BENEFIT MUSICAL

On last Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock Mrs. E. W. Kinney, curator of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, presented the following program at the Hollenbeck home for the aged:

Piano solo, "Rustles of Spring" (Sinding)—Miss Pray.
Vocal solo, "My Path" and "All Through the Night"—Mrs. Fullington.

Instrumental trio, "Air" (Gluck).
"Dolly Dancers" (Poldini)—Violin, Isalah Sinclair; cello, Hollis Moyses; piano, Elizabeth Mottern.

Two pantomimes—Margaret Hauber and Dorothy Hunt.
Violin solo—Forest Jordan.
Patescope pictures.

Violin solo—Isalah Sinclair.
The audience was warmly appreciative of the entertainment and invited their visitors to come again.

This is one of the many benefactions prompted by the warm heart of Mrs. Kinney and the bearers of their messages of cheer, especially the young people who participated, were blessed in their giving fully as much as those to whom this gospel of joy was delivered. Mrs. Sinclair, Mr. Fred Sinclair, Mr. Albert Leighton and Mrs. Dora L. Gibson accompanied the party, all of whom thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

AUTO AND STREET CAR COLLISION

Dr. J. Whytock of North Jackson street, Glendale, narrowly escaped what might have been a very serious accident Friday evening when his automobile collided with an Eagle Rock street car at the crossing of Broadway and Jackson street. Dr. Whytock was going south on Jackson street and aimed to cross Broadway, thinking that the inbound car was going to stop at the crossing, but the car failed to stop and in order to avoid being struck broadside he whirled his car west on Broadway, which threw him directly in front of the car. The car struck the auto in the rear and landed it against the north curbing, badly wrecking the car, but fortunately no one was injured.

GLENDALE LAUNDRY ADDS HANDSOME DELIVERY CAR

The Glendale Laundry has put a most striking looking white delivery car on the Hollywood route. This car has a body nearly twice the size of ordinary laundry deliveries and is handsomely painted in gold and cream.

The Glendale Laundry now has nine auto deliveries and its machines are a common sight on the streets of Hollywood, San Fernando, Lankershim, Burbank, Eagle Rock, Tropic and Glendale.

CURRENT EVENTS

PAUL RICHARDSON SURPRISED—WHITE RIBBONERS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Paul Richardson was the recipient of a very pleasant surprise on Friday evening, when a number of relatives gathered at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ella Richardson, 805 South Central avenue, to celebrate his birthday anniversary. The event occurred on December 30, but the young man was up at Strawberry Peak enjoying the snow on that date, so the celebration was postponed. The living and dining rooms were lighted with a bright cheerful glow, the lights being covered with red crepe paper, and the big fire in the fireplace added to the coziness of the rooms. A number of Paul's young cousins came early in the evening to help him celebrate with a delicious birthday dinner and the older folks came later in the evening to help make merry. The dining table was decorated with balloons and a basket of lovely pink roses graced the center of the table, from which the young guests drew their favors, a ribbon running to each place. The huge birthday cake bore sixteen candles. Covers were laid for Mrs. Richardson, Miss Eulalia Richardson, Miss Mary Logan, Miss Jane Richardson, Misses Cora Louise, Betsy, Virginia and Jane Butterfield, Paul and John Richardson, Alex Richardson and Frank Richardson.

After dinner the older folks came and joined in the guessing games and other pleasures of the evening. The children displayed their dramatic ability by dressing up and giving some clever and amusing performances and a number of pretty musical selections on the piano and phonograph were enjoyed. The later guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. John Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rudley of Los Angeles, Miss Grace Richardson, Miss Emily Richardson and Will Richardson.

W. C. T. U. ANNIVERSARY

The twelfth anniversary of the Glendale City W. C. T. U. was celebrated Friday afternoon at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hutton, 900 Colorado boulevard. Poinsettias, lilies and fronds of ferns were the artistic decorations of the spacious rooms. Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, the president, led the devotional service, using as a keynote the thirty-third Psalm. Mr. C. E. Hutton, the host, gave a brief introductory talk which was appreciated as a courtesy by the guests.

Another pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presence of the Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Cole. Rev. Cole has come from St. Louis to accept the pastorate of the Central Christian church. The pastor and Mrs. Cole both gave a few remarks expressing their intense interest in the work of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. A. R. Chappel in her beautiful soprano voice sang one of Carrie Jacobs Bond's compositions. Mrs. Van Dyke, the W. C. T. U. vice president of the Congregational church, rendered "Oh Dry Those Tears," which was highly enjoyed. Mrs. Abbell played the piano accompaniments for both numbers.

A most interesting report of the children's garments sent to the county hospital was given by Mrs. A. Frank. The organization voted to supply a large amount of dishes for the W. C. T. U. old ladies' home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. O. S. Palmer conducted a clever drill, "Dollar Dues." Those taking part in the exercises were Mesdames P. A. C. Moore, C. E. Hutton, Ruby J. Smart, Rowe, Warner and Marsh. This part of the program furnished amusement as well as instruction.

A brief review of the history of the Glendale City W. C. T. U. was given by Mrs. Louise Morton and Mrs. Hattie E. Gaylord. Miss Olive Marsh also gave a fine talk. A number of out-of-town guests were present. The hostess, assisted by Miss Hutton, served delicious chocolate and home made cake. The meeting adjourned to meet in two weeks when a day of prayer for the national constitutional amendment will be observed.

CONGRESS OF MOTHERS

The all-day council meeting of the First District, Congress of Mothers, will be held at the Times building in Los Angeles on Tuesday, January 23, 1917. The morning session will be given over to the departments of child hygiene and recreation, and the afternoon to the department of patriotism.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

SNAPPY GAME OF BASKET BALL RESULTS IN VICTORY FOR ALHAMBRA

"I'm glad to see this school waking up after being unconscious so long," quoth "Ax" West yesterday when called upon to make an address.

And "Ax" was not far wrong. The school really was awakening. By 6:15 it had awakened.

Making the trip by automobile, trolley car, truck and bicycle, over a hundred howling students of Glendale High stormed the portals of Alhambra. Alhambra is noted for her school spirit, but she wasn't in it last night. Glendale led in music and yells. Indeed, when Glendale's band struck up one would never know Alhambra had an orchestra. In fact, when Fred started "Glendale Bunch" you'd never know Alhambra had a yell.

And those hundred loyal students went over there to support the team, win or lose. They did. The game was a fight to the end. Not once was it certain which team would win. Glendale was greatly out-weighted but not outplayed. First the score went one way, then the other. And all the time a hundred yelling, howling boosters were pulling for the team of dear old Glendale High. It was a feast for the eyes. No longer will they be able to say "Glendale's a dead one." Not with that kind of pep.

When the whistle blew the score stood 25-22 in favor of Alhambra. But every heart was light. The backers of both teams had witnessed the cleanest, hardest fought game of their lives. Would that there were more like it in basketball. The few who didn't go are unfortunate.

What has struck G. U. H. S.? This is the question which is puzzling every one. Yesterday's rally was the most enthusiastic in years. An explosion could not create more excitement and animation.

After an excellent address on educational questions by Principal Moyses, Herbert Scheuner opened the rally. Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Wright, Mr. Richardson, Miss Eggert, John Sharpe, Dan Hagin, Carleton West and Miller Fischel took turns at the bat. Every speaker scored a home run. Fred Dodge led in the most effective yell practice since the introduction of the new yells.

P. E. O. MEETING

Chapter B. A. of the P. E. O. met for its regular business meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Parker on North Kenwood street Friday morning, January 5. After the business was dispensed with a delicious lunch was served in honor of Mrs. Jessamine Gray, who is moving to Santa Barbara. The chapter regrets to lose so charming and capable a member as Mrs. Gray has proved herself to be and her loss will be keenly felt. The program for the day was two very well written papers. One by Mrs. Laura Kille on "The Discovery of Gold in California," the other entitled "Public Institutions," read by Miss Maud Cunningham.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

The Evening News is building for the future and cares not for the gain that might come on account of deviating from well established business principles. The Evening News is ready to give the people a chance to learn that the plan on which the "News" does business is a substantial one. The aim of the Evening News is to publish a paper that is authentic, a paper that will deserve the respect and patronage of intelligent, common sense people. There is no effort being made by the News to deviate from the path of good business for the purpose of satisfying the unreasonable whims of a few people.

NEW LAW FIRM

W. E. EVANS OF JONES & EVANS JOINS ATTORNEYS ABBOTT AND PEARCE

An announcement has recently been made that is of great interest to the Glendale community in that it concerns three of our city's distinguished citizens. The law partnership of Jones and Evans has been dissolved, and our city attorney, W. E. Evans, who is so favorably known here both as a citizen and by reason of his successful legal work, has joined with the law firm of Abbott and Pearce for the practice of law under the firm name of Evans, Abbott & Pearce. The offices of the firm are at suite 1007 Van Nuys building, Seventh and Spring streets, Los Angeles. Mr. Evans is a former Kentuckian, leaving a good law practice in Kentucky to join Mr. Jones here some years ago. Practically all of his California life has been spent in Glendale where for the last seven years he has been the legal advisor of the city trustees. His public and private practice have been a continual demonstration of his ability as a lawyer and his host of friends here have learned to respect and esteem him. Albert D. Pearce, the other Glendale member of the new law firm, is equally well known, though he has been a resident of Glendale for a shorter period. He is a graduate of the law department of the University of Michigan from which institution he received the degree of A. B. and L. L. B., being an honor man there. He located in Chicago as special counsel and business manager for a publishing corporation. Four years ago he came to Glendale, locating in the Higgins building, Los Angeles, for the practice of law. Mr. Pearce is a member of the local lodge of Elks and has identified himself with the civic upbuilding of the city which he has chosen for his home.

The third member of the firm, Arthur J. Abbott, like Mr. Pearce, is a former Michiganian and has practiced law in Los Angeles for eight years. Mr. Abbott has the unusual distinction of being the youngest dean of a law school in the country, being at the head of the law faculty of the Southwestern University at the present time.

The many well wishers of the new law firm will join the Glendale News in predicting for it the splendid success deserved by the members of the firm of Evans, Abbott & Pearce.

AFTERNOON TEA

A delightfully informal afternoon was given at the home of Mrs. T. W. Preston, 725 Adams street, in honor of Mrs. H. M. Latham and her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Dexter, of Brookline, Mass., who have spent the past two months here, but leave soon for their home. The house decorations, games and refreshments were planned to carry out the idea of contrast between Massachusetts in midwinter and Southern California at the same season. Much merriment was afforded by an original game called "Why did you come to California?" arranged by Mrs. W. S. Carmichael. Mrs. Fullington sang beautifully "This Is My Task." Mrs. Preston was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. W. W. McElroy, Mrs. W. S. Carmichael and her daughter, Miss Jeannette McLennan.

The guests for the afternoon were Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, Mrs. M. P. Harrison, Dr. Laura Brown, Mrs. W. W. McElroy, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. F. C. Rochester, Mrs. S. C. Lippelman, Mrs. J. H. Braly, Mrs. J. W. Usilton, Mrs. W. J. Button, Miss Rosemary Button, Mrs. W. S. Carmichael, Mrs. H. Shumaker, Mrs. W. J. Clendenin, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. J. M. Border, Mrs. W. W. Ramsay, Mrs. Fullington, Mrs. J. H. Patterson, Mrs. C. W. Houston, Mrs. F. A. Field, Miss Bessie Field, Mrs. A. W. Tower, Mrs. F. J. Adams, Mrs. A. S. Chase, Mrs. Martha Morris and Mrs. Sherwin Gibbons.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1917

HIGH PRICE OF PAPER

Those familiar with conditions know there has never been a greater imposition upon the public than the present high price of print paper. That paper manufacturers have been able to delude Congress, the president of the United States and all others who are in a position to call a halt to highway robbery, gives evidence of the deep-seated dishonesty on the part of the manufacturers.

It is not necessary for an individual to have the knowledge of a great financier to understand that paper manufacturers are engaged in a hold-up game—a game that is so full of criminal rascality that every one who is a party in the affair should be consigned to state's prison. If there was ever a time in the history of our country that a president of the United States and Congress have had a chance to do a great and good act for the people it is at this time, and it is possible for them to bring to justice the men who have had the audacity to commit one of the greatest crimes of the age.

It is the duty of the people to investigate as to the cost of print paper. The jobbers have been very quiet on this question and apparently have been combining among themselves so that the raise in the cost of paper from time to time would work to their advantage. The question is one for the people with the aid of Congress to settle.

LOS ANGELES CLEANING UP

If the city of Los Angeles does as much cleaning up as she spends in talking about cleaning up, there will not be a wrongdoer allowed resting place in the Angel City. The trouble is we can not always depend upon talk. Sometimes talk does not signify very much. Almost four years Chief Sebastian was a model police head. He was booked in March, 1913, to deliver the principal address at a Church Brotherhood banquet in Glendale, and he was spoken of as the great reform police chief of his day. Now the present police chief is to accomplish greater wonders than that accomplished by his predecessors.

THE SHORTAGE OF CYANIDE FOR FUMIGATING CITRUS TREES

It is deplorable that all the sodium cyanide obtainable for fumigation of citrus trees must be obtained from one concern. This fact has been brought very forcibly to the minds of citrus growers this fall by the failure of the cyanide supply and the excuses which have been put forward to account for it. It is therefore to be very fervently hoped that other firms may engage in this manufacture, which must be quite profitable, and still better, that a factory might be established on or near the Pacific Coast or mountain regions where practically all the cyanide in America is used, either for mining or fumigating purposes. However, for these desirable things, we must trust the future. At present we are short of cyanide and our trees need fumigation very much. What shall we do? Spraying seems to be the only resource, and its effectiveness depends very largely on how the work is done, although good authorities go so far as to say that no fair sized citrus tree thickly covered with its foliage, as it must be if thrifty, was ever wet in every part in the process of spraying, and of course any portion of the tree not touched by the spray is unaffected as to scale killing. Thoroughness of the work, however, is perhaps the first requirement of good spraying. As to the kind of spray to be used, there are several good formulas which can be used without taking up the proprietary sprays, the composition, the strength and the uniformity of which we know nothing. For all kinds of citrus scale, we would recommend first, the old time resin wash composed of 20 pounds of resin, 7 pounds of 98 per cent. (not 76 per cent.) caustic soda, and 3 pounds of fish-oil to 100 gallons of water. This should be cooked from one to two hours, and it is very important that the ingredients be good material, else you will not get a good emulsion which will work well in the nozzle, spray evenly and accomplish good results. This is perhaps the most expensive spray outside of the proprietary mixtures which we have. The cheapest is the 6 per cent. solution of 30 degree distillate which can be used with good results in a power spray only where thorough agitation and strong pressure are available. With any other appliance for spraying we would recommend that for each 100 gallons of water, 12 pounds of whale-oil soap and 8 gallons of the 30 degree distillate be used. This should form an emulsion which will work with the less efficient agitation of hand machines. The washing powders, Euco, Mermaid, Goldine, Lighthouse, etc., have given good results, used 1 pound to 5 gallons of water, and decreasing the water one gallon and adding a pound of engine distillate (45 degrees) seems to work better in some cases and for mealy bugs, but on a warm day the amount of water should be increased to 5 gallons to prevent burning. It is not very expensive.

Northwestern bricklayers, plasterers and stone cutters in convention at Spokane decided to raise wages to $7 a day for eight hours and pay and a half for overtime. Result of this will be to restrict building operations largely to lumber, steel and concrete construction where machinery is employed and machine-made material is used.

Illusions are the grand ideas we have about ourselves; delusions the absurd ideas the other people have about us.

WHAT WILL THE NEW YEAR BRING?

That this shall be a better year Than any passed away I dare not at its open door To wish or hope or pray.

Not that the years already gone Were wearisome and lone, That so with hope too long deferred My heart has timid grown.

Nay, rather that they all have been So sweet to me and good That if for better I should ask 'Twould seem ingratitude.

And so with things far off and strange I do not care to cope, But look in memory's face and learn What largess I may hope.

Another year of setting suns, Of stars by night revealed, Of springing grass, of tender buds By winter's snows concealed.

Another year of summer's glow Of autumn's gold and brown, Of waiting fields and ruddy fruits The branches weighing down.

Another year of happy work Which better is than play; Of simple cares and love that grows More sweet from day to day.

Another year of baby mirth And childhood's blessed ways; Of thinker's thought and prophet's dream, And poet's tender lays.

Another year at beauty's feast, At every moment spread; Of silent hours when grow distinct The voices of the dead.

Another year to follow hard Where better souls have trod, Another year of life's delight, Another year of God. —John White Chadwick.

NEW ENEMY OF PEACH

An insect destructive to the peach and kindred fruits, believed to be new in the United States, has been discovered by entomologists of the United States department of agriculture in the District of Columbia and its environs. This insect, which in its adult form is a brownish moth and in its larval stage a small white and pink caterpillar, attacks both the tender shoots and fruit, causing serious losses. Because of the habits of the worm the usual control measures such as spraying with certain arsenates will probably not be effective. The smooth young shoots, owing to their rapid growth, are protected by the poison solution for only a short time after the spray is applied, and hence it is almost impossible to poison them. The entomologists of the department who have been investigating the pest will continue to study it in the hope of developing control measures.

A TALE OF THE TRAIL

This life's a middlin' crooked trail and after forty years Of knockin' 'round, I'm free to say th' right ain't always clear; I've seen a lot of folks go wrong— get off the main high road, An' fetch up in a swamp somewhere, almost before they knowed; I don't set up to be no judge of right and wrong in men, I ain't been perfect all my life an' may not be again; An' when I see a chap who looks as though he's gone astray, I want to think he started right— an' only lost his way.

I've seen 'em stop an' start again, not sure about the road, An' found 'em lost on some blind trail, almost before they knowed; I've seen 'em circlin', tired out, with every pathway blind, With cliffs before 'em, mountains high, an' sloughs an' swamps behind; I've seen 'em circlin' through the dusk when twilight's gettin' gray, An' looking for th' main high road —poor chaps who've lost their way.

It ain't so far from Right to Wrong —Th' train ain't hard to lose; There's times I'd almost give a horse to know which one to choose; There ain't no guides or signboards up to keep you on th' track; Wrong's sometimes white as driven snow, an' Right looks awful black.

I don't set up to be no judge of right or wrong in men; I've lost the trail sometimes myself and may get lost again; An' when I see a chap who looks as though he'd gone astray, I want to shove my hand in his an' help him find th' way. —J. W. Foley.

CHEER UP

It's easier to wear a smile Than pack around a frown; It's easier to laugh a while Than sit around and scowl. A pleasant word won't cost a cent, A grin won't cost a thing; So, get the sunny habit, and Help make the old world sing. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

TOMORROW BUILDERS

Born a beggar, born a king, We can choose the song we sing. We can choose what road to go, Tread on poppies, trudge in snow; Hand-built roof or white star-places, Eyes of hate, or caring faces; Rest, or venturing to the end; Peace, or danger round the bend. Our own destiny's secure, Ours, untouched, forevermore. No one makes our joy or sorrow, Each must build his own tomorrow. Many paths go wandering, straying, Many games are ours for playing. Born a beggar, born a king, We can choose what song to sing. —Youth's Companion.

Three large trucks took the party over and a number went in private machines.

ELECTRIC SERVICE AT SEA

Crude methods of lighting in marine practice were nowhere more in evidence than on the old clipper ships which sailed the broad Atlantic in the halcyon days of America's greatest shipping prosperity. Clumsy whale oil lanterns fixed at the mast head were used to warn other ships off the course at night. The ship's cabin and roughly finished staterooms made of solid oak-hewn timber were dimly lighted with candles enclosed in perforated tin lanterns to keep the draughts of air from blowing them out. There were no engine rooms because there were no engines, and in order to keep the ship on her course the skipper was required to pull against the wheel with all his strength.

It is only by comparing the rough and perilous life of the seafarer of the early days with the ease and safety of navigation today that we arrive at a proper estimate of the wonderful progress made in marine travel, a change which has been largely if not entirely brought about by the application of electricity to the many tasks on shipboard.

The great passenger steamships today are marvels of electrical engineering. Through conduits and cables concealed beneath decks and inside the faultless woodwork of the fine cabins and staterooms electricity carries light, heat and power to all parts of the ship. Hundreds of Mazda lamps lighted with an abundant supply of electricity from whirling turbo-generators below, turn the ship into a blaze of light at night. Passengers in the steerage are provided with more comfortable bunks and staterooms than those who traveled first cabin years ago.

The course of the modern steamship is directed by a pilot clad in spotless uniform. At a touch of his hand, the ship veers to right or left, for the pilot wheel is turned as easily as the steering wheel on an automobile. It is possible because of the electric steering gear, the largest single piece of electrical equipment used on a modern steamship. Motors concealed in the inmost parts of the ship move the huge rudder. Communication between pilot house and engine room is by means of electric ship telegraphs, and an electric indicating board tells the pilot whether the engineer is carrying out his instructions and what position the rudder is in. A complete fire alarm system, passenger elevators and an electrically equipped kitchen are features included in the construction of modern passenger liners.

Steamships which sail every day from our big seaports perform every operation of loading cargo, taking on food, filling the bunkers with coal and weighing anchor with electricity. Electric searchlights facilitate safe navigation by night as well as by day. Electric sounding machines measure the depth of the sea, and in case of accident electric winches lower away the life boats more quickly and efficiently than it could possibly be done by hand.

As steam has been superseded in steering and operating practically every marine auxiliary on board the most modern vessels, so also is electricity taking the place of steam driving engines in all the vessels of the future. Already the success of the electrically driven collier Jupiter has inclined the U. S. naval board to the electric drive. This has resulted in the electrification of the California, which is also electrically driven, and a new contract has been recently let to engineers of the General Electric company for the electric equipment of an electrically driven warship, the largest yet laid on the ways.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT IS DOING

The measures adopted in the last few years to assist the farmer in what may be called the business side of his life are emphasized in the new report of the secretary of agriculture. On this subject the secretary says in part:

The half of agriculture embracing the marketing of farm products, rural finance, and rural organization has strikingly occupied attention during the last three and one-half years. Before 1913 little systematic thought had been devoted to it, and there did not exist, either in the states or in the nation, effective instrumentalities to furnish assistance and guidance to farmers in this field, nor had the laws necessary to remedy abuses and control unfavorable conditions been formulated or enacted. In view of the complexity and novelty of the problems, the accomplishments—legislative and administrative—have been notable and significant. This seems an opportune time to summarize them.

Early in 1913 a program for the ensuing four years was developed. This program in large measure has been executed. In the first place provision was made promptly for the creation of the office of markets and rural organization. Beginning with a modest sum, the appropriations for this office, including those for enforcing new laws to promote better marketing, have increased to $1,242,000. Quickly an effective organization was developed, and today the nation possesses in this department the largest and best trained and supported staff of experts dealing with the distribution of agricultural commodities and rural organization to be found anywhere in the world. It is engaged in investigating all the larger and more difficult problems confronting farmers in this new field.

The matter of establishing standards for staple agricultural products, of supervising the inspection of grains shipped in interstate and foreign commerce and the operations of cotton future exchanges, of devising financial machinery suited to the needs of the rural population, of developing a better system of warehouses for agricultural products, and of federal aid in highway construction received careful attention.

The value to producers of fruits and vegetables of the experimental market news service inaugurated in 1915 resulted in insistent demands for the extension of the work. During the past year telegraphic reports have been received from 33 important metropolitan markets and from officials of all railroads serving producing territory. The information thus secured has been furnished to growers, shippers, and distributors through 35 temporary offices in producing territories and 11 permanent offices in large cities. Statements from growers and shippers of tomatoes, strawberries, peaches, cantaloupes, watermelons, onions, grapes, apples and potatoes indicate that the actual monetary saving due to a wider knowledge of market conditions has exceeded the cost of the service many fold.

The education of producers in the proper marketing of farm products, the avoidance of unnecessary losses due to diversions in transit, and the encouragement given to growers who desire to reach new consuming centers are some of the benefits resulting from this attempt to develop for the farmer a reliable business basis.

ABOUT KITCHENS

Some ingenious architect has figured that in getting the 1,095 meals necessary in a year the housekeeper travels 200 miles if the distance between the kitchen range to dining room be but twenty-five feet. If the distance be increased five feet some forty miles is added. These figures are appalling to the comfort of the housekeeper in large kitchens, but practically much depends on the way space is used in a large kitchen. If working tables, etc., are so planned that no long distances have to be traveled between them a large kitchen may prove very convenient and comfortable to work in because of the added space.

Windows placed to the left of the coal range allow for lighting during the daytime which is ideal. The best artificial lighting is by electricity, with emergency gas fixtures should the electric current fail. A large ceiling light, with wall lights above and to the left of the sink and range furnishes light to the best advantage. The wall light over the sink should be placed so that much work can be done with the aid of this light alone.

HE WAS LAW ABIDING

Congressman Hull of Iowa sent free seeds to a constituent in a franked envelope, on the corner of which were the usual words, "Penalty for private use, $300." A few days later he received a letter which read:

"I don't know what to do about those garden seeds you sent me. I notice it is $300 fine for private use. I don't want to use them for the public. I want to plant them in my private garden. I can't afford to pay $300 for the privilege. Won't you see if you can fix it so I can use them privately? I am a law-abiding citizen and do not want to commit any crime."—Southern Woman's Magazine.

State publication of free books for the elementary schools make it possible to supply each child with books for an entire year at a cost to the state of 25 cents, or, as State Superintendent Hyatt says in his biennial report to Governor Johnson, "the price of two good cigars or five glasses of beer."

Everett Shepardson, supervisor of the state training normal school, with which institution he had been connected for 22 years, died at the Methodist hospital in Los Angeles Tuesday. The Saturday previous he had returned entirely exhausted from a three-day mountain climbing trip through the snow to Brown flats near Mt. Baldy, and failed to overcome the shock of exposure in spite of medical attention and nursing.

Whale meat will be placed on sale at a number of Long Beach and Los Angeles meat markets, according to a statement made by President Bismarck Houseils of the Long Beach Tuna Canning company, where fifteen tons of tenderloin of California grey whale were received Wednesday. Whale meat will be sold at the retail prices of meat and will cut the cost of living, Houseils stated.

At a meeting of the State Humane association in San Francisco Friday the following measures to go before the state legislature at its coming session were endorsed: To teach humane education in public schools, to increase the penalty for abandonment of wives and dependent children, to prohibit bulldozing of steers at exhibitions, to prohibit rabbit coursing in enclosures, to regulate the size of coops for transporting poultry, to confiscate game cocks when used for fighting, and to prohibit persons under sixteen years of age from procuring hunting licenses. Hugh J. Baldwin of San Diego is president of the association.

The project started a few years ago to construct a gigantic reservoir at Pine Flat, Fresno county, to store approximately 600,000 acre feet of water and pump 300,000, making a total of 900,000 acre feet for the irrigation of more than 1,000,000 acres of land in the three counties of Fresno, Kings and Tulare, is beginning to reach a stage that is attracting general interest. Organization is being discussed in several of the proposed districts. State as well as federal aid will be sought in financing the project. Lewis C. Hill of Los Angeles, consulting engineer for the Elephant Butte project and the Roosevelt dam, has made an inspection of the Pine Flat project on behalf of the United States reclamation service and has reported favorably toward the construction of the dam.

After several years of indecision as to the proper time at which mechanics' liens should be filed in order to be valid, the supreme court of California has rendered a decision which effectually fixes the matter, so long as the code remains as it is. The decision, which was written by Justice Shaw, and concurred in by Justices Sloss and Lawlor, reverses the decision of Superior Judge Wellborn, and also a recent

'Tis fine to see the old world, and travel up and down Among the famous palaces and cities of renown, To admire the crumbling castles and the statues of the kings— But now I think I've had enough of antiquated things. So it's home again, and home again, America for me My heart is turning home again, and there I long to be, In the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars, Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars. Oh, London is a man's town, there's power in the air; And Paris is a woman's town, with flowers in her hair; And it's sweet to dream in Venice, and it's great to study Rome; But when it comes to living there is no place like home. I like the German fir woods, in green battalions drilled; I like the gardens of Versailles, with flashing fountains filled; But, oh, to take your hand, my dear, and ramble for a day In the friendly western woodland, where nature has her way. I know that Europe's wonderful, yet something seems to lack; The past is too much with her, and the people looking back. But the glory of the present is to make the future free— We love our land for what she is and what she is to be. Oh, it's home again, and home again, America for me I want a ship that's westward bound to plough the rolling sea, To the blessed Land of Room Enough beyond the ocean bars, Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars. —Henry Van Dyke. DIDN'T SEEM RIGHT. The famous scientist, Sir Archibald Geikie, although a Scotsman, is not above thoroughly enjoying a joke, even though it be against his countrymen. One he tells himself is about an Englishman and a Scotsman who went to Egypt together and paid a visit to the pyramids. The Englishman was lost in admiration at the wonderful sight, and presently asked his companion for his opinion. The Scotsman shook his head sorrowfully. "Ah, man," he said with a sigh, "what a lot of mason work not to be bringing in any rent!"—Glasgow Times. IMPORTED TREE DISEASE. The poplars of this country are now threatened by a dangerous fungous disease which has evidently been imported in recent years from Europe. This disease attacks the twigs, limbs and trunks of the black and Lombardy poplars (Populus nigra) and of the Carolina poplars or cottonwoods (populus deltoides) and may be expected to attack other species of poplars and cottonwoods, in regions not yet investigated, according to the plant pathologists of the United States department of agriculture. This disease is caused by the fungus Dothichiza populea. It appears first in the form of cankers or depressed dead areas in the bark much in the same manner as in case of the blight of chestnut trees, which is caused by a distinctly different fungus.
