GRAND VIEW OF BIRU-PEAKS

With respect to the unrivalled beauty of the mountains and the wealth of beautiful sights of the surroundings, no other can be compared with Biru-peaks among the two thousand peaks in Kongo.

This peak rising to a noble height of 1638 meters, above the sea, on the top we can command peaks,— Hattan, Saika— and far away we can descry Seira peak in Sea-Kongo where the smooth sea of Japan blend with the line of the sky.

A full view of landscapes can be obtained from this point.

The most beautiful sight in Korea and one of the most beautiful in Japan is the view of Biru-peaks.

THE DISTANT VIEW FROM SHŪSEN-HŌ PEAK

Shūsen-ho is fifty-four hundred and forty-two meters high and has harmonious beauty of those of the ravine and the mountain, and has many branches.

The branches are strange and standing as if they were competing their height with each other.

The art of the Creator is almost out of expression and indeed, nothing can surpass the beauty of them.

SHINKEI-JI TEMPLE

The temple is in the west of Onseiri and 1900 meters distant from the village.

The place is surrounded by many famous mountains, and is secluded and quiet. The old pagoda and the palatial house of the temple remind us of old days.

The temple was built by the founder of a sect called Musetsu, at the age of Hōkō-ō, of Shiragi, and is one of the four great temples in Kongō.

The temple consists of three buildings, Hannya-hoden, Rakan-den and Hichi-sei-kaku. The old pagoda in this photograph was built more than one thousand years ago and is one of the three old pagodas in Kongo and was investigated to be of the same age as this temple.

With Kannon, Gyokujo, Seson around, a clear stream which runs through a deep wood, becomes a strong stream or changes into a depth and at last becomes a stream like white cloth.

This is called Gyokuryu-kei which is the most beautiful scenery of the mountain.

RENJYU-TAN POOL "POOL OF BEADS" OF GYOKURYU-KEI "BEAD-STREAM RAVINE"

If we turn a corner seeing the stream to the left from Gyokuryu-do, we come to the place where the green slopes gather round and the foot of a great rock intercepts our way. We climb up hauling in a line of iron chains which is fastened along the narrow pass.

The place is Renjyu-tan Pool; it contains deep blue water and strikes terror into seekers' hearts.

This is Hihō-baku Fall, and the view that the fall dashing down over the peak of the mountain piercing the blue sky is masculine, while the view of Buhō-baku Fall is feminine.

As sight-seekers go over the rock of the waist of the fall, they can look up or down the fall.

The fall dashing through the ravine of the green mountain shows the beauty of crystal.

All the mountains around the fall are echoing the uproaring of the fall, and the scenery is splendid and quiet.

The fall dashing over the rock seems as if it were a bead-blind, indeed the name' water-blind' shows its true sight.

The upper and the lower parts of the fall consist of a single mossy rock and the basin engraved on the rock shows the enchanting and secluded beauty.

The sound of the waterfall dashing over the edge of the precipice of one hundred and seventy feet high is uproaring until the whole ravine seems to echo it.

The large basin of the fall engraved on a great rock contains clear blue water, the beauty of the basin is quite beyond expression.

The name 'Nine-dragon Pool' came from the legend that the nine dragons hid themselves in this pool when they were defeated by fifty-three Buddas of Yuko-ji Temple.

The u per stream of this fall consists of eight pools and they make their own little world.

KAMI-HATTAN "UPPER EIGHT POOLS"

We can reach Kyuryu-dai (nine-dragon terrace), precipice of Kyuryu-baku Fall, by climbing the steep slope among the trees of Kyūsei Peak from the Entan Bridge.

We can look down from the terrace the eight pools, linked each other, making a little sublime world by themselves.

They are called Kami-hattan; winding their way through the ravine they show the strange and magnificient view, bssides, we can see far and near many peaks standing against the blue sky.

The magnificient view is almost beyond our imagination.

Several years ago, Prince Takamatsu climbed this mountain, and the letters of commemoration of his climbing were carved on the face of a great stone.

A PART OF OKU-BAMBUTSUSO

We can see, from tne Old and the New Bambutsuso, a long rugged range of mountains which rises between Gohosan ("Five peak Mountain") and Seishi-peak. There are so many gueer rocks,—some of them, like huge spears towering to the azure sky—that we can not count them all.

We also command a distaut view of Biru-ho mountains stretching long as far as our eyes can reach. This sight is grandeur itself.

長安寺は内金剛企画の中心に大きく聳え立つ新羅第三十二代法興王の建立に係り、聖徳太子の御師慧慈法師が日本に帰化して、聖徳太子の為に建立した寺院であります。

其の後、聖徳太子の御願により、推古天皇の二十三年に再興され、新羅の盛時には七堂伽藍が整備して、仏教の興隆を極めましたが、李朝の排仏政策により、一時は荒廃に帰しました。

然るに、李朝末期に至り、興宣大院君の仏教復興の大号令により、再び昔日の面影を取戻すに至りました。

現在の建物は、大雄宝殿、大寂光殿、大雄殿、大光明殿、大法堂、大悲殿、大雄殿等の七堂六閣を始め、数多の建物が整然と立ち並んで居ります。

境内は、金剛山の最高峰毘盧峰、観音峰、指導峰の三峰に囲まれ、幽玄崇高の趣きを呈し、真に人に迫るものがあります。

GRAND VIEW ON THE SUMMIT OF GYOKJO-PEAK

The greatest temple in Inner-Kongo and one of the two greatest in all the mountains, the other being Yutenji-temple in New-Kongo.

According to the Annals of the Temple, it was built by Shinpyo-Risshi, in march in the era of King Hoko, the 23rd of Shiragi.

At that time, Buddhism was so prosperous that it was famous for its magnificence. After that, owing to the influence of Anti-Buddhism, it was about to go to ruin.

But fortunately the six halls and seven buildings such as Dai-yu-ho-den Hall, Shisei-den Hall, etc, being newly erected at the time of the Emperor Seiso in the period of the Li-Dnasty, it became a sacred place again.

And it is surrounded with the mounts of Chokei, Shaka and Jigo.

The sight of the sacred mountain covered with thick trees is very enchanting.

Huge, square, khaki rocks standing high up, the smooth surface of the abyss below like a mirror reflecting all the grand peaks around it! We cannot see them without admiring their sublimity! Besides, there are many historical places of Buddhist origin near by for Constance, the place where they killed 50 convicts of Shiragi, the River Kosen, and the Gate of the Hell.

Zaininho-peak (''Convicts-peak''), Gyuto-ho (''Cow's head peak''), Shishaho-peak (''Messenger-peak'') and Hangan-ho (''officer-peak'') and so on— These historical peaks are soaring close together around Meikyo-dai.

On the way to the Hermitage named Hakka, seeing a distant view of Mt. Saihai to the left, we come up to enormous rocks standing close on both sides of the path, among which we find one rock on the left side on which three Buddhist Images are engraved by skilful workers. This is what we call Sambutsugan ("Three Buddha Rock").

These images were engraved by the supplication of Raiō-Soshi ("Raio, the founder of the sect") in the early period of the Li Dynasty.

The right one is "Miroku-Butsu"; the middle, "Shakabutsu"; the left, „Amida butsu".

This is situated at a distance of about 2000 meters from Choanji-temple.

In the quiet forest is situated the famous temple called Hyokunji-temple backed with strange shapes of rocky peaks and with rapids of Bambaku running in front of it.

This is one of the four greatest temples in Kongo.

Being established by Hyokun, the founder of the sect, in the fiftieth Year of King Bunbu in the Silla period, this temple has a history of 1250 years, though it was often repaired by his descendants.

In the Hannya-hō-den Hall,the main temple, is stored a Bodhisattva,sixteen feet high.

The grand, sublime peaks of Gohō, Hichisei, Hōki, swelling high side by side to the East-northward, are the scenery of extreme beauty aided by these fine buildings.

The Hannya-kyo stored in Hannya-Hall at the back of Hakkaku-Hall and a five-storied pagoda and stone lanterns standing in the midst of the open space are all the relics of the Silla period, and the latter speaks volumes for the skill of the stone workers of that period.

This temple is a great historic temple and was founded at the middle age of Shiragi and the premises are very wide, with Seiryū Mountain behind and is standing right opposite of Nanzan.

We can see the peak of Miroku-hō which is like a stone pillar from the temple.

The old record tells that this temple was built when the fifty-three Buddas were brought here at the age of Nankai-ō of Shiragi.

The name 'Yutenji' came from the great elm-tree which is in the ground of the temple.

The buildings were destroyed by fire more than forty times and the present buildings were built at the middle age of Riera.

They lack classical beauty,but there are Nōjin-hoden that contains fifty-three Buddas and many monasteries and pa'atial houses.

The temple has many treasures such as fifty-three golden images of Buddas, and the censer given by Nankai-ō and a cup made of green chalcedony and a surplice of the founder of sect called Raiō.

The buildings contrast finely with surrounding mountains.
