CITY COUNCIL DISCUSSES PROJECTS

Sycamore Canyon People Favor Open Boulevard Drainage System

Members of the Sycamore Canyon Improvement Association went on record before the City Council this morning as favoring the open boulevard drainage plan adopted by the city of Glendale, in preference to the open runway as proposed by some engineers.

They submitted a copy of the letter they had written to the County Board of Supervisors and County Flood Control Commission to this effect.

They are particularly concerned, they stated, regarding that portion of the drainage scheme which is in the county north of the city limits.

Menace to Lives
They are of the opinion, so the letter states, that an open ditch five feet deep is too much of a menace to the lives of the children living in the vicinity, and for that reason will hurt property values.

Although a tentative plan for this work has been adopted by the county authorities, as is required by law, before the bond issue could be submitted to the voters on May 6, the law also provides that these plans may be changed. The final decision as to the kind of drainage to be afforded will be made later.

Flood Conditions
The city engineer made a lengthy report on flood conditions in the northern part of the city, especially on Campbell street. He suggested a plan for a 48-inch storm pipe on Dryden street and a 42-inch pipe on Campbell street, to be extended through Dryden street and the county territory to Central avenue and thence to the Verdugo wash.

Of the approximated cost of the entire project, which he estimated at $27,000, the city would have to bear $12,000.

The question of county co-operation was taken up and on motion of Councilman C. E. Kimlin, Councilman Sam Davis and V. B. Stone, city manager, were delegated to take the matter up with the county authorities and report.

Withdraws Protest
A communication from the Southern Pacific railway was read in which they stated that they had withdrawn their protest against the assessment levied against their property on Los Angeles street in connection with the proposed improvement of that thoroughfare. The city clerk was instructed to convey the thanks of the council to the railroad officials for their action.

The City Council of Glendale was asked by the League of California Municipalities to join in a state-wide move to present to the people at the election this fall an amendment to the California gasoline tax bill, which will provide that the cities have a share of the moneys derived from the state gasoline tax.

At the present time this money, which amounts approximately to $19,000,000 annually, is divided equally between the state and the county. The amendment proposes that one-half go to the state and that the other half be divided between the cities.

"The payroll brigade is the backbone of any city." JOHN H. BLAIR, Los Angeles realtor.

"The element of jealousy is emphasizing the foot and mouth disease in California in an effort to keep people away from this state." HARRY H. MERRICK, President of the Greater Los Angeles Association.

"I got here on time, but I hadn't been in Glendale for six months and I didn't know your city." J. W. STADELMAN, Santa Monica.

"I've been a newspaper man for forty-eight years and I know the world is full of 'guff' but this project is serious." WILL CHAPIN, artist and writer.

"We have the goose that lays the golden eggs, but those eggs won't hatch without the propaganda." ASSISTANT SECRETARY BOYKIN.

"The Industrial Finance Corporation will help to do away with blue-collar operations." REV. WALTER HORNTON, Fullerton.

Eighteen of the local Rotarians were presented with badges in honor of their 100 per cent attendance record during the past year. Arthur H. Dibern, chairman of the boys' parade committee, announced that the boys' parade had been postponed until May 16. VETERANS AWAIT SIGNING OF BILL

Presidential Veto Looms In Compensation Measure For Service Men

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The eyes of four million world war veterans were turned toward the White House anxiously awaiting President Coolidge's decision on the new soldiers' bonus bill.

For the second time Congress has gone on record in favor of the bonus and again a presidential veto looms as a possibility. During the closing hours of the bonus debate in the Senate, however, reports were circulated that the president was not prepared to veto the paid-up insurance plan, carried in the new bill, while he would reject a straight cash bonus without question. It was the cash bonus that President Harding vetoed in 1921 and it was with this bill in mind that President Coolidge told Congress at the beginning of his administration that he was not in favor of a bonus.

PROSPERITY INSURANCE PLANNED

Campaign Under Way to Bring More Industries Into Southland

By RALPH A. LYND
Of The Evening News Staff.

The need for the co-operation of every element in the commercial life of the Southland in the plans of the Greater Los Angeles Association, to "Keep the White Spot White" was stressed at the banquet held at the Oakmont Country club last night.

The backing of Glendale businessmen was urged as a part of the campaign to bring together the cities in the metropolitan area of Los Angeles in an effort to foster new industries and to help those that are already here to develop to greater size.

Guthrie Presides
Charles B. Guthrie, director for Glendale, presided, and emphasized the willingness of Glendale, as shown by the reception, that the plans of the association have already received here, to lend every ounce of its energy to making the project a success and to aid in bringing industries and their payrolls to the Southland.

Harry H. Merrick, the president of the association, declared that there is no other area in the world to compare with Southern California, and the people who are here have, for the most part, chosen of their own free will to live here and to seek their fortunes in this region. This trend on the part of so many thousands, he asserted, is watched with jealousy throughout the rest of the country, where the realization has already come that the future metropolises of the world is arising on the shores of the Pacific.

Must Give Employment
"In order to cope with this condition," Mr. Merrick declared, "Southern California must be prepared to care for the thousands who are flocking here and to give them gainful employment, and this can only be done by the proper development of our present and future industries. A survey of the business conditions of the world shows no such opportunities as exist here, with the teeming millions of the Orient as our logical market, but we must build on a solid foundation if our problems are to be worked out successfully."

"Glendale boasts that it is the fastest growing city in America, and that means in the world. But is Glendale growing as fast as she ought to grow, to keep pace with the rising tide of immigration to Southern California?"

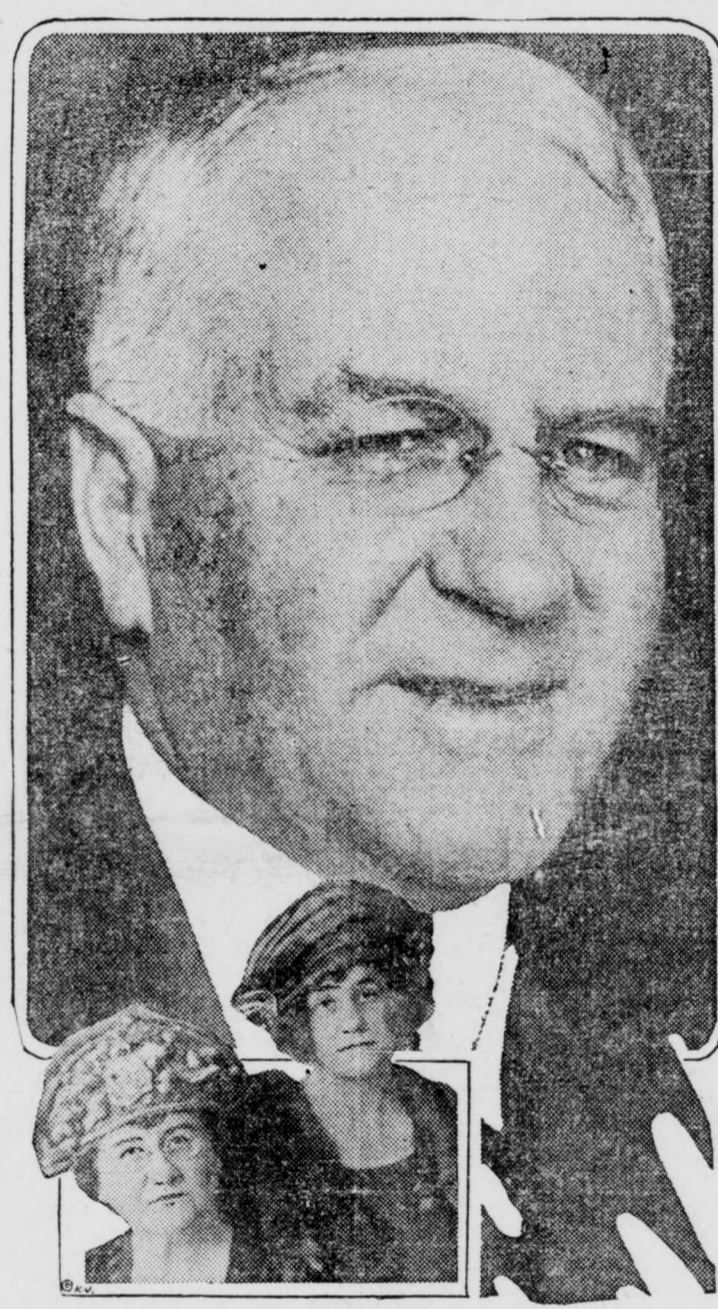

Mr. Merrick advocated the launching of any state or city or county work that would provide employment for those who are now seeking work, and he stated that Los Angeles officials have already agreed to aid in this fashion in any way possible.

Millions in Money
D. W. Posthill, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Electric, referring to the letting of the contract for the Glendale-Hollywood tunnel, declared that of the $3,500,000 to be spent on the job, 75 per cent would go in wages, thus furnishing employment to a large number of men over the eighteen months that it

Illness May Bar Senator

Here's a picture of SENATOR JAMES COUZENS, multi-millionaire, his wife and their daughter, Madeline. Senator Couzens may give up his intentions of seeking re-election because of illness, it is reported.

Illness may force James Couzens, multi-millionaire senator from Michigan, to give up his intention of running for re-election in November. He is a sufferer from an intestinal disorder which has caused him to have several serious attacks. When Henry Ford bought out his partners in the Ford company, Couzens received $60,000.00 for the $2,500 he invested in the original concern. He served as mayor of Detroit, and was named to the senate by Governor Groesbeck when Truman Newby was forced out.

FRANCE SEEKING JAP PACT, CLAIM

Governor-General's Visit to Tokio Is Forerunner Of Agreement

TOKIO, April 24.—Cognizance was taken today by the French embassy of persistent reports of the negotiation of a Franco-Japanese pact. It was stated at the embassy that the reports probably have arisen from a forthcoming visit to Japan of Governor-General Merlin of French-Indo-China. His visit, the embassy stated, was intended to stimulate trade and possibly lead to a commercial pact, but "the embassy does not know of any contemplated French alliance."

It was learned at the embassy that the Yokohama Specie bank has arranged whereby France will repay Japan on July 1 a loan of 25,000,000 yen ($12,500,000). It had originally been intended to postpone payment of the entire 50,000,000 due January 1. Japan's needs at the present time occasioned the arrangement.

HONOLULU, April 24.—Panic reigned among the Filipino and Japanese population of the Puna district, Hilo reported today, following heavy earthquakes which opened cracks ten feet deep in the wagon roads near Kapoho.

WANT MORE TIME FOR CAMPAIGN WORKERS

Hundreds of People Yet to Be Seen; Big Button Sale on May 3

With $3634 pledged toward the $50,000 advertising fund at today's luncheon of majors, captains and team workers, the total now stands at $28,657, it was reported by Chairman M. Walters of the Chamber of Commerce ways and means committee.

The luncheon was held at the Harriett Mae tea room, 201 East Harvard street.

Need More Time
Inasmuch as many thousands of dollars have been promised but not yet definitely pledged, and as hundreds of business men and property owners have not yet been approached, it was decided to continue the drive next week starting Tuesday morning, April 29, at 9 o'clock.

Owing to the fact that the drive is to be continued another week, the "Glendale 100,000 Club" button campaign has been postponed to a week from Saturday, which falls on May 3.

The proposition of continuing the drive another week was put to vote and carried unanimously. Mr. Walters announced that the ways and means committee will meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 5 o'clock this afternoon, to go over the drive to date with P. B. Ogden, drive manager.

Success Assured
That Glendale will be able to raise at least $50,000 for this advertising fund is absolutely certain, Mr. Walters stated. The final sum may be considerably in excess of this amount. Following is the total by divisions, as it stood this noon:

Yesterday Today	Total
No. 1.	$1397.00 $ 331 $1728.00
No. 2.	4015.50 1135 5150.50

SOCIAL EVENTS

Plan For Benefit

Some lovely decorative effects, refreshment appointments and prizes for bridge and Mah Jongg games are being planned by committees of the Glendale College Women's club, arranging the scholarship fund benefit for Wednesday afternoon, April 30 at the home of Mrs. E. B. Sutton at 727 East Windsor road.

In addition to being a benefit for a very worthy cause, the affair is to be one of social interest for it is attracting club members and a wide circle of friends in Glendale and neighboring cities.

Preliminary plans call for twenty tables of bridge and five of Mah Jongg with attractive prizes offered. Mrs. R. L. Holland, chairman of bridge and Mrs. D. F. Reighard, chairman of Mah Jongg and their assistants report a most gratifying demand for tickets. Many prominent bridge and Mah Jongg clubs of Glendale are reserving tables for the afternoon.

Mrs. W. E. Lusby, chairman of decoration, and Mrs. Paul E. Webb, chairman of refreshments, and their committees are co-operating and are busily engaged in working out some clever ideas. In order that a large sum may be realized the members of the club are being solicited to cakes or the equivalent in money and any one desiring to give either are asked to call Mrs. Webb at Glendale 2291-M.

The affair is open to all club members and friends, whether they play bridge and Mah Jongg or not and all are asked to have a share in establishing the scholarship fund, which is destined to grow through the years into adequate amount to accomplish much in the way of helping deserving young women to attend college.

OPPORTUNITY TO ATTEND CONTEST

Tickets Placed on Sale for First Time for School Oratorical Meet

The general public will have an opportunity tomorrow night for the first time in many years to hear the annual oratorical contest of the Glendale Union High school, which will be held in the Broadway high school auditorium, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Cooper, who is president of the Federal Commercial and Savings bank, motored to Lake Elsinore for the week end and brought his wife and daughter home.

Easter vacation days were enjoyed by Mrs. C. C. Cooper and daughter Emma Laura of 302 North Central avenue, at Lake Elsinore.

Each one of the four classes in school select from their number, by tryouts, the best speaker and each of these four contestants represent a class in the oratorical contest, according to Vice-Principal A. L. Ferguson of the G. U. H. S. The speakers this year are as follows: Arden Ginery, representing the senior class; Elsie Forsythe, the sophomore class; and Mary Elizabeth Campbell, the freshmen class. The winner of the contest is presented with a $20 gold piece and has the privilege of representing the school in the Southern California oratorical contest for high schools, which comes this year in May.

"The local event has become one of the traditions of the high school and, because of that, creates an interest on the part of the whole student body that no other event of the year can surpass," says Mr. Ferguson. "It is the one big event in which the classes have an opportunity to show their originality and spirit and they enter into it with enthusiasm and initiative which makes the event a big success."

"On account of the large number of students participating, it has been impossible for several years to find a place in which to hold this big event. Last year it was held in the morning at the Glendale Theatre. The year before, outdoors in the bleachers of the athletic field; the year previous, in the tabernacle which was then at the corner of Harvard and Orange; and at times prior to that, in the Harvard High school auditorium."

General admission tickets for the oratorical contest are on sale at both the Harvard and the Broadway high schools and the price is 50 cents. Anyone interested in high school activities will have an opportunity to see this event this year, which has elicited the commendation of every judge who has been asked to give his service in judging the contest.

DRASTIC ACTION NEEDED TO HALT STOCK EPIDEMIC

Foot and Mouth Quarantine To Bring Prosecution Of Offenders

With the announcement from the state department of agriculture that, unless drastic steps are taken, California is faced with a repetition of the $90,000,000 scourge which spread over the middle west in 1914, and from the Los Angeles county authorities that, unless government relief is received, the county will be bankrupt in ten days, and payments will have to be made by warrant, the quarantine regulations for the prevention of the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease are being tightened with a more vigorous prosecution of offenders resulting.

According to data received at the city health department, local bureau in charge of the campaign, the county has expended $400,000 during the past two weeks in fighting the disease. The results obtained, while encouraging, have not been as good as they might have been had private citizens cooperated more fully in the fight.

48,796 Cattle Killed
Statistics show that, up to and including April 17, a total of 48,796 animals had been killed in an effort to stamp out the epidemic. Of this number 25,447 were cattle, 10,204 hogs, 12,635 sheep and 310 goats. They represent an appraised valuation of $2,034,437.91, truly a staggering amount. This report included forty-four herds in Los Angeles county, valued at $617,000. $300 "The greatest menace," states F. H. Sweet, city sanitary inspector, "is the unwillingness of the people to abide by the regulations adopted for their benefit. We have had instructions to arrest violators. There is a $300 penalty provided for anyone who moves live stock without a permit. This applies to dogs in cars. It makes no difference whether the car with the animal leaves the

Her acting is destined to lead her to phenomenal success, say those who know, as she has demonstrated her ability in a variety of difficult roles and has interpreted each of them with real dramatic talent.

YOUNG PIANISTS TO CONTEST FOR MUSICAL HONORS

Juvenile Auxiliary Members To Play Compositions For $5 Premium

Aspiring young pianists who are members of the Juvenile Auxiliary of the Glendale Music club, are going to contest Friday night at the Harvard High school for honors in a unique program.

The affair is to begin at 7:30 o'clock and all Glendaleans interested are invited to attend. There will be no charge.

A most interesting scheme has been worked out for the contest by Mrs. Grace Jackson, chairman of the Auxiliary, assisted by Mrs. Pearl Curran.

Five Compositions
There will be five musical compositions played by the children, "Cinderella" (Anna Priscilla Risher), "Sunshine" (Pendleton), "Fur Elise" (Beethoven), "Sonatina, Op. 55, No. 6" (Luhlau) and "To Spring" (Grieg).

The children will be entered according to the selection they are to play. For each selection the children will be numbered, the numbers being limited according to the number of children contesting and each child drawing a number, giving him his place in playing that particular selection.

A five dollar gold piece will be the prize for the winner in the playing of each selection.

A child can only play one of the five selections.

Thirty in Contest
Mrs. Curran states that at the present time thirty children have entered. Any other members of the auxiliary desiring to participate are asked to communicate with Mrs. Jackson or Mrs. Curran.

Miss Risher, composer of "Cinderella," and Miss Adelaide Trowbridge, of the College of Music of the University of Southern California, will be two of the judges. The third judge has not yet been selected.

AVOID TRAVEL, IS WARNING ISSUED IN PLAGUE FIGHT

Co-operation of Motorists Sought by Authorities Battling Epidemic

"Do no unnecessary traveling on foot or in auto until the hoof and mouth disease has been stamped out of California," is the admonition to all loyal citizens from the authorities in charge of the big job of eliminating this costly epidemic.

An appeal has been made by the government authorities to the Automobile Club of Southern California to urge all motorists to cooperate in the campaign against the disease. Experts assert that 90 per cent of the infection is spread by human beings and automobiles. Hence, a responsibility rests on every one of the 600,000 automobile owners in Southern California to keep their machines at home unless business compels their use.

Highways Closed
All of the mountain roads have been closed to travel, and at all county lines disinfecting stations have been established so that every day travel by motor is becoming more inconvenient. In some instances five to ten hours are required to cross county lines.

Authorities of Ventura and Inyo counties, particularly, are warning motorists to keep out. The state line on the Arizona border is closed to motorists from California.

The best and only way to end this situation, according to the authorities, is for every person to cooperate in the widespread campaign to eliminate this disastrous epidemic.

POEM ABOUT GIRL IS SENT TO NEWS

Only Name Given in Letter from Author Is Helen; Aunt in Detroit

Some little girl in Glendale by the name of Helen has an aunt in Detroit, Michigan, who loves her very much, and who has written a poem to her and sent it to The Glendale Evening News for publication. The poem is herewith printed that Helen and her friends may read it:

"Her hair was like the golden sun
That called the song birds to their
That shone on all the things around
And held each one of them spell-bound.

"No sparkling dew could now come
And make a challenge that would dare,
To match the eyes that were so true
Whose color seemed just deep sky blue.

"Her smile a story always told
That not one deed could ever be bold,
But always willing as you see
To do the things that right would be.

"Her lips no words would ever say
That would not be a sunshine ray,
And wish that each might all their days
Find happiness to last always.

"A child she is, but she will grow
And reap the seeds which others sow,
And make her life be just one round
Of love that keeps so good and sound."

The aunt's name is Mrs. Florence Cobel, and her home is 4706 McKinley avenue, Detroit, Michigan. Do you know who Helen is?

ABSURD TO TALK OF HOSTILITIES, SAYS TRAVELER

Mayor Mason, Back from Japan, Finds Residents Do Not Want War

Devastation utterly beyond human conception is the picture of Yokohama and Tokyo painted by Mayor Mason of 1516 South Brand boulevard, who has just returned from a five months' world tour aboard the American Express steamer Franconia. Mr. Mason left Glendale November 15 and returned April 18. He was accompanied by Rev. Manly P. Hall of the Church of the People, Los Angeles.

Approximately 300,000 Japanese were wiped out in fifteen minutes, so appalling was the mortality of the earthquakes that shook Nippon last fall, Mr. Mason reports. Talk of hostilities between that nation and the United States is absurd, he declares. Not only are relations among the "higher ups" of both countries cordial but Japan is far too crippled by her disaster to even contemplate war for a generation.

Asked what spot in the whole world he would choose for a home, were he entirely foot-free (the United States, as "present company," of course excepted), he replied:

Selects Ceylon
"Ceylon, rightfully called 'the gem of the waters,' an island of rare beauty and ideal climate."

Hawaii would be his second choice, Mr. Mason intimated. China is to be watched, he states. It is developing fast and will be a power of the future in far-eastern matters. Shanghai is a modern city, with shops as fine as any on Fifth avenue, New York.

India is approaching a struggle for self-government, he believes. On Tuesday, February 5, he addressed a gathering of 15,000 natives at Mirzapore park, Calcutta, who were wild with enthusiasm over the release of the political prisoner, Mahatma Gandhi.

Investigate Religion
The cruise was for Mr. Mason of pleasure mingled with a desire to investigate ancient religions, philosophies and customs. For Rev. Hall it was undertaken with the view of furnishing material for a series of lectures and possibly a book.

Mr. Mason brought back with him 5000 postal cards, showing

THE USE OF WHITE MAGIC

Suggestion will often succeed where reason and argument fail. Suggestion is called "white magic" in The San Francisco Journal in an editorial discussion. Here is what The Journal says:

Suggestion is the radio of human nature. In its active form suggestion is the broadcasting station of ideas that are intended to penetrate reason and logic and to register desire. In its passive form suggestion is the receiving set that translates ideas into action. For suggestion is getting the mind to accept an idea without proof or demonstration. Salesmanship and modern advertising are based chiefly on suggestion.

In reading your daily paper you come upon the statement that "XYZ baking powder is absolutely pure." That is the use of suggestion. Let the XYZ company try to prove its contention by submitting an analysis of ingredients used and its case is at once weakened, for it has set up a train of counter-suggestions.

To which The Glendale Evening News agrees. Writers of clever and pulling advertising have learned the power of suggestion. Doctors, too, practice it. Truly, suggestion is "white magic." Continuing, The Journal says:

Aristotle called man a reasoning animal; but the fact is man is more a creature of suggestion than he is of logic. Modern psychology has established the preponderance of emotion over reason in the human economy. Pascal said: "We are more easily persuaded by the reasons we ourselves discover than by those that have been presented to us by others." Effective advertising today aims to convince you that your own reasons and desires are met in the particular product that is being exploited.

Suggestion rather than argument is the secret of dealing with people in all manner of walks of life. It is the tremendous force that wise men employ in their dealings with other men, even with other wise men.

Suggestion rules in the common incidents of the day. You may know that you are eating too much meat; but when your favorite waiter says, "How about a nice steak today?" you succumb to the temptation to enjoy the steak. You have been "sold" by suggestion.

Department stores instruct their salespeople to say, "Will you take it with you or have it sent?" The chances are even that you will respond to the first suggestion. This cuts down delivery costs.

Good advertising is the endless repetition of suggestions. In time the subconscious mind is impregnated and action follows. This is the white magic of modern advertising.

All of which, The Glendale Evening News submits, is true. You may arise in the morning feeling fine. Going to work you meet a friend and he tells you that you "look bad." You think you must be ill. You begin to complain. Gone is that "feeling fine" feeling! White magic—suggestion!

Or, you meet a friend. He says, "business is bad." You answer it is. Both you and your friend are, probably, enjoying the best of prosperity, with a bright outlook. You meet another friend. You tell him "business is bad." White magic—suggestion!

Yes, suggestion rules; it is a powerful force. Let all of us see to it that it is properly directed.

IMPULSIVENESS BRINGS REGRETS

In some respects the world admires the impulsive man. The fellow who acts on the spur of the moment—the quick thinker who never hesitates to speak his mind without an instant's delay—finds favor in our eyes. Even though we would hesitate to trust—always—to his judgment, we admire him because we Americans like action. The dare-devil spirit has the ring of the adventurer. There is something of the gambler in his methods, and the gambling spirit dwells in most of us, even though we never turn a card or buy a ticket on a horse race.

But it is the impulsive man—and the impulsive woman—who suffers most. They act first and think afterward. Their very impulsiveness leads them into trouble. They make enemies because—many times—they say what they would not have said had they thought twice before speaking. The divorce courts are filled with impulsive persons. Our jails hold many of them. The prisons crowd them by the thousands.

Yes, we admire the impulsive ones, at times, but we do not always trust them. And their path is lined with more thorns and cobblestones than the path of the sober, cautious ones, who weigh their words and their acts before speaking or getting into action. The two types, apparently, are evenly divided. And perhaps it is better so.

SOON THEY WILL SHAKE

The Hollywood district, with upwards of 80,000 population, and Glendale with more than 50,000, are reaching their arms toward each other. Soon they will shake hands. Practically the only thing that separates them now is the Los Angeles river, and during the greater part of the year we can jump that in one "yump." We are at the threshold of Los Angeles, with more than a million population, to say nothing of our closer neighbors, Eagle Rock and Burbank. We like them all. We are neither envious of older and more populous members of the Southern California family, nor haughty and overbearing toward the smaller members. But of our growth, our community spirit, and especially of what the future promises, we are justly proud. And we would remain so.

Nowadays modern newspapers carry to their readers everything from personals to beauty hints; from sporting news to a course in proper food selection and preparation; from the doings of congress to the latest wrinkle in psychology; from police court news to comic strips; and from real estate transactions to poetry. In short, from soup to nuts—the poets, some would say, being the last thing on the menu—the "nuts." The appetite of the mind is as varied as the desires of the palate. It takes a wide variety to satisfy the many. In some ways the modern newspaper is like a cafeteria counter. A tempting array of "food" is displayed and the reader takes his choice.

There is a vast difference between a deserved compliment and a bunch of hot air. Everyone, almost, appreciates the former. Some fall for the latter. But beware of the fellow who declares he wants neither. The man, or the woman, or the child who doesn't enjoy a sincere compliment for something well done, is a rare individual. Almost as rare as the dodo, or white blackbird.

When two automobiles come together at too fast a pace, there isn't enough left to give the garage man a job. In this the undertaker holds an advantage.

While a man is sawing wood or making the lawn, perspiration keeps him company. Inspiration is not always as kind when he is writing an editorial or a short story.

Arizona not only demands we enter her borders with clean hands, but with clean feet and clean auto tires, as well.

The Policeman and the Boy

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Some time or other we are going to get it into the national noggin that everybody's first business is teaching. Whatever else he does is on the side. No man's life counts for much in Nature's ledger except as he helps Youth.

The day will come when the grocer, the factory owner, the banker and everybody else must find his place in our educational system.

The real schoolhouse is not bounded by four walls. It is bounded by the Atlantic and the Pacific.

And now the idea is sprouting that the policeman, instead of being the scarerow and suppressor of boys, should be the friend and helper of boys.

A regular Irish policeman, by the name of Ryan, in Chicago, has been touched and electrified by a ray of wisdom straight from the mind of Destiny.

With true Irish vigor he is declaring that his thirty-five years of service in the department have brought him to the conviction that the best way to fight crime is to prevent the growth of it among boys.

In fact he has decided that it is much more effective to cure crime at its beginning, with a suggestion, than to try to cure it at its end, with a club.

The best product of medical science is the work that it has done in the prevention of disease. Our slowly awakening minds are beginning to glimpse the idea that the national output of law and order could be greatly increased if courts and policemen would see that their prime duty is to prevent and not to punish crime.

During a period of twelve months some 4600 boys, between the ages of 17 and 21, were arrested by the Chicago police for disorderly conduct. Think of this army of potential citizens learning the early and vicious lesson that the policemen are their enemies!

Of all the people in the world boys are the least likely to learn anything by being clubbed and are the most responsive to kindly treatment.

The bulk of the crime of any country is committed by children. The police statistics of Chicago show that 85 per cent of the crime of that city is committed by youths under 21 years of age. What a step forward it would be if all children could learn to look upon every blue-coated officer as their friend; could be disposed toward him instead of to run from him.

Another phase of this question is that, as Sergeant Thomas Ryan says, "75 per cent of youths who are brought to court are the sons of immigrants."

The very best person in the world to reveal true Americanism to these immigrant children is the policeman. No one, so well as he, can show them that, in America, law is the servant and friend of the people and not the people's oppressor and enemy.

The rotten idea that afflicts all our administration of justice is the same sort of idea that corrupts our international relations. It is that the natural state of man is a state of war. So we have the army of lawbreakers pitted against the army of law-enforcers.

There should not be any army, at all. Lawbreakers should be recognized as defectives and treated as such, not as equals and fought as such. Crime is really a disease and should be treated in proper hospitals by intelligent and scientific methods.

And the policeman, being that officer of the law who is closest in touch with the people, will vastly increase his efficiency when he conceives of himself not as a "terror to wrongdoers," but as one whose chief business it is to save youth from falling into the clutches of a terrible disease—the disease known as Crime.

PROHIBITION SUSTAINED (From Long Beach Press)

The moral and economic value of prohibition is being demonstrated in many ways. From Massachusetts it is reported that five of the twenty-one counties of the state have closed their jails since the Volstead law was enacted. In one large county a saving of $100,000 in the cost of meals for prisoners has been effected, compared with former expenditures.

Labor's earnings are more dependable, and the general tone of living conditions has been improved. Every line of legitimate business has been benefited. The tone of community life has been elevated.

Prohibition enforcement is increasingly thorough in all parts of the country. In certain large centers, such as New York, there is more or less open violation; but even there conditions are improving. The bootleggers of the sea are doing a profitable business in localities favorable for these operations. This trade, however, has its disadvantages. The poisonous character of much of the liquor that is now sold under cover discourages law violations of this sort. Men who would otherwise wink at the Eighteenth amendment are hesitating to risk their lives merely to be "smart." The price is another factor that is adding the campaign for a dry America.

Public sentiment is undoubtedly on the side of prohibition and law enforcement. Granting that drinking and drunkenness have not been wholly eradicated, that many years may pass before the last illicit still is destroyed and smuggling ceases, there will be a larger force of general opinion back of the movement as time progresses. To that degree will the business of breaking the law and the Constitution fall more and more deeply into disrepute.

SOMETHING NEW (From San Francisco Journal)

Sage old Solomon of ancient Israel is credited with the assertion that there was no new thing under the sun, but if the preacher had had the good fortune to live in our time he probably would have said nothing of the sort. At least he would have issued a revised version of his original saying.

This compulsory amendment would have been inspired by a social function in New York City recently. Forty men who had served terms of imprisonment after conviction for crime dined with six judges from the local courts, with wealthy publishers of newspapers and with other members of free society. The police were conspicuous through their absence and good following prevailed among the diners.

The unique function owed its inception to the Stillman movement, which organized to check lawlessness and has almost three hundred ex-convicts among its members. One of these former criminals testified to the success of this work when he declared that "none has gone back on the movement. If you can get three hundred men like that from New York's so-called underworld, why can't you in time get three thousand?"

The remarkable feature of the Stillman movement is not only that it works but that it is welcomed by the underworld. Alpheus Greer, who started the movement three years ago, remarking upon the type of lad never touched by any ethical or spiritual influence, maintains that this Ishmaelite "is a man of heart and has virtues which, if used constructively, will make him a worthwhile citizen. We try to give the square deal and an open road to an honest life. Our watchword is kindness with sense. We are men serving men."

The significance of this work is the encouragement that it gives to workers for the salvage of human wreckage are less in what unfallen members of society said in approval than in what the former criminals themselves said: "Hotel Bill," "Jerry, the Wop," "Second-Story Sam" and "The Millionaire Kid" bore sincere testimony to the helpfulness of the movement's spirit of brotherhood and its treatment of them as men.

The ideas and the methods of this movement are the only ones that will ever solve the problem of the criminal rightly and permanently. They consist in the practice of brotherhood. When mature men sympathize with wayward boys and try to understand them, when good men like Judge Crosey and Publishers Ochs and Reid fellowship with reformed outcasts, then, but not till then, will society cope effectively with the problems of the ex-convict.

Neon, a rare gas discovered by Sir William Ramsay, was practically useless to civilization for more than twenty years, until recently when a method of employing it as a spark detector or testing instrument for use by automobiles, was found.

Little Studies of Human Nature

HOPING FOR BETTER THINGS

Human Nature is cheerfully and eternally an optimist. No matter how dark the clouds above him he hopes for brighter skies and better times. Faith and Hope are two feelings usually associated in a religious sense. Faith is written indelibly into the creed of the Christian religion but hope of better things is universal among people of all religions and all nations. Our hopes cover every phase of life and death. We hope for a pleasant day tomorrow. We hope for eternal life.

There is no truer saying than that often heard, "While there is life there is hope." Every human being, no matter how desperate his circumstances, no matter how little ground he has for a belief that better things and better times are coming to him, has some hope. It may be an indefinable, intangible hope but the spark is there. When there is no hope left; when he no longer desires and believes that better things are coming to him, he suicides. The man who is in the very act of taking his own life is the only man without hope and many a suicide, even, regrets his act when it is too late.

The spirit of optimism that characterizes old Human Nature is sometimes the only thing that makes life worth living. Every human soul some day or other goes to his Gethsemane utterly discouraged and despairing. It sometimes there is no possible way in which our fortunes can turn for the better. We are everlastingly doomed to dejection and despair. But not so. Down in the heart there is that desire with belief that we call hope. The spark may be burning small and feebly; it may not be a hope for anything definite, for any special result, but it is a hope and it is the only thing that gives us courage and strength. Down in the heart there is that desire with belief that we call hope. The spark may be burning small and feebly; it may not be a hope for anything definite, for any special result, but it is a hope and it is the only thing that gives us courage and strength. Down in the heart there is that desire with belief that we call hope. The spark may be burning small and feebly; it may not be a hope for anything definite, for any special result, but it is a hope and it is the only thing that gives us courage and strength.

Hope is one of the traits that endears Human Nature to us. There is no good, even, in yielding to our evil fancies helps not one whit. Fanning into flame that little spark of hope in our own hearts and in the hearts of others is a very worth-while effort in the work of making this world livable. The eternal optimist is the greatest philanthropist after all.

A Thought That Came Today

By HARVEY E. WESTGATE of Glendale

TONES

O, wondrous tones that greet my ear,
Kind Nature's tones that rise and fall,
Inspiring tones throughout the year
That to my inner being call.
The lullabies music she doth play
On her own harp of tuneful strings,
At eventide or dawn of day,
How full the tones of rolling sea,
How clear the note when breakers roar,
How comforting they are to me
As I sit dreaming by her shore.

A waterfall, with voice so rare,
Its tinkling, rhythmic tones of gold,
Which lure, enchant and keep me there,
In chains I trust will ever hold.
Or bird-life song—pure song of joy,
Robin or lark, or meadow lark,
A silvery lilt without alloy
That lulls the dullest, saddest day,
And e'en the whistling willow tree,
Wafting a mournful, lowly tune,
Sadness, but somehow comforts me,
As zephyrs in its branches croon.

A master plays his violin
And love and inspiration sing,
For golden notes come floating in
That put all baser thoughts to wing;
Notes which leap from magic bow
And tell of hidden depths untold,
Causing the soul to drink and glow,
Or wrapping me in Nature's fold.
But tones which fall from harp or tree,
Though sweet and low they come,
Are not the sweetest tones to me
When all is said and done.

O, there are tones sublime, supreme,
Tones which joy and comfort bring,
And nothing less fulfills my dream
Though sweet may be the song they sing.
I speak of tones of Life a part,
Tones which breathe and fairly live,
Music of the human heart
Which pours out all it has to give,
And I will hold, throughout my day,
This thought and message that I send,
Nor care what critics have to say—
I'll dream and say it to the end:

L'envoi:
The sweetest tones I've ever heard,
Tones which fairly thrilled me through,
Have come from Love's sweet kindly word.
As they were said to me by you.

REJECT FRANCE'S WAR DEBT PLANS

America Ignores Plea That French Obligations Be Loaded on Germany

By KENNETH CLARK

For International News Service. WASHINGTON, April 24.—Administration officials and congressional leaders yesterday threw cold water over semi-official suggestions from France that Germany be compelled to pay the $4,000,000,000 French war debt to the United States in connection with the reparations settlement.

Such a proposal was regarded as inimical to speedy and amicable settlement of the inter-allied debt problems, and as imposing upon Germany a financial burden that might result in the absolute collapse of the Reich.

Voicing the opinion of the American debt funding commission, of which he is a member, Senator Reed Smoot, Utah, dissuaded the suggestion and added that the United States "would not countenance any move to link reparations and debt settlements."

"The commission cannot force allied nations to pay their debts to us, but we will request that each nation deal with us separately by regarding debt settlements," Smoot said. He declared he knew of no intention of President Coolidge to put off discussion of inter-allied debts until after the election this year, as indicated by the semi-official French newspaper Temps.

"The United States would not, in my opinion, make the condition of a settlement of France's debt to this country the payment by Germany of its obligations to France," said Senator King, Democrat of Utah. "There is no desire to throw the whole question of Europe's obligations to European nations or to the United States into one cauldron, with a view of having various streams of settlement pour forth therefrom," added King.

Will Contrast College Girl And Primitive Maiden In His Writings

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Professor Bernard Mercer, formerly of Columbia university who left San Francisco six months ago to make a tour of the South Sea Islands in order to study the marriage customs and the sentimental psychology of the primitive peoples, will return to Berkeley about May 15, where he will observe the modern college flapper and write a treatise contrasting her with her savage sister. Professor Mercer, just before sailing, made the startling statement that before 50 years had passed the institution of marriage would have become obsolete and

During the afternoon a short informal program will be presented followed by the regular business meeting of the W. R. C. At this time they will elect a treasurer. A large attendance is anticipated.

The professor, who is a cynic and a bachelor, declared that the cream of womanhood is in California and that girls of 18 and 20 are mentally superior to women of 50. It is to study these types that he will visit Berkeley and Stanford.

In a collision between two cars, one driven by Homer L. King of 339 West Colorado street and the other by John A. Pope, 111 South Brand boulevard, at Los Feliz road and Central avenue yesterday, Mrs. Pope was slightly cut about the face.

Pope was going south on Central, and King east on Los Feliz when the crash occurred. The damage to the cars was not extensive.

Ojai Tennis Meet Is Called Off for Year

College and university tennis teams will not compete at Ojai for the annual tournament as the big tennis event of the year was called off because of the hoof and mouth disease. Several Tiger racketers were planning to make the trip and compete for Oxy. Harold Dickenson, Don Palmer, Elms Finnell, Charles Boice, Archie Strayer, and Larry Raymond were all to represent the Eagle Rock institution. The varsity and freshman seasons are over and both teams were very successful. The varsity won three conference matches and lost two. The yearlings won four out of five tournaments, losing only to the Grizzly freshmen.

The first three men on the Tiger varsity will graduate. Palmer, Finnell and Boice have all played three years together. Raymond will be back, but Harold Dickenson will advance to first man with Raymond probably second. Strayer and Neely, both freshmen, are the best bets for third and fourth man.

EAGLE ROCK

OVER 1000 BOOKS FOR NEW LIBRARY

Drive Staged by Pupils of School for Volumes Was Successful

Over 1000 books were added to the Eagle Rock school library by the March book drive, reports Principal C. W. Preston, who announces that the class of Mrs. Elsie Koen won first place among the upper grades, while that of Miss Lucile Cartwright won first prize among the lower grades. The pupils in Mrs. Koen's class (the B-7) are especially grateful to Mrs. Jesse H. Taylor, who donated over 300 books of great value to school students. Mrs. Taylor's father, W. J. Burton, distinguished educator and author, has published many books for use in school work and the donations made by Mrs. Taylor included many of these. Teachers and students are busily occupied in posting and tabulating the books for easy reference.

Frolic Tomorrow

“Idylls of Spring,” a spring frolic in two acts, written and directed by Mrs. Anne Harrison, past president of the Eagle Rock Parent-Teacher Association, will be presented tomorrow and Saturday nights, April 25 and 26, starting at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Eagle Rock school. Mrs. C. D. Wentworth is supervising the designing and making of the costumes, which will be elegant creations of satin crepe paper which has been ordered especially from the east. Mrs. Cowan is musical director and will present music that is in keeping with the general excellency of the production. Tickets may be secured at several of the business houses in Eagle Rock where proprietors are sponsoring the production.

C. of C. Drives Hard

The annual Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce membership campaign is “hitting on all six,” according to Secretary Donnell G. Montgomery of the organization. The ten teams hold frequent meetings and it is learned that while the drive is prospering, many local residents are not fully aware of the advantages of a strong Chamber of Commerce. On Tuesday night, April 22, the captains met for dinner at the Congregational church. Each noon they meet at the Methodist church annex for luncheon. A fine loving cup is to be given to the team that brings in the most memberships. Captains of men's teams are: W. L. Mann, C. L. Suits, S. H. Smith, John T. Bailey, Dr. M. Mill, C. W. Young, Jesse Taylor, R. L. Woodhouse and Emil Swanson. The membership committee comprises: G. A. Hege, A. S. Wilson, Dr. Mill, W. L. Mann and H.

BUILD CROSSING OVER S. P. TRACKS

Concrete Pavement Laid at Olive Avenue Smooths Road for Riders

The Olive avenue crossing of the Southern Pacific railroad has been rebuilt, a high-grade concrete pavement being laid. Motorists will now be able to negotiate this crossing without the impression of riding up and down a corrugated washboard. It is understood that a similar crossing will be put in on Magnolia avenue, where a large amount of material has been unloaded. The intention of the railroad officials is to co-operate wherever possible in making Burbank a better city.

The resignation of F. Curt Miller from the post of local city engineer will stand, regardless of the petition of hundreds of names, asking his reinstatement. Learning that it was the intention of certain residents to draw Mr. Miller into the controversy, he declared flatly that he would not consider serving again. A successor has not yet been named.

Bible in Schools

“What foundation have the young people upon which to continue building a fine and permanent structure of civilization? The Bible. This is the answer of the High School Parent-Teacher association, as presented at the last meeting of that body by Mrs. E. W. Morgan in a paper, “Should We Have the Bible in the Schools?”

The paper brought out the point that for the development of worthy future citizens, the Bible was desirable in the schools and added that the nation was founded on the precepts of the Bible; that the rough hands of the men who first tilled the soil of the nation often rested upon the open pages of the Bible. She brought out the point that in these times, crime walks unashamed, ideals are shattered, hopes lie in the dust, self-seeking is not characterized by principle, but gained at any hazard; that false standards come from false living as the reaction from the war, that there is an hysterical rush after pleasure with the gentlemanly manners and old-fashioned respect east a side—with these conditions existing. Mrs. Morgan asked: “What foundation have the young people upon which to continue building a fine and permanent structure of civilization?” and so urged the desirability of the Bible in the schools, that a degree of spirituality would be created. At the next meeting of the association, there will be an election H. Maxon. There is also a woman's team under the leadership of Mrs. Edward W. Thompson.

Community Sing Tonight to Present Fine Program of Entertainment

Tonight the Rosecenta chorus will make its initial bow in public, this being the first community singing since the chorus was christened last Thursday night, when the name Rosecenta was chosen as representative of both Montrose and La Crescenta. The prize-winning name was sent in by Gordon MacDonald of Highway Highlands. The manager, Mrs. A. F. Hopkins, promises an exceptionally fine program tonight when two local women of great talent will sing for the entertainment of the chorus. Director Prosper will begin re-

Mrs. Hopkins is planning for pennants and car stickers, to be used by those going over.

LA CRESCENTA ELLEN BEACH YAW CHARMS AUDIENCE

Famous Diva Pleases Crowd At Concert Planned by Crescenta Women

By MARY B. DARROW
Of The Evening News Staff.
The great evening planned and worked for, for some past few weeks, has come and gone and Madame Ellen Beach Yaw, the incomparable, California's own sweet Lark, charmed and delighted the great audience, which greeted her enthusiastically last night. Coming to La Crescenta under the auspices of the Woman's club, Madame Yaw gave her concert for the benefit of the club building fund in the school auditorium.

Flowers, in baskets, flowers in vases, ferns and potted plants made a fairy-like bower of the school stage and when "Lark Ellen" stepped onto the stage, so like a dainty pink and white rose, the picture was finished. The program was most complete, covering as it did the different types of music Madame Yaw is so versatile in. Her accompanist, Miss Georgiella Lay, opened the concert with "Rhapsodie," by Dohnanyi, a spirited march from the Hungarian school. As an encore Miss Lay played "Cradle Song," by Karganouf. Madame Yaw sang a group of songs, beginning with "The Lass with the Delicate Air" (Old English), by Arne. In Italian was sung the beautiful "Il Primo Amore," by Widor. In place of De Bussy's "The Bells," Madame Yaw announced she would sing the "Russian Nightingale," and to those of us who know the nightingale's song, we know the artist's runs and trills were true to the bird-like quality of the feathered songster. Holmes' "Sous les Arangers," carried one away with the lilt of the air as sung by Madame. "Serenade," a Brahms number, was given a dramatic interpretation.

Basket of Flowers

Madame Yaw at this time was presented a basket of flowers from the Woman's club by little Miss Virginia Haskins and Miss Elizabeth Talbot-Martin, who were the flower girls of the evening. This basket of posies was a true token of regard for the singer as all the beautiful flowers it contained were grown in La Crescenta. In appreciation for the floral offering Madame Yaw gave the difficult but beautiful "Laughing Song," from the French, singing in that language.

A stranger to most of his audience Jay Plowe, flutist, made his bow in La Crescenta for the first time. His number was "Hungarian Fantasia," by Popper. Embracing the three artists, "The Nightingale" (Mariage de Jeanette), Victor Masse, was bewitching and very difficult. It was at times to tell when the flute was silent and when Madame was singing, so truly did she follow the notes of the obligato. By request Madame Yaw gave her own composition, "The Skylark" for her encore. "Lark Ellen" truly demonstrated her right to this beautiful name when heard in the "Skylark," as it does not seem possible that such golden notes can be produced by a human being. Madame Yaw prefaced the singing of this song by a story, telling how the skylark builds its nest on the ground—but soars aloft so high as to be invisible while its song is still heard—and Yaw left the stage still singing the last few bars of the song in the wings.

Instrumental Group

The next group was entirely instrumental, being the "Venezia e Napoli" tarantella and canzonnetta, by Litz. Miss Lay gave the little story of this group, explaining the Carnival of Venice was the inspiration which caused Litz to compose the tarantella and the dreamy, sleepy boat cries of the Neapolitan theme of the canzonette. Miss Lay, as her encore, gave the beautiful "Song" from the Sea Songs of MacDowell. Miss Lay was the recipient of a beautiful basket of roses at this time.

Sings "Gethsemane"

In opening her next group of songs, Madame Yaw sang "Gethsemane," by Sol Cohen, the well-known Los Angeles violinist, full of haunting pathos as only a song of this kind could be, but beautiful. "The Droplet," written by Miss Mary Car Moore, a cousin of the singer's, was a woody little bit where one heard the tinkle of the water dripping o'er the pebbles in the brook. "Ghosts" was unusual, in that Madame Yaw's voice was merely an echo, albeit a very distinct one, when the ghosts of the flowers told who they were. Margaret Ruthven Lang was responsible for this clever song. "My Menagerie," by Fay Foster. What memories this song brought trooping forth as one could see the lions, rats, mice and elephants in the clouds, as shown by Lark Ellen. Shakespeare's words, "Under the Greenwood Tree," set to music by Buzzi-Peccia, was probably the quaintest possible of songs—while "Tally-Ho," by Franco Leoni, spoke of frosty mornings with the pack in full cry.

Gets More Flowers

Flowers were showered on the singer who then, accompanying herself, gave in her own inimitable manner, the old-time English song, "No, Sir."
Mr. Plowe gave his group without any accompanist, the first number being Donjou's "Autumn Leaves," and so realistic is this music, one could visualize the leaves fluttering to the ground brought low by the morning wind. "Jade," by Etrian, enabled one to see the treasure train carrying the precious Jade winding down the mountain sides in old China for her friends.

COMMENT That's All

Embargo Serious Handicap Railway Powerful Influence Northern Folk Friendly Fair Play Will Help

By Gil A. Cowan
Touring the state one learns that the effects of the foot and mouth disease are not local. They are to be noted more in the north where the plague was first found. In San Francisco business people say that the embargo on shipments to other states is working a serious handicap on their businesses. However, relief is imminent in the federal control which has been established with Dr. Houck in command at Sacramento. Also, there is a tendency on the part of people to "pooh pooh" the seriousness of the consequences, particularly when the authorities over-do the quarantine situation. What actually is necessary, it will be found, is for both the quarantine and embargo rules to be administered with a grain of common sense—and happily this is true in most instances. In the meantime the public may hope that the agricultural situation will improve generally.

We look with pride at the $100,000 Southern Pacific station in Glendale, yet when one glances at the investments of the great transportation system in Oakland it cannot be wondered that the railway is one of the most powerful influences in this state. The Southern Pacific has ferryboats by the score, piers, steamers, rolling stock and the like around Oakland to equal many a millionaire's personal fortune. It is a great, troubling concern which not only could well afford the $100,000 station here, but spend a million and worry not the least. However, Glendale is to be proud of its Southern Pacific depot for it is one of the most unique on the entire system, as we have noticed while touring the coast.

Santa Barbara had a beautiful city which we had occasion to visit Tuesday. Particularly in the hills one finds an ideal homeland, much similar to Glendale, except that they overlook the enchanting sea. And there you find the millionaires by the score. Wealthy people are lured to Santa Barbara by its exclusiveness. Perhaps many folks would not want to live there for that reason. Anyway, it is a fine place and if your eastern friends want to see "something different" in California, show them Santa Barbara.

San Francisco is a busy city. It is the great gateway to the Orient, but more and more its people are beginning to realize that the sun rises over Los Angeles, also. The editors admitted to me yesterday that Los Angeles had a million and a quarter population as compared with San Francisco's six or seven hundred thousand. And they are beginning to look with more friendly eye upon the southland. All of which is good if Southern California reciprocates the spirit of friendship. That may be hard to do with reapportionment and other sectional matters coming up. But good will and fair play will help all of California, whereas selfishness will only retard the ultimate in the Pacific's progress.

MINOR OPERATIONS

Minor surgical operations were performed at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital upon Mrs. Frank Potter of West Hollywood; Mrs. N. T. Sarason of 1143 San Rafael street; Richard Roat of 206 North Belmont street. Mrs. H. A. McElroy of 510 South Adams street underwent a minor surgery last night.

News Want Ads Bring Results

with the beating of the drums to keep away the evil spirit. The flutist was presented with beautiful flowers. Being a true daughter of California, the Californian Lark gave, under the Old Songs Group, her own song composed by herself when on a train bearing her away from her beloved California through a rain-drenched country. So lonesome for our golden sunshine was she, she wrote that typical California song, "California, Glorious Land."
In the verses of this song, Madame Yaw left nothing more to be said of our home land. For her encore Madame Yaw gave "Home, Sweet Home," saying her audience must all be ready for home and so she would sing to them of it. Not an eye was dry when the Lark finished this beautiful song and though loath to leave, her audience allowed her to depart. Madame Yaw's enunciation, diction and tone are, no doubt, clearer than any other singer of today, indeed, though singing in French at different times, so clear was her diction and so clever her dramatic interpretation one could almost translate the lines even though ignorant of the language. La Crescentans are, indeed, proud to know that such a busy woman and superb artist as Madame Yaw is, consented to come here to sing for them and help them in their funds for the new clubhouse. How fitting it would be to have something in the new club home when it is built dedicated to "Lark Ellen!"
The grand piano used by Miss Lay in accompanying Madame Yaw and Jay Plowe was loaned the Woman's club by the courtesy of the Salmacia Brothers of Glendale. After the concert Madame Yaw held a reception on the stage for her friends.

REGARD GLENDALE AS CITY OF BEAUTIFUL HOMES

NATION'S FUTURE RESTS UPON HAPPINESS GAINED BY RESIDENTIAL OWNERS

Walls of Humble Dwellings in Past Years Housed Tiny Tots Who Became America's Greatest Statesmen in Later Days

The backbone of the American family is the American home. Nowhere is this better exemplified than in Glendale, whose slogan might as appropriately be "the city of beautiful homes" as "the fastest growing city in America."

Realizing some three years ago that home ownership will make this country even greater tomorrow than it is today and bring to its citizens the maximum of health, happiness and prosperity, the Better Homes in America movement was launched. Herbert Hoover is president and Dr. James Ford is executive director of the organization, whose national headquarters are now located at 1653 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C.

Helping the 24,000,000 American families to have homes that are economical to build and operate, that lessen the burden of housekeeping, that are beautiful and that provide ideal surroundings for American families is the purpose of Better Homes in America.

President Coolidge, in accepting the chairmanship of the advisory council for the second time, and again warmly endorsing the movement, wrote to Secretary Hoover, in part as follows: "The American home is the foundation of our national and individual well being. Its steady improvement is, at the same time, a test of our civilization and of our ideals. The Better Homes in America movement provides a channel through which men and women in each community can encourage the building, ornamenting and owning of private homes by the people at large. We need attractive, worthy, permanent homes that lighten the burden of housekeeping. We need homes in which can be reared happy children and upright citizens."

hundreds of additional communities, as well as to the rural districts of the nation, with special emphasis being laid this year upon the home, completely and beautifully furnished, which could be duplicated for $5000 or less. "It is the right of every baby to be born in a decent home." This belief, generously shared in by every normal man or woman, was repeated by United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, former health commissioner of New York city, in an address before a convention of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's district managers.

But Senator Copeland went further in his discussion of this important subject, voicing genuine concern over the housing shortage, a situation which, unless it is speedily remedied, will deny to the American baby this birthright. "In Greater New York," he said, "I found that we had a hundred thousand more families than we have houses. There were born in this city last year 137,000 babies. You put them shoulder to shoulder and they would make a line twenty-two miles long. In one square mile in New York there live 500,000 persons, and I can take you to thousands of so-called homes in that square mile where twelve persons live in three rooms, where four sleep in the kitchen—and in hundreds of these homes they live in inside rooms, without any light or ventilation."

"There can be no safety anywhere so long as there is any focus of disease anywhere, and it is the duty of every good citizen as I see it to make provisions for the decent housing of the people." The sweetest song in the English language was written on the memory of his old home in America, by John Howard Payne. The old New England homes inspired love and longing in the hearts of those who had wandered far afield.

It is safe to assume that it was not the parlor of the old New England home that inspired the love, as the parlor was a stiff, formal place, opened only on state occasions, but rather it was

Better Homes Mean Better Citizens

Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, is again head of the advisory council of the Better Homes in America movement.

President Coolidge, in accepting the chairmanship of the advisory council for the second time, and again warmly endorsing the movement, wrote to Herbert Hoover, in part as follows:

"The American home is the foundation of our national and individual well being. Its steady improvement is, at the same time, a test of our civilization and of our ideals. The Better Homes in America movement provides a channel through which men and women in each community can encourage the building, ornamenting and owning of private homes by the people at large. We need attractive, worthy, permanent homes that lighten the burden of housekeeping. We need homes in which can be reared happy children and upright citizens."

the kitchen which at that period of the nation's history was the living-room, oftentimes the dining-room, and it instilled loving memories in every heart of the family. The kitchen was a large, comfortable room, usually equipped with an immense fireplace; with its cranes on which hung the kettles for boiling, for the heating of water; with its big reflecting oven, with its multitude of utensils, such as toasting forks, bread shovels, and all the necessary tools which were required at that period for cooking and roasting. It was the memory of many wonderful dinners that had been prepared in that kitchen—the Thanksgiving, the Christmas, the New Year's—and like events. It was the memory of the Halloween parties, the evenings spent before the fireplace, with apples and cider; the evening when the stranger who, always welcome, sat before the fireplace and told of happenings at points other than the family circle.

The news of the day was distributed largely by word of mouth. Few newspapers were in existence. Transportation was slow, so that the fireplace was the point at which current events were discussed. Children gathered in their corner and studied their lessons, played their simple games, or listened to their elders discussing the vital problems of the day. It was the memory of this old kitchen that induced John Howard Payne to write "Home Sweet Home." Conditions have changed. The kitchen is no longer the living-room and dining-room, so that the kitchen is simply a workshop or factory, and as such should be equipped with the very latest appliances in order to make it as efficient as the factories that are turning out less important products for the use of the nation. There are modern appliances which are just as efficient for kitchen duties as appliances which are made for the manufacture of our textiles, of clothing, and other articles; but, unfortunately, the kitchen has never been considered a factory. It has been the point of least consideration on the part of the men of the nation. The housewife's duties were looked upon as of scant importance, compared with man's, and until very recently but little consideration was given to the cutting down of the labor of the housewife.

The overhead in the kitchen is just as great as the overhead in other factories. Economy is as necessary in the kitchen as in the workshop or office. The awakened interest of housewives in modern gas appliances is apparent, because they have found that the use of these appliances is the way to cut down the work of the kitchen, as well as its cost of operation. As a result of these developments, the Gas Appliance Society recently conducted a gas equipment exhibit for Better Homes, through the retail stores of California which feature gas appliances, the most comprehensive series of exhibits and demonstrations on kitchen economy and efficiency ever held in the history of the industry. All the latest appliances tending to facilitate the work of the kitchen were in attractive and practical display; and it proved to be well worth the while of every man and woman who witnessed these demonstrations.

"I commend participation in Better Homes demonstrations and in the other work of the movement to the American people."

The backbone of the American family is the American home. Nowhere is this better exemplified than in Glendale, whose slogan might as appropriately be "the city of beautiful homes" as "the fastest growing city in America."

is more to be desired than satin pillows in the parlor—from the standpoint of convenience, anyhow. A small stool which will push out of the way under the kitchen table is an improvement of little expense and great value as an effort-saver. The matter of kitchen ventilation is of great importance, believes Better Homes in America. Cross ventilation is extremely desirable. If no cross drafts are provided for, cut a transom over the back door, if possible, and arrange a window board to allow ventilation through the top and bottom of the window. A hood installed over the stove to carry off odors is highly desirable. Enamel paint is recommended as a wall covering, with commercial oil cloth as an acceptable substitute. If the room is a very light one, white should be avoided because of the glare. Pale gray, pale green or pale blue are recommended for rooms with a southern exposure and buff for a northern exposure. The bathtub was once considered a menace to health, but now is a symbol for it. This is the way Dr. Frank Mayo, noted surgeon of Rochester, Minn., spoke of the modern bathtub at the meeting of the American College of Surgeons, held recently in St. Louis.

Dr. Mayo's statement was undoubtedly based on the history of the first bathtub in America. The introduction of the first bathtub was made by Adam Thompson, of Cincinnati, in 1842. People came from far and near to see the "new-fangled" contraption. Bathing in winter was an unheard-of thing. As soon as doctors heard of it they predicted rheumatism, inflammation of the lungs, and other serious complications. Of course, the bathtub idea spread; but not without serious and determined opposition. Philadelphia tried to place a ban on bathing between November 1 and the middle of March. Water rates for those who had bathtubs were increased in many cities. Boston, going a step further, made bathing unlawful, except by doctor's prescription. The last forty years have seen the bathtub steadily advancing in popularity and importance. Hotels now advertise 1000 rooms and 1000 bathtubs. Today, medical men advocate frequent, even daily, bathing. Such is progress. Every American home can have a bathroom now, even the most modest of them, with the result that this is a healthy, powerful nation. "A Bath in Every Home" is coming to be recognized as the battle cry of health and decency under American standards. Bedroom, living room, sun porch and other rooms of the modern house are all important, each in its own way. But more important than the house itself, almost, in the opinion of many Southern Californians, is the garden, that lovely spot which adds the final touch of artistry and humanness to the home.

Bedroom, living room, sun porch and other rooms of the modern house are all important, each in its own way. But more important than the house itself, almost, in the opinion of many Southern Californians, is the garden, that lovely spot which adds the final touch of artistry and humanness to the home. Clients frequently ask why architects in Southern California insist upon planning houses of a rambling plan and argue that a rectangular plan is much cheaper to build. It must be admitted that this is quite true, and the only defense the architect has for his pet scheme in the "L" or "U" shaped house is that it is usually much more picturesque. But with the methods of construction which can be employed in the mild Southern California climate, it can not be considered extravagant to use a rambling plan. This type of plan lends itself easily to the development of enclosed courts or patios, which are in effect outdoor living rooms when properly designed. As one architect puts it: "Californians are an ingenious people, but it is strange to see how slow we are to adopt ideas from the architecture of countries similar to ours in climate. Italy, Spain and Southern France long ago discovered the charm of an arbor-covered dining porch or a small enclosed garden paved with flagstones or pebbles and bordered with beds of flowers and garnished here and there with rows of potted plants. We haven't yet learned the charm in the soft cool splash of water in the tiny pool in our own garden on a warm summer night. "It is a continual source of wonder to see how many houses are still being erected here which in plan are only proper for the severe climate of the middle west. I have a friend who lives in such a house. As one sits at his dining table the only outlook is toward the back yard, but the window is placed above a buffet much too high to allow any view. "I have often sat at his table as the beautiful California sun streamed in the high-up window and wished the buffet in Guinea or some other equally undesirable place so that we might have wide French doors swung open to admit a view of his charming garden. The house was not planned to fit the garden. They are two separate entities." And then there is the important but often overlooked matter of making the most of the garage.

The garage is such a vital factor in modern life that it is now beginning to receive the attention of discriminating home builders. Some say its past ugliness was an inheritance from the old-fashioned barn. But because it is often small is no reason why it should not be attractive, for haven't small houses proved that utility can be combined with good looks? There is, indeed, a decided tendency toward considering the garage architecturally. To this end one scheme is to join it to the house itself. This makes it an

Mrs. J. E. Phillips Becomes Suspicious and Calls Police Station

Through the cleverness of Mrs. J. E. Phillips, who, with her husband, conducts the Jewel City Undertaking parlors at 202 North Brand boulevard, the Glendale police were able yesterday afternoon to pick up a man giving the name of E. W. Burke of 604 West Slausson avenue, Los Angeles, wanted, they state, on several charges throughout the county for obtaining money under false pretenses.

The man appeared at Mrs. Phillips' office yesterday afternoon and represented himself to be an undertaker from Whittier. He stated that he was temporarily financially embarrassed and asked for a loan of $10, as he had a funeral at 4 o'clock and must get back home. Mrs. Phillips became suspicious, and, having him wait, went to another phone and, calling the firm in Whittier, found out that the man was not employed there, but had defrauded them out of $10 on the same story.

Makes Another Call She called local police headquarters. The man, evidently becoming alarmed, left the office. He was later located at the L. G. Sovern company, on South Brand, and his arrest by Officer Duncan followed.

The man was questioned by Chief Fraser and Detective Sergeant Blake, and it developed, upon investigation, they state, that he had worked the same game in Hollywood and other places in the county. He was taken to the sheriff's office last night, and charges will be placed against him today, according to Sheriff William I. Traeger.

TIGERS WALLOP LEAGUE CHAMPS IN LOOSE GAME

Ken Penner, New Hurler for Vernon Crew, Hits .1000; Final Score 9-2

By R. C. FRANKLIN
For Southern News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Ken Penner, former hurler with the Sacramento club, purchased by the Vernon Tigers last winter, demonstrated yesterday at Washington Park that pitchers can go out of their line and clout the ball with considerable success. Penner was on the mound when the Tigers mauled the Seals 9 to 2, and in addition to scattering ten hits through seven innings, Essick's new pitcher closed the day with a batting percentage of .1000 as the result of smacking two singles, a double and drawing a walk in four trips to the plate. He tallied three runs.

It was the fourth loss for the 1924 champs for the present season. Manager Bert Ellison jerked Lefty Berger in the seventh in favor of Griffin, a sandlot product of the Bay district. Berger had allowed a quartet of runs. The Tigers fattening their averages considerably by banking out eight safeties for five runs in the last two frames.

ANGELS 5, OAKS 6

OAKLAND, April 24.—The long suffering Angels lost another hair line decision to the Oaks here yesterday, 6 to 5. After they had amassed a comfortable lead over Harry Krause in the first few innings, "Pinches" Kunz went to the mound and was very stingy. The Oaks kept pecking away at the lead and finally overcame it. Even in defeat, Jim Myers showed the best form he has displayed this year. This makes it two straight for the Oaks.

PICK CAMBRIDGE TO DEFEAT PENN

Upset in Two-Mile Relay Expected at Carnival Next Saturday

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
For International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—In spite of the loss of W. S. Britstowe, a young man capable of stepping a half mile in the exceedingly hasty time of one minute 55 seconds, athletic sharpshooting today were disposed to view with alarm the scheduled attempt of Cambridge University to beat Pennsylvania State, Georgetown and the world's record for two miles at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival on Saturday. It was the general thought that the British can and will run so close to the record that only a micrometer will gauge the difference.

Bristowe's attack of muscular rheumatism has proved something of a tactical kick behind the ear to the English, yet they have mustered a substitute in Starr who may run within several seconds of Bristowe's best time. Therefore, Cambridge is still dangerous.

The team, as at present constituted, is made up of Lowe, who has done 1:56 3-5 on the other side; Marshall and Orchard, a pair of 1:58 half milers, and Starr, a two minute man. If they do better than their records, the British will come home in 7:52, almost four seconds behind the record. But no one expects them to merely equal the performance in England.

The comparatively lighter air of this country usually adds from five to eight yards to the speed of each visiting half miler. If it does so in this case, Cambridge may not get all calculations and lead home both Georgetown and the championship Pennsylvania State team, regarded as the greatest two mile relay combination that ever stepped on cinders.

COACHING STAFF ENLARGED AT U.C.

'Danny' McMillan and 'Brick' Muller to Assist Andy Smith on Grid

BERKELEY, Cal., April 24.—Coach Andy Smith, University of California football mentor, is to have an augmented coaching staff.

The executive committee of the Associated Students today authorized the employment of Dan McMillan and 'Brick' Muller, former U. C. star, in addition to line coach Boles Rosenthal and Nibs Price, backfield coach.

Sending of a track team of ten men to the Cambridge meet, a tennis team to Germantown and Lauren Upon to the national intercollegiate golf tournament at Greenwich, Mass., were also authorized.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

BOSTON, April 24.—The National league season was opened here yesterday with a fifteen-inning game between the Braves and the Philadelphia Phillies. The home team finally won, 3 to 2. Singles by O'Neil, Stryker and Bancroft in the final inning, with some out, turned the tide of victory.

U. S. C. Stars to Take Part in Eastern Meet

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—University of Southern California will send twelve men to the I. C. A. A. A. championships at Harvard May 30 and 31, according to announcement made by Coach Cromwell today. Just who will make the trip is not yet known, but the men will be picked from Norman and Otto Anderson, Bud House, Grumbles, Dye, Martz, Sturry, Clarke, Lloyd, Smith and Neisback and a few other of the best performers.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Yankees, along with Ruth, showed signs of life in the opening game of the season before 40,000 fans here yesterday. The Red Sox 13 to 4. The Sultan of Swat crashed out a homer, a double and a single. Savor Hylan threw out the first ball.

Tigers 5, Indians 6

CLEVELAND, April 24.—Facing defeat in their first home game of the season the Indians rallied in the ninth, tied the score, and eventually won out in the tenth, 6 to 5. A crowd of 23,815, the largest ever present at an opening game in Cleveland, was on hand.

Senators 4, Athletics 6

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—After pitching shut-out ball for six innings in the opening game of the season before 40,000 fans here yesterday, Marberry, Washington record, blew up and the home boys scored six runs, enough to win the game. The hard hitting of Paul Strand, Salt Lake product, was the feature of the game.

Sox 5, Browns 9

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—The Browns hit the White Sox pitchers hard in the opening game here today and won, 9 to 5.

Alhambra High to Play Glendalians At Broadway Field

Tomorrow at 8:30 o'clock the Glendale High baseball nine meets the Alhambra outfit on the local field at the new high school in the second round of the Central league baseball schedule. Although the home team is the first game to Covina, it is the last to cop the remaining four, it being essential that Glendale finishes higher than third berth to win the big sports cup to be presented to the school having the highest standing in all five of the major sports.

HAUGDAHL ENTERS RACES ON SUNDAY

Norwegian Will Meet Old-Time Rival, De Palma, In Two Events

Sig Haugdahl, daring Norwegian, declared by many to be the greatest track driver in the whole world, is to battle Ralph De Palma, motor racing fan's perennial favorite, at Ascot Speedway next Sunday afternoon.

The famous pair will not meet in a match race, George Bentel still sticking to his decision that he will not race De Palma ten days ago and with which I defeated Duray and the others last Sunday, when I face the starter in the Bozzani Sweepstakes and the Ascot Helmet Dash. I will win both races.

De Palma is still undecided as to his intent for next Sunday's race. Those close to the Italian speed king believe that he will use a 183-inch Miller, hundreds of his friends having urged him to give up the little Miller for a sturdier car, such as Haugdahl uses at Ascot.

Tiger Crew Meets S. B. U. C. In Third Conference Game With Count Even

TAKES 3800-MILE JOURNEY THROUGH FOUR STATES

HALF MILLION USED CARS ON HAND

Dealers Hold Immense Stock As Second-Hand Auto Prices Decline

More than half a million used automobiles were in the hands of automobile dealers at the close of March, according to figures made public today by the National Automobile Dealers' Association. This is about 25 per cent more cars than were in the stocks of dealers at the close of the first quarter of 1923.

Prices on used automobiles, as reported by the dealers from eighteen states to the headquarters of the N. A. D. A., are steadily down grade. In the last three months of 1923 the used car selling prices were down to nearly $300 and in the first three months they fell to an average of $293.60.

Average Is $300.14
The average allowance price for used cars in the first three months of 1924 was $300.14.

The fact that the dealers generally were still making allowances in trading that were higher than the prices at which the cars would resell accounts for the continued heavy losses being absorbed by the dealers, says Lynn M. Shaw, assistant general manager of the N. A. D. A., who has just completed compiling the figures for the first quarter. The losses for the first quarter of the year 1924 were $6,049,600, as compared with $23,000,000 in the first quarter of 1923.

CLEAN WINDSHIELD

The following formula has been found useful in keeping the windshield clear in weather: One dram of sodium chloride (common salt), one ounce of water and two ounces of glycerine. Place a little of this solution on a piece of gauze and wipe over the glass in a thin layer, using a downward stroke.

South African motorists bought 9750 passenger automobiles last year.

URGES TEST FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Chief of State Motor Car Division to Ask for Amendment to Law

Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, announced today that he would recommend an amendment to the motor vehicle act, providing a rigid examination for all applicants for licenses to drive automobiles at the next session of the California legislature.

The proposed amendment will not only include thorough tests in driving and handling cars but also an exhaustive inquiry into the applicant's physical ability to drive, Marsh said.

Can Not Judge
"Under the present law this division has no means nor authority for determining whether an applicant has ever driven a car or is physically capable of driving," Marsh said. "All that we get is the name and address of applicant, color of eyes, and hair, weight and age. For all we know he may have only one arm or one eye, or he may be without both feet and arms. Our officers have discovered several cases of men driving cars on the public highways who were entirely deaf. Furthermore the law has no authority to demand that the applicant have sufficient experience to operate a car without hazard to himself and others."

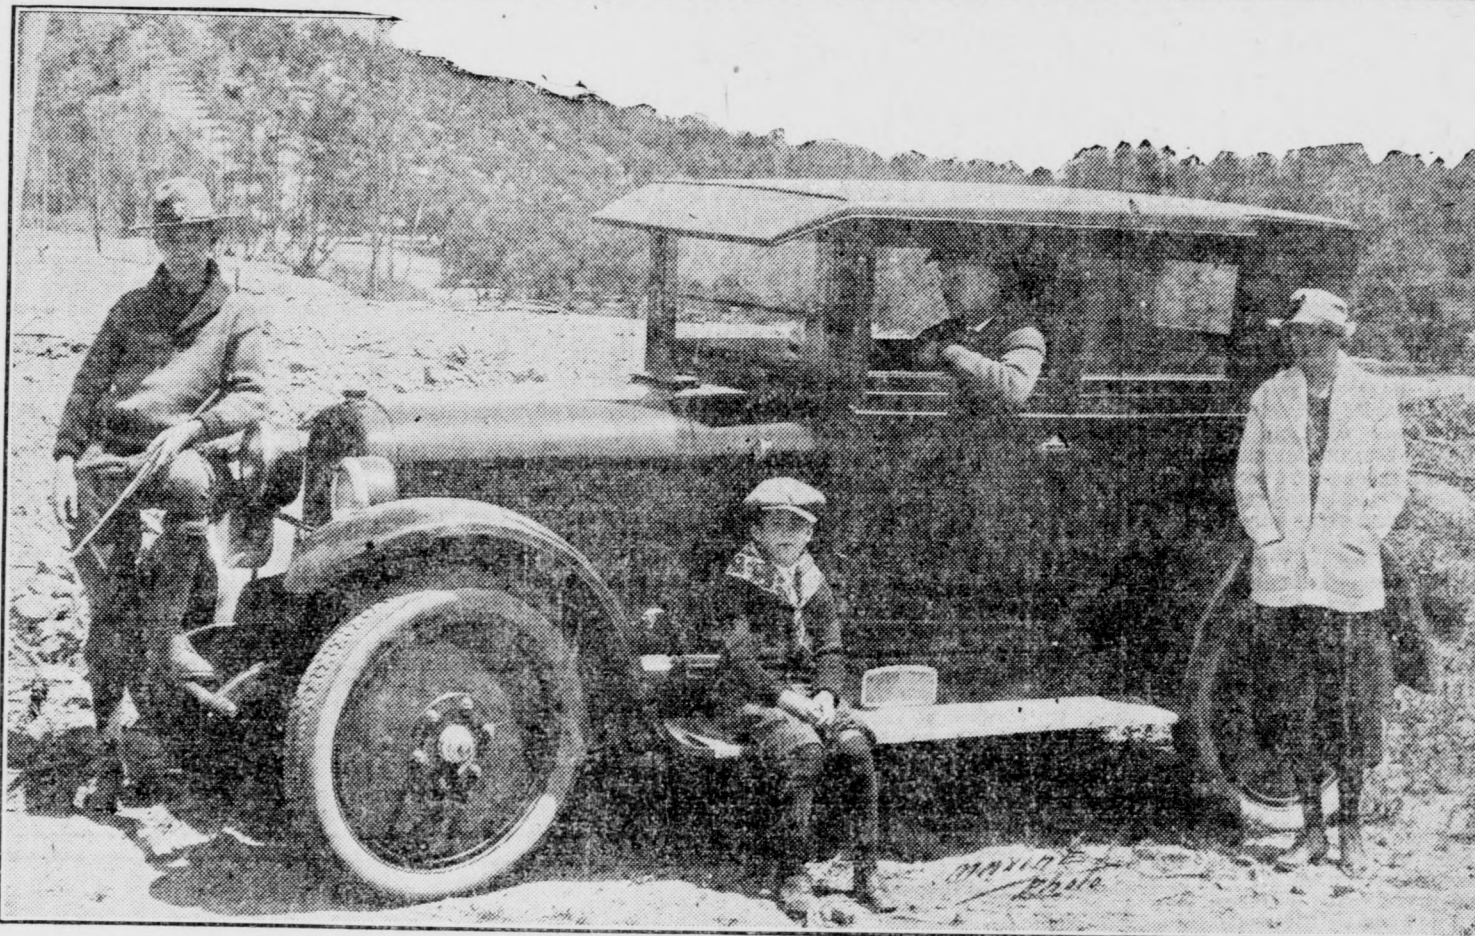

"I shall recommend an amendment to provide examinations for prospective operators. A small fee, sufficient to cover the cost of maintaining examiners could be charged. While it is true that a large percentage of accidents are not due to inexperienced drivers but to carelessness of good drivers, I believe that such a law would go far toward reducing the death list on the highways."

Strict Examinations
Replies to a questionnaire sent out by the division of motor vehicles indicate that a large number of eastern states have adopted laws similar to that proposed by Marsh said.

NASH TRAVELOGUE CAR VISITS BEAUTY SPOTS IN SCENIC SOUTHWEST

Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest, Borderland Valley, Texas Plains and Desert Lands Are Viewed By Party From Glendale

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

An automobile trip that makes an ideal vacation jaunt that can be covered in from two to four weeks, and which takes the pleasure seeker into the scenic spots to California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, with visits to all of the principal towns and cities in these four states, is that described this week by Adolph Nydegger, of 1515 Ridgeway Drive, president of the Nash Sales Co., Inc., 1234 South Brand boulevard.

Mr. Nydegger, in need of a vacation from his strenuous duties in connection with sales and service on Nash and LaFayette cars, loaded the members of his family into a Nash Four closed car, and turned the radiator eastward.

Accompanying Mr. Nydegger on his trip were his wife and two sons, Adolph, Jr., 16 years old, and William, 8 years old. Mr. Nydegger's own story of the trip follows:

Story of Trip
"After hearing of the beauties of the Grand Canyon, the wonders of the National Petrified Forest in Arizona, the vastness of the Texas plains, and the broad expanse of the Rio Grande valley along the international border, we decided to visit all of these places on one trip."

"When we started out we had no definite destination beyond Texas. No specific stops, other than the nationally famous scenic centers of the enchanted land we were going to visit, were listed in our itinerary. The only rules we set for ourselves to follow were: 'See them all, take our time, overlook nothing in the way of comfort and convenience, observe the rules of the road and speed laws of the cities, get there and come back home again.'

Excels in Beauty
"For a variety of scenery and a mixture of roads, I don't believe there is a trip anywhere in the United States to compare with the jaunt we took."

"From Phoenix we started northward, our route taking us to Prescott. To reach Prescott we drove through the Black canyon, a wonderful place from the standpoint of scenery, with the road passing fair. From Prescott to Ash Forks, 65 miles, we traversed desert and semi-mountain country, while from Ash Forks to Maline, 35 miles, the country became more rolling, with more timber seen. The route from Maline to the south rim of the Grand Canyon, 65 miles, was mountainous, with plenty of timber all around."

"I am not going to attempt to describe the Grand Canyon. Volumes have been written about it, and volumes after volumes could be written about it. It is so immense it is inconceivable, and must be seen to be appreciated."

Thirteen Miles Across
"Just to give an idea of the magnitude of the canyon, I will

Good Roads Conclave Is Widely Advertised

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 24.—The twelfth annual convention of the United States Good Roads Association and Bankhead National Highway Association and United States Good Roads Show, which meets at Albuquerque, May 26-31, is being widely advertised throughout the nation. The various news-gathering organizations are carrying stories about the acceptances, program and events that will take place during the convention. Governor J. F. Hinkle of New Mexico has evinced a wonderful amount of enthusiasm and interest in the coming convention.

FIRE RISKS AUTO CASING STRESSED BY CLUB MARKET IS STEADY

Warning to Motorists Tells Dry Season Menace of Forest Flames

Every motorist and, in fact, every resident of California this year is directly affected by the lack of rainfall, and the consequent danger of brush and forest fires. These disastrous conflagrations have occurred in the so-called wet season, indicating conclusively that the danger in the dry season will be multiplied many fold. To insure extraordinary precautions against fire on the part of all campers and motorists generally, the Automobile Club of Southern California is calling attention to the lesson of forest protection week just designated by President Coolidge for April 21 to 27, inclusive.

The observance this spring will mark the fourth annual intensive campaign to acquaint the public with the serious unnecessary damage caused by forest fires. More than 35,000 fires occur every year in the United States and an area of approximately 11,000,000 acres is swept by flame. Most of this appalling destruction comes in the western states, principally in the Pacific coast district.

Ruin Watersheds
In Southern California these fires destroy the efficacy of the watersheds upon which every citizen is directly dependent for domestic and agricultural needs. It is highly probable that camp fire permits will be issued sparingly and that the closest watch will be kept on every one entering the national forests. One careless smoker may devastate thousands of acres of invaluable watershed and destroy ranch houses, cattle and game. Every effort should be made by every individual in Southern California, declares the auto club, to prevent fires starting. It is pointed out that never before has the danger been so great from fires or has there been such need of protecting all the brush and timber.

Open Canyon Highway About First of Month

Although just opened to the public and, as a one-way picturesque highway, passable at present to motor cars, the seven-mile new cut-off dirt road from the ridge route to the Collins store on the Oakdale-Pine "anyon highway" will not be completely finished before about May 1. A total of $5,100 has been spent on surveying, grading and otherwise getting this new link of the highway into shape, and with gangs of men working on it for the next two months, several thousands more will be spent.

Many Tires Exported Last Year Besides Number Used In U. S.

During 1923, the production of casings for motor cars and motorcycles in the principal tire manufacturing countries of the world reached an estimated total of 54,520,000, the United States, which has 80 per cent of the world's automobiles within its borders, producing about 46,000,000.

The total exports of automobile and motorcycle casings from the leading tire manufacturing countries is estimated at 4,638,000 in 1923, compared with 3,961,000 in 1922. The United States exports of automobile casings numbered 1,325,753 in 1922 and increased to 1,362,741 in 1923, but the percentage of the total export trade supplied by the United States declined from 33.5 per cent in 1922 to 29.4 per cent in 1923. Although the United States did this very creditable share of the export tire trade of the world in 1923, the number of automobile casings shipped abroad was only about 3 per cent of the tire production of the country. The answer lies in the fact that there are more than 13,200,000 passenger automobiles in the United States, while all the rest of the world has about 2,280,000.

Foreign Trade Good
As contrasted with the American tire industry with its 1923 production of 46,000,000 casings and exports of 1,362,741, foreign manufacturers are estimated to have produced 8,520,000 casings for motor cars and motorcycles during 1923, and to have exported 3,275,000, or 38 per cent of them. France was dependent on export markets for the disposal of 50 per cent of her production; Italy nearly 75 per cent; Great Britain 21.5 per cent; Germany 36 per cent and Canada 28.6 per cent.

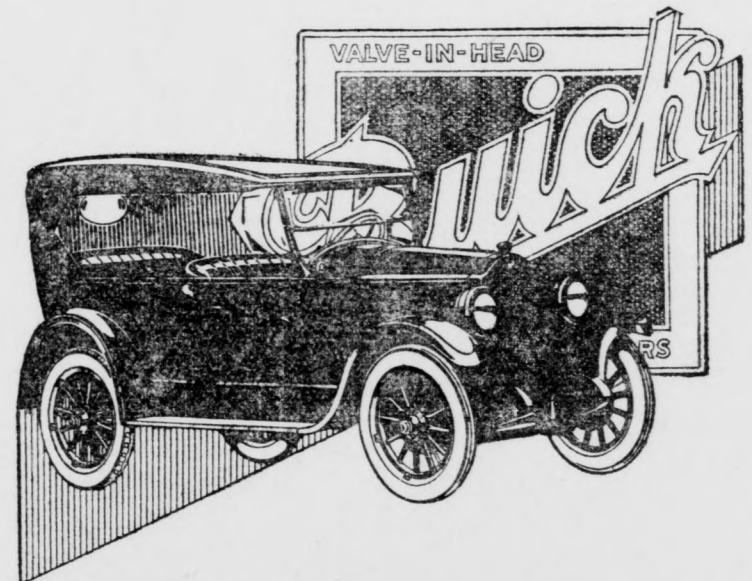

French manufacturers are the chief competitors of America in the export tire trade. They supplied approximately 30 per cent of the total volume of exports in 1923, with shipments of about 1,400,000 casings. The dominating firm in the French export trade, Michelin & Cie., exports from both its home factory in Clermont-Ferrand and its Italian factory at Turin. American manufacturers export both from their United States and Canadian factories.

Exports From Germany
Official trade statistics show exports of automobile casings from Germany in 1922 as 191,642 and 251,767 in 1923. The United Kingdom is officially reported to have exported 279,721 casings for motor cars and 72,481 casings for motorcycles in 1922.

Maypoles once were forbidden in England.

Where Alibis Prove Costly to Motorists

If a motorist in Connecticut runs into another car at a curve because he does not sound his horn he is fined $50, and if he tries to escape this penalty by pleading that his horn was not working, he is fined an additional $50 for operating a car without a suitable warning device.

Buick Value—The Measure of Automobile Values

People now-a-days measure automobile values on the basis of Buick value. How often you hear such remarks as: "It's not nearly as good as Buick". People make these remarks both consciously and unconsciously. Consciously, because they actually know Buick value either from their own experience or that of their friends; unconsciously, because for twenty years Buick has been the accepted standard of the industry. Good reasons, both, why you should own a Buick.

to Fix Machines for Summer Driving

With the approach of spring many owners who have been using their cars steadily all winter are considering overhauling their autos in order to take advantage of the long days that are immediately ahead. To give a car a fair chance at this time, says W. A. Tanner of Tanner & Hall, Ltd., Buick dealers, at South Brand boulevard and Maple avenue, there are some things that should have attention. "First," he says, "every Buick owner should look carefully into the need for proper greasing of the car, paying special attention to the transmission, crankcase and rear axle. And he emphasizes the fact that gasoline should not be used in cleaning the motor. "Every part of the engine should be overhauled by competent mechanics in a Buick service department, in order that it may be put into perfect running order, for there is nothing so embarrassing as to reach a point far from home and find one's self hung up on the road through a lack of foresight in putting the car into perfect condition before the start, although I must say that this happens very seldom with a Buick."

only say that at one place on the south rim where we stopped, it was near the beginning of Bright Angels' trail, the canyon is over 13 miles across. The Colorado river roared below us 1,440 feet. The canyon is easily the scenic gem of America and well worth going thousands of miles to see, yet it lies within 700 miles of Glendale.

"From the Grand Canyon we retraced our route to Maine and turned our course in a southeasterly direction, for Flagstaff, then on to Winslow. Between Flagstaff and Winslow we encountered some sandy roads, then passed through a national forest. We skirted the rim of Canyon Diablo, a miniature Grand Canyon, averaging about 500 feet deep.

"After 90 miles of real rough going, over a road filled with many sharp rocks, we came to Padre Canyon, a beautiful place. One of the chief points of interest in this canyon is an immense concrete bridge spanning the canyon, a wonderful piece of engineering work.

"Sees Petrified Trees
"Twenty miles beyond Holbrook we came upon the Petrified Forest, another national park worth a visit. Here we saw monstrous trees centuries old, all turned to rock. Some of them run seven and eight feet in diameter. Guards scattered through the forest watch everybody closely to prevent tourists carrying away pieces of the trees.

"We saw ocean, desert, rolling prairie, steep hills, high mountains, deep canyons, cacti, dense forests, wide plains, trees centuries old, large cities, small villages, Indian huts, valley land, farms below sea level and snow-capped mountains.

"We encountered good, bad and indifferent roads. Most of the roads were good, but Arizona, New Mexico and Texas do not have roads to compare with California. Most of the roads, outside of California, were dirt or gravel roads, although we did find some good paved roads in Texas.

First to Riverside
"The mileage of our trip, exclusive of the miles added by driving about in the cities, totaled 3,795.4 miles. This is just the mileage from town to town and from stop to stop.

"Our route eastward led us through Riverside. Here we observed the municipal auto camp for which Riverside is famous the world over. From Riverside we started in the direction of Blythe, 196 miles away. At Mecca we hit the desert and it was slower going, 90 miles of this, with only one place where water could be obtained.

"At Blythe we crossed the Colorado river into Arizona, headed for Phoenix. Thirty miles west of Phoenix we found some good roads, but with that exception, the roads were not so good. On our way we stopped to look over the little village of Salome, Arizona, made famous by Dick Wick Hall, editor and garage man, whose name is known throughout the land by reason of his witty stories which appeared in a national magazine about the frog who hadn't learned to swim, and other oddities.

Buildings Detrimental
"At Phoenix we visited the state capitol building, walked about the beautiful capitol grounds, and then went up to see the city and county buildings. These were a grave disappointment, as there were small brick buildings appearing to have been built years and years ago, and seemed to show a lack of civic pride on the part of citizens to let them stand in the center of the city.

"On we went to Springerville, passing through Arizona a cow country, and over prairie land. The road wound in and out, around the ends of arroyos, or occasionally dipped down into one that was a mile wide. We followed a dirt road into Magdalena, 134 miles, and crossed the continental divide not far from Magdalena. Before we reached Socorro we encountered some pretty rough roads, and heavy hills, particularly five miles out of Socorro.

"From Socorro to Mountainaire the road wound through a pretty canyon. There was plenty of timber in that locality, too, and the scenery was mighty nice after a long trek over rough roads and desert land. After leaving Mountainaire, we began to leave the mountains and timber behind, and before we reached Clovis, we were back on prairie land, dotted here and there with old alkali lakes. The white dust from these old lakes drifted across country, and if it hadn't been for the closed car, we would have been pretty well dusted.

"At Clovis there is a wonderful municipal auto camp, for it is a sort of a stopping point for all eastbound and westbound travelers. Our route from Clovis was in the general direction of Dallas, Texas, hitting Childress and Amarillo as well as a number of small towns of the early cattle days.

"Most of the territory we traversed in northern Texas was cattle land, where hundreds of white-faced cattle run. There were a few cotton plantations along the way, but not very many. Then near Wichita Falls, Rancier and Fort Worth we came into the oil country, and in some places found derricks as thick as on Signal Hill. Most of the wells have been pumped dry. Some never did produce, while others made fortunes for their owners.

"Fort Worth is one of the coming cities of the Southwest. Buying and selling cattle is the principal industry there. Dallas is just 33 miles from Fort Worth, and the two cities are connected by an electric line. We got our first glimpse of tall buildings, since leaving California, in Fort Worth.

Head Southward
"At Dallas we turned southward heading for San Antonio and on to the Rio Grande Valley. On our way we visited a number of small towns along what they called the 'post route,' running through from Dallas to San Antonio. Waco and Austin, the state capital, were the largest cities on this route.

"San Antonio is the metropolis of the Southwest, and the largest city in the largest state. We walked through the historic Alamo, where Texas history was written years ago when a small band of Texans, including such men as Crockett, Smith, and others, fought against overwhelming forces and were all slain. The Alamo Plaza is a beauty spot in the center of the city, and Breckenridge park, covering several hundred acres, is unbeatable as a park.

"Here it was that the return trip was started, the route carrying us southward towards the international border and into the lower Rio Grande valley. We touched at Junction City, Ozona, Fort Stockton, an old army post, Sierra Blanca and into El Paso. El Paso is the gateway to Mexico, a city of perhaps 70,000 population, but at least 60,000 of these are Mexicans. It is across the river from Juarez, and the international bridge is a busy place.

Into New Mexico
"Leaving El Paso we crossed into New Mexico at the city limits, and drove 112 miles to Deming, noted as a war camp site of old ago. We went on to Douglas, 165

Early Spring Is Best Time to Repair Auto

This is the time of the year to plan shop repairs on the car. Do not wait until late spring and rush into some garage to have it overhauled. There is a big rush of business at that time; mechanics do not give the car good attention, and the charge is usually more for this service.

Nearly 44,000 deer are protected by law in the United States.

miles, getting into more desert country and seeing all kinds of cacti along the route. Douglas is the principal trading post in southern Arizona. Tucson, a beautiful city where the University of Arizona is located, was the next stop of importance, before heading northward toward Phoenix.

"Through New Mexico, Arizona and eastern California we saw plenty of desert land and cacti everywhere we went, so, by the time we reached Yuma and crossed the Colorado river, we were glad to get back into California. The desert land did not let up, however, and we didn't mind it, as we told ourselves we were back in the good old state.

"We stopped at El Centro long enough to look over the wonderful farm products of the Imperial valley and debated whether we should return home by way of the valley or go by San Diego and the coast route. The coast route won on the flip of a coin, and we started westward again. The roads were gradually getting better, but of course, they were not as good as the roads around home.

Parks At Home
"At San Diego we turned north after taking in all the sights there, including Balboa park, the Plaza, municipal wharfs, warships, navy departments, flying field and the Silver Strand. On the coast route we passed through La Jolla, Del Mar, Cardiff, Oceanside, Capistrano, Fullerton and finally pulled into Los Angeles. It was only a matter of minutes until the travelogue party was safely parked on their front door step.

"As I have related, we encountered good, bad and indifferent roads on the trip. But riding in the closed car we felt no discomfort, as the cushy springs took up all the jar from rough roads; the deep upholstery of the seats made riding more pleasurable, and the closed car only added more comfort to the journey."

Your Next Car

Will be this Light-Six, if you learn the truth

WHEN you buy a car in the "thousand-dollar" class, here are some things you should know.

We made a canvass of men who bought rival cars in this class. And we found that 96 in each 100 bought without knowing these facts. So, for your sake and our sake, we want to present them to you.

Save $200 to $400

Studebaker builds 150,000 fine cars yearly. It builds in model factories, modernly equipped. It has spent $38,000,000 in the past five years on new-day plants and equipment.

By quantity and up-to-dateness it saves large sums per car. A car like this Light-Six, built under ordinary conditions, would cost $200 to $400 more.

11.4% less to run

This supreme quality means lower operating cost. Owners of fleets of cars in this class made audited records to prove this.

They compared 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles each. And they found that the Studebaker Light-Six cost 11.4% less to operate than the average of its rivals. This includes depreciation. The saving was nearly one cent per mile.

The reasons are these

The Studebaker Light-Six, in its chassis, represents the best we know. In steel and in workmanship it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

It is designed and superintended by an engineering department which costs us $500,000 yearly.

Each steel formula has been proved the best for its purpose by years of tests. On some we pay 15% premium to makers to get them exactly right.

Each car in the building gets 32,000 tests and inspections.

The crankshafts are machined on inch. And 122 are exact to one-half that.

Genuine leather cushions, ten inches deep. Unusual equipment. Scores of extra values.

Made by the leaders

This is one of the cars which has made Studebaker the leader in quality cars. Our sales have almost trebled in three years. The trend toward Studebakers has become a sensation.

Last year 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

Back of this car is an honored name, which for 72 years has stood for high ideals.

Behind it are $90,000,000 of assets, staked on pleasing you better than others.

Before you pay $1,000 or more for a car, these are facts you should know and compare. You owe that to yourself.

CHRYSLER POWER TOLD BY EXPERT

Unbiased Opinion Quoted by Local Dealers to Show Ability of Car

The opinions of a disinterested observer always carry more weight on any subject than do those of a person vitally concerned in working for the success of the product under consideration, especially when the disinterested observer ranks as an expert in his line and when his opinions, therefore, may be accepted as conclusive.

For this reason Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell, Chrysler and Chalmers dealers, is especially pleased over a carefully weighed opinion that has been expressed of the Chrysler Six by H. A. Tarantous, of MoToR, the recognized authority on automotive matters.

After reviewing the building of the car from the very inception of the idea by Walter P. Chrysler, the manufacturer, he says "After examining the Chrysler car you rather expect it to do startling things, but hardly all that you can make it do. For example, a car that can be taken with five people and driven over a road at 65 miles per hour is not unusual, but an engine with high speed characteristics is not expected to be the quietest you ever heard, yet that is what I found in the Chrysler."

"You can retard the spark, close the throttle and let the car speed down as low as possible. The car begins to 'buck' a little, the engine fires so that you can count the explosions, and then, without touching a thing, the engine comes out of the 'buck.' Before you think it is going to stall you can open the throttle wide, and smoothly and silently the car picks up speed. This sort of performance is due, in part, to the combustion chamber design and to even gas distribution."

Mr. Clark is demonstrating the Chrysler daily to his clients and reports that prospects for the sales of the car here are most encouraging.

FORMAL OPENING OF AGENCY SOON

Dixie Packard Co. to Stage Notable Affair When New Home Ready

Feverish activity reigns around every department of the Dixie Packard Co., 1129-1131 South Brand boulevard, where the new home of the Packard and the Gray cars is being put into shape for the formal opening that will be held shortly.

W. H. Daniel, manager of the firm, is putting his new quarters into condition to handle his rapidly growing business in Glendale, and the display that he will have at the time of his formal opening will, he predicts, set a new standard for affairs of this nature in this city.

Figures supplied by the factory show that Packard sales are increasing right all over the country, with Southern California showing an advance that marks the growing favor with which the car is being received as motorists come more and more to realize the values that are offered and the low maintenance cost of the Packard. Mr. Daniel has contributed in no small measure to the Southland totals, and in his new quarters, on the busiest boulevard in Glendale, he expects to do a much greater volume of business than he has ever done in the past.

BOOST HIGHWAYS WITH FORD FILM

'The Road to Happiness' Is Issued in Interest of Better Travel

DETROIT, Mich., April 24.—"The Road to Happiness," a motion picture designed to promote interest in better highways has just been completed at the Ford Motion Picture Laboratory here.

It was produced by the Ford Motion Picture Laboratory in conjunction with the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Highway Educational Board and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and carries their endorsement.

President Coolidge personally appeared in one of the scenes, and has expressed his approval of the picture. He is shown presenting a scholarship certificate to "Bob Preston," the farm boy hero of the story who is winner of a prize essay contest on better roads. The scene was taken on the White House grounds with the President, others appearing in it include members of the Highway Educational Board of which Roy D. Chapin is chairman.

Principal settings of the film were taken around Fairfax, Va., fifteen miles out of Washington, and the chief characters were portrayed by people residing in that vicinity.

Copies of the film have been sent to all branches of the Ford Motor Company in the United States, and the picture is being shown generally. Highway Commissioners, county engineers, road officials, schools and all interested in the promotion of improved highways may obtain use of the film free of charge.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR STUDEBAKER

Packer Auto Co. Executive Predicts Increase in Sales In April

"With the number of prospects increasing daily and with sales showing a steady increase, we look for one of the best months in the history of the firm," says R. L. Conover, sales manager of the Packer Auto Company, 245 South Brand boulevard, Studebaker distributors. "Shipments are arriving steadily and in such quantities that we are able to show a complete line at all times, and in spite of the claim made in some quarters that business is slackening, our experience does not bear out the belief that there is any dull period in the immediate future."

"One reason for this, and the principal reason, in my opinion, is that the Studebaker is recognized by all motorists as offering unequalled value for every dollar that is spent on it. Lots of our customers tell us that they have investigated other makes of cars before deciding on the Studebaker, and this comparison reveals, in a striking manner, the superiority of the Studebaker line and the standards that animate the entire organization in living up to its reputation of close to a century as builders of high grade vehicles."

The Packer Auto Company is showing two new jobs, a Special Six and a Light Six fitted with balloon tires, that are making a decided hit with motorists.

TEST CHEVROLET IN 100-HOUR RUN

Texas Town Watches Car Roll Up 32 2-3 Average on Gasoline Used

Chevrolet claims for economy were amply proven in a test that was held recently at Marshall, Texas, in which a standard stock Chevrolet was put through a one-hundred hour, non-stop run, and the results sent Chevrolet stock soaring higher than it had ever been before in that part of Texas. C. L. Smith, local dealer, Orange and Colorado streets, has just received particulars of the test, which show that the car ran 2346 miles, at an average speed of 23.46 miles per hour, consuming 72 gallons of gasoline and four quarts of oil. This brought the mileage record to 32 2-3 miles per gallon of gasoline. No water was put into the radiator after the test started.

As an additional boost for the car, anyone was permitted to ride in the car during the test, and many people availed themselves of the offer to get a free ride and others took advantage of the offer to see how the Chevrolet worked during a long run of this kind. The performance of the car, the report states, sold a large number of Chevrolets in Marshall, as prospective purchasers were convinced of the Chevrolet economy and ability after watching it perform for a hundred hour stretch.

Standard Oil Heads State's License List

The Standard Oil company of California was the largest single contributor in the state to motor vehicle license funds during the 1924 license renewal period, which ended recently, according to a check of the records made today by officials of the division of motor vehicles.

The oil company paid a total of $28,211.25 in registration and weight fees, the records show, and renewed licenses for 1611 automobiles, trucks and trailers. The bulk of this money came from weight fees collected on trucks operated throughout the state, according to Will H. Marsh, chief of the division.

OLDS MOTOR SALES

In the year ended Dec. 31, 1923, the Olds motor works sold approximately 35,000 motor vehicles. This total aggregates about $38,000,000 in retail value.

WILLYS-OVERLAND BREAKS RECORDS

Production for March Brings Output to New Figure, Company Reports

Surpassing all previous monthly production records with a production of 24,091 cars for March, the conspicuously strong position of Willys-Overland during the past few weeks is now shown to be fully warranted. The company also exceeded any previous quarter with a total of 68,481 cars for the first quarter of this year, says Geo. T. Smith, of Smith-Sloan, Inc., 223 South Brand boulevard, local dealer.

Willys-Overland production for the first quarter of 1923 was 44,470 cars, which in itself was a very large increase over the same period for the previous year, but this year's production is an increase of 54 per cent over the same period last year. Shipments reached their high point on March 31st when the total was 1535 cars. The steady and remarkable progress of the Willys-Overland Company during the past three years has been one of the outstanding achievements of the industry. In 1921, Willys-Overland sales were 46,923; 1922, 52,886; 1923, 200,804, and the schedule for 1924 is 300,000, covered by commitments from dealers, a planned increase of 50% for this year.

Only seven manufacturers built more than 100,000 cars each last year. These seven built nearly 90% of all the cars. In the first three months of 1924, Willys-Overland showed an increase of 54 per cent over the first quarter of 1923, the largest increase among all of these seven leaders.

Usefulness That Pays Its Own Way

For a car of its size and weight the good Maxwell could not be more sturdily or soundly built if you paid us double the price. There is no skimping, only the best of materials and workmanship. Genuine goodness is built into it.

From an investment standpoint you'll discover no financial flaws. In fact you'll find its usefulness costs so little per mile that the car literally pays its own way.

Budget System Urged For All Auto Expense

A great deal of time and expense will be saved to a motorist who takes pride in his car through the use of a budget system. In the operating expenses of a car, the major items might be listed as gasoline, oil, tires, supplies and repairs. If an owner is interested in getting the maximum service out of his car at a minimum of cost consistent with such service, he will be willing to take the time to study the machine and learn how it operates best.

When the engine vibrates it is an indication that it is not secured tightly to the frame.

Hey, Sister! Here's Good News for You!

Female members of California families may secure a license to drive an automobile if they are 15 years of age, without obtaining consent of their parents but their brothers must wait three years longer. The Division of Motor Vehicles so ruled—in effect—in a bulletin issued today.

The bulletin points out that the motorist vehicle act requires the signatures of parents or guardians on application for operators' licenses made by "minors." The definition of a minor as given by the Civil Code and cited by the bulletin is: "Males—under 21 years of age. Females—under 18 years of age."

Hence, the bulletin concludes, if a "female," 18 or over applies for an operator's card the signatures of her parents are not necessary.

Longer Plates for License 'In Style'

Automobile license plates, two and a half inches longer than any ever before used in California, will shortly be issued at all branches of the division of motor vehicles, it is announced. A commitment of 40,000 of the long plates has been received at Sacramento from the Kittle Manufacturing Company of Los Angeles.

The new plates will display seven numbers, running from 1,050,000 upward. "Star" plates issued this year include only numbers running from 1,000,001 to 1,050,000, and practically all of these have been exhausted. It was the intention of the division to issue the longer plates for all numbers above 1,000,000.

Geo. F. Lombard, prop. of the Sunset Motor Works, located at the corner of Broadway and Pacific, has applied for incorporation papers and, when same are filed, expects to greatly enlarge the business which has steadily grown in popularity with motorists in Glendale, particularly those residing in the western section of the city.

This garage operates a first-class machine shop and operates a night shift, so that any patron who uses his car during the day can leave it at night and get it in the morning, all repaired mechanically or washed and polished.

THE STORY

DR. RALPH LESLIE, just graduated from medical college, and just over an attack of typhoid fever, ships on the yacht Ella as a sort of deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opportunity to recuperate. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorcee named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. Turner is dissipated and evidently jealous of his wife and Vail. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid named Karen Hansen, the cook and Williams, the butler.

IV—"NO RATS IN THE HOLD!"

Turner had gone below, grinning good-humored, to dress for dinner, and I went aft to chat, as I often did, with the steersman. On this occasion it happened to be Charlie Jones. Jones was not his name, so far as I knew. It was some inordinately long and different German inheritance, and so, with the facility of the average crew, he had been called Jones. He was a benevolent little man, highly religious, and something of a philosopher. And because I could understand German, and even essay in a limited way, he was fond of me.

"Setz du dich," he said, and moved over so that I could sit on the grating on which he stood. "The sky is fine tonight. Wunder-schon!"

"It always looks good to me," I observed, filling my pipe and passing my tobacco bag to him. "I may have my doubts now and then on land, Charlie, but here, between the sky and the sea, I'm a believer, right enough."

"In the beginning He created the heaven and the earth," said Charlie reverently.

We were silent for a time. The ship rolled easily; now and then she dipped her bowsprit with a soft splash of spray; a school of dolphins played astern in the last of the hand birds that had followed us out flew in circles around the masts.

"Sometimes," said Charlie Jones, "I think the Good Man should have left it the way it was after the flood—just sky and water. What's the land, anyhow? Noise and confusion, wickedness and crime, robbing the widow and the orphan, eat or be eaten."

"Well," I argued, "the sea's still the old Ella, the she-devil that way. What are those fish out there flying for, but to get out of the way of bigger fish?"

Charlie Jones surveyed me over his pipe.

"True enough, youngster," he said, "but the Lord's given 'em wings to fly with. He ain't been so careful with the widow and orphan."

This statement being incontrovertible, I let the argument lapse, and sat quiet, luxuriating in the warmth, in the fresh breeze, in the feeling of bodily well-being that came with my returning strength. I got up and stretched, and my eyes fell on the small window of the chartroom. The door into the main cabin beyond was open. It was dark with the summer twilight, except for the four rose-shaded candles on the table, now laid for dinner. A curious effect it had—the mate, for permission to sleep on deck, and was refused. I went down, obediently enough, to be driven back with nausea. And so, watching my chance, I waited until the first mate, on watch, disappeared into the forward cabin to eat the night lunch always prepared by the cook and left there.

Then, with a blanket and pillow, I crawled into the starboard lifeboat, and settled myself for the night. The lookout saw me, but gave no sign.

It was not a bad berth. As the ship listed, the stars seemed to sway above me, and my last recollection was of the Great Dipper performing dignified gyrations in the sky.

I was aroused by one of the two lookouts, a young fellow named Burns. He was standing below, rapping on the side of the boat with his knuckles. I sat up and peered over at him, and was conscious for the first time that the weather had changed. A fine rain was falling; my hair and shirt were wet.

"Something doing in the chart-room," he said cautiously. "Thought you might not want to miss it."

He was in his bare feet, as was I. Together we hurried to the after house. The steersman, in oilskins, was at his post, but was peering through the barred window into the chartroom, which was brilliantly lighted. He stepped aside somewhat to let us look in. The loud and furious voices which had guided us had quieted, but the situation had not relaxed.

Singleton, the first mate, and Turner were sitting at a table littered with bottles and glasses, and standing over them, white with fury, was Captain Richardson. The doorway to the main cabin, dressed in pajamas and a bathrobe, Vail was watching the scene.

"I told you last night, Mr. Turner," the captain said, banging the table with his fist, "I won't have you interfering with my officers, or with my ship. That man's on duty, and he's drunk."

"Your ship!" Turner sneered thickly. "It's my ship, and I—I discharge you."

He got to his feet, holding to the table. "Mr. Singleton—hick— from now on you're captain. Captain Singleton! How—how d'ye like it?"

Mr. Vail came forward, the only cool one of the four. "Don't be a fool, Marsh," he protested. "Come to bed. The captain's right."

Turner turned his pale-blue eyes on Vail, and they were as full of danger as a snake's. "You go to hell!" he said. "Singleton, you're the captain, d'ye hear? If you're Richardson gets funny, put him—in irons."

Singleton stood up, with a short of swagger. He was less intoxicated than Turner, but ugly enough. He faced the captain with a leer.

"Sorry, old fellow," he said, "but you heard what Turner said!"

The captain drew a deep breath. Then, without any warning, he leaned across the table and shot out his clenched fist. It took the mate on the point of the chin, and he folded up in a heap on the floor.

"Good old boy!" muttered Burns, beside me. "Good old boy!"

Turner picked up a bottle from the table, and made the same inco-ordinate pass with it at the captain as he had at me the morning before with his magazine. The captain did not move. He was a big man, and he folded his arms with their wrists across his chest.

"Mr. Turner," he said, "while we are on the sea I am in command here. You know that well enough. You are drunk tonight; in the morning you will be sober, and I want you to remember what I am going to say. If you interfere again—with me—or—my—officers—I—shall—put—you—in—irons."

He started for the after companionway, and Burns and I hurried forward out of his way. Burns to the lookout, I to make the round of the after house and bring up, safe from detection, by the wheel again. The mate was in a chair, looking sick and dazed, and Turner and Vail were confronting each other.

"You know that is a lie," Vail was saying. "She is faithful to you, as far as I know, although I'm damned if I know why." He turned to the mate roughly: "Get out into the air."

Once again I left my window to avoid discovery. The mate, walking slowly, made his way up the companionway to the rail. The man at the wheel reported in the fore-cabin, when he came down at the end of his watch, that Singleton had seemed dazed, and had stood leaning against the rail for some time, occasionally cursing to himself; that the second mate had come on deck, and had sent him to bed; and that the captain was shut in his cabin with the light going.

There was much discussion of the incident among the crew. Sympathy was with the captain, and there was a general feeling that the end had not come. Charlie Jones, reading his Bible on the edge of his bunk, voiced the general belief.

"Knowin' the Turners, hull and mast," he said, "and having sailed with Captain Richardson off and on for ten years, the chances is good of our havin' a hell of a time. It ain't natural, anyhow, this voyage with no rats in the hold, and all the insects killed with this here formaldehyde, and ice cream sent to the fo'c's'le on Sunday!"

But at first the thing seemed smothered over. It is true that the captain did not speak to any first mate except when compelled to, and that Turner and the captain ignored each other elaborately. The cruise went on without event. There was no attempt on Turner's part to carry out his threat of the night before, nor did he, as the crew had prophesied, order the Ella into the nearest port. He kept much to himself, spending whole days below, with Williams carrying him highballs, always appearing at dinner, however, sodden of face, but immaculately dressed, and eating little or nothing.

A week went by in this fashion, luring us all to security. I was still lean but fairly strong again. Vail, left to himself or to talking with me now and then, I thought he was uneasy. More than once he expressed a regret that he had taken the cruise, laying his discontent to the long inaction. But the real reason was Turner's jealousy of him, the obsession of the dipsomaniac. I knew it, and Vail knew that I knew.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Be-United States through prohibiting fore purchasing a dirigible for private pleasure purposes, it might be advisable to run a calculating eye down the right-hand side of these fixtures:

Helium is being produced at a relatively cheap price at present, only six and a half cents a cubic foot, while last year it was up around ten cents per cubic foot, according to figures just made available by the American Chemical society.

Since airships like the Shenadoah use about five million cubic feet, the cost of the gas is now a mere $325,000, while hitherto it amounted to approximately $500,000.

If one has a few hundred thousand to get rid of he can invest it in a helium-inflated dirigible and then land on some nice convenient picket fence or spear-pointed flagstaff.

Use of helium exclusively—for the present at least—in government and commercial airships is urged, it being declared that the last three grave disasters have occurred to ships using hydrogen and that the accidents have been primarily due to fire.

In the reference to the relative safety of hydrogen and helium the society's statement declares "it is time for the facts to be thoroughly known and appreciated." Hydrogen could be used later for "freighters" when we are more accustomed to aerial navigation, it is suggested.

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

THE LANGUAGE OF LOVE Dear Mrs. Thompson—What am I to do? I have known a boy in 19 years old for two years. I am 17. We have always been good friends, and in the last three weeks he has spoken to me of love. I like him very much, and he says he loves me, but he has always been quite a "kiddier" and I cannot make myself sure of him. He says he understands my feelings and that it hurts him to have me feel that he might be kidding me. He says I will have to take his word for it or wait until he finds a way to prove his love. I can see he has more respect for me than for other girls. Do you think he loves me?

HE'S BASHFUL Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am at a loss to know what to do. I have two special boy friends, one whom I like very much more than the other. As the case sometimes is, however, he is rather bashful and seldom takes a girl out to public entertainments. The other one, with whom I have been keeping steady company for the last three months, is just the opposite and does not hesitate to invite girls. I find that I cannot keep the close friendship of both boys because of the lack of spirit of competition in the second. Should I give up the friendship of the "steady" and go to entertainments single for the sake of the friendship of the first? I know he has some feeling for me and will sometime get over his bashfulness.

OHIO METAL WORKER A Ray S. Ball, Huron, Ohio, was a victim of coughs and colds. Both he and his sister suffered with them, but found "speedy relief" through the use of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND, the old favorite cough remedy. He writes: "I have found FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND a most excellent remedy for coughs and colds. My sister had a severe cold and cough a year ago and found speedy relief in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND." DATE OF SPEECH Everyone knows that Lincoln's famous Gettysburg speech was delivered in 1863, but few can recall the date. It was November 19, and was on the occasion of the dedication of the National cemetery. It contains 266 words and took about five minutes to deliver. It was, in fact, read and left no impression at the moment, except that from that moment the oration given just before by Edward Everett, noted as an orator, was quite forgotten.

The first was shot by Carlisle thieves—ten years ago in Spain. The second drowned near Alecantre—while I alive remain. I love to see their dim white forms come floating through the night, And grieve to see them fade away in early morning light. The first with gnomes in the Under Land is leading a lordly life, The second has married a mermaid, a beautiful water-wife. ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

A VALENTINE
"Dear Doctor Lu, I'm still true! Girls like you are very few. Now please tell me what to do; what to eat, what to eschew, for a hyper-acid tummy."
Gratefully, F. H."

Hyper-acid tummies, dear, by many things are caused; bolting, 'hacco, excess fear, all breaking Nature's laws. The list's too long to give you, I guess. What to do? Just cut these out, reform if thus you've done. Send for the piece which I have writ; 'twill cure your acid tum. When asking for this article, forget not to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope; 'tis only thus it goes. Thanks muchly for your valentine, 'twas very nice to do—the "girl" and "true" sure sounded fine! I send my love to you.

"Dear Doctor—I am making a collection of your articles, but they are mostly on reducing and I know them by heart. Now you are beginning on the gaining, which suits me. But everything is milk, milk, milk. What can I do about a substitute, for I cannot use it? You can use cottage cheese or take the milk in the form of custards and cream soups. Perhaps a malted or buttermilk will suit you. You must enjoy the reducing articles—else you wouldn't read 'em, n'est-ce-pas?"

"Dear Dr. Peters—I first tried your calorific method of treatment, with the result that I got rid of 20 pounds in two months. An untimely visit stopped the process and I've tried ever since to get at it, but so far it has been ineffectual spurts.
"Last summer I started in with our newspaper class. I found I had gained two pounds at the end of three days' liquid diet! I've mostly tried to wish it off since. It doesn't work. And, ye gods, how I need it off! I'm nearing 40 and weigh—say, I never mind telling my age, and I don't mind telling my weight to observers (because seeing is believing) but it's as hard to write as it is keeping out of the doughnut jar! Listen, and please don't tell anyone else—and remember, I'm very unusually solid, and in good shape (considering), rather tall (but not tall enough)—I weigh 220 pounds! Well, I feel better. Think that off my mind must be a pound.

"Tonight I've screwed my courage to the sticking point and I'm going in hard for reduction. I will not use one mouthful of solid food until I get your reducing pamphlet and word from you that you, at least, think I mean it. When camping time comes I intend to be able to take my dips in daylight, so there! Yours for reduction—V."

On your three-day liquid diet you certainly must have eaten more calories than you needed or else you'd be dead. I imagine the scales were wrong. "I hope you followed the rules of the column in sending for the reducing pamphlet; otherwise I fear you are still on the liquid diet and by this time you have lost tons.
If you do not forward a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your stamps, the office probably did not forward the pamphlet. I get so many thousands of letters that it would require an extra office to address envelopes, so we have to insist on this point.

Tomorrow—Answers to Mothers
My Dear Followers—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we do not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or cure you and resort it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. s. e. if you expect me to send you the Copyright 1924, George Matthew Adams.

BEAUTY-MAKING SPORTS
Good weather for outdoor sports can be counted upon from now on, so the woman who wants to improve her appearance had better begin looking about for a country or a tennis club to join. Everyone nowadays plays tennis, at least everyone should. There is nothing except swimming to beat it for giving one a quick eye and a trim and graceful figure. Any vacant lot big enough for even the smallest house is big enough for a tennis court, and though the laying out of a proper one is not easy, yet it is not too difficult for the amateur to try, especially as there are dozens of good books on how it should be done. Best of all, it is not expensive to make a good court.
If you haven't the necessary space for tennis, or the energy to play, you can get fresh air and enjoyment and a certain amount of very mild exercise out of the good old fashioned game of croquet. And better yet, if you have only a small garden space, you can revive the ancient and honorable game of bowling. In England there are still bowling greens in every village. We used to have them here though I doubt whether any exist now except at a few country clubs. An outdoor bowling alley needs nothing but smooth level turf, and as it is narrow it can be made to run down the side of any moderately long garden.
Bowling is a splendid exercise for both men and women. It develops the muscles of the arms and shoulders, and all the muscles running down the back and the sides. I know nothing better to take off the loose lump of fat which often hangs in an unsightly manner over the top of the corset. Indoor bowling alleys exist in every town and village and it is quite proper now for women to go to them. Bowling is frequently recommended by doctors as a cure for constipation and obesity.
Mrs. B. L.—The flabbiness under your chin likely comes from the facial muscles losing some of their firmness, and if you would treat the entire face and throat instead of just the muscles under the chin, you would improve the condition. Massage face and throat always taking care to lift the muscles, instead of making downward strokes. Continue with the olive oil or use a nourishing cream, and finish with the ice rub to close pores and stimulate the circulation under the skin.
Give yourself a complete astringent treatment once each week, by applying one part white of egg to six parts water, and leaving it dry on the skin for thirty minutes. This should follow the regular cleaning of the pores, and after it is washed from the skin, the massage with the oil or cream should follow. Conclude the treatment as usual with the ice rub. Such treatment tightens a loose skin which helps to strengthen the muscles, and all general flabbiness is improved through it.
Tomorrow—Is Your Skin Dry?
All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

WITH WOMEN OF TODAY
For more than fifty years, Mrs. J. W. Patterson, 83, of Marshall, Mo., has been a news-gatherer and writer. She is one of the most active members of the staff of the Thomas was kept busy keeping track of the thousands of checks sent out to former service men.
Mr. George L. Reid was also employed in the same department, and the amount and importance of the work at hand did not prevent a romance from blossoming. Miss Thomas is now Mrs. Reid, but is still working for the bonus commission, which will soon have the entire Kansas state bonus distributed.
Miss Elsie Mackay of England recently participated in the aerial circus at the Stag Lane aerodrome. She was trained at the De Havilland school of flying in London.
The red ribbon of the Legion of Honor has been awarded to Sister Leonide, guardian, comforter and friend of many noted women imprisoned in the St. Lazare prison, Paris, in appreciation of her long and faithful service.
Dinner Stories
THE MINISTER'S SLIP
Most of the gathering at Wednesday night's prayer meeting went out shaking with terror or something, when Rev. Brown announced, "Miss Susanne Nelson will now sing 'I Lay Me Down to Sleep,' accompanied by our new organ player."
MAKES A DIFFERENCE
"What's Maud crying about now?"
"Oh, she asked her husband if he would marry again in case she died, and he declared that he wouldn't."
"Well, nothing wrong about that."
"No; but you should have heard him say it."
MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING
Don't go around feeling tired, lacking in energy and strength, because your kidneys are not working properly. The use of FOLEY PILLS, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, will give your kidneys a good flushing, remove injurious waste matter and bring the kidneys back to a normal, active condition. At Local Theatres

THE GLENDALE
Hoot Gibson in "Hook and Ladder," a comedy drama of a rookie fireman, is the Universal feature at the Glendale Theatre today only.
The star is introduced as a sleepy, lazy cowpuncher of an indifferent nature and this disposition affords a mood for clever comedy in the early training days of the recruit firemen. Things happen so fast in his direction that he scarcely is aware of anything—but the fire chief's daughter.
The big run by the fire department and the rescue from the burning building of the fire chief's daughter and the political boss, come as a smashing climax to a really worthwhile production.
In addition, at 9 o'clock tonight there will be a preview of the new Sunshine comedy, "Children Wanted," with Neely Edwards and Charlotte Merriam.
RENEWED EGGS
Deceptions practiced on the consumer of eggs will be checked by the United States Department of Agriculture, under the authority of the food and drug act. Unscrupulous dealers have been removing the telltale gloss from the shell of storage eggs by means of "manicuring" them with a blast of fine sand or by treating them with an alkali solution, after which they were rubbed with dry talc or French chalk, and sold as being fresh. Chemists of the government have perfected their method of telling when an egg has been treated in this way.
ACCIDENTS COSTLY
More than a million dollars a year is the cost of industrial accidents, which includes enforced idleness, medical treatment and insurance only. The National Industrial Conference Board has compiled the figures showing the rise from a quarter of a billion dollars a few years ago to the present amount. There were 2,453,418 accidents in 1923, resulting in 21,232 deaths and in the permanent disability of 1728 persons and 105,629 partially disabled.

Finally I had the inspiration of buying the cheaper kind of atomizer (the kind with the rubber bulb uncovered) and crocheting the bulb-cover myself! GETS HIS REVENGE
A motorist was stopped by a policeman for speeding, whereupon he became angry and called the policeman an ass. After he had paid his fine the judge reproved him for what he had said to the officer.
"Then I mustn't call a policeman an ass?"
"Certainly not," said the judge. "You must not insult the police."
"But you wouldn't mind if I call an ass a policeman, would you?"
"Why, no, if it gives you any satisfaction," answered his honor, with a smile.
The motorist turned to the man who had arrested him. "Good-day, policeman," he said, as he left the courtroom.

PREPARATIONS
A speaker engaged to lecture in a small town in the middle west arrived in the afternoon. The place seemed but poorly provided with show bills, and he thought he would find out if people knew anything at all about what was in store for them. Accordingly, he entered a grocer's shop.
"Good afternoon," he said to the man behind the counter. "Any entertainment going on here tonight? Anything that will help me to while away an evening?"
The shopkeeper gazed at his interrogator, wiped his hands and then replied slowly:
"Well, I expect there's goin' to be a lecture. I've been sellin' eggs all day."

HONOR MEMORY

OF MRS. GIBSON
Student Body Pays Tribute To Beloved Teacher at High School

Memorial services for the late Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the music department of the Glendale Union High School, were held yesterday morning.

Then Mr. Moyle made a short address, dwelling first on the years of faithful service of Mrs. Gibson, her readiness to participate in the music world of Glendale.

The orchestra played "The Evening Star," Burton Kuntzer leading the orchestra and Thomas Woods, Jr., played the violin solo.

My dear Sir:—It is with deep regret that I learn of the death of Mrs. Dora Gibson, your beloved teacher.

I consider this loss a great calamity for the welfare of musical conditions in general, in Glendale.

Through her death, I not only lost a very dear friend but you also must feel the loss of a fine musician and an unusually painstaking and lovable teacher.

With deepest condolences, I beg to remain, (Signed)
Brahm van der Berg.

Resolutions Passed by the Executive Council of Glendale Union High School Teachers' Club, April 22, 1924:

In recognition of the long term of service of Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the music department of this high school; of her personal interest in the future of her students, to many of whom she gave inspiration and practical help even after their graduation;

and of the personal charm which endeared her to her friends and co-workers—

The members of the Glendale Union High School Teachers' Club wish to express their deep regret and sorrow at the loss of one whose personal quality and professional ability they have greatly appreciated.

These resolutions will be entered upon the records of the Glendale Union High School Teachers' Club, a copy will be sent to Mrs. Gibson's family, and one to each of the Glendale papers.

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

Quarantine Regulations to Be Rigidly Enforced in Stock Epidemic

district or not. To take a dog from Glendale to Los Angeles requires a permit. If the people realized the seriousness of the situation, I am sure they would be more careful. The city is doing everything in its power to prevent the spread of the disease.

Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer, has given the matter his personal attention. At his direction all garbage collected in the city is being sterilized and cooked before being fed to hogs. The importance of this move will be realized when it is taken into consideration, he says, the fact that the municipal hog herd of Long Beach was killed yesterday.

People Are Immune "Fortunately human beings are immune from the malady," he said yesterday. "There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that the foot-and-mouth disease can be transmitted by milk or meat. There is no danger in drinking raw milk any more than pasteurized milk. As cooking destroys all germs the meat we use on our tables is pure when we eat it. Everyone in Glendale should feel free to eat their customary amount of meat and drink their usual amount of milk, either raw or pasteurized. There is absolutely no danger."

Permits for the transportation of live stock must now be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce building at Lankershim, where an area captain's office has been established, with a federal and a state officer in charge. It is not necessary to go to the Finance building in Los Angeles, as was formerly the case. Anyone, says Dr. Kaemmerling, may obtain full information regarding the regulations by calling the city health department.

So great is the demand for raw cotton, hosiery and cloth clippings in Germany, that they are not only allowed free entry into Germany, but are totally exempt from customs duties.

MANUFACTURE OF ICE INCREASING

Good Health Depends on Its Use as Preventive of Contamination

Interesting to some is the fact that a few more millions in gold arrived from Europe a few days ago, and was sent to the National City bank, New York. Just as important is the fact that the manufacture of ice last winter was greater than ever before. For just as the influx of gold to the United States is an indication of national wealth, so the out-go of ice from the manufacturer is an indication of national health.

In slum sections of large cities, where the use of ice as a food preservative is almost unknown, health standards are deplorably low. Just the reverse is true in communities where ice is regarded as an all-year-around necessity. Good health depends, to a great extent, upon good food; and perishable foodstuffs can only be kept good by one method--ice.

Education Helps It is interesting to note how education has co-operated with legislation in this respect. The purveyor of foods is prevented by law from selling foodstuffs which are not fresh and wholesome. But no law can prevent the housewife from allowing them to spoil before using them. It is at this point that education steps in, explaining that spoiled food is not only an economic waste but a grave error from a hygienic standpoint. Even when the food exhibits none of the usual signs of spoiling much of its nutritive value may be lost.

The result has been an increased consumption of ice, and higher health standards in general.

INTEREST SHOWN IN MOON MODELS

Penn-Rawls Motor Co. Show Many Prospects Since Opening Agency

Since the opening of the Moon agency at 510 East Broadway by the Penn-Rawls Motor company last week, the interest in this car has been mounting steadily, due, in great part, to the aggressive policy that the firm has adopted, according to a report by O. W. Penn, one of the partners. Another factor that has caused the interest to grow has been the attractive appearance and the striking ability of the Moon car to "deliver the goods" in answer to every demand that is made on it.

The organization has been demonstrating the Moon cars to many prospects since starting here, and the new Series A cars have made a decided impression on those who have been privileged to ride in them, Mr. Penn asserts. One feature that the firm is stressing is the fact that the Moon policy of building its cars from the various standard units manufactured by specialists in their lines, according to Moon specifications, thus permitting the organization to turn out a car that embodies every feature accepted by leaders in the automotive industry, at a cost that brings the Moon down to a point where it is within the reach of the man of moderate means who yet desires to drive a car that can take its place in any company.

in fares to Pacific Coast Resorts this summer

Spend your summer at one of the delightful resorts along the Pacific Coast. You'll find invigorating outdoor fun and incomparable beauties in the mountains, near one of the lakes or by the sea. And the new low round trip fares of the Southern Pacific, effective April 25, 1924, make it easy to go where you like.

Some of these round trip summer excursion fares are only a little more than the one way fare. You get Southern Pacific Service all the way which means comfortable, pleasant travel accommodations and thoughtful, courteous attention to your wishes. Ask any Southern Pacific Agent for full information about these bargain fares.
