France: Says Britain Must Multiply Forces

Guildhall, Premier Asquith to-day started the crusade to stimulate enlistment under the British flag which he seeks to push throughout the country. He is calling on every able-bodied Briton of military age to come to the help of his country in the hour of need.

The premier opened his Guildhall address with the announcement that up Lord Kitchener, the secretary of war.

Premier Asquith said he recognized that the present was only the early stages of what is going to be a protracted struggle

Maritime men have been unable t explain why first one and then another of the cruisers known to be off the coast would come within the three-mile limit, remain awhile and then hurry off to sea again. How the cruiser our to sea again. How the cruisers managed to obtain provisions has also been the source of much speculation. German Right Wing Is Checked, Forced to Move Backward

Ostend, Sept. 4, via London, 1 p.m.—The advance of the German right wing is reported checked. The Germans have been obliged to retire on St. Quentin.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Antwerp reported here by way of Ostend says that it seems that the attempt of the Germans to envelop the left wing of the allies has been frustrated.

A big force of German cavalry advancing on Compiegne has been vigorously repulsed and obliged to abandon several pieces of artillery.

Reports were received to-day at New York from passengers on the Mauretania that on August 27 seventy-two thousand Russian troops, brought by steamers from Archangel were landed at Aberdeen, Scotland, and then shipped across the channel to Ostend. It is thought possible that these, in conjunction with the British army and its later reinforcements, have been the means of driving back the German right wing,

This report was confirmed by mail advices from correspondents to the Associated Press received by the Mauretania to-day.

London, Sept. 4.—The Times correspondent at Dieppe, under Thursday's date indicates that the Germans are less than 25 miles from Paris. He says: "All day yesterday the head of the wedge that now forms the German right was furiously forcing its way toward Paris, battering at the rear of the retreating French through Creil, Senlis and Crepy en Valois. The cannonading broke windows in Chantilly, which is only seventeen miles north of Paris. The Germans are also near Seisson."

Another dispatch to the Times from Beauvais, 40 miles northwest of Paris, says that the Germans entered Clermont, 35 miles from Paris, at seven o'clock Wednesday morning. At the same time their cavalry was operating around Beauvais.

Invaders Destroying Themselves by Hurling Regiments at Cannon Fire

London, Sept. 4.—(By Martin M. Donhue-Name of town excised by censor Department of Somme, France, Tues day, Sept. 1.) - Appalling losses have been incurred by the Fourth German army corps, which has for two days sought to envelop and destroy the British forces forming the left wing of th allied armies.

Fresh artillery and fresh infantry were sent to the assistance of the British com-Enormous pressure directed gainst our front caused a changing of oistion. In our new position we are olding on and defying the whole conentrated might of the enemy to dis dge us. It has been a merciless com bat throughout, but the superiority of the British artillery, coupled with the indomitable pluck of the British inantry, told in the end, and enabled our splendid fellows to successfully carry, but the role entrusted to them, viz., to delay the German advance by fighting very inch of the ground.

A few more such delays as Sunday and Monday, and the German army in-vading France will have destroyed it-self entirely. No army which ever existed could endure and survive the terrible losses sustained by the Germans in the last few days. Whole divisions of infantry have disappeared, being put out of existence by the deadly fire. The out of existence by the deadly fire. The enemy still clings to its favorite formation of attacking en masse. It is little wonder if demoralization is beginning to make its appearance in the shattered Germany ranks. Their infantry has lost its elation. It no longer displays any vigor in purching bema its displays any vigor in pushing home its

The fearful punishment to which the The fearul punishment to want to German infantry has been subjected is beginning to tell. They showed a disinclination to face the gruelling; they were seen to vaver, and more than once broke an fied in confusion, despite the attempts of their officers to rally them. As the result of this prolonged battle, the North German army cannot be said to North German army marked or decisive advantage over the British army, which offered so heroic and so stubborn re-sistance. The German right have been able to advance a few miles further able to advance a rew miles further south, and that is about all.

During the morning there seems to have been a hull in the fighting, but it is difficult to say if the self-imposed truce will be of long or short duration Unquestionably the slaughter of the Germans has been great, and the ex-penditure of artillery and rifle ammuition enormous.

The Germans in Northern France are at a great and undoubtedly unsafe dis-tance from their supplies. They have been unable to avail themselves of the Belgian railways, and for the daily requirements of so vast an army there is an insufficient supply of animal or motor transport. A few day's delay in the forward movement seems to diminish the Germans' chance of ultimate success and to render more precarious the position of the invading force in Northern France. They cannot attempt to retire without running the risk of irretrievable disaster. For that reason they are almost certain to resume the offensive and seek to crush the allied line, even though annihilation should subsequently await them.

The crowd below, which had been waiting for hours in the square in the expectation of an announcement as to the outcome of the deliberations of the sacred college understood that a selection had been reached. The people applauded vigorously.

Inmigration of the part of the police resulted in the man being identified as Argan Singh, who was of some assistance to the authorities during the recent trouble. Eleven men, roomers in the house where the shooting took place, were detained as witnesses and daken to the Kitislano police station. The house was then locked and placed under guard.

At twenty-five minutes before twelve, Cardinal Della Volpe appeared on the baleony with Monsignor Capostosti, bearing the pope's cross on his right, and pronounced the ritual announcing the election of Cardinal Della Chiesa. To this he added that the new pope had chosen the name of Benedicte XV.

Again the crowd of several thousand persons cheered and at once began to make their way into the basilica to hear the benediction of the new pontiff. At fifteen minutes before twelve the new pope appeared on an inner balcony of St. Peter's clad in his pontifical robes. The balcony was hung with red velours and a heavy golden fringe.

AN AMERICAN OPINION.

AN AMERICAN OPINION,
Erie Times.

The theory that peace can be preserved by costiy and burdensome war preparations has been completely shattered. Nobody believes it any more. On the contrary, all know that the huge armaments of the countries involved are the direct cause of the present war. The people of those countries will not be able to carry any such heavy burden after the war is over and, would not carry it if they could. They will be convinced of the fact that national greed does not pay in the long run any more than does individual greed, and that differences between nations can just as well be settled by judicial arbitrament as individual differences. Hence there is good ground for the hellef that the present war will

-INTERPLEADER TRIED

Two Claims on Money in Sheriff's Possession; Account Garnisheed.

Trial of an interpleader issue disected during vacation by Mr. Justice Clement proceeded before Mr. Justice Gregory in supreme court this morning. The case arises out of the seizure of goods of the Anderson Construction company by the sheriff in execution of a judgment obtained by Stebbins, Walker and Spinning, a contracting firm. The Anderson Construction company laid the street

A very interesting description of the high pressure system at Winnipeg was given in a paper from Chief Buchanan, who regretted the impossibilordinary water mains at places where fires had occurred. The lack had led to the installation of the plant in 1908, and the extension of the distributing system in 1913. The length of the pipe vas about twelve miles, the lines being scattered throughout the business dis-trict of Winnipeg. Chief Buchanan pointed out how necessary it was to have high pressure plants to meet the needs of high buildings in modern cities. An interesting discussion ensued, An interesting discussion ensued, Chief Buchanan's observations being applified by District Chief Buchan, of Winnipeg.

VICTORIA GIRL TELLS OF DRAMATIC ESCAPE

Interesting Paper by Chief Miss Phyllis Reid, Who Was in Belgium After Outbreak of War, Back in City

after the war I predict that investors will be more than ready to take up new schemes throughout Canada. In some quarters it has been asserted that Canada has been borrowing too much, and that the failure of some of the recent loans is due to a decline in Canadian credit. I do not subscribe to this view. She has fared no worse than other, Dominions. In fact, investors have demanded and have been able to obtain better returns for their money than formerly.

At this morning's session of the Paradite Convention, Chief Wood, of Renton, presiding, paradistrated and exciting escape from Belgium following the outbreak of war, Miss Phyllis Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Reid, of Rockland avenue, has arrived back in Victoria. A spectation of the Paradistration of gium became known, she has vivid and unpleasant memories of the last few days spent in the city which had but so recently contained so much of joy and happy prosperity for its people

Miss Reid, who was interviewed las evening by a Times reporter, is a Vic-toria girl and left here last Christmas for Brussels for the purpose of attend-ing a girls' finishing school. A few days before the outbreak of war she in company with several other girls from the "Pension," was holidaying at Dinant, about two hours' run from Brussels, in the province of Brabant the "Maitresse d'Ecole," Mme. Mignot being with her pupils.

They were enjoying themselves in the usual way, said Miss Reid, who intimated that there were but the scantlest reports at Dinant of the ulti-matums and mobilizations of the molittle heed to the reported rumors of pending war. Then the soldiers came The villa in which they were staying was demanded, and the mistress and her pupils made a hurried and unpremeditated exit from the city, hastening off to Brussels by the first train and leaving all their baggage to follow at the earliest opportunity. That oppor-tunity never came, and none of the girls ever again heard word of her belongings. Belgium was preparing to fight, and the quiet demand of the two or three Belgian soldiers who had vis-ited the villa was but a forerunner of the portentous events which followed in the history of the little nation. "The soldiers came to Dinant on August 3. In the afternoon of the same day we arrived in Brussels. Here we found everything changed. The city was in a panic. At the station they would not accept anything but silver. Paper money was no longer any use. Soldiers were everywhere, conclude this evening.

ame the news of the movement of the German troops toward Antwerp. This sent the people into a fresh panic Everyone was ordered to place all proisions at the disposal of the authoriies for the Belgian troops Mignot hid all the food in the house under the floor.

"That made everyone dreadfully anxious. Even Madame, who had tried to reassure us, got frightened. We went to the British consul, who advised us to leave at once, so six of us went off that very day to Ostend to catch the boat to England."

The journey to Ostend, Miss Reid noted, was quite uneventful. In the excitement she did not notice the name of the boat they took to cross the Channel. The scene at the docks, however, must have been harrowing. Crowds were pressing forward to get to the boat, many of those who struggled hardest to get aboard being Ger mans. This they could tell by their way of speaking. Later, on the boat, they knew many of their fellow-passengers for Germans by the fact that they spoke English with a strong German accent and offered German money in payment for their meals. This however, was refused by the waiters and high wordy quarrels ensued. The Germans, anxious to conceal their identity, wore Belgian flags, but the passengers in many instances saw through the disguise and let the wear-

The officers did everything possible to handle the crowd that pressed on to the gangway. But it was impossible to take everyone or to maintain any sor of order. Mothers were separated from their children; husbands from their wives. A whole school of convent girls, English, and between nine and twelve years of age, had to be left behind a the docks because the boat could not carry any more. Miss Reid herself but narrowly escaped being left behind, the officer putting out his arm just as she, the last of the party, was putting her foot on the gangway. In the Channel they saw five or gix British warships. Otherwise apart from watching and talking to their excited fellow-passengers, nothing of moment occurred. At Dover they were greeted by hearty British cheers from a cohort of sailors who witnessed the arrival of the vessel. From the boat they went straight to the train, and arrived a few hours later, at 11 p. m., in London. Big crowds in the streets seemed the only indication of unusual excitement. Theatres were open, and an appearance of otherwise normal conditions marked their progress from the station to the hotel. The next day the girls seemed the only indication of unusual excitement. FIRE CHIEFS' BANQUET IS BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Consul Smith Speaks Before Visiting Fire-Fighters: Pleasant Function

"Victoria is supposed to be a city of mossbacks," stated Mayor Stewart last night at the banquet of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs' association in the Empress hotel. "I'll show you some of the moss that has grown on our backs In proportion to population Victoria has a greater proportion of paved streets and concrete sidewalks than any other city in America. Our fire department is rated from the insurance standpoint at 100 per cent., which cannot be improved upon. This hote in which we now are seated is one of the most magnificent in the west and only a few years ago the site on which it stands was tide flats."

Mayor Stewart was responding to the toast to the city council and the fire wardens when he made these remarks, and the fire chiefs expressed their ap proval of his statements, especially the one regarding the fire department, with enthusiastic applause. His worship stated that he was a believer in conventions such as this, a he knew from experience that invalu able lessons were learned by every man who attended from the experiences nar-rated by others. He believed every council should gladly pay its chief's ex-

Referring to the co-operation which the council was pleased to give Chief Davis, his worship stated that heads of other departments were always mying on being refused requests "Well, Chief Davis can have it; why can't 1?" The answer to that was simply. "Make Good." The head of any department who made good had no difficulty in having his requests granted.

Further tribute was paid to Chief Davis by Alderman Fullerton, who joined with the mayor in responding to the same toast. Since he had been on the fire wardens' board he had seen the city's appropriation for a fire department increase from $20.000 to $130.000, and that was in nine years. Especially great strides had been made since Chief Davis took hold and the fire wardens assisted him to the limit of their power because they had absolute confidence that whatever more he reconfidence that whatever more yhe reconstituted. While the assassin of wardens assisted him to the limit of their power because they had absolute confidence that whatever money he received would be spent judiciously in the best interests of the city. MAINLAND CRICKET.

The championship of the Mainland Cricket league may be decided on Saturday when Brockton Point plays at New Westminster. If the Brockton Point eleven wins it will be tied with Vancouver. At a meeting of the league held Wednesday it was decided that should this he the care its plants as regards the referee. It had been arranged to have an Englishman officiate in the sessions devoted to English billiards. It now has been to Eng

A French lawn tennis team may visit Labor day on the Vancouver club's grounds.

Word has been received by the Vancouver Island Cricket league of the inability of the Mainland league to send been grounds.

A French lawn tennis team may visit South Africa in October and play matches until December. It is expected that the team will be composed of the well-known players, Deoughs, Gobert, Germot, Gaul, Poulin, Mme. Deoughs, and Miss Ryan.

International League Also Closes Early.

Because of the slump in the attendance as a result of the European war the International league has decided to close its season after the Labor Day games. The proposal was made by President J. J. McCaffery, of the Toronto club, and every club owner was in favor of the move. This will help tide over the league until next year, but it will be hard on the ball players. The cutting off of three weeks of baseball in the east saves thousands to the ball clubs, but it is an evidence that the league is weakening under the opposition of the Federals. Nearly every league is feeling the pinch. The Western Canada league also closes down next week. Because of the slump in the attendance as a result of the Professional Cricketers For Home Defence.

F. H. Bacon, the Hants secretary, has suggested that a corps of professional cricketers be formed in the British Isles for home defence, such forma sional cricketers be formed in the British Isles for home defence, such formation to take place at the end of the season or earlier should cricket be abandoned. All the Hampshire professionals would join. There is a fine lead; other counties should not be slow in following. The idea is a worthy one; and if ever the corps thus formed should be called upon to take its place in the line of defence it would beyond all doubt do splendid service.

Sells Famous Trotter to Russia.

The European war has not entirely stifled the market for American trotters. John E. Madden made it known that he had just sold to a Russian nobleman the 13-year-old stallion Vice Commodore, 2.11 (sire of Margaret Parrish, 2.06½; Magowan, 2.09½, and others), by Bingen, 2.06½, dam Narion, daughter of Arion, 2.07¾, and Nancy Hanks, 204. The stallion has been paid for and is to remain in Kentucky until after the war, when he will be delivered at only business beyond the presentation

CLERGYMEN ARE NOT FOR ARMY SAYS ARCHBISHOP

London, Sept. 4.—That Church of England clergymen should not enlist as combatants is the opinion expressed by the Archbishop of Canterbury in a letter to the diocesan bishops prompted by inquiries from a large number of the younger clergymen. He writes:

"I have given careful attention to the question which some people feel is in the property of the grass arounger of the smoke-laden air, and partly to the grass arounger of the smoke-laden air, and partly to the property of the grass arounger of the SIXIV-fifth Austrian regiment. The battlefield was covered with the corpses of the enemy."

RUSSIANS IN FRANCE "I have given careful attention to the question which some people feel is a very difficult one. By every line of thought I have pursued I am led to the conclusion that I am right in maintaining that the position of an actual combatant in our army is incompatible with the position of one who has with the position of one who has Good deeds ring clear through the sought and received holy orders."

Good Times Ahead

THE sudden breaking out of war caused many to "run to cover." Like the chicken on whom the rose leaf fell, some of us became a prey to fear and were ready to declare "the sky is falling."

> Now our vision is clearing, our alarm has fled, we have recovered our poise and our courage. We are seeing, also, our opportunity. Swiftly and almost overwhelmingly has come to us the perception of the fact that the competition of Continental Europe has been taken away. We are faced with a condition and an opportunity both tending to our advantage as a country of industry, agriculture and trade. Good times are ahead, if Canada and Canadians see and seize the present opportunity for enlarging their industries and trading.

We must be careful We must have courage
