

Wikipedia Asian Month

About

Wikipedia Asian Month (WAM) is an annual Wikipedia contest focused on the promotion of Asian content on various language-specific Wikipedias. Participation is not limited to Asian communities.

Wikipedia Asian Month

About

Each participating community runs a month-long online edit-a-thon every November on their language's Wikipedia to create new content or improve existing articles about Asian topics apart from their own country.

Wikipedia Asian Month

About

The first iteration of this competition began in 2015 and each year the number of articles has increased and the participants have diversified and expanded.

Wikipedia Asian Month

About

In the past five years, over 37,500 high-quality articles have been added in more than 63 language-specific Wikipedias by more than 2,900 Wikipedia editors.

Wikipedia Asian Month

About

As part of the friendship and cultural exchange of the Wikipedia Asian Community, participants who create at least four articles will receive a special Wikipedia Postcard from another participating community.

Wikipedia Asian Month

About

Wikipedians who create the most articles on each Wikipedia will be honored as "Wikipedia Asian Ambassadors". Get ready to be surprised! You never know which Wiki community will be sending you postcards!