INTRODUCTION.

THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS

(BROTHERS OF THE CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS.)

THE BLESSED JOHN BAPTIST DE LA SALLE,

Founder of the Christian Brothers (Brothers of the Christian Schools), Born at Rheims, April 30, 1651; died at Rouen, April 7, 1719;
beatified February 19, 1888.

WEARIED with the subjective labor of mental philosophy, human ingenuity has turned away from scholastic questions and taken to investigating the air, the wind, the rocks. The material progress of this century has never been equaled. We are adepts in the construction of conveniences for applying the principles established long before the dawning of our day. Montaigne mentions the microbe theory of disease; Pasteur applied it. We boast of our splendid maps, telescopes, paper, elegantly bound and printed text-books, hygienic buildings and desks for our schools, but the methods and principles used in them were known and practiced two centuries ago. We are new in things, but not in thought.

What Aristotle did for logic, what Dante did for the Italian tongue, Wagner for music as a medium of expression, that did the Blessed John Baptist De La Salle for education. But he went one step farther than these masters—he established a society of men whose only object in life is to carry out the principles he discovered and formulated. This he did in 1680, when, renouncing his wealth and social standing, he took up his abode with a few companions and taught them the science and the art of pedagogy. To-day his society is spread throughout the world. The life-business of its members is education. For two hundred years they have tested the principles of their master, and these principles have not been found wanting. His fertile genius developed and directed every form of educational establishment known even to this inventive age; and throughout the world to-day, wherever a schoolroom is presided over by one teacher, the eloquent tribute of silent imitation is rendered the genius of John Baptist De La Salle. Personally a saint, the written law that governs his society calls for holiness in every Brother of the Christian Schools. Wise with a wisdom not of this world, he knew the marvelous influence of a teacher's personality on his class, and consequently he demands from the teacher a high standard of virtue. The glory of his genius has circled the globe. Louis XIV was on the throne, Racine and Corneille were penning their masterpieces, when he was born. To-day history tells us of this dead and vanished King, and the world has preserved the lifeless pages of the immortal poets; but John Baptist De La Salle lives in every member of the order he founded—nine thousand strong in France, two thousand in the Americas, and the remaining five thousand scattered over the globe.

THE "Christian Brothers' College" is conducted by the Christian Brothers—or, more properly, the Brothers of the Christian Schools—a religious order founded in France in 1680 by the Blessed John Baptist De La Salle. The order is now spread throughout the world, having schools and colleges in every land.

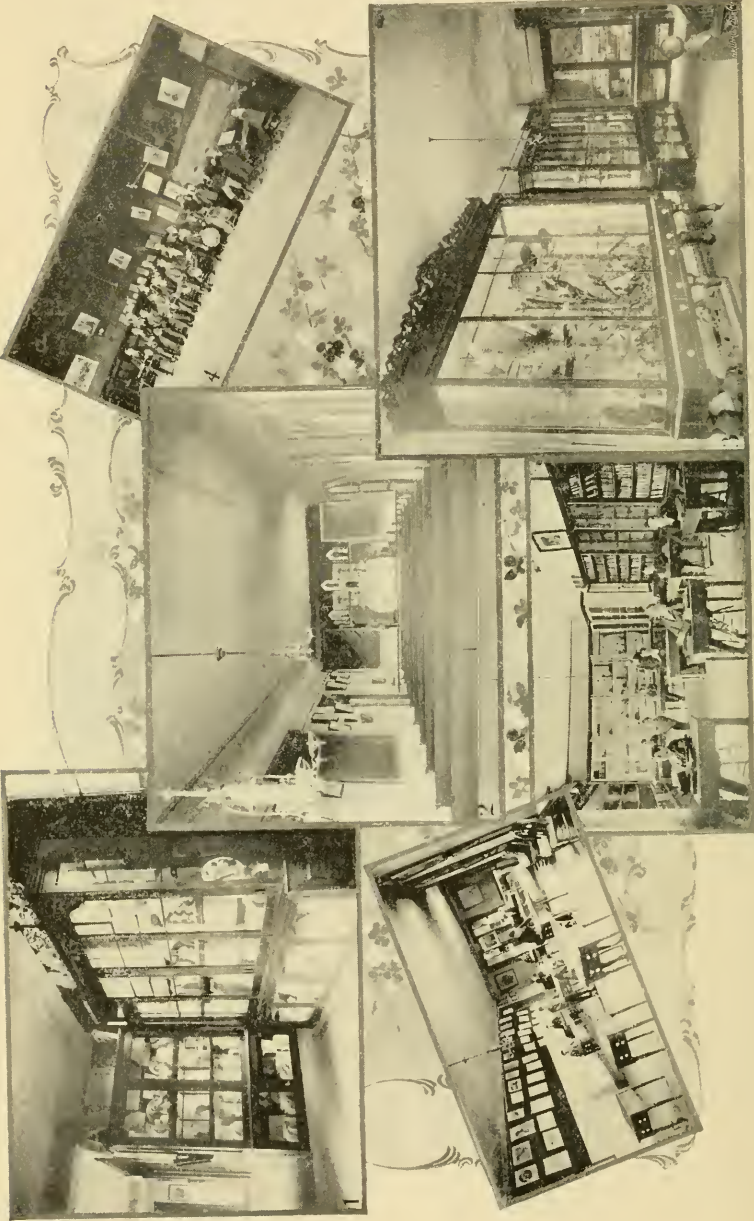

The College in Memphis was formally opened on November 19, 1871, at the urgent solicitation of the clergy and people of the city, and more especially of the Most Reverend P. A. Feehan, then Bishop of Nashville, now Archbishop of Chicago.

Previous to 1871 efforts had been made to induce the Christian Brothers to establish one of their colleges in Memphis. In 1865 a very desirable location on Wellington street was purchased for the erection of a school for the Brothers by the Reverend Thomas L. Power, O. P., then pastor of St. Peter's Church. The pressing demand for schools in other places, however, made it impossible to open the Memphis house before 1871. The great fire of that year having destroyed the Christian Brothers' College in Chicago, the Provincial was enabled to spare a few members of the order for the purpose of establishing a college in Memphis.

The Bishop, the clergy, and citizens of all denominations, united in a subscription for the purpose of paying the first installment on the College property. That world-famed pulpit orator, the Very Reverend Thomas N. Burke, O. P., gave one of his first lectures in America—"The Ruins of Ireland"—to aid in establishing the College. The lecture was delivered at the old Greenlaw Opera House on Monday evening, January 15, 1872.

The College property is situated on Adams street, in a central part of the city, and embraces a portion of the ground and buildings of the old "Memphis Female College" established by C. G. McPherson in 1854. The charter granted to the Memphis Female College in 1854 by the Legislature of the State was revised in 1872 so as to be made applicable to a college for young men. The original property has been very much enlarged and increased in value by the Christian Brothers, who have spent many thousands of dollars in the purchase of additional ground and in the erection of new buildings.

During the past twenty-five years the career of the College has been that of the city; it has shared in her misfortunes and participated in her prosperity. As successive epidemics and periods of financial depression have not prevented Memphis from advancing to that rank for which her location and other advantages have destined her, so neither have they been able to thwart the efforts of the Christian Brothers in establishing an educational institution of high rank in this progressive Southern city. True, they have labored under disadvantages. With no endowment and but little help, they are not yet free from all financial obligations on their property. Perhaps the near future will bring forward some philanthropists who will do for the Christian Brothers' College of Memphis what others have done for so many institutions throughout the land.

In the jubilee year of their existence in Memphis, the Christian Brothers are able to show good work done in the past, and they point with pride to the number of young men who have gone forth from the school to occupy positions of trust and responsibility in the church, and in the mercantile, as well as in the professional, world.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION AND TRAINING.

THE Christian Brothers, a society entirely devoted to the great work of educating youth, have for many years seriously directed their attention to a consideration of the essentials necessary for the young men of our country to acquire a refined and eminently liberal education. Taking the subject in its more extended meaning, they founded their system with a view of affording a full and vigorous development of all the mental and physical powers. They make it especially the chief end of their teaching, to furnish the minds of their pupils with a summary of moral and religious truths that will serve as a safe rule of conduct in after life. They do not look upon education as a mere automaton by which a certain complement of moral truths or scientific facts may be crammed into the memory without, at the same time, a strenuous effort being made on the part of instructors to induce the reasoning faculties of their pupils to form a clear conception of the knowledge acquired.

It is their conviction, deduced from long experience in teaching and from the writings of the most eminent instructors in past ages, that the intellect should be conducted to the discovery of truth by the pure efforts of its own innate activity, and that no scientific fact should be received into the mental capacities without being distinctly perceived by the understanding. Therefore, they regard the communication of knowledge as only of subordinate importance when compared to the intellectual exertion made in the endeavor to acquire clear, distinct and adequate notions of all facts submitted to the mind for reflection. They are firmly persuaded that each successive step toward advancement in scientific knowledge must result from the student's own efforts, aided and directed by methodical text-books and experienced teachers. In accordance with these convictions, their whole endeavor is to bring the minds of their pupils to a full command and ready employment of all their intellectual powers. But the great difficulty experienced by all instructors is, how to induce each individual pupil to go through a course of mental training, at first slow and imperfect in its results, but finally rapid and complete, fitting the mind for any emergency encountered in the practical walks of life. Hence the Christian Brothers agree with all profound theorists on education, that, to secure ultimate success, the mind of the student must be accustomed to efforts of self-activity, and nothing must be done for him which he is capable of doing for himself.

To carry into effect these fundamental and crowning principles of an enlightened and decidedly practical education, have been the chief aim and constant endeavors of the Faculty and Professors of the Christian Brothers' College. And in inviting attention to their Catalogue, they sincerely hope that the results herein stated of the past years will meet the entire approbation of patrons and friends, and prove satisfactorily to all that the aforementioned views on education are conscientiously carried out, as far as the times and attending circumstances permit.

From a passing glance at the Prospectus given in this Catalogue, the various branches of knowledge taught within the halls of this Institution will become quite apparent. It will be seen that the classification of the studies has been made wholly with a view of meeting all the demands of students desiring to pursue either a Preparatory, Commercial, Scientific or Collegiate course. The quality and amount of study embraced in each of these four departments are assorted and proportioned according to the strength and reach of the pupil's intellect. Each department is again divided into two or more classes, placed under the immediate direction of at least two professors. Ample time is afforded for the preparation of lessons in a spacious study hall, fitted out for this special purpose; where the vigilance of a prefect is continually exercised to see that all the students faithfully acquit themselves of their assigned duties. In the classroom, the instructor in each specialty goes through a searching examination to assure himself that his pupils thoroughly understand the meaning of each term, as well as the specific and general bearing of the whole thought, contained in the lesson. During these examinations, the students are permitted to interrogate their professor, and each other, on all facts connected with the subject of study, provided it be done in good order and in a spirit of generous rivalry.

No student will be promoted to a higher class, or advanced in his studies, without giving evidence of proficiency in all his previous attainments. For this purpose an inspector, appointed by the Faculty, makes it his duty to pay regular visits to all the classes, and also to see that a proper gradation is maintained throughout the several departments.

The Preparatory, Intermediate and Commercial Courses embrace all those branches of knowledge deemed indispensable in the thrifty and practical avocations of life. The Scientific and Literary Course, pursued in the Collegiate Department, is intended to fit young men who have the necessary time and requisite means at their disposal for the after successful study of any one of the learned professions and entitling them to take out their university degrees, when the Faculty shall deem them in every respect deserving the honor. The Greek and Latin Classics, English Literature and Philosophy constitute an integral part of this course. At the same time, the different branches of Natural History, especially Physics and Chemistry, are sedulously taught both by theory and experiment. While the pure and mixed Mathematics are studied with a completeness and precision unsurpassed by similar institutions in the country.

The main object in view in this department is to conduct the minds of those students who have already acquired a sufficient knowledge of the liberal arts through the higher grades of a purely intellectual training. For this purpose the junior members will be required to devote special attention to the study of Metaphysics, Logic, and the Philosophy of History and Literature. And the senior members must be unsparing in their endeavors to attain a sound knowledge of the principles of Political and Moral Philosophy and the doctrine of Ontology.

Though the Modern Languages, Linear and Ornamental Drawing and Instrumental Music are left optional with the student, yet the Faculty hold out every inducement toward a successful prosecution of these necessary accomplishments of a really liberal and finished education. To this encouragement may, in part, be attributed the marked improvement made by the students of the School in Art during past years.

Written and oral examinations are held at stated periods during the year and toward the close of the session, so as to leave on the mind a lasting impression of those general principles which should never be forgotten, to keep the mind of the pupil intensely at work to the close of the term, and to ascertain who are worthy of promotion or of the honors of the College.

With such a diversity of studies, optional with the students, and the completeness with which they are prosecuted, together with the incentives used to insure success, the Faculty and Professors of the Christian Brothers' College believe that they afford every inducement to parents and guardians to patronize their institution, while from the peculiar adaptation of the class system to form the young mind for reflection, in the varied classification of studies, the pupils, at any stage of improvement, may find whatever suits the bent of their faculties, and more directly fit them for the after requirements of their intended career.

Christian Brothers' College.

MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

INCORPORATED BY AN ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TENNESSEE.

PROSPECTUS.

THE object of this institution is to afford students the means of acquiring a refined and liberal education.

The location of the College buildings is on one of the most elevated and desirable positions in the city of Memphis. The extensive buildings are as perfect for health and comfort as the most approved methods of steam heating, lighting and ventilation can suggest.

The discipline of the institution is of a suasive and parental character. Conducted by the Christian Brothers, who are specially vowed to the culture of youth, it is hardly necessary to assure the public that vigilant care is bestowed on the moral training of all committed to their charge.

The curriculum runs through a Preparatory, Commercial and Collegiate, Literary and Scientific course, commencing about the first of September of each year, and ending on the first of July next ensuing.

On completing the Classical or Scientific course, degrees are conferred on students who prove themselves deserving of these distinctions, and after two years creditably spent in some literary pursuit, the graduate is entitled to the Master's degree.

Diplomas are awarded to the students of the Commercial Department, provided they stand a satisfactory examination before the Faculty.

Oration at the Commencement, if the Faculty so decide—and a copy of which shall be left in the College.

Honorary Degrees are given at the discretion of the Faculty.

Fine Arts.

The Fine Arts exercise a refining influence on youth, and for this reason the Christian Brothers have devoted great care to the instruction of their students in Music and Drawing.

Music.

In order to encourage the study of Music, the Christian Brothers have, for the past few years, incited their students to intense application with the happiest results. Professors Wm. Wallace Saxby and Herman F. Schulze are the instructors.

It is the purpose of the Christian Brothers to perfect their facilities for thorough instruction on the Violin, Flute Piano, Cornet, Mandolin, Guitar, or any other instrument.

A brass band is organized among the students, and the pupils of the advanced Music Classes have orchestral accompaniment.

 D. Botto, F. Kelly, A. Canale, Captain, H. Frankel, J. Cook.

Physical Culture.

The Christian Brothers hold that moral and intellectual training without physical culture is an incomplete education.

A well-equipped gymnasium provides in-door sport and exercise during inclement weather. Four hand-ball alleys invite students to healthful exercise. The College campus affords ample room for baseball, football, and the like. The field day sports of the past session have had a very happy effect in stimulating athletics. The baseball and other clubs in the College did honor to themselves in the many victories achieved. The following notice in the Commercial Appeal of June 27, 1897, shows the creditable record of the "Gideon Stars:"

"The Gideon Stars of the Christian Brothers' College have disbanded for the summer, after having made a splendid record. They played fifteen games, winning twelve and losing three. The winning games were: Brothers 20, Chelsea Blues 4; Brothers 21, Exchange Stars 6; Brothers 12, University School 11; Brothers 17, University School 0; Brothers 13, University School 12; Brothers 19, Poplar Street Reds 11; Brothers 17, Boulevard Stars 15; Brothers 14, Buchanan Pickups 8; Brothers 2, Chelsea Blues 1; Brothers 23, Fort Pickering Stars 4; Brothers 12, Goodbar Shoe Co. 9; Brothers 16, Alumni 6. Literary and Debating Societies.

IN several classes the students have formed themselves into Literary Societies with the sole aim of improving themselves in oral discussion, and of acquiring a correct and refined style of composition. The Faculty have approved the constitutions, by-laws and rules of order of the Societies. These have been drawn up so as to be in accordance with the peculiar workings of an educational institution. The members hold weekly meetings in the halls of the College. The Professors of English Literature always attend these sittings and act in the capacity of critics.

All compositions must be read before the Society, and afterward placed upon the desk of the critic for correction. After being carefully revised, they are returned to the author, with written criticisms subjoined. All subjects read, or debated, before the Society, are required to be original, well chosen, logically treated, and all the requirements of grammar and rhetoric to be scrupulously observed. At every regular meeting, all the members present are required to debate; and each, when appointed, to read, consecutively, either a thesis, an essay, a biography, or a correspondence.

REPORT OF
COMMITTEE ON SOUVENIR CATALOGUE.

The Committee on the Silver Jubilee Souvenir Catalogue decided upon having a number of exterior and interior half-tone views of the College, the portraits of the four Brothers who were founders of the College, and at least three others who had spent many years in building up the institution during the past quarter of a century. It was with difficulty that Brother Maurelian consented to allow his own portrait and those of the Brothers to be included, on the ground that it is unusual for members of religious orders to have their pictures appear in college catalogues. The Committee likewise invited all members of the Alumni to send photographs so as to emphasize the kindly interest they felt in the College by having their portraits appear in the Catalogue. It is to be regretted that some arrived too late for publication.

The grouping of the portraits, on account of the different sizes and styles of photographs, was left to the judgment of the artist and engraver.

REPORTS OF OTHER COMMITTEES.

The reports of Committees on Banquet and Field Day Sports were approved and carried out in a manner worthy of the Silver Jubilee Year.

History of the Silver Jubilee Celebration.

The Commercial Appeal, the Evening Scimitar and the Catholic Journal furnished their readers with complete and interesting accounts of the celebration, and the reports and editorial notices are herewith reproduced as follows :

[From Catholic Journal.]

During the first three days of this week the celebration of the silver jubilee of the Christian Brothers' College took place. Twenty-five years ago last November, at the urgent solicitation of Bishop—now Archbishop—Feehan and of the Very Rev. M. Riordan, Vicar-General, four Christian Brothers, three of them from the North and one from the South, came to Memphis for the purpose of establishing in our city one of their colleges. These Brothers were Brother Maurelian, who since the foundation of the College has been its President; he came from Pass Christian, Miss., over the college at which place he had been Vice-President; Brother Anthony, now Vice-President of the College; Brother Clement, now of the Christian Brothers' College, St. Louis, and Brother Lupe-rius, who died in his early manhood in Santa Fe, New Mexico, whither he had gone for the benefit of his failing health. These three Brothers came from Chicago. The great fire of October, 1871, had destroyed the College of the Brothers in Chicago, and had made it possible to send some Brothers to open the institution in Memphis. Many years previous to this there had been a demand for the Brothers in Memphis, and the Rev. Thomas L. Power, O. P., then pastor of St. Peter's, had gone so far as to purchase some ground on Wellington street for the purpose of erecting a school for the Brothers. Circumstances, however, delayed their coming until 1871.

During all these twenty-five years the career of the College has been like that of the city itself, a varied one. Like the city, it has had its periods of depression and of prosperity. Notwithstanding epidemics and financial panics, and often at great personal sacrifices the Brothers remained at their post, faithful to the sacred trust of education, and the result is that although in the past quarter of a century about forty private schools have come and gone, the Christian Brothers' College is with us today, and can point with pride to her work of the past twenty-five years.

The exercises of the week were an appropriate celebration of the College's silver feast. There were several distinguished visitors present who had come to rejoice with the Brothers at their success. Bishop Byrne was unavoidably absent, much to the regret of all. He sent a letter in which he offered his congratulations and expressed his regret at his enforced absence. The Very Rev. P. J. Gleeson, Vicar-General, was present during the first two days of the jubilee, but was compelled to return to Nashville on Tuesday night. Besides the local clergy, the Rev. Thomas V. Tobin of Chattanooga and the Rev. William A. Shannon of McEwen, both alumni of the College, the Rev. William Walsh of Jackson, and the Rev. J. J. Beucler of Humboldt, were in attendance.

The jubilee celebration began on Monday morning at 9 o'clock with a solemn high mass in the College Chapel. The celebrant was the Rev. William A. Shannon. The Rev. Father Veale of St. Patrick's officiated as deacon, the Rev. Father Hugo of St. Mary's as sub-deacon. The Rev. Father Luiselli of St. Joseph's was master of ceremonies. The Very Rev. Vicar-General Gleeson gave benediction of the blessed sacrament at the close of the mass.

The sermon of the day was preached by the Rev. Thomas V. Tobin of Chattanooga, one of the most scholarly men among the priests of the South. The text chosen was "This is the victory which overcometh the world, our faith." After an appropriate introduction the Reverend Father said in substance:

"In times like ours, when material interests are the main if not the only thing sought for in education, when Christianity, with its supernatural aims and objects, is freely spoken of as an 'episode of disease and delirium,' it is gratifying to find men with higher and nobler aspirations devoting themselves to the task of holding within its banks the great Mississippi of materialism and preventing its causing widespread disaster and devastation. As we look back over the career of the Brothers we ask ourselves what is in their system of education that makes for the securing of the right kind of men to proclaim the real greatness of the country? The answer is in the words of the text.

"Therefore the greatness of the faith and the dangers to which it is exposed in this line will be the title of our theme this morning."

These two points were developed at some length. The Reverend Father touched very pathetically on the losses which the Church has sustained in this Southern land, and gave as his excuse for introducing a painful subject on a public occasion when words of congratulation were the order of the day, that the mention of these dangers would bind all more closely to the Brothers and stimulate them to go on with their noble work.

In conclusion the speaker pointed out how the isolation of the Brothers from the world, with its irritating and time-destroying cares, rendered them singularly fitted to pursue their chosen vocation. "Certainly the times in which we live call for every advantage that can be brought to bear on their work," said the speaker. "It has been said by Mr. Mallock, the author of 'Is Life Worth Living?' that for several centuries after the first conquests of Christianity man's faith and his loftier feelings had the way made plain before them. The whole empire of human thought belonged to them. This old state of things endures no longer. Upon this empire, as upon that of Rome, calamity has fallen at last. A horde of intellectual barbarians has burst in upon it and taken by force the length and breadth of it. The result has been astounding.

"If the Brothers can offer any resistance to the incursion of intellectual barbarians—all the more dangerous because armed with the weapons of civilization—they shall have done a great work, which should entitle them to the praise and gratitude of men."

After the services on Monday the visiting and local clergy were entertained at dinner by the Brothers.

A pleasing and graceful recognition of the services of the Brothers, as well as a lasting souvenir of the jubilee, was the act of the reverend clergy in completely refurnishing the parlor of the College. A carpet of the most elegant design, and furniture of the most modern and beautiful pattern will serve for many a day to recall the jubilee year. A beautiful missal and silverware were also presented.

Field Day Sports.

A pleasing feature of the first day of the jubilee celebration was the first annual athletic games on the College Campus. They began at 3 o'clock and were greatly enjoyed by the boys and the great throng of ladies and gentlemen present. The events and winners of prizes were as follows:

The first event was a fifty-yard dash for midgets. Thomas Henshall won in nine seconds, and was rewarded with a pair of slippers. Charles Johnston won the second prize, a pocket knife.

The second event was an eighty-yard handicap for seniors. John Meehan won a silver cup in nine seconds. Joseph Montedonico, who was handicapped four yards, came second, winning a silk umbrella.

The third event was an eighty-yard handicap for boys under 15. Lawrence Pendergrast won the prize, a sweater. A bicycle cap, second prize, went to Eugene Clarke. Ed Gerber was third.

The fourth event was an eighty-yard dash for boys under 15. The winner was Jacob Thompson, in ten and a half seconds. His prize was a bicycle saddle. St. John Lightfoot, second in the race, won a fine purse. Arlie Chamberlain came in third.

The fifth event was an eighty-yard dash for the championship among the seniors. The first prize, a gold medal, was won by Joseph Montedonico in nine seconds. The second prize, a bicycle racing suit, was won by John R. Meehan. J. R. Brewer came third.

The sixth event, throwing the baseball, by boys under 13, was won by Angus McCallum, who threw the ball 190 feet. He kept the ball as a prize. William Monaghan got a bat for a throw of 172 feet. William Meagher threw 163 feet.

The seventh event was a standing, broad jump by the seniors. Joseph Buchignani won the first prize, a pair of shoes, by a jump of 8 feet. J. R. Brewer was awarded a purse for a jump of 7 feet 11½ inches. George Pollock jumped 7 feet 7 inches.

The eighth event was a running, long jump, by the seniors. The first prize, a pair of shoes, was won by Ed. Shea. His record was 15 feet 2 inches. A purse was won by Charles Kennedy for a jump of 13 feet 3 inches. L. Pendergrast jumped 12 feet 11 inches.

The ninth event was throwing baseball, by boys under 15. Andrew Botto threw 243 feet and was awarded a catcher's mit. Louis Montedonico threw 223 feet and won a belt. Frank Callahan threw the ball 198 feet.

The tenth event was a running, long jump, by the seniors. George Pollock won the first prize, a bottle of perfume, by jumping 16 feet 8 inches. Martin Keely won the second prize, silk suspenders, by jumping 15 feet 10 inches. Anthony Canale jumped 15 feet 1 inch.

The eleventh event was a hop, step and jump by the juniors. Charles Kennedy came out first, covering a distance of 33 feet 3 inches. The prize was an umbrella. Ed. Shea was second, 32 feet 3 inches. The prize awarded him was a pit game chicken. John Stehlin was third and covered 32 feet.

The twelfth event was a sack race. This caused no end of fun. Some of the contestants rolled over like balls while others ran with apparent ease and grace. R. Meyer came out first, Ed. McCadden second and Charles Johnston third. The first prize was a pair of bicycle trousers and the second a box of linen handkerchiefs.

The thirteenth event was a hop, step and jump by the seniors. George Pollock came out first, Joseph Montedonico second and Martin Keely third. The first prize was a pair of boxing gloves, the second a fine pocket knife.

The fourteenth event was an egg race, resulting in F. Dunn coming first and Charles Kennedy second. The prizes were a pair of link cuff buttons and a knife.

The fifteenth event was seniors throwing base ball. Bert McGregor threw the ball 253 feet and 10 inches, Martin Keely 250 feet and John Fenny 220 feet. The first prize was a silver cup and the second bicycle stockings.

The sack race for boys over 13 years was the sixteenth event. Ed Gerber reached the goal first and Sol Meyers second. The prizes were a Whitely exerciser and a belt.

The seventeenth event was the tug of war between the intermediates and the preparatories. The former were the winners and received candy enough for themselves and the vanquished "preps."

Event eighteen was an eighty-yard hurdle race for boys under 15 years. John Fisher crossed the bar in front, Gus Massey followed him closely and Charley Kennedy came third. The first prize was a handsome book from Brother Maurelian. The second prize was a silk handkerchief.

A potato race comprised the nineteenth event and was engaged in by boys under 12 years old. William Fitzpatrick won the first prize, ten packages of chewing gum, and William Parsons the second prize, a knife. Thomas Crawford was third in the race.

The twentieth event was an eighty-yard hurdle race for boys over 15 years old. The winner of the first prize was Joseph Montedonico, a bicycle lamp. The second prize, a silk handkerchief, was won by John R. Meehan. Anthony J. Canale came third.

The twenty-first event was a potato race for boys under 15 years old. Sol Meyer won the first prize, a knife, and Charles Meehan the second prize, a belt. F. Dunn was third.

The twenty-second event was a three-legged race between three teams, as follows: Team No. 1, Joseph Montedonico and Robert Brewer; Team No. 2, John N. Maguire and John Fenny; Team No. 3, John R. Meehan and Harry Frankel. Team No. 3 won the first prize, a basket of fruit. Team No. 1 won the second prize, candy. Each team had their right and left legs tied together, and the amusement such a race caused can readily be imagined.

The twenty-third event was a potato race for boys under 10 years old. Chas. Johnston won the first prize, chewing gum, and Frank Wynne the second prize, a box of candy. Willie McCadden was third in the race.

The twenty-fourth event was the tug of war between the collegiate and commercial students, resulting in a victory for the latter. The prize was watermelons, and that the boys had a feast goes without saying.

The twenty-fifth event was a three-legged race by teams under 15 years old. Ed. Gerber and J. Lightfoot won the first race, a pair of Bluff City game fowls. F. Dunn and J. Thompson won the second prize, a basket of fruit.

The twenty-sixth and last event was putting the shot. John N. Maguire was the successful one out of six contestants. The prize was a handsome book from Brother Maurelian. This event concluded with a game of ball between the present and past students, which was won by the present nine, by a score of 16 to 6. The prizes were all contributed by friends of the College, save those given by the Brothers.

The field officers were: Referee, Frank Fransioli; Clerk, Charles A. Gerber; Judges—Dan Grace, Charles O'Neil, O. K. Robertson; Timers—William Hoffman, Phil. Pidgeon; Scorer, William Horgan; Starter, J. Malcolm Semmes; Trainer, Rev. Brother Abban; Manager, Rev. Brother Gideon; Surgeons—Drs. S. E. Rice, D. M. Hall; Committee on Programme—Charles A. Gerber, George Hook; Committee on Prizes—John D. Canale, Raphael S. Bryan.

Each student and each visitor was supplied with a knot of ribbon, the colors of the College—orange, purple and red—which were tied about the staff of a tiny flag.

A 24-page Catalogue, giving programmes of events, names of contestants and advertising by enterprising business men of Memphis, was distributed among students and visitors. Charles Gerber, of the Alumni Society, deserves great credit for his energy in bringing out this beautiful pamphlet.

The second day of the silver jubilee celebration opened with a solemn high mass in the College chapel at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. The mass was for the repose of the souls of the deceased Brothers, students, patrons and benefactors. The Very Reverend M. A. Horrigan of St. Peter's was celebrant; the Reverend Father Twohig, O.P., deacon; the Reverend Father Larkin of St. Bridget's, sub-deacon; the Reverend George K. Murphy, chaplain of the College, master of ceremonies. The Reverend Fathers Tobin of Chattanooga, Shannon of McEwen, Beucler of Humboldt, assisted in the sanctuary. There were also in attendance a number of students, patrons and friends.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Of the Christian Brothers' College.

The Lyceum Filled—A Very Delightful and Exceedingly Fine Programme Rendered.

As usual, the attendance at the annual commencement exercises of the Christian Brothers' College on Tuesday night was limited only by the size of the Lyceum, the prettiest theater in the South.

The opening number of the programme was a march, "The Senator," by the College orchestra, rendered with fine effect. Anthony J. Canale, one of the graduates, next recited in a very clever manner, "The Fate of Virginia." Another selection by the College orchestra preceded J. Robert Brewer's admirable declamation, "The Moor's Revenge." John H. Fisher exquisitely rendered a violin solo, and the College orchestra an overture, when Moore Moore, Jr., delivered an exceptionally fine essay, "In the Van of Progress." Raymond E. Manogue's popular composition, "Council Two-Step," was played by the College band and was met with much favor. The violin solo of Harry Dix was also warmly greeted, but the gem of the evening was the valedictory of Raymond E. Manogue, captioned "A Modern Panacea." It was delivered in a clear voice, with graceful gesture and excellent effect, showing a depth of sound reasoning and profound thought, with logical deductions seldom met with in the average college graduate. Raymond drew a very realistic picture of the nihilism of Russia, the communism of France and England, the socialism of Germany, and the anarchy of America, which, he contended, were all derived from the one root and based on the same dangerous principles, and then argued to show that Christianity was the best panacea for these evils. The Glee Club sang "The Men of Horlech," and responded to an encore, and then Hon. Frank L. Monteverde delivered a very eloquent and interesting address on the silver jubilee. The College orchestra next rendered "The Calvary Charge" in a manner that thrilled the entire audience. The conferring of degrees and awarding of prizes and honorable mention followed.

President Maurelian then delivered a brief address to the graduates, telling them to be true to God, their country and themselves, and they would be loyal citizens and an honor to their Alma Mater. He spoke as follows:

"MY DEAR YOUNG FRIENDS:—I charge you on this solemn and auspicious occasion ever to be true to God and to yourselves. If you live up to the teachings of your preceptors you will secure God's favor and deserve the respect, love and esteem of your fellow men.

"In virtue of your graduation you become members of the Alumni Society which numbers in its ranks so many splendid men of whom the College is justly proud. Among the best fruits of the College I shall mention two noble priests who have come to unite in the silver jubilee celebration; we have also six candidates for the priesthood in the seminary. Several are in the ranks of the Christian Brothers. Very many are prominent in the professions, in all branches of business, as mechanics, etc. The College is deeply indebted to the reverend clergy for the moral support and encouragement given us during the past twenty-five years. A tangible and substantial proof of their good will and appreciation was given yesterday by the reverend clergy of the diocese in completely refurnishing the College parlor with an elegance worthy of the reverend clergy and of the College. I take pleasure in expressing heartfelt thanks to them in my own name and on behalf of the Faculty.

"The good will and affection of the former students is exceedingly gratifying. Our former pupils are always welcome. I wish them to feel at home and to make themselves at home about the College. The members of the Alumni Society have determined, at their own expense, to issue a handsome souvenir catalogue of the silver jubilee year. This is noble evidence of affection for their Alma Mater.

"The silver jubilee celebration affords me a fitting occasion to extend a cordial greeting to our benefactors, patrons and friends, and on behalf of the Faculty I now offer formal expression of thanks and appreciation for past favors, and I express the hope that the fruit of our labors in the past twenty-five years may win for the Christian Brothers' College a larger continuance of encouragement from a generous public.

"Comparatively little has been done financially for education in the South. It is true that friends and benefactors have loaned the College money at a low rate of interest, but whatever improvements have been made, and whatever success the College has had either in making improvements or in tiding over disastrous periods of epidemics and depression, has been done either on borrowed money or from the revenue of the College.

"It would indeed be very cheering if public-spirited and generous-hearted citizens were to aid the College in meeting all its obligations, as also to make needed improvements and secure a more complete outfit of the best of modern scientific appliances. Such an achievement would reflect honor upon the city of Memphis, which is proverbial for its commercial importance and its refined and highly educated people. The order of the Christian Brothers has made very great sacrifices during the past twenty-five years in supplying members, and in a financial way, that few can comprehend.

"I must not conclude without publicly thanking the good Brothers who have been associated with me during the past twenty-five years. The building up of a college is not the work of one man, but the co-operation and united efforts of many zealous workers. I thank my dear conferees for their zeal, energy and devotedness in the great work of Christian education. I may be pardoned for taking the liberty of specially thanking Brother Anthony, the Vice-President, who, for nearly twenty-five years, has shared the burdens and difficulties of the College with most remarkable zeal and perseverance. I desire likewise to return thanks to the Dominican Fathers for prizes for Christian doctrine, Dr. James H. Reilly for prizes for elocution, and a prominent merchant for $50 cash to aid in covering expense of prizes."

THE ALUMNI BANQUET.

The Largest and Most Enjoyable Ever Held—Eloquent Post-Prandial Speeches—Cordial Greetings to Brothers Maurelian and Anthony.

One of the pleasantest features of the silver jubilee of the Brothers' College was the reunion and banquet given by the Alumni Society on Wednesday night. It was the largest gathering that has ever taken place since the Society was organized. Evidently the members of the Alumni feel a deep interest in and cherish a fond remembrance of the old institution wherein they were educated, and were elated at the opportunity of participating in the celebration of its silver jubilee.

The banquet hall presented a beautiful scene when all were seated around the festal board. Among the clergy present were Rev. Father Walsh, Rev. Father Larkin, Rev. Father Tobin, Rev. Father Murphy, Rev. Father Shannon, Rev. Father Horrigan, Rev. Father Beucler and Rev. Father Graham.

Hon. R. A. Odum, President of the Society, occupied the seat of honor, and beside him sat Brothers Maurelian and Anthony.

The tables were laden with all the delicacies that might tempt the most fastidious, and when ample justice was done the splendid spread, Hon. R. A.

Odlum arose and delivered the address of welcome. The speaker paid an eloquent and beautiful tribute to the good Brothers who have done so much for the young men of Memphis. Mr. Odlum was one of the first students of the College, when it opened here twenty-five years ago, one of its first graduates, and one of the brightest men that the institution has ever turned out. He briefly reviewed the history of the College and showed the magnificent work it has accomplished.

Mr. Thomas R. Boyle, a senior alumnus, was the next speaker, and responded to the toast, "Our Alma Mater," in a pleasing and graceful manner.

Raymond E. Manogue, a young graduate, whose valedictory at the Commencement exercises has been so favorably commented on by all who heard it, and who has gained more than a State reputation by the essay on "A Constitutional Convention," answered for "The Class of '97," and did it in a most gratifying manner.

Mr. Phil. Pidgeon responded to "Our Merchants," and being a very successful one himself, knew whereof he spoke. He handled the subject in a decidedly interesting and practical manner that met with hearty approval.

When President Aurelian arose to respond to "The Christian Brothers," he was greeted with a storm of applause that plainly indicated the warm place he holds in the hearts of the members of the Alumni. In that quiet and modest manner so characteristic of this distinguished educator, he disclaimed any honors for the great work he has accomplished, and said that he had only endeavored to perform his duty. To Brother Anthony and the other members of the order who had labored with him he paid a deserving tribute. Then he spoke to his boys in a tender, paternal manner that must have touched the hearts of his old pupils. He bade them ever a cordial welcome to the College, and assured them that in him they would ever find a faithful friend.

In response to repeated calls Rev. Father William Walsh arose and spoke briefly to the Alumni. He referred to the good work that 18,000 Christian Brothers were performing in the educational field throughout the world, teaching a half million students, but in no land or no city was a nobler band of educators than in Memphis. The speaker referred to Brothers Aurelian and Anthony in particular and the deep debt of gratitude due them for their great work in the educational field in this city. In conclusion he told the students that if they ever needed a friend, to call upon him at any time or place, whether he might be in Jackson, on the hills of Chattanooga, or on the seven hills of historic Rome, and though he might not be as affectionate and tender as their honored President, he would be as sincere and willing to assist them.

Brother Anthony was called upon and greeted with heartiest applause. He responded in an appropriate manner, reviewing old times in the history of the College.

Raphael S. Bryan very happily dealt with the subject, "College Chestnuts," and did it full justice.

Hon. Frank L. Monteverde delivered a very eloquent extempore speech on "The City of Memphis," which was greeted with generous applause.

Rev. William A. Shannon, of McEwen, an alumnus of the College, and one of the most talented young priests of the diocese, responded to the toast, "Our Reverend Clergy," in a learned and masterly manner.

But the speech of the occasion—excepting, of course, the address of the President—was delivered by Eldridge E. Wright, one of the most brilliant and successful young lawyers of our city. Eldridge, who is always eloquent, appeared at his very best on this occasion, and seemed to heartily enter in the glad rejoicings of the silver jubilee of his Alma Mater. It was a magnificent effort, scholarly and eloquent, and delivered in a masterly manner that repeatedly elicited ringing applause from his delighted hearers, and plainly stamped the young lawyer as one of the ablest and most brilliant young men ever graduated from the Christian Brothers' College.

Dr. R. B. McKinney spoke very entertainingly in response to the toast, "Our Doctors," and the other speakers were the editor of the Catholic Journal, and Mr. Frank Zimmermann, editor of the excellent German paper, the Post Journal.

Telegrams and letters were read, offering congratulations and expressing regret at not being able to attend. The following are the names of those from whom messages were received: Rt. Rev. Thomas S. Byrne, of Nashville; His Honor, Mayor Clapp; Rev. Brother Paulian, Provincial, St. Louis; Very Rev. P. J. Gleeson, V. G., Nashville; Rev. T. C. Abbott, Nashville; Rev. Brother Abban, Chicago; Rev. Brother Clement, St. Louis; Dr. R. W. Mitchell, Dr. D. D. Saunders, Dr. A. G. Sinclair, Dr. Joseph H. Venn; George Kin Bigley, Emmetsburg, Md.; James Gunn, Brinkley, Ark.; Charles A. O'Niell, Franklin, La.; Schuyler B. Athey, Chattanooga, Tenn. Hon. M. R. Patterson sent message that his official duties prevented him from attending.

In his letter Rt. Rev. Bishop Byrne expressed regret at his inability to be present, and sent best wishes for the continued success of the College.

This closed one of the most enjoyable and largely attended meetings of the Alumni of the Christian Brothers' College.

Over an hundred covers were laid and the old College banquet hall never before presented such a happy, festive scene.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY.

During the past week the Christian Brothers' College, with athletics, oratory, music and all the ceremonies that could add reverence and joy to the occasion, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of its establishment in our midst. Twenty-five years in our age and country is no short time. Especially is this true in the South, where the horrors of civil war and the miseries of reconstruction compelled the people to begin life anew. It was in the early years of the new era of the South that the Christian Brothers' College was founded. Inaugurated in the fall of 1871, during a period of general prosperity, nevertheless in its very infancy it was hampered by the epidemic and financial panic of 1873. Scarcely had it recovered from these when the pestilence of 1878 and that of 1879 almost overwhelmed it. Far from being discouraged, and with an energy worthy of the cause, the Faculty of the College, led by the tireless Brother Maurelian, determined to share the fate of Memphis, be it for better or for worse. Considering the difficulties with which the College has had to contend, its success has been phenomenal. Without endowment, without capital of any kind other than their own self-sacrifice, the Christian Brothers entered upon their work in Memphis. Theirs was no easy task. Men and money they have expended in the cause of education, and with no other income than tuition fees they have built up an institution of which Memphis has just reason to be proud. Their property, both in grounds and buildings, has been enlarged to double its original extent. All this has been done with but scant assistance from outside. True, some friendly citizens lent the College money at a low rate of interest, but apart from this all has been done by the unaided efforts of the Brothers. The financial depression of the past few years has naturally affected them in common with all the people of the South. It has made their burden harder and heavier to bear, but they have not recoiled from the task. The splendid efforts in oratory and music displayed in the recent public entertainments of the College have shown what the students are capable of achieving in these lines, while the catalogue of the Alumni points out the number of brilliant men, regardless of race or creed, that have gone forth from the College halls. In all sincerity, we wish the Christian Brothers continued success, and we hope that their golden jubilee will find their College as far in advance of what it is now as the silver jubilee has found it in advance of its inauguration day.

[Editorial from Catholic Journal, June 26, 1897.]

THE SILVER JUBILEE.

The Christian Brothers' College of this city appropriately celebrated its silver jubilee during the past week. This has been an event of special importance, not only to the Catholic community, but to the non-Catholic as well. Twenty-five years ago a small band of zealous sons of De LaSalle came to our city on their mission of Christian education, and established a small college as befitted their humble means. This was at a period when Memphis was but recently recovering from the desolation of the greatest internecine strife of modern times. Our schools were few and not of a high order. The Brothers undertook to establish an institution where boys could receive a thorough commercial and collegiate education that would fit them properly for the duties of life. While it was primarily intended for Catholics still those of other faiths were welcomed, and the number of pupils soon taxed the capacity of the school, and the Brothers found little time for rest or recreation. Years rolled on, and the terrible epidemics that decimated our city did not deter these holy men from their mission here, nor cause them to waver in the task that they had undertaken. What has been the result of their labors? What have they accomplished in all those twenty-five years? It is not necessary for the Journal to say, for the grand record of this institution speaks for itself, and is as well known throughout adjoining States as it is here in Memphis.

It is the one and only thoroughly established Catholic college in Tennessee, Arkansas or Mississippi. It has grown apace with our city, and its magnificent buildings and grounds on Adams street are only the exterior indications of its real greatness. It has seen untold numbers of schools and alleged colleges start and fail in Memphis while it has continually advanced in greatness, increased in usefulness and the numbers of its students. Today it stands without a peer among the institutions of learning in Tennessee or adjoining States. To ascertain the real worth of the Christian Brothers' College one need but look among the innumerable prominent and successful young men in the professional and commercial walks of life in this and other cities who are graduates of this institution. Not only among Catholics but Protestants and Jews, all of whom found equal advantages and impartial treatment in this appreciated home of learning.

The zeal and ability of the Brothers in their noble mission, for which they seek no personal recompense, are thoroughly appreciated by all who have been educated at their college, and the kindly and devoted feeling of the Protestant and Jew students for their old teachers is the highest testimonial to the worth of these self-sacrificing men.

The Brothers' College has done more toward upbuilding Memphis than any other one institution here. It has been the home of thorough education from whence our young men came forth well fitted for the great battle of life. It is a monument to the zeal and devotion of these faithful men whose mission in life is to serve God and impart Christian knowledge to our youth.

But among all these who have contributed so much to the upbuilding of this great institution of learning, of which every Memphian, regardless of creed, is justly proud, it must be conceded that its success is chiefly attributable to President Maurelian and Vice-President Anthony, two of its founders, and who are still at the head of the College they established and over which they have so zealously watched, and for which they have so diligently labored during the past quarter of a century. It was their untiring zeal, their indomitable courage in the face of all obstacles, their implicit faith in the eventual success that would crown their efforts, that have proven the chief factors in the grand educational institution that is to-day so well known throughout the South, and such an appreciated credit to Memphis. While others have borne their full share of the labor, upon these two devolved the heaviest portion of the burden. Cheerfully and conscientiously they have performed their labor of love, and the gratifying result is now apparent to all.

Brother Maurelian's great work at the World's Fair, where he so successfully managed the greatest Catholic educational exhibit that this or any other country has ever seen, is too well known to need more than passing notice. In many other ways this learned, pious and distinguished Brother has been honored; on several occasions having been selected to visit Europe in the interests of the order. He was also chosen by Bishop Byrne to manage the excellent Catholic educational exhibit at the Tennessee Centennial, and has performed his duties so well that prelate, pastors and the Catholic public who have visited Nashville are highly gratified.

During all this time that responsible duties have called Brother Maurelian elsewhere a double duty has devolved upon Vice-President Anthony; in fact, for several years he has practically managed the College, and in a most successful manner. Of Brother Gideon and other leading professors it is only necessary to say that each in his way has fully sustained the part without which there could be no complete success.

The College is now so well established and so thoroughly identified with Memphis that it is inseparable from the history and prosperity of our city, and a golden glory will crown its fiftieth anniversary.
