PROPOSED CHARTER OF FLORIDA STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

PREAMBLE.

WHEREAS, to collect and preserve the evidence of its own history from the earliest date is both the duty and interest of every political society, whether its progress has been prosperous or disastrous; and

WHEREAS, the history of Florida, which was discovered by the Spaniards and first settled by them; which the French coveted and tried to capture from Spain; which the English tried to take from Spain by force of arms, but finally acquired by treaty, only to return it once more to Spain after a lapse of twenty years; which the new United States desired for strategic reasons and acquired by purchase and treaty, making of it first a territory and elevating it finally to full statehood; which was the haunt of buccaneers and privateers, and the scene of Indian massacres and wars, and of colonizing projects of many varieties; which performed its share in the Civil War, the Spanish War and the World War, presents as inspiring a field for historical research as the history of any other State in the Union; a field which at the present time is almost untouched;

THEREFORE, impressed with these considerations and desirous of inspiring in the citizens of Florida a wholesome curiosity for the deeds of their predecessors who traveled, fought and died on our soil, sustained always by an ideal; and believing that good will come from the study of those old ideals, we, whose names are subjoined, do hereby unite ourselves in a society, in order to be incorporated and become a corporation not for profit, under the laws of the State of Florida, and for the purpose of elucidating the natural, civil, literary and ecclesiastical history of Florida, and hereby propose and subscribe the following charter:

The proposed alteration shall be posted in the meeting place of the Society for two weeks before final action, and no such alteration shall be adopted except upon the vote in its favor of two-thirds of the annual members of the Society in good standing present at the meeting at which the vote shall be taken upon its final adoption.
