My Dear Sir

29 I do not know whether Wendell Phillips's speech is in type for the Annual A. S. Report. But I hope it is, that he has had done that no injustice is done to Mr. Mann, by misquoting his remark when interrupted in Congress. Mr. Mann did not ask not to be interrupted, strictly speaking, for he permitted Mr. Latheland to state his point. He only asked ~~not~~ not to be interrupted further. If Mr. P. would introduce this word further, he would be strictly accurate, & avoid all difficulty. I have reason to know that Mr. Mann feels that injustice has been done him - & on a heard reading of the passage can not be surprised. I shall write to Mr. P. at Northampton, but lest he should be in Boston, I send this. Respectfully yours
F. H. Higginson.
