Scotland Yard on Watch for Author of Bottled Ale Crime.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Realizing that the man suspected of poisoning Dr. Wm. H. Wilson, of this city, by sending him a bottle of poisoned ale on Friday last week, is now out of their jurisdiction, the authorities yesterday decided to abandon their policy of secretiveness, and made public the letters in the case, in the belief that it might aid them in their search. The first of the despatch letters sent to the Wilson house. It was mailed on June 23rd, at 1 p. m. from a station in West Philadelphia. The text was written on a letter head bearing the firm name of F. Scheemke & Son, and reads in part:

"Dear sir: We are taking the liberty of sending a few physicians' samples of our newly produced standard ale. We have decided to co-operate with physicians as far as possible in the introduction of our goods.

"If you find that the sample is to your liking and can conscientiously recommend our ale to your patients and friends, we request you to fill out and return the enclosed blanks.

The letter bore the signature 'Peter Scheemke & Son,' and there was a postscript: 'All ale should be kept cool and in a verticle position for a few hours before using.'

The bottle of poisoned ale was sent to Dr. Wilson on Friday, June 25th, and was drunk by him on that night. On the following day and before the public knew anything about the case other than that the doctor had died mysteriously after drinking a bottle of ale, an anonymous letter was mailed to the Philadelphia Tribune.

"I want to write you regarding the death of Wm. H. Wilson. This person was a malapropositor, and in some way induced my wife without my knowledge to become his patient. As a result of his treatment, she died a few weeks ago. To protect my name, I did not give all the facts to my physician, and she was buried with another cause of death being assigned. To rid the community of this wholesale killer, I have removed him as I would a weed from the garden.

"Now that in this service to the community is rendered, and the death of my dear wife avenged, I am going to quit this part of the world. This letter is true in every detail, and to prove that I am the person who attended to the matter I will tell you that the ale contained arsenic, and that there were two seals with the letters 'W. H. W.' in the matter. I had no selfish motive in the matter. By the time you get this on Monday morning I will be far away from home.

(Signed) 'Yours Very Truly,

"An Outraged Husband and Father." Following this letter is one mailed on June 28th at 3 p. m. at Back Bay station, Boston, and addressed to the corner. In the letter the writer says: "In my last letter regarding Mr. Wilson, I forgot to request you to give the matter to the newspapers, as it might be well to make the public know that there are some people who regard this sort of thing in its true light, murder, of the most cowardly sort." This last letter is signed as was the first one to the corner.

"That they were really mailed by the man who sent the poison to Dr. Wilson seems to be beyond the shadow of a doubt, for none of the points raised in the letters had been made public at the time these letters were received, and nothing at all was known of the case when the first letter was mailed from Bristol. The police last admitted that the man for whom they are looking for in the case is on the high seas bound for England, and that they have a description of him to Scotland Yard.

Muligan, of the Aquinas club, of Philadelphia, failed to get a place in his heat in the hurdles. The final in the 300 yards dash was won by Robert Kerr in 22 2/5 seconds. The hammer throwing was won by F. P. Gilles, with Dennis Horgan second. Gilles threw the hammer 184 feet 5 1/2 inches, beating the amateur record. The pole vaulting was won by E. B. Archibald, of Canada, with 12 feet. Archibald and Kerr are both entered for the Olympic games.

An account of how Bobby Kerr won the 100-yard dash appears on page 1.

Results of Races At N.P.A.A.O. Regatta

Seattle, July 4.—The annual regatta of the N. P. A. A. O. is being held on Lake Washington today. The weather is ideal for boating and large numbers of spectators are present lining the course from start to finish.

The first event of the day, the junior singles, went to Sinclair, Vancouver, by a few inches, gaining the victory over Donaldson, Victoria, who was in the lead to within a few feet of the finish. This race was protested by Portland and Victoria, these two entries claiming Vancouver got away two lengths ahead of the rest. A meeting is being held today to decide as to whether or not the race will be rowed over. Vancouver easily carried off the junior fours with Portland five lengths behind, Victoria bringing up the rear and making a poor fight. The junior doubles was the surprise of the day, Nelson capturing this event, and winning from Vancouver by probably two feet. As in the previous race, Victoria was all to the bad, neither of the two crews entered by the boys making any showing whatever.

The senior events start at 2.30 p.m. Portland is favorite for the fours. Debris, Nelson, for the single, and Nelson for the doubles. Philadelphia will very likely row in the doubles with Jesse, Jones being indisposed. The arrangements are very much better than last year, the races being pulled off with but little delay. The Victoria senior fours are out to win the big cup and all Victoria supporters are confident of victory.

ALEXANDRA WINS DUNSMUIR CUP

THOUSANDS WATCH GREAT FINAL RACE

Victorious Boat Holds Advantage During Greater Part of Contest.

Vancouver, July 4, 3.30 p.m.—The Vancouver yacht Alexandra beat the Seattle yacht Spirit in the final race for the Dunsmuir cup this afternoon, winning by two minutes. The Alexandra thus wins two races out of the series of three and holds the trophy for the ensuing year.

Vancouver, July 4.—The American visitors to the international regatta were feeling happy around starting time for the third and final race of the Alexandra cup series this morning. A light varying breeze from the southeast barely rippled the water of English bay, just the sort of a wind that the backers of the Spirit had hoped for. It was clearly not an Alexandra day, particularly as the course lay the same as yesterday with the first leg a spinaker run to the Point Atkinson buoy. That made the second leg a close reach, and the final leg, which proved the updoing of the Alexandra yesterday, another heat. Outside, however, of Point Grey there appeared to be a little more breeze, and backers of the Alexandra hoped that when the racers got out there the Alexandra might find weather to her liking. The exciting finish of Friday had its effect on the crowd to-day and thousands of spectators occupied the points of vantage around the starting point, while the accompanying fleet of sightseeing craft was easily double that of yesterday.

Dean got an advantage of three seconds at the start. Alexandra was skirting with jib and mainsail while Spirit had out a top mainsail and top sail. After crossing the line the boats were on the port tack and both skippers hoisted out balloon jibs. They pointed directly for the buoy off Point Atkinson but only for a few moments. The wind took a sudden shift round to the south and the big balloon began to flap. Thereupon Dean came about on the starboard tack and taking in the jib and breaking sail the spinaker. Geary did the same and brought the Spirit round directly after the Alexandra, also putting out his spinaker. The boats then headed on a long tack, sailing close together with the Alexandra barely in front.

The wind at times was not sufficient to fill out the big sails and they flapped in an annoying fashion. As the boats got farther away, however, the wind held better.

The boats held on this tack for some time before coming about and heading in for the narrows.

Further details of the race were not available before going to press.

READ THE TIMES

Many of the newest creations for stage costuming are notable masterpieces of the dressmaker's art. The women of the cast in "Caught in the Rain," in which William Collier appears at the Victoria Theatre on Monday night, wear some very chic frocks and frills. Ellen Mortimer's first gown is a lavender voile over lavender tulle, feta, deep tucks at the bottom, a shirred belt, the square neck piped with blue silk and filled with tiny lace.
Her hat is a white lingerie, with trimming of blue ribbon loops and lavender flowers. In the second act, she wears a green satin. Director's gown: the surplice cut waist is filled in with chif-fon, and the edges outlined with pink satin which ends in a sash at the back;

silver and gold embroidery on bands of the satin also follow the surplised outline; she wears a handsome dimond brooch and carries a black and white silver spangled fan. The next, a mountain costume, is a simple white wool-skin fitted-neck and buttoned on the left side, an outing waist of white silk turned over collar, black four-in-hand tie and white shoes.
Anne Bradley, who plays the role of Nellie Gardner, wears a green tulle feta, a two piece dress befitting with the same material, a lace gimp and large white hat trimmed with green feathers.
The other gown for her appearance in the second act is a handsome white satin, plain, but stylish in cut and having a wide Empire girdle and sash of embroidered blue satin. Helena Collier-Garrick makes a chic appearance in a black French broadcloth, the long coat cut away in front lined with white die, set off the skirt; the square neck and short puffed sleeves are finished with the gray silk and girdle of the same, holds the fullness to the waist.
Again, she looks aesthetic in an old blue French broadcloth, a stylish sweeper plain skirt, a wide silk girdle and short Empire coat braided in soutache, a white hat with blue feathers and flowers, over all a long light blue silk coat with angel sleeves.
Women will undoubtedly take a great interest in the gowns in "Caught in the Rain."
The New Grand.
Closing a week's engagement in the New Grand to-night the Riva-Larsen troupe of acrobats and bar performers; Ann Hamilton and company in the Mexican playlet, "Beggars"; Nellie Burt singing comedienne and change artist; The Apollo quartette, and Mr.
and Mrs. Ralph Lewis in "The Late

Mr. Wildoats," besides the usual stock fixtures.
Next week Mr. Jamieson will have as a headliner the most sensational vaudeville feature of the season in the person of Sirronje, "Lady Raffles," the handcuff queen, whose feats baffle speculation, and whose triumphs have earned storms of applause before audiences the world over. Sirronje will exhibit numbers of new and startling things in the handcuff line, and will break away from the cold embrace of the steel cylinders as easily as ordinary people would break a piece of thread.
Prominent local firms will co-operate in endeavoring to prepare tests from which she cannot escape and if they do they will accomplish something that no one else has been able to do anywhere in the world. Interest and curiosity in regard to this act is already strong in the city owing to reports as to the sensation it created in Seattle and in Vancouver last week, and Manager Jamieson looks for the biggest business in the history of the Grand, particularly in view of the fact that the supporting acts on the bill for the coming week are reported good and valuable. The popular tenor and soprano, T. W. Eckert and Emma Berg will present their musical fantasy, "The Land of Two Moons," with special scenery. This is reported to be one of the best acts on the circuit.
Alexander and Scott have a black face novelty which includes many new plantations, melodies, and concludes with a genuine surprise to the audience. This act is billed for a European tour this fall, opening at the Circus Carre in Amsterdam, Holland, in October. Parment, Russell and company includes four men who present an up-to-date scenic novelty entitled "Around the World in an Airship," including aerial singing. Ethel Pearson is a singing comedienne who is well spoken of. Thos. J. Price will sing the illustrated songs "I Miss You in a Thousand Different Ways," new moving pictures will be entitled "After Midnight" and "Trouble of a Flirt," and the orchestra will play as an overture "Goodbye," by Paolo Tosti, cornet solo with violin obligato.

Pantages Theatre.
This coming week Pantages theatre has a great attraction coming in the person of Robert Fitzsimmons, the ex-champion of the boxing world. He gives an exhibition of bag-punching during the evening together with an interesting little monologue. With him is his wife Julia Gifford Fitzsimmons.
Owing to the extraordinary attraction
during five nights of the week July 5th to 9th inclusive, the management in presenting Robert Fitzsimmons, champion middle-weight of the world, with his wife, Julia Gifford Fitzsimmons, surrounded with several added features offers the highest priced vaudeville show ever seen on the Pacific coast, will be compelled for this special occasion to change the policy of Victoria's most popular theatre to to-pleas. For this one great evening in vaudeville the prices will be: First 11 rows, reserved 25c.

Responsible People.
People occupying positions of high responsibility and trust are always very busy people.
They have little or no time to devote to side issues.
It is therefore very rare that such people are willing to write testimonials for anything.
Then again there is a natural difficulty in giving public endorsement to any commercial enterprise on the part of people who are much before the public.
Rare Endorsements.
It is thus that it is very rare that public officials, like governors, congressmen, senators, etc., give public endorsement to a proprietary medicine.
It is therefore a great triumph that Peruna has the unqualified endorsement of so many men in official position.
Scores of public officials of national reputation have enthusiastically declared in favor of Peruna in public print over and over again.
A Startling Fact.
There is no way to account for such a startling fact as this except that Peruna has extraordinary unusual merit.
After all people high and low are constituted very much alike.

can reserve your seats for the first show in the evening (commencing 7:30 sharp) at the box office.
The management requests that as many as possible visit the matinee.
Mrs. Fitzsimmons is reputed as the most gorgeously dressed actress on the stage, wearing different imported gowns at each performance. It is hardly necessary to dwell on the popularity of the great and only "Bob."
The patrons are asked to bear in mind that the raise in prices is for these five days only. Seat sale opens Saturday,

To-night the popular programme are appearing in musical specialties.

The children are the sons of Chief

WALKED ALL THE WAY TO NANAIMO
Three Victorians Made the Long Trip on Foot.

To walk or not to walk, that was the question, and Bob Foster, decided they should walk, and took them in hand through their training. On Monday at 3
p. m. he started them out on the road, and by the night time they were at the Seventeen-Mile post, where they slept, some of the time, when not disturbed by the wolves. Next morning they were at Koonig's, Shawigan Lake, for breakfast, and on Dominion Day at 8 p. m. they arrived at Nanaimo. Two of them are now on the way back. The third is already here, having returned on Wednesday night.
The three who decided after an efficient training by Bob Foster to walk as far round the world as Nanaimo, and after walking right out to their right round and walk right home again, are Jack Fitzsimmons, who accepted the escort of the Natural Enthusiasm.

When a person has been really helped in getting rid of some chronic malady, after other things have failed, it is quite natural for enthusiasm to lead people to make a statement of the fact.
For great services, gratitude is natural.
This is the only way that it can possibly be explained why it is that so many persons prominent in public, diplomatic and social life give testimony for Peruna.

Actual Benefit.
Peruna promptly relieves.
This is the explanation.
Catarrh is a disease difficult to relieve.
A great many of the doctors fail to relieve it.
Gratitude Results.
A few bottles of Peruna cure a chronic malady of many years standing and it is almost impossible to repress the natural feelings of gratitude which spring up.
Catarrh of Head and Throat.
Mr. Joseph Reiss, 2424 N. 14th street,
St. Louis, Mo., writes:
"I had catarrh of the head and throat, but through the use of five bottles of Peruna and two bottles of Manalin I was cured.
"I think that Peruna is the best tonic that I have ever used and I would advise all catarrh sufferers to use Peruna."

Catarrhal Fever.
Mrs. W. K. Good, Broadway, Va., writes:
"When I was fifteen years old I had catarrhal fever and for nine years I have had catarrh of the head."
"Through neglect it went to my throat and nose. After consulting you I used Peruna for four months as directed, and I am entirely well and have my natural health."
"I cannot praise Peruna too highly.
It will do all that it is recommended to do."
Peruna Relieves Catarrh.
Mr. L. Chafford Figg, Jr., 2525 E.
Marshall St., Richmond, Va., writes:
"As soon as I get a cold I send for a bottle of Peruna, and it soon drives it out of my system."
Despaired of Being Cured.
"For several years I was not entirely well, and despaired of ever being cured, but I sent for Peruna, and after using my friends advised, I doctored for two years without any improvement."
A Last Resort.
"As a last resort I tried Peruna, and am pleased to say that in a short time I was completely cured."
"I have not been troubled for over a year. I am pleased to endorse Peruna as it saved me a world of suffering."

QUEBEC CONTINGENTS.

Why do the newspapers of Vancouver rage like the heathen against Victoria? Surely a city with ninety thousand population, according to the directory, ought to be sufficiently dignified to put away permanently all childish feelings of jealousy. For our part, and we think we speak the sentiments of all Victorians, we are delighted at the prosperity which has attended the city of Vancouver within recent years. We rejoice at her growth and hope that the number of the first-class of the province may never grow less. At the same time we trust we shall be forgiven by our contemporaries the World and the Province for pointing out that it would be seemly on their part to cultivate a new spirit of liberality in their treatment of such questions as the representation of the militia of British Columbia at the tercentenary celebration at Quebec and the construction of immigration buildings in Victoria. The fact has been demonstrated that there is urgent necessity for federal detention quarters at this port. There may be just as much need for buildings of a like character at the port of Vancouver. Let the representative of Vancouver in Parliament convince the government, and the necessity will be promptly met. But we can assure both the World and the Province—the News-Advertiser is broader in its conceptions, and does not need to be convinced—that the fact that Victoria is represented by a cabinet minister had nothing whatever to do with the selection of a larger number of men from the local regiment than from the Vancouver corps to attend the celebration shortly to be held in Quebec. The matter was one which came entirely within the jurisdiction of the militia department. There are but six regiments of garrison artillery in Canada, one of which is stationed in Victoria. There are nearly a hundred regiments of infantry or rifles, one of which is in Vancouver. To make up a fair complement of garrison artillery men it was necessary to draft heavily upon the six corps. In order to give each of the ninety-six or ninety-seven regiments of infantry or rifles in the country a fair representation in the contingent to take part in the historic pageant a judicious selection was necessary. That is the reason, and the only reason, why the regiment in Victoria appears to have been given a preference in regard to numbers over the regiment stationed at Vancouver. We hope this explanation will be satisfactory to our cavilling neighbors in the city of Vancouver.

But, apart altogether from the reasons which influenced the department in making the selections from the two regiments, the fact ought not to be forgotten that for good reasons a garrison corps takes precedence at all times over infantry or rifle corps. The duties of officers and men in a garrison regiment are arduous and require diligent study. The ordinary routine, such as drill, handling of small arms and skill in shooting, is common to both. But, in addition, the officers and men of a garrison regiment have to thoroughly familiarize themselves with the manipulation of artillery to acquire the technique of what is in itself a profession. So it will be admitted that the department was justified in according the officers and men of the Victoria regiment some slight special recognition for the arduity they have shown in the discharge of their duty to the country. That the Victoria men have been zealous in their attention to the technical part of their profession has been demonstrated by their winning the highest honors in competition with representative artillery men, not only from Eastern Canada, but from Great Britain.

ROCKEFELLER TAKES UP HIS PEN.

John D. Rockefeller is going to write the story of his life, not with the object of dissipating certain wrong impressions which may have been created by the pen of Miss Ida Tarbell, of course, but purely in pursuance of the disinterested course for which the Oil King is famous. The moral of Mr. Rockefeller's tale will be that where there is a will there is always a way for industrious American youth to get along. The only thing necessary is for youth to take advantage of its opportunities. And Mr. Rockefeller says, if the opportunities do not present themselves they must be made. The really alive young man can make them. In making them the truly ambitious man need not necessarily consider his neighbors, Miss Tarbell, in treating of Mr. Rockefeller's life, made the mistake of assuming that the Oil King committed gross breaches of the moral law because he crushed without remorse every opposition in the oil industry which stood in the way of the monopoly he succeeded in setting up. The autobiography of Mr. Rockefeller will shatter the premises of Miss Tarbell quite as effectually as the Standard Oil killed the business of all private oil operators. It will also show the benefits which have been conferred upon the public by the Standard Oil monopoly. It was necessary to the ultimate public good that the interests of the few should be sacrificed. Some carping critics, incapable of appreciating the motives of a really good man, will of course say that Mr. Rockefeller in pursuance of his philanthropic policy, might have organized the Standard Oil Company without completely killing off all his competitors of limited sources. They will say he might have given them shares in the business, which he could have done at the cost of a few millions, a loss he would not seriously have felt. But John D. is merely human like the rest of us. After the manner of all conquerors, ancient and modern, he simply had to carry on his campaign without considering the feelings of the common people. What kind of a name would Napoleon have made for himself had his bowels been moved with compassion for his ordinary soldiers or for the ordinary people of the countries he swept over and laid desolate? The great Corsican's system has gone out of vogue in these latter days, but he has left successors who operate along entirely different lines, while accomplishing corresponding results. The truly liberal-minded man must make allowances for the changes which have followed the development of a new system of warfare. The people of the United States are proud of the fact that they have fought the greatest battles in the history of the world and left the greatest number of dead men on the field of sanguinary conflict. They are proud of their generals of past days and of the present day. John D. Rockefeller is the greatest industrial marshal the world has ever produced. We cannot understand why it is that he is so grievously misunderstood and so villainously represented by his countrymen and countrywomen. Look at the millions he has given for the advancement of religion and the spread of scientific knowledge. If he has taken these millions from the pockets of the public, where else could he have got them from?

We shall await the appearance of the life of Mr. Rockefeller as written by himself with a great deal of interest. We are confident it will completely vindicate his course as an organizer of industry besides containing pictures of his private bodyguard and of his private golf links.

Whoever Americans foregather this is a day of high feasts. As Americans have penetrated to all parts of the earth, carrying their intense patriotism with them, there are few places to-day in which the signs and symbols of independence—fire-crackers and oratory—are not making a loud noise. It is a significant sign of the times that in Great Britain one of the principals in the original fourth of July incident—the anniversary is more enthusiastically celebrated than in any other country than the United States. And the most prominent Britons of to-day do not consider they demean themselves by dishonour their country by taking part in the celebration.

Hamilton Times: The Victoria Colonist, which was forced to denounce Major Hodgins as guilty of stating to it his charges and subsequently accusing it of misrepresenting him in giving them to the public, still shows an eagerness to make party capital out of them. Its bias is shown by its declaration that the collapse of Hodgins's charges should not have ended the inquiry. Notwithstanding this, it has no good word for Hodgins, but declares: "So far as Major Hodgins is concerned he drops out of the transaction without anything that can be called laurels coming to him. But when a dog is as dead as the Major's charges isn't it well to bury it?"

A reader of the two local dailies calls attention to the verbatim report of Sir Wilfred Laurier's interview with the Boston Transcript which appeared in the Times last night and the twisted and garbled abstract of the same which appeared in the Colonist. But the Colonist does not pretend to publish correctly what public men either write or speak, and Major Hodgins can prove it.

The Minister of Education is showing his colleagues the country these days. His university talk is a good line. It is understood that Dr. Young will shortly take the premier and attorney-general north to his constituency on one of those jaunts, and probably they will take a look at the localities known as Big and Little Windy.

"Scandals made while you wait." That is what Major Hodgins learned by spalling at the office of a local paper.

TAX, RATE WILL BE ANNOUNCED MONDAY

By-law Fixing Levy for the Year Will Be Introduced by Aid. Cameron.

The question of the tax rate for the present year will be taken up at Monday night's council meeting. Aid. Cameron having given notice of a by-law fixing the levy. Whether there will be any increase in the rate over last year is not known, for while the expenditure this year will be much higher than last year, the assessment also shows a substantial increase.

The increase in the appropriations this year over last amounts to $75,549.70, or almost exactly 12% per cent., while the increase in the assessment as the roll was returned to the council was just a little over the same proportion. The assessor's figures have been slightly reduced by the court of revision, but not sufficiently to effect the relation of the two years. If the revenue from the levy on property were all that the city had to depend upon it would thus be necessary to fix a rate on what would be the rate for the year. But the city has other sources of revenue which must be taken into consideration, so that Aid. Cameron, chairman of the finance committee, does not know yet whether there will be any increase in the rate. The whole thing will, however, be figured out before Monday's council meeting and an announcement made then, although the by-law may not be put through all its stages that evening.

SEARCH TO BE MADE FOR MISSING LAUNCH

Fears Entertained for Local Party That Left for Anacortes.

Bound for Anacortes to join a number of friends in celebrating the 4th of July, Charles C. Matthews, of 313 Kingston street, with his wife and family and a man friend, left the inner harbor at 8 a.m. yesterday and have not been heard from since. Up to noon to-day telegraph messages from Anacortes stated that the party had not arrived. Grave fears for the safety of the launch and its human freight is felt by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, and T. J. Fox, who is a partner with Matthews in the local bowling alley, has wired for the tug Bute, now at Sooke, to search for the little craft.

Mr. Matthews set out for the Washington town, which is about forty-three miles distant, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in an open thirty-foot launch. He was expected to reach Anacortes about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the latest and promised, before leaving, to wire his partner, Mr. Fox on his arrival. No message was received by Mr. Fox from Anacortes until last night when a wire came to him saying that the launch had not turned up. Constant communication with Anacortes up till this afternoon brought the same reply.

There was a strong southerly wind blowing over the Sound yesterday which increased as the day wore on, being strongest during the afternoon. Whether the launch has capsized in some sudden squall or whether Matthews got as far as San Juan island, or the neighboring islands and decided to run for shelter are matters for speculation at present. If he reached San Juan he would, Mr. Fox says, have telephoned to Victoria accounting for his delay in reaching Anacortes. There is, however, a possibility that the launch, in being put ashore on one of the islands, has been so badly damaged that she cannot be used and that the party are awaiting some means of communication with the mainland.

The tug Bute left Sooke this afternoon on her way to port and if, upon her arrival, no news is received of the missing party, she will proceed to the islands to search for them.

A full practice of the Lacrosse club will be held at the Royal Athletic grounds to-morrow evening.

The steamship Transit, Captain Danielson, reached Vancouver shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon from Nome and St. Michaels.

A message from Seattle says that Mrs. C. L. Morris, who is at present stated to be in Victoria, has received a telegram from Nome informing her of the safe arrival of the steamship Ohio on which steamship Mr. Morris is a passenger. No verification of this report could be obtained this afternoon.

Forty-seven men who were carried on the steamship Princess Royal from Seattle were turned back to Vancouver yesterday morning. They were nearly all Italian laborers who were coming to Vancouver to engage with a labor employment office for work at Prince Rupert.

Mrs. Jenkins, school trustee, left by the Princess Victoria at noon to-day for Quebec, where she will call for the Old Country on the Empress of Britain on July 5. Mrs. Jenkins will spend three months in her home land and will especially visit an old school friend who lives at Neath, Wales, whom she has not seen since she left England 40 years ago. She will also spend some time in London and other parts of the motherland.

OCEAN YACHT RACE ON.

To-day the quartette of competitors in the San Diego to Honolulu ocean yacht race left the former port on the long coast. Hawaiian interest is centered in the fine yacht Hawaii built at Honolulu by public subscription. Puget Sound is represented by the Gwendolyn

II. of Seattle, which visited Victoria on the way south to take part in the race. California is represented by two yachts the Lady Maud and the Lurline, the latter being favorite of the four. Two years ago the Lurline captured the trans-Pacific race trophy and many are confident that she will repeat the performance in spite of the opposition of such a fine craft as the Hawaii.

WILL TAKE CHARGE OF PENDING APPEALS
Deputy Attorney General McLean Will Go to London.

—In order to look after the four provincial matters of litigation which are to come up before the privy council this year, Deputy Attorney-General McLean will probably leave for England next week.
—One of the cases on the list to be tried before the court of final resort is that of Watt vs. Watt, where the point is at issue whether or no the supreme court of British Columbia has jurisdiction in the important matter of divorce.
—This is an appeal from a contrary decision of Mr. Justice Clement, which was, however, reversed by the full court.
—The case of Norton vs. Fulton will also go to the highest court of appeal. It will be remembered that Mr. Justice Morrison allowed the plaintiff his costs in the action brought against the then provincial secretary, but withdrew the case from the jury on the grounds that at the most an assessment of nominal damages only could be made. The plaintiff appealed from the ruling, was turned down by the high court but was sustained by the supreme court of Canada. The verdict of the Ottawa court will be challenged by the defendant before the privy council. The original action was one taken against the provincial secretary of the time, Hon. F. J. Fulton, for failing to deliver a petition of right to the lieutenant-governor.

Another case to come before the privy council is that of Makine, the Japanese who was detained under the British Columbia Immigration act. The chief justice held that the act was ultra vires of the provincial legislature, an opinion sustained by the entire jurisdiction of the high court. The case has been appealed to the privy council by the author of the act, Attorney-General Bowser.
The fourth case is in the nature of an application for leave of appeal against the decision of the full court in the Williams-estimation case—a point of criminal law is at issue—whether it is an offense to counsel the commission of a crime which is to be committed outside the jurisdiction of the court. Special leave must of course be granted for an appeal of this nature.

—The name of the Northern Bank, which has a branch in this city, has been changed to the Northern Crown Bank, the new title having come into official use on July 2nd. The change in name is a sequel to the amalgamation of the two institutions effected a few months ago, but which did not take effect until Thursday last. The paid up capital of the combined banks is $2,250,000, but it is intended to issue sufficient additional stock to bring the amount up to $3,000,000. The new Northern Crown Bank, with headquarters in Winnipeg, will be under the management of J. W. de Courcy O'Grady, of that city, and starts with 72 branches, 22 of which are located east of the Great Lakes, and the balance west of them. The local branch is having new offices prepared in the bank's building, Adelphi block, into which it will move in the course of the next week or so.

—James Robison, of Dublin, Ireland, has asked the assistance of the local police in locating the whereabouts of his brother Robert Robinson from whom he last heard a year ago. This month a letter written by him at that time saying that he had come to Victoria from Salt Spring Island. The only description of Robinson given by his brother is that he is 5 feet 10 inches tall and of fair complexion.

—Chas. B. Wood, grand secretary, and H. E. Weymouth, grand vice, executive of the Brotherhood of Orlis, accompanied by A. C. McKeen, organizer of the order, will be in the city next Tuesday, and efforts will be made to hold a general meeting of all members in the city. The amalgamation of the Order of Orlis, which is a strong order in the East, and the Brotherhood, is contemplated.
—Special attention is drawn to Stewart Williams & Co.'s advertisement in this issue and as will be seen they will dispose of a quantity of fine old walnut furniture on Tuesday next; also a quantity of valuable Indian baskets collected by the late J. J. Austin, many of which would be hard to obtain today, except when an opportunity like this occurs when an old private collection has to be disposed of under the hammer.

—At the meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee, held last evening, it was decided to refuse the request of Lees & Mason for permission to move their boat house from its present location to one fronting on the causeway, as it was felt if one firm were allowed to locate there the council could not refuse others the right to do likewise. THE IDLER MAGAZINE

EDITED BY ROBERT BARR
JULY NUMBER

THE REAL REASON why you should order the JULY IDLER early from your newsagent is because the New Story "EASY MONEY" by HERTRAM ATKY, begins in that number. Although THE IDLER has always presented good stories by new writers, the Editor considers he is particularly fortunate in securing "EASY MONEY." It is filled with humorous situations, and supplies the thrill which a search for hidden treasure always affords. THE IDLER does not claim to have found the artist who illustrates the story, for it is humorously illustrated by G. L. STAMPA, a well known contributor to "Punch."

—The name of the Northern Bank, which has a branch in this city, has been changed to the Northern Crown Bank, the new title having come into official use on July 2nd. The change in name is a sequel to the amalgamation of the two institutions effected a few months ago, but which did not take effect until Thursday last. The paid up capital of the combined banks is $2,250,000, but it is intended to issue sufficient additional stock to bring the amount up to $3,000,000. The new Northern Crown Bank, with headquarters in Winnipeg, will be under the management of J. W. de Courcy O'Grady, of that city, and starts with 72 branches, 22 of which are located east of the Great Lakes, and the balance west of them. The local branch is having new offices prepared in the bank's building, Adelphi block, into which it will move in the course of the next week or so.

—James Robison, of Dublin, Ireland, has asked the assistance of the local police in locating the whereabouts of his brother Robert Robinson from whom he last heard a year ago. This month a letter written by him at that time saying that he had come to Victoria from Salt Spring Island. The only description of Robinson given by his brother is that he is 5 feet 10 inches tall and of fair complexion.

—Chas. B. Wood, grand secretary, and H. E. Weymouth, grand vice, executive of the Brotherhood of Orlis, accompanied by A. C. McKeen, organizer of the order, will be in the city next Tuesday, and efforts will be made to hold a general meeting of all members in the city. The amalgamation of the Order of Orlis, which is a strong order in the East, and the Brotherhood, is contemplated.

—Special attention is drawn to Stewart Williams & Co.'s advertisement in this issue and as will be seen they will dispose of a quantity of fine old walnut furniture on Tuesday next; also a quantity of valuable Indian baskets collected by the late J. J. Austin, many of which would be hard to obtain today, except when an opportunity like this occurs when an old private collection has to be disposed of under the hammer.

—At the meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee, held last evening, it was decided to refuse the request of Lees & Mason for permission to move their boat house from its present location to one fronting on the causeway, as it was felt if one firm were allowed to locate there the council could not refuse others the right to do likewise. In addition to this there was the objection that the location of such a building along the causeway front would have the effect of destroying the present appearance of the spot.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Lizale Stokes took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence, Belcher street, to the Reformed Episcopal church, where the Rev. T. W. Gladstone conducted an impressive service. There was a large attendance of sympathizing friends present and many beautiful floral offerings were sent. The members of the Ancient Order of Foresters attended in a body. The following acted as pallbearers: W. McKay, J. Levy, W. Boddy, T. Craigie, W. Paterson and T. J. Marrior.

A PAGEANT IN THE OLD LAND

PROGRAMME OF AN INTERESTING EVENT

City of Edinburgh Recalled Historical and Legendary Scenes.

When interest is being attracted locally to the proposal that a pageant should be introduced to Victoria to commemorate some of the stirring historical events connected with the Pacific coast some of the details of similar exhibitions in the Old Land will be of interest to Times readers.

The programme of the pageant which will afford suggestions for those who may undertake one locally, opens with an allegory of the city of Edinburgh. The following outline is given:

The castle-turret towered supported on the right by a maiden richly attired, and on the left by a page representing a hart.

Divinity to guide her in things spiritual, a winged figure bearing the open book. She is supported by two angels, Faith and Hope, and with them the third and greatest, Charity. She is followed by a monk, a nun, two choir boys, a doctor, a student, and two students carrying the model of St. Giles.

2 in 1 Shoe Polish is a railroad shine, quick as wink. Puts a polish on that lasts like patent leather. Saves and feeds the leather too, and makes the shoes last longer.

DUNLOP DETACHABLE BICYCLE TIRES. The New Dunlop Bicycle Tire for 1908, made by the Doughty Patent Process, makes a bicycle ride light as on air.

LET ME FIGURE WITH YOU ON SIGNS THE KIND THAT DON'T COME OFF FRED MELLOR Cor. Yates and Quadra Sts. Phone 2567. Late with Mellor Bros.

LACROSSE. MINO CUP PROSPECTS. Towards the end of July the Minto cup contest will take place in Montreal.

There will be two games played and the cup will be won by the team which secures the highest aggregate of goals in the two matches.

Lacrosse enthusiasts in New Westminster, Vancouver and Victoria are very hopeful of the chances of the British Columbia boys and think that they will be able to turn the trick on the Shamrocks when they reach Montreal.

The Shamrocks are now holding second place in the Eastern league, with two wins and two defeats. They were beaten on Wednesday last, Dominion Day, by the men from Toronto by the wide margin of ten to one.

Following on the defeat of the Shamrocks this week the chances of the British Columbia aggregation have risen with a bound, and although it is said in their game at Vancouver, Wednesday, they did not play up to their usual form, the men in the know of things pertaining to lacrosse maintain they have plenty left to take to Montreal this month.

The team to represent New Westminster in the games for the Minto cup will, it is thought, be the same as that which prevented the Victoria boys from scoring on Saturday, with the exception of one man. It is possible one change will be made but to date this has not been definitely decided upon.

The standards of the Eastern clubs is as follows: Won, Lost. Shamrocks 3 1, Capitals 2 2, Nationals 2 2, Toronto 2 2, Montreal 1 2, Cornwall 1 2.

THE KENNEL. VANCOUVER ENTRIES REFUSED. The Alberta Kennel Club has refused to accept the Vancouver entries for its bench show on the ground that they were received too late.

BASEBALL. WIN FOR NORTH WARD. North Ward ball team last night beat a nine representing the Capitals by 9 to 4 at Beacon Hill park.

MISCELLANEOUS. The Garrison and Victoria cricket teams are engaged in a match at the Royal Jubilee hospital this afternoon.

A MIDSUMMER VISITOR. Thirty industrious and progressive are members of the German nationalities. They make excellent settlers and have won a foremost place in many enterprises, particularly in the manufacturing line.

Recent experiments all go to show that there is a peculiar condition of the blood that favors the growth of cancer, just as there are certain atmospheric conditions that favor the growth of mildew on plants.

LIVELY TIME AMONG WOMEN

DR. FAGAN WAS UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION

The Admission of Consumptive Patients Under Discussion.

"Dr. Fagan, I'm afraid your hour has come." With these words did Mrs. Rhodes, the president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee hospital, call upon the secretary of the provincial board of health to explain, among other things, why he had persuaded the government to pass an order in council to the effect that all hospitals in the province receiving government aid should be comelled to provide for patients in the advanced stages of consumption. Before commenting what might be expected, she explained in chief, the doctor referred to the feeling of antagonism which seemed to exist between certain other parties and the anti-tuberculous Association. "Not only does this feeling seem to exist—it does exist," cried the doctor. "There is no use beating about the bush. At the same time there is no reason why it should continue. There is no reason why the workers for the Jubilee hospital should not allow others to work too in their own way. "Some statement was made by Mrs. Hasell that she heard that certain funds received by the association had been diverted. If Mrs. Hasell is prepared to back up that statement I'll give her $300. Yes, I have it here in my pocket," declared the doctor, as some of the fair ones present smiled. "But I don't think it will dare to be produced. "If you are prepared to make a personal attack upon me," declared Mrs. Hasell, rising in her place at the president's table, "I am equally prepared to resist. I saw in a report that $10,000 had been set aside for the building of a home for consumptive patients, and afterwards learned that the money had been diverted for something else. I did not mean that the money had been improperly appropriated, nor do I think that that meaning must be taken from the word divert. I don't think it is a fair thing to badly words. "As to their being a feeling of antagonism to your work—well, there has been. Perhaps there was a little undue pressure brought to bear because you thought hospital workers might stand aside for the anti-tuberculous movement. I wish to contribute in fairness to both societies, and I certainly didn't use the word divert with any idea of implying an appropriation of the money. Mrs. Day, wished to speak a few words in behalf of her friend Mrs. Hasell. She had heard the word divert used in regard to the funds in question. She had always heard Mrs. Hasell speak kindly of the anti-tuberculous movement. There had been no sinister significance in the use of the word divert. Dr. Fagan: "I don't presume that there was any allegation intended that the funds were appropriated. But the use of the word divert is very absurd. Why, we haven't even received the money yet which was said to be diverted. How could diversions come about unless the money was held?" "It makes me think sometimes that women

Are Back-Biters" (A general drawing-in of breath among the ladies) "the way these things spread about. We don't want hospital workers to stand aside. We want them to go ahead with their work, but let others go ahead too. "Concerning the admission of patients in advanced stages of consumption to the hospital, Mrs. Hasell said that the doctors had opposed this. "Here Mrs. Hasell interrupted: "I read the government order, Dr. Fagan, that all hospitals receiving government grants were to receive cases of acute consumption. In the statement I read there was no mention made of isolation, private wards for consumptives or anything of the kind, simply the crude statement: "Here is a statement signed by almost every doctor in town," said Dr. Fagan.

Responsible for Reports that appear in the papers," said Mrs. Rhodes severely. There was a general flutter of approval. "But," said the doctor, "How can you be sure that the reports are correct before they are allowed to go into print. "The doctor was plainly up against it. Like a discreet man he surrendered the position, falling back upon his chief time of retirement. "With dying consumptives," he continued, "we can do nothing. We can't take cases of advanced consumption into Tranquille. That is a sanatorium where we have to cure people. "Let me put the question to you directly, ladies. If you were dying, would you wish to be transported 250 miles from home to die. It is a savage and inhuman thing. What other method is there to adopt, but to put the patient in the hospital, where, near his people, he can receive decent and proper care in his dying hours. Besides, there is another and even more important reason for the consumptive refusing admission to the Jubilee hospital. I saw him sitting in his home with his six little ones about him. He was too far gone to care for himself. The result was that one of those six children has since contracted the disease. "Do you—can you think the government is wrong in causing the hospitals to be built alone—but others throughout British Columbia—in causing the hospitals to receive acute cases of consumption when they receive government aid?" "Let me read from some of the greatest authorities in support of my contention that all hospitals should have private wards for consumptives. This is what I find, read to me, please, the words of a certain doctor from hospitals because they have too long now they are kept out of the hospital because of the fear of infection. For the short sufferer, we have a welcome to the long suffering patient we turn away our face. "Now, can you see," went on Dr. Fagan, "that it is in especially acute cases of tuberculosis that care should be taken to avoid infection? This is the value of Tubercular Wards in our hospitals, when the patient is too dangerous to remain at home. It is for this reason that I asked the government to pass an order in council. We have taken our stand on humanitarian principles. "We were told," said Mrs. Hasell, "at least we understood, when Dr. Fagan first started his anti-tubercular movement, that we would be relieved of patients suffering from consumption. It seems we have labored under a great misunderstanding. "Mrs. Day: "Everybody knows that the cost of feeding consumptives is about times that of caring for other patients. Mrs. Wilson thought that if the government wanted the consumptives isolated in the way spoken of, they should build the structures for their accommodation. Everybody knew what the cost of such edifices was. "The cost of receiving patients suffering from consumption has been talked of since 1890, and I have never known the Jubilee hospital to be without one case of consumption," said Mr. Wilson. "I have seen patients there that must have been a source of annoyance to the other patients. He referred to hospital conditions in Montreal. They refused to take in cases of consumption and syphilis. The women of Victoria were leaders in hospital work. The big improvement in hospital conditions in the city was largely due to their efforts. He hoped that the inter-faction difficulties would soon be smoothed over. In delivering her address the president, Mrs. Rhodes, said that the Jubiilee hospital workers had special reason for thanking. In her dual capacity as president and treasurer she well understood the difficulties to be encountered in the fair maintenance of the work, and in giving justice and satisfaction to both patients and the public. "We have completed the children's ward by the addition of the Sun-Room Verandah at a cost of $785, and we have taken a long step forward in adding largely to the fund for the maternity ward, a need increasing with the growing population and difficulties of obtaining household help. "On the 23rd of May last our propiti-our hour may be said to have come when a little band of the faithful met to carry out the suggestion of a hospital Saturday. The kind words spoken, and the amount of money contributed by the means adopted, have justified our efforts. The president said she regretted very much the feeling of dissatisfaction that had arisen regarding the fact that had arisen regarding the fact to force general hospitals receiving government grants to receive advanced cases of tuberculosis. On the face of it this seemed a difficult if not impossible undertaking, with justice to present needs and the capacity of the hospital, and with the ever-present lack of any other fund for maintenance or particular accommodation, and all knew the perpetual strain involved by the lack of means. Concluding, the president hoped that the work of increasing the membership of the society would be vigorously undertaken this year. The following is the new list of officers: President, Mrs. C. W. Rhodes; first vice-president, Mrs. Rocke Robertson; second vice-presidents Mrs. Lewis Hind; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. S. Hasell. The following names were added to the executive: Mrs. Lewis Hall, Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. G. Gray, Mrs. Rissmuller, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Shallockross. Treasurer's Report. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Hasell, who explained that a few items would have to be omitted for the present as the full report was not yet in.

"You will take back the word?" asked the doctor. "I will take back nothing. I have frankly told the truth and offered my explanation of the way the word was used. "Do you take it back?" insisted the doctor. "She has given you her explanation," interjected Mrs. Rhodes. The doctor had to satisfy himself with this.

SALT SPRING HAS GRIEVANCE

BOWSER'S LICENSE LAW GIVES TROUBLE

Regulations, it is Alleged, Are Being Violated on Island.

An example of how Hon. W. J. Bowser's legislation abolishing liquor license boards throughout the province and turning over the authority formerly exercised by them to the provincial police force is afforded by the recent granting of a license to William A. Gatt for an hotel at Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island. Up to the present there has been no liquor sold on the island, and it is said, that it was because of this fact that many of the present settlers were induced to go there to live. Now, thanks to an amendment to the Liquor License Act, introduced by Attorney-General Bowser at the recent session as a government measure and passed as such, an hotel is to be opened despite the objections and protests of a large section of the community.

The story, as told by a resident of the Salt Spring Island, opposed to the granting of the license, is as follows: "Up to the present there has been no hotel on Salt Spring Island. The lack of accommodation for travellers and visitors has had its disadvantages, but still a large section of the people objected to the opening of a place which would combine the sale of liquor with the providing of accommodation for such people. No one, however, would undertake to build an hotel unless guaranteed a license to sell liquor. Finally William A. Gatt offered to build an hotel similar to the Louisville at Chemainus if he were certain of securing a license for it. Some 86 signatures were secured for the building and link for the proposed hotel, but when these were gone through and the names of those not qualified as householders within the meaning of the act struck off, only 55 were left. A petition protesting against the issuing of a license to Mr. Gatt was also circulated, and to it 50 signatures were secured. The total number of householders qualified to sign the petition, according to E. Waiter, deputy assessor, is 124. In order to authorize the granting of a license, it was necessary to secure the signature of 85 of them to a petition favoring such action, while any more than 42 signatures against it would prevent the granting of permission to sell liquor. Those in favor of the license secured only 65 out of the 84 required, while instead of 42 the opposition got 50 signatures against it.

"Another requirement for the securing of a license is that the applicant must be the registered owner or the tenant of the premises on which it is proposed that liquor shall be sold. The law also requires that the building and its furnishings must be inspected before the application can be entertained, or that plans and specifications of the proposed building must be submitted. These are not the only conditions, however. The application must be advertised for a month in some paper circulating in the locality, and a sitting must be held at which the applicant must appear in person, and at which also opponents of the issuing of a license may have a hearing.

"The license to Mr. Gatt is not the registered owner of any property on Salt Spring Island, and the building which it is proposed to license has not yet been erected, and so neither it nor its furnishings could have been inspected. The only attempt to meet these conditions is that rough plans were submitted, but no security was given that the erection of the building would be proceeded with.

"One of the chief grounds of complaint, however, is that the superintendent of provincial police did not hold the required open sitting, attended by the applicant, and at which any one objecting to this particular license would have a right to be heard. On the other hand, although the opponents of the license wrote to the superintendent of provincial police asking to be notified of the date of this open meeting, they have not received any word regarding the matter, and without it Mr. Gatt has been given a guarantee that he will be given a license as soon as his building has been erected. In addition to these aspects of the case I might also point out that, while the law requires that no license shall be issued for any premises within 300 feet of a church or school, the site on which Mr. Gatt is building is within 150 feet of a private school.

"For the life of me I cannot see what Mr. Bowser meant by making the change in the administration of the license law, and now that he sees how it is working out, it is to be hoped that he will revert to the old system. Altogether too much power and too much discretion is left to the police authorities. If he is wise he will go back to the former order of things with the least possible delay."

CONCERT AT GORGE

City Band Will Give Programme Tomorrow Afternoon.

The city band will give a concert to-morrow afternoon at the Gorge park. In addition to the selections by the band there will be a vocal solo by Thomas Price, "Beautiful Home of Paradise." The band's programme is an excellent one. It is as follows: March de Concert—The Heavenly Banner, Panella Overture—Mirella, Gounod Pilgrim chorus from Tannhauser, Grand selection (No. 1)—Maritana, Wallace Vocal solo—"Beautiful Home of Paradise," King Thoä, Price, Suite de Valse—Soldaten-Lieder, Grand Selection—Songs of Stephen Foster, Tobani Chorus—The Heaven's Are Telling (from Creation), Haydn Finale—Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep, Haynes God Save the King.

W. B. Maysmith & Co., who suffered loss by the fire in the Gorge park block, have now got back to permanent quarters again in that building. At present the firm is making a specialty of clearing up the remaining lots in Central park. Only a few remain and these Mr. Maysmith expects to sell in a few days. The subdivision owing to its splendid location, has sold very quickly, and the few remaining will, he is certain, soon be disposed of.

MAY GET RIPLINGER

Seattle is in hopes of having John Ripplinger, the fugitive former comptroller of that city, returned to stand his trial. He is in Spanish Honduras, where a large colony of fugitives from the United States courts are gathered. At present these men cannot be extradited. The prospect is that a large colony of criminals and fugitives will be broken up if the present treaty negotiations between the United States and Honduras prove successful. It is intimated in an official quarter to-day that the proposed extradition treaty with Honduras will be made retroactive within certain limits and subject to certain conditions.

ARE ORGANIZED, FOR ANOTHER SEASON Arion Club Made Presentations to E. H. Russell and J. C. M. Keith.

The annual meeting of the active members of the Arion club was held at Wett's hall on Thursday evening last, and was well attended. The retiring president, W. S. Goodwin, read his report of the general work of the club during the past sixteenth season of its existence, making special reference to the large list of associate members, the membership list having increased from 24 during the season of 1906-1907, to 224 during the season just ended.

The retiring treasurer read a most satisfactory statement, giving in detail the receipts and expenses of the club, and other matters relating to its financial condition, showing that after paying all its debts, the club has on hand a substantial cash balance with which to start another season, and enable the members to still further advance the cause of music in this city.

After the reports had been read and received, the election of officers and committee for the ensuing year took place, the following being elected: President, Frank Sehl; secretary, W. S. Goodwin; treasurer, B. C. Mess; librarian, D. D. Muir; conductor, E. H. Russell; assistant conductor, Herbert Kent. These gentlemen, with R. A. C. Grant, constitute the committee.

It was decided to hold the annual open air concert at the Gorge park on a date to be arranged, possibly the end of July or beginning of August, the collection to be taken up in aid of the Jubilee hospital.

Before the meeting adjourned, the president made two presentations, one being a wedding present from the members of the club, to J. C. M. Keith, who recently joined the ranks of the benefited, and a large group photo, of the members of the club, to E. H. Russell, the honorary conductor, as a slight recognition from the active members of the inexhaustible energy and painstaking manner in which he looks after the musical side of the club's work. Both Mr. Keith and Mr. Russell made suitable replies.

—W. Spencer, of David Spencer, Ltd., is at the Royal Jubilee hospital. He was successfully operated on to-day by Dr. E. Hall for appendicitis and is making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

Gold Finds on Fraser River

HISTORIANS OF PROVINCE

BY R. E. GOSNELL

(Copyrighted)

WHEN the first gold was discovered in British Columbia, the men who first panned it were the men who first panned it. These are questions which, owing to the importance attaching to such a discovery, ought to be easy. Authorities do not agree on the subject, contemporary evidence is at variance, and there is no one who apparently with absolute certainty can place his finger on the man, or the spot, or the first finding. Houston, who died about three years ago, claimed to have been the first man on the Fraser to pan gold, and wanted the government to give him a pension on account of it. Houston was undoubtedly among the first of the early miners. There are men living who confirm his claims. One at least still lives who formed part of the party to which Houston belonged. I intend to give the story as it was told to me and as it will appear for the first time in print. It will be necessary to clear the way a bit, however.

Historians of B. C. Bancroft and Dr. Dawson, who both studied to answer the questions I have asked by carefully investigating original sources, have told the story as it was told to them. I propose to give their versions, and to add what light I can to their findings. Bancroft, whatever we may say about him otherwise, was a great collector and an almost phenomenal compiler, as his thirty odd volumes of Pacific Coast history amply testify. The late Sir John George Bourne, no mean authority in such matters, told me he considered Hubert Howe Bancroft among the greatest of American historians. But Bourne was too far away from the scenes of his literary exploits, and was not sufficiently familiar with the facts of Pacific coast history to judge accurately. Nevertheless, Bancroft did a Herculean labor in getting together data that would otherwise have been lost and for which future generations will bless him, as some of the present generation now curse him for borrowing documents which he never returned, and for ill-repaying their kindness in comments that were in bad taste and undeserved. He was by no means a "fakir," as some have described him, but he was in some respects what in the language of slangdom is known as a "bad actor." However, in some of his phases as an historian, and a man I shall not now discuss him. As an architect and as a compiler, he did monumental service for which let us praise him. He was too mercenary, or should I say, commercial, in his instincts to be a real historian like his great namesake Geo. Bancroft, or like Parkman or Prescott or Lothrop Motley. He confesses to have written his histories on the cooperative plan, in which he employed many men and many minds to assist him. It was a practical and a money-making way, but as a method of making history it was fatal to uniformity of treatment and a sustained style for which Gibbon and Macaulay are so conspicuous, and does not bear the impress of one master mind throughout. His many "sequels" and "continuations" producing an harmonious whole and revealing fundamental strata of governing principles of causes and effects, what a great German writer demonstrates to be the "Philosophy of History." But for facts and references, considered as a collection, Bancroft beats the world, and any one having a set of his works should keep it. It will come day by day.

Dr. Dawson was also a marvel of industry in making notes and collecting data of a rather diversified character. He had other excellent qualities which Bancroft had not. Both of them, as I have stated, carefully investigated all the known facts, obtained orally or from official documents, newspaper reports and their statements are both interesting and valuable as bearing on the subject in hand, and that must be their pages than I otherwise would. Bancroft's History of British Columbia was published in 1886, and Dawson's "Mineral Wealth of British Columbia" was published in 1889. Both had exceptional facilities in having access to men who were still living to tell the tale and Bancroft, in particular, to papers and documents, not since available, thanks to the too great care he exercised in closing up the avenues to them.

Hudson's Bay Company and Gold. Bancroft, in his chapter on the gold excitement, starts out by rebutting the charges, one of many against the Hudson's Bay Company, of concealing the existence of gold, which it was alleged was long known to the company's officials. In this I believe Bancroft was entirely in the right. All the evidence and circumstances of the time go to show that, as a C. Anderson avers, there was no suspicion among officials of the Hudson's Bay Company of the existence of gold anywhere in the interior in either large or small quantities. Nine out of ten of the high officials, not to speak of the rank and file, would not have known gold had they seen it. Gold in the concrete, "in situ," so to speak, was just as intelligible to them as diamonds in the rough. So true was this that McLean and other traders to whom gold was first brought were unable to appraise its value, and took it to the trader or the miner who brought it rather than on account of its inherent value, as understood by them. It is wholly unreasonable to suppose they would, or could, have kept such knowledge to themselves. Not all the rigid discipline of the Hudson's Bay Company could have overcome the avidity of the trader, even if it were sufficient to keep his mouth closed. The story that the policy of secrecy was enforced to keep intruders out of the fur preserve is palpably a myth.

First Discoveries. I shall not here give the details of the finding of gold on Queen Charlotte Is. about 1851, or the reported existence of placers on the Skeena river in 1852, as not being pertinent to the main issue. Nothing came of them. J. W. McKay, one of the most observant and intelligent of the Hudson's Bay Company's officials in 1852, found particles of gold in exploring for land between Victoria and Nanaimo, of which he told me himself, but in quantity not sufficient to warrant serious pursuit. J. D. Pemberton, surveyor-general of Vancouver Island, in his look on V. I. published in 1853, also speaks of gold in rock, as among the metals found in the colony, but this only in passing.

com, and in his Northern Pacific explorations at Similkameen, his men panning it out at the rate of $2 per day. Henry De Groot, explorer, prospector, and writer, states that Chief Trader McLean at Kamloops "produced" gold dust from the natives in that vicinity as early as 1852, but not enough to awaken suspicion as to its being in paying quantities, and that various parties at different times prospected the banks of the Thompson between 1855, the date of the discovery of the Colville mines, and 1858, it was at Kamloops, on the Thompson, near its junction with the Fraser, according to some authorities, that the first gold was found in paying quantities in the province. James Douglas gives a very circumstantial account of it, writing in 1860. He says: "Gold was first found on Thompson river by an Indian, a quarter of a mile below Nicomen. His Indian friend was taking a drink of water out of the river; having done so, he was washing his hands in the stream, when he perceived a shining pebble, which he picked up, and it proved to be gold. The whole tribe forthwith began to collect the glittering metal."

First Real Strike. Bancroft gives various other particulars, too lengthy to be detailed here, quoting from Flaxman, Anderson, Douglas, Capt. Cooper, Waddington and others as to who first found gold and how the news was spread abroad, of how Adams, an American, gathered a small bag of dust in the Fraser and exhibited it on Puget Sound, how one of Angus McDonald's men in 1858, how James Cooper, 1857 prospector, and the British parliament committee a great rush, which within twelve months proved true, how that Canadians in 1854 went over from Colville to the Thompson and Bonaparte and thence to the Fraser above the Big Falls, how that they found gold everywhere and the news was carried to Puget Sound and thence to San Francisco. "To quote verbatim: 'De Groot's version is that in the summer and autumn of 1857 a number of persons from Oregon and Washington territories, familiar with the operations at the Colville mines, accompanied by a sprinkling of Canadians and half-breeds, formerly in the Hudson's Bay Company's service, set out to prospect for gold in the Thompson with the Fraser. They found several bars in that vicinity, and worked them with good success. He also states that it was the news of their success which caused the Fraser river excitement.'" secured his gold, which he carried to Olympia and there displayed it. There are at least three variations of this killing story, which it will be well to bear in mind in view of what comes later on. Dr. Dawson practically accepts Bancroft's version of the early discoveries as covering the ground traversed by various accounts referred to and others. It is evident, however, from what appears in Bancroft that the greatest amount of uncertainty existed at this time of writing about the real facts, and it is fair to him to say that he appeared to have quarried in every possible corner for information. So far as personal investigation has carried me, it is safe to conclude that some of it was founded on facts, some on hearsay after being carried from many lips to many lips, and a good deal of it true in the main but halting in exact detail. It is safe, too, to conclude that gold was found in the Fraser and its tributaries in 1856 and more substantially in 1857, and that the news of these finds conveyed through various channels, brought the rush in 1858.

Fortunately I have been able to locate definitely some information about the date of the discovery of gold in British Columbia. John Work, writing to his old friend Edward Ermatinger, in St. Thomas, Ont., who had been in the Hudson's Bay Company's service on the Columbia river, in a letter dated from Victoria, August 26, 1856, says: "Gold has been discovered at Colville, and even some found at Thompson's river and at Port Hope, about 80 miles above Langley. Some of the diggings are reported to have done well and high expectations are entertained, though it has not created much excitement among our men, and owing to a destructive war that the Oregon and Washington territory citizens got themselves involved in with the Indians, which if not entirely over yet, it was not safe to go by the way of the Colville, so that many adventurers from that quarter could not go, but we have lately learned that plenty are on their way there now and there are grounds to anticipate favorable results should, as is expected, gold be found plentiful."

There is positive evidence of one second writing to another from inside information, never expecting his information to be made public, that gold was found in the Fraser river in 1856, though two old Hudson Bay Company officials, who were on the Fraser before the rush took place, fix the date in 1857, and without shadow of doubt in their own minds, incidentally illustrating how difficult the true writing of history is, and how faulty a thing is memory. According to Mr. Work, writing at the time and with knowledge of the affairs of the company, men in plenty in 1856 were on their way via the Columbia to the Fraser. We know from Bancroft how badly some of these fared at the hands of the Indians in the Okanagan country coming from Walla Walla.

There is living at Hope an old Hudson Bay Company official named Yates, who came to Port Langley in 1854, and has been on the river ever since. He joined the company away back in the forties in his native island of Scotland, where so many others were recruited, came up the Saskatchewan in 1848, crossed the Rockies in 1851 and came down to Port Langley in 1854, at the time Mr. Yale was factor. Yates says he is 71, but I honestly believe he is nearer 81, is still strong and hearty, and can pull a boat, with its load of passengers and freight across the Fraser with gold dust. They had gold dust, they did not build a stockade at Yale, only a trading house. Standing at Millton. "The three men who before the gold excitement there were millions of dollars under my feet and I never knew it. I never saw the gold. We did not know the value of it, nor did the Indians. In 1857, Charlie Adams, after getting his gold, wanted to say the Indians who brought him from Yale, with gold dust. They knew nothing about it. All their business was done by barter. I had never seen a cent of money before 1858. Charlie Adams then wanted me to take the gold as an equivalent for goods worth about $2. It was the first I had ever seen. There was $15 talk about gold on the Fraser river before these men came down. I did not know where they had gotten it when they passed through the post the previous fall. When I was astonished when I saw them coming down again. This letter is already too long, perhaps. In the next I shall give two other versions, showing how the same set of facts may be viewed and remembered quite differently by other actual participants in these early events. Mr. Yates remembers a great number of facts quite clearly. After my readers have read all the different versions they can form their own judgment as to the possibilities which lie veiled in a mixture of seeming contradictions. I have set down naught in malice, and have not drawn upon my imagination to make smooth the inequalities of the narrative.

ed their way down and took a canoe at Yale and came here to Hope. I saw the gold myself. That was where the excitement came from. Murder, Then Revenge. "From Hope they went down to Bellingham Bay to buy supplies, intending to come up here again and go through the canyon. They found they could get through the canyon by getting Indians. Charlie Adams got an Indian woman down around Samahnee. They saw where it appeared that there was a halfbreed that had had this woman, and it was from him that Adams took her. The halfbreed followed them to Kellicoe, a place below Langley, where the two had some words and Adams was shot and killed. The halfbreed was hanged at Port Townsend. The coal miners there got word that Charlie Adams had been shot and they got the halfbreed and hanged him on the spot. There was no military or any other kind of law there then. I never heard of what became of the other men after that. "After that the excitement raised and for days and days there were twenty and thirty boats and canoes coming—coming—the all the time. The captain Governor Douglas, who placed a steamboat a little below Port Langley as a custom house to collect tolls—$5 from every boat. There was no Port Yale then. There were no houses there. They did not build a stockade at Yale, only a trading house. Standing at Millton.

Pioneer Mining in Fraser. "The three men who took the first gold out of the Fraser I remember well. They went from there to Kootenay. They came up from Bellingham Bay in 1857 and were going in with the Hudson's Bay Company's train. They were too late. The train had gone before that. McLean, of Kamloops, who was here with the fall train afterwards—with ten or fifteen horses taking little stuff, such as medicines and so forth—McLean said, 'you can come in with me to Kamloops. You can winter there, and I will pack your grub in from here, what you have with you. I will send enough horses to take you into the interior in the spring if you want to go.' Well, they agreed to go. And during the winter time—it was a very open matter—they thought they would go prospecting and they went down the Tranquille and struck the Thompson, and mined along as they went. They found gold, a little all the way down, and they called at Foster's bar and settled there. They were Joe Foster, Charlie Adams, and another, a Norwagian. I cannot remember his name. During the spring they made about $2,000 on the bar, and they came down then by the Fraser. There were no roads or anything then, but they work-

The Times Nature Club

On the boat going from Victoria to Vancouver I met an old man who had been staying at Victoria for some time. In the course of conversation he asked me if I had noticed the scoring of the rocks at Oak Bay and Ross Bay. I had not noticed them particularly at these places, but had seen the grooves made by the action of glaciers on the beach of Beacon Hill.

Few people who live in Victoria realize that at one time the whole country must have been covered with snow and ice. The fact that the climate there now is so mild makes it difficult to realize that such a thing could have been. It must have been ages ago, but the scorings in the rocks do not seem very old.

I have often wondered if I am right in speculating on the reason for this.

NIGHT JAR, OR NIGHT HAWK.

My opinion is that the rocks after being worn away by the glaciers were covered over by the glacial drift and this has protected them from the action of the weather, before which everything eventually succumbs. Recently, however, the drift has been washed away from the rocks by the encroachment of the sea, and the ancient scorings are exposed until they look as new as when they were first made.

I am writing this just after leaving the big glacier at the summit of the Selkirk mountains. I have had no opportunity to climb to get a close view, but seeing it from the C. P. R. hotel at Glacier is sufficient to begin with. The snow in that altitude is not dirty like it is in the valleys and when it melts a little by the action of the sun and then forms ice it is very beautiful.

stain them, but the coyotes are cunning. There were many birds to be seen, and among them a number of birds of prey. One large eagle hovered slowly over a swampy place and small hawks in large numbers were seen.

Cow Bird. One of the most interesting birds was the little cow bird. This bird has a similar habit to the English cuckoo. It lays its eggs in the nest of some other bird. Many people have tried to explain the reason for their doing this. The best explanation I have heard was given by a Victorian. Before cows came to the prairies the cow birds adopted the buffalo for their companions. These, seemingly incongruous friends, were mutually helpful. The buffalo always attracted numbers of flies and these were used by the cow bird for food. On the other hand the buffalo were glad to be rid of the flies which bothered them so much. These buffalo seldom stayed long in one part of the country. They roamed from place to place, and if the bird was to go with them there was no opportunity for nesting. For this reason the bird sought out some other bird's nest and laid the egg there. It is quite a common thing on the prairies to find a nest with three or four eggs alike and one very dark spotted one a little larger than the others. This was the egg of the cow bird. The cow bird is sometimes known as the buffalo bird. It is said that they sometimes accompany the moose or caribou herds in the same way that they did the buffalo.

Night Hawk. Speaking of the cow bird reminds me of the night hawk, sometimes called night jar, or goat sucker. The last mentioned name it received years ago in the times of man's ignorance when it was thought that the bird sucked the milk from the hairy goats, which was a matter of fact all they were doing was catching the flies beneath the bellies of the goats or cattle.

The night hawk is a near relative of the swallow, resembling them particularly in their method of catching flies. Their mouths are very wide, and they have a number of short bristles on either side which aid them in getting their meals. Like the swallows and all other insect-eating birds these are very useful. Owing to their resemblance to the hawks, however, they are often killed in mistake for them. It is because of its appearance that it has the name night hawk, and also on account of its habits of flying in the evening in preference to the day time.

It is in its method of raising its young, however, that the night hawk is particularly interesting. The two eggs are laid on the bare ground and there the old one sits on them for the required time and the little ones are hatched. One that I found several years ago at Comox, 2 miles or two from Comox, is given in the illustration. The eggs were laid in an open spot in the woods near the cemetery. Near the eggs were a number of pebbles somewhat about the size and color, so that even if the old bird was not covering them they were not easy to find. The plumage of the old bird was mottled something like the surrounding stones so that she was hidden although in the open. I photographed the eggs and later did the same to the young, but they so much resembled the ground that the picture is not a good one for newspaper reproduction. When the little birds were but a day or two old they could run if disturbed, although they could not travel fast. It was noticeable too that they were much livelier in the evening than in the day time, in this respect resembling the mother bird.

When cornered they would turn and utter a hissing noise and even peck at the top of my boot. When disturbed on her nest the old bird did just as the grouse would have done in similar circumstances. She flew off as if her wing was broken and dropped, struggling on the ground only a few feet distant. I followed her to try to get a snapshot with my camera, but she moved so swiftly that I could not attain my object. She did not, however, fly away until she had, as she thought, noticed me away from her nest. With a dog or a bear probably the ruse would have been successful.

Night hawks may often be seen in the neighborhood of Victoria and sometimes right inside the city living in the front rooms upstairs. Part of the front of the house was covered with a large Virginia creeper which climbed all around the bedroom window. One morning about 6 o'clock the farmer was awakened by a tapping and scratching at the window. He listened for a few minutes and then getting out found Titus asking in cat language to be allowed to come in. He opened the window and the tabby walked in, rubbed his eyes against his master's hands and felt quite happy. The next morning the same act was repeated, only it was ten minutes earlier. Again ten minutes earlier the following morning, and every morning for several days, each time getting earlier until the farmer was called at four by the friendly puss. This sort of thing would never do. The first few days he thought it rather smart of Titus, and he told all his friends what a clever cat he had. In a few days he got tired of getting up so early, and as the cat came earlier every morning he began to get angry. He made up his mind not to open the door. That morning puss paid his call at ten minutes to four. He moved, scratched on the window pane and then waited a minute. The farmer did not move. Then Titus scratched and mewed again, and waited another minute. Another scratch and another mew, and so on until the impatient man jumped out of bed and opened the window. Titus was quite pleased that he had won, but it was his last visit. That day some cousins from town visited the farm and took Titus home with them.

Bulrushes. I picked a couple of bulrushes this morning in Southern Saskatchewan. They were not quite as early as on the Pacific coast. The moment I touched them the pollen dust fell from them in showers. The pistillate flowers of this plant surround the top end of the stalk; the staminate flowers being lower down. When the pollen have fallen the flowers fall off and nothing is left but a dry brown point. The part that is so valuable for decorations is the pistillate part. As the staminate are picked too late in the season the flowers come off and it is found that each seed is provided with wings like the dandelion seeds and they float off through the air looking for a place suitable for growing.

Another Coyote. As I write passing along through Southern Saskatchewan, I have just seen another coyote from the window of the fast moving train. It was in the bottom of a small creek or covey and seemed to be feeding on something. It was very pale yellow and only about half as large as the one seen earlier in the morning. When I told several of the other passengers about it they seemed rather incredulous and none of them had seen either of the animals.

Attracted by Water. It is wonderful how a small stream of water attracts the birds, animals and insects, no matter in what country it may be. This was very clearly illustrated this morning. At one little stream near the railway I counted seven different kinds of birds, all there at the same time, and two of them were birds of prey. Anyone wishing to attract birds in their garden can take a lesson from this. It may be done by keeping a small pan always filled with water, or better still by having a small fountain always playing in the garden. The stream may be ever so small yet it will prove sufficient to attract the birds.

The Farmer's Clever Cat. Titus liked living in the country. He and his mother caught all the mice that came to the house as well as those in the barn. Sometimes, however, they caught a rat if one came to the farm. Both Peggy and Titus were like members of the family, and would have lived together for the rest of their lives if Titus had been just like other cats.

Titus' master and mistress slept in the front room upstairs. Part of the front of the house was covered with a large Virginia creeper which climbed all around the bedroom window. One morning about 6 o'clock the farmer was awakened by a tapping and scratching at the window. He listened for a few minutes and then getting out found Titus asking in cat language to be allowed to come in. He opened the window and the tabby walked in, rubbed his eyes against his master's hands and felt quite happy.

The "Day's Eye."

Beacon Hill Park is looking particularly beautiful just now. Nature has on her gayest gown. Even the lawns are studded with daisies of white weed, in spite of the constant use of lawn mowers. Did you ever examine a daisy or day's eye as it was called? Well, if you have not done so you have no idea what a beautiful little flower it is, although the weed is very hurtful to pasture land, and also difficult to eradicate. The true name of the "Daisy's Parent" is "Wee, modest crimson-tipped flower" is what Burns wrote of the daisy, which in Scotland is called the dog daisy. Then Chaucer also sang the charm of this daisy nearly 500 years ago. Thus: "What well by reason men it call may. The daisy or else the eye of the day." They were brought from England by early settlers and planted here. Next time you pick up a daisy just look at it closely and you will see how perfectly the petals are formed and what a delicate color they are, even the stems are very frail. They do not seem quite strong enough to hold the flower. That peculiar grace belongs to the daisy alone. Then the broom gives another touch of brilliant color, and observation will show us how all the flowers turn to the light and sun. You will find that the blossom is all on one side. Broom belongs to the pea family. That also was brought from England by pioneers in the reign of the Phantoms it was the emblem used by them. The same honor was accorded it by the French in one of the Louis' reigns.

THE CONDITIONS OF EFFECTIVE PRAYER

The Third of a Series of Articles by Rev. Dr. Talling.

The third article in the interesting series by Rev. Dr. Talling, now filling the pulpit of St. Andrew's Free Presbyterian church, is given this week. The title of Dr. Talling are full of instruction to church goers.

There is the difference between availing and unavailing prayer; yet all the difference depends upon observance, or neglect, of certain divinely-revealed conditions, which may be termed the governing principles of prayer.

But what they did not then know, and what our Lord could not teach them until the old dispensation had passed in the tragic death of Christ, and His resurrection as the ever-living Advocate, and what Christians so imperfectly understand to-day is the significance of approach through Christ, and the office of the Holy Spirit in communion.

But further, Peter is not only the foundation, and the principle of union in the church; he is also the supreme visible pastor and ruler, for Christ, who has all power, gives to Peter the keys. Not to James, not to John, not to any of the others, but to Peter only does He say: "To thee do I give the keys of the kingdom of heaven."

But is it true? If the words of Christ are true, then it must be true, because "whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth, shall be bound in heaven."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A NATION IN THE FASHION.

The International Sunday School Lesson for July 5th is, "Israel Asks for a King." 1 Sam. 8.

By William T. Ellis.

The most notorious murderer of this generation is the son of a man who was an honored and upright Presbyterian elder. The decadence of the second generation is so common as to seem one of the signs of the times; the foolish mistakes of the fathers may be read in almost any day's newspaper. Yet this sort of thing is not new, here we find it in a Sunday school lesson dealing with a period more than a thousand years before Christ.

Goodness is not hereditary, although the tendency of individuals, as of institutions, is to count too much upon the past, forgetting that virtue cannot be transmitted, but must be won by each generation for itself. A plant, a person, a nation, left to itself, has a tendency to deteriorate. The upward trend of life is to be maintained only by conscious effort and by assistance from without.

Like the Nations. A deputation of leading citizens called upon the venerable judge and stabbed him to the soul with a two-edged sword—the reminder that he had grown old and that his sons were not worthy of him. Such are the sorrows that come to the aged; and such is the thoughtless cruelty of the world. All this on the part of the elders, was but a preface to their real desire; they wanted a king, "like the nations." That was the hub of the matter. Israel had been prospering and achieving something like national solidarity. So, now that it had got up in the world, it wanted to be in fashion. It was restless under the distinction of being "a peculiar people."

Like many an individual "boulder" in New York, who has endured "in manner of humiliations in an effort to break into what he believes to be the not worth while, so Israel was going to follow the king-fashion, and learn that kings mean a new variety of troubles. Perhaps it is too much to expect that Israel should have perceived the pre-eminence of personality, and to have known that greatness consists not in imitation, but in originality. With its own distinctive life as a theocracy, Israel was better off than with a king, after the world-fashion.

Japan has of late years been taking on Western ways, sometimes indiscriminately. A curious consequence is that its modern manufactures are tawdry and ugly; the nation seems to have lost its historic sense of harmony, symmetry and perspective when it comes to the new arts. A Japanese house made "foreign style" is likely to develop unexpected hideousness, while the European clothes of the natives are rarely attractive. Yet in its own individual and ancient arts Japan is unequalled; with good reason has civilization gone into ecstasies over Japanese cloisonne, porcelain, paintings and embroideries. In somewhat similar har fashion American society has become staid and flat by being reduced to a dead level of uniformity. Madame Grundy places a premium upon conventionalities and frowns upon individuality. Yet she has run that person, than to try to do as "everybody does"; Israel made a fundamental mistake when it undertook to be "like the nations."

Patriot's Perplexity. There are many politicians, but few statesmen. Samuel was a statesman. He thought in national terms and took long views. His one concern was for the welfare of the whole people. Nobody would ever hear him talk about "my district," but rather about "my country." The stupidity and the short-sightedness and sins of the whole people burdened his heart; he had looked backward and forward, and perceived that this new folly of choosing a king was bound to result in evil. So, as many another great statesman has been forced to do in an hour of national extremity, he laid the whole matter before the God of nations.

Probably Samuel was disappointed in the Lord; he wanted Jehovah to confirm His own opinion and to deny the people's desire. The Almighty regards as very sacred the right of self-government which He has bestowed upon mankind. He believes in democracy. Even the Omnipotent One will not deprive men of their sovereign free will. He lets them have their own way, even to their own hurt. So He bade Samuel let the people carry out their desire.

One more protest he should make. The statesman's place is to utter a solemn warning against any popular error of judgment; but he may not become a pessimist or sink apart, because the advice he has given has not been followed. He is still the servant of the people and must go along with them, even if they do not go his way. Times change and the great men of one era may not hang on the heels of the next, crowning "the old is better." After this one solemn protest Samuel was not to continue nagging; but he was to cooperate in the new plans and remain a leader still.

The old order changeth, yielding place to new, And God fulfils himself in many ways. "Suffer Not the Old King." Kipling once wrote a poem as a warning to his nation. It was called "The King," and was really a free paraphrase of this eighth chapter of First Samuel, although probably not so recognized by the reading public. In this passage Samuel expresses Jehovah's warning concerning what a king will mean to the nation. Israel had not thought the subject through; masses of men never do. They did not perceive that their clamor for a king meant the rejection of Jehovah. The cost of this new fashion of government they had not reckoned, nor the burdens it involved. We always pay a heavy price for the attempt to be fashionable. The load of monarchial machinery and the consequent loss of individualism were all set forth by Samuel; but the people would not hearken to him any more than they had hearkened to the same warning written in the law of Moses.

There is no cure for the ambition to be "in society" except to get into society; where one soon discovers the hollow and unsatisfactoriness of it all. The only way to convince Israel

NO MORE RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" CURED HIM

Christopher D. Graham is a well known citizen of Ottawa—formerly in the City Hall and largely instrumental in forming the Ottawa Hunt Club. Mr. Graham's voluntary testimonial as to the great benefit he received from taking "Fruit-a-lives" will carry conviction.

Ottawa, Ont. Nov. 26th, 1907.

Dear Sir:— I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time—pains in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-lives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

I wish to state, also, that I suffered from hemorrhoids, or piles, for years, I used all kinds of ointments and treatment and nothing did me any good, but after taking "Fruit-a-lives" for my rheumatism I am entirely cured of these dreadful piles. (Sgd) C. D. GRAHAM.

have lived on the heights with their Lord. And, after all, there is no other education equal to friendship with God. They who keep company with the Infinite cannot be small of mean or sordid.

No ambition is worthy of the expenditure of a life's powers unless it is an ambition that includes two worlds.

To every Christian is given a song which the world never sings. "I shall be satisfied."

It is a terrible thing to become blasé. Ennui is more to be dreaded than smallpox. When life loses its freshness and sweetness, and there is no more newness or joy in it, a person has come to a sorry, sorry pass. For that is what it is, a sorry pass, when a man and woman whose ambitions are honest and temporary. The explanation for the frenzied performances of so-called "actors" is that they are the desperate efforts of faded and mentally impoverished people to achieve a new sensation. Go to the New York show show, as I have done, and study the faces there; the bubbling springs of joy seem to have all dried up. The countenances of these devotees of fashion show weariness and strain and discontent. By way of contrast, observe the faces of a convention of Christian workers; see the shining peace and joy which betoken that all is well in the heart. The secret of personal happiness and freshness and interest is with the spiritual-minded. It is the ever-entangling mercy of the Lord that is "fresh every morning and new every evening."

A fair test of love is this: In the hour of release from the tension of care and work, when the mind is free, do my thoughts turn instantly and unconsciously to those persons or things I love? Beyond question they do; and if my thoughts turn to money or self-pleasing or reputation, then I may know that I love these things above family or friends or God. David's soul instinctively sought Jehovah. He said: "I remember Thee upon my bed, and meditate upon Thee in the night watches."

What do we think about when we toss sleeplessly upon our beds? Do the cares of the day still haunt us, or do we consider the preciousness of Jehovah, with whom communion is ever possible and always sweet?

FORMAL INDUCTION OF

REV. DR. MACKAY

Well-known Ministers Present at Interesting Ceremony in Vancouver.

Vancouver, July 3.—A large and aristocratic audience assembled at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last evening to witness the ceremonies incident to the formal induction of Rev. Dr. Mackay into the principalship of Westminster Hall, as the new local Presbyterian theological college, affiliated with McGill University, is now known throughout British Columbia. The audience reflected the interest of those who have most at heart the development of the theological training of students for the ministry of the church named, and was in every feature an indication that the important educational institution will have the full measure of local support.

On the platform in the almost pioneer church edifice were Rev. Dr. Campbell of Victoria, the venerable pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. Dr. Duval, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada; Rev. J. G. Reid, B. A., moderator of the Presbytery of New Westminster, and Rev. J. M. Miller, M. A., B. D., of Nanaimo, moderator of the British Columbia synod. Principal McGill, of Halifax, N. S.; Rev. A. J. McGillivray, M. A., and Rev. R. J. Wilson, who has just returned from a visit to the Old Country, also occupied seats of honor.

After the devotional exercises, which were reverently performed, Rev. Dr. Duval, preached the sermon, which in general terms might be described as a homily on "Life More Abundant." The doctor's effort was delivered with fine effect and made a deep impression on the large audience.

Afterwards Dr. Mackay was led to the altar, where the other ministers descending from the platform in solemn procession, he answered the ritual questions propounded from the "Book of Procedure" of the Presbyterian church. Dr. Mackay's answers were given in a firm, resonant voice and with the ring of optimism in the tone.

Then Rev. A. J. McGillivray recited the steps which led up to the choice of Dr. Mackay as principal of the new college, and stated that he had first been selected by the vote of the theological board of management and senate of the proposed college and a request forwarded to the general assembly for his appointment to the important and responsible post. This request had been considered by that body and the appointment temporarily made with the understanding that it had been confirmed.

Dr. Duval then delivered the charge to the newly-inducted principal, setting forth the educational policy of the Presbyterian church in Canada. His utterances were striking, some of them having peculiar force in the city of Vancouver. Dr. Duval reviewed the career of Principal Mackay as a student, with which he was evidently familiar, and later in his career as a preacher in Montreal, dealing specifically with Dr. Mackay's influence over young men and his aptitude and fitness for just such an institution as had been founded in Vancouver under the name of "Westminster Hall."

Dealing with the attitude of the public toward theological institutions generally, Dr. Duval said: "Do your best; be honest, and then trust the people. I have never yet met that sentiment in public opinion which falls to respond to such a condition. There is something in the mind and heart of every man and woman that responds to the element of enterprise that seeks to build up a character of nobility, and I find that it has never yet failed to make the necessary expenditure for the development of this characteristic when it is convinced that its money will not be unwisely spent."

Rev. J. M. Millar, who spoke next, said that the Presbyterian people of British Columbia had elected the present educational system, and they should be prepared to stand by their choice. He traced the historic relations of Presbyterianism to educational institutions and in strong, vigorous and well prepared address showed how the best results that have been obtained in all the ages have been from missionaries of the Gospel who have had a full and thorough knowledge of that which they themselves set out to teach. GILLETT'S PERFUMED LYE CAUTION. Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's." Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word. Be wise, and refuse to purchase imitation articles for they are never satisfactory. Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better" or "the same thing." In our experience of over fifty years in business we have never known of an imitation article that has been a success, for imitators are not reliable people. To Reduce Your Cost of Living

IT is the cost of living that kills the joy of living in these days, especially if you have had the courage to raise a family. Our business system helps you to materially reduce your cost of living. We do not sell you a piece of furniture or furnish your home for the mere sake of getting your order or cutting a price, with the inevitable result of your being put to the cost of replacing or refurnishing in a few short years—we sell you goods that will last a lifetime, the first cost is the only cost, and that cost is little above—sometimes no more than—what you pay for the made-to-sell-at-any-price stuff, the kind we do not stock; but we materially reduce your cost of living by selling you GOOD furniture that will last and look well all the time. Here are a few new items which are well worth buying.

CONTINGENT FOR TERCENTENARY IS NOW AWAITING FINAL INSTRUCTIONS

Order issued by Colonel Hall of Fifth Regiment.

Within a few days final instructions are expected relative to the departure of the militia for the tercentenary. According to the arrangements the province sends an equal number of garrison artillery and infantry—one officer and 15 non-commissioned officers and men. As Victoria possesses the only garrison artillery the full complement in that branch of the service is drawn from the Fifth.

The infantry contingent is made up according to strength from the Sixth Regiment in Vancouver and the other corps in the province.

Col. Hall, the senior officer, will go in command of the western force, while Capt. Winsby will act as company commander of the British Columbia contingent with a subaltern drawn from the Sixth. Lieut. Stern, of the Fifth, will be adjutant under Colonel Hall.

District orders have been issued covering the selection of officers and men and other matters relative to dress, transportation, etc.

This is contained in regimental orders promulgated by Col. Hall.

A number of recruits have been taken on the strength of the Fifth, and recruit drill will commence on Wednesday next under Col. Sergt-Major Instructor Macdonald, R. C. G. A.

The following are the orders issued by Col. Hall:

The following extract from D. O. No. 24, June 28th, 1908, is published for general information:

"Quoted: Tercentenary celebration—Special contingent from M. D. No. 11: It has been decided to select the following details of troops from M. D. No. 11, as part of a northwestern contingent, to represent the active militia units of the district at the Quebec tercentenary celebration: Garrison artillery—Captains: 1, N. C. O's, and men, 15 Infantry—Subalterns, 1, N. C. O's and men, 15.

The above will be made up as follows:

"Fifth Regiment, C. G. A., 1 captain and 15 N. C. O's and men.

"The names of all officers, N. C. O's and men selected to be submitted so as to reach this office not later than 3rd inst.

"The contingent is due to arrive in Quebec on 18th prox.

"No pay will be granted in addition to annual drill pay.

"Rations will be issued during the time the contingent is in Quebec, also a daily money allowance per officer and man while on the journey to and from Quebec.

"The contingent will be quartered under canvas at Seward park, Quebec.

"The dress of all ranks of each unit must be of uniform pattern, clean and well fitting.

"The service dress must not be worn on any ceremonial parade or duty, outside the respective camps.

"All officers must be provided with swords, and where all of a unit are in possession of tanks, such shall be worn on ceremonial parades, excursions and
