Daily Greeting To News Readers

Thou art in all that Thou hast made, Oh, let me see Thee there; Dear Lord, be Thou my Sun, my Shade, My Savior, everywhere! -Lucy Larcom.

THE HISTORY OF TWO TOWNS

There comes to mind the experience of two Illinois towns. It isn't necessary to name them, but possibly some of our good friends from that rich state in the corn belt will recognize the communities we have in mind. The incidents here recorded date from 1890 to the present time.

One of the towns referred to had about 2000 inhabitants the other about 5000. Apparently, neither gave promise of growth, beyond the natural growth incident to an increase in the size of the families which called the two places home. Occasionally a nearby farmer retired and moved to town, but at that time the rate of increase was so small there was no need of "subdivisions or apartment houses."

Suddenly, however, the smaller of the two Illinois "burgs" began to pep up. Business men held meetings and decided to do something. Always there had been a certain kind of smalltown rivalry, but for the most part this had been confined to baseball teams and their ability to hold first place in the eyes of the fans. But the business men decided to go farther than this. And they did.

A certain factory sought a location and the "committee" went after it-and landed it, too. In due time a fair-sized stack began belching smoke, and 200 men were given employment. That was the beginning-but it was not the end. Another factory was induced to move to the small but hustling town. Then another, and another. Within five years it was known as a factory center, as well as a residential town.

The population went up to 5000 during that time. Not a remarkable growth—to be sure—but to more than double the population in a short period meant considerable. Better stores followed; better schools were forthcoming; civic pride increased, and the residents began walking with a cocky air when they visited their neighboring town-a town that refused to go forward. Of course, a feeble attempt was made by the business men of the latter place to get going, and keep in the lead, but the majority of the residents argued they only wanted a "pretty town," not a factory town. It didn't occur to them, evidently they could have both-must have both if they desired to make

Today the town that had 5000 population in 1890 has not to exceed 6000; probably less than that. But the wide-awake, hustling little "burg" of 2000 in 1890, now is a city—a real city with several times the population of its neighbor. It would be an insult to the intelligence of our readers to point out the moral, for it is obvious. And anyway we don't need the moral. We're on the way, and going strong, and when it comes to growth we can show those Illinois fellows how it is done. For, remember, what is rapid growth for the average community would be a snail's pace for Glendale. And we've only just nicely started at that.

But you might think this over just before you write your check for a big advertising fund. It should cause you to swell it up a trifle.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

There is a whole lot of the mule disposition in all of us. We are stubborn, want our own way, and many of us are unwilling to do even the things we know are good for us. Special reference should be made to the lack of enthusiasm with which we tackle garden work, take long hikes, push the lawn mower, or eat plain food. A lobster salad, strawberry shortcake smothered in whipped cream, hot mince pie and French pastry still speak to us in the language we understand. Somehow we just can't warm up to a plate of spinach, coarse bread and a glass of buttermilk. And when it comes to taking long walks while the Ford or big sedan rust in the garage-well, we simply don't do it. You do? Well, you're the exception, and the exception proves the rule is sound.

LEARN THE LANGUAGE

Wise men predict we soon will be able to understand the language of animals. That's fine. If we can understand them, we can learn to talk to them. We intend to learn the gopher language as soon as possible. This done, we will invite the family that has been boring holes in our lawn up on the front porch for a chat. If all goes well the chances are we can come to a complete understanding. Right now we would give them a peck of wheat to chase themselves over onto a neighbor's lawn, if he happened to be an undesirable resident. And what we would say to that old tom cat that sings "Margarita" under our window every morning about 4 o'clock would be enough.

By all means let's master the animal language.

Kipling, we are told, gets his inspiration before breakfast. Some of us have to get an inspiration before breakfast in order to get the breakfast. Without a doubt many writers have been driven to do their best work—or inspired if you prefer it that way—by the gaunt hand of poverty. But we prefer to try it out with a piece of California fried chicken in one hand and a pencil in the other. This combination, aided and abetted by some orange blossom perfume, and a vine-covered bungalow, some orange blossom perfume, and a vine-covered bungalow, sources and recuperative powers, soon would prove sufficient. should prove sufficient.

Meanwhile, it is in order to blazon to the world the advantages of California—the opportunin a gopher, though, he rises in our estimation. If the canary and the gopher could submit a brief their arguments would be and the homeseeker. unanimous against the destruction of life. War between human beings may come to an end some day, but apparently it always will continue in the animal kingdom.

In advertising camornia to the world, the more rugged phases of life here should be stressed, as well as the pleasure-promoting always will continue in the animal kingdom.

There is one kind of demand that always exceeds the supply—men of the Abe Lincoln type. A congress made up of such wise, kindly, fearless citizens as the universally-loved "rail splitter," would accomplish wonders and get us out of the woods, pronto. But this is hoping for too much and also for the impossible.

Meanwhile the inexorable law of demand and supply is operating and it is no use for man-made laws to try to interfere with it. And the great natural law that governs the business world is that, if you want anything, you have to pay for it. The present effort to increase the pay of postal employes is not a matter of sentiment nor a mat-of graft. It is a matter of pure business. What it amounts to is that if we keep on paying the present rates we are going to have poor service. No way has yet been discovered to get good, honest work and efficiency without paying for it.

The kind of people we wish to handle our mail matter are not the kind of people who would be happy to have the wife and mother of the chiling out in order to keep the home to gether. THE TENDENCY TO SEEK REVENGE

Old Human Nature is ensitive and quick to take offense, and one of his most despicable attributes is that of always wanting revenge. Anything from a practical joke to a murder demands that he "get it back." The Bible says we are to love our enemies, bless them that curse us, do good to them that hate us, and pray for them that despitefully us and persecute us. But all this is contrary to Human Nature and the old man has to undergo thorough regeneration before he

We are explicitly commanded to "turn the other cheek," but it is one of the most difficult things for a red-blooded man to do. One blow calls for another. Peace among individuals and among nations is most desirable and a thing to be devoutly prayed for, but to be deliberately struck without provocation is almost too much for Human Nature to bear. His self-respect demands that he defend himself at least. If there were no aggressor in wrong-doing these rules would work well but as long as Human Nature strikes, Human Nature will strike back. We hope for world peace, but how is that to be accomplished since we must depend on Human Nature to bring it about?

However, these rules have been been found can obey these commands.

Our first thought at any slight or injury done to us is to "pay it back." Even the dearest of friends are prone to exchange catty remarks. Few of us are too good not to lie in wait for an op-portunity for revenge on some one who has insulted or injured us and old Human Nature is quick to feel satisfaction when the moment of revenge arrives.

"Do good for evil," " heap coals of fire," are high-sounding phrases and we like to believe that we are capable of loving our enemies (as long as we have no enemies) but let some one slight us or injure us and we are quick to resolve to 'get even." This instinct for revenge gets us nowhere, but it is a characteristic of Human Nature just the same.

tried out again and again and have workable. A man who has any honor at all is shamed by generosity and forgiveness on the part of one he has wronged. To have coals of fire heaped on one's head hurts almost as much as being struck back. However, your motive in heaping coals is to injure and get revenge you deserve no credit.

Thought That Came Today By HARVEY E. WESTGATE of Glendale

YOU AND I AND THE OTHER FELLOW

You-and I-and the other fellow, 'Specially the other fellow, Are not as brave as some men are-But still we aren't really yellow; We never yank off coat and hat, Or start a scrap right off the bat-We hesitate, and talk it over-And prob'ly let it go at that. S' way I got it figured out, anyhow.

You-and I-and the other fellow, Are not as good as some men are-We're not low down-or really mean-But prob'ly just about at par; We don't do things that lead to jail, Like sellin' booze or swipin' kale-But as to bein' awful good I realize we often fail. S' way I got it figured out, anyhow.

You-and I-and the other fellow, Are what they call the middle class-And 'cause we're almost broke at times We mustn't waste a bit of gas; We can't afford a big machine That eats and guzzles gasoline-But still we have a heap of fun, With Lizzie Henry Limousine.

S' way I got it figured out, anyhow. And-you know-I rather like it, Our simple way of doin' things-It ain't no fun to 'sociate With 'ristocrats, and lordly kings; I like Frank, and Wade, and Bill, Folks who'll call when I am ill-And though some laugh at what I say, I say it now and always will. S' way I got it figured out, anyhow.

TUJUNGA

Flood Control Official Will Urge Support of Bond Issue In Election

Representatives of the flood ontrol department will attend a mass meeting at the Tujunga school auditorium tonight, Friday, to explain the purpose of the work to be done with the money derived from the coming bond isue, should the bonds be voted May 6. This is one of a series of meetings that are being held throughout the county for the purpose of informing the voters. This meeting was called at the suggestion of F. C. McMillan, a flood control engineer, who re-cently visited Tujunga as the repesentative of Chief Engineer ames W. Reagan.

With the memory of $35,000 of e last bond issue allotted to Haines canyon, but never spent there, it is expected that Tujungans and residents of the whole alley and surrounding communities will be greatly interested in getting some assurance that the proposed bond money will be spent or the purpose specified. The Haines canyon money was diverted to other purposes, and the eople of the Big Tujunga district have not forgotten.

Ready to Report

McMillan has promised to look up the matter of the $35,000, and be prepared to tell the voters to-night what became of it, and why. Many conflicting reports have been made on the question, and an au-thentic report will be of interest to a great many.

Spanish-American War Vet Reports 500 Beds Are Needed In Wards

Captain William H. Reeves, 500 East Maple street, national aidede-camp of the national commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans. Wednesday visited the government hospital at Sawtelle in his official capacity, in order to gather data to be included in a report to be made to the state convention of the Spanish-American vets this year. Other members on the committees were General Robert Wankowski and Chaplain Joseph H. Barlow.

He stated this morning that were approximately ex-soldiers in the hospital, of which 700 are Civil war veterans; 1,400 men who fought in Spanish-American war, and 800 world war heroes.

Beds Are Needed He states that the committee found that under the direction of Col. Marshall and Col. Madison, the hospital is being conducted on very efficient lines, and that the patients receive splendid food and the best of treatment.

There is urgent need, he said, for at least 500 additional beds and a new fireproof building. He states that many of the patients are housed in fire traps, and one of the most horrible catastrophes in the history of the nation would ensue if fire broke out in some of the buildings.

The committee will urge the national body of the Spanish-American war vets to present very forcibly to Congress the necessity for new buildings to replace the wooden ones used at the present

The approaching auto, purring, is heard in the distance. The sound grows louder as it comes nearer, till, at the moment of passing, the roar is not unlike the crash of the waves on the sand, and if two machines pass at the same moment it sounds like the big wave that, rolling over, over-whelms the chance bather. Then comes the lull, and all is still for a minute, and then the wave of traffic comes again.

The old schoolhouse had been sold and moved down on the corner of Fourth (Broadway) and Glendale avenue and remodeled into a business block, and the six-room building which stood for so many years on East Broadway was erected. Mr. Lorbeer was the principal, and the teachers were Miss Ida M. Waite, now principal of the Colorado school, and Miss Frances Hendershot.

Teachers' Picnic It was Mr. Gulvin's custom to take the teachers of the school for a picnic in his big ranch wagon, and Mrs. Gulvin was affectionately termed "Ma Gulvin" by them.

So quiet was the street that, as Gil A. Cowan said recently in The Glendale Evening News, speaking of the traffic in Glendale a few years ago, you could shoot a cannonball down the street and not hit a thing. In corroboration of this, Old Timer recalls that about eight years ago an auto race was staged on the streets of Glendale, Sixth street (Colorado boulevard) between Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue being one leg of the race course. The course was east to Glendale avenue on Sixth street, north on Glendale avenue

The After House

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART Copyright, 1924, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

DR. RALPH LESLIE, just graduated from medical college, and just over an attack of typhoid fever, ships on the yacht Ella as a sort of deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opporunity to recuperate. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorcee named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. Turner is dissipated and evidently jealous of his wife and Vail. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid named Karen Hansen, the cook and Williams, the butler. Charlie Jones, a German sailor with a bent for religion, is friendly to Leslie. Captain Richardson and Turner have an argument over running the ship. Turner, drunk, appoints Singleton captain. Richardson knocks Singleton down, and threatens to put Turner in irons if he interferes with the running of the boat.

LEAGUE CHAMPS TRIMMED AGAIN

San Francisco Drops Second Game to Vernon, 4 to 3: Angels Winners

By R. C. FRANKLIN For Southland News Service. LOS ANGELES, April 25.— Those sassy Seals who make a business of cleaning up on most of the teams in the Pacific Coast league, were given their second setback in as many days yesterday by Bill Essick's fast-charging Vernon club, when the youthful players slammed their way to a well earned 4 to 3 decision of Ellison's tribe. It might be said that the battle was anyone's up to the last man in the Seal half of the ninth and it looked for a moment that the Tigers would be forced to bat again. Two men were left stranded, however, when a run would have tied up things, Mulligan lifting a high fly which was covered by Blakesley.

Showel Hodge and Frank Chellenback, both right-handers, engaged in a pitchers' duel throughout and each was nicked for nine bingles, the Tigers garnering their allotment at times when they best counted, which brought them the bacon. At that Vernon should have scored once more and only some dumb base running prevented such. SAN FRANCISCO
