NEW PEONY INTRODUCTIONS
The following varieties have been selected from hundreds of Peony plants. They are beautiful and outstanding Peony types. All have ben carefully tested by division and propagation in my garden over a period of years for determination of characteristics and are offered Peony enthusiasts as being decidedly deserving of a place in their gardens. Prices quoted are for standard 3—5 eye divisions—Prepaid.
Alice—Very fine violet-rose flower of the rose type—large medium loose petals. Few stamens showing. Very good. Mid-season 3.00 Adeline—A beautiful variety of the rose type. Light lavender-rose guards, center lighter with a golden gleam. Flower large and well formed. Late mid-season Claudette—Here's a Peony of entrancing violet-rose with a silvery sheen. Enormous double blooms on stately stems 3.00 Conqueror—This variety is in full bloom when most other varieties are going. A distinct and beautiful pink with a decided lavender sheen. A beautiful huge flower on 40-in. stems. Plant vigorous, dark green foliage. A most superb and outstanding Peony that opens its enormous flowers under the most trying conditions. Deliciously fragrant15.00 Dorothy—Very large blooms of the color of a salmon tea rose — perfect rose type peony with center a little darker flush of salmon. Symmetrical petalage—center full and lacy. Odor of chocolate. Perfect in bud and gorgeous in full bloom. Light green foliage. Very late Enid K.—Immense lavender rose, marbleized with darker rose on outer guard petals and occasionally on inner petals. A striking variety. Midseason Ethereal—Deliciously fragrant, huge blooms on strong 42-in. stems. Opens a delicate blush showly but easily into a symmetrical rose type flower, with petals the texture of crepe paper. Long lasting when cut. Truly a beautiful Peony. Foliage dark green—plant vigorous. Very late25.00 George Anne—Striking silvery pink. Blooms very large, somewhat flat, petalage loose, but bloom entirely double. Comes into flower very late, along with Solange here, on strong 42-inch stems Grenadier—Very large, compact blooms of blush pink-rose type. Much admired for qualities of both plant and flower. Late Heart O' Gold—Flower large, opens blush pink with slight carmine edging on petals, and carmen streaked petals. Stamens showing give effect of golden center. Very tall Stamens showing give effect of golden center. Very tall and fine landscape variety. Mid-season June Rose—Intensely double deep rose color. A strikingly handsome flower of the rose type. Dark green foliage.

Mellow Moon-Ivory white flower, opening slight blush.
Very fragrant. Center petalage finer and tuft-like. Beauty enhanced by a golden halo cast by a few petal concealed stamens in center. Growth vigorous and very free flowering. Late mid-season. A greatly admired peony at our garden blooms opening slowly on 30-inch stems—a blush pink with a trace of tan toward the center. Slightly fragrant—entirely double flower with crinkled guard petals and lacy center petals. Very late Normandy-Large flat blooms of blush white edged with slight carmine. Tall plant and handsome mid-season blooms. Few stamens showing 2.50 Niobe-A very late double deep rose bloom, petalage loose with more compact and darker center. A strong grower and handsome flower4.00 Paul Dresser—Opens like a garden rose, retaining somewhat of a cup shape throughout. Blush to white. Few stamens occasionally peer from the full petalage and on one or more petals appear a very slight edging of carmine. Fragrant. Dark, shiny foliage with blooms on 36-inch stems.
Mid-season. 4.50
Pink Glory—Single type. Huge dark pink blooms and many of them. A striking and much admired Peony. 48-inch strong stems. Early mid-season Red Knight—An attractive double red rose type flower with the ends of petals tipped silver—an odd and admired variety. Very free flowering. Mid-season Sagamore—A striking semi-double, guard petals light rose with golden center. The contrasting color combination of this bloom makes it outstanding and greatly admired.
