PREFACE.

THE publishers of the AMERICAN AND ENGLISH ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF LAW, realizing the paramount importance of this part of the work, have spared no effort to make an index which will furnish the most convenient, ready, and certain means of access to the contents of the preceding volumes.

In the case of a work of the scope and magnitude of the AMERICAN AND ENGLISH ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF LAW, covering as it does the entire field of substantive law and evidence under 670 titles, in more than 35,000 large octavo pages, and containing about 1,400,000 citations of cases, it becomes readily apparent that an index is not merely a convenience, but an absolute necessity. Legal classification is essentially arbitrary, and by reason of this fact alone it is impossible for one person to apprehend in what connection another person would treat particular matters. Moreover, the different topics of the law in their various ramifications necessarily overlap each other to such an extent that the treatment of the same general subject in several connections is unavoidable. The index gathers together all these related matters so that the place of treatment of every subject contained in the entire work may easily be found. Thus, EXPERIMENTS (IN EVIDENCE) cites the pages of the six different volumes of the text in which that subject is treated in its various connections; EXPERT AND OPINION EVIDENCE cites thirteen volumes; EXPLOSIONS AND EXPLOSIVES cites seven volumes; EX POST FACTO LAWS cites eight volumes; FALSE IMPRISONMENT cites twelve volumes; and so on throughout the index. The work of compilation was done by Mr. Thomas J. Michie.
