood.

"One of the revolutionary methods of Jesus was his use of ideas. One of these ideas was that men must give an account to God. This idea was taken up by John Pym and destroyed the idea of the divine right of kings."

"In the times of Jesus there was need of revolution. Jesus saw that many lives were wrong and that many social and religious practices should be revolutionized."

"People were stunned, when Jesus taught that men of strength should serve the weak. He taught that all men are brothers and should help each other."

"Jesus built his republic upon the soul and not upon material things. When Jesus saw man, he bowed before him and said, 'Made in the image of God.'"

"It was a new idea, when Jesus came to preach good tidings to the poor. He could see treasures in their hearts and he loved them."

"It was a new idea for a great leader to recognize the common people."

DEFENSE IN HAMMER MURDER IS OUTLINED

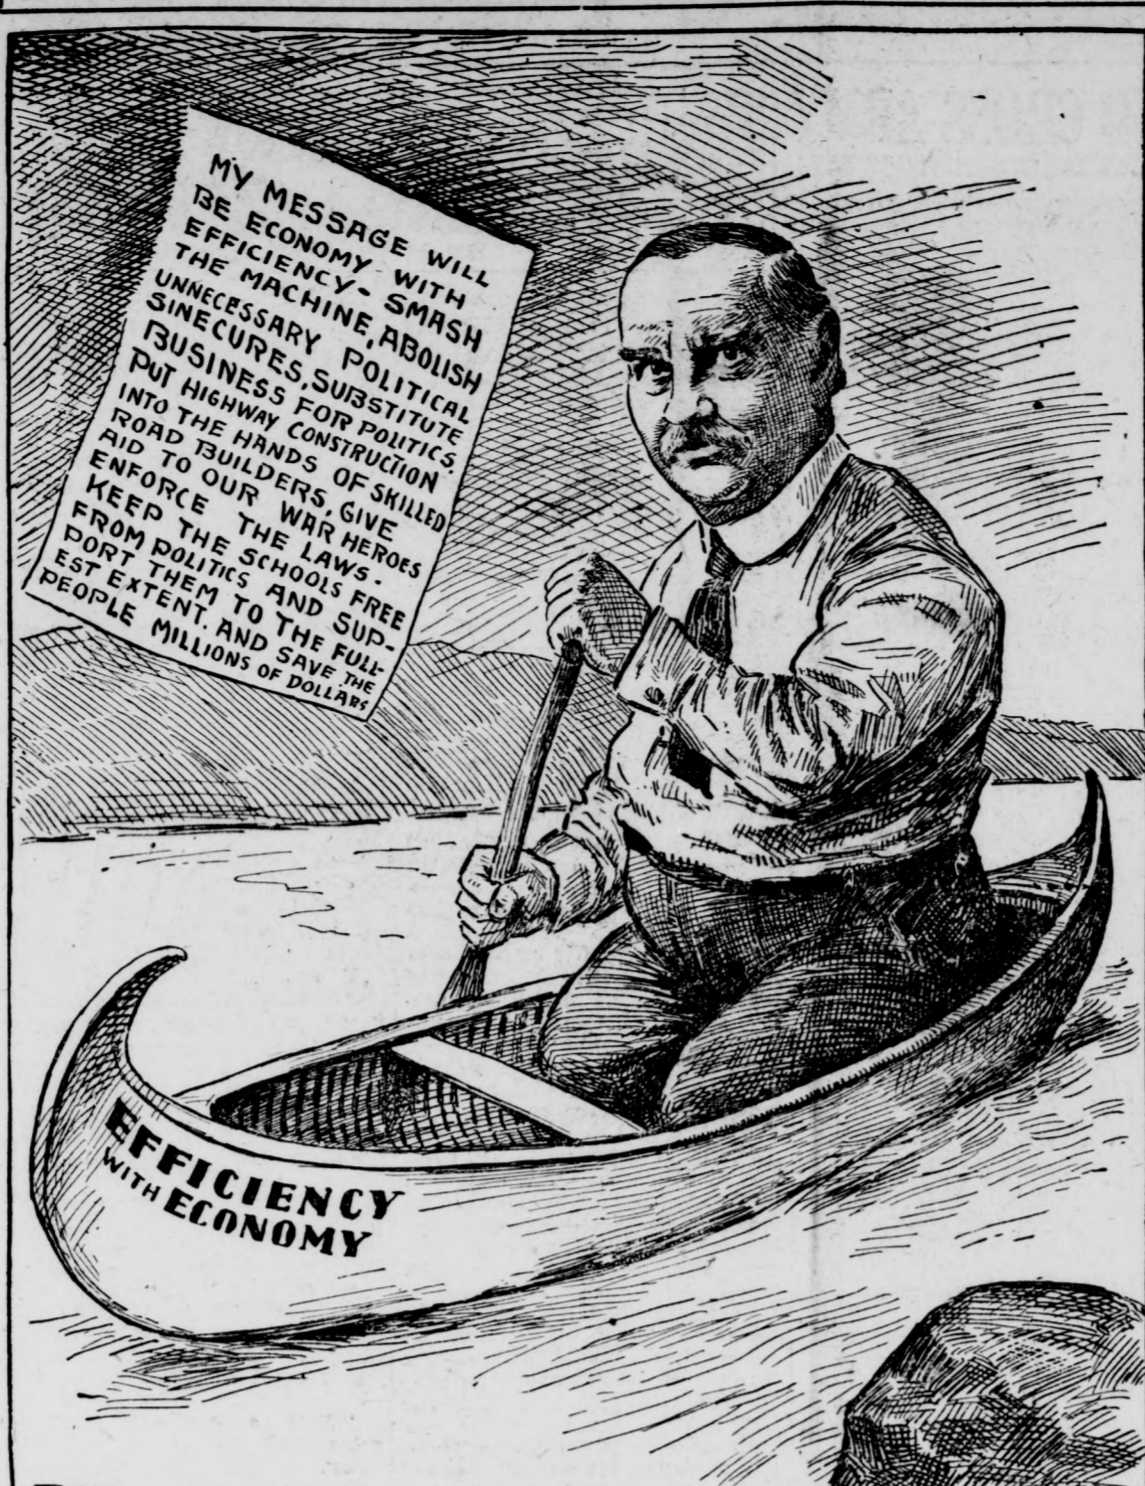

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—Declaring that he would riddle her testimony, Defense Attorney Bert Herrington, battling for the life of Clara Phillips, on trial for the "hammer murder" of Alberta Meadows, today resumed his savage cross-examination of Mrs. Peggy Caffee, former chorus girl and confidante of Mrs. Phillips.

It is expected that if this is established, the defense will then claim that following the luring of Mrs. Meadows to the lonely point on Montecito drive at which the killing took place, Mrs. Phillips was seized with a brainstorm and her mind was a blank during the murder and for a week thereafter.

SO FAR Mrs. Caffee has been unshaken in her original story of the tragedy.

Paddling His Own Canoe

Friend W. Richardson, Republican nominee for governor, is independent of any class or clique. His only obligation is to cut the cost of state government in an intelligent way.

John G. Miller, of the Red Bluff News, is one of the best known Democratic editors of the state, and in a recent issue of his paper he pays his respects to Thos. L. Woolwine as follows:

"No fair-minded citizen can listen to an address such as Woolwine made in Red Bluff without feeling that the candidate is willing to take any position in the campaign that gives promise of getting votes. His talk here was most inconsistent and most unsatisfactory to men and women who have a right to listen to a better exhibition from a gubernatorial candidate than setting up straw men and knocking the straw out of them."

"There is but one issue in this campaign, and that is the issue of economy. It has been a hobby of Friend W. Richardson for years. As treasurer of state and as state printer, he has practiced economy, and during the past two or three years he has issued periodic warnings to the citizens of the state that expenses must be cut down or we will go bankrupt."

"We are all taxpayers and we are interested in getting as much as possible for our money."

VENTILATOR ON ROOFS An adjustable base, controlled by a set screw, features an Indiana inventor's ventilator that can be erected vertically on roofs of any pitch.

HARD POUNDING, gentlemen; but we will see who can pound the longest.—Wellington at Waterloo.

It's an issue in this campaign. Men who have taken the trouble to look up the record of Richardson know that Thomas Lee Woolwine is playing the cheapest kind of ward heeling politics when he asserts before an intelligent audience that Richardson's scheme of saving the state money means that our schools are to be closed, our children denied an education, the program of road building ended and all progressive effort in the state brought to a sudden halt.

"Despite the fact that economy is the only issue in the campaign, Mr. Woolwine passes it up as a joke. But, while denouncing his opponent's position on this issue, Mr. Woolwine deems it worth while to tell his hearers of the splendid record of economy of Los Angeles county; how he has chopped down expenses and so forth. It chances, however, that at the very time Mr. Woolwine was flaunting his record of economy, eighteen hundred men and women of Los Angeles county, were in mass meeting in Trinity auditorium under the auspices of the Democratic party to denounce Woolwine and advocate the election of Richardson. This Democratic meeting passed resolutions in which they set forth that the cost of administering Woolwine's office has grown in five years from $100,000 annually to $220,000. So much for Mr. Woolwine's claims of economy. It's the voice of the home folks."

THEATRES

The Glendale The T. D. & L.

"My Old Kentucky Home" at the Glendale theatre is a story of the south, its traditions, racing and the villainy of a crook. Monte Blue plays the part of a Southern boy who has been unjustly imprisoned and who is fearful lest his mother learn he has been in prison. For that reason he does not go home. But when he hears the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" coming from a street organ his spirit is revived and instead of plunging into the underworld he goes home.

This Paramount picture is based on Denman Thompson's famous play in which that celebrated actor appeared for thirty-two years.

Two Democrats Do Not Spend 'Nickel' WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30.—Democratic congressmen seeking re-election captured both the highest and lowest records of campaign expenditures in returns filed with the clerk of the house here today.

Liquor Seized From Ships May Go Back WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The government may be compelled to release 250,000 gallons of whiskey, seized from ships flying foreign flags outside the three-mile limit, and dismiss the cases pending in federal courts against the liquor owners and ship operators.

LOVE IS NEEDED TO CHRIST, WORD

Many Men Attend Bible Class and Hear Rev. Keith L. Brooks, at City Hall

The attendance at the Men's Bible class in the city hall is increasing each Sunday. A large number were present yesterday morning.

"Correct creed cannot be a substitute for a heart filled with love to Christ," asserted Rev. Keith L. Brooks. "Without that love there can be no progress. Creed is what we believe, but what a man loves reveals unerringly what he is."

"Jesus had a little talk with Peter after they had dined. How wise Christ is! He first takes care of physical hunger and then asks spiritual questions. If we show no regard for bodily needs, it is of little use to address the higher nature."

"Simon Peter, lovest thou me?" He puts the deepest question of all. Love carries everything with it. He seeks the surrender of our affections first. All else will follow.

"That was Jesus' last question on earth. Let it be put to every church member. There are many who would not be able to answer theological questions, but, if they could not answer this question in the affirmative, there is something wrong."

"Don't Dodge Questions" "Don't dodge Jesus's question. Ask that fellow in the looking-glass if he loves Jesus Christ, if he is loyal to Him."

"Why aren't you taking part as you once did in the services of the church? Answer it truly: 'Lord my temperature has gone down.'"

"Why aren't you dealing with men for Christ as you did? Answer it truly: 'Lord, my love has cooled off.'"

"Why are you soured toward the church? Why do you think there is something wrong with everybody in the church? Tell the truth: 'Lord I don't love you as I once did.'"

"If you can say, 'Lord, thou knowest that I love thee,' you will hear Him answer, 'Then go feed My sheep; go tell men of My salvation; go do something for others in My name. That is the way to prove it.'"

"The presence or absence of that love in us is not only the index of our spiritual state but the prophecy of what we will accomplish. It was that love that impelled the apostles to live great and energetic lives."

NEED FAITH IN SAVING OF MEN

God Saves When Obedience to Desires Is Shown, Says Rev. C. A. Cole

"Will Morality Save a Man?" was the inquiry last night at the Central Christian church.

"If morality will save one man, it will save two; if two, twenty, and so on," asserted Rev. C. A. Cole. "Then the story of the cross is the most stupendous farce history has ever revealed. Then all the story of redemption, is a system of falsehoods if morality will save a single soul or atone for the smallest sin."

"God doesn't save the immoral man because of his immorality nor the moral man because of his morality but both on account of their faith and obedience to His desires."

"Morality means a conformity to what the moralist conceives to be the standard of right. Morality makes no provision for the forgiveness of sins."

"The moralist claims salvation solely on what he does and thus ignores what God does in saving. There is a human part but there is also a divine part. It takes both."

Deny Christ "A man may be a lover of men, a benefactor to the poor, an admirer of all that is good, beautiful and pure, and then depend on kindness, honesty and temperance to save him. This is to deny Christ and the plan of redemption, make the Bible false and accuse Jesus of coming on a useless mission."

"Man can never be saved without the remission of sins. No system of ethics or morals provides for forgiveness. If a man never sinned but once, a sinless life afterwards cannot blot out that sin. The very best morality can do is to save from immorality in the present. You cannot forgive yourself for the infraction of another's law. Then how are you to be made free from the sins you have committed?"

"Morality alone cannot save except a man could live a life of absolute sinlessness, violating no correct moral principle. Who will lay claim to such a life?"

Not to secure the adoption of Prohibition. We already have it.

Not to serve any partisan purpose. Randall is an Independent.

Not on the basis of gratitude. Tested and tried, of proven ability.

But BECAUSE— Having adopted Prohibition as a part of the Constitution, we now face the greater task—its proper enforcement.

Over 30 wet organizations throughout the country seek its annulment. We need a leader in congress with courage, conviction and consecration to combat these evil forces. Randall possesses these qualities. Was the author of war prohibition and other measures. Not merely a passive voter but an aggressive, persistent fighter for good government.

"My Old Kentucky Home" at the Glendale theatre is a story of the south, its traditions, racing and the villainy of a crook. Monte Blue plays the part of a Southern boy who has been unjustly imprisoned and who is fearful lest his mother learn he has been in prison. For that reason he does not go home. But when he hears the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" coming from a street organ his spirit is revived and instead of plunging into the underworld he goes home.

This Paramount picture is based on Denman Thompson's famous play in which that celebrated actor appeared for thirty-two years.

Government Clerks Attending School

WASHINGTON.—In Washington colleges and night schools, thousands of government clerks are enrolled this year.

Law schools are filled with ambitious youngsters, here from all parts of the United States, paying their way through college out of salaries received from Uncle Sam.

Two Democrats Do Not Spend 'Nickel'

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30.—Democratic congressmen seeking re-election captured both the highest and lowest records of campaign expenditures in returns filed with the clerk of the house here today.

The heaviest expenditure reported was that of Representative John L. Kindred, Democrat of New York, with $4000. Two Democrats, Representative Garner of Texas, and Crisp of Georgia, reported they had "not spent a nickel" in their primary or election campaigns.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

One of the women awoke at the sound of the man's voice. She looked up at Barbara in sullen hatred—otherwise she gave no indication that she saw anything unusual transpiring. It was as though an exquisite American belle were a daily visitor at the Oda Yorimoto home.

"What do you want of me?" cried the frightened girl, in Japanese.

Oda Yorimoto looked at her in astonishment. Where had this white girl learned to speak his tongue?

"I am the damio, Oda Yorimoto," he said. "These are my wives. Now you are one of them. Come!"

"Not yet—not here!" cried the girl clutching at a straw. "Wait. Give me time to think. If you do not harm me my father will reward you fabulously. Ten thousand koku he would gladly give to have me returned to him safely."

Oda Yorimoto but shook his head.

"Twenty thousand koku!" cried the girl.

Still the damio shook his head negatively.

"A hundred thousand—name your own price, if you will but not harm me."

"Silence!" growled the man. "What are even a million koku to me who only know the word from the legends of my ancestors. We have no need for koku here, and had we, my hills are full of the yellow metal which measures its value. No! you are my woman. Come!"

"Not here! Not here!" pleaded the girl. "There is another room—away from all these women," and she turned her eyes toward the door at the opposite side of the chamber.

Oda Yorimoto shrugged his shoulders. That would be easier than a fight, he argued, and so he led the girl toward the doorway that she had indicated. Within the room all was dark, but the damio moved as one accustomed to the place, and as he moved through the blackness the girl at his side felt with stealthy fingers at the man's belt.

At last Oda Yorimoto reached the far side of the long chamber.

"Here!" he said, and took her by the shoulders.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SAMMIE'S JUMPER

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the fields one day wondering what sort of an adventure he might have, when, all of a sudden, he heard some jolly laughter just behind a grassy bank.

"Hum!" whispered the rabbit gentleman to himself, with a twinkle of his pink nose, "that doesn't sound very scary. It sounds very happy. Of course, it may be the bad Fuzz Fox or the Woozie Wolf, laughing as they think of nibbling my ears—but let us hope not!"

Again sounded a jolly laugh.

"I'm going to hop up very softly and look over the top of that grassy bank," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "If it's the Fox or Wolf, I can hop away again—that is, if they don't see me."

"But if it's one of my friends I'll stay and have a laugh with them. There's nothing so much fun as laughing and being jolly in the world."

So Uncle Wiggily peered over the top of the grassy bank and looked down on Sammie Little-tail, the rabbit boy, who was sitting at the bottom of the bank on the other side. And Sammie was laughing as hard as he could laugh.

"This is strange!" thought Uncle Wiggily to himself. "It's Sammie, all right, so I don't need to be afraid. But why should he be laughing all alone? If he has some of the animal boys and girls with him, and they were all laughing together, I could understand that. But it is queer for Sammie to laugh all by himself."

Just then Sammie gave another chuckle of delight and shouted:

"Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! Ha! Tee hee!"

"I wonder if he has a fever, and is out of his head?" thought Uncle Wiggily, for once he had been that way himself, and he had laughed when there was nothing to laugh at.

But, a moment later, as Sammie laughed again, Uncle Wiggily looked more closely and he saw that the rabbit boy held something in his paws. It was something that jiggled and jiggled about, and the more it jiggled and jiggled the more Sammie laughed—all by himself.

"What have you there, Sammie?" suddenly called the rabbit uncle.

Sammie looked up so suddenly that he nearly dropped what he had in his paws. Then, as he saw Uncle Wiggily, the little rabbit boy spoke and said:

"Oh, I'm just playing with Jack."

"Jack who?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Jumping Jack," laughed Sammie. "Oh, you ought to see the funny things my Jumping Jack does when I pull the string. He jiggles his arms, he joggles his legs and he kicks like Bully No-Tail, the frog."

"Oh, ho! So it's your Jumping Jack you were laughing at, is it?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I'm glad I found out." Then the bunny gentleman slid down the bank to where Sammie sat and Uncle Wiggily watched Sammie pull the string of the little jointed wooden man called "Jumping Jack." And Jack certainly did some funny tricks. Uncle Wiggily himself had to laugh out loud.

"Where did you get your Jack?" asked Mr. Longears.

"I saved up my pennies and bought my Jumping Jack at the toy store," answered Sammie. "Look! He almost stood on his head that time!"

And Sammie's Jack certainly

Uncle Butter laughed aloud.

Lettie, the goat lady, stood in the door, looking very sorrowful.

"What's the matter, Aunt Lettie?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, Uncle Butter is very ill," said the goat lady. "He has lost all his appetite. Why, I even brought him in some lovely scraps of paper from a circus billboard—pictures of parts of elephants, lions and tigers—and he wouldn't eat the least bit!"

"What's the matter with him?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, he's just gloomy and sad," answered Aunt Lettie. "He needs cheering up, I guess, and—"

"Wait a minute!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped away. "I know the very thing to make him jolly."

Uncle Wiggily hopped back to where Sammie sat, still playing with his Jumping Jack.

"Bring that and show it to Uncle Butter!" said Mr. Longears. "I want it to make him laugh as it made me laugh."

Soon Sammie stood in front of the ill goat gentleman, pulling the string of the jumping toy. Jack struck out one leg. Uncle Butter smiled half a smile. Jack flung one leg up toward his head as Sammie pulled harder on the string. Uncle Butter smiled the other half of a smile.

"Watch this!" cried Sammie. He pulled the string a little harder and Jack tossed up both his arms, held his head on one side and then began to dance a jiggy jiggy jig.

"Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! Tee-hee!" And this time Uncle Butter laughed aloud.

"You're cured!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. And, surely enough, right after that Uncle Butter shouted:

"I'm hungry! Please bring me some paste pudding, Aunt Lettie!"

And he ate it all up, and then he bought a Jumping Jack for himself to cheer Aunt Lettie in case she ever became ill. So, after all, you see, Jumping Jacks are good for something else than hanging on Christmas trees.

And if the rag doll doesn't try to cover herself with a sheet of paper and catch cold in her sawdust toes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and his false faces. Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Pacific-Southwest Review

By H. NELSON, Manager Glendale Avenue Branch Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

HERMAN NELSON

The progress and serenity of the nation depend largely upon the thrift of its people. Their combined savings form the foundation upon which the whole economic structure of the country is reared.

The great cities with their towering skyscrapers and busy industrial centers, the broad green farms that feed the nation, the happy homes, housing a contented people, the railroads and other transportation systems, all the educational and governmental institutions, etc., would be impossible were it not for the savers. The very standard of our living is determined by them.

This is true because it is the combined savings of the people that makes capital. Without capital there could be no industrial or agricultural development. It is such development that means employment for the people. Thus, thrift carries its two-fold reward, for a nation of savers is consequently a happy nation and a progressive one, its economic condition reflecting the economic habits of its people.

The saving of money is, therefore, not only a basic factor in the progress of an individual, but is at the same time the duty of every good citizen.

Everyone, whether or not a saver, realizes the advantages of a bank account—that saved money means the chance to take advantage of promising opportunities and assures protection from financial adversity. But little encouragement is offered to save on every side are attractive invitations to part with money. The momentary popularity of the spender is, perhaps, attractive. But the spender is not constructive as he dissipates the power which is needed to build his community. Saving money is the fundamental of making money. Comfortable little fortunes do not spring into existence as a magician produces eggs from an empty hat. For every fortune made from wildcat speculation, many millions are lost by people who can ill afford to part with their money. The majority of comfortable incomes grow through the determination and persistence of the saver who builds a surplus, invests it wisely with the advice and guidance of his banker and continues to accumulate and build.

The saver becomes the home owner—our country's best citizen, contributing more to maintain the social stability of the country than any force. No man will hoist a red flag over his own home. The ability to own a home is the privilege of everyone. The savings bank places at the command of everyone all its facilities to help them save for this and other purposes, and pays them for doing so.

Examples of what thrift can do might be multiplied indefinitely. But the purchasing ability which it brings is not its only virtue. Thrift is a builder of character. It brings self-control, stability and sound judgment. It promotes happiness and contentment, fosters good citizenship.

The accumulation of money then makes power which brings good not only to the saver himself, but also aids the general public welfare, for he who puts his money in the bank not only improves his own condition, but makes a material contribution to the progress of his community and nation.

In the Pacific-Southwest this bank is gathering the deposits of many savers, and its trained and experienced officers are distributing the financial power thus gained in loans to worthy industries and individuals who are contributing to the advancement of this territory.

C. W. TRANSMITTING CONDENSERS

The use of vacuum tubes as generators of radio frequency oscillators in radio telegraphy and telephony has brought about the need for comparatively small transmitting condensers, which will stand continuous operation with the voltages used on such tube sets.

Due to the far greater effectiveness of C. w. over spark methods of transmission, amperes for amperes in the antenna, ranges are obtainable with V. T. tube transmitters equal to those of spark sets of considerably higher power.

A type of condenser specially developed for this type of transmission is shown in the illustration.

It is made in a variety of values to serve in any circuit.

INDUCTANCE

In mechanics it is well known that a piece of matter cannot set itself in motion and that energy must be supplied from outside. A small current in the electric circuit cannot set itself in motion, and energy must be supplied by some form of generator or other source of emf.

As an illustration of inductance we may take the following example: When a nail is forced into a piece of wood the mere weight of the hammer as it rests on the head of the nail will produce no effect. However, by raising the hammer and letting it acquire considerable speed the kinetic energy stored is large, and when the motion of the hammer is stopped this energy is used in forcing the nail into the wood. In the electric circuit a cell with its small emf can cause only a feeble spark. By including a piece of wire with many turns in the circuit, however, energy is stored. A small current will enable a large amount of energy to be stored in the magnetic field, if the inductance is large. Then when the current is broken and the field collapses this large amount of energy is released suddenly and a hot spark of considerable length is the result.

RELATES LESSON OF REFORMATION

Dr. H. C. Funk Tells Members of Lutheran Church How Start Was Made

"Lessons from the Great Reformation" was the subject discussed yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

"Not everything done by the reformers is of practical value today," admitted Dr. H. C. Funk. "History, however, repeats itself, and we find that certain fundamental principles that were operative then are equally prevalent and practical in our own time."

"One lesson that we desire to study this morning is based upon the principle that we cannot compel or coerce a man in matters of religion. Against those, who held that a man should be compelled to accept and abide by the decisions of the church, Luther, with great courage, taught the doctrine of religious liberty."

"The thirty-first day of October, 1517, may be designated as the day on which the Lutheran church was born. She was called Protestant because on that day a priest of God dared to nail a protest on the door of the castle church at Wittenberg, protesting against the sale of sinful indulgences and the corruption of the church."

"You will observe that Luther's method of dealing with error was not by the use of force but by instruction and persuasion."

"We hold that no man should be compelled to believe and subscribe to the teaching of any church, even though the doctrines are absolutely true. In keeping with this principle the Lutheran church has always accorded the highest place to education as a means for spiritual enlightenment."

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, MD
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

IMMUNITY NO. 1
It is often stated that if we were all in perfect health, if the blood were "pure"—there would be no danger from infectious diseases. In other words one's immunity, the resisting power residing in the cells and blood—would be sufficient to overcome the poisons due to any harmful bacteria that got into the body.

Theoretically this sounds well, and perhaps there is a large element of truth in it. Practically, however, there are certain infectious diseases that the most robust will contract if they receive a sufficient dose of virulent micro-organisms. And such diseases as smallpox, measles, yellow fever, cholera and plague, apparently, have no particular relation to bodily vigor. Of course, we might say here these persons who contract these diseases were only normally healthy rather than really healthy.

On the other hand, tuberculosis, common colds, pneumonia and septic infections and some other diseases are very much more apt to gain a foothold in those who have lowered general vitality through some cause.

The factors that lower resistance are so numerous—prolonged exposure to wet and cold, overwork, improper diet, worry, insufficient sleep—that at any time the most robust may have their resistance lowered and be unfitted to combat any infection if exposed to it.

Thus you can see how pernicious it is to say we do not need quarantine laws and protection against infectious diseases because if our blood is pure we won't contract them.

While we must do all in our power to keep ourselves in a high degree of health so that our resistance to disease is strong to combat it, we must also do all in our power to combat the infecting agents—in other words, the disease-producing bacteria.

There are different degrees of immunity. Immunity also varies in time limits, so the term immunity is a relative term.

Immunity may be natural or acquired, active or passive, family or racial, etc. Natural immunity is an inherited characteristic possessed by individuals of a given species. For instance, the lower animals have a natural immunity to diseases such as measles, gonorrhoea, syphilis, malaria, etc.

Some of these infections may be given to these animals, artificially but they do not contract them naturally. This natural immunity in animals to certain diseases may be broken down by means that weaken the animal. For instance, chickens are naturally immune to anthrax, but if their feet are kept in cold water over a certain period it lowers their resistance so that they may be infected by anthrax. White rats also are naturally immune to anthrax, but if their hair is clipped, they may become susceptible to it, because this procedure lowers their temperature.

Man has a high grade of natural immunity to a large number of the infections to which the lower animals are susceptible. Susceptibility is the contrary condition to immunity. For instance, most children are susceptible to diphtheria, and adults are largely immune to it. Hyper-susceptibility is a high state of susceptibility as a high state of susceptibility is a high state of susceptibility.

TECHNICAL INSTITUTE
A technical institute that eventually will accommodate 2000 students has been established near Cape Town for employes of the government and industrial firms in the vicinity.

It's a Fact

IN ANTHRACITE FIELD
Excessive child labor in a Pennsylvania coal mining district in the anthracite region, and a direct relation between child labor and low earnings of the fathers are reported by the United States department of labor through the children's bureau in a bulletin just issued. The study deals with children from 13 to 16 years of age in a district of the central field in Schuylkill county. In this area of little more than a half a square mile 24,725 persons are found living—12,592 of them with more than one person per room and 3045 with two or more. Rooms were generally small and cubic air space below a minimum standard.

The available land, hemmed in by mining properties on all sides, was so nearly covered with houses that even when these were unsafe the tenants found it necessary to remain. Streets, railroad tracks, and dumps afforded the only space within the town where children could play. Of the boys between 13 and 16 years of age in the district, 57 per cent—$96 out of 1564—and of the girls, 29 per cent—453 out of 1572—had left school for work.

'MARKET MANIPULATIONS'
The federal trade commission, which is conducting an inquiry into the grain trade in response to a resolution of the United States senate, announces that Commissioners Victor Mardock, John F. Nugent, Huston Thompson and Vernon W. Van Fleet, are holding a series of public conferences with representative grain men at Washington, New York and Chicago.

A statement given out by the commissioner says the conferences are for the purpose of obtaining information pertinent to that part of the senate resolution calling for "all the facts concerning market manipulations, if any, in connection with large export transactions, or otherwise."

The facts concerning the slump in grain prices during the last six months of 1920 after future trading in wheat was restored, as well as the reasons for the severe fluctuations in the price of May futures of 1921 and 1922 are being investigated.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE SUCCESSFUL MOTHER-IN-LAW
A Letter Friend who is about to become a mother-in-law by the marriage of her son, and who is to live with the young folks asked me if I thought it possible to be a successful mother-in-law and how I thought the thing could be done. If she weren't going to live with them, but near them, the thing would be much simpler. For each family its own home as long as possible, even if the separate homes are not as expensive as the double one might be, is to my mind the safest way. But if she must live with them, she must, and these are the suggestions I should make.

The home should be the daughter-in-law's and she should be mistress of it. Hard for the mother who has been used to being mistress in her own home? Yes, hard, but fair. She has been mistress, she has had her turn, and now it is the younger woman's turn. If there must be only one home it belongs to the daughter and she should be its mistress.

She Shouldn't Criticize
The mother-in-law should absolutely respect this position just as she would respect the position of any woman with whom she was visiting or with whom she was residing. She should not think of interfering with the management of the home in any way any more that she would in that case. She shouldn't criticize the way things are done, she shouldn't give orders to the maid (except through the daughter), she shouldn't ever usurp the younger woman's prerogatives as head of the table or purser of the tea. New mistresses of households are always jealous of such prerogatives.

She should remember that no matter how much they may love her, the young folks will love her still more if she gives them plenty of chances to be alone. A private sitting room would help out a lot. If this is impossible, her room should be made attractive with comfortable chairs and proper lighting so that she will not mind sitting there of an evening sometimes, or entertaining her friends there. Some little arrangements so that she can make tea in her own room for guests would help a lot.

Let Them Eat Alone Sometimes
She should cultivate friends and keep up interests outside the home so that she will not be dependent on the young people's companionship. Whenever possible she should go out to meals and give the young folks a chance for a meal a tete. The tactful mother-in-law will accomplish this by taking a tray to her room now and then if there is no other way.

As to the household tasks that ought to be a matter of fair arrangement made between the two women, each to do certain specific tasks, or to be willing to help the other out as emergency arises. In one home of which I know, there are two mother-in-laws, yet there is no trouble about household tasks because there is a set routine.

Not to Think With Her Heart
The mother-in-law will have a better chance of success if she is determined to do two things. One, not to be blinded by maternal feeling in her attitude toward the two. Not to make up her mind (or her heart, many mothers think with their hearts) that her child is justified and right, but try to be fair minded. And the other is not to express such feelings or give advice unless it is asked for and then very cautiously and sparingly.

"All very well," I can hear some mother-in-law saying. "Of course if a mother will give up in every way she can get along. But what is the daughter-in-law to do toward making things go smoothly? What's her contribution?"

Well, I will try and give that tomorrow.

Tomorrow—The Successful Daughter-in-Law

HEALTHFUL THROAT IS A WINTER JOY

Weekly Health Talk No. 6
By Eble and Eble, Ds. C.

People who are subject to throat troubles sometimes called tonsillitis, laryngitis, and just plain sore throat, look forward to winter with dread. The weakness which causes cold to settle in the throat is directly traceable to pressure on nerves at the spine.

Because the throat is so easily reached with gargles and swabs, the first thought in throat troubles is usually such remedies as this, with little idea that the cause is pinching pressure on spinal nerves emitting from the spine in the lower neck region. The chiropractor readily locates the pinch and by his skill makes the necessary adjustments. There is always the danger in throat ailments of diphtheria developing and prompt and efficient attention is necessary.

CARROTS AND COMPLEXIONS
Somebody should give more praise to the humble carrot. It's a useful and not always appreciated member of the vegetable family. It's not only valuable as an ingredient of Irish stew, it's good cooked or raw as an aid in beautifying the complexion.

Carrots are supposed to make blood. They are rich in many blood purifying minerals. It may take a bit of practice to learn to like them raw, but if you try scraping them and then chopping them into very small pieces so they are easy to chew you will find they have a certain very pleasing crisp sweetness. They are very good for the teeth eaten raw, because they clean the surface of the teeth and stimulate the gums.

However, if you do not like them raw cook them in as little water as possible, chopping them very fine, and save the water to use in soup afterwards, since much of the valuable part of the carrot is cooked out of it. If you are reducing you must eat your carrots plain, but if you are trying to gain flesh, as is more likely to be the case with those seeking a beautiful complexion, you can make the most delicious cream sauce by rubbing flour into melting butter and adding rich milk or even a little thin cream, along with some of the carrot juice, or you can serve the carrots, which in any case should be chopped into small dice, with melted butter poured over them and a liberal sprinkling of salt and pepper.

When you get tired of carrots prepared in any of these ways, dice them, boil them, set them away to get cold and make them into a salad. If you are dressing the carrots favor use thick mayonnaise liberally and for variety mix them with diced apples, or with finely chopped green beans which makes a most attractive color combination.

Brunette—The best way to control this disfiguring hair is to extract the coarse or dark hairs and then bleach the fine ones so they will not be seen. Never use depilatories as they merely rot off the hair at the surface, acting much the same as a shave, which only increases the growth. The electric needle has helped many a woman rid herself of such growth, but this treatment sometimes fails with others.

Friend—Cucumbers may be purchased at this time, and even though they are not so plentiful as earlier in the season, so few have you ever tried raw carrots? of them are needed for making enough lotion to last a year, that it would be well for you to give preference to them, instead of using either peroxide or lemon juice in your bleaching cosmetics.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.
All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a person of quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Trojans Put Up Surprise Battle

Bears Lead Only In Smooth Team Play and Also In Kickind Department

Now that the "big game" between U. S. C. and California is a thing of the past and the Golden Bear from Berkeley has once more turned back the onslaughts of his southern antagonist the innocent sporting populace is in for several days, and maybe weeks, of rehearsing and dragging out the "it" deck.

One thing is certain—when Andy Smith's California varsity walked off the field at the Pasadena stadium late Saturday afternoon it comprised probably the most relieved bunch of college gridiron performers that had ever achieved a victory on a western turf. The 12 to 0 score which tells the story of the contest had only been reached in the final quarter of the game, and even then it was not sufficient to allow the Bruins to slacken their pace. In other words, "Gloomy" Gus Henderson's Cardinal and Gold pigskinners were fighting with a stubbornness and determination that is rarely seen on the gridiron. Their pluck, grit and nerve was a revelation to every one of the some 40,000 frenzied spectators who were expecting every moment to see the Bears break through and pile up one of their customary landslide scores.

Where Bears Lead

Now, to get down to the relative ability and prowess of the two rival squads. The two—and only two—distinctive places in which the northerners had anything "on" the S. C. fighters was in punting and in general smoothness of team play. By team play is meant the ability of the squad to perform as a unit. When it is observed that but three of Henderson's men—namely, Calland, Lindley and Kincaid—were regulars on last season's team, it is difficult to conceive of any better team work than was displayed by the Trojans Saturday.

In each of the three instances in which California scored the markers were directly the result of U. S. C. bobbles, happenings bound to occur in a green aggression. The safety, which came in the first quarter, came about when Lindley passed poorly to Campbell behind the U. S. C. goal line, who had no alternative than to fall on the ball.

The lone touchdown of the battle, which was put over shortly after the opening of the fourth quarter, immediately followed the worst kind of a break for the southerners. Campbell, in attempting a trick forward pass formation, had the ball knocked from his hands ten yards behind the line of scrimmage, which in desperation to recover the oval the flashy little halfback grabbed the arm of a California player ahead of him and was penalized twenty yards. This, in addition to the ten yards already lost in the play, placed the ball thirty yards closer to the U. S. C. goal line. The touchdown soon followed.

Get Another Break

The final break came a few moments later when Nesbit kicked one of his characteristic long high spirals from his own thirty-three yard line. On attaining its greatest height the ball was caught in a sudden gust of wind, which caused Campbell to fumble. California recovered the ball and, on being unable to penetrate the Trojan line, Nesbit put over a drop kick from the twenty-yard line.

All in the game of football, anyway, and California can be said to have won fairly and squarely. But, things would have taken an entirely different aspect had California's two bad breaks come at other times than when they did.

If Don Nichols' fumble behind the line of scrimmage should have taken place when the squads were battling under the shadow of the Bruin goal posts, and if Nesbit's punt had been blocked five yards nearer the Blue and Gold goal, the score would have read at least a tie, and probably a victory, for the Trojans.

Big Forest Fire Is Causing Heavy Loss

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 30.—What was considered an ordinary woods fire and not believed to have menacing qualities, has grown into the most serious forest conflagration in the history of Knox county, and this morning is entirely unchecked within a mile of the Knoxville city limits. Many hundreds of acres of valuable timber land have been burned over and scores of homes are in the immediate path of the blaze. All efforts to combat the flames have been futile and today hundreds of men are fighting desperately to save property, which now seems doomed to destruction.

The fire started three miles north of the city four days ago and has roared continuously. No reasonable estimate can be made of the damage done, although it will run to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

A good speech is a good thing, but the verdict is the thing.—Daniel O'Connell.

UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL CAPTAINS : : : By WOOD COWAN

The war proved a lot of things; but no other one thing was quite so convincingly driven home as was the fact that athletes, and above all, football players made the best leaders.

The battle of Waterloo was "won of the fields by Eton" some old sage wisely chirped, and the same might be said of the gridiron when applied to the efficient leadership of the rank and file of our A. E. F. The powers that be evidently are taking good advantage of this lesson for all athletics, and especially football, are being encouraged at both our war institutions.

The past five or six seasons has found the Annapolis academy's goat sort of bunting the stuffings out of the army mule

—but this season may find things quite the reverse for, from all indications, West Point will have a mighty strong aggregation while the navy has suffered the loss of nine first line men by graduation.

Fritz Breidster, the veteran guard, is the army's leader and Fritz is a mighty big man of more ways than one. In the matter of weight he's a whale, well over 200 and mighty fast. He is often down the field on punts ahead of his end men. This is his fourth and last year for he has plugged the hole at guard position since 1919.

Fritz is an all-around athlete, being one of the finest swimmers on the West Point team of which he is also the captain.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Just when football originated is problematical. There are many references to games with a ball in old-time books and even in the twenty-second chapter of Isaiah of the Bible there is the significant verse: "He will turn and toss like a ball." Certainly some sort of ball was played even in those days. Then antiquarians have discovered references to a game played in Korea, or whatever the country was known as, as far back as 2697 B. C. The ball for the game is described as being round and stuffed with goat's hair.

With these vague references of the dim past we turn to the A. D. period and find that the first definite reference to football as such dates back to the reign of Edward III of England in 1349. Later in 1508, Barclay, the great author of the period, in his fifth declague, "The Ship of Fools," has these lines:

"The sturdy plowmen, lustie, strong and bold,
Overcometh the winter with driving the football,
Forgetting labour and many a grievous fall."

In these days of Edward III we find His Majesty issuing a proclamation: "Football is an offense, such as football, game metter for lameing than making able the users thereof."

A few years prior to this we find a city official of Chester, England, making this announcement: "It has been the custom time out of mind for the shoe-makers on Shrove Tuesday to deliver to the drapers, in the presence of the Mayor of Chester, at the Cross on the Rodeeke (a public square), one ball of leather, called a football, of the value of three shillings and fourpence or above, to play at from thence to the common hall of the said city, which practice was productive of much inconvenience, and therefore this year (1540) by consent of the parties concerned, the ball was changed into six glayves of silver of the like value as a reward for the best runner that day upon the aforesaid Rodeeke."

This was probably the start of what was eventually a regular battle royal in which the whole population of one small town advanced to half way to the next town, a ball was put in the public highway and both sides attempted to kick it into the opposing town. Eventually this resolved itself into "chaotic ruffianism," says an old chronicler, in which sometimes six or seven hundred persons chased the ball through the highways to a certain spot "which was reached usually with the towns half hors d'combat."

Rules were by degrees formulated and eventually about the year 1830 the school at the town of Rugby formulated a set of definite playing rules which today are the very fundamentals not only of English Rugby football,

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Battling Siki, the Senegalese fighter, has been matched and re-matched, reported as coming to this country and then not coming, enough times to bewilder the average reader of the sports page. The net result has been absolutely nothing as yet. No sport in the world is productive of more false alarms and premature assertions than the ring game.

In view of the fact that the prompt turning over of the receipts of the drawn game in the world series to charity put a muffler on what might have developed into another baseball scandal there seems to be little left now to say about that incident, but there is an interesting aftermath. Umpire Hilderbrand, just returned for the winter to his home town of San Francisco, stated that neither the official behind the plate nor the man at the delivery of the ball at the pitcher. While, at all intent and purpose, there was still plenty of light, the condition of reflection or refraction, or whatever they might be, along the line between pitcher and catcher were such that the danger of beaming the batter or maiming the catcher were not to be disregarded. Batters were stepping back from pitched balls that cut the plate, he said.

While the eastern portion of the United States is well provided with long distance runs of an intercollegiate nature, followers of sport on the Pacific coast are wondering why the universities in that section do not organize something along these lines. There are two runs, of about five and seven miles which have become classics. One of these, however, is conducted annually by the Olympic club of San Francisco, and the other by a newspaper. As far as the colleges are concerned there is no cross-country run in which university athletes can achieve renown.

I've never any pity for convicted people, because I think they carry their comfort about with them.—George Eliot.

The Sport Crucible

International News Service Sports Edition

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—New Jersey, the happy hunting ground of pugilistic buck-and-wing performances, is about to lend official countenance to an affair of the fists between Harry Wills and the discredited Jack Johnson, according to a semi-authentic report. It is said this worthy pair has already ruined the dotted line of a contract calling for them to meet in a 12-round bout before the National A. C. of Newark, N. J., late in November, but that the announcement is being kept under cover until the formality of an election can have taken place.

BEARS AND U. W. CONTEST NOV. 11

Both Teams Come Through Their Most Severe Games Saturday With Wins

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—It was evident today as the smoke of Saturday's gridiron contests cleared away that the Pacific coast championship will probably be decided at Seattle November 11.

On that date Andy Smith will send his Golden Bears against Enoch Ragshaw's up-and-coming University of Washington eleven. Both teams came through their most severe tests so far this season with wins Saturday. Neither victory was especially impressive, but a win is a win.

University of Southern California held the Bruins to a 12 to 0 score and gave them a fearful scare by carrying the ball to California's one-foot line.

Washington State was defeated by University of Washington 15 to 13, in a hard-fought battle at Pullman, Wash. This victory over their ancient rivals greatly heartened Ragshaw's men and they are working this week as they have never worked before to be in readiness a week from Saturday for the California invasion.

Some line on the prospects for the battle November 11 will be had after Saturday's games. Washington State coming to Berkeley to play California.

Stanford opened its conference season with a 6 to 0 win over the Oregon Aggies. Stanford will have hard sledding November 11 against U. S. C.

Washington coast conference Washington university leads with three victories. Oregon, playing its first conference game, was able to beat Idaho by the narrowest of margins. Shy Huntington expects to have all his cripples in the game with Washington State at Eugene Armistice Day.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Causes Protest

HAVRE, Mont., Oct. 30.—A coroner's inquest may satisfy the law but the heart of a mother is not so easily contented.

The Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church here, and widely known as the "bishop of outdoors," was shot and killed by Mrs. Margaret Carleton in a fit of temporary insanity and the "most beautiful woman in Montana," then turned the gun on herself and committed suicide, according to a coroner's jury verdict rendered after several hours' deliberation.

"Margaret didn't do it," declared Mrs. Joseph Pyle of Butte, mother of the dead woman. "I know she didn't do it, and I shall never be satisfied, in spite of the coroner's verdict, until it is proved to me where the gun came from with which the shooting was done."

The mystery of the gun remains unsolved today. It admittedly was a small calibre pearl-handled weapon that Mrs. Carleton was known to carry which sent the fatal bullets into the clergyman and his protegee of the chataqua circuit.

Also the conversation that took place between the slain rector, his wife and Mrs. Carleton just prior to the tragedy remains secret locked behind the lips of Mrs. Anna W. Christler, widow of the popular preacher. Beyond the statement she made to the coroner's jury that Mrs. Carleton had declared to her that she (his wife) "had no place in a Christian's life," not one word of the "commonplace conversation" which occurred in the rector's home after midnight last Thursday had passed Mrs. Christler's lips.

In the early darkness of Sunday morning, still maintaining the unbroken calm that has characterized her since the tragedy occurred, Mrs. Christler left for Auburn, N. Y., where the body of the rector will be buried.

Board Fixes Blame for Train Collision

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The International & Great Northern railway was today blamed by the interstate commerce commission for the collision on September 13 between a freight train and a Southern Pacific passenger train, resulting in the injury of twenty-eight persons. The collision occurred at Houston, Tex., where the tracks of the two roads intersected.

The report said the officials of the road were pen to severe censure for permitting the freight train to move over the crossing without coming to a stop, and for operating transfer trains without air brakes in service.

Mrs. S. C. Rand Gets New Seal Coat Free

The purchase a week ago today of a $1.95 apron at the Fashion Center resulted in Mrs. S. C. Rand of 719 South Adams street receiving the expensive Laskin seal coat awarded Saturday night at the formal opening of the store. "It just happened that I went into the store last Monday," said Mrs. Rand. "I wanted to buy a $1.95 apron and during my purchase the clerk suggested that I sign one of the slips for the coat to be given away at the opening Saturday night. I did so and the incident never entered my mind until I was called to the door Saturday night to receive a message that I had won the fur coat at the Fashion Center. It all shows what a fair proceeding it was and I want Glendale people to join me in my appreciation of the Fashion Center folks."

REV. RASMUS, JR., DELIVERS TALK

Says Need of Hour Is Men Who Are Willing to Serve for God

"Man's Call and God's Answer" was the subject of the address last night at the First Methodist church by Rev. H. I. Rasmus, Jr. "The occasion of Jesus stilling the waters of turbulent Galilee has a significance which cannot be passed by in these troubled days," he asserted. "He spoke to the waves as though they were human things; and brought quietude not alone to the waves, but to the disciples' hearts. As the disciples awakened Him with their cry, 'Lord save us, we perish,' so the Christ with ready ear and heart will listen to man's cry this hour. "Throughout the world we see much of distress today. From one nation comes the story of women sold as chattels; another tells of a people starving to death. From another portion of the world, we hear of people war-worn and weary returning to their farms, once fertile meadows, now barren wastes ripped and torn; and, there, with their gaunt horses and half-starved cows they are making a meagre start back to prosperity. Another story tells of a single large American city where a million people can neither read nor write. The need of the hour is men who are willing to be used of God. Through these God can give ready answer to the distress of the world. The golden word of our day is service. Youth Is Best "Youth best answers the call to service, for youth has the vitality and virility that the great tasks of the hour demand. It is a wonderful experience for old age to look back upon a life dedicated to service from beginning to end. There is nothing more beautiful than a life that has weathered its storms successfully, and has found in the missiles that hurtle through the span of life from dawn until sunset jewels for the bosom, stars for the brow. "We must front the future with optimism believing that God yet has revelation for man. The Christian of all people should be satisfied with his knowledge of the Christ but "for the moment. Each day, says one, "the character of God should shine with a more golden light, the will of God should be realized with deeper insight and sympathy, and the purpose of God which is our eternal salvation should take on fresh meaning and power."

LANDED CLASS OF ENGLAND BREAKS
Must Prove Its Economic Justification or Yield Power, Is Claim
By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.
LONDON.—Nationalization of the land is inevitable in Great Britain unless the landowners justify their position.
Lord Bledisloe, a leading authority on agriculture and during the war parliamentary secretary of the Ministry of food, is the person who makes this prediction.
The history of agriculture in the United Kingdom for the last seventy years does not redound to the credit of either the landowners or the statesmen, Lord Bledisloe declares.
"Landowners who should have given the lead have failed to do so," the Lord says. "The British agricultural landowner today is on his trial.
Public Opinion
"Unless he justifies himself as such, the nationalization of the land is inevitable. Public opinion will demand his extinction and parliament will endorse the demand.
"Many landowners have been for the last two generations mere rent receivers, and have possessed neither the knowledge nor the inclination personally to administer their own estates, still less to cultivate them on commercial lines for their own and the nation's benefit.
"So far as they have been organized as a class of the community they have been organized not as producers of wealth, but as defenders of property, and as such their organization has, in a highly democratic country, afforded them but a small and steadily decreasing measure of security.
"They have thus lost their political power, because it had no economic basis."
Position Weakens
For the past generation and more the landowners of Great Britain have failed to carry out reforms or perform services to those living off the land. The agricultural position of Great Britain has been weakened through the failure of the landed classes to develop properly their holdings, Lord Bledisloe charges.
Lord Bledisloe is an advocate of land reforms and of striking reforms in the marketing of agricultural products, one of his projects being the elimination of superfluous and unnecessary middle men.

RUSSIAN OIL
In the first six months of this year the Southern Russia oil fields increased their production about 17 per cent from the like period last year to about 17,000,000 barrels.

Civil War Veteran Not Citizen, Word

NOWATA, Okla.—James Meadowcroft, 77 years old, labored under the delusion that he was a citizen of the United States for sixty-nine years. Imagine his consternation when, after serving under the Stars and Stripes for four years during the Civil war and voting for nearly thirty years, Meadowcroft discovered he was a subject of England, having been born in that country. That was eight years ago.
Naturalization papers were issued recently to the aged man. Immediately following his discovery he stopped voting and exercising other rights of American citizenship and instituted plans to become a citizen.
Authorities declared he is the oldest person to be given naturalization papers in this country.

Strike Agitators Back of Jap Kick

HONOLULU.—It is a significant fact, according to information received by the office of the territorial attorney general, that many of the men who have acted as representatives of the Japanese parents and language schools in formulating protests to the departments of public instruction against restriction of the Japanese schools, and who were instrumental in calling a mass meeting of the Japanese to protest adoption of the new school regulations, either were actively connected with the Honolulu Strike Supporters' association during the plantation strike of 1920 or are affiliated with Buddhist and Shintoist religious institutions.
On the island of Maui it is reported the leaders of agitation against curtailment of the courses in the language schools are the same Japanese who were active in fomenting the strike agitation in 1920.
The commissioners of public instruction have acted promptly in approving the recommendation of the American-Japanese joint committee. These recommendations outline a plan which rearranges instruction in the hundreds of Japanese language schools in the territory along strictly American lines. Instruction was formerly carried on in practically the same manner that it is done in Japan. It must now be done according to American ideals.

Eighth Born Child Is Best Physically

LONDON.—"The first child has the worst record for disease and the eighth child and upward the best." This is the result of an exhaustive inquiry made by Dr. R. H. Vercoe among the school children of Essex.
"Eighth children," he says, "are inferior to none and superior to the eldest children in small families."
In intelligence, weight, height, and other qualities, the differences are slight, but the following are noted.
Intelligence rises slightly from first child to third, then drops to the sixth, and rises again to the eighth child.
The tallest and heaviest children are the latest born, while the shortest and lightest are the second and sixth.
The eldest child, as a rule, has the lightest colored eye, while the eighth has the darkest. In defects of vision the first and second children are the worst, while the third child comes out best. In general defects the first child is slightly the worst and the eighth by far the best.

Fire Is Put Out by Chief Without Help

CINCINNATI, O.—Len Westcott quite appropriately has been awarded the tin derby by Cincinnati's most resourceful fire marshal. While passing a laundry building the other day he discovered a blaze on the roof, turned in a call for a fire company and then dashed up the stairs to the roof and beat out the flames with a broom.
"Fire's out!" he shouted down to the firemen who had just arrived below. "Loss: One broom and a dozen shingles."
