PREFACE

This is one of a series of volumes presenting final results of the 1954 Census of Business for Wholesale, Retail, and Selected Service Trades. Statistics for Wholesale Trade are contained in two volumes, Volume IV and this volume which also contains information on Public Warehouses. The 1954 Census, which was conducted by mail canvass of business establishments and by use of Internal Revenue Service records (see "Method of Enumeration" in Introduction), was authorized by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 131. Previous business censuses covered the years 1929, 1933, 1935, 1939, and 1948.

Important to the conduct of the 1954 Census of Business was the cooperation of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance and the Internal Revenue Service in permitting use of certain records, thus making possible a material reduction in the cost of enumerating the Census. We wish also to acknowledge the assistance of many private and public organizations in the planning phase of the census and the excellent cooperation of some 1,750,000 business establishments in completing the required Census forms.

The advice of trade associations, individual businessmen, research and marketing organizations, and government agencies was invaluable in determining the feasibility of collecting various types of data and the methods for minimizing the burden of reporting, as well as in determining the types of information which would be of greatest value. Especially helpful was the Advisory Council on Federal Reports, which through special panels of business experts advised and assisted in the development of inquiries. Because of budgetary and other limitations, it was not possible to collect all of the data recommended by these groups. Timely publicity given to the Business Census by Chambers of Commerce, business organizations, trade papers, local newspapers, and television and radio stations aided greatly in informing businessmen of the nature and objectives of the census and facilitated the collection of Census reports.

Primary responsibility for the 1954 Census of Business program was centered in the Business Division of the Census Bureau, under the direction of Harvey Kailin, Chief of the Division. John Albright, Chief of the Wholesale Trade Branch, supervised the wholesale trade segment of the Business Census. He was assisted by Robert Viehman, Assistant Chief of the Wholesale Trade Branch, Earl B. Wiley, Elizabeth S. Owen, and Charles Settlemyer. Maurice Haven served as Assistant Branch Chief until September 18, 1955.

Processing of the 1954 Census of Business reports was performed by the Economic Operations Division, under the supervision of M. D. Bingham, Division Chief, and Irving Weiss, Assistant Chief. Max Van Horn, then Chief of the Wholesale Branch, was responsible for processing Wholesale Trade reports and tabulations. He was assisted by Blynn T. Shafer and Eugene L. Wendt.

In the Field Division, Jack B. Robertson, then Chief of the Division; Ivan G. Munro, Assistant Chief; and Arthur Cook, then Chief of the Economic Census Branch, directed the field work for the Census of Business.

Important functions were also performed by the Machine Tabulation Division under C. F. Van Aken, Chief; Mrs. Catherine M. Neafsey, Chief of the Economics Section, was responsible for machine tabulation techniques and procedures used in Wholesale Trade tabulations.

Julius Shiskin, Chief Economic Statistician in the Office of the Assistant Director for Statistical Standards, as well as Harold T. Goldstein and Irving Rottenberg of that office, contributed to the coordination of the Business Census with the Censuses of Manufactures and Mineral Industries and to several phases of the planning and processing of the Censuses.

Geography Division personnel participating in various phases of Business Census work were Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief; Robert Klove, Assistant Chief; and William T. Fay, Chief, Survey Planning Branch.

Donald K. Heiser, Chief of the Electronics Systems Branch, assisted by Rudolph M. Micoly, Chief of Operations for the Branch, was responsible for planning and use of electronic computer and accompanying high-speed printer equipment. Robert H. Brooks, Chief, Graphics Branch, was responsible for preparing Census of Business publications for reproduction. Mrs. Elma Beynon of the Statistical Reports Division reviewed all text material and table forms, and assisted on publications problems.

INTRODUCTION

The 1954 Census of Business, along with the 1954 Censuses of Manufactures and Mineral Industries, was authorized by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 131 (see Appendix A). These 1954 Censuses covered businesses operated in continental United States, Alaska, and Hawaii. Separate Censuses of Business and Manufactures for 1954 were also conducted in Puerto Rico jointly with the Commonwealth Government.

The 1954 Census of Business covered Wholesale Trade, Retail Trade, Selected Service Trades, and Public Warehouses. This volume, except for Chapter 11 which presents separate information for Public Warehouses, provides findings for that portion of the 1954 Census of Business which relates to Wholesale Trade.

ESTABLISHMENT BASIS OF THE CENSUS

Census of Business figures represent a summary of reports for individual "establishments" rather than "companies." A separate report was obtained for each location, with one or more paid employees, at which business was conducted, including each location of multiunit organizations. Each report was tabulated in accordance with the location at which the business was conducted. A separate report was also obtained for administrative offices, district offices, central warehouses and other auxiliary units servicing sales establishments of multiunit organizations. Data for administrative offices and other auxiliary units are presented in Tables 9K and 9L of Chapter 9 but they are omitted from other tables on Wholesale Trade.

KINDS OF BUSINESS COVERED IN WHOLESALE TRADE

This volume, except Chapter 11, covers all establishments which reported any paid employment during 1954 and which were included in Wholesale Trade as defined in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, Volume 11, Nonmanufacturing Industries, 1949 edition, issued by the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President, with the exception of milk bottling plants which, in conformity with a subsequent action of the Bureau of the Budget, have been classified in the manufacturing industries.

Wholesale Trade as defined in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, and as covered in the 1954 Census, includes establishments or places of business primarily engaged in selling merchandise directly to retailers; to industrial, commercial, institutional or professional users; or to other wholesalers; or acting as agents in buying merchandise for, or selling merchandise to, such persons or companies.

Wholesale Trade is divided, in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, into two parts: "Merchant wholesalers," and "Wholesale trade, other than merchant wholesalers." "Merchant wholesalers" includes establishments usually known as wholesalers—merchant wholesalers or jobbers primarily engaged in buying, taking title to and, when customary, physically storing and handling the goods sold. Also included in this group are industrial goods distributors, foreign trade merchants, cash-and-carry wholesalers, drop shippers and wagon (truck) distributors. "Wholesale trade, other than merchant wholesalers" includes four general types of establishments: Sales branches and sales offices of manufacturing and mining companies; petroleum bulk plants and terminals; merchandise agents and brokers; and assemblers of farm products.

METHOD OF ENUMERATION

Information for establishments primarily in Wholesale Trade was obtained by means of a mail canvass. Report forms were mailed to all business firms included in the active records of the Internal Revenue Service as subject to payment of Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) taxes (i.e., employers of one or more persons) and which were classified in the records of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance (BOASI) as wholly or partially engaged in wholesale, public warehousing, retail, manufacturing, mineral industries, and in major groups 70, 72, 73, 75, 76, 78, and 79 of the Service portion of the Standard Industrial Classification Manual. In addition, report forms were mailed to all establishments which BOASI had not classified by kind of business prior to mailing of Census report forms. Each establishment was mailed a report form appropriate to its BOASI classification (for those cases for which BOASI classification had not yet been established, a general purpose form was used) but its 1954 Census classification was determined by replies to questions on the Census report form.

Unincorporated businesses without paid employees are not included in Wholesale Trade as measured in this volume. Their importance, however, is indicated in table Y on page 21.

CLASSIFICATION OF WHOLESALE ESTABLISHMENTS

Although kind-of-business classifications assigned by the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance were used as a basis for distributing appropriate Census report forms, establishments are classified in the Wholesale Census on the basis of information contained in their Census reports. Each wholesale establishment is classified on two bases: (1) by type of operation—merchant wholesalers, manufacturers' sales branches or sales offices, petroleum bulk plants or terminals, merchandise agents or brokers, or assemblers of farm products and (2) by kind of business—grocery wholesaler, drug wholesaler, grain merchant, etc. Classification in the 1954 Census is in accordance with the Standard Industrial Classification system developed under the auspices of the United States Bureau of the Budget, except that separately incorporated sales affiliates of manufacturing and mining companies have been classified in the Census generally as sales branches or sales offices, rather than as merchant wholesalers. Exceptions to this general rule occur, as explained in Part B of Appendix B, in the wholesale electrical goods trade and in oil well supply houses and steel warehouses.

Classification of wholesale establishments by type of operation and kind of business is described in detail in Appendix B. A comparison of the 1954 Census classification and the Standard Industrial Classification is shown in Appendix C.

REPORT FORMS

Twenty-five report forms were used in enumerating wholesale establishments in connection with the 1954 Census of Business: 13 for enumerating merchant wholesalers and assemblers of farm products; 10 for manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices; one for merchandise agents and brokers; and one for petroleum bulk plants and terminals. Each form was designed to cover a group of related kinds of business, for example: Food, beverage, tobacco wholesalers; Drugs, chemicals, paint wholesalers; Dry goods, textiles, apparel wholesalers; Electrical, electronic, appliance goods distributors, etc. A list of the forms is given in Appendix H, together with reproductions of several of them.

COMPARISON OF 1948 AND 1954 CENSUSES

The latest Census of Business prior to 1954 covered operations during the year 1948. A comparison of 1954 and 1948 classifications appears in Appendix D. The 1948 and 1954 Business Censuses differed in several respects, which to some degree affect comparability of the data for Wholesale Trade. In the case of some of these differences (Items 1, 2, and 3 below) it has been feasible to revise the 1948 data (except as noted in some text tables) so as to make them comparable with the data for 1954. Table 1C, page 1-17, presents summary comparisons by type of operation and kind of business.

The more important revisions and differences are as follows:

(1) The 1948 Census figures reproduced herein, except as otherwise noted, have been revised to the 1954 basis by excluding establishments with no paid employment during the Census year. In 1948, this class of establishments accounted for some 25,000 establishments in the United States with sales for the year of approximately $2.9 billion, or less than two percent of the total wholesale trade sales volume.

(2) The definition of Wholesale Trade in the 1954 Census differs from that of the 1948 and previous Censuses by the exclusion of wholesale milk bottling plants. The 1948 data shown in this and other 1954 Census of Business publications, except as otherwise noted, have been revised to the 1954 basis and will differ in this respect from the results in previously issued 1948 Census of Business publications. For 1954, data for plants previously classified as wholesale milk bottling plants are included in reports of the Census of Manufactures.

(3) The general policy of classifying separately incorporated sales subsidiaries of manufacturing companies primarily engaged in selling the products of the parent company as "Manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices" rather than "Merchant wholesalers" has been followed more completely in the 1954 Census than in previous Censuses. Inquiries new on the 1954 report forms were designed to make clear the establishment's relationship to a parent company, and to determine whether products sold by the establishment were made by the same or other companies. As in 1948, certain separately incorporated sales subsidiaries of manufacturing companies with characteristics related to merchant wholesalers have been classified as merchant wholesalers in the following kinds of businesses: iron and steel products distributors, oil-well supply houses and electrical apparatus, supplies distributors.

(4) The adoption of the mail canvass method in the 1954 Census, described under METHOD OF ENUMERATION, above, made it feasible to systematically include "non-recognizable" establishments in the coverage of the Census. This class of establishments consists of businesses, which in a field enumeration such as was used in previous Censuses, would not have been located by enumerators in the course of their canvass because of not having the appearance of a place of business. Businesses operated from the home, or on an itinerant basis, are the most frequently occurring examples of "nonrecognizable" businesses. However, differences between the two Censuses in this respect should be minor since the use of records of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance as a coverage check in the 1948 Census operations made it possible to account for a substantial portion of the "nonrecognizable" wholesale establishments with payroll in that Census.

(5) Several changes were made in the wholesale fish and seafood classifications, 1954 compared with 1948. Two classes of such establishments were identified in the 1948 Census: "Fish and seafood" in the Merchant Wholesalers classification, and "Fish, seafoods" under Assemblers (mainly farm products). Establishments filleting and eviscerating fish and selling the products at wholesale were included either as assemblers or merchant wholesalers, according to their method of operation. Oyster shucking businesses were included in "fish, seafoods" under Assemblers (mainly farm products).

In 1954, oyster shucking businesses and establishments filleting and eviscerating fish were covered in the Census of Manufactures and not in Wholesale Trade. Any other fish, seafood establishments formerly included under Assemblers (mainly farm products) were classified as "fish, seafood distributors" under Merchant Wholesalers.

(6) Special care was exercised in the 1954 Census to include in manufacturing industries, rather than in wholesale trade, poultry dressing establishments primarily deriving their receipts from poultry dressing at the plant. In the 1948 Census, it was not always possible to distinguish such establishments from "Poultry, poultry products distributors."

(7) A change was made in 1954 in the classification of "Lumber, millwork wholesalers." In the 1948 Census, sales to general contractors and builders were considered as "wholesale" sales and establishments primarily engaged in making such sales were considered as wholesale distributors. Establishments with sales primarily to "other contractors" (i.e., special trade contractors) however, were classified in Retail Trade. For purposes of the 1954 Census, sales to contractors—whether general or special trade contractors—have been considered as retail and establishments primarily engaged in making such sales are classified in Retail Trade.

(8) Establishments identified as "Electronic parts, equipment distributors" represent a new classification first appearing in the 1954 Census. Many of the establishments in this classification are new, not having been in business in 1948. Others were classified in 1948 as wholesalers of electrical appliances and specialties.

(9) The classification "Stationery, office supplies wholesalers" has been broadened to include advertising novelties and specialty houses as well as stationery, office supplies wholesalers. In the 1948 Census such establishments were classified as "merchant wholesalers, miscellaneous products."

(10) The classification "Gift, art goods, greeting cards wholesalers" is being used for the first time in the 1954 Census. In previous Censuses such establishments would have been classified as "Other recreation goods wholesalers" or "Other merchant wholesalers, miscellaneous products."

(11) The kinds of business under the general type-of-operation group "Manufacturers' sales branches, sales offices" have been defined in 1954 to parallel more closely the classification of establishments in the Census of Manufactures—establishments for which they sell—rather than in the merchant wholesaler classification pattern used in the 1948 Wholesale Census. For example, data are shown for sales branches and sales offices of "Food and kindred products," a classification which corresponds with a Census of Manufactures' industry group. Likewise, sales branches and sales offices of "Chemicals and allied products" manufacturers are identified separately. This type of classification permits ready comparisons of sales branch and sales office activities with factories for which they serve as outlets. In some cases comparability with Census of Manufactures classifications was accomplished merely by a change in the title of the sales branch or sales office classification; in others it was necessary to change the content as well as the title of the 1954 classification from what it was in 1948.

(12) The classification "Assemblers of farm products" was redefined in the 1954 Census to exclude "packers and shippers" of fish and seafood (See Item 5 above). In addition, it should be noted that 1954 data for assemblers of farm products tend to differ somewhat from the 1948 figures, particularly for those establishments handling products with high "support" prices. For example, country grain elevators, in a period such as 1948 when the market price of grain was higher than the "support" price, sold grain purchased from farmers and in their Census of Business report forms reported the sales of such grain. In 1954, however, some products moved under support loans; the grain elevators did not purchase or subsequently sell these commodities. Consequently, the receipts reported for Census purposes were based on the service charge for storing these commodities. As a result, in some areas sales volume for this class of establishments in 1954 was considerably lower than in 1948.

(13) Coverage of manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices differed somewhat in the 1954 mail canvass from the 1948 field enumeration. In the field canvass, Census enumerators provided the Bureau with listings of all establishments within the scope of the census, including those of multiunit firms with headquarters outside their districts. Such listings were used as aids in determining establishments to be reported separately from central offices. In the mail canvass, determinations of establishments to be reported separately were made by respondents for the most part, on the basis of Census instructions. Sometimes these determinations differed from what they otherwise might have been, had there been an opportunity for exploratory discussions.

Overall, the count of branches and offices was smaller in 1954 than in 1948. Particularly was this true of firms operating a small number of sales branches and sales offices. This appears to have resulted from the inclusion of some sales branches and sales offices in plant reports or in general office reports of manufacturers. Employment and payroll for branches and offices included in plant reports, or reported as auxiliary to manufacturing, are included in the Census of Manufactures.

An analysis of a sample of firms reporting sales branches and sales offices in 1948, but not in 1954, indicated that for the country as a whole between 5 and 10 percent of the sales branches with stocks and a slightly higher percentage of the sales offices without stocks which were in the 1948 Wholesale Census were not enumerated as these types of establishments in 1954. However, the effect on sales is somewhat less, since such establishments generally were smaller than the average.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF DATA

In accordance with Census law, any data which would disclose the operations of an individual establishment or business organization are not published. The number of establishments in a kind of business is not considered a disclosure by Census rules, so that this item is shown in instances where other items of information for the same establishments are suppressed.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

GENERAL SUMMARY

Establishments.-- There were 252,318 establishments or places of business in the continental United States, at the end of 1954, primarily engaged in marketing merchandise at wholesale. In this count of establishments each wholesale location of organizations operating more than one place of business is counted separately. The number is limited, however, to places of business that employed one or more persons on a payroll basis during 1954; unincorporated businesses without paid employees are excluded. The importance of this latter group is measured in Table Y on page 21, but such businesses are omitted from all other wholesale trade tabulations of the 1954 Census of Business.

An establishment is considered to be primarily engaged in wholesale trade when its principal business is buying and selling merchandise at wholesale, or in acting as an agent or broker in marketing merchandise at wholesale. "At wholesale" includes marketing or selling merchandise to retailers; to other wholesalers; or to industrial, commercial, professional, and similar types of users, in contrast to selling to household consumers, to individuals for personal use or to farmers. Sales of the latter type are considered as retail sales.

The number of wholesale establishments in 1954 represented an increase of 17 percent over 1948, the year of the most recent Census of Business prior to 1954. Table A which follows shows the number of wholesale establishments for each of the Census years 1954, 1948, 1939, and 1929.

Employment and Payroll.-- A total of 2,837,652 persons were engaged in Wholesale Trade in November 1954. Of this number, 151,213 were owners of unincorporated wholesale firms actively engaged in the business, and 2,686,439 were on a salary or wage basis. Payroll--salaries, wages, bonuses and commissions--for the year amounted to $11.5 billion. Paid employees, 1954, are segregated in the accompanying Table A as follows: 2,590,236 employed at wholesale establishments; 96,203 at central administrative offices and auxiliary units. Central administrative offices and auxiliary units are distinguished from wholesale establishments in that the latter are primarily engaged in marketing merchandise at wholesale, while the former are principally engaged in servicing--accounting, warehousing, administration, etc.--the operations of wholesale establishments. A description of "Central Administrative Offices and Auxiliaries" is provided in the Explanation of Terms, Appendix F; and data for them are presented in Tables 9K and 9L. These data, however, are excluded from all tables on wholesale trade, except as otherwise noted.

Inventories.--Stocks of merchandise on hand for sale at the end of 1954 were valued, at cost, at $13.4 billion. Of this amount $13.1 billion was at wholesale establishments and $0.3 billion in auxiliary warehouses. Inventories, valued at cost, were up 28.6 percent, 1954 over 1948.

Sales.--Data on sales are shown in this volume for the various types of operations and kinds of business into which wholesale establishments are classified, but not for all types of businesses combined.

Totals were not provided as such amounts become difficult to interpret because the sales of different operating types represent significantly different inputs of labor, services, etc., (e.g., sales of merchant wholesalers compared to sales made by agents and brokers) and because of the fact that wholesale firms frequently make sales to other wholesale firms.

Type of Operation.--Wholesale Trade as defined in the Standard Industrial Classification system, in accordance with which

Censuses are conducted, is much broader than the common concept of "wholesaler" or "jobber" as it includes foreign trade merchants; industrial goods distributors; manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices; petroleum bulk plants and terminals; and merchandise agents and brokers, as well as merchants buying and selling goods, who sell primarily to retailers. For purposes of presenting Census findings, Wholesale Trade is divided into the five more or less homogeneous type-of-operation groups listed below and each establishment is assigned to one of the groups according to the character of its operations or nature of function performed:

- Merchant Wholesalers
- Manufacturers' Sales Branches and Sales Offices
- Petroleum Bulk Plants and Terminals
- Merchandise Agents and Brokers
- Assemblers of Farm Products

These five type groups are subdivided into twenty-two detailed types of operation all of which are described in Appendix B of this volume. Summary data are presented for each in Chapter 1, Table 1A.

As shown in the accompanying Table B, merchant wholesalers, those who buy and sell merchandise for their own account, constitute the most important type-of-operation group, with 165,000 establishments and $101.1 billion sales in 1954. Manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices were second from the standpoint of sales with $69.5 billion; followed by $39.3 billion for merchandise agents and brokers; $16.0 billion for petroleum bulk plants and terminals; and $9.1 billion for assemblers of farm products.

Compared with 1948 all type groups except farm products assemblers recorded sales increases. In terms of relative gains, petroleum bulk plants and terminals led with a 53 percent sales increase, followed in turn by manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices with a 37 percent increase; merchant wholesalers with 32 percent; and merchandise agents and brokers, with 20 percent. Sales of assemblers of farm products declined 9 percent (See Comparison of 1948 and 1954 Censuses, section 13). During the same interval 1948 to 1954, retail sales increased by 32 percent.

Compared with 1929, the year of the first Business Census, petroleum bulk plants and terminals recorded a sales increase of 571 percent for 1954; followed in turn by 330 percent for manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices; 258 percent for merchant wholesalers; 170 percent for merchandise agents and brokers; and 122 percent for assemblers of farm products. Retail sales increased by 252 percent during the same interval.

Kind of Business.—In addition to being classified functionally by type of operation, each wholesale establishment was also assigned a kind-of-business classification for purposes of compiling totals by kind of business or trade. The various kinds of business or trades into which wholesale establishments are classified are described in Appendix B of this volume.

Sales of merchant wholesalers, the largest of the five major types of operation of wholesale trade, are measured by kind of business in the accompanying Table C for the years 1954, 1948, 1939, and 1929. Compared with 1948, all trades save five—general-line dry goods wholesalers; piece goods converters; motor vehicle distributors; iron, steel scrap dealers; and coal wholesalers—recorded sales gains for 1954. Increases ranged from 3 percent for fresh fruit and vegetable wholesalers and for hardware wholesalers to more than 100 percent for stationery and office supplies wholesalers, construction materials distributors and for nonferrous metals distributors. All trades recorded increases in 1954 dollar sales volume over prewar 1939.

GEOGRAPHIC DISTRIBUTION OF WHOLESALE TRADE

Wholesale Trade as measured in Censuses for a State, standard metropolitan area, city or county represents the total business of all wholesale establishments located within the area regardless of the extent of the sales territory; that is, geographic measurement is according to the location of establishments from which business is conducted. Traveling salesmen, and their sales, are credited to establishments from which they operate.

Divisions and States.—Table 1E of Chapter 1 presents a summary of Wholesale Trade, 1954, by geographic divisions and States. The accompanying Table D presents comparative sales information for geographic divisions and States—1954, 1948, 1939, and 1929. Sales trends are shown separately for merchant wholesalers and for other operating types.

Measured in terms of portion or percentage of United States totals, a shift is noted historically in Wholesale Trade from the New England, Middle Atlantic and West North Central geographic divisions to the South and West—particularly to the South Atlantic, Mountain and Pacific divisions. In the case of sales of merchant wholesalers, for example, New England contributed 7.2 percent of the national total in 1929 but only 5.5 percent in 1954. The Middle Atlantic division (New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania) accounted for 34.9 percent of the United States total in 1929, but only 30.2 percent in 1954. Likewise the West North Central division recorded a decline from 10.2 percent in 1929 to 8.9 percent in 1954. However not all States within these divisions followed this general trend; for example, gains, as a percent of total were recorded by Connecticut and New Jersey.

Divisions showing the largest relative increases in merchant wholesalers sales were the South Atlantic—up from 6.6 percent of the United States total in 1929 to 9.0 percent in 1954—and the Pacific division which recorded an increase from 8.8 percent to 11.3 percent. Although small in comparison with the United States totals, consistent increases are also noted for the Mountain division, from 1.7 percent in 1929 to 1.9 in 1939, to 2.3 percent in 1948 and to 2.5 percent in 1954.

States recording one or more percentage point increases in their portion of the United States total, 1954 over 1929, were New Jersey, from 1.7 to 3.0; Florida, from 0.6 to 1.7; and California, from 6.3 to 8.3 percent.

Standard Metropolitan Areas.--These areas have been defined and established cooperatively by a number of interested Federal agencies under the direction of the Bureau of the Budget for purposes of compilation and presentation of a wide variety of statistical data on a uniform area basis. Wholesale Trade data on establishments, sales, employment and payroll are presented in Table 103 of Volume IV of the 1954 Census of Business for each of the 172 standard metropolitan areas in the United States listed in Appendix G. Data for these areas are summarized in Chapter 1, Tables 1G and 1K, and in Table E. Data for the 57 largest areas are shown in Table F.

The significance of the 172 areas to Wholesale Trade is illustrated by the fact that 169,000 or 67.0 percent of the 252,000 wholesale establishments in the United States in 1954 were located therein. These establishments reported 84.8 percent of wholesale trade payroll, 84.4 percent of the sales of merchant wholesalers and 85.0 percent of the sales of other types of wholesale establishments. In contrast, they contained only 56.5 percent of the population of the country.

There were 14 standard metropolitan areas with one million or more inhabitants in 1950. These areas accounted for 52.5 percent of all wholesale trade, but only 29.5 percent of the population. The 19 areas with 500,000 to 999,999 inhabitants contributed 13.9 percent of the wholesale trade of the country compared with 8.2 percent of the population. At the other extreme, that portion of the United States outside of the 172 standard metropolitan areas contributed 43.5 percent of the population but only 15.3 percent of the wholesale trade of the country.

Historically, little change is noted in the pattern of wholesale trade by standard metropolitan areas, 1954 compared with 1948. A slight drop is noted in merchant wholesalers sales as a percent of the United States total, from 86.5 to 84.4. This was offset, however, by an increase in sales of other operating types, from 83.6 percent in 1948 to 85.0 percent in 1954.

SIZE OF ESTABLISHMENT OR FIRM

Sales Size.--Each wholesale establishment was classified in the 1954 Census of Business as "operated entire year" or "not operated entire year" on the basis of the period of time covered in the Census report. Those operated the entire year were further classified by size based on their 1954 sales. Sales-size data are presented in Tables 2A, 2B, 2C, and 2D of Chapter 2 and a summary is presented for merchant wholesalers as a group, in the accompanying Table G. Data for tobacco distributors are also included in Table G as an illustration of the application to an individual trade.

About 3 percent of the 165,153 establishments in business at the end of the year operated only a part of the year; all others were in business the entire year 1954. "Part year" businesses contributed only 1.5 percent of the sales of merchant wholesalers. Of the 159,687 merchant wholesale establishments that operated the full census year, 815 reported annual sales of $10 million or more and 1,638 reported sales of $5 to $9.9 million. These 2,453 establishments (less than 1.5 percent of the total number) accounted for 29.5 percent of all merchant wholesalers' sales. Sharply contrasted with the high concentration of sales volume in the upper brackets is the large number of establishments in the smaller sales-size brackets. Over 25,000 establishments recorded annual sales of less than $50,000; another 25,000 reported sales of $50,000 - $99,000; and a third group of 31,000 reported sales of $100,000 - $199,000. Thus approximately one-half of the establishments each reported sales of less than $200,000 for the year, but as a group they accounted for only 7.0 percent of the sales of all merchant wholesalers.

The ratio of operating expenses (including payroll but not including the cost of goods sold nor compensation of owners of unincorporated businesses) to sales decreased as annual sales increased. This trend held true for tobacco distributors as well as for merchant wholesalers as a group. Likewise, the ratio of payroll to sales decreased as annual sales increased for merchant wholesalers as a group; but for tobacco distributors the ratio was fairly constant, except for the lower size brackets, at slightly more than three percent.

Sales-Size and City-Size.--Data for merchant wholesalers are cross classified by sales-size and city-size in Chapter 2, Table 2D. The accompanying Table H, shows the percentage distribution of sales by sales size of establishment and by city size. Population, 1950, is also shown for city-size classes as a percentage of the United States total. A high concentration of sales is noted in larger cities. For example, 44.3 percent of the business of merchant wholesalers is conducted by establishments located in cities of 500,000 or more inhabitants; however, these cities contained only 17.6 percent of the country's population. In contrast, rural areas together with cities of less than 5,000 inhabitants contributed 45.5 percent of the population of the country, but only 9.4 percent of the sales of merchant wholesalers. In general, the percent of total sales decreased from larger to smaller sales-size brackets and from larger to smaller city sizes.

Employment Size.--Wholesale establishments are classified in Chapter 2, Tables 2E, 2F, and 2G, by size according to the number of paid employees during the workweek ended nearest November 15. Data from these tables are summarized in the accompanying Table J. Establishments with one or more paid employees sometime during the year but none in the specified workweek are classified as businesses with one paid employee.

Of the 252,000 wholesale establishments in the United States at the end of 1954, only 2,451, or 1 percent, were in the 100-or-more employee size bracket; an additional 5,491, or 2 percent, were in the 50-99 employee bracket; and 21,736 or 9 percent, engaged the services of 20-49 paid employees. Thus, 29,678 establishments, or 12 percent of the total, each had 20 or more paid employees. These 29,678 establishments reported 1,500,000 employees or 60 percent of the total for all wholesale trade.

In the case of merchant wholesalers—wholesale establishments that buy and sell merchandise on their own account—only 1,318 of the 165,000 establishments reported 100 or more employees. An additional 3,481 establishments, less than 2 percent, reported 50-99 employees; and 14,701, or 9 percent, reported 20-49 employees. Thus, 19,500 or 11.8 percent of the 165,000 merchant wholesaler establishments each reported 20 or more paid employees as of the workweek ended nearest November 15. These 11.8 percent of the establishments accounted for one-half of the sales and approximately 60 percent of the annual payroll of all merchant wholesalers.

Employment Size and City Size.--In the accompanying Table K, which is derived from Table 2G and Chapter 2, sales are measured by employment size of establishments cross-classified by size of city in which the establishments were located. Each of the five major type-of-operation groups into which all wholesale establishments are classified is considered separately, and sales are expressed as a percent of total for the type-of-operation group.

As shown in the table, the most important single employment-size-city-size classification among merchant wholesalers and also for manufacturers' sales branches and offices is establishments with 50 or more paid employees located in cities of 500,000 inhabitants or more--14.3 percent of all sales of merchant wholesalers and 29.3 percent of all sales of manufacturers' sales branches and offices were in this employment-size-city-size bracket.

At the other extreme, some concentration is noted in the smallest employee-size bracket and in rural areas or smaller communities for petroleum bulk plants and terminals and among assemblers of farm products--15.4 percent of all sales of the former and 22.6 percent of the sales of the latter were by establishments with 1-3 paid employees located in rural areas or in cities of less than 5,000 inhabitants.

Summarizing, in the field of wholesale trade, manufacturers' sales branches and merchant wholesalers are large establishments from the standpoint of employment and tend to concentrate in the larger population centers. Petroleum bulk plants and farm products assemblers, on the other hand, employ a small number of persons and are frequently found in smaller cities or in rural communities. Merchandise agents and brokers are as a rule small employers but are concentrated in large cities.

Single units and multiunits.--Wholesale establishments are classified in Table 2H of Chapter 2 according to the total number of wholesale establishments operated by the owner as:

"Single units"--establishments of firms operating only one wholesale establishment; or "multiunits"--establishments owned by firms operating more than one wholesale establishment.

Over 70 percent or 181,000 of the 252,000 establishments were operated by single-unit firms, firms that had only one wholesale establishment at the end of 1954; and 4 percent, or 10,855 establishments, were maintained by firms with two wholesale places of business. At the other extreme, 27,215 establishments, or 11 percent of the total number, were operated by firms that had 100 or more wholesale places of business. The remaining establishments were about equally distributed among the other firm-size classification.

The accompanying Table L, measures sales of establishments for the various firm-sizes as a percent of the total sales for each type-of-operation group. Single-establishment firms predominate among three of the five major type-of-operation groups, with 72 percent of the sales of merchant wholesalers, 82 percent for merchandise agents and brokers, and 68 percent for assemblers of farm products. In contrast, 75 percent of all manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices are shown in firms with 15 or more establishments. Petroleum bulk plants and terminals show concentration in the two extremes: 22 percent in single-unit firms and 67 percent in firms with 100 or more establishments.

CREDIT, RECEIVABLES, BAD-DEBT LOSSES

Report forms used in enumerating merchant wholesalers in connection with the 1954 Census of Business provided for reporting credit sales separate from cash sales; also end-of-year receivables, and bad-debt losses. Results from this inquiry are presented in Chapter 3, for the country as a whole in Table 3A, and for standard metropolitan areas of 500,000 inhabitants or more in Table 3B.

Of the 165,153 merchant wholesale establishments in the United States, 118,008 reported that they did a credit business; 13,715 reported that they did a cash business only; and 33,430 failed to report on this inquiry. Failure to report the information may have resulted from a misunderstanding of the inquiry, belief that it did not apply, or lack of appropriate information.

Credit business predominated among merchant wholesalers as illustrated by the fact that the 118,008 establishments which reported credit sales accounted for approximately three-fourths of all merchant wholesalers' sales. Furthermore, credit sales represented 88.3 percent of the total sales of establishments reporting credit business. In 109 of the 161 kinds of business for which data are shown separately in Table 3A, credit sales exceeded 90 percent of the sales of those selling in this manner.

"Cash sales only" businesses, although they accounted for only a small portion of total sales volume, were particularly important among farm products merchants, beer distributors, and in some segments of the grocery trade. One-third or more of the establishments in the following kinds of business reported that they were on an "all cash" basis: Cash-carry food depots; beer, ale distributors; cotton merchants; livestock distributors; and iron, steel scrap dealers (without processing, preparation equipment).

End-of-year receivables amounted to 8.4 percent of total sales of those doing a credit business, and 9.5 percent of credit sales. Bad-debt losses--receivables written off during 1954 as uncollectible--amounted to 0.14 percent of sales or fourteen cents for each $100 of business. As shown in the accompanying Table M, credit sales, receivables, and bad-debt losses, expressed as a percentage of sales, were up slightly over 1948, the year of the most recent census prior to 1954. Receivables, however, were below the prewar 1939 level of 10.8 percent of sales.

SALES BY CLASS OF CUSTOMER

Dollar sales of wholesale establishments are classified by class of customer in Chapter 4. Two types of establishments are excluded from this analysis: (1) petroleum bulk plants and terminals, who were requested to report class of customer information for gallonage sales rather than for dollar sales; and (2) sales branches and sales offices of food processors and tobacco manufacturers, who were not required to report sales by class of customer. The class-of-customer inquiry varied slightly according to the kind of business covered.

As shown in the accompanying Table N, slightly less than one-half (45.2 percent) of the sales of merchant wholesalers was to retailers, with industrial-commercial-institutional and similar users constituting the second most important customer class (32.0 percent). Fifteen percent was duplication in the sense that it represented sales to other wholesale organizations—sales from wholesalers to subjobbers, wagon distributors, etc. Export sales amounted to 4.9 percent of sales of merchant wholesalers, while the remaining 2.8 percent represented sales to consumers and farmers.

Industrial, commercial and similar users constituted the most important class of customer of merchandise agents and brokers and of assemblers of farm products, taking 43.7 percent of the sales of the former and 45.1 percent of the latter. Wholesale accounts were the second most important for both type-of-operation groups with 37.1 percent and 34.6 percent respectively.

Some interesting trends are noted in comparing results of the 1935, 1939, and 1948 Censuses. Data for census years prior to 1954 are unadjusted for scope changes and some refinements in wording of inquiries were incorporated in 1954. These differences between 1954 and earlier censuses, although significant in some kinds of business, are not believed to materially influence a comparison of the type-of-operation totals for all kinds of business combined.

"Sales to retailers" represents a declining portion of the total for each of the three major type-of-operation groups for which data are shown in Table M. In the case of merchant wholesalers, sales to retailers declined consistently from 59.2 percent of their dollar volume in 1935 to 58.9 percent in 1939, to 46.9 percent in 1948, and to 45.2 percent in 1954.

On the other hand, sales to industrial commercial and similar users represented an increasing portion of the total for all type-of-operation groups—for merchant wholesalers 24.9 percent in 1935 to 32.0 percent in 1954.

Sales to wholesale organizations account for an increasing portion of the business of merchant wholesalers, but a declining portion for assemblers of farm products. No significant trend is noted in the portion of sales by agents and brokers to wholesale customers. Sales to consumers and farmers, although small, showed a tendency to increase.

Class of customer data contain an element of judgment as generally this type of information is not readily available from book records. Respondents were requested to report an analysis of their sales by customer class from book records, if available, otherwise on the basis of their best possible approximations. The results, therefore, are apt to be less accurate than data which are readily available from financial statements. The figures do, however, represent a combination of information from company records and information based on judgment of those most familiar with the subject. Completeness of reporting for each classification is indicated by the ratio of sales reported by class of customer to sales of all establishments. Data are withheld from publication for classifications having less than 70 percent coverage.

Some variations in class of customer inquiries are worthy of note:

Instructions on the form used in enumerating food wholesalers provided for reporting sales to restaurants along with sales to other institutional users as sales to "industrial, commercial, institutional, professional users," despite the fact that restaurants are classified in the Standard Industrial Classification system as retail businesses.

WHOLESALE TRADE—SUMMARY STATISTICS

Forms used in enumerating automotive wholesalers and electrical-electronic-appliance distributors provided for reporting separately "sales to repair shops." Such sales are included in the tables as "sales to retailers," but measured separately in footnotes to Tables 4A and 4B.

Forms used in enumerating machinery-equipment-supplies distributors, coal wholesalers, and scrap-waste-materials dealers made no distinction between "sales to industrial, commercial, etc., users" and "sales to consumers and farmers" as sales of the latter type are relatively unimportant to these kinds of business.

The form used in enumerating scrap and waste materials dealers made no distinction between "sales to retailers" and "sales to wholesale organizations," as all sales to resellers were combined. The amounts are included in the tables under "sales to wholesale organizations" as very few of the products of these trades are sold via retailers to consumers.

WAREHOUSE AND COLD STORAGE SPACE

Occupiable warehouse floor space of wholesale establishments is measured in Chapter 5. Covered in the tables are merchant wholesalers, manufacturers' sales branches with stocks, merchandise agents and brokers, and assemblers of farm products, but not petroleum bulk plants and terminals. (Bulk liquid storage space of the latter is measured in Tables 8E through 8J of Chapter 8, Petroleum Bulk Plants and Terminals.)

Floor space is shown for all establishments that reported 500 square feet or more. To give some measure of reporting coverage, the tables also present information on the number of establishments, sales, and inventories for all establishments whether or not they reported warehouse space. Ratios of inventories to floor space based on data for establishments reporting more than 500 square feet may be related to total inventories (including stock of establishments not reporting as much as 500 square feet) to provide some indication of total floor space requirements for the various kinds of business.

The number, sales, and inventories of establishments not reporting as much as 500 square feet of warehouse floor space are shown separately and include several classes of establishments: small businesses and businesses with merchandise requiring little warehousing; establishments normally carrying no stocks; establishments handling goods not normally requiring under-roof floor space; and establishments having warehouse floor space at the end of 1954 but failing to report it on the Census form.

It should be noted that figures given in Chapter 6 exclude space in auxiliary warehouses as measured in Tables 9K and 9L of Chapter 9, as well as warehouse space occupied by inventory in public warehouses (see Chapter 11), in bond, in transit, and in producers warehouses awaiting delivery.

As shown in the accompanying Table P, merchant wholesalers reported more than one billion square feet of floor space, 55.3 percent of which was in single story buildings and 44.7 percent in multiple story buildings; manufacturers' sales branches with stocks reported 137 million square feet, 57.9 percent of which was in single story buildings and 42.1 percent in multiple story buildings; and farm products assemblers reported 73 million square feet, 70.9 percent of which was in single story buildings and 29.1 percent in multiple story buildings. Merchandise agents and brokers reported 68 million square feet but they were not requested to distinguish single from multi-story buildings. Floor space for the four major types of operation combined totaled 1.3 billion square feet or the equivalent of 30,000 acres.

For merchant wholesalers as a group, sales of those reporting floor space amounted to $60 annually per square foot. Annual sales per square foot of space varied considerably by kind of business as indicated by the following ratios:

General-line grocery wholesalers	$90 per square foot
Confectionery wholesalers	$60 per square foot
Fish, seafood wholesalers.....	$73 per square foot
Meat wholesalers	$148 per square foot
Specialty-line grocery wholesalers....	$69 per square foot
Poultry, poultry products distributors	$128 per square foot
Fresh fruit and vegetable wholesalers	$73 per square foot

Similar ratios for other trades are obtainable for the United States as a whole from data in Table 5A.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

COMMODITY-LINE-SALES

All wholesale establishments except merchandise agents and brokers were requested to report sales by commodity line (or product class). Statistics compiled from this inquiry appear in Chapter 6. Respondents were requested to report sales of the specified commodity lines (or product classes) on the basis of records where available, otherwise on the basis of the best possible approximations. A complete list of commodity line classifications and product classes appears on pages 6-166 to 6-171.

The extent to which the commodity analysis was reported for any trade may be gauged by comparing the total sales of establishments reporting the analysis with the total sales of all establishments in the trade; e.g., for general-line grocery wholesalers the percentage is 73.7 ($5,421,215,000÷$7,353,560,000) according to the following Table Q.

Data published in this report are generally limited to kinds of business or geographic divisions where commodity-line coverage was 70 percent or more. Data are also withheld at the national level for kinds of business in which fewer than 100 establishments reported the commodity-line information. They are withheld at the geographic division level where fewer than 10 establishments reported on this inquiry. Likewise, data for a particular commodity line (or product class) are not shown separately where fewer than 4 establishments in the classification reported the particular item, but are included in the miscellaneous classification.

"Percent distribution" of sales of specified commodity lines represents the importance of the commodity to the trade as a whole. These percentages are based on "sales of specified commodity lines" and are computed by relating the reported sales of a specified commodity line to the total sales reported by commodity line for the kind of business. Percentages are published for major commodity lines only. In relating sales as reported for detailed commodity lines (for which no percentages are shown) to total analyzed sales for the trade, consideration should be given to any amounts identified as "not reported in detail." Such amounts, if any, represent sales reported only at the major commodity-line level, not as detailed commodity lines.

To provide a measure of the relative importance of a specified commodity line to the establishments handling the line, percentages have been derived by dividing sales reported for the commodity by total sales reported by the same establishments.

Historical Information.--Commodity-line information was also developed from the 1935, 1939, and 1948 Censuses of Wholesale Trade. A comparative summary covering general-line grocery wholesalers and hardware wholesalers for 1935, 1948, and 1954 is presented in the accompanying Table R.

Basic Iron and Steel Products.--Although other data published in this report refer only to wholesale establishments, the data shown for basic iron and steel products (Table D of Chapter 6) measure total sales of these products by all firms operating blast furnaces (SIC Industry 3311), or steel works and rolling mills (SIC Industry 3312), whether or not the sales were made by establishments classified as wholesale. They include sales made from general offices and from plants of producing companies as well as sales from sales offices located apart from the plant. Sales or transfers to affiliated as well as nonaffiliated warehouses, to oil-well supply companies, and to fabricators (except those operating plants in steel works and rolling mills) are also included.

A special questionnaire was designed in cooperation with industry representatives to provide data for basic iron and steel products, at the 7-digit classification level, comparable with results of the 1954 Census of Manufactures. The questionnaire was mailed to all firms in the United States with one or more plants classified as blast furnaces or steel works and rolling mills.

Instructions provided for valuing at market prices intracompany "sales" to another division or affiliate. Intracompany shipments to another division or affiliate which in turn operated a steel works or rolling mill were to be excluded. Instructions also provided for reporting total company sales without duplication among sales of district offices, plant sales, and sales of auxiliary offices.

"Sales" of basic iron and steel products, as shown in this report, may differ from "shipments" of these products as reported in the 1954 Census of Manufacturers for a number of reasons. Major points of difference are:

(1) Data in this report represent something less than the total manufacturers' shipments of basic iron and steel products as they are limited to sales of firms with one or more plants classified in Industries 3311 and 3312. Sales by other firms are excluded.

(2) Often there is a time lag between sales and shipments. Both the Manufactures Census and the Business Census covered operations during the year 1954. Late 1954 sales as recorded in the Census of Business may not have been counted as shipments by manufacturing plants until 1955, and thus would not have been included in the 1954 Census of Manufactures. Conversely, some early 1954 shipments as measured in the 1954 Census of Manufactures may have been based on 1953, not 1954 sales.

(3) Sales figures are sometimes valued at a higher level than shipments, as they often include some selling and delivery expenses--expenses incurred apart from the manufacturing plant.

LEGAL FORM OF ORGANIZATION

Chapter 7 presents data for wholesale establishments classified by legal form of organization and a summary is given in the accompanying Table S.

Slightly more than one-half (127,748) of the 252,318 wholesale establishments in the United States at the end of 1954 were operated by incorporated firms. Individual proprietorships were second in number with 70,363 establishments, followed in turn by partnerships with 38,923 establishments, and cooperative associations with 5,925 wholesale places of business. The remaining 9,359 establishments represented other forms of organization—State operated businesses, special trusts, etc.—or those establishments which failed to report their appropriate classification.

For merchant wholesalers, corporations—other than incorporated cooperatives—accounted for 68 percent of all the sales; for manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices, 95 percent; for petroleum bulk plants and terminals, 87 percent; for merchandise agents and brokers, 41 percent; and for assemblers of farm products, 30 percent. Cooperative associations, although of minor importance among other types of operation, contributed 35 percent of all sales of assemblers of farm products.

PETROLEUM BULK PLANTS AND TERMINALS

A special chapter of this volume has been devoted to the operations of petroleum bulk plants and terminals (see Chapter 8). A summary of storage capacity appears in the accompanying Table T.

Storage capacity, petroleum bulk plants and terminals totaled 12,497 million gallons as of the end of 1954: 487 million or 4 percent of which was assigned to aviation gasoline; 4,880 million, or 39 percent, to other gasolines; 1,995 million or 16 percent to kerosene; 4,032 million or 32 percent, to distillate fuel oils; and 1,103 million gallons or 9 percent, to residual fuels. Storage capacity increased 61 percent during the six year interval 1948 to 1954—from 7,767 million to 12,497 million gallons. Space assigned to gasoline increased 47 percent; to kerosene 85 percent; and space assigned to heavier liquid fuels increased 69 percent.

The accompanying Table U presents a "supply and disposition" analysis for three principal products: gasoline, kerosene, and distillate fuel oils. Exact agreement between supply and disposition is not expected for a number of reasons, among which are evaporation, loss, and damage of products; use of products by distributors; shipments of imported products directly to consumers; and a slight amount of duplication in export figures as explained in footnote 2 of the accompanying table. It is interesting to note, however, that imbalance is in the magnitude of only one percent for gasoline and approximately 10 percent for kerosene and distillate fuel oils.

One possible factor in the higher ratios for kerosene and distillate fuel oils may be differences in concept of retailer versus wholesaler in this area. It is probable that petroleum marketers considered as jobbers some firms which the Census classified as retail fuel oil dealers.

Residual fuel oils are not included in the table as imports constitute a substantial portion of the trade and there is no Census measure of the extent to which the user is also the importer.

MISCELLANEOUS SUBJECTS

A number of subjects are covered in Chapter 9 as indicated in the table of contents on page 9-1. Some of these subjects are reviewed briefly in the following paragraphs.

Lumber Wholesalers' Purchases and Inventories.—Lumber wholesalers were requested to report in connection with the 1954 Census of Business their lumber purchases and inventories in terms of thousands of board feet—softwoods, hardwood flooring, and other hardwoods separately. The results of this inquiry are presented in Chapter 9, Table 9C, and they are summarized in the accompanying Table V. For purposes of presenting the findings lumber wholesalers are subclassified into those with yards and those without yards.

At the end of 1954, there were in the United States 1,124 lumber distributors (with yards) with sales of $1.1 billion and 1,678 lumber wholesalers (without yards) with sales of $1.6 billion for the year. Only 775 of these 1,124 lumber distributors and 839 wholesalers reported purchases and inventories in board feet.

Total sales, including other products as well as lumber, for the 775 distributors accounted for 72.8 percent of the sales of all lumber distributors; sales of the 839 wholesalers without yards accounted for 67.1 percent of the total sales for this classification.

The 775 distributors with yards reported purchases of softwoods totaling 5.3 billion board feet, and if the ratio of board feet purchases to dollar sales as calculated for these 775 establishments were representative of all establishments in the classification, lumber distributors with yards marketed some 7 billion board feet of softwoods. Likewise on the basis of assumptions similar to those above, purchases of softwoods by Imports: It is recognized that imports, indicated here as a part of supply, do not always move through domestic refineries, bulk plants, or terminals. Exports: Because bulk plants and terminals were instructed to include their exports with "sales to retailers, users, and consumers," the amounts reported in this table as "bulk plant, terminal sales to retailers, etc." partially duplicate amounts shown as "exports." This duplication is negligible since refiners were instructed to exclude export shipments direct from refineries from "sales to retailers, users, and consumers." ³Source—Annual Petroleum Statement No. 398, Bureau of Mines, U. S. Department of Interior. Data include bulk terminal, transit, and pipeline stocks only. ⁴Data from table 8K of this report, projected to 100 percent coverage by arbitrarily assuming that the incomplete reporting, 6.2 percent overall, was applicable to each item. ⁵Data from table 8K Supplement of this report.

wholesalers without yards may have approximated 15 billion board feet. The 775 distributors with yards reported 638 million board feet of softwood inventories on hand at the end of the year, or approximately 1/8 of their annual purchases. Information on hardwood flooring and other hardwoods, as well as data on softwoods, is presented in Table 9C.

Transactions of Merchandise Agents and Brokers.—The business of merchandise agents and brokers is analyzed in Table 9F of Chapter 9 according to type of transaction to show sales on an agency basis for the account of others, purchases for the account of others, and sales on own account (jobbing business). Virtually all (96.9 percent) of the business of these types of establishments was conducted for the account of others. Agencies selling represented 89.5 percent of all transactions and those buying for the account of others represented 7.4 percent. Buying and selling for others represent all but 3.1 percent of the transactions of merchandise agents and brokers.

A brief comparative summary, 1954 and 1948, is shown in the accompanying Table W, where it is noted that "selling on own account" increased slightly, from 2.1 percent in 1948 to 3.1 percent in 1954.

Bin Space of Grain Elevators.—Country grain elevators primarily engaged in receiving grain from farmers by truck or wagon and forwarding it to market, and terminal elevators of grain merchandising companies were requested to report, among other items of information, their bin space (rated capacity in bushels) and to indicate whether their elevator bins were primarily of wood, steel, or other materials.

¹Includes establishments without paid employees.

There were 6,580 country elevators of the type described above active in 1954 employing one or more persons on a payroll basis and primarily engaged in marketing grain. Elevators primarily engaged in serving as farm supply stores are not included in this count as they are considered as retail establishments and are included in the retail census.

Of the 6,541 country elevators reporting capacity, 3,476 reported bins primarily of wood, averaging 59,000 bushels capacity per elevator; 430 reported bins of steel, averaging 117,000 bushels; 678 reported elevators of other materials (chiefly concrete) averaging 150,000 bushels.

Country grain elevators were subclassified as follows: 2,398 as independent elevators; 2,488 were line elevators; and 1,694 were operated by cooperative associations. Cooperative elevators were larger, on the average, than others: there was a 109,000 bushel average capacity for cooperatives, compared with 87,000 bushels for line elevators, and 85,000 for independent elevators.

Grain merchandising companies operated 460 terminal elevators, elevators primarily engaged in receiving grain via rail, barge, etc., rather than by truck from farmers. This count is limited to those operated by firms engaged in buying and selling grain—mill elevators and elevators primarily engaged in providing storage and transfer services for others are not included.

Of the 460 terminal elevators, 338 reported 488 million bushel capacity. Ninety-seven of the 338—mostly small ones—were primarily of wood; 21 were of steel; and 95 were of other materials, chiefly concrete. Capacity of the 95 averaged more than two million bushels.

Selected Kinds of Business.—Table 9J of Chapter 9 presents information on number of establishments, sales, inventories, expenses, payroll and personnel by geographic division and State for 21 separate kinds of business. The 21 kinds of business in Table 9J are subdivisions or parts of the broader trade classifications presented for each State in Table 101, Volume IV, 1954 Census of Business. Kinds of business for which data are shown separately in the State tables are indicated in Appendix E of this volume.

UNINCORPORATED BUSINESSES WITHOUT PAID EMPLOYEES

Data on Wholesale Trade in this volume are limited, except for the accompanying text Table Y, to establishments that employed one or more persons on a payroll basis sometime during the year 1954. Table Y provides a measure of the "nonemployer" group. This group was defined to include businesses operating in a wholesale manner other than those represented in the active FICA records of the Internal Revenue Service. Information for this nonemployer group was furnished by the Internal Revenue Service and was derived from the 1954 tax returns. As an economy measure, data were compiled from only one-half of these cases and census results for this group were established by multiplying such findings by two.

Because of the limited amount of information available from tax returns it was not possible to classify businesses in this group in the kind-of-business detail presented in other wholesale trade tables. Also the number of "unclassified" is substantial.

"Receipts" as measured for these nonemployers represents "total receipts from business" of those marketing merchandise at wholesale. In the case of merchant wholesalers and assemblers of farm products, the amounts are presumed to represent value of goods sold, plus any commissions received on business done for the account of others. For merchandise agents and brokers they approximate gross earnings, plus any sales of merchandise sold for own account.

In addition to 52,746 merchant wholesalers, 22,514 merchandise agents and brokers and 4,932 assemblers of farm products, Internal Revenue Business Tax returns were completed by a number of "self-employed salesmen" engaged in selling merchandise at wholesale, but not engaged in buying and selling on their own account. They were omitted from the accompanying table because of the limited amount of available information, and the possibility that many of them may have been reported to the Census as employees by the firms they represent.

Table Y does not include unincorporated petroleum bulk plants and terminals without paid employees. The majority of such establishments in this industry are bulk plants owned by multi-unit concerns and operated by agents on a commission basis. In the 1954 Census such establishments were included in the regular Census tabulations since data for them could be obtained from owners of the bulk plants in the same manner as in 1948.

There were 37,000 wholesale establishments with no paid employees enumerated in the 1948 Census. The increase to 80,000 establishments in 1954 presumably was strongly influenced by differences in the enumeration procedures. The 1948 Census was conducted by personal enumeration in which only "recognizable" and "open-to-the-public" places of business were included. This method was not designed to cover itinerant business activities and those conducted from private residences and other places not recognizable as business locations.

LIST OF CORRECTIONS

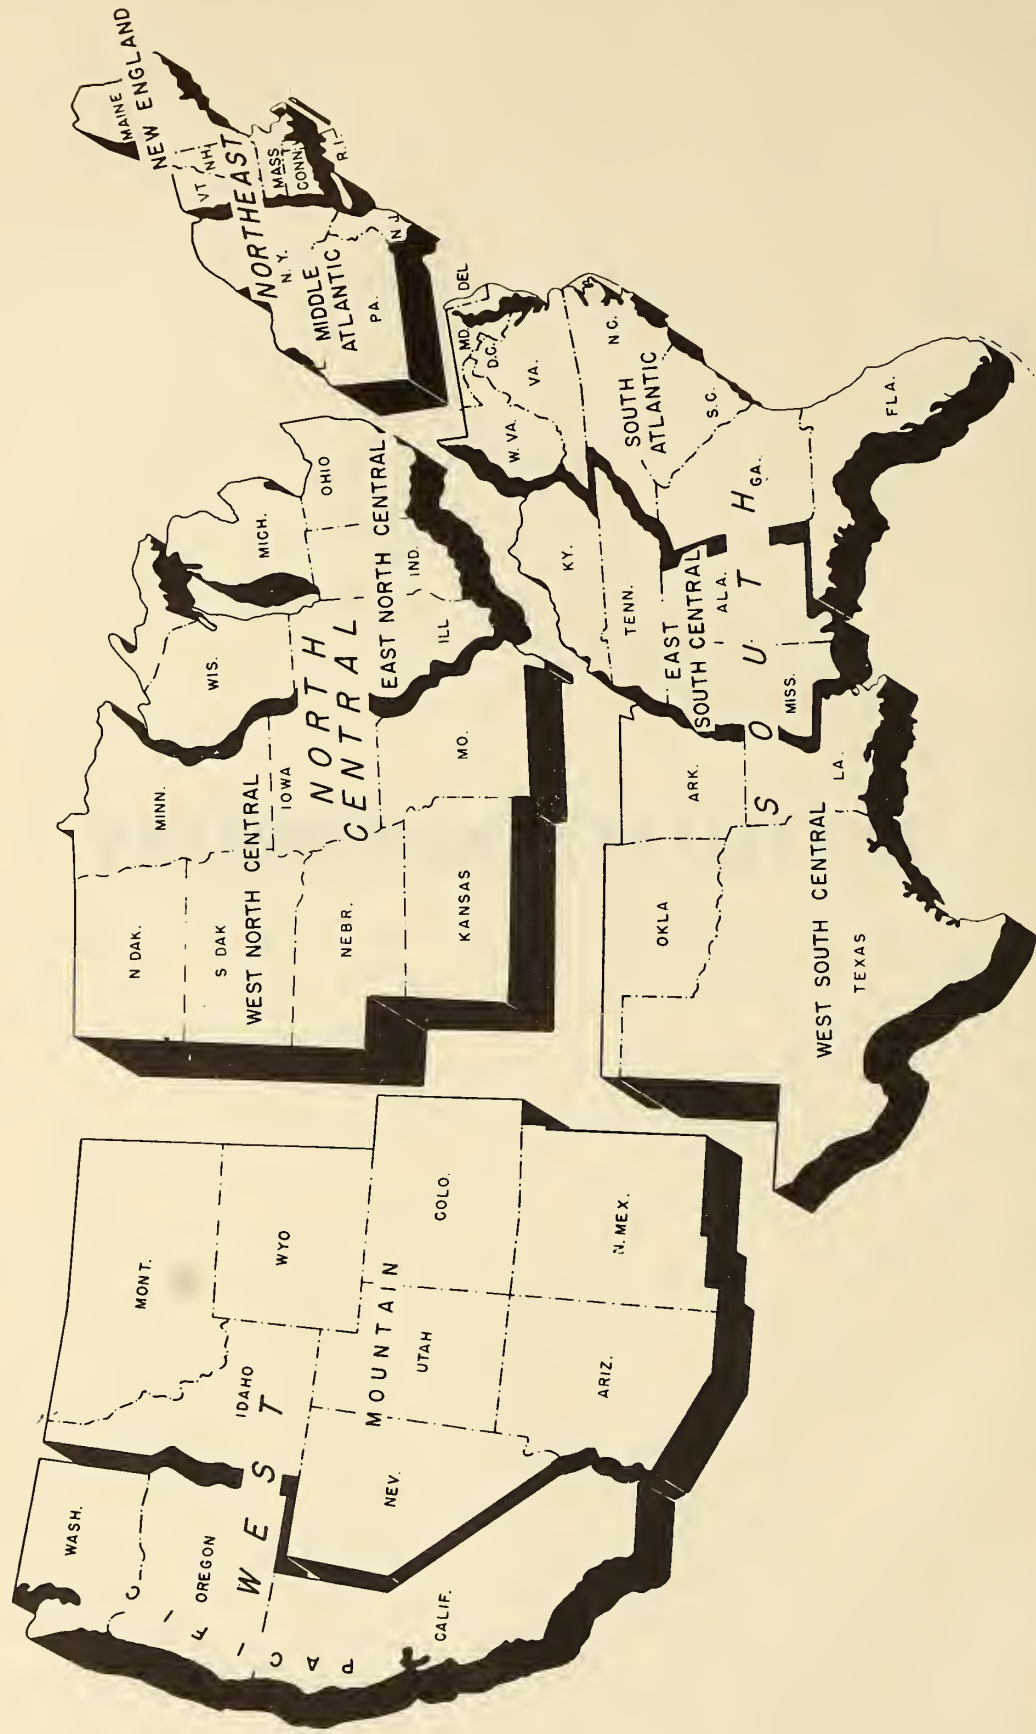

Volume III has been prepared primarily by assembling and binding the tabular portions of previously issued subject bulletins together with chapters covering additional phases of wholesale trade which were not issued in bulletin form. This plan was adopted to reduce publication costs and to expedite issuance of the data. The corrections appearing below represent revisions made after bulletins were issued and should be taken into consideration in using Volume III and the subject bulletins from which it was assembled. Also listed below are clarifications of illegible figures.

xxx Not applicable. Represent zero.
 1948 data in this table differ from data in publications of the 1948 Census of Wholesale Trade; they have been adjusted to the scope of the 1954 Wholesale Census.
 *Entries for agents and brokers represent brokerage or commissions percent of sales.
 †See item 6 of "Comparison of 1948 and 1954 Censuses" in the Introduction, page III.
 ‡Comparisons, 1954 with previous censuses, are qualified by the growth of a new trade, "Electronic parts, equipment distributors."
 §1954 data are not strictly comparable with those for 1948 due to different methods of enumeration (see item 5 of "Comparison of 1948 and 1954 Censuses" in the Introduction, page III). For example, in the 1948 Census there were 358 "recognized" transit-mixed concrete establishments compared with 1,996 in 1954, when the enumeration was based on lists of employees.
 ¶1954 figures include oil well supply houses which were considered as manufacturers' sales branches (with stocks) in previous censuses.
 ††1954 figures include sales branches (with stocks) of steel works and rolling mills companies—142 establishments with sales of $172,379,000.
 †††Includes tobacco manufacturers, lumber and products (except furniture), printing and publishing, coal products, and miscellaneous manufactures.
