THE UNION -IT MUST BE PRESERVED. TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 20, 1885.

We received a number of eastern parters yesterday, smong which we find a Washington Globe, and a Telearauh of the 3d inst. The proceedings of Congress present nothing of interest. 'On the 31st ult. both houses. rogether with the President; Vice President, Heads of Departments, a portion of the Diplomatic Corps, &c. &c. met in the Hall of the House of Representatives, where Mr. Adams delivered an address on the life and character of General Lafayette, which occupied about three hours time. When Mr Adams had concluded, the Vice President and Senate retired to their Hail, the President of the United State, Heads of Departments, &c. &c. will.drew, and the House, on motion, adjourned over to the 2d.

A Catholic less been elected to the Sheriffality of London, the duties of which has not been before exercised by one of his persuasion since the reformation.

A Literary Society has been established in Mobile, under the title of the "Franklin Society."

The attempt on the part of the anti-Jackson portion of the Ohio Legislature, to nominate a condidate for the Presidency has resulted in an entire failure. Sad was the disammiarity of feelings and views among the patchwork party, that it was deemed necessary to postpone the nomination indefinitely.

A convention of Jackson men in Virginia, in an address to the people, thus speak of the Proclamation :

"This was soon followed by his proclamation, addresse to the citizens of South Carolina. The federal origin and character attributed to our government in that paper, we repudiate as utterly as the President himself, upon maturel reflection, has since done; but regarding it as a measure, it evinced consummate ability, and was fraught with incalcu lable benefit to the country."

Alva has been appointed and the Duke of Wellington may be advantageous to Spain; and it would be wrong to tinagine that a deference which under different circumstances would be laudable, could lead the General to compromise the interests of his country, which he has ever defended with so much interest and patriotism.
