secured, however. A very interesting program was given, including ad-resses by Rev. Tyrrell and City Commissioner Hamilton, music by Germond's band and a camp scene and drill by members of the company. Dr. J. H. McBride, who was to have spoken, was ill and unable to attend.

The camp scene included the pitching of tents and the routine of a day's life in camp compressed into a few moments. Songs were sung around the camp fire, taps were sounded and reville followed, with the other bugle calls. As the manual of arms was given by a squad in dress uniform the band played "The Star Spangled Banner." Arms were presented and a flag concealed near the ceiling was released, making a very pretty scene.

GRACEFULLY LANDS ON HIS NECK AT CIRCUS

Harold Shutt Figures in An Act That Is Not Down on the Y. M. C. A. Program.

For just one brief minute last evening Harold Shutt held the center of the floor at the Y. M. C. A. circus when he let go of the horizontal bar and with a graceful glide through the air landed on his neck eighteen feet away. It was not down as one of the stunts and those who saw the fall and the weight of his body double his neck forward, believed that he had broken that very useful member. As his weight relaxed his body stretched out at full length and his unconscious form was carried out while the audience held its breath.

There was but a moment's hesitation and the show went on as if nothing had happened. Shutt was revived and wanted to get back into the gymnasium sports but it was thought that he had done his share for the evening and he was allowed to remain a spectator. Although he suffered a severe wrench, he is none the worse for it today.
