Annual Field Day At North Weymouth

The fourth annual lawn party of the Men's Fellowship Class of Pilgrim church was held at Beal park on the Fourth. By noon things were going at full speed and continued until a late hour. Two band concerts were given. The afternoon concert by the Weymouth Boys Band and in the evening from 8 to 10 Cox's band of Brockton gave an excellent concert. The winners of the sporting contests were as follows:

Doll carriage parade—first, Elinor Saunders, second, Louise Starr Ladies wheelbarrow race—Mrs. Theodore Reyenger and Mrs. George Cooper

Potato race for boys—H. Caldwell, Charles Wilson

High jump—Raymond Veits

Three-legged race for girls—Roma Donovan and Ruth Shaw

Three-legged race for boys—Thomas Grogan and John Williams

Obstacle race—John Saunders

Pie eating contest—Meyer Edelstine Clarence Parker.

The shower of the early afternoon held up the festivities for a short time.

The Philatheas served a cafeteria lunch that proved very satisfactory. The Pilgrim Circle had a gift shop. The C. I. C. had charge of the candy booth. Cold drinks, ice cream, hot dogs, etc., found ready sale at the various stands. The side show featuring the Dempsey-Gibbons fight filled the house at every performance.

From all appearances the fourth annual lawn party was a huge financial success.

Midnight Bonfire Draws Crowd to Webb Park

Notwithstanding the threatening weather the celebration the "Night Before the Fourth" at Webb Park held under the auspices of the Magnolia Social Club was the biggest kind of a success, and the largest number of people ever on the grounds attended. The boys had been working for weeks to make the affair the success it turned out to be. From 8 P. M. until 1 A. M. there was a concert by the Fore River Band. At midnight the big bonfire, fifty feet in height, was set off and could be seen for miles around. The battle of booms scheduled to take place did not occur; the party engaged to give the exhibition not showing up, on account of the threatening weather. The big crowd estimated at ten thousand, from this and towns for miles around, was very orderly and the police on street duty had little to do—everybody being at the park. It was the quietest "Night Before" for years. A false alarm from box 36 was the only thing happening out of the ordinary.

game with Phil Cullen's Weymouth All Stars to represent our town vs a strong outside team. All the ladies and children must be pleased, so we have arranged with Keith's (not the shoe factory) to send us five or six acts of vaudeville. Opening we have Harry La Toy, a juggler, followed by Bob Butler, and Mike Lowler and Doley, gymnasts, in dancing act, and others. This vaudeville is continuous from 2 to 8.

Some time during the afternoon, Prof. Flower will make a balloon ascension and triple parachute drop. After the horse racing there will be a five-mile race around the track with Hennigan, Slevin and other stars competing and soccer games that are fast and snappy.

Your thoughts will now be turning to home and the dinner table. Erase that from your mind, for we have a man in our post who feeds one thousand men every day, and he is looking after your welfare in this matter. For a small fee you can get a very tasty supper served by some of Weymouth's pretty girls. If you do not want a regular supper which will be open 5-7 go around the corner near the grandstand and get all the soft drinks, sandwiches, and overheated candies you wish, but do not leave the grounds as you are sure to miss something. What a pleasure it will be to have dinner with music. We have arranged a concert with amplifiers and that gives you music in any location on the field. There is so much that it will take all your time.

Now one must make a trip down our Midway. Everything is OK and a great chance to leave a few dimes with the boys in the booths.

In the evening dancing, also singers and band concert, more vaudeville, and then the finale.

But do not forget if you should feel tired, the grandstand is open and all money realized here goes to Weymouth Hospital, so here is a chance to help a worthy cause.

Now, the fireworks! We had a good display last year, but we wish you were in a position to look this contract over, and you would not miss this, if it were the only attraction.

You ask the question, what do the boys do with all this money. We'll tell you. You tell your friends we are going to build a home and help our disabled comrades. So if you have not a machine the jitneys will bring you to the door and we are assured that we will have good transportation. So just drop the 25 cents in window, get a ticket on the Ford sedan, and we'll be there with bananas and for twelve hours we will entertain you.

HOLIDAY RACES

James LeCain sailed the Jumbo to victory in both the morning and afternoon races of the 15-footers. In the morning the Edith W. was second and in the afternoon the Eleanor.

SHEPLE—WOLFE

Miss Margaret Wolfe became the bride of Harley B. Sheple at Holy Family church, Rockland last week. The bridesmaid was Miss Marie Louis and Walter Osbourne was best man. The bride was beautifully gowned in Dutchess satin with over-dress of shadow lace and orange blossoms; her veil was of old lace and caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Her maid was dressed in pink chiffon trimmed with silver and hat to match and carried sweet pink peas.

They will spend their honeymoon touring through New York and Washington returning by the way of Maine and reside at Onset for the rest of the summer. The groom is a prominent druggist of that town.

TERCENTENARY PLANS

Plymouth and Weymouth were first in America to celebrate their Tercentenary. Gloucester will soon follow. Dover and Portsmouth, N. H., are going ahead with splendid plans for the observance of the Tercentenary during old-home week in August. Portsmouth, the ancient capitol, is alive with committees and workers getting ready for the fete there which is scheduled for Aug. 19—23. Prominent citizens and former residents are expected by the hundreds at the pageant.

Acceptances had just been received from three Governors to attend the exercises on "Governors day," Aug. 21. Percival B. Baxter of Maine, Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts and Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire. News was also at hand from Senator Henry W. Keyes that the navy had designated the mine squadron of the Atlantic fleet and one division of destroyers and the aircraft carrier Langley to lay by in Portsmouth harbor for four days during the fete.

BRAINTREE POINT CARNIVAL

Saturday's carnival of the Braintree Point Welfare club attracted attention from outside Braintree and Weymouth and the attendance was large during the afternoon and evening at the new clubhouse.

WHEN THE BEAR ESCAPED

Writing of the Baker Gardens which flourished in Wellesley in the 70s, John E. Pember of the Herald recalls an event of 49 years ago in Weymouth. He says:

"Talking of bears, brings one to the famous funeral which created such a hullabaloo at the time.

"The bear died July 25, 1874, and was interred with great pomp two days later. The animal escaped from his cage after a brief captivity, and led a hectic life of freedom for a few days. He raided pig pens in Needham and Quincy, ravaged cornfields, and frightened women and children into fits.

"Pursued by dogs and amateur hunters bruin finally reached Weymouth Neck, where taking to the water to escape his pursuers he was as the chronicle relates, drowned. Later his body was washed ashore and brought back to Wellesley for burial.

"Enclosed in the copper coffin the body was lowered into the grave in the presence of an enormous concourse of spectators. Soldiers were drawn up in order and at the command fired three volleys over the grave.

"Afterwards a feast was served to all comers in the gardens. Baker later caused a 'battle monument' to be erected."

—Some housewives get excellent results from their iceless refrigerators. It cost little to try one out. The state college at Ithaca, New York, will send directions for making one.

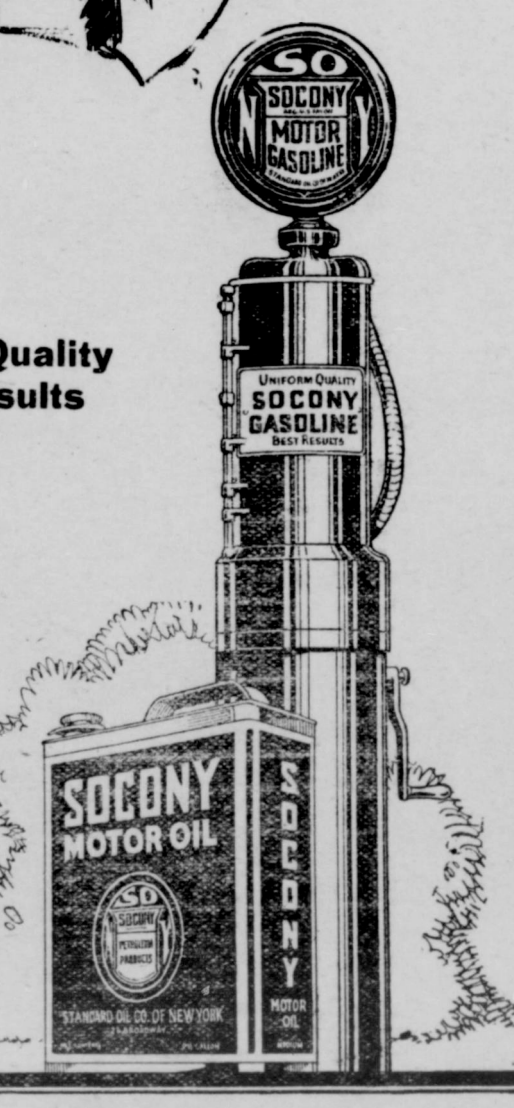

"A man doesn't have to be much of an authority on driving a car to know that it's a heap-sight better to be careful than to wish afterwards that you had been. Carelessness, not recklessness, causes most of the accidents."
(The Traffic Officer)

Says the Veteran Motorist:

"I WANT to say right here that the attitude most motorists have toward the traffic officer is absolutely wrong. The majority of drivers imagine that he is always out to get them. Nothing of the sort.
"His job is to keep the highways safe for everybody. He's out to keep you from endangering the lives and limbs of others. And he's out just as hard and just as long to keep the other fellow from banging you up. He may call you down one minute and then save you a nasty smash-up at the hands of some novice or dare-devil just behind you.
"One of the best scouts I ever met is a traffic officer and a few incidents that he and others have told me make me feel like taking my hat off to the whole bunch of them. If you want my honest opinion of it, I think it's a wonder that they manage to keep so courteous, considerate and fair—considering what they have to put up with day in and day out."

WE SOLICIT ORDERS FOR PARTIES

MERCHANTS OF YEARS AGO

There were two stores in Weymouth Landing that deserve special mention in the annals of history, those of C. A. Rice, drygoods, and J. G. Worster & Co., groceries and provisions. Miss C. A. Rice, born in Marlboro in 1795, came to Weymouth when 18 years old, learned the millinery trade of Mrs. Jane Blanchard, and started a business for herself when 23 years of age in a little store on Commercial street, on a lot between the homes of F. W. Stewart and Miss Annie Richards. Later she built a store on the opposite side of the street, in building No. 62-64 Commercial. Later she added her house. She put in drygoods and carried on millinery. People came to her from Cohasset, Hingham, Quincy, and Braintree. It was almost the only store of this kind for miles around. She went to Boston on horseback to buy goods as there were no cars at that time. In 1851 Miss Anne H. Tower, just from Bridgewater Normal school, came with her and gradually took charge of the business, as Miss Rice grew older. Miss Rice passed away in 1882, being 88 years old. Miss Tower continued the business until she passed away in 1907. Then the store was made into a dwelling numbered 62-64 Commercial street, but Miss Rice's store was a landmark for many years.

John G. Worster with John Henry Willis, both of Weymouth, started a grocery and provision business in what is now Harlow's drug store, under the name of Willis & Worster in 1866. They continued there until Mr. Willis moved away. Mr. Worster continued the business, and moved into the building now owned by C. M. Price, occupying the whole lower floor. This was in 1869. Mr. Worster took great pride in his business, and carried all the luxuries of the season. People came from nearby towns to trade with him—the express business not being what it is now. Mr. Worster drove into Boston three days each week for quite a few years, so as to have always fresh first-class goods. A man was heard to say a short time ago "There was no store in Weymouth that quite equalled this one." The business, owing to ill health of Mr. Worster was sold in 1904 to Herbert M. True, who is still carrying on the business. While not doing perhaps quite as much as Mr. Worster did, Mr. True has a fine, neat little business in Washington Square.

SERVICE STAR LEGION

The Service Star Legion, Old Colony Chapter Inc., Massachusetts Division, was organized on January 6, 1919, as "Daughters of the Nation Inc." in the home of Mrs. Albert E. Avery (its first regent and founder) East Braintree. The members resided in the South Shore towns. Mrs. James J. Storrow of Boston, the National regent, granted the charter which was formally presented in Memorial Hall, South Braintree, March 3, 1919.

The first officers elected were: Mrs. Albert E. Avery, regent; Mrs. C. P. Jones, first vice-regent; Mrs. Theodore Emerson, second vice-regent; Mrs. Lewis F. Small, recording secretary; Mrs. Arthur L. Hobart, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Nelson Dingley, standard bearer; Mrs. Frank Palmer, historian; Mrs. George Ellsworth, chairman of executive committee.

Regular monthly meetings have been held in homes, in churches, and in halls. Pageants, entertainments, bazaars, lawn parties, children's parties, and card parties have been given.

Societies and friends have generously donated money, books, magazines, clothing, fruit, candy, cakes, flowers, cigarettes, and games. Visits have regularly been made (autos having been provided) to West Roxbury Hospital, Parker Hill Hospital, Soldiers' Home Chelsea, and to the Chelsea Naval Hospital, also to the Norfolk County Hospital. Special Christmas and Easter work has been carried on by the Welfare Committee. Special attention to soldiers in their homes has been given. One of our boys has received vocational training through the influence of chapter.

The name of one of Weymouth's brave sons is to be placed on the tablet of heroes at State House, Boston, Ralph Talbot, whose mother is chaplain of the Old Colony chapter. Cooperation has been sought and participation in patriotic observances in Weymouth and Braintree.

Flowers have been sent to the sick. On Memorial Day the graves of our valiant soldiers have been decorated in Weymouth, Braintree, and several other towns. The chapter has joined the "Army and Navy Club", donated to "Perkins Institute"; to the "Seaman's Friend Society", and to the Scollay Square Service Club. Also contributed to the salary of the National secretary; to the State work, and chairman of Hospitalization Committee; and paid colored boys' expenses to home in the south. A French orphan has been supported for three years.

During the dark days back in 1917-18 the women of our country banded themselves together in groups to show their love for their country and to give service and help in every possible way to preserve World Democracy. The very life and blood of these women had gone forth to do their part and fight for humanity.

So general was this spontaneous grouping all over the United States, under various names, that in September, 1918, one of these groups called a convention at Evansville, Indiana. Representatives from 23 states responded and formed a National organization known as the "War Mothers of America." One year later, they invited all similar organizations to meet with them in their second convention at Baltimore, Maryland. Those present realized the importance of forming one large patriotic organization with the result that ten other large patriotic organizations affiliated with the War Mothers of America and adopted a new name—"Service Star Legion." This name was suggested by the sentiment held for the service flag which hung in their windows during the service men's absence from home.

The eleven organizations that united were,—American Mothers of National Defenders, Daughters of Liberty, Daughters of the Nation, Mothers Club of Virginia, Mothers of Democracy, Sammie's Mothers' Club, Sunset Division of Service League, War Mothers of America, White Star War Hospitality Service, Women of American Patriots, and Women's Patriotic League of America. Their loyalty and cooperation for two years has made the Service Star Legion the largest independent organization that has come out of the World War, and in point of service they are the oldest of either men's or women's organizations.

The Service Star Legion is non-secretarian and non-political. The purposes of the Legion are represented by the five points in the star, namely sisterhood, education, relief, remembrance, and vigilance.

Now, the Service Star Legion is one of the sixteen organizations which are united in the new Women's Joint Congressional Committee which convenes in Washington. The Service Star Legion was incorporated under the laws of Maryland in 1920, and operates through State Divisions, and local chapters.

Although the Service Star Legion Inc. is not widely known in the East, it is strong and flourishing in the Middle West and South. It is the oldest and largest independent organization of women connected with the World War. "For service in God, country and home, and to promote peace and brotherhood among men and nations, we the women relatives of men and women in the World War, associate ourselves together."

Since the Old Colony Chapter's beginning Mrs. Albert E. Avery, Mrs. C. P. Jones, and Mrs. Harriette Voorhees have served as presidents.

THE TRICENTENARY OF WEYMOUTH

By Mrs. Arthur V. Farrar
On the sixteenth day of June,
In the year nineteen hundred and twenty-three
The town of Weymouth celebrated
Its three-hundredth anniversary.

At North Weymouth in the afternoon,
The celebration began,
With dedication of a monument
To the Weymouth soldier-men.

Governor Cox and ex-President Taft
Were present at the affair,
And the Weymouth citizens were pleased
To behold the noted pair.

A parade was formed at Great Hill beach
And proceeded to East Weymouth
Through Commercial street and Jackson Square
Up Broad street to Clapp playground.

Infantry, cavalry, artillery,
Sailors and Marines,
With soldiers of three wars
Were there to be seen.

The floats in line were wonderful
And to the judge's eyes
It would seem almost impossible
To pick the winner of first prize.

The school children of Weymouth
Were also on parade,
Escorted by the teachers
Of the various grades.

Fraternal organizations of the town
Turned out in many numbers,
With honors to be given
To the Knights of Columbus.

At South Weymouth a fireworks display
And concerts at Weymouth Landing and Centre,
Brought to a close a perfect day
Which will long be remembered!

THE NATIONAL PROHIBITION ACT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Provides in part:
"No person shall manufacture, sell, barter, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish or POSSESS any intoxicating liquor, except as authorized in this Act. A person may, without a permit, purchase and use liquor for medicinal purposes when prescribed by a physician.

No physician shall prescribe liquor unless he in good faith believes that the use of such liquor as a medicine by such persons is necessary, and will afford relief to him from some known ailment.

There Was A Bridesmaid

By METTIE MILLER

(Copyright, 1922, by Mettue Newspaper Syndicate.)

Miss Venn jumped quickly from her typewriter desk when Bob Rayner came into his office that Saturday morning. She rapped a salmon-pink sweater she had been knitting down into a lower drawer, regardless of drooping stitches. She beamed and kept on beaming.

"We didn't expect you in this morning," was what she said.

"Go on with your knitting," said Bob Rayner testily, unnecessarily so even. "I'm not here officially. I shan't look at my mail and don't want anyone to speak to me about business."

"It is the day of the wedding, isn't it?" asked Miss Venn, looking a little alarmed.

"Yes, my sister is to be married this afternoon at five—Miss Venn," Bob snapped, and Miss Venn, who had always designated him as "the easiest boss she had ever worked for," didn't know whether to weep or give notice. She did neither because Bob didn't give her a chance.

"How tall is that new girl in the stockroom?" he demanded. "How much do you think she weighs?"

"She's not quite as tall as I am," conjectured Miss Venn. "I should say she was heavier, though."

"I don't know how much you weigh," was the curt reply. "Is she over 125?"

"I should think so," Miss Venn said. "But she is very punctual, and I know she is going to night school and she supports her grandmother—"

"I don't care about her grandmother or what she does nights," growled Bob Rayner. "How tall is Miss Boyd in the filing room? Is she over 125?"

"Oh, that Miss Boyd, she's given notice. She's going to be married in June—"

"Cut out the footnotes," demanded Bob. "All I care about is proportions. I'm looking for a girl about five feet, weighing not over 120. She needn't be pretty, but she mustn't be a frump."

"I'm—" began Miss Venn with a coy grin.

"You're too heavy," Bob interrupted. "Besides, dad's friends and some of mine have seen you. They met you in the office. We want some one who isn't known. Say, Miss Venn be good enough to get a list of all the girls in the office—there must be twenty of them—and jot down their heights and weights for me—approximately."

Still in the dark, but used to taking orders from Rayner, senior and junior, without questioning, Miss Venn did as she was told.

This disclosed the fact that there were two girls of the requisite height and weight. One was the switchboard girl, Pansy O'Grady, and the other was Susan Sears, the newest addition to the office personnel, who copied records all day long for fifteen dollars a week. Pansy O'Grady, on being asked if she wanted overtime work that afternoon and part of the evening to the tune of ten dollars, replied that she had a date with a "gentleman friend" that couldn't be broken.

So Susan Sears, with smooth olive cheeks and smooth brown hair, a rather demure young girl, who didn't seem quite in her element in an office, was told that it was really imperative that she consent to do the work. She accepted with pleasure. Then Bob Rayner called her and Miss Venn into his office, locked the door and told them to sit down.

"My sister is to be married this afternoon. At the last minute one of the bridesmaids from out of town decided she wouldn't come—"

"Was it Miss Brook?" gasped Miss Venn, who knew a great deal concerning Rayner family history and who had an idea that Bob was engaged to Miss Brook. She had accidentally read many a telegram that he had sent to her from the office. "Is she sick?" she asked.

"No, she's not sick," said Bob. "She's just changed her mind. The point is her dress is all ready and everything is planned for four bridesmaids. My sister couldn't ask any of her friends to be a stopgap at the last minute that way, so this morning they told me I needn't come back until I found a girl who would fit that bridesmaid's dress. They seemed to blame me because of the failure of Miss Brook to come. I'll call a taxi and we'll start home in half an hour, Miss Sears," said Bob, noting with satisfaction that the impromptu bridesmaid looked well bred and as well born as the aristocratic Miss Brook whose place she was to take.

Bob had nothing much to say on the trip home and Miss Sears was either too embarrassed or too wise to break into the silence.

"Of course the family'll know who you are," he commented in a brief lapse from silence. "But nothing is going to be said about the failure of the other bridesmaid to come on. She isn't known here and if you don't mind we'll just introduce you as Miss Brook—it doesn't really matter to you, I suppose—there always are some busy-bodies who ask questions—you understand?"

Fortunately for Susan Sears' peace of mind the Rayner family was much too preoccupied with the plans for the wedding to take more than brief notice of her. Bob's sister, the bride and their mother glanced at her with impersonal scrutiny and assured Bob, before Susan, that she would do very nicely, just as if she were a bouquet or some other inanimate accessory of the wedding. "She's really prettier than Daisy Brook, judging from her pictures," added the mother, hurrying from the room. Luncheon was an informal repast snatched from the dining-room buffet at odd times by members of the Rayner family. Only Susan Sears seemed to have time to eat in peace and comfort and by that time she had been completely forgotten. After she had finished, a maid showed her a room on the third floor—a small guest room where the gown and various accessories intended for Miss Brook had been stretched out on the bed.

"If you need anything else or if the slippers or gloves and things don't fit you," said the maid, "Mrs. Rayner says you are to go downtown and get what you need. You can charge everything at Blank's and there will be one of the cars to take you any time now and you're to ask Mr. Bob for money."

Fortunately Susan found that not only the gown intended for Miss Brook but all the accessories fitted her if not to perfection at least well enough so that no observer might have guessed that they had not been made for her.

With the help of the maid she dressed and then in a room below stairs where the three other bridesmaids, the maid of honor, and the excited bride were assembling she was given a glance of hasty approval by Mrs. Rayner and no one even took the trouble to introduce her. One or two of the party addressed her as Miss Brook and asked her if she had just arrived that morning, and when Bob appeared he went out of his way to call her Daisy and Susan noticed that the other bridesmaids watched her with considerable interest whenever Bob appeared.

"We're all quite mad about Bob," one of the bridesmaids gushed to her. "To think that he went all the way to Boston to lose his heart with all of us just distracted about him—but never mind, we'll forgive you." And Susan Sears felt that for some reason or another she was beginning to dislike the real Daisy very much.

After the ceremony in the church Susan found herself facing Bob Rayner and following the lead of the others as they walked down the aisle together. For some reason, she realized, her heart was beating very fast and she was blushing with great happiness as she felt the eyes of the guests focused on her and Bob.

"They'll be the next ones," she heard one of the guests remark. "Isn't she beautiful—by all means the prettiest bridesmaid."

"And so aristocratic," commented another guest.

Susan played her part so well that she forgot at times that she was playing a part at all. It was obvious that Bob was engaged or nearly engaged to Daisy Brook and she was Daisy Brook—for the afternoon. She noticed his look of searching admiration as they sat together in one of the motor-cars on the way back to the Rayner house and she convinced herself that this admiration really belonged to Daisy Brook.

"You are perfectly beautiful," he whispered to her, and she persuaded herself that he said this in order to be overheard.

At the bridal supper they sat beside each other and afterward they danced or sat together, laughed together and flirted together.

It was all part of a fairy trance for Susan. She remembered being in a group of laughing, excited young people waiting at the foot of the stairs for the bride to throw her bouquet. One young man, obviously a friend of Bob's, said: "Congratulations, Bob. Every man here envies you. Why don't you persuade her to announce your engagement right now? Every one has guessed it."

All eyes were on Susan. The people seemed to have forgotten to watch for the bride and the bouquet at the top of the stairs. Then Susan felt Bob's arm around her shoulders. She saw him look down, tenderly, gravely into her face, and then to every one's delight and her own supreme embarrassment he kissed her.

"I'm only waiting for her to answer," he said and then he whispered, "Susan Sears, will you marry me?"

And because Susan felt that she must play the part and because she was fascinated by the glance of the young man beside her, she archly whispered, "Yes."

After it was all over and the last guest had gone Susan started, feeling like a poor Cinderella, back to the little guest room, to change into her drab work-a-day clothes. "Please," pleaded Bob, "I'm going to take you home. Put your own things in the bag—the maid will bring you one, and go home that way."

So apparently Susan's dream was not quite ready to fade. In the Rayner limousine Susan was ready to lapse back into silence, but Bob would not permit.

"Daisy Brook was to have been a bridesmaid because she was a good friend of mine. But the other day she told me she could never marry me—though I had never asked her to, and wasn't at all sure I ever intended to. At the same time she declined to act as my sister's bridesmaid. It is you, Susan Sears, I want to marry—will you have me?"

And Susan's dream never did fade off into everyday reality.

Leave it to Photographer.

"Get a man ready. This expedition is going to try to climb Mount Everest."

"They say it can't be done."

"Nonsense. Our cameraman will have to do it."—Judge.

Violin Solos by Veteran of 88 Years

The event of the week was the birthday party of Comrade Oliver Burrell, who on Monday reached his 88th milestone. Each year his circle of friends increases, and this year it was necessary to secure G. A. R. hall from 8 to 10 P. M.

The reception was informal, but his daughter, Mrs. Mary Flint, welcomed the guests and was master of ceremonies. An orchestra of 25 pieces furnished music, but the numbers most enjoyed were the violin solos of the host, who stood in the center of the floor while he played with old-time enthusiasm.

Miss Mary Lonergan gave readings, Charles Kilburn, tamborine solos, and there were selections by a quartette composed of Mrs. Jennie Eddy, Mrs. Evelyn Philbrook, and Messrs. A. A. Eddy and Charles Kilburn. Mrs. Flint was accompanist. Refreshments were served.

The guests included members of all the patriotic orders of Weymouth, especially his Grand Army comrades, and members of the Woman's Relief Corps, but were not limited to Weymouth, several coming from out of town.

The following members of the Senate were present—James L. Lincoln, Charles Loring, Calvin Dyer, N. W. Bates, W. H. Moran, William Litchfield, Robert Mills and Nichols Grant. They remembered their president as follows:

"Senate Chamber,
Laurel St.,
East Weymouth

"Mr. President:—
"The day you went to Plymouth on the pleasure trip the Senate held their regular session with James L. Lincoln president pro tem. Knowing that you did not need it, but for your faithful services as President of the Senate, they voted unanimously to present you with their salary from January 1st to July 1st, minus their travelling expenses.

"Birthday greetings from the Senate
"Wishing you many happy returns of the day."

The presentation was made by Major Francis A. Bicknell, who also spoke in a happy frame.

Comrade Burrell is a past adjutant of Reynolds Post, and holds a Henry Price medal in the Masonic fraternity. He was a lieutenant in the 35th regiment, Co. H.

STUDEBAKER

The Studebaker Light-Six

was designed by Studebaker engineers and is manufactured complete in the NEW STUDEBAKER PLANTS AT SOUTH BEND, IND., which are notable in design, size and equipment for efficient and economical manufacture.

The South Bend Plants contain 4,875,000 square feet of floor space. They employ 12,000 persons. They cost $33,250,000. The South Bend Forge Plant cost $4,000,000, which alone is more than the total assets of many automobile companies.

And then there are:
The machine shops which cost $7,000,000.
The stamping plant which cost $4,000,000.
The new foundries which will cost over $2,000,000.
The power plants which cost $2,500,000.
The assembly and stock plants which cost $5,000,000, as well as closed and open body plants, spring shops, etc.

Studebaker plants, in cost and size, are the second largest of the world's automobile plants.

Studebaker is the second strongest financially of the automobile manufacturers of the world.

These facts show why it is possible for Studebaker to produce the Light-Six—a truly remarkable car—and sell it for less than a thousand dollars.

In actual car value per dollar of price the Light-Six is in a class by itself. No prospective buyer of an automobile should decide on anything until he has seen and driven this car.

It is backed by a corporation with $85,000,000 of actual net assets and a 71-year reputation for honest product and fair dealing.

Vast Resources Make Possible High Value at Low Price in Studebaker Light-Six

Studebaker's vast resources are utilized to manufacture (not assemble) the Light-Six complete in the newest and most modern large automobile plants in the world.

The Corporation's resources, consisting of $85,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plants, make it possible for Studebaker to offer a six-cylinder car, at less than $1,000, that is emphatically superior in design, construction, performance, comfort and dependability, to any car within hundreds of dollars of its price.

By complete manufacture, Studebaker not only guards the quality of each part, but saves the middlemen's profits, with the result that no other make of car ever built, by anyone, at any price, represents so great a dollar-for-dollar value as the Light-Six.

Evidence of its mechanical superiority is found in its practical freedom from vibration. This is accomplished by the perfect balance of the motor. Perfect balance is obtained largely through the complete machining of all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods. This requires 61 precision operations.

This method is followed exclusively by Studebaker on cars at this price. In fact, very few other cars have this feature, and their prices are from three to ten times as great as that of the Light-Six.

It is significant, therefore, that the sale of more than 80,000 Studebaker cars during the first six months of this year broke all records.

Buyers are justified in expecting more for their money in a Studebaker than in any other car.

ENNOA THAT WAS PITIFUL

Little Wife Meant Well, but Dyed Hair Almost Meant Death of Her Husband's Love.

He had gray hair and his wife was a little blonde, bobbed-hair person who looked scarcely more than a child. Again and again they were taken for father and daughter.

She let her hair grow and then she had it dyed gray.

Her husband was horrified. Some how his love seemed to have grown less.

"I always used to think it hurt him awfully when I was taken for his daughter," the little woman told the Woman. "But it seems he loved feeling that this young thing was the woman who had fallen for him. I'm going to do all I can about having the dye bleached out. You see, I've bobbed my hair again—and as the new yellow hairs grow in his love seems to be coming back again. It's so hard to tell," she ended. "I felt I was doing something so wonderful for him and it almost broke his heart!"—New York Sun.

GOT THE MESSAGE TWISTED

Carelessness of Telegraph Operator Made a Mixup of a Somewhat Amusing Character.

An inspector of railway property whose duties had taken him to Bridgeport, Conn., discovered that the foundation under the local freighthouse needed repairs. Without delay he filed this dispatch to the New York office:

"Foundation under freighthouse at Bridgeport unsafe—rush men at once."

In sending the message the operator on the New York wire apparently did not space the letters properly in the word "foundation" and also pressed too long to form the letter "t"; for this was the message received in New York:

"Found a lion under freighthouse at Bridgeport unsafe—rush men at once."

The inspector was astonished a few hours later to see a special work train come into the yard with a flat car containing a large animal cage and also ten men expecting to have an exciting time catching a lion that they supposed had escaped from some passing circus.—Youth's Companion.

Reader Has One Guess.

Uncle John was an ardent supporter of the local football club. As a respected follower of the team he had his own private niche. Aunt Martha, long puzzled at his regular absence from home on Saturday afternoons, decided to investigate.

On the following Saturday Uncle John did not turn up in the stand alone, Aunt Martha was with him.

"John," she asked, soon after the game started, "what are those eleven fools in white doing?"

"They are trying to put that bit of leather between those two posts there, my dear," he replied.

There was a short silence.

"And what are those eleven other fools in red doing?" was her next question.

"They are trying to prevent the other fellows from putting the ball between the posts, my dear."

Another silence.

"And what are these other 20,000 fools doing?" was her next question.

"They are all enjoying themselves except one, dear."—London Answers.

Mission House Made Memorial.

The mission house at Kettering, Northamptonshire, England, where William Carey on October 2, 1792, founded the first missionary society which is recognized as the basis of the modern missionary enterprise, was put up for sale, the owner having died and the estate thus having become purchasable for the first time since that memorable occasion. The purchase was made on behalf of the Baptist Laymen's Missionary Movement of England. The property will not only be retained for the denomination as a historic memorial, but will probably be used as a hostel for returned missionaries.

More Students Take to Classics.

An increase in the study of the classics this year has been announced by New York university. There were 100 students of Latin a year ago, as compared with 128 this fall. The number of Greek students increased from 28 to 48. There has been an even more pronounced increase in the number of students of the romance languages, amounting to nearly 75 per cent in French, or from 434 in 1921 to 757 in 1922.

Necessary Garden Equipment.

The wisdom of Socrates, the strength of Hercules, the endurance of Atlas, the conquering power of Napoleon, the versatility of Leonardo da Vinci, the patience of Job, the optimism of Polyana—and the courage in the autumn to say, "Well, never mind, next year it will be a garden."—From Life.

Concerning Plants.

Plants with sweet-smelling flowers are more common in dry than in moist climates. Thyme, sage, and lavender, for instance, bloom profusely on dry uplands and fill the air with their scent, but the wild flowers of low or swampy ground are seldom highly scented, and if they are their odors are unpleasant.

New York's Juvenile Musicians.

The pupils of a New York kindergarten have formed an orchestra in which every player is under five years of age.

HAD HARD WORK TO STOP IT

North Carolina Mountaineer's Struggle With Ramrod Must Have Been Something Fierce.

Representative Zebulon Weaver, Democrat, of North Carolina, relates this story in the New York Herald: "My district has mountain counties and mountain men and women. The smartest people I know live in the coves of the North Carolina mountains about Asheville. They laugh in their sleeves at folks who describe them as 'greenhorns.'"

"We had a one-armed fisherman in a valley in the Blue Ridge. He was not only good with a hook and line but could outswear anybody in his community. A Presbyterian preacher found him and became a fishing companion. Soon he tamed him and got him to give up cursing. But he was up to other tricks. One fall when the preacher joined him for a fishing frolic the mountaineer told him he came near losing his other hand.

"How was that?" asked the preacher. "Why, I was trying to get a carteridge out of my old gun and it went off."

"The ramrod became fastened in the barrel, and I had hold of it trying to shake it loose when the load was discharged. Of course I had a good grip on the rod, but it lifted me on my tiptoes three times before I could stop it."

FEW REALLY LOVE PESSIMISM

Truth in Statement That Man With Morning Smile Is Worth His Entire Tribe.

There were optimists in King Tut-Ankh-Amen's time who met the far-off mornings with a smile.

And from all accounts of a statue they found in the king's tomb, the artist caught the inspiration of the smile and preserved it for the long after-centuries.

In one sense, it was the same world then that it is today. They had their joys and sorrows, and smiles and tears contended for the mastery.

There were pessimists then, as now, who saw no good and gracious things in life; who mocked the smiling ones and went frowning to their tombs; who, not having heard of the Cope method, probably answered a cheery morning salutation with "Day by day, in every way, we're getting worse and worse," and who, when golden Opportunity knocked at their sad doors, opened them not, for fear Trouble might walk in and take the best chair at their gloomy firesides.

They never tried to smile away their troubles!

Varying types of them are with us today, but one optimist, with a morning smile, is worth them all!—Atlanta Constitution.

Treasure Sunk in Ocean.

Sunken treasure worth millions lies at the bottom of the Navarino bay, on the west coast of Greece. This glittering prospect, long the object of many fortune seekers, has finally found its way into British courts. Many companies have been formed to recover the gold from the land-locked bay of Navarino. None has succeeded. One concern, with $250,000 capital, was formed in 1913, but the war stopped it. The concession expired in 1920, then was taken over by two London engineers, who now come forward in a suit under an agreement to find money for digging the treasure. The agreement fell through, and one of the litigants has to be content with treasure to the extent of $250 awarded by the court. The treasure has been resisting all comers for nearly one hundred years. It went down in the ships of the Turkish Egyptian fleet, sunk by allied fleets in 1827. Sixty-two ships in all were sunk in this battle. Gold and jewels to the value of 120,000,000 gold francs sunk, while five other ships went down with $5,000,000 of plate and specie.

America's Shortage in Oil Supplies.

Although the United States produces about 70 per cent of the world's oil, it already consumes 25 per cent more than it produces. Moreover, American oil fields are becoming exhausted. Our reserves are estimated to be only 9,150,000,000 barrels, which, at our present rate of consumption, will be exhausted in 20 years. We are using up our reserves 16 times as rapidly as foreign countries. In contrast with our own situation, the world's oil reserves are calculated to last 250 years. Obviously, the attempt on the part of other nations to gain control of these resources threatens our interests.—Prof. R. L. Buell, in Current History Magazine.

How About This?

Peter Brown, the famous New York raconteur, was talking about the newspaper discussion. "Why does a girl close her eyes when a man kisses her?"

"This discussion," said Mr. Brown, "brought out some ingenious solutions, but the real solution was given by no one. It is this:

"A girl closes her eyes when a man kisses her because she has just told him he's the first and in consequence she's ashamed to look him in the face."

Odd Experience.

I was getting a rather late start for work one morning, and as I heard my train coming made a grab for my book and ran for the train. After seating myself comfortably I opened my book to read, but imagine my surprise on finding I had taken my mother's Swedish Bible instead of my interesting novel.—Chicago Journal.

AS AN INDUSTRIAL CENTER

The Publishers Auxiliary of June 30, has a compliment for Weymouth and the Gazette-Transcript:
"The Tercentenary Souvenir Number of the Weymouth Gazette and Transcript was a notable achievement. The issue, which consisted of forty-six column pages, was truly representative of the big event in the history of Weymouth. It is an issue that will be highly prized by Bro. Prescott's constituency, as its columns are filled with historical matter pertaining to the town, statistics and a full record of local organizations and current affairs. The number was appropriately and liberally illustrated with portraits of men and women prominent in the affairs of the town. There were also illustrations of churches, and old and new residences and public buildings, besides a large number of illustrations which give one a comprehensive idea of the importance of Weymouth as an industrial center. As usual, the advertising columns were liberally patronized. The manner in which the big edition is arranged is quite above criticism."

SUSANNAH TUFTS CHAPTER

On January 26, 1899, a meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. Granville Bowditch to form a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Eleven ladies were present, of these Miss Susan C. Richards and Mrs. Granville Bowditch were members of the National Society therefore could explain to the ladies how to proceed in forming a chapter. A name must be chosen, several were suggested, then it was decided to name it "Susannah Tufts Chapter", for the wife of Dr. Cotton Tufts, who was conspicuous during the American Revolution for his ardor, activity, and zeal, also a liberal contributor of money to the cause.

Susannah Tufts was one of eleven children of Major Philemon Warner and Mary Price and was born in Gloucester, Mass., March 20, 1745. The chapter was organized by the National Society February 18, 1899, and its National number was 487. The officers were: Regent—Miss Susan C. Richards, vice-regent—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bowditch, secretary—Miss Rebekah Webb, treasurer—Mrs. Harriet B. Bachelier, registrar—Miss Annie E. Richards, auditor—Mrs. L. E. Crane, Mrs. Ella F. Sterling, Mrs. Eleanor F. Clapp and Mrs. Lavonne E. Crane with the officers of the chapter became the board of management. The charter was then presented by Miss Sara W. Dagget, the State regent of Massachusetts, at a special meeting held in the Sunday School room of the Union church of Weymouth and Braintree. There were several guests John J. Loud made an address and also presented to the chapter a gavel of historical interest as it was made of several pieces of wood from the Old Church building, burned in 1897. It was graciously received by the regent, Miss Richards. There were vocal and instrumental selections. A social time and the serving of refreshments followed.

The meetings are held at the homes of the members the last Monday in each month from September to May with instructive and interesting programs. The first donation of money was $5 to the McKinley fund; this was followed by a gift of $50 for a bed in the Maternity Hospital in San Juan, Porto Rico. A tablet was placed on the bed with this inscription "The gift of the Susannah Tufts chapter, D. A. R., Weymouth, Mass., U. S. A." The chapter gave sheets, pillow slips, towels, and bed spreads for the bed. Contributions have been made to Memorial Continental, Washington, D. C.; the International College at Springfield; the Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, Kentucky; French village at Tilloloy, France; and Liberty Bond; a Philippine scholarship; also to the Armenians and the Salvation Army; these are a few of the good causes in which the chapter has been interested. The present membership is 45. Many of the members have had the privilege of attending the National congresses of the D. A. R. held in their beautiful Memorial Continental building in Washington, D. C., finding them very interesting and instructive.

INTER-TOWN LEAGUE

In the Inter-Town series Sunday at Webb park, Weymouth, the Owls continued their winning streak by defeating Mt. Pleasant by a score of 8 to 0. The features of the game were the air-tight fielding and the work of Sullivan of the Owls, who pitched a no-hit, no-run game, allowing only one man to reach first.

On the Gravel street grounds, Middle Street A. A. won from Pleasant Street, score 7 to 3. The other league game was awarded to Valley B. C. 9 to 0 as the Middle Street nine failed to appear. The results of Sunday's games assured the league championship to the Owls. The league standing:

STREET RAILWAY FARES

A Boston paper says: Arrangements are being made by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company to establish a lower minimum fare for trolley rides, not only within single zones, but within town limits when there are one or more zones in said limit.

This fact became known in the course of discussion between the company and Wakefield town officials on the subject of trolley and motor bus fares, and as a result, a ticket containing fourteen rides for $1 will, before long, be good within town limits, whether zone lines intersect or not, and the system is to be extended to other points on the Eastern Massachusetts lines where there have been inconsistencies in local fares.

EDISON COMPANY FIELD DAY

Atkins, general superintendent; Leavitt Edgar, assistant general superintendent; T. K. Cummings, treasurer; C. J. Hatch, E. S. Mansfield, J. W. Cowies, Charles Hodgkinson and Fred T. Havlin.

Union Church S. S. Wins Cup at Picnic

The Union Congregational church held their annual picnic on Saturday at Ridge Hill grove. The affair was a great success; there was not one dull moment all day. Races, ball games, and sports filled up the day with of course a little time in between to eat. Three large jitney busses left the church at sharp 10 o'clock besides other cars full. The sports were ably cared for by Edwin S. Rich. The Congregational church of Wollaston held their picnic at the grove at the same time and the two churches held their sports together and counted points for a cup. Last year Wollaston had it, but this year the Union church was the winner 69-55. The result of the races were

ROBERTSON—CASEY
A pretty home wedding took place July 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robertson, 14 Ledge Hill road, Weymouth, when their younger daughter, Janet MacDonald, became the bride of Robert James Casey of Salem. Rev. James Caleb Justice of the Union Congregational church performed the ceremony. Miss Maude Locke of Allen street, East Braitree, was bridesmaid and Dupcan Robertson, brother of the bride, was best man. The house was prettily decorated in pink and white with streamers and roses and plants. The bride was simply gowned in white crepe de chine, while the bridesmaid wore green silk. Guests about sixty in number were present from Needham, Boston, Quincy, Hingham, the Braitrees and the Weymouths.
The bride is a very popular member of the younger set here, and is a member of the Union Congregational church and its social activities.
Mr. Casey is well known here and is employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and has been stationed at Hingham.
Mr. and Mrs. Casey were showered with many handsome and useful gifts. After the ceremony an informal reception was held and delicious refreshments were served. The happy couple then left amid a shower of confetti and good wishes for an automobile tour of Maine. On their return they will make their home for the present with the bride's parents.

Legion Field Day Tomorrow Will Be a Big Event

Tomorrow, the 14th, will be Weymouth's gala day. It is the one day that will make history in Weymouth because it is the Fourth Annual Field Day of Post 79, A. L. After months of hard work and many nights of labor the boys are ready to launch the greatest field day ever held in this town. A show worth many times the price of admission they will charge.

Horse Racing
Mat Sproul informs the boys that he will have three hours of fast horse races. If you are not willing to take his word for it just glance at the card of races printed below.

Baseball
The ball game will be played Weymouth A. A. and Braitree A. A. Connie Condrick pitching for Weymouth and for Braitree it will be either Coose or Ray Condrick. Can you picture a better battle in your mind than these two cousins opposing each other on the mound?

Races
For the five-mile race there will be several stars, such as Hennigan, Joseph McIver, who has won ten straight road races, and the entire Dorchester club of about 25 men. You can see that this race around the track should be one well worth seeing and one can be assured it will probably be a close and exciting finish.

Soccer
Soccer games will be better than last year, more and stronger teams are represented. First comes Fore River, then Roxbury, St. Georges, Clan Sutherland, Maple Leafs, and Boston Blues. Where will you find a larger group of teams with the reputation these have? If you are not afraid take a walk over to these matches and see for yourself some real soccer games.

Fireworks
Now for the fireworks. Words can not tell you about the display. You will have to be there to see them all and talk about them with your friends. The set pieces will be larger and of longer duration than heretofore. We would like to be at the gate and tell you personally about them, but that is impossible.

Vodeville Show
The stage show for the ladies and children is all ready and the boys say that it will be a dandy of high class numbers, some six or eight acts, in fact a real honest-to-goodness dollar and a half show specially arranged to entertain the young children in particular.

Midway
The midway is OK and waiting for the crowd. Aluminum ware will be given away for those that succeed in hitting the bullseye. It is a simple trick, looks easy, just give it a trial. Blank

Mending the Broken Heart

By HARRIET BRUNKHURST
(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Lucille was puzzled, not to say worried. Her heart was broken, of course. That was why she was in New York, studying violin.

Now every one knows that to become a great musician one's heart must be broken. It works out very nicely, too, because if one's heart isn't broken generally one doesn't care about a musician's career. But no one has explained what happens if one's heart doesn't stay broken. And Lucille was aware that her own heart was displaying distinctly robust symptoms.

"Just the same," Lucille thought if I do forget him. He might try to see me. He could write. And he needn't have gone in such a huff even if daddy was unreasonable.

Lucille had thought she could never forgive her father, either, when he had emphatically refused his consent to her marriage, or even to an engagement.

"I won't have it!" he had stormed. "A man has no right to marry or think of marrying until he is in a position to support a wife. I won't hear a word of it!"

Merton didn't stay to proffer more words. He left town next day, and he obeyed the parental injunction to remain unheard.

Lucille thought then that she could never forgive her father. But when he came around so handsomely about her studying the violin, let her go to New York, rented attractive rooms for her in a better class boarding house, arranged for her lessons with a thoroughly investigated instructor—why, patently, it wasn't easy to feel very hard toward dad.

Lucille liked New York, with its lights, its music, its crowds and its shops; she made friends easily; she really possessed talent, and was willing to work, so that her lessons were a pleasure, she had a generous allowance, pretty clothes, youth and good looks. It wasn't strange that her heart began to perk up a little in spite of its owner's stern resolution.

She had her most engaging snapshot of Harry copied and enlarged and most beautifully framed in silver for her dressing table—but satisfactory though it was in appearance, it was just one more pleasant thing in her life.

There came a gorgeous spring morning during Lucille's second year in New York when she walked down Fifth avenue and admitted that her heart was completely mended.

Regretfully Lucille turned westward at Forty-second street and took her way to the Sixth avenue elevated station for there were two hours of study yet remaining on her day's program. She took a cross seat beside an open window, looked out over the platform and found herself staring straight into Merton Leslie's eyes.

And for a heart completely mended Lucille's acted most singularly. It's owner sprang hastily to her feet, but the train started at the same instant. Lucille was conscious of just one thing—she must let Merton know where she lived. There was no time to get a card from her case and Lucille did the only thing that occurred to her—flung her gold handbag through the open window and, with a sigh of relief, saw Merton catch it.

She got off at the next station on the chance that Merton might take the next train with the idea of overtaking her, but no Merton alighted from the next train nor from the one following. "He isn't familiar with New York," she reasoned. "Of course it wouldn't occur to him to try to overtake me that way. He might wait there on the Forty-second street platform thinking that I would return," she reflected.

Forgotten her father's strictures against Merton, forgotten her own injured indictment of her too-easily discouraged lover. Nor did it occur to her that Merton was in New York for any reason except to find her. Had she not seen him, met his eyes?

Lucille descended the stairs of the elevated station, crossed Sixth avenue and climbed to the downtown platform, boarded her train and was soon again crossing the street to reach the platform upon which she had last seen Merton.

But there was no Merton on the platform. Lucille checked the sinking of her heart. It was all right. Naturally he would think she had gone straight home. Her address was in the bag, and he would know that it was to give him the address that she had thrown the bag to him.

"He would never dream of my returning," she suddenly realized. "My purse was in the bag and he wouldn't know that I carry change in my pocket—such a masculine habit. Well, at least he'll wait at the house until I arrive."

But the ticket chopper accosted her as she passed him.

"You are the young lady that had the gold bag pinched, aren't you?" he asked. "Well, the thief didn't get away. Happened to be a policeman right behind him and seen him grab the bag out of your hand. You'll find it all safe over to the police station, miss."

"Police station!" gasped Lucille in dismay and fled down the stairs, her heart pounding with appropriate speed. She had to stop until the traffic policeman was able to direct her to the police station. Lucille knew her New York, but police stations were not of her New York. She secured the direction, hailed a taxicab—not because of the distance, but because she felt that she wouldn't be quite so alone in arriving at that awesome place to which her impulsive action had consigned Merton.

"You'll wait," she directed as she left the cab, then hesitated. "Would you mind coming in with me? Or shall I get you arrested for leaving your cab here?"

"I'll take a chance, miss," said the chauffeur.

But Lucille found the ordeal not so trying as she had fancied. Even a police station has its sensibilities and remains not unmoved at the apparition of a charming young lady. She did not require a lawyer, as she had feared, nor was it necessary to secure identification for the officer who had made the arrest had seen her board the train and had noticed her bag. And Merton was not in a cell. The twenty minutes which had elapsed since Lucille had flung her bag had not sufficed to gain attention for Merton. So it was all utterly simple, and Merton presently emerged with Lucille from the police station and entered the waiting taxicab.

Lucille rather regretted her impression of the chauffeur into her service. It would have been less embarrassing with a driver less well informed. But she speedily forgot him.

"When are we going to get married, Lucille?" Merton came to the point without delay.

"I wouldn't marry any one that almost got me into jail," shuddered Lucille. "Can you ever forgive me?"

"Not if you won't hurry up and answer me," retorted Merton.

"Well, I suppose dad will be furious, but I owe you some amends. Any time, Merton, and I'll make dad come around peacefully, too."

"Oh, that's all right," said Merton cheerfully. "I'm a great little old daddier. In fact, I brought him and your mother to town with me. They're going to see that we do it with a proper minister instead of one of those combination four-dollar affairs down at City Hall."

"Dad and mother here?" cried Lucille.

"Sure! You ought to see how proud he is of my job. Say, Lucille," softly, "have you missed me?"

"I've been simply broken-hearted," declared Lucille.

OLD SHOES PUT TO GOOD USE

Value of Foot Coverings by No Means Ended When Wearers Have Discarded Them.

Collecting old shoes for a living is hardly the profession for anyone out to become rich quickly, observes a London Answers writer.

Judging by the number of people engaged in this business, however, there must be more than a bare subsistence in it and many find it if not a genteel calling, at least a lucrative one.

When collected these old cast-offs find their way to the wallpaper manufacturer, who allows from 10 cents to a quarter per pair. Calfskin shoes fetch the best prices, while cowhide footwear is not accepted at any price.

These old shoes are first soaked in water to get rid of the dirt. The nails and thread are removed and the leather ground into fine pulp. It is then pressed out into molds of various patterns and finds its way into the market as "embossed leather."

Well-to-do people think they are going back to medieval times when they have the walls of their libraries and dining rooms covered with this material. It may be just as well that they remain in blissful ignorance that the boots and shoes which their neighbors have thrown away now adorn their walls and hang on the screens which protect their eyes from the fire.

Carriage body builders, as well as bookbinders also use large quantities of this pulped leather. It is made into carriage coverings, while the cheapest grades of modern books are bound with leather thus treated.

There is an unlimited demand for the material, as it serves many purposes where a certain amount of durability is required.

The Robins' Job.

It was a pretty bright February day with everything to indicate an early spring.

"The robins soon will be singing again," a man remarked to the druggist who had waited on him. "They sang in Indianapolis in February last year."

"Well, it won't be long, that's sure," the druggist acquiesced.

"You're right, they'll be singing," a five-year-old boy said sagely. He was the druggist's son. "They won't do anything else but sing. They won't work for a livin' like the rest of us have to."

What Did Grandma Say?
When Dorothy was five years old, she felt that she had reached that stage in life when every action taken by her mother called for comment or approbation. She had watched her mother pay the washerwoman every Tuesday for a long time, and it perplexed her that her mother permitted grandma to work in the kitchen, making pies and dressings, without recompense, although she worked harder than the washerwoman.

WHITTIER ON THE HOME PAPER
With all that has been written on the subject of the country newspaper it is curious that only recently has attention been called to the fact that one of the most loved American poets years ago paid a tribute to the country weekly which, for color and vividness, perhaps has not been excelled by any of the modern writers. Possibly it is because this little poem forms a part of Whittier's longer poem "Snowbound" that it has escaped so long special attention on the part of persons interested in the country newspaper. Just who is entitled to credit for bringing the poem to light is hard to say; it is several weeks now since it first began appearing in the exchanges. The poem follows:
At last the floundering carrier bore
The village paper to our door.
Lo! broadening outward as we read
To warmer zones th' horizon spread,
In panoramic length unrolled
We saw the marvels that it told.
Welcome to us its week-old news,
Its corner for the rustic Muse,
Its monthly gauge of snow and rain,
Its record mingling in a breath
The wedding bell and dirge of death;
Jest, anecdote, and loveorn tale;
The latest culprit sent to jail;
Its hue and cry of stolen and lost
Its vendue sales and goods at cost,
And traffic calling loud for gain.
We felt the stir of hall and street,
The pulse of life that round us beat;
The chill embargo of the snow
Was melted in the genial glow;
Wide swung again our ice-clocked door,
And all the world was ours once more.

STREET CARS AND BUSES
Apropos the street railway question the comments this week of Fred A. Cummings, one of the public trustees, are of interest. "Don't get the idea," said Cummings "that the street railway is passing out, or that tracks and trolley poles are going to be taken up within our lifetime. Let the city planners tell you that the street railway adds nothing to the beauty of a city and town, that the car itself is not artistic, that the noise detracts from our enjoyment, but after he's all through just ask him what he would substitute in its place. "I know he'll tell you that the motor bus will eventually take care of all traffic, in some places it will. But I wonder if he's ever stopped to figure out how many motor busses we'll need to do what the street car does now. Take a spot like the General Electric plant in Lynn for instance. It employs 20,000 men and women. Most of them arrive at the plant at the same time and leave at the same hour. We manage to handle them with our street cars, but we've estimated that in order to transport that crowd in the largest motor busses now made we'd jam the streets of Lynn to such an extent that there'd be room for no other traffic, and everything else would have to keep off the streets. "And don't forget that no power for transportation as cheap as electricity has yet been discovered. Even the city planners, and the men charged with responsibility for keeping traffic moving in big cities—and all of them hate the street car—are compelled to admit that electricity is cheap and gasoline is expensive. Because the street car is cheaper we must continue to use it, and my prediction is that we'll keep on using it years after all of us are gone. "We are not blind to the advantages of the motor bus, by any means. The Eastern now owns twenty, and before another year we'll own many, many more. The bus is flexible, and tracks are not. If a bus stops paying expenses we can move it to another place and make it pay. If a car line begins to lose money, we can't pick the tracks up bodily and put them somewhere else. "Some people think the automobile is putting street railways out of business, and that the men running them are too blind to see the handwriting on the wall. Perhaps; but I don't believe a word of it. Of course the automobile has cut into the profits of railroading, but there is enough business still to attract the investor. The automobile owner may not admit it, but there comes a time when he is very much dependent upon the street car."

N. E. ORDER PROTECTION
A subordinate lodge of the New England Order of Protection instituted in Pythian hall, Weymouth, on the 10th of May, 1889, two years after the institution of the order. At its inception Safety Lodge was organized with 45 charter members and of that number the following are alive today and members in good standing: William M. Marden, Burton F. Johnson, John H. LaPlant, Alfred E. Newhall, George M. Keene, Frank P. Virgin, M. D. George W. Hayden, Charles G. Sheppard, Edward W. Hunt, Francis E. Hall, Jacob Dexeimer.

This lodge has been a power for good in the community and has paid out over $50,000 since its institution to the beneficiaries of its deceased members. This sum is a fraction of the total of $21,000,000 paid out by this fraternal and beneficial order since 1887, said organization having a reserve fund of nearly $2,000,000. It issues policies of $500, $1000, and $2000 at adequate rates at low cost, non-sectarian, open to men and women residing in New England and whose morals and health are 100 percent.

Safety Lodge while not as large in membership as some years ago is holding its own amongst the 450 lodges of New England and has every reason to feel proud of its record, with many years of success to come. The officers at present are: Warden—A. Parker Bates
Vice Warden—Lester W. Tisdale
Secretary—B. F. Johnson
Financial secretary—Jacob Dexeimer
Treasurer—Franklin P. Whitten
Chaplain—Hannah A. Thayer
Guide—Marion R. Bates
Guardian—Hattie F. Richmond
Sentinel—J. Gertrude Newcomb
Trustees—E. W. Hunt, E. A. Smith, C. I. Newcomb
Representative to Grand Lodge—Irving R. Nightingale

Meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at Pythian hall, Weymouth. The following members of the lodge are listed as Past Wardens: George M. Keene, George W. Hayden, Edward W. Hunt, Jacob Dexeimer, Lydia F. Johnson, H. Franklin Perry, Katherine A. Donnelly, Margaret J. Lynch, Clayton B. Merchant, Mary A. Pratt, Jeanette Dexeimer, Elmer A. Smith, J. Gertrude Newcomb, Charles I. Newcomb, Fred A. Thayer, Irving R. Nightingale, Franklin P. Whitten, Hannah A. Thayer, B. F. Johnson

Mildred Leo Clemens, F. R. G. S.
Mark Twain's Cousin to Lecture Here

All of the talent in the Clemens family seems not to have been centered in Mark Twain, the famous author and humorist, for his cousin, Mildred Leo Clemens, the well-known lecturer, is rapidly gaining an enviable reputation with her lecture-entertainment, "Happy Hawaii."

To the freedom of childhood days spent on a western farm Miss Clemens attributes her delight in nature. Training in the keen observation of human nature and life in its varying phases was early acquired through newspaper and journalistic work, a work, too, that even before high school days were over, had led her into the scenic places of the Great Northwest. Through extensive travels, Miss Clemens has become intimately acquainted with the American West, its scenic wonderlands, the Canadian Rockies, the Hawaiian Islands, Australia, New Zealand, and other parts of the western world. Armed with her faithful camera and notebook, the young lecturer, writer and traveler has penetrated to regions where it takes real courage to go, seeing things that most travelers have not, and her lectures never fail to present, both by picture and story, her vivid impressions of the scenic places or vitally interesting scenes of life, customs and activities in the lands where she has traveled.

Of her lectures it has been said that they compress into an hour and a quarter a story which artists have endeavored to tell with a brush, and writers with pen, but most of these efforts do not measure up to the effectiveness of the motion pictures and colored photographs and the story as told by Miss Clemens. She carries her audience with her and makes them feel as though they are in the midst of the scenes she pictures and describes, bringing a priceless recollection to those who have traveled, while to those who have not she stimulates fresh ideas and broadens the mental horizon.

To her pictures and story, Miss Clemens adds a charming personality, a clear, penetrating voice, the attractiveness of youth, the culture of a college woman, a wealth of Clemens' humor, a fresh and original style, and a sympathetic understanding of her audience. All of which combine to make what critics have been pleased to term a rather unusual equipment for the lecture platform, and travelogues which do not in any way correspond to the stereotyped travel talks.

Hear Mildred Leo Clemens at the Weymouth Chautauque between the dates of August 15—21.

Gazette, July 10, 1874
Weymouth celebrated 250th anniversary of settlement on the Fourth of July. At the Landing there was a parade of Johnson band, Knights of Pythias, Grand Army, Amazon Engine Co., Delta lodge of Masons, and school children to North Weymouth. At South Weymouth the Conqueror Engine Company serenaded Chief Engineer Gen. Bates; parade of school children. At East Weymouth parade of Knights Templar, Masons, Odd Fellows, Catholic C. T. A. Society, Temple of Honor, Cadets of Honor, and school children to North Weymouth.
Guests arrived by noon train and parade marched through Church street, round the square, into Commercial street, over King Oak hill to the Weld place and to the top of King Oak hill. Hon. James Humphrey was president of the day, and the exercises included: invocation by Rev. F. P. Chapin, song by male chorus led by Alphens Bates, Declaration of Independence by Edward Bicknell, historical address by Charles Francis Adams Jr. of Quincy; remarks by Charles Francis Adams Sr. of Quincy; hymn by Rev. George F. Stanton sung to the tune of Old Lang Syne.
Everett C. Bumpus was toastmaster and the following responded: Hon. B. W. Harris, Hon. Seth Turner, State Treasurer Adams, Hon. N. F. Safford, Hon. Benjamin Hobart, Hon. George White, Dr. W. B. C. Piffeld, William M. Cornell, Gen. James L. Bates, and Charles G. Tirrell. A hymn by John J. Loud was sung to the tune of "Old Hundred." About 5000 people assembled. Fireworks in the evening by E. S. Hunt & Son were marred by rain. The town was prettily decorated for the occasion.
Actives defeated King Philips 26 to 19.
H. H. Spinney, Henry Walker, George Miller and Lucy Spinney baptised in Monatiquot river near Sea street.

ORDER SONS OF ITALY
Order Sons of Italy in America. Because the order in this locality is not known of its fundamental principle, and because has been wrongly represented by unscrupulous individuals for personal benefit is my duty as member of the Lodge Giuseppe Verdi of East Weymouth to let know the order and its aims.

The purpose of the order Sons of Italy is to amalgamate the Italians residing in this country for their welfare and teaching them to become good citizens, the American life, and inspire in them the duty for this adopted country.

The order is known as fraternal organization; but stands for something more than fraternalism.

It stands for America in the spirit of serving this country, and stands for Italy in the spirit of not doing things for which Italy should be ashamed of. It is not a political organization does not ask its members where they stand in the matter of politics or religious creed, but try to enlist the best of us for serving America to make a greater and better country and fostering the Italian culture.

The Americanisms of the Order
So much has been said and written about Americanism. Every one and every school has a specific idea of Americanization, even the Ku Klux Klan (as fascism for Italy) speak of Americanism; and we cannot conceive of any organization more un-American than this society which if prevail would disgrace America. As compared with the insidious perversion of Americanization we of the order have a noble conception of it.

Following the founders of this nation we ask that all the people in America, irrespective of their creed, race, and origin, be brought within the spirit of this glorious country.

Any attempt to create a line dividing the American people is a crime against the flag. Any attempt to consider part of American people with snobbish attitude is a crime against the land, a violation of the express language of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution.

We are all Americans, and if to be American is a privilege we Italians deserve it not because of Columbus discovered it, but for the devotion we have for this adopted country and the duty we have fulfilled with labor, art and science as bringing at the position it stands now, social, political, and commercial.

A large part of American citizens are cut off from full political power; and I don't think I exaggerate by complaining that citizens of our stock are in those conditions.

There are so many Americans of Italian parents and have all the qualifications of serve this commonwealth for civic duty as they did during the war, and still if we look at the juror list we don't find a name of our race. This is a government of Democracy and not of Oligarchy; any racial prejudice or any other discrimination work against it.

T. Roosevelt said: "Our nation was founded to perpetuate democratic principle, which are that each man is treated as his worth, without regard of creeds that he profess. Here we have had a virgin continent to try the experiment of making out of diverse race a new nation, and treating all the citizen in such fashion as to preserve them equality of opportunity in industrial, civilization, and political life." In the work of Americanization we have not done very much by just giving the naturalization paper.

We do not teach the immigrant how to mark the ballot. We do not teach them the highest expression of patriotism. The formal requirement for citizenship do not go very far within the spirit of the flag; they do not understand the duty and responsibility by which all the people are asked to co-operate in the political and social life of the nation. Citizenship it seems is wanted not for the real welfare of the country, but for political exploitation.

The vote of those half assimilated Americans may be harmful to the nation, because they are either extorted by impostors or are given unintelligently.

Politicians among them generally speaking are mostly corrupted, and exercise a deleterious influence upon the people of their own race.

The order Sons of Italy goes on record on this work in delight on all the detail, and to inspire in the people of his race a true sentiment of patriotism; the patriotism of the founders of this great nation.

Of course while we profess ONE and UNDIVIDED Americanism we cherish the remembrance of the land of our origin. Alba B. Johnson at a recent conference on Americanization said: "Even we, the original settlers, feel a devotion, a reverence, a profound respect for the mother country"

So do we. We would not be worthy American citizens should we forget the land which gave us birth or to our fathers. I contend that it is to advantage of America to foster the Italian culture. In the melting pot where the destinies of America are forged, every race that comes from other side brings a valuable contribution. The American civilization is the result of all those contributions. The American people is the result of the fusion of different racial characteristics. We of Italian origin or descent bring the tradition of an old and ever young civilization. Should we destroy our mental and moral attitude we would not have anything to give to this land of adoption. Any race which has nothing to bring over in communion with other race for a greater America is of no value. The order is known all over the United States with thirteen Grand Lodges with over 300,000 members and 1178 male and female lodges. Has in few states scholarship courses and orphanages, and is a good progress attained in few years of his existence.

WHAT IS A CREDIT BUREAU?

A credit bureau, adequately organized and efficiently handled, is an institution of value in improving the tone of a community's credit. It educates the community in the meaning of credit by orienting for its credit-givers the standing of its credit seekers. It translates thrift, sobriety, prompt meeting of obligations, right living into very real and concrete terms for each individual. Performance is recorded and made to count in his credit relations. A credit record can be established which will insure accommodation during a period of misfortune, or a reputation may be acquired which will cut off every credit avenue. Bad bills reduced and slow accounts eliminated lessen business costs and hence decrease living expenses for consumers. People who know these things are given incentive to make their actions measure to the credit standard. A credit bureau which realizes its possibilities quickens and invigorates the ethics of business relations in its community.

The Church and Newspaper Together Help Community

Rev. J. T. Brabner Smith of Methodist Episcopal church, speaking of church advertising says:—
"There has been a remarkable increase of church news which is growing constantly more accurate as a general rule in the newspapers, but there are some glaring exceptions to this rule. It is evident there is an insistent growing need of co-operation between the pastors and the editors."

"Here are some of the simplest mistakes made by the newspapers regarding the church, which are generally due to lack of co-operation, or because the head writers or the writer of the article, do not know the vocabulary, doctrine or dogma of the church of which they are writing. It is ridiculous to call a Methodist bishop a 'Prelate'; a meeting of the Congregationalists a conclave; or a meeting of the Presbyterians a conference; or an official meeting of Episcopalians a synod; or to call a Lutheran or Disciple clergyman or a Methodist bishop 'The Right Reverend.' It is necessary to be accurate to call the Archbishop of the Protestant Episcopal or of the Catholic church 'The Right Reverend.' Effective Methodist ministers are appointed by the bishops as pastors, they are 'sent' and are never 'called' to pastorates."

"Most of the mistakes in church news and in articles regarding church matters could be eliminated if the pastor or a publicity committee would keep in constant touch with the newspapers through its editors or reporters. Every church should have a fund for purchasing space in the newspapers and should advertise in the daily or weekly paper, regularly, persistently, and as consistently as do the members of the church who are business men. Many churches have editors, writers and advertising experts who could be used in preparing news or advertisements for the newspapers. There is a wealth of unused talent in the Christian churches consisting of publishers, editors, newspaper writers and advertising experts. Why does not the church use its wonderful literary and business talent of men, who are engaged in newspaper and journalistic work, in the interest of individual churches especially of the church of which these newspaper men are members. In some communities where there are no church members who are owners of or workers on newspapers, there are men who are experts on the newspapers who could be interested in the church work by being asked to write up the news and advertisements of the church or churches in the town in which they live."

"Preachers' meetings should be open to the press representatives. Some weekly preachers' meetings have closed their doors to the press. What is there in a preachers' meeting that cannot be made public? What is there in the Gospel of Jesus Christ that is not good news? Surely it is a mistake to have preachers' meetings as though they were 'star chambers.' How can the church expect correct reports of its meetings unless a reporter is present, and how can we hold the papers to accountability when the news is not given, or if given, it is given through an intermediary?"

"The church is the biggest business in the world. In America nearly 75 percent of the people are church members. Millions of dollars are invested in church buildings, millions of dollars are given for benevolent purposes. It has an army of trained leaders and schools for training leaders. It touches every activity of life and the power of churches of Jesus Christ in the society, the private, the business, and the professional life of the country is tremendous. Within its portals are practically all the publishers, editors, and writers of all the newspapers. There are very few atheistic owners of or writers for papers. If some of the newspapers today are sensational, lacking in moral tone, a detriment to the progress of Christianity, it is rather a reflection on the churches than on the newspapers, because the churches should insist that the owners and editors of newspapers, who are members, should apply Christianity to the task of making a newspaper which would help the coming of the Kingdom of God on earth rather than to hinder its progress. When Christianity is applied to the newspapers as it is to business, to professional, and to industrial life, much of the sensationalism, which is like a cancer in a healthy body, will be eradicated."

"The church needs the newspapers as a medium of spreading the Kingdom of God, because it enters into almost every home and is a visitor in almost every family circle. It is not only in our homes, but it follows us on our journeys. It is everywhere! It reaches almost every man, woman, and child who can read and is our close and constant companion. It reaches those who favor the church and those who do not. Through it we can send the Christian message, the Gospel, the 'good news' to absent members of the church and to those ferent to church activities."

"Every student in theological schools and every preacher should be taught the rudiments of journalism, or at least should be taught how to write a brief news paragraph or advertisement which would be acceptable to the press. Every theological school and every college and university under church influence should teach journalism."
"There is a growing increase in the number of preachers and laymen who can intelligently write for the press. The pastor should be willing to give to the editor of the paper in his town, city, or village news stories of church activities and to supply an abstract of his sermon or address on special public occasions. The preacher should study the style of the newspaper in his community and should follow its style. Preachers should visit the editorial sanctum in a friendly way and for co-operation. If the village paper is 'sick' it certainly needs the pastoral care. Friendly co-operation is far better than adverse criticism. It is ridiculous to criticize a newspaper for an article that is inaccurate when the church people have failed or refused to give accurate information regarding the event to the reporter or the editor. It is also very foolish to complain of lack of news in the community paper, when the church has failed to supply the data or the news to the paper."

"The Bible is the textbook for the pulpit and the press."
"The quotations from the Scriptures the sacred stories, and the biblical characters are in evidence in almost every great newspaper. The papers contain direct and indirect references to the Bible, and in some cases the editorials are more definitely founded on the Scriptures than are some sermons. There are real living-prophets of God in the editorial sanctums and in the publishing offices of many of our newspapers. Dana Pulitzer, Medill and others of the same journalistic school, were men crying in the wilderness, 'make straight the highway for our God.'"

"There are very few prophets of Babel or servants of Babel among our newspaper men or women. Even the printing of crime in newspapers is credited to the Bible stories, which reveal crime in the lives of some of the greatest Bible characters. Exploitation of crime and the glaring headlines and the writing of minute details are certainly not founded on the Bible. The Scriptures print evil that good may come, but much evil, as portrayed in some sensational newspapers, tends to exaggerate evil. The churches should hold to strict accountability the editors and publishers and writers of the yellow and sensational papers."

"It pays to advertise, as hundreds of preachers and churches have demonstrated by increased attendance and larger collections, as well as larger publicity. Churches should not 'sponge' on the newspaper. The space in the newspapers must be sold to pay the running expenses of the paper and the churches should advertise their wares as earnestly and as systematically as do the business men."

"The preachers should supply news by studying the needs and the standpoint of the newspaper. The preacher owes it to the public and the members of his congregation to see that the news about his church and about religious advance in general, are properly handled."

"One prominent editor has said, 'take the newspaper men into your confidence and nine times out of ten or oftener, you will find that they are regular human beings.'"

"John Wesley said, 'I read my newspaper to see what God is doing with his world, and our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, said 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel.'"

"Surely the newspaper is part of the world and it is Christ's wish that the preacher should go into the newspapers. Surely the 'world' includes the modern newspaper."
"Some church people think that the newspapers are 'worldly', which is all the more reason that we should listen to our Master's command. 'Go ye into all the world', which in this case, especially interpreted would be 'Ye church people, go into the newspapers with the Gospel.'"

"It is small business and ridiculous of preachers to say that our press associations or great newspapers are controlled by large interests or any particular church. We have had over seven years' experience with press associations and somewhat close association in co-operating with the Associated Press. It is silly, childish, and lacking in truth to assert that Associated Press is controlled by any particular business or church. And it is against sensationalism. Our great newspapers and press associations try to be truthful and are simply the organs of conveying news of all events unbiased or unprejudiced to the public."

A GOOD CAR

There are a number of reasons for the universal popularity of the Studebaker automobiles according to the Norfolk Motors Inc., Water street, East Weymouth, who are the local dealers; but chiefly the reasons are:

- (1) Because of their quality, durability and dependable performance in owners' use.
- (2) Because by manufacturing sixes exclusively on a large scale and by building all vital parts in its own plants, Studebaker can effect economies and save the middlemen's profits, and thereby provide maximum value and quality at a low price.
- (3) Because, in the three models of Studebaker cars we have a car of the exact size, style, and price to suit every buyer.
- (4) Because with $85,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plant facilities, Studebaker stands unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give the greatest intrinsic value possible for a given price.
- (5) Because of the name Studebaker, which for 71 years, has stood for high grade transportation, integrity, quality, value and comfort."

—How have you worked out your home budget? A convenient plan is to divide the amount that can be logically saved and then divide the remainder into five equal parts for food, shelter, clothing, operating, and development. Adjustments are then made among these fifths for the individual or family, except the fifth for clothing, which should not be exceeded.

BISCUITS, WAFERS AND COOKIES

Parched Cornmeal and Peanut Butter Biscuits.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The home economics section of the Department of Agriculture recommends the following recipes for making three very tasty dishes:

Peanut Butter Salad Wafers.
 1 cup cornmeal    1 teaspoonful salt
 1 cup wheat flour    1/2 cup milk
 1 cup peanut butter

Mix together the peanut butter and the milk, and add the dry ingredients. Roll the dough very thin, and cut it into small squares. Bake in a moderate oven.

Peanut Butter Drop Cookies.
 1 cup peanut butter    1 teaspoonful salt
 1 cup sugar    1 1/2 teaspoonfuls soda
 2 1/2 teaspoonfuls lemon juice    1 cup water
 2 cups flour

Rub together the peanut butter, sugar, and lemon juice, and add the flour, in which has been sifted the salt and soda. Gradually stir in the water. Drop the mixture by spoonfuls on a greased tin and bake for about 20 minutes in a moderate oven. If desired, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder may be used instead of the lemon juice and soda.

Parched Cornmeal and Peanut Biscuits.

1 cup yellow corn-meal    1 cup peanut butter

1 teaspoonful salt    1 1/2 cups water

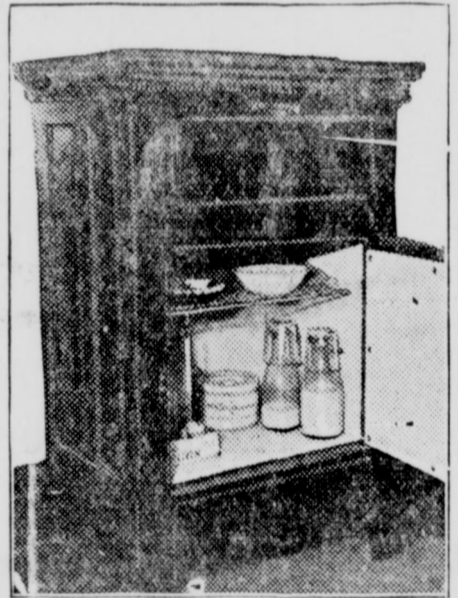

Put the meal into a shallow pan and heat in the oven until it is a delicate brown, stirring frequently. Mix the peanut butter and water, add salt, and heat. While the mixture is hot, stir in the meal, which also should be hot. Beat thoroughly. The dough should be of such consistency that it can be dropped from a spoon. Bake in small cakes in an ungreased pan. This recipe makes 16 biscuits.

KEEP MILK COVERED TO EXCLUDE FLAVORS

Of Considerable Importance That Refrigerator Should Be Kept Clean and Sweet.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the ordinary refrigerator, unless the milk container is in actual contact with the ice, the milk will be colder at the bottom of the refrigerator than in the ice compartment, for cold air settles rapidly. The refrigerator should be kept clean and sweet at all times, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Inspecting it thoroughly at least once a week is a good plan, to see that the outlet for water from the melting ice is open and that the space under the ice rack is clean. The food compartments should be scalded every week. A single drop of spilled milk or a particle of neglected food will contaminate a refrigerator in a few days.

Sometimes, in very hot weather, in spite of all precautions, milk sours quickly, even in the refrigerator. This is often due to the fact that the air of the refrigerator, although cool in contrast with the heat outside, is really not cold enough to check the growth of the bacteria in the milk. If a thermometer placed inside registers more than 50 degrees F, the fault cannot be laid entirely to the quality of the milk.

Milk should be kept covered to exclude not only dirt and bacteria but also flavors and odors, which it readily absorbs. It should be kept away from foods of strong odor, such as onions, cabbage or fish. Bottled milk should be kept in the bottle in which it is delivered until needed for use. Serving milk on the table in the original bottle is sanitary. The mouth of the bottle should be cleaned carefully before the milk is poured from it, and only what is needed for immediate use should be poured out. The bottle should be kept covered with a paper cap or an inverted tumbler as long as there is milk in it. New milk should never be mixed with old unless it is to be used at once; the old milk is likely to contain a larger number of bacteria.

Waxed Paper Helps.

No one cares much for the job of cleaning up the skillet or baking dish after fish has been cooked in it. However, a great deal of the disagreeable part will be eliminated if you line the pan with waxed paper before putting in the fish.

Use Boiling Water.

With most vegetables it is a mistake to start them in cold water, as they lose their flavor. Put them into water that is already boiling.

CLUBS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Products Exhibited and Methods Shown Which Enabled Young People to Succeed.

Teams of young Iowa farmers and future home makers gave demonstrations in 12 booths in the boys' and girls' clubs building at the Interstate fair at Sioux City, Iowa, last September. Through the co-operation of the extension services of 12 participating states, the fair association, and the United States Department of Agriculture, not only were club products exhibited, but representative teams showed the methods which had enabled them to succeed in winning the highest ranks among the 130,000 club members in all the North Central states participating.

They demonstrated butter and cheese making, caring for milk, making milk drinks; steps in successful poultry raising; baking bread; canning fruit and vegetables; making clothing—carefully showing each step of these various processes. The 12 booths illustrated 12 lines of club work—corn, poultry, pigs, potatoes, sheep, dairying, canning, home arrangement and decoration, bread, food, clothing and handicraft. The value of club products in the 12 states in 1921 was $2,640,000—a striking contribution for these boys and girls to make to the agriculture of their states.

MAKE CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

Suggested by Department of Agriculture Expert as Change—Recipe Given for Filling.

When wondering what to have as a change for dessert, why not serve a chocolate pie? The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following recipe:

Prepare filling from the following:
 2 cups milk                      2 ounces grated chocolate (or 4 1/2 cup sugar,    4 table-spoonfuls powdered cocoa).
 1/2 teaspoonful salt              2 egg yolks.              2 egg whites for meringue.
 1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Cook until thick enough to pile. Prepare a single crust for this pie by rolling the dough for it on the outside of an inverted pie tin which has been lightly dusted with flour beforehand. When baked for five minutes this shell may be slipped off and placed inside the pie tin, ready for the filling. This is a good way to prepare a perfectly smooth and well-fitting lower crust for pies which are to hold liquid or semi-liquid fillings. Add the filling. Bake in hot oven until filling just bubbles. Remove from the oven and spread over the pie the stiffly beaten egg whites mixed with two or three table-spoonfuls sugar. Return to the oven until the meringue is delicately browned on top. This serves five or six.

Sweet oil applied to a burn soon alleviates the pain.

Silk hosiery will wear longer if laundered before wearing.

Serve greens in the spring menu. They will help avoid doctors' bills.

Keep all salad dressings in a cool place, but not at freezing temperature.

To remove ink stains from wood make a mixture of equal parts of vinegar and linseed oil. Shake well before using and apply with a soft cloth.

You will also have Brighter Lights, Louder Horn, More Power, Use Less Gasoline and have a Smoother Running Motor. This is a permanent job not one that will have to be done again in a few months and will take but 10 minutes of your time.

WHY EDITOR EDITS

It is impossible for an editor to write everything that appears in his paper. Every good editor knows this and he does not try to do it all. Intelligent supervision is worth more and leads to greater production at much less expense when the head of the house devotes a large share of his time to superintending the work of others, who if they did not require a measure of supervision, would be at the head of the business.
 The best editor in the world would be a failure if he were compelled to write only those things which had come under his personal observation.
 Newspaper writing is a profession, as much as medicine, law or music. Many high-grade business men who can dictate a letter which could be used as a model fail lamentably when "taking their pen in hand" to write for publication.
 Many persons have felt injured after they had submitted an article to the editor to find some of it recast, some of it changed, some left out and many times something added. We had a case recently where we added an extremely essential bit to a contribution and the author thanked us, saying he had entirely overlooked that point. A lengthy article was contributed some time ago and we cut it down more than half. The contributor called up and said that was the way he wanted to say it, but he didn't know how to express himself.
 A person writing an article for publication should endeavor to say his say in as few words as possible, and always use double space if written on a typewriter.
 Possibly the reader remembers the little jingle going the rounds of the press several years ago in which the editor requested contributors to make all articles as short as possible. "Boil it down five times," he said, "then send it to us and we will begin to boil it down."
 The above thoughts were suggested to the editor of the Wayne County Journal by the opening sentence of an interesting brochure, just issued by the Western Newspaper Union, entitled "Variable Winds on the Weathercock."

WEYMOUTH CAN VOTE MONEY

Cities and towns throughout Massachusetts are authorized to appropriate money for the conduct of observances of Memorial Day and other patriotic holidays under the auspices of the American Legion, according to a law passed by the Legislature during the past session and which went into effect this week.
 The act, which is an amendment of Section 5 of the General Laws, and is known as Chapter 202 of the Acts of 1923, reads in part as follows:
 "Cities and towns may appropriate money for erecting headstones or other monuments at the graves of persons who served in the War of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Seminole war, the Mexican war, or the war of Rebellion, or who served in the military or naval service of the United States in the Spanish-American war or in the World war; for acquiring land by purchase or by eminent domain, under Chapter 79, purchasing, erecting, equipping, or dedicating buildings or constructing or dedicating other suitable memorials, for the purpose of properly commemorating the services and sacrifices of persons who served as aforesaid.
 "For the decoration of the graves, monuments or other memorials of soldiers, sailors, and marine who served in the army, navy, or Marine Corps of the United States in time of war or insurrection, and the proper observance of Memorial Day and other patriotic holidays under the auspices of local posts of Grand Army of the Republic, United Spanish War veterans and the American Legion."

In a moral point of view, the life of the agriculturist is the most pure and holy of any class of men; pure, because it is the most healthful, and vice can hardly find time to contaminate it; and holy, because it brings the Deity perpetually before his view, giving him thereby the most exalted notions of supreme power, and the most fascinating and endearing view of moral benignity.—Lord John Russell.

PLANT TREE IN RIGHT PLACE

Much of Natural Beauty May Be Lost if Proper Spot Has Not Been Selected.

It is a beautiful thing to plant a tree, but it is doubly beautiful to plant the right tree in the right place.
 The deed loses half of its beauty when a tree is placed where it does not belong, and where it will be impossible for it to add to the joy and comfort of those who may be near it in future years. A tree placed in a location where it will be in the way, and where it cannot develop in accordance with its natural tendencies, is doomed to be a failure. The same is likely to be true of the tree that is planted without thought as to the variety that is best suited to the situation. It is the tree planting that involves thought and judgment that is the real blessing to humanity.
 The beautiful thing in the planting of the tree is the attitude of mind of the one who does it. Those who are to receive the benefits from the act appear long after the work is done; those who do the work are seldom directly rewarded for the labor. When a person plants a tree, he is contributing to the pleasure of generations to come, and if he plants the right tree in the right place he bestows a blessing upon others in the most unselfish manner. If, on the other hand, the wrong tree is planted, the future generations cannot reap the full benefit of the work done years before by the well-meaning but uninformed tree planter, and the deed as measured by results becomes less beautiful.—Illinois Arbo Day Bulletin.

CWES SPEECH TO WIRELESS

Young English Woman, Dumb From Birth, Said to Have Become Normal After Treatment.

A young woman, deaf and dumb from birth, the first patient to undergo treatment by a new wireless invention, articulated several words in the presence of a crowded audience at the Royal Medical college, Epsom, England.
 Wireless, having brought hearing to the deaf, is now bringing speech to the dumb.
 This latest wonder is made possible by the invention of Mr. J. W. Theobald, a Sunbury garage owner, and a medical friend, Dr. Frank Thompson. The dumb patient puts on ear receivers, and receives a lesson in phonetics with the sounds magnified till they are deafening to normal ears.
 Dr. Thompson prophesies that his first patient will soon be able to converse freely. A curious unexpected result has been that her deafness is also tending to disappear.

Molten Lava Welds Volcanoes.

George Gillman read a paper before the Geographical society descriptive of an ascent a year ago of Kilimanjaro, which he alluded to as Africa's highest mountain. The party which he led were the first to ascend after the mountain had become British territory. From wherever across the surrounding steppes one approached the isolated mountain mass two outstanding features impressed themselves at once—the tremendous size, coupled with great height, and the almost incredible contrast between the tropical half desert below and the alpine desert above. Structurally, Kilimanjaro consisted of three single strato-volcanoes, each of which had its own origin and history. Through mutual interbedding of the lava flows, however, all three had grown into one solid complex strato-volcano.

Fighting Insect Pests.

A new method of control of "scrow-worms," "wireworms" and sod web worms which attack tobacco and similar crops has been discovered by the tobacco insect laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture. It has been found that these worms are very greatly attracted to nitrobenzine, and by flavoring poison with this chemical a mortality of from 80 to 90 per cent of the larvae in heavily infested fields is produced. These larvae are very important pests of tobacco and a large variety of other crops, and up to this time fall plowing and other indirect methods were the only known ways of combating them.

Women Lead in Fighting Rats.

In a state-wide rat campaign conducted in Virginia early this year, when it was estimated that more than 670,000 rats were destroyed, it was disclosed that women make as effective leaders as men in this work, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. When regarded according to the number of rat-tails turned in for prizes, seven counties led by women and three led by men were the most successful.

Fighting Forest Fires.

The California district of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, has received $4,000 from the Automobile Club of Southern California for the development of public camps in national forests. In addition, the automobile club co-operates very closely with the forest service in fire-prevention work. Approved methods of preventing fires are printed in the maps furnished by the club to tourists.

Oil Works on Quincy Avenue Will Reopen

The property of Massachusetts Oil Refining Co. on Quincy avenue has been sold to Henry Doherty of New York, who will at once commence the refining of crude oil that has been held up ever since the decree of the State Board of Health requiring the abatement of the nuisance caused by escaping odors. This was remedied and passed as satisfactory by the health authorities, but because of lack of capital the old concern could not continue. With new financial backing and the arrival today of a vessel with California crude oil the plant will soon show signs of activity. The new company will be known as the City Service Refining Co.

TOWN AND VICINITY

—Dennis J. Slattery of Weymouth and his son Thomas Slattery were among the delegation that left Boston Sunday night to attend the biennial convention of the 'A. O. H.' which opened Tuesday at Montreal.

—Simeon Scammel, for many years a carriage manufacturer on Quincy avenue, Quincy, died Saturday. He was a deacon of Bethany Congregational church and at one time a member of the Mechanics Temple of Honor of Weymouth.

NOVEL SIGHT

Do people notice things? Do they see things? Do they see and also read the advertisements in the Gazette? One man in East Weymouth will say they do. Ask "Jim" Ford. This week he decided on a very clever arrangement of display. Some new, attractive rolls and designs in linoleum. After completing the labors necessary and that go with changing windows he went home to rest. But rest was not for him. The tinkle of the telephone came frequently and always the message of harm or damage to his store front. He laughingly passed it off, but the Mrs. felt he should change it. Even the next day the guardians of the public safety came around to make out their reports that all was not right and to ask how it happened. All this goes to show that our local merchants are there not only with the goods, but can display them just as well as some big out of town store and you get that additional home service and interest with your purchases.

CAR BARN

Carpenters are busy changing over the Broad street car barn near Central Square and it is expected within thirty days the whole equipment from the old iron mill car barn will be moved to new quarters. In this wing nearest Central Square a new office will be constructed. The street cars will occupy the center and the motor buses will be in west wing. Why not let the Quincy cars go in one end of the car barn, circle it, and return. But if necessary for service both lines of cars Braintree and Quincy can alternate down Broad street to Jackson Square and by making a curve at the square do away with changing of seats and trolley. The Hingham car by running thru to Central Square will give added service.

ARE THE GAZETTE "ADS" READ?

A party put a "For Rent" advertisement in the Gazette to run three weeks. The house was rented soon after the first publication. The telephone calls regarding this advertisement were so numerous, however, that the said party called the Gazette office asking that they please discontinue the advertisement at once as it took all their time to answer the phone.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Thursday evening a touring car smashed into a tree in Hingham and occupants who were seriously injured were rushed to Weymouth Hospital. This morning their names were on the danger list.

—The Boy Scouts of Troop 1 have their field day Saturday, (tomorrow) July 21, at Webb Park.

NEW DIAL TELEPHONE

The first use of the dial telephone in the New England States was started Sunday at midnight when the subscribers of the Aspinwall exchange were introduced to the new style of self service, or calling the number you wish, yourself.

The change from the present manually operated switchboard in the central office on Aspinwall avenue to the new building was made without interruption of service. The first subscriber's call under the new system, and also the first dial phone call in the State, was made about 30 seconds after the new service went into effect. The call was from Aspinwall 0314, the residence of Rose Asher, 5 Idewilde street, Brookline, and went to Beach 2552, the residence of William J. Ludden, 92 Waldham street, South End. The connection was made without hitch, according to officials of the company.

The new office will serve about 1800 telephones, which is about one-tenth of the total number of telephones in Brookline. Later other Brookline subscribers in the Aspinwall central office area will be connected with the new office.

In the future Aspinwall subscribers will make all their calls to all telephones within their exchange service area by the operation of a dial on the stand of the telephone instrument, instead of giving the number to the local operator as at present. Toll calls will be made by dialing an operator and giving her the details.

The installation of this machine switching apparatus will affect only the 1800 telephones connected with the Aspinwall central office. More than 350,000 other telephone subscribers in Greater Boston will continue to use their present telephones as they do now.

From time to time other machine switching central offices will be placed in service in Greater Boston. The change, however, will be made gradually and it will be many years before all the central offices in the Metropolitan Division are served with machine equipment.

The only effect upon telephone operators by the introduction of the machine switching system will be that in years to come the demand for them will not increase as rapidly as it otherwise would. The normal loss of operators, due to resignations, will outnumber reductions in the operating force, due to the change from manual to machine switching operation. There will always be required large numbers of toll operators, information operators, and special operators, to handle the constantly increasing business, even when machine switching is generally installed, and it will be a long time before the total number of operators will be any less.

JUNIOR EXTENSION CLUB

DELPHI BUILDING

—The building committee of Delphi lodge, No. 15, K. of P., recently elected have organized and taken over the old bank building in Washington Square. Necessary improvements are to be made and it will soon be ready for new occupants, the hall upstairs will be improved for use of those desiring a convenient and fair-sized place for entertainments, dances, or meetings.

SKID, THE DRIVER, SAYS:—

Many a fellow hollers if his wife isn't in when he comes home to supper, and then right after supper he goes out somewhere himself.

After all, times don't change much; the only difference is this: What bothered our fathers was horse colic; with us it is engine trouble.

A man who has been in business all his life has many happy recollections, but few of them concern his collections.

We say: Place your orders now for COAL and we will see you have it before fall. Purina feeds are high but!

Legion Field Day Was a Big Event

When the sun set Saturday evening and the red glow of the sunset shed its rays over that pretty and delightful spot where a group of pines make it so attractive, a place called Weymouth Fair Grounds, many tired yet happy little faces were turned homeward, bore testimony of a dandy afternoon, with a lot of things seen races, games, band concert, and a midway all very exciting closed the afternoon of one of the best field days yet held by Weymouth Post, American Legion. Thru the gates as the little people went home with balloons, dolls, remembrances of candy, soda pop and ice cream, new faces went in to enjoy the evening program. The midway was crowded after 7 P. M. and it was interesting to watch the local boys (and they did it well) take their posts at the different concessions, urging you to try their stand. Probably none was as popular as the baseball and dodging colored man. Try as hard as some of the pitchers did and not content one time but several, yet the colored boy successfully dodged them all. Then across the way the busy adjutant kept the megaphone busy, and Herb Rockwood was kept on the jump passing out the baseballs and then the old tin pan roared as twenty balls were thrown all at once against its sides.

Close by with a show room with the pretty blue sky as the limit, and soft green grass to tread on a roped area allowed the Cote Bros. to show off very attractively their new cars. Then in the opposite direction was that Daisy Booth. The popcorn tasted good and why shouldn't it. It was a continuous job for those ladies to keep up to the demand for their splendid product. But they kept at it till the gates closed.

Those at this booth were Mrs. Christine Flynn, Mrs. Mary Riley, Mrs. Elizabeth Draper, Mrs. Annie J. Libby and almost $50 was realized. Good work ladies, thanks, you did well.

Bryan Leonard was kept on the move as he kept his several dagger booths going merrily along. One board found many trying to put the little winged arrow into a hole on

AN OBJECTIONABLE DUMP

A reader of the Gazette has called our attention to a bad dump on Franklin street near the schoolhouse that he feels should receive some attention from the local Board of Health, or even the State authorities. If it is a serious menace to health as the writer states, these bodies thru the aid of the town authorities should get busy and clean it up. Weymouth has a fairly good health record. Let's keep it so.

TRAINS LATE

Trains to and from the Cape, the South Shore, and Plymouth were held up for more than 30 minutes last Saturday afternoon when Capen's bridge which carries Washington street, Braintree, over the tracks, caught fire. Much of the planking had to be hacked away before the firemen could reach the flames.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We wish to announce that from July 15th we are discontinuing the letting of cars for hire, and in so doing we desire to thank all of our livery customers for their co-operation.

Also do not fail to look over our exhibit at the Weymouth Fair grounds on Saturday, July 14th, of the new FLINT car.

THE OLD CHURCH BELL

Editor Gazette-Transcript:

I am sending you a few lines on the old church bell which formerly served as a public watering trough in Lincoln Square, and is now in a vacant lot on Webb street near the end of Richmond street, Weymouth Landing. If it is worthy of your consideration and is published in your valuable column, some interest on the part of our town officials might lead to its removal to Webb Park as a base for a neat flower bed or rockery.

The "Gov." and "Bickie" referred to are Gustavus Leach and ex-Selectman Charles E. Bicknell, two of our widely known fire fighters who ran with the old Amazon 2, when they were rivals of the Union of East Braintree many years ago.

Trusting that we may get some action in regard to this old Baptist church bell, and hoping I am not presuming too much, I am, yours respectfully,

MAT. P. GLOSTER

THE OLD CHURCH BELL

Have you heard the story the old folks tell,

A story that treats of the old church bell,

That lies off of Webb Street here in Ward Three

Just a few yards back from the old oak tree?

I recall the time, quite a while ago (Well it is probably forty years or so) When all who travelled the thoroughfare

On Washington Street past Lincoln Square

Would grasp the dipper, on the old pump's side

While its pure and cooling draught they tried.

How the schoolboys pumped for all they were worth

In that upturned bell, half filled with earth.

They all admired the tri-colored collie With the gray, bent man so old but jolly

Who kept straying cattle back in the line

In those autumn days, with their evenings fine.

How they lunged and shoved and did their worst

To reach the old bell, to quench their thirst.

Perhaps at some time this rusty church bell

Has tolled from the belfry the funeral knell

Of a fireman brave, who served his time

Before "Gov." and "Bickie" were in their prime,

Who knows but what its clamorous tongue

Has awakened the villagers, old and young

With its lusty clang on "the Night Before"

Requiring the efforts of three or four

To pull the rope with its braided strands

And tried the muscles of youthful hands.

No more can we point to it with pride

As it lies here now with its painted side.

No more will it gather the congregation

Or call fire ladders for a conflagration.

Like mortals who pass along life's highway

Who have toiled in the vineyard day by day

And have gone beyond to the golden shore

Its tongue is now silenced forevermore.

Perhaps if we filled it with earth and loam

And Webb Park gave it a permanent home

Where, decked with plants and budding flowers,

Warmed by the sun and cooled by the showers,

'Twould add a charm to this favorite spot

Near the banks of the blue Monaquot.

Save this old bell, do not cast it aside,

Like a faithful friend it was true and tried

For marriage, death, or a celebration.

It did its part, in its humble station.

Hon. PHILIP WHITWELL WILSON TO LECTURE HERE ON CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

The valuable work of Mr. Wilson has been brought to attention of the world through his articles that are constantly featured in the English and American magazines, journals, and newspapers. He is regarded as a benefactor to the British people since he sets forth clearly in these articles the British views of many world problems and makes clear to the rest of the world the facts in many of Britain's serious and pressing problems. These articles have dealt with Ireland, India, Egypt, the Mohammedan peoples, the Near East, and some of Britain's internal problems as well. These articles have appeared, of late, in the New York Times, the New York World, the New York Tribune, The World's Work, the Review of Reviews, the North American Review, the Outlook, Current Opinion, the Weekly Review, and other journals.

We count it a distinctive gain to be able to have so distinguished and gifted a man from England visit your community and give you some interesting information concerning the state of affairs in Europe and present, for our thought and attention, some of the problems that confront the British Empire, in which the United States and Canada have an special interest.

We copy the following biographical data from the "British Who's Who": "Mr. Philip Whitwell Wilson was born at Kendal, England, in 1875. On his father's side he has a long line of Quaker forebears. His mother was Miss Bagster, of the family which published the Bagster Bibles. At the University of Cambridge Mr. Wilson was a Scholar of Clare College, an Honorary Member in Mathematics, the Editor of "The Granta" (the Undergraduates Magazine founded by Sir Owen Seaman and Rudolph Lehmann, of Ponce), and President of the Union Society, which is the club and debating forum for the University. He joined the staff of the London Daily News, of which newspaper he was successively Assistant Editor, Parliamentary Correspondent and Special Correspondent in the United States. At the age of thirty he entered the House of Commons as Member of Parliament for a London constituency. He has written several books on religious subjects, particularly, "The Christ We Forget," "The Church We Forget," and "The Vision We Forget"; these have a wide distribution, and Mr. Wilson has been elected as Honorary Life Member of the American Bible Society, Theodore Roosevelt, before he died, sent for Mr. Wilson to visit him in his hospital, where the ex-President thanked him for his services in promoting good relations between the old world and the new."

Hear this speaker at the Weymouth Chautauqua August 10-21 at Clapp Memorial Field.

A POPULAR RESORT

At this season of the year, it is difficult to get a room at the Minot House at Minot just when you want it, such is the demand for accommodations at this popular resort. Perhaps it is because the proprietors are two South Weymouth gentlemen, Archie Blanchard and Ralph P. Burrill. The former is an excellent cook, whether the menu be a shore dinner, a boiled dinner, lamb and peas, or clams and lobsters. The latter has interests in Boston and looks after the financial management. It is a hotel without frills, just plain cooking and plenty of it; attentive college girls as waiters and everything clean and homelike.

The Minot House commands an excellent view of Minot Ledge light-house. It is directly on the shore which has a good sandy beach, and at the same time rocky cliffs, which make the scene picturesque. Every Saturday night there is a dance with popular music. The postoffice and stores are nearby. One can enjoy a good rest, or bathing, fishing, walks and motoring. Weymouth people who have not passed a week at the Minot House have missed something.

Easily reached by automobile, or take South Shore train to North Scituate.

MUCH LESS FATIGUE

The making of kitchen tables, sinks, and ironing boards the right height are a boon to the housewife.

Keep the back straight and do your work with less fatigue, is one suggestion made by home economists at the state college at Ithaca, Nw York.

They say that nature's bending places are the hip joints and knees. If the strain is put on the back undue fatigue will follow. In leaning somewhat forward, as in sweeping, in washing, in all kitchen table work—kneading bread, rolling pie crusts, preparing vegetables, and washing dishes, the movement should be from the hips, keeping the back in nearly the same position in which it is when one stands easily erect.

In stooping to pick up something from the floor, the knees should bend and the large muscles of the legs should carry the body and arms down within reach of the object desired.

To avoid undue strain even when one bends forward in the right way, kitchen tables, ironing boards, sinks, and washtubs should be made considerably higher than they usually are. Tables should be made to fit the women who work at them, instead of women having to fit their height to tables.

If two women of marked difference in height must use the same table it is much better for the shorter woman in her work to reach somewhat upward than for the taller woman to stoop to any considerable degree. If necessary, the short woman may stand on a stool.

—Aunt Ada's Axioms: Until you are in a position to change the weather at will, there's no use worrying about it.

"In approaching a vehicle coming in the opposite direction, keep well to the right—particularly at a corner or curve in the road. Corners and curves should always be taken cautiously and slowly for obvious reasons of safety and also to reduce the strain on tires and axles."

(The Veteran Motorist)

YOU know, Experience is a great teacher. But his lessons are pretty expensive sometimes. I remember a case in point some months ago. Friend of mine had just got a new sedan. So, one Sunday, with our families, we made it a party of two cars for a trip into the country.

"Tom was about a hundred feet ahead of me, and we were both rolling comfortably along. I noticed a bend in the road a little ways ahead, and as Tom got up to it, a good sized roadster appeared coming toward us, hitting about 50 per, and taking the curve wide, which headed him straight for Tom's sedan.

"Tom pulled over as far as he could and the roadster straightened out just in time to miss his scared family by inches. The chap did the gentlemanly thing—stopped and came back to apologize. And from the scared look in his face, I think he learned his lesson—that taking curves that way may cost two or three lives any day in the week."

RANGERS A. A. 3, MILTON T. T. 1
Last Saturday the Rangers A. A. journeyed to Milton and defeated the fast Milton Town team 3 to 1. Both teams played good baseball. Milton was first to count when McDonald, shortstop for Milton, drove a triple, with nobody down, then made home on a poor throw.

Up to the last of the fifth only two hits were given by Dutton, the south-paw twirler of the Rangers. Here Dutton was compelled to retire from the game on account of turning his ankle caused by sliding at second. A Mauro took the mound and was only touched for four scattered hits.

The features of the game were home runs by Ferrulo with one on base, but Patterson of Milton was thrown out at the plate.

The Rangers made their runs in the sixth when with one out Dalto singled, stole second, Valcentri tripled scoring Dalto, and Ferrulo connected for a homer, thus making the count 3 to 1. The next two died easy deaths

By ADDIE GRAVES

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The widow Davis had two admirers—Andrew Wheelock and Ezra Rounds. Andrew was a widower from shameless causes. "One tooth" Ezra's wife had married the man she ran away with—a former boarder.

Andrew, like the widow, had two would-be possessors. He, himself, thought of only one—the widow Davis. She just suited him. She was reticent, unassuming and petite, although dignified enough to command the respect of all; a model housekeeper and a "crack-erjack" cook. Tom Davis had been a model husband who, after twenty years of faithful labor and thrift, had left her a good farm, which adjoined Andrew's.

When Andrew called, one bright September day, to bargain for her apples, the widow was making mince-meat and piccalilli. The aroma from the spicy compounds saturated Andrew's senses. If the chicken lying on the table had been sending delicious whiffs from the oven, he would have succumbed then and there—right beside the basket of apples at the widow's feet. But he remembered he had not shaved for a week. He could see her blush—now—as she would. She was a pretty woman, with fine, silky brown hair, a delicate pink skin and a trim little figure. And she powdered her bewitching little nose—just enough.

In the city, noses were powdered. The widow vowed she would never slump into slack country ways.

Andrew looked longingly at the prospective feast and sighed: "It's a long time since I had a feed like that."

"Well," said the widow, "why not come over tomorrow—It's Sunday—and have dinner—about one o'clock? I don't enjoy banqueting alone, Sunday's a lonesome day, anyway. I cannot go to church—my coat is at the tailor's."

"I should be so glad," replied Andrew.

It was hard to tear himself away, but he was ashamed of his week's beard, while the widow's surroundings were so immaculate. Other women and their kitchens were mused up when so much work was in progress. He wondered how she managed it.

When he reached home he could not refrain from calling up to hear her voice again. As an excuse, he offered to bring over popcorn, butternuts and maple sugar, if she would make some cornballs and candy after dinner.

Now, a little way beyond the widow's lived Andrew's other would-be possessor—Hattie Heeler, who, like ten other numbers, listened in. Hattie was longing fiercely for Andrew. When she heard of the dinner invitation, it rendered her desperate, and she started, on foot, to have, perhaps, her last free conversation with Andrew. For an errand, she would try to sell him her meadow hay.

When she reached Andrew's house, she was disappointed to find him absent. He had gone over to the Dow lot to salt some cattle—a chore he usually did on Sunday.

Hattie wandered about the kitchen and spied his false teeth in a tumbler of water on the shelf behind the sink. A vampirish impulse seized her. She grabbed the teeth, put them in her pocket, placed the tumbler behind a package of pancake flour in a closet nearby, and started for home as fast as her legs would carry her, ejaculating: "I'll bet my old Molly cow that Andrew don't go ter the widder's ter dinner ter-morrer."

All the evening she listened for 123 ring 4. But Andrew did not miss the teeth until the next forenoon. He had had neuralgia for a week and had worn them only on special occasions. After looking about the house for the tumbler, he went outdoors and looked under the sink window, thinking the cat might have knocked them out. At last he returned to the kitchen, kicked it into very bad disorder, and said things that would have caused the widow Davis to consider before accepting him. Between his cursing spells he groaned:

"I cannot propose to a charming woman, toothless. I can't eat cornballs, mumble my dinner or lisp my words."

He thought about his big, caved-in mouth under his big Roman nose. So handicapped, it would be disgusting to think of giving a woman a first kiss.

At last, he reconciled himself to the inevitable and called up 123 ring 4. The receiver of 123 ring 3 came off the hook also.

In a voice that registered sincere sorrow, he said:

"I never was so disappointed. A business matter prevents me from coming over to dinner, but I will see you as soon as possible."

While Andrew was adding to his regrets, Hattie swiftly passed the widow's house, driving her old white horse. She stopped at Andrew's house and fastened her team to a small maple—a nice, conspicuous place, in plain view of the widow's house.

Widow Davis hung up the receiver in haste. Her face grew red. That she was angry she indicated to the astonished cat that had squatted in front of the oven door, where reposed the steaming chicken. The cat scooted to the catnip patch. Then the widow addressed the clock that pointed to the hour when she had dreamed of receiving rapturous kisses and honeyed words:

"If that's the kind of man he is, I'd rather take a plainer man and make improvements on him."

Promptly she rang 123 ring 6. Ezra Rounds wondered who could be thinking of him on Sunday. He received the surprise of his life when the widow Davis invited him "right over to dinner, quick, or it will get cold."

Andrew saw Ezra pass and enter the widow's door. He forced himself to talk of the hay deal, wishing it were where it would burn. After a while a spiteful feeling possessed him. Naturally, he began to size Hattie up.

"She's a mighty efficient woman, anyway; she can drive oxen to plow, run a mowing machine, dig potatoes, put on a load of wood—if she is fat."

Then he sighed. Suddenly he noticed the clock. Ezra had been with the widow for an hour. At last he sensed the situation. Hatless, he left the stunned Hattie and fled down the street to the widow's and rushed into the kitchen. Ezra was placing a huge mouthful of mince pie behind the over-worked front tooth. Andrew sat down on the woodbox and began his confession.

"I have come to tell the truth about not coming to dinner. I could not find my teeth. I don't look very handsome, but if there is any dinner left (shooting a malignant glance towards Ezra), I would be glad to have some."

"Certainly," said the widow. "We could hardly eat a six-pound chicken with fixings."

Ezra muttered something about a pig that had acquired a family and needed attention and departed.

When he reached Andrew's place, Hattie was unbiting her horse. She had replaced the teeth in the tumbler behind the pancake flour, where Andrew would be forced to think he had left them. Like a wise woman, she attacked a second choice. She took Ezra with her. She showed him her cellar of canned goods, the prospects of well-filled pork barrels, the cows and sheep. Then she took him to the cheerful living room and had a heart-to-heart talk with him. She was thinking while she talked:

"Ezra's one tooth will come out—if I have to chloroform him and hitch old Dobbin to it. Really, he would be a fine-looking man with some teeth—after he is fattened up. He will fat up—people always do who live with me."

The two couples were married the same afternoon, a week later. But Hattie suddenly refused to work outdoors. Instead, she used lemon juice and cold cream and powdered her nose! She also dieted and lost sixty pounds, while Ezra gained sixty.

"If the two widders are widders agin it will be nip and tuck who gets the man."

"If the two widders are widderers agin, Ezra won't git a second-hand dinner invitation."

LAND "MADE" BY EARTHWORM

Work of Insignificant Creature Is All Most Incredible—Field Transformed in Thirty Years.

Some of the work the earth apparently does it is cunning enough to get done for it. Sometimes stones are covered up, as if they could dive downwards as well as jump upwards. There is a case on record of an old plowing field that had become too stony for any plow then known to conquer. It was left unturned and neglected for thirty years, by the end of which time some agent had so transformed it that, instead of having hardened into a rocky plateau, a horse could gallop from one end of the field to the other without striking its hoof against a single flint.

This disappearance was proved to be due to nothing but the presence of innumerable earthworms in the soil, who, left undisturbed by the plow for so long, had been continually at work turning over the earth for themselves, and heaping it upon the surface, thus gradually burying the stones.

This seems an incredible piece of work for insignificant earthworms to do, but scientific men have learnt the enormous debt the human races owe them, since it is they who have made the larger part of the fertile soil of the world. In their myriad numbers they are continually passing particles of earth through their bodies in order to get nourishment from its decaying vegetable matter, and depositing them as "castings" on the surface. So the soil is always being moved and moving obstacles in itself.

Lost and Found.

While doing some shopping I put my purse beside a pile of walsis. I moved down the aisle, looking at a great many things. Presently I spied a woman with a purse exactly like mine. I then discovered that mine was absent. Retracing my steps I looked all over, but could not find it. I then returned and told the woman I was positive she had my purse, as I had laid it down but a moment before and it was gone. She became indignant and I persisted. The clerks took sides. Some had seen her with it and some me with mine. Presently a clerk walked up to discover the argument.

She said, "Why I took a purse like that to the office a minute ago. I found it beside the walsis."

I made hurried apologies and retreated to the office.—Chicago Tribune.

IDEAL TWO-STORY BUNGALOW HOME

Pleasing in Effect and of Excellent Structural Value.

MAY HAVE PERSONAL TOUCH

Roof Lines, Shingled Siding, Dormer and Spacious Front Porch All Combine to Make This an Attractive Home.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

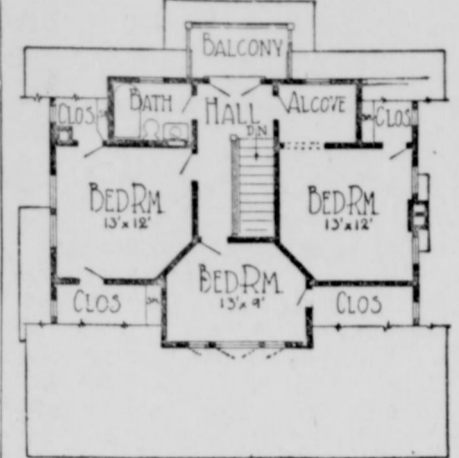

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

There are six rooms in this pleasing bungalow, which one might be apt to qualify by the term of "little" unless the floor plans were looked at carefully. The over-all dimensions are 35 feet by 32 feet 6 inches, and downstairs we have three amply proportioned rooms, with a like number—bedrooms—upstairs.

The shingles are used for siding in a way which lends variety and character to the exterior. Properly applied ately for washing, with no waste of time or steps. The range is handily placed in the corner. The light in the kitchen is very good, and the pantry also is well-lighted and ventilated, with an outside being door for the refrigerator, which is cared for from the rear hall.

This rear hall gives access to the upstairs rooms as well as does the front hall. We would like to see more stairways handled in this way in homes of more than one story, for it is rather awkward and inconvenient sometimes, when there are visitors, to have to pass in plain view through the front hall to reach the upstairs for dressing or those little adjustments of the toilet the housewife wishes to make before receiving unexpected guests.

Upstairs we have the three bedrooms, all very nicely situated with relation to the floor plan, with alcove and ample closet space. There is a

First Floor Plan.

In this way, with overhang for drip, shingles offer ideal protection and last quite as long as other materials. Single siding may be stained in any variety of pleasing shades, or one can use the white-painted ones. No matter what color is used for the siding, the roof shingles should offer a pleasing contrast. One could use green or maroon-stained roof shingles and gain a very attractive effect.

The porch is ample, and has no difficult lines to deter its being windowed or screened in. Handled in such a way, it can easily become an extra room, auxiliary with the living room, and used at night as a sleeping porch.

We enter the living room from the reception hall and find it is a spacious room, 13 feet by 23 feet 6 inches, with a fireplace and ample lighting on three sides. Worth noting is the pleasing line of unbroken wall space formed by the inner partition. This offers an excellent background for the piano, for pictures, and the larger pieces of furniture.

We go out again into the reception hall—a Colonial staircase could be used here with fine effect, and at little outlay—and reach the dining room. Observe that there is a bay-windowed effect here, always a good idea, for it adds appreciably to the floor space without increasing construction expenditure too much. In this bay window, with its small windows, is space for a buffet—built-in or movable—and we have immediate connection through the other door into the kitchen.

Everything is very handy here. The sink is adjoining, and the dinner dishes can be piled into place immediately for washing, with no waste of time or steps. The range is handily placed in the corner. The light in the kitchen is very good, and the pantry also is well-lighted and ventilated, with an outside being door for the refrigerator, which is cared for from the rear hall.

This rear hall gives access to the upstairs rooms as well as does the front hall. We would like to see more

Porto Rico Shows Loyalty.
The Two Hundred and Ninety-fifth regiment of infantry, Porto Rico National Guard, now has a strength of 62 officers and 1,368 enlisted men, the largest regimental enrollment in the entire National Guard, according to returns from the militia bureau of the War department. Second honors belong to the One Hundred and Sixty-second Infantry, Oregon National Guard, which has a strength of 59 officers and 1,258 enlisted men. When it is considered that the maximum strength allotted to an infantry regiment is 62 officers and 1,520 enlisted men, the record of Porto Rico seems all the more remarkable.—Army and Navy Journal.

The Forgetful Colfer.
Niblick (at the sixth link)—What did I do that hole in, caddie? I've forgotten.

Caddie—Well, sir, I think it must be something over seven; for when the gentlemen gits over seven they always does forgit.—Collier's Weekly.

ALPHAS 4, SUMMER ST. 2
The best ball game played at Raymond's field this season and easily the best games played in Weymouth Landing since the old Deweys, are staged every Sunday at Summer street and the way people came from a distance, from East and East Braintree as well as East and South Weymouth is most encouraging. Summer Street management appreciate this and for this reason try to get the strongest clubs possible.

The game went twelve innings before a decision was reached and then a single and a hit into the pit when the ball became lost went for a home run gave Alphas two runs and as the score was tied at two each won the game for Alphas and those that misses this game have something to regret.

 the board. Number two you tried for a gold star and yet might just miss a blue one. Number three you tried your luck at breaking a balloon. All interesting games of skill and held many by their fascination who did not want to go away empty handed and it looked easy and the Yankee spirit "I will do it yet" all prevailed good naturedly at the different booths.

Close to the band stand stood that Sedan. How longing were the glances of the fair sex. One could without much trouble read the wish on their faces of a desire for it. And many a young man had an expression "I can use you, if you come my way." And George Gloster was the good angel that saw to it that if you wanted more Ford tickets he had them.

Miss Schofield surely had a smile going away, for Weymouth Hospital realized $135 from the grandstand.

Don't you think the Chief of Police should get a vote of thanks for getting the field cleared of autos so quickly and without accident? We do and thank him and his associates.

We poor people got to the grounds and back home in the new jitneys expeditiously and safely.

Albert Brulard of State Department Criminal Investigation complimented the management on the way the fourth annual field day was conducted.

I saw Ted Delory looking for Irving to buy the hog from the ball diamond.

A. A. U. officials tell us that it was the best 5-mile race they ever saw run.

Any success with the show, Henry? Dolan! Dolan! Was he heard long into the night? We thought he was one of the runners. No he ran our sports and so well that Weymouth Fair has hired him for their fair Sept. 6, 7, 8—for the same job.

While passing the Ladies Aid Booth (prettiest on the grounds) we had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Flynn sing "Yankee Doodle" keeping time with the corn popper. This happened before the accident. After that she let the band do all the playing, but popped corn just the same.

Speaking about the band the boys sure did well and how they played the Legion's new march written by one of the Legionaires "Bob" Ventre. Those of you who were not able to obtain a copy I think you will be able to get one at Nash's Music Store, East Weymouth.

We thank you for the piano "E1". The boys missed Clark Boyle on the tonic stand. We hope to see you back home soon.

The dance was grand, girls. We just loved the floor, but a swell time was had by all until the fireworks started. When Irving started around looking for his friends.

Leo, how did you get all that white painted, silken haired bunch working for you and from the girls that were around I would say Valerio (Condrick) was there.

Did you see the booth up under the sheltering pines? Joe and Roland know how to pick them. No sun, no heat and lots of company. ("soft")

Friend of mine take your time. The cry from the head of the midway.

Some eats I'll say and nobly done. Did you like that pony race, boy? I'll say she was good.

They are still looking for the balloon.

Trust Mr. Griffin will give us a ride Commander Stein would like to see a field day ever week. He says it takes the place of tennis.

Starratt, how about tying the flag ropes to another building and then pulling all up the same pole?

State police are trying to find which way Bryan returned to the Fair Grounds.

The stroller passed a party of six and heard the story—"Buy me pop corn. O, let's take a chance here! O, look at the pretty bathrobe! Buy me a chance." Her escort turned and said, "Here's a paper and pencil, put down what you don't want and we'll try and get them for you."

Patsy, who was the nurse?

Microscope reveals unseen weakness of tires

Minute "lumps" in rubber found to be chief cause of much low tire mileage

LOOK at the two round photographs at the right. They tell the story of one of the most important discoveries in tire-making that has been made in years.

Each circle represents a sample of tire rubber as seen under the microscope. In the upper sample, notice the large white areas. These areas represent "lumps" of unevenly mixed substances. "Lumpy" formations of this kind, it has been found, are the unseen weakness of ordinary tires.

Tires cannot be made of pure rubber gum. They would be too soft and would lack resiliency. The pure gum must be worked up into a "compound"—mixed with certain toughening agents.

Yet with ordinary rubber "compounds," these added substances do not fuse in evenly. In the process of mixing, they tend to stick together in minute "lumps"—every "lump" proving a weak spot when the tire gets on the road.

Doing away with "lumpiness" in rubber

At last a rubber has been produced that reduces "lumpy" formations to a minimum—that eliminates premature tire troubles.

Experiments conducted by the Thermoid Rubber Company have resulted in the perfecting of Crolide—an even-texture rubber that does not weaken with the stretching and straining that goes on inside a tire in use.

Crolide Compound is today used exclusively in the manufacture of Thermoid and Rexoid Cord Tires. We have compared them carefully, point by point, with other tires on the market today, and we confidently believe that no other tire compares with them for service and durability.

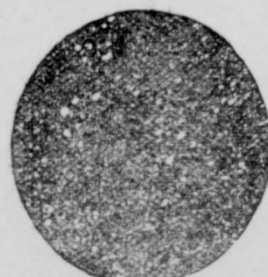

You are invited to call and see these tires for yourself—also the famous Crolide Compound Tubes.

Drawings made from actual photographs of rubber magnified 200 times

Ordinary tire rubber
The white areas are "lumps" of unevenly mixed substances. Every "lump" is a weak spot that reduces mileage.

Crolide Compound Rubber
—has no large "lumps." Notice how finely divided the particles are. This even texture is what makes Thermoid Tires wear so long.

WEYMOUTH, JULY 20, 1923

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, says the newspaper has supplanted the magazine as the leading national advertising medium. Great as is the volume of advertising in the magazines, that in the newspapers is far greater. And what is more to the point, it is far more effective.

The reasons are plain. Every local merchant knows how thoroughly his weekly paper covers his own locality. The national advertiser, using the newspapers, completely covers the country in a way otherwise impossible. A limited number read the magazines. Everybody, including the magazine readers, reads the papers.

Moreover, as the American Press aptly remarks, the newspapers are elastic and can meet the varying trade demands of the manufacturer or merchant. They not only set forth the merits of goods, but tell where those goods may be obtained. They work in harmony with the seasons, and thus do not waste any of their appeal, whereas such magazine advertising shoots into the air.

CARELESS DRIVING A MENACE

It is reported that more than 20,000 drivers of automobiles in Massachusetts are operating without licenses. Some of them have tried the examination and been rejected; some of them have been deprived of license by the authorities; others are children, to whom parents do not deny the family cars. A large number, no one knows exactly how many, have simply decided to drive, law or no law.

The estimate of 20,000 is that of Registrar Goodwin, who has had sufficient experience to be able to guess with a fair degree of accuracy. Supt. Crowley of the Boston police force, also a man of experience, inclines to the belief that the number may be nearly 30,000. Whichever is right, the daily accident list is witness that there are too many drivers given to taking chances with the law, and so endangering other people's safety. In an enormous proportion of cases the police have discovered, after the accident, that the driver had no license.

Operating without a license does not seem to be regarded by the courts as a serious offense. Of course it is not serious when the operator merely left his car at home, but if he never passed examination or has had his right to drive revoked for cause it is serious, and should be visited by something heavier than a fine of $5. The registrar should have the cooperation of the police in clearing the roads of those who drive illegally. An owner who permits his car to be taken out by an unlicensed driver deserves to forfeit his number plates. The motor vehicle law is a life-and-death matter for everyone who so much as crosses the street.

YOU SHOULD READ THE ADS

A manufacturer, if he is to win the plaudits of the world, must not only manufacture a superior product, but must also let folks know of his achievements. He must point out just why his mousetrap, his automobile or his shaving cream is better than his neighbor's. He must ADVERTISE.

Advertising and the local merchant is the point of contact between the man who makes something and the man who wants something. Through an advertisement, a manufacturer can tell you in a few short minutes all you want to know about the article or the service he has to offer.

A newspaper is constantly full of ideas that other men and women have thought out for your personal benefit. Failure to read the advertisements you remain in ignorance of countless products that would make life easier, happier and more interesting for you and your entire family.

Advertising gives you news of the latest and best things made—with word as to what they will do, what they cost and where to get them. Read them regularly—every day. Think of all you miss when you overlook the advertisements.

—Some dooryards have so many trees that they keep out the breeze. If you don't want to sacrifice any of them, try trimming them high so that you will still have the shade, but will let the breezes through.

LEGION FIELD DAY

Was there anyone any more interested on the grounds than Stanley? The hot dogs were going over to see Henry, while he was selling the Ford.

The band had a fine drill on the track. How all the boys did work. Al, you did move them well, and how is it you sold all the tickets on the Ford.

There's the Commander! Where? Ralph Young had a fine day. The only thing he saw were a few dollars. Russell Tufts, how do you like (?) umpiring rival ball teams.

Our old friend "Connie" is there, and he sure had a big bunch out to see him win.

Any bites "Ned"? We wish the Commander would bring up from the Point some of those apple pies that Duffey made for the cafeteria. I'll get the ice cream any meeting night.

Where were you, Basil? Did you see Tom McCarthy? The last time I saw him he was trying to find some actress.

Clark (of Spooify fame) left his silk hat and baby carriage at home and looked after the construction end of the field day. Good work Clark.

Bob Goforth was still working around when I left at 1 o'clock. (Good morning) He not only put the lights up but he had to turn them off. The Legion is lucky to have an electrician of his calibre.

Did you have supper yet, Bryan? Our old friend Herb found his way to the park and did fine work on one of the booths. How did you make the trip, by jitney?

The fourth annual field day has passed over our heads and what a success. We feel sure that it could not have been beaten in any way.

Walter, how did you like the front gate? Walter Peers' Boy Scouts did fine work. The stroller happened to see them on all parts of the field doing errands and helping in any way they were asked.

A week ago we were very busy talking, acting, working, playing for our fourth annual field day. Tonight it has been over a week, and it sure was a success. It was a tired bunch of boys last Sunday, but success only comes from work.

Eats

The idea of having supper on the grounds proved a good one and many took advantage of a short menu, well prepared and served and did not find it necessary to go outside the grounds or lose time going home to eat.

After the eats were over the floor was cleared for dancing and Irving Johnson was kept busy keeping the floor well (tarviad) for the skidding of the fair dancers.

The Horse Trotting

The big event of the field day was the trotting under the auspices of the Old Colony Driving club, there being sixteen classes. The best time was made by F. H. Bellows Miss Margie in Class B, 2.19 1/4 but she lost the race. In Class D, F. C. Clapp's Bessarian went a mile in 2.19 1/4. The running races and pony classes were of interest. The summary:

Won by Sir Peter distance 5 ft. 6 in.

Baseball

In the ball game the Weymouth A. A. defeated the Braintree A. A. in the ball game by a score of 9 to 8. Condrick for Weymouth struck out eleven and allowed but six hits, but had to yield four runs to Braintree in the ninth, when the losers nearly tied the score.

Soccer

With six teams entered the soccer games were exciting. In the first round St. George and Roxbury beat Maple Leafs and Boston Blues by the scores of 5 to 0 and 1 to 0. In the second round Fore River and Clan Sutherland beat St. George and Roxbury teams. And in the third round Fore River beat Clan Sutherland 3 to 1. The final result being:

	Won	Lost
Fore River of Quincy	2	0
Clan Sutherland of Brookline	1	1
St. George of Boston	1	1
Roxbury of Boston	1	1
Maple Leaf of Quincy	0	1
Boston Blues, Jamaica Plain	0	1

In the balloon ascension H. D. Chates went up to 3500 feet and did a triple parachute drop landing in fields nearly opposite the Pleasant View garage. It was some job to haul the apparatus back to the road as it was rough ground at this point and one cannot drive in.

The splendid spirit of good fellowship in the Legion ranks was again manifested by the spirit that prompted the boys to readily give up the amount that might be received for the grand stand seats to the Weymouth hospital and whether it was the desire of the people to help our hospital or to show their appreciation to the boys for their good act, both served to keep the stand filled up in the afternoon to see the races and in the evening to see the fireworks and a goodly sum was realized.

The fireworks display was a good one and all went away feeling that the Fourth Annual Field Day was a big success.

Races

The races of the afternoon were excellent and their successful execution was due largely to the efforts of one Tommy Dolan. So well were they handled that the representatives of the B. A. A. spoke highly of them. Jimmy Henigan of Dorchester A. C. won the first prize in the five mile race.

It is reported that nine years ago Jimmy Henigan ran five miles on the Weymouth Fair Grounds in 26 minutes and 47 seconds. That was a record. This young old man of the plodding game Saturday, racing from scratch in the five-mile contest on the same track, not only won the race over a well packed field, but covered the distance in 26 minutes and 24 seconds smashing his old record in a finish that thrilled a big gathering.

The Dorchester club star ran a climbing race, nipping John Hyde of the Stoughton Civic club 25 yards from home and winning the honors in a flying sprint. Hyde started from a 240-yard handicap. Gus O'Neil of the Dorchester club, Gus Barboto, and Eric Stein, finishing in the order named, were bunched enough to keep the judges guessing.

James Henigan, Dorchester club scratch . . . . . 26 24
 John Hyde, Stoughton C. A. A. . . . . 240 yards handicap . . . . . 26 29
 Gus O'Neil, Dorchester club, . . . . . 320 yards handicap . . . . . 26 39
 Gus Barboto, Italian-American . . . . . A. A. 400 yards handicap . . . . . 26 43
 Eric Stein, Quincy, 230 yards 26 51

The other runners finished in the following order: R. E. Sullivan, Dorchester club; Martin Silva, Waltham; Dominic DeMatteo, Italian-American; Cleary, Dorchester club; James Mitchell, Stoughton Civic A. A.; G. Kingley, Lynn Y.; G. McAlpine, Dorchester; G. Duncan, Lynn Y.; Goslin, Dorchester; E. McAlpine, Dorchester; J. Mahoney, Dorchester; Eldridge, Haverrhill Y.; Coait, Dorchester; B. Parformore, Dorchester.

HOT WEATHER DRINKS

Fruit drinks are best on hot days. Syrup concoctions are likely to make thirst worse, instead of quenching it. Fruit drinks really quench thirst instead of making it worse, as is likely to be the case with some too-sweet soda fountain concoctions. For that reason, the food specialists at the state college at Ithaca offer some suggestions on making fruit drinks at home. These fruit drinks, they explain, should be sweetened with sugar syrup, made by cooking together one part of sugar to two parts of water. Lemonade and orangeade of course are old standbys.

An appetizing drink also may be made from raspberry vinegar. To make the vinegar, the following rule is given. Put two quarts raspberries in a bowl, and cover with a quart of vinegar. Cover and stand it in a cool place for two days. Mash the berries and strain the vinegar through cheese cloth and pour over two quarts of fresh raspberries and let stand for another two days. Then strain, put in a preserving kettle, and add a pound of sugar to each pint of juice. Heat slowly, and skim when it begins to boil. It should boil for twenty minutes and then be placed in clean hot bottles. To serve, add two tablespoons of this juice to a glass of water.

Some Fruitades

Raspberry vinegar may be combined with other fruit juices in a fruitade made as follows: Mix together one cup grated pineapple, one cup raspberry vinegar, juice of one and one-half lemons, juice of two oranges, and four tablespoons sugar syrup. To serve, fill the glasses three-fourths full of chopped ice, and add three or four tablespoons of the liquid to each glass.

A refreshing julep may be made as follows: Boil three-quarters cup sugar with a cup of water and cool. Add the strained juice of three lemons, bruised leaves of four sprigs of mint, and a pint of ginger ale. Fill the glasses half full of crushed ice, add the julep and place a sprig of mint on top. The addition of crushed mint leaves and garnishings of sprigs of mint add to the flavor and appearance of most fruit drinks.

WILL RESIDE IN WASHINGTON

Miss Olga Louise Hokanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hokanson, 227 Essex street, East Weymouth, became the bride of Frank Ray Pitman of Washington, D. C., on Saturday evening at the Methodist church at East Weymouth, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. E. E. Story, the double ring service being used. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Addie Chubbuck played the wedding music and Mrs. Emma Mattson rendered vocal selections.

The bride entered the church with her father. Attending her were her sisters, Miss Edith H. Hokanson, as maid of honor and Miss Lily and Miss Muriel Hokanson as bridesmaids. Will J. Pitman of Rosindale, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ushers were: Lloyd Raymond, Raymond Holbrook, Herbert Birt, and James Birt.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the vestry which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and crepe paper. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Hokanson, and their attendants. An orchestra furnished music during the reception and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitman left for a wedding trip and on their return will make their home in Washington, D. C.

WEYMOUTH, MASSACHUSETTS, FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1923

Former Pastor Visiting in Weymouth

This week we have once more in Weymouth, Rev. F. A. Line, who some four years was pastor of the Universalist church at South Weymouth, and active in the Odd Fellows lodge. He is now pastor of the All Souls Liberal church of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Speaking enthusiastically of the growth of Tulsa which in 1900 had a population of 1390, now in only 23 years, has grown to a place to 102,000. It is the New York of that vicinity, having several tall buildings.

The trip back to Massachusetts was in a Ford, some 2000 miles, two weeks actual travelling. From St. Louis the party reports good paved roads.

Rev. Line is not the only minister in his family, for his daughter, Helen C. Line, who celebrated her 21st birthday this week Wednesday, has just finished her course at University of Chicago. She will preach at the regular service at South Weymouth on Sunday. Miss Line attended Weymouth High school three years before going West. Recently she has been State superintendent of the Universalist Sunday schools of the State of Illinois, an important position for one so young.

Rev. Line is glad to be back East again, but speaks highly of the Middle States and how they are progressing.

Pretty Wedding at the Union Church

A pretty wedding took place at Union church, East Braintree, when two young people, prominent in the church activities, were united in marriage.

Miss Dorothy C. Avery, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Albert E. Avery, of the father the justice of the East Norfolk district court, became the bride of Morrill R. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blake Allen of East Braintree, and nephew of the late Charles T. Gallagher of Boston and of the late Dr. William Gallagher of Thayer Academy.

The ceremony was performed by a cousin of the bride's father, Rev. Dr. Caleb Rochford Stetson, rector of Trinity church, New York, assisted by the pastor of the church, Rev. J. Caleb Justice. The pulpit and platform were banked with lilies and larkspur and the electric lights were covered with English ivy.

The bride wore ivory satin trimmed with pearls with a train. Her wedding veil, of duchesse lace, was part of her mother's wedding gown and was crowned with orange blossoms. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore pink orandie, hand painted over silver tissue and carried pink roses and larkspur. The bridesmaids wore blue orandie, hand painted, over silver tissue and carried sweet peas.

There was a special program of music by John Herman Loud, organist of the Park Street church of Boston and a cousin of Judge Avery. There was a reception in the church parlors and a buffet luncheon to several hundred. Mr. and Mrs. Allen left on a trip.

FROM CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Himeon of Los Angeles, California, are visiting in this vicinity after an absence of nearly thirty years. Mrs. Himeon nee Lizzie F. Burrill of Old Spain sees many changes in Weymouth since she has been gone, but says that California is the only place to live.

Mrs. Himeon holds an important position in the U. S. Naturalization service in Los Angeles which office has been very, very busy inducing new citizens for United States.

The trip from California was made by automobile and the description of their trip is interesting, includes a Kansas cyclone, and a Missouri cloud burst. Their stay here with old friends is limited for they must be back by Labor Day.

GOOD TO NORTH WEYMOUTH

A nearby paper reports that because people in North Weymouth complained Mayor Bates has ordered the Quincy Point fire whistle located on the power house discontinued. It goes on to say that the residents claimed it disturbed their sleep when night alarms were sounded, but that no complaints were raised against whistles in Weymouth which are still sounding alarms in that town day and night.

Perhaps Weymouth's whistle does not ring as often as the Quincy does.

Post 79 American Legion

Post 79, American Legion, held a special meeting Tuesday evening at G. A. R. hall. There was a large number present and Commander Stien presided. Reports of the field day were read and everyone was satisfied with their day's work.

There will be a membership drive soon and it is up to every member to get at least one new man to join so get busy boys, and make the Weymouth Post one of the largest and strongest in the state. Do not forget the outing Sunday at the Webster House, Green Harbor. Those that desire to go will meet in Jackson Square at 10 A. M. The committee has assured everybody a bang-up time, so fall in and help make it a huge success.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee at Commander Stien's chateau next Monday night, and it is the desire of the officers that every member be present as there is a lot of business to be transacted.

One thousand citizens who have just received their naturalization papers repeated a pledge to the American flag before Lemul Bolles, nation adjutant of the American Legion, at Minneapolis. Led by G. V. Barron, commander of the Minnesota department of the Legion, the newly-made citizens united in voicing this sentiment:

"We, the children of many lands, who find safety beneath thy sacred folds, pledge our hearts, our honor, and our lives to the protection of thee and of the American people forever and ever."

Assisted by the American Legion and by large industrial establishments the United States Veterans Bureau has been able to place almost all of the 19,401 men rehabilitated between July 1, 1922, and June 1, 1923, according to information received by Legion national headquarters in Indianapolis. Corporations are adding veterans trained by the bureau to their lists of employees. Director Hines has announced that the Bethlehem Steel Co. recently asked for 200 ship workers from among the rehabilitated men. Lemuel Bolles, Legion national adjutant, recently has offered the aid of employment bureaus maintained by Legion posts in all sections in finding jobs for Veterans Bureau trainees.

BEAUTIFUL SIGHT

Every day the beautiful flag flies from the top of Great Hill so as to be seen for miles around, thanks to the Park Commission. The Wessagusset Improvement Association should employ someone to see that the flag flies every pleasant day and it is an inspiring sight at sunset as the gun is fired at the Wessagusset Yacht club to see the flag come down gracefully! Many visitors in autos at sunset watch the program. Let us continue to mark this beautiful spot by the most beautiful flag on earth on the highest hill in the town, so that all may enjoy it. Young and old cannot help but admire and become better Americans.

WEYMOUTH SHORE

Those familiar with Weymouth shore and who probably in their younger days knew every nook, inlet, or bay, as well as all the islands by name will soon miss one of these for it is reported that Cat Island is to be removed. Contractors who have purchased it plan to remove all the sand and gravel. It is believed that nearly two years will elapse before all trace of the historic little spot of land will be effaced and enough underwater excavation completed to make the vicinity safe for navigation.

A Boston firm of contractors purchased the island some months ago. Today their engineers are staking out a dike and the course of a channel to be dredged from high water to the temporary wharf to be built there. The hydraulic dredge pipes will run to Broad meadows and the "run of the pipeline" will fill in many of the lower levels of that broad section of land.

Big builders have been complaining because of the excessive cost of high grade gravel and sand, most of which has to come into the Boston district now by freight and be rehandled. A big piece of machinery which was towed up from Town river yesterday will do five operations at once. It will dig, screen, sort, wash, and load in one sweep.

Just what the capacity of the plant per day is has not been figured out by the Boston parties who have leased it from its New York owners, but they believe it will be thousands of tons, depending on the speed with which it is operated.

Those in touch with the situation say that the removal of Cat Island opens up more navigable water in that stream and is really the start of reclamation of the Broad meadows. They say that in the next ten years, the development of the river bank will go forward with leaps and bounds.

They point out that the river is the only undeveloped stream to the south of Boston that is still within easy access of the metropolitan shipping centers.

MARKET REPORT

As a guide to the busy housekeeper the Gazette-Transcript will publish the prices in the Boston market as of Tuesday of the week the Gazette-Transcript is printed.

In general all summer vegetables are lower in price today. Green and wax beans, new cabbage, celery, green peas, cucumbers and lettuce are much cheaper. There is very little white corn on the market as yet. The berries and fruit were of very good quality. Native blueberries, blackberries, and raspberries are in season, but quite high in price. Strawberries in the market at present are from Maine Good quality Georgia peaches may be obtained quite reasonably.

Veal still remains scarce; lamb is cheaper.

Frozen Cream Cheese Salad

Make a cheese mousse by moistening a small cream cheese with milk until it is of the consistency of a drop batter. Add salt to taste. Fold this into one-half cup whipped cream. Put in mold and pack in ice and salt. When frozen—time depends on size of mold—unmold on lettuce leaves and garnish with chopped walnuts. Serve with French dressing.

W. R. C. NOTES

Corps 102 will visit the Soldiers Home at Chelsea Mass on Tuesday, July 31, and an interesting program of entertainment will be given to please the veterans by the chairman, Mrs. Margaret Green, at 7 P. M. Members intending to go will communicate with Mrs. Green.

The latest report from Mrs. Mabelle Harlow is that she is gaining in health and is able to write. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Corps member Mrs. Annie Pratt and Sec. Mrs. Maynard had an enjoyable trip with friends to Washington, D. C. Comrade George Loud is a little more comfortable. The Fourth Heavy Artillery will hold a reunion at Nantasket hotel, Nantasket beach, Thursday, Aug. 2, at 10 A. M.

AN APPRECIATION

Weymouth Post No. 79, The American Legion, wishes to thank all those who contributed in any way to the remarkable success of their field day on July 14th. The Post benefited very materially from the field day in a financial way.
The continued co-operation and good will of the Post's many friends make these occasions very happy ones and the members of the Post are always grateful for this co-operation.

Second Pop Concert Well Attended

The second of a series of Pop Concerts for the benefit of the Weymouth Hospital was given at Fogg Opera House last Friday night. In spite of the hot evening little discomfort was felt in the hall and the interesting program was given with a spirit and enthusiasm which was truly refreshing. After several spirited numbers by the Cohasset orchestra, Donald Gammans conductor, that were loudly encored, Weymouth's own popular Percy F. Baker baritone, sang selections from La Boheme most pleasingly and in acknowledgement of the hearty applause he generously sang encores.

After the intermission a musical fantasy was given which was arranged by May Fiske Hoffman, who as concert director has been untiring in her efforts to give two splendid concerts, the next and last promising to be still better than the first two.

The fantasy entitled "Dream Garden" consisted of Miss Ward as a butterfly and four muses with Mrs. Alice G. Howard as nightingale. The stage was prettily decorated and with the aid of colored lights the scenes were attractive and striking. Miss Ward's artistic interpretative dancing was so favorably received at the first concert that she was prevailed upon to again appear and the loud applause showed that she was once again a favorite. The dances of the muses, regardless of the warm evening were splendid and they deserve much praise. These same young ladies who appeared a second time as "Radio Belles" were: Misses Gault, Glover, Kerns, and Horlick. Mrs. Howard's songs in this number were "The Serenade" and "The Nightingale" which proved to be charming numbers fitting well into the theme of the numbers.

To Hazel Clark Leonard, orchestra director, considerable credit is due for securing the appearance of the Cohasset orchestra which gave an excellent program of semi-popular numbers appropriate to a concert of this kind.

Percy Baker's rendering of "On the road to Mandalay" was great and he was prevailed upon to sing as the encore "Absent."

At the conclusion of the concert many enjoyed dancing to the lively music of "Dick Bowers" College orchestra.

The floor of Fogg Opera House was never more picturesque than with its sixty tables around which were grouped as many as five to a table, with the aides in their bright colored summer frocks moving in and around the tables serving refreshing drinks so that one could be cool and comfortable and enjoy the good music to its fullest extent.

Boy Scouts Hold Successful Field Day

A very successful field day was held last Saturday afternoon and evening at Webb park by Troop 1 of Weymouth. The day started with a ball game between the local Mt. Pleasant team and Troop 16 of Quincy, a very snappy team. The players on the Mt. Pleasant team were as follows: George Murray, catcher; Ramsay, pitcher; Heminway, 1st base; McGonnigal, second base; Leth, third base; Smith, shortstop; Adams, right field; Bullock, center field; Weeks, left field. Although the opposing team was a snappy one, it did not mean anything to the local boys, as they trimmed the visitors by a score of 11 to 3. The ball game was followed by a large and interesting midway, and band concert by the C. & G. Band in the evening. The field day netted over $160 which will be used to defray expenses of the boys at camp Manomet. The boys will leave for camp next Monday morning for one week.

Several speeches were made and vocal selections were given by the Belmont Quintette, assisted by Mr. E. W. Johnson, baritone.

Refreshments were served in the beautifully decorated vestry of the church. Many gifts of gold and other tokens were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Johanson by a host of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Johanson were formerly residents of Cambridge where Mr. Johanson is associated with the Cambridge Trust Company.

Telegrams of congratulation were received from Europe, California, Illinois, New York, and surrounding towns and cities in Massachusetts.

—Above all things endeavor to breed children up in the love of virtue and that holy plain way of it which we have lived in, that the world in no part of it get into my family. I had rather they were homely than finely bred as to outward behavior; yet I love sweetness mixed with gravity, and cheerfulness tempered with sobriety—William Penn.

NO COAL SHORTAGE

Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Massachusetts commission on necessities of life, declared Saturday that there was no reason for citizens of the state to take alarm at the coal situation, for unless there is a cessation of production of anthracite after Sept. 1, there will be no shortage. In addition, he said that it was safe to prophesy that with continued production of hard coal, the price a ton, as handled by the independent companies, would drop appreciably within a short time after Sept. 1. He said that remarks such as his had recently been made with a view to increasing the sale of hard coal at the present time, although he did not intimate that Congressman Treadway was engaged in spreading propaganda of this nature.

"The hard coal miners," said Mr. Hultman, "have produced a larger quantity of coal since April 1 of this year, than in the last ten years during the same months, with the possible exception of 1918. Even with the fever of war on all the people, the miners did not succeed in producing more coal than they have this mining year. There is a shortage of hard coal, of course. There always is, and it comes about in just this way. With capacity production from the mines, the amount is now practically the same as it was years ago. Since that time, however, increased population has made greater demands and the result is that with normal production there is a shortage of about 15 per cent of what is required. This is something that apparently can't be helped, for the operators claim that the mines are equipped and are producing to capacity.

"This talk of coal shortage and sky-high prices for coal is just the sort which is playing the game for anthracite speculators and is cleaning up money for the independents who are receiving from three to four dollars more per ton of coal at the mines than the companies demand. However, less than ten percent of the anthracite mined is handled by the independent jobbers, which is a comparatively small amount.

"As to a special session of Congress which seems to be demanded, I can't see where legislation would help the matter in any way at the present time. Legislation won't dig more coal; neither will it heat houses. I have learned that in many cases, there is a great duplication of orders in the hands of coal dealers. Persons who have become panic stricken have ordered coal from any number of dealers and it has been brought to my attention that when a dealer has come to fill an order, he has found the bin full and the householder refusing to take more. This duplication of orders has done much to give rise to the belief that coal dealers can't fill the orders they have on hand.

"The statement that Massachusetts and New England pay more for anthracite than the West, is true, and always has been true. It is because there is no competition here in the East for anthracite, while in the West anthracite dealers face the competition of the cheaper bituminous coal, and so have to bring the prices down.

"Whether or not there will be a strike of anthracite miners after Sept. 1, I can't say. No man knows. I am of the belief, however, that the controversy now going on between the miners and the operators will be amicably settled and that production will not stop. One hopeful indication in the whole situation is the fact that the price of anthracite has not changed since April 1 when normally it increases ten cents per ton each succeeding month after April."

We all hope that optimistic views of the ex-Senator are true, for there are none in Weymouth that want to go thru another winter like the last one when it was cold, very cold, and at times not a piece of coal in any of the local coal yards. Let New England have its full quota of coal this winter and be comfortable.

COMEDY HAS ENJOYED LONG RECORD RUN OF THREE HUNDRED YEARS

One good way to judge a play is by the number of times it has been played. If audiences enjoy it, they recommend it to their friends, and so it plays night after night making new friends all the time. Consequently when we see a play advertised as having played "300 times in New York" or "200 times in Chicago," we know that it is pretty likely to be an entertaining play.

What shall we say then of a play that has run not for 300 performances only, but for 300 years? Surely that indicates absolutely that it is an entertaining play! "The Taming of the Shrew" made its audience roar with laughter when it was first produced at the Globe Theatre, in London, more than 300 years ago, by William Shakespeare, the most popular playwright of his day. Since then it has been played all over the world, has been translated into nearly all languages, has been enjoyed by literally millions of people in every quarter of the globe, and today is just as entertaining and just as funny as it was the day it was written.

Its author has been pronounced not only the "most popular playwright of his day," but the "greatest poet and dramatist of all times. He knew what would make his audiences weep, as his great tragedies will testify; but he knew equally well what would make his audiences laugh, and no play bears stronger witness of this than the hilarious story of "The Taming of the Shrew."

There is also a rollicking romantic element to the story in the plight of Bianca, the pretty younger sister, whose father will not let her marry until her elder sister, the ill-tempered Katharine, has found a husband. The efforts of Bianca's suitors to find some man brave enough to marry Katharine; their meeting with the swaggering, adventure-loving Petruchio, and his boast that he will marry Katharine and make a model wife of her; the way he carries out his boast; and the fight among Bianca's lovers as to which one shall marry her after her sister is safely out of the way, make up a play that is comedy and romance from beginning to end.

When the play is given here as a part of the Chautauqua program, the role of Katharine will be played by Miss Grace Halsey Mills, a well-known player of Shakespearean roles, who has appeared as leading woman with Ben Greet and other prominent stars. Miss Mills considers Katharine one of her favorite characters. She will be supported by a company of capable and experienced actors.

See this famous comedy at the Weymouth Chautauqua Aug. 15-21, Clapp Memorial Field.

LOOKS THE PART

Ralph Bingham, to appear soon at the Chautauqua, not only is funny, but he LOOKS the part. He describes himself as "looking like a bureau with the middle drawer pulled out."

He is one of those rare creatures who can laugh at his own jokes as heartily as the audience without detracting in the least from the desire of the audience to join in the uproar. Their keen enjoyment of the entire program is evident every minute, and the program is clean and wholesome throughout.

In addition to being a humorist of the first order, Bingham is an artist of no small ability on the piano and violin, both of which he plays with great expression and uses as allies to his great powers of getting a laugh from the audience. In short, it seems that everything he sees has a humorous turn to it, and is possessed of possibilities to get at least a snicker. Then, when he interprets it in his particularly comical way, it becomes almost side-splitting.

His program is divided into several classes of humor, which he enumerates as accumulative humor, which includes the pianologue and the monologue, character sketches and dialect humor.

In the first mentioned, the name fitted the type, for he starts with practically nothing and roll up a veritable snowball of jokes and puns that make laughter more frequent as he progresses.

Before the close of the program he makes a short, serious discourse to the audience on Americanism that is surprising in its eloquence after such spasms of laughter. He asks that everybody talk and think disarmament and peace and that we join the campaign to stamp out bolshevism and radicalism. He then calls his auditors out of their trance and gives them a clever dialect story for a parting shot and leaves the stage in a burst of applause.

Drawings made from actual photographs of rubber magnified 200 times

Ordinary tire rubber

The white areas are "lumps" of unevenly mixed substances. Every "lump" is a weak spot that reduces mileage.

Crolide Compound Rubber

—has no large "lumps." Notice how finely divided the particles are. This even texture is what makes Thermoid Tires wear so long.

Unseen "lumps" in rubber
—the hidden weakness of ordinary tires
A remarkable rubber compound that eliminates them

MILLIONS of minute "lumps," unblended masses of "dead" material, seen only under a magnifying glass—this, it has been found, is what causes the weakness in ordinary tires.

"If even-texture rubber—rubber without 'lumpy' formations—could be produced," said W. D. Pardoe, well-known rubber expert, not long ago, "it is safe to say that tires could be made to give 15% more wear."

These "lumpy" formations are due to the failure of the strengthening materials to mix evenly with the rubber. Instead of producing an even, close-texture compound, "lumps" of unmixed substances are formed. The result is thousands of minute weak spots in every cubic inch of the tire.

The photo-micrographs above show these "lumps" as they appear under the microscope. Stone-bruises, premature blow-outs, and other tire troubles are largely due to this "lumpy" structure of the rubber.

A real step forward in tire making

Four tire experts in the Thermoid Rubber Company spent months in laboratory work and road tests. They finally perfected Crolide—a rubber compound that reduces "lumpy" formations to a minimum—that eliminates premature tire troubles.

This even-texture rubber does not weaken with the stretching and straining that go on inside a tire in use. Made with Crolide Compound, Thermoid and Rexoid Cord Tires are protected against rapid wear—against unnecessary sand-boils, blisters and blow-outs.

Crolide Compound is today used exclusively in the manufacture of Thermoid and Rexoid Cord Tires. Either type gives maximum mileage under all road and weather conditions.

We have compared the Thermoid and Rexoid Cords carefully, point by point, with other tires on the market today and we confidently believe that no other compares with them for service and durability.

You are invited to call and see these tires for yourself—also the famous Crolide Compound Tubes.

NEW STUDEBAKER

The 1924 model Studebaker cars, described as the finest cars and greatest values Studebaker has ever offered are announced by the Norfolk Motors Inc., Water street, East Weymouth, local Studebaker dealers.

They are offered in the three six-cylinder chassis models—the Big Six, the Special-Six and the Light-Six—in 12 body types. There are no radical changes, but every improvement, the safety and practicability of which have been verified by Studebaker engineering tests, is embodied in these new cars.

The Big-Six line comprises four models, mounted on the standard 126-inch chassis with 60-horsepower, 3½ x 5-inch motor. They are seven-passenger touring car, five-passenger speedster, five-passenger coupe and seven-passenger sedan.

Refinements and a few minor mechanical changes have been made in the Big-Six which has established an enviable record for five years. Everything for which one can wish in motoring comfort, convenience and utility has been provided.

The 1924 series Big Sixes carry disc wheels and front and rear bumpers as standard equipment. An extra wheel, complete with tire cord, tube and tire carrier, is provided on each Big Six model (two on speedster and sedan).

Other striking features of the touring car that add to its completeness and utility include the one-piece, rainproof windshield with glare-proof visor, rearview mirror and automatic windshield cleaner, walnut all-wood steering wheel with new type spark and throttle control; automatic gas-line signal mounted on the instrument board; aluminum-bound running boards with corrugated rubber mats and step pads and aluminum kick plates; quick-action cowl ventilator; clock, courtesy light, cowl lights, tonneau lamp with long extension cord and combination stop and tail light; grip handles on body rails, tool kit in left front door; snubbers and others

"Out of the garden into the cans" might be a homemaker's preserving motto, suggest home economists at the state college of agriculture at Ithaca. After the vegetables have been gathered, the longer they stand before being put up the greater the chance of spoilage.

To get an early start in the morning, some homemakers may gather their vegetables the night before, and let them soak over night. They may even go as far as to shell the peas or cut the beans the night before they are canned. Other women wait till the morning to gather the vegetables, but their day is so full that they are not able to get at their canning early so the vegetables are left for hours in the hot kitchen, or lying in cold water, or standing in the jars before they go into the canner or in the water bath, steamer, or cooker until they have cooled.

All of these things may cause the result known as flat sour. This is caused by organisms which develop between the time the vegetable is picked and when it is canned. Sometimes the spots spotted before it is canned.

All canning processes should be carried through as quickly as possible. As soon as the cooking of the jars is completed they should be removed from the canner, sealed, washed, and set in a cool place, but not too cold, because too great a change from the heat may cause the jars to break.

INTEGRITY SERVICE

Announcement

THE STUDEBAKER CORPORATION OF AMERICA is pleased to announce to its customers, friends, and the public generally, its complete line of new

1924 Model Studebaker Cars

Avoiding the superlatives frequently used in automobile advertisements, the Corporation desires to faithfully state the facts concerning these cars and the reasons why the public should buy them.

THE CARS

In design, quality of materials, standard of workmanship, durability, refinements, performance, freedom from repairs, and price, the Studebaker 1924 Model Cars are distinctly the greatest intrinsic values the Corporation has ever offered.

Every improvement of the safety and practicability of which have been verified by engineering tests is embodied in these new cars.

The Big-Six

THE BIG-SIX LINE comprises four models, mounted on the standard 126-inch chassis with 60 H.P. 3½ x 5 inch motor:
7-passenger Touring Car - $1750 5-passenger Coupe - $2570
5-passenger Speedster - $1835 7-passenger Sedan - $2750
all prices f. o. b. factory

Refinements and a few minor mechanical changes have been made in the Big-Six, which has established an enviable record for five years. Our large production accounts for its low price. It is a car of the highest grade, comparable to the best.

The Special-Six

THE SPECIAL-SIX LINE comprises four models mounted on the standard 119-inch chassis with 50 H.P. 3½ x 5 inch motor:
2-passenger Roadster - $1325 5-passenger Coupe - $1975
5-passenger Touring Car - $1350 5-passenger Sedan - $2050
all prices f. o. b. factory

Radiator, hood, cowl, and body changes have been made in the Special-Six, with minor mechanical changes and refinements in the chassis. The Special-Six has for five successive years added luster to the name STUDEBAKER. It is one of the most satisfactory and finest cars on the market. It is as good in every respect as the Big-Six, except that it is smaller, and costs less to produce, and therefore sells for less.

The Light-Six

THE LIGHT-SIX LINE comprises four models, mounted on the standard 112-inch chassis with 40 H.P. 3½ x 4½ inch motor:
3-passenger Roadster - $975 2-pass. Coupe-Roadster - $1225
5-passenger Touring Car - $995 5-passenger Sedan - $1550
all prices f. o. b. factory

No body or mechanical changes except refinements have been made in the Light-Six. Over 130,000 Light-Sixes have been produced in the new, modern $30,000,000 Studebaker plant at South Bend, Indiana, under most economical and almost ideal manufacturing conditions. In our judgment, it stands out as the greatest value and the closest approach to mechanical perfection in moderate priced cars yet produced.

THE REASONS WHY

With $90,000,000 of actual net assets and $45,000,000 invested in plants, Studebaker has ample physical facilities to manufacture most economically.

Studebaker's organization of manufacturing executives, engineers, metallurgists, chemists, inspectors, and skilled mechanics is second to none in the industry. The design of Studebaker cars and the workmanship upon them conform to the highest principles of engineering standards and mechanical practice known to the industry.

Best of Materials Used

Studebaker cars contain the finest known grades of iron, steel, aluminum, tires, electrical equipment, glass, bearings, etc. No better materials for automobile manufacture exist. Sheet aluminum has but one-third the tensile strength of sheet steel, and consequently, Studebaker uses sheet steel for its bodies.

By the manufacture of drop forgings, castings, stampings and the machining, assembling and finishing of motors, axles, frames, transmissions, bodies, tops, etc., and the consequent elimination of middlemen's profits, coupled with lower overhead factory costs per car arising from quantity production and low commercial expenses, Studebaker's costs are kept at an economically low point possible of attainment only by manufacturers with vast physical and financial resources.

Bodies Unexcelled

The bodies of Studebaker cars are not excelled in quality of materials and craftsmanship, by any cars on the market. The Coupe and Sedan closed bodies are magnificent examples of the coach builder's art.

Merit Wins

The sales of Studebaker cars for the past six years have shown each and every year a progressive increase. 81,880 cars were sold in the first six months of 1923 as against 60,053 for the same period last year. Only products of merit can make such growth.

THOSE WHO WON'T WORK

Generally speaking, there is now a job in this country for every man who wants one. This holds true in almost every community. The mayor in one enterprising city of 50,000 people is determined that the industrious members of the community shall profit accordingly, without having to support any idlers. He is having a list made of all the able-bodied loafers in town and holding it for future reference. The loafers are duly warned that if they apply for help next winter, as many of them have done in previous winters, there will be "nothing doing." This is a commendable policy, if carried out with proper discrimination. It is a historic American principle, handed down from colonial days, that "he who will not work shall not eat." There is less need of that drastic rule now than there was in the days of pioneer hardship or during the recent war, yet it is as just as it ever was and as wholesome for those to whom it is applied. Let professional loafers be discouraged, by every means possible, in time of plenty as in times of stress. Then, when genuine need does come, it will be less severe.—Rockland Standard.

GASOLINE CHEAPER It will be good news to the thousands of automobile owners to learn that the oil refiners have ordered a price cut of gasoline of a cent a gallon. This brings the tank-wagon or wholesale price to 20 1/2 cents a gallon and figuring on the usual margin the cost to the consumer will be about 25 cents the lowest in many years.

Standard Oil, the Jenney Manufacturing Company and the Gulf Refining Company yesterday announced the cut as effective at once. It is the policy of other large dealers to fall in line with any cut or increase.

California's crude oil production is given as the chief reason for the reduction, as the yield of the fields in the far west has been so large that much of the oil has found its way to the Eastern refineries, thus causing large stocks to accumulate. A nearby paper says: The dealers do not make it quite clear how they expect a reduced price to lower the amount of gasoline on hand, for it is evident that very motor vehicle that can move has been in practically constant use for the past month or more, regardless of the cost of fuel.

95TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. L. H. Loud, formerly of Front street, Weymouth, but who has made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Colcord at Whitman street, Dorchester, for the past 25 years, has since May made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rose of 93 Valley road, Montclair, New Jersey. Mrs. Loud celebrated her 95th birthday the 26th of July. She still retains remarkably good health.

A UNITED STATES SENATOR

The new Senator-elect from Minnesota is apparently a very interesting character from all reports and whether the other 97 senators will take him as seriously as the said gentleman does himself, remains to be seen. However, here are a few of his ideas or program if one can call it such:—

"I don't give a damn for books. I want things that are alive, not things that have been dead thousands of years. I have read more histories than any man, but I can't see a thing in them. Only about Lincoln. I stand where he stood. He was a great man.

"Look at those lawyers in Washington. When I get down there, and I start a fight, they will know me. I never quit. I don't always win, because the cards are stacked against me, but I am always right. When they start to make long speeches and try to mix things up with their parliamentary procedure, I'll straighten them out. I did it in the Legislature and I'll do it there.

"I don't believe in being too definite on issues. I'll wait until I get Brookhart's report before I decide on foreign relations. I don't want to get tangled up before I know something. La Follette knows a lot about these things. I'll listen to him. But there is not anybody, man, woman or child, who is going to tell Magnus Johnson where he is at.

"I told a judge once, right in the Governor's office, and I had 225 farmers behind me, 'you can bluff most all the people, but you can't bluff Magnus Johnson'. That judge has been meek as a lamb to me ever since.

"They're saying I'm not educated. They say I don't speak the English language very good. Maybe I didn't have the time to go to school as much as Preuss.

"I want to tell you something, but I don't want it to go far. You know, I've been married twice. Yes, I married a Swede girl first, and then I bought some timber land, but my wife and baby son died. Then I married a real Yankee girl—her mother was born in Kentucky and her father was born in the State of Maine. But, by golly, when I proposed to her she understood me! My neighbors in Meeker County know Magnus Johnson. Look at the vote I got there. I own a big farm there and I've got a mortgage on it just like you people. I've got 24 cows, too, and my wife and daughters milk them."

From above surely Massachusetts is not only fortunate, but it is to be congratulated that it has two such able statesmen as Senators Henry C. Lodge and David I. Walsh, and previous to them a distinguished list of able, equally noted statesmen.

NOT A RUN FOR OPPONENTS

Still continuing their winning streak the Owls before a good sized crowd at North Weymouth Sunday afternoon defeated Dorchester Indian team by a big score. In only three innings did the Owls fail to tally and in the eighth inning they gathered in five runs. Crawford struck out an Indian A. A. man for every run his own team secured while the opposing pitcher only downed five men.

OWLS WIN AGAIN

Even a team of picked men from the other teams of the Inter-Town League could not beat the Owls. The Stars as this team called themselves, like the stars above may twinkle far into the night, but the watchful eye of the Owl does not let much go unobserved. So the North Weymouth Owls saw to it last Tuesday night that the Stars did not get as many runs as they did and won another game to be added to their long list of season's victories. The score was:—

Owls 1 0 0 3 0 1 0 x—5

All Stars 1 0 1 0 1 0 0 0—3

FATAL ACCIDENT

While coming down the hill near Bates Bros. Seam Face quarry on Washington street early Monday morning, Edward J. Walsh, a chauffeur, whose home was at 71 Elm street, Braintree, was fatally injured and Anna Parent of Brookline escaped without severe injuries when Walsh's automobile turned turtle twice on the cement road near the Weymouth-Hingham town line about four o'clock this morning. Passing motorists found the wrecked machine and extricated the occupants. Both were sent to a Quincy hospital, where Walsh died soon after his arrival. The girl was said to be suffering from cuts and bruises. Walsh was 25 years old, was married, and leaves a wife and child.

TO THE WAYFARER
 Travelers in Portugal report that in many places where timber trees are to be found—in woods, parks and gardens—one sees the following inscription, headed "To the Wayfarer":
 Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, harken ere you harm me.
 I am the heat of your hearth on the cold winter nights, the friendly shade screening you from the summer sun, and my fruits are refreshing draughts quenching your thirst as you journey on.
 I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, the bed on which you lie, and the timber that builds your boat.
 I am the handle of your hoe, the door of your homestead, the wood of your cradle, and the shell of your coffin.
 I am the bread of kindness and the flower of beauty.
 —Ye who pass by, listen to my prayer; harm me not.

—All kinds of things might happen to the family if they ate canned food that had been left in the tins. The food should be taken out at once and put into china or glass and kept in the icebox if it is not to be used right away.

AUGUST SCRIBNER'S
 Scribner's for August is the annual Fiction Number, the thirty-fifth. This magazine was the first in its field with a midsummer number given chiefly to short stories.
 If anyone should want to compare the short stories of today with the days of Richard Harding Davis, say Scribner's would afford abundant material. There is more fiction published in these days, but whether it is better or worse can be determined only by comparison. Courses in short-story writing are given in many of our universities, but the output does not seem to have been much improved. The outstanding short story is still exceptional.
 In this number of Scribner's there are six short stories and an instalment of Doctor Edith Wharton's fine serial of the war, "A Son at the Front." Readers will all agree that Yale honored herself in giving the degree of Doctor of Letters to the foremost American woman writer of fiction. Some of her best short stories, including her greatest, "Ethan Frome," have appeared in Scribner's.
 The short stories in this number are as follows, and they offer a wide variety in method and material for the student of current fiction.

NEW PRIEST
 In June at Georgetown College John T. McGrory of South Weymouth was ordained a priest of the Society of Jesus.
 After graduating from Weymouth High school Fr. McGrory went to Boston College where as a student he was manager of the baseball team and prominent in the debating societies. Upon entering the Jesuit order he was sent first to St. Andrews-on-Hudson in New York state for four years of Novitiate and classical studies, followed by three years of philosophy at Woodstock College, Maryland. The following five years were spent as an instructor in St. Peter's College in New Jersey. Fr. McGrory then returned to Woodstock College for four years of theology.
 On Sunday, July 29, at 10:30 A. M. Fr. McGrory will celebrate his first mass in South Weymouth at St. Francis Xavier church.
 Fr. McGrory is a brother of Arthur L. McGrory, the well known theatre owner and sport promoter of the South Shore.

THE TELEPHONE SITUATION
 [From the Springfield Union]
 The operators belonging to the union that refused to go out, and the young women who have in so short a time proved their capacity to make good operators, have done splendidly in this trying situation. They have earned the confidence, the gratitude and the praise of the public. They have borne taunts, jeers, and insults with commendable forbearance. They have acquitted themselves in a manner highly creditable to their young womanhood. They have temporarily occasioned by their strike a situation that gives the public little occasion for complaint. They are giving a courteous and gracious service for which the public has been quick to voice its appreciation.
 And now comes from the strikers the amazing proposition, that these loyal girls shall be displaced in order to make room for girls who are now willing to endure the hardships of an eight-hour day with two fifteen-minute rest periods and accept such wages and working conditions as the company offers—wages that have not been reduced from their war-time peak, and working conditions that have placed the telephone company in the very front rank as a model employer. Unless the company takes back these girls who have tried to make life as miserable as possible for the girls who have stood by, and have made it necessary to provide police protection for them, and have been the indirect if not the direct cause of riotous scenes around and about the exchanges, one strike leader says the public will know "who is to blame."
 The public would know whom to blame, and it would not be slow in saying so, if the company should for one moment think of demoralizing the service by reinstating as a body those who have shown so poor an appreciation of the duties and obligations that rest upon employees of a public service corporation. The company goes as far as it can possibly go, as far as the public is willing it should go, when it tells these strikers that if they desire reinstatement they must apply as individuals the same as everybody else, and each case will then be considered strictly on its merits.

BOY SCOUTS AT CAMP MANOMET
 Camp Manomet opened officially on July 13 with fifty boys registered and six officers. More scouts arrived on Saturday and Sunday. Over 103 boys were at camp the second week and the season promises good.
 Among the exciting episodes of the camp life took place on July 12 about 12 o'clock at night when two young men from Plymouth attempted to raid the pantry. Scouts Edward Blackmun, Malcolm MacKay, and Joseph Hussar, who were on guard at that period gave the alarm and held the fellows at bay until the officer of the guard arrived. Scout Hussar was especially commended for his courage for standing his ground until help arrived.
 There are companies forming a battalion under the direct charge of Richard Aylward, sergeant instructor United States Army. The major of the unit is Scout Francis Wright of Troop 1, Hingham. Captain of A. Co. is Scout Lawrence Howard of Troop 2, Randolph. Captain of B. Co. is Scout Malcolm Ripley of Troop 1, Hingham and captain of C. Co. is Scout William Tullis of Troop 12 of Somerville. The camp has a Winchester rifle corps and an American Red Cross life saving corps, in which the scouts are making fine progress. The officers of the camp are: Duncan MacKellar, camp director; Louis P. Barcelo, adjutant; Edward Blewett, executive officer; Charles Walch, steward; Sergeant Aylward, military instructor, detailed from U. S. Army.
 The camp is run on a strictly honor basis. Every boy is a scout and that is all that is necessary. "A Scout's honor is to be trusted."
 This camp is situated at Manomet eight miles beyond Plymouth on the State road. It has the ocean at front door and fresh water lake at back door.
 All are invited to visit the Scouts in camp.

SENATOR RETURNS
 Senator David I. Walsh, returning from Europe, reports that there is no chaos in France and Italy where he has just spent three months, but that the countries are prosperous. It is true that the late war has accentuated the acrimony, misunderstandings and jealousies among the nations of the Old World, and their unfortunate relations have permeated the Governments of our late allies.
 He does not believe that there is any need of America worrying about any one of those countries. They seem willing and able to do their own rehabilitation work and they are not worrying about America's welfare or prosperity.
 All Europe asks for is America's cash, and hope we will cancel the war loans. They reason we are rich and can do it easily.
 —If you put cheese to be used with macaroni or potatoes through the fine cutter of the food chopper, none of the hard pieces will be able to escape.
 —Lemons keep better if they're placed in a jar of cold water which is changed every 24 hours. They will keep for months packed in clean, dry salt.

FAITH MISSION
 The annual meeting of the Kings Lilies the missionary band connected with Faith Mission church and Sunday School was held Thursday evening. Fred Wentworth presided. After a spirited praise service Miss Beryl Bean, pianist, followed by prayer by A. J. Back. The following programme was given. Reading by Miss Hattie Gilliatt, "Polly's Missionary Society." Song by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loud of East Milton. Reading by Mrs. Alice Glover "Idaho". Song by Master Stanwood Finley. "Only an armor bearer". Reading by Mrs. George Loud. "Who will open the door for Leing-ti". Dialogue by Fred Wentworth and Beryl Bean. "Where have you gleaned today?"
 Sunday School report for the year was read by John Hawes, secretary and treasurer, showing it to have been the best year of the school financially. An offering was taken by two little tots of the Sunday School, Wendall Hayden and Palmer Hawes after which the children had a fine time breaking the jugs. The total amount received in the jugs was $24.40 with others yet to be brought in. This goes to support an orphan in India.

WEYMOUTH MAN SECRETARY
Edward I. Farrington of Church street, our local and popular lover of gardens, and whose name appears frequently in print signed to articles that are helpful guides to all new gardeners, has been chosen secretary of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society to succeed Mr. Rich, who has been secretary for 21 years.

Mr. Rich, who is 70 years old, has seen many changes in the society during his tenure of office. In that time the library, which is housed on the top floor of Horticultural Hall, Boston, has become the most complete horticultural library in America, and is often called the best library of the kind in the world. It contains 25,000 books and is particularly rich in rare volumes of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Mr. Rich will continue with the society as an assistant in the library.

Mr. Farrington, the new secretary, is a lecturer and magazine writer on horticultural subjects. For some years he has conducted the Boston Sunday Globe's garden column. He was formerly editor of Suburban Life and for the past four years has managed Horticulture.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society, moreover, has acquired Horticulture which will be continued as its official organ. This paper, which was established by the late William J. Stewart in 1904, is devoted to garden matters, and circulates throughout the country.

TAKE A VACATION
Vacations are essential to continued health. It is a mistaken policy to wait until forced to take one by reason of ill health. A change of scene is the best medicine that can be employed. Relief from the grind of daily occupations is necessary for all of us.

Those who fail to take vacations at proper intervals get into a rut that sooner or later reacts on their state of mind. They become narrow in their views, get into a rut, and suffer from the stagnating effect of seeing and doing the same things day after day.

WEYMOUTH, JULY 20, 1923

GLOUCESTER WILL CELEBRATE

The next town in Massachusetts, or third, the first being Plymouth, the second Weymouth, is Gloucester which has set aside six days from Aug. 25 to Aug. 30 and will at the same time celebrate its fiftieth year as an incorporated city. How well they do things down on Cape Ann is shown in the fact that more than $40,000 has been raised by public subscription. The programme for the six days includes athletic sports, religious exercises, a fishermen's race, literary exercises, yacht race, parades, a historical pageant and concerts by a set of carillons.

The U. S. S. Langley, the only mother ship for seaplanes owned by the United States, will form part of the fleet of naval craft in the harbor.

Secretary of the Navy Denby will be present and probably Secretary of War Weeks. President Harding has been invited. It is expected that Secretary Weeks will order a regiment of the Army to Gloucester for a week.

Sir Thomas Lipton has forwarded a cup to be awarded to the winner of the fishermen's race. The second cup is offered by Colonel John W. Prentiss of Gloucester and New York. It is pertinent to add that Gloucester was first settled by fishermen and has maintained deep sea fisheries ever since. The fishermen count Secretary Denby as one of their number, for he was on the crew of the Gloucester vessel in the last fishermen's race. The only set of carillons in the country is in the belfry of the Church of Our Lady of Good Voyage. Some of the oldest homesteads in New England now standing can be seen in Gloucester. They are being marked suitably.

As many visitors are expected at the time of the celebration, special trains will be run from Boston. Motorists will find all roads leading to Gloucester in excellent condition.

 Editor Heman Eldredge of the Hingham Journal has been appointed a member of a publicity and propaganda committee in his town. The work is part of the war on mosquitoes that has been declared by the Village Improvement Society, and we look to Editor Eldredge to print some stinging editorials in his paper that will make the winged pests itch to get out of Hingham and settle over at Nantasket or some other more hospitable spot.
 We hope the Editor doesn't intend to drive them this way, however.
