SEARCHERS CALL HALT AT LUMBER COMPANY

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Indications that a murder may have been committed were discovered at Aurora yesterday when a carload of lumber from Washington was being unloaded. Workmen found a woman's bloodstained garment, a school reader with the inscription "Elsie Helba Day, Springfield, Ore., and an empty revolver. Blood was spattered about the car. The schoolbook, a Huss German reader, also bore the name "A. H. Day, Colville, Wash." The car was shipped from South Bend, Wash., September 25, by the South Bend Mills & Timber Company. It passed through Springfield, Ore., a day or two later. The Aurora police have telegraphed the chiefs of police at Colville, Wash., and Springfield, Ore.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 22.—Elsie Day is in Des Moines visiting her brother, Alfred Love, whose name was scribbled in the book found in the car. They are brother and sister, orphans, adopted by different families. Elsie Day, who has been here two weeks, said last night that she believed the victim was Miss Alice McCormack, a school teacher of Springfield, Ore., with whom she was intimately acquainted. "The book found in the car was mine," said Miss Day last night. "I had scribbled my name and that of my foster-parents in it. I suppose she borrowed it, though I had forgotten it. She probably wrote her own name and that of my brother in it." Miss Day knew of no reason for Miss McCormack being killed, and did not believe she had.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 22.—Miss Alice McCormack, teacher near Harrisburg, Ore., who it was feared had become the victim of a murder in a box car mystery, discovered at Aurora, Ill., is at her home near Harrisburg. She stated by telephone to-day that she could not explain the presence of the book, given her by Miss Elsie Day, in the box car.

South Bend, Wash., Nov. 22.—No explanation could be given at the offices of the South Bend Mills & Timber Company of the finding of bloodstained articles in a car of lumber shipped by them to Aurora, Ill. All the doors of the car were securely fastened and sealed when it left the mill, and the mill men think it probable that it was broken into after it left South Bend.

DIED FROM EXHAUSTION WHEN SEEKING HUSBAND

Woman's Body Found Ten Miles From Home; Children Are Missing,
One Reported Dead.

Pembroke, Ont., Nov. 22.—Conflicting stories have reached here regarding the death of Mrs. D. Pilon, on the Upper Ottawa near Desjardins, and the disappearance of her two children. Mr. Pilon, who is a trapper, left his home two weeks ago, informing his wife that he was going to Desjardins. Not returning, when expected, she is believed to have started out in search of him, or to procure food for her family. When he reached home he found the family had left, and then set out to search for them. Mrs. Pilon's body was found on a trail leading from Wolverine Creek about ten miles from her home. She had evidently died from exhaustion. It is also reported that the body of one of the children has been found.

PRINCE KEIKI TOKUGAWA, LAST OF THE SHOGUNS, DIES IN JAPAN

Was Ten Months Ruler of Japan in 1867-8
Then Voluntarily Abdicated and Restored
Powers to Imperial Throne

New York, Nov. 22.—The death of Prince Keiki Tokugawa, announced in a brief cablegram from Tokio to-day, severs a connecting link between the old and new Japan. None of the contemporaries of the pre-Meiji or Meiji days of the Shogunate enjoyed such distinction as hedged about Prince Keiki, "the last of the Shoguns." In the late days of the era of enlightenment in Japan, it is doubtful if the average foreign visitor or even resident was aware of the unobtrusive existence of a man who barely fifty years ago was the defacto ruler of Japan. He held his exalted office as Shogun for only ten months in the year 1867-8. It was at the time of his coming to power that Japan found herself subjected to pressure from without which threatened to force her to renounce her time-honored policy of entire isolation. The Tokugawa Shogunate had to yield to the foreign demand and the Kanagawa treaty was first signed with the plenipotentiary of the United States as the sequel to the visit of Commodore Perry with his "black ships." Up to that time the Emperor of Japan was little more than a pawn in the dangerous game played between Yeddo (now Tokio) and Kyoto as the rival centers of the Japanese government. In 1869 the imperial authorities reasserted themselves with an edict from Emperor Mutsuhito for the abolition of the Shogunate and announcing the emperor's restoration of the government. Internal strife threatened to exhaust the state and expose it as an easy prey to foreign oppression when Keiki voluntarily abdicated and restored the powers of government to the imperial throne.

DISCOVERS PARENTAGE AFTER SEVERAL YEARS

Taken From His Mother Fourteen Years Ago Hurley Finally Locates Family

South Bend, Wash., Nov. 22.—Snatched from the arms of his mother when six years of age, kidnapped by a man supposedly his father, spirited away in a buggy under fire of peace officers, driven all night, and finally waking up in Chicago, and after 14 years of separation from his mother, and abandoned five years ago by his kidnapper, John James Hurley, 20 years old, now employed as an assistant baker in the South Bend Baking Company plant, will start back to his childhood home in Punxsutawney, Pa., within ten days, to meet mother, brothers and sisters. The story told by this young man reads like a romance. In the 14 years that he has been separated from his blood relatives in Punxsutawney he has travelled the length of the continent, been given a good religious and school education at Catholic boys' schools in three or four states of the east and west, and upon abandonment, five years ago, was thrown into the state training school at Cebahals.

October 15, young Hurley, restless under the strain of so many years speculation as to who he really was, wrote to the chief of police of Punxsutawney, Pa., asking if the chief remembered a six-year-old boy being kidnapped about 14 years ago, and if he recalled that his older brother's name was Brooks, and that his mother had called the writer John James.

After two weeks, Hurley received the welcome telegram from the chief that he had found the writer's mother, and that her name was now Hughes. Upon the heels of the chief's telegram came letters from his mother, and then followed letters from mother and sisters. The letters are filled with the mother's joy in discovering her long-lost son. Grover Noonan, proprietor of the bakery, has taken a keen interest in the young man's case, and has helped establish the relationship of Mrs. Hughes and her son.

CANADA RECEIVES AND SENDS MANY PARCELS

London, Nov. 22.—Francis Salisbury who has received a handsome testimonial from the commercial community of Liverpool on retiring from the postmaster's office of that city, said that Canada provided the most wonderful instance known of postal expansion. Nearly 600,000 parcels went through Liverpool to Canada, and 259,000 came from Canada yearly.

WOMAN FOUND DYING WITH GAS TURNED ON

Seattle, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Alida E. Robertson, wife of Harry C. Robertson, general manager of the Sullivan-Casidine Company, was found in a dying condition early this morning in her apartments at 1819 Fifteenth avenue, as the result of having inhaled illuminating gas. Seven jets in the gas range were open and the woman is believed to have committed suicide, though no motive is ascribed by her husband and friends. She died before medical assistance could reach her.

WON'T BE CRUMBS OF WILSON WEDDING CAKE

Nine Inches High, Twenty-Two in Diameter and Not at All Elaborate.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—Numerous requests for a piece of Jessie Wilson's wedding cake caused to be issued at the White House to-day a statement describing the size of the cake as too small to gratify the desires of the public. The statement says: "On account of the erroneous and extravagant statements as to the size and cost of the cake which has been baked for the wedding of Miss Jessie Wilson, Mrs. Wilson wishes it stated that the cake is nine inches high and twenty-two inches in diameter. It is the usual kind of brides' cake and not at all elaborate."

Preparations for the wedding continue. The Rev. John Irwin Sayre, a brother of the groom to be, arrived here to-day from Germany on his way back from missionary work in China. The Rev. Mr. Sayre will assist the Rev. Dr. Sylvester W. Beach, of Princeton, N. J., at the wedding ceremony.

ARMED DESPERADO IS SURROUNDED BY MEN

Madero Sharpshooter Killed Four Men
Yesterday in Utah and Then Fled.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 22.—Armed with a rifle and two automatic pistols, Ralph Lopez, the desperado who killed four men yesterday, was reported to be surrounded this morning a few miles west of Utah Lake. Posses from Salt Lake, Nephi and Eureka at noon began closing in on a cabin where he had taken refuge, with the expectation that he would fight until killed.

Lopez has the reputation of being a dangerous gunman. He was a sharpshooter in the Madero revolution. The bodies of three of his victims, Chief of Police Grant, of Bingham, and Deputy Sheriff Whitebeck and Jensen, were brought here to-day. The trouble began yesterday, when he killed a fellow-Mexican as the result of a love affair.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 22.—Capt. Halsey, H. M. S. New Zealand, Prince George of Battenberg and some other officers leave to-morrow morning for Ottawa, where the Prince will be received by the Duke of Connaught. H. M. S. New Zealand reached here yesterday from Bermuda, and was officially welcomed this afternoon.

GREEKS AND ARMENIANS AT CHICAGO HAVE FEUD

Chicago, Nov. 22.—A deadly feud between Greeks and Armenians living in Chicago is believed to exist by the police. This theory was accepted to-day when A. D. Kasharian, an Armenian laborer, was found dying in his lodgings of a bullet wound. It was only a week ago that a Greek, James Charapoulos, was found dead in similar circumstances and in the same building.

FINDING WRECKAGE.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 22.—A dispatch from the deputy minister of marine at St. John's, Newfoundland, reports about pieces of a steamer-hatch being picked up at Lamina on the Newfoundland coast and life-buoys at Dantzic. They are thought here to belong to the missing steamer Bridgeport.

New York, Nov. 22.—A Calcutta cable says: "The report is in circulation here that owing to the threatening condition of affairs in India, Viscount Hardinge is to retire as viceroy on Jan. 1, and to be succeeded by General Lord Kitchener."

POLICEWOMEN WILL NOT WEAR UNIFORMS

New Officers Who Commenced
Duties on November 7 Will Show Police Badges

Everyone who is really conscious of the fact that Victoria is possessed of two policewomen has been watching expectantly for their appearance in the streets in uniform—perhaps helmeted, mail-stripped, and aggressively armed, cap a-pie.

But they are doomed to disappointment. The police ladies are going to remain incognito, as far as any particular means by which they are to be enabled to prove their identity, when occasion arises, is through the display of a badge, which they wear under the lapel of their coat, or, if it be a lapelless garment, in some other equally to-be-displayed position.

The new officers, Mrs. Clayards and Miss Macdonald, commenced their duties on November 7, and have temporarily established offices in a front room of the Campbell building, overlooking Fort Street. They are on duty at all sorts of hours, ready to catch the unsuspecting and unwary offenders as well as to protect the innocent.

Working directly under the deputy chief, they have to report daily to that officer. If there is special work to be done, or investigation along special lines to be made, he gives them instructions. Apart from this they are practically free agents, with a "beat" which extends to every part of the city, and when watched persons roam beyond the city, to adjoining municipalities and districts.

"It will be along preventive lines," said one of the policewomen in an interview with the Times this morning. "We have to visit stores, hotels, etc., and see that the proper regulations are carried out with respect to the woman labor employed there."

"In one place," continued the new officer, "we found that the only room provided for the women employees was a luncheon and dressing-room was a dark, unwholesome, insanitary basement room. This we reported to the Sanitary Inspector, and we shall follow up the notification to him by visiting the place again to see whether he has rectified the condition. The clause with respect to the hours of employment has also been infringed in several cases. The act provides that the girls are to be given an hour for their mid-day meal, and when the working day is a ten-hour one, three-quarters of an hour for the meal which comes between 5 and 8 p. m. Some employers, we found, had been in the habit of urging the girls to come back in a few minutes, as the season was a busy one, or something to that effect. Where overtime is given by the girls, the employers are supposed to make up the time by letting them off earlier some other day."

Although working cautiously and as unobtrusively as possible, the policewomen are taking note of the actions of persons suspected of being procurers, and disreputable houses are being watched and warning given where facts are ascertained. Hotels and restaurants are also within the scope of their observations, and the quietly dressed woman who dine at an inconspicuous table are nevertheless jotting mental notes for future reference. Young girls, unchaperoned, are their special care, and the public guardians have already given a protecting warning to some of these.

Another point, which will make the truant school-day and school-girl more careful of his or her movements, lies in the fact that the two new officers

CONSULATE-GENERAL OF GERMANY AT MONTREAL

Imperial Budget of 1914 Makes Changes in Rank of Many Legations.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—The increasing importance of Germany's relations with Latin-America is indicated by a provision in the imperial budget of 1914, raising to the rank of full legations the minister residences now credited to Guatemala, Venezuela and Peru. A German consulate is established at Panama and the German consulate at Montreal is raised to a consulate-general. Some other striking points in the preliminary summary, accompanying the budget bill are: The increase in the annual subsidy for German schools abroad from $100,000 to $175,000; an appropriation for the Olympic games to be held in Berlin in 1916; an appropriation for the German exhibit at the Baltic Exposition in Malmoe, Sweden, in 1914, which is considered more worthy of support than the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

STEEL IS APPROACHING TOWN OF GEORGE

Railway Now at Mile 186 and Will Go Through Township in January.

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Returning from Prince George, where he sold the 500-lots in that townsite unsold in Vancouver and Edmonton, Frank A. Ellis, of Prince Rupert, auctioneer for the lots in Prince George, states that the railway company has started grading and laying sidewalks along George street, the principal street in Prince George, that good progress is being made in railway construction, and that unless a hard frost comes the railway will reach Prince George by the middle of January. Steel has been laid as far as mile 186, which is only forty miles east of Prince George. He expects that the transcontinental line will be completed from coast to coast by the middle of next year.

DATE OF EXECUTION SET.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—James Saunders, found guilty on Wednesday of the murder of Lockport, on October 31, was this morning sentenced to be hanged February 3.

are a species of truant officer. If children under 14 years of age are seen entering a moving picture-house during school hours, their names are taken, the man at the ticket office is made to refund their money, and if the officer wishes to inflict the penalty, he may be apprehended. This, of course, if the said child goes to the picture house unaccompanied by an adult.

Boys and girls found running around town during school hours are also named to the truant officer, and it is also part of their work to watch the cigar stands, the saloons and shops where cigarettes or tobacco in any form are sold. In the event of youngsters being found buying any of these articles, the salesman is apprehended, and the boys' names are taken.

Primarily the policewomen's work is for the safeguarding of women and children. A list of the "interdicts" is in their possession, and they are vested with full authority to apprehend anyone selling intoxicating spirits to these people. These women are being watched, and coming under a similar department of the work, girls who are suspected of being "doped" are followed out beyond the city limits even if the grounds for suspicion are sufficiently strong.

"I do not think it requires physical strength to be a policewoman," said one of the ladies this morning. "Authority is more powerful and effective than muscle, and I have no doubt that the average policeman realizes that. Besides, should we require to use physical force, we may always call on a policeman to help us. But we prefer preventing rather than punishing evil; we do not want to bring evil-doers into the public any more than possible, and any sort of a contest has a tendency to do this."

"We are keeping strict toll of the curfew infractions. Our work also extends to Chinatown, and we guard against the inveiglement of white girls to that section of the city. So you see, we really have a big field for work and a great scope for doing good by preventing wrong."

Miss Macdonald, the younger of the policewomen, is a graduate of the Montreal general hospital, and was engaged in that big city in social work. She has followed the profession of private nursing for some years. Mrs. Clayards is the widow of the late Sergeant Clayards, and heard enough of the character of the work to be rather conversant with the peculiarities of the profession.

Imparcial First Issues Statement That Causes Atmosphere of Optimism at National Palace Where News Received Credence

Killing of Federal Prisoners Followed by Expressions From President Wilson Are Basis of New Development

Mexico City, Nov. 22.—The Mexican morning newspapers under government domination published to-day long articles regarding the alleged intention of the United States government to recognize Provisional President Huerta in the near future.

El Independiente says: "Huerta will be recognized by the American government. The special envoy of President Wilson was able to prove anarchy was reigning in the camp of the rebels of the north."

El Diario similarly displayed an item stating that Secretary Bryan had already signed a communication recognizing Huerta. The same newspaper quotes Querido Moheno, the Mexican foreign minister, as saying he has "no official knowledge" of the fact, but that from private sources he has received "very optimistic news and has hopes of an early adjustment of the difficulties between Mexico and the United States."

El Independiente at great length relates that the failure of the conference between William Bayard Hale and Carranza, the constitutionalist leader, was due to the conviction of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan that the rebel chief could not give assurance for the safety of the lives and property of foreigners. The newspaper continues: President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, after listening attentively to the reports of their envoy, decided that Provisional President Huerta was the only man capable of dominating the situation."

The same newspaper assures its readers that an official announcement of the recognition of Huerta is expected "within a very few days."

The foundation for the optimism of the Mexican press appears to be certain cablegrams received here by foreign business men, described the horror felt by President Wilson at the killing of federal prisoners when the rebels took Juarez. These cablegrams were at first erroneously translated as referring to the killing of American army men there.

The Imparcial displayed the story

ORDER IS RESTORED BETWEEN TUXPAM AND TAMPICO; WARSHIP RETURNS TO VERA CRUZ

Revival of Separate Northern Government Plan by Constitutionalists

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—Rear-Admiral Fletcher called to-day that the battleship New Hampshire had left Tuxpam to return to Vera Cruz. Taken in connection with the pledge from the constitutionalist general, Aguilar, that his men would not molest foreign property, the movement was regarded as evidence that the restoration of order was complete between Tuxpam and Tampico.

The Madero refugees were transferred late last night to the scout cruiser Chester from the battleship Rhode Island, and the Chester sailed for Havana.

With the full realization that there probably can be no immediate developments in a diplomatic sense, pending a clearing of the tangle in which the Mexican congress has involved itself, interest is now centred in the naval situation on the gulf coast. The approach of two British cruisers was made known to the state department through the British embassy without eliciting any expressions of disapproval, and that is taken as another evidence that the United States and Great Britain are acting in perfect harmony as to naval forces to protect foreign interests. It is pointed out in naval circles that with German and French warships in the same waters, there could be no objection to the presence of British ships.

Unofficial advices from the government agents in the sections of Mexico where the constitutionalists are operating, suggest a revival of a plan to seek recognition from the United States for a de facto government, claiming jurisdiction by right of possession; the establishment of a capital and of an organized administration in all that part of Mexico north of a line drawn about due west from Tuxpam or Tampico.

Rebels now control all districts in which are located some of the camps of the Pearson syndicate in the Tuxpam district of the state of Vera Cruz, including the island of Potrero, of which Thomas Coleman, an American, is alleged to have been dispossessed, and regarding which Charles O'Shaughnessy is treating with the Mexican foreign office.

The rebels are not interfering with the work in the oil camps, but are contenting themselves with collecting tribute.

MAN SHOTS WOMEN, BURNS BARN AND STOCK FAILS TO DESTROY HOUSE, THEN KILLS SELF

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 22.—Fredrick Grant, of Leduc, shot and killed himself this morning at the home of J. J. Flood near here after firing three times at Mrs. Flood and her daughter.

Mrs. Flood is injured seriously but the daughter may recover. Mr. Flood was in Edmonton when the attack was made.

After shooting the women, Grant attempted to burn down the house but failed. He then went to the barn at the rear of the house and set fire to the stable, destroying the stock. He then killed himself.

The police are mystified as to the whereabouts of the elder daughter of the family who since the tragedy this morning cannot be found.

BHAGWAN SINGH NOW SOUGHT FOR ASSAULT

Deported Hindu Priest Out on $500 Bail Allowed by Vancouver Magistrate

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Further complications have arisen in connection with the deportation of Bhagwan Singh, the Hindu priest, who was shipped to the Orient on the Empress of Japan on Wednesday night by Immigration Inspector Malcolm R. Reid. Bhagwan Singh was under arrest by the city police on a charge of assault, and was out on $500 bonds, provided by his friends, to insure his appearance to answer to the charge.

The name of Bhagwan Singh, together with that of another Hindu, charged jointly with him, was called in court yesterday, and A. J. Kappelle appeared to answer for them. He explained to his worship that Dyal Singh was in court, but that Bhagwan had been forcibly taken from the jurisdiction of the court. The case was adjourned until next Thursday, when Mr. Kappelle will be asked to produce the man who is out on bail. "I can't produce him," exclaimed Mr. Kappelle in explaining the circumstances, "for he is speeding away across the Pacific." "Bail was put up for the appearance in court of Bhagwan Singh, and unless that appearance is entered when the case is called for trial bail will be forfeited. In that event we will push the matter to the limit. Mr. Reid had no right whatever to take a man under arrest away from the jurisdiction of the court. It is an outrage."

Bhagwan Singh and Dyal Singh were arrested on the information of Sundar Singh, who alleged that the other Hindu assaulted him without reason, badly bruising and cutting him.

CANADIAN ANSWERS CLAIM OF REDMOND

Bonar Law Speaks of Ontario and Quebec in Relation to Home Rule

London, Nov. 22.—Speaking at a Unionist demonstration, at the Birmingham Hippodrome last night, Bonar Law took exception to Mr. Redmond's claim that Canada wholly favored Home Rule. Nothing, he asserted, was further from the truth. He was a Canadian himself, and ought to know, at least as well as Mr. Redmond, what Canadians feel on the subject. Influenced by their own experience, he said, they are in favor of devolution and of extending the local government with the consent of the governed in Canada. They have a situation not unlike ours, and how have they dealt with it? Quebec is a province, peopled largely with men of the French race, and of the Roman Catholic religion. The population of Ontario is largely of British extraction and of the Protestant religion. The Canadian constitution has given local self-government to Quebec and has given it also to Ontario.

Mr. Law continued: "If you were to suggest to a Canadian that he should do in Canada what is proposed to be done in Ireland—that is, that Ontario should be put under the heel of Quebec, or Quebec under the heel of Ontario, he would tell you that you are madmen; that no sane man would dream of it."

"But the real feeling of the Dominions was shown in the late unification within our Empire in South Africa. Natal occupied in South Africa a position not altogether dissimilar to that of Ulster in Ireland. In the other states of the South African confederation there is a majority of men of the British race."

"The Ulster question will be settled and that Home Rule, however modified, will be enforced before a general election, is the conviction in the best informed circles here."

Meanwhile a gradual change in the direction of the Unionist policy is daily becoming more apparent. Attention is directed to a speech made by Mr. Austin Chamberlain, at Bromsgrove, in which he said: "Although it may be desirable to deal with Ireland first, it is not desirable to deal with it as an exception. Some of the worst features of the present bill might be impossible with Home Rule all round, which appeared from time to time to be the real foundation of the Liberal policy."

This, following upon a reference by Lord Lansdowne in a speech at Brighton, to a system of devolution applicable to all parts of the Kingdom, seems to indicate that attention is not concentrated on the exclusion of Ulster from the Home Rule bill, but is centering upon a more comprehensive scheme of higher unity, with, at the same time, a division of the parts of the kingdom.

There is thus the prospect of a coincidence in the aims of the Imperialists who desire to see the Imperial Parliament relieved of its burden of local legislation, so as to clear the way for a real Imperial Parliament when the time comes, and those of the Liberals, who also desire to relieve the parliamentary machine of the mass of detail which now clogs its operation, in order to facilitate domestic reform.

The Daily Mail is authority for stating that the dawn of confederation may be brought appreciably nearer than is at present realized by the informal pourparlers over Ulster. This is due to a direct offer by the government that if the opposition will admit that Home Rule cannot be postponed and is ready to consider a scheme of Home Rule all round, the government is ready to meet them on the features of the Irish bill to which they object with due regard to safeguards for the supremacy of the central government.

There is every reason to suppose that the proposition will be given careful consideration and it is quite possible to anticipate that a policy of wider self-government may be the direct issue at the next general elections.

IMMIGRANTS BENEFIT COMING TO CANADA

Commissioner Lamb Says 1,500 Were Brought to Province Last Year by Salvation Army.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Commissioner David Lamb, of the Salvation Army from London, who has charge of the immigration work, was here yesterday with Colonel Turner, who is in charge of immigration work in Canada, to confer with the immigration authorities. They have just returned from a trip as far west as Edmonton. Commissioner Lamb states that with the good harvest, there were about 10,000 immigrants brought out to Canada this year through the army's immigration bureau. The prospects were better than ever for next year. Of those brought out, about 1,500 were placed in the maritime provinces, 4,000 in Ontario, 3,000 in the prairie provinces and 1,500 in British Columbia.

This is Commissioner Lamb's tenth annual trip to Canada, speaking of the result of their immigration work in Canada, he declared that of those whom the army had brought out, no more than 1/2 per cent. had proven failures, or had become disgruntled. Practically all were doing well and had greatly benefited by coming to this country.

Miss Dingeldine was a young lady of exemplary habits and had been postmistress for eight years. Saturday, November 8, the day before she disappeared, she made two deposits of government funds in an Everson bank, and postal inspectors have found her accounts to be correct. She lived until recently with her mother here, to whom she has always been attentive, and authorities are wholly at a loss to account for her absence. No romantic adventures of Miss Dingeldine, which might have culminated unhappily, are known to her most intimate friends or to her mother.

The absence of the postmistress was noted Sunday, November 9, when Agent Somner, of the B. & N. railroad,

AIRSHIP TRAVEL IN GERMANY UNCHECKED

Hansa Makes Two Daily Trips and Has Completed Three Hundredth Flight

Berlin, Nov. 22.—The two disasters to Zeppelin airships in September and October are not to result in checking the use of these craft in Germany. This is the decision apparently reached by the government, the concern that build airships, and by what may be called the aerial travelling public.

The recent fatal accidents in the North sea, when fourteen men were killed, and at Johannisthal, when twenty-eight persons lost their lives, have not reduced the number of sailings in the vicinity of Berlin of the Zeppelin, stationed at Potsdam. These airships will make two trips daily, and only recently it celebrated its three hundredth flight. Moreover, the German Airship Navigation Company, which owns the Hansa and two other airships, is preparing for a much more extended schedule of sailings. To the company's eight stations, located at Potsdam, Mamburg, Dusseldorf, Frankfurt, Baden-Baden, Gotha, Leipzig and Friedrichshafen, are to be added eight more—at Emden, Bremen, Hanover, Brunswick, Dresden, Stuttgart, Munich and Copenhagen. It is also intended later to establish stations at towns in the more eastern part of the empire, such as Breslau, and probably at Danzig and Konigsberg.

From a recent issue of the "aerial time table" it appears that regular air routes and fixed sailings will be maintained. Between Friedrichshafen and Copenhagen the airships will sail either via Hamburg and Brunswick, or by way of Brunswick, Potsdam, Leipzig, Gotha and Stuttgart. Another line will connect Dresden and Hamburg by way of Potsdam and Brunswick. Vessels travelling between Bremen and Emden will follow the same course as far as Brunswick. Between Dresden and Dusseldorf the route will also be by way of Brunswick. The last named city is thus to be a sort of central station for the whole system.

Owing to the large number of stations that eventually will be in operation, it is expected that the aircraft will be able to find ready refuges when surprised by bad weather. Most of the stations are constructed to accommodate two ships.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov. 22.—The latest of the Zeppelin war airships, the Zeppelin VI, ascended from Lake Constance to-day and started on its first trip, a 250-mile flight to Gotha. The big dirigible is intended for service in the German army.

STREET ROBBERS AT SEATTLE NOT CAUGHT

Usual Hold-Ups Occurred in Sound City Between Dusk and Dawn.

Seattle, Nov. 22.—When W. B. Klieves, chauffeur for the Seattle Taxicab & Transfer Company, stepped out of his cab at 416 Tenth avenue, south, at 11 o'clock last night to pick up a passenger in response to a call, he was confronted by the only man in sight. Klieves handed the highwayman $8. The thief then ran down Tenth avenue and disappeared. His description corresponds in a general way to that of the man who had earlier in the evening robbed Higo's Japanese grocery at 26 Twelfth avenue, south; only a few blocks away.

About half an hour later Manager R. B. Jensen, of the taxicab, given a receipt for a call for a taxicab, in a voice which seemed to him the same as that of the man who had lured Klieves to his cost. He therefore called police headquarters and sent two policemen out in the taxi. It proved, however, to be a legitimate call.

Richard Harris, an employee of the Pacific hospital, was stopped by a robber at the point of a revolver at 8:30 o'clock last night at Fifth avenue and Vine street, and robbed of $150. The holdup was without a mask, but had his hat pulled down over his eyes.

EVERSON POSTMISTRESS SUDDENLY DISAPPEARS

Police of Coast Cities Are Asked to Search for Miss Alice Dingeldine.

Sumas, Wash., Nov. 22.—Another clue to the whereabouts of Miss Alice Dingeldine, postmistress at Everson, near here, who has been missing for two weeks, failed to materialize yesterday, when an inmate of a local hospital thought to be Miss Everson proved a different person. Friends and relatives of the missing woman have almost despaired of locating her, and police in every city along the coast have been notified.

Miss Dingeldine was a young lady of exemplary habits and had been postmistress for eight years. Saturday, November 8, the day before she disappeared, she made two deposits of government funds in an Everson bank, and postal inspectors have found her accounts to be correct. She lived until recently with her mother here, to whom she has always been attentive, and authorities are wholly at a loss to account for her absence. No romantic adventures of Miss Dingeldine, which might have culminated unhappily, are known to her most intimate friends or to her mother.

The absence of the postmistress was noted Sunday, November 9, when Agent Somner, of the B. & N. railroad,

Challenge by Letter Returned Unopened

Paris, Nov. 21.—Paul de Cassagnac, a well-known French writer, recently sent a challenge to a duel to Lieut. Baron von Forstner, of the German army, who, according to a local newspaper, not only insulted the townspeople but also the French flag. The challenge was sent in a registered letter which Lieut. Forstner to-day returned unopened.

M. Cassagnac immediately repeated his challenge by telegraph, asking Lieut. Forstner whether he was absolutely determined to dishonor his uniform by shirking the consequence of his conduct.

TWO CLAIMANTS NOW FOR CARIBOO MINES

Placer Fields Restaked by John Hopp While Ward Interests Buy It

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—Word comes from the Cariboo that the famous placer mining properties of the Consolidated Cariboo Hydraulic Company have been restaked by John Hopp and associates under the belief that some of the mining regulations with regard to working placers have not been fulfilled, the property, thereby, becoming open for restaking. These placers are reputed to be the biggest hydraulic proposition in the world.

The original company was formed in 1894 by John B. Hobson, and backing him were such well-known capitalists as Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Sir William Van Horne, Robert B. Angus, then head of the Bank of Montreal, men interested in the Southern Pacific railway and others.

It has been estimated in government reports that some $2,000,000 have been expended in improvements on this property.

After about $2,000,000 worth of gold had been taken out the Guggenheims became interested in the undertaking, and paid a very large sum to the original company for the property. It is said, however, that they took out very little gold.

A few weeks ago, R. T. Ward and associates of Vancouver took over the proposition from the Guggenheims. Mr. Ward returned from the property a few days ago with an announcement that work was to begin on a large scale in the spring. He is a placer miner of thirty years' experience, and owns and works considerable ground in the Horseshoe country. He estimated the work necessary to recommence operations, and had submitted his report to those interested when word came of the restaking of the property.

"I understand," said Mr. Ward, yesterday, "that Mr. Hopp and associates have restaked the property under the information that the Guggenheims had not kept up their free miners' license. This may be the fact, but we are not worrying at all, and I am sure when the stakers look into the matter they will see where they are wrong."

6. The trial of the Gothenburg and Bergen systems in all cities of more than 4,000 population. By these systems the attraction of profit is taken away from the individual by keeping profit on the business to state and municipalities.

7. The execution of the new law by two license commissioners, one at Montreal and the other at Quebec.

8. The strict maintenance of the new law for a period of at least five years, so as to allow a complete trial.

The report is now before the House for consideration.

Speaking of prohibition, the commissioners declare that the evidence shows that an immense majority of the population are opposed thereto. Experience has convinced them that prohibition would be no more successful in the larger towns here than elsewhere. It is not practicable, and the commissioners quote the opinion of Cardinal Gibbons and other clerical and lay authorities on the subject. The commissioners are in favor of the Gothenburg and Bergen systems, which are practiced in several localities in Norway and Sweden.

PROHIBITION IS NOT ADVISED FOR QUEBEC

Commissioners Favor Gothenburg and Bergen Systems for Liquor Traffic

Quebec, Nov. 22.—In a 60-page report by the license commissioners, the Hon. Judges H. G. Carroll, A. G. Cross and A. Etessier, who have been investigating hotel conditions and problems throughout the province for several months, the following recommendations are made:

1. The gradual elimination of the refreshment rooms, counters and bars and the substitution of cafes, European style, where there are tables and chairs.

WIRELESS MESSAGE IS SENT OVER ATLANTIC

Stations at Hanover and New Jersey in Communication on October 27.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—The transmission of a wireless telephonic communication over a distance of nearly 4,000 miles from Neustadt-Am-Ruebenbirne, Hanover, to New Jersey was accomplished on October 27 by a German wireless company. A report of the feat was submitted yesterday by Admiral Emsmann to the German shipbuilding society. The message was sent and received in the middle of the afternoon, although the daytime is considered unfavorable for wireless communication. The two stations are more than 800 feet high. Earlier attempts had proved that clearly emitted tones were audible, and finally spoken messages were transmitted and distinctly received. Emperor William and Prince Henry of Prussia have taken a great personal interest in the experiments.

Damage at Ste Marie de Beauce $300,000; Sixty Families Are Now Homeless.

Ste. Marie de Beauce, Que., Nov. 22.—Fifty houses destroyed, one hundred barns and their contents burned, sixty families rendered homeless and over $300,000 damage done is the result of a fire that broke out in this village at 10 o'clock last night, and raged until this morning; the cause was the throwing of hot ashes into a shed.

An east wind fanned the flames and there was no fire fighting apparatus in the village. Help was requisitioned from Levis and Sherbrooke, and the latter town sent its brigade, which arrived at 2 a.m. in time to save half the village, including the church, Presbytery and convent.

Two hundred people were forced to spend the night in the open without shelter. Aid is being sent to them from Quebec this morning.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—A policeman checked the ambition of Mrs. James A. Salas, wife of a Savannah, Ga., capitalist, who sought to enter a prizefight pavilion here last night dressed in men's clothing.

It was her diminutive size and youthful appearance that led to the woman's arrest as she was about to enter the building where a number of bouts were being staged. Mrs. Salas was accompanied by her husband, a young woman friend, also in masculine attire, and another man. The other couple took alarm at the arrest of Mrs. Salas and fled. Mrs. Salas was taken to the police station, where her husband telephoned for her clothes.

Women are permitted to attend prize-fights in this city if they wear the clothing of their sex.

Will submit by law soon.

Following the recommendation in this paper yesterday, members of the city council last evening expressed themselves strongly in favor of submitting a by-law regarding the Johnson Street bridge to the ratepayers at once.

Outside of the improvements which the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, with characteristic industry, has carried out on the reserve, work on the Johnson Street bridge will be the first step towards the completion of the plans the announcement of which was hailed with so much satisfaction in the city.

Nothing has been done on the reserve beyond, as already stated, the work carried out by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. We should know the reason for the delay and should receive some assurance as to when we may reasonably expect a start to be made.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE. The representative of Assiniboia in the House of Commons was introduced to a crowded meeting of Liberals last evening as "Hon." J. G. Turfiff.

Mr. Turfiff delivered an important message to the Liberals of British Columbia last evening. He told them that reciprocity is a more vital issue in the politics of Canada to-day than it was previous to the general election of September two years ago.

agricultural and his associations are practically all with farmers, he may be considered as knowing whereof he speaks. But it is not the farmer alone who is vitally interested in the removal of the shackles which hamper and stifle trade.

Maude received a much larger vote than he expected. And, conversely, we may add that on account of circumstances over which Mr. Green suddenly discovered he had no control Mr. Foster received a much smaller vote than he expected.

THAT REPORT. Again we rise to ask when we may expect from the federal Minister of Public Works some word as to the appointment of an engineer to report upon the Seymour Narrows bridge project? It is now almost a year and a half since the deputation representing the city and board of trade made that memorable pilgrimage to Ottawa and obtained from the government an assurance that the project would be investigated without unnecessary delay.

W'RE FAR BEHIND BRITAIN. Mr. Samuel is a courteous, a kindly, and to boot, a faithful man. He did not tell us that he was at all disappointed to find that we, in this young, wealthy and supposedly progressive country, were miles behind our "civets" and, as some of us love to describe her, worn-out. Mother beyond the seas. He did not need to. Those who heard him speak, or who read reports of his speeches, will be quick to realize the inevitable comparison. All we have to do is to read this little list of reforms, brought about in Great Britain in the last eight years and to ask ourselves, after each one of them, "What has Canada done in this matter?"

HELP FOR COCKSHUTT. The official reports show that prisoners in the jails of Ontario are maintained at a cost of about eight or nine cents per day. This fact ought to give encouragement to Mr. W. J. Separate Agreements.—In view of the fact that Saanich may not be ready to submit a by-law for the necessary money for the Northwest sewer till the annual election, the city council has decided to have separate agreements with each municipality. One with Esquimalt came up last evening and was approved.

Two Fire Calls.—The fire department was called last evening to a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. Fowkes, at which its services were not required, and to 1215 Richardson street, where sparks had ignited the roof. The premises are occupied by M. H. Doble. About $20 damage was done, the cause being that the sparks were blown from the chimney of a neighboring house.

Judgment for Plaintiff.—The entire day was taken up in county court yesterday with the case of Fraser v. McCluskey, which ended with a verdict for the plaintiffs, George Fraser and others, of Vancouver. The plaintiffs' suit was to recover from Miss Katherine McCluskey, proprietress of the James Bay hotel, the sum of $500, paid as a deposit on a deal between them for the purchase of the business for $23,000. The ground alleged was that there had been misrepresentation of the earning power of the business. Judge Lammiman ordered the return of the $500 forthwith, and awarded damages to the extent of $350, granting a stay of one week for the latter amount pending notice of appeal.

Welcomed Assistant Rector.—A cordial welcome was extended to the Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, the new assistant rector of St. John's church, and to Mrs. Chadwick, at a reception held in St. John's church schoolroom last evening. Greetings were extended by the rural dean, the Rev. W. Bangsh Allen; by the Rev. E. G. Miller, rector of St. Barnabas; by the Rev. Robt. Connell, of St. Saviour's; and by Major Walsh, and Mrs. D. R. Ker, on behalf of the Ladies' Guild, presented Mrs. Chadwick with a bouquet of chrysanthemums. R. W. Perry presided, and during the evening a message of affection was sent by the gathering to the Rev. P. Janna, the rector, who was unable to be present. Mrs. Godfrey and Messrs. Petch and Carr provided a delightful musical programme.

Inquire Into System.—In adopting a motion on the suggestion of Alderman Fullerton, calling for a return on the number of men employed in the city under the alternate gang system, their nationality and length of residence, the city council last evening decided to further inquire into the system now followed. Alderman Humber declared that the foremen were taking on young men in place of the experienced hands and criticized the administration of the street superintendent. In this latter course he was supported by several aldermen, including Alderman Weston, chairman of the streets committee. Allegation was made that out-of-work carpenters and painters were ousting the street cleaners and other civic laborers from their jobs. Favoritism among the foremen in engaging employees was also alleged.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, November 22, 1888.

To Prepare Information.—There is to be a meeting of the special street railway committee of the city council on Monday to prepare a case for the department of railways on complaints against the B. C. Electric Railway service.

Special Assizes.—The special assizes at which the Nanaimo strikers will be tried open in New Westminster on Monday. The crown will be represented by A. Dunbar Taylor, K.C., and T. B. Shoebottom, and the prisoners will be defended by J. E. Bird, J. W. deB. Farris and Isaac Rubinitz.

Units in Protest.—The meeting of the city council last evening received a protest against the proposed standard light clocks from the real estate exchange, following its meeting of Wednesday. It was laid over for the further report from the special committee, not yet to hand.

Will Alter Jail.—The mayor was the only dissident to the proposed alterations of the city jail to make it sanitary, when the report of the committee was adopted by the city council last evening. The repairs, which will be carried out by the building inspector, by day labor, will cost about $2,000. The mayor did not consider that if the alterations were deemed sufficient, there was necessity for the expenditure on the new jail of about $100,000.

A New Point.—By the fact of having repealed an appropriation by-law for Douglas street widening, it appears, the council has no power to decline to take the land so scheduled and can only return it with the consent of the owner, paying him whatever damage has resulted. A committee consisting of Aldermen Dilworth and Porter was appointed by the city council last evening to interview the owners interested on the subject. They will ask for a release for any obligation under the by-law.

Fine for Motorist.—In the Oak Bay police court yesterday afternoon a fine of $20 was imposed upon F. Clark for having exceeded the speed limit on Cadboro Bay road on November 13. At the corner of Lansdowne road the car ran into a fence, it was shown, and so great was the speed at which it was going at the time that a post was driven out of the ground and thrown five yards away. While several feet of the fence and the car were damaged the passengers in it at the time got off without injury.

An Open Verdict.—The jury which, with Coroner Hart, heard the evidence in the case of Thomas Elliott, found dead in his boat in the harbor a couple of days ago, returned an open verdict of "found drowned." It was apparent that Elliott had gone to sleep in the cabin of his boat and that during the night the craft had filled to the gunwale through a defective centreboard. The mother of the dead man lives in Halifax, and the body is at the undertaking parlors of Hanna and Thomson awaiting word from her as to its disposal.

Annual Dinner.—At the meeting this week of the British Campaigners, final arrangements for the annual dinner to be held at the Prince George hotel on November 27 were announced, tickets for which may be procured from the secretary, G. Edwards, P. O. Box 421. It was decided that the co-operation of other civic societies and organizations should be invited in the erection by the city of a monument to the men of the Fifth Regiment who fell fighting for the Empire in South Africa. The monument, it was suggested, should be erected in parliament square.

WILL DISCUSS BY-LAW

City Council Will on Monday Take up Matter of Proposed Measure for Johnson Street Bridge.

The city council last evening decided to take up on Monday the question of the proposed by-law for the Johnson Street bridge, Alderman Cuthbert urged that the by-law should be submitted at once and not postponed to the annual election.

The decision came as a result of the reading of a letter from Hon. Thomas Taylor on the city's application for the inauguration of works to meet the unemployed situation. In his letter Mr. Taylor stated that the reply had been withheld till the conference on the Johnson Street bridge, held on Tuesday.

The letter referred to the public works under construction at the present time, in and about the city, upon which local labor is almost exclusively employed. These, it said, consist of the office and library wings of the parliament buildings, on which an expenditure of $1,000,000 is involved; the erection of a provincial jail on Wilkinson road, well advanced, and costing, approximately, $250,000; and the provincial normal school, at the corner of Richmond and Lansdowne roads, Saanich, recently begun, to cost $325,000.

"The above are the only public buildings contemplated in the near future," says the letter. "As the road work in the neighboring districts has been closed down as usual for the rainy season. A grant of $50,000 for the paving of the main road through Saanich was provided in the estimates and will be available immediately if the Saanich council has proceeded sufficiently with the work to justify the government in making this contribution. A grant of $150,000 has also been approved in aid of the new public building fund."

Shipping News from Day to Day

AWA LEADS CHICAGO BY SHORT-DISTANCE

Both Liners Report They Will Arrive Here Wednesday; Interesting Race

Separated by a distance of about fifty miles, the two inbound Japanese liners Awa Maru, Capt. Shimidzu, of the Nippon fleet, and the Chicago Maru, Capt. Goto, of the Osaka line, were spoken at sea by wireless for the first time last night. Both ships cleared from Yokohama the same day and they are both doing their best to make William Head first. At the present time the Nippon steamship is leading, but according to the radio messages from seaward last night they will both be off the quarantine station on Wednesday morning at daylight.

The Awa Maru is fighting the trans-Pacific passage tooth and nail, and they are both making splendid runs. By berthing on Wednesday they will have crossed from Yokohama in fourteen days, which is good steaming with winter weather prevailing. This is the first time that ships flying the flags of the two Japanese companies have ever had an opportunity to match their speed against one another. The Awa Maru was delayed one week in sailing and she made her departure the same days as the Chicago.

The positions of the two liners at 8 o'clock last night were as follows: Chicago Maru, latitude 37° N., and longitude 153.4 W.

Awa Maru, latitude 50.11 N., and longitude 154.7 W.

The Chicago Maru has 300 tons of freight and 29 passengers for Victoria. Among the steerage passengers are 20 Hindus, who embarked at Hongkong prior to word being received of the decision made regarding the last batch which arrived here. The immigration officials are hoping that they are all returning men, as they are not looking for another leg. The Awa has a similar cargo to that of the Chicago and has about 40 passengers.

Sado Arrives Safely.

W. R. Dale, local agent of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, who advised this morning that the steamship Sado Maru, Capt. Asakawa, which was reported on fire in mid-Pacific, reached Yokohama safely yesterday. No mention was made of the damage to the cargo or the ship herself.

Advices were also received this morning stating that the Nippon liner Shidzuoka Maru, Capt. Itisawa, sailed from Yokohama on November 19 with 26 passengers and 22 tons of freight for Victoria. She is due to arrive here on December 4.

NUMBER OF MASTERS WHO PASS SHOWS A DECREASE

London, Nov. 22.—Reporting to the Board of Trade on the number of certificates of competence issued to officers in the mercantile marine during the year 1912, Ernest O'Meara says:

The statistics of candidates passing for foreign-going certificates as masters and mates during 1912 do not show any striking feature in comparison with those of previous years. The number of certificates passed in 1912, the same number as passed in the previous year. The number of ordinary masters shows a decrease of 55 on the number of 1911, being, in fact, five below the average. First mates show an increase of 29, the number being in advance of previous years; while second mates, whose number provides the best indication of the movement of the supply of certificated deck officers, although fewer by 21 than those recorded in 1911, are still above the average of the past five years. The figures for masters in the home trade are less by two, and for mates more by 27 than in 1911. The average percentage of failures for all certificates is 1.2 per cent. above that of the average for the past five years. Of these 40 per cent. failed in navigation subjects and 40 per cent. in seamanship. Examinations are conducted at nineteen centres by examiners whose appointment at present rests with the Local Marine Board subject to the approval of the Board of Trade.

UNPROFITABLE TO CARRY HINDUS HERE

Expected That Trans-Pacific Steamship Lines Will Not Engage in Business.

After the recent trouble with the Hindu immigrants it is now generally regarded as practically assured that the steamship companies operating in the trans-Pacific trade will refuse to carry any more of the East India men from the Orient to British Columbia. The profit on the steerage ticket is not very large, and when one of these immigrants has to be kept by the company which brought him in all the time he is fighting his case against deportation, then to be returned free to his port of embarkation, the profits of many third-class passages are sacrificed. The officials do not consider it lucrative to continue the business.

According to a report there are now a large number of Hindus in Hongkong waiting to take passage across the Pacific, but it is thought that following the stand taken by the immigration officials they will have to return to their native land. In the case of Bhagwan Singh, the Hindu deported on the Empress of Japan last Wednesday evening, the C. P. R. dropped considerable money. He was in this country for six months and the company had to pay for his upkeep all that time and for the many other incidentals which crept up while he was in their charge. He paid fifty-one dollars for his passage and that was all that the company received from him. When he was ordered de-

RUSSIA SPENT NASTY NIGHT OUTSIDE CAPE

Empress Berths This Morning; Smart Run From Orient; Few Passengers

On all her inbound trips to date the new C. P. R. liner, Empress of Russia, Capt. Beetham, has met with spells of dirty weather off the west coast of Vancouver Island. This morning the big white liner docked from the Orient and her master reported that a very nasty time was spent outside for the last day or two. Heavy southeast gales whipped up a nasty sea, and although the speed of the ship was not affected it made things uncomfortable for all on board. Last night the weather was at its worst. The wind was heavy, the sea high and a drenching-rain fell, making the night very raw.

On her first inward trip the Empress of Russia met bad weather off the coast. The following trip she was held outside by a dense fog, and was prevented from smashing her own trans-Pacific record. The third trip again brought the ship into several nasty blows while she was heading in for the Strait of Juan de Fuca. And this voyage the weather has been bad on the last few days' run.

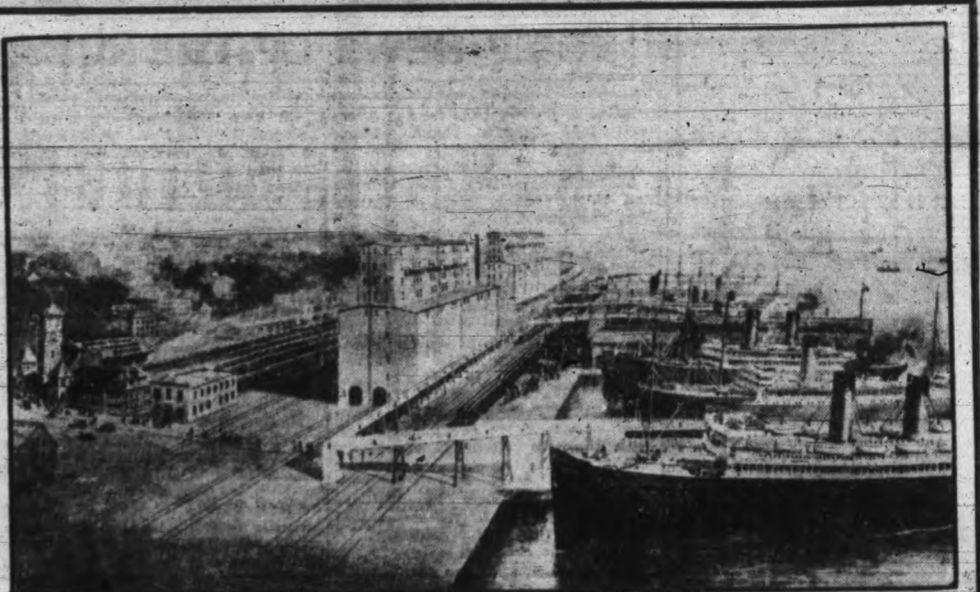

Had Fair Passage.

Capt. Beetham said this morning that the Russia was nine days and eight hours coming from Yokohama. The trip right through from Hongkong was uneventful, and only a few gales of wind were encountered. The passenger list was not heavy, there being about 55 in the saloon, and close on 200 in steerage. Nearly 50 Orientals disembarked at this port.

Among the passengers who arrived was Yan Wen, the new Chinese Consul-General, who is going to Ottawa. He was met at the Empress this morning by a number of the leading Chinese merchants of this city.

The saloon list of passengers was as follows:

F. E. Anderson, George Archard, J. H. Atkinson, Mrs. M. Block, Captain E.

THE FREIGHT SITUATION

Liverpool, Nov. 22.—Steam, outward—A moderate business has been in out-ward coal chartering, and the tendency to fix ahead has been less pressing, with a consequent steadier tone in Bristol Channel ports, but East Coast, Fyne, etc., are still over supplied, and rates tend downward. Time rates for round voyages continue easy at about 4s.

Steam, homeward—Australia has gone quieter and rates barely so good on ballast tonnage offering freely. Nitrate ports dull and the tendency is easier on free offers of boats. Rice slow and nothing doing. East Indies have ruled dull, and only Calcutta coal business is passing. Bombay paid 28 6d. ore to States. Black Sea is dull, without change. America quiet except a few grain orders, and 3d. paid Philadelphia to Mediterranean River Plate neglected.

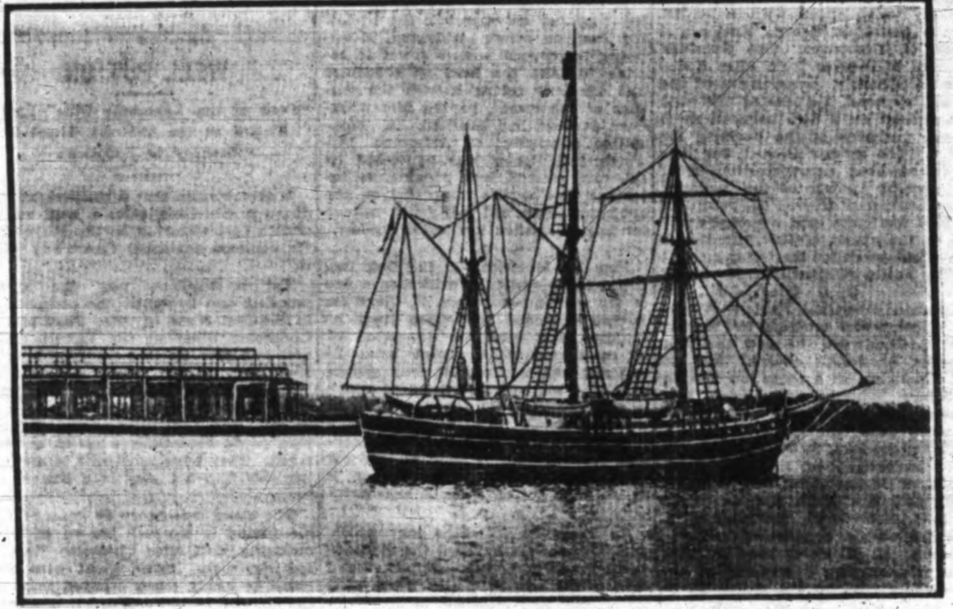

Sail rules quiet for outward business, and homeward markets are slow except Australia, which continues firm all round.

STEWARDS MARRIES STEWARDESSES

Cupid has found time to go to sea and try his luck with the men and women who sail on ships. He made a trip on the C. P. R. steamer Princess May some time ago and his efforts resulted in W. Alexander, chief steward of the vessel, taking unto himself a stewardess on Wednesday last in the person of Miss Clayton, the popular stewardess of the Princess Sophia, formerly on the Princess May.

The two were popular on their respective ships and as a token of the esteem in which they were held the crews of the two steamers jointly presented to Mr. and Mrs. Alexander a handsome silver tea service. On the teapot was a carving of the Princess Sophia.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha is expected to lose a large sum through its venture to bring Hindus into this country. For over one month the Japanese company has been footing the bills for the keeping of 23 natives of India at the Detention building here. The Hindus paid their outward passage and the Osaka officials were willing to take the chance of having them landed. They were 56 in the party, but 29 failed to come up to the immigration regulations and were ordered deported. The lawyers, however, have been arguing over the case and it is not yet known whether the men will be sent back on the outgoing Osaka liner Mexico Maru sailing next Tuesday. Their bill of maintenance here has been heavy and the company is now face to face with the task of sending them home free of charge.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha has refused to handle the Hindus.

mei who claim to be conversant with the situation show that the Coronado, with her improvements, was worth about forty thousand dollars. She was purchased from Seattle people and the price paid for her is said to have been $22,500. The C. P. R. proceeded to spend large sums of money on the hull and installed expensive hoisting machinery and other gear which ran up the value to the figure quoted which, of course, is not official. FOURS LED AT SHOW

Paris Salon Attracted 830 Cars From France and 68 From Other Countries

Motor trade journals recently have been devoting much space to a discussion of the trend of motor car construction and designing in France as shown in the models exhibited at the Paris salon and the reference of French motor tendencies to four and six-cylinder engine types. The almost entire absence of sixes at the big France show, in light of the fact that France has always been one of the most advanced nations in the world in the manufacture of automobiles, has caused much talk on this side of the pond and manufacturers of four-cylinder cars are more than elated...

It was less than a month ago that the fourteenth Paris salon opened in the Grand Palais with 898 exhibitors, an even dozen more than displayed their wares at the last salon. Figures show that 830 of these exhibitors were French makers, W. F. Bradley, writing to Automobile, said:

"It is at once evident that the salon of this year will get to be international as Olympia, to be held in London, in America leads the foreign contingency with 24 exhibitors. Next to America leading an international flavor to the salon is England, with 23 exhibitors, and then some of the following: Italy, 8; Germany, 8; Belgium, 5; a total of 68 in contrast with 530 French concerns alone. The salon opening shows that the four-cylinder small car still occupies the presidential row and that the small six has not made the showing expected, there being really only one French maker paying any serious attention to it, so that in the eyes of all other French builders the six has really received a setback."

13,000 IN COLORADO

Colorado has 13,000 motor cars and 1,300 licensed chauffeurs, as shown by the records in the office of Secretary of State Pearce. The fees for this year amount to approximately $60,000, nearly all of which will go into the road funds of the state and the various individual counties. Denver has about 5,000 of the 13,000 cars thus far reported. The motor vehicle tax law, the first law requiring an annual state licensing of machines in Colorado, has been in force a little more than three months...

A HUGE HAUL

Motor Tractor at Sacramento Dealt Expeditiously With Lumber Consignment Weighing 35,000 Pounds.

"Every day brings some new startling record of hauling by the commercial vehicle," says a motor truck man. "The latest reports concern the feat of a tractor in dealing with a large quantity of lumber for the Friend & Terry Lumber Company, of Sacramento. Recently this company received an order for something over 10,000 square feet of lumber which had to be rushed to its destination. Under ordinary circumstances it would have taken more than a day to haul this amount of lumber to where it had to be delivered, 15 miles out by horse. The Friend & Terry Lumber Company has a tractor which it uses in conjunction with the old horse-drawn equipment. Even with this, under the ordinary usage it would have meant three trips, as the 10,000 square feet of lumber weighed 35,000 pounds."

"It was decided to take two of the old lumber trucks and fasten them on behind the one that was attached to the tractor. This was done, and it was found that the tractor easily hauled the complete load. By the time they had schemed out how to fasten the trucks together and load them it was the beginning of the afternoon when the start was made. By 5 o'clock the tractor had traveled the 15 miles and back again, delivering the Paris Prefect of Police Made New Rule: Pavements Worn Deteriorating Under Strain.

Commercial vehicle owners in Paris were singularly free from police and municipal restrictions, there being no limitations as to weight. The new prefect of police, however, after a bold and not altogether unsuccessful attempt to reform traffic conditions, decided that heavy motor vehicles with steel tires would not be allowed in the city after October 15, and that the speed of all commercial motor vehicles would be limited to seven and one-half miles an hour. This measure has been taken owing to the large number of complaints made against the vibration set up by the very heavy vehicles running without rubber tires. The street departments, too, have been well aware that certain highways constantly used by heavy steel-shod vehicles have become deteriorated and in some cases shaken to their foundations. The enforcement of this rule will be a considerable hardship on many firms. There is at the present time a very large number of motor vehicles in Paris without rubber tires.

TERMINALS LOOK TEAM TO BEAT FOR COAST LEAGUE HOCKEY TITLE

Frank Patrick Will Have Three Changes in Team; Coming Test Match Excites Interest as to Value of Offside Rule

According to the reports of the practice games in Vancouver, the Terminals are going to be much stronger than was first thought. Frank Patrick is the latest to announce that he will get into the games and the fleet point player of the Terminals will be a welcome addition to the Millionaires. Patrick was the originator of the off-side rule, whereby off-sides in mid-field are to be allowed, and this rule will be given thorough tryout at Friday's exhibition match at the Arena here. For seventy feet in centre ice, off-side passing will be allowed, but the usual penalties for loosing off-side will be enforced.

The Vancouver team will be strengthened by Neighbors, who was with Toronto last year, while a couple of new goal-tenders will also be tried out. The teams will take the ice as follows:

Vancouver	Position	Victoria
Clark or Parker	Goal	Lindsay
F. Patrick	Point	L. Patrick
Graff	Cover	Gouin
Taylor	Rover	Poulin
Nichols	Centre	Dunderdale
Harris	Right Wing	Ulrich

February 11	Electricians vs. Jewellers
February 18	Shoeman vs. Electricians
February 25	Clothiers vs. Shortt, Hill & Duncan

TO-DAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS

1907—Rudy Unholz and Peter Sullivan fought 20 hard rounds to a draw at Ogden, Utah. Although neither the Boer nor the Fall river boxer were of championship calibre, this battle was one of the most exciting ever witnessed in the West. It was "replete with interest from the first chapter to the last," as heavy press agents say. Sullivan put over the first knock-down in the second round, and Rudy was groggy for several rounds thereafter, but this didn't prevent him from fighting like a demon. In the fifth round Unholz knocked Sullivan down five times.

1907—Billy Papke knocked out two men, Charley Haghey in first round and Bartley Connolly in fourth round, at Chelsea, Mass.

1908—Tom Sharkey won on a foul from Jim Corbett in the ninth round at New York.

1909—Bat Nelson knocked out Ed Burley in the fifth round at Chicago.

UNIFORM PURSES FOR HARNESS STARS

The changing of the famous Merchants and Manufacturers' stake at Detroit for the 234-class trotters, instead of 224, has prompted the Horsemen to suggest a new uniform schedule for class races on the Grand circuit. The idea is to furnish bigger purses for the fast horses, so that there would be an incentive to win, and would do away with "holding over" horses and thus making jokes out of many races.

The schedule, as arranged by the Horsemen, follows:

Trotting	Pacing
230-class	1,000 to 15-class
215-219	1,500 to 12-24
210-214	2,000 to 10-21
205-209	2,500 to 8-20
200-204	3,000 to 6-20
195-199	3,500 to 4-20
190-194	4,000 to 2-20
185-189	4,500 to 2-20

Patrick claims that with Genge and Kerr in the line-up and going at top speed, his septette will be 25 per cent stronger than last year. Ulrich is showing up better, while Small appears to have entirely recovered from his accident last winter. The Vancouver line-up will be changed considerably, the net guardians having been changed, while Neighbors should be steeper than Jack MacDonald was last year.

In view of the fact that it seems impossible to secure either Didier Pitre or Jack Lavitette in exchange for Newey Lalonde, Manager Frank Patrick of the Vancouver Hockey Club, is figuring on making use of both Carl Kendall, the Ottawa centre, who was out here last season, and Art Throop, the Tecumseh star.

The Ottawa team will again play a series of games down in New York. They will likely meet Canadians and Wanderers or Quebec about the middle of March. It is a long call, but the series has already been booked.

Let the N. H. A. abolish the farcical line system and much of the recent blunders will be forgotten. It was a great mistake ever to depart from the old rules in that respect.

Paddy Moran will again play goal for Quebec, with Hall and Progers on the defence. The cup-holders will take a lot of beating this season.

President Sam Lichtenheim of the Wanderers Hockey club, states that he has arranged to send a business agent to Berlin, Munich, and Hamburg, with a view to arranging a European trip for hockey players to be made at the end of the season.

PRESENT TEAM NOT THE GREATEST EVER

After to-day the All-Blacks have but one more game to play on their present tour. Playing the Victoria representative fifteen at Oak Bay this afternoon and to-morrow, they will cross to Vancouver to-morrow to play the Terminal team on Tuesday afternoon. They leave on the Niagara for home next Wednesday. The tour has been an immense success, financially as well as from a sporting standpoint, and besides scoring 529 points, they have only had six tallied against them.

Del Thomas is of the opinion that the present All-Blacks do not compare with the famous Rugby aggregation that visited England in 1905, and there are others who agree with him in this respect. That team boasted of the greatest three-quarter line that ever visited England.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Important Gathering at Montreal To-day.

One of the greatest athletic conferences that was ever staged in the Dominion was billed at Montreal to-day, and questions of the most vital importance to the future of Rugby in Canada were on the bill for discussion. Not only was the Swimming Association to thrash out its dispute with the A. A. U. in the matter of exchanging cards, but the soccer people were to be strongly represented with their plea for the recognition and interchange of cards in all unions. The question of allowing professional and amateur hockey players to clash was also to come up and in this regard it might be stated that many of the most prominent men in eastern Canada are in favor of allowing the pro's and amateurs to mingle for the good of sport. In England this is done and in other countries there is a great deal more laxity than exists in Canada. The present state of affairs in Canada would be an ideal time to try out this plan. Certainly it would give an impetus to certain sports, especially lacrosse, which has rapidly declined in recent years.

Rebuilding of National League in Progress.

With the selection of Governor Tener as the next leader of the National League clubs at a salary of twenty-five thousand dollars a year, the club owners in the older circuit are evidently out to retrieve the ground which the American League has gained upon them in the last few years. Newer officers, newer players and last of all, newer methods will do a great deal towards the making over of the National League, and this will not only help the clubs greatly but it will also boom baseball. The superiority that the American League clubs showed in the Inter-League clashes has moved the National League club owners to quick action and the removal of President Lynch from office is one of the first of the numerous shifts to follow. The American League is noted for its business-like methods, while the National body has been one continual fight since the break-up of the Murphy-Fogel combine. The installation of a fighting spirit around the circuit will also help, and this Governor Tener will make one of his first moves.

M'GRAW BOOSTS COAST BASEBALL

Surprised at Splendid Parks in Northwestern League; Robinson Will Make Good

"Joe McGinnity is well satisfied in Tacoma, and he could not speak too highly of the Northwestern League. I myself am somewhat surprised at the splendid parks that have been created, considering the classification of this league."

In an interview with a Times representative before he left for the Orient, Muggsy McGraw talked freely upon baseball topics of the day. While refusing to divulge any secrets of his team for next year McGraw was all praise for the treatment he had received on the coast. He denied that Christy Mathewson would go to the St. Louis club next season, but stated that his Giants would be stronger when the 1914 season opened.

"While the Coast League is a really wonderful organization, it will never be able to reach the major league classification," continued the Little Napoleon. "It takes more than one or two real big tickets to support the greatest baseball in the world, and besides, there is that great dividing line of distance between the east and west which can never be overcome."

McGraw boosted Thorpe as a natural ball player, saying that the Indian was trying harder than any man on his club to secure a regular berth on the team. He did not care to talk on the Players' Fraternity as he was a manager and not a club owner.

This fellow Robinson will make good as manager of the Brooklyn club, declared the Giants' leader. Robinson has had plenty of managerial experience and with his wide baseball experience to back him up, should prove a sensation in the National League next season.

McGraw boasted Thorpe as a natural ball player, saying that the Indian was trying harder than any man on his club to secure a regular berth on the team. He did not care to talk on the Players' Fraternity as he was a manager and not a club owner.

According to a dispatch from Los Angeles the Venice club is after Jim Thorpe, the champion athlete, with the New York Giants. It is hardly likely, however, that McGraw will part with his promising outfielder.

A more drastic or complete overhauling than the Toronto baseball club has been subjected to could hardly be imagined. When the club takes the field next spring the line-up will be something like this:

Catchers—Kelly, D. Brown, Erwin. Pitchers—Mawell, Schwab, G. C. Brown, Graham, Herbert and two others. First base—Baker, Hugh Bradley. Second base—Fitzpatrick. Shortstop—Fleish, Frank. Third base—Pick, W. Bradley. Outfield—O'Hara, Wilson, Callahan, Meyer, Kroy.

NEW LEAGUE TO COMBAT FEDERAL

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Formation of a fourth "big league" to aid in a reported effort of organized baseball against the Federal league and its invasions of protected territory is under way, according to a story published here. The new circuit has the backing of organized ball, says the story, and is to have teams in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Columbus, Indianapolis, Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee and Chicago. It will have a schedule not conflicting with the American or National Leagues of American Association, but will not be so careful about staging attractions rivaling the Federal games. George Tebeau, of the Kansas City American Association Club, is named as the one who has planned the new circuit.

COOMBS SHORTER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 22.—John Coombs, one of the star-pitchers of the Philadelphia Athletics, will be one-sixteenth of an inch shorter in stature by reason of the illness that kept him out of the game all last season. This fact was established by an X-ray photograph of his spine. Coombs is rapidly recovering and the doctors say that next year he will be able to pitch as well as ever.

BIG SIX A GIANT

Christy Mathewson
Giants, veteran twirler, whom McGraw says will be with the club again next season. This denies the St. Louis story to the effect that McGraw would allow his prize hurler to go to the Cardinals as manager of that club for next season.

BAYLEY MAY BOX IN 'ERISCO SOON

Bouts Offered Local Boy at Golden Gate City; Welsh After Ritchie

It is possible that Joe Bayley, the Victoria lightweight, will be seen in a California ring before long. Morris Condon is now in communication with the Frisco promoters and a return bout between Bayley and Valis is looked for in the Golden Gate City. Valis made a big hit by his grand showing against Asvedo, and the California promoters now want to bring about another clash between the Benton boy and the former champion. Bayley fights Smithers at Prince Rupert on Monday night, and will return to the capital immediately after the bout. Condon expects to have arrangements concluded the first of next week for a couple of bouts in the south, and will immediately leave for Frisco, with Bayley in tow.

Because of a change in dates in Johnny McCarthy's engagements in California, the proposed bout between the San Francisco "lightweight" and Frank Barribeau, of Vancouver, at Burnaby has been scheduled for Friday, December 12, one week later than was originally planned.

Barribeau received a telegram from A. W. Smith, of Rosland, offering him a bout there on December 18, with Charlie Laska. The weight is 135 pounds at 3 o'clock.

New York, Nov. 22.—Ed. Hagen, an aspirant for the heavyweight championship was knocked out in the seventh round of a ten-round bout with Battling Levinsky, the Philadelphia light heavyweight, here. Gunboat Smith was to have been Hagen's opponent, but a damaged eye, received in his recent fight with Sam Langford, caused Smith to withdraw, and Levinsky was substituted.

According to a wire received by Tommy Burns from Jim Coffroth, the San Francisco promoter, Jim Buckley, manager of Gunboat Smith, has accepted January 1 as the date for the 20-round bout with Arthur Peleky.

New York, Nov. 22.—Billy Gibson has two open dates for Madison Square Gardens on December 2 and 18. If Jess Willard straightens out his difficulty with the boxing commission he will meet Carl Morris on December 2. Gibson is ready to match Jack Britton, of Chicago, and Freddie Welsh, the British lightweight champion, for December 18. If this affair is arranged, Gibson says the winner can be matched to box Ritchie here early in January.

DALMATIAN WON.

London, Nov. 22.—The Manchester November Handicap, the last of the flat-racing, run to-day at Manchester £1,225, 1 1/2 miles, was won by L. Wiman's six-year-old bay horse, Dalmatian, by Ethelbert Jona. G. Edwards' Wagon was second and H. A. Crallen's, the Guller, third.

Dalmatian started at 10 to 1, Work-girl at 100 to 7 and the Guller at 33 to 1. The field numbered sixteen, the favorite being J. W. Larnach's three-year-old filly, Print. Other also-rans were as follows: Farakabad, 7 to 1; Onelle, 100 to 8; Wagstaff, 25 to 1; Cylene More, Aurette, King Midas, Lichen, Hidalgo, Titimus, Election, Cheerful and Donnamhorne.

REFEREE MOBBED.

Santa Clara, Cal., Nov. 22.—Their anger aroused by a decision of the umpire in the annual Santa Clara-San Jose alumni Rugby game, a throng of spectators rushed on the university field and attacked Referee Waters. Great excitement ensued among players and the crowd, and only prompt action on the part of two constables prevented a riot and free-for-all fight. The officers drew their clubs and drove the crowd back to the grandstand. Santa Clara won the game 11 to 5.

RECIPROCITY BOUND TO WIN IN THE END

Admirable Address on the Great Issue of Trade Relations Was Delivered

MR. TURRIFF POINTS OUT ITS ADVANTAGES

Navy Question Can Only Be Settled on Basis of the Laurier Policy, He Declares

An audience which filled the Liberal hall last evening, and which included several ladies, listened to an excellent address from John G. Turriff, M. P. for Assiniboia, one of the leading figures in the opposition at Ottawa, and since 1904 a member of the house.

Mr. Turriff has been spending a few days in the city, and when requested by the executive of the Liberal Reform Club to address its members he willingly consented. His address last evening was one to stimulate thought in regard to the leading issues of federal politics, reciprocity and the navy, and on both matters he spoke clearly and well. His ringing declarations that the question of reciprocity will come to the fore again, and win, and that the only navy Canadians will accept is one of their own, were greeted with cheers which demonstrated that they embodied the popular sentiment.

P. W. Dempster, president of the club, occupied the chair, and besides the guest of the evening the Hon. William Templeman had a seat on the platform.

Mr. Turriff expressed his pleasure at being present and his surprise, basing this on the reports current on the prairies as to the amount of life in the Liberal party in this province, at the strength and activity of Liberalism here. He would take back with him to his home, he said, and later to Ottawa, news that would cheer the hearts of every follower of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and of that beloved old chieftain himself.

Two or three things had counted to the undoing of the Liberals in 1911, of which the principle one was reciprocity. The navy cut a very little figure except in Quebec, where it was used against Sir Wilfrid. Reciprocity had spelled defeat then, but if it were put to the people to-day the Liberal party would be swept back in to power on it. The interests of the prairies and of British Columbia were one on this question save in the one matter of lumber. Where lumber was as necessary as bread to the people, free lumber was imperative, but naturally the manufacturers of British Columbia did not want this. It was a fact of life that no man who had been enabled by protection to secure big prices for his products wanted that protection removed. But there was this for the mill men of British Columbia to think about—was it better for them to have free lumber given the prairies and the settlers enabled to have more money in their pockets to buy British Columbia lumber with or to have the present conditions, when lumber orders from the prairies to the British Columbia mills are out in half? If the farmer had the free market he was going to have under reciprocity he would have more money to spend, and under the circumstances much of it would come to this province for such an indispensable necessity as lumber. Outside this one item the interests of the two portions of the Dominion were practically the same.

Have to Pay More. Conservatives would tell the people that they knew the Democrats were coming into power across the line, and that Canada would get all it would have got by reciprocity without giving anything away. What was Canada giving away under reciprocity that would have hurt her? The Wilson bill had been passed; had put many things on the free list, some that were going to be free under the reciprocal arrangement. But where did the city people come in, in the case. There was neither truck nor trade with the Yankees wanted, according to the Tories two years ago, but we were now dealing with that nation to the extent of one hundred million dollars a year more than before the defeat of reciprocity. Cattle, sheep, hogs and other animal products were going in free, and the result was that there was a jump in prices on the prairies for these things, and that the people of the city had to pay more for the lessening supply of meats—and they all knew they had had to pay quite enough before.

MISS OLGA ESME

But under reciprocity they would have got an advantage to offset this. Cured meats and canned meats would have been lowered, fruits and vegetables would have been free. This country did not grow half the vegetables it used, but bought them in the States and paid the duty. Under reciprocity the city dwellers would have paid a little more for their meat, but they would have got these other table necessities cheaper.

Mr. Turriff pointed out that it was not governments that traded; it was not Mr. Borden nor Sir Wilfrid Laurier; it was the people at large who traded with the States and other countries, and did it because it suited them. "Do you find it makes you disloyal to buy goods in the States?" he asked. "According to the argument of our Conservative friends it is all right to buy in the States and pay a good high duty and remain loyal Canadians and Imperialists, but the moment you get these goods cheaper, and do more trade, paying little or no duty, you at once become tinged with disloyalty. I have never met with one man or woman in this country, Conservative or Liberal, who was afraid of his own loyalty. A man always professes to be afraid of the other fellow's loyalty. There is no such thing as disloyalty in Canada. The man who asserts that trading more with the nation to the south of us is going to make us disloyal has a poor opinion of the men he lives among. Did it ever sap the loyalty of England, Ireland or Scotland to trade with the world as the old land has been doing all these centuries? Did it destroy the greatness of the empire? In order to protect our loyalty the Conservatives want us to buy in the dearest market and sell in the cheapest.

Is Not Dead. "Make no mistake, the question of reciprocity is not dead. Sir Wilfrid made the statement in South Bruce and in Chateauguay over again that the American market must be secured for the farmers of Canada. It has to come; it is common-sense; and it is bound to win in the end as sure as fate. The time depends upon the people themselves. The Wilson bill does not give us so much. They have put wheat and flour on the free list conditional on these articles being put on the free list here. There is not one Conservative in the West but has been deluging the government with petitions asking them to put wheat and flour on the free list because their constituents demand it. Two years ago the Conservatives had two arguments—one that we could not sell wheat in the United States, and the other that if there was free trade in wheat all the prairie wheat would go by American roads and our railways would be starved. Both arguments are false, and have been proved to be so."

Mr. Turriff said it was remarkable that as soon as Sir Wilfrid came into office in 1896 times began to improve, but as soon as he went out of power times began to get bad. The elections were already finding out the mistake they made in 1911, and were doing their best to repair it. South Bruce was fought absolutely on reciprocity, and was won by the Liberals from the government by a large majority. In this connection Mr. Turriff repeated a story told by the Liberal member-elect, R. E. Trux, who said he called on a farmer one day to find him shearing a sheep from the tail upwards. On remarking that when he had sheared sheep he had started from the head, the farmer admitted that this was the proper way to do it, but added: "Two years ago I voted against reciprocity, and ever since I have been ashamed to look a sheep in the face." The election methods of "Fruitful Bob," as manifested in Macdonald and Chateauguay, were dealt with by Mr. Turriff, who contrasted this with Mr. Borden's seal for clean elections when he was in opposition.

Looking to the future, Mr. Turriff said that while he had no authority to say what the policy of the party would be, he believed that it would be found in tariff matters that it would be one of a lower tariff all around, the putting of a number of articles on the free list, an increase in the British preference and—which he predicted would be the main feature—free food; no duty on anything that is eaten.

Spoke of Navy. Regarding navy matters the member for Assiniboia corrected the impression which is sought to be given by the government party and press to the effect that the Liberals were opposed to the spending of thirty-five million dollars on a navy or that the senate had thrown out the bill. The Liberal, he said, voted for the expenditure with the stipulation that as far as possible the ships should be built in Canada, that they should be manned by Canadians and that they should be worked by Canadians if it was necessary at any time to fight. This was the policy which every man in the House voted in 1909, the policy which Mr. Foster and Mr. Borden had spoken in favor of, and in supporting which the present premier had said that if any one thing would tend to disrupt the empire it would be the giving of a cash contribution and the shrinking of our share of the responsibility of empire.

What the senate had done was not to reject the bill, but to tuck on an amendment that it should not go into effect until the people had an opportunity to express themselves upon it, which, again, was entirely in line with the attitude of Mr. Borden before the election. Continuing, Mr. Turriff said:

Mr. Borden did not keep his promise because the Nationalists would not allow him to do so; that was the price he paid for their support. How do the Conservatives who profess of loyalty relish the idea that their government is kept in power by a bunch of Nationalists whose policy on the platform and in the press always was one of "not one dollar; not one ship; not one man" to aid the empire? Take the man whom Mr. Borden honored by selection as deputy speaker of the House, Mr. Biondia, who said during the campaign that we owe nothing to Great Britain and that in Quebec they never breathed the air of liberty until they riddled the British flag with bullets. These are the men who are supporting Mr. Borden. I have heard Mr. Pelletier, the post-master-general, say that the policy of a contribution was an easy way out because "Canadians could make more money at home and they could hire men to do their fighting more cheaply than they would have to pay our young men. Mr. Perley went into his riding of Argenteuil and tried to curry support there on the ground that what Mr. Borden proposed was not so imperialistic as what Sir Wilfrid proposed. In Ontario they say that Sir Wilfrid does not want to help the empire, and in Quebec they say he wants to do too much for Great Britain.

Canada Can Build. "The Conservatives ask the country to send three ships to the old land and leave the manning of them to the Admiralty; they say we could not build ships here and that we could not man them if we had them. Perhaps we cannot build dreadnaughts here yet, but we can build the class of ships, the small ships, that Lord Charles Bessent says are the vessels that are needed in the future. We can man them too. Last year the United States wanted men for their navy and asked for 17,000. They got offers of 37,000 men, and of the 17,000 who were taken on the strength there were 400 Canadians. Who says the men of Canada will not come forward and man a navy when R. E. Trux, who said he called on a farmer one day to find him shearing a sheep from the tail upwards. On marking that when he had sheared sheep he had started from the head, the farmer admitted that this was the proper way to do it, but added: "Two years ago I voted against reciprocity, and ever since I have been ashamed to look a sheep in the face." The election methods of "Fruitful Bob," as manifested in Macdonald and Chateauguay, were dealt with by Mr. Turriff, who contrasted this with Mr. Borden's seal for clean elections when he was in opposition.

Looking to the future, Mr. Turriff said that while he had no authority to say what the policy of the party would be, he believed that it would be found in tariff matters that it would be one of a lower tariff all around, the putting of a number of articles on the free list, an increase in the British preference and—which he predicted would be the main feature—free food; no duty on anything that is eaten.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILD, Beatrice, Neb.

The Other Case. Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself terribly suffering. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

did we hire men to do our fighting for us? Did we send 10,000 rifles to the old land and let them find the men there to put behind them? No, we sent our young men, and they gave a good account of themselves there. Yet the Conservatives would have us send the empty ships and leave all the responsibility of manning and fighting them to the home authorities. Would that be anything for a Canadian to be proud of?"

A hearty vote of thanks was passed by the gathering on motion of George Bell, seconded by George Mowat. During the evening addresses on provincial issues were made by John Hart and H. C. Hall, both of whom dealt with the recent speech of the premier in the Variety theatre, and commented upon the utter absence of any information in it.

NEW BOOKS. "The Strange Story Book," by Mrs. Lang, with preface by Andrew Lang. This collection of charming tales is dedicated to children, but it will appeal just as strongly to persons of mature years. There are ghosts and hobgoblins and fairies and hocus-magicians in it, all treated in a manner worthy of Robert Louis Stevenson in his best vein. It is a book eminently well suited for the Christmas season, to be read by the fire when shadows linger in the far corners of the house. There are some beautifully colored illustrations also, giving special points and adding interest to the stories. the life of the Dominion. From a scenic point of view he had never seen anything grander. Mr. Macfarlan would not intimate just what the nature of the inspection is he is undertaking, but gave it to be understood to be connected with some large development undertaking. He states that the slackness and stringency noticeable in the West are just as evident in the East, while through a good part of the United States, similar conditions are prevailing.

"BIRD OF PARADISE." The uplifting of one man, who has become a human derelict, through the sensuousness of the tropical land and the gradual sinking of another man through the same influences, tempered with the wild primitive love of a Hawaiian girl, but who finally comes to himself and redeems himself, though at the cost of the life of the one who gave all she had to him, form the chief situations in Oliver Morosco's "The Bird of Paradise," which will appear at the Victoria theatre, Monday and Tuesday, December 1 and 2. Richard Walton Tully, author of the play, has been most faithful in the characters that he has put before his audiences. Miss Lenore Ulrich as Luana, William Desmond as Dr. Wilson, David Landau as Dean the beach-comber, Isabel Randolph as Diana, besides a band of Hawaiian singers and dancers, heads a company of unusual strength.

QUAINT "OLD-TIMEY" PRINTS ARE REVIVED

Almost Forgotten Cape May Come Again; "Oliver Twist" Suit for Boys

New York, Nov. 15.—Quite as might have been expected, there is on foot a revival of prints. The quaintness of pannel styles, of flounces and ruffles, simply demand for expression these delightful "old-timey" textures. Here and there has cropped up in fall importations a gown made of printed silk or muslin hinting broadly of styles which will not really arrive until spring. Manufacturers, quick to grasp the possibilities of this obvious trend of fashions, have prepared to meet the coming demand materials of rare charm. Printed crepes, crepons, charmeuse, foulards, chiffons, muslinettes, printed poplins, linens and muslins, are among the lovely materials with which merchants will pile high their shelves once the heavy rains and autumn furbelows and plushes of the winter have been disposed of.

now at your favorite store you may find one or two examples of printed crepe or crepon forecasting the fashions to come. If you are choosing the material for a dancing frock or afternoon gown, either of these will be a wise selection, as it can be absolutely depended upon to remain in fashion during the spring and summer. The new prints, while resembling to a marked degree the textiles of "mother's" and "grandmother's" time, do not duplicate them. Old-time prints were more or less connected in design. The little blossoms were brought together by an abundance of foliage or by the intricacies of tracery. Quite on the contrary, the new prints show prim little nosegays or lonely little blossoms scattered far apart on a plain ground. The foliage is in every instance reduced to lowest terms; some of the flowers being without foliage of any kind, others showing one small leaf precisely placed on one side or the other of the short stem. The colors of the flowers are vivid, and the general impression created quite in accord with the decorative idea now so prominent in dress.

The first illustration shows an afternoon gown made of printed poplin, really a spring fabric, but one which an enterprising merchant recently placed on sale with a view to stimulating business. The ground is white, and on it are scattered, in series of two, highly conventionalized daisies, dark blue and rose colored, with short black stems having a little black dash on each side to stimulate leaves. The fabric was almost ridiculously small in price, 15 cents a yard, yet remarkably smart and effective. The blouse has the fashionable drop shoulder and long sleeve, finished with a short vertical frill at the hand. The vest is of lace, and the deep neck frill of chiffon. The simple drapery of the skirt is well adapted to the unassuming character of the fabric. About the waist is loosely drawn a girle of blue and rose silk.

Another fabric in which, marked interest is manifested, is so airy a tissue can be called fabric, is tulle. This is being used, principally in black, for neck trimmings, for tunics and flounces, and for wide girthing ending in a great flaring bow directly at the back of the waist. A model lately imported showed a huge, indefinitely-arranged diff of tulle just below the waistline in the back, simulating the bustle and prefiguring a new silhouette which perhaps be with us in another season. Tulle is also used for theatre caps, for millinery and evening headresses. The feature of greatest interest in the second illustration is the unique strip of the agarie which fashions the blouse. It is called the "candy stripe," and is not unlike the stripe which wound around the candy stick of childhood days. The material comprised stripes of blue, white, brown, rose, lavender and green, irregular in width, and arranged in various color successions. Trimmed with black fur, and worn with a plain green velvet skirt, the effect was unusual and charming. The model represents a simple Russian blouse, worn with a two-piece skirt—a style which, for all its smartness, may be safely essayed by even an amateur dressmaker.

The skirt is somewhat short. Shorter skirts, have, by the way, become an established style. Fashionable women are having their garments made to clear the ground by full three or four inches, and sometimes considerably more. This affords an excellent opportunity for the display of the fancy footwear, of which many attractive types are shown. Boots made to order, with cloth tops matching the fabric of the skirt, are the most recent of high novelties. As early as last August there were rumors of the possible revival of capes. At the French races gaily-lined capes were introduced as a trimming motif with some of the most attractive gowns, but it is not until this moment that the cape has actually crossed the seas. Last week was noted a very handsomely-gowned woman who had completed her toilette of rough black silk crepon with a short black velvet cape. It assumed the low neck-line of the gown, and was finished absolutely flat. Coming just below the elbow, it sounded a very new and distinctly chic note. This is another style which will probably await spring for fruition, since the cape as it is now presented is not a practical garment for cold-weather wear.

The fantastic tendency so pronounced in woman's apparel is gradually extending to children's wear, and little boys, strange to say, seem to be the greatest sufferers at present. The extremes to which manufacturers—most of them foreign, it is well to record—have proceeded are evidenced in garments recently displayed by the exclusive shops. Little waistcoat suits were shown with short, tight trousers and semi-fitted coats closing in sharp backward-sloping lines over really and truly waistcoats made of plain or fancy pique. Seamen suits, also with old-fashioned tight trousers, were fully figured with rows and rows of brass buttons. The height of absurdity was probably reached, however, in zouave suits of white bengaline. These had close trousers ending in narrow black satin bands, which finished at the outside of the knee in fairly large black satin rosettes. Over the soft, beruffled, white silk blouse was worn the regulation zouave jacket of white bengaline braided in black. The only saving feature of these suits was that they were too expensive ever to become popular. Less extreme was a straight-bodiced, black velvet dress for a very small boy, which was girdled just under the arms with a wide black silk sash ending in a big bow at the left side-front. The Oliver Twist is a quaint suit, seemingly, however, somewhat inappropriately named, as poor Oliver never boasted apparel so luxurious. It has short, close trousers buttoning with cut blouse fashion, but without any fineness. Usually both trousers and waist are velvet or corduroy, and a sash is sometimes added.

Sir Francis Burnand's farcical comedy, "The Lady of Ostend," is said to be written in that humorist's happiest vein. From start to finish "The Lady of Ostend" is said to be grotesquely amusing, after the style of "The Private Secretary" and of "Charlie's Aunt," and so welded together by the late Editor of Punch as to compel roars of laughter from the audience. Although the piece is named after "the lady," there is still, however, a more prominent role, that of her victim really providing the lead and front of the comedy. This is a young man of impressionable temperament, and the lady, who has been commissioned by an enterprising cinematograph proprietor to secure funny subjects for films, easily makes him her prey. At the Belgian seaside resort, from which part of the title of the piece is taken, she plays her part so well that he is unwittingly captured

FREE TRIAL TREATMENT MAY CURE YOU Dear Mrs. Currah—I feel so very much better after using the 10 days' treatment of ORANGE LILY you were kind enough to send, that I will not require any more. In fact, I feel entirely well, and it is now a month since I stopped using the treatment. (Miss) E. W. T. Similar letters to the above are not infrequent, though, of course, such cases are not of long standing. Most women who have suffered for any length of time will require to use ORANGE LILY longer than the 10 days' treatment in order to effect a complete cure, but in every case they will be perceptibly benefited. Further, the benefit will be permanent whether they continue to use ORANGE LILY or not. It is not taken internally, and does not contain any alcohol or other stimulant. It is an applied treatment, and acts directly on the suffering organs. In all cases of women's disorders, these organs are congested to a greater or less extent, and certainly as the action of ammonia or soap on soiled linen. It is a simple chemical problem, and the result is always the same, a step-towards better health and complete cure. In order that every suffering woman may prove its good qualities, I will send enough of ORANGE LILY for 10 days' treatment, absolutely free, to each lady who will send me her address. MRS. # BOWSERISM IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

ARTICLE IV.

By Walter W. Baez

Some men live and act as though there were no heretofore. Bowser must have been one of these when he drafted and had the legislature pass the Immigration act of 1907, commonly called the Bowser "Natal Act." Do not shudder; this is not a dissertation on the question of immortality. It is rather an illustration of the theory that chickens come home to roost.

It was useless to talk, write about or expound the perjury of Bowser in his brilliantly clumsy attempt at subterfuge perpetrated upon the electorate in a pretended redemption of his premises made during the campaign of 1907. The people of British Columbia were, then, politically unsophisticated, unorganized, uneducated and, literally, too "unconsolidated" to listen to reason respecting the ultimate fruits of the Bowser policy. Men might have screamed themselves hoarse or written themselves blind in attempts to warn the electorate that they were being deceived and deceived. They were too hopeful, too optimistic and trustful, to suspect danger or subterfuge in the pretended interest of Bowser regarding their economic and industrial welfare.

"Let us have Bowserism and a Natal Act," they said "our economic problems will be solved." Bowser was the man, the government the medium and the Natal Act the thing.

Six Long, Lean Years.

Six years have passed and the Oriental problem is still with us. It is more acute to-day than ever. Never a hand has been lifted to palliate the conditions existing since the hand of the late Liberal government at Ottawa. Notwithstanding the repeated boasts of the McBride ministers, principally Bowser and McBride, that "the government stands for Asiatic exclusion and a white British Columbia," there is evidence of no single, military, sincere word or act saying been spoken or executed to maintain such a standard of citizenship. Not a finger has been lifted to stay the influx of Chinese, Japanese or Hindustanis; not a parrier has been added to those barriers already reared by the Laurier government when the Borden government came into power. The flamboyant resolutions which the "Rubber Stamps" enthusiastically endorsed each year during the sessions of the legislature, when they are good material out of which to manufacture political buncombe so long as Laurier was in power, have ceased to be repeated. Simon has said "thumbs down" and the thumbs stay down. Also the vociferant patriots are silent in the legislative chambers. The violent anti-Orientalists have no longer any desire to embarrass the government at Ottawa.

Influx is on Increase.

It is worth while putting in here the figures comparing the Oriental immigration into Canada before and since the Borden government came into power at Ottawa. The hood-winked working men of British Columbia, too many of whom were led as lambs to the slaughter by the Bowser-McBride stimulated interest during the Laurier regime, ought to know how things have been going in the matter of Chinese and Japanese immigration, since the friends and partisans of Bowser-McBride autocracy have taken charge of the gates of entrance. They should demand of Bowser and McBride the date of any protest, official or unofficial, that either of these loud-mouthed and persuasive political meameats has made to Hon. R. L. Borden respecting this increase in the invasion of Orientals. It is all very pretentious for Sir Richard McBride to instruct his secretary to cable to the Canadian papers that he has interviewed Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary of Great Britain, and enlightened him respecting the feeling and sentiment of the dear "people of British Columbia" on this question. But what has McBride said to Borden about it? Has he asked why the invasion of Orientals is on the increase? Has Sir Richard been simply posing again? If so, how long time will be required for the working men of British Columbia to discover that Sir Richard poses only before such audiences as will do his political friends and associates no harm.

But let us go back to the figures. The Year Book of Canada, compiled from the statistical departments of the Dominion government, gives these tables of Oriental immigration into Canada for the years indicated:

Year	Chinese	Japanese
1908	1,482	—
1909	1,411	—
1910	1,614	214
1911	4,575	437
1912 (9 mos.)	6,083	765
1913 (9 mos.)	7,445	724

In the Chinese column above only those Chinese who paid the $500 head tax are counted, and the tables cannot be reduced by any plea that a large number of Chinese have re-entered Canada as returned residents, students, or on any other ground. These counted are bona fide new immigrants. The Japanese are limited, under an agreement between the government of Canada and that of Japan, to an entry of 478 each year, and it is singular that not since the agreement was contrived, until the accession of the "white Canada" government to power at Ottawa, has the limit of the agreement been violated. Has any labor union or other organized body of citizens interested in the working men who feel most keenly this Oriental immigration, ever heard of Bowser or McBride making protest at Ottawa regarding this remarkably increased influx? Why is it that Oriental immigration from two foreign nations alone, to say nothing about Hindus, has all but doubled since the two governments, Bowserian and Borden, have everything their own way?

Question Easily Answered.

The answer is easy. Bowserism in British Columbia. How heartless and cruel was Bowser's bluff at redeeming his pledge to exclude Orientals is shown best by an examination of the exclusion act drafted by him and passed by the legislature in 1907. It must not be assumed that Bowser did nothing to stage his bluff. He did pass an act but he did it in the same manner that has characterized everything he has done since he became the power behind the throne and the arbiter of the legislative acts of the government of which he is the virtual boss. He did it in such a way as to protect the corporate interests while absolutely sacrificing the interests of the class to whom he made his earliest gallery play.

Bowser is a lawyer and it may be admitted, a rather clever lawyer. He need not have been clever to know that a provincial government has no power or authority to enact exclusion laws repugnant to the immigration laws of the Dominion. If the laws of a province transcend the powers given that province, or if a small part of the Dominion enacts laws pretending to make it more difficult to enter that province than it is to enter the Dominion as a whole, it is easy to read the fate of such laws. The federal government alone can restrict, prohibit or regulate the immigration of foreigners into Canada. When Bowser promised an effective Natal Act he promised what he knew he could not perform.

Lawyer or Layman.

Common people (the lay mind) make no pretence of understanding either the powers or limitations of provincial legislatures. Therefore, when Bowser made the promise of an effective exclusion act he made it as one makes a lie to catch the untutored electorate, whose first impulse it was to take him at his word, vote for him, believe in him, give him a trial and hope for the best. It was the faith reposed in Bowser by a large section of the electorate, the faith so flagrantly violated and so mockingly despised, that, today, brings Bowserism to the judgment seat of common honesty of purpose. It is this breach of faith that should constitute the "heretofore" of Bowserism. He has sown to the wind; he should reap the whirlwind.

Once the intelligent electorate of British Columbia perceive, Bowser's betrayal in its proper perspective, and view it with the vision of common sense, it should be freer to impose for Bowser to rehabilitate himself in the confidence of the people.

Natal Act of 1907.

Having in mind that one Gotoh had entered into contract with a railway corporation to bring Japanese laborers into Canada, and remembering that Bowser had drafted this contract, and afterwards agreed to pay by which it was transferred to the Shokko Immigration Company, and that he further gave the contract legal status by incorporating the company to which it was assigned, let us see whom he sacrificed and whose rights he forewore when he enacted exclusion laws.

There had been an act passed by the McBride government in 1905 purporting to be an Oriental exclusion act. The act of 1905 received the royal assent on April 8 of that year and was subsequently disallowed because it transgressed the very promises set forth in its own preamble.

The preamble to the (Bowser) act of 1907 was in exactly the same words as that of 1905, as follows:

"In each province the legislature may make laws in relation to agriculture and to immigration, and any law of the legislature of any province in relation to agriculture or immigration shall have effect in, and for the province as long and as far ONLY as it is not repugnant to any act of the parliament of Canada."

The form of this preamble is so strikingly out of harmony with the usual form of preamble that the act invited disallowance in its first clause. It suggested, at first blush, that something in the act might be repugnant to other and more authoritative acts and stipulated that only such parts of the act as were not "repugnant" to laws enacted by the parliament of Canada could be of effect. It was a confession from the start that the enactment of the law was at best an expedient, and it has been proved since that it was, at its worst, a screaming farce. There was not much difference between its best and its worst.

But Bowser was not satisfied with that qualification. As though it were necessary to add insult to duplicity he drafted the prohibitive clause in his act in such manner as to legalize the very thing which he had been pretending he would prohibit. Had he followed, even measurably, the wording of the prohibitive clause in the act of 1905 there might have been some slight show of sincerity. That clause in the 1905 act was phrased in these words:

"The immigration into British Columbia of any person (hereinafter called a prohibited immigrant) who, when asked to do so by an officer, fails to write out, at dictation, in the characters of some language of Europe, and sign, in the presence of the officer, a passage of fifty words in length, in an European language, dictated by the officer, is hereby prohibited."

The above is section 3 of the act of 1905 and margined as the clause defining "prohibited immigration." It would be difficult to mis-read or to misunderstand the passage. Yet the clause was not sufficiently rotund and high-flutin' to suit the concussions of Bowser's grey matter. The clause following illustrating the effective manner in which Bowser improves on the legal English of his predecessors in his act of 1907.

"The immigration into British Columbia of any person, who, when asked to do so, by the officer appointed under this act, shall fail, himself, to write out and sign, in the English language, or any language of Europe, an application to the provincial secretary of the province of British Columbia, to the effect, and in the form set out in schedule B of this act, annexed, as well as to read, in English or in any language of Europe, any test submitted to him by the officer appointed under this act, shall be lawful."

A Serious Joker.

What was by the first act prohibited was by "Bowser's act made lawful." Bowser's suphulous and high-pitched terms for the defining the conditions of an intending immigrant went no further than to make it quite lawful for the most illiterate scion of some Oriental cooile to demand admission into British Columbia. In fact, the mere inability of the intending immigrant to write out and sign, in an European language, the test imposed by an officer appointed under this act" was to be accepted as the guarantee of his fitness to enter Canada and become a competitor of the very people Bowser pledged himself to protect. The more illiterate the would-be immigrant proved to be the better he should appear qualified to enter British Columbia. Thus did Bowserism resolve to elevate the wage standard, the labor standard, the sanitary standard and the living standard of the laboring classes in the province.

"The immigration into British Columbia of any person who shall fail to write out, test, . . . shall be lawful."

It is little wonder that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor withheld assent from this act. Yet, there it stands printed into the "Statutes of British Columbia" for the year 1907, a tribute to the Bowserism of that day, a bank of flowers from which future generations may pluck the posies to weave a garland and wreath the marble brow of a statue of the greatest statesman the McBride government ever produced.

SHUSHANNA

The New Alaskan Treasure House

Almost every day we are in receipt of additional proof of the richness of the new country in and about Shushanna. One day this week four men called at our office. They had just returned from Shushanna. They had heard of the Shushanna Mining & Trading Co., Ltd., and about the first business that they completed upon returning to Vancouver from Shushanna was to come into our office and buy a block of stock in the Shushanna Mining & Trading Co., Ltd.

We have as stockholders in the Shushanna Mining & Trading Co., Ltd., not less than 25 old-time mining men, prospectors and sourdoughs, most of whom have already visited Shushanna and all of whom realize the possibilities open to a live organization like the Shushanna Mining & Trading Co., Ltd., with ample capital with which to operate.

The Shushanna Mining & Trading Co., Ltd., was incorporated on September 20. It isn't three months old yet, nevertheless over 300 individual stockholders now comprise the Company—men in every walk of life, although the majority of them are men who have had experience in mining or who are actual mining men themselves.

READ CAREFULLY THE FOLLOWING LETTER WRITTEN BY J. W. KAGER.

Shushanna Mining and Trading Co.,
408 Homer Street, Vancouver, B. C.,
Gentlemen:

I wish to endorse your policy of establishing trading posts and purchasing promising locations in the Shushanna. For more than 12 years I have been interested in the mining business in the Northwest, and have had opportunities for studying the possibilities of making the greatest success from mining enterprises. I have packed in the Atlin country, and have operated placer claims in that district, both on Pine Creek and Spruce Creek, as well as having had a general experience in placer methods before going North. I was with the Desoto Mining Company for three years, the last two years being superintendent of their operations. They operate on the Sultan River, Wash.

During my stay in British Columbia I have been in touch with the mining element of the North, and have met most of the Klondike washers who have come out, as well as a number from Shushanna, though the latter are not numerous, as most of the claim-owners are staying in to protect their property against possible jumping, and also to take advantage of any weather conditions which would permit of their working their claims. It is the consensus of opinion among all of these men that Shushanna is bound to be a big camp, and from my experience in the North, combined with what I have learned, I have no hesitation in saying that the Shushanna will make the Yukon look to its laurels in the matter of gold production. I believe that Dawson in its best days will never have seen the gold output which the city, yet to be established as the headquarters of the Shushanna miners, will be handling within a year, or at the outside, in two years from the date of this letter.

The fact that I am writing this letter to you proves that I have faith not only in the district, but in the personnel and management of your Company. I may say that I have information from outside sources as to your standing, and the information I have received is most satisfactory. Being interested in a way to the extent of owning a few shares of your stock, I felt bound to make investigations, and, in fairness to yourselves, I am telling you of the result. With a company operated on legitimate lines, and having as its sponsors members of your stamp, there should be no question as to the profitable outcome of the undertaking. Of course, it is assumed that the industry in which you are engaged offers a field for profitable investment.

As to the gold being in Shushanna, I am satisfied, and hope that I have made myself plain on this point. I have been engaged in the packing business in several of the northern camps during the past twelve years, and am sure that the trading post feature of your organization will be one of the most profitable phases of your project. I have been interested in trading posts in the North, and know what their profits are.

Finally, I wish to congratulate you on the thoroughness of your organization. I believe that you are on the right track, and that you will not only make money for your stockholders, but that you will be a prominent factor in opening up a district of extraordinary promise.

With kindest regards, I am,
Yours truly,
(Signed) J. W. KAGER.

NOW HERE IS ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. P. D. RANGE WHICH YOU WILL CERTAINLY APPRECIATE.

Mr. H. C. Crumplin,
Secretary Shushanna Mining & Trading Co.,
408 Homer Street, Vancouver, B. C.
My Dear Sir:

In pursuance of your request for information of the new Shushanna gold strike, I take pleasure in making the following statement: The fact has been well known for the last ten years, among the old-timers of the Nizina and White River districts, that there were vast deposits of gold-bearing gravel on the headwaters of the Shushanna River; but because of the isolated position and distance from transportation, few prospectors ever reached that vicinity, and then without adequate tools or provisions, for actual operation. Therefore the prospecting gravels were gold-bearing, it was thought to be too low grade to mine by hand, and the distance from transportation and the general lack of funds of the ordinary prospector forbade the taking in of machinery.

But the building of the Copper River and North Western Railway from Cordova to Kennicott, the construction of a stage line from White Horse to Lake Klunane, and the gradual development of the quartz and copper mines on the headwaters of the Nizina and White rivers, brought this region in closer contact with the outside world, and left a base of supplies within reasonable distance of the new diggings. Therefore practical placer mining, such as Billy James, Nelson and Carl Whittam, began to prospect this section systematically, with the result that rich

When the news of the "new strike" began to reach the creeks and camps of the North, old miners and prospectors began to flock to the new diggings and scoured the adjacent country far and wide, with the result that pay gravels have been discovered on many of the streams emptying into the Shushanna and White rivers.

Still the district was separated from the nearest trading post by a hundred miles of glaciers and mountain ranges, so men lived on rabbit and ptarmigan, without even salt, for days, digging the gravel from exposed bedrock rims with their knives and washing the gravel in their frying pans. Then, as they satisfied themselves of the value of their ground, they hurried to Dawson, White Horse and McCarthy to arrange for the transportation of supplies when the snow came and the rivers froze. Far in the North, the impassable swamps and flooded rivers of summer had been fifteen to twenty-five hundred on a sled over this ice and snow.

The immediate need of a large trading company is imperative, and the first in the field will hold the trade for the full life of the camp. There will undoubtedly be an influx of from 20,000 to 50,000 people this coming winter and spring, is the consensus of opinion of old-time northern transportation men, merchants and traders who have handled the trade and traffic of former big strikes in Alaska and the Northwest.

Though located within less than one hundred miles of the Shushanna diggings, my duties as Superintendent of the Dan Creek Gold & Copper Co. made it impossible for me to visit the diggings in person this year, though I have been there some years ago. But thoroughly reliable men, who have worked for me, were in, and staked, one of them panning out $200.00 in five days.

I have also talked with such men as Louis Levensler, Mining Engineer and Expert for the Guggenheims; H. D. Foster, General Superintendent of the Alaska Exploration & Development Co.; Asa Bladwin, Engineer in charge of the American party of the Alaska Boundary Survey; D. C. Witherspoon, of the U. S. Geological Survey; Bob Wiley, and other mining men of standing and reputation, who concur in stating that the gold-bearing area is of large extent, and the belief seems general that the Shushanna is the greatest strike since Fairbanks; and if present indications are borne out by next season's work, that it will take its place in the history of the North with Dawson, Nome and Fairbanks.

As to the outlook for a trading post, I will say that the opportunity is there and that a large concern, equipped to meet all the varied demands of the new camp, will double its money many times.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) P. D. RANGE,
Supt. D. C. G. & C. Co.,
McCarthy, Alaska.

NOTE.—Mr. Range has had fifteen years' experience in Alaska, and knows what he is talking about.

Get a 10-cent box now.
Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.
So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.
Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

REMOVE RESTRICTION

Jubilee Hospital Board Decides to Throw Competition Open; Legacy for Hospital.

By a majority of six votes to four, an amendment to abandon the restriction of the contract for the new Jubilee Hospital was carried by the board of directors of the hospital last evening. The motion, which had the approval of the minority, would have reduced the necessary residence in the province from two years, as adopted at a meeting in September, to six months only.
Mr. Blakemore, who moved the motion, supported a reduction of the period of qualification, while Simon Leisler and Andrew Wright favored unfettered competition. Mr. Wright, whose views were brought before the public as the result of resignation from the directorate after the September meeting, declared that buildings like the Union Club and new theatre could not have been carried out at the present cost without American competition.

The architect, L. P. Rixford, of San Francisco, will be requested to prepare the necessary plans at once.

W. L. Burgess wrote announcing that the executors of the will of the late J. P. Burgess would transfer the legacy of $2,000 left by him as soon as the estate is realized.

The resignation of Miss Cameron as night superintendent at the hospital was accepted, and Miss Watson was appointed in her place.

The board also decided to consult with the bank as to the character of the signatures on notes when money is drawn, and as to whether the notes are to be given individually, or collectively, with the names of the chairman and secretary.

SMALL SCOTCH EXPRESS.

The railway policeman had ordered a traveller out of the station, and the indignant man appealed to Cassar (in the shape of a "gentle policeman" outside, says the Manchester Guardian. "That man says I'm drunk," was his angry protest. The policeman looked dubiously at the speaker. "Perhaps he was not unwilling to question the diagnosis of the station amirer."
"I should think he is drunk," said the station policeman. "What do you say to a chap who's tapping on the back of a shilling and asking for a small scotch?"

Victoria Lodge No. 1.
The attendance at the lodge every Monday evening is most encouraging to the officers, and also facilitates the business of the lodge. The degree team is having considerable work, and will give a good account of itself when the competition in the second degree is put on. A very interesting feature of the season held on November 13 was the presentation of a very handsome cabinet of silverware to Bro. J. H. McConnell, P. G., who has been treasurer of Victoria lodge for a number of years. The present from the lodge was in the nature of a wedding gift, as Bro. McConnell was recently married. The good wishes of the members of Victoria lodge are extended to Mr. and Mrs. McConnell. Election of officers will take place next Monday evening.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1.
This lodge will hold an apron and necktie social dance next Tuesday evening, and a pleasant time assured all those who attend.

The patriarchal degree was conferred upon a number of candidates last Tuesday evening.

Columbia Lodge No. 2.
Several candidates received the second degree last Wednesday evening. The third degree will be exemplified at the next session. The Christmas tree committee will send out forms to the parents on Monday next, and it is hoped they will be filled out and returned to the committee as soon as possible.

Bro. Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott, of the Metropolitan church, will give an address on "Fraternalism" at an open session of Court Columbia No. 824, Canadian Order of Foresters, next Thursday night, November 27, at 9 o'clock, in the hall, Broad street. The subject of the address is one of great interest and importance not only to members of fraternal societies, but also to the general public. A large attendance is expected. Refreshments will be served and a pleasant social time will follow Dr. Scott's address. A cordial invitation is given to the ladies to be present at this social gathering. Outside of the regular routine of business was the call for nomination of officers. It is intended next meeting night to hold a social at the close of the meeting.

EMPRESS THEATRE.

Harry Mayo and Jack Allman will be the headliners on next week's bill at the Empress theatre. Both of the men have been heard in Victoria before as single entertainers but now that they have joined hands they have improved 100 per cent. so all the critics aver. Harry Mayo was formerly the basso of the Empire City Quartet and he possesses a voice noted for resonance and power. Jack Allman, the tenor, is the possessor of an unusually clear ringing voice and he reaches the top notes with the utmost ease.

Montie Brooke, who is the daughter of a famous British officer who fought in the Boer War, and Bert Harris, will appear in an act of their own entitled "The One and the Other," a musical comedy. The scene is laid in Japan. Songs and dances as well as bright chatter comprise the turn. "Over the Transom" is the name of an uproarious comedy sketch that will be presented by Dan Bruce, Marge Duffet and Co. The action never lets up from the start. Mr. Bruce has been featured for several seasons with Cohen & Harris productions. Miss Duffet is a charming ingenue who served her apprenticeship with the famous Oliver Morosco of Los Angeles. The Livingstone Trio of horizontal bar artists will make their initial appearance in this city and will furnish comedy and thrills. Another act, unannounced as yet will complete the bill. Coming to the Empress in the near future is the man monkey, "Prince Floro," who is considered the greatest simian performer now before the public.

A WRONG IMPRESSION.

To the Editor:—Will you allow me space to correct a wrong impression made in your issue respecting the referendum asked by the Voters' League to be placed before the electors at the forthcoming municipal election?

The council on Monday evening last, on the motion of Ald. McNeill, asked for the matter to be postponed for a week to obtain the opinion of the city solicitor on the powers of the council in this matter. The Voters' League in presenting this request to the council are, I believe, conforming to usual procedure.

I would direct attention to chapter 70, section 154, Municipal Act, which, in our humble interpretation, gives discretionary powers to the council and mandatory power to the electors on these and similar matters. The referendums asked for are as follows:

Shortening Hours for Sale of Liquor.—Shall all liquor licenses be issued on condition that sales thereunder be made only between the hours of 8 a. m. and 8 p. m., and to remain closed from 8 p. m. on Saturday until 8 a. m. on Monday?
Extending the Franchise to Women.—Shall the municipal, provincial and federal franchise be extended to women on equal terms with men voters?

FIRST THINGS.

The first settlement on the site of the city of Providence, R. I., was made by Roger Williams in 1639, but it was not until November 22, 1832, nearly two centuries later, that Providence was incorporated as a city, so that to-day marks the eighty-first birthday of the city. Roger Williams, banished from Plymouth colony, went into Rhode Island wilderness and with five companions settled at a spot to which he gave the name of Providence. There, a few years later, the first Baptist church in America was founded.

In 1649 a form of government was framed and adopted by the inhabitants of Providence, and the general assembly declared Rhode Island to be a democracy, save only the right of the King, and granted freedom of religious opinion. Indians, and even pirates, made life interesting for the people of Providence in the early days. The first newspaper, the Providence Gazette and Country Journal, was issued in 1762.

The College of Rhode Island, afterward Brown University, was chartered in 1764, and was removed from Warren to Providence in 1771.

EIGHTEENTH INSTALLMENT

AT SAGAMORE HILL: BOOKS, CHILD LIFE, AND PLAY

The books are everywhere. There are as many in the north room and in the parlor—as in drawing-room a more appropriate name than parlor—as in the library; the run-room at the top of the house, which incidentally has the loveliest view of all, contains more books than any of the other rooms; and they are particularly delightful books to browse among, just because they have not much relevance to one another, this being one of the reasons why they are relegated to their present abode. But the books have overflowed into all the other rooms, too.

I could not name any principles upon which the books have been gathered. Books are almost as individual as friends. There is no earthly use in laying down general laws about them. Some meet the needs of one person; and some of another; and each person should beware of the book-lover's besetting sin, of what Mr. Edgar Allan Poe calls "the mad pride of intellectual superiority," taking the shape of arrogant pity for the man who does not like the same kind of books. Of course there are books which a man or woman uses as instruments of a profession—all books, medical books, cookery books, and the like. I am not speaking of these, for they are not properly "books" at all; they come in the category of time-tables, telephone directories, and other useful agencies of civilized life. I am speaking of books that are meant to be read. Personally, granted that these books are decent and healthy, the one test to which I demand that they all submit is that of being interesting. If the book is not interesting to the reader, then in all but an infinitesimal number of cases it gives scant benefit to the reader. Of course any reader ought to cultivate his or her taste so that good books will appeal to it, and that trash won't. But after this point has once been reached, the needs of each reader must be met in a fashion that will appeal to these needs. Personally the books by which I have profited infinitely more than by any others have been those in which profit was a by-product of the pleasure; that is, I read them because I enjoyed them, because I liked reading them, and the profit came in as part of the enjoyment.

A Big-Game Library.

Of course each individual is apt to have some special tastes in which he cannot expect that any but a few friends will share. Now I am very proud of my big-game library. I suppose there must be many big-game libraries for Continental Europe, and possibly in England, more extensive than mine, but I have not happened to come across any such library in this country. Some of the originals go back to the sixteenth century, and there are three famous hunting books of the Middle Ages, such as the Duke of York's translation of Gaston Phoebus, and the queen book of the Emperor Maximilian. It is only very occasionally that I meet any one who cares for any of these books. On the other hand, I expect to find many friends who will turn naturally to come of the old or the new books of poetry or romance or history to which we of the household habitually turn. Let me add that ours is in no sense a collector's library. Each book was procured because some one of the family wished to read it. We could never afford to take over-much thought for the outsidings of books; we were too much interested in their insidings.

What Should a Statesman Read?

Now and then I am asked as to "what books a statesman should read," and my answer is, poetry and novels—including short stories under the head of novels. I don't mean that he should read only novels and modern poetry. He cannot also enjoy the Hebrew prophets and the Greek dramatists, he should be sorry. He ought to read interesting books on history and government, and books of science and philosophy; and really good books on these subjects are as enthralling as any fiction ever written in prose or verse. Gibbon and Macaulay, Herodotus, Thucydides and Tacitus, the Hainkringling, Froissart, Joinville and Villehardouin, Parkman and Mahan, Mommsen and Ranke—why! there are scores and scores of solid histories, the best in the world, which are as absorbing as the best of all the novels, and of as permanent value. The same thing is true of the happy years of childhood, when Darwin and Carlyle and Emerson, and parts of Kant, and of volumes like Sutherland's "Growth of the Moral Instinct," or Acton's "Essays and Lounsbury's studies—here again I am not trying to class books together, or measure one by another, or enumerate one in a thousand of those worth reading, but just to indicate that any man or woman of some intelligence and some cultivation can in some line or other of serious thought, scientific or historical or philosophical or economic or governmental, find any number of books which are charming to read, and which in addition give that for which his or her soul hungers. I do not for a minute mean that the statesman ought not to read a great many different books of this character, just as every one else should read them. But in the final event, the statesman, and the publicist, and the reformer, and the agitator for new things, and the upholder of what is good in old things, all need to read books that will give to him human nature, to know the needs of the human soul; and they will find this nature and these needs set forth as nowhere else by the great imaginative writers, whether of prose or of poetry.

Better Than Books.

Books are all very well in their way, and we love them at Sagamore Hill, but children are better than books. Sagamore Hill is one of three neighboring houses in which small cousins spent their happy years of childhood. There were three houses there were at one time sixteen of these small cousins, all told, and once we ranged them in order of size and took their photograph. There are many kinds of success in life worth having. It is exceedingly interesting and attractive to be a successful business man, or a railway man, or a farmer, or a writer, or a president, or a ranchman, or the colonel of a fighting regiment, or to kill grizzly bears and lions. But for unflinching interest and enjoyment, a household of children, if things go reasonably well, certainly makes all other forms of success and achievement lose their importance by comparison.

The Country for Children.

It may be true that he travels farthest who travels alone; but the goal thus reached is not worth reaching. And as for a life deliberately devoted to pleasure as an end—why, the greatest happiness is the happiness that comes from the doing of a duty. We must be good, even though sorrow is met in the doing. There is a bit of homely philosophy, quoted by Squire Bill Widener, of Widener's Valley, Virginia, which sums up one's duty in life: "Do what you can, with what you've got, where you are."

Books and Book Lists.

The room for choice is so limitless that to my mind it seems absurd to try to make catalogues which shall be supposed to appeal to all. I do not for a minute mean that I have no sympathy whatever with writing lists of the One Hundred Best Books, or the Five-Hundred Library. It is all right for a man to amuse himself by composing a list of a hundred very good books; and if he is to go off for a year or so where he cannot get many books, it is an excellent thing to choose a five-foot library of particular books which in that particular year and on that particular trip he would like to read. But there is no such thing as a hundred books that are best for all men, or for the majority of men; or for one man at all times; and there is no such thing as a five-foot library which will satisfy the needs of even one particular man on different occasions extending over a number of years. Milton is best for one mood and Pope for another. Because a man likes Whitman or Browning or Lowell he should not feel himself debarred from Tennyson or Kipling or Browne or Keats, or the Bard of the Dimbovitzas. Tolstoy's novels are good at one time and those of Stendhal at another; and he is fortunate who can relish Salommo and Tom Brown and the Two Admirals and Quentin Durward and Artemus Ward and the Ingoldsby Legends and Pickwick and Vanity Fair. Why, there are hundreds of books like these, each one of which, if really read, really assimilated, by the person to whom it happens to appeal, will enable that person quite unconsciously to furnish himself with much ammunition which he will find of use in the battle of life.

Books Should Meet Individual Tastes.

A book must be interesting to the particular reader at that particular time. But there are tens of thousands of interesting books and some of them are sealed to some men and some are sealed to others; and some stir the soul at some given point of a man's life and yet convey no message at other times. The reader, the book-lover, must meet his own needs without paying too much attention to what his neighbors say those needs should be. He must not hypocritically pretend to like what he does not like. Yet at the same time he must avoid that most unpleasant of all the indications of puffed-up vanity which consists in treating mere individual and perhaps unfortunate idiosyncrasies as a matter of pride. I happen to be devoted to Macbeth, whereas I very seldom read Hamlet (though I like parts of it). Now I am humbly and sincerely conscious that this is a demerit in me and not in Hamlet; and yet it would not do me any good to pretend that I like Hamlet as much as Macbeth when, as a matter of fact, I don't. I am very fond of simple epic and of ballad poetry, from the Mithras-cult and the Roland song through "Chevy Chase" and "Patrick Spens" and "Twa Corbies" and Scott's poems and Longfellow's "Saga of King Olaf" and "Other." On the other hand, I don't care to read dramas as a rule. I cannot read them with enjoyment unless they appeal to me very strongly. They must almost be Aeschylus or Euripides, Oedipus or Mollere, in order that I may not feel after finishing them a sense of virtuous pride in having achieved a task. Now I would be the first to deny that even the most delightful old English ballad should be put on a par with any one of scores of dramatic works by authors whom I have not mentioned. I know that each of these dramatists has written what is of more worth than the ballad; only, I enjoy the ballad, and I don't enjoy the drama; and therefore the ballad is better for me, and this fact is not altered by the other fact that my own shortcomings are to blame in the matter. I still read a number of Scott's novels over and over again, whereas if I finish anything by Miss Austen I feel a feeling that duty performed is a rainbow to the soul. But other book-lovers who are very close kin to me, and whose taste I know to be better than mine, read Miss Austen all the time—and, moreover, they are very kind, and never pity me in too offensive a manner for not reading her myself.

As for the masters of literature, there are all kinds of books which one person will find delightful, and which he certainly ought not to surrender just because nobody else is able to find as much in the beloved volume. There is on our book-shelves a little pre-Victorian novel or tale called "The Semi-Attached Couple." It is told with much humor; it is a story of gentlefolk who are really gentlefolk; and to me it is altogether delightful. But outside the members of my own family I have never met a human being who had even heard of it, and I don't suppose I ever shall meet one. I often enjoy a story by some living author so much that I write to tell him so—or to tell her so; and at least half the time I regret my action, because it encourages the writer to believe that the public shares my views, and he then finds that the public doesn't.

In the effort to keep the children that were well and those that were sick apart, their mother and I had to camp out in improvised fashion. When the eldest small boy was getting well, and had recovered his spirits, I slept on a sofa beside his bed—the sofa being so short that my feet projected over any- how. One afternoon a toy organ was given to the small boy by a friend. Their friend, "Next morning" early I was waked to find the small boy very vivacious and requesting a story. Having drowsily told the story, I said, "Now, father's told you a story, so you amuse yourself and let father go to sleep"; to which the small boy responded most virtuously. "Yes, father will go to sleep and I'll play the organ," which he did, at a distance of two feet from my head. Later his sister, who had just come down with the measles, was put into the same room. The small boy was convalescing, and was engaged in playing on the floor with some tin ships, together with two or three pasteboard monitors and rams of my own manufacture. He was giving a vivid rendering of Farragut at Mobile Bay, from memories of how I had told the story. My pasteboard rams and monitors were fascinating—if a naval architect may be allowed to praise his own work—and as property they were equally divided between the little girl and the small boy. The little girl looked on with alert suspicion from the bed, for she was not yet convalescent enough to be allowed down on the floor. The small boy was busily reciting the phases of the fight, which now approached its climax, and the little girl evidently suspected that her monitor was destined to play the part of victim.

Little boy. "And then they steamed bang into the monitor!" Little girl. "Brother, don't you sink my monitor!" Little boy (without heeding, and hurrying toward the climax). "And the torpedo went at the monitor!" Little girl. "My monitor is not to sink!" Little boy, dramatically. "And bang the monitor sank!" Little girl. "It didn't do any such thing. My monitor always goes to bed at seven, and it's now quarter past. My monitor was in bed and couldn't sink!"

When I was assistant secretary of the navy, Leonard Wood and I used often to combine forces and take both families of children out to walk, and occasionally some of their playmates. Leonard Wood's son, I found, attributed the paternity of all of those of his more than thirty children to me. Once we were taking the children across Rock Creek on a fallen tree. I was standing on the middle of the log trying to prevent any of the children from falling off, and while making a clutch at one peculiarly active and heedless child I fell off myself. As I emerged from the water I heard the little "Wood boy" calling frantically to the General: "Oh! oh! The father of all the children fell into the creek!"—which made me feel like an uncommonly moist patriarch.

Of course the children took much interest in the trophies I occasionally brought back from my hunts. When I started for my regiment, I was the stress of leaving home, which was naturally not pleasant, was somewhat lightened by the next to the youngest boy, whose ideas of what was about to happen were crazy; he clasped me round the legs with a beaming smile and said, "And is my father going to the war? And will he bring me back a bear? When, some five months later, I returned, of course in my uniform, this little boy was much puzzled as to my identity, although he greeted me affably with "Good afternoon, Colonel." Half an hour later somebody asked him, "Where's father?" to which he responded, "I don't know; but the Colonel is taking a bath."

Of course the children anthropomorphized—if that is the proper term—their friends of the animal world. Among these friends at one period was the baker's horse, and on a very rainy day I heard the little girl, who was looking out of the window, say, with a melancholy shake of her head, "Oh! there's poor Kraft's horse, all sopping wet!"

While I was in the White House the youngest boy became an admirer of a small and rather noisome animal shop, and the good-natured owner would occasionally let him take pets home to play with. On one occasion I was holding a conversation with one of the leaders in congress, Uncle Pete Hepburn, about the Railroad Rate Bill. The children were strictly trained not to interrupt business, but on this particular occasion the little boy's feelings overcame him. He had been loaned a king-snake, which, as all nature-lovers know, is not only a useful but a beautiful snake, very friendly to human beings; and he came rushing home to show the treasure. He was holding it inside his coat, and it convulsed to wiggle partly down the sleeve. Uncle Pete Hepburn naturally did not understand the full import of what the little boy was saying to me as he endeavored to wriggle out of his jacket, and kindly started to help him—and then jumped back with alacrity as the small boy and the snake both popped out of the jacket.

The Comedy of Child Life.

When their mother and I returned from a row-we-remembered-when-the-children-were-waiting-for-us, running like sand-spiders along the beach. They always liked to swim in company with a grown-up of buoyant temperament and inventive mind, and the float offered limitless opportunities for enjoyment while bathing. All dutiful parents know the game of "stage-coach"; each child is given a name, such as the whip, the high leader, the on-wheeler, the old lady passenger, and under penalty of paying a forfeit, must get up and turn round when the grown-up, who is improvising a thrilling story, mentions that particular object; and when the word "stage-coach" is mentioned, everybody has to get up and turn round. Well, we used to play stage-coach on the float while in swimming, and instead of tamely getting up and turning round, the child whose turn it was had to plunge overboard. When I mentioned "stage-coach," the water fairly foamed with vigorously kicking little legs; and then there was always a moment of interest while I counted, so as to be sure that the number of heads that came up corresponded with the number of children who had gone down.

No man or woman will ever forget the time when some child lies sick of a disease that threatens its life. Moreover, much less serious sickness is unpleasant enough at the time. Looking back there are elements of comedy in certain of the less serious cases. I well remember one such instance which occurred when we were living in Washington, in a small house, with barely enough room for everybody when all the chinks were filled. Measles descended on the household.

FOUGHT WITH LORD ROBERTS

Veteran of Crimean War and Indian Mutiny Suffered Horribly With Rheumatism, Until "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Welcome Relief

GEORGE WALKER, Esq.

Chatham, Ont., April 3, 1913

"I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, volunteering from the Royal Artillery into the Royal Engineers, and served under Lord Roberts during the Indian Mutiny, and am a pensioner of the British Government. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up making it impossible for me to walk. My bowels were so constipated that I only had one passage a week until I got to using 'Fruit-a-tives.' They cured me of both the Constipation and Rheumatism. To-day, my bowels move immediately after breakfast, and in my regular employment I walk thirty miles a day and enjoy perfect health. No more Rheumatism or Constipation.

"You are at perfect liberty to publish this letter and my photo if it will be advantageous to 'Fruit-a-tives.'"

"GEO. WALKER."

This letter of Mr. Walker tells how to cure Rheumatism, but does not tell WHY "Fruit-a-tives" cures this trouble. Rheumatism is the result of poisoned blood, due to weakness or faulty action of the bowels, kidneys or skin. In Mr. Walker's case, Rheumatism was the result of excessive Constipation. Waste matter remained too long in the system, was absorbed by the blood and inflamed the nerves and membranes in his legs. When he started to take "Fruit-a-tives" these tablets immediately acted on the liver. More bile was given up to move the bowels. As the bowels were cleaned, the poisonous waste matter was removed—the blood became clear and the nerves were no longer irritated. To-day Mr. Walker is enjoying vigorous health that was his when he fought with Lord Roberts and helped to plant the British flag firmly in our Over-Sea possessions. He is as active as a man of forty and cannot praise "Fruit-a-tives" too highly. Try them yourself, 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c., at all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Time was when some merchants vied with each other in extravagance of statement in their ads. The wise merchants of today vie with each other in the ACCURACY of their statements about goods and values. Nowadays deliberate misrepresentation in advertising would surely and quickly kill any store indulging in it.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Sir William Fenwick Williams, who was born at Annapolis, Nova Scotia, in 1800, belonged to a military family. One of his great-grandfathers was the well-known General Amherst; his father was barrack master at Halifax; his only brother fell in the attack on New Orleans in 1815. He too chose to be a soldier. He was educated at King's College, Windsor, and the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich. He served in Ceylon as special engineer, and helped in settling certain boundary disputes between Turkey and Persia, and so gained much experience of the East. During the Crimean war he took command of British commissariat forces in the Turkish forces in Armenia, where he particularly distinguished himself in the defence of Kars. Aided by three or four English officers, he held that city for months with a feeble army of Turks against a host of Russians under General Mouravieff, hoping for relief which never came. At last on November 22, 1855, he determined to surrender, but his defence of the place had been so gallant that honors of all kinds were showered upon him. In 1859 he became commander of the forces in British North America, and in 1865 lieutenant-governor of his native province.

John Douglas Sutherland Campbell, Marquis of Lorne, arrived in Canada with his wife, the Princess Louise, a daughter of Queen Victoria, thirty-five years ago to-day. The new governor-general and his royal wife were received with the greatest enthusiasm, and everything was done to honor their arrival. They remained in the Dominion until 1883, when the ill-health of the Princess made a change of climate necessary. Lord Lorne became Duke of Argyll in 1900 by the death of his father. The reception accorded her daughter and the Marquis was highly pleasing to Queen Victoria, who cabled: "Delighted at reception."

San Juan Island, commanding the straits between British Columbia and the United States, was evacuated by the British troops forty-one years ago to-day. The question of the ownership of the island had been referred to the Emperor of Germany, as arbitrator, who decided in favor of the United States.

November 22 is the birthday of Robert Cayleir de La Salle, the French explorer, in Rouen, 1643; and of John Brittan, Canadian scientist and educator, at Sussex, N. B., 1849. On this date in 1865 the executive council met in Ottawa for the first time. The Privy Council of England decided the Manitoba prohibition law to be constitutional on this date in 1901.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

A prophet may be without honor in his own country, but this does not apply to Gilbert, for Sir Gilbert Parker's recent Canadian tour was one continual ovation from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The distinguished author and parliamentarian was born at Camden East, Ont., fifty-one years ago to-morrow, November 22, 1862, and it was his tales of Canadian life that started him on the road to an international fame.

The novelist was christened Horatio Gilbert, but dropped his first name early in life. Trinity College, Toronto, was his alma mater, where for a time he was a lecturer on English literature. In his young manhood he studied for the church, but owing to ill health he never took orders. Instead he went to Australia, where he embraced the profession of journalism, and was for a time associate editor of the Sydney Morning Herald. Later he voyaged about the South seas, and wrote a drama that was not highly successful.

At the age of twenty-eight he proceeded to London, where he contributed to English magazines a series of Australian "bush" tales and another dealing with life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and the Hudson's Bay Company posts. The characters, Indians, half-breeds, trappers and adventurers and pioneers of all sorts, made an instant appeal to both English and American readers, and with the publication of the stories in book form, under the title of "Pierre and His People," in 1892, the writer's future was assured. Several novels followed in rapid succession, perhaps the most successful being "The Seats of the Mighty," dealing with the French regime in old Quebec. Sir Gilbert has said that at least six of his Canadian novels were based on incidents described to him by Sir William Van Horne, the railroad official.

In 1895 the novelist married a New York girl, Amy Vantine, a daughter of the famous merchant and importer of Oriental goods. He was elected to the British parliament in 1900, and two years later was created a knight. With the passing of the years Sir Gilbert has manifested increasing virility and versatility as a novelist. It is possible that another Canadian novel may soon come from his pen, as a result of his recent extensive tour of his native land.

Frank Morrison, for more than fifteen years the secretary of the American Federation of Labor and a leader of the organized followers, was born in Franktown, Ont., fifty-four years ago to-morrow. He was educated in the Canadian public schools, and spent one year at the high school in Walkerton, Ont., but was forced to leave school and go to work. At thirteen he entered a printing office, and for many years worked at the typographical trade. From his young manhood he was a stalwart in the cause of organized labor, and it was that he might better serve his fellow workmen that he took a course in law at a Chicago law school. He began his duties as secretary of the American Federation of Labor in 1897. With Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell he was one of the defendants in the celebrated contempt of court case which grew out of the Bucks Store and Range Company injunction against the labor leaders.

Prince Alexander Albert of Battenberg, son of Princess Beatrice, the youngest of Queen Victoria's children, and brother of Queen Victoria of Spain, was born twenty-seven years ago to-morrow.

Musicians Observe Festival of Patroness, St. Cecilia.

For many centuries St. Cecilia has been worshipped as the patroness of music and musicians, and her festival, which falls on the twenty-second of November, will be generally celebrated to-day by musicians of the Catholic faith. In Rome and many other Italian cities there are famous churches dedicated to St. Cecilia, and in these sacred edifices the feast is observed with an elaborate religious and musical programme.

What many critics declare is the noblest ode in the English language was written by Dryden in honor of St. Cecilia's Day, 1697. The poet sang: At last divine Cecilia came, Inventress of the vocal frame; The sweet enthusiast, from her sacred store, Enlarged the former narrow bounds, And added length to solemn sounds, With Nature's mother-wit, and arts unknown before. Artists as well as poets and musi-

Cecilia have paid tribute to St. Cecilia in immortal works. The patroness of music is the subject of celebrated paintings by Raphael, Domenichino and other great painters. The first English organization for the performance of sacred music, instituted in London in 1785, was named the Cecilian Society, in honor of the saint.

Cecilia was a Roman woman of high descent, born about the middle of the second century. She was gifted with a marvellous voice, and when she sang, tradition relates, angels from heaven came down to listen. Cecilia was compelled by her parents to marry Verian, a noble youth, but she remained firm in her view to consecrate herself only to God. To her husband she said, while the marriage hymn was still ringing in their ears, "Pure be my heart and undivided my flesh; for I have a spouse you know not of—an angel of the Lord." She converted her husband to her faith, and both soon suffered martyrdom. The death appointed for the sweet-voiced singer was suffocation, but that method failed. Tradition relates that Cecilia was then taken forth to the executioner, who struck her three terrible blows with his sword, but that she lingered through two days and nights of agony, and died, as she had lived, singing in a voice that was "the most beautiful that ever charmed human ears."

It will be twenty-three years ago to-morrow since William III, King of the Netherlands, died, and little Wilhelmina became Holland's only hope for the continuation of the monarchy. During the eight years of Wilhelmina's minority, her mother, Queen Emma, ruled as regent. On her eighteenth birthday Wilhelmina became Queen in fact as well as in name. Eight years passed after her marriage to Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and her subjects had despaired of an heir, when the Princess Juliana was born. In the chubby infant hands of Juliana rest the fate of the royal house of Orange, which was restored, just a century ago this year, Wilhelmina is the fourth ruler to occupy the throne of Holland since the restoration of 1813. William Frederick, who was re-

ADVERTISERS GIVE SPACE TO Y. M. C. A.

Membership Campaign Receiving Noble Support From Business Men

Such wholehearted support has never been given by business men to the Y. M. C. A. since it began in Victoria as is being received in the big membership campaign which opens Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Between 65 and 70 business firms have turned over all or part of their daily advertising space in the Times and the Colonist for the purpose of advertising the campaign and all that it stands for. The executive staff of the Association was busy grinding out copy to fill up the space thus provided.

Some of the big advertisers have turned over a large block of their contract space. Spencer's have given a wide band across the full width of their advertisement. Gordons have done likewise. Many of the merchants whose space is smaller have turned over the whole block for the whole week. Instead, therefore, of finding the paper full of business ads next week the readers will find blocks and strips of space of all shapes devoted to advancing the Y. M. C. A. membership campaign. The worthiness of the ad should in itself prove a good advertisement.

Other kinds of advertising are being afforded the campaign. A well-known city fountain is proposing an especially delectable ice which will be known for the week as the "Y. M. C. A. Special." Other business firms are going to do parallel acts in connection with their week's transactions. Everywhere one goes this week the four letters "Y. M. C. A." will confront one.

A square at 6:15 with a campaign supper at the Y. M. C. A. building at which time all the teams will meet with their captains and plan the week's work. R. W. Perry, as executive chairman, will preside and there will be a programme of talks.

The committee is now busy selecting the trophy to be given by the Lieutenant Governor for the Association getting the most members in the week, and the prize for the individual scoring the most points. Two more teams have been completed. R. F. Ely is captain of a team composed of A. Huxtable, Charles Hampton, E. Hanham and L. Warnicker, while J. Stewart has a team with F. Murray, J. Tate, H. Christie and L. Hanna on it.

DETAILS OF PRIVATE BILL MADE PUBLIC

Powers for Council Proposed in Measure for Next Session of Legislature

The private bill of the city council, to be submitted to the legislature in January, has been issued in draft, and copies were sent to the aldermen to-day so that they may know its contents. The matter is to be given attention at the meetings on Monday and Tuesday, as the council resolved to sit daily next week till the most important items on the programme are cleared off. There is a quantity of unfinished business accumulated from continuous postponements of recent meetings.

The bill sums up the various matters for which special powers are sought, and which there is no authority to regulate under the Municipal Act. It is proposed to call the measure "the City of Victoria Additional Powers Act."

Clause one would give the council power to restrict the location of undesirable buildings, and clause two to prohibit, license and regulate the construction of tents. These two clauses are to enable the council to prevent the construction of shacks and cabins which may degenerate into slums, and also to prevent tents being erected on the shore alongside valuable residences, increasing material in the fire hazard. In Fowl Bay particularly this difficulty has been felt.

The next clause would have the council regulate the construction of areas under sidewalks and streets, permitting it to charge rent for them, while clause four is for the regulation of the emission of smoke from stacks of factories to the detriment of adjacent property and of smells from certain objectionable industries.

Clause five is to regulate the importation of passengers at wharves or depots, or on the streets in an endeavor to stop the difficulties which have arisen in police court recently during prosecutions.

The following clause would limit the frontages of buildings to a certain distance from the centre of the street, while the next has a close bearing on domestic economy. It gives greater powers to the fair weights officer to take samples of food on the street and to provide for correct weight of cordwood, etc.

Section three of the act is lengthy and would relieve the city of obligation to pay at a single time for land appropriated for street widening and spread payments over a term in instalments at six per cent interest.

The fourth section tackles the difficult problem of telephone easements, about which the city is obligated to the B. C. Telephone Company to secure additional legislation.

Successing clauses embrace the regulations to bring the continuous council plan and the budget system into effect. The question of controllers is left over for attention in the general municipal act. A clause is inserted to amend the public school act, so that the school board may submit its estimates at the same time as the city council.

FIXES FIGURES FOR CITY'S CONTRIBUTION

Ald. Cuthbert Would Have Johnson Street Bridge By-law for $350,000 Submitted

An important resolution stands in the name of Alderman Cuthbert, and consideration by the city council in connection with the Johnson street bridge project. He gave notice this morning of his intention to move a motion to have a by-law for $350,000 introduced for submission to the ratepayers.

This, of course, provides also for the approaches to the bridge, as well as the city's contribution to the structure. It has been estimated that the bridge will cost between $425,000 and $450,000, of which the government is to contribute $150,000; the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway $50,000; the B. C. Electric Railway $50,000. Assuming the total cost at the higher figure, the city will have left over from the $350,000 proposed enough to pay for the approaches, without, however, providing for the expensive project of widening Cormorant street to 100 feet from the present 66 feet.

Mr. Northcott recently presented to the city council estimates of the two schemes of reaching the bridge from Johnson street, and the more expensive one, that which has been adopted, represents the sum of $121,000 for condemnation proceedings, apart from any possible injury to property affected on the adjacent lots.

It is the intention of the city council to take up the subject on Monday and to submit a by-law for a specified amount.

Alderman Hunter, who took strong objection to the award of the contract for the flow line to the Pacific Lock Joint Company last evening, has given notice of a motion to rescind the resolution reached by the council. It is not generally expected, however, that the council will listen to the appeal, judgment by the majority given to the award last evening, unless some new information is laid before the aldermen of which at present they are not aware.

On Monday the new tenders for the riveted steel pipe and telephone wire will be opened and a decision given as soon as possible.

OBITUARY

The funeral of the late William C. Smith took place yesterday afternoon from the Hanna-Thomson parlors, Rev. Hermon Carson conducting the services. The following were the pallbearers: Messrs. J. Ballan, A. J. Baynton, John P. Cropp, T. G. Woods, R. J. Mathews and Lewis Langlais.

The funeral of the late William J. Cooper, whose death took place last Monday at the Jubilee hospital, will take place from the Hanna-Thomson parlors at a date to be announced later.

The death occurred on Wednesday, at Cadboro Bay, of Glen David McMARTIN, at the age of 48. The funeral took place at 2:30 this afternoon from the Hanna-Thomson parlors, the services being conducted under Christian Science auspices. Interment was in the family plot, Ross Bay cemetery.

MAY NOT ASK MONEY FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES

Vancouver Board Desires to Fall in Line With Plans of City Council

Vancouver, Nov. 22.—If at all possible the board of school trustees will fall in line with the general policy of the city council for this year and will submit no by-laws at the next municipal election in January, according to a statement of municipal inspector J. S. Gordon, when seen this morning.

"We don't wish to submit any by-laws this year unless it is absolutely necessary. The city council are anxious that no money by-laws should be submitted and we are very anxious to fall in line with their wishes as much as possible. However, we will have to decide whether it will be to the best advantage from an educational standpoint not to submit such by-laws and a meeting will be held early next week to consider this. Of course, we are anxious to save the city money and do everything to improve its financial standing, but the education of our children cannot be neglected. It would not do for us to decide not to ask the people for money and find that we had neglected the education of the children through it," Mr. Gordon remarked.

The question of Dr. Brydon-Jack's unseating will also come up for discussion at this meeting, which will be taken by the board in regard to this matter. Mr. Gordon could give no inkling as to the appointment of his successor as chairman of the board he declined to be quoted.

REMINDEES OF CHRISTMAS

Business Firms Getting Ready; Express Company Feels Influence Already

A subconscious perception is permeating the whole community that Christmas is coming. It might be hard to tell just what is the first signal of the approach of the greatest of Christmas festivals, but the gradual predominating of red and green in the color schemes of the advertisement of retail stores is probably as positive an influence as any. The railway and transportation companies, too, are advertising special rates for excursions over the holiday period. Between one thing and another people are not permitted to forget their obligations to buy presents for the family and visit home. Already every man with a family, and almost every man without one, is planning what he will have to deprive himself of in order to keep above water during the terrific financial stress that accompanies the merriest and gladdest of seasons.

It is going to be hard for the people of this city to adhere to the generous precedents that they have established in more prosperous years. That they are rising gamely to the emergency, however, is the testimony of the Dominion Express Company, whose manager stated this morning that the number of packages going out for the Old Country was in excess of last year up to a corresponding date. The reduction of rates by about 20 per cent, since last Christmas has undoubtedly had its effect in increasing the volume of business, but the earnings are perhaps not quite so high. Steps are being taken to employ extra drivers, clerks and checkers to handle the huge bulk of business which rushes in about two or three weeks before the holiday.

One boon that Christmas will bring this year is temporary work for hundreds of unemployed people. The extra rush in all lines of business will necessitate the employment of extra help, and many are looking forward eagerly to the reaping a small harvest of much needed money in the six weeks to come.

TRADING IN LIST IS ABNORMALLY QUIET OF STOCK EXCHANGE

There has not been much activity on the local stock exchange the past week, but prices have remained firm and in some instances advances have been made. McGillivray Creek has had a two point rise on information that for the first six months of this year 102,000 tons of coal were shipped, as compared with 123,312 for the whole of last year.

The chief interest in the list centred upon the Portland Canal district, and in the event of the Tunnel Co. striking the vein, as is now confidently predicted, the companies affected will have good cause for optimism.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—The market opened 1/4 to 1/2 lower, but was firm and advanced towards the close. Oats were steady under extremely heavy receipts. Flax was dull and practically unchanged.

He next found himself in the company of three blacks, a dark European, and his wife, all talking a language he did not understand, and inhabiting an island, the name or geographical situation of which he leaves no clue.

While the story sounds well enough, there has been aroused considerable criticism. To begin with, the story explains too much. Every fact of the state of the Marie Celeste when discovered is minutely accounted for.

There are, moreover, many inherent improbabilities in his story. It is inconceivable, for example, that the whole of the ship's company should have crowded on the little platform built up for a tiny girl of six; it is inconceivable that the man at the wheel should have left his post, the most responsible on the boat, to satisfy a moment's curiosity.

Another big freighter well known in the grain trade from Puget Sound has gone on the rocks and may become a total loss. According to advices received, the British steamship Aberlour, which loaded wheat at Tacoma last season, has gone on Astoria reef, near Perlin, with a cargo of phosphate from Nauru for Antwerp.

ALGERINE PASSES OUT. This morning the British sloop-of-war Albatross, Commander Brooker, put to sea after being weather-bound in Callam Bay all yesterday and last night.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair, Healing Scalp and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Hair Cream, Lavona (the composer), and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders on any scalp. Try it just one night and you will see the difference.

Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you cannot find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your scalp as tight as a vice. Dandruff will disappear and the hair will grow again. In ten days you will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

SAYS CRYING SHAME SAILER SHOULD GO. Tacoma, Nov. 22.—The genuine affection with which the old-time shipowner regards his fast disappearing fleet of sailing vessels and the resentment he feels toward the intrusion of the craft propelled by steam, is reflected in the letter of John D. De Wolf, of C. E. De Wolf & Co., to Capt. W. Frank Andrews of the Washington Stevedoring Company, in which he comments on the recent loss of the British ship Glenalvon on the Oregon coast.

"It seems a crying shame that this beautiful little vessel should have been so wantonly thrown away," writes Mr. De Wolf. "The first and second officers apparently blame the captain, and I suppose the captain, on the other hand, blames them; but, anyhow, between the lot of them they have cast away a fine vessel. Next to the Glenalvon, she was our pet lamb, and there was not much difference in their sailing qualities, but I think, if anything, the Glenalvon was the faster ship of the two."

"The loss of the Glenalvon by rather a serious one," continues the letter. "She would have cleared about $2,000 on the voyage, and you know, we never insure fully. It seems hard times that, after having fought bad fumes for a number of years, just as the sun is beginning to rise and the ships to make money, they should be lost one by one. However, such is life."

"I have had a great love for the sailing ship all my life, and they are certainly things of beauty compared with those things with a smokestack. It looks now as though the stately white wings would soon become things of the past, and if people want to make money they must seek their sentiment and go in for the money-making machines. I am now getting so near to the allotted three-score and ten that I am not inclined to worry over the tramp steamer question."
