OUR REGULAR CHRISTMAS NUMBER.

In the number of the JUDGE for next week will appear the first chapter of a Christmas story by Bill Nye, a remarkably fine Christmas poem by Madeline S. Bridges, and other matter appropriate to the season.

WHERE THE O'BRIEN sits is the foot of the table.

"THERE IS but one Chicago," says the Herald of that town amid great applause.

GENERAL HARRISON is a good shooter. He bagged eleven quail the other day. If the white-house larder is ever empty it won't be his fault.

A VERY widely circulated newspaper for some time was the Philip Daly.

THE SMILE of George William Curtis is lower at the corners and looks a little forced in the middle, but it is still real sweet.

"BLACKBURN TAKES WATER," says the Herald. Only through the pores, dear sir—only through the pores.

GROVER CLEVELAND thinks it was the communism of wealth that beat him, but it was the communism of common sense.

THE FACT that Boulanger is separated from his wife and has filled the vacancy is a great argument in his favor in France. Perhaps, indeed, he had better order his crown.

THEY SAY NOW that the young emperor is up at five o'clock in the morning not exactly to make his soldiers yell, but because his bad ear won't let him sleep. One generally reaches glory mostly by accident.

IN TRYING to lynch a man who had murdered three persons in Birmingham, Ala., nine of the lynchers, all of them good citizens, were killed. Here comes in the crime of lynching. The lynching should not have been tried until the law had run its course and failed.

THE PRESIDENT was well supplied with ice-water when he wrote his farewell message, and Dan Lamont has preserved the glasses as well as the large pieces he occasionally paused to bite out of them.

LET US HAVE PEACE.

WE HOPE there will be no haste to follow the advice of Colonel Elliot F. Shepard and declare war against the south. It is so much easier, colonel, to declare war than to declare peace. Then there is General Harrison. Then, besides, there is the pronounced Republican majority in congress. What's the matter with them, colonel? Aren't they all right? Why not postpone the killing until it can't be helped?"

THE DESCENT OF GROVER'S BALLOON.

ONE DAY a balloon went up. Smith, Jones and Robinson accompanied the aeronaut. When they came to alight the balloon bounded over the ground and the adventurers were very much shaken up. "Stay in!" exclaimed the professor, reaching for the rope. "If any one jumps out it will endanger all our lives." But Robinson tumbled out regardless of the warning. The danger was soon over and then Robinson's cowardice was severely condemned. They said he was a blank blank blank. The professor closed his account of the trip by saying, "I cannot speak too highly of the coolness and courage of Messrs. Smith and Jones." He never mentioned Robinson, but the rebuke was there. It reminds one of the president's failure to comment on the courage and things of the muggumps that have just come down to their proper level.

CANADA AND HAYTI.

CANADA seized many American vessels, and Hayti has seized only one. The Canadian seizures generally occurred, however, during warm weather, and at such times one is apt to be languid and to lose some portion of his stinging and sensitive pride. Peace is sweet; but what a splendid secretary of state that man Blaine was!

THE FRENCH BANTAM.

THE FRENCH want the young emperor to die. They do not say so in plain words. They say, according to the London correspondent of the Sun, that "they are full of hope that natural causes will avert from France the dangers which threaten from the hot-headedness of the present ruler." This is a great deal better, though it means the same thing. And then, being of a peaceful nature, they want trouble in Germany and Austria and some other countries, so that they can whip Italy without danger of any outside interference. And, by the way, they have invited the pope to France so that he won't get hurt.

BRIBERY IN POLITICS.

IT IS an axiom that a free government must depend on the intelligent selection of its servants. It is conceded that the vote should be an unbiased one, and counted as cast. Civil service is an ideal attempt to strip the results of election from the giving of political reward for political work. It would bring, if it could, the respective parties to the arena, and have each unselfishly struggle for their conception of an advantageous national policy. The outcome may possibly reach some day this high expectation, just as the slimy ooze at the bottom of a lake, working through the rootlets and climbing the lily stalks, spreads itself in the unsoiled whiteness of the blossom. It is unfortunately true, however, that there is a limit to the alchemy of elimination, and that surplus of rankness is certain decay.

The broad-spread bribery resorted to for local, state or national successes is to those cognizant of it more appalling than to those less informed, and who have in proportion to their ignorance a proportionably larger faith in human nature.

It is estimated that nearly one-quarter of the vote cast is a persuasive one. Of this one-quarter, two-thirds are said to be instinctively Democratic, and one-third naturally Republican. The contributions to the Republican committees, and the assessments levied on Democratic officials for the respective campaign funds, notwithstanding immense outlays for speakers, parades, and the distribution of political literature, leave in the total a large sum for the absolute debauch of the suffrage. Shutting the eyes to this does not exorcise the evil. The evil exists. The appalling part is not the detection, but the delinquency.

The efforts of the respective states to suppress this evil are and have been failures. The penalties are not exacted, or shrewdness defeats detection. The punishment for purchase or sale of votes is a penal imprisonment for a long period. The machinery of justice is slow, cumbersome and expensive. The law is also canceled of vitality, as the public impression is that the punishment is out of proportion to the crime. The stupid, ignorant or greedy voter, who accepts a gift, and on conviction is incarcerated in a prison, is not frequently so much punished by steady employment, and a not unbearable prison domicile, as his wife and little ones, who weakly struggle with want, or are the shunned objects of charity. In this way a semi-sympathy for the family shields the caloused "citizen," and incontinently continues the crime.

Why not punish the purchaser? Are not all who contribute to political expenses purchasers? Punishment if justly meted would smite alike the highest and the lowest official, and run its smart from president to postmaster. Why not prohibit the sale by taking the salable vote out of the market? If a man will not sell he is a patriot. If he could not it would be a political blessing. A thorough and general registry law would embarrass fraud, and disfranchisement for selling a suffrage would be just. Anyone who puts his vote in the market should lose it. A five-dollar-bill man is not an American citizen, but is a political deserter for a bribe. A law should be so framed that a disfranchisement penalty would follow conviction, based on evidence of two or three impartial witnesses and the verdict of a justice of the peace. All political parties and every prospective nominee would be solicitous of paring down "the list" to the honest and intelligent stratum. Financial prudence would join hands with decent ambition. The political road, so clear of the briars and obstacles, would open itself to those who are not strong enough to push a baggage-wagon to the front.

Is it not the better kind of civil-service reform that would address itself to the correction of the greatest evil first? The present effort is very much like cutting the hair of Brother Jonathan to a sanitary shortness, and showing indifference to the gangrene in his limbs—reform in fact that is beginning at the wrong end.

FIRE-EATING.

"BOYCOTT THE NORTH!" exclaims the Greensboro (Ga.) Herald. "Don't sell anything to the north, and don't buy anything of the north." Dear southern brother, that is foolishness. If you must cut off your own nose, why cut off ours? The election was fair, and to the victors belong the spoils. A little disappointment hurts the heart, but it needn't mash the soul. Get off your high horse, southern brother, and go afoot till you are tired enough to go to sleep and behave yourself.

WE CALL the attention of the next congress to the last tariff remarks of President Cleveland. They are very amusing; see that none of them get away.

TO BE READ IN THE GLOAMING.

SHE WAS an epitome of all that is to be said in the way of refinement.

Her mother was born in Salem, Massachusetts, and met her father at a Boston literary donation party. Headlines could not impress her breeding better than is done in these few words of lower-case; so that when the man whom she called "husband" answered her query as to what kind of fur he preferred (London Punch) for a Christmas present in connection with his overcoat trimming, by the avowal that he always liked the "badger racket," she quietly and diligently fainted.

a grand army it will be if all the confederate veterans are admitted to membership.

A DEALER in false hair says the Langtry knot, of real hair, became so popular that it destroyed her business. The Langtry knot was also pretty severe on Mr. Langtry.

THE QUESTION of the hour is, not who is going to go into the cabinet, but who isn't. If anybody has heard of the gentleman last mentioned, let him send the name here.

IF THEY HAD our department of justice in the Whitechapel district the fiend of that locality would soon be arrested—and then Colonel Fellows would never find time to prosecute him.

MRS. RIVES-CHANLER says in a poem that she loves women and would like to take all their sufferings on herself even as the death to save all sinners. That is exceedingly generous; but they do say that when Amelie has cholera morbus she shrieks so you can hear her all over the house.

THE TERM of the president ought to be eight years, says the Troitt Free Press; and that paper adds with great haste, "Let the long term begin with the next Democratic president." What's the use of postponing the reform to the last end of eternity?

THEY ARE showing now that Benjamin Harrison is a direct descendant of Pocahontas. Perhaps this is why all the John Smiths voted for him.

A JUDGE CONTRIBUTOR brought in a batch of jokes on the day before Thanksgiving, and at the bottom of them were the words "Turkey or feathers?" It was the best joke of the batch, and he didn't get a cent for it. That was the JUDGE's joke.

A KNOWN DUDE.

EGERTON HELDUP came down town in the rear car of an elevated train a day or two ago. The other passengers are not mentioned because we don't know their names, and for the reason that south of one hundred and twenty-ninth street—where the trouble begins—nobody got aboard his special car.

As the cavalcade of wheels, reverse-curves and brass-buttoned wage-earners reached for the next station below, a bevy (we use this word by advice) of Harlem girls made a lively break for the car gate.

Merry laughter, flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes, mingled with the aroma of peanuts, caused the guard to slink a little, but by a super (fluous) human effort he stood them off.

"He's aboard!" was all he said, and the maidens waited until two trains went by to give him room.

THE TRIALS OF THE PROFESH.

DYING TENOR—"And can this be d-death? Not yet! G-r-reat heaven! Not y-yet, and I so young? And then me m-mother. Oh, ye gods! me p-poor old m-mother!" (And then he had to be prompted as he heard Miss Blenkinsoke remark, "Miriam, dear, that court-plaster patch has worked way around on to your nose.")

GOOD-NIGHT.

I SAID good-night. She said good-night.
I can't tell how I dared to linger;
I knew some luckier, worthier wight
Must place the ring upon her finger.

I sighed a little; then a sigh,
Faint as a breeze through roses stealing,
Swept from her lips. I wondered why?
Surely she need betray no feeling.

Again I said good-night. Again
Her firm response came—kind and clever.
Our hands had met; it seemed like pain
Their warm and clinging clasp to sever.

Good-night, good-night. I must be wise!
Could saint or anchorite resist her?
Perhaps they might (but, oh, her eyes!)
I know I couldn't, so—I kissed her;

Then quailed. But she—she smiled, and said,
Nor my embarrassment cared aught for—
"You really did take courage, Ned?
Well, now, you're braver than I thought for!"

M. S. BRIDGES.

A MAN OF PRINCIPLE.

"I have such a horror of idleness," said Jones one day, yawning, "and consider it so dangerous to one's moral health that I would much rather sleep than do nothing."

A PHYSICAL IMPOSSIBILITY.

YOUNG CHARLIE GUNTHER (whose pa is rich)—"Jack, she just rejected me, and I actually think she is laughing in her sleeve at me!"

JACK—"Oh, she can't do that, deah boy. Her dwess is sleeveless, don'tcherknow?"

IN A PREDICAMENT.

"There's a nice old lady lives here," said the tramp to a companion, as he gave a tap on the back door.

"There ain't nobody to home," said the companion after waiting five minutes. "What are you going to do?"

"She'd never forgive me if she knew I came near here and didn't stop, and—well, by thunder!—I hain't got any of my calling cards left, neither."

THE PEDANT.

In other's thoughts he is most learned,
His own are yet to be discerned;
He gives the bright ideas of many,
While he himself can't boast of any;
A walking book-shelf, furnished full
Of much that's wise and beautiful,
In which he ne'er can claim estate,
Though proud to bear the mental weight.

WICKED WASTE OF MATERIALS.

He had a fine theory about wholesomeness of cereals, and breakfasted and suppered upon one or another to the exclusion of everything else. One morning, however, as he for the twentieth time removed a sharp-pointed husk from between his lips he ventured to inquire the nature of the dish he was eating.

"Fluted wheat," was his wife's response.

"Well," he calmly remarked, as he set aside the dish, "I think you forgot to remove the fluting needles."

NOT EXACTLY WRITE.

"I have just learned 'The Wreck of the Hesperus' by rote," she remarked to Bagley, who ventured to say that he thought it was "wrote by Longfellow."

MRS. HILLER—"I wish you wouldn't be so uneasy, Uncle Phil-
dab. The performance will be over soon."

UNCLE PHILDAB (of Canajoharie)—"Maria, you've went an' fooled your old rel'tive. Here I've been a settin' more 'n two hour, an' I ain't seen a darn camel yet."

GETTING MISERLY.

NEAR-SIGHTED SISTER—"Dear me, Charlie! ain't you going to give that boy something for holding your horse this last hour? If you don't I will. I never saw anybody so close as you."

HAD TO KEEP UP THE INTEREST.

Preacher—"Attendance falling off somewhat, isn't it, sexton?"

Sexton—"Yes, sir; they are all going over to Pastor Down's church."

Preacher—"There's evidently got to be something done."

Sexton—"Suppose I spread a report about your having kissed a leading member of the flock."

Preacher—"Er—some purely fictitious story would er—do just as well, I think."

AN EXTREMELY PLEASANT LECTURE.

THE GOVERNOR (in Tom's room at college)—"Who is that, my boy?"

TOM (who thinks he is in for it)—"That's—er—ahem"—

THE GOVERNOR—"Oh, never mind the name. You ought to have seen Fanny Ellsler as I remember her. These new ones don't amount to much."

IT CAUGHT HER EYE.

Agent—"I have some new mottoes for the home, madam, that I would like to show you."

Woman—"I've got 'God Bless our Home,' the 'Old Oaken Bucket,' and 'Home, Sweet Home,' now, and I don't believe I want any more."

Agent—"Yes, madam; but this one has had a very large sale."

Woman (reading)—"Let us Have Peace. I'll take two of those, young feller."

HE EVOLUTED.

There was a boy of modest mien,
Who longed to cut a figger;
He longed to do some mighty deed
And win fame for his jigger.
He went up in a great balloon
Attached to an umbreller;
They sifted gravel and they found
A quart of this rash feller.

REFRIGERATION ADVISABLE.

Sollicitous father—"What book have you there, my daughter?"

Daughter—"The Quick or the Dead."

Sollicitous father (uneasily)—"You intend to read it, I suppose?"

Daughter—"Yes."

Sollicitous father—"Well, then, you had better go and lay it on the ice a few minutes first—that's a good girl."

THE LABOR QUESTION.

DONNELLY—"Hov yez shtruck, Casey?"

CASEY—"Oi hov. Give me th' loan av a chew."

DONNELLY—"Chew yure tongue! Oi'm not in th' union."

AN INFANTILE THREAT.

Little Florence's grandfather was very sick. She heard her father and mother and sister praying for his recovery, but he didn't seem to grow better.

The little tot was heard offering up a prayer herself one night: "Oh, Lord, if you don't make g'an'pa well pretty quick I'll hit my pa over the head with a stick."

A RELATIVE QUESTION.

They had been keeping company seven years, and were discussing a topic that has excited much comment in England and this country.

He—"Dear Jane, do you think, from observation, that marriage is a failure?"

She—"Dear John, I cannot say. But I sometimes am inclined to think that courtship is."

THE REVISED BOOK OF JOB.

THERE was a man in the land of Wayback, whose name was Job, and he kept a printing-office and he also published a weekly newspaper.

And over the outer door of his house he hung a shingle whereon there were inscribed these words, "Job Printing."

And his substance was much cordwood and corn and beans, and many large eggs and pumpkins and sour apples and pot-cheeses, and a very great variety of other products of the land all about and the animals thereon. And there was to him a need of many things that he had not at all.

And it was so, when the days were gone about during which his subscribers had received their papers, and they came not to pay just tribute for what they had taken unto themselves, that Job communed with himself and thus unto himself spake :

Lo! Have I not toiled all this time that the people of Wayback might be enlightened by that which I printed in my paper? And should not they render unto me now that which is my just due?

And having thusly queried unto himself, he thus made answer, saying: Verily now, they should; for there are many things which are not to my household. My children's feet are bare, and covered with stone-bruises from walking up and down upon the earth with nothing to cover the nakedness of their feet; and she that is my wife is tattered as to her garments, and there is to me a need of a new overcoat, and there is to all my family need of many things.

Verily therefore I must have money wherewith I may purchase all these things.

And Job sat him down, and made out many bills, and sent forth messengers that they might go abroad among his subscribers and collect that which was due even to the last shekel thereof.

And in the fullness of time there returned unto him a messenger and said: Lo and behold, I have been among thy subscribers, and besought them to render unto me in thy behalf that which they owed thee;

And they arose and cursed me, and fell upon me and beat me and stepped on my neck, saying: Are we deadbeats that we should thus be dunned?

While he was yet speaking, there came also another and said: The wrath of madness is on thy subscribers and their hands are on their purse-strings and they will not pay.

While he was yet speaking there came also another and said: Thy subscribers said unto me: Let thy master wait until such time as we are ready; for is he not an editor, and rich and powerful in the land? while we are poor and toil from day to day that we may eat.

Then Job arose and rent his suspender and ground his teeth in rage, and rent his hair, the little that was left him, and smote with his fist upon the desk a mighty smite, and said:

Lo and behold, there are no shekels in the newspaper business, and the man that is wise getteth out therefrom in haste and letteth it severely alone.

And he bought him a clothing store and on the outer gates he hung a sign whereon in gilded letters he that ran might read "Job Lots."

In all this Job erred not and showed that there was to him a great head. ARTHUR LUCAS.

CHEAP ENOUGH.

Well, really, 'tis clear that New York is the place To go into court if you have a great case. No fear of a loss. By Jove! it's immense; They say you can buy up the JUDGE for ten cents.

And, speaking of this, it does seem to me That if you have money content you should be; For who can complain when for a small dime The man who can't kill it can always buy Time.

I think you now wonder if this is quite true, And just how much time could be purchased by you; Well, this I can't tell; but, betwixt you and me, I once bought myself a whole Century.

In short, this great city is just to my taste; In leaving I think I shall not be in haste. I find all things cheap—excepting the rents— I heard that a man bought the World for five cents.

LENA GILBERT BROWN.

We find the fool a pretty smart fellow when we come to make a trade with him.

And Job went forth even to his front door and took down the shingle whereon there was inscribed the legend "Job Printing." And all his possessions he sold for many shekels.

And he bought him a clothing store and on the outer gates he hung a sign whereon in gilded letters he that ran might read "Job Lots."

In all this Job erred not and showed that there was to him a great head. ARTHUR LUCAS.

The day is done, its light has faded;
Bill, the mule, all tired and jaded,
Statuesquely poses; giving forth no sound.

Across the pasture, whistling lightly,

NOW AND THEN.

The wintry air is full of snow,
The sky is dull, the cold winds blow,
December's here.
The gaunt trees stretch in grim array
Their leafless limbs; the landscape gray
Looks chill and drear.

Cheerless and dull the whole world seems,
The joys of life seem baseless dreams
Far, far remote,
Excepting to the young man who
Has struck the tailor for a new Gray ulster coat.

His heart is warm, his manner gay,
The clouds to him do not seem gray,
And never will,
Till some day in the budding spring,
When the blithe penny-post will bring
The tailor's bill.

SOMETHING NEW.

Those who have seen or used one of the "KODAK" Cameras must cease to believe that there is "nothing new under the sun." The "KODAK" is totally unlike anything else in the world and presents a system by which most perfect pictures can be taken by anybody. As a HOLIDAY GIFT it certainly eclipses everything. It is beautiful, novel and useful.

A rural debating society during the present winter should try to throw some light on the question why an American magazine is sold for thirty-five cents a copy in this country and only twenty-five cents in England, while an English magazine is sold for twenty cents a copy in that country and thirty cents over here.—Norristown Herald.

The Best in the World.

Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes:

"SENATE CHAMBER, ALBANY, N. Y.,
April 4, 1885.

"On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the last ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best external remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentations. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no explanation or solicitation induce you to accept a substitute.

"I see," said the major, "that the French have invented a rifle that will hit a man 980 yards away."
"Then," exclaimed Lieutenant Timid, for it was he, "I will fight only the French; that is just where I want to be hit."

The Sohmer Piano is so honestly made that continuous severe use will not impair its splendid qualities of tone and action.

THE JUDGE IS ALWAYS GOOD.

It should not be forgotten that the JUDGE, by its excellent cartoons and its ready wit, was an admirable aid to the Republican cause during the late canvass. It was sharp, incisive, and good-humored. It is only proper to say that the JUDGE continues just as good since the campaign ended. The Inter-Ocean is glad to learn that the JUDGE has been so fully appreciated by Republicans, and that it is meeting with the large financial prosperity it so richly deserves.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Messrs. W. G. Bell & Co., Boston, Sole Manufacturers of the well-known Meat, Game, Fish and Poultry Spiced Seasoning, have a magnificent advertisement on page 29 of Christmas JUDGE. This Seasoning is made of the granulated leaves of fragrant sweet herbs and choice selected spices, having all the flavors that can be desired, thereby saving the trouble of having to use a dozen different kinds of herbs and spices in order to give the proper flavor. On account of the purity one tablespoonful is enough to season the dressing to an eight-pound turkey. IT IS ADAPTED FOR HOTELS, RESTAURANTS AND GENERAL FAMILY USE.

It has been adopted and endorsed by all the LEADING HOTELS, and its general excellence is highly commended.

Send for catalogue, and mention JUDGE.

THE CHRISTMAS JUDGE.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

The Christmas number of JUDGE is a triumph for that successful journal. The cartoons are full of life and vigor.—Albany (N. Y.) Journal.

The Christmas number of the JUDGE is a beauty. All the cartoons are excellent and more humorous than usual. The supplement is a copy of a beautiful and taking picture painted expressly for the JUDGE by a distinguished American artist. The JUDGE richly merits its phenomenal success.—Troy Telegram.

The proprietors of JUDGE have reason to congratulate themselves and the public upon the superb Christmas number of that periodical. All the illustrations are good, and the reproduction of "Street Gallantry," a picture by J. G. Brown, N. A., is something better than the common run. The JUDGE stands at the top of the ladder nowadays.—New York Press.

UNDER THE MISTLETOE.

All hearts are joyous;
What can annoy us
When plenty smiles and the bumper flow,
And, midst shouts of laughter,
The boys run after
And kiss the girls 'neath the mistletoe?
—Boston Courier.

The latest novel by the fiery, untamed Ouida bears the somewhat peculiar title of "Guilderoy." Whether the book throws any light on the altitude of the kite belonging to a certain gentleman of that name has not yet been ascertained.—Albany Argus.

A GENIUS INDEED.

The Boston Transcript says, "The man that shall invent a new popular diversion will indeed be a genius." Evidently the title belongs to the inventor of the "KODAK," which presents a unique and most attractive method of practicing amateur photography—so different from former systems as to be clearly entitled to the appellation "New." This Camera makes a most beautiful HOLIDAY GIFT.

Harper's Magazine for 1889.

THE December Number begins the seventy-eighth volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE. The publishers' enterprise, in co-operation with the work of the foremost writers and artists, have made it the leading illustrated monthly magazine. The new volume will contain:

Serial Stories.—Serial stories by CONSTANCE F. WOOLSON and CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

Shakespeare's Comedies Illustrated by E. A. Abbey.—The great art feature of the year. The text to be furnished by ANDREW LANG.

The Western States, Canada, the West Indies.—Articles on "Individual Western States," papers on Canada by C. D. WARNER, and West Indian Sketches by LAFACADIO HEARN.

Norwegian Studies and Russian Papers.—Three Norwegian studies by BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSON (illustrated), and articles on social and Court life in Russia by the Vicomte de VOGUE, Member of the French Academy; the Russian Army by a RUSSIAN GENERAL; the Nijni-Novgorod Fair, Moscow, Russian Art, etc.

General Wallace's Play.—"Commodus," a play, by GEN. LEW. WALLACE, the author of "Ben-Hur," illustrated.

Eastern Articles.—Among other Eastern papers will be articles from eminent artists, illustrated from their own drawings: "Tangiers and Morocco," by BENJAMIN CONSTANT; "Street Scenes in India," by EDWIN LORD WELLS; and "A Fig Harvest in Smyrna," by TRISTRAM ELLIS.

John Ruskin.—Important papers by ANNE THACKERAY RITCHIE (illustrated) and by DR. CHARLES WALDSTEIN.

Abbotsford by Sir Walter Scott.—A description never before published, with picturesque illustrations.

Editorial Departments by GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, by W. D. HOWELLS, and by CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of 25 cents. Subscription, $4.00 per Year, post-paid.

Harper's Weekly for 1889.

ON the 5th of January, 1889, HARPER'S WEEKLY will enter on its thirty-third year. "A Journal of Civilization," it presents a carefully studied record, in pictorial and literary form, of the notable events and movements of our time.

Distinctively American Literature.—HARPER'S WEEKLY for 1889 will have contributions from representative American authors in fiction, poetry, science, and miscellaneous writing.

Stories by King, Howells, and Harte.—Up to March the serial story will be a tale of the war, by Capt. CHARLES KING, U.S.A. In March, Mr. W. D. HOWELLS will begin a serial story, in which the leading characters of "Their Wedding Journey" will be brought to New York, and their experience set forth in a way calculated to make this one of the most deeply interesting of its author's works. A story by Mr. BRET HARTE will be published in June. Brilliant short stories will be a feature of the volume.

Independent in Politics.—In politics the influence of HARPER'S WEEKLY will be, as heretofore, directed to the end of securing a high standard of public duty and an able and pure administration of public affairs.

Pictorial Features.—HARPER'S WEEKLY stands supreme as the illustrated journal of the American continent. Among the leading artists who will illustrate the new volume may be mentioned W. A. ROGERS, T. DE THULSTRUP, C. S. REINHART, W. T. SMEDLEY, A. B. FROST, GILBERT GAUL, J. PENNELL, F. REMINGTON, R. F. ZOGRAM, H. F. FARNY, CHARLES GRAHAM, H. FENN, J. O. DAVIDSON, W. P. SNYDER, etc.

Important Supplements.—The remarkable series of Western Supplements published last year will be continued from time to time, and to other topics of scientific, artistic, or social interest will be given special supplements.

A Family Journal.—HARPER'S WEEKLY will continue to be edited with the same regard which has been paid in the past to qualities that make it a welcome visitor to every home.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of 5 cents. Subscription, $4.00 per Year, post-paid.

Harper's Bazar for 1889.

THE twenty-second volume of HARPER'S BAZAR begins with the Number published December 21st. As a weekly paper it unites the choicest literature and the finest art pictures with the latest intelligence regarding the fashions, useful household information, and all the arts that render home attractive. No woman can afford to be without it.

Fashions.—Its illustrations of the latest styles, with pattern supplements, and descriptions of materials may save many times the cost of subscription by helping ladies to be their own dress-makers, while to dress-makers and milliners it is indispensable.

Household Papers.—The new volume will contain a series of illustrated papers on "Decorative Art in the Household," by Mrs. CANDACE WHEELER, and articles entitled "Cradle and Nursery," by Mrs. CHRISTINE TERHUNE HERRICK, with practical papers on social etiquette, weddings, entertainments, the management of servants, and all matters pertaining to the household.

New Stories.—The new volume will open with a charming novelette by Mrs. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT, with illustrations by Mr. CHARLES S. REINHART, together with a serial story by Mrs. ALEXANDER, to be followed by serial stories by WILLIAM BLACK and THOMAS HARDY. Short stories by the brightest and most popular authors will be published weekly.

Art Decoration.—Exquisite designs and admirable papers are to be published from the New York Decorative Art Society, the South Kensington Royal School of Art Needle-work, the Associated Artists, and others.

Sensible Editorials.—Its editorial pages, to which Col. T. W. HIGGINSON is a weekly contributor, are filled with vigorous and sensible articles.

Art Illustrations.—The illustrations of HARPER'S BAZAR are by the best artists, and the humorous cuts and anecdotes on the last page have won for this department the name of the American Punch.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of 5 cents. Subscription, $4.00 per Year, post-paid.

Harper's Young People for 1889.

THE tenth volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE began with the Number published November 6, 1888. HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE, published weekly, aims to interest its readers by appealing alike to their intelligence and their imagination. Fiction, poetry, history, biography, travel, etc., make up its contents; while the text is embellished by numerous illustrations of the highest grade.

Serial Stories for 1889.—The tenth volume will contain serial stories, by SOPHIE SWETT, illustrated by ROSINA EMMETT SHERWOOD; by WILLIAM O. STODDARD, illustrated by W. A. ROGERS; by R. K. MUNKITTRICK; by KIRK MUNROE, illustrated by W. T. SMEDLEY; by GEO. B. PERRY; and a series of illustrated "Fairy Tales," by HOWARD PYLE.

Short Stories.—Among the contributors of short stories will be J. T. TROWBRIDGE, BARNET PHILLIPS, F. ANSEY, BRANDER MATTHEWS, T. NELSON PAGE, J. R. COREY, SOPHIE SWETT, and others.

Some Important Articles.—During the year there will be published "Home Studies in Natural History," by FELIX L. OSWALD, M.D.; "Little Experiments," by S. B. HERRICK; "George Washington's School-Days," by WM. F. CARNE; "Glimpses of Child-life from Dickens," by M. E. Mr. J. H. Johnston, the well-known dealer in diamonds and jewelry at 17 Union Square, has recently opened a special department in connection with his store containing a handsome and expensive collection of paintings, bronzes, tapestries, etc., which will delight the eye of an artist and metaphorically paralyze the intellect of the man whose knowledge of such things is confined to the bric-à-brac and other articles de vertu found scattered around the salon of the average New York boarding-house. Just think of walking with impunity and a gentlemanly clerk upon a $1700 rug, of lounging ditto upon a $3500 tête-à-tête built, carved and owned by Louis XIV., of comparing time with a clock embellished in gold once the property of Marie Antoinette, and of feasting one's eyes generally upon beautiful things whose conception and value date back to the time of Noah and other gentlemen of the old school. It is harrowing to a man with less than a million in his pockets, but unadulterated joy to him who can afford to make an elegant and refined Christmas gift, such as can be found here. Outside of the art department Johnston has an exceedingly elaborate display of diamonds, watches, jewelry and silverware, embracing all the latest novelties and designs. By the way, silver is now the fad; everything has turned to silver and gold has temporarily taken a back seat.

An elderly turkey sat high on a tree
 (Thick is the brush where the partridge drou s),
 And it whispered, "I now may in safety be 'Till the butcher hold of the Christmas comes."

AN AGENT'S APPEAL.
 "Madam," said a book-agent, "I have a valuable work which I would like to show you."
 "It would be of no use. I haven't a cent of money for books!"
 "My dear lady, it won't cost you anything to look at it."
 "I haven't time even to look at it."
 "Then, madam," said the agent, "would you kindly allow me to look at it myself? I haven't had a chance to see it in over a week!"

You may have your gun-powdery fourth of July,
 With its crackers and pistols wooden;
 But give me the turkey with cranberry sauce
 And glorious Christmas puddin'.

The ballet was on, when someone in a rear seat shouted:
 "Down in front!"
 "There is no down in front," answered a voice, "nor a hair neither. They're all bald."
