MRS. SANDERS DIES

YOUNG MATRON PASSED ON THIS MORNING AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Sanders of 1521 Ivy street were shocked on Monday to hear of the accident which befell Mrs. Sanders, and the announcement of her death this morning, while not unexpected, was the cause of much sorrow and sympathy.

Mrs. Sanders was bathing her month-old baby on Monday forenoon. While moving about, her thin cotton gown was ignited from an open gas heater sitting near, and instantly her clothing was blazing. She had presence of mind to lay her baby in the chair before she ran for assistance. She went to the home of a neighbor, who aided in extinguishing the flames and took Mrs. Sanders back to her own home, where physicians were summoned at once and did all possible to relieve her sufferings, but at no time did there seem to be any hope of her recovery. She passed away shortly after half past two this morning.

Mrs. Sanders was formerly Miss Dorothy Secombe. Besides her husband and baby she is survived by her father, who lives in the East. An only sister died of tuberculosis about a year ago. Dorothy Secombe and Alvin Sanders were married Nov. 20, 1915, and Mrs. Sanders was planning a dinner in celebration of their anniversary on the day of the accident. Mrs. Sanders was but 18 years of age.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Pulliam Undertaking company, but have not yet been completed.

MRS HARLAN HOSTESS

Mrs. C. E. Harlan very pleasantly entertained the following ladies at her home on Mariposa street Monday afternoon, when plans were discussed for the second hand store which will be a feature of the coming bazaar to be given by the Tuesday Afternoon Club: Mrs. E. H. Willisford, Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, Mrs. Jesse Joseph, Mrs. R. L. Holland and Mrs. S. C. Packer. There has been a call for a parchisi board, a ladies' coat, vase, and a gas stove, dishes, books, pictures, etc., have been promised. The committee would like to ask those giving articles to please leave them with Mrs. Jesse Joseph or phone to any of the committee this week. The rooms were prettily decorated with roses and chrysanthemums, and the hostess served dainty refreshments. The afternoon proved a very enjoyable one for all present.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. Alma J. Danford, librarian of the Glendale city library, was the recipient of a very pleasant surprise from her staff on Monday, the occasion honored being her birthday anniversary. A lovely gift was presented to her and refreshments of ice cream and wafers were very daintily served, the decorations being violets and the place cards carrying out the violet color scheme. One of the pleasing parts was the toast to Mrs. Danford, which was printed on a hand-painted birthday card, the clever work of Miss Laura E. Roberts. The slogan of the library staff has been "service", and Mrs. Danford during the time of her association with the library has encouraged the higher ideals of service, and the sympathy and harmony of her fellow workers with her efforts along this line was manifested in this token of their regard.

STOLEN AUTO CLAIMED

The automobile, left behind by the party who attempted to rob the Tropic Mercantile store last week, has been claimed by a Pasadena physician. The car had been stolen about three weeks and had been partly stripped and showed the effects of very rough usage since it had been stolen from the Pasadena. The tires on the rear wheels and the two extra tires were stolen from a garage in Los Angeles. The police claim to have a clue by which they expect to have the thief in custody within a few days.

NEW FIXTURES BEING INSTALLED

The new fixtures for the Easton restaurant and hotel and the Horton shoe store are now being erected on Brand boulevard. Both firms will move into their new quarters by the first of the month. In fact, the Easton restaurant hopes to serve Thanksgiving dinner in the new place of business.

ONLY GOOD REPORTS

NEWS WILL NOT PUBLISH REPORTS CRITICIZING ANY ORGANIZATION

Henceforth the Glendale Evening News will follow the iron-clad rule refusing to publish anything that is tending to criticize or tear down any institution which has for its basic purpose the doing of good and the benefitting of humanity.

For example, all religious denominations are organized for the purpose of doing good in the community in which they exist. It is, therefore, strictly contrary to the policy of the Evening News to allow any articles to appear in this paper that is criticizing any forms of worship or any peculiarities of these church organizations so long as these forms of worship and peculiarities do not interfere with the rights of the public. This new ruling on the part of the Evening News will not prohibit the publishing of favorable reports of any religious organization. What we wish strictly understood is that we do not wish to encourage the tearing-down spirit.

TROPICO TRUSTEES

The trustees of the city of Tropic met in regular session Tuesday evening at 7:30, with the following officers and members of the board present: Trustees Peters, president of the board; Henry, Alspach, Seal and Veselich; City Clerk Mrs. Coleman; City Attorney Shaw; City Engineer Wattles, and Health Officer Mabry.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and, with one correction, were approved. Trustee Seal asked that the minutes show that he voted no on the question of donating a cup to the poultry show. The correction was made.

A communication was received from the Southern California Gas company, stating that there were not enough consumers on Hill street to justify them in laying a gas main on that street. This came as quite a disappointment to the few residents on Hill street and also to the city trustees, as they hoped the gas company would put in their pipes before the street was completed.

A communication was received from C. E. Baer, enclosing claim for $64 for repairs on his automobile, which was damaged when, on Nov. 16, 1915, he ran into a sand pile on Moore avenue and wrecked his machine. The same claim was presented last meeting night, asking for $82, which was turned down, and the board thinks the claim of $64 is exorbitant and turned the same over to the city attorney for investigation and advice.

Robert M. Sanders of 131 West Acacia street addressed the board in behalf of the residents on Acacia between Brand and Central, strongly denouncing the board for their hasty action in granting a permit for parties to move a small dwelling onto that street without first ascertaining the sentiment of the residents in that locality. While there are no restrictions on these lots, it would seem only fair to these people that they should be protected as far as possible, in view of the fact that they have been put to considerable expense for the street improvement, etc. J. V. Griffin of 135 West Acacia also addressed the board, asking that the board investigate conditions before they issue permits of this kind.

The city attorney reported that he had succeeded in securing the conviction of one of the auto bus owners for failure to take out a license, but that the defendant had taken an appeal to the superior court and the case was set for November 29.

The city engineer reported that the work on Acacia street was progressing very satisfactorily and the indications are that the street will be finished on time.

Trustee Henry was requested to see P. L. Ferry in regard to putting in a drain pipe on Acacia street, to take care of the leakage from the city reservoir.

The following claims were allowed and ordered paid:

H. A. Jennings	$3.25
J. S. Ripley	15.00
J. S. Ripley	10.00

Adjournment.

The Seal Beach board of trustees have voted to call a bond election December 21, to vote on $75,000 bonds—$45,000 for the installation of a sewage system and $30,000 for the establishment of a municipal water plant. An ordinance will be presented at the next regular meeting of the trustees which will provide for street improvements amounting to more than $100,000 by assessment.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Thursday. Heavy frost Thursday morning. Northerly winds.

EIGHT AMERICANS SLAIN

REFUGEES ARRIVING IN NOGALES FEAR FOR SAFETY OF AMERICANS IN PARRAL.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NOGALES, Nov. 22.—Four American refugees from Parral have departed from El Paso. They are convinced that the eight Americans remaining in Parral were slain. They declare that the entire foreign population of Parral have been massacred or what is worse, are prisoners of Villa. These four American refugees bring the report that Villa entered Parral November 3 at the head of an army of 5,000 men, the city having been evacuated by Carranza before Villa's arrival. They escaped the night before the Villistas took the city and have traveled seventeen nights over mountains and through deserts, hiding by day until they reached the border. They state that the possibility of any of the eight Americans remaining in Parral having escaped is very slight.

DECISION IN ADAMSON LAW CASE

KANSAS CITY JUDGE HANDS DOWN DECISION DECLARING NEW MEASURE UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22.—Judge William C. Hook has declared the Adamson law, fixing an eight-hour day for railroad employes, to be unconstitutional. Most of the big railroads throughout the United States have taken out injunctions forbidding the enforcement of the law, in order to test its constitutionality and this is the first decision handed down by any judge. The case will be appealed to the supreme court immediately. The case was filed yesterday and Judge Hook was asked for an immediate decision so that the case might be appealed to the supreme court which convenes December 4 in order to get the decision of the supreme court before January 1 when the law becomes operative.

ALL EYES TURNED TO NEW RULER

DEATH OF AGED FRANZ JOSEF CAUSES ALL EUROPE TO FOCUS INTEREST ON AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Nov. 22.—All eyes are turned to the new emperor, Karl Franz Josef who ascends the throne of Austria-Hungary following the death of the emperor, the aged Franz Joseph after an active reign of 66 years. It is not thought, however that the death of Franz Josef and the assumption of the reigns of government by the archduke will have any appreciable effect on the attitude of Austria-Hungary in the war. The fact that the emperor had been in failing health for some time resulted in many of the affairs of state being placed in other hands therefore his death will not disarrange the affairs of government to any great extent. The burial of the emperor will not take place for a week.

TEUTON AMBASSADORS LEAVE GREECE

WILD DEMONSTRATION AT ATHENS WHEN REPRESENTATIVES OF CENTRAL POWERS LEAVE CITY.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ROME, Nov. 22.—The German, Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian ambassadors have departed from Athens at the instigation of the Allies, who ordered them to leave Greece by Wednesday. The delay of a few days which they demanded was refused them and they departed this morning amid a wild demonstration in Athens.

ANXIOUS TO WOO PEACE DOVE

BRITISH ARE WILLING TO HEAR AND CONSIDER ANY PEACE TERMS GERMANY MAY MAKE.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Lord Derby has admitted that England and her allies are willing to consider any peace terms that Germany may submit to them.

BRITISH LOSE HOSPITAL SHIP

FIFTY PERISH IN THE AEGEAN SEA AS LARGEST BRITISH VESSEL IS SUNK.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Nov. 22.—An English hospital ship, the Britannica, was sunk in the Aegean Sea. Fifty people perished and one thousand were saved. The Britannica was a ship of 48,000 tons and was the largest British ship afloat.

TEUTONS STILL RETREAT AT MONASTIR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

No substantial headway has been made by the Allies in the Macedonian campaign although the Germans and Bulgarians are still retreating at Monastir.

CURRENT NEWS

COST OF GRAIN ADVANCES— CONGREGATIONALISTS IN FELLOWSHIP SERVICE

PRICE OF MILK WILL ADVANCE

Dairymen call attention to the fact that bran is now $40 a ton, whereas it was $28 a ton one year ago; that beet pulp has advanced from $22 to $27.50 in a twelve-month; barley is $50 per ton; cottonseed meal from $1.80 to $2.25 a hundredweight, and alfalfa hay from $16 to $21 a ton in a year. The price of bottles has increased 30 per cent and paper caps for bottles 100 per cent.

The milk dealers argue further that compliance with the new state milk inspection law, which became effective last month, means additional expense. The dairymen also allude to the fact that while the price of all staple articles of food has advanced that there has, up to this time, been no increase in the cost of milk.

The above is copied from the Pasadena correspondence of the Los Angeles Times and its truthfulness is approved by Mrs. MacMullin of MacMullin's Sanitary Dairy, Glendale.

CONGREGATIONAL FELLOWSHIP

The Congregationalists of Southern California are holding fellowship meetings this week. The churches are formed into groups of five in number. The pastors of the grouped churches comprise the "team."

This team of pastors spend an afternoon and evening or an evening with each church. Addresses relatives to the work of the church are made.

Rev. E. H. Willisford is leader of the team composed of the Glendale and Grace, Brooklyn Heights, Pilgrim and Trinity Congregational churches of Los Angeles.

To fittingly celebrate the 300 anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, who were the founders of the Congregational church, the Congregationalists are endeavoring to accomplish four important things.

1. To add 500,000 new members.
2. To increase the offerings for missionary work to $2,000,000 annually.
3. To double the number of young men and women who are preparing themselves for definite Christian work.
4. To raise a large sum of money for some definite denominational work.

Tomorrow evening a "Fellowship Service" will be held in the Glendale church at Third and Central. At 6:15 o'clock the officers and official members will meet for dinner. Following the dinner, a round table conference will be held. At 8 o'clock a public service will be held. Revs. A. H. Weitkamp, C. W. Merrill, John T. Price and Charles R. Knight will speak. There will be special music. The public is cordially invited to this service.

REBEKAH LODGE INITIATES

Carnation Rebekah lodge held its regular semi-monthly meeting at Odd Fellows hall, Tuesday evening, when two candidates, Miss Mary B. Sanset and J. C. Cleland, were initiated in the degree. The district deputy president, Mrs. Teale, who is a member of Edelweiss lodge of Los Angeles, Mrs. Carter of the same lodge and Mrs. Chandler of Iola lodge of Los Angeles, were visitors for the evening. The work was put on by the home team and was very highly complimented by the district deputy president and the visitors. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served. Everyone had a good time, and much enthusiasm was manifested over the coming entertainment, when Ellen Beach Yaw will take part on the program.

BIRD AND FLOWER CLUB

The last outing trip of the Bird and Flower Club for this year took place on Saturday afternoon, when a party of adventuresome young people, chaperoned by Mrs. H. C. Ackley and Mrs. Nanno Woods, explored Dead Horse canyon. The next meeting will be held on this coming Saturday evening, when the monthly party will be enjoyed at the residence of Mrs. Woods, 1222 Milford street, from 7 to 9 o'clock. A novel game has been arranged for the occasion. The club will not meet during December, to the regret of the members, but the leaders feel the need of the December Saturday afternoon freedom. On the first Saturday of January friends and members will meet as usual at headquarters, equipped with lunch and car-fare.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

STUDENTS WRITE HISTORY— STYLUS STAFF BUSY— LIBRARY NOTES

Each member of Mr. Howe's American history class has just completed a brief history of the American Revolution. Some of these show the master touch, and it may come to pass that a great historian will spring from this group of budding students. Who can tell?

Friends of Bill Balthis will be very sorry to learn that he is interned in port and will not be able to sail into the sea of knowledge for some time. Bill has the measles.

Members of the Stylus staff are already busy boosting their departments and urging the students to turn their many bright ideas into stories, rhymes and jests. One of the best reminders is the suggestion of prizes.

Hugo Steeler of Los Angeles was a school visitor yesterday. Mr. Steeler recently returned from the Mexican border. He reports that things were very warm in Nogales, especially the soles of shoes of the soldier boys, who did some real hard work getting into shape. A feature of the expedition was a march from Fort Huachuca to Nogales.

Miss May Church, school librarian, today began a series of lectures to the freshmen students on the use of the library. She will talk to the students from the study room the first, third, fifth and seventh periods. The series will continue for five weeks, at the end of which time the scrubs will be required to pass a test on the subject.

Henson Garrett, who graduated with the class of '16 and entered the University of California in the fall, has been forced by illness to return to his home in Glendale. He visited the school a short while yesterday, and his friends will be glad to hear that he is steadily improving and will probably be able to re-enter college in January.

JAPANESE AFTERNOON

Next Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the ladies of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and of the Home Missionary Society are invited to the home of Mrs. Kara S. Root, 735 South Verdugo Road, to meet and spend an informal afternoon with Miss M. A. Spencer of Tokyo, Japan.

Miss Spencer, who is a close personal friend of Mrs. Root's and Dr. Soper's families is just returning to Japan after a furlough spent in her native land.

For 38 years Miss Spencer has been engaged in the evangelizing work of the Methodist church for Japan. She was for years principal of the Methodist Aoyama Higher School of young women in Tokyo. During the afternoon there will be an exhibit of "Things Japanese" with interesting explanations of the pictures, customs, habits and music of the Japanese.

Ladies in the real native dress of the country will assist in the entertainment and an opportunity will be given to see some rare Japanese curios.

In addition to the members of our missionary societies to whom this invitation is especially extended, members of the W. C. T. U. and any and all ladies of the church who are interested in the real live missionary activities of our church are most cordially invited to come and enjoy an "Afternoon with Japan."

A PROGRAM OF ESSAYS

With twenty-two members present, the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club spent an enjoyable and profitable afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Weaver yesterday. Essays was the subject of the program. "American Ideals, Character and Life," by Hamilton Wright Mable, was the topic ably handled by Mrs. Mary Mandery in her paper. Mrs. Annie Williams read and told us some of the best thought from "Counter Currents," by Agnes Repplier, and a fitting close was Miss Ainsworth's paper from Ida M. Tarbell's book, "The Ways of Woman." The section is constantly increasing in numbers and interest.

Lieutenants Authur Franks and Otis Harley, U. S. A. aviation corps, made a remarkable flight from the North Island Aviator School at San Diego to the Dominguez field. Flying two large military tractors, the aviators made a detour inland and completed the long flight, more than 120 miles, in ninety minutes.

COURTESY AMONG MOTORISTS

There is a rule of courtesy among the better class of autoists which is embodied in the golden rule and it applies with special emphasis to the use of glaring headlights at night. Encouraged by this spirit on the part of those who wish to do as they would be done by and also by the passing of ordinances against the use of glaring headlights a number of anti-glare appliances have been put on the market in recent months, costing anywhere from less than a dollar to six or eight dollars, some of them being more or less effective, while some are wholly objectionable. It has been suggested that the adjustments on the lamps may be used to bring about a better solution of the problem without the expense of purchasing a costly appliance. Three operations are necessary to obtain the greatest amount of effective illumination and keep most of the glare out of the eyes of passing motorists. They are:

1. Tilt the headlights slightly downward so that when the car is standing on the level the center of the beam strikes the roadway anywhere from 75 to 100 feet ahead. It has been suggested that car manufacturers can be of great help in the campaign by making this adjustment when the car is made.

2. Frost or lacquer the lamp bulbs from the tip back to within about five-eighths of an inch of the base.

3. Carefully adjust the lamp to make the beam of light as narrow as possible.

Carrying out these suggestions will result in a light of the greatest intensity concentrated on the roadway at the point where the driver needs the most light. As the beam of light is projected downward the intense rays will not be high enough to blind the eyes of passing pedestrians or chauffeurs. No device yet invented can prevent the beam of light from rising when the car comes over the brow of a hill. Under such conditions the driver should dim his lights.

WORK OF STATE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

The public employment bureau of the state of California has been in operation for nine months and according to reports issued by the bureau, has been a success. Of course, during the coming months the bureau will face a more difficult situation as there will be more men looking for jobs than during the summer months. Four offices have been in operation in San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and Los Angeles. This is not a charity bureau, but a purely business proposition. During the month of October 5134 men and women obtained employment through the instrumentality of the bureau, about 200 per day and these people were saved $10,000 in fees. Since February 1, when the bureau was established, 33,451 men and 5,099 women have been furnished with jobs and most of them are still employed in the places secured for them by the bureau.

Perhaps the best feature about the work of this bureau is the saving in fees to the applicants. The man who is looking for a job often does not have the $2 fee or more required by the employment agencies.

Nearly every kind of a position has been filled by this bureau. Of course a large number of the places filled consist of so-called common laborers, but agricultural workers, the building profession, clerical and professional, lumber and timber trades, mining and quarries, hotels and restaurants, metals and machinery, transportation and public utilities, wholesale and retail trades, manufacturing, work in private homes and many other workers were requested among those who obtained positions.

THE SAME OLD STORY

The weakness and thoughtlessness of the human mind is exemplified very clearly in the way county and city officials regulate the auto road races. So long as no accidents happen drivers are at liberty to enter the races without an objection on the part of officials. When a serious accident occurs, as was the case recently at Santa Monica, then the public and the county and city officials rise up in their might and condemn the practice of reckless auto racing. Everybody knows that autos racing at a speed of a hundred miles or more per hour is likely to bring great disaster at any moment.

It is because of the chance of accidents happening that many people are induced to visit auto races. It is the anticipated thrill that draws the crowd. Would it not be wise to discourage the engaging in all games and sports that from their very nature are apt to do an injury to the body, or cause loss of life? The best way to discourage the holding of these cruel competitive sports is for the public not to patronize them. There is a law in some of the states placing a heavy fine upon men who witness a dog fight without making any effort to separate the dogs. There is a similar law which places a fine on men who witness men fighting and do not use any means to separate them. The desire of being entertained at the risk of human life is of heathenish origin and should be discouraged.

CHILDREN WILL ASSIST IN ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS CAMPAIGN

The anti-tuberculosis campaign throughout this country is to be made more effective by the aid of the school children who will be organized under the direction of the National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis. The object is to give the children definite tasks whereby they can help in this noble work and also give them such training as will assist them in keeping themselves free from this dreaded disease. Any means that may be used to put to rout this enemy of mankind deserves the co-operation of all.

The jitney bus question has become a problem in more than one locality. The city council of Portland, Oregon, has settled the question to its own satisfaction, having decided to regulate the jitneys and force them to operate on routes not covered by trolley cars. An ordinance has been drafted to place the jitneys under regulations

Facts and Comment

The fifteenth annual convention of the southern district California Federation of Women's Clubs, met in Redlands last week.

At a recent meeting of the Long Beach branch of the County Medical Society, the society unanimously voted an endorsement of the opening of special rooms in the schools for abnormal children.

Two recent shooting affairs at San Gabriel, which were considered to have been caused by drink, led the San Gabriel board of trustees at a recent meeting to revoke the license of the two wholesale liquor dealers in San Gabriel.

Colored residents of Monrovia are said to be considerably incensed over the way they are treated and spoken of, and take exception to the terms in which the colored race are mentioned, some of them attempting to secure the aid of the law in the matter.

Joseph Healy, an employee on the R. C. Andrews bean ranch on the Bixby station road narrowly escaped death last week, when his clothing caught in the swiftly revolving flywheel on a caterpillar engine. Every stitch of clothing was torn from him, his left knee was broken, his left hip crushed and his body bruised and lacerated from head to foot.

In an address on Y. M. C. A. publicity at the conference of Y. M. C. A. officials of Southern California held at Pasadena recently, Marc N. Goodnow, publicity director of the Y. M. C. A. at Pasadena, said: "The news and advertising columns of the newspaper, when properly used, are the speediest and most forceful medium of publicity which churches can make use of."

The officers of fisheries steamer Albatross, which arrived at San Pedro last week from a six months' investigation of the habits of the albacore tuna in the south, reported that the albacore tuna found in adjacent waters were larger than those found farther south. No albacore is found south of Cedros Island, and neither are found north of Point Conception.

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson T. Garrett of Long Beach ate ant paste last week containing 10 per cent of arsenic poison, it being half an hour before the mother discovered it, when the child complained of a severe stomach ache. Mrs. Garrett applied first aid remedies and called a physician, who after several hours work had the child free from danger.

W. J. Kennedy of Alhambra drove his automobile too near the edge of the hill road in north Whittier Heights, a short distance from the Turnbull canyon road, Saturday, when he turned out to let another car pass and after a slide of fifteen or twenty feet the car turned over. A broken windshield was about the only damage, the occupants of the car escaping serious injury.

The third quarterly meeting of the California development board will be held in San Bernardino on November 24 and 25. Particular attention to legislation and state development will be given in the program, and the topics will be discussed by some of the ablest speakers in the state. A special train will run from San Francisco and Oakland, carrying delegates from all parts of the state.

identical with those of the trolley corporations, exacting bonds and fixing routes away from the street car traffic. It would seem that this treatment of the case is fair to all concerned.

QUALITY NOT PRICE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED.

In purchasing merchandise and in awarding contracts quality and not price should be uppermost in the minds of the persons paying out the money. Quality and honesty go hand in hand in the business world. The honest dealer gives quality. The dishonest man gets the highest price it is possible for him to get and has no heed as to the quality of the goods he furnishes. "Honest merchandise at honest prices" if put into practice by a merchant means a great deal. The commercial tendency is, What is the price? The question should be what is the quality? Some kinds of merchandise are dear at any price. It is the quality that makes merchandise valuable.

Competitive bidding tends to offer an inducement to encourage dishonesty. The desire to land a contract is so great on the part of a bidder that he is tempted to run the risk of taking the job too cheap, and then that he may succeed financially he furnishes inferior material and employs cheap and inexperienced workmen. Honest workmanship, good quality of material on the part of merchants and customers should be encouraged.

THE TIME CHASER.

The man who would wish to succeed must take a firm grasp of the coat collar of time, and retain that grasp constantly. The man who is always chasing time never accomplishes anything. The solution of so many business problems depends upon the proper control of time. The time chaser is always busy, but never gets results.—The cry is just a minute behind time.—the train had just gone,—the bank had just closed. The time chaser is always in a muddle,—never anything completed, but in a terrible hurry.

SUMMONS

CREED OF THE KNOCKER

"I believe that nothing is right. I believe that I alone have the right ideas. The town is wrong, the editor is wrong, the teachers are wrong, the people are wrong, the things they do are wrong and they are doing them in the wrong way anyhow. I believe I could fix things if they would let me. If they don't I will get a lot of other fellows like myself and we will have a law passed to make others do things the way we want them done. I do not believe that the town ought to grow. It is too big now. I believe in fighting every public improvement and spoiling everybody's pleasure. I am always to the front in opposing things and never yet advanced an idea or supported a movement that would make the people happier or add to the pleasure of man, woman or child. I am opposed to fun and am happiest when at a funeral. I believe in starting reforms that will take the joy out of life. It's a sad world and I am glad of it. Amen."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

His Answer—The teacher had been reading to the class about the great forests of America.

"And now, boys," she announced, "which one of you can tell me the pine that has the longest and sharpest needles?"

Up went a hand in the front row. "Well, Tommy?"

"The porcupine!"—Tit-Bits.

TELLS QUEER WAYS AND HABITS OF LIZARDS, TOADS AND SNAKES

With never a drop to drink, most of the lizards and snakes of the California desert live without water. Such is the surprising assertion of Charles Lewis Camp in a contribution from the museum of vertebrate zoology of the University of California just issued by the university in its publications in zoology.

Lizards that drop their tails, blind snakes, horned-toads that change their color—such are some of the curious creatures Mr. Camp describes in this paper on "The Local Distribution and Habits of the Amphibians and Reptiles of Southern California in the vicinity of the Turtle Mountains."

To study the reptiles of the desert, Mr. Camp went out into the rugged hills known as the Turtle mountains, stretching north for forty miles from the San Bernardino-Riverside county line and lying thirty miles west of Parker, Ariz., which is on the Colorado river. This desert region is not subject to the low winter temperatures of most other parts of the United States, its summer temperatures are very high, by night and by day, its rainfall very scanty and sporadic, and the humidity so low and the air movements so abundant that a high rate of evaporation exists. The Mojave desert is higher and colder, the Death valley region more enclosed and colder. Because of this heat and dryness, nowhere in the United States are lizards so numerous and so varied as along the lower Colorado river. Most of the desert creatures need no water, but the coyotes, badgers, bobcats, bighorn, and quail, the bats, birds, bees, and wasps, find an exceedingly scanty water supply, from a few feeble but lasting springs in the larger canyons or in "tanks"—pot-holes shaded by the surrounding cliffs.

Despite the scanty water supply, tadpoles of the spotted toad were found at the end of May in a water-hole five miles from any other spring and thirty miles from the nearest permanent stream. The tadpole's teething must be an undertaking, for she has three rows of lower labial teeth, containing more than 275 teeth, some sixty more in the upper lip, and eighty or ninety more in the lower lip.

The desert tortoise digs burrows from two to eight feet long. This tortoise's usual gait is about twenty feet a minute. When one meets another, it nods its head rapidly up and down, as if in salutation, and sometimes noses are touched—or two males batter against each other, head on, neither doing any damage to an opponent except sometimes to turn him on his back. Some captive tortoises kept by Mr. Camp grazed contentedly on the lawn, never opened their mouths to bite, and became so used to human surroundings that they pursued their accustomed activities with people about. The older tortoises are a favorite delicacy among the Indians and the Mexican section-hands.

The desert iguanas, a long-nosed, large-tailed lizard, are "phytophagous"—that is, they browse on leaves, foraging in the foliage of the bushes.

The ocellated sand lizard lives in the belts of wind-blown sand. (There are places in the Turtle mountains where the fine sand has been driven up clear over the mountains, and blown in white cascades down their eastern slope.) This lizard scurries over the fine sand, leaving a cloud of dust in its wake. They can bury themselves quickly, using their shovel-like snouts to "swim" their way into the sand by moving the head from side to side. Their eyelids are fringed and meet tightly and the nostrils are collapsible. Their striking color-patterns in strong light really so harmonize with the buff tint of the sand that they are seldom detected until they begin to move. The gridiron-tailed lizard often walks with its tail curved over its back. Mr. Camp saw one of these lizards run ninety feet in four seconds, which is at the rate of about fifteen miles an hour. They sometimes spring a foot or more to seize a tempting insect.

The Batfley collared lizard can clear obstacles up to two feet in height with great leaps.

The leopard lizard, the swiftest of North American desert reptiles, haunts the river plains and sandy places and cannibalistically swallows smaller lizards whole.

The chuckwalla is clumsy and vegetarian. Having rather feeble powers of locomotion, it depends for safety upon hiding itself in the rocks. If gently rubbed on the belly it will assume a rigid hypnotic posture and so remain for half an hour without moving. When it takes refuge in a cranny in the rocks, it inflates itself, so that it becomes too large to be pulled out through the hole by which it entered. The desert Indians solve the problem by puncturing the chuckwalla's sides with a sharpened wire, in order to deflate it. Then they pull it out to make a savory repast.

The desert brown-shouldered lizard eats ants, beetles and spiders and particularly frequents rocky localities and lava fields.

The long-tailed swifts are brush-frequenting lizards, climbing up into the creosote bushes, among the squaw-tea, and on the branches of the smoke trees in the washes. They like to sun themselves on the top-most twigs of bushes, hanging motionless, head downward. A nearly white male, held in Mr. Camp's hand changed rapidly in two or three minutes to yellowish, with black cross-bands on the back, the originally light greenish ventral patches became blue, and a yellow spot appeared under the throat.

The rough-scaled lizard lives among boulders and eats caterpillars, ants, and leaves. In the stomach of a single desert horned-toad were found 145 red headed ants, all swallowed whole, a number of worms and insects, and one pebble.

The desert night lizard was found among the tree yuccas.

The desert whip-tail lizards seem almost devoid of fear when feeding. Mr. Camp saw them come into a room and gather crumbs when several people were about. When annoyed, they burrow with their fore feet.

Half a dozen kinds of snakes were studied by Mr. Camp, but in comparison with lizards he found the snakes of the Colorado desert few in number of individuals. For the first time in California, he found a Texas Brown snake, in the rocky hills near Blythe Junction. He found a docile little desert burrowing snake on the gravel plains south of Blythe Junction, caked with clay, as though it had just emerged from the soil. He found a Boyle King snake, and tells of another observed trying to swallow head-first a harvest mouse.

The red racer is far the swiftest of all the desert snakes and the most generally distributed snake of the Colorado desert, occurring on mountain and plain alike.

Three palid rattlesnakes were found, in rocky washes, and one sidewinder or horned rattlesnake. It has been contended that the sidewinder is exclusively nocturnal in its habits, but individuals were found at Needles and near Blythe Junction closely coiled in a symmetrical pattern and partly buried, flush with the surface, in the hot sand, right out in the noonday sun of midsummer. They were found by following their characteristic tracks in the sand, but when they were come upon, in neither case were they easily seen, so exactly were the snakes the color of their sandy surroundings. Both allowed themselves to be noosed without moving away or doing more than rattle feebly.

This account by Mr. Camp of the desert lizards, toads, and snakes is a part of the valuable work which the University of California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology is doing of gathering together a great collection of the birds, mammals, and reptiles of the Pacific Coast and of publishing scientific papers by the members of its staff on the richly varied animal life of California and the Pacific Coast. The University of California publications in zoology have now reached a total of sixteen volumes, and represent a great enrichment of the world's knowledge of the infinite marvels of animal life in California.

THE FOOTPATH OF PEACE

To be glad of life, because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars; to be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends, and every day of Christ; and to spend as much time as you can, with body and spirit, in God's out-of-doors—these are little guide-posts on the footpath of peace.—Henry Van Dyke.

FAULTS MULTIPLY

"Not to correct our faults is to commit new ones," says a Chinese proverb.

We sometimes flatter ourselves that we are not adding to our imperfections, even if we are not eradicating them. This is something we cannot truthfully assert, for a fault is like a weed. The longer it is imbedded in the soil the deeper the roots penetrate and the more rapidly does it multiply, until what once might have been easily uprooted, is not destroyed without much labor and pains.

DOING GOOD DEEDS

Do a good deed every day. Each ray of light from a distant star has been traveling on through the ether for hundreds of years. Yet it still remains pure and strong enough to affect the negative plate of the astronomer's camera. So with a good deed. Set it going and who knows the end of it? Not the world of this century or the next, for its influence will travel on for ages to come.

WHAT'S THE USE?

Weep and you're called a baby; Laugh and you're called a fool; Yield and you're called a coward; Stand and you're called a mule; Smile and they call you silly; Frown and they'll call you gruff; Put on a front like a millionaire And some guy calls you bluff.

A Dead Shot.—The valor and candid simplicity of our Indian Babu is proverbial. A story goes of one ancient the German East campaign, who (in the words of a contemporary) was about the most laconic, competent, deadly earnest station-master and marksman combined that ever lived. A regiment of men like him would end the war, for this is the wire he sent: "One hundred Germans attacking station. Send immediately one rifle and one hundred rounds of ammunition."—Nairbi (India) Leader.

FRIENDSHIPS

One of the world's wisest men—Dr. Samuel Johnson—said that a man should keep his friends in constant repair, that as he advanced through life he should be constantly making new friends; otherwise when he became old he would be left all alone.

Men who have been reared in rural communities, where "everybody knows everybody and calls him by his first name," if they remove to a great city will realize what it means to be "alone in a great city." They will long not only for the quiet comforts of rural life, but they will sigh for the sound of a friend's voice speaking their "first" names.

Men do not at any other period of life make friends of the same kind nor in the same numbers as in childhood and youth. Acquaintances they may have, or even friends, in the common acceptance of that term, but they do not have and are incapable of forming other friendships like those made in their school days. Conventionality so hedges about all the social intercourse of mature life as to preclude the friendly intimacies that are common in earlier years.

TREE PLANTING

Article 2

The article on Tree Planting, which appeared in the Saturday issue of the Glendale Evening News under the name of Edward R. Lott of St. Paul, Minn., proved so full of information that further notes on the subject seem almost superfluous. Every Glendale resident who has not already perused this article by Mr. Lott should at once procure a copy of the evening paper and read it carefully and with appreciation.

Two kinds of tree planting there are, with only one of which is Glendale concerned. We are a city and must plant trees suitable for a city. Along country roads and state highways, tree planting presents a different set of problems; larger trees may be used, trees with greater spreading roots and branches, and the litter or fall of leaves does not prove any special trouble. But for city streets, many considerations must be taken into account. The width of street, sidewalk and parking, bear an important part in the selection of trees. Overhead wires have to be considered and avoided. In Riverside one telephone company has placed its wires underground. In Berkeley, Pasadena, San Jose and other cities, most of the poles are located in the backyards or alleys. Electric wires often interfere with trees. But surface wiring will soon be a thing of the past, for some day all wiring will be laid underground.

A narrow street lined with very big trees looks like a little man staggering under a heavy load. Again a wide street lined with trees of small growth makes one think of a man poorly and scantily dressed. While a street lined with trees of correct proportions but badly or not all pruned and trimmed, with matted growth and diseased or scaly leaves reminds one of a roadside tramp, who pays no attention to cleanliness and understands not the gentle art of manicuring.

Speaking of scale, some trees in some places are sure to be attacked with insects and fungi. That handsome tree, the chestnut, (castanea dentata) of long life and splendid appearance is subject to very deadly fungus disease. The sycamore (platanus occidentalis) is also subject to fungus disease. The American elm (ulmus americanus) has many insect pests. The Laurel (laurus pseudocerasus) is a host for scale insects.

Other trees are very short-lived and are therefore not suitable for permanent planting. The white birch and varieties, acacia longifolia (long-leaved), the cassia, the Monterey and Italian cypress, the jacaranda, the silver poplar and others are short-lived, and can at best be looked upon as merely temporary.

Dense foliage, in spite of our mild climate, is not to be desired, especially on streets running due south and west. I once heard a man say that although California was the land of sunshine, all one had to do to shelter from the sun was to get behind a telephone pole. Some shade we undoubtedly need, but a light shade fulfills all necessities. Black acacia (acacia melanoxylon) of which there are many specimens in Glendale, is an evergreen of a density of growth, producing a very dark, deep shade. Such a tree planted on a street where the strong rays of the sun do not penetrate during the greater portion of the day, is apt to produce a cold, chilly effect, and in winter its shade can become a positive drawback. Planted, however, in a sunny location at a distance of not less than fifty feet apart, and the head branches properly pruned and thinned out, the black acacia proves one of the most desirable of trees.

Dirty trees should be avoided. The grevillea robusta of silk oak gives constant litter and is moreover a short-lived species; the laurel, magnolia grandiflora, brisbane box, are all litter producing, while the dirtiest of all is the popular umbrella tree (melia azadarach). In the spring this tree drops its flower petals; in the autumn its leaflets drop; throughout the winter its berries and then the panicles drop. Walnuts, too, splendid for country roads, are altogether unsuitable for city planting, owing to their dirty habits. The same fault applies to the pepper tree, than which there is no more beautiful tree to be found anywhere, but on narrow streets the litter produced is most disagreeable.

NANNO WOODS.

THE BIG GAME

Life is a game. Two men will put an equal hours of labor, but one will tarve while the other gains a kingdom. One has not a square foot of ground in the world, while another controls a nation. So, it is a game. It is a gigantic contest.

Of course, there should be some sort of contest for the luxuries of life to give it spice, "pep," inspiration and incentive. It would hardly do to evenly divide the world's wealth. There would be no incentive to the individual to give superior service to the community.

But—When some starve while others acquire millions, the game is too rough. The game is too rough!

In every little way you contribute to a reformation along this line, you engage in the highest occupation of the real fraternalist.

Firmness for and uncompromising allegiance to what is unquestionably right is not narrowness.

HONESTY
"Tis an exact life that maintains itself in due order in private. Every one may juggle his part, and represent an honest man upon the stage; but within, and in his own bosom, where all may do as they list, where all is concealed, to be regular—there's the point. The next degree is to be so in his house, and in his ordinary actions, for which we are accountable to none, and where there is no study nor artifice. And therefore Bias, setting for the excellent state of a private family, says: "of which the master is the same within, by his own virtue and temper, that he is abroad, for fear of the laws and the report of men." And it was a worthy saying of Julius Drusus, to the masons who offered him for three thousand crowns to put his house in such a posture that his neighbors should no longer have the same inspection into it as before: "I will give you," said he, "six thousand to make it so that everybody may see into every room."—Montaigne.
