 THE late Mr. John Drummond, of Denny, was not only one of the most voluminous, but also one of the most original authors on the Game of Draughts. That his works were popular in their day is evinced from the fact that from 1838 to 1866 he published four editions of his SCOTTISH DRAUGHT PLAYER. The Fourth Edition, sometimes spoken of as the Fourth and Fifth, consisted of two volumes, thus making five volumes in all. Each edition was devoted to the elucidation of new lines of play, and very little of the play which appeared in one edition was repeated in any of the others—consequently each edition was an independent treatise, and not a reprint of its predecessor.

The various editions having been out of print for many years, Mr. Kear decided to re-issue the whole of the works in monthly parts, and entrusted the work of revising and compiling the play to the subscriber, who regrets that the task was not placed into more experienced hands than his, but neither time nor labour will be spared to make the work as free from errors as possible.

Drummond's method of compiling play is very confusing. He subdivides each opening into parts, and gives a new trunk in every page. He sometimes gives the wins first, and the draws as variations, and occasionally we find the play on one page beaten by different play of the same position on another page, this arrangement is anything but satisfactory.

The method adopted by the subscriber is similar to that adopted by Mr. Janvier in the compilation of his "Anderson." The sound play and the corrections are given in their proper place, and the unsound play, and the superseded corrections are given at the end of each opening under the heading of ("corrected variations from Drummond.") The only difference from Mr. Janvier's method is that the variations are branched from the bottom, instead of from the top of the columns—this brings the whole play on one line together, and is considered by some players handier for reference.

At the solicitation of several players, the whole of Drummond's play, whether sound or unsound will be given, but in such a manner as will not mislead the student.

The subscriber owes thanks to the several players who have sent corrections, etc., and he is specially indebted to Mr. J. D. Janvier, who is acknowledged by all to be the greatest authority on the literature of the game, for valuable list of corrections.

In conclusion, the subscriber will be pleased to receive any additional corrections of Drummond's play, and he hopes that his labours will meet with the approval of the Draught-playing public.

JAMES LEES.

DEDICATION FROM SECOND EDITION

TO

W. S. B. WOOLHOUSE, Esq., F.R.A.S., &c.,

ALWYNE LODGE, CANONBURY, LONDON.

SIR,

WHEREVER we trace the germs of mental acuteness and scientific nicety, the striking truth becomes apparent, that their development is greatly encouraged by the cultivation of innocent amusement. That the beautiful and scientific Game which I have undertaken to illustrate, in the following pages, is still farther capable of becoming more decidedly national, is apparent, from the congenial habits of thought and calculation that peculiarly adapt Draughts, as the elder Sister of Chess (the Thinking Game), to the disposition of rational minds, while its tendency to eradicate vicious feeling, adapts it still farther to the advancement of civilisation.

In availing myself of your permission to inscribe my work to you, I feel proud that it will issue under auspices at once calculated to guarantee its success, and prove an honour to the author. Your fame as a distinguished mathematician, and your liberal encouragement of all that is scientific or useful, has long been responded to by those better able to judge and express their sense of your character. I fondly seize the present, however, as an occasion that gives me an opportunity to say how deeply I feel and appreciate your generous patronage; and with every wish for your continued prosperity and happiness,

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient and very humble Servant,

JOHN DRUMMOND.

GLASGOW, MAY, 1851.

PREFACE FROM SECOND EDITION.

IN presenting to the public a New Edition of my work on the favourite Game of Draughts, it may be proper to address a few remarks to the lovers of that interesting game. At the conclusion of the preface to my former edition, it was stated that should there be a demand for a future edition, every pains should be bestowed to remedy lurking defects, and to produce a second edition in as perfect a form as intervals from still more pressing avocations would allow. The author has now taken the leisure hours of thirteen years to mature and arrange the present edition; and it is humbly presumed that, after so long a period unremittingly devoted to the game, with all its mazes laid open to patient calculation and inquiry, the result will be a decided approximation to the utmost accuracy and systematic simplicity; and that, as a MANUAL, it will meet with general approbation.

As to the extensive enlargement of the games, variaticns, and critical positions, the volume will at once speak for itself; and, as regards the numerous valuable and original improvements on the moves, they will soon be manifest to the experienced player. The elementary instructions are made more explanatory, and the important principle of the move and its changes is treated scientifically, for the first time. It is indeed remarkable that every work on Draughts is erroneous on the subject of the move. not even excepting some recent publications, which also, in other respects, fall very far short of what might have reasonably been expected from their announcements.

The author does not think it necessary to go into any lengthened details; he is quite satisfied, with all becoming deference, to place the result of his labours in the hands of an indulgent public; and he is confident that the Draught Players of Great Britain will not be slow to appreciate its just merits in enlarging the circle of innocent amusement, and bringing nearer to perfection the first of scientific games.

Calculation of the Move.

WHEN the pieces are so situated that in the ordinary course of the moves you would drive your adversary into a forced and confined position, you are said to HAVE THE MOVE upon him, and it will be useful to know how to ascertain this fact from an inspection of the positions.

The squares of the board we divide into two systems of four columns each; the columns of the first system being those reckoned downwards from the squares (numbered 1, 2, 3, 4), which occupy the top of the board, and those of the second system being reckoned upwards from the squares (29, 30, 31, 32), at the bottom. Thus (1, 9, 17, 25), (2, 10, 18, 26), (3, 11, 19, 27), (4, 12, 20, 28), are the four columns of the first system, and (5, 13, 21, 29), (6, 14, 22, 30), (7, 15, 23, 31), (8, 16, 24, 32), those of the second system. The columns of each system are situated alternately between those of the other, and it is plain that one system is the reverse of the other.

The game being reduced down so that each player has the same number of pieces, the total number of pieces on the board must be an even number, and this number will be distributed over the two systems of squares. Now, as an even number can only be divided into two even or two odd numbers, it is clear that if the pieces be counted on each of the two systems separately, the numbers will in the two cases be both even or both odd. Also, in the course of the play each simple move will be out of one of the systems into the other, and will therefore make one system count one more and the other one less, so that if the systems were before both odd, they will now be both even, and after another move they will again be both odd, and so on alternately according to the player whose turn it is to move.

Suppose now that you have the move. Then by carrying on the play mechanically without entering either of the double corners [1, 5], [28, 32], you will have the last move, and your pieces will eventually, one by one, pin or fix those of your adversary at the distance of two squares. When this takes place, it is plain, by a simple inspection of the board, that each of your pieces and the piece secured by it will be both situated in one and the same system of squares. The number of pieces on each system, being thus wholly made up of pairs, will consist equally of black and white pieces, and will count an even number. By tracing back the moves, as the even and odd take place alternately, it follows that the counting will be even when your adversary has to move, and that it will be odd whenever it is your turn to move. Hence the following rule for ascertaining the move in all cases:—

RULE.—It being your turn to play, count the pieces resting on one of the systems of squares; and if the number be odd, you have the move; but if even, your adversary has the move.

This rule in practice may be farther simplified thus:—Cast your eye down the four columns of the system, and direct your attention only to those columns which contain an odd number of pieces (one or three;) then, if there be an odd number of such columns (one or three), you have the move, but not otherwise.

By means of this last rule, a practised eye may in all cases ascertain the move at a glance.

When one or more pieces are given and exchanged, the move which immediately leads to the exchange is commonly called a cut. Before making a cut it may be important to know the effect it will have upon the move. A cut most frequently results in only one exchange or a capture on the part of each player: but in some cases it will involve a series of captures or takings, each of which may consist of one or more pieces. To ascertain the effect upon the counting, we observe first, that in each capture, the piece which leaps and passes over two squares at a time cannot leave the particular system in which it is placed, and that its movement will therefore not alter the number of pieces in that system. The counting can only be reduced in the other system by the pieces removed from the board; and as regards the even and odd, it can only be altered when the number so taken is odd; and, as even numbers do not affect the calculation in this respect, we may count only for an odd number. Also, as the effect as to even and odd must be the same in each system, and it is thus immaterial in which of the two systems the calculation is made, we may, with every odd taking, transfer the effect to the reverse system, and simply count the piece which leaps. The effect of the play as to whose turn it is to move will depend upon whether the number of moves taken be even or odd. But any ordinary move which is not a jump, as it alters both the counting and the turn of play, it can have no effect upon the move, and should therefore be left out of the calculation. Also, as the total number of pieces captured is even, the number of odd takings must be even, and hence the turn of play, as regards the capturing moves, can only be effected by the number of even takings. From a careful review of these considerations, we deduce the following useful rules:—

1. In the case of a single exchange, one for one, or a single exchange of any odd number of pieces, if the two leaping pieces are in reverse systems, the move will be changed; but if in the same system, the move will not be altered.
2. In the case of a single exchange, two for two; or a single exchange of an even number of pieces, the move will always remain unaltered.
3. As a GENERAL RULE for a COMPOUND CUT where there are several takings, first observe the odd takings, and notice the pieces which capture them; then ascertain how many of these pieces count in either of the systems, and to this add the number of even takings. If the result be odd the move will be altered, but not otherwise.

By means of this UNIVERSAL RULE, it will be extremely easy to ascertain the effect on the move before making the most complicated cuts, as the practised player will soon experience after a few trials.

Standard Laws of the Game of Draughts,

From Anderson's Second Edition.

1.—The Standard board must be of light and dark squares, not less than fourteen inches nor more than fifteen inches across said squares.

2.—The standard men, technically described as White and Black, must be light and dark [say White and Red or White and Black], turned, and round, not less than one inch, nor more than one and one eighth inch in diameter.

*3.—The board shall be placed so that the bottom corner square, on the left hand, shall be black.

*4.—The men shall be placed on the black squares.

5.—The Black men shall be invariably placed upon the real or supposed first twelve squares of the board; the White upon the last twelve squares.

6.—Each player shall play alternately with White and Black men, and lots shall be cast for the colour only once, viz., at the commencement of a match, the winner to have his choice of taking Black or White.

7.—The first play must be invariably made by the person having the Black men, and that alternately till the end of the match.

8.—TIME—At the end of Five minutes [if the play has not been previously made] Time must be called by the person appointed for that purpose, in a distinct manner, and, if the play be not completed on the expiry of another minute, the game shall be adjudged to be lost through improper delay.

9.—When there is only one way of taking one or more pieces, time shall be called at the end of ONE MINUTE, and if the play be not completed on the expiry of another minute, the game shall be adjudged to be lost through improper delay.

10.—After the first move has been made, if either player arrange any piece, without giving intimation to his opponent, he shall forfeit the game, but if his turn to play, he may avoid the penalty by playing that piece, if possible.

11.—After the pieces have been arranged, if the person whose turn it is to play, touch one, he must either play it or forfeit the game. When the piece is not playable, he forfeits according to the preceding law.

12.—If any part of a playable piece be played over an angle of the square on which it is stationed, the play must be completed in that direction.

13.—A capturing play, as well as an ordinary one, is completed whenever the hand has been withdrawn from the piece played, even although one or more pieces should have been taken.

* After substituting the word White for Black, these two laws become binding upon the players of any place, where it is customary to play on White squares.

14.—The Huff or blow is, to remove from the board, before one plays his own piece, any one of the adverse pieces that might or should have taken. But the huff or blow never constitutes a play.

15.—The player has the power either to Huff, compel the take, or let the piece remain on the board, as he thinks proper.

16.—When a man first reaches any of the squares on the opposite extreme line of the board it becomes a king, and can be moved backwards or forwards as the limits of the board permit, though not in the same play, and must be crowned [by placing a man on the top of it] by the opponent; if he neglect to do so, and play, any such play shall be put back until the man be crowned.

17.—Either player making a false or improper move, shall instantly forfeit the game to the opponent, without another move being made.

18.—When taking, if either player remove one of his own pieces, he cannot replace it; but his opponent can either play or insist on his replacing it.

19.—A Draw is, when neither of the players can force a win. When one of the sides appears stronger than the other, the stronger party is required to complete the win, or to show at least a decided advantage over his opponent within forty of his own moves—to be counted from the point at which notice was given, failing in which, he must relinquish the game as a draw.

20.—Anything which may tend either to annoy or distract the attention of the player, is strictly forbidden; such as making signs or sounds, pointing or hovering over the board, unnecessarily delaying to move a piece touched, or smoking. Any principal so acting, after having been warned of the consequence, and requested to desist, shall forfeit the game.

21.—While a game is pending, neither player is permitted to leave the room without giving a sufficient reason, or receive the other's consent or company.

22.—Either player committing a breach of any of these laws must submit to the penalty, and his opponent is equally bound to exact the same.

23.—Any spectator giving warning, either by sign, sound, or remark, on any of the games, whether played or pending, shall be expelled from the room during the match.

24.—Should any dispute occur, not satisfactorily determined by the preceding laws, a written statement of facts must be sent to a disinterested arbiter having a knowledge of the game, whose decision shall be final.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF MR. JOHN DRUMMOND,

By J. HEDLEY. From the "Draught Board," Feb. 1870.

OUR country exhibits many examples of individuals who by genius and application have raised themselves to places of eminence and power. No matter how seemingly insuperable the obstacles in their path, they were not to be daunted; but, gathering up their strength, and nerving themselves for their work, they boldly pressed forward, never pausing, nor resting on their way, until their mission had been accomplished and their names rendered the pride and glory of their fellow-countrymen.

John Drummond, Author of the SCOTTISH DRAUGHT PLAYER is one of these examples. By sheer force of steady perseverance and indomitable courage he has managed to emerge from a state of comparative obscurity to win for himself an imperishable reputation in the annals of draught literature. Born at Lawrieston, near Falkirk, March 26, 1806, before our next number gives place to its successor, he will have completed his 64th year.

In youth he was studious and retired. He acquitted himself in his scholastic days to the satisfaction of his parents, who gave him an education befitting their circumstances. At the proper age he was apprenticed to a Master at Grangemouth to learn the trade of a Slater, and after passing through his servitude he formed a business of his own, in which he continues to the present time.

He has been twice married, and from the union with his second wife (who is still living), there has been no issue. From his first marriage, in 1826, there resulted a family of seven, two of whom (a boy and girl) died. The rest happily attained maturity, and two sons and a daughter are living in New York, America; two sons are living in Glasgow, and one at Denny with his father. His first wife was short-lived, and after a few brief years of wedded happiness, passed into the realms where

"Peaceful stillness reigneth evermore."

In 1832 he moved from Lawrieston to Denny, and shortly after to Glasgow, and thence to Dalry in Ayrshire. About the year 1842 he returned to Denny and finally settled there.

As soon as he married he wisely resolved to cultivate the domestic enjoyments of his ain fireside, and diversified his home amusements, in the long winter evenings by playing at Draughts with his acquaintances. In 1830 he obtained a copy of Sturges and this stimulated his desire for further knowledge of the game, and applying himself diligently and perseveringly to the study of the work he rapidly acquired such proficiency in the science so as to render him a formidable antagonist, even to those of more mature years and longer experience in the game. After a few preliminary encounters in private, in which he displayed abilities sufficient to justify the step, he appeared in the arena of public contest. His success has been unexampled, having defeated every opponent who encountered him in play for a stake.

His most important matches were those with Bullock and Hudson each for £50 aside. The others were for lower stakes, varying in amount. The following is a tolerably correct list:—

Though widely known as a skilful draught player, he is still more distinguished as an Author. In 1838 he published his first treatise, at Falkirk, entitled the “Scottish Draught Player,” containing upwards of 700 games. Successive treatises, bearing the same titles, were published at Glasgow in 1853-5 and 1864. His second work contains upwards of 1700 games; his third, upwards of 700, and his fourth and fifth combined, upwards of 2300. He has also been a liberal contributor to serials interested in draught literature—“The New York Turf,” “New York Clipper,” “Leeds Weekly Express,” “Paisley and Renfrewshire Gazette” and “Draught Board.”

In 1848 he issued a challenge to English Draught Players, and for the purpose of arranging a match he made a tour through England. In answer to his challenge an appearance was put in on behalf of Martins for whom the odds of four won games in nine was requested. This Drummond declined to concede, and the negotiations were unproductive. During his stay in London he was the guest of Mr Barker Woolhouse, one of the most accomplished of our Metropolitan draught players.

His professional services were solicited, and freely granted, to assist the late Mr. Andrew Anderson in his matches played against Mr. Wyllie at Edinburgh and Lanark; and it is assumed that the tact and experience of Mr. Drummond contributed in no small degree to promote the successes of the celebrated Ayrshire player.

The “Scottish Draught Player” is extensively circulated in England and America, and the Author has enhanced his reputation and earned the gratitude of draught players by being the first to attempt to systematize the science. His celebrity and success, however, have not been acquired without having to contend with serious obstacles, and it is to be regretted that a considerable amount of prejudicial statement, and ungenerous criticism in regard to his productions, have been industriously spread. This, fortunately, has stimulated his genius and impelled him to more earnest efforts to perfect his works, and while representing a bold front to his adversaries and manfully battling for his reputation, he has in many instances retaliated keenly and effectually upon his adversaries.

In person he is tall and well-made, with a slight inclination to corpulence. His countenance, though of a thoughtful cast, does not excite much expectation in those to whom he is unknown. His complexion is ruddy, his eyes blue, bright and penetrating. His hair is abundant and white, and there is no appearance of baldness. Though years are stealing upon him, yet he is in vigorous health, promoted and assured by exercise and temperate habits; and for this he may justly exclaim—

“For in my youth I never did apply
Hot and rebellious liquors in my blood;
Nor did with unbashful forehead woo
The means of weakness and debility;
Therefore my age is as a lusty winter,
Frosty, but kindly.”

He is self-reliant and unassuming, and is all times prepared to assert and vindicate his rights. Stimulated by opposition, he retorts heavily on an antagonist, and in controversy at times exhibits a caustic humour, but he is far from being vindictive, and is all times disposed to reconciliation. He is still actively engaged in his pursuit of his favorite science and whatever opinion may at present exist in regard to his ability, and the value of his works, history will assuredly give a permanent place in the annals of draught literature to one who has certainly reason to be proud of writing his name as Author of the “Scottish Draught Player.”

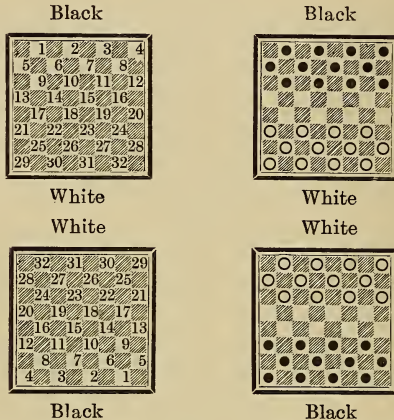

Mr. John Drummond died at Denny, on the 11th of May, 1881.

Instructions for Playing the Game of Draughts.

THE Game of Draughts is played on a Board of Sixty-four Squares, and twenty-four men, of alternate colours; the board should always be so placed that each player may have his own double corner on his right hand.

The following diagrams represent the Board and Men set ready for playing; and also, the mode in which the squares are supposed to be numbered.

Throughout this work, the Black men always move first, from whatever side of the Board, as is customary both in Scotland and England; each player in turn moves one of his Men to the right or left along the diagonal on which it stands, and the men can only move forward one square at a time, until they reach the extreme line of the board, when they become Kings; and, being crowned, can then move either forward or backward to the end of the game. The pieces take others in the direction they move, by leaping over the hostile piece or pieces into the vacant square beyond, and the pieces so captured are then removed from the board.

The first Game in this work commences by BLACK moving from Square 11 to Square 15, WHITE then moves from square 22 to square 18, and is captured by the BLACK man stationed on square 15, and removed from the board. BLACK having now leaped into square 22, when capturing the WHITE man stationed on square 18, is taken prisoner in turn by the WHITE man stationed on square 25, and removed off the board; the White man leaping into square 18. Proceed in like manner with the other moves, when at last the game will end by being drawn. Then the players begin the same game again, and play down the column to 1, which will lead you to the branch 1 in the second column, and instead of White playing 17 to 14, he moves 18 to 14, which makes the first variation, and also ends drawn.

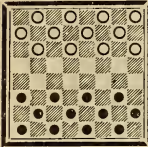

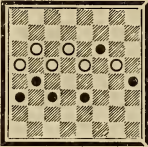

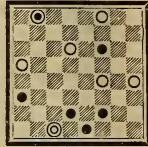

When either of the men reaches one of the extreme squares of the board, he is made a king by having another man put on him, which makes him a crowned man, as before mentioned.

The learner may at first find it convenient to number the squares upon his board; but he should practise playing the games until he is quite familiar with the various squares from memory, which will greatly facilitate his future researches, and he will then have no difficulty in playing over a game so as to place himself at either the black or the white side of the board, according to his fancy. In general it is best to practise the games with the winning side next you.

FIRST EDITION.—SINGLE CORNER.

Position No. 37—J. Hickey published play for a Black win by 10-14 before Swan & Adamson published their analysis in 1876. Note by J. Lees—R. McCulloch showed a draw on one of S. & A. variations, but a win was demonstrated some years later by J. Little, thus sustaining the win as first given by Hickey.

Position No. 59—Play for a B. win by 22-25 was published by J. Ash before 1860.

LAIRD & LADY.

Var. 5B should read W. wins. Positions 55 and 56 were noted by J. D. Janvier before 1861.

OLD FOURTEENTH.

Variations 16 and 17 are by Sturges. Var. 26 is by Mercer [see Sup. A.D.P., variation 258. This and other corrections were first published in a column edited by Mercer about 1862 in "Household Journal." He had the McKerrow v. Martins games sent him in M.S., and published them with his corrections.

Reprint, variation 28 is by J. D. Janvier. Spayth in the Sup. A.D.P. credited no one. Mercer and I struck these corrections of Drummond's 1st Edition from his correcting McKerrow v. Martins match games—see Sup. A.D.P. variation 332.

SECOND DOUBLE CORNER.

Variation 4, at 3rd move, 25 22 has been proposed for a draw.

BOSTON.

Variation 5B† is by Janvier.

Variation 15, at 16th move, 14-17, 21 14, 10-17, was first played by Wyllie against N. Stewart in 1873, the latter replied 27 23, 8-11, 16 12, &c., Drawn: Spayth and Carrier replied 27 24, 8-11, &c. Drawn. Note by J. Lees—16 12 as given by me in variation 15 leads to a much safer end game than either of the two foregoing replies.

SECOND EDITION.—SINGLE CORNER.

Variation 1 is by Janvier; such corrections as this I suppose were noted by many when they went over the book, of course I marked it myself when I noted it. Variation 6 is by Martins.

Variation 8<sub>A</sub> is by Janvier] correcting W. Patterson in 'Draught Board' I think Variation 15, at 5th move, for 23-26, go 22-18, 9 6, 1-5, 6 1, A-18-22 and draw [see Janvier's Anderson "Dyke," variation 44, for illustration of some stages of the idea] [A] 5-9, 10 14, 9-13, 1 5, W. wins [this was crowded out of Reprint]

Variation 39<sub>A</sub> is by Sturges, variation 41 was published by Janvier in 1878.

Variation 54—In second issue of Part I. of Reprint, the first two moves were wrong, read 18-22, 9 14, &c. Position 88† var 1 is by Janvier.

*Var. 182, at end continue B. wins, I forget who it is by. Other persons are in same fix and I give their names when I know they should have credit.

Var. 224 is by "Billy Cockling" in "New York Clipper," before Swan & Adamson

Var. 233 is by Drummond himself. Var. 257 is by Janvier, [noted by J. Little over 30 years ago.] Var. 263 is by Charles Hefter.

DEFIANCE.

Variation 22 is by Janvier

Variation 52<sub>A</sub> is by J. Wyllie

FIFE.

For W. Gray read D. Gray—J. L.

WILL O' THE WISP.

Variations 19 and 19<sub>A</sub> are by W. Strickland.

Variation 20 I have by Baker and Woolhouse, Wyllie and Robertson were later Variation 34<sub>A</sub> is by Anderson.

When I examined my Drummond and Anderson's Second Editions, winter of 1858-59, I marked the following for draws: *Variation 36<sub>A</sub> at 11th move, for 30 25 try 17 13 to draw. Variation 39, at 35th move, for 30 26 try 9 14 to draw. These two moves I had only been able to draw about that date.

*Position 13†-2 at 23rd move, 6 1 for 28 24 draws—H. Spayth.

* These are illustrated on diagrams—see positions Nos 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 141, 143

Variation 62† is by Macfarlane and Mackenzie. Variation 79<sub>B</sub>†-3 is by Sturges

EDINBURGH.

Variation 3 is same up to 34th move as play published in "Liverpool Albion" many years ago long before Durgin.

Notes as to Authorship &amp;c., (continued).

Variation 4B at end is same as First Edition, "Boston," but Drummond or any one else did not know it until I pointed it out, therefore credit for it same as original play—Janvier.

Scarcely agree with the foregoing claim—J. Lees

Variation 8B at 4th move, for 11 8 go 18 23, W. wins, same as variation 8B at last move.

Variation 9, at 15th move for 6-10 go 13 17 draws—Irving.

At 19th move, for 14-17 go *13-17 draws—Janvier.

LAIRD &amp; LADY.

Variations 46† and 46‡ are by Janvier before 1862

OLD FOURTEENTH

Variations 11 and 12B are by Janvier. Spayth did not know they run into same draw as he gave in "A.D.P." until I showed him before 1862

Variation 13 is "A.D.P." Drummond was then receiving American columns and copied from them in 4th Edition without credit

Is there any draw by 12-16 for 3-7, at 5th move of variation 18A? I have it noted to look up; something been published on it somewhere

Variation 25—The 31 26 move was first given by W. W. Avery, one of his variations follows 26A

In variation 29A at 2nd move, for 32 28 go 30 26, 6-9, 13 6, 2-9, 32 28, White wins—Irving, but if 32 28 first then 14-17 and what? Irving thought it a draw

AYRSHIRE LASSIE

Variation 30A at 8th move is same as variation 33 at 8th move

Variation 46A *6-10 I had years ago, also 46A† at 3rd move, for 6-9 go *6-10, drawn, see position No. 130

Variation 28† I also had years ago—Janvier

BRISTOL

Variation 5 at 4th move, for 3-7 go 6-9, drawn—Heffner

Variation 7A at 7th move, for 31 27 go *21 17 and it looks like a draw, but I have never worked it out—Janvier

CROSS

Variation 40, at 3rd move for 22 13 go 27 24 &c., and it seems more like a White win than a Black win. Variation 45, at 2nd move for 15-19 go 12-16 &c, seems to win for Black. We have not space to give Mr Janvier's full play on these vars.

Variation 26, at 12th move for 3-11 go 14-17 and what?

Variation 28th at 6th move, for 11-15 go 14-17 and what?

Variation 17 at 3rd move for 26-23 or 21-17 go *29 25 and draw.—Drummond's 4th Edition, then I have 16-19 marked to examine, so you may know how to beat *29 25.

Position No. 11—While I correct variation 24†, at 20th move, I doubt if 26 23 loses.—Janvier.

Position No. 12, is by Priest, Janvier &c, it was credited to J. Lees by mistake

CLOSING REMARKS.

In giving a diagram showing at a glance the position at the commencement of all the leading variations, I feel that I have introduced the greatest of modern improvements in connection with the Game of Draughts. And in adding this improvement to the celebrated John Drummond's play, I think I may be pardoned for venturing to assert that I have produced the masterpiece of standard works on the Game.

The appended letter was received just after the issue of Part 1, from Mr. A. E. Hodgson, the able late Draughts Editor of the "Leeds Weekly Express":—

Dear Mr. Kear,

Leeds, March 2nd, 1892

It gives me great pleasure to be able to unreservedly commend your Reprint of "Drummond's Second." I can say that it is by far the neatest publication you have yet issued. It leaves very little to be desired in way of improvement, and he would be a captious critic indeed who found fault with it. The figures are exceedingly clear and distinct, and the small diagrams are simply charming. I have no hesitation in saying that the introduction of these small diagrams is one of the greatest improvements made in draughts literature during the present century. Hundreds of learners have taken up the ponderous tomes of Spayth, Janvier, Robertson, &c., with the intention of studying them, but have become disheartened by the bewildering mazes of figures they contained. Had the study of the game been simplified by the use of the diagram to each variation, the "Devotees of Dameh" would now have numbered thousands where they number hundreds. That something of the kind has long been needed is shown by the fact that various attempts have been made to overcome the difficulty. For instance, Mr. Wallis wrote to the "Mercury Supplement" some years ago, explaining his system of shorthand signs for indicating variations. That or some private system is used by many players at the present time.

You deserve the thanks of the draughts playing fraternity for conferring this boon upon them, and I trust you may be recouped for the heavy expenditure by a large sale. No man has struggled more persistently against pecuniary loss, against neglect and apathy, nor devoted his time and his money more unselfishly to the cause than you have done, and for this reason draughts players should support your efforts

Yours faithfully, A. E. HODGSON.

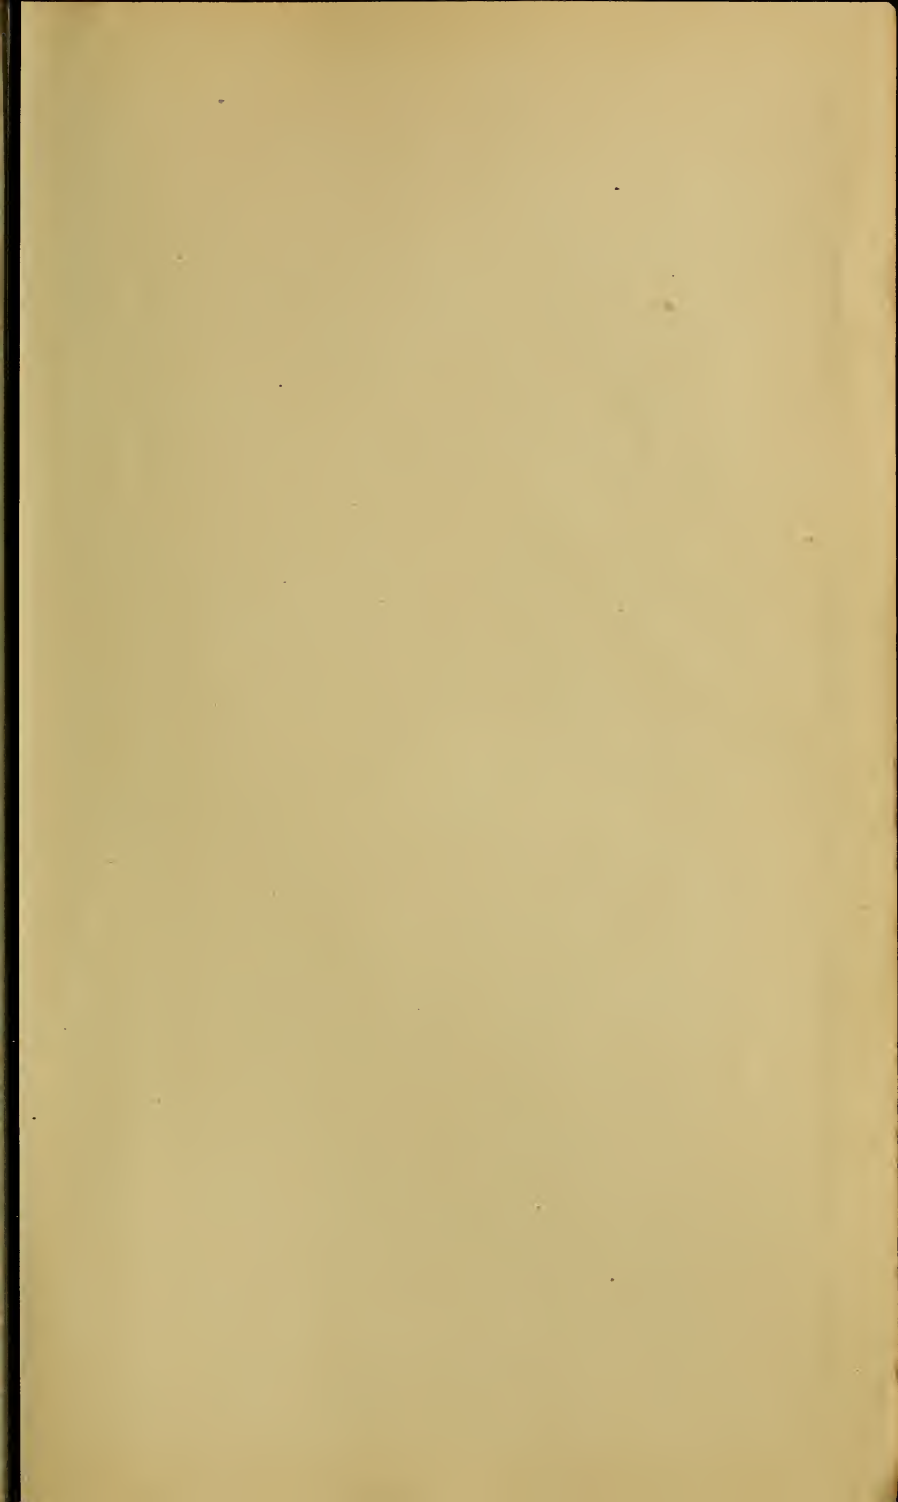

The space which now remains of the last page of this work, it is my duty to occupy in thanking my many friends who have assisted me and shown corrections during its publication, especially Messrs J. Lees, J. D. Janvier, J. Macfarlane and my son J. A. Kear, jr.

Bristol, June 24th, 1895.

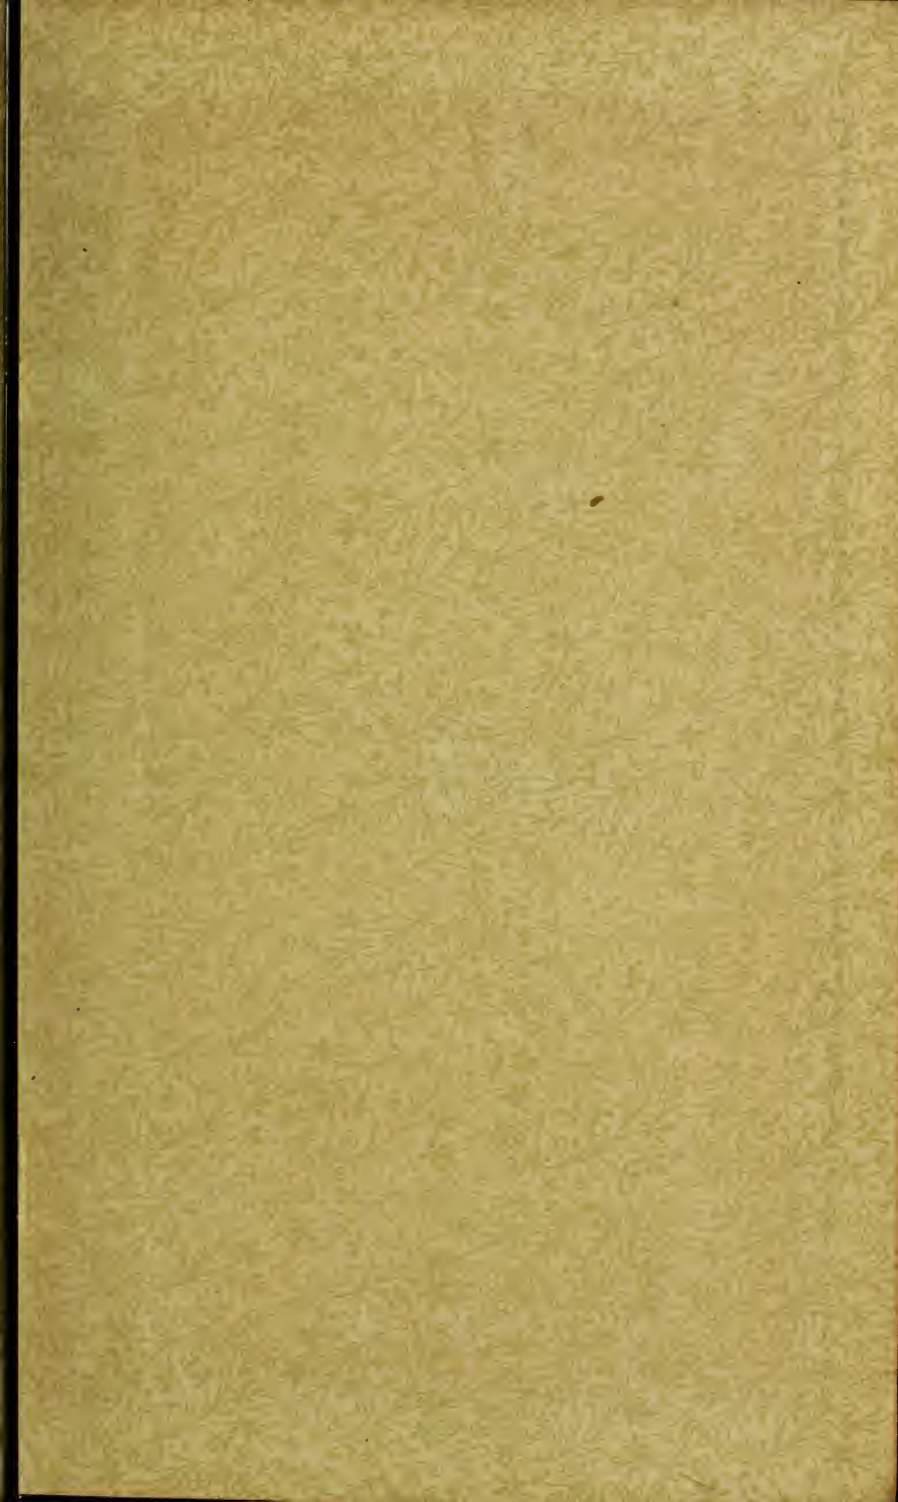

J. A. Kear.

N.B.—Our Reprint of Drummond's 3rd Edition will follow in monthly parts of 12 pages, each column will be illustrated with a diagram position.

The work of revision will be undertaken by Mr. J. A. Kear, jun., and our subscribers may rest assured that the work will be thoroughly and efficiently revised and brought up to date by him. He has the finest MS. works on the game, we have yet seen and will also have the whole of the late authors' (John Drummond's) MSS. at his disposal. And combining with these advantages, deep analytical powers and a fine practical knowledge of the game, we have no hesitation in affirming that the Reprint of Drummond's Third, will be a reliable Standard work on the Game of Draughts. Anyone having corrections or improvements on the 3rd Edition will confer a favour by sending to J. A. Kear, jun., 41, Goodhind Street, Stapleton Road, Bristol, and same will be duly acknowledged.
