After they were bid welcome and told that their answer came to late for His Excellency, the Earle of Bellomont was gone to New Engl<sup>d</sup> to receive his other Governments which the great King hath intrusted him withall, but that the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> who has the chief command of this province in His Excell<sup>ties</sup> absence had sent his orders and an answer to their propositions made to Capt<sup>n</sup> Schuyler and Capt<sup>n</sup> Bleeker in their Country but in the first place we are to acquaint the brethren that as soon as we heard last winter of your precipitate intentions of sending Messen<sup>rs</sup> to treat with the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada, Coll: Schuyler Hendrick Hance Esq<sup>r</sup>: Mayor and Major Wessells resolved to come and see you in your Country to divert you from such evill resolutions, but when they were gott as far as the Maquaase land the post met them with the news that they came to late, for the Messengers were gone seaven dayes before they could reach Onnondages.

This you have done to your great shame and disgrace, contrary to your promise made to His Excell<sup>ty</sup> the Earle of Bellomont last summer and afterwards renewed to the Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup>.

Since that time you sent for Coll: Schuyler and Major Wessells to come to Onnondage by a Belt, doubtlesse to treat about the same subject, whereupon His Excell<sup>ty</sup> Corlaer thought convenient to send Capt<sup>n</sup> Schuyler and Capt<sup>n</sup> Bleeker to you with instructions to inform you, how il his Excell<sup>ty</sup> tooke it, so palpable breach of your faith and promise, and warned you as you tendred the keeping of the covenant chain, not to keep any further correspondence with the French of Canada and fearing that you might fall in the like inconveniency by the temptation of the french and their Jesuits, his Excell<sup>ty</sup> has sent for you to know the reasons why you are soe earnest for a treaty with the French after so many promises to the contrary.

Brethren. We can not relate the evil consequences of such actions and we have reason to believe there must be something else in it, then to fetch your prisoners; the excuse is now out of doors, for your two prisoners that were under confinement are free, one of them is lately come from hunting and the other is out a hunting still, as the Christians and Indians lately come from Canada can witness, soe that that cause be no more a pretence.

Brethren. You know not the French soe well as we, although they have given you some proofs at Cadaracqui, at your Castles etc. but you can not dive into their intrigues, it is not for nothing that they send you belts of Wampum and delude your people and [inveagle] them away, the snake lyes hid in the grasse. Therefore we will say but one word more, and then conclude, because we would not burthen your memory.

Consider you are the subjects of the great King of England under whose obedience you have been soe long time out of mind and the covenant chain hath been so often renewed with this Govern<sup>t</sup> that there is none now living that can remember the beginning of it, Therefore cleave firm to that chain, and this Government, that hath been soe true to you in warr and peace, and lay aside all thoughts of correspondence with the French, for we shutt up that path then you will be happy and live comfortably. There was given them upon this a bunch of white Wampum.

Corlaer has been mindful of your proposition concerning amunition to defend yourselves from the Assaults of your Ennemies, and has therefore ordered you two hundred pounds of powder and lead equivalent which we now give you.

Dekanitsore Speaker.

Brother Corlaer and Quider or Pieter.

We are now come here to speak according to your desire and as it was concluded last winter, altho' we have not had an account yett of what we proposed in our Country—

You have yesterday stopped the path to Canada, we will adhere to it.

Then Aqueendere another Sachim of Onnondage spoke and said.

You told us yesterday we had some other designe, then meerly to gett our prisoners from Canada, since we were soe eager to send thither, but we had not, only we saw, that the meanes used proved ineffectual, and we were in hopes this expedient would take.

We have understood yesterday, that you have quite shutt up the path to Canada, all we the five nations are glad of it, provided that the path be stopped wholly as well from the Brethren as from us, for there is an open road from this place to Canada of late, yea, a beeten path knee deep, soe bare you have trod it of late—doe give five ps Bever.

You have not made any answer to what we proposed in our Country to Capt<sup>a</sup> Schuyler and Capt<sup>a</sup> Bleeker at which we are not a little concerned, we left some french prisoners here last fall, with a consideration that there should have been a generall exchange of all prisoners on both sides but we see nothing of that—

Last summer we were here, then his Excell<sup>ty</sup> the Earle of Bellomont did shutt up the way to Canada, we were once desirous to have gone thither together, and that each nation should have sent a man to redeem the prisoners along with the Christians, afterwards we resolved to leave the whole matter about the redemption of our prisoners to His Excellency who thereupon sent Capt<sup>a</sup>: Schuyler to demand them, and then it was we had the tidings that instead of loosing of them he had secured them faster, that was policy of the French to spread abroad such reports: They served us another trick: There was an Indian who went from our Country with five small belts of Wampum to the French of Canada being sent by the Oneydes, Onnondages and Cayouges to see to get our prisoners out of the hands of the French, and this Messenger returning with two belts of Wampum brought us the news, that the French had made the world believe that four of us five nations had made a separate treaty with them, excluding this Govern<sup>t</sup> and the Maquaese only to raise a jealousy among us, soe that the French can deceive the Brethren as well as us.

Last Summer when we made our publick proposition to his Excell<sup>ty</sup> we did expect that His Excell<sup>ty</sup> would have propounded that we should have brought all our French prisoners here, and that we then joyntly should have gone to Canada to release our prisoners, but this was not done which grieved us, we would faine have gone hand in hand and loosed the prisoners.

The prisoners that we took have been from time to time taken from us, and sent to Canada, and those which be left in the brethrens hands are likewise lessened, soe that we loose our prisoners and get not our own people back, we thought to have spoken about those prisoners we left the last fall but we heare nothing of them, we hearken to all which his Excell<sup>ty</sup> Corlaer says to us, but Corlaer doth not much regard us.—

Corlaer and Quider. Our heart is full that no more regard is had to our prisoners, we thought we were mett now to discourse about that subject, but you tell us they are free, and that we had something else in our heads that made us soe eager to goe to Canada, such doing without communicating it to one another would doe enough to overturn a whole land, therefore this point must be handled tenderly.

Brethren. Consult and advise together, our stomach is full, for we see there is no thorow reconciliation between the French and us, for the Governor of Canada says that his kettle of wrath is butt sett a little aside, it boiles still, therefore let Corlaer oversett this French kettle of warr, according to his promise, and doe you take councill what way to get our prisoners out of the hands of the French, else some may goe and take revenge, and let us conclude what we shall doe with the French we brought here last fall.—Gave ten beavers.

It was proposed to the Brethren that since they left that matter of the two prisoners at Canada to us, that they appoint three or four of their Sachems to meet three or four of the Gent<sup>l</sup> to conferr about that matter, which the Indians accepted of, then there was given them ten keggs of Rum, and five rolls of tobacco, with baggs to put the powder in given them yesterday.

The Sachims pitching upon five of their number for that purpose one for each nation, Coll: Schuyler, Hend<sup>r</sup> Honse Esq<sup>r</sup> Mayor Capt<sup>l</sup> James Weemes, Major Dyrk Wessell and Robert Livingston were appointed a committee to treat with the five Sachims in which conference it was proposed to them as follows:

That since the said two Onnondages who are still at Canada, and soe much longed for by the Brethren are no more prisoners but linger their time away in hopes of the five nations comeing there to redeem them, and make a separate treaty with the French that a couple of trusty Indians ought to be sent in a Canoa with goods to trade with the French, who must tell the said two Indians, that the path to Canada from the five nations is shutt, and that they must not depend on the Sachims coming to treat with the French, or that they would fetch them—Therefore they must come along with the two Indians hither.

Which proposall the Sachems aproved of and after consideration thereof had pitched upon Oennaw a Sinneke Sachim then present a sober understanding man who accepted thereof, and ingaged not to have any discourse with the French, moreover that he has a very plausible excuse having a son taken prisoner by the Dionondadees or farr Indians, and a frenchman who was taken at the same time last summer who is now come back to Canada, would inquire of him how it is with his son. This person was approved of and they named another Sinneke Canniengeera to be his companion and was told to come back hither and bring the said two Indians with them and they should be fitted out with some goods to trade to cover their designe, and other necessaries for their journey accordingly

As for the French prisoners that were left here last fall, shall be kept here till the said two Indians returns from Canada and then to be sent home — The said Sachims being recommended to take care that no correspondence should be kept with the french at Canada, they replied that they were convinced themselves that it was of ill consequence to suffer any Indians to go thither either upon private or publick account for that the french did continually strive to delude and debauch their Indians from them, therefore they would shutt the path quite.

PRESENT—Coll: P. Schuyler.
Capt<sup>e</sup> James Weemes,

Dyrk Wessell.

The Sachims of the five nations being mett at the City Hall they were told.

That the committee had agreed and come to a conclusion in their conference yesterday, but it was not convenient it should be publick—

That the path to Canada be kept shutt as was proposed yesterday as well for private Indians as Sachims, since by the Brethrens going there, the french and their Indians debauch them to leave their Countrey; That our peoples going thither was not attended with the like ill consequences, because never any could be deluded yet by the french to leave this place.

That the French prisoners, that were left here last fall doe remain here still till the Indians be come from Canada, that have been detained there by the French.

Then the death of Aqueendero chief Sachim of Onnondages son was condoled according to their custome by giving of some white Wampum to the Sachems which was kindly accepted.

The Sachim of Oneyde rose up and said, that they had received some news this day from their countrey, which they were ready to communicate if the Brethren would be pleased to hear it.

A Sinneke Indian man and woman are come from the farr Indians called the Dionnoudadees the woman had brought her husband with her being one of the said farr Indians, who report that last fall the French of Canada did send some Indians to Dionnondade, with orders that the French should all come home, and also that the Governor of Canada ordered all the said Dionnoudadees Indians to Come to Canada this summer telling that he had also sent for the five nations, and if they refused to come to treat with him, he was resolved to make warr upon them.

They have also news from the Southward that there is a new trader sett up about three days journey from their Countrey on a great tract of Land who has acquainted all the Indians that he gives goods very cheap and that there is seaventy Cayouges come from hunting with beaver, who were resolving to goe and trade there, and since the said person is settled there on our land without leave, as soon as we have an account on what condition he is settled there we will come and acquaint you.

Brother Corlaer and Quider.

Wee five nations have been troublesome to the Brethren, as now in the businesse of Canada and shutting up the path—desire that we may be held excused.

We have spoke a great deal in this house—if it were heaped up together it would make a great Piramide, and one of our principal propositions has been about the dearth of goods, but little notice has been taken, every thing continues deare, let some care be taken about that, now what is the reason that goods are so deare, when the Brethren came first to this countrey, you had but few goods such as beads etc. and you lived in small hutts, but now you are grown Rich and high, and weare fine clothes and dwell in great houses, and this is all of the Beavers we brought hither on our backs, and yet you will not hearken to give good pennyworth—Wee desire that since goods is soe deare and our Beaver soe cheap, that His Majesty the great King that lives over the great Water may be addressed that the people of England doe make their hats of beaver and not of sheeps wool, and that the duffels and Blankets may be made of Beaver wooll.—Now I have done with Merchandize—did give 14 p<sup>s</sup> Beavers, 9 Otters and five Maters.

The Indians were answered that the goods would grow cheaper every day by the peace and that their propositions should be sent to Corlaer who will acquaint the great King therewith—

While the Gentlemen and the Sachims were together, in the City Hall news comes that there were three frenchmen arrived from Canada and two Canoas more a coming in which was two Onnondago Indians who being sent for and examined amongst other things said, that the two Indians soe much desired by the five nations were well in Canada and free, had been out a hunting this winter above Cadaracqui which is neare their own Countrey that none of the Dionnondadees or farr Indians were yett come to Canada, nor the Bushlopers, neither was there any ships yett come from France this yeare.

About the evening the Sachims being convened together at the house of Robert Livingston, desired that some of the Gent<sup>l</sup> might be sent for—The Mayor and Maj<sup>r</sup> Wessells being come they said:

Brother Corlaer and Quider.

While we have been now shutting the path to Canada, here are French come to day from thence, what is the meaning of that, we hear they are come for these french prisoners which we left here last fall, and who were concluded to remaine here till further order.

But since we heare that our two Indians are free at Canada, we give our consent that the prisoners we delivered here last fall may be sent home, and that a letter may be sent with them, that they send their people home which is neverthesse submitted to your judgement

The Indians were answered, that since it was confirmed by all hands, that their two friends were free wee did concur with them in their opinion that the French that were left here should be free also to goe home

The gentlemen were convened together to consult about the delivery of the three French prisoners in order for their return to Canada, since their relations were come for them, and the Sachims being discoursed today, they leave the whole matter to the Gentlemen but withall said they were much concerned and very pensive, fearing that the French have an ill designe by their gathering all their forces together at Mout Reall and sending for their people from Ottowawa, and not only doubt of their Indians being fair dealt withall, but believe that the French invade them, and therefore say they condescend and wholly agree to whatever the Gentlemen shall doe in this matter, and if they dye they dye in our hands.

Jean Rossie who arrived from Canada yesterday saith he saw the said Indians free and that the Governor of Canada told him they had their liberty and asked him why their prisoners were not come home—

It was concluded nem: con: that the said three prisoners were at their liberty to goe where they pleased.—

Albany the 16th of June 1699.

PRESENT—Major Wessells,

The Sachins being upon their departure mett together and proposed these five things before they went away.

1st That the Brethren should not be angry if any private Indian should goe and see their relations at Canada since it is now peace —

2nd That if any wicked base fellow, should take upon him without our privity to take a Belt or Belts of Wampum and goe to Canada and treat with the French, let that not be a breach of the covenant chain attributed to us.

3rd It was proposed to us the last time Arnout was in our Country that His Excell<sup>ty</sup> would cause stone forts to be build at Albany Schenectady and Cannestagione, yea in our very country at Onnondage and Souldiers in them which we liked very well and know not how soon we may have occasion for them, but we heare nothing said of it now, we believe that will be forgott as other things have been that were promised to us formerly.—

4th It was also proposed to us that we should have Ministers to instruct us in the Christian<sup>ty</sup> faith but we heare no more of that neither.

5th That we may have provisions upon our journey home.

They were answered :

That the path was shutt and could not be opened, but if any private Indian went to see his relations no notice would be taken of it, but that they should be carefull to tell such Indians not to be deluded by the French, but rather perswade their friends and relations to return to their native Country.

But as for any such base idle fellow that dares presume to take belts of Wampum and goe and treat with the French upon his own accord, they ought to expell him and kick him out of their Castle, and all the Sachins must be very vigilant in their respective castles to prevent such evils—

And for the forts and Ministers we will acquaint his Excell<sup>ty</sup> with what you say and you shall have provisions for your journey home—

The Sinnekes Sachim who was pitched upon to goe to Canada doth now return to his own Country alleadging there is noe occasion now since the two Indians are free and may come hence if they please.

The Examination of Jean Rosie come from Canada.

Albany the 19th of June 1699.

That he arrived at Mont Reall about the beginning of this present month of June, the Intendant and his wife had been arrived from Quebec two dayes—all the officers of whole Canada were at Mont Reall, he believes there might be about one hundred—all the Souldiers in pay were there also which he guessed to be about three or four hundred men—in fine, Mont Reall was soe throng of people, that scarce any lodging was to be had for money—After a narrow and strict enquiry, why such generall rendezvous was at Mont Reall, he understood that the Governour expected the Sachems of the five nations to come and treat with him and in discourse with Mons<sup>r</sup> de Caliere Governour of Canada, he told him that he hourly expected the representatives of the five nations to come and treat with him; Whereupon the said Jean Rosie told him, the Sachims would not come, and that he need not expect them. The Governour asked him if Capt<sup>n</sup> Schuyler and Arnout had been at Onnondage he replied yes, then the Governour sayd; I have heard that they have deluded the Indians not to come and treat with me, thus the English always serves me. The said Jean Rosie said, what have you to doe with the Indians, they are the King of England's subjects, if you have a mind to speak to them apply yourselfe to the Earle of Bellomont—The Governour sayd if they doe not come according to their promise I will goe and make them a visit, and said further, as soon as the ships arrived from France, and that he had news from Court, he would send Mons<sup>r</sup> Marriceur as an agent to the Earle of Bellomont.—The said Jean Rosie sayd he heard the Officers say if the Sachims of the five nations did not come and treat with the Governour they would invade them in their Countrey, and that they only stayed for orders from France—The said Rosie saw the Batoos and other flatt bottom boats, a Cauking, about two hundred in number, and he heard of the inhabitants or Burgers that five bakers had been constantly employed in baking of bread all this spring—

He heard of the French Mohog Indians that they were noe wise inclined to assist the French against the five nations, they would not goe up along with them.

The said Jean Rosse sayes further he saw the two Indians of Onnondage that had been under confinement now at liberty and might goe where they pleased; and moreover the Governor of Canada asked him, why he did not bring the French prisoners along with him, that were at Albany, he replied, why do you not send back these two Indians to their castle, that have been soe long in prison, the Governor said they are free and have been out a hunting as farr as Cadaraequi, hath not Abraham Schuyler told you soe they were sett free when Abraham Schuyler was here last winter with the horses; the said Rosie told the said two Indians, that the Governor had informed him they were free, and why they did not goe home, the two Indians said they expected the Sachims of the five nations and would return with them—The said Jean Rosie asked why that Purmerent an inhabitant of Shonnectady's son was not sent home, the Gov<sup>r</sup> answered that he was free to goe when he pleased, he did not detain him.

Albany the 30th of June 1699.May it please Your hono<sup>r</sup>.

Yesterday arrived a messenger sent by some of the Schakkook Indians, with the inclosed proposals, what thereunto is annexed we think will be needfull to answer them, and [are] of opinion that their settling there if not prevented speedily, will not only for the present be prejudicial to this Govern<sup>t</sup> but in case of further warr, they will be so many enemies more to the utmost ruine of us. Here is one William Robie who hath been with the said Indians since last winter and sayes that they are designed to settle in the lake at a place called Winooskeek<sup>1</sup> and saw them preparing a present for the Governor of Canada to be given after this Messenger returns; Therefore my opinion is that it will be needfull to send some sufficient persons for to prevent such treaties, and to intice them back to their homes—The Messenger is held up till your honors further answer, which we desire may be speedily sent up—Soe shall remaine

The presents given is three

Expresse sent by several of the Schaahkook Indians who are making a settlement in the Lake neare Canada, at a place called Winooskoek by an Indian named Calloet, the 30th June 1699.

Brother Corlaer.

Wee doe acquaint you that two of our Indians three Squaas and two Children went out Beaver hunting last winter, who are not yet returned, and that we have suspicion the Boston Indians might have killed them, being some of our Indians mett some Boston Indians upon the Road, who told our Indians to keep off from their coasts, otherwise they would kill them.

Brother Corlaer—Wee must tell you there is a great feare among our children, because they have caught but a few Beaver to pay their debts, and when they come home, your people doe threaten and strike them for Beaver, which may occasion their departure, pray lett that be no more done for the future.

Brother Corlaer.—Last yeare our corn was scarce by reason of high waters, and what was left most part thereof your people took from us, which caused our Wifes suffer for it in Winter for want and this yeare there is but little prospect of a better crop, doe therefore desire you would forbidd your people to take our corn and cloathes from us—

Brother Corlaer. Schaahkook has been appointed by all Governors for our dwelling place, where a tree is planted to cover all our people, but the feare among our young men, for to be troubled by your people to whom they are indebted, being, they have caught soe few beavers, doth startle them in soe much, that they dare not come to their homes, and lay under the shade of the said tree.

Brother Corlaer, Formerly at the first settlement of the Xtians here we were of a great number, when we fastned the covenant chain together, first with a Roap, and afterwards with a chain soe that we desire with our hands to continue firmly into the covenant chain—give one Beaver.

Brother Corlaer. Our people having caught soe few beaver last winter which will not answer their debts, soe that they are affraid to come home, but lye in the lake at a place called Winooskeek, where they formerly have dwelt, Doe desire when they doe come that no hurt be done to them—Give one Beaver.

Brother Corlaer. Wee would not have you to take ill thoughts that we should leave you, or that our people should goe to live at Canada or Ottowawa, they only intend to stay at the said Winooskeek for one yeare to hunt thereabout for beaver, to pay our debts when we come home, for if we come now while we have no beaver, we shall but run more in debt—Give one Beaver skin.

Answer to the Messenger sent by the Schaahkook Indians from Winooskeek where they make a settlement.

Children.—

You tell us that you are under such great fear for the Christians here, being you say, you have caught but few Beaver, soe that it can not pay your debts, and that then, they doe threaten, strike and take away what you have, which might occasion your departure.

We must tell you that you have no reason to feare, being it alwayes has been prohibited by the Governors, that you should not be molested but to pay your debts freely, and if any one took any thing from you against your will or abused you, you were to complain to the Magistrates for Justice which never has been denied you.—

Children—As for your making a settlement in the Lake at Winooskeek we are ashamed to heare you propose such an article, since but last summer when you renewed the Covenant chain with His Excell<sup>ty</sup> the Earle of Bellomont, you desired of His Excell<sup>ty</sup> to appoint Schahkook your former dwelling place for your settlement againe, which His Excell<sup>ty</sup> granted, and you did heartily accept of—Therefore, Children, let us advise you to be true subjects to the Crown of England, and not to creep so neare your late Enemy for a settlement, but return to your own habitation with all speed—though you have but few beaver to pay your debts, you need not fear that any harm shall be done you by any person, but pay honestly what you can.

New York July the 8th. 1699.

Sir. I received your letter concerning the Schahkook Indians, with the conference inclosed, which hath been read in Counsell and approved of. I desire you will send some well qualified messenger to the said Indians from Albany, together with the said William Robie, to assure the Indians that they shall not be troubled or molested by reason of their debts, and to advise them to return to Schaahkook as soon as possible. And pray positively forbidd all Handlers<sup>1</sup> and others, who they may have formerly contracted debts with any way to molest them or disturb their return by beating them or taking from them their beaver, corn, or what else they may bring with them, but to suffer them to pay their debts as they shall see occasion—I noe way doubt the prudence of yourselfe and the other Gentlemen Commissionated by His Excell<sup>ty</sup> in this important affaire.

3 July 1699.

Sir. I take this opportunity to acquaint you that on the 16th past His Excellency the Earle of Bellomont embarked for Boston, to take upon him the Administration of his other Govern<sup>mt</sup> in New England during whose absence the chief command of this province is under my care which is alsoe the reason I give you the trouble of these lines by . . . . . whom I have sent expresse to make demand of . . . . . detained by you prisoners contrary to the articles of peace concluded between our great Masters the Kings of England and France.

I am not a little surpris'd that in a matter of such justice wherein the honor of the French nation is soe much concerned there should have been such a delay and refusal made of the just demands of my Lord Bellomont for the surrender of these prisoners—

I have consented that some of the Indian Sachims should goe along with those Gentlemen I have appointed for this service, whom I desire you to treat civilly as subjects to the Crown of England in strict amity with your great master the French King; I look upon it my incumbent duty to observe the articles of peace and therefore desire you to deliver up those prisoners you have, they were ingaged in the service of my great Lord the King when it was warr, and now since those who were the ennemeyes are by a happy peace become friends, all thoughts of warr ought to cease, and our duty to follow, the exaample of our great Masters, who in Europe preserve the peace they have made with great amity and friendship.

[New-York Papers. Bundle, H. L. K. H 47.]

Instructions for those who goe to Canada.

After you have delivered my letter to the Governor of Canada acquaint him that it is very surprising that they should pretend to keep prisoners belonging to the Crown of England after so solemn a conclusion of peace between the two Crowns of England and France, which peace hath been inviolably observed in Europe by the two great Kings of England and France who are also in perfect amity and friendship.

You are also to insist that those Indians detained are the subjects of the Crown of England and have ever been under the tetelage of this Govern<sup>t</sup> ever since the first settlement and they and their ancestors did never own or acknowledge any other Sovereign than His Maj<sup>ty</sup> the King of England—Their habitations and Castles are to the westward and southward of the lake to which the French can challenge no right, the subjects of the Crown of England extending their bounds from the Eastward of Pemyquid soe far west as the Cape of Florida, upon the main continent of America and of which they have had an indisturbed possession as well as a right and that before the French had any settlement upon this continent soe that to the westward of Pemaquid the French can not justly challange any claime any Dominion and therefore can claime no title to those Indians.— Acquaint them also that there are new Commissioners appointed by both the Crowns of England and France, who are treating about the adjusting the limits and bounds of the dominions of each crown in America, which will conclude both nations, soe that the detaining or the releasing of these prisoners, will not give either a right but only what shall be concluded at that treaty.—

One of the reasons assigned for the beginning of the warr was, that the French had inroached upon the right of those Indians as subjects to the Crown of England, since which the French have withdrawn their forces from Oniagro etc. soe the dominion of those Indians, being now the possession of the Crown of England, must be the undoubted right until the same be otherwise determined by the Commissioners now in treaty for that purpose.—

You are therefore to demand the delivery of those prisoners as subjects to the crown of England according to the articles of peace and if they either evade or delay to deliver them, you must tell the Governor, that I will complain to the King my great Master of the violence that is done to the Articles of peace by Mons<sup>r</sup> de Caliere in detaining the King of England's subjects which peace is punctually observed by the French King in Europe, you are also to tell him how just this Govern<sup>t</sup> has been in observing the peace, by sending them from time to time their prisoners soe soon as they came to hand without any hesitation, and now have brought with you what other prisoners remained with the Indians, that he may perceive with what strictnesse and affection I doe observe my great masters orders, and that I doubt not but that the justnesse of his great Master hath directed him to doe the same, therefore again demand the surrender of those Indians, belonging to the . . . . . under the dominion of our great King of Eng<sup>ld</sup>.

Information given to the Sachims in Onnondage by a French Indian called Segowane lately come from Canada, which being sent here by a Sinneck Sachim to acquaint His Excell<sup>ty</sup> therewith. Sayes

Brother Corlaer.

That after the said French Indian haveing been some time in Onnondage he said, I am wondered you doe not ask me for news being I lately come from Canada, I have news to tell you; My brother was killed by the french Indians last yeare and now I care not how it goes, therefore I come to dye with you for it is certain truth that the Governor of Canada will come here when the Indian corn grows ripe, to destroy you all and that you do not know what correspondence Corlaer and the Governor of Canada keeps, by sending letters daily to one another, for when the Governor of Canada comes up with his army, Corlaer will also come up with an army to meet him under the pretext of assisting you but to the contrary will joyne with the Governor of Canada to destroy you all, and you will find it just soe as it was when the English in Virginia had peace with the Canastogue Indians who had warr with you, and when the English heard you were coming against the Canastogues, they instead of assisting those who were their friends came and joyned with you and killed them and destroyed their Castles.

An answer given to the above information

Brethren.

As for the story which this Indian called Sagawane brings into your country we know he comes from Canada, where they are continually raising such ill arguments and thereby contrive to make you uneasy and to give you troublesome thoughts—Wee doe tell you plainly that it is all false, and doe assure you that Corlaer sends noe letters there, but what is for the good of your Country therefore we would not have you to harbour any such ill thoughts of Corlaer, for you can not say since the covenant chain was fastned or before that he ever in the least prov'd or seem'd to be anywise untrue to you, but hath always dealt fairely by you, but think on the Governor of Canada, when he invites you to eat with him at Cadaraque and instead thereof took your people prisoners and sent them for France.

Therefore when anybody arrives in the Countrey to spread such false news among you, we desire you to send them to us here.

Sir,

I have received the letter of the 3d July that you did me the honor to write me, together with the despatch from the King, my master, of the 25th of March, by which I learn that, until the Commissioners who have been nominated to settle the bounds of the territories on this continent belonging to the Kings, our masters, shall have made a thorough examination, his Majesty has agreed with the King of England, that those limits should not form any cause of quarrel between our two colonies. I will execute this on my side, most punctually, and as a beginning, send you back two Iroquois who had been taken on the occasion of Black Kettle's defeat. I am persuaded, Sir, that you will do as much on your part, in order to entertain a mutual good understanding; and as soon as I shall have received by the King's ships, the King of England's letter, I will send it to you; and in case any other orders relating to the affairs of the two Colonies come to my hands, I will communicate them also to you; as it affords me pleasure to cooperate with you on all occasions, according to the orders of the King, my master, and to afford you proofs of the esteem with which I am,

Sir,

Your most humble, and most
obedient Servant,

Montreal, 6th August, 1699.

[New-York Entries, C. 71.]

My Lord

You have been pleased to recommend Mr Vesey to me in one or two letters, which you have done me the honour to write to me since my leaving, England, And I paid such respect to your Lordship's recommendation that I prevailed with the Council of New Yorke to joyne with me in settling £26 a year on him to pay the hire of his house, And I resolved to take the Assembly in a good humour and prevail with them if possibly I could to settle on Mr Vesey and all his successors in that cure a further maintenance of £50 a year, over and above the £100 a year he has at present. I must observe to your Lordship that before I got the £26 a year allowed him by myself and the Council; Mr Vesey and I had a good Correspondance with each other, and I invited him often to dine with me, which commonly passes with men as a token of friendship. And Mr Graham the Attorney General told me (as I understood it) from Mr Vesey, that he was much melted and overcome with my kindness to him, that he could not but be taken with my moderation in the Administration of the Government, that he wondred how any of his Congregation could be my Enemies, but that he saw plainly their wickedness was such as to make them capable of every thing that was base and unchristian;

And he told the Attorney that he was weary of his life and must forsake New Yorke he was so teaz'd and reproved by the angry party for preaching up a good life and the fruits of it, viz' peace, love and charity and the like; That he medled not with parties; This very declaration M<sup>r</sup> Vesey came once or twice and made to me, much lamenting and decrying the wickedness of the angry men of his Congregation. One would think that M<sup>r</sup> Vesey should in common prudence (if he had not virtue enough) continued his respect to me unless the angry men (as he call'd 'em) of his congregation had become better and I worse; and that I had done some gross ill thing to disoblige him. But I do verily believe M<sup>r</sup> Vesey wants honesty, and is by the angry party brib'd, and your Lordship, I am perswaded, will be of that opinion, when you have received the papers and evidences I send with this letter, which I desire your Lordship will be at the pains of reading, that being rightly informed, you may judge equitably between M<sup>r</sup> Vesey and me. I shall begin with the Father of M<sup>r</sup> Vesey to let your Lordship see what education he has had, and under what a sort of father. I send the copy of the record of his father's being try'd, convict and pillory'd here at Boston, for being the most impudent and avowed Jacobite that has been known in America. Then there goes the certificate of the Lieutenant Governour of New Yorke, and the Depositions of M<sup>r</sup> Walters a Member of his Majesty's Councill, and of Parson Smith, of his praying publickly in Church for M<sup>r</sup> Dellius deprived by Act of Assembly of his benefice at Albany, for his ill life. In the next place goe the extracts of severall letters from the Lieutenant Governor of New Yorke to me about M<sup>r</sup> Vesey's insolence openly in the Church, and privately to the Lieutenant Governor, which I recommend to your Lordships perusal as being extraordinary and needing not any animadversion of mine. Then there goes the depositions of Mary Cross, of John Saunders and Susanna his owne Uncle and Aunts, about christening three or four children of incestuous birth, as will appear by the said depositions, and that notwithstanding the parents continued then at that very time in their wicked incestuous course of life, which I take to be expressly contrary to a canon of the Church, as I have been informed, for I pretend not to be so happy as to be vers'd in that sort of reading. I have figured or number'd the severall papers in the same order I have mentioned them, and now I submit to your Lordship's justice whether such a Minister be to be suffered in such a place as New Yorke, where the people for the most part are disaffected to the King's Government and so apt to faction and sedition. Therefore I expect your Lordship will without any further solicitation of mine examin the truth of this charge against M<sup>r</sup> Vesey, and when you are satisfied therein, that you will consent to his being immediately deprived of his benefice at New Yorke. I cannot believe your Lordship will countenance a man, so insolent and wicked, as he is, to fly in the face of Government without just cause and provocation.

I come next to give your Lordship a short account of M<sup>r</sup> Dellius the Minister of Albany, who is lately gone to England to try to make an interest to be restored to his late benefice, but rather the two extravagant Grants of land by Colonel Fletcher to him. I gave the Lords of the Council of Trade and the rest of the Ministers formerly an account of the wickednesse of that man, of being a most impudent liar in my own hearing, and his being a drunkard and immoral man as can be prov'd by the testimony of undoubted credible persons, and his defrauding the Mohack Indians of their land in a clandestine wicked manner to the endangering of the losse of that and the rest of the Nations of Indians from their subjection to the Crown. If (I say) these articles are of force to blacken M<sup>r</sup> Dellius and make him odious to all men of vertue, I do undertake to prove 'em all undeniably. There is yet a further Article against M<sup>r</sup> Dellius; about a month since there came three or four Frenchman from Canada to Albany to trade, and one of them brought a letter directed to Mr Dellius, but he being gone for England, and the Frenchman delivering the letter (as I guess) to a wrong hand, that was not Dellius's friend, he open'd it, and found it to be from a French woman, who had been some months ago a prisoner at Albany, and was set at liberty by my order, and went to Canada, and the Woman in this letter laments the disgrace of being with child by Dellius, and desires he will send her some relief for her and the child's maintenance. The letter is fallen into the hands of Mr Nucella a Dutch Minister, at a Towne called Kings Towne in the Province of New Yorke, and I believe I shall have a copy of it. I have an account of this letter by three or four several hands from New Yorke, so that I cannot doubt of the truth of their being such a letter. If Mr Nucella will part with it, I will send your Lordship a copy of it, that you may be convinc'd of the lewdness of that Man and see how much he is the better for such Vouchers as Mr Vesey and the rest of those that have made a formal and lowd complaint of me to your Lordship from New Yorke. I can not but fancie the sons of Eli that were destroyed by fire from Heaven were a type of Mr Dellius, his familiarity with the French woman is parallel to the sin committed by those two at the door of the Tabernacle, and his insatiable covetuousness in procuring two such vast grants of land bear a resemblance with their taking up by violence a double portion (or what a flesh fork would bring out of the pot at twice) of flesh, Whereas by the Leviticall Law they were to have but one Forkfull for a Priest's share. If Mr Dellius had been an honest and innocent man, why did he avoid appearing before the Lieutenant Governor and Council of New Yorke when he was summoned to be confronted with the three Mohack Indians (he had suborned) and examined with those Indians. But instead of that abscond and fly out of the country, as you Lordship will see by a Minute of Council of the 21st of June, which I send with the other papers.

Mr Myles<sup>1</sup> and Mr Bridge<sup>2</sup> are good Preachers, I will give them all the countenance and encouragement I can. Our church here is very neat and convenient, but 'tis too small, and Mr Myles tells me a great many more people would come to our church if there were room for 'em.

I am with respect

My Lord

Your Lordship's most humble and faithfull servant

Lords of Trade to the Lords Justices.

[Plantation General Entries, XXXV., (B) 63.]

To their Excellencies the Lords Justices

May it please Your Excellency's

Having laid before your Excellencies upon the 10 of the last month a Representation relating to the seizure of some Pirates in Pensylvania and West New Jersey, and being by daily advices made more and more sensible of the Protection and shelter which such persons finde in his Majesty's Plantations in America, and of the mischiefs that do and may arise from thence, We humbly beg leave to offer unto your Excellency's some account of those further informations that we have lately received of the like kind

The Earle of Bellomont, by a letter dated at Boston in New England the 8 of July 1699 informs us that Capt Kid in a sloop richly laden, having hovered a fortnight upon the Coast near New York, and given notice to the Friends he had there of his arrival he brought one of them, named Emot, along with him to Rhoad Island, and from thence sent the said Emot to his Lordship to treat about his admission & security.

Emot being accordingly come to Boston, told his Lordship, that Kid had left the great Moorish ship he took in India, called the Quidah merchant in a Creek on the Coast of Hispaniola, with goods to the vallue of thirty thousand pounds; That he had bought a Sloop, in which he was come before to make his terms; That he had brought in the Sloop with him several Bailes of East India goods, three score pound weight of gold in dust, and in Ingots about a hundred weight of Silver and several other things which he beleived would sell for about ten thousand pound; He said also that Kid was very innocent, and would make it appear that his men forced him, locking him up in the Cabin of the Adventure Galley whilst they robbed two or three ships, and that he could prove this by many witnesses.

Hereupon the Earl of Bellomont answered Emot, that if Kid could make his innocency appear he might safely come into that Port. And accordingly he wrote a letter to Kid inviting him to come in, and (upon condition of his innocency) assuring him of protection.

This letter his Lordship sent by one Campbell Kids Country man (viz<sup>t</sup> a Scotchman) and his acquaintance. And in three or four days time Campbell returned with an answer from Kid full of protestations of his innocence, and expressing his designe of bringing his Sloop into that Port.

Campbell after his returne presented three or four small Jewells to the Countess of Bellomont, as if his Lordship should not have known it; But she immediately acquainted his Lordship therewith, and desired his directions whether to keep them or no. Whereupon he being fearfull lest an appearance of too great a nicety might create a Jealousy in Kid or his friends, and so prevent what he aimed at, advised her Ladyship for the present to keep them. All which matters he writes were transacted with the Privity and Advice of the Council of the Massachusetts Bay.

Kid came according to his letter, and landed there the 1st of July, but by his trifling answers to his Lordship and the Council upon severall examinations; By the endeavours of his friends Campbell and Livingstone (who upon notice of Kids intentions was posted thither from Albany) to imbezel the cargo that was aboard the Sloop; By intimations given his Lordship that a present of one thousand pounds value in gold dust and Ingots was designed to be made to his Countess And by Livingstons peremptory application to his Lordship for the discharge of a Bond and Articles which it seems he had entred into as security for Kid upon his expedition, accompanied with threats that unless those securities were immediately given up, Kid would never bring in the forementioned great ship that he had left on the Coast of Hispaniola his Lordship finding it necessary to Act more openly, caused Kid upon the 6th of July to be seized and committed to prison. And then at the Council Board delivered the Commissioners appointed to take charge of the Sloops cargo, and to make inventories thereof, the forementioned Jewells that had been presented to his Countess.

His Lordship further adds that those commissioners were preparing inventories of every thing accordingly; That he fears lest Kid should yet escape, or be let escape out of that Goale, as one Bradish a notorious Pirate and another had lately done, with the consent (as is beleived) of the Goaler; That as the law stands in that Country a Pirate cannot be punished with death; And he thereupon desires directions what to do with Bradishes Crew, as also with Kid and those men of his that he had taken.

He adds likewise, that he had received advice from New York of the arrival of the ship Nassaw commanded by Giles Shelly, mentioned in our foresaid Representation of the 10 of the last month, by which voyage it was said the Merchants had cleared thirty thousand pounds; that he heard there were two hundred Pirates at Madagascar when that ship came from thence who intended to take their passage for America in the three New York Vessells mentioned also in our foresaid Representation, and in a former of the 19 of October 1698; that at the time of his writing a great ship had been seen off that Coast about a week together, which was supposed to be one Maise a Pirate returned with great wealth from the Red Sea; That there was also then a Sloop at Rhoad Island believed (by seamens free spending of their Gold on shore in the day time, and returning on board at night) to be likewise a Pirate; And that he could do nothing towards taking either of the said ship or Sloop, for want of a man of War; But that he was manning out a ship to go in quest of the Quida Merchant left by Kid (as he said) on the Coast of Hispaniola, which by his account of the cargo was computed to be worth Seventy thousand pounds.

Concerning Kid we have also been informed by the President and Council of Nevis, that he having applied to the Governor of St Thomas (a Danish Island) for protection and being refused it, sailed to an Island called Moona, between Porto Rico and Hispaniola, and in the way meeting with one Henry Bolton (in a large Sloop) prevailed with said Bolton to go to Curasso to buy him provisions, and after Boltons returne bought his sloop of him, which he laded with the finest of his goods and sailed in her towards New Yorke, leaving Bolton in possession of his ship and the remaining part of his goods to act (as was said) as Attorney for him till his returne. But that he first sold 120 or 130 bales of Muslin to one William Bourke an Irishman which having been carryed by said Bourke to St Thomas were there seized on tho' afterwards upon his giving Security for five thousand peices of eight, Bourke had them againe and sailed therewith to Barbadoes

We have also received advice from Colonel Blakiston Governor of Maryland, that he had seized in that Government one Theophilus Turner one of the Pirates brought from Madagascar, by Shelly aforementioned, who upon hopes of pardon had made three depositions (which Colonel Blakiston has accordingly sent) relating to the Pirates that he knew or had heard of, Upon which we crave leave to observe to you Excellency's that the number of Pirates in three ships that he had knowledge of, and upon the Island of St Maries and Madagascar when he came from thence, amount to at least four hundred, besides those brought back by Shelly and all others that he might not have heard of.

We have likewise received advice from Colonel Winthrop present Governor of the Colony of Connecticut, that they had there in Custody ten of the seamen (or Pirates) who had run away with the ship Adventure of London (Captain Gullock commander) to which they belonged leaving him on Shore at Polonis in the East Indies, and having brought the said ship upon the coast of New England there sunk her: Which men are humbly observed to your Excellencies are another part of the same Company which the Earle of Bellomont (as aforesaid) call's Bradish's crew, the said Bradish having been the Chief of them.

And we have further been informed by letters from Colonel Webb late Governor of the Bahama Islands dated at Newcastle in Pensylvania the 26 of June last, that being come thither in a Briganteen (called the Sweepstakes, mounted with Six Guns well fitted with small Arms and all sorts of amunition, and richly laden for his own and other mens accounts) in order to proceed on for England some of the seamen belonging to her having consorted (as is supposed) with other Pirates that they found there, whilst he and the master were on shore had run away with the Briganteen and Cargo, and that it was uncertain whither they might tend.

And now having understood that your Excellency's have already, upon our forementioned Representations, been pleased to give some directions about persons seized or which shall be seized for Piracy in the Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay, New York, New Hampshire Pensylvania and East and West New Jersey; Yet considering further the continued groth of Piracy which calls for some thorow and effectual remedy, the wide disposition of Pirates already through many of his Majesty's Plantations the further spreading of them into others which may justly be apprehended when they come to understand to what places the directions which they have reason to fear are not extended, the want of Laws in some places for the punishing of them, the insecurity of the Goals in many places, and the great partiality and favour of the people towards them almost every where, (of which we have lately had a notorious instance in some tryalls in Rhoad Island) We humbly crave leave to offer unto your Excellencies that all the Pirates which have been or may be seized in any of his Majesty's Plantations in America, whatsoever, be sent hither together with the evidences upon which they have been or shall be seized, and which may be of any use for their conviction here that so they may be tryed and punished according to law, with such regard to the numbers that may be taken and the safe Custody of them in their passage hither by sea, as to your Excellencys shall seem necessary And that the Governors or Commander in chief of all his Majestys said Plantations be likewise directed, upon any occasion that may offer to insinuate in the best manner they can to any Pirates not in their power that those who shall be fowardest to surrender themselves and most ingenuous in their confessions may have the surest grounds to hope for his Majesty's mercy

We also further humbly offer unto your Excellencies that the Earle of Bellomont may be particularly direct to use his utmost endeavours that the Jaylor of Boston in New England be punished with the utmost Severity of the law for the Escape of Bradish aforementioned And that if the law of that Colony be defective in that point he endeavour to get some more effectual Act past there for the preventing the like Mischief for the future Which provision of effectual laws to prevent the escape of all Prisoners we humbly conceive may be also fitly recommended to the Governors of all his Majesty's Plantations respectively.

All which nevertheless we most humbly submit

[New-York Entries, C. 31.]

I am forc'd to trouble the Lords of the Council of Trade with long letters once more, because I give particular accounts of my three Governments. M<sup>r</sup> Weaver being made Collector of New Yorke, I have appointed M<sup>r</sup> Champante son of Sir John Champante, Agent for the Province of N. Yorke if he will accept of it. He is an honest ingenious man. And I desire you will instruct him in the business of the Agency, and lett him have a sight of such papers as are now, and were formerly sent over to you relating to these Provinces, I am concern'd with; Wherein you will much oblige,

Boston September the 15th 1699.

BELMONT

I desire you will please to let Sir Henry Ashurst have a sight of my letters to the Lords about the affaires of this and the Province of New Hampshire, if he desires it. He is Agent for both the Provinces I know, And I should have sent him copies of those two letters but I have not been able to get them copied; The Master of the ships presses to be gone, and next Monday, God willing, I shall set out for Rhode Island.

I send you the Speech of M<sup>r</sup> Cranston Governor of Rhode Island to the Assembly there about a fortnight since, which you may please to shew to the Lords of the Council of Trade as a Specimen of the Temper of that people. 'Tis an original for Insolence and Nonsense. I do not mention it in any of my letters to their Lordships, because I mean to send that and all other Accounts of that Government and Island at my returne from Rhode Island whether I am to goe within two days, by a ship that will sail hence to England about that time I shall return hither. But that I know that Government and People to be the most piraticall in the King's Dominions I should not much care to execute this Commission sent me by M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon, for to be sure I shall have a Million of curses.

I desire you will procure the reading of my letter to the Bishop of London, to the Lords of Trade and the Evidences that belong to it, that they may be made sensible of the knavery of M<sup>r</sup> Vesey the Minister of New Yorke and of Dellius.

Be pleased to send a copy of my letter of the 17th of Aprill about Navall Stores to the Lords of the Admiralty.

[New-York Entries, C. 88.]

Richard Earle of Bellomont Captain General and Governor in Chief of His Majesty's Province of New Yorke and the Territories thereon depending in America, To all unto whom these presents shall come Greeting &c. KNOW YE, That by and with the Advice and Consent of the Councill of the said Province, I do by these presents depute, constitute and appoint John Champante of London Esq<sup>r</sup> to be Agent for the said Province of New Yorke, giving and hereby granting unto the said John Champante full power and authority to appear on behalf of the said Province and the Government thereof at the Court at Whitehall or else where within the Kingdome of England, and to do, say, transact, negotiate and manage the publick affairs of the same which now are or at any time or times hereafter shall be presented laid or in any wise depending before His Sacred Majesty or any of the Ministers of State, in as large and ample manner to all intents and purposes as at any time heretofore has been given and granted to any former Agent or Agents appointed for the said Province; Hereby ratifying and confirming all and whatsoever the said John Champante shall lawfully act and doe or cause to be done in and about the execution of the premisses, pursuant to the Instructions herewith sent him, or to such further and other Instructions as he shall receive from myself or from the Lieutenant Governor or Commander in Chief of the said Province for the time being in my absence out of the said Province. In Testimony whereof I have caused the Publick Seal of the said Province of New Yorke to be hereto sett and affixed at New York the 18th day of September, and in the Eleventh year of His Majesty's Reign, Annoque Domini 1699.

[New-York Entries, C. 85.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I have been thoughtfull about what was the subject of my letter to your Lordships of the 17th of Aprill last, which was the making and furnishing of Navall Stores for the King and the Nation of England from the Province of New Yorke, whereof I have every day a greater confidence and certainty as to the performance, with this difference only, that upon further inquiry, I find the 1000 Soldiers proposed in my said letter, will, if I can bring them to worke with any tollerable pains, fully auswer the yearly quantity of those species viz<sup>t</sup> Pitch, Tar and Rozin, that the King's Navy and the Nation of England will require; tho' it should amount to tenn or twelve thousand tons a year. When I was at Pescataway, hearing there was a man near that place that made Tar, I sent for and talked an hour with him, he told me he with his own single labour made a barrell of Tar per week (which is at the Rate of six tons and a quarter per year) and that where there is a number of hands to help one another a much greater quantity would be made in proportion & as the produce of each man's labour. / As a further proof of the faisibility of this undertaking, about six weeks since, viewing the clearance of a ship that came hither from Carolina, and finding among the rest of her lading she had brought 90 barrells of tar from thence, I was curious to know what it cost there upon the place. The Master told me it was made up in the country and cost him 7 shillings and 6 pence p<sup>r</sup> barrell and one shilling p<sup>r</sup> barrell the boating it down a River to the place where the ship lay: which in all is 8 shillings 6 pence per barrell and consequently no more than £3. 8. 0 per Ton. ¶ This was a demonstration to me that a number of hands could manufacture a far greater quantity, than would hold proportion with a single man's labour; otherwise that country (which is a very late or new Colony and where consequently labour must be at least as dear as it is in the three Provinces of my Government, which is 3 shillings per day to each labouring man) could never afford tar at so cheap a rate. My inquiry went further yet, for I sent to speak with some Merchants and Seafaring men to inform me about the Carolina Tar, and they assured me it was rather better than the Norway tar and that the people of Carolina had the art of correcting that hot quality in it, which burns the rigging of ships, and which was the fault found with the tar that was made in New Hampshire and sent to England. Here have been severall parcells of tar sent hither from Carolina since my being here, and I find they export a pretty good quantity of it yearly to the other Plantations.

The scheme I sent your Lordships in my letter of the 17th of last Aprill was a first essay or a rude sketch, but I have since that refin'd upon it, and hope what I now write by way of supplement to that letter will deserve your Lordships approbation and furtherance.

My first position viz<sup>t</sup> that Pitch Tar and Rozin can best be made and afforded from the Province of New Yorke, is, I think, so manifest that it will admit of no dispute. In the next place that Soldiers at 12<sup>d</sup> per day will be the fittest to be employed in the providing of the said stores is as evident, because all other labouring men will have 3 shillings p<sup>r</sup> day, / besides too let it be considered that that number of soldiers is a necessary guard for the Country, if we will put these Provinces in a condition of defence against the French of Canada, who are said to have 1500 men in pay in time of peace as well as war. So that this proposition of employing soldiers has a double end and advantage, viz<sup>t</sup> The security of these Provinces and the Provision of the fore mentioned stores. In my letter to your Lordships of the 21th of last August; I propose a distribution of the lands granted by Colonel Fletcher to M<sup>r</sup> Dellius and M<sup>r</sup> Bayard, to the officers and soldiers after seven years service, in reward of the Soldiers faithful service and labour in making the said stores. I desire that paragraph in my said letter may be considered, and withall, that if each soldier have at the seven years end 40 acres of land allotted him, he will not be one single farthing the richer, unlesse a way be found out to enable each soldier to build a house buy necessary furniture for that house, and to buy likewise two or three cows, a few sheep, and a horse or two to begin the world withall. This therefore as the last and most essential part of scheme for the soldiers encouragement, and without which all the rest is but meer chimera. I will now propose a sure method, for I have already proposed 12<sup>d</sup> per day for each soldier, which is the least that can be allowed them, for they will require better diet than they have at present, and will wear out much more clothes, and I will so husband this pay of theirs for 'em, as to sequester and set apart 12<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> week out of each man's pay, which I will get so turn'd and managed in Trade that I make no manner of question at the 7 years end to improve that 12<sup>d</sup> per week to be £50 or £60 to each soldier, and for that money a man will have a comfortable little house built with necessary furniture two or three cows, and a couple of horses to begin his husbandry with. Besides that this will be an Act of humanity to provide for poor Englishmen & Soldiers, that otherwise must starve in their old age and die in a ditch as many of them do, when they grow unfit for service; It will also be a sure and quick way to people that part of the Province fronting towards Canada, where there is not at present so much as one single family. And lastly this care of the soldiers will be both a credit and encouragement to the service. If it be doubted whether the 12<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> week deduction may be so improved in seven years as I have said, nothing is plainer I think than the possibility of it, considering the often returns in Trade; And that there should be no hazard to these men and their stock, I would ensure every shillings worth of their concerns both outward and inward. I say this more upon observation of the advantages made in Trade by the Merchants of New Yorke, than upon experience for myself; for I protest solemnly to your Lordships I never have been concern'd directly or indirectly in Trade since my coming into America, more than that I sent soon after my coming to New Yorke, and bought two pipes of wine at Maderas, and about half a year ago I sent for two pipes more which I have not received.

My thoughts have been so at worke about Naval Stores and Masts for the Kings ship's, That understanding last spring from two honest Dutch men that had found out a parcell of vast pines on one of the late grants of land by Colonel Fletcher to M<sup>r</sup> Dellius, which they said were big enough for masts for the biggest ship in the world; I resolved to take an account of them, and for that end sent M<sup>r</sup> Schemerhoorn, one of the Dutchmen that discovered them to me, and with him John Latham an able shipwright, who learn't his Trade in one of the King's yards in England, to view them, and to take a survey of all the woods in that part of the Province, I mean to the Northward of New Yorke up Hudson River, The Mohacks River, and along the side of Corlaer's Lake where Dellius's largest grant was. And by my Instructions Latham was to report what trees he found fit for Masts, what Pitch Pines for making Pitch, Tar and Rozin, and all other timber fit for building Ships of War, as beams, planks, wale pieces and knees; Upon their returne, which was just a month ago, they sent me the journal of their travel in the woods which journal goes (N<sup>o</sup> 1) and is signed by M<sup>r</sup> Schermerhoorn and M<sup>r</sup> Latham. Then there goes John Latham's report (N<sup>o</sup> 2) which he sent the next post after he sent the said journal. I also send the Lieutenant Governor of New York's Proclamation forbidding the cutting any of those great trees fit for Masts for the King's Ships which goes (N<sup>o</sup> 3). But in the Province of New Yorke people little mind Proclamations or Laws either, I am glad to find there are pines of 11 & 12 feet about, for either of those sizes is big enough for a first rate ship, as I am informed, and I am satisfied the Trees might be floated down the great fall (which I have been at) and then they will be the cheapest in the world, for they may be floated all down Hudson's River to the Ships side that take 'em in to carry them to England. In Summer when there is not a flood in the River, I grant it would hazard the breaking such heavy trees to let them tumble down that great fall, but in Winter I cannot believe there's the least hazard. I stood looking a good while at that fall. It is at least 600 yards broad, and in the highest place about 50 foot high, 'Tis eight miles above Albany due North, The River when I was there was shallow for about a mile below the fall and rocky except just under the fall, which the people that were my guides assured me was six fathom deep, and the mighty and continual fall of water seems to have made that cavity in the Rock, for that it was solid rock I could plainly perceive: to be sure the seasons of the year must be watch'd when there are floods in the River, and then I am confident those trees may be safely floated especially if the water be so deep at the foot of the fall as I was told, for then the depth of the Water will break the fall of the Trees, besides there is an art to save one of those great trees from breaking with it's fall by binding lesser trees, about it.

I have been the more particular in this account of the conveniences for Naval Stores and Trees fit for Masts for the King's ships, because I intend it shall be the last time I will trouble your Lordships on this subject, unlesse you approve of and incourage it. But if your Lordships like the thing, and will send me your commands about it, I will proceed with the few soldiers I have to work with all the vigour I can, and hope you will order recruits for the four companies forthwith, if you think it best to prosecute this designe by degrees, but if your Lordships be satisfied of it's faisibility I hope you will send 800 men to make up the 1000 men proposed, Tho' I fear our four Companys will not afford 200 men able to worke.

On the road as I was returning hither from Rhode Island, I was met by an expresse from Albany with a letter from M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and Colonel Schuyler which goes (N<sup>o</sup> 4) and inclosed was a message sent by our Indians, which message is (N<sup>o</sup> 5) it seems the remote Western Indians, where I formerly writ to your Lordships, Monsieur de Tonti had built a small fort, and had a French garrison, have lately killed and scalp'd five of our remotest Indians called Sinecas, upon which they came to Albany to complain; Your Lordships will see by M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's and Colonel Schuyler's letter they seem to advise my complaining to the Governor of Canada of this Act of hostility done upon our Sineca Nation; but I do not think that proper at all, for should I apply to him by way of complaint, it would be construed a recognition of the French King's Sovereignty over the Western Indians, and the French are subtil and sharp enough to make that use of it hereafter should I give 'em such an advantage. I wish your Lordships would please to write to the Governors of Pensylvania, Maryland, Virginia and Carolina to indeavour by all means to ingage those Nations of Western Indians in a Trade with them. I am sure it is a shame for them to suffer the French to prevail so with those Indians, when they have infinitely the advantage of the French in all respects as to Trade. For the French supply those Indians all the way from Canada which is about 700 miles, and the greatest part of the way by land too. I would willingly have a conference with those Governors about opening a Trade with those Indians, and I would have Philadelphia to be the place of our meeting, because it is most in the Center: But then I must have the King's leave for so doing because that by the King's-instructions I am not to leave my Government under the forfeiture of half my Salary and perquisites for that time. If your Lordships approve of this, and will send me the King's leave; I believe those Governors would readily give me the meeting this next summer at Philadelphia.

M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter the Naval Officer at New Yorke having severall times complained to me by letter from thence, of the insufficiency of the Revenue Act there, which gave the Merchants advantages against the King, I advised him to write his Remarks on the Act and send them to me, which he has done; his letter on that subject goes (N<sup>o</sup> 6) and his Remarkes (N<sup>o</sup> 7) and tho' I formerly sent your Lordships the written Laws of New Yorke passed the last Session of Assembly, yet I now send them printed, because M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter has made some little marks on the Margin of the Revenue Act, which stands first in the Booke of Laws; The said Book of Laws goes (N<sup>o</sup> 8th) I beg your Lordships will please to direct the carefull perusall of that and the rest of the Acts by Some able Lawyer in England, and afterwards let me have that Lawyer's observations on them.

I formerly writ to your Lordships that I would inform you exactly of all the perquisites that did accrew to me by seizures of forfeited ships and goods, which promise I have hitherto perform'd, but have not of late had any benefit of that kind, Tho' severall seizures have been made, at New Yorke, but wee loose all that's seized for want of Law in the Atturny General or something else. So that the Custom House Officers are quite discouraged, and the 300 Miles that I am from them, do not deliver me from the trouble of their complaints. The Ship Hester that I ordered to be seized and brought from Perth Amboy was condemn'd and sold by Inch of Candle at New Yorke, but neither the King nor I as Governor had a shilling by that seizure, for the Master swore the Seamens wages amounted to more than the price the ship sold for, and M<sup>r</sup> Graham the Atturny assured me it was Law, that in cases of that kind the seamen were to be paid their wages, and that the ship was a pledg for their wages. I desired him to give it under his hand for law, but that he refused to do. I search'd Molloy de Jure Maritimo and there found in his 2<sup>d</sup> Book 3<sup>d</sup> Chapter and 7th Section of that Chapter, he is positive that a Mariner is entituled to his wages except in the case of Piracy or the like; but perhaps Molloy's Authority is not good, therefore I desire your Lordships will please to consult the King's Atturny General in England in this point, and let me have his opinion therein against another such occasion.

I formerly acquainted your Lordships that Nassaw Island alias Long Island was become a great Receptacle for Pirates; I am since more confirm'd that 'tis so. Gillam a notorious pirate was suffered to escape thither from Rhode Island, and tis believed he is still there, notwithstanding the Lieutenant Governor of New Yorke published by my direction a reward of £30 for his apprehension, and at the same time £10 a piece for two of Kidd's men that escaped from this town to Nassaw Island; the said Proclamation goes (N<sup>o</sup> 9) I take that Island especially the East End of it to exceed Rhode Island. The people there have been many of them pirates themselves, and to be sure are well affected to the Trade; But besides that they are so lawlesse and desperat a people that I can get no honest man that will venture to goe and collect the Excise among them, and watch their Trade, There are four towns that make it their daily practice to receive ships and sloops with all sorts of Merchandize, tho' they be not allowed ports. To correct this great abuse of unlawfull trade and t'other of harbouring pirates, and also for justifying the due collection of the Revenue, I intend next Spring, if your Lordship approve of it, to quarter a 100 men in the severall Towns in that Island under discreet officers. I know no other way in the world to bring those people to be obedient to the Laws and suppress piracy among 'em; I suppose they will be very clamorous against me but I shall not mind that; If they will not know their Duty, they must be taught it, and I doubt not but the laws and Government of England will allow of my taking that course since no other will doe with that people. However I should be glad to receive your Lordships orders as to the Quartering Soldiers in those Towns.

When the two Scotch ships called the Caledonia and the Unicorne came to New Yorke, they were in a miserable condition, having lost a great number of people on their voyage from Caledonia by famin and sickness. Upon their first arrivall at New Yorke they applied to the Lieutenant Governor for leave to buy provisions, as appears by their Memorial and the Minute of Council thereupon, both contain'd in one paper and (N<sup>o</sup> 10). The Lieutenant Governor's letters to me (at least an extract of all that had relation to those Ships and people) desiring my instructions how far he should proceed in complying with their Memorial, together with my answers alternately set down, all contained in the same paper, goes (N<sup>o</sup> 11.) I am the more particular in this of the ships from Caledonia, because I apprehend the Scotch that came in them from a starving condition they were in at their first coming, grew very insolent while they were at New Yorke; That which gives me a jealousy that it is so is what M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter writes in the postscript of his forementioned letter number six; but the Lieutenant Governor has not yet taken the pains to informe me of their behaviour particularly, and only gives me a hint as in the last extract set down in the above mentioned paper number eleven. I have writ to the Lieutenant Governor to inform me exactly about those Scotch, and to explaine the hint he has last given me, and which is last set down in the said paper of extracts, viz<sup>t</sup> their not playing fair with him; and the next post I expect his answer. Your Lordships will see that I have been cautious enough in my orders to the Lieutenant Governor of New Yorke, not to suffer the Scotch to buy more provisions than would serve to carry them home to Scotland. And if he have suffered them to exceed that, he is to blame. And for any insolences committed by them it had been easy, I should think to have put a check to that by committing the officers and principall passengers belonging to those ships, till such time as they had made satisfaction for any irregularities done by them, and till they had given security to the Government for their good behaviour; There are Scotch enough there to have been sureties for them.

I beg leave to observe to your Lordships that in the Newspaper called the Flying Post, and in that which bears date the first day of last August from London, there is an article of News, which, if it were true, would be a reflection on me, it says that there went five ships at once from hence laden with provisions to the Scotch at Darien. I have enquired of the Officers of the Custom House here, and find there was only one briganteen belonging to one Steel a Merchant in this Town that went to Nevis with Provisions, but not finding a market there to his liking, he went from thence to Caledonia, But this was before my coming hither, and before the King's pleasure was known in that matter, That part of the same article of News which says that I as Governor of Rhode Island stopped a ship there that brought M<sup>r</sup> Daniel Mackay from Darien or Caledonia, and afterwards suffered her to proceed on her voyage to Scotland, is as great a mistake as the former part of the said Article. The thing was thus in fact; A Briganteen belonging to M<sup>r</sup> Oliver a Merchant of this town went from hence to Jamaica with provisions, and just as the other Briganteen of Steel's did, missing of a market there, went from thence to Caledonia, but this was long before the King's orders were sent from England and for that reason I advised the Governor of Rhode Island to release the said Briganteen, he having first seized her, and then sent to consult me in that matter, but neither did that Briganteen when released proceed on the voyage to Scotland but refused so to do. So that M<sup>r</sup> Mackay and his companions were forced to come hither from Rhode Island, and imbarke on a ship that was bound from hence to London. This is the naked truth of the matter.

I send your Lordships the Minutes of Council during the Session of Assembly at New Yorke, which began the 2<sup>d</sup> of March 9<sup>s</sup> and ended the 16th of May 99.

I also send the Minutes of Council out of Assembly, for the Months of April, May & June 99. I gave your Lordships an account in my letter of the 13th of last May of M<sup>r</sup> Graham the Attorney's advising Colonel De Peyster a Merchant of New Yorke that he might safely buy the ship Fortune after condemnation, and trade with her. That mistake of M<sup>r</sup> Graham's has caused a great deal of disturbance to Colonel De Peyster, and the King is like to be pretty much damnified, which has been no small trouble to me, for I endeavour in every thing to manage for the King's best Interest, and I can truly say I prefer his interest far above my own. Colonel De Peyster is a very honest man, and every body at New Yorke was troubled at his losse and disappointment in the purchase of that ship. Your Lordships will see what steps were made towards his relief in the minutes of the 3<sup>d</sup> and 5th of May (in the first Book of Minutes of Council above mentioned) by me and the Council, and the House of Representatives, but I found the Acts of Navigation left no room to relieve him, and therefore I rejected the request of the House of Representatives to me to let him load the ship with lumber to some foreign port and there sell her: because I thought lumber was as well merchandise as any thing else. To comfort Colonel De Peyster I writ to him the 2<sup>d</sup> of August in these following words [I desire you will take all possible care to preserve the ship Fortune, and I will send her to England next Spring with Naval Stores for the King] Colonel De Peyster producing my said letter with the foregoing words in it, to the Lieutenant Governor and Council of New York, they were so easy and good natur'd as to grant him a warrant for the money the ship stood him in, there are two Minutes about that matter viz' of the 15th and 23<sup>d</sup> of August; they are in one paper and are (N<sup>o</sup> 12). I have vex'd and fretted at their ordering the payment of the money, which is a great sum in the Revenue of New Yorke. The Lieutenant Governor should not have consented to that payment without an instruction from me, and I had resolved not to consent till I had knowu your Lordships pleasure in answer to what I writ to you about it in my said letter of the 13th of last May. I have reproved the Lieutenant Governor & Council for their want of care of the King's interest; And all the reparation I find I am to expect is Colonel De Peyster's vouching his Account upon oath which amounts as per minute of the 23<sup>d</sup> of August aforesaid to £588 New Yorke money, and his securing the ship this winter and delivering her in good sayling order the 10th of next April against which time I will endeavour to provide a loading of ship timber for the use of the King's Navy & so send her to England. Colonel De Peyster had paid £315 for that ship whereof a 3<sup>d</sup> part viz' £105 which was the King's share of the forfeiture must be deducted out of the £588 and then the King will be looser in the summ of £483 unless by the above expedient of sending the ship to England loaden with ship timber, I can indemnifie the King, which I hope to doe. If there had been law enough in New Yorke to satisfie me that loading a ship in her circumstances with ship timber for the King's use and service, were not against law I could have saved the King £450 sterling which M<sup>r</sup> Bridger the Purveyor of Naval Stores paid very lately for the hire of a ship (exactly of the same burthen with the ship Fortune) to transport a parcel of specimens of ship timber from Pescattaway to England.

Your Lordships will find a minute of the 15th of last May in the second Book of Minutes of Council before mentioned, which was the day before I left New Yorke to come to this place; In which Minute the Clerk of the Council has either through mistake, or a worse motive, made me and the Council order the reimbursing Colonel De Peyster all the money he had laid out on the ship Fortune. I remember the thing perfectly well. Colonel Depeyster urg'd and intreated me very much to take some course to indemnifie him before my leaving the Province. I told him I would befriend him as far as with justice I could; That when the Council met, I would feel their pulse in that matter. Accordingly the 15th May I desired the Council to advise me what in justice they thought, was fit to be done with relation to the ship Fortune, and they agreed that it was just and fit that Colonel De Peyster should be reimbursed out of the Revenue and that some of the Gentlemen of the Council should take care of the ship and make the most of her for the King's advantage. But I told 'em that I had writ to your Lordships about that matter, acquainting you of the unhappy bargain Colonel De Peyster was advised to, and that till I had received your Lordships Orders, I would not consent that the mony should be ordered to Colonel De Peyster; but I agreed that some Gentlemen of the Council should take care of the ship, and see whether there was the rigging and furniture that Colonel De Peyster pretended. I never yet consented to the Council's ordering any payment of mony, but I signed a warrant for that payment, but in this case there was no warrant signed by me. After all, the ship is a very good one, well fitted and new rigged, and would sell in England for £500 Sterling. And I hope I shall so order the matter by sending her laden with principall ship timber next Spring, that the King will be 3 or 400 gainer; but I could not do lesse than acquaint your Lordships with the whole of this matter to do myself right, that I might not appear ridiculously inconsistent in the said Minute of the 15th of last May, with the account I gave your Lordships but two days before, viz<sup>t</sup> in my letter of the 13th of the said month, that I could wait your Lordships orders about the ship Fortune.

I brought from England a Commission under the Seal of the Admiralty for trying pirates and pirates goods taken or committed in Connecticut Colony, in the Admiralty Court of New Yorke; And upon hearing that some of Bradishe's men were taken by Colonel Winthrop the Governor of that Colony, I was about to send for them to have them tryed at New Yorke. But Colonel Winthrop prevented me by sending me your Lordships letter to him dated the 21st of March 9th, together with a draught of the Bill for restraining and punishing Privateers and Pirates, which Bill you injoin him to endeavour to get pass'd into an Act by the General Assembly of that Colony; And in it there are Admiralty Powers to try, condemn and punish with death all such offenders. I call'd a Council at New Yorke upon receipt of that letter of Colonel Winthrop's and we all agreed that by that Bill's being enacted, and the tenour of your Lordships said letter, Connecticut Colony would be exempted from the jurisdiction of the Admiralty Court of New Yorke. The transaction about that matter is describ'd at large in the Minute of the 9th of last April and in the last of the forementioned Bookes. But I do not hear they have yet pass'd that Bill in Connecticut Colony, and the Pirates still continue in prison and untryed.

I formerly writ to your Lordships that I should prefer an honest able Judge, and Attorney General at New Yorke, before a Man of War, and Soldiers, for the suppressing of Piracy and unlawfull Trade; And I am every day more and more confirm'd in that opinion; They are now all in pieces at New Yorke, M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter the Naval Officer was bred an Attorney in England, and is said to have read a good deal of Law; and he ridicules Mr Graham for his ignorance in the Law, and finds fault with (and so does M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford one of the Collectors) the informations drawn by M<sup>r</sup> Graham and all his pleadings; On the other hand M<sup>r</sup> Graham meditates to be reyenged of those two and sett's the Lieutenant Governor against them. And every post I am pester'd with letters and complaints. This I will affirm and maintain, that it were good husbandry to allow £500 or a £1000 a year to a good Judge from England, and £300 a year to a good Attorney Generall, if peace and good order in a Country are to be valued, and if piracy and ulawfull trade are to be effectually suppressed; And lastly if an Improvement of the Revenue to £4000 a year more than it has ever yielded yet, be arguments worth the King's consideration, I propose that the Judge sent over shall serve for New Hampshire as well as for New Yorke, And that the Attorney General shall serve the King in all the three Provinces under my Government. And without them I am like a man manic'd and fetter'd. I desire your Lordships will please to peruse the petition and remonstrance of the House of Representatives of New Yorke which I sent your Lordships with my letter of the 27th of last April; there you will find that they complain of the ill administration of the Laws and the perverting of Justice by the Officers and Ministers of Justice, and (which I chiefly observe to your Lordships) they undertake to furnish or provide a maintenance for good and able ones. I know they propose two Judges, but I wish we had one to begin with, of my Lord Chancellor of England's recommending, and an Attorney Generall too of his choosing.

I have prevail'd with Governor Winthrop to seize and send Thomas Clarke of New Yorke prisoner thither; he had been on board Kidd's sloop at the East End of Long Island, and carried off to the value of about £5000 in goods and treasure (that we know of and perhaps a great deal more) into Connecticut Colony, and thinking himself safe from under our power, writ my Lieutenant Governour of New Yorke a very sawcy letter and bade us defiance. I have ordered him to be safely kept prisoner in the Fort, because the Gaol of New York is weak and insufficient, and when orders come to me to send Kidd and his men to England (which I long for impatiently) I will also send Clark as an associate of Kidd's.

I am with respect

My Lords

Your Lordships'

Boston

October the 20th 1699.

Most humble & obedient Servant

BELMONT.

P. S. October 30th 1699

The Ship being not yet quite ready to sail, I have the opportunity of sending your Lordships, the Lieutenant Governor of New York's proposition to me in behalf of Thomas Clarke of New Yorke, of his said Clarke's offer of surrendring all the goods and treasure (which he received from on board Kidd's sloop) to the Government; which proposition of the Lieutenant Governors is contain'd in the Extract of his letter of the 23th instant and goes (N<sup>o</sup> 13.) And I have advised the Lieutenant Governor to incourage Clarke, and to promise him if he would surrender all the goods and treasure, I would become Advocate for him, that he should not be troubled or prosecuted. Wherein I hope and perswade myself your Lordships will approve of my Conduct. But I have directed the Lieutenant Governor to take the Security offer'd viz<sup>t</sup> £12000 for Clark's punctuall performance of what he has proposed and also his oath to it.

I send your Lordships an account of the stores of War at New Yorke which goes (N<sup>o</sup> 14) November the 6th 1699.

I have prevail'd with the Master of the ship to stay 4 or 5 day's for the posts coming from New Yorke, that I might be able to give your Lordships some account of the behaviour of the Scotch from Caledonia; which I believe your Lordships will think very insolent. The Lieutenant Governor of New Yorke has sent by yesterday's post their whole proceedings with him in 17 several papers numbred and bundled up by themselves. But as an Introduction and sort of Explanation of the 17 papers, I have sent an extract of the Lieutenant Governor's letter, which is first plac'd in the said bundle. I hope your Lordships will see no cause to blame the Lieutenant Governor of New York's conduct with the Scotch. It was not possible for him to check their Insolence, they were in a capacity with those ships, to force, to insult New Yorke or any other Plantation whatsoever. By a passage in the said Extract about the Attorney, your Lordships I believe will think with me, that there is need of an honest Attorney Generall at New Yorke. The Caledonian settlement is quite deserted, the last recruits sent thither from Scotland, being dispersed, and most of the Planters gon to Jamaica, together with their best Frigat called the S<sup>t</sup> Andrew.<sup>1</sup>

I send your Lordships the Collector of New York's lists of ships cleared inward and outward in that Port from last Lady Day to last Michaelmas. The Naval Officers lists do not come further than Midsummer quarter, which I am sorry for, because of the want of Method, but 'tis not for want of direction and caution from me. I shall send your Lordships very shortly the Naval Officers' Michaelmas Booke. There goes also the Naval Officers List of ships registred in Midsummer Quarter. Colonel Courtland sent me his Accounts of the Revenue unsigned, which for that reason I returned to him again. And upon looking over the King's late Instructions to me countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury, & bearing date the 4th October 1698 which (among other things) direct me to attest all the Accounts of the Revenue of that Province which I (being absent and therefore not able to assist the Council in the Audit of the Accounts as the King's Instructions also direct) durst not venture to do, unlesse I first had a Certificate from the Lieutenant Governor and Council of their having carefully examined the said accounts, and pass'd them, Upon the receipt of which certificate I will attest Colonel Courtland's Books of Accounts, and then forward them to your Lordships.

The Sachims of the five nations arrived here four dayes agoe, and the propositions out of His Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s letter sent, by the Lieut<sup>nt</sup> Governor and Council was made to them, as alsoe that relating to Pennsylvania.

The Indians were extreemly satisfied, and thank'd your Lord<sup>sh</sup> for your care of them, and promised to come in the springe, to returne their thankfull acknowledgement in the behalfe of all the five nations—This was noe sooner done but an expresse comes from Onnondage with the inclosed message by which Your Excell<sup>cy</sup> will perceive that those Indians called the Dowaganhaes in amity with the French continue their incursions upon our Indians, and so by that means, will either provoke our Indians to a publick break or else compell them to come & truckle to the French which wee have hitherto prevented—

Wee thought it the best way for expedicion to send an express overland to be with Your Excell<sup>cy</sup> before the French agents be dismissed, which may prevent your Lord<sup>sh</sup> sending to Canada; The behavior of the French and their Indians has been intolerable since the peace, wee doubt not, but your Excell<sup>cy</sup> will by these agents prevaile with the French Gov<sup>r</sup> to prevent the like for the future—All things else is well here we have dispatched the Maquase and other Indians, as alsoe Onnagonque or Eastern Indians who were well satisfied, and will

[New York Papers Bundle, H. L. K. I 6.]

Jan Janse Bleeker Recorder,	Hille Interpretesse.

A message sent by the Sachims of Onnondage to the Gent<sup>rs</sup> appointed to manage the Indian affairs by Agosenneha who arrived at Albany this 21. Sept<sup>r</sup> 1699.

Who said—Brethren

Aqueenderande and the rest of the Sachims of Onnondague have sent me to acquaint you that the chief Sachim of Sinnekis call'd Cagenquarichton, has been at Onnondage five dayes agoe, to acquaint us that a company of their people, had been out a hunting near their Castle, wereof five were killed and scalp'd hard by their castle this day sevenights by the far Indians, and the said Sinnekes Sachim proposed to the Sachims of Onnondage, if it would be convenient, to goe to Canada to demand of that Govern<sup>t</sup> what the reason was, why the Dowaganhaes (: Indians in allyance with the French :) came and destroyed them now in time of peace, but the Sachims of Onnondage, were of another opinion, concluded by no means to send to the French, for they knew very well, it was through instigation of the French that this was brought to pass, but by all means to goe to Albany and acquaint His Excell<sup>ty</sup> the Earle of Bellomont, whom they call Corlaer, with this treatment.

This is the fourth time that the five nations have had their people killed since the peace, three times by the French Indians called Rondax and now by the Dowaganhaes Indians in league with the French of Canada, wee desire to know of Corlaer how to behave ourselves in this Extreanity, for wee can endure it noe longer.

Wee designe to goe out a hunting this winter over the Lake of Cadaracqui and fear that the French again will incite their Indians to fall upon us, therefore desire again that Corlaer will be pleased to demand of the French of Canada what they mean by such continuall breaches of the General peace made by the two great Kings over the great water

This is all I have to say only desire that wee may have an answer speedily of Corlaer about this matter being of great import and consequence.—

I cannot omitt alsoe to acquaint you that by one of our people, that has been a prisoner of Canada who is lately come home, to Onnondage brings us the news, that Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrisour call'd by the Indians Stow Stow is come to Onnondage with a great company of French, to make some proposals there and was got as far as the river Cadaracqui, and that all the Sachims of the five nations are now at Onnondage, who have sent for the Indians from Hunt, to watch the motions of the French, being very mistrustfull of their actions and not without just cause.

The Messenger was answered.

That the Sachims of Onnondage were commended for their prudence in not sending to Canada as Sinnekes proposed but directly hither, about the mischief befallen them lately near their Castles by the Dowaganhaes, that His Excell<sup>ty</sup> the Earle of Bellomont, should be forthwith acquainted with this matter and that in the mean time, they be upon their guard, and to be sure hold no correspondence or communication with the French or any that might come from Canada to their Castles, but if any French came send them down hither, without entering into any treaty with them. —

[New-York Entries, B. 483.]

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

May it please Your Majesty.

In obedience to Your Majesty's Commands signified to us by the Right Honourable M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon and upon consideration of diverse letters we have received from the Earle of Bellomont relating to the want of a good Judge and an able Atturney Gen<sup>l</sup> in Your Majesty's Province of New Yorke, We humbly report to your Majesty that the Earle of Bellomont has set forth unto us the great difficulties and obstructions he meets with from the unfittesse of the persons at present in those*employments, the consequence of which reaches every part of your Majesty's service there, and the instances his Lordship gives us thereof are so full that we are humbly of opinion, unless he be assisted by persons duly qualified, sent from hence it will be impossible for him to perfect what he has begun in the reformation of those evill practices which had formerly taken root in the said Province, and in which your Majesty has hitherto been pleased to approve of his endeavours.

It is not only the Administration of Justice in the ordinary forms of it, that suffers; but the suppressiön also of illegal trade and piracy cannot be accomplished without the constant assistance of persons in the foresaid places both honest and able to advise in points of Law.

Upon consideration whereof we humbly represent to your Majesty our opinion that it is of great necessity for your Majesty's service in those parts that two able lawyers of known probity be sent from hence to supply the places of Chief Justice and Atturney Generall in the said Province of New Yorke.

And whereas we find that the benefit accruing by those places (the Chief Justice having no more then £100 and the Atturney General £70. Sterl: p<sup>r</sup> Anñ. salary) is not a sufficient encouragement for persons fitly qualified for those employments, and are humbly of opinion that a dependance upon the General Assembly there for a further allowance will no ways suit with your Majesty's service in the Administration of Justice against piracy and irregular trade; and seeing it cannot be expected that such fit persons will leave their native country upon so small an encouragement and so great an uncertainty; We do therefore humbly represent to your Majesty that much greater Allowances will be necessary to invite fit persons to accept of those employments, and that they be assured thereof by an establishment here; which extraordinary charge we humbly conceive will be abundantly recompensed by a very great increase of your Majesty's customes here,<sup>1</sup> and tend to the incouragement of fair traders both here and there.

And we do further humbly offer that such Chief Justice may likewise be impowered to officiate as Judge of the Admiralty, and the Atturney Generall as Advocate General (with particular regard to pirates and irregular traders,) not only in New Yorke but also in the neighbouring Colonies, which will likewise tend very much to the great improvement of Your Majesty's Revenue as aforesaid.

All which neverthesse is most humble submitted

[New-York Entries, G. 106.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I have not had the honour of receiving your Lordships' Orders upon any of the letters I writ to you at my leaving New Yorke, or since my coming to this Province, which is a misfortune for me, for I am never so well pleased as when I am directed by your Lordships.

I have now a fit of the gout, which not only hinders me from writing with my own hand, but also from giveing your Lordships an Account of severall things that require your Orders to me how to behave myself for His Majesty's service; Therefore I must of necessity forbear till another opportunity.

I send your Lordships the Collector of New York's Account of the Revenue of that Province from Michaelmas 1698 to Michaelmas last; They are examined and audited, and attested by the Lieutenant Governor and Council of New Yorke according to the King's Instructions, countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury. Colonel Cortland the present Collector writes me word this has been the worst year that ever was known in New York for the Revenue by reason of the great scarcity of Sugar, Rum and Molasses at Barbadoes, and the other Islands and of Wines at the Madera's; for from those Articles the Customes of New York do chiefly arise.

I send your Lordships the Minutes of Council of New Yorke for the months of July, August and September last; You will find by a minute of the one and twentieth of September that the Lieutenant Governor is instructed by me to grant a letter of denization to Peter Basset a French Surgeon and Protestant, to make him free in the Province of New Yorke, only; wherein I do not apprehend I have transgressed your Lordships orders for that which I understand by your Lordships to be against Law was granting of Generall Letters of Denization. My Instruction to the Lieutenant Governor about that matter is not so plainly expressed in the Minutes as I could have wished, and therefore I send your Lordships an Extract of my letter to him about the said Basset and his answer to that part of my said letter, whereby your Lordships will see what caution I gave him therein; but he takes not the pains to read over all the Minutes of Council as I doe.

I intended to have sent your Lordships the Muster Rolls of the four Companies at New Yorke and Albany by this Conveyance, but the Lieutenant Governor of New Yorke has not sent them to me, tho' I writ to him very pressingly on the 8th of October last, which is just three months agoe, and twice since, I also intended your Lordships an exact State of the Militia within the three Provinces under my Government viz<sup>t</sup> The number of Regiments in each Province, of Companies in each Regiment, and of Men in each Company. The State of the Militia in this Province and that in New Hampshire I have ready by me, but I am disappointed in that of New Yorke. I shall hereafter give your Lordships the best Account I can of those matters, and also of the Ports and Creeks within this Province, and that of New Hampshire, having formerly done it as to the Province of New Yorke.

Colonel Romer promised I should have his draughts of the Eastern Coast according to the late survey he made thereof to send to your Lordships by this conveyance, but he has fail'd me too.

I send your Lordships duplicates of my letters by the last conveyance viz<sup>t</sup> of the 18th 22th 27th and 29th of November some whereof have relation to the inquiry I made into the male administration of the Government of Rhode Island, the originals were carried from hence this day month for England.

I received not the laws of Rhode Island till the 23th of last month, which I now transmit to your Lordships, it seems that Government have taken all this time to prune and polish 'em, and yet after all I believe the World never saw such a parcel of fustian. I have got Mr Addington the Secretary to read 'em over and make some remarks on them which remarks I now send your Lordships. I desire your Lordships will please to observe the Governor of Rhode Island's letter to me of the 22th of last month, wherein he calls it an imposition upon their Government that your Lordships should require a transcript of their Laws, and that I have done the same by the King's command. I did (as the King's Commission and Instructions empowered me) appoint four or five Gentlemen of that Island by an Authority under my hand and seal to call for their Laws and Journalls, and to inquire into the Irregularities of that Government which thing Governor Cranston resents in his said letter to me, tho' I am confident without any just reason; for I cannot find those Gentlemen have in the least abused the power I confer'd on them, but have acted with all the moderation and prudence that could be expected from them.

Your Lordships will see by three letters of the 23th 26th and 31th of last month, from the Gentlemen I left in commission at Rhode Island, what unaccountable things that Government continues to practise, and there is a strang sort of Act of their Assembly which the said Commissioners takes notice and complaine of in some of their said letters. Mr Secretary Addington also in his remarks reflects on the said Act particularly.

I send your Lordships two letters of the 5th of October and 17th of November, which I received from the present Governour of Rhode Island and from Mr Walter Clark the late Governour, wherein they complement me upon my behaviour among them in the Execution of His Majesty's Commission and Instructions; I trouble your Lordships with those letters that I may be justified against any false insinuations from that Government any time hereafter.

There have come many complaints to me from the Narraganset Country of great violence done the people there by the Government of Rhode Island since my being there, in levying taxes on them out of all measure and proportion, and without the people's having any hopes or prospect of a due application of their money. But I tell the people 'tis not in my power to relieve 'em and that they must wait with patience till His Majesty is pleased to interpose His Royall Authority for their protection. That people is much to be pitied, for I looke upon them to live in a state of War while the rest of the King's subjects, live in peace & quietnesse.

I send your Lordships an Act of Assembly past by the Lieutenant Governour and Assembly of New Hampshire for the raising a certain sum of money to discharge the debts of that Government, and also seven Minutes of Council as I received them from the Secretary of that Province.

About three weeks ago James Gillam the pirate had like to broke prison, and escaped, somebody having conveyed to him an iron crow of two foot and a half long with a claw the end of it, and two files; he had filed the irons from off his legs, and with the crow had wrench'd out some of the iron bars of the window, but happen'd to be overheard by the Gaoler and prevented, And I have since had him chained to another pirate which is the only way to prevent his escape; I believe the pirates that are in this gaol, at Connecticut, New Yorke and Philadelphia are at least forty in number, and I would give £100 they were all in Newgate; 'Tis reported here that the Rochester Frigate is sent from England to carry them away to be tryed there, and to be sure they will be alarm'd and will be meditating how to escape; I wish I had received some orders about them, and I could have sent the Frigate that is here with them to England; Captain Crow who commands her seems to be a right honest man, and is very well beloved by his men, and therefore had been fit for conveying the prisoners home; Every body here believes the Rochester is blown off the Coast, and forced to bear away for some of the Islands. The Winter Storms on this Coast are more violent than in any part of the World, therefore there ought to be no dependence on the sending orders directly hither, but Duplicates of those Orders should by right be sent by the way of Virginia and Barbadoes.

Sr William Ashurst writes me word that the arrear of pay and subsistance of the four Companies at New Yorke was cut off to Lady Day last which is Twenty Seven Months. I am forc'd to keep this to myself not daring to communicate it to the Officers belonging to the Companies, nor to the Victuallers that have subsisted them all this while, and who I believe are by this time £9000 out of Pockett upon the Account of victualling, for it would set them a madding; and we should not have a soldier left in a days time. I take the King to be much dishonoured in this treatment of the Officers and Soldiers, and for my own part it is so great a blemish upon my reputation that I must never think of shewing my face more at New Yorke.

The Victuallers will be broke and ruined to all intents and purposes, and I shall be exposed to their reproaches and I fear with some justice too, for had I not encouraged them to victuall the Companies they would not have undertaken it. I desire your Lordships will be pleased to take such a course as that the arrear may be paid, that the Government may be supported, and that I may not be disgrac'd. I send an Extract of Sir William Ashburst's letter wherein he writes me that unhappy news.

Captain Kidd sent the Gaoler to me a fortnight ago to acquaint me that if I would let him go to the place where he left the ship Quidah Merchant and to St. Thomas's Island and Curasçao he would undertake to bring off fifty or threescore thousand pounds which would otherwise be lost; That he would be satisfied to goe a Prisoner to remove from me any jealousy of his designing to escape. But I sent him word he was the King's Prisoner and I could hearken to no such proposition. But I bad the Goaler to try if he could prevaile with Captain Kidd to discover where his treasure was hid by him, but he said nobody could find it but himself and would not tell any further.

I am with respect

My Lords

I send your Lordships a copy of my letter to the Commissioners of the Customs.

Earl of Bellomont to the Commissioners of the Customs.

Gentlemen,

I send you the Collector of New York's four quarterly books of Accompts of the Revenue of that Province, which you had had long since if they had not been sent to me with mistakes and not in the method directed by His Majesty's Instructions countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury. Colonel Cortland the Collector writes me word this has been the worst year for the Revenue that ever was known there, occasioned by the scarcity of Sugar, Rum and Molasses in Barbadoes and the other Islands, and of Wines at the Maderas.

I do not for all that despair of doubling the Revenue of New Yorke when I have rectified the disorders in that Government, and have got a set of honest carefull Officers, which are so much wanted at present that I cannot say there is one single Officer in whose integrity and care I am satisfied. M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford who is joint Collector with Colonel Cortland, has of late so strangely misbehaved himself that I am very much ashamed for him, and the rather because he was of my putting in. There was a great intimacy between M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford and M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter the Naval Officer. And I am told that Parmiter advised M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford that by a Clause in the Act of the 14th of Charles the Second, he as Collector had power to compound for seizures of unlawfull ships, and goods without taking notice of the King's share of the forfeiture, or the Governour's. So that M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford has made away with a parcel of Elephants' Teeth, and a great quantity of unlawful goods that were lodged in the Custom House without the privity or consent of Colonel Cortland; and several seizures I heare he made and brought them to his own Lodging, and has compounded for them upon his own terms without taking notice of the Government or any thing else. If I be rightfully informed the goods M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford has made away with were worth £1000. He and M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter have lately quarelled in a Tavern in New Yorke and threw Candlesticks and bottles at one anothers heads and Parmiter has arrested M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford upon pretence of fees due to him for his advice as a Lawyer, so that they two are irreconcilable enemies. All this disorder and a great deal more, I have the vexation to see and indure without being in a capacity of applying a remedy for want of honest men in office.

It seems by mistake the copy of M<sup>r</sup> Parmiters bond, which I designed to keep by me was sent to you instead of the original; and I found it not out till now, and now I send it to you, and also M<sup>r</sup> Eastwicks bond, Naval Officer of New Hampshire. I writ to you formerly what difficulty I met with in this place where the General Assembly have made the Naval Officers Fees so very inconsiderable that 'tis worth no man's acceptance.

I should write to you of several other things, but that I am at present indisposed with the Goute. I desire you will please to comply with the request I made you in my last letter of sending an honest intelligent man to be Comptroller of the Customes, at New Yorke, and I will make him Naval Officer, and will give him what encouragement I can besides, and I desire he may bring over the King's letter to be sworne of His Majesty's Council of that Province. I have discovered several Tricks in Parmiter that puts me quite out of conceit with him.

I am

Gentlemen

Your most humble and

faithfull Servant

The King to the Earl of Bellomont

[New-York Entries, C. 79]

To Our Right Trusty and Right Well beloved Cousen Richard Earl of Bellomont
Our Captain General and Governor in Chief of Our Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay, New Yorke, & New Hampshire in America, and of the Territories thereupon depending &c. Or to Our Commander in Chief of Our Province of New Yorke for the time being.

WILLIAM R

Right Trusty and Right well beloved Cousin We greet you well. Whereas We have been informed that several Pirates have been lately seized in Our Plantations in America. And it being necessary that due care be taken for bringing them and all others that may in like manner be seized hereafter to condign punishment; We do hereby Will and Require you to send hither in safe custody all Pirates who are or shall be in Prison in our Province of New Yorke under your Government at the time of your receiving this direction, and also to send the witnesses and other evidences upon which the said pirates have been seized and which may be of any use towards their conviction here, that so they may be try'd and punished according to Law, And in the mean while to take care that the goods and effects of the said pirates be secured, so that they may hereafter be disposed of as shall by Law be determined.

And as for all other pirates that may be seized in our said Province of New Yorke for the future Our Will and pleasure is that if you judge, by the circumstances of any particular case and by the Laws in force and disposition of the people in Our said Province of New Yorke, that such Pirates may be more speedily and effectually brought to punishment there, than by sending them hither, you take care in all such cases that they be tryed there, and punished according to the sentence that shall be given. But if you judge otherwise, by the disposition of the people, or by defects in the Law there, or other circumstances, you are to send them hither in manner aforesaid; And in both cases Our Will and Pleasure is that you take such care that their goods and effects be secured so that they may be forth coming to be disposed off as the Law shall direct. Provided always that Our Directions herein do not in any wise contradict, alter or interfere with any former Orders or Instructions relating to Kidd or any other Pirate signified to You by Us, or either of Our Secretaries of State; But that you observe and fully comply with the said former Orders or Instructions, notwithstanding any thing herein contained. So We bid you heartily farewell. Given at Our Court at Kensinton the 10th day of February 1699 in the Eleventh year of Our Reign

[New-York Entries, C. 86.]

To the Honorable the Knights, Cittisens and Burgesses in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of several Merchants of the City of London trading to
New Yorke in America.

Humbly sheweth,

That your Petitioners having about nine months past preferred a Petition to the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations, setting forth that by severall letters they had received from their Factors and Correspondents in New Yorke, and the relation of severall other Persons then here in England, that by the mismanagement of Richard Earle of Bellomont Governor of that Province the lawfull trade of that Province was discouraged and their effects there in great danger, with severall other grievances to which they as yet have received no satisfactory answer, And since the said Earle by his Administration and illegal proceedings has put such further hardships on the Merchants and others the King's subjects there that without redress the Petitioners must be forced to withhold their trade thither, especially being informed by severall now here in town Inhabitants of that place that the said Earle has changed most of the Magistrates and Justices of Peace there, some whereof dare not, and others absolutely refuse to take any affidavits for them, whereby the several arbitrary and unjust proceedings of the said Earle may appear in due forme.

Therefore the Petitioners pray this Honourable House to take their case and the Condition of that Province into their consideration and protection, and to hear and receive such informations as shall be produced by persons here in town from that place, of whose names your petitioners humbly offer a list, when this Honourable House shall see cause to send for them, who other ways dare not appear, least on their returne to New Yorke they may suffer inconveniences for the same. And to take such further course therein as to your Judgments shall seem meet and convenient. And your Petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray &c.

[New-York Entries, C. 91.]

To the Honorable the Knights, Citizens and Burgesses in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Jeremiah Basse Esq. and John Lofting Merchant.
Sheweth

That your Petitioners in 1697 being owners and freighters of the ship Hester, burthen 150 tunns, sent the said ship laden with the product and manufactures of this kingdome to the Province of East Jersey in America, where she arrived on the 26th day of March 1698, and was duly enterd at Perth Amboy a port appointed by the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs in England under the Directions of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the delivery of European Goods within that Colony.

That the cargoe being there unladen and disposed of the said ship continued in the same port till November then next following, when she being refitted, victualled and laden by your Petitioners with Pipe Staves and Provisions ready to sail for the Island of Maderas, and seamiens wages paid; Richard Earle of Bellomont then and now Governor of New York in America, usurping an Arbitrary power over His Majesty's subjects of East Jersey, which is independent and no part of the Province of New Yorke, sent down fifty armed men to Perth Amboy to seize the said ship, who forcibly entred on board, desperately wounded several of the Mariners and carried her up to New Yorke, where he caused an Information to be exhibited in the Mayor's Court of New Yorke, and the said ship to be condemned and sold at £315 New Yorke money, for not entering at New Yorke, the goods she imported to East Jersey, and for not paying the duties imposed on such goods by an Act of Assembly of New Yorke, though no duties are payable for goods imported to East Jersey, nor is East Jersey subject to the laws made by the Assembly of New Yorke. By which illegal proceedings your Petitioners are not only deprived of the said ship, then worth above twelve hundred pounds sterling, but of the Cargoe then on board, amounting to a further considerable value, and can obtain no satisfaction at New Yorke from the Earle of Bellomont, nor from the officers and soldiers who executed his orders, by reason of his Interest and Authority there as Governor, and his protection of those Instruments of his oppression.

That your Petitioner Jeremiah Basse being lately Governor of East Jersey seized there John Elston and William Merrick who confessed themselves of Every the pirates crew, who your Petitioner as it was his duty, refused to bayle, But the said Earle of Bellomont by a pretended Admiralty power forced them out of your said petitioners hands, and set them at liberty upon insufficient bayle, to the great hazard and danger of your Petitioner and the said Merrick has since made his escape.

Your Petitioners therefore most humbly pray this honourable House to take the premisses into their gracious consideration, and to give them such relief therein as to their justice and wisdom shall seem meet.

And your Petitioners shall ever pray &c.

JERE: BASSE:

JOHN LOFTING.

[New-York Entries, C. 165.]

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lords,

I was in great hopes I should have received your Lordships' Commands before this time, having understood by marchand ships that left England in company of Cap<sup>t</sup> Foster and Captain Mason Masters of ships belonging to this town, that they two had pacquets for me, but they being not yet arrived we conclude 'em blown off the coast.

We have had an ugly allarm of late of a General Insurrection and Rebellion of all the Indians in all these Provinces, intended to be by this next April or sooner, which has mightily frightened the English, especially those that live on the Frontier Towns and Places, who are forced to be on their Guard and in Arms. What advice I have had by letter concerning the intended rising of the Indians (I mean that is worth transmitting to your Lordships) I herewith send; Colonel Winthrop the Governor of Connecticut's letter to me of the 29th January :99 goes (N<sup>o</sup> 1.) the Information of Owaneeco an Indian Sachem that came enclosed in the said letter (N<sup>o</sup> 2.)

I have since received a letter from Governor Winthrop of the 13th of this Month, wherein he makes no mention of the Indians, only in a line by way of Postscript he tells me, he sends the Testimonies of two known Indians, viz<sup>t</sup> that of black James which goes (N<sup>o</sup> 3.) and that of Spuna a Squaw (N<sup>o</sup> 4.) Colonel Pynchon a Gent. of the Council's letter to me of the 5th

But that which most induces my belief that there is a General Combination among the Indians to make an Insurrection upon the English, is what one M<sup>r</sup> Sabin (who lives near Woodstoc about 70 miles from hence) has related, he was here this last week, having come by night that it might not be known to his Indian Neighbours he was here. He seemed to me to be under great Terror and apprehension of the Indians, I got Doctor Cook and M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Addington to discourse him and report to me what he discovered to them, they being acquainted with him I concluded he would more freely impart to them all he knew about the Indians, They would have him put what he knew into writing, but he refused so to do, saying that would endanger his life shou'd it come to be known to the Indians that are his Neighbours, and further that if his coming to Boston were known to those Indians, they wou'd murther him, therefore he resolved to go home by Night, as he came hither. I doubt not but the Indian that informed M<sup>r</sup> Sabin of the plot agst the English, meant the French Jesuits and Missionaries under the words cunning Men. The heads of M<sup>r</sup> Sabins information as they were taken in writing by the two forementioned Gentlemen and deliver'd by them to me goes (No. 9) but they writ them on their memory after M<sup>r</sup> Sabin parted with them; for he was so very cautious that he wou'd not suffer them to write any relation from his mouth for fear it shou'd be known. Without all doubt the French Missionaries are Industrious to the last degree to withdraw and debauch our Indians from us; and I question not in the least but Mon<sup>r</sup> de Bruyas the Jesuit that was sent to me by Monsieur de Calliere, and a great many Missionaries besides, are at this time among our five Nations and practising to alienate them totally from their obedience to His Majesty. I sent your Lordships an attested copy of this Jesuit's letter to me from Albany with my packet of the 29th of last November, some observations may be made on that letter, first that he seems cunningly to ask my consent to go among the Mohacks and Onondages, and to induce me to it quotes to me Sir Edmund Andros's great civility to him and the rest of the Missionaries in that respect, but he never told me the least syllable while he was with me at Rhode Island, that ever he had been among our 5 Nations, or intended to go among 'em. In the next place his letter bears date the 13th of October from Albany and came not to my hands 'till the 22th of November and then came inclosed from one Lyron a Frenchman living at Milford in Connecticut Colony, who I believe was guide to the Jesuit and Major de la Valliere through that Country the shortest way to Albany; And 'tis probable there was a design in the slow conveyance of the Jesuit's letter to me, that by my being so late inform'd of his design of going among our Indians, it might not be in my power to prevent him.

The first account I had of the Indians intending to rise, was from an Indian that came from New Roxbury, a plantation lying towards Connecticut, and it was so little regarded by the Council whom I acquainted with the man's errand to me, that he went away without any reward, or the least thanks for his pains; I well remember he told me there was a rumour spread among the Indians that exasperated 'em above all other things, That, Our King had ordered the 5 Nations and all the Indians in these Plantations to be disarm'd, in order to a total extirpation of them. This Intelligence of that Indian's, and what I have mett with from others has made me reflect on what is given in command to the Governor of Canada by the French King in his letter of the 25th of last March; and to me by His Majesty in his letter of the 4th of April last, about disarming our Indians. I confess I thought it a very unhappy step when I first read His Majesty's letter, and it then run in my thoughts that the French wou'd most certainly improve that part of the King's letter to our disadvantage, and to be sure they wou'd not be such fools as to discover to the Indians that their own King had sent the same orders to his Governor for disarming them too, but our King's letter to me (of which the French Governor has a copy) I believe they have made it their business to make known to the Indians all these Provinces over. Your Lordships may consider whether the Indians wou'd submit to be disarm'd, when 'tis by their Guns they maintain their Families with food, and provide the several sorts of Peltry which is their only Trade, and that alone by which they furnish themselves and their families with cloaths; but besides the foregoing reasons there is a third which seems most prevalent of all with them which is the extream delight they take in hunting (as they call it) with their guns to kill Beavers and other Beasts, but especially Deer and Moose, and the delight they take in it cannot be better conceived than by the vast range they take in the country which is all, (generally speaking) covered with thiek woods, and they frequently go 7 or 800 miles on the stretch in their hunting season. In short I believe an Indian has a greater passion for Hunting, than for wife or children, and whoever talks of disarming them will set 'em all in a flame, and loose their affections for ever.

If a speedy and effectual course be not taken, we shal loose the five Nations irrecoverably, I foresee it plainly; the French never applied themselves so industriously as they do now, to debauch them from us; and we on our parts have nothing, nor do nothing to keep 'em in good humour and stedly to us. The Forts of Albany and Schenectady are so weak and ridiculous, that they look liker pounds to impound cattle in, than Forts. Our Soldiers who ought to be 400 men, are not above a 150, and not half of those wou'd be suffered to muster in a Regiment in England, and this for want of Recruits. The weakness of our Frontier places, and of our Garisons makes [us] contemptible to the 5 Nations above all other things; they are a discerning people, and know very well that such pittiful Forts as those two I have named, and a handful of ragged half starved Souldiers will not be able to protect 'em from the French in Time of Warre. Therefore 'tis to be feared the artifices of the French Governor and his Missionaries will succeed, in drawing them over to his Master's Interest.

It falls out very unluckily that Col. Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston who are the men of best figure in Albany, and are most pöpular with our Five Nations, and the Principal Men in managing them and keeping them firm to our Interest, are at this time in the highest discontent imaginable, and truly not without reason, for they had both of them good estates, but by virtualing the Companies they are almost (if not quite) broke. I believe they cannot have disbursed less than £7000 between 'em, besides what Colonel Courtland has disbursed, at York for the Companies there, which I believe is £3000, by this time. If those 3 men knew what Sir W<sup>m</sup> Ashhurst writ to me of the four Companies being cutt off all their Arrears to the 25th of last March, which is 27 Months, it wou'd make 'em quite desperate: but I dare not let them know a word of it, nor yet any of the Officers. I sent your Lordships an Extract of that letter of Sir W<sup>m</sup> Ashursts with my letter of the 5th of last month. I appeal to your Lordships whether it be possible to be in worse circumstances then I am, do defend these Countries, if an other War shou'd happen. I have been informed that the Paymaster General of the Army in England neglected to put the four Companies at New York into the Estimate he laid before the House of Commons, thó he was put in mind of it several Times, and thó too those Companies have been for several years upon the Establishment with the Army in England. So that he could not pretend an oversight in that matter. Our 5 Nations of Indians are the only Barriere at present between the French of Canada and Virginia & Maryland, as well as between the French and New York. Now if the French can so seduce those Nations as to turn them against us, Virginia and Maryland will be quite destroyed, and with the greatest ease imaginable 300 of those Indians with their usual rapidity would not leave a planter or plantation in those two Provinces in two months, for the planters live scatter'd, and there is not a town in either of them. James Town which is the only place called a town in Virginia has not above 20 Houses as I have been told, if those two Provinces viz<sup>t</sup> Virginia and Maryland come to be destroyed, every body knows what a considerable Revenue will be cut off from the Crown.

If I were not so pinioned as I am, for want of Orders, Souldiers and Mony, I would have sent a message to the 5 Nations, immediately upon the first of this allarm, to meet me at Albany in the middle of May. The Messengers should have been ordered to suggest to 'em that I intended 'em a good present, for no People are more sensible to their interest than the Indians. In May I would meet 'em with good presents, and wou'd give 'em a greater quantity of Fire Arms and Powder and Lead than ordinary to make the Report and Notion of our King's ordering them to be disarm'd to appear a French fiction and artifice to inveigle them from us. I would also agree with the Onondage Nation that a Fort shou'd be immediately built where their Castle stands, and would send Collonel Romer out of hand to mark out the ground for it, and a 100 Souldiers should go and fall to work at it. Colonel Romer is of opinion that a good sod Fort well stockaded and palisaded may be made here for a £1,000 or £1,200, that would be a good defence for the Onondage Nation against the French. There I wou'd have a 100 Souldiers constantly in Garison both in War and Peace, and if the scituation be as I have been informed, those Soldiers might be employed in making Tar and Pitch which would have a Water Carriage all the way to York down the Mohack's River and so into Hudson's River. If a Fort were built at the Onondages Castle, it wou'd draw some English Families thither, and then a Minister might live there to instruct those Indians, as they desired. I wou'd if I met the 5 Nations at Albany try to put one Stratagem in practice, I would by mony or extraordinary presents engage if it were possible the Sachems of the Mohack and Onondage Nations to deliver me up all the Jesuits they have among them, who I would send prisoners to England, for without doubt they have been tampering to debauch our Indians from their subjection and obedience to the King, and if the Sachems would be prevailed on to deliver them up to me, it wou'd naturally follow that they wou'd also discover to me all their ill practises to put the Indians out of love with His Majesties Govern<sup>t</sup>, and such a discovery as might rationally be expected, wou'd very well justifye my sending those Vermin to England, there to be punished as they deserve. If I could prevail to have the Jesuits given up to me, it would have one good effect above all others, that the Jesuits would never trust themselves again among those Nations, it would create an eternal implacable hatred between our Indians and them. I proposed the building a Sodd Fort at the Onondages Castle in a former letter to your Lordships of the 29th of last November, but I doubt if you approve it, yet your order may come so late that this Summer will be lost, and then I fear the consequence of such a loss of Time. The truth is, the great distance between England and these Provinces, and the necessity which that causes of my waiting for orders upon all occasions, is very discouraging. I should think a discretionary power ought to be allowed a Governor upon Emergencies, but under such restriction, as that if he could not give very sufficient reasons for his proceedings, then to be accountable to the King for any superfluous charge he should put His Majesty to, or anything else that were irregular; there ought in my Opinion to be an Order from the Treasury Board giving me credit for a Sum limited, and then I draw for mony as the necessity of the service requires, taking up the said mony of the Merchants of New York and giving them my Bills on the Treasury Board or as otherwise shall be agreed by the Lords of the Treasury; but that I may be rightly understood in this matter, I put the case His Majesty were consenting I shou'd have such a power as I have said, upon exigences, and a credit from the Treasury Board, there would be a necessity at this juncture of time of drawing for about £1,300. £500 whereof to be laid out in presents for the 5 Nations, and £500 for the immediate building a Fort at the Onondages, I mean to begin it, and the rest of the mony to be drawn for as the work advanced, for the Revenue of New York is so smal at present, and so clogged with debts that there is no mony to be had there, nor credit with the monied men.

There is a concurrence I think of ill accidents to crosse my measures. The Board of Ordnance have sent Col. Romer an order to return to England and for my part I do not think fit to part with him at such a time as this; 'till I receive your Lordship's Orders upon the letters I have writ to you formerly about the Forts at Albany, Schenectady, and that which I lately proposed to be built at the Onondages Castle, and which I now repeat again, the Order is not sign'd by My Lord Romney or Sir Harry Goodrick, I send your Lordships a copy of it which is (N<sup>o</sup> 10.) I do not dispute that Boards right of appointing an Engineer, but as to the Expediency of his continuance here more or less, I think they would do well to consult your Lordships, because you must needs know the circumstances of these Plantations better than they. Colonel Romer is mightily disturbed how to behave himself between the order of the Board of Ordnance, and the Injunction I have laid upon him to stay 'till I receive orders from your Lordships, which I have not done these many months; the Boards retrenchments too of 10<sup>s</sup> per day of his allowance troubles him. If your Lordships think upon the representation I have made of the condition of our Frontier places, That Colonel Romer's stay here in these Provinces is proper, I hope that you will please to obtain the King's Order for it.

Notwithstanding my former proposition to your Lordships about making Tar and Pitch at New York, or the Tar there and the Pitch in England (for I submitted both ways to your Lordships consideration and choice) and of the King's sending Souldiers to that Province to make up a 1,000 in the whole; yet I would not advise the sending all the souldiers at once because I would not engage the King in so great an Expence at first, 'till I can satisfy His Majesty demonstrably that my proposition is practicable. I therefore desire for the present that 250 Recruits may be sent over to compleat the four Companies, and that two New Companies of 100 men each may be also sent, which New Companies will not only be usefull for work, but it will be an encouragement to our Indians to see that care is taking to strengthen our Frontiers, which in the consequence will be a protection and security to them against the French. If I were worthy to advise, the three Forts at Albany, Schenectady and Onondages Castle should be begun out of Hand. I am in hopes the Assembly of New York will give a Tax for the furnishing all Materials for the building the two first named Forts, which would be above a third part of the charge; And if I have a good Judge and Attorney General from England I hope so to improve that Revenue as to make it answer the rest of the charge, by the time the Materials for building the two first named Forts are provided. Let it be considered that each of these Forts will require the work of 100 Souldiers, which will hinder their working at Tar and Pitch a considerable time. But the rest of the Souldiers may in the mean time be employed to make the Tar and Pitch. If the arrears of pay and subsistence be not paid to the four Companies, I know not how any part of this design can be carried on, but that there must be an end of all: the Victualers should be paid in the first place, and Our Companies being so defective as they are, the pay and subsistence that would otherwise have been due, (had the companies been compleat) will I suppose answer the charge of the 250 recruits now required, and also of the Transportation of the two new Companies proposed.

Mr Livingston lately writ word from Albany that the Governor of Canada has been fortifying Montreal this last Summer.

I send our Lieutenant Hunt this second time for recruits, and at the same time he has in charge the pirates effects now sent over in the Advice Frigate, and that in obedience to the King's orders to me of the 11th December last, directing my sending the said effects to England in the said Frigate under the care of some trusty person. Lieutenant Hunt is a very honest Man and a good Officer, and I entreat your Lordships to honour him with your favour and protection; If he performs this trust faithfully, as I doubt not but he will, I hope he may be thought to deserve a Company of Foot, if there be any new ones raised for New York, for he has served the King honourably there these several years in the post of a Lieutenant.

I send your Lordships the Minutes of Council at New York for the months of October, November and December last.

I also send the Muster Rolls of the four Companies at New York, my Lieutenant Governor has blotted out the first dates of the Rolls of his Company and mine (which are quartered at New York) and interlined New Dates, to make them agree with the date of the Muster rolls sent from Albany of the two Companies quartered there, I know no hurt in it but that it makes an ugly blott.

The Lieutenant Governor of New York and I are put to great straights for want of the present made us by the Assembly of that Province, which we meddle not with 'till we have the King's leave for so doing I hope your Lordships will please to obtain the King's leave that we may have the benefit of that mony. I hear the faction of New York have got a petition signed by 5 or 600 hands and sent to England, wherein among other grievances, they complain of that £2,000 tax to my Lieutenant Governor and me, but they cou'd formerly submit to Colonel Dongan's having £1,600 presented pounds by the Assembly of that Province; and Fletcher's having a penny in the pound upon all estates in the Province, which I have been told wou'd have amounted to £2,000. But that Colonel Fletcher by his greediness so mismanaged the collection of the mony that he lost the greatest part of it. I remember he told me at my first going to York that he received but £600 of the Countreyes' Benevolence, and he railed very heartily and scurrilously at a Marchand of that Town, that he had he said entrusted with the collection of that money, but was deceived by him. I am informed from York that the Petition they have lately signed there against me was sent from England, and intended for the Parliament. The signing was managed I hear by Bayard, Nichols and a club of such men, and to encourage people to sign, they reported confidently I was to be superseded in the Government, and they named the man that was to succeed me, and shewed letters of it from England as they pretended.

I send your Lordships the printed Laws of this Province, wherein are those we passed the last Session of Assembly.

I am with great Respect

My Lords

Your Lordships most humble

& Obedient Servant

Boston

BELMONT

All things in a miserable condition in this Province as well as in that of New York should there happen a war, there are not in this whole Province 40 barrels of powder at this time.

I forgott to acquaint your Lordships there is a necessity for cloaths for the souldiers at New York, they are in Rags, and must be clothed against next Winter, and there ought to be cloaths for the recruits that are sent over, and for the new raised companies if any be sent to New York. Lieutenant Hunt will take care there with the Agent about the cloathing.

I send your Lordships the Naval Officers Book of entries of ships at New York for six months, viz<sup>t</sup> from last Midsummer to last Christmas: it came not to me 'till this last post he was a quarter behind hand with the Collector before, but now he has so much the start of him.

I also send the Naval Officers Register of ships within the foremention'd six months.

My Lord.

A few dayes since a Gent<sup>l</sup> of the Councill informed me that Owaneco Sachem of Monhegan in this Govern<sup>t</sup> gave him account that the Indians viz<sup>t</sup> the five nations, the Schachkook and Eastward Indians had agreed upon a designe to cutt off the English and that they had sent him Wampum which was their letter to engage him in the designe; upon which occasion I sent for him and his Councill and the Pequott Sach<sup>ms</sup> and their Councill, and other Indians of note before whom he gave the enclosed relation, which makes our farmers and upper Plant<sup>rs</sup> a little uneasy as yett very seneible of the calamitys of former Warr; yet I can not reasonably think that the five nations or Shachkook Indians under their great advantages of your Excell<sup>ty</sup>s favour and authority would break the least link of their Covenant chaine or that the Eastward Indians would break the peace which your Excell<sup>ty</sup> has so lately condescended to make with them; but 'tis rather to be doubted a designe of our former Enemy Indians to make an adventure upon our upper Plantations as restlesse to do mischief and whose guilt in the murder of many of our people makes them (as wolves) keep at a distance, as 'tis reported of one Toby mentioned in the relation as the principle instigator to this designe, and who had a particular hand in killing one Johnson and leaving his residence is sometimes privately among his relations at Woodstock and at hunting houses in the wilderness, who if taken, would be a meanes to break their measures and the designe whatever it might be, might be disappointed. I have sent out a Principle Indian to find out Nanaquabin who brought the Wampom to Owaneco and if possible to bring him in; of whom I hope to hear further concerning Toby and a more particular account of this matter which shall be presented to your Excell<sup>ty</sup> as soon as it comes to my hand. The enclosed is the information which Owaneco has given, and tho' there does not appear any present danger yet as it is of publick concernment for the safety of all His Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s Govern<sup>mt</sup> to be acquainted with the least rumor of any designe they may intend against us, I think it my duty to present the relation to your Excell: as it was made before me and pray your Excell<sup>ty</sup>'s opinion and advice therein, which this Govern<sup>mt</sup> will thankfully acknowledge and your Excell: will honour and favour

Your Excell<sup>ty</sup>'s most faithful

humble servant

Information respecting a rumored Rising of the Indians.

[New-York Papers. Bundle, II. I. K. K 23, 24, 25.]

The Information made by Owaneco Sachem of Monhegan concerning a combination of the Indians to make warr upon the English given to the Govern<sup>mt</sup> & Council in New London January the 22 17<sup>00</sup>/<sub>00</sub>

The Indians then attending were (:besides Owaneco Sachem of the Mohegans and divers of his Council :) Momohans Council, Scadaub Sachim of a part of the Pequots with his Council and the Indian Council of Nihantick.—

Owaneco being asked what he desired to relate—Declared:

He remember the covenant made between the Colony and His Father, pursuant to which he had made hast to inform Capt<sup>o</sup> Mason as soon as he understood any mischief to be designed against the English—

The Hon<sup>ble</sup> Governour then telling him, that he had sent for him to know (and now expected to hear from him:) what he had heard concerning that designe, that as he had heretofore so he might also now shew, how carefull he was, that, that ancient covenant might not be broken. Owaneco went on and reported as followeth : That he had news by a Juncks'es Indian call'd Wadungum (: about two months since :) that a Dutchman at Albany had told the Mohawks that King William had ordered all the Indians to be cutt off; and that the English and French had letters about it, and that the Dutchman advised the Mohawks to buy ammunition speedily; because in a little time none would be suffered to sell them any, and sold them presently about twenty barrells of powder —

Since which Owaneco informs that he heard that Canada Mohawks were come over to the other, and that they held a great Councill, where the news above mentioned was discoursed— The Canada Mohawks said they heard the same, wherefore they came over to take Councill with them against the English. An Indian whose name is Toby formerly belonging to the Indians that live at New Roxbury (:and who had a hand in the killing of one Johnson near the same town in the last war with the Indians) was at the said meeting and told the Mohawks, that if they did but draw off the friend Indians, from the English, they might then easily destroy the English; Upon which the Mohawks imployed Toby to carry presents to the Nipmug<sup>1</sup> (: or Wapaquasset) Indians, and to the Mohogans to draw them off from the English and withall to assure the Mohegans that if they would not forsake the English, they would look upon them as Enemies —

Likewise he informs that about a month since he heard that the Mohawks and the Nowonthewog or the Estward Indians had combined against the English and that they had agreed to send Wampom to the Sewonkeeg or Western Indians, and that they had sent a girdle of Wampom to the Wapaquasset or New-Roxbury Indians of which he was to have a part; when he heard this news he advised his men to be silent till the belt of Wampom should be brought to him —

About a week after this Owaneco being at Norwich, one Nanaquabin a principal Indian among the Wapaquassetts came to him and asked him to refresh himself with a cup of sider, and gave him at Ensigne Bushnel's a piece of eight and an half, with a shilling which he shewed to Ensigne Bushnell and soon after went out of Norwich; designing home, but when he had got out of Town, a young Indian running after him, overtook him and told him, Nanaquabin was coming to speak with him, upon which he made a stop untill Nanaquabin came up, who then told him that he had a secret to tell him and desired that the Indians that were with him might be sent away which he did, and then Nanaquabin told him, there was a great designe on foot ag<sup>t</sup> the English, that the Mohawks were concern'd in it; and confirmed the former news which he had heard of the Mohawks, and at the same time Nanaquabin delivered to Owaneco a part of the girdle of Wampom (which he had delivered to Capt<sup>n</sup> Mason and was by him brought to the Governour and Councill.) which Wampom Nanaquabin told him the Mohawks had sent him and that the Wapaquasset Indians had already received part of a girdle of Wampom—He further said that Nanaquabin importuned him very much to keep this matter close, and pressed upon him the danger that would be in discovering it, because the designe was not yet ripe for the Schachkook Indians were gone a hunting to Manadnuck and Winepisseeket<sup>2</sup> and were to meet at Namaschang a fishing place, where they were to receive orders from the Mohawks when to strike the blow; and perswaded him to withdraw from the English; telling him that whatsoever discovered the plott would be look'd upon as enemies to the combined Indians and made to eat fire — After this discourse, Nemaquabin asked Owaneco

what answer he would returne to the Mohawks; who said he must first ask his Councill; then Owaneco asked Nemaquabin, how the Wapaquasset Indians liked the designe, who said very well, and that they have returned them thanks and a present of twenty five shillings; Then Owaneco asked him how much time he must have to answer them in; who replied, the sooner the better; but not later then the beginning of the spring; after this discourse they both went to Shatuskett, and stayed there two nights; Owaneco asked Nemaquabin, where he would hunt this winter; who answered at Manadnuck but when Owaneco replied that Manadnuck was a place of death, because he had received the Wampom; then he said he would go into Philips Country<sup>1</sup> and draw off from the English, the Indians that were in those parts.—

That he being in the woods a hunting came to a place near Massomuck to a great Wigwam of five fire places; and eleaven hunting Indians; he went into the Wigwam towards one end of it, and saw an Indian w<sup>ch</sup> seemed to hide himself; he turned himself towards the other end of the Wigwam, and met there a man called Cawgatwo, a Wabaquasset Indian, and he asked if he saw any strange Indians there; he said I saw one, I did not know; then Toby came to him, and another stranger and Cawgatwo told him that was Toby; he said he would go away tomorrow, they bid him not go away, for tomorrow they should discourse; the next morning they went out and called this James and bid him come and see the Wampom they had gathered; he asked what that Wampom was for, they said it was Mohawks Wampom; the Dutchman had told them that the English had ordered to cut off all Indians, and they had the same news from the french, and therefore we are gathering and sending Wampom to all Indians, that we may agree to cutt off the English; and Cawgatwo told this James that Toby brought that Wampom and that news from the Mohawks; then he went home and told this own company, and desired them to send word to the Mohawks and Nihanticks<sup>2</sup> of this news.—

1<sup>6</sup>/<sub>7</sub> 00.

That the last fall, when the Indians were out hunting, she the said Squaw was there with them; that belonged to the Wabequassetts, and when the first snow fell, there came two strange Indians to them, and was with the Wabequasset Indians two days, consulting how they might come down upon the English and Friend Indians, and the two strange Indians gave the Wabequassetts Wampom to hire them, to help them against the English; and it was declared among them that they had now received such a pledge, and that thereby they owned themselves engaged in the cause; the strange Indians answered the Wabequassetts, that they would have them be true, and not fail them by any meanes, and desired the Wabequassetts to provide themselves with powder and lead; and if the English took away their gunns it was no matter, for they had guns enough for them; and that they must come to them this month of Febr<sup>y</sup> and bring their wives and Childreu, for about that time they must have a meeting; moreover she heard the Wabequassets say, that they would go to the Enemy in Febr<sup>r</sup> at furthest, (and would have her go with them:) to Penacook, therefore she left them and came to the English; She further informes concerning these strange Indians (: above mentioned), that one of them was named Toby and the other Weesoonskow the later being a kind of Sachim among the Penacook<sup>1</sup> Indians and Toby is a great man or Capt<sup>n</sup> and that Nemaquabin was there at the consultation and consented with them in this matter that they did designe to be doing mischief betimes this spring and that she heard the Wabequassets say (: before they came out of the woods, and also after they came home:) that they would be the death of any that should discover this thing: moreover she informs that she heard them say, that Norwich was a good place for them to clear or cut off, for there was much brush near it, and that she did not hear them speak of any in this plot with them but the Penacook and Albany Indians.

When I writt those line which come herewith wherein I intimate to Your Excell<sup>cy</sup> of all matters being in peace and quiett here, I had not any account of any thing otherwise, but having sealed that letter before I delivered it to our representative who is going to Boston; just now I have p<sup>r</sup> post received from Hartford Gent<sup>m</sup> the information made by Owaneco Sachem of Mohegan (: to Gov<sup>r</sup> Winthrop of New London) concerning a combination of the Indians to make war upon the English which it were my duty to post away to your Excell<sup>cy</sup> and should not fail of doing herewith but that the Gent<sup>s</sup> writes me, the same information of Owaneco is sent to the Lord Bellomont last week p<sup>r</sup> the post so that I am assured Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> hath it; I have only to add that the Wapaquasset or new-Roxbury Indians are all gone away, they went on last Wednesday night towards the Eastward, probably to Penicook Indians, only five of them are come to Shatuckett, near Norwich, and say they are gone to the Enemy; about twenty five men of them are gone from New-Roxbury, and as many women and children as make them about one hundred; M<sup>r</sup> Joseph Bernard of Hartford who had been at Boston coming from New-Roxbury on Saturday from Hartford confirms that of the New-Roxbury Indians being gone, and says that a Squaw who went out with them returned back and says they were bound to the Eastward Indians but 'tis most like they would go to Penicook first, and probably are gone by the way of Quabaag,<sup>2</sup> Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> hath what is with me and I suppose have more then I am able to give account of—what further I shall understand, at any time I shall not be wanting in acquainting your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with, and glad to receive your Excell<sup>cy</sup>s directions. I shall take care to give notice up the River to our townes there; and take such methods as may be most for safty and to prevent mischief coming unawares as likewise shall informe Quabaag of this Plott (: if I may so call it) that they be not secure and give such orders as I shall judge most necessary, till I receive further or other advice from Your Excell<sup>cy</sup>

Here has nothing of late ocured worthy Your Excell<sup>cy</sup>s notice till yesterday Capt<sup>m</sup> John Tuttle of Dover with some other the Inhabitants thereof came to me with an information that the Indians late conversant at Cochecha were suddainly withdrawn according to the information here inclosed.

These Indians of late have been observed to visit most of the inhabitants that live in Dover and narrowly view their houses, and by their whole carriage given occasion of suspicion that they design mischief against us.

The Indians that have appeared at Cochecha and not known to the inhabitants there, do generally call themselves Albany Indians but 'tis believed they are both, Albany and Eastern Indians.

I thought it my duty to give Your Excell<sup>cy</sup> this account by an express, and pray Your Excell<sup>cy</sup>s direction herein, in the mean time I have ordered watches and wards to be kept in the out towns to prevent a surprise but so that if any Indians still come in they may be treated as before without discovering any thing of our suspicion of them. I give Your Excell<sup>cy</sup> no further trouble at present, but crave leave to subscribe

John Waldron of Cochecha in the township of Dover Yeoman came this day being Monday the 19th of Febr<sup>y</sup> 1699, and informed that on Thursday las Sun about an hour high, there came a strange Indian out of the woods to the house of said Waldron and made enquiry after the Indians who in an hour and half time, he and the rest of the Indians who used frequently to be or continue at said Cochechu were all gone, and that he has not heard anything of them since. Also Capt<sup>n</sup> John Tuttle reports that Nathaniel Hird, Comander of Dame Hirds Garrison at Cochecha acquainted him that one of the Indian Squaws came to said Hirds wife and seem'd to be mightly sorrowfull upon wh<sup>ch</sup> Hirds wife asked her the reason why she was so sorrowfull the Squaw answered because she loved the English, and more such like discourse passed till in came the Squaws husband who frowned mightly upon her and gave her a blow over the face and after some discourse he went out againe, then Hirds wife asked the Squaw againe what was the meaning of her husbands so frowning, who gave her this answer; You are an understanding Squaw you will know what the meaning is when I am gone (:or words to that effect:) and further an Englishman comeing in while this Squaw was discoursing with Hirds wife and pretendig himself a Sagamore the Squaw told him that ere long little Georg would come down with his men and then it would be seen which of the two were Sagamores —

[New York Papers. Bundle, H. I. K. K 30.]

The information of M<sup>r</sup> John Sabin who lives at a farm house near adjoining to Woodstock an Island Plantation about seaventy miles distant from Boston.

SAYTH—That during the time of the late Rebellion of the Indians, he having obliged the Indians in and about those parts that have pretended friendship to the English by many particular acts of kindness; whereby he hath created in them a greater confidence in him then in others of his neighbours and thereby gained an opportunity of being made acquainted with the designs and purposes which from time to time have been on foot among the Indians and of their secret contrivances; and further saith, that more than half a year since some of the said friend Indians have hinted unto him that there was great likelihood of a fresh rebellion or warr arising upon the English by the Indians, by the instigation of the Governour of Canada, tho' himself would not appear in the thing, yet that he had sent his cunning men (as they called them) among the Indians who insinuate them that the King of England did not love the Indians but designed to cutt them off; and that all the Indians throughout the Country were confederated together, as the Mohawks and others of the five nations, and resolved to stand by each other, which discourse this narrator then looked at as an ungrounded surmise and told the said Indians so, and withall endeavoured to make them sencible of the peace concluded between the King of England and the French King, and the friendship that was betwixt them and that all their subjects on either side were strictly forbidden to committ any hostilities upon each other, or to aid assist or succour the Enemies of one another, and that the King of England was a very good and gracious King which he hoped had given them satisfaction—

But by this discovery since made by Owaneco an Indian Sachem, he hath reason to conclude the aforesaid discourse of the Indians to be the result of a known plot intended, and since that hath industriously applyed himself to get a further discovery thereof from the Indians and is well assured, their designe has been carrying on this winter throughout the Country be sending presents from one plantation to another of them, and that a general rendezvous of their Sachems and their principal Councillors was to have been had at Winipisteoket, near the Penicook Country to concert their methods for carrying on their said designe towards the latter end of April next; but having understood that their designe is since disclosed, have resolved to hasten their said consult and to have it sometime this month; and that the Indians of the Plantation whereto he lives, are drawn of and gone Eastward, and some of their company that stayd behind, being sent to recall them and having had discourse with the Sachem of the Penicook about the aforesaid combination and confederacy, he told them he had the longest bow that ever was in New England it reached from Penobscot unto the Mohawk country and the narrator enquiring of the Indians, what was intended by that long bow, they replied, that it imported that all the Indians throughout the Countrey were engaged for the carrying on of the said designe, and the Mohawks and others of the five nations were already fixed not to engage for or on the side of the English and they hoped to engage them actually against the English; and further said that when there was a breach betwixt the English and the Indians the Governour of Canada would envite the Indians to come over to him and he would protect them and engage them to the french interests; And that the peace betwixt the french and the English would not last long and then the French and Indians would be all one and the English would be left alone and that the French Governor loved the Indians very well, and his cunning man had made them to understand so, and that tho' he could not help the Indians now, yet the peace would not last long and upon a new war he would pull the Indians to him—

2.) Soon after his entry upon the Govern<sup>t</sup> the E. of Bellomont called a general Assembly, whom he frequently sent for and treated with great scurrility. The house of representatives prepared a law for healing the divisions, and when two of them came to tender this law to the Council, for their concurrence and to the Governor for his assent, they were not admitted to deliver the Bill, but the whole house was immediately sent for and dissolved by the Earle of Bellomont, with opprobrious language and a general charge of disloyalty without assigning any particular fact.—

3<sup>o</sup>). After the dissolution of this Assembly His Lordship in order to procure sheriffs and consequently an Assembly to his own humor, garbled the Council, and upon frivolous pretences, suspended ten of the most considerable for Estates and parts and experience in busynesse viz: Coll: Bayard, Coll: Minveill, Coll: Willet, Coll Heathcote, Coll Young, Coll: Townley, M<sup>r</sup> Pinhorn, M<sup>r</sup> Nicolls, M<sup>r</sup> Lawrence and M<sup>r</sup> Brooke, and placed six of the Leislerian faction in their roome, viz<sup>t</sup> Abr: de Peyster a Merch<sup>t</sup>, Samuel Stauts, a dutch Barber Surgeon, Johannes Carboyl a Dutch Mountebank, Rob<sup>t</sup> Levingston a Scotchman, the contriver of Kidd's Pyratyical voyage, Ja<sup>s</sup> Graham a Scotchman Attorney General, and Robert Walters a son in law Leislars. Thre of whom viz: Staats, Carboyl, & Walters in all publick assessments were rated at no more than 150<sup>lb</sup> 25<sup>lb</sup> & 70<sup>lb</sup> Estate—

4<sup>o</sup>). The Council being men thus new modeled the Earle of Bellomont and this Council appointed new Sheriffs and Justices of the peace, mostly of the Dutch and out of the meanest and mercenary people having more regard to the faction they espoused, than any other qualification—

5<sup>o</sup>). He next permitted if not directed the taking up at midnight with sound of trumpet and drumms the bones of Leisler and Milbourne who had lain burried in their own graves neare nine years, and to ly in state some weeks and afterwards to be publicly burried in the Dutch church against the consent of the Officers thereof attended by 100 men in armes, and a mobb of 1500 men chiefly Dutch, the scum of that and the neighbouring provinces, which struck such a terror into the Merchants and other the principal inhabitants of the City of New Yorke, that most of them were forced to withdraw and absent themselves for a time for their security.

His Lord<sup>p</sup>'tis said honored this funeral by being a spectator out of a window whilst the cavalcade marched by. Tho' the Ministers of the English, French and Dutch Churches addressed his Lord<sup>p</sup> to prevent the bodies being publicly burried in that manner, he would not vouchsafe them any satisfactory answer.

6.). That soon after his Lord<sup>p</sup> issued out writts for chusing a new Assembly, and the Election was appointed to be upon the same day in all places except the two most remote Counties whereby the best freeholders who had estates in several Counties, were deprived of giving their votes at several elections. The Sherifes performed their businesse they were appointed for by admitting some for freeholders who were not so, and rejecting others who really were so, as they voted for or against their party and by nominating and appointing inspectors of the poll who upon any complaint of unfair dealing gave this general answer: if you are agrieved complain to Mylord Bellomont, and the same practice in all places gives just reason to believe the Orders for it came from his Excellencie.

7.). To secure a majority of such assembly men as he desired, his Lord<sup>p</sup> without any instruction from England added two to the former number viz' one more to be chosen for the city and County of Albany, and one for the County of Orange, which last is by Act of Assembly made part of the County of New Yorke, and has not twenty inhabitants freeholders in it, and never before had a distinct representative in Assembly: By this meanes one Abrá. Gouverneur a Dutchman (: so indigent as never to be assessed in the publick taxes, and who, as is reasonably to be supposed, had a deed of some land made to him of purpose to qualify him for it, because he never had any land before :) was chosen an Assembly man, and is since made a Speaker of the house of Representatives. This fellow was formerly convicted of Murther and pardoned, and soon after the revolution publicly declared that Jacob Leisler had carried the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New York by the sword, and had the same right to it as King William had to the Crown, having conquered the Kingdom of England. Att the meeting of the Assembly it appeared, of the 21. Representatives there were but seven Englishmen the remaining fourteen were all Dutch and of the meanest sort, half of whom doe not understand English which can conduce little to the honor of an English Govern<sup>t</sup> and lesse to the security of the English interest there.—

9.). And for the more effectual dispatching these bills M<sup>r</sup> Graham the Attorney General and late speaker who had before been made by orders from England one of the Council and ought to have been of that body in the Assembly was continued speaker of the house of representatives till these bills for raising these sums passed and then he was called up to his higher post, and was succeeded in the chair by Abram Gouverneur named before.

10.). This gratitude cost the Assembly little because they have little to pay for, but the charge falls principally upon the Merchants and substantial freeholders, who had no share in making or consenting to this largesse. The difference of their circumstances is so great that it can be made appear if required that 36S of the Electors within the City and County of New York who made choice of the four dutch Members returned for that place, payless to the public taxes, than 29. of the Electors who voted ag<sup>t</sup> them, and the whole body of that faction pay scarce a fifth part of the publick assessments, and scarce one fiftieth part of the revenue arising from Customes.

11.). This Assembly upon His Lord<sup>ps</sup> recommendation vacated several particular grants of Lands passed in the usual forme under pretence of their being extravagant. And by one of the same acts suspended one M<sup>r</sup> Dellius from his Ministerial function upon a malicious and false suggestion he had deluded some Indians to make him a grant of lands tho the said Indians have since recanted the same by which meanes M<sup>r</sup> Dellius who was the most useful man of that Country, in converting the Indians and keeping them firme to the English interest, hath been forced to leave the province to the great dissatisfaction of the Indians and hazard of their desertion to the French; But several other grants as large or larger than those that were vacated and under the same circumstances were left untouched because in the hands of Leislerians.—

12): This act was looked upon even by some of the Councill and of His Lord<sup>ps</sup> party so very hard that when this act came up to the Councill they being six were equally divided and the Bill ought therefore to have dropped there, but His Lord<sup>p</sup> assumed and acted in two capacities, first gave His vote as one of the Councill for passing it (: in which capacity he has no vote in Assembly :) and then confirmed it by his Assent as Governor.

13<sup>o</sup>). This act vests all their lands in the Crown and does not vest any of them in the Indians from whom it was pretended some of them were superstitiously got by which meanes his Lord<sup>p</sup> will have them in his power to dispose of.—

14<sup>o</sup>). This Assembly just before their rising made an addresse or remonstrance to his Lord<sup>p</sup> aspersing the five proceeding Governors and arraigning their Administration with great malice, falshood, and scurility, which his Lord<sup>p</sup> ordered to be printed.

15.). His Lordship has not been less Active out of Assembly than in it, and given sufficient testimony what spirit animated that body.—

He has tendred extrajudicial oaths to severall of His Maj<sup>ty</sup>s subjects requiring them to make answer to such questions he should ask them, and upon their refusall to swear has threatned to committ them into custody.—

16<sup>o</sup>). He committed to prison without bayl two Merchants of New York who had farmed the excise of Nassau Island, because they refused to discover upon oath what profits they had made by that farme, and afterwards procured an act of Assembly to justify that proceeding and to continue them in Goale.—

17). He suspended the payment of £26 p<sup>r</sup> annum, to the English Minister and £30 p<sup>r</sup> annum a piece to two French Protestant Ministers which His Maj<sup>ty</sup> had appointed to be paid out of the revenue for noe other apparent reason then that they set their hands to an attestation of M<sup>r</sup> Dellius's good behaviour whom the Assembly had suspended and driven out of the province.

18). By a warrant out of his hand he turned Miles Forster a Merchant out of a house which he had purchased part of and was possessed of nine years and had laid out great summes in improvements of, under pretence of restoring it to Leislars heir tho Leislars heir had pretence only to a 3rd part, refusing to lett the title be tried by law.

19.) A dispute arising concerning the property of a Whale found on the beach, whether she belonged to the Governour or private persons whose marks that killed the whale were found in her, his Lord<sup>p</sup> refused to try the property but imprisoned one Floyd (: who was employed to cutt her up :) without bayl till his Lord<sup>p</sup> had seized the Whale and converted her to his own use.

20). By an order of Councill he turned another person out of his estate after four years quiett possession who had recovered it by a judgement at Common law, which was confirmed upon an appeal to a former Governour and Councill after which no appeal lyes but to the King in England, and for the better collour of this extraordinary proceeding this order was instituted A name unknown in that province as if it had been an appeal to that part of the Assembly who have no power to hear appeals nor ever pretended to it.

21). He turned out one of the Judges for no other apparent reason, than for refusing to commit an Alderman by order of himself and Council for declaring his opinion in Common Council, that a certain place proposed to erect a new City Hall upon, was too near the great gunns.

24). He detained a Merchants ship severall weeks, from sailing on pretence of sending letters to the Govern<sup>rs</sup> here, and because the Master refused to stay any longer, he sent down armed men to the ship, then lying at the River's mouth ready to put to sea, who brought the Master up in custody to New York and kept him severall dayes to the great damage and charge of the owners and freighters.

25). He suspended M<sup>r</sup> Brooks from his office of Collector which he held under the broad seal of England, as well as from the Council without any just cause.—

26.) He has lately made one Charles Olliver a second Lieutenant in the L<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup>'s company who has no estate in the province, high Sheriffe of New Yorke 27). He has displaced most of the Militia Officers and put in, mean, indigent fellows and most of them Dutch.

28). He gave a Lycence to Hend<sup>r</sup> Hanson and others to transport horses and mares from Albany to the French Collony of Cannada which was never practiced before and may be of very mischievous consequence in case of warr; this has alarmed the Indians who are jealous these horses may be employed against them.

29.). He having got two of Kidd's crew in custody viz<sup>t</sup> one Buckmaster an Englishman and van Tayl a Dutch, he committed the Englishman to prison without bayl and admitted the Dutchman to bayle.—

30). He has committed one Clark to prison without bayle upon suspicion of his having some goods of Kidd's in his custody only because he had been on board of Kidd's vessell.—

31.). The Mayor and justices of the Peace of New Yorke either through fear, partiality or by order refuse to take any affidavits relating to his Lord<sup>s</sup> proceedings—

32.). The Earle of Bellomont in justification of these proceedings calumniates the people of New York of being Pirates and favourers of Piracy and breaking the Acts of navigation whereas it is evident that but one ship has for ten years past gone from thence on a Piraticall voyage and that was pretended to be commissioned by Leisler; 'Tis true that severall ships have had a constant trade to Madagascar for Negroes and some of them having lately met with India goods there which they bought at easy rates transported them to New York.—

These are what I am informed by the Merchants of London will appear to be true.—

[New-York Entries, C. 96.]

To the MOST AUGUST MAJESTY OF WILLIAM THE THIRD King of England

The humble Petition of the Merchants of New Yorke in America.

Most dread Sovereign

Wee your Majesty's faithfull and obedient subjects Merchants residing and trading in your City and Colony of New Yorke in America deeply sensible of your Majesty's Royall care for the Tranquillity, peace and happiness of all your People, thò at never so great a distance from your immediate inspection; But in a more especial manner from your Majesty's subjects in this Province with all dutifull submission to your Royall pleasure humbly beseech your Royall leave to offer to your Majesty's consideration that ever since this Colony was blest with the felicity of being reduced to the English Empire and Obedience, it has always been governed by Powers under the Great Seal of England independant on the Government of any other Province or Plantation except in the reign of the late King James by the annexation of this Province to Boston (where the Governor then made his residence). And now since the Arrivall of the Right hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earle of Bellomont your Majesty's present Governor in these parts, who being Governor of both Boston and New Yorke, during his Excellency's absence, your Majesty's Lieutenant Governor of this Province (as your humble supplicants are informed) is obliged strictly to follow the directions of the Captain General, Whereby many and great inconveniences have dayly happened, and are sustained by your Majesty's subjects here, to the great retarding and impeading the common and usual course of Justice, to the great decay of Trade, and discouragement to the labour and industry of the Planter and Husbandman, without any particular benefit to your Majesty, or just advantage to any other your Majesty's subjects. Wee therefore humbly pray,

That your Majesty's extensive goodnesse may reach us your faithfull subjects in this your Plantation and that your Royall Majesty will most graciously be pleased by bringing back this Province to its former manner of Administration unconcern'd with the Governor of any other place, to reinstate it's Inhabitants in their pristine peace, safty and prosperity,

And your Majesty's most humble subjects as in duty bound shall ever pray &c.

Representation upon the Boundary between New-York and Connecticut.

[New-York Entries, C. 99.]

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY

May it please your Majesty,

We humbly beg leave to represent to your Majesty the State of a difference between your Majesty's Province of New Yorke and the Colony of Connecticut, relating to the right of Government over the two townes, called Rye and Bedford, which ly in the frontiers of the said Province and Colony.

Colonel Fletcher late Governor of New York in a letter dated the 22<sup>d</sup> of June 1697 (which we received in September following when the Earl of Bellomont was upon his departure from hence to that Government) having advised us, that the said townes to avoid the payment of some arrears of taxes had revolted from New Yorke to Connecticut, and that Connecticut had accordingly owned them as members of that Colony, and thereupon in an hostile manner had at the town of Rye disturbed the execution of your Majesty's writ for the election of a Representative for the General Assembly of New Yorke, We desired his Lordship after his arrival there to enquire diligently into the grounds of that Difference, and to send such a state of the pretences on both sides as might enable us to lay the case before your Majesty.

And the Earl of Bellomont having in answer thereunto sent us the respective Reports of Commissioners appointed by himself in behalf of the Province of New Yorke on the one side, and of Commissioners from Connecticut on the other side, we have considered the same and thereupon humbly represent to your Majesty.

That in order to the Settling a Division Line between the said Province and Colony Commissioners were appointed by his late Majesty King Charles the 2<sup>d</sup> who in the year 1664 having heard the Allegations on both sides did by the mutual consent of both parties agree upon and signe a Report by which those Boundaries were to be settled; But it being afterwards found that some places named in the said Report for Boundaries, were not at that distance from other places which had been agreed upon (as the Commissioners for New Yorke declared) to be the Rule and Measure of their proceeding. And that the Towns of Rye and Bedford which by the supposed distance of the foresaid places named for boundaries would have been included in the Province of New York, were by the mistake about that Distance made to fall within the Colony of Connecticut; Another Agreement was afterwards made and concluded in the month of November 1683 between Colonel Dongan then Governor of the Province of New Yorke for the then Duke of Yorke on one side, and the Governor of Connecticut Robert Treat Esq with three others in commission with him on the other side, by which last agreement the Division Line between the said Province and Colony is more exactly expressed and settled, from place to place, so as to answer the true Intention of the first Agreement, and to remove all future Controversy about the Towns of Rye and Bedford, by including them undoubtedly in the Province of New Yorke.

That in prosecution of this last Agreement an exact survey was made, the Bounds or Mears accordingly fixed and distinguished by certain Land-Marks, and the foresaid Towns of Rye and Bedford (yielded by the Governor and Company of Connecticut) were received under the Government of New Yorke, and did so continue until the beginning of the year 1697 when the foresaid Revolt mentioned by Colonel Fletcher began.

But nevertheless it being objected, in the forementioned Report of the Commissioners from Connecticut now sent us by the Earle of Bellomont, That their Commissioners in 1683 had no power to alter the bounds formerly agreed upon, And further that there is a Proviso in the Agreement made in 1683 submitting the same to the Approbation and Confirmation of His Majesty King Charles the 2<sup>d</sup> and the then Duke of Yorke, which Approbation was not signified and declared, nor, as they say, now ever can be. And that therefore the said Agreement ought to be esteemed voyd and of no Effect. We take leave to answer, that those foresaid Commissioners were the Governor of that Colony himself, and others joynd with him in the same commission, which we conceive to be sufficient Authority from the Government, And that the Acquiescence of that Government under the settlement then made, during the last year of King Charles the 2<sup>d</sup>, the whole time of the late King James and at least eight years of your Majesty's Reigne, without making any objection against the same, is (as we humbly conceive) a sufficient Bar against the Cavill upon the foresaid Proviso; Or at least that if the want of the said King Charles and Duke of York's approbation could be esteem'd of any Moment, Your Majesty is yet in Right to supply the same by your Royal Approbation of the foresaid Agreement.

And we therefore humbly offer that for the prevention of all future Disputes about this Matter, your Majesty would please to declare your Approbation of the foresaid Agreement made in 1683 (whereof we have hereunto annexed a copy) and to give Directions accordingly to the Earle of Bellomont, or Commander in Chief and Council of New York for the time being on one side, and to the Governor and Company of Connecticut on the other side, that the boundaries exprest in the said Agreement, and further settled by an Actual Survey made in pursuance of the same (of which survey we have likewise hereunto annexed a copy) may for ever hereafter remain and be the Division Line between the foresaid Province of New Yorke and Colony of Connecticut. All which nevertheless we most humbly submit

At the Court at Kensington the 14th day of March 1699.

PRESENT—THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCILL.

Upon reading this day at the Board a Representation from the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations dated the 13th of this month relating to the Boundaries between the Province of New Yorke and the Colony of Connecticut in America, and the right of Government over the Towns of Rye and Bedford, which lye on the Frontiers of the said

Province and Colony, As also an Agreement made between the said Province and Colony in the year 1683, relating to the said Boundaries; His Majesty in Council, Approving the said Representation is pleased to Order, as it is hereby ordered, That the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations do prepare the draughts of letters to be sent to the Earle of Bellomont, and to the Governor and Company of Connecticut from His Majesty, signifying to them His Majesty's Approbation & Confirmation of the said Agreement in 1683; With such other Directions, as are proposed by the said Representation; And that the said Draughts be presented at this Board, for His Majesty's further Directions thereupon.

[WILLIAM R.]

Right Trusty and Right Well beloved Cousen. We greet you well. Having considered the reports of Commissioners appointed by you in behalf of our Province of New Yorke on one side, and of Commissioners from our Colony of Connecticut, on the other side, relating to the boundaries of the said Province and Colony, and more particularly in order to the terminating of a Dispute lately arisen about the right of Government over the towns of Rye and Bedford. We have thought fit, with advice of our Privy Council to approve of and Confirm an Agreement made between the Governments of New Yorke and Connecticut in the year 1683, and a Survey made in pursuance thereof for the settling and fixing of the said Boundaries, by which the foresaid Towns of Rye and Bedford are included within the Province of New Yorke, and are accordingly for ever hereafter to be and remain under the Government of the said Province. We do therefore hereby require you to take care that our Royal Will and pleasure herein be punctually observed, according to Our Order in Council of the 28th Instant, which is herewith transmitted unto you. So We bid you heartily farewell. Given at Our Court at Kensington the 29th day of March 1700 in the Twelfth Year of our Reign.

[New-York Council Minutes, VIII., 249.]

At the Court at Kensington the 25th Day of March 1700.

PRESENT—	The KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.
	Lord Arch Bishop of Canterbury	Earl of Tankerville.
	Lord Chancellor	Earl of Jersey
	Lord President	Lord Ferrers.
	Duke of Bolton	Lord Lexington
	Lord Great Chamberlain	M <sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon
	Earl of Stamford.	M <sup>r</sup> Montague

WHEREAS at a Council held at Fort James in New York, the 23<sup>d</sup> of November 1683 Certain Articles of Agreement were concluded, Between Collonel Thomas Dongan, then Governour of that Province, and the Council of the said Province On one side, and Robert Treat Esq<sup>r</sup> Governour of the Collony of Connecticut, Major Nathaniel Gold, Captain John Allyn Secretary, and M<sup>r</sup> William Pitkin in Commission with him from Connecticut on the other side, in the words following:—

It is agreed that the Bounds Meers or Dividend between his Royal Highness's Territories or Province in America and the Collony of Connecticut for ever hereafter, shall be att a Certain Brook or River called Byram Brook or River, which River is Between the Towns of Rye and Greenwich, that is to say, att the Mouth of said Brook, where itt falleth into the Sound, att a Point called Lyons Point, which is the Eastward Point of Byram River, and from the said Point to go, as the said River Runneth to the Place where the Common Road or wading Place over the said River is, And from the said Road or wading Place, to go North, North West into the Countrey, so farr as will be Eight English Miles from the foresaid Lyons Point; And that a line of Twelve miles being measured from the said Lyons Point, according to the Line or General Course of the Sound Eastward, where the said Twelve miles endeth, another line shall be runn from the Sound Eight Miles into the Countrey North, North West, And also that a Fourth line be runn, that is to say, from the North most End of the Eight Mile Line, being the third mentioned Line, which Fourth line, with the first mentioned Line, shall be the Bounds, where they shall fall to Runn; And that from the Eastward End of the Fourth mentioned Line (which is to be Twelve miles in length) A line Parralel to Hudsons River in Every Point, twenty Miles distant from Hudsons River shall be the Bounds there Between the said Territorys or Province of New York and the said Collony of Connecticut, so farr as Connecticut Colony doth Extend Northwards, that is to the South Line of the Massachusetts Colony. Only itt is Provided, that in Case the Line from Byram Brooks mouth North, North West Eight miles, and the Line that is then to Run twelve miles to the End of the third forementioned Line, of Eight miles, do diminish or take away Land within Twenty miles of Hudsons River, that then so much as is in Land Diminished of Twenty miles from Hudsons River thereby shall be added, out of Connecticut Bounds unto the line afore mentioned Paralel to Hudsons River, and twenty miles distant from it, The Addition to be made, the whole length of the said Paralel Line and in such Breadth as will make up Quantity for Quantity, what shall be Diminished as aforesaid—

That what Arrearages are due from the Town of Rye, to the Collony of Connecticut for former years, and the present years Rate shall be paid to Connecticut.

That two Surveyors be appointed, the One from New Yorke, and the other from Connecticut to make a Survey and Run the before mentioned Lines Partitions Limits and Bounds, Between His Royall Highness's Province of New Yorke, and the Collony of Connecticut, And the Surveyors are to meet att the Town of Stanford on the first Wednesday of October next ensuing, and to be directed by one of the Council, and two more, Commissionated from Each Government

That if it shall please the Kings Majesty and his Royall Highness to accept and Confirm these Articles, they shall be good, to all Intents for Ever, Between His Royall Highness and his Heirs and Assigns, and the Corporation of Connecticut and their Successors, And this Agreement to be in full force Power and Vertue, from the Day of the date hereof. In Wittnes whereof the parties above mentioned have to these Presents Interchangeably Sett their hands and Seals, att Fort James, in New Yorke the 25th day of November in the Thirty fifth year of his Ma<sup>ties</sup> Reign, Annoq Dom<sup>i</sup> 1683.

And Whereas in pursuance of the aforesaid Agreem<sup>t</sup> an Actual Survey of the Lands and Places therein mentioned was also made and Reported by the Surveyors and Commissioners appointed for that Service in the words following—

By Vertue, and in pursuance of a Commission bearing date the 26th Day of September 1684 From the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> Coll Thomas Dongan, Governour General of All his Royall Highness's Territories in America &c.

Wee under Written did upon the first Wednesday of this Instant October, meet att Stanford, Major Nathaniel Gold, Captain Jonathan Sileck, Ensign Daniel Sherman and M<sup>r</sup> John Herriman Surveyor, Commissionated by a General Court, held at Hertford, as by the Commission they produced, bearing Date, May the 5th 1684 doth fully appear, Wee went to Lyons Point, on the East side of Byram River, and from the mouth of said River where itt falls into the Sea, Wee measured up said River, and found itt to be One Mile and a half, and Twenty Rodds, bearing North, half Easterly, and so came to a great Stone att the wading Place, where the Road Cutts the said River, thence directed Our Course, North, North West Six miles and half, and there marked three White Oak Trees, as in the Margent, then directed Our

[ New-York Entries, C. 142. ]

To the Right Honourable the Earl of Bellomont His Majesties Captain General and Governor in Chief of His Majesties Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay, New York and New Hampshire in America and the Territories thereupon depending &c<sup>a</sup> Or to the Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Province of New York for the time being.

My Lord

Our letter of the 21th August last was upon many heads occasion'd by a review of all the letters we had received from your Lordship till that time. Those we have writ since were dated the 30th November and the 7th & 16th of February last; And as we have sent Duplicates of all, we think it needless to repeat any thing.

We have further received many letters from your Lordship whereof those relating chiefly to New York are dated the 13th of April, the 17th of April, the 27th April and the 5th 12th and 16th May; The 3<sup>d</sup> of May, the 13th May, the 15th May; The 22th July, the 24th August, the 20th of October, and the 5th of January last, together with one to our Secretary of the 15th of September last, and the Report of the Commissioners of New York and of Connecticut relating to the Boundaries of those Colonies, which we received from M<sup>r</sup> Weaver.

Your letters relating chiefly to the Massachusetts Bay, are dated, the 5th of July, the 26th July, the 25th August, the 24th of October; And the 29th November last, together with one to our Secretary of the 6th and another of the 30th November last.

Your letters relating chiefly to New Hampshire, and dated the 9th of September the 25th of October, and the 22th of November last.

And besides these we have also received your Report about the Misdemeanors of the Government of Rhoad Island, dated the 27th November last, and your letter relating to the Controversy between Rhoad Island and Connecticut about the Naraganset Country, dated the 15th November last.

As to New York.

We are glad to perceive by your Lordship's letter of the 22th July, that the uneasiness you had been under in relation to the Conduct of the 5 Nations of Indians with the French of Canada, was then over, and that you found them in good humour, and resolved to remain steady in our friendship. We doubt not therefore but you will be able to keep them so; And as to the Insinuation which you say in your letter of the 24 August, had been made to them of your Correspondence with the Governor of Canada in order to their ruin; tho' it be never so groundless, yet we think it advisable for preventing the ill effects of such reports, and the growth of many humours amongst them, to the prejudice of His Majesties affairs. That you endeavour to have always some persons whom you can trust conversant amongst them (either about Trade or upon any other Pretence) who may be serviceable for that end, and have some smal allowance for it, out of the Public Money of the Province. And if any thing can be procured from those of the Corporation for Evangelizing the Indians, at Boston, As we desired in our letter of the 21st of August last (and which your Lordship writ us you intended to endeavor) it may be of good use for this end.

The most effectual thing to preserve those Indians in perfect friendship with us would undoubtedly be (as your Lordship writes) the building of some Forts in proper places on the Frontiers and the letting them see a force constantly maintained in the Province capable to defend ourselves, and assist them upon all occasions.

But we have formerly acquainted your Lordship with the reduction of the Soldiers from 400, to 200 Men; And M<sup>r</sup> Weaver and M<sup>r</sup> Champante will doubtless have sufficiently acquainted you with the difficulty they find in procuring even subsistence for them; Tho' we have been always ready to give M<sup>r</sup> Weaver what assistance we could, as we shal hence forward do the like to M<sup>r</sup> Champante; And do believe our application to the Treasury was of some use in the payment last obtained of what was due for their subsistence from March till December 1699. And as for what is due for their Arrears till March 1699<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>. They are in the same Case with all the rest of the land Forces who by an Act past this Session of Parliament are to be paid by Debentures upon forfeited Estates in Ireland.

As for the Forts, your Lordship does seem in your letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> May to expect that a Fund might be raised out of Colonel Fletcher's Debt to the Crown, towards the building of them; But in your letter of the 15th May we observe that by your Departure from New York to Boston, and the imbezlement of some Accounts in the Assembly, by which that Debt might have been stated, there was a stop put to it; Wherefore we again desire your Lordship, tho you should not yourself be returned to New York, to give strict Orders to your Lieutenant Governor and Council there, to proceed in stating and auditing those Accounts in the best manner, And besides what may be raised thereby, you are to use your utmost endeavors with the Assembly of that Province to dispose them to provide for the repairing and erecting of Fortifications in the places where you judge them to be most needful.

As for the new trade which your Lordship proposes in your letter of the 13th April to be sett on foot with some Western Indians lying on the back of Maryland and Virginia, We have writ both to Colonel Nicholson and Colonel Blakiston about it, with our opinion that they will do well to promote the same, provided it do not interfere with the planting of Tobacco, which in those Provinces is to be preferred before all other things; And we intend now to write to them again, upon occasion of what you inform us in yours of the 20th October of those Western Indians, having kill'd 5 of our Seneca Indians, that they may use their indeavors to prevent any such like mischief for the future; But in the mean while, however that prove, we are very well satisfied with your Lordship's reasons for not complaining of that injury to the Governor of Canada. And as for your desire to have His Majesties leave to meet those Governors at Philadelphia, without forfeiting the half of your salary and Perquisites during your absence from your Governments, We are ordered by His Majesty accordingly to signifye to your Lordship his leave for your meeting the said Governors at Philadelphia, or in any other place that shal be agreed on.

We are very sensible of the difficulties your Lordship has mett with from the opposition of those Men who find themselves uneasy by the Alterations you have made in Public Offices, and by your conduct in respect to Trade, Grants of Lands and otherwise, And of what has passed here of the like Nature, Your Lordships correspondents and agents will give you a full Account; In which we assure your Lordship, that nothing has been, or shal be wanting on Our parts in your Lordship's behalf.

We do likewise observe what your Lordship writes in your letters of the 27th April and 15th May about the conduct of those Men, in or relating to the Assembly. Their opposition to the settling of the Revenue, and the assistance you found from others in that important service. And are therefore very well satisfied with your conduct in all that matter.

The Acts of the General Assembly that you have sent us are yet with M<sup>r</sup> Sollicitor General for his opinion in point of law. So that we have not hitherto been able to lay our opinion upon any of them before His Majesty; but in the mean while as the vacating of the extravagant Grants of Land has been done in pursuance of the Lords Justices Directions, We cannot but commend your Lordship's care therein, and exhort your Lordship to continue the same in the next Assembly. And we conceive it will be also necessary that you endeavor in any New Act of that kind to have the Rate of Quit Rents, and other things relating to the Grants of Lands (which cou'd not conveniently be put into the first) regulated and settled, as you propose in your letter of the 24th August. If the Assembly there be absolutely averse to those Regulations some method must in the End be thought upon to do the thing here; but it wou'd be much better that all this matter were settled there; And therefore at present we leave it to your care.

We have considered all that your Lordship writes concerning Naval Stores to be furnished from the Province of New York, And upon your desire that a copy of your letter of the 17th April should be communicated to the Lords of the Admiralty we sent them not only that, but also Extracts of your Letters of the 24th Aug<sup>t</sup> and 20th October which relate to the same subject. We are very sensible that your Lordship's care and pains in getting informations calculating thereupon, and forming the scheme of methods and encouragements for carrying on that work have been very great: And we shou'd be glad to see that business put in execution. But as the charge of what you propose for the whole is too great to be undertaken without very good assurance of it's answering the end aimed at, We desire your Lordship to make what essay you can with the men now there, according to your own proposal in your letter of the 20 October and in this experiment also, it will be very well that proof be made of the method which you mention in the same place for floating Masts of the largest size down the great fall above Albany; And that computation be carefully made att what rates such great Trees may be delivered on ship board at New York.

And whereas your Lordship mentions an ill custom in that Province of burning Woods, to clear the lands at less charge, which will be of ill consequence in regard to the production of Naval Stores, We think it not enough that you issue a Proclamation against it (as you say you have done against the cutting of Trees fit for masts for His Majesties ships) But that you endeavor also to get an Act of Assembly past for the preventing of that Mischief.

We have considered what you write in your letters of 13th May and 20th October relating to Colonel Depeyster's buying the ship Fortune, The mistake that led him into that bargain, And His Majesty's Council buying the said ship again (since your Lordship's absence from New York for His Majestyes use, and reimbursing him the cost and charges that he had laid out upon her. And we are of opinion that whether that happen'd by the ignorance of the Attorney General as a private lawyer, or otherwise, the loss that Colonel Depeyster was like to have suffered thereby, ought not to have been thrown upon His Majesty, Wherefore your Lordship will do well for the future to take all possible care that no such irregularities be committed there in your absence.

All that your Lordship has writ us in your several letters about pirates has been very useful, And we have accordingly laid before His Majesty divers representations of your Lordship's care in the taking of Kidd, Bradish, Gillam, and others, with an Account of Shelly and many other things of that nature, concerning all which matters His Majesties Directions have been sent you; And as we doubt not of your continuing your endeavors for the suppression of Piracy so we hope (amongst others) to have some good Account of the seizing of those pyrates, which, in your letter of the 22th of July were sheltred with a great deal of mony in Nassaw Island. Tho' we are very sensible of the Difficulty to do it in a place where they are so much favoured.

As for the Desire you express in your letter of 3<sup>d</sup> May, to have His Majesties leave to pardon Lieut<sup>t</sup> Colonel Pierson, for having had some pirates goods in his hands, We have laid it accordingly before His Majesty by the Earl of Jersey, who has return'd us answer; That His Majesty is pleased to allow your Lordship to pardon the said Colonel Pierson, provided he has delivered up all the effects he had in his hands belonging to the said pirates.

We are sensible by the many Instances your Lordship has given us in all your letters, with relation to the ordinary course of Justice, His Majesties Revenue, Trade, Piracy and every thing else, of the great want of some able lawyers, especially One for a Chief Justice, and another for an Attorney General in that Province, And having thereupon represented to His Majesty Our opinion that two may be sent from hence to supply those places, and that an Establishment may be made here of a suitable allowance for their encouragement we send your Lordship hereinclosed a copy of Our said Representation, and of the Minute of Council thereupon.

In the mean while, however, if you do find reason to believe that Colonel Smith the Chief Justice of that Province be guilty of abetting pirates, your own prudence in making use of the powers of your Commission will be your best guide. And as for M<sup>r</sup> Clarkson's Insolence in striking M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter in the King's House your Lordship has a sufficient authority to punish such crimes.

As to the requiring of Bonds for ships putting out to Sea, that they will not go to Madagascar, or other places where pirates frequent, We do conceive that where your Lordship is at liberty to give or refuse passes, and where you have cause of suspecting their being intended for such places, the best means to prevent it will be by forbearing to give such passes unto those who refuse to give such bonds.

In answer to what your Lordship writes in your letters of the 15 May and 5th January, relating to the endenizing of Foreigners we can add nothing to what you will find in the order of Council on that subject, which we sent you in our letter of the 16th February last.

We observe what your Lordship writes in your letter of the 24th August, relating to the reversal of a Judgm<sup>t</sup> given by Colonel Fletcher in favour of M<sup>r</sup> Alsop against the Widow Wandal, which shal be considered whenever there may be occasion. But in the mean while as your Lieutenant Governor and the Council made a very wrong step in refusing Alsop an Appeal to His Majesty from your Lordship's Judgment in that case, We commend your Lordships care in removing that obstruction. For His Majesty's Ear is always open to justice, and there must be no stop laid in the course of it.

We have proposed your Querie about Seamen's Wages occasioned by the condemnation of the ship Hester, to His Majesties Advocate General, And when we receive his answer shal acquaint your Lordship therewith.

Tho' the observations made by M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter upon the Revenue Act, which you send us in your letter of the 20th October are proper for our Information; yet wee cannot give any Directions upon them. Your Lordship being upon the place is best capable to judge of their usefulness, and to get remedies for the Defects in that Act by some Additional and Explanatory Bill, when the Assembly may sitt again. But if the Assembly prove Refractory in that matter, it may then perhaps be fit to think of providing some remedy by Act of Parliament here, And your Lordship in your own prudence will judg whether it may not be convenient in the mean while to tell them so.

As for the Colony of Connecticut's having refused to submit to your Lordship's Admiralty Power, We conceive that the Bill proposed to be passed there, tho' it be Enacted will no ways effect that power. But besides what has been directed by His Majesties forementioned letter relating to pirates, there is an Act now passed this Session of Parliament here, for the suppression of Piracy, which will be your Lordship's guide in all those matters.

We have upon your Lordship's desire represented to His Majesty our opinion, that M<sup>r</sup> Robert Walters may be confirm'd by His Majesty in the place of a Councillor in that Province into which your Lordship had admitted him. But as for M<sup>r</sup> Ducie Hungerford, we find by your letter of the 5th January last, to the Commissioners of the Customes, that your Lordship has changed your opinion of him.

Upon this occasion of mentioning Councillors, and because of the many alterations that have been made in the Council of New York, and the reasons that your Lordship has often found to change your opinion of men, we think it wou'd be very useful that your Lordship send us frequently lists both of the names of the Councillors that are in place, and of others fit to supply vacancies, with notes upon each name, either in confirmation of the opinion you may have formerly given us thereupon, or signifying the reason of your changing it, for this in seperate lists (besides whatever you may think fit to write in the body of your letter) will be always ready for us to have recourse unto.

As for the ships of war to attend your Governments which you mention in several letters, and more particularly, in that of the 24th August, desire that there may be a 4th and 5th Rate, We find after our applications therein that no other than a 5th and 6th Rate are thought proper for that service.

We have lately laid before His Majesty a state of the Controversy between New York & Connecticut about the towns of Rye and Bedford; And His Majesty having been pleased to approve of our opinion therein, We prepared an Instrument for confirming the Agreement made between those Governments in 1653 relating to their Boundaries, one of which, with His Majesties Royal Confirmation in Council will be sent to you, and another to the Government of Connecticut, by the Earl of Jersey.

We acquainted M<sup>r</sup> Weaver with your Lordships complaint in your letter of the 24th October, of his too long stay in England; For which he excused himself for some time, by the necessity of his solliciting the payment of the subsistence, for the Soldiers, But promised us to make all the dispatch possible in his return to New York.

We writ you in our foresaid letter of the 21st August that we supposed M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's case, upon which you had sent us your report, to have been settled at New York, But having since been attended by a Solicitor in his behalf, we directed him to lay the same before His Majesty by a Secretary of State which we conceive to be the proper method.

We shal be glad to receive the account of the Militia in all your Governments, which you promise in your letter of the 5th of January.

What relates to New England &c. We shal make the subject of another letter; And have only here to add our great satisfaction in your Lordship's care and application in the discharge of the Government; And shal be always ready to be assisting therein to your Lordship by our Advices and otherwise, Hoping your Lordship has already surmounted the greatest Difficulties. We are

P. S. Upon further consideration of what your Lordship writes about the reversal of the Judgment given by Colonel Fletcher and the Council of New York in favour of M<sup>r</sup> Alsop, against the widow Wandell, we cannot but observe to your Lordship that we do not know that it has been the practice any where in the Plantations for a succeeding Governor to reverse Judgments given in that manner by his Predecessor; and are apprehensive least a President of this nature should prove of ill consequence; For the Governor and Council in each Plantation being the supreme Judicature, it wou'd create endless doubts and perplexities amongst the Inhabitants, if their judgments were liable to be reversed any otherwise than by Appeal to His Majesty in Council; Which being the established method for the relief of those that think themselves aggrieved in such like cases, it ought to be observed accordingly.

His Majesties forementioned letters relating to the boundaries between New York and Connecticut are both of them here enclosed, that your Lordship may take care the letter for the Government of Connecticut be sent to them by some sure conveyance.

Since the finishing of this letter we have received Sir Tho. Pinfold's answer to your Lordship's Querie about Seamen's Wages; and therefore send it you here enclosed.

[New-York Entries, C. 252 — 262.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I gave your Lordships an Account of the allarm the Country were in, of a General Insurrection of the Indians, in my letter of the 25th of February last by the Advice Frigate, In my letter to your Lordships of the 6th of last month by the said Advice Frigate, I also acquainted your Lordships that the Council advis'd my letting the General Assembly meet and sitt the 13th of the said last month (the day to which I had formerly prorogu'd them) to provide against all attempts of the Indians which accordingly I did comply with, the discourse I made the Assembly goes (No. 1.) the Laws we pass'd are (No. 2.) We sate but nine days, and in that time pass'd twelve Acts, which was such a dispatch as was never known in this Province. I remembered your Lordships' Commands to me in your letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> of February  $\frac{1699}{1699}$  to avoid as much as possibly we could the passing of temporary laws and renewing them from time to time, a fault your Lordships' observe the Assembly of this Province are much addicted to. Most of the laws we pass'd this last Session, being Military ones, we were willing to follow the example of the Parliament of England in making them to cease and determine after a year; and therein I believe your Lordships will not blame us; I confess I was in my Judgment for those laws being made temporary for the same reasons I was so in the Parliament of England. Yet there is one of the Military Laws (viz<sup>t</sup> That against deserters) which we have made perpetual, because there is no hazard in it, for it cannot operate but in time of allarm or actual war, when forces are raised. The 8th 9th and 10th Acts as they stand in the Booke of Laws now sent, (whose Titles I omitt for brevity's sake) are also made perpetual. The 11th and last of the publick Acts, is intended a probationary Law, and is made to have continuance for three years only. The Assembly were not willing to make it perpetual, till they should first make an experiment of it how well it would answer the ends proposed thereby.

The 14th of last month I issu'd a Proclamation for undeceiving the Indians, and quieting their minds under the Terrour and apprehension they were made to have of the King's ordering them to be disarm'd and cut off; and also requiring the English in the Country to carry it towards them with kindness and moderation in order to dispossess them of their ill grounded fears, which Proclamation is (N<sup>o</sup> 3.) I sent this Proclamation to all parts of this Province by expresses, even as far as Casco Bay where I understood there was got together a number of the Eastern Indians; and those people pretended to receive great satisfaction from it. But whether the sudden march of the forces I order'd to the Frontier Towns did not operate more effectually to the prevention of their ill designs, than my Proclamation did, is a question with me.

I send a Proclamation for a Fast to be observ'd in this Province the 25th day of this Month, it goes (N<sup>o</sup> 4.) and also a Proclamation for dissolving the late General Assembly, which is (N<sup>o</sup> 5) No body here doubts but the Indians within this Province, Connecticut Colony, and those call'd Eastern Indians, intended an Insurrection against the English, and if the Five Nations were not concern'd in the design (which I shall shortly know, tho' at present I do not) there is good reason for suspecting the Schacthook or River Indians who are a distinct Nation from the other Five and live at the Head of Hudson's River above Albany. I have had a great many accounts from several of the Indians' designing mischief to us, but I will only transmit to your Lordships those accounts I thinke most materiall, with my foremention'd letter to your Lordships of the 28th of February by the Advice Frigate. I sent the Information of one M<sup>r</sup> Sabin, I now send a further information of his (No. 6.) which among other things, confirms me in the opinion of the Indians being stir'd up by the Governour of Canada and his Jesuits. It would be tedious to animadvert on the several papers I now send, therefore shall submit them to your Lordships' perusal and reflection. M<sup>r</sup> Dwight's letter with a postscript in the same letter sign'd by M<sup>r</sup> Benjamin Sabin &c goes (N<sup>o</sup> 7) M<sup>r</sup> Dwight is Minister of Woodstock a Town in this Province bordering on Connecticut. I send a letter from M<sup>r</sup> Storer, M<sup>r</sup> Wheelwright, & M<sup>r</sup> Hammond (N<sup>o</sup> 8.) and a Memorial by Lieutenant Rayment (N<sup>o</sup> 9.)

Because Coll. Schuyler's letter of the 1st of February (a Copy whereof I sent your Lordship with mine of the 25th of the same month, by the Advice Frigate) assur'd me that the Five Nations were quiet and satisfied, I was not so expeditious in sending to Albany to inquire after those Indians, as otherwise I should have been. Yet I thought it proper to write to the Commissioners at Albany for the Indian affaires, a Copy of which letter is (N<sup>o</sup> 10) and therein I direct their sending Coll. Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, and M<sup>r</sup> Hanson (three of the said Commissioners) on a Message from me to the Five Nations; I also at the same time sent Instructions which the said Messengers are to observe and follow in their negotiation with the Indians, which Instructions goe (N<sup>o</sup> 11). I hope this message will have a good effect for keeping the Indians steady in their obedience to the King, at least for the present, till your Lordships direct me to do such things for their encouragement, as I have formerly propos'd.

In Answer to my said letter and instructions, I received a letter from the Commissioners at Albany which goes (N<sup>o</sup> 12.) also a letter from M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, (N<sup>o</sup> 13.) and the Examination of the three Indian Sachems taken at Albany, goes (No. 14.) Your Lordships may observe in these two last mentioned letters from the said Commissioners and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, they express a jealousy of the French Missionaries tampering with our Five Nations. 'Tis but too apparent that we are in a probable way of loosing them; and the King seems to slight the Indians too much, when instead of taking measures to secure their affection and obedience, by protecting them from the French, the few ragged Souldiers are to be reduc'd, and the miserable wooden Forts suffer'd to fall with meer rottenness.

I pretend to be able to demonstrate that if the Five Nations should at any time in conjunction with the Eastern Indians and those that live within these plantations, revolt from the English to the French, they would in a short time drive us quite out of this Continent; and the reason is plain, for their way of fight is not to come hand to hand, or to present their bodies to their enemies, but they lye skulking in the woods behind bushes, and flat on their bellies, and if those they shoot at drop, then they run and scalp them, but if they perceive they have miss'd their shot, they run away without being so much as seen (for the most part) by those they shoot at, and 'tis to as much purpose to pursue 'em in the thick woods, as to pursue birds that are on the wing. They laugh at the English and French for exposing their bodies in fight, and call 'em fools. At my first coming hither I us'd to ridicule the people here for suffering 3 or 400 Indians to cut of five times their number of them; but I was soon convinc'd that it was not altogether for want of courage and conduct in the English that gave the advantage to the Indians this last war, but chiefly the Indians manner of birding (as I may call it) the English, and using the advantage of the woods and fastness for shooting and then sheltering themselves. Yet the Government here were faulty too, they did not push the war vigorously enough against the Indians, which gave them boldness, and discourag'd the English; another misconduct was, that upon every slight application of the relations of those men that were out upon service against the Indians, the Government yeilded to their coming home, and raw men were sent in their places, who by being unacquainted with the Indian way of fighting, contracted such a dread of 'em, that they often proved cowardly. If (as I have said) there should be a general defection of the Indians, the English in a month's time would be forced on all the Continent of America to take refuge in their Towns, where I am most certain they could not subsist two months, for the Indians would not leave 'em any sort of Cattle or Corne. Whatever were in the fields the Indians (for the reasons I have given before) would be absolute Masters of. Mr Sabin's Informations (first and second) are worth your Lordships observation and there is something in this last Information of his (for his first I sent you by the Advice Frigat) which I have mark'd with lines, that looks as if the Indians or the French and they had in their thoughts what I have been now saying is my apprehension. Mr Sabin seems to be a sober discreet man, and I cannot believe he would be at the pains to come two jourmies of 150 miles each, to tell me an untruth.

Your Lordships know the value of these plantations to England, thò I am confident 'tis what is known but by few besides. I am every day more and more sensible of it, and 'tis great pity the King is not made to have a right notion of their usefullness and advantage to the Crown. I reckon the French have been and still are with indefatigable pains undermining the interest of England on all this Continent. I believe your Lordships will be of opinion these Plantations are not in a certain state of security at this time, how then comes the King to be so ill advis'd to order the breaking (or at least reducing) two of the four companies at New Yorke, and that they are no better paid than if the Government were in no concern what became of the Province or People. Yet I will be bold to say, that should these Plantations be lost by neglect, it would be an irreparable loss to England, and would tarnish all the great things the King has done for the Nation. What return I have to the message I have sent to the Five Nations, I will communicate to your Lordships by the first opportunity, the Persons that I employed expected to be a Month abroad in performing that Journey. I drew the letter and instructions with my own hand, because I would omit nothing that I thought necessary for them to do, and me to know.,

I had like to forget a bill sent up by the House of Representatives for mine and the Council's passing, the title is (An Act in addition to the Act against Piracy and robbing upon the sea) and it goes (N<sup>o</sup> 15.) it was intended to make Piracy punishable with death, and to patch up their present law which your Lordships know will not touch the life of a pirate. But I told the Council I would by no means give the assent to any bill of that nature, till I knew the King's Pleasure upon the miscarriage of the bill which your Lordships sent with me, entitled an Act for restraining and punishing Privateers and Pyrats, which the Council refus'd formerly.

[New-York Entries, C.109.]

To the KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

May it please your Majesty

We have received from the Earl of Bellomont your Majesty's Governor of New England and New York a letter dated the 25th of February last past, giving us an Account of an Alarm they had there of late of a General Insurrection and Rebellion of all the Indians in all those Provinces intended to be this present Month of April or sooner, which had mightily frighted the English, especially those that live in the frontier towns and places who are forced to be on their guard and in arms, which had been occasioned by a rumour spread among the Indians by the Governor of Canada and the French Missionaries that your Majesty had ordered the 5 Nations and all the Indians in those parts to be disarmed in order to a total Exirpation of them. The said Governor and Missionaries having published over all their Provinces a copy of your Majestyes letter to the Earl of Bellomont sent to that Governor, and perverted the sense of that part thereof relating to the disarming of the Indians to the disadvantage of the English, without discovering to them that their own King had sent the same orders to his Governor, All which will more fully and particularly appear to Your Majesty by a copy of his Lordship's letter and abstract of Informations received by his Lordship relating thereunto.

For remedy therefore of such great mischiefs as may happen to your Majesty's Plantation on the Continent by the defection of your Majesty's 5 Nations, or Hords of Indians and the combination of others with them against your Majesty's Subjects; And to prevent the ill effects of the artifices of the French and their Missionaries in those parts, in drawing them to their Interest, his Lordship proposed the building of a Sod Fort in the Country of the Onondages, one of those 5 Nations, nearest to Cadaracqui, a fort newly rebuilt by the French, the charge of which by the computation of Colonel Romer the Engineer now there may require, 1000 or 1200 Pound, towards which his Lordship desires 500 Pound to be advanced by your Majesty to begin the Work, and hopes to carry it on with what may be raised in the Province of New York.

His Lordship further proposes, that whereas there are at present no more than 150 private men of the four Companies of Foot now remaining there, which are in a very necessitous condition, They may be made up 400, for the security of this Fort, and of Albany, and Schenectady, which are much out of repair, and that the said Colonel Romer be continued there, with his former allowance for the taking care of the building and repairing of the said forts, notwithstanding the order he has received from the office of Ordnance to return home, And that provision be made for the pay subsistence and clothing of the said Companies.

His Lordship does likewise think it absolutely necessary that your Majesty would be pleased to order the sum of 800 Pounds to be laid out in buying the usual Presents for the 5 Nations, whom his Lordship may meet at Albany, to make them sensible of the ill practices, of the French, and their designs in alienating their affections and stirring them up against your Majesty and your Subjects.

Upon consideration of all which we cannot but agree with his Lordship in the several particulars proposed by him for your Majesty's service on this Extraordinary occasion, humbly offering that the foresaid sum of 500 pounds be advanced by your Majesty out of your Office of the Ordnance, or otherwise, towards the immediate building of a Fort in the Onondage country for the reasons mentioned by his Lordship, and the rather for that the French are now very busy in carrying on their fortifications in those parts, and particularly of Cadaracqui & Montreal.

And whereas his Lordship does propose that the present number of 150 men, many of which are unfit for service, may be made up 400 able men, to be employed as well towards the building and repairing of the several forts as the further security of that Country; We do believe such a number of men, very necessary; But in case your Majesty shal not think fit to order that number of men from hence; We do humbly offer that the 4 Companies now there, consisting by the Establishment of 50 in each Company, may be made up 200 men effective besides officers; And for replacing the Men unfit for service,

That 100 men may be sent from hence under the command of two Lieutenants and non commission officers, proportionable, to put those Companies into a Condition of Service, And that the pay and Subsistence due to the said companies from the time they are to be satisfied their arrears by Debentures upon Ireland, may be duly paid and answered to their use, They being under a debt contracted with the Victualers and others concern'd in their support, for no less than 10,000<sup>lb</sup> as we are informed by his Lordship, and it being altogether necessary, that a full cloathing be immediately ordered and sent to them. As also that your Majesty be pleased to write letters to the several Colonies of New England to supply the further number of Men demanded by His Lordship for this occasion.

As to the Presents mentioned by his Lordship for the 5 Nations who are the only Barriere between the French of Canada and your Majesties Plantations, as far as Virginia and Maryland, which by such a Combination would be in very great danger, We humbly think the same absolutely necessary at this time to hinder the French from seducing them and turning them against your Majesty's Subjects and that the sum of 800 Pound be furnished by your Majesty, and laid out in the usual species of fire arms, amunition and cloathing for the Chief of those Indians.

And that for the rendring these proposals the more effectual your Majesty may be pleased to order his Lordship to go immediately in person to Albany, there to convene the Five Nations of Indians, and to assure them of your Majesties Grace & Favour, and to undeceive them of the Design of disarming them or any thing else intended to their prejudice, and to do every thing else that his Lordship shal in his Prudence and Discretion find requisite to secure their affectiones and subjection to your Majesty.

And to the end this service may be performed with all possible speed; We do humbly offer that the several particulars herein proposed may be forthwith provided and taken care of, so that your Majesty's ship the Advice now bound thither may take every thing on board together with your Majesties Orders to the Earl of Bellomont in this whole matter.

All which nevertheless is

Most humbly submitted

[New-York Entries, C. 224.]

To the Right Honourable the Earl of Romney.

My Lord,

In obedience to your Lordships Commands, We have taken into consideration My Lord Jersey's letter of the 29th April last, signifying his Majesties pleasure the 500th should be advanced my Lord Bellomont towards the building of a Sod Fort in the Country of Onondage in New England, Whereupon We humbly represent to your Lordship that we are informed several works have been lately done there, and we know nothing to the contrary but they have been performed at the charge of the Plantation and should this mony be sent over, it may involve the Office into a much further expence, and We are afraid your Lordship cannot justify the sending over mony for Fortifications there, since the Parliament have several times refused to make any provisions for the Plantations whereupon we have great reason to believe the mony given our Office is appropriated by Parliament only for keeping His Majesties Forts and Garrisons of this Kingdom in repair; and it is well known to your Lordship the ill condition they are all in at this time, that certainly all the mony that can be spared by our Office ought to be applied to that service, so We hope His Majesty will think it reasonable that the Planters of New England as well as other Plantations shou'd for their own security be at charge of making this new Fort, & persue the same methods by which their other works have been perform'd.

There has not been any orders sent from Us, to remand Colonel Romer home, but we shal direct him to continue there, 'till His Majesty is pleased to signifye his pleasure for the recalling him, all which is nevertheless submitted to your Lordship's better judgement by

[New-York Entries, C. 219.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earl of Bellomont His Majesties Capt. General and Governor in Chief of His Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay, New York & New Hampshire in America and the Territories thereupon depending &c. Or to the Commander in Chief of His Majesties Province of New York for the time being.

My Lord,

As we were finishing our late letters to your Lordship relating to your several Governments, and dated the 11th and 19th of the last month. His Majesties ship the Advice happening to arrive, the letters that she brought were carried to the Lords of Admiralty, and from thence we have received one from your Lordship dated the 25th of Feb<sup>r</sup> last; But another of your Lordship's letters dated the 6th of March last, appearing by the minutes endorsed upon it to relate wholly to Kidd and other Pirates, it remains with the Lords of the Admiralty together with all the Papers belonging to it.

But upon the perusal of your Lordship's letter of the 25th February relating to the Indians, We were so sensible of the great importance thereof, and particularly of the mischeifs to be apprehended from the Combination of the Indians that we thought it our duty forthwith to lay a copy all that part of your Lordships Letter before His Majesty, with our humble opinion or the ordering and expediting such things as we conceived proper on this occasion, which your Lordship will see more at large by the enclosed Copy of the Representation we laid before His Majesty on that matter.

His Majesties Particular Orders thereupon will undoubtedly be sent your Lordship in due time. But in the mean while we think it necessary to acquaint your Lordship in General that His Majesty has been pleased to agree to all our Proposals and even to the making up the 4 Companies at New York four hundred effective men. Viz' with 100 men from the Islands of Jersey and Guersney and 150 men from Ireland, so that in case of necessity your Lordship may have a farther reserve of Assistance from New England. And there shal be nothing wanting in Us to sollicite and hasten the Dispatch of all things requisite on the present Occasion, not doubting of your Lordship's care to apply every particular to the best Advantage for His Majesties service, We are

My Lord

Your Lordship's

most humble Servants

[New-York Entries, C. 262--274.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords

I had begun a letter to your Lordships to satisfie you of the faisibility and cheapness of making Tar for England and all the King's Dominions, which I intended to demonstrate as plainly as figures can do it; and not only Tar but also Masts and Ship Timber of all sorts, for which I have sufficient vouchers by me. Upon the whole matter, I am very confident I shall be able to satisfie your Lordships that the King will be furnished with all the above sorts of Naval stores for halfe what they cost him at present, or within a small matter of it; taking one sort with another. And I am further of opinion that the whole East land Trade (I mean for all Naval stores) except Flax and Hemp, may be turn'd this way, not only for the use of the King's Navy, but also for all the King's Dominions, and that even to Dead Boards; and how unspeakable an advantage that will be to England in the saving above a 100,000.£ sterling per annum which the Merchants here tell me is exported from England in specie by the East land Merchants but that, or near that summe will be gain'd by England in the sale and yearly exportation of it's manufactures, when that trade is once turn'd hither to the Plantations. These things I was actually ingag'd in, when several cross accidents and misfortunes came upon me.

In the first place two shippis newly arriv'd here from London, and a Merchant of this town coming passenger in one of them, tells me he call'd on M<sup>r</sup> Weaver who told him he had some packets from your Lordships and the rest of the Ministers for me, but that he would send them in a ship bound to New Yorke; if M<sup>r</sup> Weaver had been at his post of Collector he had not been in the way of doing me a most sensible mischief by his so wrong and faulty a Judgment. I am by his means depriv'd not only of your Lordships orders upon my several letters of the 13th 17th & 27th of April 1699 and of the 3<sup>d</sup> 13th & 15th of May 1699 all which related to the affairs of New Yorke, but also of your Lordships' Orders upon all my letters relating to this Province, & more especially mine of the 25th of last August, which gave an Account of the miscarriage of the bill for restraining and punishing privateers and pirates, which your Lordship sent with me and order'd I should recommend it to be pass'd here into a Law by the General Assembly, so that within three days the Assembly being to meet and sit, I have no orders from the King or your Lordships' to produce, in maintenance of my proceeding with the Assembly touching that Bill, & the point of nomination of Officers which was contested by the Council. This is a great discouragement. Another is that I am unprovided of all manner of assistance to serve the King and defend the Country, hearing nothing of an honest able Judge and Attorney General, which I have so often begg'd might be sent, and being destitute of money and soldiers. These ill circumstances afflict me the more because of the news I have had from Albany (upon the return of the Messengers I sent to the Five Nations) which I believe your Lordships will think is melancholy enough; and that those Indians are in a staggering condition. M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's letter to me of the 3<sup>d</sup> instant is (mark'd A) his observations in his journey to the Onondage's Castle are (mark'd B) wherein I more especially recommend to your Lordships consideration two particulars, which I have mark'd with lines, viz' the hellish practice of poisoning our Indians, set on foot without doubt by the French; and what M<sup>r</sup> Livingston observes about the neglect of demolishing the Fort of Cadaracque in Coll. Fletcher's time, which I perceive by one of your Lordships Representations to the King (a copy whereof you are pleas'd to send me with your packet of the 21th of last August) your Lordship's were inform'd were impracticable as being 400 miles from Albany, but I can assure your Lordships 'tis but 260 miles from Albany, and all the way a water carriage except 10 miles which they call the carrying place; and the Indians would have carried 10 or 12 barrels of powder for 'em, and much more had it been necessary, and an Officer with half a dousin soldiers had been sufficient to do the execution part, the Indians would have given 'em what guard they pleas'd. M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and the rest of the Messengers went to the Onondages Castle in canoes, which place is within 60 miles of Cadaracque, and a river all the way. The three Messengers letter to me of the 3<sup>d</sup> Instant is (mark'd C) their letter of the 11th Instant (mark'd D) their Report to me on account of their Negotiation with the Indians is (mark'd E) by which Report your Lordships will see plainly that the French have given all this alarm to the Indians, and how faithless they have been in so doing, and how little reliance the King has reason to have on the stability and continuance of the present peace with France; I have mark'd those parts of their said Report with lines. The examination of Abraham and David Schuyler and of Robert Livingston jun<sup>r</sup> is (mark'd F). These three men are newly come from Canada, and the Account they give of the French preparations there, is I conceive well worth your Lordships observation and your reflection too. That at the very time they are fortifying against us, and keeping up the same number of soldiers still which they did all the War; we on our parts let our wooden Forts fall to the ground, and reduce our pittance of soldiers, and neither mind paying nor recruiting them. Your Lordships indeavours (which are noble and would be extremely usefull to England if comply'd with) would quickly set things on a true bottom; but if your Lordships meet with repulses in your measures I can hope for no fruit nor success from all my labour to serve the King, and this consideration troubles me as much as any, and I believe I shall quickly be tyr'd out. I beg leave to observe to your Lordships the very first Article in the forementioned examination, because I am therein nam'd; by the Governor of Canada's inquiry whether I was not gone to England, I should believe he did not like me for a Neighbour. That and some Intelligences I have had of late affords me some matter for reflection. The account of the expences of the three Messengers in their Journey to the Onondage's Castle is (mark'd G) and M<sup>r</sup> Hanson's particular account

M<sup>r</sup> Partridge notwithstanding my admonitions to him not to suffer any ship timber to be cut, and carryed from Pescattaway till the King's pleasure were first known in that matter, has not only consented to a ship's loading ship timber and masts in that harbour, but is now actually loading a great ship of his own of about 350 ton with principall ship timber for Portugal. The noise too of the profitable voyage he formerly made thither with ship timber, has so encouraged others to do the like that I am newly informed of one Major Davison who is said to be loading a ship at Newberry in this Province with that sort of timber for Portugal. I believe your Lordships will not approve of this trade for many reasons, but 'tis very unlucky that I am so long without your orders therein. I doubt not to make it appear, that it is to the full as great prejudice to England to imbezle the Timber growing in New Hampshire, as it would be to imbezle that which grows in New Forest in England, which I shall have occasion in my next letter to prove.

If I were worthy to advise the King the forces in New Yorke should be immediately made up 800 men, to guard the Country, and worke at making Tar, they should also be regimented, and extraordinary care taken in the choice of good Officers, that is, men that have serv'd, and that are sober honest men and well affected to the King. The Lieutenant Colonel being a discreet man would be fit to be made a Lieutenant Governour of New Hampshire with what Salary the King shall please. The Major to be Governour of Albany, where the people are strangely unruly and lawless, as I shall shew in the sequel of this letter. The Companys to be made Fiftys, the Captains to be well chosen, and to be of the King's Council both in New Yorke and New Hampshire to ballance those of the Council in both places that are of the Country. This can be no great addition of charge to the King because the Officers I suppose may be chose out of those that nour receive half pay in England. We shall stand in need of 650 men to make up the 800, which men may be transported in the King's ships that come to relieve the two that are here and at New Yorke. If those men be sent over there will be 400 beds wanted. 200 light guns for the Indians, little longer than carabins, a 100 barrels of powder with a suitable proportion of lead and shot and flints, a 1000 hand granados, some match. If the King approves of our making Tar, we shall need 1000 falling axes which I believe will cost about 14<sup>d</sup> a piece, which in the whole is 55<sup>s</sup>: 6<sup>s</sup>: 5<sup>d</sup> and will be the only charge of that matter. Then if the King intends we shall build Forts, there will be a necessity of 10 dozen of Spades, as many Shovels, a dozen of Iron Crows and a dozen of Iron Sledges, and of two Ton of good Iron to mend the tools. If the 800 men be allow'd and divided into 16 Companys as I have proposed, I should be glad if one of the Captains were a very good fireman and understood gunnery and shooting bombs; and that two of the Lieutenants were extraordinary Master Gunners, one for the Forts of New Yorke and the other for Albany.

I send your Lordships copies of all papers relating to the Pirates and their effects now sent by Rear Admiral Benbow, all which papers are bundled together and are Nine in number. The Governours who sent them had not taken their Examinations, but left that labour to me. The pirats are nine in number and Robert Bradenham that was Kidd's Surgeon is the obstinatest and most hard'n'd of 'em all. Brown is married to Cöll. Markham's Daughter, Cöll Markham was Governour of Pennsylvania, in M<sup>r</sup> Penn's absence. David Evans was formerly tryed at the old Bayly and acquitted as he pretends. Terlagh Sulivan 'tis said was fore'd on board a Pirate ship; M<sup>r</sup> Penn and others from the Jerseys give him the character of an industrious man and very poor, he has a wife and three small children. I have been much solicited to let Brown, Evans and Sulivan have their liberty, but having no such Commission or discretion from the King, I would not presume to do such a thing. The original Examinations I have sent to my Lord Jersey, as I did the others by the Advice Frigate. I send the Lieutenant Governour of New York's Inventory of the goods and treasure and also an Inventory I had two Merchants in this Town to take, the said Lieutenant Governour having discharged himself on oath as appears by the minute of Council that's among other papers, there was no need of my exonerating my selfe on oath.

I send your Lordships copies of my letters to the Lords of the Treasury, Admiralty and Commissioners of the Customes.

Rear Admiral Benbow will give your Lordships an Account (if call'd on) what a vast prejudice the destruction of the woods in New Hampshire does the King and Kingdome, he saw a quantity of noble timber for ships brought to Pescattaway by M<sup>r</sup> Partridge to be sent to Portugal in his great ship.

I am with respect

P. S. 30th May.

The Session of the General Assembly open'd yesterday; We have as yet made no further progress than that this Day the House of Representatives sent me a message desiring I would have the Castle Island survey'd in order to the building a New Fort there.

I send the discourse I made to the Assembly.

There is a bill brought before me and the Council to prevent and punish escapes of Pirates &c. out of Prison, pursuant to His Majesty's letter and order to me of the 10th of last November which your Lordships sent me.

The Lieutenant Governour and Council of New Yorke understanding that several French were come from Canada to Albany to sell French goods and carry away horses and mares, is'd a Proclamation strictly forbidding the selling or suffering any horses and mares to be carried out of the Country, but in defiance of the said Proclamation, there were six of the best stone horses and fifty of the best mares in the whole Country sold to those French and suffer'd to be carried by them to Canada, it was about Christmas and they travelled over the Lake call'd Corlar's Lake on the ice. I can never bring the people of that Province to obey Laws, if the King will still grudge the allowing us an honest able Judge and Attorney General; This is but one of a thousand inconveniencys we suffer by the want of two such officers.

I send your Lordships the Minutes of Council of New Yorke for the Months of January, February and March last.

I finde no Inventory of what Pyrats goods and treasure were seized and sent by Coll. Blakiston and Coll. Quarry, unless they be made up with the said Treasure, which I have neither seen nor handled.

Albany 3 May 1700.

May it please your Excellency.

I have been at the Onnondages Castle pursuant to your Exc<sup>ys</sup> Commands, and have had a view of those Countreys I so much heard talk of. I am now better able to judge of the way thither, wth was reckoned in Col. Fletcher's time impassable. The Indians I find much dejected and in a staggering condition, tho' they are so proud and will not own it, they are daily made so uneasy by the French that I despair of a good issue, if something be not speedily done to retrieve them. Presents will not do alone. I humbly conceive there must be something else done to ease their minds from that fear they have of the French else they will shortly make thin Castles, and increase Canada's Store, the consequence of which I dread to think of, if a breach should happen between the 2 Crowns.

I have put down all things that happened in our negotiation at large, which I fear will be somewhat tedious, but my homely stile will not admit of a shorter digression which account goes here inclosed.

I have made also remark by myselfe, which I have roughly transcribed, leaving a large margent for y<sup>r</sup> Lord<sup>ps</sup> to correct and make it good English, if your Lord<sup>ps</sup> should think fit to send it home to the Ministers.

Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will also receive the Accompt of the charge of this Expedition, which people here are of opinion will be paid by Boston Colony. I have been forced to advance and engage for all except the small accompt of M<sup>r</sup> Hanse that went with us, so that I despair of holding out with provisions till your Lord<sup>ps</sup> comes. When I began to victual my credit was unstained, and now all the interest I could make at N York has only procured 6 Barrels porke, and how to hold out 2 months more till your Lord<sup>ps</sup> arrival will be the question. I long more to see your Lord<sup>ps</sup> here again than I ever did for any thing, that matters may be settled both of private and publick concerne.

I hope your Lordship will be pleased to accept of your old Lodging.

I have received 100 barrels & locks of guns of Col. De Peyster, which I cause stocks to be made to, out of hand. There were some people went to Canada before we went to Onnoudage and are not yet returned, what news they bring I will transmit to your Ex<sup>ty</sup> via N Yorke. In the meantime I remain

[New-York Papers, L. M., L. 23.]

Observations made by Robert Livingston Secretary for the Indian Affairs in his voyage to Onnoudage in April 1700. humbly offered to his Ex<sup>ty</sup> the Earl of Bellomont's consideration

The Macqua's Nation much lessened by many gone to Canada since the Peace two thirds cloth'd there and secured in a Fort with Priests to instruct them.

That the Macqua's nation are grown weak & much lessened by the late war, but more since the peace by the French daily drawing them from us to Canada so that near two thirds of s<sup>d</sup> nation are now actually at Canada with their families, who are kindly received, being clothed from head to foot, are secured in a Fort guarded with souldiers, & have Priests to instruct them.

I do humbly conceive that two things are the principal cause of our Indian desertion.

The Causes of their desertion: fear of ye French while we do not protect them. And neglect of sending ministers among them.

1. Fear; Seeing the French so formidable as to destroy their cattle and we not able to protect them.

2. Our neglect of sending ministers among them to instruct them in the Christian Faith.

They should retire nearer to us, have a Castle or Fort stockaded and a Minister to instruct them. The Provision for him.

By land or water.

The King to purchase land of the Owners & grant it to the Nation.

To be so near the praying Indians, that one Minister may serve both.

The Oneydes & Onondages to be persuaded to remove nearer to us out of the road of being attacked by the French.

The Onondages in the mean time to be drawn to twelve miles nearer Oneyde on the same acct

They inclinable to have a Minister. How he might be maintained.

The authority of the Priests over their proselites

Importance of Ministers settled among them to keep them firm, draw others from Canada & prevent the practice of poisoning by wch many of our friends have peris'd.

Necessity of building Forts & securing ye Passes to their Castles. But not at Onnondago.

Because of ye carriage of provisions by land.

To prevent which the Maquas are to retire to one tract of land which lies nearest us and not to live at 16 & 20 miles distance as they do, & plant there; which Castle or Fort ought to be stockadoed and a minister sent to instruct them, who may live very comfortably having 2 or 3 servants that may be souldiers, can keep his horse and cow, and be in 7 or 8 hours at Schanegtade either summer or winter by land or water.

And in regard they are a proud people & not easily perswaded to leave their own land and plant upon others, it would not be amiss if the King purchased the land of the owners, & then granted it to the Nation in general, that so they might not be upbraided. And if those Maqua's that are already praying Indians be desirous to be alone, they may, but the others so near that one minister may teach both, if two ministers be too chargeable.

The land thus purchased, I am humbly of opinion it would be no difficult matter in time to perswade the Oneydes & Onnondages to desert their habitations and remove nearer us, upon our river, some what above the Maquas, where there is a fertile soyle and out of the road to be attacked by the French with Canoes; they will then be strong and numerous and too hard a bit for the French to digest.

In the mean time the Onnondages (who must leave their Castle speedily the firewood that was near being consumed) to be induced to come twelve miles near Oneyde, where they have a better soyl, and are so much the nearer one another, and further out of the French's reach.

That the Onnondages are generally very inclineable to have a minister who might live very well, as also at the Oneydes Cayouges & Sinnakes, having 2 or 3 servants to plant and hunt, they need not fear provisions which the Indians will give them gratis. Nevertheless it will be convenient for them to have some toys to retaliate the same, tho' the Jesuits at Canada are so cunning to have their share of whatever an Indian hunts, which is brought and laid before the image of the Virgin Mary in the Church, and this being done they have not only remission of their sins, but her prayers to the bargain for good luck when they go out a hunting next time.

It's strange to think what authority these priests have over their Indian proselites; they carry a chain in their pocket & correct the Indians upon the comission of any fault, w<sup>ch</sup> they bear very patiently

If ministers were once settled among them it would not only be a pious work in converting them to the Christian Faith, which hon<sup>r</sup> would redound to his Maj<sup>ty</sup> and the English nation in general, but would keep those whom we have, firm to us, draw the rest home that are gone to Canada and prevent that diabolical practice which they have got of late in poisoning one another, by which means most of those that were true to the English interest are dispatched out of the way.

I do humbly offer that it is morally impossible to secure the 5 nations to the English interest any longer, without building Forts and securing the passes that lead to their Castles. But withal think it not proper to build a Fort at Onnondago for these reasons.

1. Besides the difficulty of the two carrying places, you cannot come nearer than 16 miles to the Castle by water, except they go round by Kanienda, so that the carriage of provisions by land so far will be dangerous, difficult and chargeable.

And the other Nations will except the like

2. A Fort at Onnondage can only secure that Castle and then the other Nations will expect the same.

And will have no retreat by Water.

3. Upon the approach of an enemy there is no retreat by water, but being pen'd up the French who generally come with 2000 men at least and bring bombs by water all the way to Keneenda which is within 8 miles of the Castle, must needs be a sacrifice to the enemy.

The place proposed for a Castle to secure the 5 Nations to be on the Onnondaga River.

I do therefore with submission offer that if his Ma<sup>y</sup> be inclined to go to the charge of keeping a garrison to secure the 5 Nations (without which they are inevitably lost) it cannot be better situate than in the Onnondage River about 8 or 10 miles from the Oneyde Lake, at a point where the River that goes to Onnondage, Cayauge, & Sinnekes comes into y<sup>e</sup> Onnondage River. This point being fortified secures all the 5 Nations from the French at once, and Canoes can go to the very fort walls without any carrying place, except the Little Carrying Place,<sup>1</sup> of 1800 paces, 100 miles from Albany, and the Great Carrying Place<sup>2</sup> 80 miles farther, reckoned 12 miles; which with some charge could be shortned to 4, there being a creek which leads to the Oneyde River, now full of wood, which may easily be cleared and a small dam made, which being let open will furnish water for Canoes or batoes in the dryest time of summer.

This River of Onnondage where the Fort is to be built comes from the Oneyde Lake and runs into Cadaracqui Lake, and hath plenty of salmon and all sorts of fish, and salt springs hard by for salt, a good and fertile soyle for raising corne, and the French cannot stir to go to the 5 Nations but must come up this river from Cadaracqui, and then the river of Onnondage*below where this Fort is to be built is very rapid that all batoes and Canoes must be dragged up with great labour, besides a small carrying place of a mile in their way. This Post being secured will be the key of all our Indians, and they will resort thither for its defence by land & water.

Necessity of Bushlopers.

We shall never be able to rancounter the French except we have a nursery of Bushlopers as well as they; which I am humbly of opinion may be obtained thus:—

To be obtained by procuring a peace between the 5 Nations & the Dowaganhaa & Indians.

1 That all endeavours be used to obtain a peace between the 5 Nations and the Dowaganhaas, Twichtwicks, & other far Nations of Indians, whom the Governour of Canada stirs up to destroy them, not only the 5 nations have been mortal enemies to the French & true to the English, but because they hinder his trade with the said far Nations, trucking with them themselves and bringing the bevers hither.

And by building a Fort at Wawyacht-nock

2. The best way to effect this is to build a Fort at Wawyachtenok call'd by the French De Troett, the most pleasant and plentiful inland place in America by all relation, where there is arable land for thousands of people, the only place of bever hunting, for which our Indians have fought so long, and at last forc'd the natives to fly.

The conveniencies of that place.

Here you have millions of Elks, Bears, Deer, Swans, Geese, and all sorts of fowl. The Fort to be between Sweege Lake<sup>3</sup> and Ottawawa Lake<sup>4</sup>; which place lyeth by computation South West from Albany 744 miles, viz<sup>t</sup> From Albany to Terindaquat at the Lake of Cadaracqui 400 miles, from thence to Onyagara where the Great Fall is, 80 miles, from thence to the beginning of Sweege Lake 40 miles and from the Sweege Lake to the place call'd Sweege being a creek which comes into Sweege Lake 64 miles, and from thence to Wawyacht-nok 160 miles. In which Fort at least 60 men are to be kept.

Sixty men to be in garrison there.

Either all the far Nations will come and trade, to wit, the Twichtwicks, Kichtages,<sup>5</sup>

Wawaychtenoe and Showonoe, and a multitude of other Nations, some whereof live behind Carolina, Roanoake, Caratuck &c. leaving the Ottowawes, Dionondadoes and those other Nations that live on the North side of the Ottowawa Lake to the French; which Lake by relation is 500 leagues in circumference. And if in the setting the limits and bounds of the governments, the line might run West from the Northernmost part of this County of Albany, then I doubt not but all these Nations would fall to our share, and without that all y<sup>e</sup> nations that live on the Lakes and rivers that run by Quebeck the South side to belong to the English and the North side to the French, would put an end to the controversy at once, always including the 5 Nations intirely.

This would not only produce a vast trade, but raise a great many Bushlopers to be ready to serve the Kiug on all occasions and in a short time defray the charge his Ma<sup>y</sup> would be at in setting it. It's true the French do trade and have small hntts & berks which they call Forts at some of those Indian habitations where th-y have priests, but how they came to be the proprietors of them no man can tell; and these Indians would rather trade with our people than the French if this way were once opened. Neither would it be necessary to settle farther up the country than Wawaychtenok for all the Indians would resort thither, where they can come in 10 days by land, if they might be safe, and then no great difficulty would appear in making a firme peace between them and the 5 Nations in spite of the French.

The Fort on Onondage Elver to be garrisoned with 100 Youths to be employed in carrying provisions

3 That the fort at the Onnondage River be garrisoned with 100 youths who daily being employed with Canoes to carry provisions will at last be expert and very serviceable to y<sup>e</sup> King and they be relieved by the garrison of York and Albany; by which means all our souldiers will be Bushlopers in time.

Our men to have passes to trade to the Eastward.

4. That our men have passes to go a hunting and trading towards Corlaers Lake and the eastward, as well as the French, who trade all the bever and peltry from our river Indians and decoy them to Canada, lying on every Creek upon the Lake with Brandy and other goods, by which means they spoyl us of all that trade. But it would not be advisable that they be permitted to go and trade with the Five Nations; there they lead a lazy life, and sell their goods dearer than the French do at Cadaracqui where the goods are better.

But not to trade with the 5 Nations

The King's armes to be put up on each Castle of y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations.

And a Silver badge to be given the Sachims.

That his Ma<sup>y</sup>s armes be sent to all the 5 Nations and put up on each Castle, and if your Lord<sup>sh</sup> thought fit, that some of their Chief Sachems had a badge or the King's armes cut in silver to hang about their necks upon solemn days, I presume it would be acceptable.

A Magazine of birch Canoes, batoes &c and a small Fort to secure them.

That there be a Magazine of birch Canoes, batoes, cloathing, provisions & ammunition on all occasions and a small Fort at each carrying place, to secure the canoes and batoes in time of war.

The way from Albany to Cadaracqui easier than from Mont Royal thither.

The greatest oversight that ever could have been comitted was the neglect of demolishing Cadaracqui, when the French deserted it in the late war, which could easily be done, for it's far more easie to go from Albany wth Canoes to Cadaracqui, than to go from Mont Royal to Cadaracqui, where the French army have gone up so often, that river being one of the worst for falls, rapids, fords and shallow places, in the world. The fort of Cadaracqui is built where our Indians must pass when they come from hunting, there they are nab'd, the best they have must go, being inticed by strong drink & other necessaries they want.

The inconveniences of that Fort to our Indians returning from hunting.

What I now have humbly offered to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> is not only for the King's honour, the security of trade, advancement of his territories, but for the preservation of his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s plantaco<sup>ns</sup> of Virginia & Maryland, of so great concern to y<sup>e</sup> Crown, which otherwise can easily be annoyed by the French and their Indians, if a war break out.

The charge will not be so great as that the French are at It may be objected this will be a charge to his Ma<sup>ty</sup>; I answer not comparable to what charge the French are at, and yet they find a benefit by it, else they would not have robb'd our people for going to dive into that trade, before the war broke out. But of two evils the least is to be chose; something must be done to secure the 5 Nations who are in a staggering condition, being daily threat'd to be attacked by the French, The French by threatening, draw many away. if they come not to Canada to make their peace; by which means those that are timorous drop off daily. Indeed, I must own this, that if it be thought fit to put this in execution, there must be greater care had to supply these Forts than there has been for the garrisons of Albany and Yorke these 3 years last past, else would be better never to attempt it.

The Indians take notice of the French forty so much better than we. This is what remarks I have made during my short stay among the Indians at Onnondage, the center of the 5 Nations, who seem to be surprized that the French have fortified Mont Royal and Quebeck so well, since the peace, and that our fortifications are out of repair. I do find these Indians the same I always tooke them to be, a subtle, designing people, and that there is nothing has the ascendant over them but fear and interest. Fear & Interest ascendants over them in relation to the French & us. The French they fear, having felt the smart of their blows often. Us they love because of the good that daily receive frome us. They owne there is a God and as Devil. God is a good man they say, and lives above, Him they love because He never do's them any harm. The Devil they fear and are forc'd to bribe by offerings & that he do them no harme. I take it that they compare the French to y<sup>e</sup> latter, and the English to the former.

I have no more to add, but one word relating to our River Indians.

Proposal of a Fort and a minister at Skachkoke. I am humbly of opinion it would conduce much to his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s service if there were a Fort at Skachkoke and a Minister seated there, which would be a means not only to settle those Indians, but draw many of the Eastern Indians to them, who are no friends to the English; by which means an eye may be had over them; and that some people be encouraged to go and plow their land, they allowing something for it. For these Indians, Servicable of ye Indians in ye late war. how contemptible soever they seem to be, have done signal services for this governm<sup>t</sup> in the late war; which makes me think the French, who are a vigilant subtle people, will push hard to gain them to their side.

All which is humbly submitted by

May it please your Excell<sup>ty</sup>.

We arrived here last night from Onnondage, where we have, pursuant to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> commands visited those Indians & understood by them that the French use all indirect means to vex and terrify them, to bring them over to their side and have been more active since the peace than ever; they strive to make the English odious to them and to seduce and intice them from their obedience to his Ma<sup>ty</sup> and if it matters be suffer'd to goe on as they do, we shall lose them at last.

The onely way to secure them is what your Excell<sup>ty</sup> proposes, the building of a Fort, and Ministers to instruct them; and if that be not put in execution it is in vain further to depend upon them. The French have a great faction among 'em, and those that are true to us are dispatched out of the way. We have by our going thither very much satisfied the Indians and hope have got some that were Frenchifyed, to our side

We are confident they are wholly ignorant of any ill design the Eastern Indians have upon the English, since we have cause to beleive they have opened their hearts to us.

We returned the same way we went, by water, that we might be satisfied how Canoes can go thither; the journey might have been done in shorter time, if we had gone by land, but the season would not admit it. We will not insist to mention any further what hapned in our voyage; referring your Lord<sup>sh</sup> to the inclosed account of our negotiation, exactly kept by M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, Secretary for the Indian Affairs, with whome your Lordships instructions are lodged according to order. The account of the charge (as near as we can remember) is also inclosed for your Lordship's perusal, wherewith we conclude, and remain

May it please your Excellency.

We have been daily in expectation of a sloop going from hence this week past but the weather hindering them to get a landing, are still detained, so that the letters would be at least a fortnight if not 3 weeks before they reach your Lord<sup>sh</sup> have therefore though[t] fit to send an express by land with the inclosed Account of our negociation with the Indians, and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston is so forward as to send his own, and the rather to give your Lord<sup>sh</sup> an account of the affairs at Canada which our people has brought from thence lately, as by the inclosed examination appears.

It should seem that the French have no good design, but will again trouble the 5 Nations, not looking upon the peace concluded at home any waies to concern them. We hope they will be more wise; but it would be well to have a watchful eye over them.

They keep the 5 Nations in a continual fear that they know not how to behave themselves to be at quiet, the far Nations are destroying them on one hand, the French threatning them on the other, which makes their life very uncomfortable; but we hope your Lord<sup>ps</sup> arrival will dissipate all these clouds, and make our horizon once more shine brightly. We do commend your Lord<sup>p</sup> to the protection of the Almighty and remain

May it please your Excy.

Having visited both the Maquas Castles & their villages we found none of their Sachems at home, except one who was of no great account among them, and understanding they were at their fishing places upon our river we proceeded, and on the 14th April found the 2 principal Sachems viz<sup>t</sup> Onnacheranorum & Simnonquise above the Little carrying place about 108. miles from Albany, where our river divides itself into two branches, and after we had some discourse with them by John Baptist the Interpreter to try to find out whether the French of Canada had not been endeavouring to intice and debauch them from us or any of the 5 Nations, they said they knew of nothing, neither had the French sent any messages to them. The[y] were desired to consider of it till to morrow, being late, and we would discourse further with them.

The 15th of April the s<sup>d</sup> two Sachems came to our tent early in the morning, and told us that when the French of Canada had any ill designe, they never used to acquaint them with it, but the other 4 Nations, viz<sup>t</sup> the Oneydes, Onnodages, Cayouges & Sinnekes, for they look upon us Mohawks or Maqua's as inseparable from Corlaer, that is, the Earl of Bellomont, Gov<sup>r</sup> of New Yorke &c but what information we have from other hands we will now acquaint you.

Two Sachems of the Maquas inform yo Comrs That ye French never impart their ill designes to ye Maquas but to the other 4 Nations.

About 5 days ago a Sinneke Indian Sachem came by our Castle and told us that a praying Sinneke Indian call'd Tiorheensero<sup>1</sup> als Squedese had been with a Company of Oneydes, Onnondages, Cayouges, and Sinnekes two months ago, that were hunting at a place called French insinuations to ye 4 Nations to draw them from us. Tolonade 3 days journey from Cadaracqui, and told them.—Your four nations of Oneyde, Onnondage Cayouge and Sinnekes are ignorant of what designs are on foot between the Governour of Canada and Corlaer the Governour of N. Yorke. You think probably there is a firme peace made between the Governour of Canada and the 5 Nations, but you are mistaken, and therefore I am come as a friend to warn you not to go afar off a hunting; for tho' I am now an inhabitant of Canada, where I designe to live and dye in the Christian Religion; yet I have an inclination for the welfare of you four Nations; for I must tell you plainly the Governour of Canada has overcome and been too hard for the Earl of Bellomont Governour of N. Yorke in the business of the limits and bounds of the 2 That the Govr of Canada will speedily make 5 Forts do governments aswell as he overpowred and subdued you with the sword; for your land belongs to the French and the Governour of Canada will speedily make 5 Forts, viz<sup>t</sup>

One at Onyagare, that is, on the mouth of a great river w<sup>ch</sup> comes into Cadaracqui Lake on the South west end thereof.

The second at Jerondaquat, that is, on this side of Cadaracqui Lake where the path goes up to the Sinnekes Castles, about 30 miles from where the Sinnekes have now built their Castles.

The third at Kaneenda a fishing place of the Onnondages 8 miles from their Castle, their landing place when they come from hunting over Cadaracqui Lake.

The fourth Fort at Kahioghage a place where the Oneydes fish being upon a River that vents it selfe into the south side of Cadaracqui Lake about 12 miles from s<sup>d</sup> Lake, being a days journey & a halfe from Oneyde.

The fifth Fort at Ojeenrudde which lies upon a branch of our river, about 3 days journey from a village of the Maquas called Dekanoge.

These 5 Forts, said he, the Governour of Canada designs to garrison with souldiers, and besides all this he intends to put souldiers in all convenient places & passes between Canada and the s<sup>d</sup> Forts where he shall think fit, as a testimony that he is master of your land which he conquered by the sword.

Wee Sachems are of opinion, if the French offer to do these things and will not be diverted by fair means, that we shall be necessitated to rise up all hands and resist him with force; for certainly our Great King that lives over the Great Lake will never suffer us thus to be penn'd up round about on all sides.

The three Agents replied.

We met the Sinneke Sachem that told you this news; he had a piece off his nose, according to your description; he told us that they had an accompt in the Sinnekes country that 25. of their people were killed upon their hunting this winter, but not a word of this about the design of building forts by the French.

The Maquas Sachems said further.—

We must also tell you that we have heard from Onmondage awhile ago and now lately also, that the French of Canada do say that the English were design'd to destroy us the 5 Nations, and the way they design'd to do it was to deprive us of powder, lead, guns, hatchets, and all instruments of war; and the French Gov<sup>r</sup> says further that Corlaer the

Earl of Bellomont Governour of N. Yorke should say, if the 5 Nations had bows & arrows it was enough for them.

The 3 Agents told them.—

That the Earl of Bellomont was not a stranger to the false reports the French spread among 'em to delude & abuse them in order to make the English odious to them.

The Maquas Sachems said—

We believe none of the French lies and stories, and regard not the French flatteries nor braggis, tho' the French Governour upbraids us, saying; Why, if your Govern<sup>r</sup> loved you so well as I do my Children the Indians, he would cloath you as I do.

That the English Governour does not cloath them.

The 3 Agents told them:—

That his Excellency the Earl of Bellomont Govern<sup>r</sup> of N. Yorke & had given a greater present to the 5 Nations when he saw them last at Albany, than ever any Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada had done in their days.

The Maqua's Sachems replied

We do owne it, for the Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada has but a handful of Indians and he can easily cloath them, but our Gov<sup>r</sup> Corlaer has a great many and is liberal enough.

They said further.

Now Gentlemen, what we have told you is a certain truth, and if the Upper Nations should be shie to divulge it you may tell them plainly you have heard it from us, and that we have it from some of their own people, and therefore it would be ill done to deny it.

Whereupon Col. P. Schnyler, Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston & Hend. Hanse answered and said:—

The Comrs reply We are sent by your great Brother Corlaer the Earl of Bellomont Govern<sup>r</sup> of New Yorke, New England & to see the Brethren, and cal'd at your Castles, but found none of your Sachems at home, and are glad we have found you here, and do thank you in the Earl of Bellomont's behalfe for your plainness & candid dealing in declaring what you have heard; and we do tell you that my Lord Bellomont is no stranger to the false reports the French spread abroad among you; nay, Corlaer is informed that the French Jesuits and other Missionaries have been so wicked as to invent among other false suggestions that our King has ordered you to be disarmed, but we do assure you from the Earl of Bellomont, called by you Corlaer, that this and all the other stories are so far from being true that my Lord Bellomont intends (God willing) to meet you and the Chief Sachems of all the 5 Nations at Albany on the 10th day of August that is in 118 days time, when my Lord Bellomont will not only make you a good present of such Cloaths and other things as you stand most in need of, but also of a good number of fuzels, and a proportionable quantity of powder and lead.

And we do assure you, as we shall do all the rest of the Nations where we go, of the Kings favour, and that you may rest satisfied of his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s royal protection of you, which you will quickly find the good effects of, for Corlaer the Earl of Bellomont is in daily expectation of the

Of orders expected from ye King abt a Fort & Ministers. Great King of Englands orders to build a Fort at the Onmondages Castle which shall defend that nation and the rest from the excursions and attacks of the French at Cadaracqui & elsewhere; and that his Lord<sup>sh</sup> also expects orders to settle some Protestant Ministers among you to instruct you in the Christian religion. And therefore you are in the mean time to exhort your young Indians not to go to Canada to be instructed by the Jesuits (as you told us last night it was their daily practice, to your great grief) but send for them back.

And as for the French designs of building the 5 forts, we do not believe it, neither will it be suffered, and when you come to Albany at the time appointed, my Lord Bellomont will satisfy you in that particular. Now in token of our Great Kings friendship to the Five Nations and to you in particular, we do give you in Corlaers name, the Earl of Bellomont, this Belt of Wampum.

After the discourse was over the two Maquas Sachems Onnucheranorum & Sinonquise said, they would be glad to see some ministers come to instruct them; they would both turn Christian themselves & would give a large tract of land for a Ministers maintenance and do admire that the English cannot as well send a Minister to instruct them in the Christian Faith as the French do so many Jesuits among their Indians; by which they do not only gain the reputation of making their Indians, praying Indians, but keeps their Indians firm to them and draws ours from us.

At the Fishing place of Onnondage cal'd Kachnawaacharege the 25th of April 1700.

Meeting with the Onnondage Sachems.

Col. P. Schuyler M<sup>r</sup> Livingston & M<sup>r</sup> Hanse arrived here the 23th Instant, and finding three Sachems of Onnondage who told us that Aqueendera the Chief Sachem was at his fishing place beyond the Oneyde Lake; but would be here tomorrow, we pitched our tent, and he not coming sent one of our birch Canoes and 4 men for him, who met him by the way. As soon as he arrived he bid us welcome, and said:—
Brethren.

They give acct of ye French contrivances to alienate the 5 Nations.

We are firmly link'd into the Covenant Chain that I think nothing ought to be conceal'd from one another. I am very glad to see you 3 gentlemen here since I can now impart to you what we have heard from the French of Canada, which Corlaer ought to be acquainted withal.

There is a Frenchman who was some time a prisoner in our Castle of Onnondage this last war, cal'd by us Diondori; he is the Governor of Canada's Interpreter and now an officer at Cadaracqui; who told one of our people called Tahayeri some news, but charged him that he should tell Dekanissore and some of the Sachems of it, but by no means to me Aqueendera, fearing I would tell it to Corlaer the Gov<sup>r</sup> of New Yorke. Neither did Dekanissore ever tell me of it, but went out a hunting; but before he went he told it to a friend of his cal'd Kenaachkoone, who told it me, Whereupon I forthwith communicated it to all the Sachems who condemned Dekanissores proceedings in this matter, since the English and we were one.

The s<sup>d</sup> Frenchman said:—

That the Governor of Canada charged the Five Nations not to hearken to Corlaer the Governour of N. Yorke for he would kill and destroy them; he would poison them, and so by little and little cause them to dwindle away to nothing; adding further it was certain the English were designed to make away with the 5 Nations, for their destruction was concluded on by the King of England, the certainty of which news they had from France, which they revealed to the Five Nations to be upon their guard, and one of the principal means which the Governor of N. York would take would be the prohibiting the sale of any powder to them.

There being a jealousy and a murmuring among the Indians what this news might be it was thought convenient to proclaim it in the Onnondage Castle and the s<sup>d</sup> Kenaachkoone cry'd it about.

This news (says the s<sup>d</sup> Aqueendera) I have reason to beleive that Dekanissore and Onnagogga give credit to.

The s<sup>d</sup> Sachem was told by the 3 Gentlemen to consider and call to mind what further news he had to tell, against the morning, and come with the other four Sachems and say what he had to say publicly.

The Sachems of Onnondage gave the following information to Col. P. Schuyler, Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston and Hend. Hanse, sent by his Excy the Earl of Bellomont concerning news from Canada, at their Fishing place 16 miles from the Castle the 26th day of April 1700.

Wt mat between ye Sinneke Indis &c & ye Govr of Canada by means of Sinneke Sachems.

Last S<sup>u</sup>mer we had an alarm from the Sinnekes that the Dowaganhaas were there with an army, upon which our young men went up for their assistance.

Among whom was one Tohonsiowanne of our people, whom the Governour of Canada used to send as a Messenger to the 5 nations. This Tohonsiowanne the Sinneke Sachems thought fit to employ in a message to the Governour of Canada, to treat of peace, and accordingly gave him two belts of Wampum. The Sinneke Sachems that sent this message were Assichqua and *Awenano, and they pray'd the Messenger to make what haste he could, that they might once live quietly & enjoy the benefit of peace.

* This Sachem was pitched upon last year by the 5 Nations to go to Canada from Albany to bring away the 2 Indians that the Govr of Canada detained, but by good luck was stop'd; news coming in the mean time that they were free.

The s<sup>d</sup> messenger brought the s<sup>d</sup> two Belts to the Govern<sup>r</sup> in the behalfe of the Cayouges and Sinnekes (which we would have hindred if we had known it) the Governour of Canada received the Belts very kindly and was glad to see they sued to him for peace & returned two Belts of Wampum by the Messenger to the Sinnekes and Cayouges, telling them to send two Sachems of each nation to him to treat of peace, for he was satisfied with Onnondage and Oneyde they had been with him already.

Now the Cayouges declare they know nothing of message, but depend wholly on Corlaer the Governour of N. Yorke and the Oneydes say the same. This news we sent to the Oneydes by one of our Sachems call'd Aradgi, this winter, and the Oneydes were desired to send it forward to the Maquas and they to Albany, but it stop'd at Oneyde and was not sent forward, the snow being so deep.

The Belts sent by the Governour of Canada to the Sinnekes and Cayouges came to Onnondage and lay there a long while, at last were carried up by the s<sup>d</sup> Aradgi, but the Sinnekes would not own they had sent any Belts to the Governour of Canada, and after a strict inquiry it was found to be only the s<sup>d</sup> two Sachems that had done it, viz<sup>t</sup> Assichqua and Awenano, without the privacy of the rest.

Further suggestions of ye French agst the English.

The Speaker Aqueendera in the presence of the other four Sachems repeated the same he told us yesterday That the Governour of Canada's Interpreter told Tuhayceeri one of their people at Cadaracqui that the Governour of N. Yorke would call the 5 Nations to Albany and give them a present and in their drink poison them all, and would for ever hereafter deprive them of powder; for they see already they got but little bags of powder for a becer, and he would not only withhold powder from them, but guns, lead, hatchets and all instruments and ammunition of war, and what cloathing you get at Albany was rotten.

The s<sup>d</sup> Interpreter said further, that the King of England had concluded to make an end of the 5 Nations and had given directions to Corlaer his Governour of New Yorke to fall upon them with an army this winter and hinder their getting any ammunition and to poison them; and therefore advised them to leave their Castles and come over to the other side of the Cadaracqui Lake and live there with their wives and Children and plant and hunt in safety; for their ruine was certainly concluded of by the King of England, for they had it from France, and therefore warned them as friends.

The Jesuits of Canada do likewise threaten hard to come and live in our Castles, in each Castle a Jesuit Father Millett at Oneyde, Father Bruyas that was with my Lord last sūmer at Onnondage, & others among the Cayouges and Sinnekes; which causes us continual disturbance.

When Father Bruyas was sent from Canada last summer, to Lord Bellomont, some of our people happened to be at Canada, to whom the s<sup>d</sup> priest said, I am going to the Governour of N. Yorke, Corlaer, to see why he hinders us to come among the 5 Nations to instruct you in the Christian Faith, and if he hinders us we will fight him; for he is but a child in understanding and knows nothing; he is but lately come into the country, and I have been long among you.

The s<sup>d</sup> Jesuit further said, I will discourse my Lord Bellomont why he always sends for you to speak with you at Albany, why the general place of treaty is not to be kept at Onnondage according to the ancient custom.

The said Sachems were told by Col. P. Schuyler Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston and M<sup>r</sup> Hanse:—

The Comrs reply That the Earl of Bellomont Govern<sup>r</sup> of N. Yorke, N. England &c would rather lose his life than be the inventor of such falsehoods as the French have infused into you. It is a shame and scandal for such that pretend to be Christians and to be instructors of heathens, to give you so bad an example and to teach you such abominable practices of lying and deceit, which is from their father the Devil.

Now to shew you what ill men these Jesuits are this Father Bruyas never durst so much as mention any such thing to my Lord Bellomont as you speak of, but ou the contrary when he returned to Albany spoke so much to my Lord Bellomont's praise & applauded him so much for his wisdom, prudence, ingenuity, generosity and kindness, that tongue could not sufficiently express it. But this is like them.

Now Brethren.

We need not tell you how just and constant this Governm<sup>t</sup> has been to the 5 Nations and what benefits you have had from the English from time to time, and from the present Governour the Earl of Bellomont in particular; and you will hear when we come to your castle, whether we are now a going, what he has cōmanded us to tell you, which will sufficiently convince you of his affection and inclination and also of our Great Kings favour, and that you may rest satisfied of his Ma<sup>ty</sup> royal protection. We are grieved to hear that any of the 5 Nations and especially of the Sachems should hearken, believe or give credit to the French, to send any Belts to or receive any Belts from the Governour of Canada, you being the King of Englands subjects, especially now since there is a peace made between the 2 Kings, wherein you are included; But we will not insist, it growing late, and therefore expect you will go with us to your Castle, where you will hear what Corlaer hath directed us to speak.

The Comrs proceed to ye Onnondage Castle.

When we approached the Castle of Onnondage two Sachems came out and congratulated our safe arrival, that we had escaped the danger of the Lake and of the enemies the Dianondado's who often kill of their people near their Castles, conducted us to our lodgeing where the rest of the Sachems were met, who bid us welcome again with a present of some Wampum, and then, according to their custom, hung over a great kettle of hasty pudding made of parch'd Indian meal, and sent it us; we staid here this night and all

Saturday till they had sent for some of their Sachems that were out a fishing: in y<sup>e</sup> mean time we examined Keenaachkoone as follows:—

Onnondage 27 April 1700, die Sât.

The former Act of ye French suggestions confirmed.

Kenaachkoone one of the Sachems of Onnondage being examined by Col. P<sup>r</sup> Schuyler, Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston & Hend: Hanse, in the presence of Aradgi about what he heard Dekanissore say concerning the discourse of the French Govern<sup>r</sup> Interpreter at Cadaraequi, who did own that Dekanissore had told him the matter so as he related it to Aqueendera, viz<sup>t</sup> That the Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York would poison the 5. Nations in rum, & forbid the selling of them guns, powder, lead, & all sorts of ammunition, which the French knew very well for they had it from all hands and from Albany likewise; and therefore advised the 5 Nations as friends to desert their Castles and come and live on the other side of Cadaraequi Lake, else the 5 Nations would be all destroyed this winter by Corlaer who would come with an army and knock 'em all in the head.

The s<sup>d</sup> Kenaachkoone said further I must withal tell you that I do not believe these French stories.

The Comrs deliver their message from ye Earl of Bellomont
abt his design of coming to meet them at Albany, &c

We are sent by his Exc<sup>y</sup>. the Earl of Bellomont your great Brother Corlaer to visit you, and to see whether the accompt his Lordship has of the French spreading false reports among you to delude & abuse you, be true, in order to make the English odious to you; and we do find that his Lord<sup>p</sup> has a right information of that matter, for the Maquas, Oneydes, and your selves all agree that the French have endeavoured to debauch you and the rest of the 5 Nations from your obedience to his Ma<sup>ty</sup> by suggesting to you that the King of England has concluded your destruction by poisoning and disarming you and bringing an army to kill you &c and this is all insinuated to you by the French upon pretence of friendship; but we hope you are no strangers to the wicked principles & lying artifices of the French who are restless in their endeavours to seduce and withdraw you from your allegiance to his Ma<sup>ty</sup> without regard to the late treaty of peace between the two Crowns.

We are therefore now sent by his Ex<sup>y</sup> the Earl of Bellomont to assure you, 'tis so far from being true, that he intends (God willing) to meet the Chief Sachems of all the 5 Nations at Albany, on the 10th of August, that is 104 days hence, at which time his Lord<sup>p</sup> will not only make you a good present of such cloaths & other things as you stand most in need of, but also a good number of fuzils & a proportionable quantity of powder and lead.

We are also directed by the Earl of Bellomont to assure you of the Kings favour and that you may rest satisfied of his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s Royall protection of you, which you will quickly find the good effects of, for the Earl of Bellomont is in daily expectation of the Kings orders to build a Fort at this Castle, which shall defend this Nation and the rest from the excursion and attacks of the French at Cadaraequi and elsewhere, and that his Lord<sup>p</sup> also expects orders to settle some Protestant Ministers among you to instruct you in the Christian Religion. We do in the Earl of Bellomont's name, as a token of our King's friendship, give you this Belt of Wampum, and here are three Belts more, one for the Oneydes whose Sachems were not at home, whom we sent word to meet us here but are not yet come; and the other two Belts you are to send with some trusty Indians to the Cayouges and Sinnekes and acquaint them with this whole message, and that his Excy. will certainly meet all the Sachems of the 5 Nations at Albany in 4 moons and a halfe, to be reckoned from this day.

This is the message we are directed by the Earl of Bellomont to bring you, and have nothing to add but this, that your great Brother Corlaer will take it amiss that you have not acquainted him with all these stories you heard of the French, tho' you now see he is no stranger to the false reports the French spread among you.

Another thing we must remind you of, which his Excy. told you when he was at Albany, to be cautious of keeping correspondence with the French, which we understand is not observed by your people, by their going to trade at Cadaracqui. This is a great evil and the source of all your uneasiness.

The French tell you that the English will poison you, but we have great cause to suspect y<sup>e</sup> French have a hand in seduceing you to poison one another; for we observe those Indians that have done signal services for your Nation against the French and are true to the English interest, their whole families are poisoned, and dwindle away to nothing. Let us not hear of such wickedness any more among you.

And lastly, we advise you to make your dwellings and habitations compact together, that upon occasion they may be secured and not stragling to and again, as we see they are; which will be a means to preserve your name and keep you from any suddain assault or incursion of an enemy.

The Sachems replied by Aradgi their Speaker.—

We are thankful to Corlaer the Earl of Bellomont for the grateful message he hath sent us by you three Gentlemen, which hath eased our minds very much, and will come according to his comands, but desire withal that when the 104 days are near expired the Interpreter may be sent to advertize us, that we come exactly according to the time mentioned by Corlaer.

Most of the Sachems of this Castle as well as of y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes are abroad, and as soon as they come home we will advise and consult about what hath been proposed.

When s<sup>d</sup> persons went to Canada were desired to get what information they could of affairs there and to give a particular Acco<sup>t</sup> of it; which they give as follows:—

1. That the Governour of Canada was very earnest to know if my Lord Bellomont was gone for England.

2. That the souldiers were hard at work in getting the fortifications about Mont Royal finished, centries being put at the gates, and those open places where the stockados were not put up.

3. All the small Forts between Mont Royal and Quebeck, are repairing with speed.

4. No Christian or Indian suffered to go into any of their Forts.

5. Great preparations about their batoes, people being employed to calk and pitch them, and are very diligent in repairing their birch canoes.

6. They expect the 5. Nations to come and make peace with them, else will fight them; this was confidently affirmed by Mons<sup>r</sup> Artell.

7. All the Bush lopers are sent for up from Ottowawa, some whereof went away last fall without leave; there is now about 400 Bush lopers expected home.

8. Great animosities between the Governour and people there.

9. The merchants designe to breake the Comp<sup>y</sup> profering fifty thousand livres more than the Comp<sup>a</sup> for the Customs, and petition their King for a free trade with this government.

10. There is a great Indian trade at Canada, many of the Pennikook Indians they see there, and on the Lake, going thither with their peltry.

11. The French of all sorts were very inquisitive about news of the limits and bounds of the governments since it is discoursed there that his Ma<sup>ty</sup> King William doth insist to have the south side of Mont Royal river.

12. They were very busy in getting large masts for their King; an English man is their Engineer who is allowed 200 pistoles p<sup>r</sup> annum.

EXTRACT. Coll. Schuyler to me of the 15th Instant from Albany says, all our Indians are well and out a hunting, two or three families of the Maquass excepted, who are, as he understands settled in Canada with their Indians. He sent me Gov<sup>r</sup> Treat's letter of the 14th Feb<sup>r</sup> with the information given to Govern<sup>r</sup> Winthrop the 22th January, and he answered him that had there been any such design by our Indians he would have immediately acquainted your Lord<sup>p</sup> or my self therewith, and that he believed it was spread by some disaffected person or their own Indians. However this allarm had scar'd our Indians almost every where, for six weeks since, three with a small belt of Wampum from the high lands went to Albany to inquire after the news, but being told there was none but that all was well, two of them went out a hunting, and the other went home. I wish this noise may not give umbrage to our Indians, but I hope the Gentlemen your Lord<sup>p</sup> now writes to will so satisfie the Five Nations that we may be able to prevent the evil<sup>l</sup> designs the French have in debauching them from us. We have it of all hands that the French are re-fortifying Montreal, and make their jest of our simple fortifications of Albany, and that your Lord<sup>p</sup> may see in what condition the garrison there is, I will transcribe out of Capt. Weems's letter to me of the 14th Ins<sup>t</sup> what he says relating to that matter, viz<sup>t</sup> [The condition of this garrison and fortification which is all gone to ruin and decay, insomuch that the great guns is falling thro' the bastions and many of the stockadoes quite rotten and falling out of the ground in pieces that a man may pass in and out betwixt them.] He also makes miserable complaints of the bad condicóns the poor souldiers are reduced to, being neer naked & bare of every thing wth out shirt, breches, shoe, or stocking. I hope in God by the next post your Lord<sup>p</sup> will have some news of money for us and that your Lord<sup>p</sup> will not forget should you receive an order for the £2000 for to send it me (there is now I believe but very litle wanting to be rec<sup>d</sup> of the whole) for I am in miserable want.

Boston 2S May 1700.

Gentlemen

I have been of late very much troubled and interrupted by M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford's and M<sup>r</sup> Parmiter's criminating one another in their letters to me. They revile each other in scurrilous terms, and I doubt with too much truth, which makes me resolve to report the matter to you. Therefore I send you extracts of two letters from Hungerford and Parmyter, which contain in substance the abuses and reflections of many of their letters. There has been a tryall between M<sup>r</sup>

Hungerford and M<sup>r</sup> Lott, High Sheriff of King's County in the Province of New York about the preference to an informacōn against a parcell of unlawfull goods, a verdict was given the last Superiour Court at N. York in favour of Lott ag<sup>t</sup> Hungerford; which Hungerford, in contempt thereof and of an order of the Court has refused to submit to. The state of the Case, as it was sent me from New York, I now inclose to you. In short M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford's behaviour has been so very scandalous in the share he had in the Collectors Place with Coll: Cortland, that I have been forced to turn him out, thō my near relation, and the clamour was great at my keeping him in, that I am forced at last to yield to the importunity of my Lieu<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> and of Coll. Smith, Chief Justice of that Province and sever<sup>ll</sup> others. As for Parmiter, whom I made Naval Officer because I had no body else to put into that post, and because too that M<sup>r</sup> Clement assured me he was a very honest religious man, I find he is a most corrupt ill man and was tryed for his life at Bristol, for a most notorious forgery a few years ago with one Lynch. Lynch was hanged, and Parmyter condemn'd to be hang'd, but afterwards with difficulty pardoned; w<sup>ch</sup> you will find by the inclosed deposition of Capt. Fielding and M<sup>r</sup> Pope. I would turn out Parmyter from the Navall Officer's place, but that I have no body to dispose of it to. I wish you would please to send over a discreet honest man to be Comptroller of the Customes at New York, and I would make him Navall Officer; which thing I formerly proposed to you.

M<sup>r</sup> Eastwick the late Navall Officer of New Hampshire being dead, I have appointed M<sup>r</sup> Robert Armstrong to succeed him, who is well recommended to me from England; the persons bound for him are substantiall merchants of this place, whose bond in a 1000.£: I herewith send you.

I wish you would comand M<sup>r</sup> Brenton and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver, Collectors of this Province and New York, to their respective posts; their absence so long a time is insufferable. Mr Brenton was formerly absent three years together, as I am told, and this time almost two years. The trade here and at New York is carried on at a very loose rate, and therefore the Collectors ought not to stir from their duty.

I am, with much esteem

Boston 2S May 1700.

My Lords.

I lately informed your Lord<sup>sh</sup> of Capt. Salmon Morris Command<sup>r</sup> of the Newport frigate at New York, wherein I thought him faulty. I perceive his not bringing the pyrats and their effects from New York to this place proceeded more from the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governor's omission to give him written ord<sup>r</sup> than from his own refusall. However it be, I find Capt. Morris's behaviour all the while he was at N. York was very sober and discreet, and I humbly desire Your Lo<sup>sh</sup> will continue him in your favour and good opinion.

If your Lop<sup>s</sup> will please to appoint a fifth rate frigate for New York instead of a 6th rate, I humbly request that Cap<sup>t</sup> Lechmere Comander of the Lynn may be sent to relieve Capt. Morris, when your Lord<sup>sh</sup> ord<sup>r</sup> another ship thither. Capt. Lechmere is my neighbour in Worcestershire, and acquaintance, and therefore will be much more gratefull to me than a stranger. He is now here with Rear Admirall Benbow, who gives him a good character.

The pyrate ship that robb'd near the Capes of Virginia lately, was gone before Capt. Crow with the Arundel could come up with her. Capt. Crow is not yet return'd from cruising.

My Lords.

According to your Lo<sup>sh</sup> orders to me in your letter of the 7th of last Sept<sup>r</sup> I send you all the papers and evidences that related to Capt. Kidds effects and the rest of the pyrats I sent with him in the Advice frigate.

I now send your Lo<sup>sh</sup> the Inventories of all such treasure and effects, as are come to my hands from the Governors of Maryland and Pensylvania, from Colonell Quarry Judge of the Admiralty Court in Pensylvania, and from the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Govern<sup>r</sup> of New York. I have not thought it necessary to discharge myself upon oath of the s<sup>d</sup> treasure and effects, because the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governor of N. York (from whom they are sent immediately and directly to me) has exonerated himself upon oath before the Council of N. York as appears by a minute of Council sent herewith; and the charges that have accrued here since the prisoners being brought, amount to no more than £12. 6<sup>s</sup> this money. The pyrats who are nine in number I have order'd to be delivered to Rear Admiral Benbow whom I have desir'd to deliver them to my Lord Jersey and the effects to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon, to whom the former effects were consigned.

[New-York Entries, C. 241.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earle of Bellomont His Majesty's Captain General & Governour in Chief of His Majesty's Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay, New Yorke & New Hampshire in America. And of the Territories thereupon depending &c. Or to the Commander in Cheif of His Majesty's Province of New York, for the time being.

My Lord,

Having acquainted your Lordship, by our letter of the 10th of the last Month, with what we had proposed to His Majesty upon your letter of the 25th of February last, relating to the Indians, And what His Majesty had thereupon directed; We are now to informe you, That all is done accordingly; viz' Five hundred Pounds paid to M<sup>r</sup> Champante, to be remitted you, towards the building of a Sod Fort in the Onondage Countrey; And subsistence money also paid him for the Soldiers from the 24th of Aprill last 'till the 19th of this month; And that he has likewise found means to provide clothing for them, and is taking care about shipping the same aboard His Majesty's ship the Advice, together with 400 light fuzils and a quantity of Lead and Powder, as also cloths and other necessaries (to the value of 500<sup>l</sup> in all) For presents to the Five Nations of Indians; Of all which he will give your Lordship a more particular Account.

As for the distribution of the Presents amongst the Indians, we can only observe to your Lordship, that the reason of sending so large a proportion of Armes, was the better to remove the jealousy that has been raised amongst them of a designe to disarme them; And your Lordship will therefore take care to deliver them, more or less, at once or at several times, as you shall in your own prudence find most proper to effect that end, and settle them firm in their allegiance to His Majesty.

We acquainted your Lordship by our letter of the 11th of April last, that an Act had been past here for the more effectual suppression of Piracy, which extends to all His Majesty's Plantations: We now add that in order to the Execution thereof, Commissions are passing, to be sent to all the Plantations accordingly.

His Majesty having been informed by the Consul at Algier, that the Dey of that Government had declared to him their resolution to direct Cruisers to require Admiralty Passes pursuant to the Treaty with them in 1682, from all the Shipp's of His Majesty's Subjects that they should meet with in and after the Month of September next, and it being apprehended that they may cruise in the way of our Plantation Trade, more than they have formerly done, so that all shipp's, not to and from England thither, but also from one Plantation to another, will need to be provided therewith, Care has been taken here for preparing passes, and regulating the distribution thereof in the Plantation with all Possible diligence; In which as we have done our parts, We doubt not but you will accordingly receive both passes and rules relating thereunto, for the security of the Trade of His Majesty's Subjects in the Provinces under your Government, from the Lords of the Admiralty. And that your Lordship may be more fully informed of what the Algerines expect, we send you here inclosed the copies of the Dey of Algier's letter to His Majesty of the 14th April 1699, and of the Consul's letter of the 13th April 1700.

A petition having been presented to His Majesty, by Mr Crouch and other Merchants, setting forth that a shipp called the Mary, designed with Pipestaves and other Timber from New England to Portugal, had been stopt there by your Authority and not permitted to proceed on that voyage: And His Majesty having refer'd the same to our consideration, we send you here inclosed a copy of the said Petition together with a Copy of His Majesty's Order in Council of the 9th of May last, directing that she be permitted to proceed on that voyage, (in which a copy of our report is inserted) that you may be the more perfectly apprized of that matter.

His Majesty has been pleased to appoint Mr Atwood to be Chief Justice, and Mr Broughton to be Attorney General of New Yorke; And we are thereupon giving them all the assistance we can towards the Dispatch of what may be necessary for them.

The Acts of the General Assemblies of all the Provinces under your Governm<sup>t</sup> lye yet in the hands of Mr Sollicitor Gen<sup>l</sup> but we are every day in expectation of those of New Yorke, and when we receive them shall use all the Dispatch we possibly can in our Report thereupon; And press for the rest out of his hands that we may dispatch them likewise.

We have found an Inconvenience from some of His Majesty's Plantations, in having private Acts fastned together under the same seal with those that are of a Publick nature, the one proving sometimes an obstruction to the dispatch of the other; And we therefore desire your Lordship (as we have done other Governours) to take care hereafter that all private Acts be sent each of them under a separate seal, and that the persons concerned in any such private Acts, do direct some of their friends here to solicit their Dispatch with the Attorney and Sollicitor General and instruct them, so that they may be able to give information in any doubts, or enquiries that may be made thereupon.

His Majesty having lately required us to lay before Him a state of what allowances have been heretofore made by the Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay, New Yorke and New Hampshire for the maintenance of their respective Governours, and what may now be expected from them, in order to His Majesty's giving such directions thereupon as he shall judge fit for your Lordship's support in those Governments; We send your Lordship here inclosed a Copy of the Report that We have laid before His Majesty about that matter; But are not yet acquainted with the Resolution that has been taken upon it. We are

[New-York Entries, C. 299—335.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I hope in this letter to give an Account that will be as pleasing to your Lordships, as it will be serviceable to England. Tho' I confess I write under all the disadvantage and discouragement imaginable, for to this hour I have no orders upon the several letters I write about Naval Stores, about the ill posture of affairs in the Province of New Yorke, about the right of nomination of officers, a point I writ to your Lordships was contested by the Council of this Province; and lastly about the extravagant waste of the woods in New Hampshire and sending Ship timber thence to Portugall, which is one way to France.

I gave your Lordships to understand in three or four of my former letters, the prospect I had of furnishing England, and all the King's Dominions with Naval Stores of all kinds; except flax and hemp, which I formerly told your Lordships could not be so conveniently furnished from hence, as from Ireland; because of the dearness of labour here. 'Tis true I sent your Lordships my scheme by piece meal, being often interrupted in my thoughts of that matter, by other business, which was the true reason why you had not my scheme all at once.

In reading over my first letter on that subject which is that of the 17th of April: 99, I meet with one mistake where I say that the women and children will be able to make Tar in the Province of New Yorke, for that 'tis but tapping the pitch pines and the liquor will run out in great quantity, but I misunderstood Monsieur Bernon, who has since explained to me, that he meant turpentine.

I have no reason hitherto to be out of conceit with the scheme I sent your Lordships, I have been very inquisitive of all people, that I heard had any insight in making Tar &c. and I find other people's notions agree with mine viz' That the cheapest and surest way of making Tar will be with soldiers; That the pay or wages I propos'd for them viz' 12<sup>d</sup> per day will be a very reasonable reward, that sequestering 12<sup>d</sup> per week to be improved for every soldier in Trade, and that to be laid out for the soldier's benefit, at seven years' end to build 'em houses and buy 'em necessary furniture and some few cattle to begin the world with, and stock the 40 acres of land I propos'd for each soldier.

Thus I have recapitulated the heads of the proposition, I made your Lordships in three or four several letters. I have further to acquaint you, that I am more confirmed than I was, of the certainty of making Tar to serve the King and all his Dominions; being assured by several hands, that 'tis a thing of great yield or produce, where there are a number of hands to assist one another. If M<sup>r</sup> Bridger may be credited, who has made some Tar in New Hampshire, and sent it to England with the other specimens, a number of men will with ease make a barrel of Tar a day all the year round for each man's share, which is 37 ton and 6 barrels of tar, the yearly produce of each man's labour; at which rate 600 soldiers will make 22650 ton of tar in a year, which is so vast a quantity, that one would think it would more than suffice for all the King's Dominions yearly; yet the making pitch will cause a great diminution of the tar. There comes good store of tar and pitch hither from Carolina, as appears by the cockets produc'd by the Masters of Vessells, which I never fail to examine carefully, as well as into the prices of both. One Nicholas Meers Master of a Vessel brought lately from South Carolina 70 barrells of tar and 26 of pitch, as part of his Cargo; finding him a sober understanding man, I discours'd him twice or thrice about tar and pitch, he told me that he had lived a good part of his time in Carolina, and understood how to make tar and pitch; that he had bought tar there this year for 5<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per barrel, but that when he came from thence, it was so much in demand, and several vessels from the neighbouring Plantations waiting to load with it, that it was risen to 7<sup>s</sup> 3<sup>d</sup> per barrel, and so much his 70 barrells cost him; and his 26 barrells of pitch cost him 17<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per barrel. I ask'd him the reason of the disproportion of the price of pitch to that of tar (because he had told me that a barrel of pitch was made out of a barrel and about  $\frac{2}{3}$  parts of a barrel of tar) he said he could give no good reason for it; but that it was so he was certain, and that the people in Carolina were not fond of selling tar, but rather pitch, because they got most by it. I ask'd him the price of Cask there; he told me a single barrel of Oake cost 2<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> but in buying a quantity they cost but 16<sup>s</sup> per ton. And I find I can have Cask of pine here and at New Yorke (which will do full as well as those of oak) for 12<sup>s</sup> per ton. | I ask'd him about the value of money in Carolina, as a thing proper for me to know to make my computation more just; he told me there was much disorder in that, that the Dog Dollars, Rix Dollars, and the Seville, pillar and Mexico pieces of Eight have a currency there, but are not at a fix'd standard in value, they going with some people for more, with others for less. There are twenty Merchants in this town, that trade to Carolina, and not any two of 'em agree in their Accounts of the mony there; by that of M<sup>r</sup> Meers, the mony there is about 16 $\frac{1}{2}$  per Cent worse than 'tis here, and the mony here worse than sterling by 30 $\frac{1}{2}$  per Cent. So that by that rule the mony in Carolina must be 46 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent worse than sterling, and consequently a barrel of tar costing 5<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> in Carolina mony, (as I observ'd before from M<sup>r</sup> Meers) is no more than about 3 shillings English, whence I infer that tar is a thing of great produce, otherwise it could not be offer'd so cheap as 5<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per barrel, where labour must be as dear as in the Province of New Yorke, Carolina being a later Plantation than New Yorke, besides too he told me the barrel was given in with the tar for the said 5<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup>.

In Whiston's Price Current the 15th of last January (which I have now before me) I find Stockholm tar sold at 11 $\frac{1}{2}$  10<sup>s</sup> per last, and Stockholm pitch at 14 $\frac{1}{2}$  now a last being a ton and a  $\frac{1}{2}$  or 12 barrels, 'tis in the first place to be observ'd, there was but 50 shillings difference in the last between tar & pitch, which is far different from the disproportion that's between the prices of tar and pitch in Carolina. In the next place, I will reduce a last of the Stockholm tar to a ton, the better to make a parallel between the price of that and the price of Carolina tar. A ton then of Stockholm tar (at the rate of 11 $\frac{1}{2}$  10<sup>s</sup> per last) is 7 $\frac{1}{2}$  13<sup>s</sup> and a ton of Carolina tar (at 5<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per barrel) is 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  4<sup>s</sup>, besides the great difference of the mony (as I have before observ'd) in Carolina and this place, and here, and in England; and besides the difference between the price of labour, that of Soldiers as I have propos'd at 12<sup>d</sup> per day sterling, being almost  $\frac{2}{3}$  parts cheaper than the common price of labour in the three Provinces of my Government, which is 3<sup>s</sup> per day this mony. Upon the whole matter I cannot conceive the tar being manufactur'd by soldiers in the Province of New Yorke as I have propos'd can cost the King and his Dominions, above 4 $\frac{1}{2}$  per ton or 6 $\frac{1}{2}$  per last, the freight thereof included in the said charge, whether to England or any other of the King's Dominions.

I do not trouble your Lordships with an Estimate of the price of Pitch to be made at New York, because I take it for granted your Lordships will agree with me, that it will be much the best way to manufacture the tar into pitch, after the tar is carried into England; because of the advantage of employing hands to worke in England rather than abroad.

There are other advantages that will accrue to England: I am told that at present all Naval Stores which we have from Sweden and Denmark, are paid for with ready money, carried in specie from England, which some merchants here assure me is above a 100,000<sup>l</sup> per annum, whereas I would undertake to pay for all the Naval Stores from New Yorke and New Hampshire with the manufactures of England.

I have been very particular in the foregoing account, about making tar, because I would gladly explain every part of it to your Lordships; and I hope what I have now to writ, will satisfie you of it's being practicable beyond dispute or contradiction. I will now sum up the advantages which will accrue to England from this performance. (1st) It will take off the charge of the forces, the King would otherwise be oblig'd to keep in his pay, to defend the Provinces of New York and New Hampshire, against the French and their Indians, which in time of war cannot be less than a 1000 men, to defend them as they ought to be defended: and let it be consider'd too, that the securing of them, is in a great measure securing all the Plantations on this Continent. (2<sup>dy</sup>) It will save the King and his Dominions near half the money that's laid out at present for tar, pitch, turpentine and rozen. (3<sup>dy</sup>) If it be true that above a 100,000<sup>l</sup> in specie is exported every year out of England, by the Eastland Merchants, that sume of money which is a very great one, (and is entirely sunk and lost to the Nation by never returning) will not only by this design be kept within the nation for the time to come, but it will also be the undoubted means of a very considerable additional export and consumption of our English manufactures, so that the advantage will be double, by saving so great a sume of money which was carried out of the Nation before, and by turning that loss into profit to England, in the increase of the Exports of our Manufactures as I just now said. (4<sup>thly</sup>) There will in my opinion be double the number of ships employ'd in carrying tar from New Yorke to England, that is at present employ'd between England and the Northern Kingdoms in that trade, which must be reckon'd an advantage, when at the said time the commodity is cheaper to England, with which so many more ships are freighted, The reason of this is plain, for two voyages from Loudon to Stöckholm will be much sooner perform'd, than one from London to New York, because of the great distance. (5<sup>thly</sup>) But the greatest advantage of all is yet to come, which is, that the King and all his Dominions will be furnish'd with Naval stores from his own territory, by which means that most important trade (without which England could not subsist) will no longer be precarious.

The advantages that will redound to England by a right use of these Plantations, are infinite and inestimable, not only tar and pitch, turpentine, oyle of turpentine and rozen, will be furnished, but also the deal boards, masts, yards & howsprits, and all the larger sorts of ship timber for the King and all his Dominions; and taking one thing with another, I can demonstrate that all these commodities I have now nam'd will be afforded cheaper to England, than they now are from foreeign Countries. Deal Boards are what will turn to least account of any of the Commodities I have enumerated, yet a vessell wholly laden with them would make a saving voyage from these Plantations to England. The Deals brought from Norway are sold by tale, that is by the hundred, and the price is from 3<sup>l</sup> 10<sup>s</sup> to 5<sup>l</sup>, the hundred their length from 10 to 12 foot, their breadth from 10 to 12 inches. In New Hampshire they sell their boards by the 1000 foot, 22 shillings per 1000 is the present price for such deals, the boards are rarely under 25 foot in length, and from 15 to 18 inches in breadth, and more free from knots than the Norway boards are, as they tell me here; when the deals are 2 inches thick they call 'em plank and their rule is, to double their price, as the thickness of the board or plank doubles; for 2 inch deale they have £2. 4<sup>s</sup> per 1000 foot, and for 3 inch deale £3. 6<sup>s</sup> and the advantage to the merchant or fragher will be chiefly in the 2 and 3 inch deal plank for the decks of ships, and such plank they saw in New Hampshire of 36 foot long and two foot broad, and upon occasion they can furnish plank that's longer and broader than even that A fly-boat or hag-boat of 500 ton will carry 270,000 foot of inch deale, and a good number of spars, and rafters for Oars, besides for breakage as they call it. It would not quit cost for small vessells to carry only deale boards, because of the charge of navigating them, which is much greater in proportion than the navigating great ships, as for example to a ship of 100 tons they require here 12 hands, and five such ships would require 60 men, whereas they will sail a ship of 500 ton with 25 hands, but this I find plainly that whether the ship be great or small, a mixt cargo of deale boards and ship timber, such as knees and standards, which are scarce and dear in England, will always make a profitable return to the fraghter.

I must not omit telling your Lordships, that our next neighbour Colony of Connecticut, make and export a pretty good quantity of tar and pitch every year, but 'tis dearer than in Carolina.

I discours'd over my scheme for making tar at New York with Colonel Hamilton Governour of the Jerseys, who was lately here and is an understanding man; he thought fit to refine on my project or plan, and two or three days after we had discours'd together, he brought me a scheme of his own writing a copy whereof I send your Lordships (marked A); I shall only remark two essential errors in the method he proposes for raising and maintaining a 1000 Soldiers to make Naval stores, and be a guard to the Frontiers, which being the foundation of his scheme, if that be defective, then of course the superstructure must be so too. First the I say 'tis utterly impracticable to prevail with these plantations, to raise the quotas of men and mony he proposes; and to instance in this Province, I would as soon undertake to reconcile 'em to the Masse, as to such a contribution, as he has set down in his paper for their proportion of the charge. Secondly admitting these Plantations could be reconcil'd to the charge of maintaining a 1000 men for the ends aforesaid, I think it would be most impolitick in the Crown to suffer these Plantations to provide and maintain their own guard; It would be to put an opportunity in their hands of setting up for an Independance on the Crown, which 'tis much to be fear'd, all the Plantations on this whole Continent have too much a propensity to. Every body knows that common Soldiers always fight for those that pay 'em, without examining the justice of the quarrel. 'Tis with submission to your Lordships great wisdom, that I make these objections to Colonel Hamilton's paper.

I will next indeavour to inform your Lordships about masts and ship timber, wherein I have been very inquisitive, that I might be able to offer something to your Lordships on that head, that would be serviceable to the King and Kingdome. When I was at Piscattaway last summer, seeing a hagboat there of M<sup>r</sup> Taylors of about 450 ton, loading masts for the King's ships, I was curious to know what number of Masts she could carry; I found every body at first upon the reserve, they all seeming to have an Interest in keeping that matter a secret; but by degrees I learnt enough to convince me, that the King may be much cheaper furnish'd than he is at present, with all his masts, yards and bowsprits, and with all the principal timber for building his ships of war, and in the sequel of this letter I hope to make it manifest to your Lordships, when you have perus'd the following Estimates. The secret lyes chiefly in this, that if the King will employ 3 or 4 ships of his own, the greatest part of the charge will be sav'd. I have inquir'd of several persons about this matter, but M<sup>r</sup> Bridger the Agent from the Navy Board (who is a ship builder by Trade) has given me the best satisfaction of any body. But that I may proceed regularly I send your Lordships a Copy of Mr Taylor's Contract for Masts, Yards and Bowsprits of all sizes; the said contract is (mark'd B), if it be thought for the King's Interest to build hag boats of his own of 500 ton a piece, for carrying his Masts &c. (tho the readiest way will be to buy them ready made), then the paper (mark'd C) containing 6 quere's from me to Mr Bridger, will shew the charge of building a hag boat of 500 ton at Piscataway, in his answer to my said quere's (mark'd D), Mr Bridger also deliver'd me a proposal sent by him to the Navy Board some time since, of prices for which he would undertake to furnish masts, yards and bowsprits, for the King's Navy from New Hampshire, which proposal I send (mark'd E), at the fort whereof he has set down the number of men, requisite to sail any ship from a 100 to 500 ton.

I desir'd Mr Bridger to give me the prices of the principall ship timber, (as sold in the King's Yard at Portsmouth, where he serv'd his time) which are contained in the paper (mark'd F), but he told me he had put very moderate prices on the several sorts. And for instance he told me he had known 5 shillings per foot paid for great standards for a first and second rate man of war, which would be £15 per load, yet he has set down but £7. 10<sup>s</sup> per load in his said paper, which is but half a crown a foot. At the end of his memorial (mark'd D) which answers my queres, he undertakes to save the King 2930<sup>l</sup>: 19<sup>s</sup>: in every ship load of masts, of what is paid to Mr Taylor, and a ship making two voyages in a year from Pescataway to England, the King will gain 5861<sup>l</sup>: 18<sup>s</sup>. sterling, & two such ships of his own will gain him 11723<sup>l</sup>: 16<sup>s</sup>. every year if the Navy will require so many masts.

That the masts, yards and bowsprits for the King's ships will be best and cheapest carried home in ships of the King's own, is very clear and manifest. And I believe I shall as easily make it appear, that the great and principal ship timber for building his ships of War, viz beams, planks and compass timber, (taking one sort with another) will be sent home in the King's own ships, for very near half the prices those sorts of timber cost the King at this time in his yards. Mr Bridger has estimated the building a hagboat in his said memorial, (mark'd D) and therein in his answer to my second quere, at 5625<sup>l</sup>. New England money, the said hagboat to be of 500 ton, which said sume is over 4000 sterling, by Mr Bridger's computation / 600.£ New England money (which is no more than 420.£ sterling) will purchase a load of ship timber, that in the King's yards in England will be worth 2000 sterling. And by Mr Partridge's computation, the said cargo or load of ship timber will be worth 2500.£ sterling in the King's yards. Mr Bridger ought to be the better builder, but Mr Partridge has had more experience in shipping, and selling that sort of timber, but taking it at either of their estimates, 'tis plain 'twill be worth while for the King to carry home his principal ship timber, from New Hampshire in ships of his own; and a ship will make two returns in a year, between Pescataway and England. The paper (mark'd G) is an estimate by Capt. Belcher (an experienc'd man in those matters of this town) of the charge of wages, victuals, and wear and tear, of a ship of 500 Ton.

That which has induc'd me to set about these Estimates, is the desire I have of taking off from the King, the present charge of a 4th and 5th rate men of war for this Province and New Yorke, which piracy and unlawfull trade have made a necessary charge. I have learnt from Rear Admiral Benbow that 'tis a rule in the Navy, that 3<sup>l</sup>. 15<sup>s</sup>. per man per month pays all charges whatsoever, viz Officers and Sailors wages, victuals, stores of war, and weare and teare; at which rate a 4th rate frigate (whose full complement is 235 men) stands the King in 11456<sup>l</sup>: 5<sup>s</sup>. per ann. And a 5th rate (whose full complement is 135 men) stands the King in

I verily believe all the Eastland Trade (except for flax and hemp) may be turn'd to these Plantations; and more<sup>o</sup> than that, All the Masts and scarcer sorts of ship timber for the use of all England, and the rest of the Dominions of the Crown, will be furnish'd from these Plantations cheaper than they now sell in England, taking one wth another. And with a good regulation here will be a lasting store of all those things to the end of the world. This Province and New York abound with excellent ship timber of all sorts, and so does Connecticut Colony, as well as New Hampshire.

And now my Lords I appeal to your Lordships whether the use and advantage I have propos'd by these Plantations to England, be not preferable to the selling almost all the lands in the Province of New York to Cōll. Fletcher, and all New Hampshire, and a great part of this Province to Cōll. Allen. I call it selling the lands of New York to Fletcher, because that whoever contriv'd that clause in his Instructions, which gave him an unlimited power in the disposition of those lands, (and that directly contrary to precedent in other Governour's Instructions) may be truly said to sell those lands, and therein to betray the King and Kingdom in a very high degree. I also call it selling New Hampshire and a great part of this Province to Cōll Allen, for that Mason under whom Coll. Allen claims had no opinion of his own title, is very plain having offer'd to sell it for a 100<sup>l</sup>, as Cōll. Pinchon's Deposition does so far make out, as to satisfie any indifferent man of the truth of it; thō it would not be allow'd a direct proof in law, because the offer was not made by M<sup>r</sup> Mason himself, but by a third hand, viz Doctor Owen a Presbyterian Minister. Then for Cōll. Allen's title I send your Lordships Coll. Hutchinson's Deposition, tied up with Coll. Pinchon's, they are both members of His Majesty's Council of this Province, and both of good reputation and substance. I have not mark'd the said depositions, because the Clerk had beforehand mark'd other papers to follow in course after those I have already refer'd to, in this letter. I have reason above other men to believe Cōll. Allen's title is insufficient & defective, having been much urg'd to be brib'd, to favour his claim and pretention. There was an offer made me of 10,000<sup>l</sup> in mony, and that Coll. Allen should divide the Province of New Hampshire with me; but I thanke God I had not the least tempting thought to accept of the offer, and I hope nothing in this World will ever be able to tempt me, to betray England in the least degree. This offer was made me three or four severall times; and I am able to swear to time and place, and besides I have some letters from a certain man that mention enough of the matter to corroborate my own Testimony. I presume your Lordships will not have the better opinion of Coll. Allen's title, for the easy terms on which I might have come in for an equal share, or dividnd with him, of that whole Country. I will make it appear that the lands and woods claim'd by Coll. Allen are much more valuable than ten of the biggest estates in England, and I will rate those ten estates at 300,000<sup>l</sup> apiece one with another which is 3 millions. By his own confession to me at Pescataway last summer, he valu'd the Quit Rents of his lands (as he calls 'em) at 22 000<sup>l</sup> per annum at 3<sup>d</sup> per acre, or 6<sup>d</sup> in the pound of all the improv'd Rents; then I leave your Lordships to judge what an immense estate the improv'd rents must be, which (if his title be allow'd) he has as good a right to, as to the foremention'd Quit Rents. And all this besides the Woods, which I believe he might very well value at half the worth of the lands. There never was I believe since the world began so great a bargain as Allen has had of Mason, if it be allow'd to stand good, that all this vast estate I have been naming should be purchas'd for a poor 250<sup>l</sup>, and that a desperate debt too, as Coll. Allen thought, as per Coll. Hutchinson's Deposition aforesaid appears. This I thought my duty to acquaint your Lordships of, that you may take such timely order therein, as to your Lordships wisdom shall seem proper. The consequence of Coll. Allen's claim, may prove highly prejudicial to England, he pretends to a great part of this Province; as far Westward as Cape St. Ann, which is said to take in 17 of the best towns in this Province next to Boston, the best improv'd land, and (I think Coll. Allen told me) 8 or 900,000 acres of their land. If Coll. Allen shall at any time goe about to make a forcible Entry on these lands he pretends to, (for to be sure the people will never turn tenants to him willingly) the present occupants will resist him and any force he shall bring, and the Province will be put into a combustion, and what may be the consequence of it I dread to think. Besides that, I much fear in such a combustion all these Plantations would hold together, and take fire like a train from one end to t'other, I believe it would provoke the patientest of us all that after 50 or 60 years peaceable possession of an Estate in this Province, improv'd by our Fathers and our own industry, such a proprietor as Coll. Allen should drop out of the Clouds to oust us, as they Lawyers call it.

'Tis most amazing to me how dust has been thrown so many years together formerly in the eyes of the King and the Nation, that the value of these Plantations to England has not been seen into. I will make it appear undenyably, that by a right management of these Plantations England shall employ a 1000 stout ships of burthen and 20,000 seamen more than she now employs, and besides other advantages, these Plantations shall be for ever secur'd in a dependence on the Crown, but more of this in another letter which I will shortly trouble your Lordships with, and which shall impart some observations of mine, on the Trade of these Provinces under my Government.

A person of this town tells me he had advice from England that the Eastland Merchants began to be allarm'd at the talk that has been of late in London, of furnishing Naval Stores from these Plantations; and that it was believ'd they would oppose that design as much as in them lay. And also the specimens of tar and ship timber sent to England by M<sup>r</sup> Bridger from New Hampshire were not without Enemies that deery'd & run them down; but your Lordships wisdom and integrity will easily stem all sinister defamations.

'Tis highly necessary and reasonable your Lordships should prevent the intended cozenage of the Crown, in the countenance given to Coll. Allen's claim. I think I have sufficiently demonstrated the value that the lands and woods would be to a private man, but he would be a bold man that would estimate the value they would be to the Crown, for I take them to be above value or inestimable. And in plain English 'tis abominable that the Crown should be defrauded of the lands, and woods in the Provinces of New York and New Hampshire; and an Act of Parliament ought to pass, for the vacating all extravagant of lands by Fletcher, in the Province of New York and of all other Governours, and to put all those lands under a good regulation; The same Act also should vacate Coll. Allen's pretended title, and vest all the lands in New Hampshire in the Crown, with a saving for all the inhabitants for their lands, which they have improv'd, paying a reasonable yearly Quit Rent to the Crown. I believe there is not a man of 'em that has taken in and clear'd from the woods 500 acres of land. If I were worthy to advise the same Act under great penalties bar the inhabitants, from sending any ship timber or lumber, to any forreign country; and should oblige 'em to enter into bonds to four times the value of the cargo, to carry the timber to England, or elsewhere within the King's Dominions. A great many other regulations ought to be, which I submit to better judgments than my own; but one thing I must not omit to recommend, and that is that a clause be inserted in the Act which shall oblige every body that cuts down a tree to plant 4 or 5 young trees in it's stead, which I have heard is the Custome in Norway, otherwise the woods in Norway which have been the Magazine for the greatest part of Europe, so many ages for masts of ships, deale boards and naval stores, must have been exhausted long ago.

/ The wast of the woods in New Hampshire has been, and still is so very great, that Mr Bridger assures me they are forc'd to go 20 miles up into the country to get a good mast for the use of the navy. I am told the inhabitants of New Hampshire, have taken in what tracts of land and woods they pleas'd, to which they have no better title than Coll. Allen has. I hope there will be a strickt inquisition into that; and that none of 'em shall be allowed any property in the woods, otherwise than as a common tenant right, viz' fire-boot, hedge-boot, and house and plough-boot. For there must be in my opinion, such a course taken, as that all the King's subjects shall be allow'd to cut and carry away, such timber as they shall have occasion for, and that gratis, they to pay for the labour of cutting and carrying away only, but not for the timber, because that would discourage, and frustrate this good design, they should only pay for the planting 4 or 5 young trees in the room of that cut down. And there ought to be a restraint on all persons on pain of paying a good fine, not to cut any tree that is mark'd for the use of the Navy;—Several other Clauses will be necessary, as for example, no tree or trees to be cut, but when the sap is in the root, therefore the penning such an Act will require great care.

I write of these things with some reluctance, being wholly in the dark for want of a signification of your Lordships approbation or disapprobation upon the letters I writ a year agoe on the subject of naval stores, and disorderly circumstances of the Province of New York. Besides 'tis a great disadvantage to me that the people here should see that I am not supported from England in the conflict I had with them, this time twelmonth about the right of nomination of Officers; and about the bill your Lordships sent over with me, for suppressing piracy, which the Council refus'd to pass; and now at this time the General Assembly sitting, I must appear ridiculous in their thoughts, to be so long without the countenance of the Ministers; they must needs conclude that I contend for the prerogative, and have no thanks for my pains; and that they have been in the right, and I in the wrong.

Another trouble I have is to see that the French are undermining us, and getting away all our Indians, and I in no capacity of preventing their artifices, but to the contrary, things so manag'd, as if the game were playing into the French hands; the frontiers neglected, the soldiers reduc'd, and no care taken to pay 'em. When I consider of these things I cannot but laugh at myself, for continuing to trouble your Lordships with a scheme for making Naval stores, and making these plantations usefull to England, at a time when all the Plantations, are on a precipice of ruin. I am so far from being able to build Forts or repair 'em, that I am not able to live on the poor appointments of these Governments. I desire upon this occasion to trouble your Lordships with an Account I have had of the Governour of Canada's Salary and Perquisites which I have received from Major De la Valliere, and a Gentleman in this town that has liv'd at Canada, they both agree he has 28000 livres a year duly paid from France by the King; then he has several perquisites, the chief wherof is the permits or licenses he grants to people to go a beaver hunting for so many months, and within such a quarter or canton of the country, which permits the French call Congés. These Congés are so valuable that they sell for more or less ready money, according to the time granted for hunting, and the part of the country; insomuch as a person that obtains one of these congés goes to a Merchant at Quebec, and sells it for 200 pistolls, sometimes for more. The Governour is allow'd by the King to dispose of 30,000 livers in these congés, without account; wherein I suspect there's a secret service they are asham'd of; 50 crowns was the price of every scalp the French or their Indians carried to the Governour, whether they were English men's scalps, or those of our Indians, as I was told, and as I charg'd the Count de Frontenac in a letter I writ to him. I could never yet certainly know what his emoluments were reckon'd at; some have told me 10000 pistolls a year, some 8000, & others 6000. Monsieur de Champigny the Intendant of Canada has a Salary of 12000 livers paid in France also by that King, and his perquisites reckon'd at 6000 livers, which in the whole is about £1500 sterling a year. He is stil'd in his Commission Intendant General de la Justice, police et finance. I take occasion to tell your Lordships what allowance the Intendant of Canada, or to put it into English, the Judge of Canada has, that I might make two observations on it; first that he has a better time on't than the Governour of New England with his three Provinces, for I have not yet seen near £1500 sterling in one year. My next observation is that the French Colony of Canada, thō a paultry one in comparison of the three Provinces under my Government, is allow'd a Judge at a £1000 a year salary; and I can not prevail with all the interest I can possibly make, to be allow'd a Judge for New Yorke and New Hampshire; and without a good Judge and Attorney General 'tis utterly impossible for me, to bring New York and New Hampshire into good order.

I send your Lordships Coll. Romer's Memorial (mark'd II) which I have turn'd into English, wherein he gives so particular an Account of the principal Rivers, bays and places fit to be fortified, that there needs little to be said or remark'd by me. His memorial touching Castle Island in the Bay of Boston is (mark'd I). His considerations on the Icnografical draught (as he calls it) of Pemaquid and Pescattaway are (mark'd K).

The Charts or Maps of Castle Island in this Bay of Boston, of the great Island in Pescattaway River, of Saco River and Winter Harbour, of Casco Bay and Plymouth Fort, of Kenebeck River, of Pemaquid Bay River and Fort, and lastly of St. George's River and Bay, are tied up severally, and now sent to your Lordships by this convenience; all the seven setts being made up in a Box and directed to your Lordships. And with them are sent four other Charts or Maps, viz' one of the town of Albany and two different draughts or designs of a New Fort to be built there. Then there is the plan of Schenectade, with the design of a New Fort to be built there also. And lastly the plan or map of Canestigogione. Coll. Romer's Memorial on the last mention'd Forts in the Province of New Yorke is (mark'd L). If the King will keep these Plantations from the French, I must take the liberty to say, he must necessarily be at the charge of building several Forts, both on the Frontier of New Yorke and to the Eastward of this Province. I hope the Assemblys of this Province, New York and New Hampshire, will contribute largely according to their ability, and I believe if the King did write to all the several Governments, to stir 'em up to a contribution for the building such forts as are necessary, it would so operate with them, that moug would be rais'd that would defray a great part of the charge; for all their security from South Carolina to the Eastermost point of this Province, (which ought to be the River of St. Croix) is bound up in the preservation of the 5 Nations of Indians in Amity with us, and trying to rescue and retrieve the Eastern Indians from the French, which (could I call myself a free agent, to have some money at command to dispose of at my own will and discretion) I believe I could yet accomplish, as late as it is, and notwithstanding the opportunities and advantages, we have given the French of gaining the Indians to the Eastward, by our want of care, and indeed of justice and kindness to them; which I will hereafter acquaint your Lordships of, when I come to write of the trade of these Provinces under my Government. If it be thought advisable for the King to write to the several Plantations to contribute to the charge of the Forts, I know His Majesty's letters will have the surer effect, if they be directed to the Governours and General Assembly's of all the Plantations. It will require according to Coll. Romer's and my calculation £29 000 sterling to fortifie the Frontiers of New York and this Province to the Eastward (not counting the Harbour of this town) and I am confident whent it comes to be consider'd by your Lordships, and the rest of the Ministers, our calculation will be thought reasonable, for the King shall not be cheated of a shilling; and I am in hopes half or more of that sùme will be raised by contribution of all the Plantations, if the King will please to send his circular letters to them; and the sooner the better. I shall by the next oppertunity send your Lordships the calculation we have made, the places where we conceive Forts are necessary, and what each Fort will cost. I have it now by me but it will require some reasoning to enforce the necessity of building these Forts speedily, and that would lengthen this letter, which I feare your Lordships will think is too long already.

I have been provok'd in my speech to the present Assembly, to reflect on the management of the late Reigns in parting with Canada and the Eastern Country and Fishery to the French, the worst of neighbours. King Charles the First gave 'em Canada, and King Charles the 2<sup>d</sup> the Eastern Country, in exchange for half of the Island of St. Christophers, and I will take the freedom to say, that forty such Islands are not equivalent to the Eastern Country. Therefore when the King is mov'd to consent to the charge of fortifying the Frontiers, and that His Majesty regrets the charge, I could wish he were put in mind, that all this disturbance and the charge of fortifying proceeds from the most unaccountable conduct of his Predecessors in the throne and their fondness of the French Interest.

I send Capt. John Alden's Memorial about the Eastern bounds (mark'd M) he is an understanding man, master of a vessell, and has us'd a coasting trade to the Eastward near 40 years. I also send the Copy of Mons<sup>r</sup> Denys's letter to the French King (mark'd N) which shews what use the French intend to make of the Eastern Country. But if we carry our bounds to the River of St. Croix, which of right we ought to do, they will be disappointed of their project of sending Masts, ship timber and tar and pitch to France, for the country to the Eastward of St. Croix, is said to be a barren sand for some miles into the Country, all along that coast. Capt. Southack Commander of this Province gally, commanded a private ship of War during the last war, and took Monsieur Denys prisoner, and with him seiz'd this letter.

The Government of Rhode Island continue their irregularities with more boldness than ever. I am wholly passive in concerning myself with them, but when People they oppress come with Petitions, I think I am bound to transmit their complaints to your Lordships. M

Pemberton's Address to me is (mark'd O). Cap<sup>t</sup> Almy's Memorial is (mark'd P). M<sup>r</sup> Hearn's Deposition (mark'd Q). The Copy of my Letter to the Governour and Company of Rhode Island is (mark'd R). Several other papers and petitions, have been deliver'd to me, by persons injur'd by that Government, which I do not think fit to trouble your Lordships with. If a speedy course be not taken to prevent it, there will be some lives lost in the quarrel between that Government and the people of the Naraganset Country.

M<sup>r</sup> Bridger tells me he had strip'd about 8000 pitch pines to make tar of, and some malicious people have gone and set fire to the woods, where those trees stood, and have burn't 'em all down, his Memorial is (mark'd S). Having signified by letter to M<sup>r</sup> Partridge, that I would not suffer him by any means to carry a ship load of ship timber to Portugall, and that I would send the King's ship to wait his loading his ship, who should have orders from me to seize & send her away when laden, to the King; he made a journy hither 'tother day, & I have accepted of his bond in £3000, that his ship shall saile directly to England, where she shall give your Lordships notice of her arrival, and the King the pre-emption of her load of ship timber at the market rates. This I thought absolutely the best way to secure the timber, since your Lordships have not sent me any orders upon my former letter on that subject, and about the wast committed in the woods of New Hampshire. The copy of M<sup>r</sup> Partridge's bond is (mark'd T) The original bond I will send your Lordships by the frigate when she goes home, being unwilling to venture it by this ship. I am told there never was nobler ship timber seen, than this which M<sup>r</sup> Partridge had provided for Portugall, and I hope your Lordships will take such a course as that the King may not miss of it.

M<sup>r</sup> Partridge's folly in discovering what a profitable voyage his ship formerly made to Lisbon, of which he crack'd to every body, (viz<sup>t</sup>) that for less than £300 this money, he clear'd £1600 in the market he met with at Lisbon, for his ship timber) has set all the country agog, so that some of the Merchants of Salem are now loading a ship with 12000 foot of the noblest ship timber that ever were seen in America. 6000 foot of 'em are 4 inch plank and 6000 3 inch, and 45 foot long, and scarce a knot in any of 'em, they were design'd also for Portugal, but I have taken such a course, as that the King shall have 'em of the Merchants carrying, or of my sending. I have spoke to one of the owners, and told him I would not suffer any ship timber to be carried to a foreign country; and that he and his partners must resolve either to send their ship and timber to England upon the same terms M<sup>r</sup> Partridge has oblig'd himself to do, or sell the timber to me for the King at the price it stands them in, and the Merchant has promis'd it shall be so. He own'd to me it was the best plank that ever was seen in America and of such large dimensions that tho' their ship be of 250 ton, she would not carry at most above 2000 foot more of such plank.

Your Lordships may see by this, what vigilance is necessary to a Governour of these Plantations, and what an eternal trouble I am at in contending for the interest of England, with the people in my three Governments. Perhaps I may hear hereafter that the 7 or 8 very worthy petitioners to your Lordships against me for male administration at New Yorke, may trouble your Lordships again upon the score of my stopping this ship timber, and call it an arbitrary way of proceeding; but if those petitioners knew what peace of conscience I have upon my whole conduct at New Yorke and here, and how much I despise them, they would not trouble your Lordships with any more of their clamours. I shall take another time to answer their unjust reproaches contained in their petition; when I have time to answer your Lordships letters of the 21th of last August. Another use I would make of these accounts of ship timber is, that since 'tis so very profitable to Merchants to export ship timber from these plantations, why not to England for the use of the navy and of all England. And for a conclusion I humbly and earnestly recommend the vacating Coll. Allen's pretension to New Hampshire, and all other claim deriv'd from Mason, which with Coll. Fletcher's grants of the lands of New York, are an abomination and mistery of iniquity. Yet I would have the charity done Coll. Allen to reimburse him the £250 mortgage mony which Mason had of him. I am with great respect

[New-York Papers, L. M., M 7.]

Coll. Hamilton to the Earle of Bellomont the 14th of Feb. 1699.

Quest: Since it appears absolutely necessary that a body of souldiers under proper officers be posted in the several frontiers to confirm our wavering Indians who by threats and aw are likely to be drawn over to the French: how are those men to be maintained without an expence to the Crown?

Ansr The method proposed by your Exc<sup>ll</sup><sup>ty</sup> of employing them to purchase Navall stores for the King will no doubt before the expiracōn of their seven years service, defray the charge of their levy transportacōn and maintenance dureing that time and a great deal more, provided the land about the frontiers be furnished with materialls for tar, ship timber, and masts, and with ground fit for hemp.

The settling those men there after upon lots of land 40 or 50 acres each, will undoubtedly be an universall good by strengthening the frontiers. But the proposall for repaying the King with Navall stores looking like too uncertain and remote a project; & may not this charge be defrayed by the Kings subjects in North America without being grievous to them?

A: I humbly conceive it may for if there be a necessity of having a body of men constantly in the frontiers to confirm our staggering Indians or correct them if they should prove treacherous, it will be less grievous to the people to pay the souldiers than supply loose places, which they must do if the King don't send over soldiers, or in probability loose our Indians. And therefore if upon your Excellencies application his Ma<sup>ty</sup> shall be graciously pleased to send them over, the country here ought to be thankful, and cheerfully provide for their support.

The fund proposed is by a yearly pole 15 shillings a head upon every freeman of 16 years of age and upwards whether married or unmarried. This I presume by a moderate calculation may amount to £24000 a year thus accounted

	Men	£
N. Engl <sup>d</sup> Connecticut & Rhode Isl <sup>d</sup> may contain.....	16000	12000
New York	04000	03000
Jerseys	02000	01500
Pensylvania	02000	01500
Maryland	03000	02250
Virginia	05000	03750
	32000	24000

I cannot say I have rightly proportioned the men to each Colony, but I presume the number, and above, will be found in those Colonies taken together.

Allowing the Officers the usuall pay and every souldier 12<sup>d</sup> a day, the above sum will pay a 1000 souldiers with their Officers and the charge of collecting it.

This is less than a week's wages to a workeing hand to keep him in quiet all the year round, nor ought they to grudge the Kings having the benefit of the souldiers labour in acquiring naval stores, to reimburse the expence of levying transporting and giving them their first cloaths and arms.

This tax by pole must be laid on either by a generall Assembly composed of Representatives out of every Colony; and indeed it were well such a convention were held once in three years or oftener as occasion required, to concert what might be for the benefite of the whole.

Or it must be granted by Act of Assembly in each respective Colony; but because it will be difficult to prevail with some Assemblies to consent to it, how necessary soever; may not letters be obtained from the King to the respective Governours acquainting them that as his Ma<sup>y</sup> finds it necessary that there be a standing force to be distributed among the severall frontiers, so because of the infancy of these Colonies and thereby the fewness of people it would be of great prejudice to them to take of their labouring men to do the necessary duty in the frontiers His Ma<sup>y</sup> has been graciously pleased to send over such a number of officers and souldiers as he judged expedient for that service, and did expect the inhabitants will take care of their support; that therefore they in his Ma<sup>y</sup>'s name do recomend to their respective Assemblies to find out the means of supporting them, which his Ma<sup>y</sup> thinks most reasonable [to] be by a pole, [on] such sort of people whose places the souldiers supply, since in want of them the frontiers must be defended by detachments of them in their turns.

q.— Might it not be of use that some tracts of land were appropriated to the culture of vine yards, for in probability the inhabitants would copy after it, and might in time not only supply Engl<sup>d</sup> with wines but North America and the West Indies, who at present send vast sums of money to the Portuguese Islands to purchase their wines, which would otherwise remain in the country or be remitted to England by way of returns.

Applying some of their grounds to this sort of husbandry and finding a vent for it, would take them off from spinning or weaving, which they are forced at present to do, hitherto aplying themselves chiefly to the raising provisions, for which in time of peace there will be little vent, by the supplies the West Indies will have from Ireland and England.

A detachm<sup>t</sup> of souldiers to join a body of our Indians might be of service in making discoveries behind Virginia Maryland &c and might create a trade and alliance with those Indians.

[New-York Entries, C. 333.]

Coll. Romers Memorial to the Earle of Bellomont.

My Lord

In pursuance of your Excellency's Order dated the 25th of August last, I present to your Excellency three copys of the respective Draughts I have made of the Frontiers of New Yorke, Albany, Schanegtade and Kanestigiorma, as also the designs of the new Fortifications of every of the three, together with an Estimate what the same will cost, when they are managed by a faithfull and trusty hand, as also a list of the Cannon now in said places, whereby your Excellency may see the condition of the Ordnance there.

I also conceive it to be my duty, because I am going for England, to demonstrate to your Excellency, that if any Fortifications be made during my absence, the lime used on the Frontiers, That is to say burnt of stone about Albany, is not good to make sufficient worke, because it doth not well dissolve itself; Therefore (by Order from your Excellency) some regard must be had to find out a method for its dissolving. So that then a hole of 15 or 16 feet square, and 10 feet deep, must be made nigh the place where you are to make any Fortification, descending from a box made of Deale boards 12 feet long, 8 feet broad, and the breadth of a deale board high, with a channel or gutter in one corner of the said box, where a little sluice and a greater must be made (in the manner as you may see in the annexed draught) and as the lime is wholly slackt, then you open the sluice by A, and let it run into the square hole by B, And when the hole is near full, then you proceed further to another hole near the worke; so that you may have the lime neare the worke, round about where you may have occasion for it, and so the respective holes are to be covered with a matt of reeds or straw & 2 or 3 feet thick of sand, that the Frost may not endamage it; and when the lime has layn so a year, it will be as fat as butter, and one bushell be as good as three, What I have found at Albany and the prooffe I have made thereof, will evince this to your Excellency, and after this way, good worke may be made. It is also to be understood, that the walls upon every four feet of the lime, and two feet in hight, must be bound with extraordinary stones over one another, so that the said stones must run over two third parts of the thickness of the wall, so that they come to pass one another in their binding, and every two feet in highth being so bound, must be cast over with lime, and sharp sand in a half barrell, and therein well stored about, that so all small holes may run full, Provided that the joynts may be so close, that no great holes be left. And this must be done, untill the wall is come to it's highth, which makes a good and eternal during work, and will in a few years grow very strong. This is called in Germany Cast worke, and in England, as I remember Potie worke, but if the worke be made with the lime usually at the Frontiers aforesaid, the walls must be as thick again and so consequently cost as much again, and then there is great hazard that they won't hold out, for not being bound it rots, Whereas the other worke according to my project, grows stronger and stronger. Now if it be not rightly ordered and afterwards not fall out well, the fault is not to be imputed to me, and accordingly I protest against it.

2 When the Arches under the Walls are to be made, it will be necessary to imploy persons more skillfull than those that made the House over the Gate of New York Fort, and because the same is made during my abode here, I do pretend to have no part or share in it, and to be free of all blame that may ensue; for some ill tongues, have in my presence declared, Why did the Coll. not order it otherwise 'tis his fault being Engineer. Against which I do solemnly protest.

Relating to the Arches that are to be made under the rampart, they must be worked from the spring till the 15th September and from time to time as soon as they are closed, cast over with sharp sand and mortar, in a tub well stor'd about, and afterwards with good thorow workt clay upon the inner walls hight, well stamped and then covered with course sand, and the wooden arches or models must stand under the vaults till the next spring; All the work being well covered against the frost with sand and shaveling boards. If it be otherwise done the fault cannot be mine, but if according to the Profile and the aforesaid directions, I do engage for it.

3 Your Excellency also commanded me to make a second design of the New Fort of Albany, which was to be much bigger, as it is N<sup>o</sup> 2 under the name herewith delivered, And because the same is drawn in a long square, some self-conceited persons may blame me, Why the same is not made in a regular square. I must answer, that the situation of the place for several reasons obliged me to it; as also because I could not go from the ground where the old fort is now standing; Thirdly if I should have done so, the City of Albany would be more prejudiced than favoured by a Fort, whereas by this construction above a sixth part of the town is most covered. I also make a great front of Defence against the Enemy dead and alive, That is to say, that those who intend to attack me, and the high hills which lye North West from the Fort, must be removed in the holes thereabout as a skillfull Architect shall see meet.

4. Further, the Design of a New Fort traced upon the mapp of Schanegtade, must be regulated according to the Profil of the Fort of Albany N<sup>o</sup> 1 & 2 except those redd pointed lines, which must have another Profil that must be regulated another way according to it's situation, and as the ground is falling by the water side; by which advantage I must make a horizontal defence, for the better defending the River, because a horizontal defence is of more Execution, than the Defence from the Capital Fort, which stands high; and this will by an experienced Architect managed to the best advantage.

5 As for the Frontier of Kanestigiorma. I think that no great Fortification will be needfull to be made there, but very necessary to make a stone redoubt (as your Excellency will see upon the map traced) that may entertain or lodge forty men, as a good guard to defend and support the Inhabitants there, and to keep in time of war a good correspondence with Albany, Schanegtade, and half Moone &c.

6. Your Excellency will be pleased to looke upon the list hereto annexed, that in New Yorke are but about ten Iron Guns, and some brass ones to defend any Sea-Port; the rest are old, honey comb'd and spoiled, and those that are good are chambered, or taper bored unfit by land and water. They were formerly as I am told rejected by the English Admiral, and they must be handled by persons that have a particular skill, else it may cost ignorant people their heads and arms, So that if a battery should be built under the Fort William Henry as also a blockhouse at Sandy point the same may in time be very necessary.

All which I submit to your

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners of Trade.

William Atwood Esq<sup>r</sup> appointed by His Majesty to be Chief Justice of New Yorke and Sampson Shelton Broughton Esq<sup>r</sup> to be Attorney General, humbly represent, that tho' they conceive 'tis agreed by their Lordships that the Patents to be passed at New Yorke are to be as long as they behave themselves well, yet the precedents which they produce being only during pleasure, it may not be improper to observe the different grounds.

1. That they venture themselves and families at a much greater distance from their native country with greater hazards.

2. That if their Patents were only during pleasure, they would be determined with the Governour's Patent, those offices being within his patent, which they are not in Ireland.

3. That 'twill be impossible to serve His Majesty and the interest of England, if they are lyable to be recalled upon every information from the people of the place.

And the said William Atwood humbly represents in his own behalfe that since by the constitution of their Courts of Judicature, any Judge commissioned by the Governour with the assistance of Justices of the Peace may hold any one of the supream Courts, except at New Yorke; that after Provision for enjoying the place as amply as any person formerly enjoyed the same, there may be added (together with full power and authority to hold the supream Courts of Judicature at such places and times as the same may and ought to be held within the said Province.)

25 June, 1700.

[New-York Entries, C. 374.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords

The reason of my troubling your Lordships again so soon after my letter of the 22th of last month, is to acquaint you of some things that have occur'd since then, which I think deserve being transmitted to your Lordships.

The Indians about the town of Woodstock and New Oxford (consisting of about 40 families) have lately deserted their houses and corn and are gone to live with the Penicook Indians, which has much allarm'd the English thereabout, and some of the English have forsaken their houses and farms and remov'd to towns for their better security. That the Jesuits have seduc'd those 40 families of Indians is plain, from several accounts I have received, and some whereof I now send (viz<sup>t</sup> Mons<sup>r</sup> Labourie's letter to me, which is a very plain Evidence of the French Jesuits debauching those Indians. Mons<sup>r</sup> Labourie<sup>1</sup> is a French Minister plac'd at New Oxford by M<sup>r</sup> Stoughton the Lieutenant Governour and myself at a yearly stipend of £30 out of the Corporation mony, there are 8 or 10 French families there that have farms, and he preaches to them, and at the same time instructed those Indians, having for that purpose learnt the Indian tongue to enable him to preach therein.

Mons<sup>r</sup> D'Iberville is lately come to New York from building Forts at Mechisipi in they bay of Mexico and manning them, I shall not animadvert on his coming to Yorke, but refer your Lordship's to the Lieutenant Governour of New York's letter to me, a copy whereof I now send your Lordships. Mons<sup>r</sup> D'Iberville came in a 50 gun ship call'd La Renoméé.

The Assembly is still sitting here, but will break up this week, and I must be gone to New York, to keep touch with the Five Nations of Indians, whom I have promis'd to meet at Albany the 10th of next month, thò to little purpose I fear, for not having yet receiv'd orders from your Lordships or any of the Ministers about those Indians or any of the things I writ to you of, I am quite in the dark and know not which way to move. If I could have had orders this Spring, I would by this time have had a good Sod Fort at the Onondage's Castle which would have cover'd that and the rest of the five Nations from the French, and have encourag'd those <sup>2</sup> Rev. GRINDAL RAWSON, Pastor of Mendon, Mass., was the fifth son of Mr. Secretary Rawson, and graduated at Harvard College in 1678. He was well acquainted with the language of the New England Indians, in which he used to preach regularly to those tribes in his neighborhood. In 1698, he was appointed, with the Rev. Mr. Danforth, to visit the several plantations of Indians in the province of Massachusetts Bay, a report of which visit will be found in the Collections of Massachusetts Historical Society, X. He published, soon after, an Indian translation of the New England "Confession of Faith," under this title: Wunnandtamoe Sampoonon Wussampoonwontamun Naahpe Moeuwelkomungnash ut New England. 16mo. Mushawomuk, 1699. There are some sermons besides from his pen. He died on 6th February, 1756, aged 56 years. — Ed.

Nations above all the things that can be thought of and that for about £1200, but the summer is now almost gone, and I am in great fear our sloath, and neglect of those Indians all this time, will be the loss of them. I thank God I shall be no way accountable for the mismanagement that will probably loose us the Indians, and our Plantations on this whole Continent; having given frequent advices home of the condition of the Indians, and what I thought would secure their affection to us.

I have receiv'd no letter from your Lordships since that of the 21st of last August which is almost a year, except three or four lines which serv'd for a cover to the King's letter of the 10th of last November. They write me word from New York that a Pink has newly arriv'd there from London in eight weeks, who assures 'em that Jeffers to whom M<sup>r</sup> Weaver deliver'd your Lordships Packet about the 15th of March was in the River of Thames on the 23<sup>d</sup> of April. 'Tis wonderful to me that M<sup>r</sup> Weaver could find nobody to send the Packet with but Jeffers who had complain'd against me to your Lordships, as I have been inform'd, a cross ill condition'd fellow, and who hates me. I sent yesterday for Cap<sup>t</sup> Robinson the Master of a ship belonging to this town, who arriv'd here from London the last week of May, he repeated to me what he had told me before, that a week before he sail'd he met M<sup>r</sup> Weaver at the Sun Coffy-horse behind the old Exchange, and seeing a packet with him, he desir'd he might have the bringing of it to me, M<sup>r</sup> Weaver refus'd saying he was positively order'd to send it by Cap<sup>t</sup> Jeffers to New York, and Cap<sup>t</sup> Robinson saw M<sup>r</sup> Weaver deliver the Packet to Jeffers, and Jeffers deliver it to the Master of the Coffy house to keep till he should call for it. And Cap<sup>t</sup> Robinson sail'd out of the River the 21st of March.—Everybody believes Jeffers has played the rogue.

It was to be wish'd in such a conjuncture as this that your Lordships would write often. And that your Secretary would take care that all your Packets be deliver'd into honest hands, and receipts taken for them. And I desire it may hereafter be observ'd that ships coming to Boston are accounted among the seafaring men to have the advantage of those bound to New York at least a third part of the way, tho' in point of distance New York is but 100 leagues further from England than this place is.

I hope your Lordships will not suffer M<sup>r</sup> Brenton and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver to loyter any longer in England from their duty here. Their ramble is most unaccountable, and so far from being reasonable, that 'tis not honest; and they make very bold with the Ministers at home.

I had bespoke 400 Wheelbarrows and other tools to be provided for building a Fort for the Indians, but to my great amazement & discomfort, I am not directed in that or anything else.

I am sorry there was not a duplicate of your Lordships packet by Jeffers, sent by another ship. I am with respect

My Lords

Your Lordships most humble & obedient servant

Extract of a letter from the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Govern<sup>r</sup> of New York 24th June 1700. To the Earl of Bellomont.

On Monday last M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford got out of the gaol nor has he been since heard of, tho' I have done my part in order to retrieve him.

On Wednesday evening last came up at once to the watering place a French man of war of 50 guns the Chevalliere d'Iberville cōmander (who with his second Cap<sup>t</sup> were born at Canada.) She came from Messasipi and bound for France; their pretence is to wood and water, tho' I rather believe its to examine our channel and harbour, as I this minute heard, but I have no proof they have yet been sounding, tho' will take care strictly to enquire by keeping our barge out a cruising every night during their stay, and if I find they are, will positively forbid them. I am further told that the late King James had made an absolute gift of this Province to the French King, and that 'twas thought this ship had orders to touch in here, under the pretence aforesaid, to examine our channel and harbour, (for 'tis much out of his way home.) If this be truth 'twill be time to reinforce and refortifie, for the French are men of too great diligence to slip any advantagious opportunity.

[New-York Entries, C. 434.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords

I imbark'd at Boston the 17th Instant, and arriv'd here the 24th where I had appointed a meeting of the General Assembly, to try how far they would enable me, to put the affairs of the Province into a good posture, and more especially, what relates to the preservation of the five Nations in their obedience to the King. I know not yet how far I may succeed in my design, for as yet five or six of the Representatives, are not come down the Hudson's River, and I do not suffer the Assembly to enter on business without 'em, lest it should be thought unfair so to do.

I found here your Lordships letters of the 7th and 16th of last February, with the King's letter to myself of the 10th of that month and His Majesty's letters to the Governours of Connecticut and Rhode Island, which I have forwarded to them. I will take an exact care to obey the orders, sent me in your Lordships' letter of the said 16th February, about letters of Denization, a mistake I was led into by the example of Coll. Fletcher, and the advice of the Attorney General, who for certifying in two lines, the Person's being a Protestant and of good manners, exacted 6th for his Fee, when I had but 12 shill: for mine, which is the Governours fee, every time the Seale of the Province is affixed. And if the party were poor I took no fee at all. I fear I have been abus'd into the granting three or four letters of Denization but your Lordships will heare no more of my transgressing in that nature. As to the Pyrats nam'd in your Lordships letter of the 16th Febr<sup>r</sup>, I have issued a Proclamation for their apprehention, which I now send, (mark'd A.)

I have found at my coming hither a further ill account of the Five Nations of Indians sent by the Commissioners from Albany, to the Lieutenant Governour and Council here; the Commissioners letter to the Lieutenant Governour and Council is (mark'd B); The Memorial of Gronedyke and Provoost to the Commissioners for the Indian affairs at Albany, is (mark'd C); The propositions of the Canada Indians, are (mark'd D.) The Propositions of the Five Nations to the Commissioners at Albany, are (mark'd E.) and the propositions of some of the Five Nations, at their return from Canada, are (mark'd F)—These I take to be material papers, and will afford your Lordships some matter for reflection.

I am next week to go to Albany to meet the Indians, and try to encourage them, but I shall go with a heavy heart, being not empower'd to gratifie 'em in the two points they above all others covet and insist on, viz' the building them a Fort, and furnishing them with Ministers, to instruct 'em in Christianity.

Some of the Inhabitants of Albany who are now here, tell me the Soldiers there in Garrison, are in that shamefull and miserable condition for the want of cloaths that the like was never seen, in so much that those parts of 'em which modesty forbids me to name, are expos'd to view; the women forced to lay their hands on their eyes as often as they pass by 'em. This sad condition of the Soldiers, does us great hurt with the Indians, whose chiefest resort being to that town, & they being a very observing people, measure the greatness of our King, and the conduct of affairs, by the shamefull ill plight of the Soldiers. These persons assure me, that some of the old crafty Sachems of the Five Nations, have ask'd 'em, whether they thought 'em such fooles as to believe our King could protect 'em from the French, when he was not able to keep is Soldiers in a condition, as those in Canada are kept; who by the way I must acquaint your Lordships, are 1400 men, and duly paid every Saturday in the year.

The ship that brought your Lordships two letters, arriv'd here a week before my coming and brought the news of our being cut off 27 months pay and subsistence of the four companies, and of their being reduc'd to fifty men in a company. The victualers are like distracted men, & I find the officers and soldiers begin to be dissatisfied, and I doubt there are people here, that will rather nourish than indeavour to extinguish the flame. I am made to believe the soldiers will every man desert upon this unhappy news, and how far that may influence the Indians to revolt to the French all at once, I cannot say; but the Gentlemen of Albany that are here, are in great pain and apprehension it may have that ill effect. The King then will have an eternal obligation to that man, that advis'd the reduction of the four Companies, and that has compass'd their being so ill paid, for I strongly suspect both those arrows have come out of one and the same quiver. If I had the honour to be of the King's Privy Council, I would take the liberty to tell his Majesty, that his Council of Trade ought to be consulted in every step and measure, that's taken with relation to the management of these Plantations. And I have that great opinion of the prudence and abilities of the Secretaries of State, that neither of 'em would counter advise the King, against your Lordships advice.

When things are brought to Extremity, 'tis time to speak plain English. The Representations your Lordships made to His Majesty about these plantations (copies whereof you were pleased to favour me with, along with your letter of the 21th of last August) are standing testimonys of your Lordships great Wisdom and Integrity; and I must take leave to think, he was a bold man that told the King, his Council of Trade were in the wrong in the advice they gave in those Representations.

I appeal to your Lordships whether I have not all along, ever since my being concern'd with this Government, acquainted you, that the neglect put upon the Five Nations in the last Government had mightily alienated them from us, and had given the French Jesuits opportunity to supplant us in their affection; The truth is, they were hard at work to inveigle our Indians from us, while the Governour was exercising all his faculties in making a purse for himself, by all manner of means.

Your Lordships may depend I will use my utmost endeavours, to retrieve the Five Nations and do the King all the faithful service I can with them, now at my going to Albany, notwithstanding the most discouraging circumstances I shall go thither in.

I believe M<sup>r</sup> William Ashhurst too honest a gentleman and too much my friend to have design'd me a mischeif, which his quitting the Agency of these four companys, before another was appointed by me, has fallen out to do me. His letter to me declaring his resolution of quitting, was long coming to my hands. Then the person I had in my thoughts for Agent, I was not sure was living, or (if alive) would be willing to accept. In this perplexity I thought it better to send Sir John Stanley, a letter of Attorney with a blank in it, which I desired him to fill up with the name of some well qualified person for such a trust. S<sup>r</sup> John it seems has made choice of M<sup>r</sup> Champante for Agent, who is an ingenious honest gentleman; but I never knew it, nor that M<sup>r</sup> Champante had received any of our subsistence, till I met with two letters from him now since my last coming hither from Boston. Some of the angry folkes in this town having receiv'd advice of M<sup>r</sup> Champante's being Agent and receiving some weeks subsistence, and they receiving their letters a week before my coming hither and receiving mine, have with all their usual malice and impudence put a story about, (especially among the Officers and Soldiers) that I have all this while, by my Agent in England received the pay and subsistence, but have converted it to my own use, and car'd not what became of them, whether they starv'd or no.

I thought it necessary to trouble your Lordships with this Account, for my own justification from the false aspersions of these people, who perhaps may be idle enough to trouble your Lordships with this, as they have done with many other frivolous articles against me. I thank God I defy their malice to touch my reputation in the least degree; I shall be justified every way from this imputation they would fasten on me but especially by Sir William Ashhurst and M<sup>r</sup> Champante, who can prove upon oath if it were necessary, my innocence. S<sup>r</sup> William can prove I never drew on him for any of the mony he received by way of subsistence, but what was for the officers, or for their wives at their desire. M<sup>r</sup> Champanté can prove I never drew bills on him at all, for (as I said before) I knew not he was agent for the Companys, till my coming hither from Boston; nor that there was any subsistence lately paid for these companys. I am now going to distribute that pittance there is, among the officers & victuallers.

I am with respect

My Lords

Your Lordships most humble
and obedient servant

BELLOMONT

Aquendero the Chief Sachem of the Onondage Nation, who was Prolocutor for all the Five Nations at the Conference I had two years ago at Albany, has been fore'd to fly from thence, and come and live on Coll. Shuyler's Land near Albany; Aquendero's son is poyson'd and languishes, and there is a sore broke out on one of his sides, out of which there comes handfulls of hair, so that they reckon he has been bewitch'd, as well as poyson'd.

I meet with an old story from the Gentlemen of Albany, which I think worth the relating to your Lordships. Decanissore, one of the Sachems of the Onondages, married one of the praying Indians in Canada, (by praying Indians is meant such as are instructed by the Jesuits) this woman was taught to poison, as well as to pray. The Jesuits had furnish'd her with so subtil a poison, and taught her a leger de main in using it; so that whoever she had a mind to poison, she would drink to 'em a cup of water, and let drop the poison from under her nail (which are always very long, for the Indians never pare 'em) into the cup. This woman was so true a disciple to the Jesuits, that she has poison'd a multitude of our Five Nations that were best affected to us; She lately coming from Canada in company of some of our Indians, who went to visit their relations in that Country who have taken sides with the French, and their being among others a Protestant Mohack, (a proper goodly young man) him this woman poison'd so that he died two days journy short of Albany, and the Magistrates of that town sent for his body and gave it a Christian burial. The woman comes to Albany, where some of the Mohacks happening to be, and among 'em a young man nearly related to the man that had been poison'd, who espying the woman, cries out with great horror, that there was that beastly woman that had poison'd so many of their friends, and 'twas not fit she should live any longer in the world to do more mischief; and so made up to her, and with a clubb beat out her brains.

Since I had (as I thought) finish'd my packet three men are this afternoon sent express to me by Coll. Schuyler from Albany, giving me to understand, that Mons<sup>r</sup> de Maricourt, Father Brouyas the Jesuit, and 8 French men more, (whereof some are officers) arriv'd at the Onondage Castle the 24th Instant, some of the English faction or party among the Onondages dispatch'd away some Messengers to Albany with this news; Mons<sup>r</sup> de Maricourt is one of the principall men of Canada, and brother in law to the Chevalier D'Iberville, he and the Jesuit speak the Indian tongue as well as they do French. The Gentlemen of Albany assure me the French have to the full as many friends among the Onondage Nation, as we have, which I am heartily sorry to hear, they being the most warlike of all the Nations, except the Mohacks, who are dwindl'd to nothing almost. I write your Lordship these accounts out of Duty, but I must own that I think it time and pains thrown away, for I much question whether it be in the art of man to retrieve the Five Nations. If your Lordships Memorials or Representations (copies whereof you were pleased to send me with your letter of the 21th of last August) had been comply'd with, I am confident I could have secur'd the friendship of those Nations, but for want of that compliance with your Lordships advice, and by the ill consequence of it, viz<sup>t</sup> my being left destitute all manner of ways, of support; I cannot nor dare not undertake, to recover those Nations from the French. I have told your Lordships the substance of Coll. Schuyler's letter to me, the master of the Vessell that carries this, will not allow me time to copie two letters which have been sent me on this occasion from Schenectade and Albany.

The want of two Ministers for the present has done us a vast deale of prejudice with the Indians. I can find none in this country that will go among 'em, and that are men tollerably well qualified for such a charge.

Albany 5 July 1700.

May itt please your Hono<sup>rs</sup>

Upon y<sup>e</sup> request of y<sup>e</sup> Five Nations wee sent a messenger to Onnondage to hear what doing among them and also to perswade some of y<sup>e</sup> far Nations to come hither, but wee have not been able to prevaile with them yett; alleadging y<sup>e</sup> would be still soe green, that if they should [come] here some Indians, in their drinke might kill them, in revenge for their relations lost in y<sup>e</sup> warr.

The Nations are full of faction, y<sup>e</sup> French having got a great interest among them, insomuch that some are gone to Canada to treat with the Governour in spite of all y<sup>e</sup> Sachims. The French are very subtile and vigilant and itt behoves us to be diligent also.

Some of their praying Indians have been here to trade, whome wee have treated civilly. It seems that they had killed one of our Skachkoke Indians a hunting, and their Sachims are come to condole his death and make satisfaction. Those wee have caressed and been very kinde to, insomuch that wee have, with great difficulty perswaded them to come and wait upon his Lordship and your Honours at New Yorke. We doubt not but you will be of our mind that wee have gain'd a great point; and if these two head Sachims and two Cap<sup>ts</sup> can be prevailed with to come over to our side, all the Maquase praying Indians follow immediately, for they are y<sup>e</sup> spring that move all y<sup>e</sup> rest. M<sup>r</sup> Livingston goes along with them, who will bring your Honours the propositions hapned here lately. Wee doubt not but your Honours will take that fitting care that the Indians may be plentifully entertained that they may see the difference between a fertile country and a poor rocky swampy Canada. Wee doubt not but this will be acceptable to his Lordship, to whome our humble service when he arrives. In the mean time we remaine

Memoriall of what the Indians directed us to notifie to the Com<sup>rs</sup> for the Indian Affaires, which we do by this writing.

That when the first Sinnekes were killed at Swege<sup>1</sup> this Spring, there was a Cayouge prisoner among the Dowaganhaes who said, It is not by our hatchet by which you are killed, but it is the French's which he gives us for that purpose.

Likewise when our Indians were a hunting this winter, some Sinnekes met with some Waganhaes of those Nations that are now in Onnondage, who would not receive the hatchet of the French, but warned the Sinnekes to be upon their guard, for the French had charged the Dowaganhaes to kill all the Indians in their hunting; therefore said the Waganhaes be warned and make a Fort and go all and lye in it, for what we tell you is firmly concluded on between the French and Waganhaes.<sup>2</sup>

When the whole assembly of Sachims were mett at Onnondage, they charged us to tell Corlaer that there were three Sinnekes Sachims who would go to Canada, to speak with the Governor, and that they did not know if the Cayouges went or not, but their opinion was they would not go, as they themselves did not go.

It is true we have been there, but it was for our prisoners which we did redeem there, which Corlaer promised to free by Johannes Schuyler, which he did not do: were therefore necessitate to go thither to gett them sett at liberty; but now we declare never to goe thither again to treat with them, since we have gott our prisoners home.

There are five Waganhaes come to Onnondage who are sent by three severall Nations, who are very strong and numerous, to make peace with the Five Nations and are minded to settle near the Sinnekes cuntry upon Cadarachquis Lake, where some will come and settle speedily, and the rest in the fall.

They come to see how that our Indians trade with Corlaers people, and how much they get for a bever, that they may inform their people; they will leave Canada and come and trade with Corlaer, because goods are so dear at Canada.

They sayd in the said generall meeting that they had allways prayed Corlaer to sell goods cheap, which request they again repeat, that the Waganhaes may see that wee gett much for a bever, especially great baggs of powder; then the Waganhaes will love and esteem Corlaer; for if goods be dear, that will lessen their inclinations and probably alter their resolution.

The whole House said that they will send a post with four bevers to desire that goods might be cheap, because the Waganhaes were now among them to inquire about the price of goods.

We do likewise acquaint the Gentlemen that we found an English man in the furthest castle of the Sinnekes called Sjaunt, whose name is Charles Smith who was taken prisoner by them in Virginia five yeares ago, and desires earnestly that he may have his freedom.

This Memoriall was given me in Dutch by Johannes Groenendyk and Abraham Provoost, in Albany the 16th of June 1700

Propositions of Canada Praying Indians and the Answers thereunto.

[New-York Papers, L. M., M 42.]

Propositions made by the Sachims of the Canada praying Indians, belonging to their Castle called Cachanauge, to the Cômmissioners for the Indian Affaires in Albany the eight and twentieth day of June 1700.

Sagronwadie Cheife Sachim, Speaker

Brethren

Wee are come here to trade with you as formerly, and therefore desire you to use us well, and receive us kindly being only come upon the score of trade; doe give 10 Bever skins.

Brethren

Wee desire you to be kind to us and not too dear with your goods, for I made up this Company and encouraged them to come hither; therefore be cheap. Doe give 10 Beverskins.

Brethren

I must again repeat and desire you to be kind to our people, and let them have such things as they have occasion for, reasonable; for wee see the loaves of bread are but small, and the Sachims of the Five Nations that are here tell us that if we goe lye in your houses you will not suffer us to carry any bevers from thence to other houses, but compell us to trade them at yo<sup>r</sup> own prices. Doe give 9 Bever skins.

In all 29 Bevers w. £41 English

Answer to the Sachims of Cachneuage.

Brethren.

We have taken your proposition into consideration and do assure you of kind entertainment, and you shall have the privilege to go into your friends houses where you please, and if you find you are not well used by them, you may remove to any other house, to your own content and satisfaction. They had some Wampum given them.

Propositions made by the Com<sup>rs</sup> for manageing the Indian Affaires to the Sachims of the Canada Praying Indians, in Albany the third of July 1700.

Brethren.

We are glad to see you here and we doubt not but you have received full satisfaction and content in that matter you came for, and found goods cheap & reasonable; and although you have deserted your nativé country and gone over to strangers where every thing is much dearer then here, yet you see we make no difference, but treat you as kindly and friendly as our own people.

As you are sensible you have the same freedom of trade as our selves, so when ever you or any of your people design the like, you shall allways have the same protection; and since you alledge that [it] is your love to the Xtian religion, which makes you desert your native country, and run to Canada, to be instructed of the French priests, we hope in a short time to have Protestant Ministers to instruct your kindred and relations in the Xtian true religion, which togeather with your love for your country hope will prevaile upon you to come and live among your kindred, your fires burning still in your castles, the same houses you left being still ready to receive you, with all the stores of plenty to make you live for ever happy.

We do give you a fatt hog, some venison and a barrill of strong beer to be merry with your friends of the Five Nations that are here, and 21 pounds of powder and 14 barrs of lead, to hunt provision by the way.

The Canada Praying Indians repley; the said Sagronwadie their Sachim being Speaker.

Wee are now come to trade and not to speake of religion, only thus much I must say, all the while I was here before I went to Canada I never heard any thing talked of religion or the least mention made of converting us to the Xtian faith, and we shall be glad to hear if at last you are so piously inclined to take some pains to instruct your Indians in the Xtian Religion. I will not say but it may induce some to return to their native country.

I wish it had been begun sooner that you had had ministers to instruct your Indians in the Xtian faith; I doubt whether any of us ever had deserted our native country; but I must say I am solely beholden to the French of Canada for the light I have reced. to know there was a Saviour born for mankind, and now we are taught God is every where, and we can be instructed at Canada, Dowaganhae or the utter most part of the earth as well as here.

These five are impowered by the Five Nations who spoke in y<sup>e</sup> presence of Aqueendero & Henry y<sup>e</sup> Maquase.

Brother Corlaer & quider

Wee are come here with a lamentable complaint that the Dowaganhaes or far Nations have now again kill'd many of our people att their hunting; all which is done by y<sup>e</sup> instigation of y<sup>e</sup> French as y<sup>e</sup> said far Indians themselves confess; nay some of y<sup>e</sup> said Nations have warned us to be upon our guard, for y<sup>e</sup> French charged them to doe itt.

The French themselves declare they will not take the hatchet out of ye Dowaganhaes hands till we come and submitt to the Governour of Canada, and make peace with him; which our great Brother Corlaer forbids us to doe.

This matter occasions a great distraction among us the Five Nations, for wee were told three years agoe there was a general peace and wee should live now in quiet, our hands were tyed up from warring; but wee have had little benefit of itt hitherto. The French had as good be in open warr with us as to sett their Indians to warr upon us continually. Therefore we desire that Corlaer may take some course with the Governour of Canada to prevent this, else our people will att last be soe wearied out that they will be compell'd to comply with y<sup>e</sup> Governour of Canadaes demands; nay y<sup>e</sup> French have soe strong a faction in our Castles already that although you have shutt y<sup>e</sup> path to Canada, yett two Sachims are gone thither with a Belt of Wampum, contrary to y<sup>e</sup> consent of the Five Nations, to see what y<sup>e</sup> reason is why y<sup>e</sup> French stirr up their Indians to kill our people who are the King of England's subjects. Wee doe therefore desire that Corlaer may prevaile with y<sup>e</sup> Governour of Canada may putt a stop to his Indians doing us such mischiefe.

Wee Sinnekes have lost fourty of our people this spring; and one of our Sachims called Awanano, who had his whole family kill'd last summer hard by y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes Castles, is gone now to Canada, with Aradgi of Onnondage, a great favourite of y<sup>e</sup> French and some few with them, & although all means were used (as Lawrence your messenger see) to stop them, by Belts of Wampum, itt was in vain. The Belt they carry is not out of the publick treasury, but their own.

Wee five Nations are now come to bring Corlaer this Belt of Wampum praying him to take such course with y<sup>e</sup> French that those Indians whome they call their children, and whome they support, assist and stirr up to kill our people may be stopt from committing any more acts of hostility upon us; which wee think is a breach of y<sup>e</sup> Articles of Peace.

Wee must now give you an account of what the five Dowaganhaes have said att Onnondage.

Some of the Dowaganhaes having had a conference with our Indians att their hunting this last winter, concluded to desert their habitations and to come and live and settle upon y<sup>e</sup> Lake of Cadarachqui, near the Sinnekes country att a place called Kanatiochtiage and accordingly they are come and settled there & have sent five of their people to Onnondage to treat, being sent from three Nations who are very strong, having sixteen castles.

They say

Wee are come to acquaint you that wee are settled on y<sup>e</sup> North side of Cadarachqui Lake near Tchojachiage where wee plant a tree of peace and open a path for all people, quite to Corlaer's house, where wee desire to have free liberty of trade; wee make a firme league with y<sup>e</sup> Five Nations and Corlaer and desire to be united in y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain, our hunting places to be one, and to boile in one kettle, eat out of one dish, & with one spoon, and so be one; and because the path to Corlaers house may be open & clear, doe give a drest elke skin to cover y<sup>e</sup> path to walke upon.

The Five Nations answered them thus:—

Wee are glad to see you in our country and doe accept of you to be our friends and allies and doe give you a Belt of Wampum as a token thereof that there may be a perpetual peace and friendship between us and our young Indians to hunt together in all love and amity.

Lett this peace be firm and lasting, then shall wee grow old and grey headed together; else y<sup>e</sup> warr will devour us both.

Brethren

Wee open a path for you to goe quite to Corlaer's house where you shall have equal liberty of egress and regress to trade and merchandize as wee our selves.

Wee doe again invite you to trade in our brother Corlaer's house where you will be civilly treated, and in your passage thither you shall be well received and treated by us in our Castles.

Wee throw away y<sup>e</sup> hatchet of warr and bury itt in y<sup>e</sup> ground and doe make a perpetuall peace & lett those dye that first break itt.

By the Belt of Wampum which you sent by Lawrence your messenger, wee draw y<sup>e</sup> said Dowaganhaes to come hither to Corlaer's house and trade, and fasten them in y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain; but now the Dowaganhae messengers could not be perswaded to come hither according to your desire, because they were afraid of evil minded Indians who in their drink might kill them.

[New-York Papers, L. M., M. 44.]

Propositions made by some of the Five Nations (now come from Canada) to the Commissioners for the Indian Affairs; in Albany the third of July 1700.

PRESENT—Peter Schuyler Esq <sup>r</sup>	Johannes Schuyler	} Aldermen
Peter Van Brugh Mayor	David Schuyler
Jan Janse Bleeker	Evert Wendell
	Johannes Roseboom
	Wessel Ten Broek

Names of the Indians the Governor of Canada made the Propositions to:—

Takosondaghque	} of Onnondage
Sagossenduchqua
Anistarinquist
Tarojaketho. of Oneyde

The Speaker was Aqueendero.

Wee are come to acquaint you according to our duty what the Canada Indians of Kachanuge have told when we were there lately, (viz<sup>t</sup>)—

That we are not to take notice of any stories or false reports that any evil inclined persons may talk at the hunting place or elsewhere but cleave fast to the articles of peace made and concluded between the two great Kings in Europe, and doe give a Belt as a token hereof to be kept at Onnondage, which they show, and this Belt is not only given by the Praying Indians of Kachouage but by the Rondax Indians, natives of Canada, who hold firm to the generall treaty of peace.

The Governour of Canada being at Mont Reall sent for us and told us:—

Children

I will speak no more to you by Belts; I have only this to say; you complain that the Dowaganhaes or far Nations of Indians kill and destroy your people; you are the cause of your own destruction your selves, if you will but send one Indian from each Castle (neither will I tye you to send a Sachim, but a private Indian from each nation) to treat with me and make peace, I will take the hatchet out of the hands of my Indians and Children the Dowaganhaes and those other far Indians, and cause you to hunt secure without any trouble or fear, every creek and fall of water shall flourish with peace and tranquillity; but if you will not come and treat with me, you must expect no peace but a continuall warr with the Dowaganhaes.

I know the Governour of New York the Earle of Bellomont threatens you hard and looks terribly on you if you should offer to come and treat with me, but you need not fear him, he dare do you no harm: do you come freely and then you will live peaceably, which is much to be preferred before that troublesome life you are like to live if you do not come and treat with me.

This the Governor of Canada charged us to tell all the Five Nations but not to the Xtians; but wee being in one Covenant Chain think ourselves obliged to acquaint you with it. Brethren.

Our Indians having by chance hunted some Mous and coming to Canada to dispose of the same have had this rancounter with the Governour of Canada and we give you the Belt to keep, as the head, and we being inclined to answer the Canada Indians desire your assistance in some p'sent, to give, being now destitute of Belts.

Answer to the Indians.

We commend your fidelity in revealing what has been said to you by the Governour of Canada, whose fallacy and deceit you may now plainly see and discover. We thinke it not proper that this Belt be sent to the Five Nations, but remain in the hands of Aqueendero Cheif Sachim of Onnondage till the arrivall of his Excellency the Earle of Bellomont and the Sachims of the Five Nations, who will be here speedily when this whole matter shall be discussed; in the mean time no answer to be made to the praying Indians.

My Lords

This is only to acquaint your Lordship of my arrival at New York from Boston in the Arundel Frigate. The Newport at her going to Boston from hence, with nine Pirats and their effects (which were sent home by Rear Admiral Bembow) was extremely out of Repair; and Captain Morris her Commander finding she could be better and cheaper repaired at Boston, than here at New York, desired me by Memoriall to direct her being fitted there, which I accordingly did, and she was not ready to sail till my leaving Boston; so that she came hither in company with the Arundel, both the Captains having promis'd to take in water and be ready to sail within three days, and then the Arundel is to cruise, as far as the Westernmost Cape of South Carolina; and the Newport is to cruise the contrary way, viz; along the Coast of Long Island, Eastward and so to Black Iland, Rhode Island, & to look into the Coast of Connecticut Colony.

New York the 29th July 1700

Sir,

I am newly return'd hither from Boston, and have brought a fit of the gout wth me w<sup>ch</sup> will force me to be brief in this letter. I find a wonderful discontent here among the officers and souldiers for being cut off 27 months pay and subsistence, and they having had credit from the Country for near that sum upon the account of that pay and subsistence; it has made so generall an outcry you cannot imagine. Tis fear'd the few souldiers that remain will follow their companions that have lately deserted in great numbers; and the next thing that's to be feared is we shall loose all our 5 nations at once, when they perceive our souldiers are run away; for they that are already in such dread of the French will be much more so when they see we are not in a capacity to protect 'em. The Victualers too are like distracted men, their whole fortunes being out for serving the King and Victualing his forces here. These are such things and reflect so much on the King's honour, and the management of Affairs in England, that really and truly I am almost at my wits end; and have the most uncomfortable time of it that ever any man had.

I doubt not but a gentleman at the Board of the Council of Trade laughs in his sleeve at all this, and I cannot but thinke him the author of the 27 moneths losse of pay, and without all doubt he advis'd the reduction of the four companies; if the King can forgive him such a treachery, 'Tis fit I should.

I am told there went from home ab<sup>t</sup> a fortnight before my arrival here, a petition ag<sup>t</sup> me, sign'd by all the disaffected people in the province, to the number (as they bragg) of 1500 hands. It was handed through all the Towns in the province; 'tis intended to occupie the leisure of the H. of Commons the next session. 'Tis strange that tho' I was at Boston 300 miles from 'em, yet their malice would find me out at that distance, but their malice is what troubles me the least. The ill usage I have met with ab<sup>t</sup> the not paying these four companies, and reducing them, and the not allowing me to make use of the 1500<sup>l</sup> given me by this province in almost a year and half's time. These things and this treatment make me see myselfe poorly befriended by the Ministers —

I shall send all manner of papers I have ab<sup>t</sup> Kidd (w<sup>ch</sup> I thinke are not above 2 or 3) to you, by the first ship that goes to England, for I am not now well enough to go about it.

I am wth respect

Sir

Your most humble and
faithfull servant

Mr Sec: Vernon

Lords of Trade to the Earle of Bellomont.

[New-York Entries, C. 893.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earle of Bellomont his Majesty's Captain Gen<sup>l</sup> and Governour in Cheif of his Majestys Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay, New York and New Hampshire in America and of the Territories thereupon depending &<sup>ca</sup> Or to the Commander in Cheif of his Majesty's Province of New York for the time being.

My Lord

The several letters we have received from your Lordship since those we writ in April, May and June last, are dated the 20th and 23<sup>d</sup> of April, and 7th and 25th May, the 22th June, and 9th of July last.

The first of those letters, being in a manner wholly about the Apprehensions, your Lordship was under from the several Nations of Indians, lying in the neighbourhood of your Governments, and the same subject occurring also in your other letters; We referr ourselves for that whole matter, to the Informations we have already given your Lordship, of what his Majesty has been pleas'd to do, upon the first news of that allarm.

Having lately received back from Mr Sollicitor General, all the Acts of the General Assemblies of the three Provinces under your Government, that were in his hands, together with his Reports upon them, We have perused them all; And having also represented our opinion upon those of New Yorke, to their Excellencies the Lords Justices; We send your Lordship here inclosed a copy of our said Representation, which their Excellencies have intirely approved of, and M<sup>r</sup> Champant<sup>e</sup> having taken out the several Orders of Council made thereon your Lordship will receive those Orders from him.

We send your Lordship also herewith a Copy of some observations that we made, upon the reading of those Acts; by which you will perceive the reason of our declining to give any opinion, either for the Confirmation or Repeal of some of them, untill we can be satisfied in the doubts that are there exprest; And unto which We therefore desire your Lordship, to return us particular answers. And besides what is there exprest upon the Act for indemnifying &c., it may be further necessary, for your Lordships private Information, to acquaint you, that the Order of Council of the 7th of April 1692 declares, that upon humble application of the persons excepted in the General Pardon, Her Majesty would order them to be pardoned, and their Estates restored to them, as fit objects of Her Majesty's Mercy; And the Order of Council of the 13th May 1692, directs that their Recognizances should be discharged; which we conceive is all that ought to be done, till humble application be made to His Majesty, by the Parties concerned: And are also of opinion, that all the Acts Acts of Grace ought to begin with the King.

The reason of our suspending also at present to give any opinion, upon the Act for Vacating Grants &c<sup>a</sup>, You will perceive by the objections offered to M<sup>r</sup> Solicitor General against it, And his dubious Report thereupon, whereof We send you here inclosed a Copy; as likewise by the inclosed Copy of further objections of like kind, that have been laid before us, in the name of several Inhabitants of New York, unto which we expect M<sup>r</sup> Champante's Answer, that we may have a full view of the Allegations and Arguments on both sides, before We determine upon it.

We wait only for an Answer from the Commissioners of the Customes, to a Query we have sent to them, relating to the Act for Establishing of Sea-ports in the Massachusets Bay, and then We shall forthwith report upon the Acts of that Province, and also of New Hampshire; for in all other points we are agreed.

We have now under Consideration all that your Lordship has writ, relating to Naval Stores, and the employng of Soldiers in the producing of them at New York, in Order to the laying the same together with our opinion thereupon, before their Excellencies.

This also will give us Occasion again to mention the necessity of preserving the Friendship of our Five Nations of Indians, and of repairing or building of such forts and fortifications, as your Lordship judges necessary for the several Provinces under your Government; But our Report in that point will be defective for want of those Calculations, Reasonings &c.: which your Lordship promises in your letter of the 22th June.

The Wast also committed in the Woods of New Hampshire, and the Trade of Ship timber from thence to Spain and Portugall, which will necessarily also draw on some mention of M<sup>r</sup> Allen's Title, are matters that we intend to report upon, so soon as possibly we can.

In the mean while, as to the Production of Naval Stores at New Yorke We can only exhort your Lordship to make some experiment with the Soldiers that will now be there. And whereas the want of an Establishment for the 4<sup>d</sup> per day extraordinary, which your Lordship proposes to be added to their pay, will be an obstruction of the setting of them to worke; We offer it to your Lordship' consideration, whether it may not be convenient for their present incouragement, to allow them a proportion out of the produce of their own labour.

As to the charge of presents for our Five Nations of Indians, and of Forts not only in that Province, but else-where which may be for the General Security of all his Majesty's Provinces on that Continent; untill some proper and effectual provision can be made here, We wish your Lordship may be able to improve your meeting with the Governours of Maryland, Virginia &c<sup>a</sup> towards the promoting of some method for raising every where contributions, as may be reasonable for such necessary services. And as for the busyness of New Hampshire, we cannot at present add any thing to what we writ you the 19th of April last.

The papers relating to pirates, which we received from your Lordship in your letters of the 23<sup>d</sup> April and 25th May, We transmitted to the Lords of Admiralty.

The Commissions for trying of pirates in the Plantations, pursuant to the late Act of Parliament for that purpose, are going on in the offices, through which they must pass, but not yet ready.

Notwithstanding all that we have been able to do, towards the promoting of what your Lordship has so oft desired, in relation to a Chief Justice and Attorney General for the Province of New York, yet M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Broughton met with some stop in the Treasury, and we do not see, that anything further will be done in that busyness at present.

We observe what your Lordship writes in your letter of the 22th June, about the continued irregularities in the Government of Rhoad Island; but are not able to give you any further information of measures taken for the redress thereof; than what you will have already seen by his Majesty's order in Council, upon our representation on that subject which we sent you the 11th of April last. We are

Your Lordship's

Most humble servants

sign'd,

[New-York Entries, C. 406. MS. Lausdown, 849, fol. 50.]

To their Excellencies the Lords Justices.

May it please your Excellencies.

In obedience to His Majesty's commands signified to us by the Right Honourable M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon the 4th July last, that wee should lay before your Excellencies an Account of what the Earl of Bellomont has proposed to us, in Relation to the security of His Majesties Plantations in the Northern parts of America, and the supplying this Kingdom with Naval Stores from thence, together with our Opinion thereupon; We humbly Report to your Excellencies, That the Earl of Bellomont has by several Letters to the 15th of July last, offered to us divers considerations to the following effect, Viz<sup>t</sup>

That the Province of New York being the most advanced frontier of His Majesties Plantations in those parts, the Defence and preservation thereof is of the utmost importance to the security of all the rest. not only with respect to the French of Canada, but against any insurrection of the Scatter'd Nations of Indians upon that Continent.

That the Forts and Fortifications on that Frontier, for want of timely repairs, are in so ruinous a condition that they will soon scarce bear the firing of a Gun upon them.

That the soldiers which were formerly four Companies of 100 men each, being diminished by Death and desertion to less than 200 in the whole, and afterwards reduced by a new Establishment to 50 men in each Company, are in a miserable condition, almost naked and ready to perish, by reason of the great arrears that are due unto them.

That our five Nations of Indians, who in the beginning of the late War consisted of 3500 are now reduced to about 1100 having suffered great losses during the War, and many of them having been Clandestinely murdered by the French Indians since the Peace: By reason of which weakness they are now enclined to shelter themselves under that Protection which appears to them to be the strongest.

That the posture of the french in Canada is much different from ours. They maintain in constant pay 1500 men; and are att work with great diligence in repairing all the Forts, of which they have eight or nine between Quebec and Montreal (within the space of Sixty Leagues) besides other Fortifications at a greater distance (as for instance one in the Dowaganahs Country Seven hundred miles from Quebec) by which means they endeavour to extend their Territories on the back of His Majesties Dominions, & seem to prepare for war.

That the French by reason of their several Small Forts, lying near one another, encourage their own people to inhabit and make settlements on their Borders; and by means of their remoter Forts, they drive a Trade, and keep up an interest with the Indians that live at distance, and have greatly animated them in their wars against ours.

That the French Emmissaries have spread malicious reports to fill our five nations with prejudices, as if His Majesty had given orders to Disarm & Extirpate them, and that my Lord Bellomont would use means to destroy them by poison; which Suggestions, together with the consideration of our weakness & the strength of the French, have made our Indians very wavering in their friendship towards us; So that their Defection to the French is to be apprehended; and, if that should be followed with the conjunction of all the other Indians in those parts, it would be of fatal consequence to the English Interests on that continent.

We beg leave to add to your Excellencies, That Monsieur d'Iberville Commander of a French Man of War of 50 Guns, in his return from Mississipi to France in July last, put into the Port of New York (tho' much out of his way) upon pretence to wood & water, but more probably with a design to sound that Channel and Harbour.

Upon this general view of affairs, the Earl of Bellomont proposes,

That the Fortifications of the Province of New York be repaired; and more particularly that those of Albany & Schenectady, on the Frontiers towards Canada, be rebuilt with Stone (the charge of which according to Colonel Romer the Engineer's Computation will amount to Eight or nine thousand pounds, and that two new Forts be erected, one to the North Eastward of Albany, at the end of a Lake called Corlaers or the Iroquois Lake, and an other in the Onondage Country, which lies to the North West ward, and is the center of the habitation of our five nations, & opposite to the French Fort at Cadaracqui, by which our Indians are much annoyed and their Trade obstructed. The expence of building which Fort in the Onondage Country Colonel Romer Computed at a thousand or Twelve hundred pounds.

And in Order to the repairing or building of these Forts, his Lordship desires that Spades, Shovels and other necessary utensils be sent from hence.

His Lordship intends also to propose the building of several other Forts, not only in the Province of New York but else where, which he conceives will be absolutely necessary for the security of all His Majesties Plantations on that Continent; And therefore advises, that His Majesty may be pleased to write Circular Letters to the Governors & Assemblies of each respective Plantation, to Excite them to contribute to the charge: But promises to Explain himself further upon that subject, and to send his reasonings thereupon by the next conveyance.

For the Garrisoning the Forts above mentioned, for the encouragement of our Indians to continue firm in their dependance on the Crown of England; And in general, for the defence of those frontiers, His Lordship proposes that 1000 Soldiers are absolutely necessary; And for the better removing of any obstruction that might arise from the charge of this Establishment, he has made a Scheme (which will be laid before your Excellencies in the Sequel of this representation) whereby the labour of these Soldiers in making Turpentine, Tar, Rosin, & Pitch, may defray the charge of their maintenance.

His Lordship offers that the Lieutenant Colonel may be made Lieutenant Governor of New-Hampshire. The Major, Governor of Albany, with such Additional Salaries as His Majesty may be pleased to allow, And that the Captains be of the King's Council both in New-York & New Hampshire.

His Lordship offers, That some Minister of the Church of England, be sent to live among our Indians, to instruct them in Christianity and to prevent their being practised upon by the French Priests & Jesuits.

In order to the produce of Turpentine, Rosin, Tar & Pitch; His Lordship Reports

That in Long Island, alias Nassaw Island, & on both sides of Hudson's River, between Albany & Schenectady, are growing infinite numbers of Pines, out of which Trees these Commodities are made, and that the water Carriage from the woods to the Port is cheap.

The foundation of his Lordships scheme is,

That One man may make five Tons of these Commodities in a year, one with another; and that the ordinary price of a Labourer at New York is 3<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per day; But that the Soldiers may be prevailed with to do the same work, if their present pay be increased to 12<sup>d</sup> per day.

The price therefore of each Soldiers Labour being 7<sup>s</sup> Sterling per week, which amounts to 15<sup>s</sup> 4<sup>d</sup> per annu, and the Stores to be produced by each man's Labour in one year being five Tons at eight Barrels to the Ton, it follows that the price of the labour in making one Ton of those Stores, one with another, will be.....	3 12 10

--	---------

The carriage to the waterside, & from thence down to New York, together with all other contingent charges & managem<sup>t</sup> in the Country, in which His Lord<sup>p</sup> includes a salary of 200<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per Annum for a Surveyor General, and 2<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per day to each Lieutenant for overseeing the Soldiers and keeping them at work (because he does not think that Soldiers will ever submit to be governed by other Overseers than their own Officers) all these several charges & allowances he reckons will amount to 6<sup>s</sup> 5<sup>d</sup> 0<sup>d</sup>.

So that by this Computation the whole Cost of one Ton of those Stores brought hither would be.....	£7 17 10
--	-----------------

But my Lord observes, that upon this calculation which he makes of 2<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> Ton for the freight, it may be objected, that the ordinary freight for Merchants goods is between 4<sup>d</sup> and 6<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> Ton; To which he answers, that whereas Ships lye there several months for a freight, & some are forced to come away at last with half or three quarters of their lading, when this trade shall be settled, so that Ships may be dispatched in five or six days time, the freight will fall by degrees to 2<sup>d</sup> the price which he proposes.

And since this Calculation, my Lord further advises that he had been informed, by one in New Hampshire, that he ordinarily by his own single labour made six Tons and half of Tar per year; and had been told by M<sup>r</sup> Bridges One of the Commissioners sent over by the Navy Board to inspect Naval Stores in those parts, that a number of men assisting each other may make each man one Barrel of Tar per day, taking the whole year round, which supposing the men to work three hundred days per year amounts to thirty seven and half tons for each man.

That whereas in the foregoing calculation He reckoned that the casking Pitch and Tar in Oak would cost 20<sup>s</sup> per Ton He found that Pine wood will serve as well for that use which may be had at 12<sup>s</sup> per Ton.

That he is further encouraged in this design, by information he had received that at Carolina great quantities of Tar have been made, free from the burning quality ordinarily complained of, and proper for Ropes; That this Tar is there sold for about 3<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> Ton their money which my Lord computes at about 35<sup>s</sup> Sterling. That Labour at Carolina is as dear as at New York & therefore that two thirds of the price of Labour being saved by employing Soldiers in this work, the price of Tar in New York would abate in proportion.

As for Pitch, He had been informed that when Tar in Carolina was about 5<sup>s</sup> p<sup>r</sup> Barril, Pitch was there sold for 17<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per Barril; which He esteems to be in proportion much dearer; But proposes (that if such disproportion be found in what shall be made at New York), That Tar only out of which Pitch is to be made be sent from America, and the Pitch afterwards made here; As esteeming it more advantageous to England to employ men (as much as possible) at home, rather than to encourage their going abroad.

The consideration of Masts & Ship Timber for His Majesties Navy, which according to His Lordships proposal may also be supplied from America, We reserve for a distinct Representation which we are preparing upon that subject.

My Lord likewise represents that Flax & Hemp may be produced there: But that it may be more advisable to encourage that Trade in Ireland.

To render the foregoing scheme more practicable, His Lordship offers that means be used to prevent the ill practice of burning woods to clear the grounds, which occasions a great waste.

That 1000 felling Axes may be sent him from hence.

That all the extravagant Grants of Lands formerly complained of as comprehending above  $\frac{3}{4}$  parts of the Province of New York, made without any reasonable reservation of Quit Rent to the King, and tending to obstruct the peopling and the improvement of the said Province, should be absolutely vacated & rather by the Parliament of England than otherwise; because it will be more easily submitted to by the Parties concerned in private interest to oppose it, than if done by an Act of Assembly there.

That upon the vacating of those Grants, due provision should be made for regulating the conditions of all future Grants, in relation not only to the Extent, but to the situation, also of the Lands, the improvement thereof, the Quit Rents to be reserved, & whatever else may tend to the General good of the Province; Unto which he also adds, that Commissioners may be appointed to set out the Lands proper to be allowed (according to these regulations) unto the Grantees whose former grants are to be vacated, that so the most improvable and useful Lands, lying on the side of Rivers, may not be wholly Engrossed by a few persons, and the rest for ever left waste, which in that case would unavoidably happen.

That His Majesty either by virtue of an Act of Parliament here or of the Assembly there may make use of Pines & other sort of Trees for making all the forementioned stores, on the Estates of all Persons within that Province without exception; And that the sole right to make use of all such Pines or other trees as are fit for Masts of ships, & of all such Oak & other Timber, whether straight or crooked, as will be proper to be used for building his Majesties Ships of War; should be also vested in His Majesty: Reserving to the Inhabitants the Libertyes only of House Boot, Fire-boot, Hedge-boot & Plough-boot; which proposal His Lordship insists upon as absolutely necessary; Because as the Lands of that Province are now granted, the King has not the power to cut a Tree, for any use whatsoever; and unless that obstacle be removed by some proper and effectual provision in the case, it would be vain to go about this design of providing Naval Stores there.

That the Lands on the Frontiers (comprised in some of the Grants proposed to be vacated) be distributed after Seven years Service in the Kings pay, to the Officers & Soldiers, in due proportions, under a Quit rent of 2<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> hundred Acres, & made unalienable by them to any but the King, which his Lord<sup>sh</sup> proposes not only as a means to encourage them, but as the most Efficacious method to people the Country, & strengthen the Frontiers adding that if this had been practiced twenty years ago, there would have been now a thousand Families on one of those Grants, which with a Fort at the end of it towards Corlares Lake (the place before named) would have been sufficient to make stand against all the french of Canada and all their Indians.

And to enable the Soldiers the better to plant the lands that shall be allotted to them, after seven years service, His Lordship proposes that (in the mean time) 12<sup>d</sup> per week be reserved out of their pay, and laid up in store for them, or further improved in Trade, for their advantage, that at the expiration of that time, they may have some small stock to begin with.

We next beg leave to lay before your Excellencies what has already been done in relation to these matters.

As to the Fortifications, His Majesty has been pleased to give five hundred pounds towards the building of a Sod fort in the Onoüdage Country, and his Lordship hopes to dispose the Assembly of New York to supply the rest.

As to Soldiers, recruits have been shipt by His Majesties Order, to make up the four Companies at New York 400 Effective men: Cloaths have also been sent them: And substance Money is now paid unto the Agent for them regularly every month.

As to the Indians, a Present of Fuzils, Cloaths &c. to the value of Eight hundred pounds has been sent to the Earl of Bellomont, to be distributed amongst them as he shall think convenient.

As to the making of Turpentine, Rozin, Tar, & pitch, we have advised my Lord to make what essay he can with those Soldiers he has, that we may thereby judge what further Encouragement is to be given for raising greater Quantities in Proportion; and because the want of the additional pay of 4 pence p<sup>r</sup> day, proposed by him may obstruct the setting of them to work, we have offered to His Lord<sup>sh</sup> that they may be rewarded from the profit made by their own Labour.

As to the waste of Woods occasioned by the burning of them: We have advised his Lord<sup>sh</sup> that he endeavour to get an Act passed in the General Assembly of New York for the reforming of that ill practice.

Upon Enquiries made here concerning Turpentine, Rozin, Tar, and Pitch, We have had accounts somewhat différent.

The Officers of Deptford & Woolidge have Reported to the Navy board that upon Tryal they find the Tar from America to differ in colour from what is ordinarily used in His Majesties Yards; That 'tis difficult to be tempered with Pitch, the stuff rising in the Kettle, which makes it troublesome and Dangerous; and that this Tar has the burning quality which consumes the Ropes. They grant however that it may be used on ship sides or Sheathings.

But we have been informed by Traders in that Commodity, That tho' tar from some of the Plantations has been formerly ill coloured, like that of Courland and Drontheim, yet there comes of late as good Tar from New England & as fit for ropes & all other uses whatsoever as that of Stockholm, which is esteemed the best; and they further remark, that the Tar which has most of the burning quality makes the best Pitch; so that where the Tar made in his Majesties Plantations has not that Quality, it may be preserved in kind; and where it has, it may be converted into Pitch.

And we have likewise been informed that there is as good Rozin brought from New England as any made in France.

Having also enquired into the Quantities of Tar & Pitch that have been imported of late years, we find that in the year 1693, 1694, and 1695, were imported into England about 13,500 Tons of those Commodities, which is 4500 Tons p<sup>r</sup> Annum, whereof  $\frac{3}{4}$  were from Sweden.

As to the price we find that in the year 1657, Stockholm Tar was sold here for 3<sup>l</sup> 16<sup>s</sup> 8<sup>d</sup> per Ton, and mounted gradually during the war) 'till in the year 1696 it came to 9<sup>l</sup> 16<sup>s</sup> 8<sup>d</sup> per Ton, & that it is now about 5<sup>l</sup> & Pitch about 10<sup>l</sup> per Ton; The great difference of which price from what it was formerly, does (as we understand) arise from the Privilege Granted by the King of Sweden to a certain Company, of His own Subjects, who have the sole right of buying and selling those Commodities, & thereupon advance the price at their pleasure.

Upon the whole matter we humbly offer to your Excellencies our opinion as followeth.

In relation to the Forts which the Earl of Bellomont has desired may be repaired or built in the province of New York, We agree with His Lordship that divers such Forts are necessary; But considering that the said Province has been much diminished, by the Separation of the Jerseys; and has of late been also exhausted, by the Extraordinary charges it was at for its own defence, during the War; We humbly conceive that it is now neither able singly to bear the charge of erecting, and maintaining the said Forts; nor tho' it were able, would it be reasonable to expect that Province should alone provide for the defence of a Frontier wherein the security of all His Majesties other Plantations on the Northern Continent of America is concern'd; We therefore humbly propose to your Excellencies that the most Effectual methods may be used to oblige the rest of His Majesties said Plantations to contribute in some due proportion to so necessary a Work.

In the year 1694, Her late Majesty proportioned a Quota for some of those Provinces, according to the following scheme, viz<sup>t</sup>

Connecticut .....	120
Rhode Island & Providence Plantations.....	48
The Massachusetts Bay .....	350
Maryland .....	160
Virginia .....	240
Pensylvania .....	80

But in the settling of this Quota there was no proportion fixed for East & West New Jersey, only instead thereof a Discretionary power was left in the Governor of New York, during the War, to command any number of their Militia not exceeding 700; and there being also no mention at all in the said scheme either of Carolina or of New Hampshire (both which Provinces, tho' more remote from New York than the rest, yet are not unconcerned in the safety of those frontiers) we therefore offer to the foregoing Quota the Additions following. Viz<sup>t</sup>

East New Jersey .....	60
West New Jersey.....	60
North & South Carolina.....	90
New Hampshire.....	40

And we further humbly propose, that His Majesty may be pleased to write circular Letters, to the Governors or proprietors of all those Provinces, or Colonies (the said Letters to be communicated to the respective Councils and General Assemblies) to require them to contribute to the charge of securing the Frontiers of New York according to the aforesaid proportions; which supposing the sum now to be demanded were five thousand pounds, would be as followth.

New Hampshire.....	138	2	5
The Massachusetts Bay .....	1208	11	3
Rhode Island & Providence Planta <sup>ms</sup> .....	165	14	11
Connecticut .....	414	7	4
New York.....	690	12	2
East New Jersey.....	207	3	8
West New Jersey.....	207	3	8
Pensylvania .....	276	4	10
Maryland .....	552	9	8
Virginia.....	828	14	8
North & South Carolina.....	310	15	5
Making in all.....	£5000	0	0

The said proportions will serve for greater or lesser sums as your Excellencies shall think fit.

In the mean while We likewise humbly propose, that His Majesty may be pleased to make some further addition to the 500<sup>l</sup> already given towards the beginning of that work; which will also be a means the better to encline those People to follow his Royal Example. And that Spades, Shovels, & other utensils necessary for building the forts, be sent from hence, with 1000 Felling Axes for cutting Timber according to my Lords desire.

As to Soldiers, for the defence of New York and the neighbouring Provinces, we humbly offer that considering the strength of the French in those parts, and the dangers His Majesties Plantations are exposed to by their practices amongst the Indians, 600 men may be added to the 400 already there (in case His Majesty can spare that number) to make up the 1000, which my Lord Bellomont proposes as necessary; and that part of those soldiers be placed in New Hampshire, to prevent the incroachments of the French, and the Insults of the Eastern Indians, with which the Frontiers on that side have been lately and are still alarmed.

What the Earl of Bellomont offers in relation to the Employment & recompence of the Officers, that shall command these Soldiers, we humbly conceive may be better considered hereafter, when his Lordships proposals shall have been put in execution; and that His Majesty being then informed of their particular merits, will best understand what further Trusts it may be fit to employ them in, and how to reward them accordingly.

Concerning Ministers to instruct our Indians, & prevent their being practiced upon by the French, We humbly conceive that if a Fund can be found for the maintenance of such Ministers they may be of very great use & service, as well for the propagation of the Reformed Religion, as of improving the civil Interest of England.

As to Naval Stores, We agree with his Lordship that if they can be supplied from His Majesties Plantations, that would be a thing of great advantage.

It may defray the charge of the Soldiers that are otherwise necessary for the defence of the Plantations.

It will save to England a very great sume of Money yearly Exported in specie for those Commodities to the Dominions of the Northern Crowns.

It will tend to the increase of our Shipping and Navigation.

The supply of Naval Stores will thereby no longer precariously depend on the pleasure of other Princes, or on the Dispositions of their affairs.

And if in time a greater quantity of those stores should be made in America than shall be consumed in His Majesties Dominions, the overplus may turn to a very beneficial Trade with Spain & Portugal.

Upon the several parts of His Lordships scheme for the Producing of those Stores, We observe.

That the price of Labour at New York & in the neighbouring Colonies being about 3<sup>d</sup> per day, it is to be feared that Soldiers, finding they are required to work for 1<sup>s</sup> per Day, will be apt to desert, and shelter themselves in other Colonies where they may have thrice as much Wages. To obviate which difficulty, and to give a more effectual beginning to this work, (which we think so advantageous to the Nation, that it should be encouraged almost upon any conditions.) We humbly propose that instead of the 4 pence p<sup>r</sup> Diem to be added to the Soldiers pay, such Stores as they shall make by their own Labour; (for a certain term of years) be allowed them for their own use & benefit; provided that the Salaries to Supervisors & Officers employed on the Work, & other necessary charges be first deducted from the whole.

That Pine-Cask being (as his Lordship writes afterwards) 12 pence per Barril cheaper than Oak, & no less proper for the use intended, it may be well that such Pine-Cask be used; which will reduce that article from 20 to 12 Shillings.

That the Article of contingent charges not expressing what quantities His Lordship supposes were to be made, no Judgment can be given of his calculation in that particular.

That the computation of freight from New York to England at 40<sup>s</sup> per Ton, seems to be too Low, for tho' a settled course of Trade when once this undertaking shall be perfectly established, will undoubtedly bring down the rate of freight lower than it is at present, yet the very length of the voyage (as we apprehended) will always require it to be nearer to 4<sup>s</sup> than 40<sup>s</sup>

Upon what his Lordship has since writ to strengthen his scheme, and to remove the doubts that might arise upon it, we further observe

That if one man can make one Barril of Tar per week with his own single labour (as his Lordship was informed by the person who did it) there can be no doubt but a number of men by mutual assistance may be able to make much more; and tho' M<sup>r</sup> Bridger's opinion that such a number of men may make each of them a Barril of Tar per day, the year round, appears very improbable, yet computing only two Barrils per week for each man (which seems a moderate supposition) the 3<sup>l</sup> 12<sup>s</sup> 10<sup>d</sup> per Ton (which my Lord allows in his first computation for the price of Labour) will be reduced to 1<sup>l</sup> 8<sup>s</sup>.—

That the cheapness of Tar at Carolina mentioned by His Lordship is confirmed to Us by other hands, and that the Commissioners sent by the Navy Board to inspect Naval Stores in New England have writ from thence that in two years time they would be able to prepare Trees enow to supply the Kingdom of England with Tar to be delivered there at 5<sup>l</sup> 4<sup>s</sup> per Ton, & hoped afterwards to do it at 4<sup>l</sup> 16<sup>s</sup>—which rates being also cheaper than His Lordships first scheme, We cannot doubt but Tar may be made in the Plantations for moderate prices; and do agree with His Lordship that by the Labour of Soldiers it may be done still cheaper at New-York than else where.

As for the charge of converting Tar into Pitch, His Lordship's information hitherto being uncertain, and appearing to us very improbable, We humbly think it reasonable to suspend any resolution upon his proposal of making Pitch in England, until he has made a sure experiment of what is or can be done in America.

Concerning the quality of the Turpentine, Rozin, & Pitch, made in the Plantations, we have not heard of any objection, and as for the Quality of Tar (which is the Commodity of most consideration in this design) We cannot doubt but the Inhabitants have already in some degree reformed the faults complained of in what has been made there, and will by further Practice reform them thorowly.

As to the vacating of the Extravagant Grants of Land that have been formerly made in the Province of New York, there having been an Act past by the General Assembly there to make void several of them and objections having been offered to us in the name of the Grantees & other Inhabitants of the said Province against the Confirmation of the said Act, unto which we expect answers We humbly crave leave to suspend our opinion upon that point until we may be better enabled to do it, by a full examination of the allegations & arguments on both sides, that will be laid before us in relation to the said Act.

And what his Lordship proposes about appointing of Commissioners to set out Lands in proper places, & moderate proportions, according to new Regulations, unto the former Grantees, whose lands are or shall be taken away, & others; As likewise what his Lordship writes about the dividing of Lands amongst the Soldiers, All these matters depending upon the Vacating of the forementioned Grants, We are obliged in the same manner to suspend our opinion upon them.

But whereas His Lordship further writes that, as the lauds of that Province are now Granted, the King has not power to cut a Tree for any use whatsoever, & that unless that obstacle be some way removed it will be in vain to go about the design of providing Naval Stores there; and therefore proposes That all the Pine Trees & all other Timber, on the Estates of all persons whatsoever, without Exception be vested in His Majesty either by Act of Assembly there or Act of Parliament here, We do not conceive, that the Assembly there will pass any such Act to take away their own property, nor can we offer it as a thing fit to be done here.

Nevertheless We are of opinion that the want of such an Act should not obstruct the setting about this work, For timber Trees being very plentiful in those parts, it cannot be doubted but they may be had from the Proprietors on such easy Terms as will not be any Great hindrance, or at least not a Total obstacle to the carrying of it on.

Sir,

Having lately received a letter from the Earle of Bellomont of the 26th and 31st of last July, wherein he continues to give some further account than what we have yet represented to His Majesty, or the late Lords Justices, of the unfair practices of the French of Canada in seducing our 5 Nations of Indians on the Frontiers of New York, and in destroying such of them as would not be perverted; We send you the enclosed Extracts of His Lordship's letter, and of two papers therewith transmitted to us, relating thereunto.<sup>1</sup> Whereupon, we humbly offer our opinion of His Majesty that orders be procured from the French Court to the Governour of Canada that a stop be put to such undue practices directly contrary to the late Agreement with that Court.

We judge it convenient that in any application to be made to the French, there be no mention made of the particular Indian or nation of Indians from whence this Information comes, lest it should draw upon them the resentment of the French.

New York the 15th Octobr. 1700

My Lords.

He has recd their letters of the 14th 21st & 28th of June with the enclosed papers & passes.

The Newport frigate goes home according to their order & the ship Fortune laden with timber, which he hopes will not be found fault with.

He sends a Copy of the shipwrights Report about its goodness.

The ship Fortune which was built for sailing, will not take in the whole cargo.

He sends the Invoice of the Timber.

And the Acct of the charge.

which does not come so high as Mr Bridgers.

Yet he hopes to find it cheaper at the Merchants risque.

Sending timber from the Plantations will save England £100000 per Ann:

Secure the Trade.

I have lately rec<sup>d</sup> your Lord<sup>ss</sup> orders of the 14th 21th and 28th of June last & with your letter of the 21st of June I had your Lord<sup>ss</sup> instructions of the same date, and with them your Mediterranean passes, oaths, and bouds for Masters of vessells. I immediately dispatch'd away a number of the said passes to Connecticut and Rhode Island. I shall this next week dispatch the rest to the Jerseys Pensilvania, Maryland, Virginia, and North & South Carolina, except those I keep for this port of N. Yorke.

The Newport frigate goes home according to your Lord<sup>ss</sup> order of the 14th June, and with her I send the ship Fortune, formerly seized and condemned here in the Admiralty Court of this Province, and being a foreign bottom she could not be admitted to trade, and for that reason I send her laden with ship timber for the use of the King's Navy. I have been informed that the builders in the King's Yards at Deptford & Woolwich gave your Lord<sup>ss</sup> an ill character of the specimens of ship timber sent home by M<sup>r</sup> Bridger from Piscataway in New Hampshire; I cannot tell what that timber was for goodness, because I saw it not, but I believe if those builders will do this timber right, they cannot find fault with it; because I would send home that which was good and fit for the King's use, I sent my order to all the Master Shipwrights in this town to survey it, and they made their report to me; the order and Report are (N<sup>o</sup> 1.) in the same paper. Four or five of the Ship Wrights who subscribe the Report have served their time in the King's Yards, & M<sup>r</sup> Littlemore and Diggins are now Warrant Officers, the first is Carpenter of the Advice and the latter of the Newport; all the Carpenters that have subscribed, except M<sup>r</sup> John Latham declared their opinion, that the timber that goes home in the Fortune is as good as ever they saw in England. 'Tis pitty the ship cannot take in the whole parcell I have provided but I believe  $\frac{3}{4}$  parts will be left behind.

I send an invoice of the timber now ship'd in the Fortune and also of that which is left behind and both invoices are in the paper (N<sup>o</sup> 2.)

The account of the charges I have been at in providing this timber, both that which I now send and that which is left behind is (N<sup>o</sup> 3.) First essays in things of this kind are always dear and chargeable; yet if I could have sent home the whole parcell at once, I believe your Lord<sup>ss</sup> and the Navy Board would have thought it a good bargain for the King. I am sure it will be abundantly cheaper than that which M<sup>r</sup> Bridger sent home; and if this timber be approved by the King's Builders, I hope I shall find out a way to furnish the King yet cheaper and that at the merchands risque, the King to be at no hazard; but before I put such a thing in practice, as the agreeing with the merchands to furnish the King, I must receive your Lord<sup>ss</sup> directions, with an intimacon how well this timber I now send is approved by the Navy Board and the King's Builders. I take the sending ship timber and navall stores from these plantations to be of the last consequence to England, for two substantiall reasons, viz' the keeping above £100000 a year in England, which at present goes in specie to the Eastland country, and making that a sure and certain trade (because our own) which at present is foreign and precarious; and thirdly for another reason not lesse weighty than the two former, viz<sup>t</sup> the vast increase of shipping if this trade to our Plantations for ship timber and navall stores were duly encouraged and settled.

ping.

The Eastland Merchants will oppose this design, but he hopes their Lordps will support it.

The Eastland merchants will be apt to oppose this good design, they will cry up their own Diana, & perhaps will put every thing in practice to blast it; therefore it will stand in need of your Lordps<sup>a</sup> care & circumspection to support it against their artifices. The goodness of timber I cannot conceive to be intricate, and the Ship Wrights here may be judges of it as well as those at Deptford and Woolwich; but for the skill in putting it together and building a ship, we will vail to those gentlemen that are the King's builders.

The Arundell and Newport have been on 3 cruizes each but found nothing. The Advice is laid up till Spring.

I have sent the Arundell and Newport frigats on three cruizes apiece this last Spring and Sömer but they had not the luck to meet with any thing. I have thought it best to lett the Advice frigate stay here this winter, since she lyes safe for fear of ruining any hazard in going out of this harbour. This town is so stor'd with salt that the merchants say there will be no occasion for their sending to Saltertudos this winter; therefore the Advice shall lay up till the first of the Spring, and then shall cruise, that being the likely time for pyrats on this Coast. Mr Livingston a gentleman of the Council assures me he has been told that Mays a pyrate, and another, came with two ships to the East end of Nassau Island, the latter end of last winter, and had to the value of halfe a million between 'em, that they sent privately to this town to know whether they might come in with safety and be pardoned, but that some men of the law frightened them away by telling 'em there would be no quarter for 'em if they fell into my clutches. Mr Livingston says some of the angry men triumph much at their disappointing me, for say they, the matter might have been so ordered as that the Governor might have got a £100000 honorably and the Province been enrich'd; but wee owe him not that kindness (meaning me.) I was then at Boston and about that time I had notice from Rhode Island of Mays the pyrat's hovering about the East end of Nassau Island. I cannot persuade Mr Livingston to name his author, and so cannot trace that story any further.

2 Scotch Ships, the Rising Sun & Duke of Hamilton were lost the 3rd of the last month in a hurricane near Carolina.

Some Scotchmen are newly come hither from Carolina that belonged to the ship Rising Sun (the biggest ship they set out for their Caledonia expedition) who tell me that on the third of last month a hurricane happened on that coast, as that ship lay at anchor, within less than three leagues of Charles Town in another Scotch ship called the Duke of Hamilton, and three or four others; that the ships were all shattered in peices and all the people lost, and not a man saved. The Rising Sun had 112 men on board. The Scotch men that are come and said to be an extraordinary sailor. She was thrown upon the King by the ignorance of the present Attorney General, and by a mistake of the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governor of this Province when I was in New England. I formerly acquainted the Lords of the Council of Trade with this matter, where your Lord<sup>ps</sup> may be informed, if you think fit, of all the particulars; but the King will be no looser but a gainer, as I have ordered the matter, I mean, by sending home the ship laden with ship timber. The timber I have provided standing me in £467 7 4<sup>d</sup>. this mony, I desire your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will please to order me £327. English, for so much it comes to, and make it payable, if you please to Sir John Stanley, for my use. 'Tis true in strictness I could not expect the full mony, till the full quantity of timber is sent home, but this is not upon a bargain, but a tryall I make at my own charge to serve the King. Therefore I hope I may expect to be reimbursed without the formality of delivering all the timber, before I receive any mony. I wish your Lord<sup>ps</sup> would please to ask Capt. Morrice and his Carpenter M<sup>r</sup> Diggins and also Capt. Deering for a character of the timber thats left behind on the wharfe in this town, & they'll tell your Lord<sup>ps</sup> 'tis better than that which is put on board the Fortune; for it seems M<sup>r</sup> Latham shipp'd that timber which came first to hand, and did not choose the best. Capt. Deering who was Lieu<sup>t</sup> to the Arundell frigate being desirous to command the Fortune home, I have with the consent of Capt Crow given him my commission to command her accordingly. He is an honest gentleman, and Capt Crow commends him for a good officer, and I hope he may deserve your Lord<sup>ps</sup> favour in providing better for him.

The proceedings about her were sent to the Comrs of Trade.

He desires £327 the charge of the timber he has prepared for the King may be pay'd him.

The timber left behind is better than that parcel shipt for England.

Capt Deering, Lt of the Arundell commands the Fortune home, whom he further recommends to their protection.

I am with respect

Earl of Bellmont to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 16.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords.

My last letter to Your Lordships bore date the 26th of July last and gave you an account of my arrival here from Boston, the 24th of that month.

The General Assembly were to have met the next day, but did not so till the 29th because six of the members were not come down Hudson's River.

I send your Lordships my speech to the Assembly (N<sup>o</sup> 1) wherein I confined myself to the single point of preserving the Five Nations of Indians by settling ministers among them, and building a Fort; but how well they comply'd with me, your Lordships will know in the sequel of this letter.

The Address to me by the House of Representatives goes (N<sup>o</sup> 2.) The 31st of July the Representatives sent me six queries relating to the Fort I proposed to be built; to which queries I returned my answer in writing;<sup>1</sup> the said queries and answers are contained in the paper (N<sup>o</sup> 3.) Several Bills were offered me and the Council by the Representatives for our passing; but some we thought frivolous and some had clauses inconsistent with the laws of England, which for those reasons we laid aside and only pass'd three laws, viz' An Act for appointing and enabling Commissioners to examine take and state the publick accounts of this Province: An Act against Jesuits and Popish Priests; and An Act for the better securing the Five Nations in their fidelity to His Majesty. This last Act I gave the assent to, with great reluctance, and I believe Your Lordships will think the treatment it deserves, is, to be rejected by the King with scorn, when it comes to be laid before His Majesty in Council. The Council were unanimously against this last mention'd bill's passing; first, because the sum of money to be raised thereby comes short of what I propos'd for building the Fort; secondly, because the manner of raising the said sum would be a further clog upon trade and would therefore not only not answer the end, but also cause a considerable decrease in the present revenue arising by customes. All this I was sensible of, and more than that, I thought the Bill derogatory to the King's prerogative that the House of Representatives should take upon them to appoint Commissioners to direct in the matter of building a Fort. Yet notwithstanding all these reasons I press'd the Council to consent to the Bill's passing, and if I may arrogate to myself any one happy or prudent step since my being in the Government 'twas that of procuring the passing of that Bill. I told the Council it signified not so much whether the end of the Bill were answer'd, or whether the Representatives had behav'd themselves with that decency and respect to the King that they ought to do in a business of that weight; but the conjuncture of affairs was chiefly to be considered. I was (I told 'em) to meet the Indians in a few days at Albany and if the Assembly should disagree to the building a Fort, the enemies of the Government would not fail to represent to the Indians such disagreement with all the colours of malice, which might cause such discouragement among them, as to make 'em without more adoe revolt to the French. This argument prevailed with the Council to pass the Bill.

I must acquaint your Lordships how the Representatives come to be so altered in their behavior since the time they settled the Revenue for six years. It proceeds from two reasons; first, that I have been tender of purging the militia (except in this City) of the disaffected party, and of putting them out of the Commission of the Peace; which tenderness of mine has heightened the insolence of that party, and extremely discontented the Leisler party, who were the only men that voted the Revenue, and the Act that passed for breaking some of Coll. Fletcher's extravagant grants of lands. Another reason is, the many reports the angry party have confidently given out of their procuring another Governour to be sent from England, and what revenge they would then take of the Leisler party; one while they affirm'd that Coll. Fletcher was to come Governour again, another while Capt. Evans that commanded the Frigate here in Coll. Fletcher's time. The Leisler party who had felt the weight of oppression for seven years together, were so frightned at these reports, that one or two of 'em chang'd sides and gave in to the passing this foolish money Bill. The long respite or suspension of the £2000 Act from being approv'd in England, I mean the money which was given to me and the Lieutenant Governour by the Assembly, and also of the Act which vacated some of Coll. Fletcher's grants, were urg'd as undeniable tokens of my disgrace, by the angry party; and I must own I thought so too, and the usage I have had in those two particulars has made me quite sick of these governments. I am not to be shaken or discouraged in the least by the unreasonable opposition of the angry people here, but when I find my services slighted in England, I cannot but be troubled.

I imbarg'd here for Albany the 10th of August as soon as I could prorogue the Assembly and arriv'd there the 13th. I cannot express the melancholy I was in after I got to Albany, for the Indians who I feared would have been there before me, made me wait a fortnight for their coming; so that truly I concluded them entirely lost to us. Some people fancied they were tamper'd with by some of the angry party at Albany. The Interpreter who was sent to hasten the Sachems reported that their minds were so possess'd with a jealousy of my intending them mischief as the French had suggested to them, that they were all that while deliberating whether to venture to meet me at Albany. My conference with the Indians goes (N<sup>o</sup> 4) it lasted seven or eight days, and was the greatest fatigue I ever underwent in my whole life. I was shut up in a close chamber with 50 Sachems, who besides the stink of bear's grease with which they plentifully dawb'd themselves, were continually either smoaking tobacco or drinking drams of rum. They seem'd sullen and out of humour at first, but by degrees I brought 'em to perfect good tember. I am told there never appear'd so many Sachems at any conference as at this. There were above 200 men women and children, and 'twas with some difficulty we could find 'em in victuals.

I once intended to make some remarks on the heads contain'd in the conference, but I consider that would give too great length and scope to this letter, and would make it more troublesome to your Lordships than usefull. I shall only observe that the message I sent last Spring by Coll. Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and M<sup>r</sup> Hanson to the Five Nations was a most lucky step, and was, I may presume to say, the hindring the Indians from a revolt to the French. This will appear from what the Indians own in page the 5th of the conferences. I had the good luck to be too nimble for Bruyas the Jesuit and Mons<sup>r</sup> Maricour, and by my present of a Belt of Wampum I frustrated theirs; insomuch that upon their coming the Indians told 'em that they were pre-ingaged to me.

What's contain'd in page 11. about the Dowagauhas Indians coming to live near the Five Nations and in amity with them, is very considerable. If it can be effected it will be a mighty blow to the French. I ask'd our Indians what the number might be of those Dowagauhas that propos'd coming to live near 'em; they answer'd they could not tell their number, but there were 16 Castles of 'em, and there may be by that rule 3 or 4000.

My private conference beginning (page 18) and ending (page 23) is so call'd because I intended it should not be printed with the rest, but our printer being sick, I can have neither printed; and I think the less those things we transact with our Indians are made publick, the better 'tis for us.

Your Lordships will find (page 28) that the Indians press to have bounds and limits settled between us and the French.

There's a further confirmation (page 30) of the success of my message to y<sup>e</sup> Indians last Spring by Coll Schuyler &c.

Page 32 is wholly taken up with the thanks of the Five Nations by the mouth of Henry the Protestant Mohack, for the Act of Assembly which vacates Coll. Fletcher's grants of the Mohack's land to M<sup>r</sup> Dellius Coll. Bayard &c.

I am in hopes of bringing the Eastern Indians to come and settle at and about Schackhook with our River Indians; 'tis a project I have formerly acquainted your Lordships with, which if I can accomplish will be of very great use to strengthen our Five Nations and annoy the French whenever we have a war with France. Your Lordships will find our River Indians make me an overture to that purpose in (page 34) our Schackhook or River Indians were of those Eastern Indians, but were driven from that country by the people of New England 26 years ago, in the war call'd King Philips war. Those Eastern Indians and our river Indians still retain their friendship and intermarry with each other.

The Penicook and Eastern Indians were cunning enough to send ten or twelve of their people to be present at our conferences at Albany, to watch & observe whether the Five Nations were in good intelligence with me. One of 'em I remember'd to have seen at Boston; he speaks good English and I discours'd him long. He told me the Jesuits made him and the rest of the Indians his neighbours believe the Five Nations were resolved to decline meeting me at Albany this time, and would revolt to the Governour of Canada. I was glad to hear the Mohacks tell those Eastern Indians that if they liv'd not peaceably with the English in New England, they would look on 'em as their enemies and cut 'em off. And indeed that is an unanswerable reason for the King's uniting the Provinces of the Massachusets and New Yorke always under the same Governour; for otherwise the Five Nations can never be so manag'd as to suppress the rebellions of the Eastern Indians. I gave the Eastern Indians presents and they seem'd well pleas'd.

I send your Lordships the memorial of M<sup>r</sup> David Schuyler who was newly come from Canada to Albany, as I arriv'd there; it goes (N<sup>o</sup> 5) and the greatest use of it is to shew how many of our Indians the Jesuits have decoy'd from us.

A few days before my leaving Albany Samuel York an Englishman, escaped thither from Canada after a detention of ten years by the French. His Memorial which is (N<sup>o</sup> 6.) will give your Lordships some satisfaction. If the man be honest I hope to make good use of him. I have sent him with two or three of the Albany men and some of our Indians to the Dowaganhas and other remote nations to try to engage them in a trade with us. He has liv'd among 'em and speaks their language. Whether the Governour of Canada had a jealousy of my sending those nations or had the intelligence thereof from Albany (for some people believe that Bruyas the Jesuit and Mons<sup>r</sup> de la Valliere staid there not so long last year to observe our poor and shamefull Fort there, but that they bestowed some of that time in securing a pensioner or intelligencer) I know not; but 'tis certain that [the] Governour has detach'd a Captain and 30 men to the Dowaganha's country and sent a pardon to a number of French hunters (whom they call Coureurs de bois) who have been in rebellion and refused to come to the Governour on his sumons. Samuel York and also Jean Rosie a French man who lives at Albany and came lately from Montreal, assured me those Coureurs de Bois were very desirous to come and live under the King's obedience and would bring a great store of peltry with them, but they feared our Five Nations would both robb and knock 'em in the head; which is the reason I advise the Indians in my conference to give the French traders free passage through their country. If I can get these Coureurs de Bois to come to me, I make no question to draw the Dowaganhas to me; but if the French Captain and his party meets Samuël York, and his Company (who are not above 10 men) he will certainly knock 'em in the head.

I sent Coll. Romer to the Onondages country to find out a proper place for erecting a Fort; my instructions to him go (N<sup>o</sup> 7.)

I send the Muster rolls of the four Companies bound up together and N<sup>o</sup> 8. I had the two Companies at Albany viz<sup>t</sup> Major Ingoldesby's and Capt. Weemes's muster'd before me there, and my own and the Lieutenant Governour's here since my return from Albany, which is the reason of the difference of their dates. I never in my life saw so moving a sight as that of the Companies at Albany, half the men were without breeches shoes and stockings when they muster'd. I thought it shamefull to the last degree to see English soldiers so abus'd. They had like to have mutinied. Their petition complaining of the dearness and badness of their provisions goes (N<sup>o</sup> 9.) Another petition about their want of cloaths and fewell, goes (N<sup>o</sup> 10.) I made a new order for the mustering the four Companies every two months, a Copy whereof is (N<sup>o</sup> 11.)

While I was at Albany I discovered a very unfair practice in the Commissioners I appointed there for management of the Indian affairs, in bringing in large accounts of expences for the Indians, and Coll Schuyler, above all others, was guilty of this. To prevent which great expence and inconvenience I made the following order (N<sup>o</sup> 12.) the first three articles & part of the 4th your Lordship formerly had page 18 of the printed Conference that accompanied my letter to your Lordships of the 14th September. 98. but the fifth and sixth articles in these instructions now sent are wholly new; wherein I have taken care to limit the Commissioners in their expences for the Indian service. I found at my going to Albany, Aquendero alias Sadegenohy the Speaker of the Five Nations, with about 25 Indians more had been maintained at Coll. Schuyler's house, but at the King's charge, for 2 months. I found fault with that mismanagement and calculated the foremention'd order or instructions to prevent it for the future. Coll. Schuyler studies to make himself popular by that means; I should commend his so doing if he had made use of it to serve the King, but when he does it to serve himselfe and gratifie his own vanitie, I declared I could not approve of that. To give your Lordships one instance of Coll. Schuyler's vanity and what effect his having the Indian Speaker so long a training had on him: the 31st of August which was the last day of my main conference with the Indians, Schuyler had instructed the Speaker to call for him, and he contriv'd to be absent on purpose. When the Speaker call'd for him & desir'd I would send for him I thought it was fit for me to rebuke him. I told him I was the Governour & that the King had intrusted me with the choice of his Counsellors in this Province and that it was at my election whether I would have Coll. Schuyler continue one of His Majesty's Council or lay him aside. This was a foolish plot of Schuyler's, but such things do hurt; they perplex and distract the Indians and tend to lessen the authority of a Governour.

The parties have been much divided about my building a Fort at the Onondages; the Leisler party for it, and the others against it violently. There was an Address to me from some of the Inhabitants of Albany when I was there, a copy whereof is (N<sup>o</sup> 13) wherein they desire that Albany and Schenectade may be fortified before the Fort at Onondage be begun. The Mayor Recorder and about two thirds of the Inhabitants refused to signe the Address because they apprehended the general Assemblie had approv'd of the building a Fort in the Onondage country and that it was a good design for the service of the King and the Province.

Your Lordships will find in the conferences what presents I made the Five Nations and the River Indians; and an account of the charges of my expedition to Albany and of the presents, is (N<sup>o</sup> 14.)

In my return from Albany and on Hudson's River I met with your Lordships letters of the 11th & 19th of Aprill and 10th of May last, and with them I received the King's letter of the 25th of last March and one from his Majesty to the Governour and Company of Connecticut, which I sent to that Governour and have his receipt for it.

I was eight days and as many nights coming down Hudson's River in a little nasty sloop, which made my journey extremely tiresome.

Captain Caldwell with the Advice frigate arrived here the 17th of last month and brought me your Lordships letters of the 21st of last June and a 100 recruits, tho' but part of the cloathing. Those expected from Ireland are not yet come. I am glad your Lordships have succeeded so well in fixing these soldiers subsistence and cloathing for the time to come, and in obtaining the presents for the Indians and £500 towards building the Fort at Onondage.

I shall be better able to satisfy your Lordships about that intended Fort when Coll. Romer returns from that country and has made me his report pursuant to my instructions to him. But according to my present idea of the country and it's situation in the map, there is an isthmus or neck of land on a vast lake lying northward of the Onondages, which will be the first place for a Fort, and so the Indian Sachems agreed with me; for Coll. Romer and I shew'd 'em the map, which they quickly comprehended. It will have a double advantage, first in securing some rivers that run into that Lake, through which rivers French us'd to pass when they made war upon our Syneck Nation, which they did in they year :57. A second advantage will be that the Dowaganhas and those other remote Nations will be able to come and trade at our Fort there, in spite of our Five Nations; for they can come directly over that lake in their Canoes, without passing through any part of the Country where our Five Nations inhabit. And notwithstanding all the fair promises of our Indians contained in the Conferences, to embody with those remote Indians and receive 'em into the Covenant Chain they cannot be rely'd on altogether. They are apt to be perfidious, and 'tis much to be fear'd they will as often as they meet those Indians, rob 'em of their peltry and then knock 'em in the head, that they may tell no tales.

M<sup>r</sup> Lodwick arrived here the 19th of last month after a tedious passage of 15 weeks; he brought me the originals of your Lordships forementioned letters of the 11th and 19th of last April and 10th of last May, also letters from the King of the 10th of last February and 29th of March, with letters also from the King to the Govern<sup>rs</sup> of Connecticut and Rhode Island, which I sent them.

I desire your Lordships will please to send over two Ministers as soon as possibly can be, or we shall hazard the loss of our Indians; they press for Ministers above all things whatsoever. They ought to be young men or they will never be able to learn the Indian tongue. They must be men of sober and exemplary lives and good scholars, or they will not be fit to instruct the Indians and encounter the Jesuits in point of argument. I should advise their being both settled at the intended Fort, and for their encouragement they ought to have £150 a year salarie apiece Stérl. money. Without a Fort 'tis next to impossible to prevail with the Ministers to live among the Indians; they are so nasty as never to wash their hands or the utensils they dress their victuals with. Their food is (some of it) loathsome to the last degree; tho' they eat great store of venison pigeons and fish, yet Bear's flesh is a great part of their diet, and when they feast themselves and their friends, a dog is esteem'd with them a princely dish. The Corporation for Propagating the Gospell &c are worthy gentlemen and I am confident will at your Lordships desire order the salaries of the Ministers out of the Corporation Stock; and because your Lordships ordered me in your letter of the 21st of August 1699 to send you an account of the disposition of the stock in New England, I therefore now send an account of the persons who receive pensions out of it, and also of the fond out of which those pensions arise; both which are contained in the same paper and (N<sup>o</sup> 15.) The persons against whose names I have set a Cross on the margin are Ministers. I have often told M<sup>r</sup> Stoughton, who is Treasurer, and the rest of the Commissioners for management of that affair that I thought that Province able enough to maintain their ministers, and that the giving that money to ministers that did not preach to the Indians in their tongue, and were so lazy as not to learn it, that they might the better instruct them, was a misapplication of the Corporation money. I am a member of the Corporation myself, and we had some meetings at Boston to settle that business but did little in it. M<sup>r</sup> Grindall Rawson is the only Minister in the list that speaks the Indian tongue and preaches in it. M<sup>r</sup> Stoughton and I joyn'd in putting M<sup>r</sup> Laborie into a Plantation where are some French and Indians, with a salary of £30. a year; he had undertaken to learn the Indian tongue and instruct and preach to the Indians.

I was in great hopes your Lordships would have directed me to fall immediately upon fortifying at Albany and Schenectady; those forts are not only scandalously weak, but do us unspeakable mischief with our Indians, who conceive a proportionable Idea of the Kings power & greatness. The inhabitants came all about me at my leaving Albany and told me in plain terms that if the King would not build a Fort there to protect 'em they would on the very first news of a war between England and France desert that place and fly to New York, rather than they would stay there to have their throats cut. Several of the inhabitants of Schenectady told me the same of their Fort. I sent Coll. Romer to view it, and he reported to me that the gates of that fort were down, and that a cart might pass through the palisades or rather stakes. I desire your Lordships will please to lay this matter before the King. That Forts should be built at those places is undeniably necessary and should not have been thus long delayed; and that the Assembly of this Province will not be at the charge of building them, I am as certain. I have often talked with some of them about it, and the reason they give is not without weight: they say tho' the City of New York be tolerably rich and also Nassaw Island, yet all the other parts of y<sup>e</sup> province are poor, especially the City and County of Albany, and not at all able to pay any proportion of such a charge. There are half a dozen at Albany who have competent estates, but all the rest are miserable poor. If the King would order me to begin to build forts at those two places, and order me a credit on some of the revenue offices in London, I would draw for small sums at a time till the King should either be assisted by the Parliament of England, or some way thought of to compell all the Plantations to contribute to the charge of these and all other necessary fortifications. I did not question but orders would have come for building forts at Albany and Schenectady, and therefore I had 400 wheelbarrows provided which have cost above a £100. This disappointment will be a caution to me hereafter, not to be so hastily wise and provident for the King as to anticipate his orders. If those two places are not fortified, this and the neighbouring Plantations will be defenceless and expos'd to a certain ruin if a war should happen between the two Crowns. The French of Canada are I doubt not well informed of all our circumstances since the last war. I find that in the year :87. the Marquis de Denonville Governour of Canada march'd at the head of 2300 men against our Syneck Nation. The French are said to be much numerous now than they were then. They have, according to the information I have lately had, 200 officers and are able to double their standing force at a day or two's warning, by obliging the Burguers to enlist themselves. Then they are always provided at Moutreal with magazines of all sorts, to furnish 'em for an expedition against us our Five Nations. Jean Rosie and Samuel York told me now at Albany, they have been in the armory there, and that there are arms for 2500 men with ammunition in proportion, that there are 250 small boats, as many canoes, and 1500 pair of snow shoes or raquets, a pair whereof I now send your Lordships by Capt. Deering who commands the ship Fortune, that you may see the manner of them.

I find in looking over my papers and notes I had forgot to acquaint your Lordships of a petition of the Inhabitants of Suffolk County and another of those of Queen's County in this Province for the settlement of a Dissenting Ministry among them; the said petitions were deliver'd during that session of the Assembly wherein the Revenue was settled for six years. I gave no countenance to those petitions then, nor will I recommend them now: I think the best way is to forget them.

I suspended M<sup>r</sup> Lancaster Symes one of the Lieutenants to Major Ingoldesby's Company of Fusileers, and that on the 22<sup>d</sup> of December 1698, for neglecting to go to his post at Albany after two years absence from thence. He has never apply'd to me to be restor'd and deserves for many reasons to be broke; which I hope the King will be pleas'd to consent to.

Major Ingoldesby has been absent from his post four years and is so brutish to leave his wife and children here to starve. I was forc'd to lend her £30. or she must have starv'd. I desire he might be commanded to his post immediately, or rather I could wish he were exchang'd for some discreet honest gentleman, that's a Captain in a Regiment in England. Ingoldesby is of a worthy family, but is a rash hot-headed man, and had a great hand in the execution of Leisler and Milburn, for which reason, if there were no other, he is not so fit to serve in this Country, having made himself hatefull to the Leisler party.

I suspended Parson Smith, Chaplain to these Companys on the 7th of last August for affronting my Lord Bishop of London and for living a scandalous life, in neglecting his cure, parting with his wife, and cohabiting with another woman.

I suspended M<sup>r</sup> Augustine Graham (son of the Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup>) from the post of Adjutant, on the 14th of last month. He had 4<sup>s</sup> per day for doing nothing. I saw him exercise three files of men (which made the guard here in the Fort) twice since my being in the Government. I thought his pay a superfluous charge, and his duty I will make the Lieutenant doe. Besides that, he is a most profligate man, often drunk, and then his common exercise is to break glass windows and disturb all the town in the night. I admonished him against his disorderly course of life, but I believe he will become sober when his father becomes honest. His father has plaid me a world of tricks and I am heartily glad your Lordships are sending over an able honest Attorney General; for M<sup>r</sup> Graham has often misled but never assisted me, except in the charge I sent home against Coll. Fletcher.

Your Lordships direction to me in your letter of the 21st of August :99. to send you my observations on the proposals made by the Proprietors of East Jersey and contained in the paper (marked M) will not now need to be comply'd with, since the Proprietors have carried the cause in Westminster Hall, and obtained a freedom of port for Perth Amboy.

As to the Charter granted by Coll. Fletcher to the town of West Chester, M<sup>r</sup> Graham the Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> gave me that character which I transmitted to your Lordships concerning its extravagance and illegality.

I send your Lordships a list of the present Council of this Province (N<sup>o</sup> 16.) but am puzzl'd who to recommend for a supply of Counsellors, unless I should send the names of merchants. When M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver come over we shall be pretty well reinforced.

I shall observe your Lordships direction in getting some large masts of ships brought down Hudson's River at as cheap rates as I can, and will give your Lordships timely notice thereof, that you may send for them. But as for making an experiment (as you direct) with some soldiers in the making of tar, 'tis not possible to be done as the case stands, for the King has not an acre of land or a tree in this Province; unless the Act for vacating some grants, which I sent home, be approv'd. I know the Act stands good unless the King disapprove it, yet we are discouraged in the mean time from falling to work. Besides too the soldiers that work must be allow'd 12<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> day Sterl. or we shall never get 'em to work. If your Lordships will get that Act approv'd by the King and the pay for 100 soldiers increas'd to 12<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> day English, I doubt not but to give your Lordships good satisfaction in that particular and that very soon. I mean the pay of a 100 men only, to be so increased, during the time the experiment is making. Now that I am upon the mention of the soldiers pay, I must crave leave to renew my former request, of having the £30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent taken off. If I were to consult my own interest singly & would follow the example of him that went before me, I should then let the article of £30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent. rest as it does, and put (as Coll. Fletcher did) the greatest part of it in my pocket. But I am for putting things on a foot that will be for the King's honour, & the soldiers case. In plain terms that deduction is an intollerable oppression upon the officers and soldiers, and unless it be taken off, we shall never be able to keep full companies. This country is dear for diet, and taking one thing with another (that is the price of cloathing with that of diet) 'tis full twice as dear living here as in London. A coarse pair of yarn stockings that costs 9<sup>d</sup> in London costs 3<sup>s</sup> 6. English, here; a pair of soldiers shoes that costs 3<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> in London costs 7<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> here, New York money; and so linen for shirts double the price it costs in London. And now I appeal to your Lordships whether it be prudent or reasonable or yet honest, that this deduction be continued. To remove the objection, that this proposition of mine will create a new charge to the King in paying the wages or pay of a Chaplain Store keeper Surgeon, Gunner and Matrosses, which us'd to be paid out of the 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent, I will undertake to order the matter so as to pay those Extraordinaries without any charge to the King, and that, by the improvement I will make of the soldiers pay, in trade, which is the only way that's practicable, to transfer their pay from England to this place. In a word the new Recruits had like to have mutinied at the sad provisions furnished by the victualer, so that I am now forc'd to pay 'em every Saturday duly, their subsistence in mony, and the same course I am going to take at Albany, where the soldiers have been worse used than here, to M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's only satisfaction and profit; he having pinch'd an estate out of the poor soldiers bellies.

I have been put to much trouble in this method I have begun, of paying the soldiers subsistence in mony weekly; the merchants in this town finding I was forc'd to take up mony here and draw bills on the Agent in London, they combin'd together to traverse me all they could. At first they lower'd the exchange of the mony considerably, and what is worse they will now advance no mony at all on my bills; so that were it not for one Dutch Merchant and two or three Jews that have let me have mony, I should have been undone. This at once shews the wickedness of these people, and the necessity of returning the soldiers pay in trade, that so we may not be at the mercy of these merchants.

Before I quit this subject I must acquaint your Lordships that before these recruits came, we had very few men in the four Companies that were not fitter for an hospitall than for service. The old disabled men staid because they could not otherwise live, and the young fellows deserted to the neighbouring plantations, where they never fail of a wellcome. And these men will do the like unless the 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent be taken off, and their lives made easy and comfortable.

When I arrived here from Boston I found Capt. Ogden, who had been come about 10 days and had brought 50 barrels of powder and the number of beds mention'd in the following certificate. The powder I ordered to be opened and view'd and there were 5 barrells wanting in the measure, and great part drawn powder with pieces of waddes and carthrage paper, and decay'd powder that was clotted dust. The bedds all old, rotten and broke, and not packed up, but thrown loose into the ship, and so unfit for use that they are scarce worth the mending. I referr your Lordships for farther information to Capt. Ogden's certificate upon oath (N<sup>o</sup> 17.) and his and his Officer's affidavit (N<sup>o</sup> 18.) I desire there may be a 100 good bedds with covering and sheets sent over as soon as may be; for if the recruits come from Ireland we have not a bedd for them; and here the inhabitants will not endure to quarter the soldiers.

The recruits that are now come from England are very clamorous about their Sea-pay, in regard they were put to short allowance in their voyage. I send their petition (N<sup>o</sup> 19.) and desire your Lordships direction what to do in it. I cannot (I tell 'em) answer the paying them but from the day of their landing.

There is a great want of a Court of Chancery here, but no body here understanding it rightly I delay appointing one till the Judge and Attorney General's coming from England.

I sent your Lordships with my letter of the 22th of June .98. the yearly amounts of the Revenue of New Yorke under M<sup>r</sup> Brookes's collection and during Coll. Fletcher's government. I then took the medium of the five years produce of the revenue in Coll. Fletcher's time, which to the best of my remembrance was no more than £3300 in one year. And to let your Lordships see what improvement has been made of the revenue these two last years, since Brokes's being out, I send the amounts of the said two last years (N<sup>o</sup> 20) the year 1698 produces £5267 11 2<sup>q</sup>. and the year 1699 produces £5400 19 6<sup>½</sup>; so that deducting the said years amount at a medium, from the last years amount or produce of the revenue, and it appears the increase or improvement thereof is £2100 19 6<sup>½</sup>. which is not an inconsiderable service to the King; and if I had an honest active collector to assist me, I will undertake to advance the revenue of this Province to double whatever it was in any year during Coll. Fletcher's government. I believe Coll. Courtland gives a just account of all the money that comes to his hands, but he is grown very crazy and infirm, and is a very timorous man. In a word he has never yet made any seizure since his being Collector an I believe never would if he were 50 years to come, in that post.

The sales of the ship Fidelia seiz'd at Boston (which I forgot to send from thence) and of the ships Nassau and Adventure seiz'd and condemn'd here, are bound up together and are (N<sup>o</sup> 21.) The Nassau was commanded by Giles Shelly who brought above 50 pyrats and much treasure in her from Madagascar. There's a violent presumption that M<sup>r</sup> Graham was brib'd by Shelly and so contriv'd his escape. The story will be long to trouble your Lordships with now, but another time I will acquaint you with it.

If the Commissioners appointed by Act of Assembly to take and state the publick accounts of the Province do not make a further examen into Coll. Fletcher's accounts than that I formerly sent your Lordships (and I much doubt whether they be very capable or skillfull in accounts) I cannot promise your Lordships a more exact Audit than that I formerly sent. I for my part cannot attend a work of that labour and we have not here so much as one man that has a talent for that sort of business;—For that reason it was I was desirous of M<sup>r</sup> Follet's being made Secretary of the Province.

Your Lordships are pleas'd in your letter of the 19th of last Aprill to caution me against obstructing the course of the law in the suit depending between Coll: Allen and the Inhabitants of New Hampshire, wherein I have been so very carefull that I have not concern'd myself directly or indirectly either by word or letter, in that affair; insomuch that my indifference has render'd me suspected by either side, to be an enemy. Last post a gentleman writes me word from Boston that M<sup>r</sup> Partridge was come thither and gave out to his friends that I privately favour'd Coll: Allens pretention. Your Lordships know how much truth there is in that surmise of M<sup>r</sup> Partridge's.

In your Lordships said letter of the 19th of April, you encourage my further inquiry into the use that may be made of turpentine and brimstone for paying ships bottoms; which made me write to my author Capt. Belcher at Boston about it, and the extracts of two letters I have since had from him on that subject are both in the paper (N<sup>o</sup> 22.) I have talked with M<sup>r</sup> Latham an able ship-wright here who wrought several years in the King's yards in England about that composition, and he is of opinion it will do extremely well and will resist the worm. As I get further light into that experiment your Lordships shall know it.

The ship Fortune which I formerly acquainted your Lordships, was thrown upon the King by the ignorance of M<sup>r</sup> Graham and some other concurring accidents, I now send to England full freighted with ship timber, under the command of Capt. Deering who was Lieutenant of the Arundel Frigate, and was desirous to command the said ship Fortune. The reports your Lordships have sent me from the Navy Board and the builders in the King's yards at Deptford and Woolwich, upon the specimens of ship timber sent by M<sup>r</sup> Bridger from Piscataway, have put me upon a nice and exact survey of the timber I now send (which is but a third part neither of that which I have provided) and that your Lordships may be rightly inform'd in the nature of the timber I send my order to the principall shipwrights in this town to survey the said timber, and their report after a survey made thereof, both which are contained in the paper (N<sup>o</sup> 23) The builders at Deptford and Woolwich in their said report preferring Eastland timber to that which M<sup>r</sup> Bridger sent home, I do not like:—The word Eastland gives me a jealousy; it has an ill sound with it. We know very well the Eastland Merchants are a wealthy body of men. If M<sup>r</sup> Bridger sent of the best timber I must suspect the candor and ingenuity of those builders. When I call'd all the ship wrights before me, whose names are to the forementioned report, and ask'd their opinions of this timber in the ship Fortune and that which lyes on the wharf, they all (except M<sup>r</sup> John Latham) were positive that it was as good in every respect as any timber they ever saw or wrought on in England; but John Latham seeming to yeild a preference to English Oak, I advis'd the rest to submit to his experience. I send your Lordships in the paper (N<sup>o</sup> 24) an invoice of timber put on board the ship Fortune and also of that which remains behind, and which I will send along with the Masts which you order me to send to England of the growth of this Province. I also send an account of the charges I have been at in providing all this ship timber, both that which I now send and also that which stays here for another opportunity; the said account is (N<sup>o</sup> 25.) I desire Your Lordships will please to take such order as that I may be reimburs'd this mony out of hand, most part of which I am debtor, and let me not be so hardly us'd in this as I was in the expences I was out for taking Gillam the pirat, and for my journey to Rhode Island to execute the King's Commission of Inquiry; the account whereof I sent to England, but the Lords of the Treasury rejected it, and directed I should be paid out of the revenue of the Province, their Lordships not knowing, I perceive, that the King has not a shilling of revenue in the Massachusetts Province. This and a great many other discouragements I meet with. I send your Lordships a copy of my letter to the Lords of the Admiralty (N<sup>o</sup> 26) which may serve for your Lordships further information about this ship timber. As no interest or reward can possibly byas me against the good and interest of England and the affection & duty I owe her, so I cannot but have a jealousy for every thing that's for her advantage. The furnishing ship timber from these plantations (not only for the use of the Navy but also for the use of the Merchant if it may be so order'd) is of the greatest moment and advantage that possibly can be thought of for England, and it will, I perceive, stand in need of your Lordships utmost circumspection and care to support an imate trade against an alien or foreign trade; which certainly no man that pretends to common sense or honesty will put in ballance.

Also the arrear due to the victualers of the Companys here, which I acquainted your Lordships in my letter of the 25th of last February last, was about £10000 and which I find mention made of in your Lordships representation of the 24th of last Aprill to the King, which you were pleased to send me a copy of with your letter of the 10th of last May, I find in my journal that M<sup>r</sup> Livingston told me so on the 29th of July 1699. at Salem in my way from Boston to Piscataway. He is now here, and I ask'd him whether the debt due to him and the rest of the Victuallers amounted then to £10000, and I put him in mind of his telling me so at Salem; and he says in answer thereunto that he meant the whole arrear of subsistence due to the officers and soldiers, amounted at that time to £10000. I find there is a years subsistence due to the Victualers in Coll: Fletcher's time which makes part of the said sum of £10000

I have paid the Companies the 9 months subsistence from the 25th of March 1699. to the 25th of December following, and have given them and the victualers notice that the Agent had receiv'd the subsistence to the 19th of last June, besides 8 months clearings, which shall be paid out of hand when the Captains and victuallers have made up accounts. I shall never be able to raise mony here for bills of exchange on the Agent, as the merchants here combine against me; therefore I must be forc'd to instruct the Agent in London to invest the pay and subsistence in goods proper for this country. I had lost my credit with the officers and soldiers for want of mony to pay them (and the victualers for them) the 9 months subsistence, had it not been for the mony the Collector had in his hands, which the Assembly intended as a present for me, and which I was forc'd to borrow to answer so urgent an occasion. I am almost tempted to throw up the Agency and not meddle with it, but let the Lords of the Treasury order an Agent; for not being myself in London to take security of an Agent's faithfull discharge of that trust, I cannot but think I run some hazard. The Agent for the Companys ought to be a merchant of good skill and substance and should by right give good security in 6 or 7000.£.

The General Assembly should have met the first of this month, but staid for the Albany members 10 days, those members having been almost so long on the river coming down. They have voted a repeal of the foolish Act they pass'd last session for the building the Fort at Onondage, giving a tax in lieu of that additional duty; so that I hope to have a good Fort built there and man'd by the end of next June.

Last Sunday the soldiers that came last from England were about to mutiny because they have not English pay. I got notice of it and put the ringleader in irons. The people of this town are some of 'em so wicked as to excite the soldiers to mutiny and some of the soldiers have confess'd so. The three Lieutenants that came with these recruits are very uneasy, and told me if they could not have English pay they would go home again to England. I hope the government there is not bankrupt, that the King should be under the necessity of putting a hardship upon officers and soldiers that come to this dear country to serve him. I desire your Lordships above any thing to get the 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent taken off.

As Coll. Nicholson and Coll: Blackiston were coming hither (for they would needs make me the complement of coming to New Yorke) they were both taken ill on the way; Coll: Blakiston could come no further than Philadelphia and thence return'd again to Maryland. Coll: Nicholson made a shift to get lither, but was very weak with his fever. He came here the 22th of last month, and return'd the 11th instant. With him came M<sup>r</sup> Penn and Coll: Hamilton Governour of the Jerseys. Coll Nicholson, M<sup>r</sup> Penn and I, had some discourse about these plantations; the heads on which we discours'd were drawn up in short terms by M<sup>r</sup> Penn and are (N<sup>o</sup> 27.) Coll: Nicholson's indisposition hindred us from putting these heads into better form, besides too M<sup>r</sup> Penn has forgot to take notice of the first head we talk'd of viz<sup>t</sup>. A method how to draw the remote Indians over to Us. M<sup>r</sup> Penn's occasions called him hence the 4th instant, and Coll: Nicholson seem'd to think Coll: Blakiston's presence for the necessary for the observance of your Lordships orders, and doing something which might answer your expectation and the end of our meeting. We have determined to meet next spring at Philadelphia. The 6th and 7th heads or articles in M<sup>r</sup> Penn's paper, Coll Nicholson and I declared to him were not pertinent to our purpose, the first of which is calculated to people his Proprietary Colony, and the next is already order'd as he has stated it, by the King's commission and instructions to us, that are Governours for the King. I shall hereafter offer some things to your Lordships consideration upon these and the like heads.

I am advised from Boston that M<sup>r</sup> Benjamin Marston a merchant of Salem has sent away the planks for ships (which I formerly acquainted your Lordships of) to Lisbon, notwithstanding I cautioned him against it. He declared there was no Statute against so doing, and he would carry on his lawfull trade. M<sup>r</sup> Partridge has taught the country that trade, which he never can make amends for. 'Tis a most injurious trade to England, not only as it helps our neighbours (and how soon we may call 'em our enemies we cannot tell) to build ships of war, but I will undertake to demonstrate also that that lazy and gainful trade will quickly loose our fishing trade to the French. The very next letter I write to your Lordships shall treat of the trade of these Provinces and of the fishery amongst the rest. I expect Coll: Romer every day from visiting the Onondages country and we will then offer something upon the head of forts and fortifications on our frontier.

I shall conclude with reminding your Lordships of a better salary for myself and some recompence for the time that's past. I have been out of England these three years and more, and if I were ask'd the question what I have done in that time for the advantage of myself and family, I could with truth affirm I have been nicely faithfull to the King and have taken a world of pains to serve the interest of England and come all this way to return in worse circumstances as to my fortune than I came from England. I am assur'd from good hands that the profits of the Governour of Virginia are £4000 a year, and those of the Governour of Maryland £2500 a year. 'Tis true those Plantations yield a great revenue to the Crown, and that's a good reason why those Governments should be profitable; I believe too they are worthy gentlemen that are the Governours; yet I have something to plead for myself which those Governours I am sure will not deny, viz<sup>t</sup>. that all the revenue arising from those Provinces depends on my care and a right management of the Indians, especially the 5 Nations. And more than that, there is not a man of truth in America that will not own that all our Plantations in America can subsist no longer than those Indians are our friends; even Barbadoes and the rest of the Islands depend on it, for their constant supplies of provisions are from these Plantations: some they have from England and Ireland, but that is casual.

I am lately advised by a letter from London that the merchants of New Yorke had petition'd the King that they might be put under a distinct Governour from the Province of the Massachusetts Bay; But I hope your Lordships will oppose so dangerous a step as that may prove to be, and rather gratify 'em in a new Governour who shall be Governour of both as at present. I have told your Lordships in the former part of this letter my reasons why the King will always find his account in putting this Province and the Massachusetts under the same Governour.

Coll: Nicholson and M<sup>r</sup> Penn endeavour'd to reconcile the parties here, and took pains to reconcile me and the merchants. I told 'em I had no advances to make to the merchants unless it could be prov'd I had govern'd arbitrarily and oppress'd them in their trade, contrary to law; that for my part I was in charity with them and all the world, but if the merchants of New Yorke expected to be reconcil'd to me, upon the terms of my indulging them in unlawfull trade and piracy they should find themselves still mistaken, for I would be as steady as a rock in those points. Till these grants of land have had their doom these people are irreconcilable and 'tis the greatest hardship on me imaginable that the Act I sent over for vacating some of Fletcher's grants has not been approv'd by the King in all this time. One Montague their Solicitor writes 'em word hither confidently, that the Act will be rejected by the King, which keeps up their rage and their insolence; and not only the Grantees concern'd immediately in that Act are angry and disturb'd, but also all the rest that have vast tracts of land granted by wholesale; and that which seems to me an absurdity is, that four of the Council are of those Grantees viz. Coll. Courtland, Coll: Schuyler, Coll. Smith, & M<sup>r</sup> Livingston. And though M<sup>r</sup> Graham be not one of them, yet he has been false to the King, notwithstanding the Representations he sent home to England, complaining of those extravagant grants and of their being ruinous to the Province; and plaid me many tricks to obstruct that Act's passing, which in spite of him did nevertheless pass. So that M<sup>r</sup> Graham being also of the Council and a friend to the Grantees, they have five of the eight Councillors that are at present in the Province.

I have been much troubled to find my name brought on the Stage in the House of Commons about Kidd. 'Twas hard I thought I should be push'd at so vehemently when it was known I had taken Kidd and secur'd him in order to his punishment; which was a sure sign the noble Lords concern'd with me, and myself, had no criminal design in setting out that ship. Another mortification I have met with is the loss of a rent charge of a £1000 a year which the King was pleased to give me upon an Irish forfeited estate, in recompence of the great losses I had sustained by the rebellion in Ireland. If I have serv'd the King and interest of England here, I am sure I have been strangely rewarded there.

I am with respect

My Lords

Your Lordships most humble

and obedient Servant

BELMONT.

New Yorke 17th

October 1700.

P. S. M<sup>r</sup> Champanté having sent me the copy of some articles that were exhibited against me to the House of Commons last session by one John Keis a Scotchman, I had once a design of answering them, till reflecting that the greatest part of 'em are palpable untruths, and those that happen to be true are trifling and of little moment, I thought it would be time mis-pent to answer such trash. To instance, in some of those false articles, I am accused of having remov'd Coll. Young with others from the Council, and Coll: Young was dead two years before my coming into this country. D<sup>r</sup> Carfbile, whom I swore of the Council is called a mountebank in one of the articles, whereas in truth he was a graduate Phisitian, having studied and taken his Doctors degree at Leyden, and was a very learned and honest man. There are a great many other grosse and impertinent untruths in those articles, which I do not think worth while to trouble your Lordships with. I think 'tis a hardship on every honest man that serves the King to the best of his power to have his name and reputation torn and vilified by a little vagabond Scotchman. And I should think such a man is accountable to the House of Commons for abusing them with untruths and wasting their time, and it would become their justice to punish men that make vexatious and groundless complaints.

I hope your Lordships will settle and send over the establishment for my increase of salary, very soon; otherwise I cannot possibly undergo the fatigue of business I have hitherto done. My part of the conference was every word dictated by me, and all the orders I now send, and which at any time I use in the Government, I am forc'd to draw with my own hand for want of a Secretary that's a man of business; and my pitifull salary will not afford my keeping a private Secretary that's capable of doing business as it ought to be done. If I be not at Boston next May's session of that Assembly (as perhaps the King's service may require my stay in this Province all next summer) I do not expect they will make any provision for me, either by gift or Salary. Therefore I desire your Lordships will ascertain my salary for that Province, if that should so happen. 'Tis a mighty discouragement to be a Governour to be so treated, and some reflection on the Administration in England that a thing of that consequence should still be unsettled.

Since I finish'd (as I thought) this letter, I have received from Albany the good news of the Eastern Indians submission to the Five Nations, an account whereof your Lordships will find in the paper (N<sup>o</sup> 25) This is a most lucky thing, and the people of New England have reason to bless God that they are for ever hereafter secure and safe from a people that have been cruel thornes in their sides. And I may truly and modestly say that the King (as well as they) has some obligation to my labour and service herein. The submission proceeds from my management, when I was last at Albany, of the Eastern Indians which came thither to be present at our Conferences. Your Lordships will see by the said last mention'd paper that the Eastern Indians have renounced the Governour of Canada and the French. I will, God willing, be at Albany in spring, and will in the mean time appoint some of the Eastern Sachems and some of every of our Five Nations to meet me there, and I doubt not but I shall be able to make a perpetual Alliance and league of friendship between those Eastern Indians and our Five Nations.

I send your Lordships the minutes of Council relating to the last Session of Assembly, the Collectors Booke of Entries of Ships inward and outward from the 25th December 1699. to the 25th June 1700. and the Naval Officer's Book of Entries of Ships and Register, both for the same terme and time as the Collector's Book. I also send the copy of my letter to the Commissioners of the Customes. Besides the fore mention'd book of Minutes of Council relating to the business of the General Assembly, I also send two other books of minutes of Council for the months of April, May, June, July, August and September.

The Earls Speech.

He assures them of the King's protection.

have us'd to

Has heard that the French Jesuits have insinuated to them, as if the King designed to destroy them.

Dowaganhaes

And warned them not to meet him.

But he hopes they will now be instructed, and find the Jesuits lyars & impostors

He has sent for Ministers to instruct them, and in the mean time has settled Mr Freeman at Schenectade to instruct them.

I am comanded by the Great King of England my master to assure you of my protection and kindnesse and that he will support you against all his and your enemies. I have been much surpris'd to hear what artifices the French of Canada deceive and seduce you from your obedience to the Great King my master. I have been advis'd from your selves and the Eastern Indians that the French Jesuits have endeavour'd to perswade you and them that the King my master had form'd a design to destroy and extirpate all your nations and that by all the methods imaginable, that is to say by disarming you that you may become a prey to the Eastern Indians and their remote nations of Indians and by poisoning of you; and I have been told that the Jesuits have warned you not to come hither and enter into a conference with me, assuring you that I should meet you with a great armed force here to surprise and cut you off and that where that failed I should give you poyson to drinck in rum: but you shall find a treatment so contrary to what the Jesuits have insinuated to you, that if you do not give up your reason to those ill men, they will for ever hereafter passe with you for the greatest lyars and imposters in the world, and men that are a reproach to Christianity; and when you are acquainted with our religion, that is, the Protestant Religion you will find it is grounded on principles of truth and rightousnesse and not on lying artifices which the Jesuits teach and practise.

I have sent to England for Ministers to instruct you in the true Christian Religion. I expect some very soon over; for the present I shall settle M<sup>r</sup> Vreeman an able good Minister, at Schanectade, who I intend shall be one of those that shall be appointed to instruct you in the true faith. He will be near the Mohacks and in your way as you come from severall castles to this Town, and will take paines to teach you.

Who will learn their language in a year.

He will send another before winter & hopes they will soon find a great difference between ours & the Catholic religion.

He advises them to use all means to draw those Indians, the French have seduc'd, back amongst them in which they themselves will find a great advantage.

He begins his conference with Religion, because he understands they desire to be instructed in it.

Too morrow when he has received their answer, he will discourse them on another subject.

He has promised me to apply himself with all diligence to learn your language, and doubts not to be able to preach to you therein in a years time. I have another Minister, a learned able young man who I will also settle amongst you before winter. I doubt not but you will quickly perceive the vast difference between our religion and that which the Jesuits corruptly call the Christian Religion, when you have had the comfort and advantage of our Ministers sound doctrine, and I hope you will, when you are convinced of the truth of our religion, encourage those Indians of the Five Nations (whom the French Jesuits have seduc'd from us) to return to their obedience to the great King our Master; wherein you will also find your own advantage; for not only your friends and relations will come and live with you again (which will be a comfort to you) but you will be also strengthen'd by their union with you: for your own reason must tell you that while they continue under the dominion of the French, they are made your enemies by interest, and will fight against and kill you as often as they are commanded soe to doe by their French Masters. Therefore I tell you again, it behoves you to use all lawfull meanes and endeavours whatsoever to invite all those Indians that the French have debauch'd from us, to come and settle among you and bee united with you in one religion and interest.

I have thought fit to begin my conference with you on the subject of religion, because I perceive you have an earnest desire to be instructed therein, and I heartily rejoyce to find you so well dispos'd. 'Tis without doubt a thing of the greatest moment whatsoever, because it concerns the wellfare of your immortal soules, and is the way to everlasting happiness.

I will not say any more at present to burthen your memories; tomorrow I will discourse you on another subject, when I shall have received your answer to what I have now proposed to you.

Aqueendera alias Sadegenaktie, Speaker, who said.—

The Indians answer. Brother Corlaer.

They came hither by his Lordship's order. Wee were ordered this Spring to come here and wait upon your Lordship and are now accordingly come and convened together.

Yesterday wee had a conference and your Lordship made some proposals to us, which is but a beginning; you told us of the evill artifices used by the French of Canada to deceive and seduce us from our obedience to the Great King our master, which was industriously spread abroad not only among our Five Nations, but among the Eastern Indians, viz<sup>t</sup> that our brother Corlaer your Lordship would disarm us, and if that would destroy us, then to poyson us in rum. You say that all these evill reports come from the French of Canada; Wee know it very well, but wee do not regard their stories, nor takè any notice of it, because wee are of a peece, our hearts are stedy and constant, and wee lay hold of the old Covenant Chain made with this government under the Crown of England, which wee will keep firm and inviolable and will not mind or hearken to the French of Canada.

You say you will support us against all our King's and our enemies; wee will then forbear keeping any more correspondence with the French of Canada, if the Great King of England will defend our people from the Dowaganhaes, Twichtwicks and other Nations over whom the French have an influence, and who have been encourag'd by the French to destroy aboudance of our people even since the peace between the two Crowns, and the present Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada has not scrupled to own the same to some of us this last Spring.

If he will protect them from their enemies whom the French influence against them, they will break all correspondence with them. You promis'd us a Minister that there shou'd bee one at Schanegtade, by whom wee might bee instructed in the Christian Faith, as we come to trade at this City, and also that another able young man should come from Boston and teach us; which is very acceptable and joyfull news to us all since he is so near at hand.

They had Ministers promised last year: since when

Wee are thankfull to your Excellency that you will cause us to be instructed in the Protestant religion; we were told in our own count[r]y this Spring by those three Gentl. viz<sup>t</sup> Col. Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, and M<sup>r</sup> Hanse, whom your Lordship sent, that wee should have Protestant Ministers to instruct us and a Belt was given upon it, which wee the French have sent to offer them Jesuits.

accepted of; since when the French have sent us agents from Canada viz<sup>t</sup> Mons<sup>r</sup> Maricour and J. Bruyas, Superior of the Jesuits, tending us by a Belt, Jesuits to instruct us in their religion: but wee told them wee had accepted of your Lordships kind offer of Protestant Ministers, and therefore declined and refused to accept of their Clergy or Jesuits into our country. Now wee are unanimously resolv'd and whom they refused and will stick to my Lord and his religion.

come to this conclusion to adhere firmly to Corlaer and bee instructed in the Protestant religion which Corlaer and his peoples professes. The French have to often deceived us by their doctrine and wee are resolv'd wee will be deluded no more by them.

Having been often deceived by the French.

Brother

You advise us to prevail with our Brethren who have been enticed away to Canada by the French to return to us; but wee must tell you it is not altogether in our power; the Governo<sup>r</sup> of Canada has many wayes to draw and keep them; he feeds them when they are hungry and cloaths them when they are naked: for it is the French custome to cloath all those that are baptiz'd and receiv'd into their Church. This wee presume is a great inducement to our people to turn papists. Wee doubt if our Brother Corlaer would put the King of England to that charge. However tho' wee cannot cope with him, yet if our Brother Corlaer will lend his helping hand, then wee will doe our utmost endeavour to perswade them to return back to their own habitations.

They are afraid their Brother Indians will not return from the French where they are fed and cloathed.

They doubt my Lord would not put the King to that charge; however they will do their best endeavour to persuade them back.

They desire a Protestant Minister at the Onondages.

All wee of the Five Nations are come to this conclusion to have a Protestant Minister in Onondage the center of the Five Nations as soon as ever your Lordship pleases to send one. Wee have now answered to what Corlaer promised us yesterday, and have no more to say now, till wee hear further what Corlaer will be pleased to say to us, when wee shall be ready to make our reply.

and are ready to reply to what further proposals my Lord shall make.

Wherenpon the Earl of Bellomont told them that he would propose some thing more to them tomorrow morning about nine a clock.

A little while after, the Speaker Sadeganakti alias Aqueendero stood up and said:—

Wee have forgot something which is of moment, viz<sup>t</sup> to pray your Lordship to take care when our people come here to Albany, that they may be instructed by the Minister in the Protestant Religion as has been done formerly; lett that good work bee continued by all meanes, that wee may joyn together in devotion with our Brethren at Albany who are of the true reformed religion, which is the religion wee best approve of, as being built upon purer principles than that which the Jesuits teach, wherein wee can discern a great deal of artifice and fraud.

They desire their people may be instructed as often as they come to Albany, in the Protestant Religion.

Then the Sachems withdrew & the Protestant Maquase Indians desired to speak to his Lordp.

As soon as the Sachems of the Five nations had made an end of their discourse and were withdrawn, the Protestant Maquase Indians pray'd they might be admitted to speak to his Lordship; which being granted, Henry, the Maquase, spoke as follows:—

They have prevailed with five of their people not to go to Canada, but to stay under the King's protection.

Wee have been mindfull of what your Lordship proposed yesterday, that all endeavours ought to bee used not only to draw our people from Canada, who have been seduc'd by the Jesuits, but to prevent any of our peoples going thither; Wee are now come to acquaint your Lordship that wee have prevail'd upon Brandt and Jacob and three more of our people that were design'd to goe and live at Canada, who are now fully resolved to stay in their country. Upon which Brandt the Maquase stood up and told his Lordship that he was satisfied he had been in the wrong in designing to goe and live at Canada; he was now convinc'd of his error, and now fully resolv'd to stay in his own country and lyve and dye under the obedience of his Majestie of England and be further instructed in the true Protestant Religion.

My Lord commends their diligence & assures them of his favour. My Lord told them, That he was well satisfied with the diligence and integrity of Henry and the rest of the Protestant Maquase in using of their endavours to advise Brandt and the rest of their Brethren against their removing to Canada, and told them they should have no cause to repent it, for his Lordship would shew him all the kindness imaginable, and sayd further it would be very pleasing to his Lordship to see them united and live like loving brethren together.

The third dayes conference. Albany the 25th of August 1700.

PRESENT—the same Gentlemen as before.

Third Conference. The Sachems before mentioned being again conveyen'd before the Earl of Bellomont his Lordship expressed himself as follows:—

My Lord's speech. Brethren

He is satisfied of their zeal for the Protestant Religion, which he will report to the King as a means to recommend them to his royall protection. The zealous desire you expressed yesterday to have Protestant Ministers settled among you to instruct you in the true Christian Faith is very pleasing to mee, and will be very acceptable to the Great King our Master when I report it to his Majestie which I will not faile to do by the first opportunity; it will be for advantage that I communicate to the King the great disposition you are in, to become Christians and faithfull subjects to his Majestie, because it will effectually engage his Majestie to support and protect you at all times.

I question not but in a short time you will be furnished with able Ministers to instruct you in the Protestant Religion and I would place one or two Ministers in the Onnondage country which is the center of your Five Nations, as you have desir'd, among the propositions you made mee yesterday, but I have discours'd with Ministers on that head and find they are not willing to go so far off, unless there were a fort for your and their security; and you having formerly solicited mee to build you a Fort to cover you from the incursions of the French and their Indians and especially from the insults of the French garrison at Cadarachqui; I have thought it adviseable that a good fort bee built in some part of the Onnondages Country and the Generall Assembly of this Province have concurr'd with me in that design, and have appointed a tax to defray the charge thereof. I have also brought the King's Ingeneer along with mee, whom I will order to goe and view that country and report to mee the properest place for erecting a Fort, and when he has made his report to mee, the work shall bee carried on with all possible dispatch.

And he will send the King's Engineer to view the properest place.

He questions not but the King will fortify Albany and Schaenegtade very speedily;

be well fortified,
soe wee must goe
hand in hand and stand and fall together;

and resent all injuries done to them
as to his own proper subjects

But proposes the Beaver trade to be carry'd on at Albany.—

that it will bee
for your benefit that the trade be carry'd on under the eye of the Government, whereby you will bee
lesse exposed to bee wronged and over reach'd; for here you will have the countenance of the governm<sup>t</sup> which you cannot so well have at a greater distance, and your own reason must tell you that the more you correspond with the English the greater kindness and justice you will receive at their hands.

and will take care
to regulate it.

I have writ so effectually to the King about fortifying this town of Albany and Schanegtade that I doe not doubt but his Majestie will give some order therein very speedily; 'tis for your interest and security as well as ours that these places be well fortified, for as wee are to be intirely linked together in the same religion and interest, soe wee must goe hand in hand and stand and fall together; and I doubt not but the Great King of England our master will resent all injuries done to the Five Nations in the same manner as if done to the rest of his subjects; but whatever Forts are made or repaired I think it absolutely proper that the beaver trade bee wholly mannag'd within this town of Albany. There are severall good reasons for it, and one is that it will bee for your benefit that the trade be carry'd on under the eye of the Government, whereby you will bee lesse exposed to bee wronged and over reach'd; for here you will have the countenance of the governm<sup>t</sup> which you cannot so well have at a greater distance, and your own reason must tell you that the more you correspond with the English the greater kindness and justice you will receive at their hands. I observe the trade here, is not under a due regulation, but I will take care to rectifie that, and make every thing easy to you.

Continuation of the Third Dayes Conference Albany 28 August 1700
Post Meridiem.

Sadeganachtie, Speaker

The Indians
Answer.

Brother Corlaer.

This is the ancient house wherein wee speak to one another, the house of conference between your Lordship and the Five Nations; whatever newes wee have from the Dowaganhaes and other remote Indians wee communicate it all here and conceal nothing from Corlaer.

The Dowaganhaes have promised to come & settle on the other side of Cadaraquiqui Lake.

The Dowaganhaes have had Agents in our country this summer by whom the promised to come and settle at a place called Deganatiuchtage on the other side of Cadarachqui Lake, but are not yet come. Wee acquaint you that wee will use all endeavours to prevail with them to come to us and lay down a few hands of Wampum, which they call a cord to draw them by.

Brother.

All that you have this day proposed to us wee accept of and will stand to it, viz<sup>t</sup> of the two Ministers that are to be at Onmondage; it is very acceptable to us. Wee fear that Corlaer

The French charity and caresses induce the Indians to turn Papists

will not cloath the Converts as the Governour of Canada does, for when our Indians goe out a hunting and have bad luck, taking nothing, they go to Canada, and the Governo<sup>r</sup> cloaths them; by which meanes they are induced to turn Papists by the French charity and caresses.

They desire a Minister may be settled at Albany to instruct them.

Wee desired yesterday that there may be a Minister established here as well as at Schaenegtade, to instruct our people in the Protestant Religion, as it has been formerly; pray let that not be forgotten, for wee stay longer here by reason of our trading then at Schanegtade, which wee only pass by transiently, for during that time our people may be instructed in the Christian faith. 'Tis true wee will be induc'd to stay a night longer now at Schanegtade upon the score of being instructed by the Minister there.

Wee have consented and agreed to what ever your Lordship has proposed to us, and think it very requisite to keep a good correspondence with our Brethren the English, and that the trade be solely confined to this city of Albany; but pray let there be a good regulation in the trade, and let us not be wrong'd and overreach'd as wee have been, but let goods be as cheap as formerly, a fathom of duffells for a Beaver skin, a fathom of strowds for a Beaver; then wee shall live as Brethren and Christians together; pray let us have good penniworths and that continually, and let not the Beaver traders goe to the old Trade again as they will probably do in two dayes time; for they used to take a piece of stick as long as your arm (meaning an ell) and measure the cloth by that, and give us one of those sticks length of Cloth for a Beaver, and then they take that

Beaver and puts it in a scale and a piece of lead in the other scale, and if it does not weigh down that piece of lead, they scruple to take it. You must certainly conclude that when our people comes here with four or five Beavers and they get but one coat for it, it must trouble us much; therefore if it be possible let these things be rectified, but if it be not, our Covenant Chain shall nevertheless remain firm and inviolable.

Brother

Wee have now done speaking of the trade which induc'd us at first to make the Covenant Chain together, which wee will keep without the least breach and wee approve extremely of what your Lordship propos'd to day, to goe hand in hand together, and to stand and fall together, and that your Lord<sup>sh</sup> will support us against our enemies.

But pray let it never be said that if there bee any mis-understanding or a thing done amiss by one or a few men, that therefore the Covenant Chain must be broke; for it were unreasonable that the whole body of us should suffer for the faults of a few men. Therefore if any fault be committed, wee are willing that reparation be made by the parties offending, but not that the Covenant Chain should be broke.

My Lord said to the Speaker, that the Five Nations had often insisted on two things, viz<sup>t</sup> Ministers and a Fort, and his Lordship has not heard them make any answer as to the Fort, and was therefore jealous that the Speaker did not speak the sense of the Five Nations.

Whereupon Sadeganaktie the Speaker, said, that he had thank'd his Lordship for what he had propos'd to day, and they accepted of it thankfully all in generall terms; wherein that of the Fort was included; and he does now in behalf of the Five Nations thank his Lordship not only for that his Lordship will build a fort at Onnondage, but for sending the Ingeneer for looking out a convenient place, and that your Lordship has got the Assembly to raise a tax to defray the charge thereof; all which is thankfully acknowledged by us, and also that your Lordship will go speedily about the making the said Fort assoon as you receive the report of the Ingeneer.

To that My Lord answered, that seeing they had so often urg'd him to build a Fort for their defence, he wonderd they should now omit to speak particularly to that point; and since they were so very desirous to have desire it may be regulated.

and the prices of cloath moderated.

and their Beaver skins not weighed.

The trade was the first inducement of their Agreement

They desire the faults of a few People may not make a generall misunderstanding:

but the offenders punished.

My Lord taking notice the Forts were desired by the Five Nations was not mentioned.

The Speaker thank'd his Lordship for it & desired it may be speedily begun.

My Lord then told them plainly no Minister would go to the Onnondage country till a Fort was built.

Ministers settl'd in Onnondage country, he must be so plain as to tell them that he found it absolutely impossible to engage Ministers to go and live there, unless there were a Fort there to secure them from the French and their Indians, and that he was sure that for all the Bevers the Five Nations should take in a year, a Minister would not be prevail'd with to goe and live in that open country to the hazard of his life.

Here the Indians, by the Speaker, made an apology for some Sinnekes taking one Charles Smith an Englishman of Virginia and detaining him five years in their country, and sayd:—Some of our young men are like doggs, that snatch at a peece of meat when ones back is turn'd: some of them passing by Virginia meet with this Charles Smith and carryed him along with them, whom they now deliver up to your Lordship, begging pardon for these young mens offence, and withall gave a Belt of Wampum, by which they prayed his Lordship to send him

The Fourth Dayes Conference. Albany the 29th of August 1700.

PRESENT,—the Gentlemen, as before.

4th Conference.

The Earl of Bellomont says upon the reply of the Five Nations yesterday to his Lordships propositions the day before, as follows:—

Brethren.

The French are but at a small charge in cloathing their Proselites, who are few.

Nor is it the Custome of Protestants to reckon those good Christians who turn for worldly interest.

Mr Lydius the Minister of Albany will learn their language.

He hopes to have the Bible translated into Indian.

And proposes the sending two or three Sachems's sons of each Nation to New York where they shall be kept and taught at the King's charge.

There is a great deal of difference between the number of Indians in Canada and the Five Nations; the French can be at no very great charge to cloath their proselites; yet however tho' your number be so much greater, I will give you all reasonable encouragement, but withall I must tell you tho' it is the Jesuites custome by bribes and rewardes to purchase proselites, it is not the practise or method us'd by Protestants; for we hold that those only are good Christians who profess Christianity out of faith and a good conscience and not upon the score of worldly interest.

In answer to your desire of a Minister here in Albany, to instruct you in the Christian religion, I am not only willing but glad to gratify you therein, and I will engage Mr Lydius the Minister of this town to take paines with you and learn your language that he may be the better able to serve you in the work of the gospell, and I hope in a little time to have the Bible translated into your language and to have some of your children taught to read, so that you may have the comfort and edification of God's Word, which I am sure will be hugely pleasing to you when your children are able to read it to you. Now that I am upon this subject, I wish you would send two or three Sachems sons out of each Nation to be kept at School at New York where I will take care to have them taught to write and read both English and Indian, and they shall be well cloathed and dyeted at the King's charge and after three or four yeares that they are perfect in their writing & reading they shall return home to you and other boyes shall come in their places; by which meanes you will always have those among you that will understand English and will be serviceable to you upon many occasions.

The goods at Albany shall be afforded as cheap as possibly.

As to the cheapness of goods here at Albany which you also mentioned yesterday, I promise you that care shall be taken that the goods shall be afforded as reasonably as can be expected; you your selves know that the Trader must have some advantage by his goods, or he cannot live; but that advantage ought to be within reason.

He takes the restoring of Smith, very kindly.

I take it kindly that you have restored Charles Smith; but I must caution you never hereafter to suffer any of your people to comit the least hostility on any of the King's subjects, either in their persons or goods, for the King our master will not hold himself obliged to relieve or protect you, if you do any violence or injury to his English subjects.

And desires reparation may be made for the Cattle killed at Schanectade.

I have some complaints at this time made to mee of mischief lately done, by some of your people, in killing their cattle above Schanegtade; I desire you will inquire into the matter and take such order that reparation may be done the people that have been so wronged; the English lawes are the best law's in the world, and in all English governments justice is exactly done upon all people indifferently, upon the rich as well as the poor.

He desires guides for Col. Romer, & that some of the Sachems may meet and advise with him in the Onondage country.

I desire you will send three or four of your Onnondage nation along with Col. Romer the King's Ingeneer to be guides to him into that country and likewise to guard him from any danger that may happen; and I could wish some of your Sachems would meet him there that he might advise with you about the properest place for erecting of a Fort; I mean such a place as will by it's scituation best command the passes into that country, so to cover you from the iroudes of the French and Indians.

Tomorrow he will give them the King's present.

To morrow I intend to give you the King's present, and shall then dispatch you, that you may return to your families.

PRESENT—

Col. Peter Schuyler
Col. Abraham de Peyster

E. of Bellomont's proposals.

His Lordship proposes to them as follows:—

Brethren

You must needs be sensible that the Dowaganhaes, Twichtwicks, Ottawawa, & Dionondades and other remote Indians are vastly more numerous then you Five Nations, and that by their continual warring upon you they will in a few yeares totally destroy you. I should therefore think it prudence and good policy in you to try all possible means to fix a trade and correspondence with all those nations by which meanes you would reconcile them to your selves, and with my assistance I am in hopes in a short time they might be brought to be united with us in the Covenant Chain, and then you might at all times without any sort of hazard goe a hunting into their country, which I understand is much the best fo

That a trade may be fixed with the Dowaganhaes &c

And some of them persuaded to come to the Earl of Bellomont.

Beaver hunting; I wish you would try to bring some of them to speak to mee, perhaps I might prevail with them to come and live amongst you, and I should think myself obliged to reward you for such a peece of service, as I tender your good advantage and will always use my best endeavour to preserve you from all your enemies.

That they will employ 200 of their Indians to work at the Fort for the same pay with the English.

2 I expect you that are Sachems will use your authority over your young men to engage two hundred of them to help to work at the Fort, and I will employ two hundred English to work at it also, and I propose to give to your young men the same reward that the English shall have, and I am in hopes the Fort will be done in three months at most. 'Tis for your interest and security alone that I propose the building the Fort; therefore it behoves you to give your helping hand thereunto. I must tell you that when this Fort is built and furnished with gunns and ammunition as I intend it, you will have no reason to bee afraid of the garrison of Cadarachqui or any other enemy that shall attacque you on that side.

3 You your selves have already own'd to me that you like the Protestant religion better then the Popish; you have likewise declared your aversion and dislike to the Jesuits way and method of making converts by artifice and fraud; you will always bee troubled by them, and they will bee endeavouring to allure you, and if they faile therein, they are wicked enough to destroy you by poy[s]on. Therefore your best way to be ridd of them and all their contrivances is to make prisoners of them as often as they come into your country, and bring them to mee, and for every such Popish priest and Jesuit which you shall bring to this town and deliver up to the Magistrates, you shall have one hundred peeces of Eight pay'd you down in ready money, as a reward. Wee have a law in this Province for the seizing and securing all Popish Priests and Jesuits and I would very gladly put that law in execution against those disturbers of mankind, and I hope you will take special care to comply with my desire herein if you will do an acceptable service to the King and will deserve the continuance of my friendship.

That they seize on all Jesuits & send them prisoners to Albany, where they shall have 100 pieces of Eight for every Jesuit.

PRESENT,—the three Gént. aforesaid.

The same elleven Sachems that were conven'd yesterday at the private Conference, to witt, two of each Nation and one of the Protestant Maquase Indians waited upon His Excellency the Earl of Bellomont this morning and brought one more from each Nation with them, alleading all businesse of moment was to be transacted by the Three Ensigns that the Five Nations consisted of, to witt, the Bear, the Wolf, and the Turtle; and therefore one from each of these tribes or ensigns in each Nation was to be present.

Sadeganaktie Speaker.—

Indians answer.

Brother Corlaer.

Wee are now come to answer to those heads your Lordship proposed to us yesterday, which are of great moment and consequence, and that concerning the bringing the Jesuits prisoners hither that do come to our Country is none of the least. You advise us to make peace with the remote Indians and to draw our own Indians back from Canada, and at the same time to bring the Jesuits that come to our country, prisoners hither. These three heads do not well consist and agree together; therefore wee are of opinion it will be more advicable first to conclude a firm peace with the Dowaganhaes and other remote Indians and then see to draw back our Indians from Canada that are debauch'd thither, before wee meddle with or disturb the Jesuits; for there are severall of these remote Indians viz. Stiagigroone,<sup>1</sup> Assisagigroone,<sup>2</sup> Odsidanawe, and severall other Nations to the number of

That should they see: on the Jesuits, it might hinder their treaty with the Dowaganhaes &c and keep their Indians from returning.

Sixteen, that have already agreed to come and live among us, and if they do hear that wee commit any rudeness to the French Jesuits, that will put a stop not only to the said treaty, but exasperate our people that are at Canada, and obstruct their coming over to us. Therefore our conclusion is, first to wait the said farr or remote Indians their coming, before wee put that in execution which your Lordship proposes about the Jesuits; but if any Jesuit or Popish Priest do come into our country before the treaty with the remote Indians be concluded, wee will send them back and forbid them to come into our Castles; and what wee have promised your Lordship concerning our adherence to the Protestant religion, wee stand to it and will ever abide to those principles.

But they will forbid them coming into their Countr.

As to that head relating to our children's being instructed to read and write English and Indian at New York, the Sachems that are now on the hill are consulting about it, and wee will when wee are all conven'd together, return your Lordship our answer as also concerning the guides or guard for Col. Romer the King's Engineer to Onnondage and concerning the number of men that are to assist us at the making of the Fort there, and also concerning what Sachems are to go to pitch upon the place, where the Fort is to be erected in the Onnondage country: all which is referred to those Sachems that are now upon the Hill to report to your Lordship.

The Sachems are consulting on the other proposals.

His Lordship ask'd whether these Sachems that were now conven'd would give his Lordship an account of the message Mons' Marricour and Bruyas the Jesuit and the rest of the French, brought from Canada to Onnondage this summer, or if they would give it when all the Sachems were conven'd.

His Lordship desired to know the French message this last summer which they promis'd in a full conference.

The Sachems replyed when all the Sachems were together they would give his Lordship an account of it.

The Onnondage Fort to receive 200 men, of which my Lord desired in case of war, 100 might be Indians

His Lordship told them further that he design'd the Fort to be built at Onnondage should be so big as to receive two hundred men, in which there should be always a hundred English, and ask'd the said Sachems if a war should break out, whether they would send one hundred men of theirs to assist the keeping of said Fort; since it would not be like their forts, but a fort with canon, built strong for defence.

To which they promised an answer.

The Sachems answered that when all the Sachems were conven'd together they would answer this point.

A Little while after Sadeganaktie the Speaker rose up and said:—

when they had consulted the young men.

As to what you proposed just now of sending in a hundred men to defend the Fort upon a warr with the French, wee desired to be excused from giving any positive answer to that, because it is the young men must do the service, and they must be consulted about it.

My Lord reply'd he thought the Sachems had commanded without controul.

My Lord reply'd that he thought the Sachems had the sole command of their young men without any controule.

Upon which the Speaker say'd:—

To which they wavel giving an answer.

Wee have often proposed something to you and you have told us you would write to the King our Great Master about it, which gave us satisfaction and wee never importun'd you any more about it; and therefore pray bee satisfied with what wee have now answered.

A message being e-cue from the other Sachems.

After a while a Message being come from the Hill from the other Sachems of the Five Nations, and the Speaker sayd as follows:—

They agreed to send 12 men from each Nation to work at the Fort.

It is concluded by all the Sachems of the Five Nations that each Nation do send twelf men to assist at the making of the Fort in the Onnondage country.

But said they were not masters of their children, who are wholly at their wives disposal till they come of age.

As to our children to be sent to New York to bee instructed to read and write, wee answer that wee are not masters or disposers of them; that is a matter that relates to our wives, who are the sole disposers of their children while they are under age.

The Sixth's day's conference. Albany 31st of August 1700.

My Lord desired four young men to be guides to Coll. Romer.

His Excellency the Earl of Bellomont sent for the Speaker and the rest of the Sachems of the Onnondage Nation and propos'd to them to name four of their sober young men to goe along with the King's Ingeneer to Onnondage their country to be his guide and guard, and that his Lordship would dispatch him away on monday morning.

The Sachems imédiately sent out one of their number to look out four brisk young men for that purpose and came in and acquainted his Lordship that the following men would conduct who were soon brought in.

Col. Romer the Ingeneer to their country; and presented Soriquasko, Adiechne, Tachnigoris and Neganiquaande, before his Lordship.

His Lordship ask'd the said Sachems whether they would name the Sachems that are to goe with the Ingeneer to look out a convenient place for building the Fort, here or in their country of Onnondages and the Sachems agreed to be named in the Onnondage Country.

The Sachems answer'd his Lordship that they could be better named in Onnondage where there was a great many.

where they promised all assistance and dispatch.

My Lord desir'd them to make all the dispatch, and not delay the Ingeneer when he was there.

The Sachems promise his Lordship to give him all the assistance and dispatch imaginable.

The Earl of Bellomont proposed likewise to the Sachems of Onnondage the furnishing of the English while they are building the Fort, and the garrison when the Fort is built, with provisions of Indian Corn, venison, pigeons and fish, of which the Country abounds, and they should bee satisfied for the same.

and provision for the men who should work at the Fort, and after keep the garrison there.

Whereupon the Sachems made answer that the English should want for no provisions, neither while they were building the Fort nor afterwards when the Fort is built, for the garrison that should be plac'd there, and that at reasonable rates.

The Sixths day's Conference Albany the 31st of August 1700

PRESENT—as before.

His Excellency Richard Earl of Bellomont's Proposals to the Sachems of the Maquase, Oneydes, Onnondages, Cajouges, and Sinnekes.

The Earl of Bellomont Brethren.—

I understand some of the French that are among the remote Nations of Indians would willingly come and trade with us in this Town, but that they are apprehensive you will not give them free passage thro' your country; but I hope you will encourage their coming hither, for now in time of peace it is but reasonable they should have the liberty of trading with us. There is a vast difference between Frenchmen that come among us purely on the account of trade, and the Popish Priests and Jesuits that come to deceive and delude you with their false doctrines & principles.

and to know what message was sent them last year from Canada.

I would be very glad to know upon what errand or message it was that Mr Marricour and Mons<sup>r</sup> Bruyas the Jesuit and the rest of the French came to you lately at the Onnondages Castle. If you intend to keep a fair correspondence with mee as you have promised, you must be ingenuous in letting mee know what propositions they made to you then. Therefore I expect you will recollect and tell me every thing that the say'd to you.

He reminds them of their duty to the King of England.

And now to conclude all, I must remind you of the professions you have made of duty to the King our Great Master, and of zeal to be instructed in the Protestant religion; to both which I advise your steady adherence.

Assures them he will fortify the country
& regulate the trade.

I doubt not but the King will give speedy orders for the fortifying the fronteer of this Province in such manner as that you and the rest of his subjects will be secured from the attempts of an ennemy and, as I have already promis'd you, I will endeavour to make this town of Albany the place for the Bever trade, which I hope to put under a better regulation then it is at present.

And conjures them to reject all the French offers.

And now Brethren let me conjure you to perform all the promises you have made of an inviolable fidelity and obedience to the King our Master and to continue in a steady affection and friendship with us your Brethren and fellow subjects. You cannot give the King a surer testimony of your loyalty to him then by rejecting all manner of correspondence with the Popish priests and Jesuits and by utterly refusing to suffer them to come into your country upon any pretence whatsoever. Upon those termes I doe take upon mee to assure you of the King's fatherly care and protection, and in token of his Majesties

He gives the King's grace and favour to you, I have provided a present which I give you in his present.

Majesties name. viz<sup>t</sup>

200 Fuses	200 Knives
200 Baggs of powder of 6 <sup>lb</sup> a peece	200 Shirts
2000. lb lead	40 Keggs of Rum of 2 Gal <sup>r</sup> Rum
2000 Flints	63 Hats
100 Hatchets	3 Barrels of Pipes with Tobacco.

This is besides 2 p<sup>a</sup> of Duffells and some gunns shirts and hatts given to the Sachems when they went home.

The Sachems of the Five Nations, the Maquase Oneydes Onnondages, Cajouges and Sinnekes came to His Excellency the Earl of Bellomont and made the following answer to his Lordships Propositions made to them in the forenoon.

Sadekanaktie Speaker:—

Indians Answer      Brother Corlaer

The promise to continue steadfast in their affection.

You have reminded us to cleave firm to our resolution to be instructed in the Protestant Religion and also that we shall be firm to the Covenant Chain and dutifull subjects to the Great King of England; all which wee do faithfully promise to perform, and wee do likewise recommend our Brethren the English to be stedfast in their religion.

And desire the English will keep up their friendship.

God Almighty hath been pleased to create us, and the Sunn hath shined long upon us, and wee have lived many years in peace and union together, and wee hope by your instruction to be taught to bee good Christians, and dye in the Christian faith; let us therefore goe hand in hand and support one another. Wee were here before you and were a strong and numerous people when you were but small and young like striplings, yet wee were kind and cherished you, and therefore when wee propose any thing to you, if you cannot agree to it, let us take councill together that matters may be carry'd on smooth, and that what wee may say may not be taken amiss, and when wee are to be instructed in the Protestant Religion, pray let not such severities be used as the Jesuits do in Canada, who whip their Proselytes with an yron chain, cut the women's hair of, put the men in prison, and when the men commit any filthy sin, the Priest takes his oportunity and beats them when they are asleep. Now as a token wee accept of being instructed in the Protestant Religion, Wee give 9 Bever Skins.

And not use their Prossities so severely as those at Canada.

In token of which the gave 9 Bever skins.

And 9 more in token of liberty for the French to come & trade at Albany.

As to the French that come from the remote Indians to trade, they shall have all the encouragement from us imaginable, and liberty to come thro' our country to bring their trade to this City: in token whereof wee give 9 Bevers.

They desire the bounds with the French may be settled.

Wee desire that our Brother Corlaer the Earl of Bellomont would write to the Great King of England, that the limitts and bounds may be establish'd between Us and the French of Canada to prevent all disputes and controversies, that each may know their bounds when wee are upon our own land and when wee are upon the French King's land. Wee give 9 Bevers.

That good may be sold cheap.

Wee pray that there may be a good regulation of the trade and goods sold cheap, that the remote Indians may see what pennyworths there is here; which will be a means to draw them hither. Wee give 9 Beavers.

Promise to live well with the Down-gauhaes

Wee are recommended to make peace and keep a good correspondence with the Dowaganhaes and other remote Indians; wee will use our endeavour to do the same and follow your advice; and as a token thereof wee give 9 Bevers.

And desire a Smith at Onnondage.

Wee desire that a Smith may come and live at Onnondage when the Ministers come; we have not heard anything of that; pray let not this be forgotten. Wee give 9 Bevers.

The agree to fix the trade at Albany.

Your Lordship proposed that the Indian trade may bee confin'd to this City of Albany; wee like it very well, it has always been so from the beginning that Christians came here, for when your people come to our country wee must pay a Bever skin for a few spoons full of rum, and a Bever for a pair of childrens stockings: we hope your

And desire the English may be forbid to go up into their country a trading.

Lordship will for the future forbid peoples coming to trade in our country, and that will be a meanes to cause all the trade to be brought hither. Wee give 9 Bevers.

They will keep a good Correspondence with the English.

You also told us to keep a good correspondence with the English our Brethren, which wee will gladly doe with all our hearts. Wee give 9 Bevers.

Wee are thankfull to you for your present and particularly for the Powder you have given us; but where shall wee put it to preserve it from the weather when wee carry it home (meaning that they had no duffells given them, for cloathing, among the presents) wherein they could wrap the Powder to keep it from the wet. Wee give 9 Bevers.

Many of our Indians killed by the perfidiousness of the French; and recommend Coll Schuyler &c to his Lordship's favour.

This Spring many of our people were killed when they were a hunting, by the perfidiousnesse of the French, which has much impoverish'd and weaken'd us. Your Lordship sent us three Géntl. Col. Peter Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and M<sup>r</sup> Hansen to our country, which message was extream acceptable. Wee doe therefore recómend them to your Lordships favour to be consider'd for their paines; wee would gladly contribute towards it, were wee in a condition, but hope your Lordship will consider our poverty.

My Lord told them they were pay'd

My Lord told them they were pay'd, and that the King always rewarded those that did him service.

They desire to have the benefit of the peace concluded in Europe

The Speaker went on and say'd. The Rondax or French Indians of Canada have killed a great many of our people since the peace, and the Dowaganhaes continue still to destroy our people: we desire that your Lordship would write to our great King of England, that some order may be taken to put a stop to such hostilities that wee may have the benefit of the peace concluded between the two Kings in Europe. Wee give 9 Bevers.

And acquaint him with the Jesuit's proposals.

Wee shall now according to your Lordship's order acquaint you with what the Jesuit Bryuas hath say'd to the Sachems of the Five Nations at Onnondage this Summer, viz'

1. That he was glad to see them, and that some of them were to Canada notwithstanding Corlaer's strict prohibition and that he was sorry for the loss of their people that were killed by the remote Indians, condol'd their loss and wip'd of the blood, and gave a Belt of Wampum.

The Jesuit said he was sorry for their losses; but

Now a peace was made;

by his endeavour.

He recomends them to keep the Peace with my Lord, but wonders why they should be forbid our corresponding with the French.

2 That the kette of warr that hnd boy'd so long, which would have scalded and consum'd all the Five Nations was now overset and turn'd upside down and a firm peace made.

3 He planted the Tree of Peace and welfare at Onnondage

4. He recomended us to keep fast to the Covenant Chain which wee had with Corlaer your Excellency Govern'r of New York, and told us, you are one heart, one head and interest with us; but why is he against your corresponding with us; why does he obstruct our conversation together? I do not bidd you to break the Covenant Chain with him, for since wee are in peace wee ought to bee in friendship together.

Demands the French prisoners & promises a restitution of those at Canada.

5. He demanded the French prisoners of us that were in our Castle, and told us, the Sachems of the Five Nations, that they would restore to us our Prisoners that were at Canada, the Dowaganhaes and other remote Indians; and gave a Belt of Wampum.

Proposes to come and live at Onnondage & be their Physician or Surgeon.

6. He proposed to come and live at Onnondage and instruct us in the Christian Faith, and would banish all sickness plagues and distempers out of our country if wee would accept of him: and gave us a Belt.

Which they refused him.

But this Belt was not accepted by us, for wee told him that wee had accepted a Belt from Corlaer sent us this Spring by Col. Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and M<sup>r</sup> Hansen, to be instructed by such Ministers as he would send, which Belt, being given first, had the preference; and Dekanissore, one of our Sachems, told him further that wee had once been deceived by the Jesuit and his doctrine; for when wee were entred and learning the Christian Religion, the French came and knock'd us in the head.

7 That the Jesuit had a Belt of Wampum from the Rondax Indians to release two of their Indians that were prisoners at Onnondage, and carryed one of them to Canada.

Bruyas said he would not have proposed this to them if he had known my Lord Bellomont had promised them Ministers.

They added further that the Jesuit Bruyas said when he see his Belt was rejected, whereby he proposed to come and live at Onnondage and instruct them in his religion, that if he had known that Corlaer the Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York had sent a Belt for that purpose that Ministers should come there to instruct them, he would not have propos'd it to them.

The four Sachems at Canada.

They were ask'd what there Sachems were a doing at Canada, to witt, four that were gone thither, viz<sup>t</sup> one from each nation

Were gone to recover their prisoners.

They answer'd that they were gone to bring back their prisoners; they had seaventeen Sinneke prisoners among the remote Indians that were expected to come to Mont Reall and they staid to bring them home.

Which our people had not been able to do in two years.

Wee have staid two yeares to see if you could get back our prisoners, but not being done, we were necessitated to do it our selves.

Bruyas said it look'd us as if my Lord desired war again.

They further [stated] that Bruyas the Jesuit say'd it is as if Corlaer the Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York would have warr again by hindring you to come and correspond and trade with us.

That he kept the Five Nations in ignorance of what was doing & claimed a superiority over them which the French did not.

Father Bruyas say'd further, what, does not Corlaer acquaint you with what passes between the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada and him? It seems he keeps you all in the dark; our Govern<sup>r</sup> conceals nothing from his Indian Children as Corlaer does from you.

He said further that the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada did not claim a right to their land as Corlaer did, he left them to their liberty; but Corlaer pretended a superiority over them.

While the Sachems of the Five Nations were making their proposals to the Earl of Bellomont:—

The Maquase Indians thank my Lord for vacating the grants of Dellius &c.

Henry, one of the Maquase Protestant Indians stood up and say'd: Wee complayn'd to your Lordship two yeares ago in the name of the Five Nations that our land was taken from us by Col. Peter Schuyler, Capt Evert Banker, Maj<sup>r</sup> Dirk Wessells and one William Pinhorne at New York and M<sup>r</sup> Dellius the late Minister of Albany; whereupon your Lordship promis'd you would write about it home to the King, and wee have accordingly found the good effects of it and have our land again. M<sup>r</sup> Hend<sup>s</sup> Hansen came last year to our country and told us from your Lordship that the patent that those five persons had obtain'd for our land, was vacated and broke, and that wee should keep possess and enjoy our land for us and our heires for ever, if there were but two of us alive wee should not bee turn'd out, nether would it bee taken from us, and wee were told to acquaint all the rest of the Five Nations herewith; which wee accordingly did and for an acknowledgement of our gratitude to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>: wee give 9 Bevers.

and desire his Majesty's protection.

Wee do again thank your Lordship in behalf of the Five Nations for your fatherly care in restoring our land to us again, and wee doe pray that the Great King of England may protect us from any hazard that may befall us. Wee give 9 Bevers

PRESENT—as at the First dayes conference.

Soquans Speaker said;—

Father.

The River Indians are glad to see My Lord and his Lady.

Wee are glad to see you and your Lady here; 'tis now about two yeares ago since wee first see you. The sunn of peace shin'd then and so it does still. Wee give a Beaver and an Otter to wellcome our Father and Mother to this place.

2. In the times of old there were not any Christians on this river and the first Christians that came settl'd upon Renselaer's ys land whom wee lov'd as soon as wee see them, and received them as Brethren, with whom wee made a strict allyance and a Covenant Chain which

And resolve to continue under his government. has been kept alwayes inviolable ever since, and this chain wee are now come to renew, and wee are resolv'd to live and dye here in this government, and do pray that our Father will support and protect us. Wee give 3 Bevers.
 Father.

It is Six & twenty years since they left New England, and are resolved to live & dye at Schakkook 3 It is now six and twenty yeares ago since wee were allmost dead when wee left New England and were first received into this government; then it was that a Tree was planted at Schakkook whose branches is spread that there is a comfortable shade under the leaves of it: wee are unanimously resolved to live & dye under the shadow of that Tree and pray our Father to nourish and have a favourable aspect towards that Tree, for you need not apprehend that tho' any of our people goe out a hunting they will look out for another Country, since they like that place call'd Schakkook so well; therefore wee begg your Lord<sup>sh</sup> protection in this government.

4 Wee are glad to see you and our Mother also, your Lady, in health; your Lordship is so belov'd of us all, and your treatment to all Indians is so ravishing and agreeable, that the farr
The Easter Indians desire to come into the Covenant with my Lord. Eastern Indians are desirous to be link'd in our Covenant Chain as well as the Five Nations. Wee cannot express our gratitude sufficiently for your care and protection over us, but as a token thereof we give 3 Bevers.
 Father.

Tho' their young Indians goe out on hunting they will always return. 5 Do not think that we have any other Father but your Lordship, or that wee incline to settle any where but a Schakkook, that place being allotted for us there wee intend to live and dye, and therefore you are not to have the least jealousy of our young Indians, for they may go out a hunting, but will alwayes return to their habitacón at Schakkook under your Lordships protection. Wee give 3 Bevers.
 Father.

6. It is above two yeares agoe since your Lordship was here, when you were pleased to agree to a generall exchange of Prisoners that were taken this last warr; pray let us not be forgotten; They desire 2 Prisoners they brought from the French Indians may be set at liberty. wee brought two prisoners from the French Indians which wee desire may be set at liberty; the one is a girl in the possession of Col. Ingoldesby's wife, and the other is a boy in the possession of the widow of David Schuyler deceased: Wee desire the said two prisoners may be sent back. Wee do give 3 Bevers.

His Excellency the Earl of Bellomont's answer to the River Indians, Albany the 31st of August 1700.

E. of Bellomont's answer.

Children.

He thanks them for their kindness. I thank you for your kind expressions, in which you have delivered your selves by Sacquans your Sachem. I hope I shall alwayes behave my self to you and the rest of the King's Indian subjects so as that you will have reason to believe that the English lawes and government are the best in the world, and you may be sure I will do every thing to maintain the Covenant Chain firm and stedfast. I am glad you are so near as

And desires they would invite the Eastern Indians to come and live with them.

Schakkook and should be very glad you would invite your friends the Pennekoke and Eastern Indians to come and settle with you there; where I do promise you and them the King's protection and favour, and you shall find I will be a friend to you upon all occasions, so long as you continue to behave yourselves in that dutyfull manner to the King as becomes faithfull subjects to so great and gracious a Prince. It would very much strengthen the Covenant Chain, if wee could make that union between the Pennekooks and Eastern Indians and your selves, and since the Five Nations and you are linked together in interest, it would be an advantage to engage those other Indians in the same interest.

He wishes they would become Protestants as the Five Nations design to be.

What you have say'd to mee I take kindly, but I am sorry you have not the same good disposition that the Five Nations have express'd of becoming Protestants and being instructed in the true Christian Faith; which would be infinitely more pleasing to mee than all the complements you can possibly use to me; if you intend to convince mee of your affection and duty to the King, you must resolve to renounce all sort of correspondence with Canada and neither be instructed by the Jesuits or other Popish Missionaries in their religion, nor carry on any trade with the French of Canada or their Indians; and when ever I hear that you go to Canada upon the account of trade, you must never reckon upon mee as your loving Father, nor shall I esteem you my dutifull Children.

And reclaim a Sachem who is false to the King's interest, or else disown him.

I hear Hawappe one of your Sachems is false to the King's interest and makes it his businesse to debauch as many of your nation to the French of Canada, as he can. I expect you will disown him and break friendship with him, unless you can reclaim him from so ill a custome.

He will do what is reasonable about their prisoners

As to what you propose concerning the two prisoners, I will take a time to examine the matter and will do what is reasonable therein.

And given them
the King's Present.

To conclude the King our great Master does by mee make you a present equal with the rest of his subjects of each of the five Nations viz<sup>t</sup>

40 Gunns 40 Bags of powder of 6lb. each 400lb. Lead 500 Flints 20 Hatchets 40

for the Indian Affaires

Albany the 4th of September 1700

PRESENT — Col. Peter Schuyler
Col. Abraham De Peyster } Of the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Councill.
Robert Walters }

The Propositions made by some of the Five Nations to the Commissioners of the Indian Affaires, the third of July last, being read before the Earl of Bellomont, relating to a Belt sent by the Canada Praying Indians of Cahanuage to the Five Nations; and some discourse the Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada had with said Indians; as by said Propositions, relation being thereunto had more at large appears, His Lordship thought fit to give the following answer to the Sachems of the Onnondages and Sinnekes, the rest being gone home: viz<sup>t</sup>

My Lords answer
to some proposalls made by the Indians.

Brethren.

Upon your producing the Belt of Wampum sent to the Five Nations by the French Praying Indians of Cahanuage, and your owing to mee that the said Praying Indians desir'd I might not know of their said message and Belt, I perceive plainly the message was only to amuse and deceive you, that under the pretence and shew of a friendly correspondence between the said Praying Indians and the Five Nations the Jesuits and other emissaries or creature of the Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada might have the better opportunity of seducing you from your obedience to the King our Master; and whereas you have communicated to mee the desire of those Praying Indians that their Belt may bee kept in the Onnondages Castle in token of the good correspondence they intended with the Five Nations I thank you for your sincere dealing and discovery thereof; and since you have been so just to mee to give mee up that Belt so sent you by the Praying Indians, I do in the room thereof deliver you a Belt which I desire may goe as a token of my friendship to the Five Nations and may be kept in the Onnondages Castle in lieu of the other Belt.

He thanks them for delivering up the Belt which was given them by the Praying Indians.

And give them another in exchange.

Brethren.

Which is to be a pledge of their friendship.

You are to understand that the Belt I now give you is to be a pledge between us of mutuall friendship, and to be a caution to you not to hearken to any propositions whatsoever that comes from Canada without my consent first had thereunto.

The Sachems answered:—

The Sachems propose an answer to be sent to the Praying Indians

That they were of opinion it would be requisite for them to send an answer to the Canada Praying Indians, since by that Belt they sent to them, they seem to insinuate the keeping firm the Peace made by the two Kings in Europe.

To which His Lordship reply'd:—

Which my Lord agrees to.

That he thought their best way would be to answer the message of the Praying Indians, but then advis'd their said answer should appear after this manner, viz<sup>t</sup> That they did desire the Peace between the two Crowns might be observ'd between those that sent the Belt and the Five Nations, but that they would never carry on any negotiation with them or any other persons what soever without the privy and good liking of the Great King of England's Govern<sup>r</sup> of New York, for that they are resolv'd to adhere firmly to their allegiance and fidelity to the Great King of England.

They promise the Interpreter should be present when they return their answer.

To this the said Sachems agreed and say'd the Interpreter should be present when they gave their answer to the Canada Indians, and His Lordship ordered the Interpreter Laurence to be present accordingly.

Humbly Sheweth :—

That about the begining of this present month of August 1700 the said David Schuyler being at Canada at the house of one Mons<sup>r</sup> Bondour a merchant living at Montreal he saw him discoursing with an old Jesuit and having a paper in his hand with a great many names, like a roll, he was inquisitive what it might be and how he came to be so great with the Priest. The said Bondour reply'd that the Priest had been that day at Kachanauge the Praying Indian Castle about four miles from Montreal and had there taken a list of the names of all the Praying Indians and was carrying the same to Mons<sup>r</sup> de Calliere the Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada. The said Schuyler ask'd the number of them, because it was comonly reported that the said Castle of Praying Indians (consisting of those Indians that had deserted the Five Nations) were about eighty fighting men in the time of the late war. The said Mons<sup>r</sup> Bondour told him that the number of Praying Indians now in the Castle were three hundred & fifty, according to the list; upon which the said Schuyler told him he could not believe it. Well, said Bondour there is the son of Touyenijow whose father is lately come from your parts and is now one of our proselites, ask him and he will tell you the same. The said Schuyler ask'd the s<sup>d</sup> young Indian, who told him they were now increased to three hundred and fifty fighting men, and bid him ask any of the Indians & they would say the same. The said Schuyler asked the said young Indian why he did not come to the Maquase country; who replied that he had a great inclination to be a Christian and that detained him at Canada. Said Schuyler told him they would have Ministers in a short time in their own country and then he could be taught there. Whereupon Mons<sup>r</sup> Bondour said, that was no praying that the Protestants used, they the French had the right way of praying. The said Schuyler told him, is that a good belief that if one Indian kills another, that the murderer shall go to the Priest and he shall absolve him, when God commands that he who sheds blood, his blood shall be shed. The Indian very much doubted if he could forgive that; but Mons<sup>r</sup> Bondour told him he could, and for explanac<sup>n</sup> told the Indian if your shirt is foul then you wash it and it is clean, so it is with any body that goes to Confession to the Priest.

The said David Schuyler said to the French gentle<sup>n</sup> Mons<sup>r</sup> Bondour he could not possibly believe there could be three hundred and fifty Praying Indians in the Castle called Kachanauge.

The Gentle<sup>n</sup> told him, Do you think y<sup>t</sup> strange, there will be above four hundred before winter, for they come like wolves round about the Castle and beg the Priests to take compassion on them and give them some light in the Christian Faith, and they dare not receive them till they have been out a hunting and given some demonstrac<sup>n</sup>s of their fidelity; for all the Five Nations would come there speedily by reason of their ardent desire to turn Christians.

The said David Schuyler says further that Jean Rosie their interpreter told him that there were thirty of the principall Bush Lopers, Canadians born, had combined together to come to Albany for passes to go to Ottowawa, for the Governor of Canada would give them no passes; but their design was discovered, and the head of them was sent prisoner to Quebec. Nevertheless the rest designed to make their escape as soon as Mons<sup>r</sup> de Calliere the Gov<sup>r</sup> was gone to Quebec, who only staid at Montreal till Mons<sup>r</sup> Maricour and the Jesuit Bruyas came from Onnondage, for the people of Canada are reduced to great straits, there being a great scarcity of provisions there.

The said David Schuyler says further that he went to Canada this spring and that in the going thither the French Guards (sent out from Canada to prevent the transportacón of Beavers from thence) mett him with a canoe within the bounds of this Government at the Otter Creek eighteen miles on this side of Rodgio the great Rock that is in Corlaers Lake, but they having no beavers and being stronger than the French had no contest or dispute wth them.

I humbly offer this to your Excellency to evince the ardent desire of the Indians of the Five Nations to be instructed in the Christian Faith; the want of Ministers to instruct them therein being the apparent cause of their every day going over more and more to the French, that it will be absolutely impossible to keep the said Indians firm and steady to the Covenant Chain without such ministers, that during the late war with France when the French of Canada had but few of our Indians, and we the whole Five Nations (who were as a Barrier and defence to the Inhabitants residing at Albany and the other frontier parts of his Majestys Provinces on the main Continent of America) yet continuall inroads were made by them into this Government in such manner & to such effect y<sup>t</sup> the Inhabitants on the frontiers were frequently killed & scalped, or deserted; w<sup>ch</sup> plainly demonstrates that when the whole Five Nacóns, now our friends, are deserted and become our enemies, (as for want of Ministers they continually will) as war ensues, the whole strength of this governm<sup>t</sup>, the Barrier as afores<sup>d</sup> will not be able to resist the French joyn'd wth y<sup>e</sup> said Indians, who may wth ease over run this Province & open the way thereby to Virginia & Maryland and all other his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s Governm<sup>ts</sup> on this Continent.

(Signed) DAVID SCHUYLER.

That I was taken prisoner in Casco Bay in New England by a party of French and Indians under the command of Monsieur de Portneuf in the moneth of May 1690 and carried to Canada

where and in the hunting Indian countries I have lived ever since till the 29th day of this last July that I made my escape to come hither, and during the last two years & half I was employed in cutting masts for the use of the French King's Navy. There have been ninety great masts cut and sent from thence to France every year by order of the King, the Bay of St Paul which is 15 leagues below Quebec being the place principally where the s<sup>d</sup> masts were cut and shipp'd. I have often heard that Mons<sup>r</sup> de Calliere the Governor of Canada has pretended a right to the Five Nations of Indians otherwise called Iroquois, and I was once present in Councill when there was an embassy or message to the s<sup>d</sup> Governor by some of those Indians, About a fortnight before my coming from Montreal, and then heard him tell the said messengers that the King his master had an undoubted right to the Sinek, Onondage and Oneide Nacóns, and that he would have them, let it cost what it would. I have been about three years at severall times in the Ottowawas country a hunting with the French, in w<sup>ch</sup> country they (the French) had two palisado'd Forts. There is excellent hunting there for beaver and all sorts of wild beasts as Deer Moose, &c The Ottowawas are a very numerous people, their country very fine and pleasant affording great plains very fruitfull and well water'd. I have gone round a Lake in the Ottowawas country, called by the French Le Lac des Hurons which is 400 leagues in circumference upon the sides of which Lake live severall Nations, viz<sup>t</sup> the Christinos, the Ochipoy, Kescacóns, Towecenegos, the Hurons &c I have been also round another Lake called the Meshigans, which is about 300 Leagues round, on the sides whereof live severall Nations viz<sup>t</sup> Les Puants, Les Sachi, Puotwatemi Les Miami; and in those countries there is also good Beaver hunting and great store of wild cattle. I can speak the Ottowawa language and know the country very well, and can be a guide thither. Severall of the French Coureurs de Bois or hunters are there at this time and refuse to obey the Governor of Canada's orders to come to Canada, and are in a sort of rebellion; they are very desirous to come and trade here with the English, only fear the Five Nations will not suffer them to pass thro' their country. They have desired me to try to make their terms with your Lordship, and they will come and settle under your government some where near the Five Nations, and would indeavour to invite the Ottowawas to settle there with them. I have often heard the Ottowawas express a longing desire to trade with the English in these plantations. The French of Canada are not able to furnish those people with goods, w<sup>ch</sup> they are sensible of and are therefore impatient of being confined to that narrow trade with them. The French have a few Jesuits among those nations, but they seem not to be fond of them. The present Governor of Canada is very severe and not at all beloved by the French or Indians. The people of Canada are all divided into factions and a generall discontent among 'em; and there has been a very great scarcity of all provisions especially of bread all last winter and this s<sup>u</sup>mer, insomuch as few of the better sort of people have tasted any bread during that time. Monsieur Bruyas the Jesuit and Monsieur de Maricour wth severall other French were gone (before my coming away) to visit the Five Nations, and took with them a good quantity of dry goods as blankets, stockings, &c to present those Nations with, and were not return'd when I came away. The Companies are increased to thirty two, but are very defective; recruits were daily expected from France when I came away. There are abundance of reformade Officers at Quebec and Montreal. These are what particulars I can at present recollect concerning the circumstances of the French in Canada and the Indians they correspond with; which is humbly submitted by

[New-York Papers, N. O., N. 8.]

Province of New York

By the Earl of Bellomont, Governour &c

1. You are to repaire with all convenient speede to the Onondages country where you are to find out the best and most convenient place for erecting a Fort for the defence and security of that Nation and the other Nations if it may so be, takeing in your way thither and visiting the Mohack and Oneyde Nations.
2. You are to proceed on to the Cayouges Nation after you have well view'd and visited the Onondages and from thence to the Synek Nation.
3. You are to observe the country exactly as you go and come, with the rivers lakes woods plains and hills, that you may make a report thereof to me, and that a Map may be made thereof to be laid before his Ma<sup>ty</sup>. and you are to take a particular view of the two Carrying places and to report unto me your opinion how much they may be shortned by clearing and cleansing the creeks from woods, so as to make those creeks navigable for boates & canoes.
4. You are to inquire out and view a Salt spring which is said to be in the Onondages Country and to taste the water and give me your opinion thereof, and you are to inform your selfe about the salmon fishing which is so much spoken of, and also about other fish in the Lakes and rivers in that country what sorts of fish and what plenty, and what ways the Inhabitants have to take fish.
5. You are to go and view a well or spring which is eight miles beyond the Sineks furtbest Castle, which they have told me blazes up in a flame when a light coale or firebrand is put into it; you will do well to taste the said water, and give me your opinion thereof and bring with you some of it
6. You are to encourage all the Indians Nations as much as you can, by assuring them of the King's care of them and protection, and you are to magnifie the King's greatnesse and power to them, and assure them that the frontier of this Province will be well fortified and secured in a short time, so as that they need not to fear the French of Canada. You will do well to assure them of my kindnesse, provided they continue faithfull to the King and keep no sort of correspondence with the French of Canada, nor receive any of their priests and Jesuits among them. All which Instructions of mine you are carefully to observe and perform for his Matys service. Given under my hand, At Albany the third day of September 1700 and in the twelfth year of his Maty's reign.

Instructions to the Commissioners for Indian Affairs.

By the Earl of Bellomont, Governor &c

Part of the Instructions to Col. Peter Schuyler &c

4. You are upon all emergencies that shall happen, to give me notice thereof to New York, or in my absence from this Province to the L<sup>t</sup> Governor & Council, sending at the same time your opinion and advice what you think most proper to be done for the remedying all mischiefs that shall any way be put in practice against his Ma<sup>y</sup> and his people within this his Province or against the Indians, subjects of his Ma<sup>y</sup>.

5. Upon any message from all or any of the Five Nations of Indians or from the nacón of Schakkook or River Indians, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston aforesaid as being his Ma<sup>y</sup>'s Secretary for the Indian affaires in this Province is immediately upon the arrivall of the Indian messenger or messengers, to summon and convene all the above Com<sup>rs</sup> or as many of them as shall then be in town and then being so convened shall consult upon the subject of the message from the Indians; he to make a minnte (in a fair bound book to be kept for that purpose) of the result and opinion of the said Com<sup>rs</sup> upon all such messages; every minnte to be signed by the Comm<sup>rs</sup> then present and by him the said M<sup>r</sup> Livingston as Secretary.

6. And for avoiding and preventing all superfluous charge for or by reason of any message from the said Indians, the s<sup>d</sup> Com<sup>rs</sup> are hereby directed to signifie to all the said Nacóns that they send hither no more than three Indians at most on any message whatsoever, and the messenger or messengers so sent are allowed to stay here at the King's charge no longer than three dayes at most, to rest and refresh themselves, and to be allowed three shillings p<sup>r</sup> day each messenger and no more for his or their support during the said three days and proportionably for a less time if he or they shall return home sooner; which said three shillings p<sup>r</sup> day is to be paid to the said messenger or messengers in ready money, and that by M<sup>r</sup> Livingston aforesaid; who is hereby directed to make punctuall payment accordingly from time to time, out of that part of his Ma<sup>y</sup>'s revenue of Excise w<sup>ch</sup> is under his the said M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's collection. And I do absolutely forbid that any provisions or money be given to any Indian or Indians at the King's charge from the day of the date hereof otherwise than is before expressed. whereof M<sup>r</sup> Livingston is to take notice and to conform himselfe to this my order accordingly. And my former instructions to the Commissioners for managem<sup>t</sup> of the Indian affaires, bearing date the first day of Aug<sup>r</sup> 1698 are hereby revoked. Address of the Citizens of Albany to the Earl of Bellomont.

[New-York Papers, N. O., N. 14.]

To His Excellency Richard Earl of Bellomont Cap<sup>t</sup> Gen<sup>l</sup> and Governour in Chiefe of his Majesties Provinces of New Yorke, Massachusetts Bay & New Hampshire and territories depending thereon in America, and Vice Admirall of the same, His Majesties Lieutenant and Commander in Chiefe of the Militia and of all the Forces by Sea and Land within y<sup>e</sup> Collonies of Connecticut, East and West Jersey &c and of all the Forts and places of strength within y<sup>e</sup> same &c

The humble address of the Principall Inhabitants of y<sup>e</sup> Citty and County of Albany.

May itt please Your Lordship.—

Wee have again the hapiness of seeing your Lordship in this place and cannot but thankfully congratulate your Excellencies great kindness in visiting the frontiers, the which, with the greatest concern imaginable wee acquaint your Lordship, are in a most deplorable and languishing condition. The Citty and County of Albany has laboured under y<sup>e</sup> greatest of hardships during the late long warr wth the French, when they were exposed to inexpressible dangers, being barbarously murdered, scalp'd & carried captives by the French and their merciless Indians, which terrified many of the inhabitants, forced them to desert their habitations and to remove to other parts of the province, being<sup>1</sup> the Frontiers not soe well secured as to defend them from y<sup>e</sup> inroads of y<sup>e</sup> French and their sculking parties of Indians; but were in hopes that since his Majesty had soe gloriously obtained a peace for all Europe by his valour and conduct, that wee who had soe large a share of the miseries attending a bloody warr, would also participate in the blessings of a joyfull peace; but to our great grief wee finde our trade more decayed then formerly by reason of the French and their missionaries dayly deluding & debauching of our Indians of y<sup>e</sup> Five Nations from us, sometimes causing them to be kill'd by the farr Indians, and att other times seducing them to come and live att Canada to be instructed in the Christian faith, & where these two prevaile not, they raise factions in their Castles and take of by poyson those that cannot be soe seduced and deluded; by which artifices they have increased the Castle of Praying Indians att Mont-reall which consisted of fourscore fighting men (Indians that had deserted the Five Nations) before the last warr, but now are since the conclusion of the peace, by the means aforesaid, increased to above three hundred and fifty and dayly grow more and more, soe that if a warr should breake out between his Majesty and the French King, they would totally over run those frontiers, and thereby facilitate their passage to destroy Virginia Maryland and the rest of His Majesties Plantations; their method of fighting being in sculking parties (as your Lordship is sufficiently informed) soe that therewith they may easily infest this whole Continent, the Plantations & houses generally lying stragling, and more particularly in Virginia and Maryland, in such manner that itt will be wholly impossible for the inhabitants thereof to manure and cultivate their land. This will be no hard matter for them to doe, considering how well y<sup>e</sup> French have fortified themselves ever since the peace, with more vigour & diligence then in any time of the warr, having continually had supply's of men and money from France to do the same and what number of Indians they dayly draw from us: when on the other hand our fortifications are quite gone to decay, our soldiers dayly deserting, being dispirited, having neither cloths nor pay nor any care take[n] to defray their subsistance, soe that the victuallers are wholly discouraged, having contracted considerable debts on account thereof and are now threatned to be prosecuted for the same; by which means many of our inhabitants are great sufferers and the people in general being soe much impoverished by the late warr that they cannot assist in fortifying as they often did before when they were in a thriving condition. All which wee humbly presume again to represent to your Lordship, praying your Excellency to lay our deplorable condition att his Majesties feet and become a supplicant on our behalfe that his Majesty will be pleased to cause a stone Forte to be built here att Albany sufficient not only to receive the inhabitants in the time of invasion but may be a retreat for our Indians if they should be driven from their Castles which the French have often done the late Warr. That the same may be done before the fortification be erected att Onnondage for the security of the Five Nations of Indians. which being soe remote from any inhabited parte of this Province, will as wee humbly presume be so expensive and chargeable in the erecting that the money raised for the doing thereof will not near performe the same, and when erected, if better care be not taken to maintain and subsist the same then has been of the garrisons in this Province during the late warr, wee fear, if a breach happen, will fall into the hands of the French, which will then be an inevitable means of our loosing of the Five Nations. Wee also intreat your Lordship to interceed with his Majesty that there may be recruits of men sent over and duely subsisted cloathed and paid, which might not only defend these frontiers in time of warr, but offend the enemy. Wee doe likewise humbly request your Lordship to informe his Majesty the absolute necessity of having good Protestant Ministers here to instruct the Indians in the Christian Faith, else wee shall be deprived of all the Five Nations, which was the principall barrier that had hitherto secured these parts, who will goe all over to the French, whereby wee doe not only loose the benefit of our trade and soe many warlike Indians to assist us upou occasion, but beget soe many enemies in their room.

Lastly, Wee humbly pray that your Lordship would be pleased to take some effectuall care either by law or otherwise to secure the Indian trade to this City, which was the ground and foundation of the inhabitants settling here att first, and which hath allwayes been very advantageous to his Majesties revenue, but now of late wholly gone to decay, and the small trade that comes is snatch't away by the inhabitants of Schenectady and others in the county, who not only sell all sorts of goods, but rum and other strong liquors to the Indians without

WHEREFORE in the deep sence of the great advantages this City has received from your Excellency and particularly expressed by your Lordship in your answer to the Address of the Mayor and Magistrates of this City when your Lordship was last at Albany, presume to prostrate our selves to your Excellency, humbly imploring your Lordship favourably to represent the present circumstances of this City as above expressed, unto his most sacred Majesty that this place, the barrier and defence of Virginia, Maryland, and all other his Majesties governments on y<sup>e</sup> maine Continent of America, may not be totally abandoned, as the inhabitants of this City, if not secured with sufficient Forts and men to defend them from the enemy, are unanimously resolved on, immediately on a Declaration of Warr; which will be of most pernicious consequence to his Majesties interest in this parte of America. Mr. Penn's Suggestions respecting the Plantations.

[New-York Papers, N. O., N. 25.]

1 Wee are humbly of opinion for the more easie and certain cōmerce of the northern colonies in America under the Crown of England; it would be convenient that there would be one Standard or coin, or that money were of the same value; for in Boston that p<sup>r</sup> of  $\frac{8}{5}$  6<sup>s</sup>. goes in New York for 6<sup>s</sup> 9<sup>d</sup>. in Jersey and in Pensilvania 7<sup>s</sup> 5<sup>d</sup>. in Maryland 4<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup>. Virginia at 5<sup>s</sup>. and in Carolina.

2. It would be much for the dispatch for trade and business, if a mint for small silver to the value of 6<sup>d</sup> were allowed in the City of New York for prevention of clipping and filing, as well as wearing, which is very troublesome.

3 For the incouragement of returns it would be very expedient that due incouragement were given for the exportation of timber from hence for England by an impost on foreign timber, there being great quantities and good for shipping in these parts.

4 That great caution should be observed to adjust the Bounds northwards with the French Com<sup>rs</sup> or the losse will be great and irreparable. Wee take the South side of the River and Lakes of Canada to be our just and reasonable boundaries, soile and trade with the Indians being much concerned therein.

5 For prevention of runaways and rovers and fraudulent debtors coming from one Province to another for shelter, that it were recommended to all these Governments to make a law with the same restrictions and penalties, as if the whole were but one Government.

6. Foreigners coming dayly of diverse Nations especially Dutch, Sweads, and French, 'tis humbly offered that a generall law of naturalization pass in England that such foreigner that come to inhabit in any of the Kings Colonies that are by Act of Assembly declared freemen in the said Provinces, shall enjoy the rights and liberties of English subjects, except being masters or commanders of vessells and ships of trade.

7. That it were generally signified to the respective Governments for prevention of vexatious and litigious practices, that no appeal for England should be admitted under the real value of £300.

8. That not only charges in apprehending of pyrats but a proportion of the prey may be assign'd for such as shall take them, for the incouragement of their apprehension.

Submission of the Eastern Indians to the Mohawks.

Memorial given by Henry & Cornelius y<sup>e</sup> Mohack Indians of the Proposition made by five Sachems of Onnagongue to the Sachems of the Mohacks country, saying:—

Brother Corlaer It's in y<sup>e</sup> late proposition concluded that all the news that comes to eare must be made known by y<sup>e</sup> one to y<sup>e</sup> other.

Now follows y<sup>e</sup> proposition made by y<sup>e</sup> five Sachems of Onnagongue to the Sachems of the Mohacks country.

Bretheren.

Wee desire to joine with you into the Coveuant Chain not only as bretheren but like children under you.

Bretheren.

Wee desire to shelter under your tree of welfare which extends with it's branches to the utmost of the Five Nations; lett it also reach to cover us in our countrey, where we may sitt under the shadow hand in hand together.

Bretheren.

Now we leave the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada for the many cheats he hath put upon us, especially for giving us the hatchet in hand and instigating us to fight against New England in that spring after the peace was proclaimed; which was much to our sorrow after wee were better informed. Wherefore wee wholly part from him and resolved not to hearken to what he might come to say, and fully intended to join with you.

The Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada hath long time been our Father and wee his Children and alwayes gave us fair words; but now wee find he is false, have therefore closed up the path in cutting trees across over it, so that none of us can go thither.

Bretheren.

To call you Bretheren is nothing in comparison to Father, therefore wee take you as Fathers & heartily desire in behalf of our Five Castles call'd Ouwerage Ossaghrage, y<sup>e</sup> Third Castle y<sup>e</sup> name forgot, Onnagongwe & Unyjaware, that the bounds of y<sup>e</sup> Five Nations may be reckoned from y<sup>e</sup> outermost of our said Castles & be joined with us as one heart, & live together under the tree of welfare.

The answer of the Sachems of the Mohack's country.

Children.

What you have proposed is very well & we do accept of you to shelter with us under that pleasant Tree of Welfare, where wee shall live friendly with one another, which Tree is so fair that who ever sits down under it, never parts from it.

Children.

Wee tell you again that you are very wellcome & doubt not but our Brother Corlaer will accept of you for Bretheren to him as we are, and will do well by you; therefore you must also join with him into the Covenant Chain, as wee & y<sup>e</sup> Indians of Shaak-kooke are: given them 4 Belts of Wampum by the Mohacks.

Children.

You tell us of a path w<sup>ch</sup> you have shutt up at Canada; you have another path from your Castles to go to Quebecke, lett that likewise be shutt up, & lead your path hither so that your backs be turned to them and your faces shewn this way.

Children

Now we leave off, but must tell you concerning our religion & how kind our Brother Corlaer is in causing us to be instructed in learning much exceeding the learning you receive in Canada; therefore we desire you to come & participate with us in our belief, so that thereby we may become one flesh & blood. Gave one Belt of Wampum to the Onnagongues & here's 3 Beaver Skins.

Earl of Bellmont to Secretary Vernon.

[New-York Bundles, S. P. O.]

New York the 15th October 1700.

Sir,

The Advice, Frigat, brought me the favour of your Letter of the 26th of June I am heartily sorry for my Lord Somers's being removed from his employm<sup>t</sup> and wish it may be as worthily filled by a Successor, and the King as well and faithfully served by another, as he was by him. I am also extreainly troubled for y<sup>e</sup> Duke of Shrewsbury's indisposition of health that has forced him to resign his employment.

If you will be at the pains of reading my letter to the Councill of Trade (a Copy whereof I send you) there are a great many particulars, some whereof I may presume to say are of great use and service, and w<sup>ch</sup> some men if they were in my place, would value themselves upon; as for instance my conferences with the Five nacóns, w<sup>ch</sup> I send you, will show what pains I took to disabuse 'em of the lying insinuations of the French and the success my pains had in retrieving (with difficulty enough) their affection and submission to the King. You will also find at the end of my letter to the Council of Trade, another great service I have done in bringing the Eastern Indians (who cutt off a 1000 English Families last war in the Massachusetts Province) to enter into a league with our Five Nations and declare for a subjection with them to the King, and a total renunciation of the French; this I cannot but think a very valuable service to England; but for ought I see, I must set a value on my services and recompence 'em myselfe, for any care that's taken of me at home.

I send you all the writing I have that any way relate to Kidd, viz' the Original Articles between M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, Kidd, and me Cap<sup>t</sup> Kidds Original Bond for performance of Articles, and also M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's Bond of Performance, these Originalls I send by the Newport

Frigat, and copies or duplicates thereof by the Ship Fortune, Capt<sup>n</sup> Deering Coman<sup>r</sup>. The Original Articles are written wth M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's own hand, there's no Intricacy in all that matter. The design of the Owners of y<sup>e</sup> Ship I have reason to know was very honest, & y<sup>e</sup> succeſſe I believe had been very fortunate and serviceable, had we not been perswaded by M<sup>r</sup> Livingston to put the Ship under the command of a most abandon'd Villain, for we were all of us, strangers to Kidd, but employed him on M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's recômendacôn of his Bravery and honesty, but he broke Articles with us at the very first dash, for instead of sailing to those seas w<sup>ch</sup> Pyrate ships frequent, he came hither directly to New Yorke and lolyered away several moneths; and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston (who was got hither from England before me) told me at my arrivall here, that there was a private contract between Cöll: Fletcher and Kidd, whereby Kidd obliged himselfe to give Fletcher 10000<sup>l</sup> if he made a voyage; M<sup>r</sup> Livingston told me this was whispered about, but he could not get such light into it as to be able to prove there was such a Bargain between 'em. That was so is palpable enough, because Cöll Fletcher suffered and countenanced Kidd's beating for volunteers in this Town, and taking with him about 100 able sail<sup>r</sup> w<sup>ch</sup> is a loss to this Country to this day. I must say in Justification of the Noble Lords concern'd with me that I do not believe any of 'em ever saw Kidd; and for my own part I never saw him above thrice and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston came with him every time to my house in Dover Street; the whole matter of the outsett of that ship was transacted by M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and me.

The 100 Recruits which the Advice Frigat has brought, are very good, but y<sup>e</sup> officers and sould<sup>rs</sup> mightily uneasie for want of full English pay w<sup>ch</sup> I desire you will please to obtain the Kings consent to, Otherwise I must be forced to resign these Governments. Tis really a great wrong and oppression to the Officers and sould<sup>rs</sup> to have a deduction of 30th p<sup>r</sup> cent<sup>m</sup> struck off from their pay in a Country that's full twice as dear to live in, as London. If I were capable of pocketing almost all the 30th p<sup>r</sup> Cent. as Cöll. Fletcher did, I would not urge as I do, the depriving myselfe of so beneficiall an Article, to give it to the Officers and sould<sup>rs</sup>. In plain English 'tis a great abuse, and much to the King's dishonor it should be continued: it has the air of a trick and a fraud upon the poor sould<sup>rs</sup> and I will wash my hands of it, and of the Government too, unless the Officers and sould<sup>rs</sup> have full English Pay.

I desired you about a year and a halfe ago to ord<sup>r</sup> Major Ingoldesby to his Post: his Company is at Albany, and he has been four years absent and taking his pleasure in England. Your taking a short memorandum of such a thing were not amiss; 'tis an unpardon<sup>ble</sup> neglect in that man to be away so long from his Duty; his Wife and Children are starving at Albany, and he is so inhumane as not to look after or supply 'em in the least, I wish you would please to get him exchanged for some honest sober Cap<sup>t</sup> in one of the Regiments in England, for he is a very rash indiscreet man, and had a principall hand in the execution of Leisler and Milburn.

I hope you and the rest of the Ministers will move the King in my favour that I may have some compensation for the 1000<sup>l</sup> a year the King was pleased to bestow me of the Irish forfeitures and w<sup>ch</sup> the Parliament have deprived me of, by the Act w<sup>ch</sup> resumes that and other grants of those forfeitures

The 3rd of last moneth the great Scotch Ship called the Rising Sun wth another called the Duke of Hamilton, and four or five other Vessels lying at anchor within two leagues of Charles Town in Carolina, there arose a violent hurricane that shattered all the said ships to pieces, and drowned all the men that were on board. The Rising Sun had 112 men; fifteen of her men were gone to Charles Town to buy provisions before the storm happened, and some of those are since come hither. They suppose two other of their ships lost in the Gulph of Florida in the same storm; they all came from Jamaica, and intended to victual and so home to Scotland.

I have a parcell of the swearingest and drunkenest sould<sup>r</sup>s in my company that ever were known in the world, & 'tis not possible it should be, otherwise; both the Liev<sup>t</sup> Fletcher left me, keep Tap Houses, one of 'em has the King's Commission, and tother Fletcher's; I know 'tis against the articles of War that Officers should keep publicke Houses, but really till now very lately that y<sup>e</sup> King pays the companies here again; I could not avoid winking at the Liev<sup>t</sup> taking that ill course for a livelyhood for them and their families; but the ill habit of it I find remains with them and I cannot break them of it, but what is yet worse, I cannot look on them as friends to me, or any design of mine for the Kings service. The Lords of the Councill of Trade direct me to make an experiment in working some navall Stores here, with the souldiers: I cannot go about it with such Officers who I believe would rather traverse me in such a design than further it; and would I fear stir up a mutiny among the sould<sup>r</sup>s if I should propose to 'em the working at Navall Stores for the King. I am not for breaking those Liev<sup>t</sup>s but exchanging them for honest good Liev<sup>t</sup>s in some of the Regiments in England. My first Liev<sup>t</sup>'s name is Peter Matthews, bred up from a child wth Coll: Fletcher, & tis at his house that the angry people of this Town have a Club and hold their cabals; my second Liev<sup>t</sup>s is John Buckley; there is also another Liev<sup>t</sup> in Maj<sup>r</sup> Ingoldesby's Company whose name is Matthew Shank, a most sad drunken sott, and under no good character for manhood. I desire also he may be exchanged for a better man from England; of the two 'tis better these men should serve the King in England than here, because there the King has great choice of men fit for all services, whereas here there are none to be had: I beg you will not forget this exchange of the three Liev<sup>t</sup>s and of Major Ingoldesby, otherwise I have no business to stay in this Country; and to be plain with you, I would not stay a week here, were it not that I have a mind to accomplish the designs I am upon for the service of England: viz the securing the affections of our Five Nations, and drawing new nations of Indians und<sup>r</sup> the obedience of his Majesty, building the Fort in the Onondages Country, and lastly furnishing the navy and all the Kings Dominions with Navall Stores and Ship Timber; all which things if I can bring 'em to bear, may I hope pass for essential Services.

I desire you will please to deliver my inclosed l<sup>r</sup>e to the King; 'tis not so much a l<sup>r</sup>e of business as Complem<sup>t</sup>; I send you a copy of it for your own perusal alone. I am wth respect.

Your most humble and most

faithfull Servant

BELLMONT.

Agreement between the Earl of Bellomont, Mr. Livingston and Captain Kidd.

[New-York Bundle, S. P. O.]

Articles of Agreement made this Tenth day of October in the year of Our Lord 1695. between the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> Richard Earle of Bellomont of the one part, and Robert Livingston Esq. and Capt William Kidd of the other part :

1. WHEREAS the said Capt. Kidd is desirous to obtain a commission as Captain of a private man of war in order to take prizes from the Kings enemies and otherwise to annoy them, and whereas also certain persons did some time since depart from New England, Rhode Island, New York and other parts in America and elsewhere wth an intention to pyrates and to comit spoyles and depredations against the laws of Nations in the Red Sea or elsewhere, and to return wth such goods & riches as they should get, to certain places by them agreed upon, of which said persons and places the said Capt. Kidd hath notice and is desirous to fight wth & subdue the s<sup>d</sup> pyrates and also all other pyrates with whom the said Capt. Kidd shall meet at sea, in case he is impowered so to do. And whereas it is agreed between the said parties that for the purposes aforesaid a good and sufficient ship to the likeing of the s<sup>d</sup> Capt. Kidd shall be forthwith bought, whereof the said Capt. Kidd is to have the comand. Now these presents witness and it is agreed between the said parties:—

1. The said Earle of Bellomont doth covenant and agree at his proper charge to procure from the Kings Majesty or from the Lords Com<sup>rs</sup> of the Admiralty (as the case shall require) one or more commissions impowering him the said Capt. Kidd to act against the Kings enemies and to take prizes from them, as a private man of warr, in the usuall manner and also to fight with conquer and subdue pyrates and to take them and their goods; with such large and beneficial powers and clauses in such commissions as may be most proper and effectuell in such cases.

2. The said Earle doth covenant and agree that within three months after the said Capt. Kidds departure from England for the purposes in these presents mentioned, he will procure at his proper charge a grant from the King to be made to some indifferent & trusty person, of all such merchandizes goods treasure and other things as shall be taken from the said pyrates or any other pyrates whatsoever by the said Capt. Kidd, or by the said ship or any other ship or ships under his command.

3. The said Earle doth agree to pay four fifth parts (the whole in five parts to be divided) of all moneys which shall be laid out for the buying such good and sufficient ship, for the purposes aforesaid, together rigging and other apparell and furniture thereof, & providing the same with competent victualling; the said ship to be approv'd of by the said parties; and the said other fifth part of the charges of the said ship to be paid for by the said Robert Livingston and William Kidd.

4. The said Earle doth agree that in order to the speedy buying the said ship and in part of the said four parts of five of the said charges, he will pay down tho sum of sixteen hundred pounds by way of advance, on or before the sixth day of November next ensuing.

5. The said Robert Livingston and Capt. William Kidd do joyntly and severally covenant and agree that on or before the said sixth day of November when the said Earle of Bellomont is to pay the said sum of sixteen hundred pounds in as aforesaid, they will advance and pay down four hundred pounds in part of the share and proportion which they are to have in the said ship.

6. The said Earle doth agree to pay such further sum of money as shall compleat and make up the said four parts of five of the charges of the said ships apparell furniture and victualling, unto the s<sup>d</sup> Robert Livingston and William Kidd, within seven weeks after the date of these presents; and in like manner the s<sup>d</sup> Robert Livingston and William Kidd do agree to pay such further sum as shall amount to a fifth part of the whole charge of the said ship within seven weeks after the date of these presents.

7. The said Capt. Kidd doth covenant and agree to procure and take with him on board of the said ship one hundred mariners or seamen or thereabout, and to make what reasonable and convenient speed he can, to set out to sea with the said ship, and to saile to such parts and places where he may meet with the said pyrates, and to use his utmost indeavour to meet with subdue and conquer the said pyrates, or any other pyrates and to take from them their goods merchandizes and treasure, also to take what prizes he can from the Kings enemies and forthwith to make the best of his way to Boston in New England & that without touching at any other port or harbour whatsoever or without breaking bulk or deminishing any part of what he shall so take or obtain, on any pretence whatsoever, of which he shall make oath in case the same be desired by the said Earle of Bellomont, and there to deliver the same into the hands or possession of the said Earle.

8. The said Capt. doth agree that the contract and bargain which he will make with his said ship crew shall be no purchase no pay, and not otherwise, and that the share and proportion which his said Crew shall by such contract have of such prizes goods merchandizes and treasure as he shall take as prize or from any pyrates, shall not at the most exceed a fourth part of the same, and shall be less than a fourth part in case the same may reasonably and conveniently be agreed upon.

9. The said Robert Livingston and Capt. William Kidd do joyntly and severally agree with the said Earle of Bellomont that in case the said Capt. Kidd do not meet with the sayd Pyrates which went from New England Rhode Island New York and elsewhere as aforesaid, or do not take from any other pyrates or from any of the Kings enemies such goods merchandizes and other things of value as being divided as herein after is mentioned shall fully recompence the said Earle for the moneys by him expended in buying the said four fifth parts of the said ship and premisses, that then they shall refund and repay to the said Earle of Bellomont the whole money by him to be advanced in sterling mony or mony equivalent thereunto on or before the twenty fifth day of March which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred ninty and seven, the danger of the seas and of the enemie and mortality of the said Capt. Kidd always excepted, upon paym<sup>t</sup> whereof the said Robert Livingston and William Kidd are to have the sole property in the said ship and furniture, and this indenture to be delivered up to them, with all other Covenants and obligacöns thereunto belonging.

10. It is agreed between the said parties that as well the goods merchandizes treasure and other things which shall be taken from the said pyrates or any pyrates by the said William Kidd, as also all such prizes as shall be by him taken from any of the Kings enemies, shall be divided in manner following, that is to say such part as shall be for that purpose agreed upon by the said Capt. Kidd so as the same do not on the whole exceed a fourth part) shall be paid or delivered to the ships crew for their use, and the other three parts to be divided into five equall parts whereof the said Earle is to have to his own use four full parts and the other fifth part to be equally divided between the said Robert Livingston and the said William Kidd, and is to be paid and delivered them by the said Earle of Bellomont without deduction or abatement on any pretence whatsoever; but it is always to be understood that such prizes as shall be taken from the Kings enemies are to be lawfully adjudged prizes in the usual manner, before any division or otherwise intermeddling therewith them according to the true intent of the said commission to be granted in that behalfe.

Lastly it is covenanted and agreed between the parties to these presents, that in case the said Capt. William Kidd do bring to Boston aforesaid and there deliver to the Earle of Bellomont goods merchandizes treasure or prizes to the value of one hundred thousand pounds or upwards, w<sup>ch</sup> he will have taken from the said pyrates or other pyrates or from the Kings enemies that then the ship, which is now speedely to be bought by the said parties, shall be and remain to the sole use and behoofe of him the said Capt. William Kidd as a reward and gratificacón for his good services therein.

ROBERT LIVINGSTON (seal)

WILLIAM KIDD. (seal)

MEMORANDUM. Before the signing sealing and delivery of these presents it was covenanted and agreed by the said Earle of Bellomont with the said Robert Livingston Esq<sup>r</sup> and the said Capt. William Kidd that the person to whom the grant above mentioned in these articles shall be made by his Ma<sup>y</sup> shall within eight days at the most after such grant has passed the Great Seal of England assign and transfer unto each of them the said Robert Livingston Esq. and the said Capt. William Kidd respectively their heires or assignes one full tenth part (the ship's crews share and proportion being first deducted) of all such goods treasure or other things as shall be taken by the said Capt. Kidd by vertue of such Commission as aforesaid, and the said grantee shall make such assignment as aforesaid in such manner as by the said Robert Livingston Esq<sup>r</sup> and the s<sup>d</sup> Capt. William Kidd or their counceill learned in the law shall be reasonably devised and required, and then these presents were sealed and delivered, (the sixpenny stamp being first affixed) in the presence of us.

Earl of Bellomont to Secretary of the Board.

[New-York Entries, D. 92.]

Extract of a letter from the Earle of Bellomont to the Secretary of this Board.
Dated at New Yorke the 19th of October 1700.

Sir

M<sup>r</sup> Smith the Chaplain<sup>1</sup> whom I dismist had the impudence to come the other day and question my power of dismissing him. I forgot in my letter to their Lordships where I mention him, to acquaint them with an arch peice of villany done by Smith while I was at Boston. He comes to the Lieutenant Governor and desires him to signe a blank licence, pretending the persons to be married were desirous to have their names concealed. The Lieutenant Governour suspecting Smith's knavery refuses to signe the blank licence. Afterwards Smith brings a licence filled up with the names of Adam Ball and the maiden name of a married woman; he afterwards adds a sillable to the mans name in the licence (after the Lieutenant Governour had signed it) and then it was Baldridge the pirate, that the Lords formerly writ to me about and the woman was the wife of Buckmaster a pirate, who escaped out of the goal of this town, and who had come in Shelley's ship from Madagascar. Being askt why he married Baldridge to another man's wife, he answered she had made oath to him that she was never married to Buckmaster. Then he was asked by what authority he administer'd an oath, being not in the Commission of the Peace; to that he could give no satisfactory answer. Since that it appears Buckmaster was married to the woman by a Justice of the Peace in one of the Jerseys, which is their way of marrying there. I desire you will acquaint their Lordships with this roguery of Smiths.

My Lord of London having writ to M<sup>r</sup> Vesey the English Minister of this town to submit himself to me, and to me to accept of his submission; I have complied therewith and have promised M<sup>r</sup> Vesey to become his friend, provided he demean himself peaceably and discreetly for the future, which may not be improper to acquaint their Lordships of. I have newly received a letter from Sir William Ashurst wherein he tells me the Corporation are willing to allow £50 a piece to 5 ministers for the 5 Nations for three years, provided the ministers be taken out of Cambridge Colledge in New England. But there are two things objectable in that offer; first I do not approve or like that the allowance should be temporary, which would discourage Ministers. Secondly, I do not so well like Ministers bred there as Church of England Ministers; for in New England the Ministers pray ex-tempore and mightily decry set forms of prayer; insonuch that they never use the Lord's prayer at any time. The best way in my humble opinion is for their Lordships to send to speake with Sir William Ashurst and the members of the Corporation, which is the way to come to a right understanding in that matter. Sir William is a right honest gentleman and will hearken to reason. There ought to be very great care taken in the choice of Ministers, that they be not such debauched loose men as come to America, who indeed give great scandal instead of inviting to be of our Church Communion. Another thing is they ought to be rightly well principled for his present Majesty's Government, and English men rather then Scotch men. I say rather than Scotch men because my Lord of London is fallen into a vein of preferring Scotchmen to be Chaplains to the King's ships. I can only say that all the Scotch in these plantations (who are pretty numerous) are very angry since their loosing Caledonia. I should desire of the Corporation but £300 sterling a year for the present for two ministers to be settled at our intended fort at Onondage, and £70 sterling to be divided between the two Dutch Ministers at Albany and Schenectady.

You will meet with an extraordinary good piece of news in the end of my letter to the Lords of Trade about the Eastern Indians, and with a most melancholly account of the loss of some Scotch men and ships in my letter to the Lords of the Admiralty; a copy whereof goes with my letter to your Board.

I send you Sir William Ashurst's letter which I have newly received; 'tis his original letter; that you may if you think fit, shew it to the Lords.

I desire you will acquaint their Lordships that the House of Representatives have given a Land Tax in lieu of the Additional Duty, which I send home & have so much complained of; and they give the full £1500 I demanded of them last session for building the Fort at Onondage. The Leisler party have taken heart again and I could do any reasonable thing with this Assembly for the King's service, if the Judge and Attorney General were come over. 'Tis a great misfortune that they are so long delayed in England.

BELMONT.

Extract of a Letter from Quebec.

[TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH.]

Extract of a letter from Quebec dated the 13th of Octobr 1700. Recéid. from Mr Blathwayt.

Our Governor has concluded the peace with the Iroquois with great glory to his Majesty, having with his usual prudence so well managed, that he has constrained them to come and sue for it, in spite of all opposition on the part of the English; so that he has effectually rendered himself thereby the arbiter of all the Nations by obliging them likewise to make peace with all those of the Upper Country. We shall, by this means be relieved in some trifling degree, of the contributions we were obliged to levy to aid him in defraying the heavy expenses entailed on him by the war.

Earl of Bellomont to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 97.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade &amp; Plantations.

My Lords.

I did not think to trouble your Lordships with another letter by this Frigate but that of the 17th instant. But there has happen'd an unlucky accident which 'tis fit your Lordships should be made acquainted with. Samuel Yorke and the rest of the men that I sent to the Dowaganhas Indians were stopp'd by some of our Five Nations between perswasion and force. The occasion is this: the Dionondades or Jenondades nation of Indians who live next to the Dowaganhas have made an infall on our Oneides Onondages, and Syneek Nations all at once and killed several of them; which has so exasperated our Five Nations that they are now sending a good body of men detach'd from all the nations to fall upon those Indians and take revenge of them. This news was brought me yesterday by Capt. John Schuyler. I had directed Samuel Yorke and the rest to call on some of the Five Nations and take some of them to the Dowaganhas country; but it seems they refused, and bade these men return to Albany unless they meant to be knock'd in the head by the French or their Indians. Several of the Albany people are now here and they conjecture that the overture made by the Dowaganhas Indians to our Five Nations of coming to live near and in friendship with ours (as in the Conference I have sent your Lordships) was only a French stratagem to amuse our Indians, that being lull'd into a security those nations falling upon ours (as they have now done) might do the greater execution upon them. Our Indians when I was now last at Albany said they had lost 120 men since the peace; and I remember at my coming hither, which was just at the end of the war, the number of fighting men in the Five Nations was reckoned but 1400 at most. I appeal to your Lordships whether the Five Nations can at this rate last many years and be a barrier between these Plantations and the French. 'Tis the French without all doubt that instigate those remote nations to vex and destroy ours as they do. Our Nations firmly believe it, and so do I; because the Governour of Canada told some of our Indians so, as your Lordships have been acquainted. We shall loose the Five Nations and all our American Plantations by our frugality; there's no care taken to fortify Albany and Schenectady, either for our own security or for incouragement of the Indians; so that truly I fear their dread of the French will make 'em revolt to 'em. If 7 or £5000 sterling is to be put in ballance with our keeping these Plantations, then we had as good to make the French a complement of 'em, before they take 'em from us against our will, as most certainly they will do, if they kill part of our Indians and inveigle away the rest. This service is too pressing to stay for Coll: Fletcher's debt to the King which will require a law suit. 'Tis fit he should be compell'd to refund the mony he has cheated the King of; but I hope there's other mony to answer necessary services.

As to wife and the Council's proceeding in the cause between the Widow Wandall and Alsop which your Lordships find fault with; I took M<sup>r</sup> Graham's the Attorney General's opinion in it. He cry'd out against Coll. Fletchers affirmation of a verdict and judgment obtained in Queen's County, as the most enormous injustice that had been done any time in this Province, and told me what marks of horror Coll. Fletcher shew'd at the time of giving judgment, by trembling and growing pale. He put me upon that method of righting the widow, and truly I expected he would have been of Council for her, for so he told me; but he never wants a trick upon an occasion, and appear'd not at all at the hearing. Coll: Smith too, our Chief Justice sate then at Council and made no objection to the proceeding. I remember he told me that M<sup>r</sup> Emot, one of the lawyers here, observed to him that Coll: Fletcher was in a great consternation when he gave judgment against M<sup>r</sup> Wandall and that it was a foul judgment: Emot was of council for M<sup>r</sup> Wandall. I remember Coll: Smith when I took the opinions of the Council, said he would not give his vote for either side; which I understood to be a tacit consent that the Widow was in the right, but M<sup>r</sup> Nichols was Alsop's friend, for Nichols carries a great stroke with all that party. If I was in the wrong 'twas more than I knew, and I wonder I have not made more slips considering what men are of Council for the King in this Province.

I have received your Lordships letter of the 1st of August and will as well as I can comply with your Lordships directions therein.

The recruits from Ireland are newly arrived this evening after more than 13 weeks being on the voyage. The officer tells me they have been very unruly and mutinous, which I do not wonder at, for the Owners of the vessel that brought 'em have not perform'd the charter-party honestly, and the men have suffer'd great hardships.

I am with great respect, My Lords

Lords of Trade to the Archbishop of Canterbury.

[New-York Entries, D.2.]

To the Most Reverend Father in God the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury

My Lord

The Earl of Bellmont having several times represented unto us the great want of some ministers of the Church of England, to instruct our Five Nations of Indians on the frontiers of New York and prevent their being practised upon by the French priests and Jesuits who are conversant amongst them and very industrious in perswading them by pretences or religion to espouse the French interest; We have therefore represented to Their Excellencies the Lords Justices our humble opinion that if a fund can be found for the maintenance of such ministers, they may be of very great use and service, as well for the propagation of the Reformed Religion as for improving the interest of England.

We have also lately received from His Lordship some further advice upon the same subject, of which we send Your Grace the inclosed extract;<sup>1</sup> desiring Your Grace would be pleased to consider of the most speedy and effectual means for the promoting of so good a work.

[New-York Papers, D. 102.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords.

The recruits that came from Ireland are a parcel of the vilest fellows that ever wore the King's livery, the very scum of the army in Ireland and several Irish papists amongst 'em, who have stirr'd up a general mutiny among the soldiers, and had they had the brains to manage their villany with any sort of discretion and cunning, they would have puzzled us mightily to reduce them; but instead of mutinying within the Fort as they might have done, they did it without the Fort, which gave us an advantage of 'em. I had directed the Lieutenant Governour to draw 'em all up (the new and old) near the Fort to read an Act to 'em which we pass'd this session to punish mutineers and deserters, and to detach afterwards some of the men to Albany to incorporate with those Companys that are there. But when he proposed it to 'em, they swore they would not stirr till they were assured of full sterling pay, and sea pay during their voyage; they cry'd one & all and swore they would dyc rather than yeild till they were satisfied in all their demands. The Recruits from Ireland landed here on Saturday last, and that night they made a strange disorder in the town and wounded several of the inhabitants.

I have three fourths of the soldiers prisoners, and will try some of 'em tomorrow, and I am apt to believe we shall hang or shoot ten or a dozen of 'em. I made use of one slight, which gave me the advantage of the mutineers: I sent to the Burghers to come into the Fort without arms and a few at a time, and in a very little time I had near 500 men who I arm'd out of our store, and then the soldiers submitted at discretion. I must needs say all the Townsmen and Merchants of all parties have been very unanimous this day in shewing their zeal to suppress the mutiny. The contrary weather has staid the Newport Frigate these three or four days past, and I have prevail'd with Capt. Morrice to stay this day, that I might have an opportunity of acquainting your Lordships with this ill accident. I am, with respect and faithfull servant

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Bellomont.

[New-York Entries, D. 4.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earl of Bellomont His Majesty's Captain Gen<sup>l</sup> and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Province of the Massachuset Bay, New York and New Hampshire in America and of the Territories thereupon depending &c Or to the Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Province of New York for the time being.

My Lord.

The letters we have received from your Lordship since ours of the 19th of Sept<sup>r</sup> are one from Boston of the 15th with one to our Secretary of the 16th and another from New Yorke of the 26th and 31st of July last; and with those letters we have also received all the papers to which your Lordship therein refers.

The Address of the General Assembly of the Massachuset's Bay to His Majesty, received with the first of those letters, shall be laid before his Majesty with a representation which we intend to prepare on the same matters. What has hindered us hitherto from doing it is, the want of a draught of the Charter for Harvard College and such other informations, as we expected to receive from S<sup>r</sup> Henry Ashurst<sup>1</sup> in pursuance of the directions which yo<sup>r</sup> Lordship writes you had given him on that subject. We have writte to Sir Henry about it some while since, but have yet received no answer.

As to the boundaries We have always insisted and shall insist upon the English right as far as the River S<sup>r</sup> Croix; but in the mean while in relation to the encroachments of the French, and their building a Church on Kennebeck River, that seems to us a very proper occasion for your Lordship's urging the generall Assembly of the Massachuset's Bay, to rebuild the Fort at Pemaquid, which they ought to have done long ago: and thereby they might have prevented this and many other inconveniences. The alarm they have had from the Indians is also another argument to make them think seriously of that matter, and they ought to be pressed to it with all possible earnestness.

The Acts that you have sent us of the Massachuset's Bay, past there the 29th of May last, are not under seal; but we suppose we shall ere long receive an authentic copy thereof (as we have done others formerly) from M<sup>r</sup> Addington, and then they shall be considered.

<sup>1</sup>SIR HENRY ASHURST was son of Henry Ashurst, Esq. who had a great hand in settling the Corporation for Propagating the Gospel among the Indians in New England. Though a zealous dissenter, he was created a Baronet just before the Revolution. His lady was daughter of Lord Paget. He acted as Agent for Massachusetts until 1702, and being an honest man and conscientious in the discharge of his trust, had been very serviceable to that Province. He died in 1710, leaving only one son, Henry, who succeeded to the baronetcy, represented Windsor, and died in 1732, without issue, whereby the title became extinct. — HUTCHINSON.

As to your Lordships appointments for your several Governments, you will already have perceived what we have done, by the Copies of two Representations sent you in our letter of the 22 of June last; the consideration whereof we understand lyes yet before Lords of the Treasury.

Your Lordship will have seen by several of our former letters what we have also done in promoting your desire that a Judge and Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> for the Province of New Yorke may be sent from hence; and we now intend to represent to His Majesty what you write about the want of an able Secretary for the said Province. But in the mean while we conceive your Lordship may take care that the Clerks employ'd by the Secretary be such as are capable of the business and fit to be intrusted with the papers of his office. And as for all other officers in civil employments not fitly qualified, wee know no more proper remedy than that where it lies in your power you put others better qualified in their places.

Wee have consider'd all the papers received with the last of your forementioned letters, relating to the Indians and though wee hope the care already taken here upon the first intimation of an insurrection designed by them or others, and the arrival accordingly of the recruits, cloathing, presents, money &c, at New Yorke will long ere this time by your Lordship's good management have alter'd the state of those affairs; yet we have now made a further use of those papers by sending extracts of what relates to the want of Ministers to His Grace the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Bishop of London that they may take it into consideration, and are also at the same time taking what care wee can otherwise, that something may be effectually done therein. Wee have likewise sent extracts of what relates to the practices of the French amongst our Indias to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon to be laid before his Majesty, that orders may be procured from the French Court for the preventing of such like practices for the future.

Amongst the foresaid papers there are some signed by M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, as Secretary of the Indian Affairs. This puts us in mind of what Your Lordship informed us the 5th July 1699. (whereof an extract is here enclosed) about M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's behaviour upon occasion of Kid's arrival at Boston in imbezling the goods brought in by Kid and pressing to be discharged from his own bond; and as these things were then displeasing to your Lordship and seemed to give you suspicion of his guilt, it is fit wee should know what proof has since been given of his innocency, that he should be continued in the Council and other publick employment.

Your Lordship will have perceived by your letter of the 11th of April last that what you write about the cutting off of 27 month's pay and subsistence from the soldiers, is a mistake. There has not any either pay or subsistence been cut off; but the Parliament having taken upon themselves to provide for the arrears of His Majesty's forces in all parts of the world to the 25th March 1699. the pay and subsistence of the two Companys in New Yorke are assigned on the Forfeitures of Ireland in like manner as the pay and subsistence of all the rest of the Forces. Nor could any other provision be possibly made for them, His Majesty having no other fund for it.

As for the reduction for the 4 Companys in New York to 200 men, it was done upon Your Lordship's information, that there were but 180 effective men of those Companys in being, and by the present Establishment they have been made up 400, as soon as His Majesty was enabled to do it.

Wee pray your Lordship therefore to have a more favorable opinion of those that have the honor to approach the King than to impute unto them the having given His Majesty any ill advice in these matters. Wee neither know any person that has done it, nor do the things themselves appear to be the effect of any such advice.

In our last letter wee told your Lordship that wee had then under consideration the whole scheme of what you had writ us at several times relating to the production of Naval Stores in the Province of New York, and the security of those frontiers; as also what you had writ about the waste committed in the woods of New Hampshire and the Eastern parts of New England. Wee have accordingly laid two representations upon those subjects before Their Excellencies the late Lords Justices, whereof we send you copys here enclosed for your private information; and when any orders are made thereon, wee shall send them also for your direction.

The ship with timber from New Hampshire, for which M<sup>r</sup> Partridge enter'd into bond that she could come for England, being accordingly arrived in Torbay, the merchants concerned therein made application and great complaint to us about that matter; and wee finding thereby that this happens to be the same ship concerning which His Majesty by order in Council of the 9th May last (whereof wee sent you a copy in ours of the 21 June) had directed that she should be permitted to proceed on her voyage to Portugal; wee accordingly represented to Their Excellencies our opinion thereupon, and send your Lordship also a copy thereof here enclosed. However as to this trade of timber from the Plantations to foreign parts, wee shall take occasion farther to consider of it.

The representations that wee were preparing upon the Acts of the Generall Assembly of the Massachusetts Bay and New Hampshire, having been laid before Their Excellencies, wee send you copys thereof here enclosed; to which wee refer ourselves for the reasons of what wee have therein offered; and when wee receive orders thereupon they shall also be transmitted to you that they may be observed.

In relation to those Acts wee send you also herewith a copy of some remarks that wee have made upon divers of them, which wee think very proper to be observed by the Generall Assembly of the Massachusetts Bay upon all like occasions.

M<sup>r</sup> Hillary Reneu a member of the Lustring Company, who has had many occasions to apply to us in behalf of that Company has lately communicated to us the copy of a letter he writ to your Lordship the 8th of March 1698. relating to Lustrings and Alamodes unlawfully imported into New England; which letter he says was delivered to your own hands; and he has farther desired us to recommend the matters he writes about to your Lordship's care. Though wee cannot advise your Lordship to those particular methods which he suggests, because the act upon which he grounds his desire is not in force in New England as he supposes it to be; yet the Act of the 15th of King Charles the II<sup>d</sup> forbidding that any commodity of the growth, production or manufacture of Europe be imported into any of His Majesty's Plantations, but what shall be bona fide and without fraud shipped in England Wales or the town of Berwick &c being a sufficient authority for stopping of that indirect trade; Wee think your Lordship will do very well to discourage it by all legal means, and more especially by charging the officers of the Customs that they be very vigilant in the discharge of their duty in that particular.

The enclosed copy of a letter from M<sup>r</sup> Homrigh to M<sup>r</sup> Blathwayt shows your Lordship the last account wee have had of the recruits from Ireland.

We are, My Lord

Your Lordships most humble servants

Bishop of London to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 13.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords.

I am very sensible of the just care the Earl of Bellomont has expressed for the conversion of the Five Nations, and I wish with all my heart that I had five Apostles for them. But you may be assured I will make it my business to find out fit persons for the work, when I can know how they shall subsist. It was a great unhappiness that Domine Dellius a Dutch Minister in Albany fell uuder his Lordship's displeasure, for he was the only man that understood how to converse with the Mohacks of whom he had converted several to a sincere embracing of the Christian Faith, and had gained such an interest in them as proved of great service and security to the whole Colony. But he is banished. Another thing I would humbly suggest that since there is still so much need of emissarys, His Lordship, if his Commission does not already impower him, might have a new one to call the gentlemen of New England to an account how they have bestowed that considerable yearly revenue which was given for this very purpose from their first planting. However I shall most readily obey your commands in this or whatever else may be in the power of

Earl of Bellmont to the Lords of the Treasury.

[New-York Entries, D. 184.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

My Lords

About a month since I received a letter from M<sup>r</sup> Champante Agent for the four Companies in His Majesty's pay in this province wherein he gave me an account he had lent M<sup>r</sup> Weaver Collector of this Province £425 of the money he had received from the Pay Office and taken M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's bill of exchange drawn on my self and the Council for that value. M<sup>r</sup> Champante made very free with me in parting any of that money without the least direction from me, and his carriage therein has been a trouble as well as surprize to me. Therefore that I may be safe from any such mismanagement for the time to come I must either throw up the Agency or desire your Lordships will please to take good sufficient security of the person as shall be presented to you by Sir John Stanley and M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Pople or either of them, for Agent of the four Companies here in this Province. If the security be proportioned to the Trust, the same ought to be £10000, because the Agent will have £7000 a year if the Kings mony in his hands. I ask your Lordships pardon if I offer what is out of custom and method, but being so far from England my self, 'tis impossible for me to manage this point my self, for I may chance to name a person for Agent who may not be willing to accept, or other accidents might intervene that I might not foresee; so that I think it best to leave the choice of a fit person to freinds.

I inclose herewith a copy of M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's commission (marked A) and his bill of exchange (mark'd B) and of his account (mark'd C.) wherein your Lordships will find he charged £200 a year salary for Collector of this Province and at that rate £300 for a year and half's salary commencing the 25th of March 99. I shewed his bill and account to the Council, who smil'd at it, that he should pretend to a year and half's salary for taking his pastime in London, while another that does the duty of the place will without all peradventure be paid the full salary; so that should M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's pretension be allowed, the King will be at the charge of paying two salaries instead of one; and the reason and the justice of that your Lordships are the most proper judges of. 'Tis above a year since I writ to M<sup>r</sup> Weaver to hasten his coming to his post, but he took no notice of the remembrance I gave him of his duty.

I desire your Lordship will please to signify your direction in that matter, that I and the Council may govern our selves accordingly. I wish in all commissions for places of trust in these Provinces I am concern'd in, there were a particular clause that the persons should not be entitled to any salary or profits but from the time of their entering upon the execution of those places or employments and that would be a spur to them to hasten over and not loyter a year and half in London, as M<sup>r</sup> Weaver has done, and yet expect to be paid their salaries.

We have appointed by Act of Assembly Commissioners to examine and state the Publick Accounts of this Province and that Article I have been now observing to your Lordships in M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's Account will never pass with those Commissioners without a positive order from your Lordships. The Council seem'd to think some other articles in M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's Account pretty extravagant too.

The Trade both here and at Boston is under all the ill management your Lordships can imagine, and it seems to me a thing extraordinary that M<sup>r</sup> Brenton and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver should be suffer'd to stay so very long from their posts. Mr Brenton has been in England above two years. I believe a full third part of the trade of Boston and this place is directly against law, and if your Lordships will not keep a strict hand over the Collectors, the trade of England must suffer exceedingly. 'Tis not possible a Governor should do his own duty and the Collector's too.

I have laid before the Lords of Council of Trade as exactly as I have been able, a state of the Provinces under my government. Above all other things I have observed to their Lordships the treachery and corruption of the last Governour of this Province, Collonel Fletcher, in selling almost all the lands and woods in this Province, to nine or ten mean persons, to the unexpressible prejudice of the Crown. For finding (as I have pretty well demonstrated to their Lordships) that the King and all his dominions may be furnished plentifully and cheaply with naval stores and masts for the King's ships of war from hence. When I come to examine the matter nearly, the King has not an acre of land nor a tree left in the Province, for Fletcher has made sale of both. The Lords of the Council of Trade will I doubt not make that abominable corruption of Fletcher's appear to the King and all the Ministers, and likewise will expose the fraud that's endeavoured to be put on the Crown in the countenance that's given to Collonel Allen in his claim of all the soil and woods of the whole Province of New Hampshire, and a great part of the Province of Massachusetts Bay. These Plantations are of an unspeakable value to the Crown and should not be suffered to be sold away and betray'd to a few private hands. 'Tis your Lordships' province to see that the lands and woods belonging to the Crown be not purloined and imbezled; therefore I thought it my duty to give your Lordships this account.

I laid out in his Majesty's service and by his command £71 17 S. New England money, in my journey to Rhode Island and back again to Boston when I was ordered to execute a commission of inquiry in Rhode Island.

I have also laid out £60 New England money for apprehending James Gillam a pirate, since executed in London. Both sums make £131 17 3. out of which 30£ p<sup>r</sup> Cent is to be deducted to make it sterling. The Commissioners of Accounts will never allow it shall be paid here, & the King has no revenue in the Massachusetts Province, where the money was expended. Therefore I desire your Lordships will please to order the money to be paid to Sir John Stanley for my use, otherwise I shall be a sufferer for having obeyed the King's commands.

I had like to forget to acquaint your Lordships that report being made to me and the Council that a few years ago the excise of the City and County of Albany yeilded above £400 a year being then let to farm, but that since Mr Livingston has had the collection thereof it is sunk to a £100. a year; £50 a year whereof he receives for his own use, by way of salary and that by vertue of a commission he obtained in the year .95, in England, which constitutes him Secretary of the Indian Affairs at a £100 sterling, a year, salary; Collector of the Excise of Albany as aforesaid at £50 a year and Town Clarke of Albany, County Clarke of that County, and Clarke of the Common Pleas thereof. The Council represented to me that it was a wrong done the King and this Province, that Mr Livingston should have the management of that branch of the revenue, when it impair'd so much in his hands and that he should receive £50 a year for himself out of a £100 a year. Therefore they advised the setting it to farm and that Mr Livingston shall have no concern in it; which I thought was reasonable, and 'tis accordingly so ordered. The Com<sup>rs</sup> of Accounts too, have entered a caveat against Mr Livingston's pretension to £800. due by the Province, and for which he obtained an order in England. The Com<sup>rs</sup> object against his account, but they have not yet told me the particulars they object against. By the next opportunity your Lordship shall be informed about it.

M<sup>r</sup> Bass has had great good fortune in his tryal, upon the account of my seizing the ship Hesther at Pert-Amboy in East Jersey, to have recovered such great damages of the King. The ship was sold by inch of Candle and there was no sort of partiality shewed by me in that matter as Bass has most falsely told the world, in a printed paper he dispersed last Session of Parliament, among the members of the House of Commons, neither did I get a shilling directly or indirectly by the sale of that ship after condemnation; but all the money she sold for was applied to the payment of the Masters and saylors wages. That ship at the time of her seizure was much out of repair, and had no sort of merchandize on board her but 25000 pipe staves, which were all sold by one Wooley, who was Basses Agent, to Colonel de Peyster.<sup>1</sup> Bass was reckoned to be happy in my seizing that ship, by all people here that knew his circumstances. The discourse was among the merchants here that he had imbezelled his brother in law, M<sup>r</sup> John Loftning's cargo, which that ship brought from England, valued at £800. and by that means M<sup>r</sup> Lofting became bankrupt. The ship lay at Amboy near a year before Bass could freight her, and then neither was he able to freight her otherwise than with a paulty loading of pipe staves, which at £3.10 p<sup>r</sup> 1000, which is the common price, New York money too, is but £9S. this money, and not much more than £70 sterling. So that with what conscience such extravagant damages were awarded for that ship and her loading of pipe staves, is more proper for your Lordships inquiry than mine.

A most violent storm that happen'd here the 29th of Nov<sup>r</sup> at night drove all the vessels in this harbor from their Anchors and dammified most of them, and this ship among others which carries my packets, and delayed her a week longer from sailing; which gives me the opportunity of sending your Lordships Colonel de Peyster's affidavit, sworn before the Mayor of this City with the seal of the City affixed to it; which will satisfy your Lordships of the many falsities alledg'd (and for ought I know sworn) about the value of the ship Hester and of her pretended <sup>1</sup> ABRAHAM DE PEYSTER, son of Johannes de Peyster and Cornelia Lutters, was born on the 8th of July, 1657, in the city of New Amsterdam, now New-York, and married Catharine de Peyster, in Amsterdam, on the 5th of April, 1684. In 1685, he filled the office of Alderman in his native city, and being in command of the Military Companies in 1689, on the breaking out of the Revolution, attached himself to Leisler. He must not have been very obnoxious, however, to the opposite party, for he was appointed Mayor of the city successively from 1691 to 1695. He was called to the Council on the 28th of September, 1698; was appointed on the 4th October following, assistant Judge of the Supreme Court, New-York Council Minutes, VIII., 64, 65, and acted as Chief Justice immediately before Attwood's arrival in this country. Commissions II., 144. Lt. Governor Nanfan being absent from the Province on the death of the Earl of Bellomont, Colonel Smith claimed that all the powers of government were devolved on him, as oldest member of the Council. This view was opposed by Colonel de Peyster and other gentlemen of the board, who insisted that the Government was devolved not on any single member, but on the entire Council, which had a right to act by a majority of votes. This was the opinion of the Assembly, confirmed afterwards by the Lords of Trade. Smith's History of New-York, I., 136. Colonel Smith, in consequence, frequently absented himself, and on such occasions Col. de Peyster, being the oldest member present, presided at the Council board, and administered the government. Council Minutes, VIII., passim. On the 15th of August, 1701, he was sworn in Deputy Auditor General of the Accounts of the Revenue. Ibid., 266; was, in the following year, one of the Judges of Bayard and Hutebins, whose conviction did not redound, by any means, to the credit of the Bench, as impartial administrators of Justice; and, in September following, was suspended as member of the Council by his political opponents who had then returned to power. The Assembly, becoming fully convinced, in 1705, that Lord Cornbury was no longer to be trusted with the public funds, insisted on appointing a Treasurer for the receipt and disbursement of any moneys the Legislature might order to be raised for public purposes, and on 19th October, 1706, Colonel de Peyster was appointed, by Statute, to that responsible office: Original Laws, III. He held the appointment until June, 1721, when he was rendered, by ill health, incapable of any longer discharging its duties. He was succeeded in the office by his son Abraham, Journals of Assembly, I., 452, 478; and died in the city of New-York on the 2d of August, 1728, aged 71 years. He had issue eight sons and five daughters. — E.

Cargo. Collonel D' Peyster is a very honest upright man, and Bass on whose credit that tryal about the ship was chiefly engaged into by the Proprietors of the Jerseys, is a known profligate fellow and remarkable for lying.

Earl of Bellomont to the Commissioners of the Customs.

I have received the favour of your letter of the 15th of August, but it lay here in this town 3 weeks before I got it. M<sup>r</sup> Ashfeild it seems staid behind in England, and your letter and M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon's and some others came in his trunk before him, without any intimation to his wife or any body else that the letters were there; so that 'twas by accident the trunk was open'd and the letters there found.

As for M<sup>r</sup> Ashfeild I can say neither good or bad of him of my own knowledge, but I will deal plainly with you and tell you he bears a very scurvy character here. I am told by several hands that he pretended to break here for £1200. and yet carried off (that can be proved) £600. and went to England with Coll. Fletcher. He is said too, to be much given to gaming and is of that party that has given me trouble and opposition in the just discharge of my duty. Besides he is of this country as being married here, and I have always found just reason to except against such men in offices of trust under the King; they having little interests and friendships to gratify which do not all consist with the King's service. I appeal now to you whether M<sup>r</sup> Ashfeild being under such circumstances can be thought qualified for a place of so great trust as that is to which you have appointed him: if you can satisfy your selves I have no more to say.

I wish the Collectors of the Plantations were not suffer'd to loyter in England as they do. M<sup>r</sup> Brenton has been from his post above two years, and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver almost as long, and pretends to be paid his salary from the date of his Commission; which will never be allow'd him here, unless the King positively orders it shall be so. I have watched the trade of my three Governments as narrowly as I have been able, and I believe in my conscience there is not less than a third part in all three that is directly against law; and no wonder 'tis so when there's so little care taken to prevent their unlawfull trading. The Collectors whose proper business it is to watch the trade, and to that end should never stir from their posts, are suffer'd to make journeys of pleasure and to be away whole years together. M<sup>r</sup> Brenton was away I am told three years together in England once before. I am sure so long absence does not argue the honesty of a Collector, and the loose management of the Revenue here is a reflection on the management at home. Whatever is got in these Plantations by an unlawfull trade is a wound to the trade of England. At Boston, Mr Brenton's Depnty is a merchant. I cannot say any thing against the man's honesty; he seized about 5 weeks ago a brigantine richly loaded and has taken security of the owners that they shall stand tryall, & so has let go the ship and cargo. I hear he took that course because the Judge of y<sup>e</sup> Admiralty was not in that country at that time. The two Waiters keep publick houses, whis is not an honest calling. There ought to be two arm'd sloops to guard the trade of Boston and one here; both that country and this are naturally cut out and seated for unlawfull trade, all that is possible; both abounding with creeks and islands and lurking places for vessels to run their goods in.

I am, with respect

Gentlemen

Your most faithfull and
humble servant

Earl of Bellmont to the Lords of the Admiralty.

[New-York Entries, D. 194.]

My Lords

I have made an agreement with two honest substantial men in this Country for 24 masts of 40. 37. 36 and 35 inches in diameter, w<sup>ch</sup> are of the greatest sizes I find mentioned in the contract made by the Navy Board with Mr Taylour. 40 inches diameter is not there mentioned I know, for I was told last year at Piscataway there never was but one mast of that diameter sent for England, and 37 inches is the greatest diameter I meet with in that contract. But these men telling me there are pines of 12 foot in circumference in the woods, I sent them to visit or view above Schenectady in this Province; both they & I conceive there must be trees of 40 inches or more in diameter.

I send your Lordships a copy of the articles between me and them (mark'd A), of the bond for performance of articles (mark'd B), of my instructions to them to purchase the woods of the Mohack nation of Indians for the Crown &c (mark'd C) and of the different prices masts were sold by Mr Taylor to the King, offer'd to be delivered at Pescataway by Mr Bridger, and now actually agreed to be delivered at New Yorke for the use of the Navy; the said paper of prices (mark'd D.) the said writings I drew my self; therefore your Lordships must not find fault if there be not all the exactness in point of form that one would wish. The reason I drew them my self was the necessity there was of keeping that matter a secret. Those men that call themselves lawyers here, are not of a principle to be trusted with any thing that's for the King's service, they being all disaffected to the government, and did they know this bargain and design of mine, they would with the rest of their party, put notions in the Indians heads (who are the jealouslest people on the earth) to make them either not consent to the Kings making use of the Woods at all, or not consent, under an extravagant price

By the foremention'd paper of prices your Lordships will see the very great difference between M<sup>r</sup> Taylor's prices and mine. I call 'em mine, because the bargain was made by me; but I protest I am not to get a shilling directly or indirectly by it. I shall by this bargain have the King furnished with masts £70 p<sup>r</sup> Cent cheaper than Mr. Taylor furnish'd them, which I think is not a slight service done the King. I dare undertake to furnish the King with all his masts, bowsprits and yards at such rates, as I will save him at least £15000 a year of what they have cost him hitherto. And the persons I sent to view the woods assure me there are trees enough to serve the King's navy with masts a 1000 years. Two of those I sent are ship-carpenters. I desire your Lordships will please to send a fly boat of 500 tun so as to be here by the last of Aprill next, and I will load her with those masts and ship timber; all which shall be in readiness for her coming. I can supply the King and all his dominions with naval stores (except flax and hemp) from this Province and New Hampshire, but then your Lordships and the rest of the Ministers must break through Coll. Fletchers most corrupt grants of all the lands and woods of this Province, which I think is the most impudent villany I ever heard or read of any man. I will instance in 3 or 4 of his grants to let your Lordships see that man's fraud to the Crown. To M<sup>r</sup> Godfrey Dellius a grant of land 86 miles in length 20 (and as some say) 25 miles in breadth. To Coll. Bayard a grant of about 40 miles long and 30 miles broad. To the same M<sup>r</sup> Godfrey Dellius and partners another grant (and that the Mohack Indians land which they have often complained of) 50 miles long & 4 miles broad. To Capt. Evans who commanded the Richmond frigate here, a grant of 40 miles long and 30 miles broad, and about half a dozen grants more, little inferiour to those I have named; without reserving to the Crown any Quit rent or the liberty of building a fort or cutting a tree on any of y<sup>e</sup> said lands.

I have advanced a £100 to the undertakers for the masts and am to pay them £200 more on the first day of December, which will be due before this letter can reach your Lordships hands. Therefore I desire your Lordships will please to order that money to be paid by the Navy Board to Sir John Stanley for my use; it comes to £230 17. sterling. The money I have paid and am to pay, being the currant mony here, which is worse than sterling by 30£ p<sup>r</sup> Cent.

There is also £467 7. New York mony, or £359 10 6 sterling, which I have laid out for ship timber, part whereof I have sent home in the ship Fortune, and the remainder shall be sent home in spring. I desire your Lordships will please to order the said sum of £359 10 6. to be paid to S<sup>r</sup> John Stanley for my use. If your Lordships like the timber I have sent in the Fortune, as I doubt not but you will, I make no question but to furnish ship timber hereafter abundantly cheaper than this has cost. I was at Boston when I write to have this timber provided, and the person I write to employed carpenters at day's wages, whereas he ought to have agreed by y<sup>e</sup> great, or so much per foot. Besides this parcell was the first that ever was provided for the King in this Province, and first essays of this kind are always more chargeable than when men are us'd to such a thing, and know how to value their labour. If your Lordships order me to provide more ship timber I do not doubt but to furnish what quantity and of what scantlings you please, at least £30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent cheaper than this I have lately sent in the Fortune.

I am with respect

My Lords

your Lordships most humble

& faithfull servant

Earl of Bellmont to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 137.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lords.

My last letter to your Lordships was of the 25th of last month by the Newport Frigate and gave you an account of the mutiny of the souldiers. The gate of the Fort was but shut the moment they attempted to march in, led on by corporal Morris, since shot to death for his mutiny and with him Robert Cotterel who had been an Ensign in the late King James's Popish Army in Ireland. The Court Marshal condemned four to be shot, but I sav'd Rich<sup>d</sup> Fleming and Jonathan Wilford.

The whole proceeding of the Court Marshal is (N<sup>o</sup> 1) which will best inform your Lordship of the nature of the evidence, and behaviour of the Court. Four of the members of the Councill made part of the Court Marshal as the Act directs, which we pass'd this last session against mutiny and desertion; and they were so very timorous that after they had tryed and condemned the above four men to be shot, they were afraid the sentence should be put in execution, and therefore addressed me that the execution might be respited; as by their Address (N<sup>o</sup> 2) and at the same time they delivered me a paper of reasons on which their said Address was grounded, and the said paper is (N<sup>o</sup> 3) I ask'd those four gentlemen of the Council why they consented to the Act for punishing Mutiny and Desertion since they were afraid of it's being put in execution. But it seems some of the lawyers here had put it in their heads that in time of peace it was against the law of England to exercise martial law, and that they ran a hazard of being ruined if the Mutineers suffer'd death by their judgment. The Lawyers here they knew very well, I told them, broke English laws every day, and were disaffected to the present Government of England and therefore they ought not to give credit to them. Besides, I told them, I was sure those lawyers had no tenderness towards the criminals, but they hoped that our impunity to those men would quickly cause another (and a worse) mutiny, and to see the soldiers turn instruments of mischeif and confusion was what the lawyers here expected and wished for. I send your Lordships a copy of the King's instruction to me to encourage the passing an Act by the Generall Assembly of this Province for punishing Mutiny and Desertion (N<sup>o</sup> 4) I sent your Lordships an Act for that purpose, which we pass'd here in April or May was twelvemonth; it was drawn by M<sup>r</sup> Graham, but when I would have tryed three deserters when I was last at Albany by that Act I found it defective, for M<sup>r</sup> Graham has therein referr'd to an Act pass'd in England during the late War for punishment of those offences, and he has not nam'd the Year wherein that English Act pass'd; and the Act for punishing mutiny and desertion in England having been renewed every session of Parliament and generally with some variations too, I would not venture to try those deserters at Albany by M<sup>r</sup> Graham's Act. This last Act pass'd this last session was drawn by M<sup>r</sup> Gouverneur the Speaker of the House of Representatives and myself, and we therein followed as near as we could the Act of the 4th and 5th of King William and Queen Mary. It was a happiness that the Act pass'd so seasonably to punish some of the mutineers

I send your Lordships a list of the Acts we pass'd this last session (N<sup>o</sup> 5) they are six in number and sent by this conveyance. The Act that stands second in the list repeals that which I sent your Lordships last by the Newport Frigate, and gives His Majesty a £1000 by a land Tax, and there being £500 raised by that, which I then sent home, the King will have the sum I demanded of the Assembly at my coming from Boston which was £1500 for building a fort at the Onondages country.

I have not seen M<sup>r</sup> Graham these three months; he has been and still is at his house eight miles off, and pretends himself sick, but was not so sick but that he had like to have plaid me a trick and have lost me this M<sup>ony</sup>-Act I now send your Lordships, and if I had not been very circumspect I had lost it without resource. M<sup>r</sup> Graham's talent is at a trick; he has endeavour'd to play me a great many, but I have been always on my guard with him. If another Attorney General were not to come from England I would have remov'd M<sup>r</sup> Graham some time since, for his neglect and falshood & doing no manner of service in his post for more than a year past. I will give M<sup>r</sup> Popple the trouble of an accusation against M<sup>r</sup> Graham by this conveyance and if at any time there be an occasion for it, M<sup>r</sup> Popple will be able to lay my charge against M<sup>r</sup> Graham before your Lordships.

In my letter of the 24th of last month by the Newport Frigate I gave your Lordships an ill piece of news of my messengers being stopp'd, whom I sent to open a trade with the Dowaganhas and other remote Indians and that by our Five Nations, who were put out of humour by some of those Indians falling on and killing some of ours. The Newport was no sooner gone when there came a message to me from the French Coureurs de Bois, by John de Noyon and Louis Gosselin two of their body, whose memorial is (N<sup>o</sup> 6.) which will let your Lordships see what they propose. I acted cautiously with them, not knowing how sincere they were; but I am apt to believe that they were sent by those hunters because that at my first going to Albany Jean Rossie a Frenchman and Samuel York who both came from Canada at different times, told me some of those hunters had spoke to them & assured them they would come and offer me their service and quit Canada for ever. — These two men De Noyon and Gosselin confirmed to me the account I writ your Lordships of Captain Courtemanche's going with 30 men to the Dowaganha's Country to call home the French hunters and offer them the Governour of Canada's pardon: but they assured me those hunters are firmly resolved not to trust that Governour nor accept of his pardon, if they may be receiv'd and protected by me.

If I could manage our Five Nations to my mind I make no manner of question of fixing a trade with the Dowaganhas Ottowawas and all those remote Nations which the French have gain'd a trade with; but we have at Albany some men as angry and disaffected as any are in New York; and those men are industrious to the last degree to crosse all my measures with the Indians; but they do it so cunningly that I cannot prove it upon them.

Mr Livingston assur'd me that to his knowledge there was a pact or league between Coll: Schuyler, Major Wessels, Mr Dellius the late minister of Albany, and as he thought one Banker made the fourth man, and some of the principal Sachems of the Five Nations, whereby those Sachems oblig'd themselves to transact nothing of business without the privity and approbation of those four men; and that they had made several presents to the leading Sachems at the King's charge. Those four men and one Pinhorn were they that Coll: Fletcher granted the Mohack's land to. But that which made me mention Collonel Schuyler and some of the rest of his faction, in this place is, the reason I have to suspect they have been infusing a jealousy into the Indians; insomuch that they are now growu averse to our building a fort at Onondage. Collonel Romer is returned from viewing that country and assures me the Indians entertain'd him coldly and rudely, and the chief Sachem of that Nation whose name is Decanissore advis'd or rather caution'd him not to begin the Fort till all the Five Nations were consulted in it. Collonel Romer's account of his expedition is (N<sup>o</sup> 7) and Mr Hansen and Mr Van Brugh's journal (N<sup>o</sup> 8) These two last are Commissioners appointed by the Assembly to inspect the building of the Fort. Their journal seems to me the most methodical of the two. If Collonel Schuyler and his party have been playing tricks with the Indians to put them out of conceit with our building a fort in the Onondages country, as 'tis not doubted but they have, I think it is the greatest piece of insolence imaginable and may prove of very ill consequence to the publick; they knowing too that the King has approv'd of a Fort there, and that I have His Majesty's commands to build one. Collonel Schuyler is brother in law of Mr Nichols, who is the most sensible man of the party, and the hottest, and if Nichols's influence on Schuyler will push him on to put the Indians out of conceit with a Fort, Schuyler will not fail to do it, who is said to be entirely govern'd by Nichols in every thing. And after all if the Indians be unwilling, 'twill be impossible to build a fort any where in their country.

Mr Livingston was as active in opposing a fort in the Onondage's country as any body, and was the man that penn'd the Albany Address to me against it.

Collonel Romer is mightily discouraged because the Officers of the Ordnance will not comply with the King's commands in allowing him 30<sup>s</sup> a day, as he had when he left England. He is resolv'd to go to England in spring, and there will be a necessity of sending over another Engineer immediately. But if the Board of Ordnance send over such an one as they would have sent with me, before they had the King's positive order to send Collonel Romer, they had better send none. Collonel Romer has got a rupture, which the Physicians here say will kill him if he goes not to England to be cured.

Your Lordships lately proposed to me the trying to make tar with the souldiers, but you cannot believe that when they mutiny for English pay and without working, they will be contented to work for less than English pay: 12<sup>d</sup> Sterling p<sup>r</sup> day is, I am confident, the very least reward that can be given them while they worke. The people in New England are as penurious as any I have met with, and last May's session the Captain of the Castle was questioned by the Assembly why he had no better men in garrison; his answer was that no good men would serve for that pay, which was then 5 shillings per week for each private centinel, besides meat, drink and lodging; whereupon the Assembly order'd 6 shillings per week for each private man's pay, besides meat, drink & lodging, and I was present when the agreement was made for the souldiers diet, viz' 3<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> per week each man all summer and 3<sup>s</sup> 9<sup>d</sup> per week all winter. Now take each man's weekly pay and subsistence together and it makes 7 shillings sterling per week; and I propos'd but 6 shillings sterling for each souldier per week in my scheme. I desire your Lordships will consider this maintenance of the Boston soldiers, and then whether it be reasonable or honest to impose such a hardship on the officers and soldiers here as a deduction of 30.£ p<sup>r</sup> cent, or whether it can be expected they should work (the souldiers I mean) at that rate.

Shall I venture to offer your Lordships my advice by way of scheme, how to put these four companies on a better foot than they are at present, and that with little more charge than the King is at now. The truth is we want more Captains to keep our souldiers in better order; 'tis the wisest thing the French do in their whole military discipline to have their regiments double and sometimes treble officer'd. I should humbly advise then that our four Companies were made eight, and regimented; the King may make me Collonel or who else he pleases, the Lientenant Collonel I would have to be Lieutenant Governor of New Hampshire, and the Major made Governor of Albany, where the people are very lawless and unruly. There are a great many worthy Gentlemen and good officers at half pay now in England; let some of the best of them be put into the posts I have been naming then there will be room for a Lieutenant Collonel a Major and two Captains. I would have a particular care taken in the choice of these Officers that they be men of good military skill and sober discreet men, and I would have the feild officers and captains to be of the Council in this Province and New Hampshire. One of the Captains I would have to be a good Engineer. In case of such an Establishment there will be need of four Lieutenants more, and two of them I would have to be good Master gunners for this fort and Albany. I believe this is so reasonable a proposal that I fancy the King would easily consent to it. I am sure it would be greatly for His Majesty's service.

The best course I could take for securing our 5 Nations were to go and live a year at Albany where I would watch the behaviour of Collonel Schuyler and his associates, and let the Indians see that the King has entrusted me with the management of them, and not Schuyler and his freinds, as I have been told he and they suggested to the Indians. I could by that means too prevail with them to let me build a fort in their country, and without a fort in the Onondages country I am clearly of opinion I shall never be able to ingage the remote nations of Indians to come and trade with us; for our 5 Nations will as often as the others bring their peltry towards us, intercept and cut them off; which, besides the hindrance it will be to their trading with us, will maintain a constant hatred and war between those Nations and ours, that in a few years will end in the total extirpation of ours, and the Governour of Canada will lend a helping hand to it.

I must be so free with your Lordships as to tell you that unless care be taken to provide an honourable maintenance for a me, and certain, I must go to Boston next spring to make sure of their annual present of a £1000 that mony. I were to blame if because I am neglected at home, I should neglect myself here.

I acquainted your Lordships in one of my last letters by the Newport Frigat that there was no attempting to make tar here till the Act for vacating some of Collonel Fletcher's grants were approved by the King; and the same thing I must tell your Lordships again, nor can I cut one stick of timber for the King's use till then. The ship timber I sent home in the ship Fortune was cut on the land granted to Captain Evans by Collonel Fletcher, and while it was shipping, one Janeway comes from England (who had been Purser of the Frigat commanded by Evans and pretends himself Evans's attorny) and threatens to arrest the timber, and to sue M<sup>r</sup> Latham that cut it, for damages. Latham is so frighted that he has been twice or thrice with me about it. Your Lordships may judge whether I can be easy when I am no better supported in the execution of the orders I receive from England.

Certainly the Parliament of England who have not scrupled breaking through all the Irish grants last session, will not hesitate a minute to break all the grants made by Collonel Fletcher. There's a world of difference between grants made immediately by the King and some not without a valuable consideration, I mean where the Grantees had done faithful services to the crown, and grants of almost a whole Province by an upstart corrupt Governour. In my opinion that matter ought to be laid before the Parliament and let them judge which will most import the nation, to be furnish'd from hence and New Hampshire with Naval Stores and Ship timber, or to justify Fletcher's corrupt sale of  $\frac{3}{4}$  parts of the lands in this Province, and Collonel Allen's pretension to all the lands & woods in New Hampshire and a good part of the Massachusetts Province. Now that I mention Fletcher's sale of the lands, I must acquaint your Lordships that M<sup>r</sup> Penn when he was here, told me that he was visited by Colonel Bayard, who told him he paid Fletcher a £150. for his grant of lands. I must also acquaint your Lordships that there are two or three grants by other Governours before Collonel Fletcher that are extravagant too.

I have made a bargain with two men for masts, encouraged thereto by your Lordships direction; which if they perform will prove the best bargain for the King that ever was yet made. I send your Lordships a copy of the articles between us (N<sup>o</sup> 9) of the bond for performance of the articles (N<sup>o</sup> 10) of my instructions to M<sup>r</sup> Schermerhoorn and Beeckman the undertakers (N<sup>o</sup> 11) and a paper wherein I have compared in three distinct columns the prices paid to M<sup>r</sup> Taylor for masts of those sizes, the prices propos'd by M<sup>r</sup> Bridger in a paper I sent your Lordships with my letter of the 22<sup>d</sup> of June last, and my prices as per these articles. The articles bond and instructions are my own drawing, for I was forc'd to venture at the drawing them myself to keep this design secret from some ill people at Albany, who are wicked enough to hinder the good effects of such a bargain by persuading the Mohack Indians either not to part with their woods to the King or to hold them up at an extravagant rate: the said paper of prices is (N<sup>o</sup> 12) Some of the people of Albany upon my sending M<sup>r</sup> Latham and these two undertakers last year to view those woods, began to practice with those Indians and perswade them that each of those great pines for masts was worth 50 beaver skins. M<sup>r</sup> Latham assures me there are pines enough in those woods on the Mohack's river to furnish the navy these thousand years to come. The 24 masts I have articed for will serve a first and second rate man of war; the biggest in M<sup>r</sup> Taylor's contract was 37 inches diameter, as your Lordships will see in the paper of his prices which I sent you with my said letter of the 22<sup>d</sup> June. I have agreed for 2 masts of 40 inches diameter which will be a rarity when sent home. These pines I fancy will be found to grow on M<sup>r</sup> Dellius's grant in partnership with Colonel Schuyler, Major Wessells, Captain Banker and M<sup>r</sup> Pinhorn; therefore it behoves your Lordships to get that Act confirm'd by the King, which vacated some of Fletcher's grants. I wish your Lordships when you directed me to send masts from hence, had also proposed a fund out of which they should be paid for. I have been forc'd to borrow some of the mony from the Collector, which was granted by the Assembly for the fort at Onondage to advance to the Undertakers for the masts. The first of Aprill there will be £600 New York money paid to them, which will be about £400 sterling and for which I must draw bills on the Navy Board, which I will do at a month's sight, and inclose them to your Lordships that they may be surely answered.

This bargain of mine for masts reveals the mystery your Lordships desire me to resolve you, in your letter of the 19th of last April; for if I procure that the King shall have his masts from hence for one fourth (or near it) of the prices paid to M<sup>r</sup> Taylor, 'tis a sure argument that the King was not well used in the contract with Taylor; and that is the mystery I meant.

I cannot but flatter myself that this bargain for masts is a very valuable service to the King and all his dominions; for here is a sufficient store for all, and I hope your Lordships will recommend it as such to the King. I believe I shall save the King £15000 a year in the articles of masts, boltsprits and yards, and more.

I desire your Lordships will order a fly-boat or hag-boat of 500 ton to be here by the last day of April next, and I will load her with masts and principal ship timber, that shall be worth to the King at the rate he now pays, £4000, over and above all charges; if these undertakers furnish me with boltsprits and yards as well as masts, as they have promis'd to do, and I am myself to set the prices of the boltsprits and yards. Such a fly-boat that fair weather season may be sail'd with 20 hands. I find M<sup>r</sup> Bridger was out of the way in allowing 35 men to navigate a ship of 500 tons, they laugh at him here for it, as they do for valuing knee-timber & standards for a ship of war at half a crown a foot, when M<sup>r</sup> Latham and some other shipwrights here are positive that knees and standards for merchant ships never sell under four shillings a foot in England, and five shillings a foot for a man of war.

I send your Lordships a list of the militia in this Province (N<sup>o</sup> 13) of the Militia in the Massachuset's province (N<sup>o</sup> 14) and of that in New Hampshire (N<sup>o</sup> 15) The Militia officers in this Province have been so particular as to send me all the names of the private souldiers, but those in Massachuset have only return'd their own names with the number only of souldiers (and not their names) in each regiment, and the same course those of New Hampshire have taken. I much question whether the militia in Massachuset province be so numerous as 'tis return'd on the list.

I send an Address of the House of Representatives of this Province this last session about the bounds between East Jersey and this Province (N<sup>o</sup> 16) and desire your Lordships will please to give some order therein.

Last May's session at Boston we pass'd 12 Acts of Assembly, which I doubt not but M<sup>r</sup> Addington the Secretary has long since transmitted to your Lordships. We were much applied to by the Indians, who I think are barbarously treated in many parts of that Province, but little was done for their relief. The Act which stands the 9th among those we pass'd and which is called, An Act for preventing abuses to the Indians, has a specious name, but the House of Representatives left out the most useful clause in it, which clause is (N<sup>o</sup> 17) The Council were unanimously for this clause to stand in the Bill, but the other House would not endure it. One remarkable fraud I must observe to your Lordships that was put on the poor Indians on Nantucket Island. The Representative that serv'd for that Island (one M<sup>r</sup> Coffin) came to solicit me and the Council to pass an Act to restrain the Indians on that Island from trading with Rhode Island; the Indians had before complain'd to me how hardly they were used by the English, and M<sup>r</sup> Coffin own'd the whole matter there, viz' that the (the English) had bargained with the Indians that half of the Island should be for the use of the Indians to sow Indian wheat on, but that when the crop is off the land, the grasse of that land is to belong wholly to the English; so that these Indians now that they would keep cattle and live as the English do, are not able, or rather are not suffer'd so to do. This is such a circumvention and fraud as ought not to be suffer'd and so I told M<sup>r</sup> Coffin before the Council, and I declared I would not give the assent to any Bill that should put a further hardship on those Indians. Nantucket Island is much commended for goodness of soil, and there is great store of sheep on it; 'tis 16 miles long and 6 or 7 broad, the English there are 300 souls and the Indians 800, and said to be the soberest best sort of Indians in America. There are I fear many such instances of harshness to the Indians in that Province which is not the way to propagate Christianity among them. At my first going to Boston a multitude of complaints were brought me by the Indians from all quarters of that Province; they called me the great Governour and expected a speedy redress of their wrongs; but I had not the power of doing them right. The better sort of people there are troubled for the Indians, but are not able to help them.

I shall now say something to the trade of these Provinces under my government, to shew the present loose ill management of it. But first I will explain my meaning in my letter to your Lordships of the 22<sup>d</sup> of last June, where I say 'tis demonstrable these Plantations are capable of employing a 1000 good ships of burthen, and 20000 seamen, more than are at present employed by England. I have thought of that position of mine very much and I cannot but be of the same mind I was then, viz' that by due encouragement to the two following articles of Naval stores and cultivating vineyards, to furnish all the dominions of the Crown with wines of our own growth, the proposed improvement and increase of shipping and seamen will be accomplished. Under the head of Naval Stores I suppose tar, pitch, rozen, turpentine, oil of turpentine, ship timber of all sorts, as planke and compass timber, masts, boltsprits and yards. I have in many of my letters recommended to your Lordships the article of Naval Stores and ship timber, so that I will say no more on that subject, but to put your Lordships in mind that Collonel Nicholson & M<sup>r</sup> Penn believe that ship timber may be sent to England from these plantations with good advantage, as appears by one of the heads contained in the paper number 27 and sent to your Lordships with my letter of the 17th of last month. My Lord Bacon in his essay on Plantations expresses himself in such a manner as if he had in view England's being furnished with naval stores, timber, pot-ashes and silk from America; and I am of opinion all those several species may be plentifully furnished to England from these plantations, if care were taken to encourage the design in the beginning. 'Twere rashness in me to declare this upon my own single judgment, but men of the best experience and knowledge in these Provinces agree with me in opinion that what I have now offer'd is practicable.

As to the propagating wine in these Plantations to supply all the dominions of the Crown, I can easily make that appear. In the first place Nature has given us an index in these Plantations that points to us what may be done in that by the help of art. There grows wild grapes in all the woods here in very great abundance; I have observed them in many places but especially above Albany on the side of Hudson's River where the vines all along twine round great trees and fair clusters of grapes appear sometimes above 30 foot from the ground. I have eaten of the wild grapes which I thought were tasteful enough, only somewhat harsh as an effect of their wildness. In the next place experience tells us that good wine has grown in the Naraganset Country, where several French families seated themselves and where (as I have been credibly informed by some Frenchmen) there would have been by this time above 500 French families, had they not been most barbarously persecuted and driven away by the people of Rhode Island. The French found the climate and soil in the Narraganset country proper for vineyards, and that disposed them to settle there; and I was told by some people at Boston that tasted of some wine that grew in that country that they thought it as good as Bourdeaux claret. I remember Major de la Valliere (who was sent by the Governour of Canada with Bruyas the Jesuit, with a compliment to me, and found me at Rhode Island) told me they had begun to plant vineyards and make wine about Montreal in Canada, and that it was a good table wine, but that the Court of France fearing it might prove prejudicial to the wine trade of France, forbad their making any more wine in Canada, so that they were forced to bury their vines before they could destroy them. 'Tis to be observed that Montreal is at least 5 degrees more Northward than New Yorke. Another instance I must give your Lordships which I had from M<sup>r</sup> Bourn a merchant at Boston who came from Carolina last February. He assur'd me he drank very good wine there of their own growth, that was as strong as any Lisbon or Port wine he ever tasted; without doubt South Carolina would produce wine that would equal any that we have from Spain or Portugal, as these more northern plantations as far as the Naraganset country would produce a lighter sort of wine, such as Burgundy and Bourdeaux claret.

A little before my leaving Boston some of those French that had been routed out of the Naraganset country, came to see me, and among other things they recommended the planting of Mulberry trees in these countries for breeding silkworms and making silk. They told me that improvement would quickly and easily be brought to pass, for that a mulberry tree of two years growth is fit for silkworms. The woods in all these Countries abound with mulberry trees that bear a luscious fruit, that's long in shape, but they told me the leaves of these wild mulberry trees are so thick and hard that the silkworms could not feed on them. Certainly if raw silk could be furnish'd from these plantations and manufactur'd in England, it would be a very useful commodity.

I will next say something of making salt and pot-ashes, because I will trace my Lord Bacon in all his notions relating to the productions that these Plantations would afford, for the advantage of England and of the English planters here. The L<sup>d</sup> Governour and near twenty of the most considerable merchants at Boston employ'd a Frenchman to make salt work there. The Frenchman performed his part, and some hundred bushels of salt were made, but these countries being subject to much thunder and lightning, the thunder showers (which are very frequent) spoils and hinders their making salt, which, could they make a quantity of, would be a treasure to that people. I have seen and tasted of it. It has qualities that no other salt has that ever I saw or heard of; it has a fragrant smell, it cures fish and flesh without hardning it as other salt does, neither has the fish or flesh that fiery pungent saltness which is given by other salt.

As to pot-ashes, there have been some experiments made at Boston, and they pretend to the right art of making it, but the dearness of labour is the main impediment, for the woods are infinite. Some of the merchants were trying when I came to Boston to hire the Indians to the Eastward to work pot-ashes for them, but the Indians are so proud and lazy that 'tis to be feared they will not be prevail'd with to work.

It concerns your Lordships in my humble opinion to promote and encourage all these trades I have been mentioning, for the mutual advantage of England and these Plantations. I think I have sufficiently shewn the faisibility of all or at least the cheif of them; and if that be granted me, then I am sure my computation is not very wide of the truth that a 1000 ships and 20000 seamen will be employed more than are at present; and that trade and the benefit arising from it will for ever bind these Plantations in a firm dependence upon England. Then these people will find their account in being of a piece with England and there's no band of union so sure and lasting as that of interest. To my certain knowledge the people of Boston government and those here are very uneasy for want of returns to England, their import of English goods do so over-balance their exports of the commodities of these countries, that it makes them almost desperate.

Last May's session at Boston somebody had laid a paper on the Council table without any name to it, wherein it was desired that the Assembly would take notice of the decrease of trade, would think of ways to quicken & revive the trade of that Province. Some gentlemen of the Council upon reading that paper were very warm & expressed great discontent at the Acts of Trade and Navigation that restrained them from an open free trade to all parts of the world; they alledg'd they were as much English men as those in England and thought they had a right to all the priviledges that the people of England had, that the London Merchants had procur'd those restraining laws to be made on purpose to make the people of the plantations to go to market to them. This happen'd on Tuesday the 25th of last June.

A trade from these countries to England for ship timber and such things as I have before proposed, would remove all manner of dissatisfaction from these people effectually and would make them easy & happy.

The beaver trade here and at Boston is sunk to little or nothing, and the market is so low for beaver in England that 'tis scarce worth the transporting. I have been told that in one year when this province was in possession of the Dutch there were 66000 beaver skins exported from this town, and this last year there was but 15241. beaver skins exported hence from the 24th of June 99. to the 24th of June 1700. as p<sup>r</sup> Collonel Courtland's account which I have now before me. 'Tis a sign of our Five Nations being mightily diminished, but that is not all, that commodity is grown almost quite out of use, which is of ill consequence, for as it falls in price in England it must necessarily do so here. A few years ago beaver skins sold in London at 14 shillings a pound, and then there the custom was but 4<sup>d</sup> the skin; now beaver is fallen to 5 per pound in England and pays 9<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> skin custom here, 3<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> skin freight and 12<sup>d</sup> when 'tis unship'd in England; which is a mighty damp on that trade, and a great discouragement to our Indians. I believe it may be worthy your Lordships consideration whether it may not be proper to make beaver and all other peltry from this Province, custom free, both here and in England, both for the advantage of our 5 Nations, and to draw the remote nations to trade with us; but at the same time I can give good reasons why this Province alone should have that privilege. First, this being the frontier Province and where the Indians as living in this Province must always be treated with and manag'd for the interest of the Crown, and perhaps that method being used to keep up the price of beaver and other peltry here, may be a means of drawing the Eastern and other Indians to come and settle in this Province. Secondly, this Province, being the only Province of all the Northern ones that gives the King a standing revenue, perhaps it were not amisse that the King shew'd that mark of his acknowledgement to this people to countenance an act of Parliament in England and an Act of Assembly here, to take of entirely the customes there and here of all sorts of peltry exported from New York, and to let the neighbour Provinces and Colonies see the difference the government of England makes between a people that contribute largely to the support of the government, and those that do not contribute at all

Last April I examined the Registers of all the vessels in the three Provinces of my Government and found there then belonged to the town of Boston 25 ships from a 100 ton to 300; ships about a 100 ton and under, 39. Brigantines 50 Ketches 13 and sloops 67: in all a 194 vessels; to other towns in that Province there belonged then about 70 vessels of all sorts whereof 11 were ships of good burthen. To New Yorke there then belonged 6 ships above and 8 under a 100 tons; 2 Ketches, 27 brigantines and 81 sloops. To New Hampshire at that time 11 ships of good burthen, 5 Brigantines 4 ketches and 4 sloops. I believe one may venture to say there are more good vessels belonging to the town of Boston than to all Scotland and Ireland, unless one should reckon the small craft such as herring boats.

Their staple in the Massachusetts Province is the fishery, their codfish consists of three sorts, viz<sup>t</sup> marchandable, midling, and refuse. The marchandable is subdivided into great marchandable and little. The great marchandable they send to Bilboa and Cales; the little, to Lisbon and Oporto. The median or midling fish they send to the Canaries the Madeiras & Fial, and also to Jamaica. The refuse Cod they send to Barbadoes and the Leeward Islands. They compute at Boston that they ship off 50000 quintals of dry fish every year, about  $\frac{2}{3}$  wherof is sent to Bilboa. Last year the fish sold for 18 shillings a quintal on the Coast where 'twas taken, and this year it has fallen to 12 shillings a quintal, mony of New England. I ask'd the meaning of the fall of the price, and the merchants told me they knew no other reason but that the French fishers had glutted the markets abroad. Cod that's taken on the coast of this continent yeilds 2 shillings a quintal more at Bilboa than that which is taken of Newfoundland, because 'tis taken all winter and in cold weather is better cured. There are other sorts of fish which they salt and send to foreign markets viz<sup>t</sup> hake hadock and polock and some mackel, which are much larger than I ever saw in England.

The merchants reckon upon  $\text{£}50$  p<sup>r</sup> Cent by the returns they make for their fish from Bilboa to Boston, and when they return their mony from Bilboa to London and there invest it in goods for Boston, they then reckon upon cent p<sup>r</sup> cent profit.

Some fishermen have been sent this last spring and summer to try all the Coast of this province for cod, and the coast of Rhode Island, but could find none. I do not find there is any Cod to be found to the Westward of Cape Cod, which is in the Massachusetts; so that if we make out our Eastern bounds as far as the River of S<sup>t</sup> Croix, yet the French will have thrice as much of the fishing coast as we shall: they will have all the coast of Nova Scotia the Bay of Fondi, along the Isles of Cape Breton, Perci and Antecosta and the Gulph of St Lawrence. If these Plantations be not restrain'd from carrying ship timber to foreign markets, it will mightily hurt our fishing: 'tis our fishing that breeds the hardy seamen.

The Bostoners may be said to be the carriers to most of the other plantations; they carry too from Boston, horses and lumber to Barbadoes Jamaica and the Leeward Islands.

I endeavour'd when I was at Boston to find out one year's imports and exports, that I might compare the trade of that province with this of New Yorke and with New Hampshire; but I found greater uncertainty in that of Boston than the other two. The Deputy Collector there is Commissioner of the Imposts; he it is that takes an account of the entries of all goods. I mean as he is Commissioner of the Imposts. He told me that when ships come in, the Masters swear to their manifests (as he call'd it) that is, they swear to the number of parcels they bring but the contents unknown: then the merchants comes and produces an invoice, and whether true or false 'tis left to his ingenuity. The said Commissioner at my desire took an account of all goods imported from England to Boston from the 1st of March 169<sup>8</sup> to the 1st of March  $\frac{1699}{1700}$ . and according to the several invoices, those English goods in that year amounted to £120000 Boston money. He said he believed there came in bonâ fide about £30000 more. Collonel Courtland tells me there was this last year imported at 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  p<sup>r</sup> Cent (which is the duty on English goods) here at New York to the value of £60000. the said duty having amounted to £1200 this money.

Piscataway in New Hampshire would in some years excell Boston in the fish trade if they were denyed the liberty of carrying ship timber to foreign parts; they are much better seated for the fishery than Boston is.

Some merchants at Boston with whom I discours'd sometimes about the trade of that Province and what proportion it carryed with the trade of New York and that of New Hampshire, computed that Boston had four times the trade of New York, and New York four times the trade of New Hampshire; but I afterwards examined the entries and clearing of all the three Custom Houses and found that the trade of New York was almost half as much as that of Boston, and the trade of New Hampshire (except for lumber and about 1300 quintals of fish) not the tenth part of New York, from the 25th of December .98 to the 25 of December .99.

If it were not for Collonel Fletcher's intolerable corrupt selling away the lands of this Province, it would outthrive the Massachusetts Province and quickly outdoe them in people and trade. The people are so cramp'd here for want of land that several families within my own knowledge and observation are remov'd to the new country (a name they give to Pennsylvania and the Jerseys;) for, to use M<sup>r</sup> Graham's expression to me and that often repeated too, what man will be such a fool to become a base tenant to M<sup>r</sup> Dellius Collonel Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Livingston (and so he ran through whole role of our mighty landgraves) when for crossing Hudson's river that man can for a song purchase a good freehold in the Jerseys? But M<sup>r</sup> Graham has since changed his note and turn'd tail; but his being false to the King does not make the breaking all these grants less honest or less necessary for the publick good.

Now that I speak of the lands of this Province I must acquaint your Lordships that M<sup>r</sup> Ranslaers grant of 24 miles square, in the centre of which stands the town of Albany was not of Collonel Fletcher's passing, neither was M<sup>r</sup> Livingston's, of 16 miles long and 20 or 24 broad. M<sup>r</sup> Nichols I am told has as extravagant grants as any, that his land reaches 30 miles in length on Nassau Island, which is the prime part of this Province. I know no merit M<sup>r</sup> Nichols has, except his being broker between Coll. Fletcher and the pirates, and being disaffected to the government, and the chief incendiary and author of faction here, may pass for vertues; otherwise his grants ought to be looked into as soon as any of the rest. If I am rightly informed, here will be a world of corruption and fraud discover'd in most of these extravagant grants, not only in respect of their vastness, but because they have swallowed up the lands of abundance of private families, who are thereby ruined. Some bills were offer'd me the two last Sessions of Assembly (besides a great many petitions) which I refus'd giving the Assent to, till the Judge and Attorney were come from England to make a strict inquiry into the titles of lands, and advise the best method for doing justice in that case.

I have already writ to your Lordship all that has occur'd to my thoughts of the state of the trade in my three governments. I will now observe the mismanagement of it; and in a word I believe no part of the King's dominions is under so loose a management as these three Provinces are, or that practise unlawfull trade so much. I have some reason to believe that all their returns at Boston from Spain and Portugal for the fish they send thither, are not hard pieces of eight, as they would perswade the world, and that they will not want the product of those countries the shortest and cheapest way, which to be sure is not by the way of England. There is a great trade between Boston and Newfoundland, and I have been told there is a constant trade between S<sup>t</sup> Sebastian and Newfoundland and that there is great store of French and Spanish wines and Spanish iron in Newfoundland. If the merchants of Boston be minded to run their goods, there's nothing to hinder them. M<sup>r</sup> Brenton the Collector is absent and has been so these two years; his deputy is a merchant, the two waiters keep publick houses, and besides that, that Coast is naturally shap'd and cut out to favour unlawful trade, as well as this of New York. The town of Boston for want of a due regulation is also contriv'd for that purpose. I sent M<sup>r</sup> Shanon the Naval Officer to take an account of the wharfs or landing places in Boston and Charlestown which is opposite, Charles river running between, and he brought me a list of 63 wharfs in Boston and 14 in Charlestown. 'Tis a common thing as I have heard to unload their ships at Cape Ann and bring their goods to Boston in wood boats. There is also a constant trade carry'd on between Boston and Quebec, Port Royal, Fort S<sup>t</sup> John and Penobscot River, where one Monsieur de S<sup>t</sup> Castin lives. I have more than ordinary reason to believe this: a certain merchant at Boston having made me the compliment to offer me a partnership with him in that trade, which he said would be very bueficial, but I refus'd to be concern'd. He afterwards own'd to me he had £2000 worth of English goods proper for the market in Canada: and when I was last at Albany some Mohack Indians revolted to the French, brought some peltry with them from Canada to truck for duffles and strowds but complain'd of their dearness and said that English woollens were much cheaper at Quebec and Montreal than at Albany, and that they would carry their peltry back to Canada; which for ought I know they did.

The Governour of Canada has no such complaisance for us; the peltry trade is prohibited under a great penalty; that Governour had guards a great way within our bounds this year to prevent it; and to give a further proof of that Governour's caution therein, I send your Lordships the copy of his passe to l'Esperance a Frenchman, who came to look after a brother of his taken prisoner during the late war, wherein he is forbid to bring away any peltry from Canada; the said passe is (N<sup>o</sup> 1S.)

Here at New York the merchants run all the goods they can, and too much unlawful trade there is. That from Madagascar seems to be at a stand at present, and I think piracy too is in it's wane. The merchants here are very angry at my ordering both the Frigats this last summer if they met any ships in their cruise coming from Madagascar to search them, and if they found any pirates or their goods on board, to seize and bring in the ships to this port. At that time there were 3 Madagascar vessels expected, and least the Frigats should meet them their owners sent out, as I am told, no less than nine sloops to cruise without the Frigats to give their ships notice, which put them to a great charge. Soon after the news came that one of the Madagascar ships (belonging to Frederick Phillips) was taken by one of our East India ships, and the two others by pirates. This put our merchants a madding, and their rage redoubled against me, as if I had been the occasion and means of that and all their losses, and 'tis said they curs'd me plentifully. I have watched the ships trading between this place and Holland, as nicely as I have been able, but never could find they traded thither or from thence hither without touching & clearing in England, as the law directs. Therefore I am apt to believe D<sup>r</sup> Davenant is mistaken (and his author too Sir Josiah Child whom he quotes in the 2<sup>d</sup> part of his Discourses on the revenue and trade of England) in what he there advances of an unlawfull trade carryed on between the Menades and Holland.—Menades is the French name for this Island of New York, taken I suppose from the Indian name Manhattan. There is a considerable trade I know from hence to Curoçoa and Surinam for flower, pork peas and other provisions and the vessels that carry them to those places pretend always to return in ballast.

There is a town called Stamford in Connecticut Colony on the border of this Province, where one Major Selleck lives who has a warehouse close to the Sound or Sea, that runs between the main land and Nassau Island. That man does us great mischief with his ware-house, for he receives abundance of goods from our vessels, and the merchants afterwards take their opportunity of running them into this town. Major Selleck receiv'd at least £10000 worth of treasure and East India goods brought by one Clarke of this town from Kid's sloop and lodg'd with Selleck. I can have no account of them: Clarke was a prisoner here on that account and gave security that he would make an ample discovery upon oath how all that treasure and the goods were dispos'd of, but I have not seen him and whenever he appears he is supposed so profligate that he will not value what he swears.

I send your Lordships an estimate of Collonel Romer's, of the charge of fortifying the frontier of this Province and of the country that lies Eastward of Massachusetts Province. The said estimate is (N<sup>o</sup> 19) how necessary those fortifications are, and how the mony is for building them, must be submitted to your Lordships. Piscataway is a most noble harbour, lying full upon the main sea; the entrance into it is 14 fathom deep at low water and 19 fathom deep in some places within the harbour; and up at the town of Portsmouth the biggest ship the King has will lye against the bank of the town; so that if ever England should think it a good point of husbandry to build ships of war cheap, Piscataway will be the properest place for it. I know that at Boston they pretend to build merchant ships 40<sup>p</sup> Cent cheaper than they could be built in England, and why the same proportion should not hold in ships of war I cannot conceive. King Charles the 2<sup>d</sup> having complimented the French King with the draughts of our best ships and thereby given vent to that precious secret, there will no objection lye against building ships of war at Piscataway: but more of that hereafter. The reason why Collonel Romer and I agreed it would be necessary to bestow more cost than ordinary on the Fort at the river of Sth Croix and at the extremity of our frontier in this province nearest to Canada was because those two Forts will be most exposed, and more especially that at Sth Croix, because thither a fleet or squadron of ships can come and help to attack the Fort. The harbour of New York ought to be well fortified, or 'tis odds if this town be not laid in ashes the next war we have with France.

Last session of the Assembly at Boston the Petition (N<sup>o</sup> 20) was deliver'd me and the Council, by the Ministers of the Church of England and Vestry Men. Your Lordships upon perusal of it will best judge whether the prayer thereof was reasonable. The Council would give it no countenance; they said the Act against incestuous marriages was found to be good and usefull, and that the King had been pleas'd to approve and confirm it in England, and they did not see cause for breaking in upon a good law, to please the humours of a few men. The truth is, as I have been informed, some loose people have sometimes come from England and married in New England, though they had left wives behind them in England, and this law was calculated chiefly for prevention of such marriages. If a Minister of the Church of England will be at the pains of going to any town or place to marry people, no body will hinder him.

If it be intended that Naval stores and masts shall be sent from these plantations, there ought to be a quick and vigorous course taken to vacate all these extravagant grants of Fletcher and other Governors, and to destroy Colonel Allen's pretension to New Hampshire and part of the Massachusetts's Province. I am made very uneasy and kept at bay here with the angry party, by the want of spirit in the Administration at home. For the Ministers sending me orders and afterwards not standing by those orders and not quickening the execution of them, is a most cruel thing.

'Tis very unhappy too that the Judge and Attorney General are suffer'd to loyter so long in England; things are either contriv'd or fall out crossely to make me uneasy. I am sure I would not stay an hour here if I could be certain there were any contrivance to make me so.

I have paid the four Companies fifteen month subsistence, officers souldiers and victuallers, from the 25th of March 99. to the 16th of last June.

Ever since the arrival of the Advice Frigat with the recruits I have been forced to pay all the Officers and souldiers their weekly subsistence in ready mony which I find gives them much better content than formerly when they were in the hands of the Victuallers.

I send the copy of my letter to the Lords of the Treasury (N<sup>o</sup> 21) wherein I submit M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's Bill of Exchange and his account to their Lordships; and the same I do also your Lordships, and desire you will please to direct whether I with the Council of this Province shall allow his account, especially that article which relates to his salary as Collector of this Province, during all the year and half that he has staid away from his duty. My said letter to the Lords of the Treasury will acquaint your Lordships with the state of that matter. M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's bill of Exchange is (N<sup>o</sup> 22.) and his Account (N<sup>o</sup> 23)

I send the copy of my letter to the Commissioners of the Customs (N<sup>o</sup> 24) and of my letter to the Lords of the Admiralty. (N<sup>o</sup> 25.)

I send the muster rolls of the Companies (N<sup>o</sup> 26)

I send the copy of M<sup>r</sup> Armstrong's letter to me (N<sup>o</sup> 27.) which letter I have newly received. M<sup>r</sup> Armstrong is Naval Officer of New Hampshire. You will there find how M<sup>r</sup> Partridge the L<sup>d</sup> Governor proceeds in the trade of ship timber to Portugal, notwithstanding I sent him a copy of that paragraph in your Lordships letter of the 19th of last April, wherein your Lordships express your dissatisfaction at his being concerned in such trade, and direct me to put all the discouragement upon it that I can, without violation to law. He writ me word he was sorry he had given any offence to your Lordships: which, by what I now perceive he meant as a jeer, since he proceeds to carry on the same trade. I desire your Lordships will consider whether it will not be proper to recommend the passing an Act of Parliament this session to prohibit that trade in all the Plantations, the ill consequence whereof I have already offered your Lordships my thoughts of, and by all means I am humbly of opinion M<sup>r</sup> Partridge ought to be remov'd from that station, which is too honourable for him and he no way qualified for it. I could easily send the Frigat that's here, to Piscataway and stop his two ships, but then I shall be lyable to be sued by Partridge and the merchants in London that are his correspondents, since there's no statute to justify me. Now that I am mentioning M<sup>r</sup> Partridge's correspondents I must undeceive your Lordships of a wrong suggestion in their petition Mr Crouch and Mr Tatem were the petitioners to the King in Council, and in their petition among other reasons to induce the King to approve of that trade to Portugal they give this for one viz<sup>t</sup> that those ships when they have unloaded their timber in Portugal, they then take in a loading of wine and other productions of that country and carry it to England; which they say increases his Majesty's customes; but 'tis well known that the vessells that carry fish to Spain and Portugal drive that trade of carrying wines and other commodities to England, as often as they can light on that freight thither. And I hope there's no comparison between the advantage England receives by the fish trade to those countries and this new trade, which will prove hurtfull to England on many accounts as I have before observ'd.

I desire your Lordships will please to direct me how I am to behave my self with Mr Patridge; and it were worth while to dispatch away a small frigate or advice boat with your orders, that they may overtake Patridge's two ships before they sail. We shall never be able to turn a trade to England for ship timber so long as that trade of Mr Patridge (and of others by his example) is suffer'd to Portugal, where to be sure ship timber must bear a much greater price than in England, because Portugal is not a wooded country. I remember I rebuk'd Sir Henry Ashurst in the Privy Garden at Whitehall for procuring Mr Patridge to be made Lieut Governor of New Hampshire, who is a carpenter by trade and a sad weak man. I told him his genius had a strong byass to Carpenter-Governors, for he it was (with Mr Mather) that got Sir W<sup>m</sup> Phipps made Governour of New England.

I must acquaint your Lordships that in the year .95. the merchants of Boston were encouraged to send over a ship-load of several sorts of ship timber for an experiment. I was at the pains when I was at Boston to inform my self particularly of that matter. The Ship S<sup>t</sup> Joseph of 300 ton was loaded, but met with all the rubs and stops that could well have happen'd. First she lay 3 months loaden, waiting for a convoy; then she had a very tedious passage and was forc'd by contrary weather into Milford Haven, where she waited 5 or 6 weeks for a wind; at last getting into the river as far up as Deptford or Woolwich she lay 5 weeks there before care was taken to unload her. 'Tis plain the misfortune and delay that attended her voyage is not wholly imputable to the management of the Officers belonging to those yards, because a great part of it is owing to chance; but I believe your Lordships will be of opinion with me that 5 weeks was a very long time for a ship to lye loaded so near two of the King's yards. I have a copy of the Master of the ship's journal, and of the invoice of the timber, and the owners told me there was all the contrivance that could be by the Officers of the Yard, which received the timber at last, to disparage it and discourage any further undertaking of that kind. All this I have reason to believe to be true in fact, and to be proper for me to acquaint your Lordships of, that you may make your own use of it.

The old part of the house in the Fort here is falling down, and so is one of the souldiers barracks, and how to repair them I cannot tell; the revenue is so clogg'd with anticipations that we can apply no part thereof to those uses. The Indians are a great and a constant charge to us, as your Lordships will see by the list of warrants for payments of the revenue ever since my coming to the government, which List is (N<sup>o</sup> 28) but especially by the Abstract of those payments which is (N<sup>o</sup> 29) and shews at one view under distinct heads the grosse sums of the charge of this government and issues of the revenue. The 30L per Cent will in time answer some part of the charge of the government, if it be continued, which I hope in God it will not, for the King's honour and good of the Officers and souldiers. With my first or second letter I write to your Lordships from New York I sent the Report of Collonel Courtlandt and Collonel Bayard of the necessary repairs of this House and Fort, which they then estimated at £1500. as appears by their said report. Collonel Fletcher was then here, who told me he had applied the 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent to the repairs of the fortifications; which was a most impudent untruth. The 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent amounted to about £2300 a year, as I take it, and I could never yet discover that he laid out £500 a year of all that money for the King's service.

Your Lordships will meet with a minute of Council among those I sent by the Newport frigate which bears date the 29th of last July and allows of the charge I was at in my remove from Boston to this place, which was about £92 New York money or £70 sterling. There are precedents for it in both Sir Edmund Andros's and Collonel Fletcher's time, who never remov'd or travel'd but at the King's charge: besides my appointments are so narrow that I must have taken that course, or not have remov'd

I send your Lordships the minutes of Council during this last session of the General Assembly

I intended [to send] your Lordships the Collector Collonel Courtland's Michaelmas books of entries and clearings, by this conveyance; but the poor man died the 25th instant, after a short sickness before his books were perfected. I send however the Naval Officer's book of Entries and clearings to last Michaelmas (N<sup>o</sup> 30) and his register of ships to that day (N<sup>o</sup> 31.)

I hear Collonel Allen was refus'd an appeal to the King in Council by the L<sup>t</sup> Governour and Council of New Hampshire upon the judgments' being given against him at the last Superior Court, in August. M<sup>r</sup> Patridge hath not thought fit to give me any account of this, but I heard it from Boston by accident. I hear too that an appeale has since my coming from Boston been refused to one M<sup>rs</sup> Lydget by the Superiour Court there, in a cause wherein (if I mistake not) she was plaintiff and M<sup>r</sup> Usher and M<sup>r</sup> Saffin defendants. I doubt not but your Lordships will be applied to in both cases, and that you will make an inquisition why appeals were refus'd the parties.

The French have mightily impos'd on the world in the maps they have made of this continent, and our Geographers have been led into grosse mistakes by the French mapps; to our very great prejudice. It were as good a work as your Lordships could do, to send over a very skillfull surveyor to make correct maps of all these plantations and that out of hand, that we may not be cozen'd on to the end of the chapter, by the French. And for saving charges, if that surveyor be a sober honest man, perhaps it were best to make him Secretary of the Province. I have not displac'd M<sup>r</sup> Clarkson, for there's nobody here fit for that post.

One thing is very material for your Lordships to know, which perhaps you are not yet inform'd of. The only good Beaver hunting lyes in that part of the country where the Dowaganhas and those other Nations live, and thither our 5 Nations are forc'd to goe a beaver-hunting, which is one reason of that perpetual war between those Nations and ours; and that reason makes our building a fort in the Onondages country necessary, whither I believe those nations by carefull management might be brought to trade with us, and in a little time gain'd from the French. The country I speak of is commended for a most noble country by Samuel York and the French hunters that were here the other day; it lyes by their description West and North West of this Province. There are savannas or plains of a 100 miles long, the soil very rich and well water'd, abounding with wild cattle, deer, and wild Turkeys, so that the Indians have plenty of provisions, without any trouble scarce to look after them.

I am with respect, My Lords
Your Lordships most humble
and obedient Servant

BELMONT.

I send Duplicates of the three Acts of Assembly we pass'd last August, and which I sent your Lordships by the Newport frigate with my letter of the 17th of last month.

New Yorke the
28th Nov<sup>r</sup> 1700.

Memorial of Two French Bushrangers to the Earl of Bellmont.

[TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH.]

[New-York Papers, N. O — O. 7.]

My Lord

We, Jean de Noyon and Louis Gosselin, come to place ourselves under your Excellency's protection, in the hope that you will allow us to live and trade with King William's subjects in the town of Albany, and grant us the same rights and privileges as others enjoy, in which case we submit ourselves with promise of fidelity to the laws of the government.

We are commissioned by our comrades to assure you, if our request be granted, that twenty-two, all fine young men, will come to Albany next February.

And after that we promise to bring, in the month of September of the year 1701, thirty brave fellows to the said town of Albany, all laden with peltry.

And finally, we oblige ourselves further in good faith to bring, in the aforesaid month of September, on our return from hunting, ten or twelve of the principal Sachims of the Ottawawa Nations. Dated in New York this 26th October 1700.

L. GOSSELIN.

NOTE That the French call all those Nations to the W. and W. N. W. of us Ottawawas; as we give 'em the generall name of Dowaganhas.

These were at Canada.

3. The Gov<sup>r</sup> said; Children, Now you are come hitber, & it is a long while ago since I desired you to come; it is your own fault that so many of your Brethren are kill'd; then the Gov<sup>r</sup> threw down a Belt & said, herewth I wipe of y<sup>e</sup> teares of your eyes.

4 The Gov<sup>r</sup> said further; Children, Now I throw y<sup>e</sup> axe in a hole, & so throw him to y<sup>e</sup> Devil, & no man can get y<sup>e</sup> axe againe; for I lay a great rock stone upon the hole as bigg as all Canada; for this he threw down a great Belt.

5 Children Sinnekes, it is now all over peace, & I release all prisoners, & a priest is already gone to y<sup>e</sup> Ottowawes to fetch those that are there, & y<sup>e</sup> next s<sup>u</sup>mer when you come to Canada you shall see them & talk wth them & try whether they will go wth you or not: upon this the Gov<sup>r</sup> threw down another great Belt.

6. He said further, wee now plant a Tree of Peace, whose branches reach up to y<sup>e</sup> heavens & its roots go amongst all your Nations, & if any person would cut off those roots, wee will advise about it; because Children I am not Mast<sup>r</sup> to make peace or warr, neither is my Lord att New York, but our Ma<sup>s</sup> in England and France. Hereupon y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> threw down a Belt, six foot long.

7. The Gov<sup>r</sup> further said, You Children Sinnekes hear me; It is now peace, and who will now go to warr against the Waganhaes must first acquaint me wth it, & they shall repaire y<sup>e</sup> damage they have done to you, & if they will not, & kill of your people a second time, then wee'll fall on them & kill them, & if I should do it you may fall on me & cut y<sup>e</sup> flesh of my bones; & if yo<sup>r</sup> Brother Corlaer should begin to make warr then let him suffer to be don so to. Here upon y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> threw don a great Belt.

8 The Gov<sup>r</sup> further said; Children Sinnekes, I'll send a smith at Cadarachquin who shall make every thing for you, & also all necessary merchandize fit for your trade. Children I know very well yo<sup>r</sup> Brother Corlaer makes much of Beavers, but I like Moose & Elk skins w<sup>ch</sup> you may sell to me; also if y<sup>e</sup> remote Indians have a mind to trade wth your people I will not hinder it. Then y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> threw down a great Belt.

Brethren.

Now wee hear that our Father y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada has spoke, & now Brethren wee speak & ratifie wth our confirmation that Peace which you have made wth y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> & now let it be peace for ever; for w<sup>ch</sup> they threw down a Belt.

When y<sup>e</sup> Sachems w<sup>ch</sup> had been in Canada had done speaking by Decanashore, then Decanashore spoke by a little Chain of Wampum, as foll:—

1. Brother Corlaer we speak alwayes together, & say that we are one heart & soul, & that what one knowes y<sup>e</sup> other must know it also.

2. Brethren, It is not good that what is said by you when you go to Canada y<sup>t</sup> we should know nothing of it. Then he gave a little chain of Wampum.

This being done, I spake by a match coate, having nothing else.

1 Brethren, Wee are sorry to hear that since y<sup>e</sup> sad accident of our Brother Decanissores Wife, he was resolved wholly to discharge himself of all matters of government & to go & live solitary in y<sup>e</sup> country. Wee desire him to desist & to resume the govern<sup>t</sup>. The which he promised to do.

2. Brethren, I hope that according to yo<sup>r</sup> promise made in y<sup>e</sup> Great Council you'l not suffer any French Priest or other French men to be among you, & that as soone as any come, you'l forthwith by express acquaint y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> thereof: w<sup>ch</sup> they promised.

Decanissores said thereupon, that we should then presently send some great Sachem that could speak wth them.

next day on our return being y<sup>e</sup> 7th Sber. some Indians met me, and said that our people designed for y<sup>e</sup> farr nations of Indians were come at Onnondage; at w<sup>ch</sup> I rejoyced & said to y<sup>e</sup> Interpreter Lawrence Claessen that now I could go without any danger to y<sup>e</sup> Cajouges & Sinnekes; but my design was frustrated, & seeing that Decanissore & y<sup>e</sup> other Sachems wth him that evening when my Lords passe relateing to our peoples going to y<sup>e</sup> remote Indians, was explained to them, were not well pleased and went away angerly; all was suspended till y<sup>e</sup> next day, being y<sup>e</sup> 5th Sber, and our Mahikanders came very early to our tent one mile from y<sup>e</sup> castle of y<sup>e</sup> Onnondages & openly protested that they would not go with our people to be knock'd in y<sup>e</sup> head. Whereupon I gave my proposicions in writing, but were not accepted; and are as foll:—

2. That y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes present in Onnondage & those that are at home in their country bee desired in pursuance of my Lord's passe to help & assist our people, their design being to hunt, & having instruccions to endeavor by good meanes to speak wth some Sachems of y<sup>e</sup> remote nations at present in warr wth them & see if they could bring them to New York to making an eternall peace with them; w<sup>ch</sup> would be very good for y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes.

3 And if our people could bring none of the Sachems of the remote Nations, that y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes be desired that our people may go wth them & under their proteccion & so follows their designe of hunting.

4. This being proposed to the Onnondages & if they consent to it, than I doubt not but y<sup>e</sup> Cajouges and Sinnekes will also agree to it.

5. Then our Mahikanders and [our people who] have been debauch'd & so are unwilling to go, must be made sensible that if they refuse they do draw on themselves my Lord's anger.

The same day being the 5th Oct' Wee broke up & went till wth half a mile of Onnondage, because most of y<sup>e</sup> Indians were drunk in y<sup>e</sup> Castle & that our people & Mahikanders were unwilling to go further, because y<sup>e</sup> remote Nations of Indians had lately killed 3 women and two men of y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes and also y<sup>e</sup> Onnondages were not well pleased, that my Lord in y<sup>e</sup> Great Council of Albany had not made known any thing relateing to these peoples going & had not furnish'd them with necessary belts for 'that purpose.

We desired y<sup>e</sup> Sachems to come to us in y<sup>e</sup> field; which they did.

Then Decanissore spoke & said: Brother Corlaer: Our people have been long at home & all our Brethren know what they have don in Canada, & you Brethren have heard & write down all, & wee desire that you will acquaint y<sup>e</sup> Maquash therewth as you go by; wherefore he gave us a chain, w<sup>ch</sup> we accepted on that condicón.

On y<sup>e</sup> 16. Sber We gave unto y<sup>e</sup> Bald Pate Norhronorim in the last Maquash Castle, the chain, & reported what y<sup>e</sup> Indians had done in Canada.

I spoke to Decanishore and said, Brethren at our coming here we desired a Canoe & wee acquainted you that we would view a place to erect a Fort, w<sup>ch</sup> we could not do without a canoe, & you said that you should consult about it together, & Brethren you have not yet given us an answer; & I think Brethren you will not make one; & you have been also told that your Brother Corlaer had expressly comanded me to return by water, to see the constitucon of y<sup>e</sup> Rivers, carrying places, rifts & wood, whereby some Rivers are made navigable; & so Corlaer expects me home by water; & now by yo<sup>r</sup> neglect because you have not resolved us & must return again by land.

Hendrick Hansen said, relating to a Fort, w<sup>ch</sup> I did not think adviseable to give them so much scope, yet therefore it ought not to be according to their opinion, but the thoughts of the work in it self to be left to those that better understand it, neverthesse was said to the Indians

That wee had seen some places for a Fort & now desired their opinion where they thought a fort could be built, & knowing this & might well happen that Corlaer might agree with their opinion.

Having thus farr talked with y<sup>e</sup> Indians & said to them, Brethren, I am sorry that our Christians have found so little encouragem<sup>t</sup> among you notwthstanding they went out on so good a designe, to see it<sup>l</sup> in their hunting they could not meet wth some Sachems of the remote Nations & speak with them, for w<sup>ch</sup> they had belts wth them, to see if they could not bring them to Schonagtade to Corlaer & so make an eternal peace wth them.

Hereupon the Indians gave a short extempory answer & said what shall wee now say to that yo<sup>r</sup> people are already returned home

After wee had thus far discoursed y<sup>e</sup> Sachems went together & seperated a little from us in y<sup>e</sup> field, & after consultacon wth two of the eldest Sinnekes Sachems, they said as foll:—

1. Brother Corlaer; You have now been on severall places to look for a Fort & have desired that we should answer thereto what our opinion was & where they should judge fitt to make a Fort.

2. Brethren, we shall not give you any answer to that now, because here are but two Nations together & the Cajouges and Oneydes must also be present.

3. Brethren, Corlaer, you have also spoke & desired relating to y<sup>e</sup> Indians, w<sup>ch</sup> we have allowed to worke at y<sup>e</sup> Fort, I must pity you, that you can not depend thereon, because all our Brethren do go a hunting, therefore I think you must worke alone, for w<sup>ch</sup> I am sorry.

4. Brethren, you also desire that wee should say where this Fort would be best scituated.

Brethren it may be that you'l come early in y<sup>e</sup> spring, w<sup>ch</sup> will not be good before we have been together & resolved of all, which shall be in y<sup>e</sup> Spring, when y<sup>e</sup> trees begin to budd, then I'll come wth my Brethren to Albany & give our resolucon & then some young Indians will be returned from their hunting.

5. Brethren, it is not good that any thing be consulted in one place, but all the other Brethren ought to be present.

6. So said Decanissore for a conclusion, saying;—Brethren, it will not be according to my mind if there be worked at the Fort, before I come to y<sup>e</sup> City of Albany.

Hereupon he threw down a Beaver, & than had finished; and we presented them, having nothing else, with an amunicon gun, w<sup>ch</sup> I had taken for mine own defence along with me, from M<sup>r</sup> Livingston; where withall y<sup>e</sup> Indians were contented & gave us a buza, after ther manner, when we were mounted on horse back, as we immediately did, having finished our discourse, & ridd for Oneydes.

Journal of Messrs. Hansen and Van Brugh's Visit to Onondaga.

[New-York Papers, N. O.; O. 9.]

To the Earl of Bellomont, the Journal of the expedición of Col. Romer, Major Van Brugh & Hendrick Hansen, for Onnondage.

Anno. 1700. Sept<sup>r</sup> 13th Wee departed from Albany & came to Schenectade, 14 d<sup>o</sup> from thence we came to Jacobus Peek & found wee could not travell wth our baggage on horse back & were necessitated to hire a canoe & a man & to send for them from Schenectade to carry onr baggage to the uppermost Castle of the Maquas; w<sup>ch</sup> canoe came to us that night.

15 d<sup>o</sup> In the morning we parted thence on horse back & sent our baggage and provisions in the Canoe and came that day to the first Castle called Ogsadago, where we lodged.

16 d<sup>o</sup> In the morning we departed thence & came that day in the second Castle of the Maquass called Cannedsishore where the Canoe wth our baggage came to us in the evening. We desired the Sachems of the Castle to provide us four Indians to carry our baggage to Oneyda which was brought hither in a Canoe; who forthwith resolved and got four Indians ready against the morning to go with us.

17 d<sup>o</sup> We sent one Canoe back to Schenectade, & we marcht on as farr as Decanohoge, where the Sachem Onoronorum lives, in company of the aforesaid four Indians that were ordered to attend us, but coming there two of our Indians were unwilling to proceed any further; whether it was the load was to heavy for them or that they were debaucht, we know not. We desired of Onoronorum that he would order us to other Indians, which he did at last, & desired us to stay there that day, and said that he would send for two Squass from Canijoharie w<sup>ch</sup> should go with us in y<sup>e</sup> morning because he could not spare the men that were there, because they were busie to make houses; so we resolved to stay there that day. In the evening it began to raine, w<sup>ch</sup> raine lasted, to our sorrow, untill the 20th d<sup>o</sup>

20 d<sup>o</sup> little rain; we departed with two Indians & two Squass that carryed our baggage.

23 d<sup>o</sup> We came in Oneyde & were friendly treated; we lodged in the house of the Sachem Hanagquaindi. We called the Sachems together & desired of them that they would make a Canoe at the Carrying place against we came back, for Col. Romer to come down in, but they could not resolve to do it, some times p<sup>t</sup>ending that it was impossible to make a canoe now, & some times that they would do it, but would be presently paid for it, & demanded so much for the Canoe that we could not pay them, because they knew we had not so much merchandize, at the last came to know conclusion, at which the Sachem Kanagquaindi was very sorry and dejected that what we desired was refused & said in the presence of the most unwilling brethren, I am greived they will not do what you have desired; you know that I have appointed to morrow to go to fight with my people, to the Southward, where y<sup>e</sup> Flatheads<sup>1</sup> live, otherwise I would go with my people & make a Canoe. Then went our carriers home.

25 d<sup>o</sup> We rid for Onnondage with three other carriers which we had hired there.

26 d<sup>o</sup> We came to Onnondage where a house was made ready for us, where we lodged & heard that Decanissore & some other Sachems were abroad, &, as they told us, were sent for to hear what news the Indians brought from Canada, & had newes that they were near at hand; so we staid till the next day.

27 d<sup>o</sup> We sent for the Sachems together & asked them whether there was a canoe at Canaında, for our use to go in that Lake & so down the River till where the river comes in that runs out of the Lake of Oneyde. They answered there was no Canoe, but that there would be one or more to day or to morrow, & also said that they could not talk about till all the Sachems were come, w<sup>ch</sup> they expected home to day.

28 d<sup>o</sup> Because the Sachems w<sup>ch</sup> they expected were not yet come, We desired them again to assemble & when seaven of them were met, we told them that it was now the third day that we came hither & that the season of the year would not suffer us to stay long, so we desired they would send other messengers to hasten the Sachems. They answered here sits a man that came from them, & says they will be here to morrow, therefore we desire you to be patient till then before you speak; for it is a scandal amongst us that we should resolve on any thing while the rest of our people are at hand to joine us. Then we concluded to stay till the next day.

29 d<sup>o</sup> The Sachems w<sup>ch</sup> we expected not being come, that evening we sent again for those that were present, & told them that it was now the third time we had been together & that they had told us they could not conclude without the rest of their people were come, & from time to time had said that they would come, and yet come not, & now Decanissores son, who has told us that his father knows nothing of coming home, & therefore at last we desire you will send for them. Whereupon they forthwith resolved to send for Decanissores early in the morning

30 d<sup>o</sup> The Sachems that had been in Canada came home & would report what had befallen them by the French; when we perceived that, we send the Interpreter Lawrence Claessen thither, & when he came in they called him amongst them & said, as foll:—

When they came in Canada nigh the Castle called Cachenuage where the praying Maquass lives, they were called upon by the said Praying Indians who desired they would come in their Castle & eat with them of what they would prepare for them, adding further why they alwayes passed by their Castle when they went to the French, as if they could not abide the smoake of that Castle. When they had eaten they went for Mont Reall and were saluted with 7 or 8 cannon shot & treated very well with victuals & drink & the next day some Inondadesse Indians came to them & told they had alwayes lived in a misunderstanding together; pretending that they came to fight against them, but that it was not true, but those people to whom they had given Belts to, the last yeare, come and fight you; so that your owne Belts kill you. The Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada also said, that he had now sent a Priest to Ottawawa to fetch their prisoners & to deliver them to them in Canada the next Spring; also a Priest told them that they should desire the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada to send a smith at Cadarachquin to mend their guns & axes, & to send a great deal of trade and merchandise there & to sell it as cheap there as at Mont Reall; which they did, & the Gov<sup>r</sup> agreed to it & said that they [ought] to bring their skins thither to trade for that he liked them, and their Beavers to their Brother Corlaer at Albany, for he fancies them but I do other skins, & you shall have as much for them there as at Mont Reall, for he would not suffer that they should buy so dear as they had don last spring in Cadarachquin & that he had imprisoned the man that had sold them y<sup>e</sup> goods so dear last spring. The Priests thereupon moved them to insist with the Gov<sup>r</sup> for his release; which they did, but the Gov<sup>r</sup> refused, because he had done to much mischeif, but would put him to death or send him for France. They further related that when they were on their return homewards they saw severall Frenchmen with their goods going up to Cadarachquin by order of the Gov<sup>r</sup> to trade with them. Then they adjourned & said when the rest of the Sachems were come home they would proceed.

This afternoone we heard that the messenger ordered to go for Decanissore was not gone, because it rained & snowed all this day.

Oct 1st We hired an Indian w<sup>ch</sup> we sent to Decanissore w<sup>ch</sup> in the afternoone came to the Castle with Decanissore & we desired Decanissore that he would call the Sachems together, w<sup>ch</sup> he did, and when they assembled Col. Romer desired that they would make a Canoe for him to go to Schenectade with, & a canoe or two to lend us now to go in Canaïnda Lake as farr as where the river comes in, that comes out of the Lake of Oneyde & two of their own men to go along with us to look for y<sup>e</sup> best place to build a Fort, & also when their people would be ready to work at y<sup>e</sup> Fort. Whereupon they said they would answer early the next morning.

2<sup>d</sup> In the morning Decanissore came to us & told us that the Sachems of Oneyde were come to hear what news from Canada, & would faine make haste home again, and therefore had resolved to relate that first & have us to be present: as we were.

The Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada's Propositions to our Indians:—

1 Children. I thank you that you treated my people the Priest and Mo<sup>r</sup> Marricour so well when they were in your country for w<sup>ch</sup> I embrace you: & laid down a chain of Wampum.

2 I have heard that your people would have gon out a fighting, but thro' y<sup>e</sup> meanes of the Priest & Marricour the Axe was laid down; for which I thank you: and laid down a Belt.

3. Children now you are come here & it is a long while agoe I acquainted you to come, for it is your own fault, there is so many of yo<sup>r</sup> people killed, for the Waganhaes have yet had the sword in their hands: & then threw down a Belt & said, herewith I wipe of your teares.

4. Now Children I thro' the axe to the Devil in a hole, & lay a stone upon it as bigg as all Mont Reall, that no man may take it up again: & laid down a Belt.

5. Children, hear me. It is now peace all over & I release all prisoners, & have sent a Priest to Ottawawa to fetch all the prisoners, & in the spring you may see and speak wth them, & try if they will go with you: and laid down a great Belt.

6. We plant a Tree of Peace, whose roots reach all the nations round about us yea even to heaven, & if any person comes to cut one of the roots, we'll all consult about it: and he laid down a Belt as long as a man.

7. You Children Sinnekes. Hear it is now peace, & if any will fight with the Waganhaes, must tell it to me, and what damage they do they shall repay it themselves, & if they do it a second time we will all together fall on them, & if I do cômence the warr again you may all fall on me and cut my flesh of my body; and if your Brother Corlaer should do it let him answer for it: and laid down a Belt: and he added, neither I nor the Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York are Ma<sup>r</sup> of peace or warr, but the Kings of England & France.

8 You children I'll bring goods at Cadarachquin to trade wth you, & send a smith to mend your axes & Guns. Children, I know your Brother Corlaer loves Beaver, but I fancy other large skins, therefore you may sell the skins to me, & bring the Beavers to yo<sup>r</sup> Brother Corlaer; and if the farr Nations have a mind for Corlaers goods they may go & trade there, I'll not hinder them: and laid down a Belt.

9. Relacón of the Praying Indians of Cachanauge.

Now Brethren we hear that our Father Nondio has spoken, we also speak and assent to what he has told you and let it be peace for ever; & laid down a Belt.

10. Relacón of the Innondadese Indians.<sup>1</sup>

Brethren just now we have heard that Nondio has made Peace. Brethren you know that the sword where with I killed you in the warr was put into my hands by Nondio, & now I return it to him that gave it me: and laid down a Belt. In like manner did the Mahikanders be the Waga[n]haes & the Indians of Connossedage, for w<sup>ch</sup> each of them laid down a Belt.

After this they spoke to us viz<sup>t</sup> the following Sachems by the mouth of Decanissore.

	from Canada
Nihosogqua	}	Ohansiowanne
Whanrarangunnie		Diogorandagigso
Oehhask		Decanissore
Sinninadjewane		Badsie—} Onnondages.

Brother Corlaer. You and I alwayes speak together and tell one another what we know: we have one breath one soul, & what one knows he'll tell the other and so we remaine one; for w<sup>ch</sup> they laid down some Wampum. They further added; Brother Corlaer it is not good that any thing should be spoken among us & the other not know it, for when your people go to Canada I can know but little of it, for which I am sorry. They also answered to what we desired of them yesterday, & said, that there were two Canoes ready at Canainda to go thro' the Lake & go up and down the river, but they desired that they being poor that we would pay them for it, and when we returned from Canainda they would tell us whether there should be a Canoe made for Col Romer to go home in, but desired they might be paid for it. Which we promised. They also engaged us two men to go wth us to Canainda & one Sachem among them.

3<sup>d</sup> We went for Canainda, but the Sachem that was appointed to go with us was drunk, & so did not go, but we got another in his roome at Canainda and so went in the Canoe thro' the Lake of Canainda until a river that runs out of the lake of Oneyda, but found no fitt place to build a Fort; so we were advised to go to Quiehook the Creek that runs out of the Lake of Oneyda, & so returned to the Castle of Onnondage.

6<sup>d</sup> We went with Decanissore, Sinniequanda, both Sachems, for Quiehook by the Ledge called Kagnewagrage about 1½ Dutch mile from the Lake of Oneyda where we saw a very fitt place and good wood to erect a Fort.

7<sup>d</sup> We returned to the Castle & when we came nigh it we heard that our people that had a passe to go to the remote nations of Indians were come thither. We ordered them to come to us, & we heard that they were wholly discouraged to go further; also our Sachems desired to know on what intencón those people were come; which we told them & desired them to send a man or two with them; w<sup>ch</sup> they said did not sute them; because but ten or 11 dayes ago, some of the Sinnekes were taken prisoners & they would send no people into the fire, for they looked on them as dead that went thither.

s<sup>d</sup> We asked our people that had the passe what they would do, to go further or return back, but there was not one that said he would go further. Then we asked the Mahikanders that were to go with them what they would do, who said they would return, for said they if they proceed we are dead people. Whereupon Col. Romer resolved forthwith to depart for Oneyde. The Sachems of Onnondage were not well pleased about that passe, because my Lord had not acquainted them therewith & said that our people had run a great hazard of their owne people for those that were a hunting knew not of any of Corlaers people being abroad, & therefore feared that our own people would kill them as well as by their enemies. Whereupon those people that were to go to the farr Nations resolved to return home.

We were now ready to return home & called the Sachems together. When they were assembled we would againe acquaint them of our departure, but they begun first, by the mouth of Decanissore, and two Sinnekes Sachems being present; which said:—Brother Corlaer, the Indians that have been at Canada are now all returned home; what the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada has spoken is made known to us all, except the Maquase; we desire you because you go by them to make it known to them by this letter; & laid down a bunch of black Wampum, w<sup>ch</sup> Col. Romer took up.

Then we spoke and said:—

Brethren. We are now on our departure homewards; when we came we desired by the Gov<sup>r</sup> order a Canoe for Col. Romer to return home in, to view the scituation of the Rivers and carrying places, but till this day have no answer, altho' you promised that we should consult about it & resolve upon it at our return home from Canaïnda; but you have not done it, therefore we are resolved to go home on horseback. We further said:—Brethren we have been at Canaïnda & at the creek Quiehook by the Lodge called Kagnewagrage to look for a fit place for a Fort, & as we have found it so we will report it to the Gov<sup>r</sup>; but Brethren w<sup>ch</sup> do you think is the best place, let us hear, & when we have heard that, wee'll tell it the Gov<sup>r</sup> & it may be the Gov<sup>r</sup> & you may agree.

Decanissore, spoke:—

Brother Corlaer. You have been in two places to see for a fit place to build a fort & now you ask us where the best place will be, but we cannot tell it yet, because all the Nations are not here, the Sinnekes are here, but the Cajouges & Oncydes are not here, & till we have resolved together we can not answer.

Brother Corlaer. You have desired to know when the Indians will be ready to work at the Fort. Brother Corlaer, I think if you go soon to work in the spring you must work alone, for our people are a hunting. I therefore pity you must work alone

Brother Corlaer. I desire that you come not sooner in the Spring to make the Fort before we are come to you, w<sup>ch</sup> will be when y<sup>e</sup> trees begin to budd, & when we are come wee'll council together; for if you come sooner it will not be good, but when we have council together it will be better & our Indians will be returned from hunting & they may help you.

Brother Corlaer. It is not good that one party invent some to do, but when any thing is to be done, all the Nations ought to consult about it.

Brother Corlaer. Let it be so as I say that you do not begin to work before we come to you in the spring; and laid down a Beaver; & desired we would tell it to the Oneyds, which we promised and we said to them:—Brethren we thank you that you hide nothing from us of the newes he had from Canada, & we desire further if they knew any thing more of the French, or if they expected this fall any French or Priests, to tell it us & not to hide it: & we gave them a match coate.

Decanissore spoke:—

Brother Corlaer. If it should happen that any French & Priests should come hither do not only send John Baptist or some particular man, but send also a great officer or two, that they may speak together.

We told them:—Brother, the day grows short, but we must talk a little more. You have now told us all the newes of the French: your Brother Corlaer has always forbid you to go there to speak of peace, not only for the honour of his person, but for the hon<sup>r</sup> of all your Nations; for y<sup>e</sup> peace that is made, is made by the Kings, as the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada told you; & what does it avails you to have been there, it is only a reproach to for your Nations, & seems you have humbled yourself before him, as if he had conquered you, & he will boast of it that you were forced to come and make peace with him, when he is no Ma<sup>r</sup> over y<sup>e</sup> peace, as he said himself.

We took leave of them & presented them wth a gun, w<sup>ch</sup> we had taken with us for our own use; for w<sup>ch</sup> they thanked us.

9th We came in Oneyda & told them w<sup>t</sup> Decanissore had desired us to say.

10th Col. Romer told us that his instrucc<sup>o</sup>ns were to see how much lesse the Carrying place could be made; whereupon we resolved forthwith to go thither, as we did, with an Indian which we hired who shew us the way.

11th d<sup>o</sup> We came by a most miserable path to the Carrying Place, w<sup>ch</sup> we viewed as farr as the Wood Creek, when Col Romer resolved to go to Oneyda. 12th do. In y<sup>e</sup> evening we came to Oneyda. 13th d<sup>o</sup> we departed from Oneyda. 16th d<sup>o</sup> we came in the Maquass country to the Sachem Onoronorum at Canohogo, were we delivered the message we were charged wth to him from y<sup>e</sup> Onondages. 17th d<sup>o</sup>. We came at a place called the Wildernesse 2 mile above Schenectade, 15th d<sup>o</sup> in the evening we came to Albany.

Earl of Bellomont to Secretary Popple.

[New-York Entries, D. 202.]

Extract of a letter from the Earl of Bellomont to the Secretary dated the 29th of November 1700.

Sir

I have [given] the Lords of the Council of Trade a hint of M<sup>r</sup> Graham's endeavour to circumvent us in the last mony bill. I shall give you as short an account of it as the nature of the thing will bear. He is either sick or sullen and comes not from his country house. Captain Provoost the late Mayor of this City went to his country house to him, to know how a Common Council might be called for ordering the affairs of the City, since by the Charter, the Recorder (who was then M<sup>r</sup> Graham) is always to be present, or they cannot hold a Court. M<sup>r</sup> Graham gives the said Mayor a deputation to be his Deputy Recorder, which I take to be wholly inconsistent, that one man should be Mayor and Recorder at the same time, and not only so, but the Mayor telling him the City were in want of mony to carry on their Town House and other works, M<sup>r</sup> Graham has in the same paper with his deputation, advis'd the City's taxing the flower that should be brought out of the country at 3<sup>s</sup> p<sup>r</sup> ½ barrel; which I take to be treason to levy mony on the subject without an act of Parliament or of an Act of Assembly.

I have the original deputation and opinion in law as to the taxing of flower, under M<sup>r</sup> Graham's own hand, or rather all written with his own hand and his name to it; and a copy of it I send you (marke A) I send you a printed Ordinance (marked B) the originall whereof

I have, all written with M<sup>r</sup> Graham's own hand. This tax upon flower so enraged the Country members of the House of Representatives (who were four to one) this last session, that they protested no Money-Bill should pass till the Ordinance were recalled. The City Members were as obstinate for maintaining their Ordinance, so that the Money-Bill was very near miscarrying, if I had not with much difficulty prevailed with the City members to revoke their Ordinance. That revocation could not be neither, till I had named a new Recorder. The reasons upon which I went you will find in the minute of Council (marked C.) About a week after, I sent for the Towne Clark, and made him search for M<sup>r</sup> Graham's commission. At first he brought me word there was no such commission entred with him, but on a second search he found. I send you a copy thereof (marked D.) I take the said commission to be illegal, there being noe power in the King's commission to Coll Fletcher or me, nor yet in the Charter of New Yorke, which warrants the Governours giving any officer whatsoever, a commission during good behaviour. Another fault I find with his Commission, it was not entered in the Secretary's Office, which is the proper office where letters patent or commissions that have the Great Seal of England or the Seal of the Province affixed to them, are entred. Besides all that, it appears plainly the Charter of New Yorke is not a legal Charter, for the Original I have lately seen; 'tis sealed with the Duke of Yorke's seal, and neither the Great Seal of England nor Seal of the Province, yet it bears date the 2<sup>d</sup> year of King James, so that the whole foundation is wrong. In strictness this is no City, and all the judgments that have been pass'd in their Mayor's Court are void; yet Colonel Dangan I am told, and M<sup>r</sup> Graham, got a good sum of money for this Charter. I send you the printed Copy of the said Charter (marked E.)

I gave the Lords in one or two letters to understand I had a jealousy of M<sup>r</sup> Graham's taking a bribe from Shelly the Master of the ship Nassau who brought above 50 pirates with their spoils from Madagascar. The ground of my jealousy you will learn by perusing the minute of Council (F.) and the extracts of the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governour's letters to me, and of my letters to him (which are marked G.) I send the depositions of D<sup>r</sup> Staats, M<sup>r</sup> Walters and M<sup>r</sup> Cozens (marked H) which should have followed next after the forementioned minute of Council. You may observe a plain trick of M<sup>r</sup> Graham's in wording the said minute; Where I have marked with a line, there he has cunningly left out Giles Shelly and put in words (the said Crew.) Another thing I must observe to you is the Apology made for M<sup>r</sup> Graham by the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governour in his letter of the 29th of last April to me, about the Bond taken for Shelly, which as I have told the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governour is instead of an Apology a severe Charge against M<sup>r</sup> Graham, whose duty it was alone to draw the Bond himself, as being the King's sole Council in the Law within this Province. That part of the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governour's said letter is among the extracts I send you.

I also send the mittimus to imprison Giles Shelly drawn by M<sup>r</sup> Graham, and the Bond drawn by one Antill who was Attorney for Shelly and M<sup>r</sup> Gouverneur, who was therein out-witted by Antill. The Mittimus and Bond are both in one paper (marked I.)

It would be endless to tell you all the lies & tricks of Graham, and his endeavours to circumvent me; but I was always on my guard with him, so that he was never able to take the least advantage of me. He has sometimes gone to his Country-house and from thence writ to me, how the Assembly were to be managed that Session wherein they settled the revenue, and about the election of the Members of that Assembly, on purpose to ensnare me & entice me to write to him about those matters; but I always wav'd writing to him on those subjects.

Now I have told you how he used me, I will next tell you how he used the King. You know what memorialls I sent the Lords of your Board from Mr Graham, setting forth how ruinous Coll. Fletchers vast grants of land were to the Province. Yet was this man so double and impudent as to oppose with all his might the passing of that Act I sent home for vacating some of Fletcher's grants. He opposed it to myself, witness the notes I writ down in my table book from his own mouth, & which I am able to swear to, a copy of which notes I send (marked K.)

He was so false to the King and to me that session when he was Speaker and that the Revenue was settled for 6 years, as to come and perswade me to accept of the Revenue for 3 years. It was upon that villainous motion of his that I first writ home for a Judge and Attorney, to the Council of Trade, for I found he was so rank a knave there was no trusting him. Several corruptions can be proved against him in his Recorder's place, and that of Attorney General. He has at this time the fate that all false tricking men have, to be hated & despised by men of all parties. I do not find he has a freind in this Province but Mr Livingston, who has not quite so much cunning as he. I send you these papers that in case Mr Graham makes any complaint to the Lords of Trade, for my turning him out of his Recorder's place, they as evidences may be produced against him.

Notes of what passed between Mr Graham and the E. of Bellomont ab<sup>t</sup> the Bill for breaking some of Coll: Fletcher's extravagant grants of land. [4 May 1699.]

On Thursday the 4th of May 1699 Mr Graham the Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> was call'd up by me after dinner to my writing room, where telling him how Coll: Smith had seem'd this morning in Council averse to comply with the King's order to break Dellius's two grants, that of Bayard, that of Evans, that of the King's Farm, & that of the King's garden; he Mr Graham advis'd me against it, telling me it could not be done, 'twas an originall right by vertue of the Great Seal of England and the publick faith of England: w<sup>ch</sup> was surprizing to me, because he had not only often told me it was destructive to the Province that such great grants should be made of the lands, but also drew up a Representation of it to be sent to England. He told me the people were in a greater ferment than ever, and that the marchands had sent to Virginia to hire a ship to remove themselves and effects to England, and offered a £1000. for it; but that the Master or Owner stood upon £1200. He told me with tears in his eyes that he had been threatned, and that a woman had been with him this morning in his Chamber and told him there was no safety for him; that it was past mediation and reconciliation; that he had forfeited all freindship and forgiveness of those y<sup>t</sup> were formerly his friends, and warn'd him to have a care of himselfe.

On Friday the 5th of May 99. Mr Graham was with me, and told me that yesterday he found a quarter of meat (he call'd it) laid crosse the threshold of the door of his lodging, and pretended to be allarm'd when he told it me. I ask'd him what he thought it might mean; he answe'd 'twas a menace to him that he was to be quater'd. I laugh'd at his fear. He told me he inquir'd strictly of the people of the house where he lodges, but none could tell how it came thither.

The above particulars were told me by M<sup>r</sup> Graham, w<sup>ch</sup> I am able to testifie upon oath.

(Signed) BELLOMONT.

[New-York Entries, D. 207.]

Extract of another letter from the Earl of Bellomont to the Secretary of the same date. [29 Nov. 1700]

Sir

This goes as a Codicil to my long letter to you, to desire that the £100, I have already advanced for the 24 masts and the £200 I am to pay the 1st of Dec<sup>r</sup> which is near at hand and will and must be paid before this ship can possibly get to England, making in all £300. New Yorke mony or £230 17. sterling, may be paid to S<sup>r</sup> John Stanley for my use; wherein I desire you will do me the kindness to sollicit the Lords of your Board to countenance and support my demand of that mony from the Admiralty or Navy-Board.

Another request I make you is, to acquaint their Lordships that for want of a particular account of the clearings due to these four Companies from M<sup>r</sup> Champantè, I have not been able to pay them. 'Tis true he sent me an Abstract (a copy whereof I now inclose to you) by the last ship, wherein there is a sum in gross amounting to £263 7 9. for clearings; but the Officers and I are wholly at a loss what is due to each Company. The sum you must know would have been a great deal more, but for the checks for defective men in the Companies appearing by the Muster Rolls. Now some Companies having more defectives than others, it had been proper for M<sup>r</sup> Champantè to have sent a particular to what came to each Companies share of the clearings.

M<sup>r</sup> Hungerford tho' my near kinsman has play'd the fool, and worse, while he was one of the Collectors. I send some evidences against him, which I desire may be in readiness to be produced upon occasion. His Father S<sup>r</sup> George is of the House of Commons, and I hear is so weak as to take it ill I turned his son out of that employment; which I protest I would have done to a son of my own. My Cousin Hungerford made it a common practice to make seizures & compound for them, without lodging them in the Custom House or giving any account of them to the Government.

N. York the 6th Dec<sup>r</sup> 1700.

Sir

I have rec<sup>d</sup> the favour of your letter of the 11th of Aug. and am much oblig'd to you for your approbation of my letter to the Council of Trade of the 22th of last June about Naval Stores. You will find by the letter I now write 'em, a copy whereof goes with this, what a bargain I have made for the King for masts of ships. I shall furnish them about 70.£ pr Cent cheaper than the King and all his ancestors ever had 'em. This shews what a property the King has been to certain men in office. You must needs own the difference in point of cost is not only great but prodigiously so. I will undertake if these men that have contracted with me perform their bargain I will save the King the best part of £20000 a year in the article of masts boltsprits and yards for his ships of war. Pray read over my list of prices of masts, and let the King know the service I am doing him. I begin to thinke I deserve well of the King and I wish he would let me see he thinks so too. I protest I am quite tyr'd out with taking pains for the publick, without any profit to myselfe. I can apply two texts of Scripture to my selfe; that of muzzling the ox that treads out the corn, and that of the labourer's being worth of his hire. I am in a place where my predecessor Fletcher got a great deal of money ('tis said, and I believe it £30000) and so could I but that I am muzzled. The other text needs no explanation. I am not half so uneasy for my selfe as for the King's and publicks interest. I cannot but be amaz'd at the delay that's us'd in approving the Act of Assembly I sent home a year and half ago, for vacating some of Fletcher's extravagant grants of lands, a thing we were comanded to do. It raises the insolence of the faction here, and is a mortification to all those honest people that stood by me in passing that Act; no, I have not so much as been afforded the least reason why that act has been under so long a suspension. The act two that bestow'd me and Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governor £2000 this mony (or £400 sterling) between us, is of the same age with 'tother act, and if I were to make an estimate of my interest at Court by my usage in that Act, I must thinke I stand the last man in the list.

You will find by my letter to the Council of Trade that I watch the Madagascar trade as narrowly as I can.

As to Kidd's pretence of urging to his owners the necessity of allowing the seamen pay, I can safely take my oath there was no such thing, but so far the contrary, as that as often as I saw him he told me he knew the pyratts hants so well, that he could sail directly to 'em; but his articles with me which I sent you (the original one by the Newport frigate, and a copy by the ship Fortune) will shew his mind in that matter; for when we don't hear a man treat of a bargain, his hand and seal is the best evidence of his assent and consent to a bargain. As to my letter I writ to Kidd by Burgesse, and w<sup>ch</sup> Capt Lowth intercepted, I own I writ to him to come to N. Yorke, and if it be rightly consider'd, I did therein what became me. Upon my first coming hither I had reason to suspect he was turn'd rogue or pyrate, for contrary to his articles wth me, he came hither to N. Yorke and here staid ab<sup>t</sup> 3 moneths, and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston whom I found here before me told me he had some reasons to suspect he would turn pyrate. Two of his reasons were, a bargain whisper'd about, that Fletcher had covenanted wth Kidd to receive £10000 if he made a good voyage; the other was the dissolute life Kidd had liv'd during the 3 moneths he staid here. But when I writ that letter to Kidd by Burgesse, I had an account he was certainly turn'd pyrate, and then I could not be blam'd to have a just indignation against him, and to try by all means to get him into my hands, and 'tis plain menacing him had not been the way to invite him hither, but rather wheedling, and that way I took, and after that manner I got him at last into Boston when I secur'd him; and a copy of that letter I then writ to him, I sent you wth the first news of my seizing him. If I was faulty in the letter I writ by Burgesse, I was no lesse so in that I writ by M<sup>r</sup> Cambel w<sup>ch</sup> brought in Kidd to Boston.

As to the charge against me for suffering the ship New York Marchand to come hither after having been at Madagascar, I have inquir'd ab<sup>t</sup> it, and the story of that ship is this:— Frederick Phillips her owner had appointed her to stop at Delaware Bay, w<sup>ch</sup> is 50 leagues westward of this Province, and there his son met her in the Frederick's sloop, takes out all her E. India goods and sends the Frederick's sloop and goes to Hamborough (the story whereof you know) and comes to this town in the N. York Marchand. Upon notice of the ship's coming in (for the sloop I never heard of till from your selfe) I sent imediately to search the N. York Marchand, where there was nothing found but a parcel of Negros, and the trade for Negros to Madagascar was not then under a prohibition, nor untill the E. India Act passed in England. I defie all mankind to charge me justly wth any sort of corruption in the least degree or wth any connivance or partiality shew'd to one man or party more than another.

I desir'd you in my letter by the Newport frigate to get Peter Mathews and two other Lieu<sup>t</sup> exchange'd for so many out of the present forces in England. If I have not trusty officers 'tis impossible to get the sould<sup>r</sup>s to work at Naval Stores; therefore I desire y<sup>r</sup> Mathews and the other two, viz. Shanke and Bulkely may be exchange'd imediately. I beg of you to get Major Ingoldesby exchange'd, who has been four years absent from his post, to his great shame; and if my scheme for regimenting these four hundred men (w<sup>ch</sup> you will meet with in my letter to the Council of Trade) takes, then the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Colonel or Major will properly succeed to Ingoldesby's Company. There ought be a world of care taken in the choice of the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Colonel, Major, and Captains that are sent over, and I must relie on your favour of that matter, otherwise I shall have a parcel of Tories and perhaps Jacobites put upon me by a certain gentleman who sits one of the Council of Trade, whose custome it is on such occasions to make sale of employments to any sort of trash as will give him money. That most valuable design of Naval Stores depends in a great measure on the choice of good discreet officers to manage and influence the souldiers in working; therefore it behoves us to be very careful in that point.

Capt. Nanfan my Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governor here is necessitated to go to Barbades to look after his wife's fortune; I desir'd you about a year ago to get and send the King's leave for his being absent four or five moneths from his post. He is now going by my consent, since he must otherwise quit his employment if I did not consent.

man of us (nor I whose interest it is to allow it that I may be reimburs'd) could consent to almost any one article in it. The marchands here getting the wind of this, are not willing to let me have mony on my bills of exchange drawn on M<sup>r</sup> Champante; they have such a notion of his unfitness for businesse, and thinks he squanders the rest of the King's mony as he has done this to Weaver. So that I, that had begun to pay the Officers and souldiers their subsistence in mony duly every Saturday, am in a fair way of being ruin'd for want of credit to hold on paying the subsistence weekly. But this is not all; M<sup>r</sup> Champante has neglected to send the souldiers cloaths; he sent a few suits by the Advice frigate, and he had much better have sent none, for a few souldiers cloth'd gives discontent to the others that are naked. In short the recruits I have sent to Albany are gone away in all the discontent imaginable for want of cloaths, so that I fear I shall hear of some notable mischief this winter at Albany, and now the River is shut up with ice, so that 'tis not in the art of man to send up the cloathing if it were come till the begining of April. One Capt. Wake who arriv'd here above a moneth ago wth a stout marchand ship was to have brought M<sup>r</sup> Weaver and the souldiers cloathing, and he and Weaver fell out and arrested one another, and M<sup>r</sup> Champante writes me word M<sup>r</sup> Weaver told him Capt Wake refus'd to bring the cloathing. M<sup>r</sup> Champante should not have taken Weaver's word in that case, who must be suppos'd prejudic'd against Wake, but should have taken a refusal from Wake himselfe; but I am satisfied Wake never refus'd to bring the cloathing. I sent for him last Wednesday and he offer'd to take his oath that the cloathing was never offer'd him; he own'd that M<sup>r</sup> Weaver spoke of bringing the cloathing with him. M<sup>r</sup> Champante has writ four or five letters to me, but he is always in such haste that he cannot send me an account of the King's mony, how he lays it out, except that £425. to M<sup>r</sup> Weaver. I never intended M<sup>r</sup> Champante for Agent for the forces here,* but desir'd a friend of mine to whom I sent a letter of Attorney wth a blank for the persons name, to fill it up wth the name of a trading man who I knew understood that sort of businesse, but that friend put in M<sup>r</sup> Champante's name. I thought it proper to acquaint you with this whole story, that I might not be accountable for any ill consequence that may happen here from the ill conduct of M<sup>r</sup> Weaver and M<sup>r</sup> Champante. Every man has his faults and failings, more or less, and 'tis enough for a man to answer for his owne faults, and not to be answerable for other men's. Certainly every man that knows the eternall toil of businesse I undergo in this place, and the opposition and trouble given me by an angry party of men here, will judge I have enough to perplex me here, without being so very ill us'd by those I trust in England.

The trouble of this usage makes me very indifferent as to the truth of what's reported here of my being speedily to be call'd home. 'Tis said the Bp. of London has writ to the Minister of this place M<sup>r</sup> Vesey, who herds with the angry party, that by Easter he and his friends will be rid of their grievance. M<sup>r</sup> Basse too has writ to several people in the Jersies that I shall speedily be displac'd and he shall be a main instrument in getting it done. As to the good Bishop he has espous'd Fletcher, wth all his corruptions, against me: I have nothing to say to him but that he is as wise as he is learned: Basse is the most a scowndrel that I ever knew; he will bragg and lye with any man living, even with Coll. Fletcher, and is a rank coward, was kick'd on board the Deptford in our voyage from Barbados hither. I sav'd M<sup>r</sup> Heatheot and his partners some thousands of pounds that Bradish and his associates ran away with, and they have been such clowns as never to send me a line of thanks. I am, with respect, Sir,

Your most humble and

faithfull Servant

I desire you will do me the favour to assist me in getting the mony I laid out for my journey to Rhode-Island, by your own order, and for taking Gillam the Pyrate. It was laid out in Boston governm<sup>t</sup> where the King has no sort of revenue; and here it will not be allow'd by the Cômmiss<sup>rs</sup> of Accounts, who to speak truth are in the right on't. The Lords of the Treasury are very nice indeed, if they will not allow payment for such services as are done by the King's order. I inclose to you the account, and desire the money may be paid to S<sup>r</sup> Jo. Stanley for my use.

I have sent to look for Gillam the Pyrat's money, but have not yet found it, and have writ to M<sup>r</sup> Penn to examine those men whose names were sent in the list, and who live in Pennsylvania. One Henry Head was lately in the country looking for Gillam's mony, as I hear.

Since my writing to you to get Mathews and Bulkeley two of the Lieutenants exchang'd the L<sup>t</sup> Governor interposes so heartily for 'em, and undertakes for their faithfull behaviour to the King that I am prevail'd on to continue them in their present posts.

[Mus. Brit. Lansdowne MSS. No. 649, fol. 83.]

Whitehall, December the 19th 1700.

Sir,

We have lately received from the Earl of Bellomont some important passages relating to the Forts at Albany and Schenectady, and send you here enclosed the extracts thereof, together with a copy of an address presented to His Lord<sup>sh</sup> by some of the principal Inhabitants of the City and County of Albany upon the same subject.<sup>1</sup>

Being very sensible it is necessary that some speedy and effectual care be taken for the reparation of those Forts We shall press the Earl of Bellomont to use his utmost endeavors to persuade the General Assembly of New York to take care of that matter.

But having already represented to their Excellencies, the late Lords Justices (in our Report of the 4th of October last, relating to Naval Stores, and the security of His Majesty's Plantations in the Northern Continent of America, which we then sent to you,) that we did neither conceive the Province of New York to be able singly to beare the charge of erecting and maintaining such Forts as might there be necessary; nor thô it were able, that it would be reasonable to expect the said Province should alone provide for the defence of a frontier wherein y<sup>e</sup> security of all His Majesty's Other Plantations on that Continent is concerned; and having thereupon proposed to their Excellencies what we humbly conceived most expedient for the effecting of that work; We desire you would please to lay this whole matter before His Majesty together with our foresaid Report, for such speedy directions thereupon as His Majesty shall think fit.

We are, Sir,

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Bellomont.

[New-York Entries, D. 66.]

To the Right Honorable the Earle of Bellomont His Majesty's Captain General and Governour in Cheif of His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay, New Yorke and New Hampshire in America and of the Territories thereupon depending &<sup>c</sup> Or to the Commander in Cheif of His Majesty's Province of New Yorke for the time being.

My Lord

We have very lately received your Lordships letters of the 17th 24th and 25th of October last, and have them now under consideration with all the papers relating thereunto, in order to such directions and answers as shall be necessary: in all which we will make what dispatch we can, and in due time give your Lordship a full account thereof.

But in the mean while having considered what your Lordship writes in several paragraphs relating to the forts at Albany and Schenectady and more particularly the Address presented to your Lordship by some of the principal inhabitants of Albany upon that subject; we think that matter of so great importance that we would not make any delay to acquaint your Lordship that we intirely agree with the sense of the said Address and with whatever your Lordship has writ about the necessity of repairing those Forts.

The orders that were sent your Lordship for building a fort in the Onondage country were in pursuance of your own advices, upon the occasion of the alarm of the general insurrection of Indians; which worke we also thought very necessary. But those orders were never intended to hinder or interfere with the repairing of Albany and Schenectady at the same time; which we think so absolutely needfull that unless those two nearest forts be kept up in a sufficient state of defence, the building of a fort in so remote a part as the Onondage country will in case of war by its falling into the enemies hands without our having any other place of retreat and security for our Indians, be of much worse consequence than if there were no such fort.

We earnestly intreat your Lordship therefore to use your utmost endeavours that the Assembly of New York do speedily apply themselves for the repairing of those forts; towards which you seemed by your letter of the 25th of February last, to hope they might be disposed to furnish materials. And tho' the hopes you there express of improving the revenue so as to answer the rest of that charge be built upon the expectation of having a good Judge and Attorney General, sent from hence to your assistance, which is not yet done; we desire your Lordship however to press the Assembly therein all the arguments and means that you judge most likely to be efficacious. If they cannot be disposed to be at the charge of building those Forts of stone, they may do it of sodd. If they cannot provide for the whole charge all at once, they make a beginning with what is most necessary. It is of the greatest importance that the worke be done and therefore the utmost endeavours must be used in it.

And we further desire your Lordship either by writing or speaking to the Governours of His Majesty's other plantations in your neighbourhood to endeavour to dispose them as much as possible to influence the Councils and Assemblies in their respective Governments to a contribution towards so necessary a worke. We are

Your Lordships most humble Servants

The Earl of Bellomont to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 220.]

To the Rt. Honourable the Lords Com<sup>rs</sup> for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords.

I did not think to trouble Your Lordships with another letter this winter, after my long one of the 25th of November last; but M<sup>r</sup> Weaver being newly arriv'd after a passage of 13 weeks and bringing me your Lordships letter of the 19th of September it gives me a fresh occasion for writing.

I send your Lordships my reply to your observations on the Acts of Assembly of this Province (N<sup>o</sup> 1.) which I hope will give your Lordships satisfaction, and will induce you to report favourably of them to the King, especially the three following Acts mentioned in your Lordships said observations, viz<sup>t</sup> that for preventing vexatious suits &c that for indemnifying all such persons &c and lastly, that for Repealing an Act of Assembly &c I can assure your Lordships the Revenue had never been obtained by me, had it not been upon the consideration of those three Acts, and the rejecting them would be a great mortification and discouragement to those people that gave the Revenue (against the humour & endeavours of an adverse party) to shew the loyalty and affection to the King. I also look on my self as unkindly used, if those Acts be not approved at home. Your Lordships seem'd to be of the same opinion with me in your letter of the 11th of last April, and to have made the same discrimination of men and parties here, and for proof of it I send your Lordships a Copy of two paragraphs in your said letter of the 11th of April (N<sup>o</sup> 2)

Your Lordships have favoured me with a Copy of M<sup>r</sup> Mountague's memorial of the 13th of August last. M<sup>r</sup> Weaver assures me that M<sup>r</sup> Champantè had prepared an answer to the said memorial, & was to lay it before your Lordships when he came away; so that I will not give your Lordships the trouble of a particular answer to all the parts of the Memorial, but only to two or three points, on which M<sup>r</sup> Mountague builds his false deductions and wrong reasoning. In the first place he pretends to be commissioned by several hundreds of the gentlemen and other inhabitants of this Province to oppose some of the Acts of Assembly that we sent to England. I cannot but call in question the truth of such instrument, as he pretends was signed by severall hundred persons in this Province, and sent to him to oppose those Acts. If there had been such a body of the inhabitants averse to the passing of those Acts, 'tis a wonder they petitioned not the General Assembly against them, while they were passing, which is always done where a body of people look on themselves like to be hurt by a bill depending before the Assembly; but there was not the least struggle against the bills, but by three of the Council, who were either concern'd in the irregularities of the late governments or in the extravagant grants of land. I confess I have a jealousy if such an instrument was sent over to M<sup>r</sup> Mountague with some hundred names to it, that it was forg'd, and those names writ by a Club consisting in a few persons. There are people in this town that are capable of such a slight.

M<sup>r</sup> Mountague takes upon him to call the present Assembly a pretended one, whereby he would insinuate that the Representatives were not fairly elected; but I will put my reputation upon it, & all the fortune I have in the world that there never was so fair elections of Representatives in this Province before, and I do not beleave there was the least foul play or illegality used in any of the elections. The only piece of management that I could hear was used in the elections, I remember I acquainted your Lordships of, which was, that after the writts were out, the Sheriffs of this & the adjacent Counties agreed among themselves that the elections in those Counties should be on one and the same day, which was a thing purely in the Sheriffs power to do, and cannot be reckon'd unfair.

M<sup>r</sup> Mountague would make the commitment of M<sup>r</sup> Burt and Wilson, a great offence, calling it arbitrary and illegal, and is so disingenuous as to charge it on me singly, as my act, tho' he knows very well it was done during the Session of the Assembly and that the Council and I did it in our Legislative capacity; wherein we had the concurrence of the House Representatives; and if I may beleave Coll. Smith and M<sup>r</sup> Graham, who are our chief Judge & Attorney Generall, the Governour and Council have during the Session in such cases a judicial power, like that of the House Lords in England, and can hear and determine civill causes (not appealable to the King) and imprison the parties offending. If the proceeding against Burt and Wilson was extrajudicial, why then have we not an able Judge and Attorney Generall to set us right, and keep us to the strict rules of law. In this case we acted by the best advice we could have here, and it was done to discover a fraud put on the King in his revenue of Excise.

As to the Act for vacating some of Collouell Fletcher's extravagant grants of land, I doubt not but Mr Champautè has before now answered Mr Mountague's tedious ill digested arguments and objections to that Act, and therefore I will briefly observe only two or three of them, which he seems to fancy invincible. He affects to be thought witty in reflecting on Collonel Heathcot's grant of part of the King's Garden, which says he is but 50 foot long, and yet is number'd among the extravagant lands. But by his favour a grant may be extravagant as well in it's nature and quality as in its extent and quantity. For instance, I fancy it would pass for an extravagant grant if the Crown granted away St James's Park, no less than if New Forest or the Forest of Dean were granted away, and it was much more impudent & unjust in Collonel Fletcher to sell away that piece of the Garden to Heathcot (which was robbing all succeeding Governours of their necessary convenience in a garden) than the granting Mr Dellius near fourteen hundred thousand acres in one grant. I was offer'd a gardiner that would have repaired that garden and put it in good order and suplied my family with all garden stufte gratis, if he might have had the overplus profits of the garden to himself and a lease from three years to three years, which was a great offer, but I could do nothing in it till the Vacating Act were approved by the King. The King's Farm too had been better applied to the use of the Governour (and more justly so because it was intended by the Crown for the Governour's demesne) than to the Church; for Collonel Fletcher might have found out another and more valuable glebe for the Church if he would have denied himself the sale of other lands and consequently the pocketing the mony he sold the lands for. As for the wrong which Mr Mountague pretends would be done the Grantees (because of their charges for improvements) if the Act should be confirmed by the King, I will easily answer that argument. Upon the best information I can find, there is not a Christian inhabitant on either of Mr Dellius's Grants, neither that whereof he was sole grantee, nor t'other wherein Coll. Schuyler and other were partners with him viz<sup>t</sup> the Mohack's land. The same thing I am informed of Collonel Bayard's Grant, who by the way has part of the Mohack's land in his grant, as I formerly acquainted your Lordships. Captain Evans's great grant of 40 miles one way and 30 another has but one house on it, or rather a hutt where a poor man lives and that hutt built by one Captain Mac Gregory<sup>1</sup> a Scotch man who was killed at the time of the Revolution here, and his widow said to be compelled by Collonel Fletcher to sell her house and land to Capt. Evans for 30 or 35.£. to the ruin of herself and family. And to give your Lordships an account of the merit of Captain Evans; when I was at Rhode Island severall complaints were made to me of him, and some affidavits given me of his robbing ships and people on pretence of impressing seamen for the King's ship in that government where he had nothing to do. Collonel Nicholson when he was here lately, told me that Evans went with the King's ship to Virginia and there in the night stole a great number of hogsheads of Tobacco, and the custom thereof, and brought it away. Collonel Nicholson told me the number of hogsheads, but I have forgot. He was much exasperated against Evans and said he would complain of him home to England: it was truly a great misdemeanour to rob the King in his own ship. Mr Livingston has on his great grant of 16 miles long and 24 broad, but 4 or 5 cottagers as I am told, men that live in vassallage under him and work for him and are too poor to be farmers having not wherewithall to buy Cattle to stock a farm. Collonel Courtland has also on his great grants 4 or 5 of those poor families; but in his case there is yet something worse than in any of the others. He had first one great Grant of 20 miles square, which would not content him, but just upon my coming from England, he obtains another grant of Fletcher of 20 miles square also, and in the patent there is a priviledge annexed which in my opinion is cause enough alone for breaking his grant, that is, that after 20 years that mannor (for both grants were erected into a mannor) should choose and send a Representative to the Generall Assembly. There are two grants more in the Province that have that priviledge in the patents; which is very irregular and illegal in my apprehension. Old Frederick Phillips is said to have about 20 families of those poor people that work for him, on his grant. I do not hear that Frederick Phillips's son, Colonel Schuyler, Collonel Beeckman or Collonel Smith, have any tenants on their grants; and I hear but of one that M<sup>r</sup> Nichols has on his great grant on Nassau Island and he a Scotchman condemned in Scotland to be hanged with Jamison Clerk of the Council in Colonel Fletcher's time for blasphemy and burning the Bible. Jamison, young Graham and Honan Fletcher's Secretary at War and private Secretary, have a grant of Fletcher of three hundred thousand acres of Land, against which there are many complaints, and so there are against most of the other grants I have named, many people being violently stripped of their lands by these grantees, supported by the favor of former Governours.

'Tis observable that most of the grantees were of the Council in Fletcher's time, which is a great aggravation of their breach of trust; for they were obliged by their oath to advise and act in all things for the King's best interest and advantage.

Then for Collonel Fletcher's instructions from the King which M<sup>r</sup> Mountague has been at the pains to transcribe in his memorial; he shews want of judgment in offering that clause in justification of the Grantees and their title. For no Governour before Fletcher had that unlimited power of disposing of the Crown Lands in this Province, and that instruction being unrepresented turns with greater force against Fletcher, making the fraud more apparent, because that clause was premeditated and contrived. 'Tis a very presumptuous and unnatural act to make the King defraud himself, as by that clause in the instructions he is made to do. How common a thing is it in England to break grants of lands made immediately by the King himself, when 'tis found that the King is deceived in his grants. Here the reason is yet stronger, that fraudulent grants made by a corrupt Governour should and ought to be made void.

I beleive there are not less than seven millions of acres granted away in 13 grants, and all of them uninhabited, as I have before observed, except M<sup>r</sup> Ranslaer's grant which is 24 miles square, and on which the town of Albany stands; that grant being made when this Province was first settled by the Dutch the lands are fallen into many hands by the Dutch way of dividing them equally among their children; so that it would be a hardship to deprive the present occupants of their lands. But 'tis reasonable they should pay a Quit Rent to the Crown of half a crown p<sup>r</sup> 100 acres and I beleive most of the people concerned in those lands would freely submit to such a quit rent if they could be well warranted and secured in their title for the time to come. The vacating Act sent home is fully justified by your Lordships representation to the Lords Justices of England & their Excellencies order to me, grounded upon your Lordships said representation and by the Act of Parliament in England which passed last Session to resume all the Irish forfeitures which had been granted away by his Majesty.

M<sup>r</sup> Sollicitor Generall's report to your Lordships is very oddly drawn (to say no more of it) & shews he had a great deal of other business on his hands and left the report to his Clerk to draw up.

I am not angry with M<sup>r</sup> Mountagne for his memorial nor the many errors and untruths in it; he has done it mercenarily and for a livelyhood. He is made use of as the organ to convey a parcel of untruths to your Lordships which were infused into him by the factious people of this place. I doubt not but M<sup>r</sup> Champantè will have made a substantiall answer to M<sup>r</sup> Mountague's frothy memorial long before this letter will reach England.

If the Vacating Act I sent home had been approved by the King, I beleive the Generall Assembly would have broke all the rest of the extravagant grants in the province last Session. They were in the humour of doing it, but that the Acts being so delayed at home discouraged them.

The suspension put on that Act breaks all my measures; Your Lordships have been often told that till that Act be confirm'd in England, the King has neither land nor woods in the Province. How then can I comply with your last orders in your letter of the 19th of September, of trying to mar (make) tar with the Soldiers? Besides I proposed 12<sup>d</sup> a day Sterling, as a reward for each soldier, which is 15½<sup>d</sup> of this mony, and alters the case very much, and 40 acres of land for each soldier after 7 years service, which would cost the King nothing and yet be an advantage and security to the country and an incouragement to the soldiers; for if I cannot engage them to work heartily at first, my project will fail me. Therefore if your Lordships mean this design of making tar shall go on, let the Vacating Act be passed in England and new orders to me and the Assembly to break the rest of the exorbitant grants, with orders also to me to give the soldiers 12<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> day sterling piece, and such a proportion of land to each officer and soldier as I formerly proposed, and then I will immediately begin to work. The soldiers must be paid every Saturday their reward, therefore 'tis not possible to pay them out of the produce of their work as your Lordship propose in your letter of the 19th September, but if I may be allowed to draw for £500 home, for a beginning, I doubt not but I may be able to pay them on afterwards out of the produce.

I sent your Lordships, with my letter of the 25th Nov<sup>r</sup> last, my articles and bond with two honest undertakers for Masts for the King's ships. For fear that packet should miscarry, I again send the said Articles (N<sup>o</sup> 3) and the Bond for performance of the Articles (N<sup>o</sup> 4.) my instructions to the Undertakers to secure the woods where the masts grow, for the King (N<sup>o</sup> 5.) and a list of prices paid to M<sup>r</sup> Taylor for masts and of such lower prices as M<sup>r</sup> Bridger offer'd to furnish masts for, as p<sup>r</sup> his paper, which I sent your Lordships with my letter of the 22<sup>d</sup> of last June, and lastly the price I have now agreed for with these Undertakers, which list is (N<sup>o</sup> 6.) I cannot but think that this bargain for masts is a very valuable peice of service, and that alone is a sufficient refutation of M<sup>r</sup> Mountague's tinsel arguments in his memorial. I believe I may venture to say I shall be able to furnish all the King's dominions with masts yards and boltsprits from these very woods, and that I shall save England a 100000.£ a year; whereof the King's share of the mony sav'd will I fancy amount to a 5th of that sume or 20000.£ a year. The Carpenters I sent to view those woods last year, assured me there were masts enough to serve the Kings navy a 1000 years. I tell your Lordships their own words.

Your Lordships letter of the 19th Sept<sup>r</sup> is writ with that unusual coldness in relation to the Vacating Act I sent home, and not incouraging me to prosecute your former orders of breaking the rest of the grants that are exorbitant, that I was just going to break of my bargain with the undertakers for masts and to write to them to leave of cutting the masts. But then I considered the consequence of such an order might in all probability do a world of hurt, not only in discouraging the Undertakers, but also in alarming our Indians and giving them some jealousy that might prejudice them against our building a Fort at Onondage. I perceive they are made to believe I am in disgrace with the King and that I am to be superseded in this government. This they told as news to Collonel Romer when he was in that Country.

There is a messenger newly come from Albany who brings word the Undertakers for masts were very forward with their work, that they had drawn several masts out of the woods to the side of the Mohack's River, ready to float down when the river is open, for at present 'tis froze up. I am certain the Undertakers have agreed with the Mohacks that the King shall have their woods, because I directed them to make a sure bargain for the King, before they offer'd to begin to work, for fear of giving the Indians the least disgust. I have no letter from them, for the messenger says they were felling the masts and drawing them out of the woods when he came away. If the Undertakers knew that the Vacating Act is still unapproved by the King, I am confident they would immediately leave off working in those woods, for fear M<sup>r</sup> Dellius and the other grantees of the Mohack's lands and woods should sue them for a trespass and recover great damages against them. It were better that things of this kind were never called in question, I mean these fraudulent grants, than not to be vigorously prosecuted when once they are begun to be questioned. A slackness in the orders from home makes every thing uneasy here & discourages a man that has an honest zeal to serve England.

I have no doubt upon me as to the making tar with the soldiers, when your Lordships have done your part in getting the Vacating Act finally passed, and that you have complied with the other three Articles, viz<sup>t</sup> 12<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> day sterling for each soldier, a credit for £500 to begin the work with, & a liberty of rewarding the officers and soldiers with such proportion of land as I have formerly proposed, under such Quitrent as the Lords Justices of England order'd me in their letter of the 10th of November 98. As for the masts there is a demonstration of their being furnished, and as I write in my letter of the 25th of November, so the same thing I now desire again, that your Lordships will order a Fly-boat or hag-boat of 500 tons to be here by the end of April or beginning of next May to carry away the masts. I desire your Lordships to consider too, that I run some hazard in raising a 1080<sup>l</sup>. New York money on my own credit to pay for these masts, and shall be forced to draw bills on the Admiralty Board for that value; which bills I will inclose to your Lordships, that you may take such a course as shall be effectual to prevent a protest on my bills, which is a thing that has never yet happened to me, & the discredit of it would very much trouble me.

The have got about 40 saw mills up in this Province, which I hear rids more work or destroys more timber than all the saw mills in New Hampshire. 4 saws are the most in New Hampshire that work in one mill, and here is a Dutchman lately come over who is an extraordinary artist at those mills. M<sup>r</sup> Livingston told me this last summer he had made him a mill that went with 12 saws. A few such mills will quickly destroy all the woods in the Province at a reasonable distance from them.

The trade of ship timber from New Hampshire and the Massachusetts, to Spain and Portugal, will go on more and more, till there be an Act of Parliament to forbid and make it penal. For, to use a person's expression that has lately writ to me from Boston about the mischief of that trade, those people laugh at your Lordship's order against it, and so they would at an order from the King. They know very well that nothing but an English Act of Parliament can hinder them, and such an Act would easily be obtained to pass, I should think.

The Commissioners of Accounts appointed by act of Assembly would persuade me they shall make Coll. Fletcher debtor to the King several thousand pounds more than the Account I sent your Lordships two years ago made him to be. They name some others too, who they pretend they shall make very considerable debtors to the King. They talk of such sums to me as will go a good way towards building Fortifications; and our Fortifications in this Province and to the Eastward of the Massachusets, if they be built as they ought to be will cost £40000 sterling, with all the honesty and thrift that can be used. In the calculation I made and sent your Lordships with my last letter of the charge of building forts, I omitted that of fortifying this harbour & defending this town from a bombardment, which I believe will cost 7 or 8000£. I lately sent Coll. Romer to visit the harbour, and his report is (N<sup>o</sup> 7.) 'Tis great pity this town should be exposed to the mercy of an enemy; 'tis the growngest town in America. Since my coming hither there are not fewer than a 100 fair brick houses built, and a very noble Town-house.

If the ship were not forced to sail because of the great quantity of ice that comes down the rivers I would entertain your Lordships with a further discovery of Collonel Fletcher's corrupt methods of getting mony; insomuch as he is reckoned to have got £30000 new York mony in five years and half that he was in this government; and I know his friends here compute that he made that sum while he was here. And I can make out most of it upon a probable estimate. He left no trick or fraud unpractised to get mony, and all under the mask of pretended piety and a zeal for the Church of England even to martyrdom, if people would have beleived him; but he was quickly found out, and the officers who first experienced his hypocrisy nick-named him the Pharisee. He was given to drinking, to corruption, and lying; but lying was his predominant vice, and some of his freinds have owned so to me, in softer terms. They have told me that Collonel Fletcher was a man of parts, & 'twas a pity he gave himself too great liberty in discourse, and that he had not a guard on his tongue. In a word besides the many frauds he has put on the King he has left behind him such seeds of disaffection sedition and immorality in the people here, as will require much time and pains to root out and extinguish. And I hope your Lordships will support me in the execution of your own orders, that you will in the first place make him refund all the mony he has cheated the King of, which the Commissioners of Accounts will (as they assure me) shortly prove undeniably upon him. Your Lordships know that several merchants in this town are his securities in a Bond of 10000.£. In the next place I hope your Lordships will still maintain your resolution of breaking all his grants of the lands, otherwise your acquiescence with his corrupt bargains will be look'd upon as a sanction given them, which I can never in the least imagine your Lordships capable of. If there were no other reason for breaking his grants and some few grants of other Governors than the making of tar, sending home ship timber and masts, surely every man that has a grain of sense and honesty must own that so important a service as the furnishing the King and his dominions with those things, outweighs all reasons and considerations whatsoever that can be offer'd in behalf of Fletcher and his grantees.

I remember I formerly returned M<sup>r</sup> Delliuss's grant whereof he is sole grantee at about 900000 acres, and that upon M<sup>r</sup> Graham's report of its being 86 miles long and but 16 miles broad, who made that report by guess, for he own'd he never had seen that land. But some of the Dutch that have travelled that way have since assured me they judge it to be 25 miles broad, taking one part with another; and if so it contains 1376000 acres; which is a prodigious tract of country to grant away to a stranger that has not a child, that's not denizen'd, and in a word a man that has not any sort of vertue or merit.

I do not hear one word of our Indians since my last letter to your Lordships.

I hope the Lords of the Treasury will enable the Judge and Attorney General to come away speedily or we shall be all in confusion here. Justice is so strangely administered in our Courts here, that there are great complaints and dissatisfaction about it.

I rely on your Lordships favour for procuring me a reasonable salary, and some consideration for the time past. Surely I may pretend to deserve a mark of the King's favour for the cheap bargain I have made for masts. I am with respect and obedient servant

BELLOMONT.

I send your Lordships copies of my letters to the Lords of the Treasury, the Lords of the Admiralty and Commissioners of the Customs, by this Conveyance, (N<sup>o</sup> 8) (N<sup>o</sup> 9) (N<sup>o</sup> 10.) I send the Muster Rolls of my own and the Lieutenant Governour's Companies; those of the two Companies at Albany not being yet come; the said Muster Rolls are (N<sup>o</sup> 11.) I send Collonel Smith's letter to me giving an account of the methods of proceeding in the Courts of Justice of this Province, pursuant to the order Your Lordships sent me with your letter of the 1st of August last. M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Addington from Boston and M<sup>r</sup> Partridge from New Hampshire write to me that they had transmitted the like reports to your Lordships. Collonel Smith's letter is (N<sup>o</sup> 12.) M<sup>r</sup> Graham had been most capable of complying with your order, but I have not seen him above these four months; he keeps house and either is really sick, or sick of the Attorney General that's coming from England.

I send your Lordships two minutes of Council about M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's pretension to almost two year's advance of salary, before his coming hither to execute his Collector's place; both the minutes are in one paper (N<sup>o</sup> 13.) Your Lordships will meet with my opinion of that matter in my said letter to the Lords of the Treasury.

I send your Lordships a copy of M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's commission (N<sup>o</sup> 14.) wherein he has procured a clause to be inserted which gives him a power of making a deputy, notwithstanding what your Lordships lately writ to me, and observed the abuse of an officer's having such a power. I find M<sup>r</sup> Weaver intends very soon to make a journey to Barbadoes, which is so unreasonable a neglect of his duty that if he persists in it, I will most certainly suspend him and apply to the Lords of the Treasury to make another Collector. I take a great deal of pains to serve the King myself, and I will oblige all other officers in the government to take the same pains in their respective employments, or I will turn them out and apply home for new ones in their places. Your Lordships were mightily in the right in intending to abolish for the time to come that clause in the King's Commission which impowers Officers to act by deputation. I hope your Lordships will order a new commission both for M<sup>r</sup> Weaver and M<sup>r</sup> Brenton without that clause, or I see plainly I shall never be able to keep them to their duty. And to prevent Officers from getting that or any other irregular power inserted in their commission, I could wish your Lordships had the last supervisal of all Commissions for civil employments in the Plantations & no such commission to be authentick unless it be attested by your Secretary to have been approved by your Lordships.

[New-York Papers. Bundle, P. Q.; P 17.]

My Lord.

I have with Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s letter of the 22nd instant received a copy of their Excell<sup>ties</sup> the Lords Justices of Englands order in Council of the 15th of July last as also a copy of the order of the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> of trade and Plantations whereby you are required to [send] their said Lord<sup>sh</sup>s an account of the method of proceeding in the several courts upon tryalls of all sorts of causes within this province, which your Lord<sup>sh</sup> is pleased to Comand me to report to you, and for answer I do humbly offer to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>.

That the Courts of law in this province establish'd are the Corporation Courts who derive their power from Charters granted from severall persons who have heretofore commanded this province. And the provincial courts which are authorized from an ordinance of Your Excell<sup>ty</sup> and Council in virtue of the powers given you by His Maj<sup>ties</sup> letters pattents under the great Seal of England and am humbly of opinion that the coppys of such Charters and of the ordinance aforesaid would be best manifest to their Excell<sup>ties</sup> by what rules and methods we are govern'd in all tryalls which is the common law of England and that severall statutes there made declarative thereof and as near as may be according to the manner and methods of His Maj<sup>ties</sup> Courts at Westminster Hall, except in the Court of Appeals, which consists of the Governour or Commander in chief and his Majesty's Council for the time being and is constituted by His Maj<sup>ties</sup> letters pattents. And the proceedings in appeales hath heretofore been in manner and forme hereafter expressed (that is to say) any person or persons if they think meet may appeal from any judgement obtained against him or them in case of Error in any of the Inferiour Courts aforementioned to the supream Court, for any judgement above the value of £20. and from the supream Court to the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council from any judgement above the value of £100 and from the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council to His Maj<sup>ty</sup> in Council for any decree or judgement above the value of £300 agreeable to His Maj<sup>ties</sup> letters patents and the method and rules in such appeales have been that the parties so appealing do first pay all costs of such judgement or decree from which the appeal ariseth, or either deposit the mony or enter into recognizance with two sufficient sureties for double the debt or matter recovered against him or them to the said Court to which they appeal and that they will prosecute the said appeal with effect and make return thereof; if from the supream court to the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council in six monthis if from the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council to His Maj<sup>ty</sup> in Council within twelve months after the said appeal or appeals so made, and if default happen thereof then execution to issue out upon the judgement against the parties or their sureties in course without any scire facias.

That in all appeales from the supream Court the party appealing files the errors with the clerk of the Council, then a day is assigned for the hearing them and the party defend<sup>t</sup> hath or may have coppys thereof and a convenient times to fill his answer, and the whole matter is duely heard and examined with such proofs and allegations that either party can offer and further time given if the matter so require and upon a full hearing and due consideration of the whole thing the Judgement of the supream Court is either affirmed or reversed and if either party will appeal from such decree to His Majesty in Council it hath always been allowed complying with these foregoing rules.

That in the Court of vice Admiralty here we have in all things as neer as possible followed the proceedings of the Admiralty Court in England save only where greater power is given here in the plantations by act of Parliament to the Admiralty, then is allowed of or practicable in England which hath been duely observed in my administration in that Court in this province.—

As to the Court of Chancery your Lord<sup>sh</sup> well knowes there is at present none established, nor do I find that Court hath hitherto in this province been under any certain regulation—This is my Lord what I could in the little time I had to do it in observe to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> on this head, and is what I humbly conceive may answer the end, your Lord<sup>sh</sup> in what concernees appeales to England will be it may be more particularly informed from the Secretary and Clerks through whose hands such appeales have went, and to whome all returns are made; I have here given your Lordship such account as hath occurred to my observation—I haveing hurt my hand and am obliged to use another in writing, these do pray that mine and my wifes humble duty and service may be acceptable to your Lordship and my very good Lady and that I may [have the] honour of being esteem'd as I am with much truth

Your Excell<sup>ty</sup> most obedient and very humble servant

N. York the 2nd Jan<sup>ry</sup> 17<sup>01</sup>.

My Lords.

I did myselfe the honour to write to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> the 23<sup>d</sup> of Nov<sup>r</sup> last, and then objected against that part of M<sup>r</sup> Weavers Commission w<sup>ch</sup> entitles him to 200.£ a year salary from the 25th of March 99. as Collector of this province, which I and the Council think a hardship put upon the province; the revenue being clogged with anticipations and therefore the publick service faintly carried on. The debts of the Government are about £5000 which we are not able to overcome and discharge, the necessary charge of the Government being so great. The Kings house in the Fort here is ready to fall on my head, the souldiers barracks much out of repair, and the fort in an ill condition, one of the Bastions ready to fall, and the greatest part of the Palisados wanting. M<sup>r</sup> Weaver arrived here last Monday after 13 weeks passage: 'tis I recommended him formerly to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> favour, and would still do him a reasonable kindness, but not to disoblige a whole Country for him, by his Commission he is entitled to a year and three quarters sallary before he comes upon the place or be in the execution of his Employment, which gives great disgust to all people here, and perhaps will be the means of the provinces refusing another time to settle a revenue, which I with some difficulty brought the Generall Assembly to agree to last May was twelmonth. I send your Lordshipps two minutes of Council about M<sup>r</sup> Weavers salary, or rather the advance of it.

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> ordered by your letter of the 1st of July 99. that M<sup>r</sup> Brookes's accounts should be exam<sup>d</sup>. I was then, and have been till lately, out of this province, and so could not take any course therein his accounts are now with the Commissioners of accounts appointed by act of Assembly, who pretend they shall be able to charge Coll: Fletcher, M<sup>r</sup> Brookes and others with considerable sums of money that they are indebted to the King—

I hope your Lordships will please to settle an allowance for the Judge and Attorney Generall for this province pursuant to the Kings order in Council for the publick business as well as the King suffers extreamly for want of them here, nobody here understands the drawing an act of Assembly and the Courts of Justice are managed att a strange rate, so that unless your Lordships will quicken the Judge and Attorney Generalls departure frò England, I shall be forced to put off the meeting of the Generall Assembly, and likewise to adjourne the superior Court of the province (: both which would otherwise be the first week in April next :) to wait their coming, which delay may possibly be attended with great inconvenience to the King's service here — I am with respect

My Lords

Your Lordships most humble and obedient servant

To the KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

May it please Your Majesty

Your Majesty having required us to report the state of the several Forts in your Majesty's Plantations, We humbly take leave to lay the same before Your Maj<sup>ty</sup> and to propose what we conceive may be necessary to be done for their better security and defence.

The settlements of your Majesty's subjects in HUDSON'S BAY being reduced to a weak condition may in particular manner deserve Your Majesty's thoughts and recommendation to the Governour & Company of Hudson's Bay, that they employ their best endeavours for the security of their fort & factories there.

NEWFOUNDLAND is of great importance by reason of its trade and Fishery, which yeild to England about £300000 p<sup>r</sup> ann<sup>m</sup> The Eastern Coast of this Island is inhabited by English who this last summer were computed to be 3773. The place of cheif strength is St John's Harbour which is now fortifying by your Majesty's command, and if the garrison which at present consists but of 40 men under the command of a Lieutenant were encreased to as many more (to be sent in the spring with the Convoys) your Majesty's subjects there will not lye so much exposed to an ordinary force by sea, nor be in danger of suffering from an enemy by land, as they did in the late war, when they were destroyed by the French from Placentia.

ON THE CONTINENT your Majesty has one continued dominion for at least 17 Degrees beginning from the River St<sup>e</sup> Croix, and Coll: Romer the Engineer has by order from the Earle of Bellomont survey'd all the Coast from St Georges to Boston, and sent us draughts of the principall Bays and Rivers, which we humbly lay before your Majesty with the condition of several places which are thought necessary to be fortified.

The entrance into St GEORGES RIVER being difficult because of several islands and rocks in the bay of MUSCONCUS, a small redoubt and battery upon the neck of what is now called BELMONT'S BAY is judged sufficient for the security of that river.

About five leagues to the westward of St Georges lyes PEMAQUID, a spacious river and of great consequence as covering three other rivers, Damarascot, Sheepscot, and Kennebec, and therefore deserves to be well guarded. At the entrance of this River within two leagues of the Main Sea formerly stood a Fort which at the approach of two men of war with 100 French and 500 Indians, was shamefully surrendered in August 1696 and demolished.

For the security of this Port and harbour and of all that country and to encourage people to settle there as formerly a good fort ought to be built in the same place or thereabouts, and for it's better defence in case of an attack from the sea, a battery may be raised on the next point of land, and a redoubt or round tower on John's Island.

Towards the mouth of KENNEBEC RIVER (seven leagues from Pemaquid) are many little Islands; on that of Damaras-Cove there was before the war a pallisadoed fort for the defence of the fishermen and another on Cape Anawagon where they used to cure their fish; but to guard the entrance of the River a redoubt out to be raised on the Island Sagadahock and a little fort at New Town in Rouseek Island, two leagues up the River, where there was formerly a small square one pallisadoed, CASCO (six leagues from Kennebec) is a convenient BAY, on the north west point whereof was formerly a village called Falmouth and a wooden fort, both which having been destroyed in the late war; the Government of the Massachusets has ordered a new fort and trading house to be built thereabouts, which may be of good service.

SACO RIVER (about nine leagues to the Westward of Casco) is but small and its navigation interrupted by a sandy bank at it's mouth almost dry at low water. Two leagues up that river on the Western side near the Falls stands a stone fort and a tower in the form of an irregular Pentagon, which ought to be kept in repair and Coll. Romer has marked out a place on Winter Harbour or Stage-gut point, four miles from the mouth of this river for the security of the fishery.

At WELLS and YORKE are villages with little garrison houses which require no further consideration.

PISCATAWAY (nine leagues from Saco) is an important river, being the boundary between the Province of Main and New Hampshire. On the great Island at the mouth of this river is a fort of 30 guns on New Hampshire side, but incapable of defending the river, yet the place where the said fort stands is very proper for building a good new fort, such as the growing trade of the place and country requires. Coll: Romer has sent a design thereof, and he adds that a good strong tower on the point of Fryar's Island, a battery on Wood Island, and another battery on Clerk's Island would be very necessary.

The MASSACHUSETTS BAY has in it many Islands and among the rest Castle Island not far from Boston of great security to that harbour. In the said Island is a fort which Coll. Romer proposes to be repaired and enlarged; and for the better securing the passages and channels of the Bay, he further proposes some points of land to be provided with Batteries.

RHODE ISLAND being the most important place on the South West side of Cape Codd, is so situated as to be a very convenient harbour for shipping and of security to that part of the Country in case it were put in a state of defence, which it has never yet been, by the mean condition and refractoryness of the inhabitants.

In the province of NEW YORK there is a fort for the security of that city and harbour, which is in an indifferent good condition; from thence 140 miles up Hudson's River is the Town and fort of ALBANY and about 20 miles from thence on another river is a place called SCHIENECTADY, both which are of the greatest consequence towards the security of that Province and your Majesty's other plantations on the Continent.

In the ONONDAGE COUNTRY a sodd Fort is necessary towards securing the Five Nations of Indians in their allegiance to your Majesty; for which provision is already made by your Majesty's gift of £500, and a contribution of £1500 by the Assembly of New York.

The Provinces of EAST and WEST NEW JERSEY are without any forts or place of defence, and being Proprieties whose Governours are unqualified as not being approved by your Majesty, those governments are in great disorder, and nothing more can be proposed concerning them than that they should contribute to the defence of New Yorke.

The Province of PENNSYLVANIA is likewise without fortifications, nor are any desired by the Proprietor, which nevertheless might be requisite for the security of Delaware River.

Your Majesty's Provinces of MARYLAND and VIRGINIA are so situated that they are best secured by shipping and do not require any fortifications.

The Provinces of NORTH and SOUTH CAROLINA are under Proprietors who take upon themselves to provide for their own security.

Having laid before your Majesty this account of the Fortifications on the Continent, we humbly beg leave to add:—

That the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS BAY being a numerous and wealthy Colony enjoying great priviledges by Charter, ought to be required to repair erect and maintain at their own expence the fortifications in the forementioned places under that government, and most particularly the Fort at Pemaquid, the cheif-frontier of that Province towards the French and their Indians, which was well kept up whilst it remained under the immediate government of the Crown; the said forts being necessary for the security of the timber and fishery on that coast & to encourage the resettling the Province of Main and the more Eastern parts which have been destroyed and laid wast in the late war, by the mismanagement and neglect of the Massachuset Government.

That the said Province of the Massachuset's Bay ought also to be assisting to the Province of NEW HAMPSHIRE in their Fortifications.

That the Province of NEW YORKE being another frontier, exhausted by the extraordinary charge it was at for it's own defence during the late war, and the several fortifications there being of too great expence to be supported by that single Province Your Majesty has been graciously pleased to appoint £2000 towards the fortifying of Albany & Schenectady; and we hope upon the signification of your Majesty's royall pleasure to the other plantations, who are greatly concerned in the security of that frontier, they may be induced to contribute thereunto according to the proportion which we have stated as follows viz<sup>t</sup>

Rhode Island and Providence Plantation . . . . .	150 Pounds
Connecticut. . . . .	450.
East New Jersey. . . . .	250.
West New Jersey. . . . .	250.
Pennsylvania. . . . .	350.
Maryland. . . . .	650.
Virginia. . . . .	900

Making in all 3000 Pounds Sterl.

In this repartition we have omitted North and South Carolina as to any part of that charge, because of the duty incumbent on those Proprietors to maintain and defend that Province, which is likewise a frontier fit to be secured.

And in order to excite the several forementioned Plantations to contribute in their respective proportions to the charge of securing the frontiers of New Yorke, we herewith lay before your Majesty the draughts of letters relating to each of the said Plantations (as also to New England for the fortifying their own coast) in pursuance of your Majesty's commands signified to us by the Right Honbl<sup>e</sup> M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon.

All which nevertheless is most humbly submitted

Earl of Bellomont to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 241.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords.

Your Lordships will meet with the reason of this ship's stay till now, in my letter of the same date with this to the Lords of the Admiralty a copy whereof (is mark'd A.) A foot messenger arrived last night from Albany, and brought me the good news of a bargain made with the Sachems of the Mohack Indians, a copy whereof is (mark'd B.) in Dutch and in English is (mark'd C.) I send your Lordships a copy of M<sup>r</sup> Freeman's letter (mark'd D.) He is the Dutch Minister at Schenectady and a very good sort of man, and is one of them that witness the writing or covenant with the Mohacks for their woods. M<sup>r</sup> Schermerhoorn one of the undertakers is a very sensible man and has managed this bargain with the Mohacks very skillfully. The design was so privately carried between him & his partner and my self, that not a man of the Anti-Leisler party knew or dreamt of it, till it was actually concluded and the felling of the masts begun. For the articles, bond, and instructions to the Undertakers I drew with my own hand to keep the matter secret. I am satisfied had I employ'd Schuyler or any of his party to make the bargain with the Mohacks for their woods, they would not have done it without finding their account in it to the King's cost. And if they had had wind of my employing M<sup>r</sup> Schermerhoorn and Beekman, they would have spitefull enough to have puzzl'd the bargain all they could.

I have three very useful designs on the Carpet, which will be much for the King's Service, viz' the furnishing of Naval Stores from hence, wherein I doubt not of success in the whole, as in the article of masts, yards, and boltsprits, which is a part, (and for which there is demonstration by what the Undertakers for masts have already done) provided your Lordships give me that support and assistance which you have often promised in getting the Vacating Act approved by the King which I sent home, and sending new orders to me and the Assembly to break all the rest of Fletchers extravagant grants of land and some others made by former Governours. I do not desire new orders upon my own account, for I know the former are vallid, but to animate the Assembly.

My second design is to invite the Onagongues or Eastern Indians to come and settle at Schackhook in this Province, and to make a perpetual league & friendship between them and our five Nations; by which means I will strengthen our Indians and disappoint the French of those Eastern Indians who were as so many swords in their hands against us. For this purpose I make use of Coll: Schuyler's brother, who has an interest in our Schackhook or River Indians that are to be the instruments to prevail with those Eastern Indians to come and settle at Schackhook. What progress Capt. Schuyler has made in that matter your Lordships will learn from his letter to me, which I received last night and which is (mark'd E.)

My third design is to ingage the Dowaganhas Twictwiets Dienondades and all those numerous nations in a trade with us, which the French by their Missionaries have at present monopoliz'd; but I hope in a year's time to be able to give your Lordships a good account of those nations, if I may be allowed to use my own methods and that I be well supported by your Lordships. If I can bring things to bear according to my expectation and hopes, I fancie I may once within a year tell your Lordships you may set the French at defiance and laugh at all their projects to circumvent us, their new settlement at Mechisipi and Canada and Nova Scotia put together.

In order to this design the Beaver trade ought to be encouraged by the Parliament, all duties wholly taken of, both here and in England from Beaver and other peltry exported from this Province. Some French merchants lately come from England to live here, assure me that the French King to encourage the Beaver trade had ordered the Parliament of Paris to put forth (an Arrest as the French call it) an Act requiring all the hatters to mix a certain quantity of Beaver's furr in all their hats, under a severe penalty; which is a wise course, and I wish our Parliament would take such a course to help the consumption of Beaver which at present is grown almost out of use in England, since Carolina hats have been so much and Beaver hatts so little in fashion.

I am extremly importun'd to erect a Court of Chancery, many people being like to be ruin'd for want of one. I shall therefore very soon settle that Court tho' I should make no decrees till the arrival of the Judge and Attorney General. But at present I am much inconvenienced by the want of five Counsellors for under that number I cannot hold a Court of Chancery. The Council are now but seven: Coll. Schuyler never comes near us and lives a 150 miles off at Albany: M<sup>r</sup> Livingston lives there too, but comes pretty often hither when the season of the year permits; Coll. Smith comes as seldom as he can and lives 100 miles off; and M<sup>r</sup> Graham tho' but 8 miles off has not been here almost these five months. So that we have but three Members of the Council that I can be sure of attending, if the occasion were ever so important. I must therefore (since the Kings instruction allows me not to add to the number of seven Counsellors) suspend two of the present Council that will not attend and add M<sup>r</sup> Weaver who as Collector ought to be one, and M<sup>r</sup> William Lawrence of Newtown in Queen's County in Nassau Island an honest understanding man, to be the other. Mr Lawrence has a good estate and must be distinguished by the place of his dwelling from another of the same name and surname, who has not so good a character.

I am with much respect

My Lords

Your Lordships most humble

and most faithfull Serv<sup>t</sup>

May it please Your Excellency.

I have received your Excell<sup>ties</sup> letter of the 15th Nov<sup>r</sup> 1700. whereby I understand that your Excell<sup>ty</sup> was satisfied with what I had done to promote the Gospell among the Indians, I shall also use my utmost to intreat them to be firm in their allegiance to His Maj<sup>ty</sup> and for as much as appears to me they are good subjects to His Maj<sup>ty</sup> whereof they desire me to give your Excell<sup>ty</sup> an account—

Your Excell<sup>ty</sup> may remember that there are not above one hundred Maquasse in number, thirty six whereof have imbraced the Christian faith, ten whereof thro' the grace of God are brought over through my means for I found but twenty six— I shall do my utmost with the rest—

So wishing Your Excell<sup>ty</sup> a happy new year and continuation of your health recommending myself to your favour—I remain

Your Excell<sup>ties</sup> most obedient servant

[New-York Papers; Bundle P. Q. P 24.]

May it please Your Lordship

In obedience to your Lordship's letter of the 7th Nov<sup>r</sup> last I have indevoured since the receipt thereof to procure Indians from Shackhook to send messengers to the Onnagongwaes, but could not till now, being all have been a hunting till the 17th of December last, when I was informed that some of them were come home, I went thither on the next morning with seven hands of Wampum to desire some of the chiefest to my house to hear the proposals your Lord<sup>p</sup> orders me to lay before them, but finding none of their chief Sachems at home, I perswaded them to send for them and appointed the 3rd of this inst: for them to meet at my house, who accordingly came, and after I told them with seven hands of Wampum, that your Lord<sup>p</sup> desires three of them to go to the Onnogongwaes with a fine belt of Wampum and invite them to come and live here at Schackhook, and enter with them and the Five nations in the Covenant chain, and to assure them of the Kings protection and Your Lord<sup>p</sup>'s kindness so well in presents as others and to perswade the Onnogongwaes to send four or five of their chief Sachems hither to treat with your Lord<sup>p</sup> at New York on the first day of April next, to which they made answer that they were very glad to see their father striving with such care for to make them a great nation, and that instead of three men they resolved to send four. Gave 10 deer skins and desired five days time to appoint Indians with such necessaries as that journey requires; To morrow I expect the names of the Indians appointed, and therefore went to M<sup>r</sup> Mayor desiring him to stop the post till then, thinking to give your Lord<sup>p</sup> an account of them, which could not well be done, but by the next shall not fail in giving your Lord<sup>p</sup> an exact account of my further proceedings—

May it please your Lordship.

I am informed by two Frenchmen lately come from Canada (the one with his wife and family) that the Gov<sup>r</sup> there makes preparation against next summer to settle two forts upon Cadaraque river to take up such as run away from Canada towards Ottowawa without the Governours liberty.

As I am further informed there are severall French at the North end of the wood creek waiting for others which they expect from Canada upon the same design as the Frenchmen are who were by Your Lord<sup>p</sup> last fall at New York, of which here is still one at my house. There is also a considerable number of French Indians a hunting. If Your Lord<sup>p</sup> hath any commands to Canada or that way be pleased to order me who intends thither shortly. In case the season doth not permitt to stay for your Lord<sup>p</sup>'s commands, shall notwithstanding indeavour to inspect as well into the proceedings of their Indians as the French, in the mean time I shall take all opportunities to demonstrate myselfe with all obedience how much I am most humble and most obedient servant

Report of Colonel Romer on the Harbor of New-York.

[New-York Papers; Bundle P. Q.; P 12.]

[TRANSLATED FROM THE DUTCH.]

My Lord.

Pursuant to your Excellen<sup>cy</sup> verbal order of the 7th of December 1700, to measure the distance across the Narrows, and to sound the depth of the water there, as well as in a second arm of Hudson's river called the Coll, between Staten island and East Jersey, and to ascertain whether any ships and bombketches could come around by Amboy and consequently attack the city of N. York: item, to select a couple of places both at the Narrows and the Coll, where suitable fortifications could be erected, and the enemy thereby be forestalled in his undertakings, I on measuring the same, have found the distance between the heights (hoofden) to be one and  $\frac{1}{2}$  mile English in breadth from shore to shore.

In regard to the depth of water, I find across from Long Island to Staten island 4. 4. 4.  $4\frac{1}{2}$ : 6. 11. 12. 13. 12. 9. 6. 6. and 5 fathoms right under the shore of the aforesaid Staten island. By the second sounding from Staten Island to Long Island  $\frac{3}{4}$  of a mile farther south, where the river is narrowest, I find right under the shore, 5. 6. 12. 14 and 15 fathoms in the deepest part of the channel; this depth then falls off immediately to 6. 2 and  $1\frac{1}{2}$  fathom of water where there is a Bar (riff) +° which, with a point northerly towards N. York, runs into Long island and westerly  $\frac{1}{2}$  part across the Narrows, and S. S. E towards Sandy Hook runs past Long Island hook where it shoots around E and E by North (O en O by N.)

Now for the fortification of the Narrows, I am of opinion that there ought to be, both on Long, and Staten Island, a sufficient Battery with a good Redoubt on each height, enclosed with proper lines of defence communicating with the respective Batteries, and that each be furnished with 30 guns carrying 18 @ 24 lbs. ball.

In regard to the other branch of the Hudsons river, called the Coll, between Staten Island and East Jersey, I have sounded it from Amboy up to Tampuson point and Elizabeth town and find from Amboy to the abovenamed points S. 7. 6. 5. and 4 fathoms of water, it then becomes shallow with a very crooked Channel +° having no more than 11 @ 12 feet of water at spring tide, so that a ship can indeed come up as far as Tampuson's point aforesaid, but with difficulty, because the river runs narrow and crooked. In order, now, to hinder the approach of any vessel, I am of opinion that it can be effected by the erection of a battery on Schutter's island 12 @ 13 miles from New York; with this, it is impossible for any ship, sloop or boat to run up or down.

I consider myself bound particularly to submit to your Excell<sup>ty</sup> the great importance of Sandy Hook, and entertain that opinion, because reason and the Rules of War agree, that an enemy must always be kept as far off as can possibly be done, that a good blockhouse and other fortification ought to be erected on the aforesaid Hook, as they would be very useful there, the channel and entrance being very narrow, and vessels on that account must pass immediately under this Hook, whilst the East banks lie sheer by and over the Hook running up to the North and East, and it is therefore very dangerous. For these reasons a good Blockhouse and Fort of 50 guns might answer, and prevent any enemy coming by water into my bosom, and oblige him to stand out to sea on a dangerous coast.

Further and lastly, an enclosed battery of 12 @ 13 guns ought to be erected at the narrowest part of Hellgate, to prevent the entrance of an enemy at that point also.

All this being done, I am persuaded an enemy will bethink himself a hundred times before he will meditate any attack on New York.

The King to the Earl of Bellomont.

[New-York Entries, D. 87.]

To Our Right Trusty and Right Well-beloved Cousen Richard Earl of Bellomont our Captain General and Governour in Cheif of our Provinces of the Massachusets Bay, New Yorke & New Hampshire in America and of the Territoryes thereupon depending &c: or to the Commander in Cheif of our Province of New Yorke for the time being:—

Right Trusty and Right Well-beloved Cousen We greet you well. Whereas it is requisite that the general security of our plantations upon the Continent of America be provided for by a contribution in proportion to the respective abilities of each Plantation; and whereas the Northern frontiers of our Province of New Yorke, being the most exposed to an enemy, do require an extraordinary charge for the erecting and maintaining forts necessary for the defence thereof; We have been graciously pleased to give the summe of £500 sterling towards a fort in the Onondage Country and £200 sterling towards the rebuilding of the Forts at Albany and Schenectady; And have also by letters under our Sign Manual directed the Governours of divers of our Plantations to recommend to our Councils and the General Assemblies of our said Plantations that they respectively furnish a proportionable summe towards the fortifications on the Northern Frontiers of our said Province of New Yorke: Our further will and pleasure is that for the better promoting of so necessary a work you also signify to our Provinces of East and West New Jersey that the sums which we have at present thought fit to be contributed by them in proportion to what we have now in like manner directed to be supplied by our other Plantations as aforesaid, are £250 sterling each; and that you accordingly call upon them for the said summs for the use aforesaid.

And you are also in our name and upon the consideration of our Royall goodness and care as before expressed, instantly to recommend to our Council and the General Assembly of our Province of New Yorke that they exert the utmost of their power in providing without delay what further shall be requisite for the repairing erecting and maintaining of such forts in all parts of that Province as you and they shall agree upon.

You are likewise to signify to them for their further encouragement that besides the contributions to be made towards the raising and maintaining of forts and fortifications on that frontier, as above mentioned, we have also directed that in case the said frontier be at any time invaded by an enemy our neighbouring Colonies and Plantations upon that continent shall make good in men (or mony in lieu thereof) their quota of assistance according to the repartition herewith sent you; pursuant whereunto you are, as occasion requires, to call for the same. And in case of any invasion upon the neighbouring Plantations, you are to be aiding and assisting to them in the best manner you can.

And you are withall to signify to our said Council and the Generall Assembly of our Province of New Yorke that according to their behaviour on this occasion they will recommend themselves to our Royall Grace and favour. So We bid you heartily farewell. Given at our Court at Hampton Court the 19th day of January 170<sup>9</sup>. in the Twelfth year of Our reign.

WILLIAM R.

Right Trusty and Right Well beloved Cousen We greet you well. Whereas by our letters bearing date the 10th day of February  $\frac{1}{17} \frac{2}{20} \frac{2}{20}$ , we thought fit to give you several directions relating to the tryall of pyratts in our Province of New York, and whereas an Act of Parliament is since past for the more effectuall suppression of piracy, pursuant to which a Cómision under Our Great Seal of England has been also sent you, empowering you and others to proceed accordingly in reference to our said Province and to our Provinces of East and West Jersey and Connecticut, Our Will and Pleasure is that notwithstanding any thing contained in our foresaid letters of the 10th of February  $\frac{1}{17} \frac{2}{20} \frac{2}{20}$  you henceforward take care to govern your self in matters relating to pyrats according to the intent of the Act of Parliament & Cómmission aforementioned. But whereas Accessories in cases of piracy beyond the seas are by the said Act left to be tryed in England according to the statute of the Eight and Twentieth of King of Henry the 8th We do hereby further direct and require you to send all such Accessories in cases of Pyracry in our foresaid Provinces of New York, East and West New Jersey and Connecticut, with the proper evidences that you may have against them, into England, in order to their being tryed here. And you are to give notice of our pleasure herein to our Province of East and West New Jersey and to the Governor and Company of our Province of Connecticut, that they conform themselves thereunto. So we bid you heartily farewell Given at our Court at Kensington the 2<sup>d</sup> day of February 170<sup>o</sup>. in the Twelfth year of Our reign.

[New-York Entries, D. 120.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earl of Bellomont His Majesty's Captain General and Governour in Cheif of His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay, New Yorke and New Hampshire in America and of the Territories thereupon depending &c. Or to the Commander in Cheif of His Majesty's Province of New Yorke, for the time being.

My Lord.

In our letter of the 20th December last we acknowledged the receipt of those we had then from your Lordship, and not having since received any other, we shall now proceed to answer them more particularly.

We are sorry to observe what your Lordship continues to write about the heats that are between the differing parties in New Yorke, and as the reconciling of their minds and disposing them to an unanimous concurrence in whatever offers for His Majesty's service and the good of the Province is infinitely more desirable than the advancement of one party to the dissatisfaction of the other, we doubt not but your Lordship will accordingly always make that your aime, and we hope your prudence will in the end effect it.

In the meanwhile as you are pleased [to] say that you are not discouraged by the unreasonable opposition you have met with there; so we intreat you not to entertain any suspicions that your services are slighted here. For we, at least for our parts, have been always ready to do your Lordship all the good offices that lye in our power; as in particular, in relation to the Establishment of your salaries, we have represented the state thereof (as was proper for us to do) for His Majesty's consideration, and if the effect have not yet answered our wishes, your Lordship will undoubtedly have an account from your Agent of the obstructions he has found therein.

We have also recommended to the Lords of the Admiralty your accounts relating to the Timber, laden or intended to be laden in the ship Fortune; which is all we could do in that matter. But we are very sorry to understand that both that ship and lading have been cast away on the coast of Cornwall.

The miscarriage of this ship we suppose will make your Lordship very cautious in sending any thing hither of value, upon a publick account, without express order for it; and we hope you will extend that caution to the great masts that grow above Albany, concerning which we desired you by our letter of the 11th of April last, to try how they could be got down the great fall, and to compute at what rates they may be delivered on ship board at New Yorke; but did not give any directions for the sending of them home. And your Lordship will do well therefore not to engage too far therein, till farther order.

The pay of the soldiers being now so well established that they have their subsistence every fortnight and their clearings every two months; we doubt not but M<sup>r</sup> Champantè may remit it from time to time without putting your Lordship to the trouble and difficulties that you say you have found in drawing.

And as we were at first well satisfied with the Character that you gave us of him, so we still esteem him to be a diligent and prudent person, very capable of that employment; and besides as to the reason which inclines your Lordship to desire that the Agent should be a merchant that so the soldiers pay might be the more advantageously invested here in commodities and sent by sea, we do not think it of much weight, because the King for certain will not bear that risque, & however zealous your Lordship is for the publick service, having before us the fresh instance of the loss of the ship Fortune, we cannot be too tender of your private interest to encourage you to undertake that method upon your own hazard.

As to the augmentation of 4<sup>d</sup> p<sup>r</sup> day in the pay of 100 soldiers, which your Lordship desires may be allowed in order to the employing of them in the production of naval stores; there being an Establishment for all His Majesty's forces, pursuant and in proportion to what is allow'd by Parliament, we do not think fit to propose any alteration therein; believing your Lordship will be very well able to give them that or a greater encouragement by the method we offer'd in our letter of the 19th of September last; to which we refer you

And for the further encouragement of all the soldiers in New Yorke, His Majesty having been pleased upon our representation of the hardship that has lain upon them by the deduction of 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent out of their pay, to make a new establishment commencing the 25th of April last, pursuant whereunto the deduction is but 10 p<sup>r</sup> Cent. We send you here inclosed a copy of our said representation, and also of that Establishment.

As to the overplus that will arise upon this Establishment for the Contingent uses of the Companies, we suppose it will be as necessary for those uses, and may be employed therein, to as good purpose as any other way. And lest any farther directions should be wanting thereupon, We desire to know how that overplus and likewise how any summe that has arisen by dead pays, have hitherto been disposed of.

The Muster Rolls that you sent us have been delivered to the Agent, to be lodged by him in the proper offices.

What you write about the clamours of the recruits sent from England for their sea pay shall be laid before the King.

Major Ingoldsby has been with us & desired permission to stay longer in England in order to the stating his accounts with the Lord Ranelagh. We send you herewith the Copy of his memoriall, but have not found any thing for us to do upon it.

We were glad to understand by the close of your Lordship's letter of the 17th October last that the Eastern Indians had submitted to our Five Nations, and renounced their dependance on the Governour of Canada, and hope that by your continued prudence in managing all those Indians, that agreement will be improved to the advantage and security of all his Majesty's Plantations in those parts. But nevertheless the inclosed extract of a letter from Quebec of the 13th of October last which has been communicated to us, will shew your Lordship that the French had another notion of their interest amongst the Indians, particularly even amongst our Five Nations, at that very time. And it may be a new argument (if any were wanting) to keep your Lordship in a constant watchfulness upon all their proceedings.

We have perused the Conference you had with the Indians at Albany and do agree with your Lordship that the less such things are published to the world, the better; and that therefore it is not fit they should be printed, but rather transmitted to us (as this) in writing.

And having considered what we find therein and what you farther write about the allowing some French Coureurs de Bois (who lived amongst the remote Indians) a free passage thro' our Five Nations, in order to trade at Albany and to come & settle there; we think you ought to be very cautious in that matter, for it appears to us to be dangerous.

However the promoting a trade with the Dowaganhas and engaging them to come and settle in a friendly manner in the neighborhood of our Five Nations (which your Lordship also mentions in the same place) seems to be very desirable; tho' we are doubtfull by what you write of the 24th of October about the Dionondades falling upon some of our Indians that it will hardly be effected, and we are apt to suspect as you do that the Dowaganhaes themselves have not been sincere in their proposals about that matter, which still is a further ground for great caution in all transactions either with the French or the Indians that are influenced by them.

The desire of our Indians that boundaries may be settled between the French and them, seems very reasonable; but as we see little ground to expect that it will at present be done here, we can only recommend it to your Lordship that you take the best care you can to hinder the French from incroaching upon them.

What your Lordship writes of the ill condition of the stores, and more particularly of the beds sent from the Ordnance, has been laid before the King, and directions have been given for sending 100 good beds more, with sheets and coverings &c as you desire, as likewise 1000 felling axes for cutting of timber, as desired formerly, and also spades shovels and other utensils necessary for the building of forts. Of all which we have given notice to M<sup>r</sup> Champantè and doubt not but he will take care to send them when opportunity presents. The cloathing for the soldiers which you did not receive by the Advice Frigate, he tells us were sent about two months after by Cap<sup>t</sup> Mote, and we question not but he will have satisfied you in the reason of it.

Concerning the forts at Albany and Schenectady having laid before the King our opinion upon what you have writ and sent us about the necessity of their being put into a good state of defence, and about your want of a credit for drawing small sums at a time as may be necessary in order to begin the building or repairing of those forts; His Majesty has been pleased to order us to acquaint you that besides the £500 already given towards the Fort in the Onnondage country, the Treasury has directions to answer the bills you shall draw upon them from time to time, as those occasions require it, to the sum of £2000.

We are glad your Lordship has prevailed with the Assembly of New Yorke to repeal the Act for securing the Indians, which you did not like, and to give a tax in lieu of it; and as by that means we suppose sufficient provision is made for building the Fort in the Onondage country, so we hope you will take care it be put into such a condition that it may resist our enemy in case of a war, and not be in danger of falling into their hands.

On the 10th of last month we laid before His Majesty a representation relating to the state of the Forts and fortifications on the Continent of America and we send you here inclosed a copy thereof as likewise of our letter to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon on the same subject. You will by them perceive what we offer'd in relation to all your Governments, and more particularly in order to the farther defence and security of New Yorke, and His Majesty having thereupon been pleased to approve and signe the letters that we had prepared for yourself with respect to your several governments, and for the respective Governours or governments of Rhode Island, Connecticut Pennsylvania Maryland and Virginia, we send you here inclosed all His Majesty's said letters, and because they are sealed we send you likewise copys of those which are not for your self, that in sending them forwards you may better know what to write along with each of them.

With these we also send you another letter from His Majesty relating to the preservation of timber in the Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay and New Hampshire, which His Majesty was pleased to direct us to draw in pursuance of our representation on that subject; whereof we sent you a copy in our letter of the 30th of October last. And as your Lordship does complain of M<sup>r</sup> Partridge Lieutenant Governour of New Hampshire as a Cheif promoter of an undue timber trade from thence, and we have formerly given you our opinion that it is not fit for any Govern<sup>r</sup> of His Majesty's Plantations should be an ordinary trading merchant in any kinde whatsoever, we desire you to propose to us some other fit person to be put in his place; after which we will represent farther to His Majesty upon those matters as shall be necessary.

As to the £500 which is desired by our foresaid to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon might be advanced & remitted to your Lordship immediately in part of the £2000 aforementioned; we send you here inclosed an extract of his letter to us of the 21st of the last month, which shows you that His Majesty has agreed to it and given directions to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury accordingly; so that this matter lying now wholly before them, and M<sup>r</sup> Champantè having accordingly applyed himself to them about it, we refer your Lordships to him for farther information.

By our forementioned representation concerning Forts &c you will perceive that we have had all Coll: Romer's memorialls draughts and plans, together with what your Lordship has writ us upon that subject, under consideration. And as his draughts of the Rivers upon the Eastern coast of New England seem to be very exact and more particular than any we have seen of those parts; we desire he may be further directed to joyn them together and so make one continued draught of that whole coast from Sth Croix to Cape Cod, and that your Lordship would send us a copy thereof.

We much wish also that your Lordship could procure a good map to be drawn of all the Indian Countrys in the neighbourhood of His Majesty's Plantations; marking the names of the several Nations (as they call themselves and are called by the English and French) and the places where they inhabit; and that you would send us such an one for our better light into matters relating to those Indians.

And as your Lordship has now travell'd thro' many places in or near your governments and we cannot doubt you have made observations upon the nature state and condition of those places which might be usefull to us upon many occasions, we desire you would communicate the same to us in some separate letter as you find leizure from the ordinary course of your business.

We have also laid before His Majesty a representation relating to the forts and fortifications in His Majesty's Islands, and by reason of the imperfect memorials that we have from all parts, having therein set forth the necessity that all His Majesty's governours as well upon the Continent as in those Islands should be required to transmit hither a perfect account of the state of defence of each plantation under their government respectively; His Majesty has been pleased to direct us to require the same; and we accordingly desire your Lordship to take notice of it, with respect to the plantations whose militia is under your inspection, as well as those that are more immediately under your government.

In representing the necessity of building or repairing forts in New Yorke, your Lordship again mentions Coll: Fletchers debt, and says, that the service is too pressing to stay till he may be compelled by law to refund &c You see by what we have writ already, that other care is taken about those forts. However as to Coll: Fletcher's debt it were well that matter were determined, and since you cannot proceed against him there, you will do well to furnish the Lords of the Treasury with proofs and evidences in order to his prosecution here.

We observe what you write about the encrease of the revenue, and are very well satisfied with your care therein.

If you can get any farther light (as you say you expected) into the method of paying the bottoms of ships with brimstone, we still desire to have an account thereof.

As for the want of a Court of Chancery, we think the difficulties you find in holding one, ought to be no stop to the proceedings there; the rather because great complaints have been brought hither of such stops in other colonies, and it is still uncertain when the Attorney and Solicitor, intended for New Yorke, will be dispatched.

We have acquainted the Lord Bishop of London with your having suspended M<sup>r</sup> Smith the Chaplain to the Soldiers, and with the account you give us of his character

We are very sensible of what you write about the advantages that might be made by having some Ministers sent to live amongst our Indians, and we think it would much promote those advantages if such ministers had (besides other qualifications) a little skill also in physick and chirurgery. The French Missionaries have insinuated themselves and strengthened their interest amongst the Indians by those means, and we ought not to neglect them. But the getting of a maintenance for such Ministers is the difficulty. We are doing what we can here with the Corporation for evangelizing Indians, and we wish your Lordship could find a way to make some use of what Sir William Ashurst has proposed to you from them, untill better can be obtained.

We are now about preparing a report upon the Act for vacating extravagant Grants of Land, in which your Lordships reasons for vacating those Grants shall be offered to His Majesty. We intend also shortly to lay before His Majesty the New England address about Harvard Colledge &c with a representation upon that subject. As to the reference that lyes before us, upon the desire of some Inhabitants of New Yorke, that the government of that Province should not be in the same hands with the government of the Massachusetts Bay; we have not yet done any thing therein, and your Lordship may be assured we shall weigh maturely what you have writ us on that subject, and be very carefull before we report upon it.

We writ you formerly about sending the Acts of Generall Assemblies, which concern private persons, under distinct Seals without fastning them to those that are of a publick import; and we now add that we think there would be a conveniency in sending all publick Acts also, in the same manner, each of them under separate Seal; provided still that they be either writ or printed in such a form that they may conveniently be bound up in volumes as there shall be occasion. Which method we desire therefore may be observed in all your governments.

The commissions for trying of Pirates in his Majesty's Plantations pursuant to the late Act of Parliament for the more effectual suppression of Piracy having been brought to us the 24th of the last month, we did on the 27th commit those which concern your Lordship as Governour of New Yorke & of New England to the care of M<sup>r</sup> Champantè and have understood from him that the Commission for New England was sent by M<sup>r</sup> William Rous, Master of the ship Andrew and Samuel, who parted from hence the next day: and in farther reference to both those Commissions we now here send you inclosed His Majesty's letters relating to Accessories in cases of piracy beyond the seas who are not to be tryed by the said Commissions.

Upon considering the length of many of your Lordships letters and also of some of our answers occasioned by the mixture of business of different kinds, we offer it to your thoughts whether it would not be an ease and conveniency both to you and us, to divide different matters a little more into different letters, that so distinct answers may be returned to each of them without staying till one answer can be given to the whole. We are

[New-York Entries, D. 270.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Comissioners for Trade & Plantations

My Lords.

I send this day by a ship bound for Holland, but is to touch at some port in England. I am not satisfied how far Aliens made Denizens in England are qualified to be admitted owners and masters of ships by the Register here, but having the advice and consent of the Council therein, I do at present permit them, untill I have your Lordships pleasure, and therefore I desire your direction in those queries. 1st Whether Denizens made in England are qualified to be admitted owners and masters of ships by the Register here. 2<sup>d</sup> query, Whether if they are qualified, what proof of denization shall be accounted sufficient to us here, whether a certificate thereof from a publique Notary in London, or what other. 3<sup>d</sup> query, Whether Scotchmen are qualified to be owners & masters of ships. I desire your Lordships will be speedy in your answer, because it is of great consequence to the trade of this place.

Here hath been a villanous design to imbezle the books accounts and papers of His Majesty's revenue. Coll. Cortland late Commissioner of the Revenue dyed 25th November last, having the books accounts and papers of the Revenue in his custody at his decease. On the arrival of Mr Weaver on the 30th of December last with the King's letters patent he being admitted and sworn Collector and Receiver of the Revenue, could not find any of the books accounts and papers in the publique Office; he often demanded them from the Executrix and son of Coll: Cortland but could not procure them, so that he applied to my self and the Council on the 27th January last, and produced a warrant from the Commissioners for stating the publick accounts of the Province appointed by Act of Generall Assembly, directed to him and commanding him to lay the publique Accounts of the Revenue before them. Whereupon we made an order as by the minute thereof herewith sent (N<sup>o</sup> 1) On the 30th of January the Cortlands (delaying to get their Accounts ready) excused themselves as by the said Minute of Council appears. On the 11th of February they produced to my self and the Council some extracts of the publique accounts, very imperfect and not originals, but did not produce any of the Books of the Revenue. Thereupon myself and the Council finding that they purposely delayed the time that they might continue on to receive the publick Revenue as they had done from the death of Coll. Cortland, and fearing that if we were not very cautious in managing them they would wholly suppress and imbezle the King's books, We on the 15th of February made an order that the members of the Council should audit the said Accounts on the 15th following; on which day several memorials from the Commissioners for stating the Publick Accounts and from Mr Weaver the Collector being given in, wee have proceeded according to the Minute of Council of the 15th of February herewith sent (N<sup>o</sup> 2) wherein your Lordships will perceive what mischievous designs and practises have been in relation to his Majesty's Revenue and what just grounds we had to proceed in the method we did; which hath been successful, for thereby we have seized most of the books of the publick Revenue which they positively refused to deliver to the gentlemen of the Council who demanded them, and have likewise seized many recognizances given for the payment of Excise, by virtue of which the widow of Cortland demanded and received several sums of that part of the Revenue since her husband's death, and it will cost us some difficulty to discover how much. But we have a deposition of one sum which is transmitted in the said minute of Council.

The Gentlemen of the Council at first view of the extracts found one article of £95. for which the King had no credit given him and without question there are several others; which was so great an alarm to the Cortlands that had we not luckily seized the books that night we have reason to believe they would never have been found or produced. Now the books &c are in our Custody they shall forthwith be delivered to the Commissioners of the Publick Accounts who (as they express in their memorial) without them were at a full stop and could not proceed in the Trust reposed in them by the Act of Generall Assembly, and likewise the Collector may repair to them and peruse them, without which he would be altogether in the dark where to demand any arrears of taxes, Quit rents or other branches of the revenue. And indeed I am apt to believe it was what the faction reckoned a master-piece and depended upon it to put all the Government here into confusion, by advising the widow Cortland to detain the publick Books. Coll: Bayard being her brother in law and Mr Nichols her nephew her chief counsellors, both which were removed from the Council by me at my first coming to the government, for reasons which your Lordships have thought sufficient to confirm their removal, and both which have extravagant grants of land (as I have in former letters mentioned) which they with several others fear I shall, for his Majesty's service, get broke by the next Assembly, if the former Act for vacating Extravagant Grants of Lands, pass the King's approbation, which I hope to have an account of in Lordships next packets to me, I shall only observe further that I am of the same opinion with the Collector who in his memoriall doth beleive that the Cortlands were encouraged to these practises to the prejudice of his Majesty's revenue by reason there is no Court of Exchequer in this Province to call them to an account, nor untill your Lordships are pleased to send us an able Cheif Justice and Attorney General can we prosecute or proceed against them, which consideration will I hope dispose your Lordships to hasten them over to us.

On the 27th day of January I swore Mr Weaver one of His Majesty's Council in the place of Mr Graham<sup>1</sup> who dyed some days before; and I desire your Lordships approbation of him that he may be confirmed by his Majesty. I am with respect

<sup>1</sup> JAMES GRAHAM was a native of Scotland, and is found a resident merchant of the city of New-York as early as July, 1678: Book of Deeds, V., 304, and a few years later, proprietor of lands in Ulster county, Staten Island, and in New Jersey. He succeeded Mr. Rudyard as Attorney-General of the Province of New-York on 10th of December, 1685, and was sworn of the Council on the 8th of October, 1687: New-York Council Minutes, V., 142, 207. When the government of New England and New-York were consolidated by James II., Mr. G. removed to Boston as Attorney-General to Andros, the odium of whose government he shared, and on whose downfall he was committed to the castle: Revolution in New England Justified; Byfield's Account of the late Revolution in New England, in Force's Tracts, IV.; Hutchinson, I., 354, 388. He returned to New-York in 1691, where his enemies assert that he insinuated himself into the confidence of Leisler and his friends, so as to procure their interest to be chosen member of the Assembly, of which he was afterwards elected Speaker. He became, soon after, the mortal enemy of Leisler and Milborne, of whose murder he is charged, by his adversaries, with being "the principal author:" Dunlap's History of New-York, I., 207; II., xlvii., xlviii. Thomas Newton, Sloughter's Attorney-General, having left the Province in April, 1691, disapproving, probably, of the harsh measures of the government towards the state prisoners, George Farewell was appointed to act in his place; but this appointment not being satisfactory to the Assembly, Mr. Graham became again Attorney-General in the following May: Assembly Journal, I., 8, 11, 12; Council Minutes, VI., 29. He was about nine years Speaker of the Assembly, i. e., from 1691-1694; 1695-1698, and a part of 1699, when the friends of Leisler being in a majority, the House voted a Bill of Indictment, in the shape of a Remonstrance, against their opponents, and had the cruelty to expect their Speaker to sign it. To enable him to avoid this unpleasant duty, Mr. Graham was called to the Council in May, 1699. His public career may be said to have now closed. He appears to have attended the Council for the last time, on the 29th July, 1700. He was superseded in October, of that year, as Recorder of the city of New-York, after having filled that office from 1683, with an interruption of only two years, and was deprived of his office of Attorney-General on the 21st January, 1701: Council Minutes, VIII., 160, 179, 192, but a few days before his death, which occurred at his residence at Morrisania. His will bears date 12th January, 170<sup>9</sup>; and is on record in the Surrogate's office, New-York: Lib. II., 95. He left all his property, sharp and share alike, to his children, Augustine (Surveyor-General of the Province), Isabella (wife of Lewis Morris, Esq.), Mary, Sarah, Margaret and John. The other members of the family consisted, in 1698, of one overseer, two white servants and thirty-three slaves: New-York Colonial MSS., XLII. — Eo.

Colonel Nicholas Bayard to Sir Philip Meadows.

My fear of being troublesome has occasioned my delay before now to return my due acknowledgment for your Honours kind & favourable reception and advice at my taking leave from your Honour now near two years past. But since it has pleased God to call to himself our late Governour the Earl of Bellomont who departed this life the 5th instant, I hope your Honour will pardon this my freedom of giving you this speedy account thereof, and withall to acquaint your Honour that the breaches and divisions within this Province are still continuing very hot, since it has been the Earl's pleasure to use no steps to quench the same. For till the day of his death most of the meanest and those of Dutch extractions have been put in all the offices and places of trust and power; by which means most of the principal and peaceable inhabitants and especially those of the English nation have been opprest. I dare not trouble your Honour with the particulars for it would require a volumn to do it, yet cannot but remind your Honour of the fears I then had, because a packt Assembly had been forced upon the Province by all the unfaire means and contrivances imaginable; nothing could be expected from them but trouble vexation and ruin, for those that were mark't out by them for destruction; And that several extravagant acts would be past to raise vast summs of money to pay the debts of Leislers usurpation and disorders in this Province &c Whereupon your Honour was favourably pleased to give me that comfort and hopes, tho' any such Acts were past, they should not so easily meet with the Royall Assent.

But so it is, may it please your Honour that since that time a most false and most malicious remonstrance, has been framed and presented by them to the late Earl, in which they prayed amongst other strange matters, for an allowance of £2700 to the family of Leisler &c tho' not a farthing was due to him (he being a broken merchant when he began the disorders, & now his family is crept into a very considerable estate. Yet by the intercession at home that has been made thereupon, those falsehoods have met with such success that now at the very instant of the Earl's decease a Committee of that Assembly was sitting, who called in, by Proclamation, all those mean people that had served Leisler in said disorders, to bring their claymes and losses in; which is done at extravagant rates (as to an old gun and sword seized of them by Governour Slaughter in their very act of Rebellion against his Majesty's commission, after publication within this Province, passes in value the sume of forty pounds &c) in order to pass an act at the next session of Assembly to pay the same; and on the contrary those that have been robb'd, plunder'd, and most barbarously opprest by them, because they have been instrumental in supporting his Majesty's government against those disorders and had advanced their estates & hazarded their lives in the late warr against the French for his Majesty's service, and preservation of this Province, I say those must not only sitt down by their losses, but be scandalized with vile and false names of being Jacobites &c. I must therefore pray your Honour's goodness to afford your favorable assistance and advice as occasion shall offer, in opposing of those their extravagancies, if so be they presume to pursue the same; and particularly that the vacancy in the government may be supplied by a worthy person of honour probity and justice; by whose sedate and peaceable temper and disposition our breaches and divisions may be healed.

I further make bold to inclose a list of the present Council and of some names of the principal free-holders and inhabitants who in my humble opinion and with due submission may prove to be most fitting to serve in that trust. I beg your Honour's pardon for this my freedom, and as in duty bound shall ever remain

[New-York Entries, D. 256.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

May it please Your Lordships.

The Earl of Bellomont dyed the 5th Instant to our unspeakable greif and loss, and the Lieutenant Governour, with his Lordship's leave, being absent at Barbados about extraordinary occasions, the administration of the government is at present in us. We immediately apply'd to the preservation of his Majesty's peace and published a proclamation continuing all officers in their stations until further order, and sent expresses away for the other three Counsellors, who dwell seventy, and a hundred & fifty miles distant from New York, to come and assist in the Government; but they are not yet arrived. We wrote one letter to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon, which we sent away in a boat after a ship that had just sail'd out of the harbour and gave us no time then to write to your Lordships, which we desired the favour that he would communicate to your Lordships: but it could not overtake the ship, but was return'd to us.

The greatest difficulties this Province now is under (after the death of our most excellent Governour) are the forces in pay; for whom there is no subsistence but what we are forced to advance weekly by private credit, and on the omission of one week they would all disperse and desert the garrisons; and altho' we have no publick fund, yet we hope to subsist them for this month, and by that time the Assembly of this Province are to meet according to their adjournment, & there is an absolute necessity that notwithstanding the Earl's death they should then meet and act in this particular, or the Province be in great danger to be lost to the French, if a war should suddenly breake out. We therefore humbly pray your Lordships favour with the Lords of the Treasury so to recommend M<sup>r</sup> Champante (the late Earl of Bellomonts Attorney) for the pay of the forces here, that he may be continued still in that employ, being a person we are very well satisfied with, and his Majesty may confide in, and that he may have commands to remit by bills to this government for what subsistence and pay he shall receive out of the Treasury from the death of the Earl. We shall endeavour with the assistance of the Assembly to find credit to support and keep the forces together untill such orders shall be given by the Lords of the Treasury to M<sup>r</sup> Champante who is our Agent and whom we have directed to attend your Lordships pleasures therein, as likewise to attend their Lordships of the Treasury.

We have information that his Majesty hath been pleased to appoint a Cheif Judge and Attorney General for this Province with large salaries. We do therefore humbly offer to your Lordships that during the whole war this Colony hath been the frontiers against the enemy and at much more charge than any other English Colony and the constant charge of the Government doth far exceed the Revenue; so that it is always behind hand, and is at present in debt some thousands of pounds, and should their salaries be paid out of the Revenue here they alone would swallow up near a fourth part of it; so that altho' the King's Revenue and the publick affairs of this Province are very much injured for want of assistance, yet we must humbly request your Lordships favour on the afore considerations so to represent the matter to his Majesty and the Lords of the Treasury that the Cheif Judge and Attorney General may have their Salaries paid out of the Treasury in England untill the Revenue of this Province is in better capacity to support them.

We have not yet had time to inspect the Earl of Bellomont's papers relating to this government and therefore can give no particular answer to what letters or orders your Lordships may have sent him, but when we are apprised of them, we shall give them all due observance, as we shall pursue what other instructions your Lordships shall please to send us during the Lieutenant Governour's absence which we hope will not be above two months.

We shall do our best endeavours to preserve the peace of the Province and faithfully to discharge our trusts to his Majesty, whilst the administration of the government is in us, who are with the greatest respects

and most humble servants

P. S. We send your Lordships inclosed copys of all minutes of Council since the Earl of Bellomont's death,<sup>1</sup> and these packets, by way of Boston, because no ship is suddenly bound hence for England.

<sup>1</sup> RICHARD, first Earl of Bellomont and second Baron of Coloony, in the county of Sligo, was born in the year 1636. His grandfather, Sir Charles Coote, was "a soldier of fortune, trained in the wars of Elizabeth," and distinguished himself by his ferocity in Ireland in the reign of Charles I. Richard Coote, the Earl of Bellomont's father, was the third son of Sir Charles, and brother of the Earl of Mountrath; and having co-operated in bringing about the Restoration, was, in 1660, created Baron of Coloony. He died on the 16th of July, 1683, and was succeeded in his title and estates, by his son Richard, who went over to the Continent after the accession of James II., and was one of the first to espouse the interest of the Prince of Orange. The fact of his absenteeism did not escape the notice of the King, who, on the 22d of November, 1687, issued an order for his immediate return to the Kingdom, on pain of proscription. Lord Coloony immediately returned, and, in 1688, became member of parliament for Droiteorick in Woreestershire. In March, 1689, he received the appointment of Treasurer and Receiver-General to Queen Mary, consort of William III., whereupon the parliament held at Dublin by James II. pronounced an attainder against him. The displeasure of the fallen monarch, however, only served to secure the favor of William and Mary, and, on the 2d November, 1689, he was advanced to the dignity of Earl of Bellomont. He married in 1660, Catharine, daughter and heiress of John Nanfan, Esq., of Birch Morton, in the county of Worcester, and had issue two sons, Nanfan and Richard, who successively inherited their father's title. The Earl of Bellomont was interred with becoming honors in the chapel of the fort at the Battery; but afterwards, when the fort was taken down and the Battery leveled, in 1790, the leaden coffin was removed and finally deposited in St. Paul's Church-yard, N. Y. The Countess of Bellomont, soon after the Earl's decease, returned to Ireland, and died at the family seat in the county of Sligo, 12th March, 1728, in the 90th year of her age. Lords of Trade to the Earl of Bellomont.

My Lord.

This letter will be delivered to your Lordship by Mr Atwood, who together with Mr Broughton come to acquaint us that they are just upon their departure for New York. We have not leisure upon so short warning to enlarge, but are preparing an answer to your Lordships letters dated in November and January last with what speed we can. In the mean while, upon the occasion of their dispatch we heartily wish your Lordship all the satisfaction you have promis'd to your self in their assistance; and are, My Lord

Your Lordships most humble serv<sup>ts</sup>

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Bellomont.

[New-York Entries, D. 252.]

To the Right Honourable the Earle of Bellomont His Majesty's Cap<sup>t</sup> General and Governour in Cheif of his Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay, New Yorke and New Hampshire in America and of the Territories thereupon depending &c. Or to the Commander in Cheif of his Majesty's Province of New York for the time being.

My Lord.

The letters we have received from your Lordship since ours of the 11th of February, are dated the 25th of November and the 2<sup>d</sup> and 16th of January last, besides which our Secretary has also laid before us some extracts of what you have writ to him, together with the papers you sent him at the same time.

As to the difficultie which your Lordship continues to say there will be in the experiment of making pitch and tar with the soldiers that are now at New Yorke for want of an extraordinary allowance of 4<sup>d</sup> Sterling p<sup>r</sup> day for their encouragement, we can not but think we have several times already sufficiently intimated that tho' it be not seasonable at present to propose any such establishment here, yet it is in your Lordship's power to recompense them as may be necessary out of the produce of their own labour. Or if that also will not help in the first beginning, yet we conceive your Lordship may supply that defect, and facilitate the work by what the Assembly may give either for that or any other service wherein the soldiers are employ'd and the Province receives advantage; so that we do not see but notwithstanding this difficultie, the tryall desired may very well be made.

And as to the other objection which your Lordship some times makes as if nothing at all could be done towards the production of Naval stores till the Act for vacating Extravagant Grants of land be confirmed and other such like grants vacated in the same manner; we cannot suppose it of such moment as to hinder an experiment. For whatever be determined about those grants hereafter, there is no fear of danger from cutting down such trees as shall be necessary for his Majesty's service, so long as they stand revoked. And besides also trees are so plentiful in that country that tho' a sufficient number for a tryal should even be purchased on the lands of private persons, the cost of them would not be so considerable as to discourage the attempt; or however, what they should cost might be computed; and a judgment then made whether the design, in the manner your Lordship has proposed it, be fit to be engaged in or not.

As to that Act we have several times had it under consideration in order to report our opinion upon it; but we meet with difficulties, & especially the want of exact copies of all the Grants thereby vacated, is a great obstacle to our determination. For it would be very irregular for us to give any judgment upon the right of private persons without examining each of their particular titles. For which reason we desire your Lordship to send us copies of all those grants, with what speed you can.

And as for the bills and petitions which you say were offer'd to you for the better enquiring into the titles of land, upon which occasion (as in many others) you complain of the want of a Judge and Attorney Generall from hence; those gentlemen being now upon their voyage, we hope you will shortly be inabled by their assistance to overcome the difficulties which obstructed your proceedings. And we desire you from time to time to give us an account of the ill practices that you discover and the mischeifs arising from thence, in relation to this whole matter of grants and titles.

We have sent extracts of all that you write in these letters, relating to the masts you have provided, to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Vernon; in order to his Majesty's pleasure thereupon, both about the payment of their cost and about the sending for them. It is from the Lords of the Admiralty that you ought to expect directions in all matters of this nature; but as you write to us also, we do not omit to promote what we understand to be necessary in such methods as are proper for us

We heartily wish those masts (whenever they shall arrive) may answer expectation, but in the mean while we must observe to you that in the comparison you make between their cost and the terms of M<sup>r</sup> Taylor's contract there is a considerable mistake. For his price is for masts of such dimensions delivered here, but yours only of the cost there: which makes a vast difference. And besides also his conditions were to deliver such masts without any the least flaw, & upon very small flaws found in some of them they have been turned upon his hands, which is a hazard we fear your Lordship cannot be well secured against by any inspection at New Yorke. And for these reasons we again advise you to be very cautious in bargains of this nature, or rather wholly to forbear any such till you have positive directions.

As for masts, timber, &c to be had in New Hampshire, in order whereunto your Lordship conceives the trade from thence to Spain and Portugal ought to be prohibited, having had occasion to lay some matters before the House of Commons, we have offered that amongst other things to their consideration. And as for Mr Partridge in particular we refer you to what we write you the 11th of February last, unto which we shall expect your answer.

The appeal that your Lordship had heard was refused in New Hampshire has occasioned a petition to his Majesty, which is now under our consideration.

We hear nothing yet of that Appeal you mention to have been refused in the Massachusetts Bay; but this declining to admit appeals to His Majesty in Council is a matter that you ought very carefully to watch against in all your governments. It is a humour that prevails so much in Proprieties & Charter Colonies and the independency they thirst after is now so notorious, that it has been thought fit those considerations together with other objections against those Colonies should be laid before the Parliament, & a Bill has thereupon been brought into the House of Lords for resuming the right of government in those Colonies to the Crown.

Your Lordship's proposal for increasing the number of Officers in the troops at New Yorke does undoubtedly tend to the making those troops more usefull upon any occasion; but it would be expensive; and the Parliament having yet given but £300000. for all services of that nature, the present Establishment is calculated on that foot, and cannot therefore now be altered. If the Parliament shall hereafter inable the King to bear a greater charge, we shall be mindfull of what you write on that head.

The settling of the Boundaries between New York and the Jerseys is a matter which your Lordship must necessarily first inquire into and give us an account of the pretensions on both sides; and what you conceive to be the state of the case, before we can lay it before the King. We desire you therefore to do so; and we shall afterwards represent what may be necessary.

We agree with your Lordship that your residing some considerable time at Albany would be a means to stifle the factions that you apprehend to be there and to influence our Indians in any thing that may be necessary for the security of those frontiers against the French. But when you mention that thought we know you are sensible at the same time of the more pressing necessity of your presence some times in New Yorke and some times in Boston. And we can give no directions therein but that you reside in one or other place according to the importancy & urgency of the occasions that offer.

This difficulty is one of the strongest reasons offered by some New York merchants why that government should not be in the hands of the same person who has the government of the Massachusetts Bay. But we have answered their objections (in a report to the House of Commons) by shewing that your Lordship did not remain long absent, but returned to New York in a short time after their petitioning in that manner, & that you have resided there ever since. And as any thing else arises that may give a colour to their pursuing the same design, it behooves you to obviate it as much as possible. Of which kinde we observe the allowance of your travelling charges from Boston by the Council of New Yorke, tho' the Massachusetts government ought to bear their share thereof.

We do not think the inhabitants of that colony will be very forward in sending any petitions or addresses hither to complain of your absence from thence; if they can manage their own affairs without controul and make use of your absence as a reason to with-hold the present which they could not otherwise well refuse to make you, they will be very easy. But you say that for the obtaining of that Present having no other fixed allowance for that government you shall be obliged to return thither in the spring. That will again revive the clamours at New Yorke. But how to remove these difficulties on all sides is no easy matter.

We are sensible of the reason your Lordship has to complain of the want of a fixed establishment, and we have therefore represented your case in that respect as was fit for us to do; and are further endeavouring that salaries to Governours may be fixed to prevent the inconvenience and clamour of Presents.

We observe what your Lordship writes of the hardships the Indians lye under in the Province of Massachusetts Bay, and of the aversness of the General Assembly there to establish such laws as might tend to their relief; but we hope your continued endeavours will in the end dispose them to protect and encourage the Indians in all their just demands.

We have considered your observations upon the trade of those parts under your government, and are well pleased to see your thoughts turned that way. Your Lordship is thereby best able to judge what encouragement is fit to be given to any new undertakings and in which place each new design may be best promoted. But when all is done, tis the success that people may find in those experiments that only can effectually engage them to continue in such attempts. If the Narraganset Country be found proper for mulberry trees and silkworms it will be very well; those that have a mind to apply themselves to the production of silk there may take information for their conduct from what has been done in Carolina where that project has already been some years on foot. The French you speak of will easily judge or in a short time finde, whether that country or New York or any other place in those parts be proper for the production of wines. The making of salt in New England would undoubtedly be of great use & it ought more particularly to be encouraged as much as possible. We desire to know what effect has been found of the Act for a [priviledge of making salt there. The advantage of a Fishery wheresoever the seas and coasts are proper for it (as in the Eastern parts of New England) are so very great that it deserves the utmost incouragement, and your Lordships thoughts can hardly be more usefully employed than in contriving ways to put the people upon it. If you judge that lessening of the customes on Beaver would help in any good degree to advance that trade, a tryall may be made by taking off those duties at New Yorke (for a change in the Customs here will be difficult.) But then also care must be taken that an equivalent be laid thereupon some thing else.

We are glad your Lordship finds the Madagascar trade and piracy to be at a stand. We hope the commissions for trying of pyrates lately sent to all the Plantations will tend effectually to their extirpation, and the proclamation of the 6th of March last, which we send you here inclosed will also have a good effect. However a constant watchfulness against piracy and all manner of illegal trade will be always necessary. As to piracy we send you likewise here inclosed the Copy of his Majesty's letter to you of the 14th Instant sent by M<sup>r</sup> Larkin, one versed in the forms of Admiralty Courts and appointed by His Majesty to carry duplicates of those Commissions to all places where they are to be executed; who goes first to Newfoundland and will from thence take his passage to New England and so forwards through all the Plantations in order to the settling of those forms according to the instructions that have been given him for that purpose.

Upon consideration of what you write to us and also to the Lords of the Treasury relating to M<sup>r</sup> Weavers accounts and salary, tho' we can give no directions in those matters but must refer you to what the Lords of the Treasury shall themselves order thereupon; we send you however here inclosed the copy of what we ordered our Secretary to write to M<sup>r</sup> Lowndes, which will shew you our care, so far as it is fit for us to intermeddle, and withall our opinion that M<sup>r</sup> Weaver ought not to have any salary till he entred upon the execution of his place.

As for your intentions to bring him into the Council of New Yorke in case he stay there, we only observe that his place of Collector and Receiver does not make that necessary. But if your Lordship judge him a fit person, we must leave it to your discretion, till we receive a full account of the reasons for which you put others out, and of their answers to those reasons, together with the particular grounds of your choice of him and those persons you shall put in, that we may lay the whole matter before His Majesty for his confirmation. And to this end we desire you (as directed by your instructions) to send us frequently lists of the names and characters of six persons whom you judge best qualified to serve His Majesty as Counsellors in that Province, altering the same from time to time as you find cause, and accompanying it also with a list of the Counsellors then in place; that so the Council there may be regularly filled up to a competent number, and not left so uncertain as it has been.

What your Lordship mentions in your letter to the Lords of the Treasury relating to the prejudice done to the Crown by the grants of vast tracts of Land in New Yorke, which were made by Coll. Fletcher and other Governours, has been upon severall occasions not only represented to His Majesty but also laid before the Parliament, and shall be further considered and represented as you shall enable us to come to a more determined resolution upon the Vacating Act before mentioned

As to M<sup>r</sup> Allen's Claim to the Province of New Hampshire (mentioned also in the same letter) that is a point of law which has been formerly under the consideration of two Chief Justices of England; and a report having been made thereon, we cannot meddle in it. But the forementioned appeal which is desired by him from a late sentence of the Superior Court of New Hampshire, will probably bring that matter again under consideration and occasion some positive settlement in it. And as for M<sup>r</sup> Bass, it was not in our power to hinder those proceedings of his about the ship Hester; but we did all that in us lay to defend his Majesty's right in that cause tho' the success did not answer expectation.

We observe what your Lordship writes again about Coll. Fletcher's accounts and the expectation which the Commissioners of Accounts there gave you that considerable sums may be got from thence towards the Fortifications. When those accounts come with the vouchers, we hope they will be examined. In the mean while since the town of New York stands so much in need of being better fortified and that town is in so thriving a condition as to have built themselves such a noble Town house as you call it; they ought also, or at least the Province ought, to take care of their fortifications which are the main thing necessary for their security.

The sending over a skilfull Surveyor as your Lordship desires, to draw correct maps would undoubtedly be of good use, but it would be chargeable; and till it may be convenient to propose such a charge the Engineer ought to be put upon doing it, so far as he can: as we have formerly hinted upon another occasion.

We have acquainted M<sup>r</sup> Champante with what your Lordship write about the clearings of the Companys, and must refer you to him for an account of that matter.

As to your complaints against M<sup>r</sup> Graham; he may be prosecuted for any thing that he has done illegally; and now that you will have a Judge and Attorney Generall, as desired, from hence, those matters may be considered with them, and your Lordship may then proceed therein as you finde reasonable.

We shall consider your answers to the observations we sent you upon those Acts of the Generall Assembly of New York whereon we suspended our opinion, and shall in due time represent upon them as shall be fit.

Divers complaints having been laid before us of irregularities in the Courts of Chancery in His Majesty's Plantations, and amongst the rest that in some places the Governours and the Members of the respective Councils who compose those Courts, do sit and act therein without taking any oath to do equal and impartial justice between parties concerned in the Causes that shall come before them; we have thought fit hereby to direct you (as we do other Governours) that in case there have been any neglect of this kinde in any of our governments, you forthwith take care to remedy the same as your Commission impowers you, by your taking in the first place a proper oath for that purpose and afterwards administering the like Oath to the Members of the Court of Chancery in that Province where you shall be residing at the receipt of this letter, and by your further directing the Lieutenant Governours of his Majesties other Provinces under your Government immediately to take the like care in each place respectively. We are

[New-York Entries, D. 807.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>bl</sup>e the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords

The four Members of his Majesty's Council who were present in this place on the 5th of March last when his Excellency the late Earl of Bellomont departed this life have given us to understand that before our arrival they had given your Lordships by way of Boston an account thereof, as also that the Lieutenant Governour was absent at the Barbadoes. Immediately on his Lordships death the Gentlemen of the Council then present as aforesaid directed the Clerk of the Council by expresses to signify the same to us, by transmitting to us such minute of Council as they had made immediately after my Lords decease, a copy of which minute we send herewith N<sup>o</sup> 1. by which we were required with all expedition to repair to this place to discharge our duty as members of His Majesty's Council.

Coll: Smith, eldest of his Majesty's said Council and President thereof, arrived here on the eleventh of March, and having met with four members of his Majesty's Council then in town did acquaint them that upon notice given him, by their direction, of the late Governour's death, he had with all expedition put himself on his journey for this place, and having observed by the Minute of Council by them sent him that they allowed him to be eldest of his Majesty's Council and so consequently by his Majesty's letters Patents to the late Earl of Bellomont invested with the powers and preheminences any President had exercised & enjoyed in any his Majesty's plantations in America, and that since this Province never had been under the like circumstances of government heretofore, that they might quietly proceed in the Administration of the Government, he prayed them to consider how such powers and preheminences had been executed in other his Majesty's Plantations under the like circumstances of government this Province was under at this time. To which they will give no answer, but desired him the said Smith to give them his sense of that matter. He told them he was of opinion by the best information he was appriz'd of, that Presidents in other his Majesty's Plantations had been allowed to convene and adjourn his Majesty's Council when he thought fit for his Majesty's Service, and without his presiding the other members of his Majesty's Council could not properly act as a government; that if it were needfull to execute the legislative power he believed he ought to have a negative voice with power of adjourning proroguing and dissolving the Assembly. That on the 13th following he again met with the said four Members of his Majesty's Council who upon their first sitting down at the Council Board, immediately produced a Resolve in writing which they caused to be read, whereby they declared the said Coll. Smith hath no more power than any other of His Majesty's Council, that when the major part of the said Council thought fit to meet as a Council and act in the administration of the government, that they would notify him the said Smith thereof, that if he refused to come upon such notice, they would act in the administration of the government without him; as it appears by the minute of Council N<sup>o</sup> 2.

That the said Resolve appear'd to him the said Smith a very odd way of proceeding, upon which he the said Smith did exhibite a paper containing other reasons to which also the four members who made said Resolve did give in their answer in writing.

That from this way of procedure & other discourse had at that time in Council, he the said Smith had reason to suppose that it was expected by them upon publishing that Resolve he would have been disgusted and so left them, but being earnestly intreated by a considerable number of inhabitants of this Province and believing it for his Majesty's service, he thought fit to continue to proceed among them under protestation that such his concession should not be understood to prejudice the right given him by his Majesty's letters patents aforesaid: all which appears by the foresaid minute of Council N<sup>o</sup> 2.

Immediately after this the four members of his Majesty's Council aforesaid debated with him the said Smith whether the Assembly which by prorogation of the late Earl of Bellomont were to sit on the 2<sup>d</sup> of April ought to sit at said time; the said Smith offered his opinion that it was very doubtfull to him whether the said Assembly was not actually dissolved by the Governours death, they being called by writs under his test, to consult and advise with the Captain General or Commander in Cheif of this Province, and that there was no such person in this government, that admitting they might properly sit according to the tenure of the writt aforesaid, yet in the method they had resolv'd to act the administration of the government, one branch of the Legislative power, to witt, the Negative Voice, must needs be lost if all the Council were of equal power; to which end he also exhibited his reasons in writing, which were twice read in Council, but refused to be entered in the Council booke; which are also herewith transmitted in the paper N<sup>o</sup> 3.

That admitting what has been before observed on this head to be no obstacle in the exercise of the Legislative Power, yet your Lordships' letter to the late Governour of the 30th of October past had been pleased to direct his Lordship that a memorandum should be entred in the Council books of his Lordships governments to caution them that whenever any of these governments by the death absence or removal of a Governour or Lieutenant Governour immediately commissioned by his Majesty comes to devolve upon a President and the Council of any of those Plantations or Governments, such President and Council to forbear to pass any Acts but such as are immediately necessary for the peace and welfare of any the respective governments, without His Majesty's express order for that purpose; did plainly prohibit us the exercise of the legislative power, unless warranted by such necessity. Upon which several reasons were offered by the four members aforesaid, to justify such a necessity; which the said Smith could not apprehend to be of that weight and moment as might warrant the passing any act according to the Caution aforesaid; that he offered the Members then present that if they would please to reduce their reasons into writing he would give clear answers to them or be concluded by them; which they refused to do.

The arguments on this subject were managed with great heat; the said Smith had good reason to believe that those gentlemen meant to have many things transacted in said Assembly of which they had made no mention to him, which he conceives would not have been for his Majesty's service or the peace and welfare of this government, and he was the more confirmed in that opinion, that after a long debate seeing they could not prevail with him the said Smith to act with the said Assembly, a Member of the four then present was pleased to say as an inducement to him to concur with them in that opinion, that he did not know or doubted not but if the said Smith would be easy in acting with the Assembly that they would give him the said Smith five hundred pounds; to which he the said Smith reply'd that a much greater sume would not tempt him to swerve from the due discharge of his duty to his Majesty & this Province.

Being again met in Council on the 14th following, the necessity of the said Assembly's sitting was again debated by the five Members then present, and being put to the VOYE, it passed in the affirmative but by one voyce; immediately after which they had ready prepared several Proclamations ready wrote, requiring the said Assembly to meet on the day they were prorogued to by the late Governour, which were offered to him the said Smith to be sign'd, but he not being of opinion there was any necessity for their sitting, nor that they could regularly or properly act in the method they had put the administration of the government by their Resolve aforesaid for such reasons as he had given them in writing, he thought he ought not to sign said Proclamation: but it being offered that said Assembly would meet without such proclamation according to the former prorogation and not knowing what necessity might happen before that time for his Majesty's service for the peace and welfare of this government, and also hoping that before said time the other members of his Majesty's Council then absent would arrive here, and that the matter of their Resolve to act in the Administration of the government would in a full Council be fairely and maturely considered and debated, as also that in the mean time we should be better informed how the Legislative power had been exercised in other his Majesty's Plantations who had been under the like circumstances of government as this Province at this time, he suffered himself to be concluded by their vote of that day, under his former protestation, and so did sign several proclamations; as may appear by the Minute of Council N<sup>o</sup> 4.

All matters before being issued<sup>1</sup> and bills of Exchange signed, raising money for subsisting his Majesty's forces, having three days before given notice to the Gentlemen of his Majesty's Council that his having left his family so suddenly upon notice by them given him of the late

Gouverneur's death, he thought fit for some few days to return to his family, & pray'd them that if any thing they thought for his Majesty's service fit for him to do before his departure, that it might be dispatch'd in the two days he would yet stay in town: as appears by such Minute of Council as they were pleased to make therein, N<sup>o</sup> 5.

Two days after the departure of the said Smith, Coll. Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston arrived at this place from Albany, and were the next day by the four Members of his Majesty's Council aforesaid sent for to act in the Administration of the government; but the President being absent they were of opinion they could not properly act until he were present: for which reason they sat not in Council until his returne, and then finding that the four Members aforesaid for their not appearing had caused it to be entred in a minute of Council that they had refused to act with them in the President's absence, and further alledging that the sending for them was in order to find means to raise money for the subsisting his Majesty's forces, they thought themselves obliged to exhibite their reasons in writing why they did not appear at that time; a copy whereof is sent herewith, N<sup>o</sup> 6.

On the 2<sup>d</sup> of April eleven of the Representatives of the people met according to prorogation, but having almost every day sat in Council, no mention was ever made of any thing fit to be offered to the Assembly, until the 5th instant, and then there wanted the members of two intire Counties, that at said time being then a full Council the President did offer to the Board in writing several reasons relating to the sitting of the Assembly as well as to several other matters of the present Administration of the government, praying they might be fairly considered and discoursed and also entred in the Council Book; but after being read the four members aforesaid being a majority of the Council Board, refus'd to have them entred on the Council Book; a copy of which writing is sent herewith N<sup>o</sup> 7.

On the 9th instant being again met in Council the four Members aforesaid did produce a paper signed by them requiring the President to give them answer to divers heads in said paper, a copy whereof is also herewith transmitted N<sup>o</sup> 8.

So soon as the President had a copy thereof, he did immediately the next day give answer thereunto but being at the later end of the week, the Council as well as the Assembly did adjourn until the 14th instant, at which time the President did give in his answer in writing with the approbation and concurrence of Coll. Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston; a copy whereof is herewith transmitted N<sup>o</sup> 9.

Immediately after the answer aforesaid being read, four Members of his Majesty's Council produced a paper in writing, which they caus'd to be immediately read, and without entring into any debate required of us whether we would concurr with them in sending said paper to the House of Representatives as the sense and opinion of the government; which for the reasons just before by us given in the paper N<sup>o</sup> 9. as well for that it did contain severall unjust reflections on the President we utterly rejected; but they immediately having two copies thereof left one with the Clerk of the Council and sent the other to the House of Representatives; a copy of which we also send N<sup>o</sup> 10.

Our answer to which paper we herewith transmit to your Lordships N<sup>o</sup> 11.

On the 16th Instant seven of the Representatives so met as is aforesaid not being satisfied with the method the four members of his Majesty's Council afores<sup>d</sup> resolv'd to act in the administration of the government, as well as for several other reasons exhibited, by five of the then number, in writing, left the House; a Copy whereof we do hereby send to your Lordships N<sup>o</sup> 12.

Tho' we frequently satt in Council from the 14th to the 19th Instant, yet we never received any message or saw any vote, from the said Representatives, who on the said 19th adjourn'd themselves to the first Tuesday in June.

We are inform'd that a bare majority of said Representatives did in concurrence with the four Members of his Majesty's Council aforesaid, vote that the President had given delay to the business of their sitting, and that the government was invested in a majority of the Council; that the[y] gave thanks to Coll. D'Peyster and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver for having advanc'd mony to subsist the two Company's of his Majesty's soldiers in this fort for two or three weeks, when indeed they had Bills of Exchange sign'd by us all, by which they might have rais'd the money if they had pleas'd: but we must humbly offer to your Lordships that this was only a pretence of those two gentlemen to justify a necessity of the Assembly's sitting, and when the said two gentlemen acquainted us of their having advanced the money aforesaid for subsisting said Companys out of their own pockets, pretending that mony could not be got upon such bills of Exchange as had been sign'd by us, we immediately procured the mony from that time, and shall not fail of procuring so much as will subsist the whole forces, until it pleases God the Lieutenant Governour arrives.

We must humbly observe to your Lordships that from the proceeding of the four Members we have so often mentioned and they're so early and earnestly pressing the sitting of the Assembly, we had great reason to believe they intended to have pass'd severall acts of private consequence, to the publick disquiet of this Province, that many of those reasons they first offer'd to the President as a necessity for the Assembly's sitting, they totally omitted in those they gave to the Assembly in writing, and also added others of which no mention was at first made.

We have had great regard to the caution your Lordships were pleased to give us of the 30th of October last, and did believe it very conduceable to his Majesty's service as well as to the peace and welfare of this Province, that no Acts of Assembly might pass to the prejudice of his Majesty and the general disquiet of the people of this Province, who are exceedingly concern'd to find them pursue a method of government altogether different from what had been practised in any other his Majesty's Plantations under the like circumstances with us.

We must beg leave further humbly to observe to your Lordships the unhappy circumstances of this poor Province by the unhappy differences heats & animosities amongst the inhabitants thereof, and we must humbly recommend to your Lordships the consideration how very important it would be, as well to His Majesty's service as to the peace good and welfare of this province, that your Lordships would be pleas'd in your great wisdom so to represent the same to his Most Sacred Majesty, that due methods may be taken for the healing and composing of those animosities and the uniting his Majesty's subjects wjthin the same; for that we are humbly of opinion these heats and animosities, if a war should again break out in Europe as has lately been, it would be of very ill consequence as to the peace and security of this important & otherwise so flourishing a Province. We must also beg leave most humbly to offer to your Lordships that if M<sup>r</sup> Weaver had not been made of his Majesty's Council some little time before the late Governour's death, the administration of the government at this time had been manag'd with great ease and quietness; but that he, being a stranger to the Country, a person of a turbulent spirit & very violent in supporting of one party against another which he has alway's endeavour'd from the time of his first arrival here, that he has solely been the cause of all the misunderstandings between the gentlement of the Council since the late Governour's death.

That in all debates he hath had in Council he has solely managed the matter and that with such heat and violence and loud clamour, that our debates have been made publick to all that were near the Council Chamber where we satt, that we have been most credibly informed that during his abode for some years past in the Leeward Islands he gave great disturbance to that government, for which he was committed to prison by the then Governour Codrington from whence he made his escape to Barbados and from thence came with the late Governour to this place.

That during the little time of his being Collector here he has occasion'd great clamours of the Masters & merchants here for strangely delaying them in their dispatch by putting on them hardships impracticable in any other of his Majesty's Plantations, and gives this for reason the worst he is exclaim'd against and complain'd of by the merchants and masters of vessells, the better he shall be liked by the Commissioners of Customes in England.

By several vessells lately arrived from the Barbados we are given to understand the Lieutenant Governour of this Province may dayly be expected here which we hope will put an end to all these misunderstandings amongst both Council and Assembly.

We have most studiously endeavour'd to keep all in peace, and trust in God the Lieutenant Governour will find all so on his arrival. We have thought it for his Majesty's service to order his ship of war the Advice, Capt. Colwall<sup>1</sup> Commander to cruize for 21 days between Martins Vineyard and the Capes of Delaware to seek after such Rovers as may happily be found within that cruize, that after the expiration of said time he do repair to Boston in the Massachusetts' Bay and their to creen, where is much better conveniency for the doing of it than in this place, after which he is directed with all expedition to return again to this port.

We are sorry we must observe to your Lordships the great desertion of his Majesty's forces in this place especially of those last recruits since the late Earl of Bellomont's decease, which we cannot attribute to any neglect of the officers, who we think have taken all due care to prevent their desertion, and both we & they have used our utmost endeavours by proclamation, hue and cry, and sending their Officers in pursuit of them, yet the Provinces contiguous to us being Proprietary governments we fear such desertion is too much encouraged by the inhabitants concealing and employing such deserters, so that we have not been able to retrieve any one of them, and upon inquiry of the Officers for what reason they have observ'd any discontent among said soldiers, they give for answer the smallness of their pay and want of necessary cloathing; the number who have so deserted are near 40 men; the officers have lay'd before us a petition relating to that matter, a copy whereof we herewith transmit to your Lordships N<sup>o</sup> 13.

Your Lordships will be pleas'd to observe by the minute of Council herewith sent you N<sup>o</sup> 14. the method we have taken for raising money for subsisting his Majesty's forces here, and must humbly pray your Lordships will be pleas'd to direct the Agent in England that our bills for that use be duly accepted & pay'd; we have drawn bills to this time for £600 sterling and must suddenly be forced to draw more.

We have herewith transmitted to your Lordships an account of Stores of war in his Majesty's fort here according to a survey thereof taken by Coll. Romer the Engineer, together with the chief military commission Officers, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

That we are humbly of opinion that there are several other matters contained in such publick letters instructions and directions as your Lordships have been pleas'd to transmit to the late

Governour; but tho' the President hath several times desired in Council that all such publick papers relating to such particular things of which your Lordships might expect some account from us, might be put into his hands to the intent he might draw therefrom the heads of such matters as he should think fit to be laid before your Lordships, that the Gentlemen of the Council might consider and consult what might be fit to be done therein, which have still been deny'd him, together with his Majesty's private Instructions to the Governour, so necessary for our direction, by the four Members of his Majesty's Council aforesaid, unless he would in all things concurr & be concluded by them.

We think it our duty further humbly to represent to your Lordships the ill state of the Jerseys, who by the Proprietors directions are under the administration of Coll: Andrew Hamilton, who when he was formerly in that post did always influence the people of the Jerseys to be convinced of their duties to be assistant to the frontiers at Albany during the course of the late warr, and was carefull of remitting deserters from his Majesty's Company's here; yet by the licentiousness of that people he cannot contain them within the decent and necessary boundaries of government, by which those Provinces are like to fall into disorder and confusion. We do therefore humbly offer whether it be not for his Majesty's service that his Majesty would be pleased to put those Provinces under such regularities that the publick peace may be restored and his Majesty's government of New York may have the assistance of the magistracy of the Jerseys to remand deserters and fellows that may shelter themselves there, which often happens, & by the convulsion of that people, not in Coll. Hamilton's the Governour's power to remedy it. From the treatment we have received from the four Members of his Majesty's Council aforesaid, we may expect to be misrepresented to your Lordships, but we humbly hope upon the whole of this matter it will clearly appear to your Lordships that we could have no interest or design therein, but purely his Majesty's service and the good peace and welfare of this Province; that they have had such prevalency over the Clerk of the Council that they have made such minutes as they have thought fit, casting all the reflections on us, hoping thereby to render us obnoxious to your Lordships; but we have great reason to hope and believe your Lordships in your great wisdom will discern and distinguish that we have, in all this affair, acted with great modesty & temper, tho' we have very often (by M<sup>r</sup> Weaver) been highly provoked and scurrilously treated.

We must humbly pray further to observe to Your Lordships that if any misfortune should happen to the Lieutenant Governour (which God forbid) we have great reason to fear what might be the consequence thereof, and must therefore pray your Lordships will be pleased to give such directions therein as to your Lordships shall seem meet. We are very sensible of our prolixity in representing to your Lordships this matter, which is according to our duty with great humility most humbly submitted to your Lordships, by

Your Lordships most faithfull &
most obedient humble Serv<sup>ts</sup>

Lords of Trade to Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan.

[New-York Entries, D. 278.]

Sir

Having understood from severall persons that the Earl of Bellomont departed this life at New Yorke the fifth of March last, and that you were then at Barbados, from whence we do not doubt of your return to New Yorke and taking possession of that government before this letter arrives; we have thought fit hereby to require you to be verry diligent and circumspect in the discharge of your duty according to the powers and authorities devolved upon you by his Majesty's Commission and Instructions to the Earl of Bellomont as Governour of New Yorke. And in the execution thereof we more especially advise you not to engage your self in the heats and animosities of parties, but to use such moderation as may best conduce to his Majesty's service and the good of the Colony.

By his Majesty's said commission we conceive that from the time of your entring upon that government you will be intituled not only to the salary of £200 p<sup>r</sup> annum as Lieutenant Governour, but also to one moiety of the remaining £400 appointed for the Governour in Chief, which being a competency judged sufficient for maintaining the dignity of that government untill his Majesty's further pleasure, you are not to receive nor pass an Act for receiving any present or gratuity to your self nor are you to pass any other Acts of Assembly whatsoever but such as are immediately necessary for the preservation of the peace and well-fare of that Province untill further order.

We suppose several of our letters to the Earl of Bellomont which were in his Lordships custody, will now have been put into your hands. You will also receive our letters to him of the 29th and 30th of the last month which were finished by us before we heard the news of his death. Whatever you find in any of those letters relating to the allairs of New Yorke you are to take care of as if they had been writ to your self; and what ever we have required from his Lordship relating to that Province which has not yet been done, you are also to give us particular account of. But as for those passages in our letters to him which respect any of the other Colonies that were under his government, you will easily judge you are not to concern your self in directing anything thereupon; but may nevertheless write unto us whatever you think proper for our information.

We cannot but take particular notice that tho' several letters are arrived from New Yorke giving an account of the death of the Earl of Bellomont; we nevertheless have not any such information from the Council nor any officer of that government.

As we were about to conclude this letter we have received one from the Earl of Bellomont dated the 21st of February last, wherein he has sent us several minutes of the Council of New York relating to complaints against the Widow Van Cortland for concealing the Books of accounts of his Majesty's Revenue, and the proceedings that had been made in order to the recovery thereof. Which being a matter of great importance and all that we know of it being (according to those minutes) entred in the Council Books, we recommend it to your care to pursue such methods as may most effectually recover the accounts that are wanting, prevent any wrong to his Majesty, and enable the present Collector, and the Commissioners for Accounts to perform the respective trusts that have been reposed in them.

Lest some of our letters to his Lordship should not come to your hand we have further thought fit to send you the inclosed extracts of such parts thereof as are most important for your information.

And whereas his Majesty for the safety of his province of New Yorke has remitted or given credit to his Lordship for the Sume of £2500. viz<sup>t</sup> £500 for a fort in the Onondage country and £2000 for Albany and Schenectady, we expect from you an account what progress has been made in those services and what is further to be done with the money he remitted. So we bid you farewell

Three of the Council of New-York to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 529.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords.

We have on the 30th past humbly lay'd before your Lordships what had of moment occur'd in this government from the late Earl of Bellomont's death untill that time; since which we have with some difficulty obtain'd a copy of what was transacted by the late Representatives, met according to prorogation of the late Earl of Bellomont on the 2<sup>d</sup> of April, having never before seen any of the least thing in writing from them: the which copy we herewith trausmit to your Lordships.

Your Lordships will please to observe that the last thing recommended by the four Gentlemen of His Majesty's Council who sign'd and sent them what they thought proper for their consideration, as we have by our last acquainted your Lordships was treated of by the Representatives, and was we have reason to believe the weightyest cause for the calling them together at that time, your Lordships will be pleased to observe that they apply'd themselves only to M<sup>r</sup> Weaver for such papers that might be necessary for their information in that matter, who we're inform'd only sent them his Majesty's letters patents with their explumation and resolution thereon, and no other paper of those many that had been given in relating to that matter, and after a very little debate, by a bare majority of their House, were pleas'd to make a vote agreeable to what those four Gentlemen of the Council had represented to them, and so after 17 days sitting to no other purpose, having notice from Barbados of the Lieutenant Governour's intention suddenly to returne hither, they were pleased to take the advice we had often given the gentlemen of the Councill, of deferring all things relating to the Assembly, until the Lieutenant Governour arrives. Your Lordships will be pleased to observe the care they have taken to cast reflections on us, hoping, as we suppose, it might render us disagreeable to your Lordships and the people of this Province; and a vote given in favour of a majority of His Majesty's Councill, consonant to what themselves had before determined, has so exalted them, that being met in Councill on the 2<sup>d</sup> Instant after having issued all matters before us, the Clerk of the Council did acquaint the Gentlemen that there were some minutes of Council imperfected and particularly one vote relating to the time and place of holding the Councill, which the President alledged was not entered as he had put it to the vote; that what he had put to the Vote was only whether it was necessary for His Majesty's service that the Councill should sit once a week, as has been usual, to hear and determine all publick matters before them, or whether twice a week as was desired by some Gentlemen of the Councill, and by a majority it was concluded they should sitt twice a week (to witt) Tuesdays and Fridays, but as to the matter of place where they should sitt, had not been put to the vote by him, tho' the major part of the Councill then present were of opinion the Fort was the properest place, which he the said President was very easy in. Upon which M<sup>r</sup> Weaver in a great rage and passion did say it was a vote, and should be a vote whether the said President would or not, and that if the rest of the four members of His Majesty's Councill were of his mind, that he the said President together with the rest of the Councill that would not submit to be concluded by a majority, should be layd fast in irons and chaines, for that it was rebellion or next to rebellion; and many other scurrilous violent and unreasonable menaces and threatnings. We must indeed doe the other gentlemen there present that right to say we think they were asshamed of it.

And as to what the four Gentlemen of the Council observe to the Representatives concerning the President's absence, your Lordships will be pleased to understand he had then been in town three weeks, that divers days before he did acquaint the gentlemen in Council of his intentions to pass Easter Week with his family, that before he went he had given dispatch to all matters necessary for His Majesty's service in his absence, that M<sup>r</sup> Weaver and some others did indeed say that he ought not to goe untill the Assembly broke up, but having been there so long and not seen any thing from them, and besides having offered his reasons why he thought he could not concur in doing any thing with them, he could not see there was any necessity for his staying, especially when the four Gentlemen of the Councill notwithstanding all he or we could object, were resolved to act in the administration of the Government without him and the majority of the Representatives having made a vote agreeable thereunto.

Your Lordships will also please to observe how willing they have been to reflect on Coll: Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston, with relation to accounts of publick moneys by them many years since disbursed and received for the service of the Crown; which accounts, together with all vouchers thereunto belonging have been duly audited, examined and pay'd, and so delivered up to the respective Governours in Council and lodg'd with the Clerk thereof, and so having been as they suppose finally concluded and discharged, it will be hardly possible for them to produce Copys of all their accounts for 16 or 17 years past.

We must further beg leave to acquaint your Lordships that for the further support of His Majesty's forces we have three days ago sign'd bills of exchange (all the members of His Majesty's Councill being then present) for four hundred pounds sterling, which we must humbly pray your Lordships will be pleas'd to direct the Agent who receives the said Companies Pay, that the same may be duely accepted and paid; all which is most humbly submitted to your Lordships with all that profoundness of respect which is due from

My Lords

Your Lordships most obedient and most faithfull humble servants

Colonel Smith, President of the Council of New-York, to the Lords of Trade.

[ New-York Entries, D. 834 ]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords.

Since the late Earl of Bellomont's death I have in conjunction with Coll: Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston twice wrote to your Lordships on the 30th past and the 5th instant, and therein given your Lordships on account of what had past in this government to that time, but the ship yet staying and Coll: Schuyler being gone to Albany I have thought it my duty humbly to offer further to your Lordships:—That we lately as well from such vessells as have arrived in these parts from Europe, as the Plantations of French Dutch and English, are given to understand that it's believed that a war with the French King will suddainly ensue, of which we hope to have timely notice from your Lordships, this Province being most lyable to the greatest mischeif from the French at Canada. I must therefore beg leave humbly to repeate to your Lordships the state and condition of the Forts at Albany and Schenectade, which are almost totally decayed and unserviceable, that the repairing of them will be very expensive, and when done as before will give no great assurance of those important places so necessary to protect and secure the Indians to the English interest as well as for the defence of all other His Majesty's plantations on this Continent That if His Majesty should be pleased to direct the several other Colonys to contribute towards these fortifications, a certain proportion of what the charge may be computed to amount to, yet it's humbly offered to your Lordships that the payment of such quotas will be uncertain and come slowly in; that if such war should happen, whether the money graciously given by his Majesty of England as well as what the Assembly have given here for the building a fort at Unundage would not be more properly applied to the Forts at Albany and Schenectade, at least untill such quotas aforesaid can be collected. I must also observe to your Lordship's that the French since the last peace have industriously endeavoured to debauch our Indians, to their interest and have (as I am informed) prevailed with many of them; some reasons of which I find the late Governour had been pleased to represent to your Lordships. What further I could be informed of, is the taking from them a Minister, who had with great pains and care instructed them in the Christian Reformed Religion and of whom they had a great good opinion; whose want though several times represented by them, hath not hitherto been supplied; as also that of late persons have been employed to treat and negotiate the affairs of this Government with them, who have not been so acceptable to them as those who for a long time before had discharged that duty had great interest in them and influence on them, of which number Coll: Schuyler, above all men, is most dear to them, having by a long acquaintance as well as by his conduct and valour personally in the late war engaging with them and for them against the French, hath justly acquired a wonderful reputation amongst them. And I must with great justness humbly offer to your Lordships, that I think that therein he hath done his Majesty and this Province very signal and acceptable service, having also for a considerable time victualled his Majesty's Companys at Albany, for which (as I am informed) there is yet due to him a considerable sum of money. The Fort at New York I must also humbly represent to your Lordships wants great repairs, and a number of guns there wants new carriages, His Majesty's revenue here in debt (as I am told) about 5 or 6 thousand pounds at least so that there is no present moneys to be got from thence for any such necessary expence; and how far an Assembly will be able to provide for these and other wants is very doubtful. And I do with humble submission think that in case of a rupture between England and France, that it will be reasonable to believe that this province will be the chief seat of the war in these parts and so consequently in most danger, and under the greatest difficultys and necessities; which is humbly hoped your Lordships will be pleased to have a just regard to, in making such representations thereof to his Majesty, as in your great wisdoms shall seem meet.

But as I have already humbly lay'd before your Lordships the great heats divisions and animosities amongst parties in this Province, which I humbly conceive to be of ill consequence as well to His Majesty's service, as to the peace and security thereof, soe I humbly hope it will deserve your Lordships consideration, how the same may be healed and composed, having for any thing I can observe of late been rather exasperated than appeased, for my own part having had the honour to serve his Majesty of his Council here during His Majesty's happy reign, as also Chief Justice for nine years past, and some time thereof also Judge of the Admiralty, I have always thought it the duty of my station to behave myself with indifferency to all parties, and I have confidence to believe that I have not been represented to your Lordships otherwise. I have lived to see the several parties countenanced alternately by those who have commanded, and I have still believed the best service I could render the Crown or this Province, was to improve the interest I had in this Government in perswading peace and unanimity, and I had reason to believe it would be acceptable to his Majesty at this juncture of time, to allay heats and perswade moderation, and to keep the Province from convulsion, and to hinder both parties from injuring each other, which occasioned those warm debates with those Gentlemen of the Council, who are hot men of a party. Your Lordships will I doubt not be sensible the great pains and care I have therein taken, has been only in the due discharge of my duty to that end, and tho' I have met with great difficulty and opposition therein from those Gentlemen of the Council, yet I hope the Province will be found in peace when the Lieutenant Governour arrives, being always cautious of exerting any authority as President by violence, but rather choosing by reason and temper to have perswaded them to have acted agreeable to the example of other his Majesty's Plantations who had been under the circumstances this is; having for peace sake conceded to be concluded by a majority of the Council, beyond any thing practicable in his Majesty's other plantations; which I humbly hope your Lordships will be pleased to approve of, but must beg leave with great submission humbly to observe to your Lordships whether it might not be highly important to His Majesty's service, that his Majesty would be graciously pleased to ascertain what powers and preeminences shall be allowed to be exercised by such who shall for the future happen by the like accident to preside in His Majesty's Council in the Plantations for that I am most credibly informed that such powers have been exercised very differently in severall Plantations and have not been determined without some straine and struggle in all such Plantations who had never before been under the like circumstances of administration.

M<sup>r</sup> Livingston hath pray'd me to observe to your Lordships that I had seen what your Lordships had been pleased to signify to the late Governour in relation to his having been concerned with Champell in the imbezzlement of part of Kidd's cargoe at Boston, and as I have had no knowledge of his guilt in that matter so I can only offer to your Lordships what proofs I can gather of his innocency therein. He brought Campell to me, who made affidavit which I herewith transmit to your Lordships. He farther tells me that some days after my Lord Bellomont had accused him to your Lordships in that thing, he, before his Lordship and the Council att Boston did exonerate himself from any guilt therein, by his oath then and there taken, that he had not directly nor indirectly received or concealed any thing of Kidd's. He hath indeed produced to me several of his Lordships letters since wrote to him, wherein his Lordship is pleased to treat him with great friendship, to allow of several services by him done to his Majesty, promising to represent him to the government at home as a person who had well deserved of the Crown of England; which letters he intends to direct to be humbly layd before your Lordships who he hopes will retain favourable sentiments of him untill he can more fully make appear his innocency. He has a large pretension on this government for divers disbursments and moneys due for his salary as Secretary of the Indian affairs, a copy whereof I herewith transmit to your Lordships. The state of the Jerseys I have humbly layd before your Lordships in those other letters since which Coll. Lewis Morris, a person of a fair character who is posses of a very considerable estate as well in that as in this Province, acquaints me he intends to embarque for England in this ship, to procure some remedies in the disorders of that part of the Jerseys, where he lives and is concerned; that happily on that subject he may be obliged to apply himself to your Lordships, and may, as an indifferent person, inform your Lordships of any thing concerning either this or that Province, and be of great use and service to both. My Lords I humbly hope your Lordships goodness will please to pardon this prolixity and that your Lordships will also please to believe I am with all duty and profoundness of respect, My Lords

and most devoted humble Servant

New York the
10th of May 1701.

Mr. Robert Livingston to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 342.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

May it please Your Lordships.

Since the death of the Earl of Bellomont coming to the sight of the Copy of your Lordships representation upon his letters relating to naval stores and the security of the Plantations in this Northern Continent of America, and having had long experience of the affairs and circumstances of this Province and the honour to bear sundry employments in the government of New York for many years past, I thought it concern'd me in duty and tender regard to His Majesty's interest and the safety of my country to make some observations thereupon as might be helpfull and give your Lordships a true & impartial representation so far as I am capable, which I hope your Lordships will take in good part and pardon my presumption and forwardness.

The first thing His Lordship does represent is that the defence and preservation of New York is of the utmost importance to the security of all the rest &c and is a truth very worthy of his Majesty's regard, to which I crave leave to add that in time of peace with France and Christian Princes, this Province is better able to defend itself against the Indians than any of the neighbouring Colonies on either side, and if the Canada Indians can have peaceable and undisturbed passage through our Indian Country, 'twill be an easy matter for them to destroy and dispeople those noble and beneficial settlements of Virginia and Maryland, as well as the other colonies; and that for the following reasons.

First. The French by their artifices and unwearied diligence have already made a very great interest amongst our Indians of the Five Nations and that with many of the principal leading men amongst them; and though the Indians are believed rather to be influenced with fear than love of the French, yet when the French shall have extended their settlements and traffique as far into their country as their forts and garrisons, they will undoubtedly carry them, unless the English do vigorously bestir themselves in extending both their forts and settlements to the westward, on the south side the Lakes, equal to theirs in strength and figure, if not exceeding them.

<sup>3<sup>d</sup></sup> The manner of their fighting which is crewell as it is cowardly; they divide into small parties of 2. 3. 4. or 5, some times more, and are careful to keep themselves undiscovered untill they have done their mischief, after which they immediately retreat and take a pride in lying eight or ten days together sometimes longer, under cover of an old tree or fence near to a planter's house, in which time they feed upon a little parched Indian corn which they carry about them, untill they surprize the planter at his labour in his feild, and being extraordinary marksmen shoot him down, as if he were a deer, and scalp him, or finding the men at work from the house, will barbarously murder the women and children, set the house on fire and escape, leaving the poor men vanquished with consternation.

5<sup>thly</sup> If the Five Nations should once open this passage to them, twill be hard to distinguish the French Indians from ours, being originally of one kindred and language, and will be apt to joynt with them, having often exprest their resentments against these Colonies at their treaties at Albany, for not giving them assistance in the late war against the French, and complain'd that being linked in the covenant Chain, they did not send and unite a sufficient force to drive that handfull of French in Canada into the sea, and for leaving them in the extremity to shift for themselves, with the little help given them from Albany, by which means they have been spent and wasted with a tedious long warr, which an united force could have made an end of at one push, and this is the same cause of their diminution and creeping to their enemyes the French against whom they are naturally prejudiced and have an aversion. And altho' the French Governours are pleas'd to call their Indians, subjects of the French King, and our Governours in like manner call the Indians of the Five Nations Subjects of the Crown of England, they do not so understand it, but look upon themselves in the state of freedom, nor was it possible for us to keep them from burning of their prisoners in the late warr after their own manner otherwise than by buying of them from them, as they passed over our frontiers.

The second thing represented is the condition of our Forts, and is a sad truth. Here I cannot omitt to take notice to your Lordships that by the establishment of the four Companies there is a surplusage of £30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent stopt out of all their pay, being the difference which the King sets upon the value of New York money from that of sterling, which by the Establishment is appropriated for the paying of a Chaplain, gunner, 2 montrosses, adjutant, armourer and Storekeeper, and the remainder to be laid out upon the repairs and other incidents of Majesty's forts in this Province, for which the Governour is to account to the King only.

The surplusage in the Establishment is computed at upwards of £2000 p<sup>r</sup> Annum, whereof about £300 pays all the enumerated officers; so there remains £1690 for the keeping the Forts in order, which in four years time amounts to near £7000 would go a great way to put these forts in repair. I suppose the want of this mony is the cause of their ruine for the victuallers and officers are much in arrear and were told by the Earl that (of the little they had received) he was in advance to them out of his private fortune, which they are very willing his Administrators be reimbursed by his Majesty out of the readiest of their money.

The third thing represented is the case of the soldiers, who deserve his Majesty's consideration. Their pay here is 40 p<sup>r</sup> Cent worse than sterling. Coll. Fletcher has had 36 p<sup>r</sup> Cent for bills, the new coyning of the money and some protested bills being returned about that time lower'd their value. Were the bills punctually paid they are worth 40 p<sup>r</sup> Cent curr<sup>t</sup> in New York. His Lordship and the Councill (since his death) have had 33 p<sup>r</sup> Cent, which 3 p<sup>r</sup> Cent is a gain, altho' they have the vanity to get the thanks of the House to some of them for advancing money upon credit of that subsistance. The Merchant of New York has no better way of making returns, especially in time of warr, when there is no risque in bills of exchange.

Cloathing and drink are double the price of what in England: a pot of beer costs 4½: to keep the soldiers from working and to duty (with submission) is a hardship next to starving, and to let them work (hiring their duty) spoils their discipline and manners. A labouring man at New York has 3<sup>s</sup> a day and a soldier's week's subsistance is but 3<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> which with ease they consume in two days, and this is a great cause of their desertion. Captain Leisler when he kept the fort gave his men 15<sup>d</sup> per day. This day, being the 13th May 1701. were the soldiers in New York called together and made acquainted that the 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent was taken off from their pay, but 10 p<sup>r</sup> Cent still stopt for the sick and incidents; and the victuallers and officers complain that they are kept ignorant how far his Lordships Agent has received of their money; this new Establishment is to commence the 17th of this instant May 1701.

The fourth representation is of the Five Nations who are much diminished by the late warr, and I must beg leave further to observe to your Lordships those advantages which hath attended his Majesty's plantations on this Continent of America by the steadiness and firmness of the said Nations unto this Government are so obvious, that I need not enumerate them to your Lordships, they having fought our battells for us, and have been a constant barrier of defence between his Majesty's Plantations of Virginia & Maryland and the French, and by their constant vigilance prevented the French from making any descent that way; the long war and the great loss which they sustain'd in their youth hath almost despirited them, and now since the peace the French, having been so sensible of the mischeifs which they did them, have applied their cheifest artifices they could invent, either to gain them to their side, or so to terrify them that they might be in continual fear.

I therefore humbly conceive that there can be no better expedient for the restoring of those Indians affections and the removing of the terror which the French since the peace has imprinted in them, than the methods I mentioned in my observations which I made about the Indians when I went to Onondage, which I sent to the late Earl of Bellomont a 12 month agoe by my son to Boston, a copy whereof is here inclosed.<sup>1</sup>

The Five Nations have received such impressions of the Christian Religion that if ministers were planted amongst them to convert them to the Christian faith, it would be of great advantage to his Majesty's plantations, not only in securing those Indians friendship, but also to be a cheque & discouragement to the French emissaries, who frequently visit those nations and endeavour to corrupt their affections from the English, and makes ill impressions in their mind, to the apparent prejudice of our trade, since the French by their false reports have poisoned our Indians, insomuch as to make them believe that we have no love for them, but will leave them a prey. I am humbly of opinion that it will be absolutely necessary for the King's service that all the passes between the French and them be secured, and forts built in suitable places for the security of their trade, and the preventing the French from any longer deluding or trading with them; for it is equally reasonable that we should secure the trade of our Indians to our selves, as the French do theirs, and even use the same methods of force for the effecting of it. Those forts being built at proper places, will for ever prevent the French from making any descent upon them.

His Lordship's proposal about repairing the forts at New York and Albany and Schenectady may be effected by the arrear of the 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent already due, which (in upward of four years time) amounts to about £7000.

As for the two new forts, 'twill be very much for the interest of the Crown and the safety of all the English Plantations on this Northern Continent such forts, and more of them, were erected now in time of peace, and that settlements were extended into the inland country towards the Lakes; but is too great an undertaking for this small Province alone, nor is it reasonable to expect it from them: as it is a general concern, so it ought to be a general charge. And 'tis but reasonable His Majesty's subjects on this Main should take upon them the charge of building such forts and making such settlements at present, and if proper measures are taken, may be done without much present smart and will undoubtedly be of advantage to them all in progress of time.—

Reasons why this great undertaking of building of New Forts & extending the English settlements into the Indian country is not be effected as begun by this Province alone.

First. All the steps and proposals hitherto that have been made towards this end have proved abortive, and the money already expended for want of conduct is to no manner of service; The 400 wheel barrows which were ordered to be built at Albany, all falling to peices.

The £1500 proposed as a sufficient sum for the finishing the fort at Onondage of 24 six-pounders, which is already raised and levied for the most part (and I am informed is wanted to other uses) together with the £500 Sterling advanced by His Majesty, will not pay the charge of carrying up the said wheelbarrows thither, and has this ill effect upon the minds of the subjects, to make them backward from advancing money to be squandered away and converted to other uses, and now it's not known where this Fort is to be scituate.

2<sup>dly</sup> The country where the scituation is proposed is near 300 miles distant from Albany and difficult of access and the furthest English settlement at present is about 34 miles from Albany.

3<sup>dly</sup> The Indians in our friendship are not desirous of any such fort, but much the contrary are wholly averse to it, which appears by their neglecting to give any answer to that proposition made by the Earl of Bellomont, and the prejudice they did conceive against the King's Engineer (Coll: Romer) who since the said conference with the Indians went into their country to view the place, but was forced to abscond in the bushes whilst his fellow travellers convers'd with them, who all returned to Albany without being permitted (as I am informed) to come within 40 miles of the point proposed for scituation of that Fort.

4<sup>thly</sup> The French have a great influence over our Indians, and have a regular fortification of stone and lime garrisoned at Cadarachqui opposite to it on the North side the Lake, which gives easy water passage.

5<sup>thly</sup> The Assemblies of the neighbouring Provinces which command their purses, will always have this argument to offer their Governours, that their advice and consent was not asked by the Governour of New York, nor the inhabitants, to the building such forts; and if the people of New York had not had some private ends of trade in prospect, they would never have been so foolish to undertake such a burden without their knowledg and consent.

6<sup>thly</sup> We have late experience how ineffectual Her Majesty's circular letters in the late war did prove, appointing the severall Governours to send Commissioners to New York to agree upon certain quotas of men, and for a supply of money, and tho' the Governours of Virginia and Maryland did prevail with their people to assist us with some money, yet could not prevail with them to send any men; some of the Commissioners came, others came not; those that came refused to act without the rest, and gave reason enough to believe they were fond of the opportunity of that colour, by the various excuses, objections, doubts, fears and jealousies; so parted doing nothing.

To the carrying on this design of extending the Christian settlements and English forts into the Indian Country for the security of all His Majesty's Plantations on this North Continent of America:—

I humbly begg leave to propose that it is best to be done in time of peace with France.

1st That one form of government be establish'd in all the neighbouring Colonies on this main Continent.

That they be divided into three distinct governments,—to wit.

That Virginia and Maryland be annexed to South and North Carolina.

That some part of Connecticut, New York, East and West Jersey, Pennsylvania and New Castle be added together.

And that [to] the Massachusetts be added New Hampshire and Rhoad Island and the rest of Connecticut.

2<sup>dly</sup> That according to the regulation of Quotas proposed by your Lordships for raising £5000 there be raised annually for ten years following 15000 pounds towards that work, and that Commissioners be appointed from each of the three governments to be at Albany to give their advice and oversee the management and disposition of the money to those uses and not otherwise; and that Accounts thereof be remitted quarterly to his Majesty and to the respective Governours.

3<sup>dly</sup> That his Majesty send over arms, artillery, ammunition spades shovells, pickaxes and falling axes, for said service, with soldiers to garrison the said forts and defend the labourers.

4<sup>thly</sup> That a certain quota of labouring men be had from each government to work at the said forts, who are to be paid out of the said money, as are all other charges.

5<sup>thly</sup> That his Majesty's subjects be encouraged to extend their settlements into the Country, under cover of said forts, by the liberty of the Indian trade, without being imposed upon by the City of Albany or any other town or City. The City of Albany always practis'd to hinder such settlements, because they have ingrossed the Indian trade in this Province, and having built large houses and made good farms and settlements near to Albany care not to leave them to go further into the Country and will not suffer others to goe beyond them to intercept the trade, and the giving of land gratis to soldiers or planters (who know better how to use it) will not tempt them to remove so farr into the country; the Indian trade will do it as the inland country comes to be settled it will be valuable, not before.

6<sup>thly</sup> That the soldiers be recruited every two years with two hundred youths from England, and that at every two years end two hundred or one half of the soldiers be disbanded and left to their liberty, and if they stay, to have land assigned them gratis. This may be a means to strengthen the frontiers and extended settlements. At present this Province has no benefit by the soldiers who desert; they cannot live in this Province but get into the neighbouring Proprietary governments, where they are connived at and protected, notwithstanding their magistrates when apply'd unto, colour it with a fair shew to the contrary.

As to the augmentation of the number of forces, I beg leave to plain with your Lordships, that for these three years past what were above two Companies of 60 each, have been of little more service to the country than the bringing of so much money from England for their subsistence to be spent amongst us, and the bringing the ship Herter from Amboy which the inhabitants of East Jersey would have opposed by force, if they had not dreaded the Red Coats.

Two Companies lye in garrison in the fort in New York, which is of very little strength, or use, more than a convenient lodgment for the King's Governour, and a few to keep centry at his door may do well enough in time of peace at New York; were this proposal of the New Forts and Settlements going on, there is an absolute necessity to have disciplin'd soldiers in those forts to keep and defend them.

And here I beg leave to inform your Lordships that Soldiers from Europe cannot fight in the woods here, according to the manner of fighting in Europe. I beleive (I may say it without vanity) that our youth at Albany understand the wood fighting better than any, by that time the soldiers have lived their four years by their fowling and hunting along with our youth and the Indians, they will have learnt perfectly to understand the woods.

To make a soldier work, to answer an enlargement of his pay, is to alter the nature of the man. Idleness is the great motive to many of them, which makes them leave their trades and enter in the King's service, and tho' they are willing to work when they please and can have liberty, yet will not like to be compelled thereunto, especially for one third part of the wages which a Negroe slave receives every day in New York for splitting of fire wood and carrying the hodd.

My Lords, 'twill be necessary that every fort have a Chaplain in it who may likewise instruct the Indians in the Christian religion as your Lordships do well approve.

As to the production of masts and other naval stores in this province, I beg leave to inform your Lordships that I am told those that are already cut are not so large as the dimentions the Earl did notify, but are much less, and are now on ground above the falls, and cannot be got down untill the fall of the leafe, that the rivers are up; that there is yet no experiment made of getting any down the fall. Some are of opinion that the fall will spoil them, some otherwise. It is about forty foot perpendicular and for two miles above it shelving; which makes the stream so rapid that none dare come near it with a cannoe. I doubt the masts will receive damage in the falling. I should be heartily glad his Majesty might be supplied with all naval stores from this province; there may probably be bigger trees found where more pains is taken to seek them out and I make no doubt but in process of time other naval stores may be had as good as any, and turn to a great account. Our people here at present do not well understand the making of tar pitch and rozin, and will easily learn; the only obstruction at this present is our want of people, and the high wages of the labourer, which is already much more moderate in New England than in New York, and will in time be reasonable as the country improves and abounds in people; of which we have good prospect, this being as healthfull a country as any of all his Majesty's dominions, and abounds with wholesome provisions, and tho' the greatest part of our soyl is barren otherwise than of pines and large timber on the Rocky Mountains, yet we are a nursery of people both for the West Indies and the neighbouring Provinces; to the one they goe being in hast to get rich, to the other our young men brought up in husbandry remove in flocks to settle the new country (as they call it) where they are free from taxes, and being detach't in time of war, and there is indeed a better soyle.

May it please your Lordships:

That his Majesty may receive no ill impressions of his subjects here and that there be no discouragement from so advantageous and desired an undertaking as the making of pitch tar and rozin in this Province, and furnishing of masts and other naval stores. I do assure your Lordships I durst engage for the inhabitants of the whole province that they will freely give their consent, and encourage that his Majesty shall cut down any such masts or timber as may be for the service of his Navy Royall, upon any of their lands, upon asking of the question, or for some inconsiderable acknowledgment, which to rend from them by violent means and to put in the power of our Governours to practise upon them to encrease their private interests and base ends, would be of very pernicious consequence to the subject, put them into extream convulsions and disorder, and divide between the affections of his Majesty and his people, which would want such a constitution of government to support itself as is made up of military disciplin'd captains for Councillors, and serjeants and corporals for Sheriffs and Justices of the Peace; which will never enter into the heart of so gracious a Prince to establish amongst us.

May it please your Lordships:—

His Majesty has been graciously pleased to send over a large present of £800 sterling value, which is in the Countesses lodgings in the fort, and being well husbanded might be of better service to His Majesty and have it's proper effect with our Indians.

There is a custome among the Indians to make return of a suitable present in beaver and peltry, to our Governours, which they have to themselves as a perquisite; which temps our Governours to be lavish and out vye each other in the greatness of the present. The last which the Earl gave them at the charge of the revenue of this Province was so great, that the Indians sold part of it to the inhabitants of Albany for beaver skins to add to their present, which they had brought with them for his Excellency, to make it answerable. And all such publick gifts are most exactly subdivided to every Indian of their Nations, by a natural principle they have of distributive justice, which is the cause that those of them who are most in the French interest and are aiding to the debauchery of the rest, have as much as those who are firm to the English, and we can distinguish them and the present might be husbanded and ordered to a far greater advantage.

May it please your Lordships:—

Now there are great apprehensions of a war with France put me upon other thoughts and brings me home to consider of the preservation of what we have in possession, which indeed were best to be provided for in time of peace, but will be well if it is now done out of hand. I have no other end before me than His Majesty's service and the safety of this part of his dominions, which is of very great consequence to the interest of England and must apologize for my plainness and freedom in offering what appears from my observation, being interested as well as a spectator of the circumstances of this country affairs, and may be received or rejected in part or in the whole as your Lordship's shall recommend and his Majesty in his great wisdom approve.

As it is of utmost importance to the security of all the rest of his Majesty's Provinces on this Northern Continent to defend and preserve this Province it also consequently follows that it is of like importance to the French to take it, for the same reasons: to which I crave leave to add that the French of Canada are settled in a climate too cold for them, where the winters are long and extream sharp, their country is not capable of so much cultivation and improvement as to produce provisions enough to maintain the inhabitants and garrisons who have their supplies in great measure from France as also the French settlements in the West Indies have the like want of provisions.

This, and the neighbouring Provinces, do abound with all manner of Provisions and are of great use for the support of all the English settlements in the West Indies as well as for the advantage of trade with the Spaniard the Dutch and other nations in the West Indies; which trade of provisions, and Slaves, are the two cheifest commodities for which the Merchants in Jamaica, and others, have got such great quantities of Spanish gold and silver. And altho' the greatest part of our province is barren, yet that which is good is very fruitfull.

<sup>2nd</sup> The small and inconsiderable forts which we have, as they are not capable of being a reasonable defence to us, so they will be a disservice to facilitate a conquest of the enemy, their being taken giving present foothold untill the enemy shall erect better and stronger, which the French are well acquainted how to doe, and the entrance of our river from the sea is easy, well known to the French and undefended, and if once the French should get possession of the lower part of Hudson's River, Albany could not pretend to be able to stand it long out, when attack on both sides. And there is great reason to suspect that Mons<sup>r</sup> de Iberville the last summer came hither with his fourth rate man of war from Misasipi of purpose to sound our channel, which his men in boats performed every day near a month together without interruption.

The harbour of Boston is well fortified by a brestwork of fifty great guns on Castle Island, about a league from the town, and their channel is so narrow that ships must come very near this battery ere they pass.

Delaware River is not fortified, but Philadelphia their most considerable town is a great way from the sea, and there are some shoals and difficulty in bringing a ship of any burthen up to the town, and the Falls thereof are in the same latitude with the mouth of Hudson's River.

Hudsons River is the settlement lyes opposite and contiguous to Canada, the head of which River has been a tragical theatre for action in all the late war, where the French of Canada were foiled & received the greatest loss, and in all the late war not one foot of ground was lost by us to the enemy that way.

These considerations are enough to put the French King upon the attempting of this River with a small squadron of ships and some land forces.

Now my Lords I beg leave give a true representation of our condition in this present circumstance. Our Governour is lately dead, and the Lieutenant Governour is absent at Barbados. Our people are divided and the command of the Militia as well as the Civill government put into the hands of the meanest of the people, most of a foreign nation, who are prejudiced against the English, & strangers to government, and the richest and most considerable part of the people turn'd out of all offices in government.

His Majesty's revenue is very much anticipated and the debts of the government due upon the revenue are four times so much as they were upon the breaking up of the war, when his Majesty was perswaded to annex this Province to Boston.

His Majesty's forts are all going to ruine, the sod-work of that in New York is all to pieces and the walls want new pointing, the pallisadoes round the fort (last winter) were cut down and burnt for firewood and new carryages are wanted to the guns, some of them being dismantled, others scarce able to abide once firing.

There are two platformes before the City with fifteen guns each, to defend the town against the water. One of which is washed away by the South East storms and high tydes, and the other the Magistrates of our City saw cause to give away to the widow Leysler as a present, the ground between high and low water mark, to the value of about 2200 pounds, which is since laid out in lotts, and some part of it built upon.

The breastwork and pallisadoes which were round the town and the two stone bastions on the land side, are quite demolished. They were never well built nor of any great service, and were first erected by the Dutch Governour when the Dutch took this fort, as a defence against the English from Conetticut and New England.

The Forts at Albany and Schenectady, the frontiers, being of wood, are all going to ruine and unfit for defence.

Our Indians are diminish'd and much shaken from their former vigour and zeal against the French, and 'tis to be feared will make a total defection to them, when they see the diligence and forwardness of the French, if not timely prevented by our early appearing with forces to their assistance on the frontiers.

And our neighbours on either side being of a different constitution of government, are divided from us in interest and affection and rejoice at our divisions and distractions, by means whereof they increase in strength and riches. Many hundred of families have removed from us, and to avoid the burthens of the late war, and being detach't to Albany, and there is also a great inequality and disproportion in trade between us and them; We having given to His Majesty a revenue upon ours to defray the charge of the government, which they do altogether evade; and the trouble which is often times unnecessarily given by the Customhouse officers to the shipping that come hither, upon meer niceties, where it is manifest there can be no intended fraud, together with taking of bribes and extravagant fees, are a greater clogg upon our trade than is the Kings revenue.

I shall now with all humble submission propose what I think may be necessary in this juncture for the defence and preservation of this Province in time of war.

1st That a Governour be appointed who is a soldier, a man fearing God & hating covetousness, and who will administer impartially without siding with any faction.

2<sup>dly</sup> That two large platformes be erected, one on each side the river at the place called the Narrows, three leagues from the City, to consist of fifty cannon each, the Channel there being upwards of one mile broad. The one may be covered by the inhabitants of King's County who surround on the East side, and the inhabitants of Staten Island and East Jersey may cover the other on the West side.

The ordnance must be large and of a good length, which with ammunition and other necessary appurtenances must be had from England; the platform may be built and kept in repair out of the Revenue of this Province were it well husbanded.

That 200 men will be necessary to be in garrison here at New York, and these batterys; more may be easily conveyed thither upon occasion.

That the forts of Albany and Schenectady be built of stone and lime, which though they may be chargeable in making, yet will prove better husbandry in the later end; the timber in this country is rotten, when exposed to the weather, in 6 or 8 year's time.

That the inhabitants of the Province be freed from detachments unless upon invasion, and then they will go voluntarily.

That 200 soldiers be garrisoned	at Albany
100—	at Schenectady
60—	at Canastagione.
50—	at the Half Moon
50—	at Skackhook
40—	at Kinderhook
40—	at the Maquase Castle.

All which forts lye round about Albany and being well garrisoned will protect the farmers in their husbandry, which otherwise will all desert.

There must be one hundred Bushlopers or wood-runners that is of the youth of Albany, kept in pay about 7 months in the year at 3<sup>s</sup> per day whose constant business shall be to move every day in parties round those frontier garrisons round Albany, as is the motion of the pendulum of a clock. When the French Indians find the tract of a mans foot in the woods near an enemy's country they are presently in a consternation and daunted, and are very dextrous in discovering of it. This with skouts kept continually out to range the woods from the several smaller garrisons, will be a means to secure our frontiers.

It is also necessary that we have at Albany a good magazeen or store, as the French have at Montreal, ready upon all occasions; besides fire arms powder and ball and ammunition, they have burch-canoes and padles, battoes, bushlopers or wood runners, coats and caps ready made, mittens, snow shoes, Indian shoes, stockings, shirts, blankets, dryd bacon, bisquet, Indian corn, &c ready in case of an attaque or invasion and officers are appointed who have the charge of all these things, & keep them from spoyling.

It will be also needfull that his Majesty give his orders generally to his dominions on the Main, for the mutual assistance of each other in case any part be particularly invaded.

That a good fourth rate frigate do attend this coast in the beginning of April and to continue to the beginning of November every year during the war: she can be of no service here in the winter months when we are sufficiently protected by the North West winds, and ice, and may be serviceable to his Majesty elsewhere.

All which is most humbly submitted, by

Your Lordships most humble

New York
13. May 1701

and most obedient servant

Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 983.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords.

I presume the Earl of Bellomont has acquainted your Lordships with his liberty granted me to goe to Barbadoes, in order to settle my small fortune there, very much entangled by my three years absence in attending His Majesty's service as his Lieuten<sup>t</sup> Governour of this Province under his Lordship, himself designing to reside here till the middle of this month. I have made all possible dispatch and arrived here yesterday.

This ship being immediately ready to saile, I cannot give your Lordships particular answers to your packetts received, directed to the Earl of Bellomont bearing date 19th 7<sup>ber</sup>, 30th 8<sup>ber</sup> and the 11th February last, but shall perfectly observe your orders, and by another ship that will saile within fourteen days or thereabouts will be very exact in informing Your Lordships of all things necessary.

The unfortunate death of the Earl of Bellomont in my absence has been no small grief to me, but thro' the prudent management of the Council the publick peace has been intirely preserved, and every thing in the same posture as when his Lordship dyed, with little alteration.

I hope to merit your Lordships pardon for my absence and gain your good opinion of my administration by wholly applying my self to the publick business of the Province; a particular of which shall be constantly transmitted to your Lordships.

I have had the honour of serving of the King since the late happy Revolution, and shall ever make it the business of my life to support his honour and interest; and if I can deserve by my actions, your Lordships favourable character 'twill be the hight of my ambition. I am, with great regard,

My Lords

Your Lordships most faithfull
and most obedient servant

New York 20th
May 1701.

---

Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 889.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords.

The 20th May last I gave your Lordships an account of my arrival from Barbadoes, where I had been, by my Lord Bellomont's liberty, since January last, in order to settle my small though entangled fortune, his Lordship designing to continue here till my return; and of the receipts of your Lordships packets directed to my Lord Bellomont bearing date 19th September 30th October and 11th February last.

His Majesty's letter of the 19th January with the inclosed quota of men to be provided by the plantations, I have signified, as therein directed, to the Governour of East and West Jersey and his Majesty's other letter dated 2<sup>d</sup> day of February relating to accessories in cases of piracy, I shall very punctually observe, and his Majesty's other letters to the neighbouring Governours I have sent forward.

I shall briefly endeavour to give your Lordships what satisfaction I can at present, to what your Lordships mention in your several letters relating to this Province and what I have done and am about to do for his Majesty's service.

Mr Weaver informs me that my Lord Bellomont before he dyed, answered Your Lordships observations on the Acts of Assembly of this Province.

Our Five Nations of Indians are at present in good disposition, and in order to confirm them in their obedience to his Majesty and friendship to this and the neighbouring Plantations I have appointed them to meet me at Albany the first week in July where I design to give them a proportion of the present his Majesty sent over. I designe with me (tho' he is now at Boston) Coll Romer, to whom I have wrote, as also to Lieutenant Governour Stoughton, the necessity of his going; when, with him, I will particularly view all our fortifications, as well as conclude on what else shall be necessary, and make report to your Lordships.

A cautionary memorandum is entred in the Council Book, as your Lordships direct, in case of death, absence, or removal of a Governour commissioned from His Majesty, that no President and Council pretend to pass laws, unless absolutely necessary for peace and welfare, without his Majesty's express order for that purpose.

I shall with great exactness observe your Lordships caution as to the reconciling of differences in this Province which undoubtedly have given your Lordships much trouble. I will always endeavour to administer justice impartially without any regard to persons or partys, nor shall any thing weigh with me or recommend any man to impleyments of honour and trust, but virtue and true merit.

Our perusal of the Minutes of the Assembly here, who met between my Lord Bellomont's death and my return, the 2<sup>d</sup> April last, I found so great heats and animosities in the House of Representatives, between the two different parties, in relation to the legality or illegality of their Session &c that I could never hope any step could be made either towards the King's service or the service of this Province, by disposing them to a unanimous concurrence; so that upon several mature considerations, I thought it absolutely necessary for the King's service to dissolve them, and accordingly did dissolve them the first instant, and immediately by the advice and consent of his Majestys Council here, ordered writs to issue for the calling a new Assembly to meet the first Tuesday in August next, which will be immediately on my return from Albany, when I may be able to be apprised of particulars relating to the King's service and the good of the Province in general, proper for their cognizance.

Here is considerable parcell of the timber, plank, &c my Lord Bellomont ordered to be cut for his Majesty's service, which to me appears very extraordinary, both for goodness and demention; which I shall wait your Lordships order for, how to dispose of.

My Lords, both the officer and Soldier are most abundantly thankfull to his Majesty for his most gracious bounty in remitting them 20 of the 30 p<sup>t</sup> Cent deducted out of their pay, and most thankfull to your Lordships for your favourable representation. On receipt of the New Establishment they were immediately began to be paid, and as soon as possible I can get in money, which is at present very scarce, the merchants finding specie their best returns for England, I will take care every man shall be paid his just due from the commencement of the Establishment, and I will be accountable for the surplusage, pursuant to his Majesty's direction.

I shall be very watchfull of all motions made by the French of Canada towards the debauching of our Indians from their obedience to his Majesty and the interest of his plantations, and report constantly what shall occur therein to your Lordships.

The £2500 his Majesty is pleased to give toward the fortification of the forts of Albany & Schenectadah shall be no ways misapplied, and your Lordships shall have draughts of either, taken by Coll: Romer with the form and improvements he will designe to add, in order to the building or strengthening of each.

I cannot give your Lordships any particulars relating to the situation or form of the fort designed at Onondage, till have discoursed Coll: Romer, but the money given by a tax here for the building of that Fort is most part received by the Collectors, I have ordered an account thereof to be immediately laid before me, in order to the hastening the receipt of the whole summe.

I will if possible procure an accurate map of our neighbouring Indian countrys, as your Lordships direct, marking the names of the several nations and places of their abode.

Your Lordships shall, on my return from Albany, have a perfect state of the defence of this Province.

I shall make it my particular business to enquire into and improve His Majesty's revenue as much as in me lies, both by encouragement to trade, and care that the several officers employed behave themselves as they ought in their several stations.

The commission for trying Pirates, is received.

Pursuant to your Lordship's direction I have ordered the Court of Chancery to be held, commencing the first Thursday in August next; so monthly.

On Thursday arrived Captain Lee with stores from the office of Ordnance, but no letters from your Lordships.

I send your Lordships the two last quarters minutes of Council.

I doubt not but my Lord Bellomont before he dyed, represented to your Lordships the hardships the soldiers of the two detachments sent us for recruits viz<sup>t</sup> the one from Sir Charles Hara's regiment and the other from Ireland, lye under for want of Clothes, they at present having scarce any thing to cover them; and, as I understand from M<sup>r</sup> Champante's letter of March last, there was then no off-reck'nings received, I most humbly pray your Lordships to take their necessities under your serious consideration, so that they may be clothed before the cold weather, or otherwise 'twill be impossible for them to survive. I have ordered M<sup>r</sup> Champante to make his applications to your Lordships on this subject, it being so material for the King's service.

Between my Lord's death and my arrival, several of the soldiers have deserted, but I am in great hopes of retrieving them all by a proclamation of pardon, I issued on my arrival, to all shall return before the first of July next, with a reward to all shall take up any that doe not return within that time; which I have taken care to disperse round the neighbouring Governments, and have heard that most of them design to imbrace this benefit and return to their duty.

According to his Majesty's instruction your Lordships has herewith a particular inventory of the magazine &c within his Majesty's fort William Henry, and at my return from Albany your Lordships shall have a particular of what's there &c A duplicate of what I now send your Lordships, I send M<sup>r</sup> Sec<sup>r</sup> Vernon, which I will annually doe, in obedience to that instruction.

I shall observe your Lordships method in transmitting to you the public Acts of Assembly. I know not any thing more, at present, worthy your Lordships cognizance; for my own part I will leave nothing undone that may any way advance his Majesty's honour and interest, and hope that thro' my integrity and vigilance I shall be able in some measure to gain your Lordships favourable opinion. I am, with great respect

My Lords

My Lords

The King having been pleased to appoint the Lord Viscount Cornbury to be Governour of New Yorke commands me to signify the same to your Lordships, and that it is his pleasure you forthwith prepare a Commission & Instructions for his Lordship for that purpose, inserting in the said Commission a clause for revoking and determining the Commission of the present Lieutenant Governour of that Colony, or doing the same in such other manner as you think most proper. [New-York Entries, D. 404.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

May it please your Lordships.

This goes to cover the inclosed duplicate of my observations made upon the late Lord Bellomont's propositions for the security and defence of New Yorke, dated the 13th of May last, with two schemes for the security of this Province, one in time of peace, the other in time of war; the original being sent by Captain Dixon who went from New Yorke about a month agoe. Since the sending of which I was fully determined to have gone to England my self by a briganteen that put in here from Jamaica, to wait upon your Lordships, but our Lieutenant Governour who arrived from Barbados, dissuaded me because he had sent to speake to the Five Nations at Albany the first week of next month, and required my attendance on that service; which I conceived my duty to obey. The reasons which induced me to so suddain a resolution was these three:—

1st To vindicate my self of that aspersion of the late Lord Bellomont's mentioned in his letter to your Lordships of the 8th of July 1699, of which I perceive your Lordships take particular notice in your letter to him of the 30th of October 1700. Ducan Campbell was accidentally at New Yorke when I had the knowledge thereof who hath taken his oath that I never did confederate propose or agree, nor in any manner of way contrive with him, directly or indirectly, to imbezle any of the money cargo or effects whatsoever of Captain Kidd; so that this was a meer jealousy of his late Lordship at that time, without any ground, of which his Lordship was satisfied four days after, when I took my oath before his Lordship and the Council at Boston, which his Lordships multiplicity of business caused him to omit to inform your Lordships of, as his Lordships letter to me since, the original whereof sent over to my correspondent to be laid before your Lordships with the said Campbell's deposition, will make appear.

The second cause was, that I have so far exhausted my estate in the King's service, that I am not only become disabled to carry on my trade of Merchandize, but must be totally ruin'd, without your Lordships' redress, as the inclosed abstract will demonstrate, amounting to £3412 7 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ . being reduced to that low estate for want of my money due by the Crown, that I am forced to take up money at 10 p<sup>r</sup> Cent to pay those debts I contracted to subsist the King's forces. Moreover the Earle of Bellomont granted me warrants last fall for 5 $\frac{1}{2}$  years salary, pursuant to the King's commission entred in the Plantation Office lib. New York. Vol. 3. p. 191. which I assigned over to the merchants for the payment of debts that I had contracted for the victualling, and afterwards makes an order of Council of the 30th January last to stop the payment thereof, whereby the merchants all fall upon me, and are like to teare me to pieces.

The 3<sup>d</sup> reason was to satisfy your Lordships in any thing relating to those schemes I presumed to transmit to your Lordships, or any thing else that might conduce to the defence and security of this Province, or about the Indians.

I shall not detain your Lordships any longer having sent over my case stated, to my correspondent to be laid before your Lordships; depending wholly on your Lordship's Justice and that of my cause.

As for the offices I have formerly executed so many years in this Province, I am willing to continue the execution of, or to lay down, as your Lordships shall conceive most for his Majesty's service.

I am with great respect, My Lords,

Your Lordships most humble

and most obedient servant

Lords of Trade to the King.

[New-York Entries, D. 302.]

To the KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

May it please Your Majesty.

In obedience to Your Majesty's commands signified to us by the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges, we have prepared the annexed draught of a commission for the Lord Cornbury to be Governour of your Majesty's Province of New Yorke, with a clause for determining the commission of Capt. John Naufan the present Lieutenant Governour of that Province: and we have thereunto added a clause empowering his Lordship to command the Militia of East and West New Jersey, as the Earl of Bellomont was empowered by his commission for the Government of New Yorke; as likewise the militia of Connecticut which was comprehended in the Earl of Bellomont's commission for the Massachuset Bay, but, as we humbly conceive may be more conveniently in the hands of the Governour of New Yorke.

We further humbly offer to your Majesty that the Province of New Yorke having been severall years at great expences for the defence of their frontiers, there may be sent thither with the Lord Cornbury towards their defence 100 light muskets, fifty barrills of powder with ball proportionable, 6000 flints, 100 granade shells, 6 drums and drum cords proportionable; which may suffice at present upon his Lordships memorial hereunto annexed.

We further humbly propose that Coll. Romer the Engineer who has been employed about the Forts and Fortifications necessary for the security of the said Province, should inform his Lordship in all things relating thereunto; and that therefore said Romer may be directed to continue there till his Lordships arrival and so much longer as his Lordship shall find requisite.

We likewise humbly offer that your Majesty would please to direct that his Lordship may have a Vice Admiralty Commission for the Province of New Yorke and the Colonies of Connecticut and of East and West New Jersey, and that orders be given for his passage to his government with his goods and family; as is usual.

All which nevertheless is most humbly submitted.

Chief Justice Atwood to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D, 417.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords.

Having had a very long voyage of above three months it has been impossible for me to do much in execution of either of those Comissions which your Lordships were pleased to think me worthy of. The business at New Yorke and in the Admiralty and Circuit, the contributing towards settling a Court of Chancery & the approach of a Generall Assembly which is to meet on Tuesday next, render it I fear impracticable for me to goe to Boston to open an Admiralty Court there, till after the Supreme Court of this Province to be held the first Tuesday in October. But I hope I shall be able to be sooner at Connecticut, Rhode Island and the Jerseys, and whenever I can hear of any occasion of going to any place within my commission, I shall do my utmost to be there in convenient time.

The last Judge of the Admiralty at Boston assures me, in answer to my letter, that no cause is depending there; yet that shall not occasion my forbearing to enquire what matters ought to be brought thither.

It being my duty to advise for his Majesty's service, I have directed suggestions to be drawn for a prohibition, after a sentence in the Court of Admiralty, in favour of one Wake, who seems to have had no register to qualify his ship to trade, and yet was excused upon a pretended composition with the Naval Officer. As the Supreme Court is under the regulation of the Governour and Council, I have advised them to appoint the Court to sit specially for this matter before the usual time of sitting. I am and shall be far from prejudging the cause, and will use my utmost endeavour to do right to His Majesty and the subject.

The owners of the ship being men of good estates, the lawyers here expect a good prize of 'em & threaten beforehand to appeale to England. Therefore it may be requisite to inform your Lordships the more particularly how the case at present appears.

The Captain came hither from England two years since without any certificate of having registered his ship. Upon which the Naval Officer seized her and immediately let her goe upon the Captain's giving his single bond to produce a Register or surrender his ship by a day that is past. Returning upon a third voyage she was seized by the Cheif officer of the Customs and informed against in the Admiralty before the late Judge's Deputy who discharg'd the seizure supposing that the Naval Officer had authority to compound, and that such a bond is a composition.

The Captain is withdrawn from this Province the ship continues here, but, as I take it, cannot be bound by this obligation; and if the sentence of the Court of Admiralty cannot be set aside at Common Law, His Majesty will be defeated of his forfeiture; nor as I conceive is it reasonable to stay for the ordinary session of the Supreme Court, not only because of the complaints of the Captain, of the Ship's being kept from her voyage, but of the danger that it should be carried away before the matter be legally determined.

Indeed an information by another informer was exhibited into the Supreme Court before my arrival, but the sentence in the Court of Admiralty may certainly be pleaded in barr to that. Tho' the death of the late Earle of Bellomont was a great disappointment to me, I must needs owne myself much obliged to the Lieutenant Governour, who seems satisfied with my zeale for his Majesty's service; in which I find him very hearty.

He has, in my apprehension, obtained a very advantagious gift from the Indians of a vast tract of land, of great consequence to secure their fidelity. I expect from his prudence an happy issue of the General Assembly: & cannot but hope for your Lordships favourable construction of my endeavours for the service of his Majesty and good of this Province, humbly begging the continuance of your protection to, My Lords,

New York the

Lords of Trade to Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan.

[New-York Entries, D. 401.]

To the Hon<sup>ble</sup> John Nanfan Esq<sup>r</sup> His Majesty's Lieutenant Governour and Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Province of New Yorke and the Territories depending thereon in America, or to the Commander in Chief of the Province of New Yorke for the time being.

Sir.

Since our last to you of the 7th of May we have received yours of the 20th of the same month and of the 9th of June. We had also before the receipt of yours, one from the Council of New York dated the 10th of March, two from M<sup>r</sup> Smith M<sup>r</sup> Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston jointly dated the 30th of April & 5th of May, one from M<sup>r</sup> Smith dated the 10th of May, and one from M<sup>r</sup> Livingston dated the 13th of May.

We are satisfied to understand that your arrival at New York had put an end to the disputes that were risen amongst the Counsellors there, about the devolution of the Government, concerning which we will only say that we do<sup>t</sup> find by his Majesty's commission to the Earl of Bellomont that any distinct power is conferred on a President separate from the rest of the Council of that Province. The heats that have been long amongst the Counsellors and others are so very prejudicial to that Province that we think it proper to renew our directions to you, that you use your utmost endeavours to allay them.

We are sensible of the hardships the soldiers lye under, and have done what we have been able upon all occasions for their encouragement. We are very well pleased with the care that has been taken there for their present subsistence; and as M<sup>r</sup> Champante is hitherto continued in the Agency & does accordingly look after their concerns, we doubt not but he gives you due notice of all things relating thereunto.

Your letter does not require any particular answer; but we do expect the success of the meeting of the Assembly that you had called, the effects of your intended meeting with the Indians, and an account of the state of defence of the Province, with what else you promise.

We have given due information of what you write, or what we have otherwise understood concerning the timber plank and masts that were provided by the Earl of Bellomont, and doubt not but such orders will thereupon be given as shall be thought fit.

The Earl of Bellomont in his letter of the 21st February last, proposed to us some doubts concerning foreigners endenized in England, upon which we took the opinion of M<sup>r</sup> Attorney and M<sup>r</sup> Solicitor General, and we now send you here inclosed a copy thereof.

You will have understood that his Majesty has been pleased to confer the Government of that Province upon the Lord Cornbury, whose dispatches are now preparing. In the mean while the care which you have hitherto taken in the government will be a means to recommend you to his Majesty's favour in some other station. So we bid you heartily farewell.

Your very loving friends

Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 412.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords

My last to your Lordships was the 9th June in which I inclosed to your Lordships an inventory of all particulars within his Majesty's fort William Henry; I have since met our Five Nations of Indians at Albany and now inclosed send your Lordships the journal of the agents I sent to Onondage in order to watch the motions of the French Agents sent thither, viz' Mons<sup>r</sup> Maricour and the Jesuit Bruias; the conference with our Five Nations, with an instrument I have procured from them whereby they convey to the Crown of England a tract of land 800 miles long and 400 miles broad including all their beaver hunting; with a draught the most accurate I have been able to procure, of the situation of our Five Nations as well as that land conveyed to his Majesty, which your Lordships may please to observe begins at Jarondigat, and is within the prick'd line I heartily wish and hope it will prove both serviceable and satisfactory to his Majesty, and if I have your Lordships approbation of my industry I have my ends.

In perusal of the Conference your Lordships will see how intirely I have fix'd our Indians in their obedience to his Majesty and in their friendship to this and his Majesty's neighbouring Provinces, which I hope may be equally serviceable and satisfactory. I brought with me to New Yorke Decanissore, the great Indian of Onondage, and sent him up extremely satisfied with some small presents; he giving me great assurances of his zeale for his Majesty's interest.

I since am honour'd with your Lordships packetts via Boston of 29th and 30th April, directed to the Earl of Bellomont or Commander in Cheif, and one other packett of the 7th May, directed to my self.

As to that of the 29th April, I immediately order'd his Majesty's Proclamation relating to Pirates, to be read in Councill, and then published and publicly affix'd, and shall exactly observe all your Lordships orders contained in that letter. And as to your Lordships of the 30th D<sup>o</sup> with his Majesty's order countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury, commanding the not allowing M<sup>r</sup> Weaver's article in his acc<sup>t</sup> for one year and half's salary &c I also read in Council and directed accordingly.

As to your Lordships of the 7th May to me, I shall as carefully observe both as to your advice & your direction; and to shew your Lordships that it was my opinion that neither his Majesty nor the Province could be served during the heats & animosities of parties, I inclose your Lordships two proclamations I issued on the dissolution of the late Assembly, & my speech to this Assembly, who met yesterday.

Your Lordships will see my intention is to revive an Act expired in May last, which I hope to effect, and do promise my self great assistance from so honest and so judicious a gentleman as our Cheif Justice, for his Majesty's service and the service of this Province.

As to the fortifications on our frontiers, what are of the old yet standing are so much out of repair that they are perfectly unserviceable. Coll: Romer I have not been able to procure from Boston tho' I have wrote often to him and the late L<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup>, the absolute necessity there was of his immediately beginning to fortify Albany and Schenectadah; but the Council and Assembly resolve to detain him till he has fortified their Castle Island. I carried with me one of the Surveyors General, and to make a beginning I staked out one of Coll: Romer's designs, viz<sup>t</sup> the oblong square sent to your Lordships, believing it to be most conducive to the safety of the town, and on the Coll<sup>ts</sup>: arrivall I will forthwith order him to proceed and from time to time give your Lordships an account of our progress; and as [to] the fort at Onondage not having seen Coll: Romer, I have not been able to inform myself in that matter.

I most humbly thank your Lordships as to the augmentation of my salary, and shall from my arrival last from Barbados receive it, as your Lordships conceive I am intituled to, by his Majesty's commission, till his Majesty's pleasure be further known.

I shall make it my intire business the improvement of his Majesty's revenue, & take particular care that all the Officers concern'd therein, effectually do their dutys. The Books and Accounts of His Majesty's revenue are in the hands of the Commissioners for proceeds; but the late Act of Assembly being something defective, they could not well proceed, but I have recommended it to the Cheif Justice to make such amendments as it requires, and will [recommend] to this Assembly the continuance of it for some longer time.

I know nothing else at this time material for your Lordships cognizance, but will make use of all opportunities of informing your Lordships of what may occur. I am, with great regard,
My Lords,

Your Lord<sup>ts</sup> most faithfull
& most obedient servant

New Yorke the
20th August 1701

JOHN NANFAN.

P. S. My Lords, I am disappointed of the 2<sup>d</sup> quarters minutes, they being not quite ready, and this ship just going. I will send them by a vessell will goe very soon.

Journal of Messrs. Bleeker and Schuyler's Visit to Onondaga.

[New-York Papers. Bundle P. Q., Q 47.]

1701. June the 2nd—Wee went from Albany to Schennechtady and gott our horses shod
June the 3rd. Wee sett out from Schinnechtady and came to the Protestant Maquase Indian Castle and told them that wee were bound to Onondage to hear what Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrecour had to propound to the Five nations—

June 4th. Wee came to the furthest Castle of the Maquase, the Sachims desired us to stay a day and they would send some of their number with us to Onnondage to hear what Marrecour had to say, which wee did.—

June 6th. Wee proceeded on our journey and when wee had travelled about thirty two miles it begun to rain.

5th June 7th. About noon it clear'd up and wee went on and gott to a creek called Eghwake.<sup>1</sup>—

<sup>1</sup> The Eghwagy is the East branch of the Tienaderha, or Unndilla, creek, and rises in the town of Paris, Oneida county. It will be found laid down in Guy Johnson's Map of the Country of the Six Nations, and in Sauthier's Map of the Province of New-York.—Ed.

June 5th. Wee gott to Oneyde where the Sachims desired us to stay aday and they would send Sachims with us, which wee did.

June the 9th. Mathys Nack came to us in Oneyde with instructions from the Lieut' Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council to require the Sachims of the five nations to meet his Honour att Albany in thirty dayes Whereupon wee forthwith convened the Sachims of this Castle together and acquainted them therewith and gave them seaven hands of Wampum.—

June the 10th. Wee went from Oneyde with five Oneyde Sachims and arrived at Onnondage and called the Sachims together and told them that the Lieut' Gov<sup>r</sup> expected them at Albany in thirty days and gave seaven hands of Wampum.—

June 11th. Wee sent two Onnondage Indians express to Cayouge and the Sinnekes Country to acquaint the Sachims to be att Albany in thirty days pursuant to our instructions.

June the 13th. The said two Messengers returned to Onnondage having performed their message.

June 14th. This evening four Sinneke Sachims arrived whom the Onnondages had sent for to hear what Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrecour had to propose, and to consult about two Belts the one being sent by our Governour and the other by Marrocou—the Belts were relating to religion, which were rejected by the Onnondages; what the Cayouges and Sinnekes will doe time will learn.—Dikanissore Chiefe Sachim of Onnondages lately from Canada doth say that when he came to Montreall the Governour received him kindly, saluting him with two kisses, telling him he was glad to see him alive. and while he was discoursing with the Governour, a person of quality came in whom the Governour's interpreter told—This [is] the great Hero whose picture you have seen att Paris and further that he dined with the Governour att his table and din'd also with a Clergyman a Fryer who desired that he might have his picture drawn—That he gott many presents of the Governour, a gunn with two barrells a lac'd coate a hatt a shirte Tobacco and sundry other things.—

After six days stay he told the Governour he would return which the Gov<sup>r</sup> left to himselfe adding that he would not press him to stay, since he knew that if he were not in the Castle all would run into confusion, telling him withall that he would be wanted there to send for the Cayouges and Sinnekes agst Marrecour's coming to Onnondage.—

Dekanissore told the Gov<sup>r</sup> he would send for all the Five-nations together and for his Brother Corlaer likewise, the Gov<sup>r</sup> told him he might do his pleasure, that he never said any thing but every body might hear itt and caused him to be conveyed by three Frenchmen above Cadarachqui telling them not to lett him paddle all the way which was punctually observed.—

Wee endeavoured to satisfy him of all the French intrigues and told him to goe to Albany to hear what proposals would be made there with a considerable present and that the Rather because he had not been there last summer when the Sachims were there and being lately come from Canada would be best able to give an account of affairs there, asking him withall what he had done in Canada, who answered wee should hear that when all the Sachims of the Five nations were mett together.

June 15th. Wee desired the Sachims to meet since wee would send a post to Albany, they said they were not a full house and soe could not give a positive answer but as soon as the rest of the Sachims were come, would tell us when they went to Albany and would send a post before.

This day a post come who told that Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrecour was a coming that he would be here tomorrow; A while after a Frenchman and an Indian came who desired of the Sachims who were then mett that they would receive Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrecour att Caneenda eight miles from Onnondage and that some Squaes should goe along to carry the Baggage.

The Sachims forthwith went with a great Company to receive him the Sachims asked us to goe along, but wee told them wee were sent to Onnondage and not to Kaneenda.

They came in the next day in great triumph with the French flagg the Sachims mett together and the french made their proposals, among the rest the Jesuit Bruyas told them of the King of Spain's death.

June 22nd. When wee were all Conven'd the Cayouges acquainted Corlaer and the four nations that they had lost their great Capt<sup>n</sup> last fall call'd Kanonaweendowanne, and have gott his Brother to succeed him who takes the same name, they gave a bunch of Wampum to each nation and to Corlaer also.

The Onnondages did also acquaint the Assembly of the great loss they had lately sustained by the death of Sakoghsinnakichte one of their Chief Capt<sup>ns</sup> who departed this life this last winter and have nominated another in his room with the same name and gave each nation a bunch of Wampum.

the 19. June Dekanitsore Chief Sachim of Onnondage doth in the publick meeting of all the 1701. Indians, acquaint them that he had been lately at Canada and had spoke to the Governour by the fourteen Beavers as follows.—

Father.

You see here your child who treated with you here last year that if any of our people should be kill'd wee were to acquaint you of itt and now I am come to tell you that they have kill'd of our people twice since that time, and you told us then that you would send for those that did the mischiefe and they should make reparation—Itt had been well if you had said then that those who kill should be kill'd themselves, if wee had had a fowl heart when wee were kill'd wee would have kill'd them again. Gave a bunch of Wampum.—

You told us your children to come and trade here and now you see us come who heartily salute you — gave three Beavers.

Wee desire you to lett us have good Pennyworths — gave three Beavers —

You Governour are very unfair, to go about to build a Forte att Tuighsaghrondy<sup>1</sup> before you acquaint us therewith, I thought you would have told us when you had any such design and desire you doe not proceed with your worke till the middle of summer and then our Sachims will be here when wee will treat about that matter — Gave four Beavers.

Wee hear they are going to warr in Europe tell us the truth of that matter.

Wee tell you further that the Wagannes take our land from us, where wee hunt beaver, lett them hunt upon their own land els wee shall kill one another for the beavers when wee meet together; Wee doe suspect that some have been kill'd already by this meanes, therefore desire that the Waganhaes may make a little room that wee may finde out who knocks one another in the head—let us have no controversie for that place where the beaver keep.

The Governour of Canada answer with three belts and a bunch of Wampum.—

Children.

Wee treated here last year and I told you if any of your people were kill'd to tell me of it, and itt is now twice that I have heard your complaints of your men being kill'd, I have said nothing to itt yet.—

Children. But as soon as my Ambassador comes from Ottowawa who I send there then I will think of your complaints, itt would not be well to speak of itt before I know the matter, did give a belt.

I doe make a Forte at Tjghsaghrondy to supply you with all necessaries when you are a hunting. powder and lead ettc: and what else you shall want: did give a belt of Wampum.

You say itt is Warr but I know nothing of the matter, itt is now peace with all you Five nations and therefore do not hearken to any ill discourse and be quiet and hearken not to your Brother Corlaer when he stirs you up to evil, itt is now peace as long as wee live, and if there be warr again, lett us fight along with your Brother Corlaer and you may have powder where you please either att Canada or from your Brother Corlaer and then you will live in peace. You shall have two Roads to goe in safety while wee will bee 'att warr, one to your Brother Corlaer, and another to us in Canada—did give a belt of Wampum.—

You tell me I am not good, but nobody knows my thoughts, if Mr Marrisour had known my design last fall he would have told you that I would have made a Forte att Tjghsaghrondy, and hereupon I gave a Bunch of Wampum.—

Dekanissore told the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada

You have now spoke but I would not have you write any thing downe, for I can not come to treat of any public affairs only this I say that you and our Brother Corlaer will quarell, because nobody knows your thoughts, I will acquaint your Brother Corlaer with what you have said as also the Maquase.—

This Dekanissore told in the presence of Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrecour when he was about to make his propositions to the Five Nations the 19th June 1701, in Onmondage which was as follows.—

Your Sachims of the five nations, your Father Nondio Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada calls you to come in thirty days to him—did give a belt of Wampum.—

I demand now all our prisoners Christians and Indians that are still among you and I will now take them along with me—did give a belt of Wampum.—

I doe now acquaint you all that wee doe make a Forte att Tjghsaghrondy, wee had such thoughts last winter when you were att Cadarachqui to build a Forte there to prevent all inconveniences of the Waganhaes—doe give a bunch of Wampum.—

I doe acquaint you with the death of the King of Spain, and that the Dauphin's youngest son succeeds him in that Kingdom which is a very great country and like to be a great deale adoe about itt and how matters will goe yett time will discover; when the King of Spain was upon his death bed he considered that itt would be best to leave his Crown to his nearest relation and gave a belt of Wampum and told them further, that he hath send some of his people to Cayouge and the Sinnekes to make the same propositions to them as he had doue here.—

Dekanissore came and told us that they were much confused in their meeting and extremely divided, some will have a priest on the one side of the Castle and a Minister on the other side, and asked our advice. Wee told him to take no priest into the country if they were minded to live peaceably, for they would then have a Traytor always in their land. Your Brother Corlaer will never be able to speak a word to you but the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada will know itt. On the other side you maybe assured that Corlaer the Governour of New York will never suffer itt soe long as sun and moon endures, how are you soe discomfited and affrighted doe you not see how the French creep and cringe to you with beads and shirts to make friends with you, would he, doe soe if he had any ill design, be not affraid of the French, speake like men and behave yourselves like soldiers, for which you have always been famous.—

Dekanissore replied, wee are affraid the French will make warr again upon us and what can wee doe then poor people for all them that he pronounces dead are certainly dead, wee have found itt soe by experience as also our Brethren the Maquases, and if wee comply not to that he will have us wee fear he will come again and kill us. Wee answered:
Brethren.

You talk of nobody but Onnondio the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada or doe you think that your Brother Corlaer cannot be angry likewise he has tender'd you first a Protestant Minister and would you now take a Popish priest, that would render you ridiculous. Wee admire that you are soe affraid of the French when there is no cause, when you can support your reputation, can you not see that the French are in want, how are you soe brutish and stupid; I was at Canada this spring and see their scarcity of provisions and wherewith would they goe to warr, be not affraid, speak like men, neither dare the Governour of Canada make warr upon you before there is a warr between the two Kings at home and if that happen'd the Brethren would see what care our King would take of you.

Dekanissore Replies and said.

Itt was concluded in our covenant that he that touch't one all the rest would resent itt, butt wee found itt otherwise by experience when the French came and destroyed our Country and the Maquase wee gave you seasonable warning, butt gott no assistance and that makes us affraid what to doe;—About ten a clock att night Dekanissore came to us again and told us they were still divided in their opinions and that he had not slept in two nights and prayed our Councill what to doe, wee told him to keep the Priest out of the Country to keep their land free and clear and not to fear.

The 22nd June 1701. Dekanissore speaks and said—

Wee are desired by both parties to turn Christians, in the first place by a belt given us in this house by Coll: Peter Schuyler Queder, and M<sup>r</sup> Livingston secretary and then another belt sent by the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada, wee see both the belts hang in these Courte house.

The French being present and all the Five Nations they said—

You both tell us to be Christians, you both make us madd wee know not what side to choose but I will speake no more of praying or Christianity and take the belts down and keep them because you are both to deare with your goods, I would have accepted of his belt who sold the cheapest pennyworth, would you have me put on a bear skin to goe to church withall a sundays, wee are sorry wee can not pray, but now wee are come to this conclusion those that sells their goods cheapest whether English or French of them will wee have a Minister, our Sachims are going some to Albany, some to Canada in the mean time we will consider of itt till winter—

Wee believe the Christians are minded to warr again because the Priest is soe earnest that wee should be newter and sitt still, and wee tell you wee will hold fast to the peace, and if there be any breach itt will be your faults not ours, You must heare us speake before you engage in a warr again and then gave a belt of Wampum to us and another to the French—

When Dekanissore had made an end of his proposition he told us, he would not goe to Canada (as he was once designed) because he could not get his requests granted of having goods cheap, what pains he took was not for his private gaine, but for the good of all the Five nations and those that gave the last pennyworths them they would love best.

The 23d June All the Sachims of the Five nations being convened together call'd us and said, Corlaer hearken to what wee are now going to tell you what happened in our hunting with the Waganhaes or Farr Indians; wee have made peace with four of their nations and wee gott some skinnis from the Waganhaes which is a signe of peace and told us further they would conceale nothing from us but wee should know whatever thing hapned in their Country—this is all interpreted by Lawrence Claese the Interpreter.

The house being mett, Dekanissore said he believ'd when the Sachims would come to Canada the Governour would insist upon that point to have a Jesuit in their Country and if he does, soe, what shall wee doe. David Schuyler replied that they should never agree to that, that they were assured our Gov<sup>r</sup> would never suffer that soe long as the sun and moon endured, he believed the Sachims would grant itt notwithstanding because they fear'd the French.—

25. June A messenger comes from Canada to Marricour who caused the Sachims to meet and tells them that he had received news from Ottowawa from M<sup>r</sup> Corlemasche that all their prisoners were coming which they had among the Waganhaes, and that they would be in Canada in ten days time; And that the Sachims were called to be in Canada in fourteen days time.

The 26th June The Sachims being convened Dekanissore told Mon<sup>r</sup> Marricour. Corlaer tells us wee are Masters of our own land and the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada has told us the same, and now without speaking a word doe you goe and build a Forte att Tjughsaghrondie. He said further, my Brother Corlaer is instant with me to turn Christian and Onnondio also if but one had desired itt wee would have accepted of the offer for wee Sinnekes are minded to have one faith.

27. June Early in the morning a canoe with three French and two Indians went to Canada to bring the news that Indians were coming.

28 June Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrocour went from house to house to gett the French Prisoners and gott three women and a boy among the rest he comes into a house of an Indian called Taghwangeronde and finds a little French boy whom he gott to his lodging after much adoe, and when he was taking him to Caneenda to the Canoes, the boy cry'd desperately, att last two Indians came to rescue the boy, and stood between him and Marricour and said, what is

Conference of Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan with the Indians.

[New-York Papers. Bundle P. Q, Q 48.]

Upon the 10th July 1701.

All the Sachims of the Five Nations (who arrived here yesterday) repaired to His Maj<sup>y</sup>'s Fort att Albany, and waited on the Hon<sup>ble</sup> John Nanfan Esq<sup>r</sup> Lieut. Gov<sup>r</sup> and told him they were heartily glād to see him in that station, and that His Maj<sup>y</sup> of great Brittain whom they call Coraghkoo had been pleased to pitch upon him to succeed the late Earle of Bellomont decess'd to be Gov<sup>r</sup> of this province that they were come upon His Hon<sup>rs</sup> message and had brought no presents with them now, being come only to congratulate His Honour in his Govern<sup>t</sup> and said :

Brother Corlaer.

Wee hope you will continue the love and affection that former Governours sent by the Kings of England have had to us the Five nations.

The Lieut' Gov<sup>r</sup> answer to the 5 nations.

I heartily thank you for your kind congratulation and you may be assured not only of the favour and protection of the great King of England my Master the demonstrations whereof you will finde before you goe hence, but of my rediness to serve you on all occasions I purpose to speak to you to morrow at nine a clock in the Courte House and hope you will be there ready to attend.—

Att a conference held att Albany between the Hon<sup>ble</sup> John Nanfan Esq<sup>r</sup> Lieut Gov<sup>r</sup> and Commander in chiefe of the province of New Yorke and territories depending thereon in America and vice Admiral of the same and the Sachims of the Five Nations called the Maquase, Oneydes, Onnondages, Cayouges, and Sinnekes in the City Hall of Albany on the 12th day of July 1701.—

Brethren.

I am sorry to begin our conference with the melancholy story of the death of the truly noble Lord Richard Earle of Bellomout late Capt<sup>n</sup> Generall and Governour in chiefe of this province etc: whome itt hath pleased God in my absence from this province etc: whome itt hath pleased God in my absence from this province, to take unto himselfe.

Itt has pleased His Maj<sup>ty</sup> to appoint me by his Royall commission to succeed in the Govern<sup>t</sup> of this province, I doe therefore assure you in the name of the great King of England my Master, not only of his kindness and protection, but of His Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s particular favour and esteem for the Brethren of the Five Nations, which you will finde by that considerable present he has been pleased to send from England for you, and now brought hither by me to give you as a marke of his Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s favour, for your adhering to the interest of the English Crown, which as it is your duty as his subjects soe you will ever finde itt tend to your best security and preservation —

I am not a stranger just come among you, and therefore not surpris'd to hear that the French of Canada continue their practices and wicked artifices to deceive and seduce you. I hear that Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrisour and the Jesuit Bruy as agents sent by the Gov<sup>t</sup> of Canada, have been lately in your Country att Onnoudage, I desire to know their business and negotiation with you.

I am also desirious to know what progress you have made in that matter of moment recommended you soe highly in the last conference to make peace with the Farr Nations of Indians whom the French have soe long employ'd to kill your people, you must needs perceive their drift by such methods itt is to extirpate your name without which they can not reckon themselves secure in their Country.

I am glad to hear you have refused to accept of a popish priest in your country from the French, you shall not faile to have protestant Ministers to instruct you in the true Christian religion, Wee expect some very soon over, but if you receive a French priest into your country, I must take it as a total defection of your Loyalty to the English Crown.

I hope you have prevailed upon your brethren that deserted you and went to the French, to return back to a plentiful country rather then to starve att Canada; I doubt one of Mons<sup>r</sup> Marrisour's principal errands has been to fetch from your Castle Indian corne to subsist the people of Canada almost famish'd for want of food; Pray tell me if they have not made another trip from Cadarachqui for Indian corne since our people came from thence. —

I will say no more to burthen your memories I will discourse you further upon another subject when I shall have received your answer to what I have now proposed to you.

Brother Corlaer.

Wee are glad to see you in this station to command this province, wee must own ourselves very happy under so gracious a King who was so prudent and provident to send over two Governours the one to succeed the other wee take it to be his great care and love to us.

Wee are sorry for the death of our late Gov<sup>r</sup> the Earle of Bellomont, wee hope his soul is in heaven, and on the other hand wee are glad to see that soe good a man as yourselfe succeeds him.

Wee must esteem ourselves extream happy that our Brother Corlaer is a young active man expert in warr it is the joy of all our young people to see a Governour fit for service and that can travell and endure fatigue, wee will all have our eys fix<sup>t</sup> upon you the rather because wee meet with great difficulties dayly from the French of Canada.—

Brother Corlaer. Wee doubt not but you will be carefull to keep and maintain the covenant chaine firme as the late Gov<sup>r</sup> has done, who is now in heaven, and our earnest desire and prayer is that you may continue long with us in the station His Maj<sup>ty</sup> has been pleased to place you in and that wee may frequently see one another in this City the Generall place of Treaty of all the five nations.

Wee doe with all sincerity acknowledge the great kindnesse, that His Maj<sup>ty</sup> our great King has for the five nations. Wee will endeavour to behave ourselves as such that may merritt his Majesties esteem by our faithfulness to the English Crown. Wee cannot sufficiently express our gratitude to soe gracious a prince and wee shall never faile to obey your Commands who are his Lieut<sup>t</sup> and doe hope that in some respect you will also hearken to us as the case may require

You are desirous to know what the French agents have done in our country — their principal business was to settle a priest among us to teach us Christianity but wee have soe often had experience of their wickedness and fallacy, that wee have possitively denied him any access there, for by the priests means, wee have been brought very low, they have been the occassion of the death of many of our men and of a great breach in our country by seducing our people to Canada.

You are also desirous to know what private negociations or underground darke dealings there has been with the French in our country; We have made strict enquiry among all our people and can learn nothing but what the people you sent thither are privy to, and what they entred down in writing, if you know of any thing else then what they have given you an account of, pray tell us, wee shall be glad to be informed— You know Brother, that as often as the covenant chain has been renew'd itt has always been agreed that neither party was to listen to any story's or falsehoods.

As to the satisfying you of what treatie wee have made with the Dowaganhaes and other Farr Indians, wee have endeavoured to acquaint you by the sending of a large skinn upon which the Castles are painted with whome wee have concluded a peace, meaning that Elk skin sent by Capt<sup>o</sup> Bleeker and David Schuyler where there is two Castles painted with red upon itt, adding, they have made peace with seaven nations and that the two nearest nations are only painted as being the principall the names of the said seaven nations wee have made peace with are: Skighquan, Estjage, Assisagh, Karhadage, Adgeuauwe, Karrihaet, Adirondax.

As to our Indians debauched to Canada by the French wee have used all endeavours imaginable to gett them back but cannot prevaile, the Jesuits have soe great influence upon them that they stop their coming to their own country and the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada has them now wholly devoted to his service

The Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gover<sup>r</sup> told the five nations he was glad they had made peace with soe many of the farr Indians and hop'd itt might be lasting and desired to know, how many nations their were still in warr with them.

They answer their are six nations still that make warr upon us that wee know besides those wee doe not know.

The Hon<sup>ble</sup> John Nanfan Esq<sup>r</sup> Lieut: Governour's reply to the answer given by the Five Nations in Albany the 18th July 1701.

Brethren. I am glad to see you soe sencible of your happiness in being under the protection of soe glorious and puissant a Monarch as our great King William is, whose wisdom and conduct is admired in Europe as well as here in America and though he reigns over many Kingdoms and dominions yett you see he has not been unmindfull of you soe that you may be assured of his kindness and that he will support you against all his and your Enemies.

I am thankful to you for your kind expressions and being soe well satisfied of the King's choice of me to succede the late Earle of Bellomont in the Govern<sup>t</sup> of this province, and as you are satisfied of my sincere affection to you soe you may be also assured that I will make itt my utmost study to deserve His Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s gracious favour by defending and supporting you while itt shall please the great King my master to continue me in the Govern<sup>t</sup> neither shall I count itt any hardship to expose my person to the uttmot hazard and fatigue for the Brethrens safety.—

I have perused the journal of these two Gentlemen that were sent to your Country when the French agents were there I cannot approve of the late negociation some of your people have had att Canada with the Governour there, itt is a disparagement to the Five nations to goe to the French to complain when any of the farr Indians kill your people, you ought to defend yourselves like men and resist force with force and not to creep to those whome you know sett those very Indians upon you on purpose to extirpate your name and memory, and in order to support and defend yourselv's the King has sent you some choice arms and amunition, which shall be now given you.

I wonder that I have not heard of that design of the French's and that you are not more zealous to oppose itt (viz't) their building a Forte att Tjughsaghrondie als Wawyachtenok the principle pass where all your Beaver hunting is. You must not suffer it by any means. I am inform'd it is your Land and you have won itt with the sword at the cost of much blood, and will you lett the French take itt from you without one blow. You can never expect to hunt beaver any more in peace if you lett them fortifie themselves att that principall pass, if you are minded to secure your posterity from slavery and bondage, hinder itt: Remember how they gott Cadarachqui and what a plague that place has been to you ever since.

It would seem by proposals I have lately heard were made att Canada that there has been some overtures of trade offer'd, which I can not believe being well assured that there is much better pennyworths here, they never being able to afford their goods soe cheap as wee, I fear its with design to delude you for which in time the brethren may become sufferers.—

I hope you have maturely considered the Gov<sup>t</sup> of Canada's answer to Dekanissore how he puts you of with shams for your blood by him caused to be shed by the Farr Indians, and what frivolous pretences he makes of his agent not being return'd from Ottowawa, and that is all the redress you must expect from him, if you can not see his deceit by all this you must be willfully blind.—

He tels you he will make a Forte att Tjughsaghrondie or Wawyachtenock to supply you with necessaries when you are a hunting, and to secure you from the Ottowawaes, but when the Forte is made then he will command you and your beavers too, Nay you shall never hunt a beaver there without his leave; doe you not remember how the French long ago desired but leave to make a hutt att Cadarachqui for a smith to be there to mend your arms, and when that was granted, they built such a stone Forte, that has since been a prison for your people trapan'd—

The Govern<sup>t</sup> of Canada is soe much troubled att your happyness in our union and your firme adhering to the crown of England that he studies allwayes to make a breach of that harmony and to rend (if itt were possible) our covenant chain a pieces, and therefore would insinuate to you to sitt still if a warr should happen between us and the French, but wee hope you need not be told att this time of day how pernicious that would be for the brethren who are often to secure and careless, if the French (who are a subtile and vigilant enemy) should come unawares and cutt you off at once, its true itt is now peace but remember I tell you, you are not to receive and directions from the French, how you are to behave yourselves in case a warr breaks out between us and the French, that you shall have from me.

There is a Covenant chain wherein all His Majesties Christian subjects on this main of America and the Brethren are included which I am now come to renew, according to the ancient custome, lett that be kept clean and bright on your parts as it is and shall be on ours, and then you need not fear butt all will be well and you shall never want powder and arms to defend yourselves and good security for your wives and children to retreat to upon occassions where they shall have provisions provided for them.—

I finde you have sent some of your Sachims to Canada whom its believed the Governour of Canada will practise upon to take Popish priests into your country and you seem to be jealous they will agree to itt because they fear the French; I doubt not but you have given directions to the contrary for I can not admitt of a popish priest in our territories itt is against our laws as well as your interest, and therefore let me not hear that any of your people have such thoughts, the King will take care to send protestant Ministers to instruct you in the true Christian Religion.—

The great King of England my master is soe much concern'd for your security that he hath been graciously pleased to give a considerable sum of money to be expended in building a stone Forte here and att Schenectady to defend you from the attempts of an Ennemy. The Forte hear will be made soe large to harbour all your wives and children upon occasion where you may freely make your retreat and be supplied with provisions and other necessaries—I would have begun now if the Ingeneer was here and as soon as he returms from Boston I design to sett three or four hundred men at worke about itt and when these Forts are built I doubt not butt itt will be a means to induce those of the Five nations that are gone to live att Canada to return and settle again in their own Country.—

I am glad you have made peace with seaven nations of the Farr Indians, try to make peace with the rest as soon as you can, for that will much contribute to your future tranquility.

And now brethren let me conjure you to an inviolate fidelity and obedience to the King my master and to continue in a steadfast affection and friendship with your brethren and fellow subjects. You can not give the King a better testimony of your Loyalty to him than by rejecting all Popish priests, that may come into your country and hindering the French to build forts upon your land, upon these terms I doe take upon me to assure you of the Kings fatherly care and protection of you and in token of His Maj<sup>ty</sup>s grace and favour to you I have brought you a present which he has sent to give you viz<sup>t</sup> 150 gunns, 25 kettles, 16 dozen knives, 25 looking glasses, 3 p<sup>s</sup> red and 3 p<sup>s</sup> blew strouds 2 p<sup>s</sup> duffels 1 p<sup>s</sup> blankets, 40 kegs of Rum, 1000 barrs lead, 200 bags powder 15 Rolls Tobacco, 50 Hatchetts 50 shirts, 120 pair stockings, Gross pipes, 5 Vatts of bear 200 wheat loaves.

This was given besides private presents of gunns strouds Blankets shirts, powder lead ettc to each particular Sachim

Father Corlaer.

Wee became like people in darkness soe soon as wee heard of the death of our father the late Earle of Bellomont our Govenour and soe continued till the sun shined again upon us by your coming and appearing to succeed him and to be our father, wee esteem ourselves happy that there is such a person pitch'd upon to be our father and Governour who wee hope will take care of us—Doe give two beavers.

Father. It is by Gods permission wee meet here together and wee are heartily glad to see you, and since itt is requisite you should know our strength wee have made an exact calculation and wee are now two hundred fighting men belonging to this County of Albany from Katskill to Skachkook and hope to increase in a year's time to three hundred. doe give a belt of Wampum.

Wee are not your friends and children outwardly with the mouth but in heart, wee will not call ourselves brethren, but wee are your children in fact, with our whole hearts not doubting but you will have a fatherly eye over us. doe give two Beavers.

You all that sitt here are our Brethren and the Gov<sup>r</sup> is our Gen<sup>ll</sup> Father, wee must rely and depend upon him, and pursuant thereunto wee never have any news but what wee communicate to our Brethren the Sachims of Albany the Gov<sup>rs</sup> Christian children, and when you have any news that relates to us, wee desire that you will not keep us in the darke but communicate the same. doe give two Beavers.

Father. It is now twenty six years agoe since our father the then Gov<sup>r</sup> Planted a great tree under whose branches wee now shelter ourselves and hope that the shade thereof will always be refreshing and comfortable to us. doe give two Beavers

Wee have been soe happy and fortunate that our number is increased to that degree that wee can not all be shaded by one tree, and therefore desire that another Tree (: besides that tree at Shachkook ) may be planted, for wee are in hopes that our number will dayly increase from other parts. doe give two Beavers.—

When wee first came here from New England wee were poor mager and lean, and by the shade of that tree att Shachkook wee have flourished and grown fatt, wee never deserted but kept our post. Our neighbours the Maquase have not been soe fortunate for their tree was burnt—meaning the burning of the Maquase Castles by the French. doe give one Beaver.

It is now ninety years agoe since the christians came first here, when there was a covenant chain made between them and the Mahikanders the first inhabitants of this River, and the chain has been kept inviolable ever since and wee have observ'd that neither Bears grease nor the fatt of dear or Elks are soe proper to keep that chain bright, the only forraign<sup>l</sup> remedy that wee have found by experience in all that time to keep the chain bright is Beavers grease. doe give two Beavers.

Wee told you just now that it is ninety years agoe since our covenant chain was first made and wee have been soe happy, never to have had the least flaw or crack in the chain, there has been breaches round about us and great differences but that chain wherein the Maquase and wee are link'd has been kept inviolable and wee pray that our Father will keep the same soe for ever. doe give two Beavers.

Pray Father what can be the reason of the great dearth of the goods, our brethren the christians tell us they come a great way over the great salt pond from England, but wee beseech you father consider the Beavers must be fetch'd a great ways also, therefore wee pray that the goods may be cheap. doe give two beavers.

Father. Wee pray that all publick business may be transacted and Treated in Albany in the Courte house the ancient place of treaty and by those that formerly have been accustomed to doe itt. Lett the news come from Onnagonque, Pennekook Mohogs country New Yorke or where itt will pray lett there be no alteration of that place, for business to be negociated in the woods, or in any private place by a single person as lately has been practicable in our late Father's time, is not soe agreeable. Lett itt be done by those that formerly were wont to manage the affairs of the Indians and soe wee conclude and soe wee conclude and doe give a Belt of Wampum, and seaven Bear skins and seaven Elks—answer to the River Indians—in Albany the 18th July 1701.

Children

I am glad to see you here and that your number is soe much increased I wish itt was t n times more, for you may be assured that you shall have all fitting encouragement from me that you can reasonably expect, and you may depend upon itt that I will doe every thing to maintain the covenant chain firme and inviolable.

I shall be glad to hear that you prevale upon your friends the Pennekooks and other Eastern Indians to come and settle among you, I doe erect another Tree att Shachkook which shall be soe large and flourishing that the branches will shade and cherish as many of your friends as will be perswaded to come and live peaceably in a fertile soyle and a pleasant country for you know now by the long experience of ninety years that wee have the best laws and Govern<sup>t</sup> in the world and therefore God blesseth and increaseth the same accordingly—

I am glad to see Itappuwa the Sachim here again who I hear was once almost deluded by the French its a signe he has great fortitude to resist all their temptations he will now be a fitt person to caution the rest of his Castle to be wary and carefull not to come under the like premunary.

Children—You doe well to communicate whatever news you have to the Gent<sup>n</sup> of Albany who allways will give me an account thereof and I will take care for the future that you shall not only have an account of all publick matters relating to the Indians but that no private conferences or correspondence shall be kept but publickly in Albany by those Gentlemen that are instructed with the management of the Indian affairs.

The great King of England my Master being made sensible of your stedy adherence to the Crown of England sufficiently demonstrated by your forward and frequent venturing your lives against the French in the late warr has been graciously pleased to command me to assure you of his Royall protection and favour and has sent you a present but if I had known you had been soe numerous, the present should have been more considerable. I will be mindful of that as you increase in number.

I shall conclude with a caution that you be carefull, none of your people be deluded by the French as many of the Five nations have been to the great diminution of their strength and vigour and endeavour to live a sober life which will not only be a means to strengthen you but will invite others to come and live with you.

The King our great Master does by me make you a present equal with the rest of his subjects of each of the Five nations—viz: 30. Gunns. 5 kettles. 4 dozen knives. 5 looking glasses. 1 ps red 1 ps blew strouds 1 ps blanketts 8 keggs of Rum 200 Barrs lead, 40 Bags powder, 3. Rolls tobacco, 10. Hatchets, 10. shirts, 24. pair stockings gross of pipes 2 vatts beer 50 Loaves.

This is besides what presents was given to particular Sachims privately.

The fourth day's conference.

Jan Janse Bleeker Mayor,	Wessell ten Broek, Aldermen—
Joh <sup>s</sup> Bleeker Recorder	Major Direck Wessells,
Joh <sup>s</sup> Schuyler,	Capt <sup>n</sup> James Weemes,
David Schuyler,	Jonathon Broadhurst Sheriffe
Joh <sup>s</sup> Abeel,	John Baptist van Eps and
Joh <sup>s</sup> Cuyler,	Lawrence Claese Interpreters.—

The Five nations, the Maquase, Oneydes, Onnondages, Cayouges and Sinnekes reply to the propositions made them yesterday by the Hon<sup>ble</sup> John Nanfan Esq<sup>r</sup> Lieut Govern<sup>r</sup> etc:— in Albany the 19th July 1701.

Brother Corlaer.

Wee condole the death of the late Earle of Bellomont our Govern<sup>r</sup> and wipe of, your tears praying that you may be comforted and wee give you ten Beavers to be sent to the King to acquaint him that wee have condol'd the loss of our deceased Brother.

All wee Five nations are comforted and glad to see soe young a man to be our Brother Corlaer to succeed the late Gov<sup>r</sup>, and as you are a souldier bred soe wee doubt not but you will be active if a warr should break out, and wee doe assure you of our reall intentions to cleave close to you and never to seperate our interest nor affections from you. doe give ten beavers—

Brother Corlaer—Wee complain of the French of Canada's ineroaching upon our territories and that they goe and build Forts upon our land without our consent, Wee pray that the great King of England may be acquainted with itt, and that he will be pleased to take care to prevent itt—doe give ten Beavers—

Wee doe renew the covenant chain and make itt bright and clear which has been kept soe by our ancestors for many years, and wee fasten the covenant chain to the hills which lye round this city of Albany, for trees rott and decay but the hill will remaine unmoveable—Wee doe also bemoan the blood you lost last warr with French. doe give ten Beavers.

Lett the covenant chain reach from New York to Sinnondowanne or the Sinnekes Country that all the people that live under itt may be secure from all attempts of an ennemy—Wee would remove the end of the chain to Tiochsagbrondie or wawyachtenok were itt in our power, but the French would mock at itt for they have taken itt in possession already against our wills sending people thither to make a Forte, but wee hope they will be removed speedily. doe give ten Beavers.

If the French make any attempts or come into our country to delude us, wee desire you to send men of wisdom and understanding to countermine them, for they to subtile and cunning for us and if you can convince them, that will be a means to stop their desigus and soe prevent their ill intentions—doe give ten Beavers—

Wee desire that our Secretary Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston may be sent to Corachkoo the great King of England to acquaint how that the French of Canada inroach upon our territories by building a Forte att Tjughsagbrondie and to pray that our great King may use all means to prevent itt, else wee shall be tyed upp, wee shall not be able to live, they will come nearer us every day with their Forts; Wee doe give and render up all that land where the Beaver hunting is which wee won with the sword eighty years ago to Coraghkoo our great King and pray that he may be our protector and defender there and desire our secretary may write an instrument which wee will signe and seale, that itt may be carried by him to the King, wee fear if he does not goe, there is soe much business, this will be only read layd aside and forgott, but if he goes wee are sure, wee shall have an answer doe give ten Beavers—

Brother Corlaer. Pray lett goods be sold as cheap as formerly—The Govern<sup>r</sup> of Canada draws many of our people by the means of selling better pennyworths then you doe, lett the Beavers come to their old price again, and lett the great custom upon them in England be taken of; wee doe give you ten Beavers to send to the King praying his Maj<sup>ty</sup> to make a Beaver hat of them and then wee hope all his good subjects will follow his example and were Beaver hatts again as the fashion was formerly.—

Repeat the former proposition praying that orders may be taken that goods may be sold as cheap as heretofore, adding wee believe as you are Governour you have the command and that the traders must obey if you order itt, therefore let them begin to day to sell good pennyworths—doe give ten Beavers—

Brother Corlaer. If a warr should break out between us and the French, wee desire you to come and stay here in this place, that you may be ready to assist and defend us—you live a great way of att New Yorke, wee have a great esteem for you and therefore wish you would come nearer us to live if any accident should happen, for you are a Souldier and such men wee love therefore you must come and live here att Albany—doe give seaven Beavers.

Concerning French Priests to be admitted in our country itt is a generall conclusion of all the Five nations to expell them and to suffer none to come among us. Wee see you have ministers here and expect to be supplied from hence, wee are inclined to be instructed in the Christian faith and rely upon you, leaving that wholly to our Brother; The French priests have been the ruine of our Country and therefore have no cause to suffer them any more—doe give ten Beavers—

Brother Corlaer—The Govern<sup>t</sup> of Canada has sent a party of men who are gone behind our Country privately to build a Forte att Tjughsaghrondie you are desirious to know what wee have done in that case, Your people that have been att Onnondage can tell you—Wee thought this Govern<sup>t</sup> would have done something in the matter and to have found you busy in your books and mapps (meaning that the line should be run between the two Govern<sup>ts</sup>) wee can doe nothing in that case you know, wee have not power to resist such a Christian enemy, therefore wee must depend upon you Brother Corlaer to take this case in hand and acquaint the great King with itt for what will become of us att this rate where shall wee hunt a beaver if the French of Canada take possession of our beaver country—Give nine Beavers and two Otters.

Wee have a small right in the Maquase River att Canastagiowne, to witt five small Islands containing about five or six acres between Rosendael and Cornelis Tymes's which wee give to Jan Baptist van Eps and Lawrence Claese the two Interpreters to be equally divided between them, John Baptist to have the uppermost halfe and Lawrence the lowermost, and that in consideration, because they take much pains in interpreting—

Brother. Wee can not omitt to acquaint you of the deceit of the Smiths who takes our money and instead of putting steal into our hatches putts Iron, soe that as soon as wee come into our country to use them they fall to pieces and your traders are very ungratefull. as soon as they have gott our beaver turns us out of doors; lett us love one another and not suffer such things to be heard among us. doe give ten Beavers.

Wee Maquase have now two Castles that are begun to pray or turn Christians, wee desire that wee may have a good large Church made in the first or nearest castle called Oehnioudage which was promised us by the late Earle of Bellomont and lett itt be soe large as may contain us all, there is only a little Chappell made of barke now a small number makes itt full.—

The traders have a bad custom to trust our people and when the men are dead come upon their widdows insomuch that when they come to town to buy anything the traders take the Beavers from them for debt—pray lett that ill custom be remedied—

After the Five nations had made an end of speaking his Honour the Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governour condoled the death of Sadaganahties son and Osneragichte of Onnondage and Siunonnanduwan a Chiefe man of Cayouge by laying down three Belts of Wampum and was glad that there were good men put in there room—

sett att liberty and wee understood that each nation should enjoy there own people again and in order thereunto, wee heard that both Kings as soon as the peace was concluded made what haste they could to send the news thereof to America, wee always expected that the fruits of that General peace would be that wee might have people back again from Canada, but wee have not been soe happy. The Priests and the Governour of Canada detein them there upon pretence to make them Christians—therefore Brother pray see to gett our people here to this town and when they are gott soe far the Ministers here will instruct them in the Christian Religion which will be a means that they will at last return to their own country again; When Queder (that is Coll. Schuyler) went to Canada, then wee were in hopes to have them all back but the French detains most of them still. Wee believe our great King does not know, and is not rightly inform'd of this matter if he was wee doubt not but wee should have a better account of itt, if you had told us that you despair'd of any success wee would have prest harder to get them over to us again—

Brother Corlaer. What shall wee doe if the French continue to draw away our people and inproach upon our Country, they build forts around about us and penn us up. Itt is now peace wee can not hinder them, neither itt is in our power to resist them, they have drain'd us of our people, they all goe to Canada and that upon pretence of Religion and to be converted, wee see itt is only to enslave us, wee know very well how they did att Cadarachqui and see they come nearer and nearer. They are going about to make a Forte att Keenthee on the other side of Cadarachqui lake, another principle passage which our Indians, can not shun when they come from their hunting—Wee hear that one of our Indians called Orojadicka that has been two years among the French in Canada and is there still has given consent to build this Forte, but wee Five nations know nothing of itt, neither will wee give leave, for by such means the French possesses themselves of our territories; therefore pray Brother hearken to us as wee told you in our publick propositions tooe days agoe, soe wee are againe come to intreat you to send over our secretary Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston with all speed to acquaint Corachkoa the great King of England how the French deale with us, he has been there formerly and knows all affairs, pray lett there be a good large canoe (such as the English sayle with over the great salt waters) provided for him, that says well that wee may have an answer with all expedition, doe not defer itt till the fall or to the Winter till itt snows or till spring but lett him be sent forthwith and then wee are in hopes wee shall have a good issue of our business.

Albany the 21st of July 1701.—Five of the principal Sachims of the Five nations went up to the Forte to speak with His Honour the Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governour, who being admitted into his chamber spoke to him by Sadeganaktie their Speaker as follows:—

Brother Corlaer. Att such publick conferences as wee now have had itt is very probable that some things may slip out of your memory and be forgott itt being difficult to remember every thing. When the late Earle of Bellomont came here with the news of the peace wee were told that all prisoners on both sides should be

The said Five Sachims were ask'd whether that letters writt by their Secretary and sent by their brother Corlaer the Lieut<sup>e</sup> Governour to the King would not be sufficient and doe as well—They reply'd: what a Question is this, did not wee tell you in our publick propositions on Saturday last that it was concluded by all the Five nations that our Secretary Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston should goe to the King, and did not wee then tell you his business; And wee are now come again on purpose to insist that he may be dispatch'd to England in a good large Canoe that has good sayls to acquaint Corachkoo (meaning the great King) of our condition and what wee have done and how the French dayly inroach upon us, and decoy our people away from us, and wee pray you to send us word when he is gone and when he returns for wee expect him again in the spring. doe give ten Beavers—

The Lieut: Gov<sup>r</sup> told them he would consider of this their proposition and would doe any thing that was proper for him to doe for their ease, satisfaction and future tranquillity.—

[New-York Papers. Bundle, P. Q; Q 49.]

To all Christian & Indian people in this parte of the world and in Europe over the great salt waters, to whom the presents shall come—Wee the Sachims Chief men, Capt<sup>ns</sup> and representatives of the Five nations or Cantons of Indians called the Maquase Oneydes Onnandages and Sinnekes living in the Government of New Yorke in America, to the north west of Albany on this side the Lake Cadarachqui sendeth greeting—Bee it known unto you that our ancestors to our certain knowledge have had, time out of mind a fierce and bloody warr with seaven nations of Indians called the Aragaritkas<sup>1</sup> whose Chief comãnd was called successively Chohahise—The land is scituate lyeing and being northwest and by west from Albany beginning on the south west<sup>2</sup> side of Cadarachqui lake and includes all that waste Tract of Land lyeing between the great lake off<sup>3</sup> Ottowawa<sup>3</sup> and the lake called by the natives Sahiquage and by the Christians the lake of Swege<sup>4</sup> and runs till it butts upon the Twichtwicks and is bounded on the right hand by a place called Quadoge<sup>5</sup> conteigning in length about eight hundred miles and in bredth four hundred miles including the country where the bevers the deers, Elks and such beasts keep and the place called Tieugsachrondio, alias Fort de Tret or wawyachtenok and so runs round the lake of swege till you come to place called Oniadarondaquat which is about twenty miles from the Sinnekes Castles which said seaven nations our predecessors did four score years agoe totally conquer and subdue and drove them out of that country and had peaceable and quiet possession of the same to hunt beavers (which was the motive caused us to war for the same) for three score years it being the only chief place for hunting in this parte of the world that ever wee heard of and after that wee had been sixty years sole masters and owners of the said land enjoying peaceable hunting without any internegotiation, a remnant of one of the seaven nations called Tionondade whom

[New-York Entries, E. 56.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

Some time before my expedition to Albany M<sup>r</sup> Livingston his Majestys Secretary for the Indian affairs did apply himself to me for leave to go to England in order to lay his case before his Majesty in Council, and your Lordships concerning his demands upon the Crown for salary and other Publick Services but finding I should have occasion for his assistance in the late Treaties with the Indians at Albany, I therefore detained him and look upon my self obliged in justice to certify to your Lords<sup>ps</sup> that he hath been a very great help to me in all this Negotiation for which I am humbly of opinion that he very well deserves the salary allowed him by his Majesty in his Commission for his Incouragement there being no person in the Town or Country of Albany so capable and well qualified as he is, and because his voyage to England cannot be performed without great expence of time lest his Majesty's Service in the Indian affaires might suffer in his absence, I do therefore at his request presume to begg that your Lordships will be pleased to lay his case before his Majesty so that his Majesty's pleasure may be signified to this Government upon the report which the late Earle of Bellomont formerly made and sent home in his favour in obedience to his Majestys instructions of the 31st of Augst 1697 for want of which the Collector and Receiver General of this Province is by a Minute of Council here commanded not to make payment of any such Warrants as are granted him for that Salary untill his Majestys pleasure be known therein. By reason of the delay of which he has been and still is wholly deprived of any part of that Salary allowed him by his Majesty's said Commission for his Services to his great discouragement and the hurt and prejudice of his private affaires; I thought fit only at present to trouble your Lordships with this particular matter, because I have been an Eye-Witness to his good services to his Majesty in that employment which is nevertheless most humbly submitted to your Lordships great prudence and wisdom by,

My Lords

Your Lordships

Most faithfull and most

Obedient Servant

Mr. Robert Livingston to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 53.]

May it please your Lordships

Having presumed in my letter of the 21st of June 1701 (which I hope is come safe to hand) to acquaint your Lordships of the hardships I have laboured under and the reason of my detainure from waiting upon your Lordships personally with my Complaint I begg leave to add that the success that Negotiation had with the Indians (I hope) will be found of so great Moment that I am glad to have been any ways instrumental therein; The Lieutenant Governour being a Witness thereof is pleased to certify my Services and to desire your Lordships to represent it so to his Majesty that his Maj<sup>ty</sup>s opinion may be remitted upon the late Lord Bellomonts report in favour of my case, the want of which is now the Cause that I have not had any benefit of his Majestys Cômmission

I am likewise kept from receiving that Interest ordered by his Majesty and from the money due for the victualling. I humbly beg your Lordships will be pleased to hear the complaints my Agent will lay before your Lordships and to represent my Case to his most Sacred Majesty that his Majesty may grant me releif, where it shall appear to his Majesty and your Lordships I justly deserve it.

I hope your Lordships will pardon my boldness and importunity since I am kept back from Solliciting my private affaires to attend his Majesty's Service, which always have and shall intend with integrity, diligence and hearty affection, I am in all humble duty

May it please your Lordships

Your Lordships most obedient and most humble Servant.

ROB<sup>t</sup> LIVINGSTON

New Yorke

22 Augth 1701.Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D 407.]

To the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

The humble Memorial of Edward Lord Cornbury

Sheweth

That having perused his Commission for the government of New York, he finds that the command of the Militia in the Jerseys and the Province of Connecticut is placed in him; but he humbly conceives that he shall not be able to serve the King so usefully as he desires to doe in that matter, unless he may have a power (by commission) to nominate the Officers of the Militia in the said Provinces of East and West New Jersey and Connecticut, which he imagines may the more easily be granted, because the Militia in all the parts belonging to the British dominions, is by Act of Parliament lodged in the King; and without such a power he presumes his command over the said Militias will be but precarious.

He likewise informs your Lordships that he has received an order from Their Excellencies the Lords Justices of England bearing date the 31st of July last, for the raising such recruits as are necessary for the filling up the four Companys at New Yorke (which have suffered very much by desertion since the late Earl of Bellomont's decease) he has endeavour'd ever since that time to raise the said number of men, but hitherto without success, for want of levy money; not but the men are to be found if there were any encouragement given. He therefore hopes your Lordships will please to consider how much more difficult it is to raise men to goe to so remote a part of the world, than for Ireland or Holland, and that your Lordships will please to represent the necessity of the said service to Their Excellencies the Lords Justices of England and the Lords of the Treasury in such a manner that he may effectually be enabled to perform the said service, either by an allowance of levy moneuy, or by such other ways and means as may be thought most proper.

He farther takes the liberty to acquaint your Lordships that he hopes to be ready to saile in a few days, and therefore intreats Your Lordships that he may have such allowance of tunnage as is usual, for the transporting his servants and goods to New Yorke. All which is humbly submitted to your Lordships consideration by, My Lords,

September the
2<sup>d</sup> 1701.—

Your Lordships most faithfull humble servant.

CORBURY.

Attorney-General Broughton to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, D. 421.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords.

I am ashamed and humbly begg your Honours pardon that I should not keep equal pace with the Cheif Justice here, in my return of duty to you. I did design a joynt address of thanks with him to your whole Board for your joynt favours unto us in our dispatch for this place, but was not happy in the opportunity thereof. However my Lords I hope my just acknowledgements, which I now pay, will be accepted by you, thò they come late and alone, since I assure your Honours they are most hearty and sincere, and proceed from so full a sense of duty and obligation to you as will for ever tye me to the most punctual observance of all your directions and commands, which you shall at any time think fit to honour me with. And I humbly desire your Honours I may always be happy in the favour and continuance of your Board to support me for those performances.

We set saile from Gravesend 26th of April last and were till the 24th of July after, before we landed here. Our reception was in all things suitable to the commissions we brought with us but the heat of the season and that increased by the frequent and unavoidable entertainments we have received, bath something indisposed me since my arrival, and so prevented my free converse abroad, that I cannot give your Honours so particular an account of affaires in this place as else I should. The General Assembly is now sitting, and I hear they have resolved to take care of the revenue of this Province, in continuing a branch thereof which was either gone or like to fall off. The Governour and Council have made an order for erecting a Court of Chancery here, which I doubt not will be of great use and benefit to this Province. 'Tis designed to be opened on Thursday next. I am sure I need not to acquaint your Honours that I finde two very opposite parties amongst this people, all equally the King's subjects, yet want to be distinguished for nation sake. And I cannot discern a more material ground of their difference than that; thò many allegations are on both sides. At what pitch it stood in my Lord Bellomonts life time, I know not, but am well informed that it is much heightened since his death. The expectations of both parties are at present upon whom his Majesty will think fit to confer the care of this government, by whose prudent and wise conduct the present evils amongst us may in all probability be much lessened, if not wholly removed. We hear, by the way of Philadelphia that my Lord Corubury is appointed for that service; but waite the confirmation thereof. I was by your Lordships favours sent hither to promote His Majesty's interest and the good of his government here, which your Honours may be assured shall ever be preferred by me before my own private gaine and advantage. I hope therefore my zeale in that matter may excuse my presumption, if I take upon me humbly to propose to your Lordships that you would be pleased so far to interest your selves in the concern of a new Governour as to procure special instructions from His Majesty to him to use temper and moderation at his first coming to us, and to treate each party with like favour and respect. By which means, after he hath run some course in such a management he will be able clearly to discern who are the true friends of his Majesty and his government here; and then it will not be difficult to determine how to steare himself for the future. We hear likewise by the same way, that the Jerseys are annexed to this government and Massachusets Bay taken from it. I hope whatever His Majesty's pleasure is in that case, your Honours will take care of us, that our Commissions be not lessened thereby. Mr Graham the late Attorney General's son, who is Surveyor General of this Province is gone for England. If he return not again or resigns his place of Surveyor General, I should be proud of your Lordships favours towards my eldest son here with me, for a patent for it, and to extend to the Jerseys. But I desire not to supplant any man, but if the way be open to it, hope you will be pleased to remember and preferr my humble request to your Honours, before anothers. And if this cannot be, I should be very glad of his Majesty's direction hither, that I might be admitted to dwell in one of Kidd's houses in this City, which are now forfeited to his Majesty. I have eight in family and know not yett where to fix them, houses are so scarce and dear, and lodgings worse in this place. I should not have troubled your Honours with these particulars, but to shew you I will not concele my most private designes from you; and I hope for your concurrent favours to me therein, which with my most humble duty to your Honours is all I have to add at this time, but to assure your Lordships that I am in great sincerity, Your Honours

Most faithfull humble and

most obedient Servant

Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 1.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade & Plantations.

My Lords

This Sloop in her way for Holland touching at Cowes makes me not omit paying my Duty to your Lordships, altho: at present I have not much to offer.

I wrote your Lordships the 20: Augth by Coll: Lodwick in the Palme-Tree, & inclosed the Journal of Our Indian Agents, an Instrument of the Land I had industriously procured from the Indians to his Majesty, with a Draught of the same, with the Situation of our five Nations, & my whole Negotiation with the Indians, which I doubt not but will prove very beneficial to his Majestys Interest, & I have great hopes will be very satisfactory to your Lordships; Our Indians are in perfect Union with us & Question not in the least to continue them so, so long as his Majesty shall please to honour me with being employed in this Station.

Our Assembly are yet sitting, but the next week I beleive I shall prorogue them, there has been some jangling between the two parties, but for myself I neither directly nor indirectly engaged myself with either, I shall so soon as the Journal of the House is printed transmit it to your Lordships, & then your Lordships will be best able to judge which of them have been in the wrong, I have gained my point for his Majesty's Service an additional duty for two years in order to defray the Charge of the Government, when its brought up I shall not be long a dispatching it, & for what other Bills I shall pass shall be purely for the welfare and peace of this Province.

I saw an odd passage in a letter from Boston of the 15th Inst: from one David Jeffers to Coll D<sup>r</sup>Peyster of his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s Council here, which transcribe word for word Viz'

"The 13th: in the Evening arrived here a Brigantine one Kelly Master 9 weeks from London, Six from Dartmouth, by which M<sup>r</sup> Parsons to whom I sold your Bill of Exchange, has Advice that it will be sent back protested by the next ship, his friend writes him Vizt: that M<sup>r</sup> Champante will not accept it, there being a New Governor vizt: My Lord Cornbury made for New York, & no Agent as yet fixed, so the Bill will not be paid."

This my Lords (if truth) will be of the most fatal consequence to his Majesty's Service that can be, for should that Bill come protested we shall never have any more Credit for moneys on our Bills, and the soldiers who have these twelve months been paid with ready money weekly their full Pay, will never be satisfied with any other way of Payment, (I mean by victualling, nor do I know any that will undertake that) but will infallibly desert or prove very irregular; Besides all Bills hitherto drawn or that I may yet draw for their subsistance, should they be protested, my own fortune will be obliged to make them good, which will be my utter ruin, therefore I most recomend this weighty matter to your Lordships great wisdom, not doubting but your Lordships has found some expedient for the rectifying all mistakes hitherto, and for preventing all may happen for the future.

I have taken what care I can to providé materials for the two forts of Albany & Schenectedah, by directing every Sloop goes upon the River, to carry stones, and have sent up an Engin to slack lime, but shall be able to do little this Winter for want of Cöll: Romer, whom as yet I have not been able to procure from Boston, I am of opinion he fears being sent to Onondage, tho: would he come this or the beginning of the next month, I should not think it a fateague myself to go thither with him, that I might be able to give your Lordships a more particular account of that matter than I am now able to do.

I have directed Albany and Schenectadah to be repaired with Stoccadoes, and put into as good a posture of defence as we can, to prevent any accident that may happen this winter. By a good ship will sail hence in 5 or 6 days for London I will send your Lordships Duplicates of my last Packett, with what else may be necessary for your information.

I am

With great regard

Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, F. 5.]

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

My last to your Lordships was of the 24 September last by a sloop bound hence to Cowes in her way for Holland, the most material matter contained therein was (as by a Passage transcribed out of a letter from Boston) We feared the return of our Bills protested, drawn for the Soldiers subsistence since the death of the late Earl of Bellomont which would be the intire destruction of our Credit here, consequently of the Forces, but I do not in the least question your Lordships long since have found an expedient for securing us from any such danger could we beget a Union between our partys, who I fear are irreconcilable, unless wrought by miracle, we should be extremely happy, tho I intrest myself with neither but am as impartial as man can be; Our Indians are in admirable temper and very firm in their obedience, to his Majesty's & Freindship to us as your Lordships will see on perusal of a late Journal from our Agents sent to Onondage now inclosed.

Cöll Romer is a most unaccountable man, I have not been able to get him hither as yet from Boston, I shall not now trouble your Lordships with the Copies of our letters past between us but will by some other opportunity when your Lordships may be more at leisure.

I hope our Assembly will be up next week I expect our money bill for an additional Duty for two years to his Majesty to be brought me every day.

I am providing Materials for our New Forts of Albany and Schenectedah, and puting our old into some Posture of defence this Winter, the French are still pressing a neutrality in our Indians, but I will never hear of any such thing, believing it to be directly contrary to his Majesty's Interest.

The inclosed are Duplicates of my letter to your Lordships of the 20th Augst of our Agents Journal at Onondage with my negotiation with our Five Nations at Albany and a Copy of the Indian Deed to his Majesty (which the very last night was so defaced the Surveyor General who drew the Draught of our Indian Country including that land given and sent your Lordships in my last Packet by Coll: Lodwick in the Palm Tree his original hath met with the same accident so that I cannot send your Lordships a copy of that by this conveyance) two proclamations with my speech to this Assembly all by Coll Lodwick. And now by Capt. Cumby I transmit your Lordships the Minutes of Council for April, May and June with a late Journal to Onondage from our Agents sent thither and an attested Copy of the Grants mentioned in the Act for vacating extravagant Grants which your Lordships desired might be sent you.

I shall take all imaginable care of his Majesty's interest and give your Lordships by all opportunities a faithfull account of what may be worthy your knowledge

I am

With great regard

My Lords

Your Lordships most

Report of Messrs. Bleeker and Schuyler's Visit to Onondaga.

(the centre of the five Nations westward of Albany in the Province of the 27th of August 1701.

Having received Instructions from the Governor and Council to go to Onondage to hinder the French debauching of our Indians, went away the 28th in the morning for onondage and arrived there the 4th of September and found the Sachims mett together who bid us welcome and resolv<sup>d</sup> to send a post away next morning to the Sinnekes and Cayouges that their Sachims should come down as also the French who had desired of the Onondagues that all the Sachims of the five nations might be convened together against they came from the Sinnekes, The Onondagues sent word that not only the Oneydes were now come. But also their brother Corlaer to their great Joy who would now hear all what passed in their Country

The Sachims were very desirous to know whether Corlaer would come and see them in their Castles in Person this fall and that because Dekannisore one of their Sachims had told them so, upon w<sup>ch</sup> we answered that we had heard the same of other people, but not from himself but if he comes he will undoubtedly send some one to give you an account of his coming, Dekannisore reply'd that he had told the Sachims the same

The 5th September 1701 We were informed by some Sinnekes that the French had a great deal of Goods with them to trade upon w<sup>ch</sup> we had a Conference with some of the Sachims and told their brethren

We understand the French are come here to trade do you send for us to come with such people, if you send for us for every Frenchman that comes to trade with you, wee shall have work enough and if you will hearken to them they will keep you in alarm Continually we know this is the contrivance of the Priests to plague you Continually upon pretence of Peace and talk you till you are mad, and as soon as these are gott home, the Jesuits have another project if you will break your Cranes with such things; we advise you brethren when the French comes again, lett them smoak their pipe and give them their bellyfull of Victualls and let them goe

You have made peace with them although that was needless, for our King had made Peace for you and all his subjects in His Dominions whereupon De Kannisore said

That wee were misinformed, the Goods which the French have brought with them is for those families that have the prisoners that they are now Come for, who are still among us, & the reason why wee have sent for you, is to write all down what the Governor of Canada hath told us, since wee will consent nothing Els you might think; & ask us what news wee had got under hand, it is also concluded in our last Conference that the French should know what our brother Corlaer has told us at Albany

Wee find here likewise a French Indian who is married to a French Woman in Canada whom wee think keeps her as a spy wee asked him when he went to Canada, he tells us this is the place of his Nativity & was resolved to stay here

The 6th do The Councill being mett they acquainted us that the messenger was returned from the Cayouges and said that the Cayouges had sent a messenger Immediately to the Sinnekes to tell the french to come forthwith if they had anything to say, and that their brother Corlaer was in Onnodague to know their business

It was proclaimed in this Castle according to their Custome that Canniaghkennie Capt<sup>n</sup> of Oneyde was come home who has been a fighting against a nation of Indians called Ondadeonwas and has brought one prisoner and in his returned discoursed some Indians who live behind Carolina & Maryland who told him that all was in Peace & quiettness and that there should be no differences between them as there had been formerly

The 7th & 8th do expected the French.

The 9th do Wee understood by some of the Sachims that the Governor of Canada had again desired that each nation should send one of their Sachims with the agents to Canada w<sup>ch</sup> wee opposed and said Brethren I have told you that he endeavours to bring us into confusion with all his devices, therefore hearken not to him, Goe out a hunting that will be better for you and give your brother no cause to be jealous of you with all your Running to Canada, wee desire you brethren to be obedient and hearken not to him who calls for you it is his cunning to bring you & us into confusion w<sup>ch</sup> will be impossible for him to doe if you will but hearken upon which they promised that they would not goe

The 10th do waited still for y<sup>e</sup> French

The 11th do The French arrived in the Even<sup>g</sup> and wee understood by some of the Sachims that they have been with the Sinnekes for their prisoners w<sup>ch</sup> the Sinnekes have of the farr nations called the Twichwiches but have got none the Sinnekes told them that they did not bring the Prisoners by the way of Canada but by the way of Tjughsaghrondie and will bring them hither again themselves

The 12th D<sup>o</sup> The French were obliged to repeat before us all the propositions w<sup>ch</sup> the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada had made to the five nations in Canada which is as follows

Children

Last year wee cast the hatchett to the Devill, but then you were nott all present, but now I throw it the second time while you are al present & none shall find it again for it is now

Peace over all the world & you Waganhaes and you five Nations shall now live in Peace together & I tell you both further that you shall not kill one another at your hunting but you shall shun one another like Brethren and having said this gave each nation a Belt w<sup>ch</sup> were 24 in number

2 I tell you again as I told Dekanissore before that I make a Fort at Tjughagronde, the reason why I make a Fort there is least you and the Ottowawes sh<sup>d</sup> fall out again where your principal hunting is therefore I have put a Capt<sup>n</sup> there to prevent all differences if any should arise.

3 I demand all my prisoners that are among you both Indians and Christians

4 Now Children it is now Peace all over the world, Probably wee or the English will be the cause of a warr and if it so happens that there be a warr you are by no means to intermeddle, Lett us and the English fight alone — Come freely and fetch of mee as you do of your brother Corlaer Powder and Lead, and do not love the ong<sup>r</sup> better than the other

5 Now I desire that the Maquise may come here for I know not whether they have a grudge against [me] therefore I desire that they may come face to face to see what they have to alleadge against mee

The 5 Nations Spoke

Father onnondie, here wee have four Prisoners which wee toke here in the time of Warr whom we now deliver unto you and gave each Prisoner a Belt a Wampum & said no more, but when wee come home wee will consult about what you have now spoke this being done Dekanissore told the French wee would tell you the Proposals of our Brother Corlaer but I am informed you know them already

The French said that which wee have said to you is very good if there was any thing in this paper that was nought I would throw it in the Fire or I would conceal it upon which Dekanissore answered and said I have not heard the French speak one word of your chickens. You onnondie that sit under,<sup>1</sup> I mean your praying Indians, if it happens that you fight with my brother & then your Chickens runn from under your wings, with the Hatchett in your hands to our Brother Corlaer with whom wee are in so firm a League or Covenant then it would not be well upon which the French Said wee have told you now these three times wee mean all Indians.

The French said further Brother our time is elaps'd wee must begone but brethren I must tell you last of all but you must not be offended at it, & that is this when you are in Canada you promise a great deale but when you come home nobody knows any thing of the matter I have been in the Sinnekes Countrey and in Cayouge for our Prisoners but they seem as if they knew nothing of the matter, & you onnondagues are the same, but Brethren if you come to Canada again and the Governor desires any thing of you, if you will not do it tell it him to his face & so Monsieur Jonkeur went his wayes.

The 13th do. All the five nations satt and considered of a Belt of Wampum w<sup>ch</sup> the late Earle of Bellemont had given them that they should take ministers into their Castles and upon a Belt of Mon. Marrikeur left three last fall that they should take Jesuits into their Country.

Wee two nations do say
 Brother Corlaer

Here have been two belts hung up here this summer one from you and one from the Governor of Canada, and you speak both of praying, wee are now come to a conclusion & wee doe tell you wee will have no Jesuit in our Country Now Brother Corlaer you tell us you have ministers for us, and now you say wee are like to have none for the present but as soon as wee have occasion for any wee shall ask them of your brother Corlaer, the cause why wee ask for none now is because you both have made us drunk withall your noise of praying wee must first come to our selves again

Now brother Corlaer I tell you further we have had a conference lately together & you told us that it was peace over all and wee hold fast to that Covenant Chaine as if wee were Christians.
 Brother Corlaer

You or the French will be the cause if there be a Warr, and if it should be a Warr again I do tell you again that wee will keep our Covenant with you our brother Corlaer as if wee were Christians with whom wee have an inviolable Covenant Chaine. And brother Corlaer I doe now tell you, that w<sup>ch</sup> I have told you I will also tell him & that wee will have noe Jesuit in our Country.

The 14th Do. The Onnondages called us to them in private & said brethren wee have concluded among ourselves to Desire the Sinnekes to come and live together in one Castle & also that the Maquaise do live together at Kannaogau, it is further the request of all the Sachims to you brother Corlaer that you would send them all the News that comes from England and what happens in your own province, for wee are Brethren and do open unto you our whole hearts, wee doe nothing neither does there any News come here but wee acquaint you with it

Dekannisore has been at New York he knows no news & sayes that a Ship came in while he was there and likewise the whole Country was assembled together but Brother Corlaer told him no news, wee do again desire that wee may know all the News and we do further say Brother Corlaer let us know whether the Bevers be any Comodity, if they be no Comodity let us know it by the first opportunity then wee do not goe a hunting, but if they be a Comodity wee will all goe out a hunting: And this being said wee rose up and went on our Journey towards Albany

My Lords,

Just now came the inclosed to my hands express from the Governour of Virginia wherein your Lordships will see what assistance we are like to expect from that Colony of War; M<sup>r</sup> Penn writes me to the same effect from Pennsylvania, as will appear to your Lordships by the inclosed Extract from his letter I had them hastily transcribed being unwilling to miss this opportunity of transmitting them to your Lordships the post just returning to Philadelphia and M<sup>r</sup> Penn immediately going for England.

Not having time at present I cannot add any particulars of what has been transacted here. Only that the Assembly have granted to his Majesty an additional Duty for two years, and have borrowed two hundred pounds out of the money raised for Onodage to repair Albany and Schenectadah; I passed some other Bills which I take to be purely for the publick peace and welfare of this Province and hope they will be thought so by your Lordships.

I prorogued the Assembly the 18 instant to the 3<sup>d</sup> Tuesday in March next, and by a Vessell will Saile hence for England in some time, I will transmit your Lordships particulars of what has occur'd with the Bills.

Our Indians continue firme in their allegiance to his Majesty and in friendship to us.

I most humbly pray your Lords<sup>ps</sup> pardon for I write in great haste

In mine of the 3rd inst<sup>t</sup> I gave an account that I had reced y<sup>r</sup> hon<sup>rs</sup> letter of the 20th May last and that by advice of his Maj<sup>ties</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> Council I had laid before the house of Burgesses his

Maj<sup>ties</sup> Royal Letter w<sup>ch</sup> you sent me together with your own, I have with an unwearied diligence againe and againe prest unto them to comply with the subject matter of his Maj<sup>ties</sup> aforesaid Royall Letter which you sent me and in the end they came to this resolution—That considering the publick engagements and debts this Country at present lies under they are not in a condic<sup>o</sup>n to furnish the nine hundred pounds and that considering further the necessary Provision, w<sup>ch</sup> this Colony* will require from time to time for the security and defence thereof, being a large open and defenceless Country they are in more want of assistance themselves than capable to afford it to others.

And as to the Quota of men it is the opinion of the house of Burgesses of this Colony that to send a detachment of men from hence would not only be very prejudicial to his Maj<sup>ties</sup> Interest at home, but also endanger much the safety of this Dominion

What I laid before his Maj<sup>ties</sup> honor<sup>ble</sup> Councill of this Colony, and what their opinion is in relation to that subject, and the motives and reason upon w<sup>ch</sup> they ground the same you may perceive by the enclosed Papers I herewith send you

By all which it is evidently manifest that there is not the least ground to depend upon having any assistance from hence of men—This letter by the advice of his Maj<sup>ties</sup> hono<sup>ble</sup> Councill writt to you by him who is

Chief Justice Atwood to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 65.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

By a letter of the 15th of August which was the first opportunity after my arrival here, I presumed to acquaint your Lordships that I had directed a suggestion to be exhibited to the supream Court for a Prohibition to the Court of Admiralty upon a sentence of that Court discharging the ship of one Wake, which had been seized & informed against for want of being registred before it first traded hither.

My Commission as Cheif Justice subjecting me to Ordinances of the Governour and Council; I prevailed with them to appoint the Supream Court to be holden for the hearing and determining the Question of the legality of that sentence and it being considered that one of the persons designed for a Judge in the Supream Court was the person, who as Deputy of the late Judge of the Admiralty, had given sentence in favour of the ship, and the other was a Merchant who might be concerned in interest; the Governour thought fit to suspend the granting their Commissions till this matter should be over in the Supream Court; and therefore the inclosed Ordinance was made, empowering me alone to hear and determine this matter.

This I conceive to be agreeable to the Ordinance for Establishing the Court, which provides that a Supream Court shall be held and kept at New Yorke, which Supream Court is fully impowered to have any cognizance of all pleas Civil, Criminal and mixt as fully and amply as the Courts of Kings Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer in England have or ought to have. But makes no Provision for any certain number of Justices: Out of the Office of which Supream Court all process is to issue under the Test of the Cheif Justice of the said Court, which does not necessarily imply that there must be more than one, nor as I conceive can the Cheif Justice within the Province be disabled from acting upon the deaths or amotions of the other Justices, any more than the Cheif Justice of England. Besides thō my Commission a Copy whereof I here inclose, mentions my power together with the other Justices of the Supream Court or a Quoram thereof.

1. Neither then nor when I sat upon this Cause was there any other Justice.

2. There never was any Provision for a Quorum unless by an expired Act of Assembly.

3. The Commission expressly relates to the Ordinance for establishing the Court, which has no provision for any more than a Cheif Justice who as Cheif Justice in the Province may be so in relation to other Courts. And since the Assistance of other Justices is required only according to that ordinance which requires no assistance; as there is nothing in the Ordinance to restrain the Cheif Justice, neither is there in the Commission, However the Commission equally relates to subsequent Ordinances; And according to that of the 15 of August, I alone am fully impowerd.

Further Yet, the Supream Court as appears above, has full consauce in these matters, and by a special Clause in my Commission inserted by the advice of your Lordships, I have full power to hold the Supream Court, at such places and times as the same may or ought to be held within the Province.

Being as I conceived sufficiently impowered to hear and determine this matter; the suggestion, A copy of which I here inclose, being solemnly argued by Council on both sides,

I having taken due time to compare the authorities cited, and to collect others which I produced at large, gave judgement for a prohibition. As to a certain Bond mentioned in the suggestion which the Admiralty Court had taken to be such a Composition as ought to discharge the forfeiture: My argument herein I hope to transmit to your Lordships, before the cause can be argued in England, whether 'tis removing by an appeal from the judgement of Council here in affirmance of mine. I must observe to your Lordships that after they had owned the Jurisdiction of the Court, demurring only upon the supposed insufficiency of the suggestion; and by agreement entred in Court were to insist on nothing but the Merits; yet they besides the general error before the Governour and Council assign specially, that I had no authority and that the determination was coram non iudice.

Tho' I had occasion to be very long in my Argument in the supream Court, which I repeated before the Governour and Council, it may be comprehended under these heads.

1. The Consuance given the Admiralty of the original matter within Port is wholly new and so far from excluding the Supream Court that the Act manifestly gives the Supream Court a Concurrent jurisdiction, which differs it from those cases wherein the Admiralty or Spiritual Court has Consuance of the incident as following the principal originally within its Consuance.

2. This according to several adjudged cases is collateral and not an incident.

3. No Rule in the Civil or Marine Law can justify the discharge of a forfeiture actually incurred upon a pretended Composition for a future payment, and that with one who had no authority to compound and bind the interest of the King and Governour, besides that it appears to be no Composition.

4. If there were any particular Rule in the Civil or Marine Law which would reach this case, 'tis directly contrary to the common law which shall prevail in all cases where the laws differ in matters of substance.

Though a great clamour was raised against a sentence of mine in the Admiralty Court against another Vessell which loaded goods on board without having been registred that sentence is at peace and the Vessell is upon Sale; For some others which seem to have incurr'd forfeitures, by direction of the Governour time has been given for such proofs as the circumstances of the several Cases require.

In a short intervall of publick business here, I went to Burlington, where I published my Commission for West Jersey and tooke the Oath and signed the test and association in Council before Coll Hamilton, whose authority in the other Jersey is much disputed.

The affaires of the supream Court the Chancery, the Admiralty and the Assembly here, which rose on Saturday after reviving the last additional duty, rendered it impossible for me 'till now to go to Connecticut, Rhode Island, Boston and New Hampshire, and tho' a severe season is approaching I am not discouraged from going to those places: and indeed, through the neglect and frauds of the officers of the Customes, I am not likely to have any thing brought before me in the Admiralty Court there, a scandalous Composition at Boston makes it my duty to prevent the like for the future, several here cannot well bear with the execution of the laws of England; yet I hope I have hitherto maintained their Credit in these parts, and the Assembly as an evidence of their approving my endeavours have added 70<sup>l</sup> a year to my Salary during the continuance of the additional duty.

I have not yet applied my self to the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council to know from what time they will think fit my Salary should commence, but Coll De Peyster who was in the Place from about Christmas last, barely for necessary process without pretending to judge in any cause not expecting any Salary I submit it to the consideration of your Lordships, whether it may not be reasonable that which I receive here should be from Christmas as 'tis in England or at least from the Date of the Colonels Commission.

Permit me further to acquaint your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that this City is miserably divided and had not I prevailed, (if I have prevailed) on the party who think themselves aggrieved for not being returned Aldermen and Assistants not to resolve to right themselves as they had threatned; but to take a legal method, there had hardly been the face of a Government in the City but at my perswasion they have prosecuted Mandamus's and yet would have anticipated the Judgement of the Supream Court by the Presentment of a warm part of a Grand Jury: which Presentment I found reason to set aside for the incertainty. But as I undertook perswaded the Governour and Council to grant an adjournment of the Supream Court to the 25 day of next month in order to determine that and other matters depending.

Since which somthing of a very extraordinary nature has happened, several of the members of this Assembly having been turned out for absolutely refusing to Act after they had been sworn and had chosen their speaker, whom they unanimously presented to the Governour in the room of three, others were chosen who came into the House with a Protestation against its Proceedings and departed to their Counties. These the House of Representatives desire to be prosecuted by the Attorney General: their reasons for which they have sent to the Governour and Council. After this the Writ from Suffolk County was returned unexecuted with an insolent paper sent by the Sheriff as the sense of the Freeholders who then met. The Council are upon enquiring after the authors of this, and I doubt not will direct prosecutions against them; yet I must say I find a backwardness where I did not expect it.

Your Lordships cannot but be sensible that these things are not to be suffered in any Government and while I am discharging my Duty, I dout not of the favour and protection of your Lordships which will be a great support and comfort to

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, E. 86.]

My Lord,

Upon occasion of our enquiring about the Cloathing provided by M<sup>r</sup> Fauconier (as he says) for the Soldiers at New York, he brought with him to the Board M<sup>r</sup> Daniel Honan, as Secretary to your Lordship which has surpriz'd us. For as the said Honan lies under an imputation of having been one of Coll Fletchers Instruments whilst he was Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York, in receiving Bribes from Pirates granting them Protections and committing other misdomeanours; So we cannot doubt but your Lordship has more particularly observed by the Books and papers that we communicated to you relating to the State of that Government how full the Proofs which ly before us are; That he being private Secretary to Coll Fletcher was Security with other persons for two of the said Pirates upon their setting out to sea; That those Bonds being committed by Coll Fletcher to his custody, he afterwards blotted out his own name in the Body of the Bonds, and tore off his Sign and Seal at the bottom, leaving the names and Seals of the other bondsmen untouched; That being examined upon Oath by the Earle of Bellomont whether he knew of any money given to, or received by Colonel for such protections he swore he knew of none, though it was afterwards positively proved to the Earle of Bellomont upon Oath, that he was present when Coll Fletcher received a Bill of 50<sup>li</sup> for a protection granted to one Rayner a Pirate, which was made payable to said Honan himself for Coll Fletcher's use and was accordingly paid.

These being Crimes of [so] high a nature, we have thought fitt to acquaint your Lordship in this manner with our Sense thereof, and further do recomend to you that in case the said Honan do come to New Yorke, he be not protected by your Lordship from any prosecution for these or other matters. Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

To the R<sup>s</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

Yesterday in the afternoon I had the honour of your Lordships letter of the 18 instant in which your Lordships are pleased to say that upon occasion of your enquiring about the cloathing provided by M<sup>r</sup> Fauconier for the Soldiers at New Yorke he brought with him to your board M<sup>r</sup> Daniel Honan as my Secretary which has surprized you; your Lords<sup>ps</sup> are likewise pleased to say that as the said Honan lies under an imputation of having been one of Coll Fletchers instruments while he was Governour of New Yorke, in receiving bribes from Pirates, granting them protections and committing other Misdemeanours, so you cannot doubt but I have more particularly observed by the books and papers that have been communicated to me relating to the State of that Government, how full the proofs which lye before your Lordships are; then you are pleased to mention some of the particular facts the said Honan has been guilty off which indeed are of a very high nature; then at last your Lordships are pleased to recommend it to me that in case the said Honan dos come to New Yorke, he be not protected by me from any prosecution for these or other matters, In answer to this I take the Liberty to acquaint your Lords<sup>ps</sup> that M<sup>r</sup> Daniel Honan was intirely a stranger to me till July last; then indeed he was recommended to me to be my Secretary by persons of very great honour and worth, I took him upon their recommendation and have since employed him in busyness at the Treasury, Admiralty, Navy, Ordnance, Customes, and at my Lord Chamberlains Office, and never heard anything alledged against him; I further take the liberty to inform your Lordships that among the many books and papers you gave me leave to look into relating to the Government of New Yorke, I did not see those books and papers in which the proofs against the said Honan are contained; this I look upon as a misfortune to me, for had I seen them he should not have remained one hour in my service; I return my humble and hearty thanks to your Lordships for the favour you have done me in giving me light into this matter, else I might very innocently have carryed along with me a man so obnoxious as I find this Honan is and which I am sure I shall not do now for this very post I have sent orders to dismiss him from my service, Your Lordships may be sure that I shall not protect Honan, nor any other person whatsoever from any just prosecution for any crime, and I intreat your Lordships to do me the justice to believe that no private interest of my own can prevaile with me to connive at or encourage any crime whatsoever; but that I goe possesst with a resolution to use my utmost endeavours to discover all things of that nature that the persons who are guilty of them may receive the rewards due to them I am with great Respect

Lieutenant-Governor Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 114.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lords,

Since my last to your Lordships of the 20th October by M<sup>r</sup> Penn I have the honour of your Lordships letter of the 14th August with their excellencies the Lords Justices order on the reading the report from the Lords of the Admiralty relating to a flag of distinction from his Majestys ships of war to be worn by all ships that shall be commissioned by the Governours of his Majestys Plantations which I shall punctually observe.

We have had but little of late occur'd worthy your Lordships notice only a dispute in our City between our two parties relating to the due election and return of Aldermen for the ensuing year which has since been determined by several supream Courts for that purpose. I presume the cheif Justice will be very particular to your Lordships as well in this as in what else relates to the Judicial proceedings in this Province so that I shall give your Lordships no further trouble in this matter.

Our Indians are in great temper and I hope will so continue I have posted for intelligence of the French designs this winter four understanding men Viz' one in each of the four farthest of our five Nations and would have sent some under the pretence of trading to the New French Fort D'Trett or Tieughsachrondie built on that Tract of Land lately given by the Indians to his Majesty and in the midst of their Beaver hunting But the winter setting in there so violent and the Journey so long I could persuade none to undertake it at present tho' by a French Quarter Master lately sent from Quebeck by the Governour of Canada, and bound for England in order fo[r] France in this ship to solicit a fund (as he says) to rebuild their seminary there, which was burnt intirely on the 4th November last, twas 33 years in building and cost 300,000 Crownes I am told there never went up more than one party to build and settle that fort which consisted of twenty four Cannoes with four persons in each men with some women and Children so that I cannot see should there a warr happen or his Majesty's orders for their being removed but that in a seasonable time of the year they might easily be dislodged, which would be of great satisfaction to our Indians who are now over aw'd in their hunting by that settlement.

I send to your Lordships inclosed the Acts of Assembly, Journal of the Assembly, the Assembly's Address to his Majesty, Quarters minutes, July, Augst and September M<sup>r</sup> Plowmans Petition to the Lords Justices and the report thereon of the Committee of Council here, and copy of my letter to your Lordships by M<sup>r</sup> Penn and Governour Nicholsons papers I sent inclosed in that letter.

As to what moneys in the additional duty bill they have disposed of to me I doe aver to your Lordships as soon as I heard their design I positively [declared] to some of them, I neither could nor would take any money till his Majesty's direction therein and forbid them naming me any way in the bill and indeed I thought they would have observed my direction till the bill came up which was the day before the Prorogation, I found myself named therein but I beleive they thought they could not handsomly bring in others without naming me, tho' I have not nor will I receive one farthing of it in obedience to your Lordships orders, and do hereby renounce all manner of claim or title thereto, and will be willing at any time to give such a formal release as your Lordships in your wisdom shall think proper for I protest to your Lordships I never had any such design knowing very well how to be obedient.

The Journal I fear may not be so correctly printed the character being near worn out and the printer apt to mistakes in spelling.

I must pray your Lordships thoughts on the Soldiery in this Province in his Majesty's pay, that his Majesty's service and my self may not be ruin'd by non-payments of my bills in London for their subsistance I assure your Lordships they receive every week each private man his three shillings and sixpence in money with the addition of 20 per Cent and the Officer his proportionable no manner of stoppage from what the King allows and I am forced to engage my own fortune for the repayment with charges in case Bills should be protested I and mine wholly depend on your Lordships favour in this affaire or we are undone Therefore pray your Lordships assistance to M<sup>r</sup> Champante should he have occasion.

My Lords I have received a duplicate of the Commission for tryal of Pirates by M<sup>r</sup> Larkin with some Acts of Parliament and have opened the Court and appointed a Register with whom M<sup>r</sup> Larkin before he went hence left proper instructions

Some time after arrives here a small ketch from Providence bound for England Having on board M<sup>r</sup> Hasket the Governour of them Islands a prisoner sent thence by the inhabitants who had usurpt the Government and form'd one of their own who found some means in letting his freinds in this place know his misfortunes with all accusing some on board with Piracy particularly one James Crawford, super Cargo of the Ketch, when as soon as I was acquainted therewith I sent down his Majesty's Boat and arm'd and brought her up after which upon a formal Accusation of M<sup>r</sup> Hasket I order'd the Attorney General to prosecute said Crawford who after a full and fair tryal was acquitted of Piracy by a majority of the Court (the particulars of which are sent pursuant to the Act to the High Court of Admiralty) on which Còll Hasket gave in a Memorial to my self and Council a copy of which your Lordships have inclosed with the minutes thereon accusing John Graves Roger Prideux and James Crawford of High Treason in being concern'd in the Rebellion in Providence desiring there being continued here till his Majesty's Pleasure be further known, I would have sent them confin'd home to one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State but this Vessell is so crowded with goods and Passengers that there is no room for them so must take the next opportunity.

I send your Lordships the Cheif Justices opinion in law on their Case.

I cannot omit taking notice to your Lordships of the diligence of our Cheif Justice and Collector in putting in execution the Laws of trade without fear or favour and discouraging the illegal Trade of this Place as much as possible.

I wonder what Còll Romer means in not coming hither I have not as yet been able to procure him nor know when I shall.

I also send your Lordships a Duplicate of the Ordinance for the Court of Chancery, and a Minute of Council relating to the accounts of M<sup>r</sup> Courtlandt

I have not else at present to trouble your Lordships with but am

My Lords

Chief Justice Atwood to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 93.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

The superintendency of your Lords<sup>ps</sup> over these parts I hope will excuse my troubling your Lordships with long accounts of my proceedings in introducing the Law of England and preventing those abuses of the Acts of Trade which are two frequent especially at Boston which is the only place where the Admiralty Commission has been treated with contempt.

Indeed the Governour and Council of Connecticut were for some hours of opinion that it interferes with their Charter, and that they could not receive me as a Judge there till they should consult their Assembly. But I think I left them in a disposition to submit to that Jurisdiction yet one of their Council being Deputy Collector at New London the present seat of their Government I expect not to hear from thence of any Seizures or informations And if any Seizures are made 'tis very probable that the support which the Superior Court and Council at Boston have given to a Deputy Collectors fraudulent Composition will encourage him and others to the like frauds and that they will presume to continue a Practice which perhaps obtains in all places hereabouts, except this of putting the King off with a third of his third; supposing it in the power of the officer by taking one third for the whole to conclude the King and Governour.

I doubt not but they who are in the Government at Boston are beforehand with them in their complaint and may have represent me as a warm man for my publick exposing the Argument of one of their Clergy who maintained that they were not bound in conscience to obey the Laws of England having no representatives there of their own chusing I cannot but hope that my Zeale for the laws and interest of England will balance their solicitations and that your Lordships will not only approve of what I have done there to assert his Majesty's authority among them but will think of some way of obliging their superior Court to withdraw the protection which they have given the Deputy Collector against a sentence in the Court of Admiralty which they not only suffered him to libel against in very indecent terms, but treated his Majesty's Commission with Indignity, refusing to receive a memorial which I offered a Judge of the Admiralty Court, till they had driven me from the side of the bench where strangers generally sit to be amongst the Attorneys of their lawless Court, and suffering me to be interrupted by one Horn, who in affront to me while I was giving sentence in the Admiralty placed himself before me in his night gown and shaved head without any covering

He was the Penner and Justifier of the inclosed libel of which I complain in my memorial here submitted to the Judgement of your Lordships instead of doing me justice upon it they have continued their protection till the Court in May next, after a general Council had been held upon it after which they directed the parties Council to draw suggestions for a Prohibition, a Copy of which is promis'd me.

'Tis certain unless some further authority from England check their proceedings 'twill be impossible for his Majesty's Admiralty Jurisdiction to have any effect there, since they will pretend to suspend the execution of its sentences as long as they shall think fit to consider of any Petition tho' never so scandalous and impertinents.

The opposition which I met with detaining me there for some time while their superior Court Sate, I could not but observe and wonder at their methods abhorrent from the laws of England and all other Nations and directed by Acts of their Assembly's which give or allow four tryals in every Cause where their evidences are most in paper as cunning men draw them and as a temptation to perjuries new proofs are admitted at the latter tryals to encounter the former evidence.

In my last which I suppose is arrived I presumed to mention to your Lordships one of the grounds of my Judgement in the Supream Court for a prohibition and denial of a Consultation upon an illegal discharge in a Court of Admiralty of the ship of one Wake who on the 17 of July 1699 had imported hither goods of the value of 7500<sup>li</sup> sterling prime Cost and yet had been let goe by one Parmiter then and still Naval officer, upon a bond entred into by Wake, alone in the penalty of 20000<sup>li</sup> conditioned for the proving that the ship had been registered before that time.

The Governour and Council having affirmed the Judgment for that prohibition Wake as appealed home but the letters Patents which give the Appeal having provided that such appeal shall not suspend the execution of any Judgment or sentence I have proceeded in the Admiralty where Wake refused to appear and plead, yet his former Attorney offered several things as amicus Curiae principally the pendency of the Appeal and for evidence that the ship ought to be discharged produced a letter to the Collector from the Commissioners of the Customes which mentions their having searched the general Book of Registers, and finding such a vessel was registered in August 1699 for which reason they require him to discharge the ship upon oath made that this was the same then Registered unless there were other Cause.

But if the order had been absolute it being grounded on a Register since the importation this I conceive would not have been any warrant for me to discharge the ship, and I could not but take this to be an undenyable evidence that the forfeiture was incurred and have made adjudication accordingly. From this they pretend to appeal but were wholly uncertain in their demand not knowing whether to direct it and no formal appeal being lodged according to the Rules of the Civil law I question whether they could have any effect of an appeal if there had been ground for one, I have since put the sentence [into] execution and Wake himself has bought her at a publick Auction, for 700<sup>li</sup> including 100<sup>li</sup> allowed for Melioration since the forfeiture and a treaty about letting her out.

Permit me further to acquaint your Lords<sup>sh</sup> that one Mr Veehe (a Darian Captain who has married the daughter of Mr Livingston<sup>1</sup> said to have made a dismal representation of the State of this Province in which I dare say there is not a word of illegal Trade) is known to have been the person who came off so easily upon the seizure at Boston He with one Savin and Mr Leviston own son have had worse luck with another parcel of wines and brandies with other European [goods] & Tobacco imported in a Vessell driven into a Bay at the East end of Long Island by stress of weather the plea upon which there is a demurer seeming manifestly defective I believe I shall have no occasion yet to determine whether this is not an importation within the meaning of the Act 15. C. 2. C. 7. but if it be not I am sure that Act may easily be eluded. And I submit to the consideration of your Lordship whether to prevent the temptation which men have to venture upon unlawfull Trade from the oportunites which they have of selling to the French or those of St Thomas vessells which had unlawfully imported goods 'twill not be requisite to have a law in England, in such case to charge the parties where they can be found And I submit it to consideration whether if men may carry to foreign Plantations European goods which came not directly from England 'tis not reasonable some particular provision should be made to prevent that supposed liberty with which unlawfull trade is too much colour'd and whether if the vessells or goods cannot be taken 'tis not fit that the persons guilty should not be charged to the value I must needs think till otherwise advised that if the stress of weather or any of his Majestys men of war force into Port Vessells so trading the Vessells and the European goods in them will be forfeited within the Stat. 15. C. 2. which certainly intended to prevent the Trading as well as the importation, thò the seizure and condemnation are only upon the importation.

A practice has long obtained to the prejudice of the Navigation and Trade of England as well as of this place for the Merchants at Boston to send European goods hither in their vessells: whereas the Act 15. Car. 2. seems to intend that they should be brought directly from England to each place where they are imported: But this has hitherto been construed here as if 'twere enough if but once imported to any English Plantation. In this matter I crave the directions of your Lordships

Thò my zeal for the laws of England concerning Trade has occasioned great clamours they have been far short of what had been raised upon my interposing with the law of England to secure the peace of this miserable divided City and obliging men who had been sworn into offices by the New Mayor alone contrary to the return of the City and the express words of their Charter, to bring their Actions upon the returns to mandamus's and not suffering them to be accounted Officers till the matter should be determined in the supream Court: That this might receive no delay I procured several ordinances of the Council for sittings of the Court and at last have quieted the matter to a general satisfaction or at least acquiescence

And of three Aldermen with their assistants who had been sworn by the New Mayor, after tryals one has quietted his pretensions and the other two have been sworn according to the Charter upon peremptory Mandamuss

I still presume upon the patience of your Lordships while I mention part of the misfortunes of the Governour of the Island of Providence<sup>1</sup> who upon an Insurrection there was kept some time a close prisoner in chains and sent in chaines on board the Ketch which being obliged to touch upon this Coast gave him the opportunity of coming free to shore, He has since prosecuted for Piracy one Crawford a bold young Scotch man, who had been active in the insurrection and had goods on board taken out of the Governours storehouse and four Patereroes and chambers taken out of a Vessel belonging to his Majesty and him besides which he was one of those who seduced on shore the Master of a frigate in which the Governour was interested by means of which the frigate was immediatly after brought under the Cannon of the fort possessed by men who had seized it in open rebellion against his Majesty as I conceive it to be, thò Lords Proprietors have the Government under the Crown of England.

Crawford had the good fortune to be acquitted by a majority of the Commissioners by virtue of the late Act and his Majesty's Commission here. To me it seem'd that he himself acted as a Pirate and however being joyned in Treason with others who committed Piracy in Prosecution of their Treason in which all must be principals, was answerable for all the consequents. Thò he escaped 'twas unanimously agreed and so entred that there was very probable cause for the prosecution. He and two of his accomplices are under confinement by order of the Council the occasion of which your Lordships may observe by the inclosed opinion.

By these matters which I have faithfully laid before your Loreships I have made many enemies perhaps even more than M<sup>r</sup> Weaver whose warmth in his Majesty's service and great care to prevent irregular Trade make many earnest for his removal of which they think themselves sure upon the coming of a new governour with whom they have already laboured to make impressions to his prejudice

As to myself what ever be the consequence I hope god will enable me to discharge my duty which tho' it require great paines and application for want of assistance where I had reason to expect some, at least that the inactivity of others should not tend to my reproach. I shall go through it with alacrity if I can but understand that your Lordships approve of the sincere endeavours of My Lords

Petition of the Protestants of New-York to King William III.

[New-York Papers; (S. P. O.) Bundle 852.]

City of New-York 30 December 1701.

To the KINGS MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY

The humble Petition and address of Your Majesties Protestant subjects in your Plantation of New York in America.

Most Dread Sovereign.

We your Majesties Protestant Subjects in Your Plantation of New York in America, having too many reiterated Informations of our being calumniated and misrepresented to your Majesty, with hearts full of grief, Loyalty, and the highest duty and regard to your Majesty humbly pray the Freedom to acquaint Your Majesty.

That as soon, as we knew of your Majesties happy accession to the Crown, we entertained the joyful tidings with hearts full of alacrity blessing Almighty God for our great deliverer.

And, as we cannot still without Dread and Horror reflect upon the ruine and calamities that were likely to swallow us up, when your Majesty brought us deliverance; so we are influenced with a lively and grateful sense, that our Religion and Liberties are in the greatest safety under your auspicious Reign.

We do assure Your Majesty that the divisions and differences that have happened amongst your subjects in this province were never grounded upon the interest of your Majesty, but the private corrupt designs of some of the Pretenders to your Majesty's service who had laid hold of an opportunity to enrich themselves by the spoils of their Neighbours.

The oppressions and hardships we underwent took an end by the arrivall of Your Government, and during the whole course of the late warr, with Your Majesty's gracious assistance we chearfully sustained its burthen, some of us in our persons, and all of us by our purses, and by the fortunate influence of Your Majesty's Empire, conserved this Your Colony entire from any conquest of the Enemy.

Being consious to ourselves of nothing more than an entire affection and faithfull adherence to Your Majesty's Royall person and interest, it was the greater surprize to find our selves by the late Earle of Bellomont without reason or colour turned out of places in the Government, and those generally filled with persons least qualified for their posts, & to add to our misfortune, and evidence the injuries we have suffered, we find our selves to be branded most unjustly with characters of disaffection and infamy; although with all dutiful submission we underwent the first, yet the latter as being an offence to truth and touching us in our good names, and the interest all faithfull subjects ought to have in a just Prince, we cannot, but be extremely sensible of.

Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> subjects could not at first foresee the ends design'd, but the measures taken were of that nature as to give us just apprehensions of evil, great partiality in appointment of Officers, manifest corruption and injustice in all Elections, and that so open and barefaced, as the greater number of the people could not but see the destructive projections not less than the injurious means used to attain them, being nothing else, but abusing Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> glorious name, and under pretext of your Maj<sup>ties</sup> service, by the Legislative power, to divest many of your Maj<sup>ties</sup> good subjects of their just rights and possessions and to share and divide the same amongst themselves and their confederates, with many other sinister, indirect & unjust proceedings, easily to be proved, but too many to enumerate at present to Your Majestie, thereby greatly offending Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> good subjects and tending to render your Maj<sup>ties</sup> Govern<sup>t</sup> in these parts scandalous, vile and cheap in the Eyes of your people; although these Methods had long since been determined, if they had not lately met with new supports.

We humbly implore Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> justice in relieving us from these evils, and take this opportunity of assuring Your Maj<sup>ty</sup> that amongst the vast numbers of mankind, who have willingly subjected themselves & taken shelter under Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> dominion, none are more heartily devoted to pray for Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> long and prosperous Reigu over us, than Your Maj<sup>ties</sup> most obedient, most humble and most dutiful subjects and servants.

[New-York Entries, E. 122.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

We take the Liberty by the inclosed to acquaint your Lordships with so much as we are yet able to discover of a conspiracy to raise sedition and mutiny here and to defame the Administration of the Government of this Province under his Majesty which appears to have been carryed on by a factious party, the head of which is one Coll Bayard of foreign birth a man never easy under an English Government and others are very angry that they cannot break the Laws of Trade with impunity.

That they might intimidate those who are intrusted with the Administration they have used vile Arts to seem formidable thó few of the English inhabitants of this Province in comparison with the true English subjects who inhabit it joyn with them and the most are Soldiers inveigled by false pretences, common seamen, sojourners boys and such as have been only passengers, together with Dutch and French men, of which many are aliens, some names are twice over and very few of them understood what they sign'd to; they seek to impose upon his Majesty and the House of Commons as if they transmitted to them the complaints of the English of this Province.

But we assure your Lordships they have not applyed to us for redrees of any pretended greivances nor do we know of any reall, and while we execute the authority intrusted with us to the best of our understandings we doubt not of his Majesty's approbation and the protection of your Lordships which is humbly desired by

My Lords,

Since ours of yesterday we have received further evidence concerning a conspiracy to disturb the Peace Good and quiet of his Majestys Govern<sup>t</sup> established in this Province and it appears very manifestly to us that Cöll Nicholas Bayard is the cheif promoter of it and that it is of such a nature that if some example be not made his Majesty's Government here will be (as they present it) vile and cheap in the eyes of the people the account of which we humbly submitt to the consideration of your Lordships and are

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

In obedience to your Lordships commands in your letter to me bearing date the 8th of October last and arrived here by Capt<sup>o</sup> Bond yesterday, I can assure your Lordships that the complaints of Captain Wake and his owners against our Collector M<sup>r</sup> Weaver, appear to be only because of the faithfull discharge of his duty in seizing a ship that had not been registred before its trading hither and could not nor yet can make any proof of a Register till after its trading tho' upon a bond which they call a composition sufficient time had been given for such proof and the order of Commissioners of the Customes to which they refer, is so far from discharging the said ship that they say upon search of the general Register it appears that she was Registred the 10 August wherefore they order him to discharge her if there were no other cause, Whereas she imported goods the 17th July before, But for the full justification of M<sup>r</sup> Weaver in this matter, I must refer your Lordships to our Cheif Justices letters, the first of which I understand your Lordships have received since which as he informs me he sent one by Governour Penn as he now does another by M<sup>r</sup> Glencross a passenger inclosed in a cover directed to his lady, by which I doubt not but your Lordships will be satisfied that the said ship has been justly condemned in the Court of Admiralty, Weake himself bought her at an undervalue at a publick Auction.

A Copy all the Judicial Proceedings against the ship from her first seizure to her condemnation is sent with the Seal of the Province affixed to M<sup>r</sup> Champante the agent in order to defend against the appeal.

I take leave further to acquaint your Lordships that the Attorney General neither in this nor any other matter appears to have discharged his duty, whether from want of ability or will I need not determine but I am sorry to say there is reason to suspect both, I am

With great respect

You will undoubtedly by the arrival of this Shipp, Capt<sup>o</sup> Rob<sup>t</sup> Darkins comander have an account of the Passengers or otherwise of our present circumstances, the occasion of which were three addresses, one to the King, one to the Parliam<sup>t</sup> and the other a congratulation to my Lord

Cornbury to be presented to him at his arrivall, discovery whereof being made a considerable time after the compleating, the Clarke & Messinger of the Councill had continually for several days Employ to bring all sorts of persons, before the Councill, whereof some by promises of Rewards others by threats of Imprisonment, Clipping of eares &c were prevailed upon to sware ag<sup>t</sup> the ritoers of [them] whereupon father myself and Capt<sup>a</sup> Hutchings were summoned before the Councill and the two first bound over each in 1500 pounds Recognizance to answer to an Indictment to be filed ag<sup>t</sup> us in the Supreme Court, and the latter sent to prison for not complying with the order of Councill of the 16th Inst<sup>t</sup> copy of the mittimus is herewith sent, whereupon an address was presented by Mr Rip Van Dam Capt<sup>a</sup> Thomas Wenham, Mr Phillip French and father Bayard copy whereof is also here inclosed, which was so hainous a Crime, and some words therein construed to the worst, with the evidence of one Samuel Clowes who had seen the addresses at fathers house, that he was thereupon committed for high Treason and the three other Gentlemen some longer time given of consideration, the day before part of the City Militia being ordered in arives who are by turns releived keeping their Court a Guard just above the Gaole were the Prisoners are kept who are very troublesome neighbours, the pretence of keeping them in armes, is to keep the peace, the disturbers whereof God knows best, at the same time rumours being spread of no small number of the wealthiest also marked out for destruction for being subscribers to treasonable Papers, not above a day after the prisoners were in custody the Judge and several others moved for a special Court to make an end of the work begun whereupon many of the Cheife Merchants Intended to quitt the towne but it pleased God soe to order at the same time the councill was sitting (as I have reason to beleive) to order a special Court, that Capt<sup>a</sup> Bond arrived when the River was full of Eyes<sup>1</sup> with the news of my Lord Cornburys Intentions to follow him within a week, which newes I beleive has been the saving of many a mans life, for noe special Court is more talkt of nor the other three Gentlemen any further molested, then only that the Attorney General shall be ordered to prosecute them, I am uneasie that I cannot send you coppies of the Addresses which make so much noise for the Copies I suppose are all destroyed, and the originals so secured that cannot at present send you any, but hope nevertheless, that you will by one way or other either come to the sight of the originals or copies by this ship, the substance of them are cheifly to sett us to Rights in the eies of the Court, that we are no Jacobites Pyrats or Ill men as represented but if in case his Maj<sup>ty</sup> shall see cause to enter in a new Warr, that wee assure him to spend our lives and fortunes in his service—With a short relation of our Greivances, the crime which Father and I are bound over for, was that we were present at the Coffee house when the addresses were signed, The Attorney Generall was called in Councill at the examinacòn of all those that were examined, @ he being of opinion that the Prisoners were not guilty of what they were accused withall nor deserved any confùnement was obliged to give the reasons of his opinion under his hand, which when done was highly threatened to be suspended. I send you copy of the Act under which the Mittimus's were grounded. A Proclamacòn was brought by the Clerk of the Councill to be printed wherein was related the Prisoners crimes at large taken out of the Mittimus's with a Relation in manner of an Act of Grace, that it was not the Intentions of the Government to prosecute all the ignorant people that were drawn to signe, but only prosecute the heads, but the Printer being out of Towne said Proclamacòn was since the arrivall of the Ship taken awaie againe from thence I heare that the Proceedings or such part as the Governour & Councill have thought fitt touching what acted by them are to be sent over under the seale of the Province, I would have much more to add If I had an opportunity of writing these lines on board of the Shipp at Sandie Hook, wherefore I pray you to Informe your selves by Capt<sup>n</sup> Darkins & the passengers

25th January 170½ hav<sup>e</sup> a days time I have received the enclosed out of Gaole, wherein I find fathers Information from whence ever he had it is not perfect for the three Gentlemen were at first three days time given to produce the Copies and after that six dayes longer, and then not bound over but only told that orders should be given to the Attorney General to prosecute them, when he had already before declared under his hand his dislike to all their proceedings and altho' the envy of his enemies are boundless neverthe less if Judge Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver had not drawn in the rest we had not been in this condition. Exceeding great and hartie paines has been taken to engage lawyers to prosecute the Prisoners but cannot hear of any that will be concerned in any manner of way, Even the Judges Son has taken a Fee for the Prisoners; I have been told by Gentleman who have discoursed the Judge concerning the mittimus's and the construction he puts on the words (Inciting the people to disown the present authority and cast of His Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Governm<sup>t</sup>) is the address to my Lord Cornbury and that he has incited the other three Gentlemen to signe the inclosed Petition to the Govern<sup>r</sup> wherein according to his construccions they dissowne the present authority in these words (who we understand by certaine advice wee have received from England to be nominated by his Ma<sup>ty</sup> to succeed the last Erle of Bellomont as our Governour) as for the signing of the soldiers only Capt<sup>n</sup> Matthews & two Serj<sup>ts</sup> Craence and Richardson subscribed the addresses in presence of Father and myself at the Coffee House, the two first are Freeman and Innkeepers in this City and the latter lives and payes his rent for a house in Towne, who all came in of their own accord or perhaps being spoke to by any of the rest that had subscribed but never discoursed or sent for or Inticed by either father or myself, The Proclamation I made mention of before is published but not fixed up nor to be had at the Printers, I must beg your pardon that I cannot answer any of yours Received by Bond for I dare not keep any Letters or Papers in the house for fear of having the same seized and construed to our prejudice. I pray God to give us patience to wait our deliverance (and keep this letter out of the hands of my enemies) In whose wise Just and merciful dispensations I putt my confidence and subscribe myself as I am

Colonel Bayard to Messrs. Adderly and Lodwick.

[New-York Papers, H. S. T.; R 52.]

Gentlemen,

I suppose you'l have by this vessel from some of my friends a full account in what manner our former unhappy Breaches & Divisions in this Province are of late broken out to a more violent Degree and Flame than ever—Occasioned by meanes of three addresses lately signed by a number of the Freeholders & Inhabitants of this Province, viz<sup>t</sup> one to his Maj<sup>ty</sup> another to the Parliament and another to the Lord Viscount Cornbury, prepared to be presented at his safe arrivall as our Govern<sup>r</sup> within this Province, the coppies of which I suppose will be herewith sent you, to wch I referr—The said addresses were signed by most all the Chief Merch<sup>ts</sup> and Principal Inhabitants that are in opposition against the Leislerian party And wee had for soe doing the best advice and Councill of the experienced Lawyers wee have amongst us

But soe it is that our L<sup>d</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> and Councill having discovered that such a matter was in hand wee were extremely concerned and disgusted at it, @ thereupon used all the meanes possible to gett the same seized on, or to procure the copies of them, but the Papers being timely secured, to prevent any false construction that might be made upon any of the words, since Judge Atwood termed it Sedition and Rebellion. One Capt<sup>n</sup> John Hutchins with myself and son were called upon it before the Govern<sup>r</sup> & Councill, and after some hearings Hutchins committed to Gaole for Treason, without Bayle to be admitted until he should produce the Coppies of said Addresses, which they were pleased to call Libells, myself and Son were both of us bound over by recognizance each of us in a Thousand Pounds, with five hundred pounds surety to appear at the next superior Court in Aprill Term to answer an Indict<sup>mt</sup> or Information then and there to be exhibited agst us: These Proceedings startled and vext all the Gentlemen that had signed them Addresses to a very great degree and some of them told the Govern<sup>r</sup> & Judge as opportunity offered that they had signed those addresses, and would maintaine it to be their Right and liberty as free born subjects soe to doe: And it being considered by them that Capt<sup>n</sup> Hutchins was to be admitted to bayle if he produced the Copies, which hee could not doe he having kept none, myself was thereupon p<sup>r</sup>swaded together with M<sup>r</sup> Phillip French, M<sup>r</sup> Rip Van Dam & Capt<sup>n</sup> Thomas Wenham to address the Govern<sup>r</sup> & Council which accordingly was done in his behalfe, owning that the coppies of s<sup>d</sup> addresses were in our Custodies &c as you may find by a coppie I suppose will also be sent you. Whereupon myself was committed for High Treason as 1st Copy of the mittimus appears—And my other three cōpanions time allowed them for Six dayes to consider, and then to produce the said copies upon pain of Imprisonment—I observed by what I was charged with before the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Councill that my Cheif crime was groundd for addressing the Lord Cornbury ( who I was told was not to come over for our Governor) which a disowning of the Present Authority and Casting off his Majesty's Government as it is now established—The third day after my committment, Capt<sup>n</sup> Bond happily arrived who brought us the comfortable News that my Lord Cornbury was ready to come out for this Government at his sayling from England—And I understand since that my other three companions upon their last hearing two days since, who persisting in their refusal to produce the Copies, were only bound over to be prosecuted by the Attorney Generall—And that the Attorney General has given it under his hand to the Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council that, for what he had seen sworn against my selfe, he found noe ground or cause of Commitment; a whole company of the Militia Guards our prison day & night, I suppose to give some colour, as if there was great danger of a rescue

Gentlemen, by these proceed<sup>gs</sup> my friends may perceive In what manner the envy of the Leislerian party being now in the seat of Government here, have prevailed agst mee—To have that Act of Assembly twisted and strayed contrary to the true intent Genius or meaning of it, And only contrived to cut mee off which I'm sure they'l pursue for to effect to the very utmost if possible I having been all along as is well known the principal object of their Malice and chiefly markt out by them for destruction, God forgive them, As for myself I am not conscious of any Guilt or Crime in the matter, being confirmed therein by all the Council I yett have mett with, and perticularly by that Act of Parliament: an<sup>o</sup> primo W & M Intituled an Act declaring the Rights and liberties of the Subjects &c It is amongst other matters declared, That it is the rights of the subjects to petition the King, and all comitments & prosecutions for such petitioning are illegal.

Gentlemen I know that this my misfortune will be a great surprisall to y<sup>r</sup> selves and many of my friends in England, and therefore have thought it needfull to give you this account of the whole matter, which I desire you'l communicate & present to the rest of my friends with you, and were else you may think it proper or of Service; I thank God for his gracious support and assistance in an extraordinary manner; and tho' it shall please Providence to suffer me to be made a sacrifice to their canckered envy and hatred; I shall alwaies endeavour to submit my selfe soly to all his divine most wise just and merciful dispensations, And soe I take leave with my hearty thanks for your former manifold kindnesse & favour and to subscribe myselfe as I am

Messrs. Adderly and Lodwick to the Lords of Trade.

The Memorial of Henry Adderly & Charles Lodwick Merchant in London on behalf of Coll Nicholas Bayard and others Correspondents in the Province of New Yorke, humbly presented to the R<sup>o</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> of Trade and Plantations.

It is needless to remind your Lordships of the great Hardships which the above named Coll Bayard was exposed to during the time that Jacob Leysler took upon him the Government of that Province how he was imprisoned kept in Irons & exposed as a shew, and carried about in a chair at the Pleasure and for the Diversion of a tumultuating mob, to the great danger of his life and how he was robbed of a great part of his estate upon a groundless pretence that he was disaffected to the interest of the late king who was the glorious instrument of our deliverance from Popery and Slavery when in the mean time the said Coll was known to be a zealous Protestant. and gave advice to turn all the Papists out of their posts the better to forward the Revolution there, only desiring that the Protestants then in the Government might be continued in the exercise thereof for the publick peace till orders should come from England directing what further was to be done, which was an advice very proper in such a dangerous time as that was for a transmarine Province intirely depending upon the English Government.

Your Lordships have been also informed of the hardships the said Coll Bayard hath met with Since, which forced him to make his retreat to England where he acquainted your Lordships with his sufferings and had your Lordships direction to return home with a promise of protection against the like inconveniences for the future.

Yet since the death of the late Governour the old ferment is renewed to a greater degree than ever through the encouragement given to the factious by one Atwood Chief Justice and one weaver Collector of the province and one of the Council, who were promoted to those posts by the interest of the late Governour

Those men as we are informed by a letter marked T the excited the faction by railing accusations against the Parliament and some particular members thereof, saying that a reconciliation was incompatible and that my Lord Cornbury would never come over

Having thus prepared their party and to continue their power to oppress such as were objects of their malice they prevailed with the Lieutenant Gov<sup>r</sup> to call an Assembly of the Province resolving before hand to use all their cunning to get them rightly modelled to serve their purposes.

And therefore when they perceived that a return was made of ten members who were not of their party after they had chosen an Alien for their Speaker, they expelled two upon pretence of non-residency in the places for which they were return'd and the other eight who with those two objected against the speaker as not being a denizen were also expelled upon pretence of their not giving their attendance which they could not do for the reasons assigned in their petition N<sup>o</sup> 11 and the votes of the Assembly August 20, 1701.

Then having directed Writs to make new Elections in place of the expelled members, they proceeded to do business as a House, altho' they were but eleven in number (their Speaker included) and continued to consist of that number only and no more from the 23 of August to the 15 of September and passed several bills in that time.

On the 13 of September three new elected members appeared but refused to act for the reasons mentioned in their Remonstrance N<sup>o</sup> 12 for which they were likewise expelled the house and ordered to be prosecuted by the Attorney General as appears by the votes of the 22 of September

Those things with the other arbitrary proceedings of the House mentioned in their Votes and the Largesses to the Lieutenant Governour and Justice Atwood to keep them firm to their party did so alarm the wealthy inhabitants and other honest English spirited men in the Province that they prepared three Addresses one to the King, one to the Parliament, and one to my Lord Cornbury setting forth their grievances under the present Administration.

The Council getting notice hereof where so nettled thereat, that C<sup>o</sup>ll Bayard with his son and one Captain Hutchins were summoned to give an account of those Addresses and the two first were bound in recognizances of 1500<sup>l</sup> each to answer to an indictment to be filed against them in the Supream Court of Judicatory and Captain Hutchins was committed for not producing those Addresses all this is matter of fact as appears by letter marked 7 and paper N<sup>o</sup> 1. Then C<sup>o</sup>ll Bayard, Rip Van Dam, Phillip French and Thomas Wenham addressed the Lieutenant Gov<sup>r</sup> and Council praying that Captain Hutchins might be set at liberty if they had no other thing to charge him with than his not producing the Addresses. Because they were not in the custody of the said Hutchins but in theirs, and they hoped to make good the legality of them as appears by paper N<sup>o</sup> 2 which so heightened the displeasure of the Council (having construed some words of the said Address in the worst sense) that the said C<sup>o</sup>ll Bayard was committed for high Treason as appears by papers N<sup>o</sup> 7 and N<sup>o</sup> 3 and order were given to the City Militia to keep Guard (and to relieve one by companies) above his Chamber in the prison to prevent a rescue and those Guards were continued at the time our last letters were dated.

The Act of the Assembly upon which they committed those two gentlemen is contained in Paper N<sup>o</sup> 4 the other three which joynd with C<sup>o</sup>ll Bayard in the Address had first three days time given them then six more to produce copies of the said Addresses and at last were told that orders should be given to the Attorney General to prosecute them,

After this the Council ordered a Proclamation (whereof we have a printed Copie marked N<sup>o</sup> 9) to quiet the minds of the people who were much disturbed at those Proceedings that so they might with the greater security proceed to the intended Tryal, and (as we beleive) Execution of C<sup>o</sup>ll Bayard but this Proclamation was suppressed upon the arrival of a ship from England with an account that my Lord Cornbury was ready to saile in a few days concerning whom they constantly affirmed that he would never come over Governour. Since the arrival of this ship they talk no more of a Special Court to try the prisoners.

Yet considering the directions we have received from Coll Bayard and other Gentlemen in the Province and not knowing what accidents may happen to my Lord Cornbury by the way and that the said Coll Bayard is apprehensive of the most cruel effects of rage against his person, We have laid the Memorial before your Lordships humbly intreating you would speedily put a stop to those violent and unaccountable Proceedings which are carried on purely to gratify the Revenge of a restless faction in that Province

We presume likewise to acquaint your Lordships of the damage done to us in our commerce with those men and our other Correspondence who dare not keep or answer our letters lest they should fall into the hands of their Enemies and be misconstrued to their hurt as appears by M<sup>r</sup> Bayards letter N<sup>o</sup> 7 towards the close thereof.

Of those treasonable Addresses (as they have been pleased to call them) we would get no copies for the reasons mentioned paper N<sup>o</sup> 7 in which we have this account that they were designed chiefly to set those people right in the Eyes of the Court that they are not Jacobites, Pirates or ill men as they have been represented and offering their lives and fortunes in the Kings service with a short relation of their greivances

And that they are well affected to the Government is manifest by the Address to the King against the Pretended Prince of Wales &c which is marked number 9. and whereof we have the original

The Attorney General of the Province can find no Treason in Subjects Addressing for relief of Greivances for which he is out of favour and threatned to be suspended.

And we hope your Lordships will find nothing in those Addresses inconsistent with the duty of Loyal subjects but will perceive that the people's oppressions have been insupportable and their Enemies malice insatiable and therefore we humbly pray your Lordships will give speedy relief to our Friends and to our selves who are sufferers in our Trades as they are in their persons.

Colonel Bayard to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 167.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

May it please your Lordships

The favours which I received from your Lordships when I was lately in England, together with the pressures of our present most unhappy circumstances and particularly those as do relate to my self encourage my self to apply to your Lordships moreover since I expect that some of my ill-wishers now here at the helm of Government may as formerly has been done misrepresent some matters lately happened, by which measures they have brought myself and family by colour of law and justice to the Brink of Ruine without any regard to my faithfull services to the Crown & Province neare the space of 35 years, as all indifferent good men will certify that have been acquainted with my life, Conversation and Behaviour and the stations I served in But so it is may it please your Lordships that only the unhappy divisions by which I have suffered very much are the cheif and only cause of these our only New Calamities which if not soon healed by the prudence of a Governour, or some directions from his Majesty will ever prove very destructive to this hopeful bleeding Province. And thó some young men and strangers endeavour by their representations to magnify themselves and lessen their neighbours usually called the English party; yet I can assure your Lordships that by the 47 years observation and experience I lived here, I know 'em to be the more numerous by much and are as hearty Protestants and as forward and Zealous for his Majesty's service as any of the others can boast of, which I refer to what any of the preceeding Governours can say on that account Now to give your Lordships some breif account of our New Troubles I beg leave to mention what has been the rise and occasion of the same.

It was about the latter end of, the last summer that we had the news by severall letters from England, that the Lord Viscount Cornbury was appointed by his Majesty to succeed the late Earle of Bellomont to be Governour of this Province; But the said news was soon contradicted by letters said to be received that his Lordship was not like to come being otherwise provided for. This occasioned that some of his Majesty's good and faithfull subjects in this province who supposed themselves to lye under some, hardships without hopes of reliefe here, were encouraged by the best Council they had that it was lawfull for the subject to Petition the King and Parliament to be relieved therein. And in order therunto two addresses Viz' One to his Majesty and another to the Parliament with Duplicates were drawn up together with a congratulation. to the Lord Cornbury, to be delivered at his Lords<sup>ps</sup> safe arrival And were signed (without any the least disturbance whatsoever) by most of the principal merchants and many of the Freeholders and inhabitants within this City and amongst the rest by two members of his Majestys Council and several Justices of the Peace and the two first of the said addresses were delivered to one Captain Darkins master of a Vessel then bound for England about 3 weeks before it was heard our Lieutenant Governour and Council had any account thereof Who at the first discovery seem'd to be much disturbed and offended about it and great threatnings were made to prosecute the subscribers for sedition, Rebellion and High 'Treason: Which so frightend some of them that they secured both the originals and copies, for fear of some wrong construction might be made upon any of the words or meaning of the said addresses, Whereupon my self and one Alderman John Hutchins were by the Lieutenant Governour and Council committed for high treason and some others ordered to be prosecuted by the Attorney General, and a Special Commission issued for our Tryals. And though I made application first to the High Sheriff and afterwards by Petition to the Court that I might have an impartial English Jury allowed me upon my Tryal; Yet notwithstanding I had put upon me both a grand and Petty Jury, some of em Aliens, and the rest of them either very ignorant in the English Language or my implacable enemies on account of the said unhappy divisions and very many of them a party concerned against me, in relation to the Greivances in the said Addresses complained of.

I dare not trouble your Lordships with enumerating the hardships I met with in the whole course of the said Tryall, only beg leave to mention that the whole substance of what was sworn against me (as will appear by the evidences then and there at my Tryal taken) to be as followeth Viz' That I had been present at the Coffee house at the signing of the said Addresses by several merchants and Inhabitants and that one of them had signed at my own house and that I told him it was for the good of the country. Item, that I had brought some papers being the said Addresses at the house of Alderman Hutchins. And lastly, That I together with Mr Rip Van Dam, Mr Phillip French and Captain Thomas Wenham had prefer'd a Petition to the Lieutenant Governour and Council in which was this expression Viz' (and another Address to my Lord Cornbury whom we understand by certain advice we have received from England to be nominated by his Majesty to succeed the late Earle of Bellomont as our Governour) which said expression was construed, at my tryal, to be disowning and casting off the present Authority here established by his Majestys Commission to our Lieutenant Governour Nanfan

Now for this may it please your Lords<sup>ps</sup> I had Sentence of death pronounced against me, without any hopes of releif but by being reprevied from the execution till his Majesty's pleasure should be known therein And in order thereunto I applied my self in the most humble manner to his Honour the Lieutenant Governour for the same, and by six several petitions humbly submitted my self to the said sentence But were all of them from time to time rejected because I did not in them voluntarily acknowledge myself to be guilty of the crime. with out which I was told no Reprieve was to be granted; Which I could not do, knowing myself to be innocent and so sin against god and my conscience I was put in irons for several dayes And by special command forbidden the speech sight or advice of any of my friends and particularly those of my Son and other relations. And tho' many intercessions were made by several of the neighbour Governours and many other Gentlemen of honour and worth Yet none could obtain the said Reprieve, unless I did confess myself to be Guilty as aforesaid So the day of my execution was prefixed and notified to myself accordingly Which occasioned, to prevent the fatal stroke, that a petition was drawn up for me to sign in which it was exprest that I owned myself to be so unhappy as to sign the said Addresses, and had encouraged some others to sign the same, And that I was sorrowfull for the offence which by the said sentence I did find I had given, and beg'd pardon for it. Whereupon a message was sent me, I should have the said reprieve granted provided I raz'd out WHICH BY THE SAID SENTENCE together with the word, GIVEN, and interline in lieu of that word, COMMITTED which latter (with much regret and being extremely disturbed and almost distracted in my senses) I was prevailed to do, but not the former; because I told 'em if it was not for the said sentence I was not sensible of any offence I had given or committed Whereupon I had at last the said Reprieve granted and soon after my said petition was by order printed and construed that I had acknowledged my self to be guilty of the crime of High Treason.

May it please your Lordships, I beg your Lordships pardon for this my freedom of troubling your Lordships and do further implore your Lordships bounty and goodness in the most favourable manner to represent unto his Sacred Majesty the hardships and severity of your supplicants case and circumstances together with his former manifold services and sufferings in order for the speedy obtaining his Majestys gracious pardon Which I have desired some of my freinds in London to sollicit And your Lordships supplicant shall ever pray &c. and remaine

Sir Edward Northey to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 94.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

May it please your Lordships,

In obedience to your Lordships commands requiring me to give my opinion whether the Warrants hereunto annexed be legal, and whether the crimes charged on the persons therein named or on either of them, do amount to high Treason within the meaning of the annexed Act of the Assembly of New Yorke, I have perused and considered the Warrants and the Act of the Assembly and am of opinion that the warrants are sufficient in form to charge Nicholas Bayard with High Treason within that Act and John Hutchins with a misdemeanour and that there is as much certainty in them of the nature of the Crimes Charged as is necessary in warrants of commitment though there must be much greater certainty in the indictments that shall be preferred against them.

I presume the evidence the Council of New York had against these men is transmitted to your Lordships and with great submission to your Lordships I think the question is not, whether the warrants of commitment be formal but whether the evidence given to the Council be sufficient to charge them with the Crimes mentioned in the Warrants, of which I not having had any account I cannot give any opinion; this only I observe that it appears by the warrant for committing Hutchins that the Council required him to produce a libell he is charged to be author of which was to accuse himself and his refusing to produce it is alledged as part of his Crime.

All which is humbly submitted to your Lordships great wisdom

My Lords,

Being arrived here this day, and being informed that there is a person going immediately Post to Philadelphia in order to imbark for England I would not slip this opportunity of acquainting your Lordships that after a passage of seven weeks, I arrived here this day at eleven o'clock in the forenoon and having published my commission at the Fort and at the town hall I took the oaths and swore the new Council appointed in my instructions and ordered two proclamations to be issued forthwith One to declare that all Officers civil and Military should hold their employments till further Order, And the other to dissolve the General Assembly; which I find has sate a little while. I find at my coming hither great complaints of hardships suffered by many people; how well they are grounded I am not yet able to inform your Lordships but I shall not faile of sending you a full account by two ships which will be ready to saile from hence for England in ten days time. I find here Coll Bayard under sentence of death for Treason, what the Treason is I shall inform your Lordships by the next. I find likewise that many of the most eminent merchants here were fled into the Jersey's some of which returned now upon my landing. By the next your Lordships shall be fully informed of all these matters, I am

Attorney-General Broughton to Secretary Popple.

[New-York Entries, E. 188.]

To M<sup>r</sup> Popple

Sir

I heartily thank you for your kind remembrance of me in your letter to our Cheif Justice and should have been glad to have had the further satisfaction of knowing whether you have had any from me to your self and Lords. I perceive they are well pleased with the Judges account of his own and other proceedings here, and the credit thereof has gained him another £70 per annum for 2 years or £150 if he leave the province sooner, by Act of General Assembly past after my Lord Cornbury was arrived here within our Port whither he came (thanks be to god for it) very safe the last of the last month at night with the Merchants ship with him the ship of stores came in the day before. His Excellency has published his Commission taken the usual oaths and given the same to as many of his Council as are in Town of which beyond my expectation I have the honour to be one and find my self happy in his Lordships favour who is I perceive fallen into very right notions of the people and the Government here. And

I doubt not but by his great Wisdom and Justice adapt for Government (and are conspicuous in his excellency) he will in a short time render this Province and the affaires and Trade thereof much more easy and flourishing than of late they have been I am credibly informed the Cheif Justice hath wrote Complaints against me to your Board; I am not yet prepared to lay those matters before them, which I have in prospect but do propose (God willing) to send them in a little time such a true state of things here, as shall be a sure foundation for their Lordships to act upon, who I know value no particular interests but the good and welfare of the Publick, in such a way as may most tend to his Majestys Service I therefore most humbly begg of their Lords<sup>ps</sup> whatever is come to their notice against me they will favour me so far as to suspend their Judgments thereof till they see how I can justify and approve my self to my Lord Cornbury in the duty of my place and office; The neglect of which has been so powerfully urged against me by the Cheif Justice here, that I had great difficulty to avoid a suspension by the late Lieutenant Governour, besides other indignities cast upon me by his contrivance or connivance much dishonouring the Character and Commission I bear under his Majesty in receiving a Presentment by the Grand Jury at Our Supream Court for neglect of my duty whilst I was actually in Court attending his Majesty's Service, and in ordering Mr Sollicitor General to put the same into a formal Indictment against me and for no other reason that I know of but because I was really ill a little before that time and could not appear to give countenance to some violent prosecutions he was then upon Which their Lordships will hear more of in a little time. I would not willingly prejudice the Gentleman tho' he hath been very hard upon me and all mine ever since we left England. So leave it to your discretion whether to impart it to the Lords of Trade or not as my own interest and safety requires. Not doubting but you will do me Justice herein, else should have wrote immediately to their Lordships now to whom pray give my most humble duty and assure them of my constant endeavours for his Majesty's Service which with my most humble Service to your selfe is all at present from Sir

Proceedings of Chief Justice Atwood and of the Assembly of New-York.

[New-York Entries, E. 194.]

Abstract of letters from New Yorke date 4 May 1702, relating to the Proceedings of Mr Attwood Cheif Justice, and of the Assembly there.

Côll Bayard with great difficulty and after seven several humble Petitions in the last whereof he was forced to acknowledge himself guilty (the day of his execution being appointed and notified to him) obtained a Reprieve, having for some days before been loaded with Irons.

On the first Tuesday in April the Supream Court sat as usual. Samuel Bayard Coll Bayard's son was with his father taken up and bound in Recognizance of 1500 $\text{£}$  to appear which he did the first day of the Court and before the Grand Jury were sworne pleaded the Proclamation the Governour had issued out promising to prosecute none but the four therein named but to no purpose unless he would make an humble Petition acknowledging his crimes which the Judge told him two had sworn Viz! "That they saw him in the Coffee house room when they signed the Addresses And that he advised his father not to own himself guilty of High Treason Whereby the Judge told him he was become an Accessory and Abettor to the Treason, and was as guilty as his father and lyable to be prosecuted for it. He waited several times but at last got admittance to the Lieutenant Governour who thò he pleaded the benefit of the Publick faith in their Proclamation was told it was to no purpose unless he acknowledged himself sensible of his offences, upon which he should be discharged which he did and after waiting on the Court 2 or 3 days longer, the Judge told him he was discharged because he had confest and begged the Governour pardon.

The Court in the mean time proceeded A Grand Jury of all the Dutch (as for Coll Bayard) sworne. They brought in four presentments one against Mr Broughton the Attorney General for neglecting his duty in prosecuting the two Criminals Coll Bayard and Hutchins who were condemned one against Mr Thomas Wenham for high misdemeanour for being one of the four who had subscribed a Petition to the Lieutenant Governour saying my Lord Cornbury was to succeed the late Earle of Bellomont and refusing to deliver Copies of the Addresses one against Mr Philip French for the same offence Another against Roger Baker saying the 5 November last the King was made a nose of Wax and no longer King than the English please. Mr Wenham and French could not come to tryal because they were absconded for a considerable time before. Roger Baker came upon tryal with a packt petty Jury according to custome whereof four happening to be absent a tales was ordered And althò there were then spectators in Court above 30 Englishmen and he told so, yet the Sheriffe went out and brought in three Dutch men of their party, and finding no more he was forced to take one John Ellis an Englishman then in court. Three witnesses were sworn the first said, he Baker spoke the words; but that they were all very drunk it being Holy-day. The other two said they were always present with them, but heard no such words nor nothing like it, that they were all drunk but the other witness to that degree he could not stand. Judge Atwood gave charge to the Jury to bring Baker in Guilty: the Jury went out and stayed all night then came into Court and deliver'd their verdict Not Guilty; at which Judge Atwood was very angry refusing to take their Verdict, sent them out again, when after 6 hours they returned again with Not Guilty; At which the Judge grew very passionate threatening them several times. They were sent out three several times more and persisted in Not Guilty: Upon which the Judge threat'ned to imprison and fine them. That so scared the 11 Dutch, that in open Court being sent for (it being about an hour before the Court was to determine) were demanded why they were not agreed, and who it was that would not agree to find Guilty; Answer was made John Ellis upon which the Judge fell upon him with such menacing language in open Court and a considerable time hectoring and threatening him, he so managed him too that at last he gave his consent in open Court, where Baker was recorded Guilty and fined 400 peices of Eight and to remain in Custody of the Sheriffe till his fine was paid and after that until he made such acknowledgment as the Governour should think fit.

A Court of Exchequer are now sitting to condemn M<sup>r</sup> Philip French £1000 on a Bond he formerly gave to return Certificate of the enumerated commodities shipt on board a Brigantine one Wright master which Vessel was lost at Sea.

A Jury of inquiry have returned what estate M<sup>r</sup> Livingston has in this country in order to a Seizure for money said to be owing to the King which the present Assembly the present Council and the late Lord Bellomont made up his account and gave him Bills for; But now its said the have found out he has cheated them for which his Estate must be seized. On the primo May we had the certainty of my Lord Cornbury's arrival since which our Assembly have sat night and day without any intermission and in great hurry have finished and published the day my Lord came up, Seven Acts

One to pay Leislars Debts..... £2700

One to outlaw M<sup>r</sup> French and M<sup>r</sup> Wenham

One to add five Members to the Assembly (in those Counties where they hope they may carry it) with a clause that it shall not be in the power of a succeeding Governour to add any more members or diminish those that are.

One for regulating the Election of Aldermen (to perpetuate their tyrannical Government)

One to continue the additional Revenue two years longer. Out of which to pay £200 per an; to the Lieutenant Governour Nanfan, and £75 per annum to Judge Atwood and in case they should be superceded, then each to receive £140 and £50 per annum to M<sup>r</sup> Champante to be their agent in England.

Two other Acts to tyè up the hands of the succeeding Governour and to make him their Slave

On the primo May were the original Addresses for which Coll Bayard and Captain Hutchins were condemned delivered on board the Jersey to my Lord Cornbury by several Merchants and others that were in exile. My Lord published his Commission during which time and afterwards Our Assembly continued sitting but are since dissolved by Proclamation

As soon as the Governour had passed the Seven Acts, the Secretary was sent for to affix the Seale of the Province to them (a thing never done before and only when the Acts are ingrossed in order to be transmitted to England) the Secretary not coming immediately was confined and would have been suspended, had not my Lord arrived as also the Attorney General.

My Lords,

In my last of the 3<sup>d</sup> instant which I sent by the way of Philadelphia to acquaint you with my arrival here I acquainted you that I found this Province in some disorder within very few days after my arrival here, I found those disorders to be much greater than at first I apprehended them to be I was in hopes by this time I should have been able to have given your Lordships a full account of them, but the proceedings that have been had here are so various and so long that it was impossible for me to get such a perfect account ready to send by this opportunity as would be fit to lay before you, but the Advice Frigat will be ready to saile from hence for England in three weeks time by which your Lordships shall have a full account of all matters here. In the mean time I take the liberty to acquaint you that I find the Soldiers here very ill in cloathes and arms. I find the Fort here every much out of repaire. But of all these things your Lordships shall [have] particulars sent by the Advice. I find here Coll Bayard and one Alderman Hutchins under Sentence of death for high Treason and having many complaints made to me of hardships put upon them at their tryal and of several irregular proceedings against them I order'd all those proceedings to be laid before me and I find that the Treason alledged against them is the signing and procuring others to sign an address to his Majesty another to the Parliament of England and another to me to be delivered at my arrival. These proceedings were managed with so much disorder that it is pretty difficult to get a true account of them especially till M<sup>r</sup> William Nichols comes to town who is now in Connecticut but is expected here tomorrow As soon as he come I will have a full account of those proceedings to send to your Lordship. I have ordered all other accounts which you ordered me to send over to be prepared [for] that purpose and I shall not faile from time to time to acquaint you with all proceedings here and I intreat you to beleive that I shall punctually follow my instructions and shall use my utmost endeavours to compose the differences here. I wish I may succeed in it. I find all the English Merchants here and the Cheif of the Dutch and indeed the generality of the people here very desirous to be quiet ; there are some troublesome spirits here that have a mind to set the rest in a ferment if they can I do not question but I shall prevent that in the mean time I avoid naming any body till I have further satisfaction because I would carefully avoid making any misrepresentation ; for as I came a stranger hither, so I am sure I have no spleen to no man ; but I shall always think it my duty to give your Lordships a true representation both of persons and things. I have sent up to Albany to have an account of the condition of that place, which I fear will not be a very good one. I have acquainted all the Governments upon the Continent of my arrival here, and I shall do the same to the Islands as soon as may be. No ships are come hither from England since I came hither. the small Pox is very much here, but except that the Province is very healthy I am

[New-York Entries, E. 202.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords

Your Lordships letter of the 19 of March last (by the care of Cöll Blakiston) came safe to my hands on Wednesday the 17 of this instant June and in it I find a letter from the Lords of her Majesty's most Hon<sup>ble</sup> Privy Council commanding me to proclaim her most Sacred Majesty Queen Anne in the Province of New York and East and West New Jersey In pursuance whereof on Thursday the 18 instant having drawn out the forces there, I did in the presence of the gentlemen of her Majestys Council attended by the Mayor Aldermen and Common Council the Clergy and I think I may say all the Gentlemen and Merchants of the City of New York cause Her Majesty to be proclaimed Queen of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, Defender of the faith, Supream Lady of the Province of New York and Plantations of the same according to the directions I had received from the Lords of her Majestys most Hon<sup>ble</sup> Privy Council. The solemnity was performed with all the duty and respect imaginable to the Queen and the people shewed all the cheerfulness and Loyalty that could be wished for or desired from good subjects upon that occasion; and I hope your Lordships will pardon me if I take the liberty to assure you that the Gentlemen of the Province of New York, are unanimously ready to sacrifice all they have for the service and in the defence of the Queen. Indeed they have suffered great hardships and wrongs through the wicked practices of M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver who have made the divisions among the people of New Yorke much greater than ever they were and would have made them past cure had they gone on a little longer but I will not trouble your Lordships any longer upon that subject now having written to your Lordships from York by the way of Boston with relation to those affaires On Friday the 19th instant I went over the waters into the Jerseys and went directly for Burlington which is the cheif town of West Jersey, but the wayes were so bad I could not get thither till Sunday night late. Coll Hamilton to whom I had write from New York met me in East Jersey and conducted me to Burlington where he had (being Governour of the Jerseys for the Proprietors) assembled the Cheif Magistrates and Inhabitants of the Place in order to proclaim her Majesty which was done on monday at eleven a clock, where the people shewed great marks of duty and affection to the Queen. I did intend to have gone immediately to Amboy which is the Cheif town in East Jersey, to proclaim her Maj<sup>ty</sup> there but the floods have washed away the bridges so that till the waters are fallen, it will be impossible to travell. I hope two or three fair days will make the wayes passable to Amboy, to which place I will repaire the moment it is possible, I do not doubt but we shall have a good appearance there likewise. Cōll Hamilton who intends to conduct me hither having sent beforehand to give notice of my coming In the mean time I have taken this opportunity to come twenty miles down the River De La Ware, to see this place where I find a ship just ready to saile for London. I thought it my duty to take this opportunity to acquaint your Lord<sup>sh</sup> how far I have proceeded in obedience to your commands I shall return this Evening to Burlington and as soon as possible go to Amboy, and from thence to Yorke, from whence I will send your Lordships a farther account in the mean time I remain

My Lord

We have received your Lordships letter of the 18 May from New York which mentions a former of the 3<sup>d</sup> sent by way of Philadelphia, which being not come to Our hands, We desire your Lordships to send constantly Duplicates of whatsoever you may write or transmit to us relating to the affaires of the Province.

We are very glad to understand your Lordships safe arrival there, which as it will have put a stop to those violent proceedings which were then on foot, So we doubt not that your prudent conduct will greatly tend to the composing of all the heats and animosities that have so unhappily disturbed the peace of that Province.

We cannot but advise your Lordship to have that principally in your endeavours and shall expect the account which your Lordship promises us of what may relate to the condemnation of Cöll Bayard and M<sup>r</sup> Hutchins and the occasion thereof as soon as you are able to perfect it, that the whole matter may thereby be laid before her Majesty.

In the mean while we are to acquaint your Lordship that her Majesty having been informed in Council that Sampson Shelton Broughton her Majesty's Attorney General having fallen under the Censure of the Lieut<sup>e</sup> Governour and Council of New York for delivering his opinion relating to the Crimes objected to Cöll Bayard and M<sup>r</sup> Hutchins We send your Lordship here inclosed her Majesty's order in Council for the restoring the said Broughton to the Execution of his office, her Majesty judging it not fit that any person should be punished for giving his opinion in matters refer'd to him.

And that your Lordship may be fully informed of her Majestys Pleasure relating to the said Cöll Bayard and M<sup>r</sup> Hutchins we send your Lordship the inclosed transcripts the originals whereof so far as requisite are transmitted as We are informed by their correspondents.

Lastly we hope your Lordship will receive herewith Cloathing and accoutrements for the 4 Companies under your command the same being sent over by M<sup>r</sup> Champante, which will be more necessary since your Lordship acquaints us with the ill condition thereof. We are

We are given to understand from my Lord Godolphin High Treasurer that several Bills of exchange are come to his hand drawn by Captain Nanfan upon the late Commissioners of the Treasury for £500 sterling upon pretence of applying the same to the fortifications of the Province of New York in pursuance of an order to the Earl of Bellomont And his Lordship conceiving that the said proceeding is not only irregular in form but apprehending that the same was no wayes well intended the said Bill being dated the 22 of April last, few days before your Lordships coming and long after there was reason to expect your arrival in that Province; So that my Lord Treasurer not thinking fit to accept the same, has desired us to acquaint your Lordship therewith And withall to give your Lordship direction that no such Bills be drawn hereafter by your Lordship or any person whatsoever upon the Treasury But that your Lordship after a new Survey of the Fortifications and other publick works do certify the same to this Board that in case any supply be necessary from her Majesty over and above what shall be raised by the Assembly the same may be submitted to her Majesty to give such order therein as her Majesty shall think fit. Order of the Queen in Council relating to the Defence of the Colonies.

[ Plantations General Entries, No. 86; (C.) 183. ]

At the Court at Windsor the 24th of August 1702.

PRESENT—THE QUEENS MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY in Council

Upon reading this day at the Board a Representation from the Lords Cômmiss<sup>rs</sup> of Trade and Plantations, dated the 17 of April last, humbly offering to her Majesty divers proposals for the better defence and security of her Majestys Plantations in America. Her Majesty in Council is pleased to order, as it is hereby ordered That the Governors of her Majestys Provinces of the Massachusetts Bay and New Hampshire be writ to in the most pressing manner to endeavour, that according to what has been proposed by Coll: Romer the Engineer lately sent thither, a good Fort be built at Pemacquid about the same place, where the East Stood, and for its better defence in case of an attack from the sea, that a battery be raised on the next point of land, and a Redoubt or Round Tower on St Johns Island, and a new Fort in Piscataway River, where the present Fort now stands to be such as the growing Trade of that River and Country requires according to the design thereof sent by Coll: Romer to the Lords Commissioners, as also a strong Tower on the point of the Tryers Island, a battery on Wood Island, and another on Clarks Island, and further acquainting him that when the said fortifications shall be built, her Majesty may be induced to send thither some great Guns and other stores of war towards the finishing and for the use of the same. That the Magistrates in her Majesty's Colonies of Connecticut and Rhode Island, and the Proprietors of Pensilvania Carolina and the Bahama Islands be also required to take care that due preparatious be made in the said respective Colony's and Proprieties for the defence and security of the same against any attempt that may be made upon them by the Enemy during the time of war

That the Governors of the Massachusets Bay and the said Magistrates of the Colonies of Connecticut and Rhode Island, be required that in case of an invasion or appearance of imminent danger on the side of New York, they forthwith send assistance to that Province, of men or money according to former directions sent to them on that behalf. And the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations are to write to the respective Governors, Proprietors and Magistrates of her Majestys Colonies upon the Continent, and Islands, adjacent in America accordingly; And further to signify to the Agents of Barbados that in case they desire that the duty of four and a half p<sup>r</sup> Cent arrising in that Island, and already directed by her Majesty to be applyed towards the Fortifications and other necessary occasions of the said Island, should be applyed towards the keeping a competent number of Soldiers in her Majestys pay in that Island Her Majesty may be disposed to give orders for applying the same accordingly And her Majesty having been pleased to refer to his Royal Highness Prince George of Denmark, Lord high Admiral, the giving directions for providing in the best manner that may be for the security of the Coasts of her Majestys Plantations and Islands adjacent in America; Her Majesty in Council is further pleased to order that the remaining Part of the said Representation be as it is hereby referred to the Lords of the Committee of the whole Council to consider the same and to Report to Her Majesty at this Board, what their Lordships conceive fit for Majesty to do in the severall matters therein proposed.

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Nottingham.

[New-York Entries, E. 205.]

My Lord

We have received your Lordships letter of the 12 of August, signifying that Colonel Jeremiah Bass and Daniel Cox Esq<sup>r</sup> having been recommended to her Majesty as persons fit to be members both of the Council of New Yorke and New Jersey might be inserted in the instructions preparing for the Lord Cornbury in case we had no objections against it, in answer where unto we take leafe to offer to your Lordship, that as to New Yorke the division of that Province having been very great and we dayly expecting to be informed from my Lord Cornbury how the present state of things are there, and what will be the best method of reconciling the inhabitants we think it most for her Majestys Service that the nomination of councillers be defer'd till we receive such information To which we add upon this occasion that it has been constantly been given as a clause in all instructions to Governours that the members of their respective Councils should be men who have good Estates and we do not hear of any Estates that either M<sup>r</sup> Bass or M<sup>r</sup> Cox has in that Province

As to the said Persons being of the Council of New Jersey We have already inserted in the said Lord Cornbury's instructions for that Province the names of 12 persons, which were after much contest between the Proprietors of the East and West division agreed on unanimously by both parties, and which was in some measure a condition upon which they have surrender'd, We think it therefore for her Majesty's Service to keep to the nomination of those persons and are apprehensive that any alteration at present may renew their former animosities in that Province. As to the number of 12 We are restrained by an order of Council, and whereas to that number Coll Quay is added in New Jersey it is only to enable him the better to Execute his office of Judge of the Admiralty as her Majesty's Service may occasionally call him thither He not being from thence reckoned a standing Counsellor in that Province We are

My Lord,

Since ours to your Lordship of the 16 of July last, we have received but one from you dated at Philadelphia the 23<sup>d</sup> of June: those letters which you therein mention to have writ relating to M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver are not yet come to our hands, so that we are in dayly expectation of hearing very particularly from your Lordship how affaires stand at New Yorke and what your Lordship has done as well towards reconciling the differences there as towards putting the Province in a posture of defence till when we have nothing now to write to your Lordship relating to that Province

Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint you her Governour of New Jersey, upon the surrender of the Proprietors of their right to the Government of that Province And your Commission and Instructions have been dispatched accordingly We must recommend to you upon this occasion that you use your best endeavour to compose those animosities which have so unhappily divided the people there and to settle that Province as may be most for her Majestys Service.

Your having proclaimed her Majesty at New Yorke and New Jersey has been inserted in the Gazette here,

The Court is at present at the Bath, and at their return we shall write to you at large, expecting before that time to receive letters from you We are

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 215.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords

Your Lordships having been pleased to command me to send you, as soon as I could after my arrival here, a full and true account of the condition of the Soldiers, forts and fortifications in this Province; I have taken the strictest View of them I could and found them in the Condition hereafter mentioned that is to say, My own Company consisting of Eighty effective men besides officers Captain Nanfan's Company consisted of seventy six private men besides officers Major Ingoldsby's consisting of eighty four private men besides officers And Capt: Weemes's consisting of ninety two private men besides officers as will appear by the muster Rolls now sent over, The two first mentioned companies I found in Garrison in the Fort of New Yorke. the two last are at Albany. those at New Yorke are naked I cannot discribe their cloathes Bad enough, and their arms were in such a condition that we could pick out but seven and twenty muskets fit to fire in both Companies There is but twelve swords in each Company and as many bayonets they were paid their subsistance weekly The Fort at Yorke I found in a miserable condition the parapet which is of sodd Work being fallen down in many places, not one platform good but most of them quite rotten many of the guns dismantled most of the Carryages rotten and some of the guns so honey-combed that they are not fit to be fired. The stores are in an ill condition to there being very few fit for service. I send your Lordships an inventory of them taken by Cöll De Peyster and M<sup>r</sup> Van Dam signed by them and by one of the officers that went along with them; By this inventory you will see in how ill a condition we are to cary on the war; and indeed how ill provided We are for our defence, in case we should be attacked You will please to consider that the frontiers must be supplied out of this inventory which now have no manner of thing And how we shall be able to arm those men which we shall be forced to raise for our common defence I am sure I do not know. The Magazeen of the Fort at York is a building of Brick made by my Lord Bellomont over the gate going into the fort, It cost eight hundred pounds, and was built under Cöll Romer's directions But I am well satisfied that a better building might have been made for two hundred pounds Besides that it is the most improper place in the world for a Magazeen for Powder because of the great storms of thunder and lightnings which are very frequent in this country Besides many people that live near the fort have been very earnest with me to remove the powder from thence it being very certain that if the Magazeen should by any accident blow up it would destroy many houses as the Fort; This is the condition of the Fort and Forces at New Yorke. At Albany Major Ingoldsby's and Capt: Weems's Compainies are en Garrison the numbers I have mentioned before. As for cloathes they are in as bad a Condition as those at York that is they are naked many of them not having wherewith all to cover their nakedness They were when I arrived eight weeks in arrears of subsistance The fort is in a miserable condition It is a Stockadoed fort about one hundred and twenty foot long and seventy foot wide, the stockadoes are almost all rotten to that degree that I can with ease push them down; There is but three and twenty guns in the fort most of them unserviceable the carryages and several of them so honey-combed that they cannot be fired without danger. I herewith send your Lordship an inventory of the stores that were there when I arrived By which you will see what a miserable condition that frontier is in. Schenectady is twenty miles from Albany upon a nother river by which the french must come if they attempt any thing upon Albany this is now an open Village It was formerly stockadoed round but since the peace no care having been taken to repair the Stockadoes they are all down, There is a Stockadoed Fort but indeed it is more like a pound than a fort There is eight Guns in it, not above three fit for service no Garrison in it when I came, but a Serjeant and twelve men, no powder nor shot neither great nor small nor no place to put it into The half moon is a place fourteen miles above Albany upon Hudsons River There was formerly a Stockadoed Fort made in Cöll Fletchers time Nustigione is another place fourteen miles from Albany in the Woods where there was a pretty large Stockadoed Fort But these two last for want of looking after are quite gone to ruine by which Albany is left naked upon those two sides. This is a true condition of the Forts and standing forces here. As for the Militia that is in as bad a condition as the rest, for they have never been once muster'd since Cöll Fletcher went from hence My Lord Bellomont never saw any of them in arms but the Regiment of foot at New York Indeed by Cöll Schuylers care the Regiment of the Militia of the County of Albany are in pretty good condition but that is perfectly owing to his care: thrò the whole Province beside there is nothing like Militia it is a thing forgot among them Now I have given your Lordships a faithfull account of what condition we are in with relation to our defence I will acquaint you with what I think will be necessary to be done for the defence of this Province and then submit it to your judgements This Province is liable to be attacked two wayes. One by land that is by Schenectady and Albany And if these two places are once taken by the French they will have a free passage open not only to York but to all the Colonies upon the Continent without interruption especially those to the Southward of this Province The other way is by sea at New York itself there lies just over against the town a small Island of about four score Acres of Land, called Nutten Island, which lies on the South East side of the town A Bomb vessel may lye behind that Island and Bombard the City as they please and all the guns we have cannot hurt them The way to prevent this will be to erect two stone Batteries at a place called the Narrows One upon long Island and the [other] upon Staten Island the sea is but a little mile over in this place and Batteries being placed there of twenty Guns each it will be impossible for any body to hurt us by sea. I would have these made of stone because stone is cheaper here than brick and there is no turf to be cut in this Country besides that would be a continual charge always repairing And if an enemy should land would easily be taken Whereas if they are of stone they will not be so liable to want repaires nor to be taken, and will effectually secure the City and Port I look upon this to be the more necessary to be done because in Summer 1701 Mons<sup>r</sup> D'Iberville came into the Port of New York to a place called the watering Place within the Narrows and sight of the City He was in a french man of war of fifty Guns he found an old man upon the Jerseys that Piloted his ship in, and at Yorke they never heard any thing of him till they saw him come to an anchor He was suffered to stay there upward of a month during which time he sounded all the harbour from the City of New York to Sandy Hooke; so that for the future he will want no P'illott to conduct him in And this is all the charge I would have bestowed at New York yet a while For the security of the frontiers it is most absolutely necessary there should be a stone Fort at Albany and another at Schenectady there should be a stone Redoubt at Nustigione and another at the half moon and I propose there should be a stockadoed fort at Saractoga a place Six and twenty miles above the Half Moon upon Hudsons River and is the farthest settlement we have if a large stockadoed Fort is made there it will not only secure our settlements there but it will be a retreat for our Rivers Indians upon all occasions and the charge will be very little above £200 the number of men that in my opinion will be necessary for the defence of these places now in time of War will be six hundred foot thus to be disposed of. Four hundred men at Albany. a Captain and one hundred men at Schenectady Forty men at Nustigione under the command of a Lieutenant A Lieutenant and thirty men at the Half Moon And a Lieutenant and thirty men at Saractoga which just makes Six hundred men This number of men will so well secure our Frontiers that the farmers will not desert their farms the last War for fear of being Scalp'd as many of them were at their own doors and which will most certainly happen now again if not prevented by the method above mentioned Our Indians will be the more easily prevailed with to continue firm to us (who are many of them wavering) if they see us so well provided for our Defence. This is what I think is necessary to be done and if it is done I do not question but it will be in a great measure secure this whole Continent which does most certainly chiefly depend upon the security of our Frontiers What remains upon this head is to acquaint yo<sup>r</sup> Lordships what we are doing in relation to our defence In order thereto I must begin by acquainting you that Cöll [Romer] having been a year and half (as he himself told me) providing materials for building a Stone Fort at Albany was the Week before I landed gone to that place I wrote to him to come to me to Yorke that I might be acquainted with his design before he went any further, being informed that he had only marked out the ground In answer to my first letter he wrote me word that he was upon the Kings business and would not come I wrote a second letter and told him if he did not come immediately upon the Receipt of that, I would find a way to fetch him Upon that he thought fit to come; And indeed he gave me but a very indifferent Account of his business For by his own Account I find he has been here above four years and a half And during all that time has done no manner of thing but the building the Magazeen before mentioned which was done in June 1698 And since that time he has not done any thing towards the Fortifications of this place only he had provided about four hundred loads of stone and one hundred tun of lime for the fort at Albany. It seems he has been very intent upon some Fortifications at Boston; For when he came to me to York he was very desirous to go to Boston, saying he had given the necessary orders for all things to be prepared at Albany against next Spring and that then he would begin to build but that nothing could be done there till then I asked him the reason of it he told me he could get no Masons to work till next Spring but I found this was only an excuse that he might be at Liberty to go to Boston, I told him he should not go to Boston till he had been with me at Albany to which place I did intend to go on the 20 of June and it was on the 15 of May when I told him this: He then said if I would give him leave to go to Boston he would meet me at Albany any day I would appoint he further said that the people of Boston had laid out a great deal of money upon their Fortifications and that if he did not go to give the necessary orders they must lose all the Summer and solemnly protested that he would be punctual to any day that I would name This being said in presence of several of the Gentlemen of the Council and several officers I gave him leave to goe, provided he should meet me at Albany on the 25 day of June; He promised he would and went that day towards Boston, On the 5 day of July I got to Albany, but M<sup>r</sup> Romer was not come, nor no news to be heard of him I went the next day to view the ground he had marked out But I found that for the sake of having his Gate answered the broddest Street in the Town he had carryed the Point of his South West Bastion into a bottom that was near the old Fort, where he must have raised his foundation of Stone five or six and thirty foot high before it would have been even with the surface of the ground where the Fort must stand. By computation that Corner would have cost 500.£ however I was unwilling to alter any thing of his projection till he came expecting every day he would come, till at last on the 8th day of August a letter came to a man he had intrusted to take care to provide Materials for the fort dated the 29 of June from Boston telling him that he shall not be at Albany till September which is a time which every body here knows to be too late for building because of the cold weather Having seen this letter and being informed by some of the Indians that the french were making great preparations at Montreal which can be designed against no place but Albany or Schenectady And seeing I was not like to have M<sup>r</sup> Romers Assistance this fall, I thought that was to much time to loose I therefore made another draught of my own fort of which I herewith send your Lordships a Copy. By this draught I have removed the Fort 40 feet from the bottom before mentioned by which I shall save that vast expence which the point of his Bastion would have cost, and I have extended the Fort more Northwards By which means I shall entirely cover the West side of the Town which is that which lies most exposed to danger As soon as I had made my draught I inquired for Masons and found eight which I set to worke On Saturday the 15 day of August that I laid the first stone of Fort Anne and in 11 days they worked up all the materials that M<sup>r</sup> Romer had been a year and half preparing beside three hundred load of stone that I had prepared while I was waiting for Cöll Romers coming Thus we were busyed when M<sup>r</sup> Romer arrived at Albany which was on the 19 day of August by which time I had laid the foundation of two thirds of the Fort And I do well hope that before the frost it will be five feet high which will be a good Breast Work till next spring that shall fall to work again. I desired M<sup>r</sup> Romer to let me have an account of the £200 he had received from Captain Nanfan at first he was unwilling to do it saying that he had received the money from Cöll De Peyster and that he would account with nobody but him for it. I appointed two persons to audit his accounts, and told him he must attend them and make up his account with them if he expected to be at liberty to return to Boston according to Cöll Dudley's desire Upon this he did attend them and produced an account in which among other things he charges the wages of 40 men when he actually employed but eight and thirty He charges two shillings a day for his son as overseer of the works a lad of about 16 years old besides a shoemaker in Albany whom he had made his Agent is allowed in his Account two shillings a day more He charges 5 per Cent for receiving the two hundred pounds from Cöll De Peyster and in his sùme totall charges five pounds ten shillings more than the particulars amount to; And when the Gentlemen whom I had appointed to audit his accounts shew'd him these mistakes he was very angry with them and came to me in a great heat and told me it was a very hard thing a man of his quality and station should be called to an account especially before persons who as he said did not understand accounts I told him that the Custome in England was for all persons who received any of the Queen's money to account for the same let their quality or station be what it would unless it were money paid them for their proper salaries He told me that was not the Custome in Germany I [n] short I find that he thought to have money paid him from time to time and he to render no account of it How well that would have done I submit to your Lordships better Judgments I have been more particular in this matter relating to Cöll Romer because I would have you informed of the whole truth not doubting that he will complaine of some hardship done to him But I can assure your Lordships he has received none, unless it is a hardship to hinder a man from defrauding the Queen. As for Schenectady we shall not be able to do any thing there till Spring because there is no materials provided and the chief time for providing those things is the winter because then they can carry more upon one Sledge than they can carry in Summer upon ten carts. The other places before mentioned will not be meddle with till I receive your Lordships Commands. So I have nothing more to add upon this head but only to intreat you again to represent our Condition to the Queen, and likewise that we may have some great guns small arms and stores sent us over, of which I send you a list of such as I think necessary and submit it to your Lordships consideration being

My Lords,

A. In my former letters to your Lords<sup>ps</sup> I acquainted you that at my first arrival in this Province I met with great complaints from the generality of the people here against the persons then in power here but more particularly against M<sup>r</sup> Atwood M<sup>r</sup> Weaver Cöll De Peyster D<sup>r</sup> Staats and M<sup>r</sup> Walters who are the five gentlemen that composed the Council at my arrival here. I hoped at first that Complaints had been greater than they needed have been But when I looked into the reasons of them I found them inferior to the injuries The cheifest honestest and richest inhabitants of this Province had suffered by the wicked contrivances of M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver, who have been the cheif Actors of all the mischeifs and misunderstandings here though the others were very willing instruments to assist them as far as they were able in the destroying this Province which appears plainly to me to have been their design hoping no doubt thereby to raise their fortunes to a very great pitch upon the ruines of the English and French inhabitants here in general and most of the richest of the Dutch, who all of them having long enjoyed the benefits of an English Government were not only contend to live quietly under it but have always been ready to assist it with their purses as often as required till they saw plainly they were to be made a prey to the unsatiable avarice of the persons above mentioned, B Who had projected the extirpation of the English here. This appears to have been their design by several instances particularly turning the English out of all the Commissions of the peace and Militia throughout the Province and putting Dutchmen into their places who were generally the meanest of the people men extremely ignorant of all things few of them understanding the English tongue much less the laws C. The Sheriffs were most of the same stamp most of them so ignorant that they can neither read nor write This appear'd to me when I order'd the Clerk of the Council to write circular letters to the Sheriffs to give me an account of the number of people in their several Counties In answer to which they write that it will take a great time to doe but they will endeavour it ; And when they come to sign their Letters it is said the marke of Theunis Talmane Esquire High Sheriff of the County of Orange and so of several others And in truth they are such fellows that they know not how to goe about Business themselves and those that doe think not themselves obliged to teach them So that I shall not be able to give your Lordships an account of the number of Inhabitants in this Province till I have a new set of Sheriffs which shall be in the middle of the next month At which time I will take care to appoint such persons as I have already put into the Commissions of the peace men (according to the twelfth Paragraph of my instructions) of good life and well affected to her Majesty's Government and of good estates and abilities and not necessitous people or much in debt Then I shall be able to give such accounts as are required. D. I am sorry the great mortality that we have lately had at York has so much diminished our number there, for in ten weeks time the sickness has swept away upwards of five hundred people of all ages and sexes Some men of note and amongst the rest Capt: Stapleton dyed two days ago, he was Commander of her Majestys Ship Jersey and brought me into this Province. I hope the cold weather will be a great means to abate the fury of it. E. I found the four Companies here and the Fortifications in a very ill condition there has not been one farthing laid out upon the Forts at New York since Coll Fletcher went from hence And at Albany money has been laid out yearly, but to little purpose but I will not trouble your Lordships any further upon that head in this letter having sent you another upon that head in this letter, having sent you another upon that subject alone. F. At my arrival here I found Coll Bayard and one Hutchins an Alderman of the City of New York in prison under sentence of death for High Treason Which Treason was no other than the signing Addresses to the late King and the House of Commons of England complaining of the Greivances they laboured under and likewise a congratulatory Address to me to be given to me at my arrival into the Province which it seems was treason too. The two original Addresses to the King and Parliament I herewith transmit to your Lordship at the request of the Gentlemen who signed them I send you likewise Copies of all papers relating to Coll Bayards tryal as I had them from the Clerk of the Council and from other persons who had collected them as well as they could, for M<sup>r</sup> Atwood would not permit any minutes to be taken in Court So that I cannot send you so perfect an account as I could wish, but it is the best I could get Coll Bayard has lately printed his tryal upon such Minutes as he was able to take himself while he was at the Bar which I likewise send to your Lordships<sup>1</sup>

with Copies of all the Addresses deliver'd to me since I came hither By which you will see what a Condition the people of this Province were in. G. I did intend to have by this opportunity sent your Lordships an account of the Revenue and the Debts of this Province; And in order to it on the fifth of May last, which was two days after my arrival here I ordered Mr Weaver to lay a state of the Revenue and a list of the debts upon the Revenue before me but I could never prevail with him to let me have it, which was one of the reasons of my suspending him from his employments as I acquainted you in my letter of the 16 day of June last, by which I intreated you that he might not be restored because he has been one of the greatest if not the Chief promoter of the Disorders that have happened there these four years last past, by which this Province was well nigh ruined And besides he was certainly one of the worst officers in the world. H. I had ordered him to give me every Saturday an account of the entries inwards and outwards, but I could never obtain it but always made me promises from day to day but never performed any. I find by his management the Credit of the Government intirely lost, because he took it upon him to pay whom he pleased and when he pleased So having brooke through the method of paying in Course, none of the Merchants would deal without ready money or very extravagant prices for their goods, well knowing that they could not get their money without paying twenty per Cent for it; So that a little before I came they could not find Credit for the least thing they wanted. I. I asked Mr Weaver what account he had sent over, he told me he was five Quarters in Arrears which I found to be true about a month ago when he sent me his accounts from the 6 day of January 1700 to the 25 of December 1701 Those four Quarters Accounts are audited by Cöll De Peyster who is Deputy Auditor but the method here has always been that the Receiver Generals Accounts after they have been audited by the Deputy Auditor are then Reviewed by some of the Gentlemen of the Council and then signed by the Governour in order to be transmitted to England These four quarterly Accounts are made up of such Articles that ought not to be allow'd at least many of them are so notorious that I wonder how the Gentlemen that were then of the Council could consent to pass Warrants upon such Accounts therefore I have referred them to the examination of two Gentlemen of the Council and one of the Commissioners for collecting the Revenue and have directed them to send for the Deputy Auditor to inquire about the Vouchers upon which he allowed those Accounts therefore it will be impossible for me to send the quarterly Acc<sup>ts</sup> as I am directed by my instructions at this time, unless I send them without examining which I thought I ought not to do In a short time I shall send them and likewise the Quarterly Accounts of the Commissioners whom I have appointed to execute the office of Receiver Generall till the Queens Pleasure shall be known. K. If Mr Weaver had not carryed away the books with him the last time he ran away they would have been able to have sent one quarterly account now but his carrying away his books has put them to a great deal of trouble and the sickness coming presently upon that has made it impossible for them to do it; But the first ship that sailes I will certainly send them. L. I am sorry I must inform your Lords<sup>ps</sup> that the Revenue of this Province is (since my Lord Bellomont coming into this Country) become very much in debt When Cöll Fletcher went from hence the debts then amounted to £1391 15 7 $\frac{1}{4}$  and then there was so much of the Revenue in arrear as would have paid that debt But now the least debt I can hear of is £S000 some say £9000 and some say £10,000 and this in time of peace no Soldiers to be paid out of the Revenue of this Province no new fortifications built no other buildings erected but the Magazeen I mentioned before and the New Lodgings which Cöll Fletcher had built were finished. Indeed there have been some extravagant bargains made about Timber; But where all the rest of the Revenue is gone I cannot imagine. I will endeavour to give you an account of it as soon as possible but what we shall be able to do for the support of this Province in this exigency I cannot imagine. M. I wish your Lordships would be pleased to represent this matter effectually to the Queen I hope her Majesty would then be pleased to order a sume of money towards the payment of debts of this Province and towards the compleating the fortifications The late King was pleased to give £2500 towards the fortifications certainly it is much more necessary than ever that they should be carried on with all the Vigour imaginable And unless we receive some assistance from England I cannot see any prospect of getting the Revenue out of debt which I confess I would fain doe, and then I am very sure it will be very easy to keep it soe when it is apply'd to its proper use only which I am sure it [h]as not been of late, nor was not intended to be as you will see by the Acts of Assembly lately passed here, where large gifts are made to particular people I send you the Acts of the two last Sessions one last Autumn and the other the last Spring. I shall not trouble you any more upon that head in this letter, having sent another upon that subject only. N. I must likewise acquaint your Lordships that I have been at Albany to renew the Covenant Chain with the five nations of Indians whom I found full of complaints saying we did not keep our promises with them The conference was pretty long therefore I have troubled you with a particular letter on that subject and likewise send you the conference it self at large therefore I shall say no more upon that matter now. O. I shall not trouble you with any Account of Masts, Timber or any other Naval stores having writ a letter on purpose upon that head. P. I think it my duty to recommend to your Lordships favour and care the case of Cöll Nicholas Bayard and Alderman John Hutchins whom I found under sentence of death for high Treason. If I may take the liberty to give your Lordships my opinion upon the proceedings against those two Gentlemen I must say they were the most unjust that were ever heard of or known I always thought that the statute of the 25 of Edward the third had limited Treason, but it seem's M<sup>r</sup> Atwood is of another mind, for he declared upon the Bench that whatever was Treason by the Common law before the passing of that Act, was Treason still notwithstanding that Act; If so that Act is of little use to the subject who must be very unhappy under such a Judge But allow M<sup>r</sup> Atwood to be in the right and allow the papers to be really Treasonable papers (which I conceive they are not) still they are not justly condemned for those papers had at that time never been seen by Capt: Nanfan nor any of the Council nor by M<sup>r</sup> Weaver who was made Solicitor Generall on purpose for that tryal (an office never known in this Province before) nor by the Grand Jury who found the Bill, nor by the petty Jury who tryed the Prisoners So that in truth these men were condemned for supposed written Treason which was never produced in evidence against them, nor proved to be treason; For I think it is very plain by the oathes of the witnesses both before the Council and in Court that their is nothing like Treason contained in their depositions against the prisoners therefore I conclude that they were condemned unjustly and contrary to the known laws of England And therefore I hope your Lordships will be pleased to intercede with her Majesty in behalf of Cöll Bayard and Hutchins that the sentence against them may be reversed. There were many other irregularities committed in the proceedings against those men For example The special Commission limited the Judges to hear try and determine that very numerical day mentioned in the Commission which was the 19 day of February and they had no power to adjourn to any other day notwithstanding which M<sup>r</sup> Atwood adjourned several times the Court Another irregularity was with respect to the Grand Jury. Mr Weaver the new Sollicitor insisted upon it that he had a right to sit with the Grand Jury and that no witness should be examined but such as he should think fit Four of the Grand Jury opposed this and would not be perswaded to suffer it for which Mr Atwood dismissed those four men from being of the Jury after they were sworn and possessed of the bill and put in four other men which he thought more for his purpose. There were nineteen persons upon the Grand Jury of which eight would not find the Bill, So there remained but eleven Notwithstanding which the foreman of the Grand Jury (who is a brother of Coll De Peyster) indorsed the Bill, BILLA VERA, and when the Councel for the Prisoners insisted that the Prisoners could not be put upon their Tryal because the Bill was not only found Mr Atwood declared that in this case the Grand Jury was but an inquest of office and that though the Bill was found by a less number than twelve it was sufficient to put them upon their tryal and accordingly proceeded. He would not allow any body to take any notes in Court not so much as the Practitioners of the Court. These are some of the irregularities of that tryal I could name many more were I not afraid of tiring you with them. Q. I have nothing more to trouble your Lordships with now, but to intreat your care that we may be supplied as soon as possible with Stores and Armes, without which we shall be but in a very ill condition to defend our selves if we should be attacked much less to attack the enemy However I intreat you to beleive I will not be wanting in my Duty. I am

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 259.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

A. Your Lordships two letters of the 5 of May came safe to my hands, the one on the 29 of July last and the other on the 21st Instant You are pleased in those letters to direct me to give an Account as soon as possible of certain Masts and Timber provided by the late Earle of Bellomont in this Province for the Service of the Royal Navy and you direct me to send that Account to the Commissioner's of her Majesty's Navy together with my opinion how they may be best sent for England. And you are pleased further to direct me to send the like information to your Lordships at the same time as also my opinion in relation to all sorts of Naval Stores. B. As to the first part of your commands I must inform you that in the beging of June came into the Port of New York the ship Benjamin, Capt: Opdyke commander She came from Jamaica she is by her Charter Party (of which I send your Lordships a Copy) bound to go to the West Indies and in her return to take in Masts and Timber at New York, Upon that ships arriving in this Port I inquired after the Masts and Timber, and I found that my Lord Bellomont was entred into an agreement in writing with one Ryer Schermerhoorn of Schenectady for the providing twenty four Masts of certain dimensions and at a certain price in the said agreement mentioned, a copy whereof I herewith send to your Lordships I found that the number of Masts was cut, but that they were not of the dimensions agreed for, nor were they brought to York as they ought to have been Schermerhoorn had had a hundred pounds advanced to him by my Lord Bellomont, and he is not able to refund it. This being the case, and this ship being come, I thought it was not fit to send her home empty if it could be avoided; so I sent for the Captain of the Jersey and the Captain of the Benjamine and ordered them to go to Albany along with Schermerhoorn to view those Masts, in order to have them brought down; And I told Schermerhoorn that if they were found serviceable I would appoint two persons to value them, and if he would do the like he should be paid according to that valuation, if not I would have nothing to do with his Masts. At last with some difficulty he consented to this proposal, the Carpenters went to view the Masts and reported them serviceable, Schermerhoorn brought them down to York where they have been viewed and valued A Copy of the valuation I herewith send to your Lords<sup>ps</sup> whereby you will see the Sume amounts to £410 10 0, of which Schermerhoorn has already received £150. And indeed I thought it better to take the Masts, though there must be £230 10<sup>s</sup> more paid than to sue a man for £150 who We know not able to pay it and especially since here is a ship that must have returned empty. C. As for the timber that was a private bargain between my Lord Bellomont and Cöll De Peyster of which I cannot yet get a full Account; But thus much I find, that the money for it is paid and the timber lies rotting some part of it upon a Key at New York, and the rest in the woods where it was cut, which is fifty miles from York. As much of that which is at York as is good shall be put on board the Benjamine with the Masts; That which is in the woods cannot be brought from thence till the Frost is strong enough to bear the Slays, then it shall be brought from thence to York, then I will send an account of the nature and quantity of it to the Commissioners of the Navy for their directions. Now my Lords As to what relates to Naval stores in general I must acquaint you that I have made the best inquiry about that matter which I could In the little time I have been here, and considering the difficulties I have met with in most things, occasioned by the mismanagement of those I found here in power: D. Never the less I am well satisfied that England may be supplied from this Province with great quantities of very good timber of all sorts for ships, Masts, Rozin, Pitch and Tar and I hope at reasonable Rates; But I do not think it for the advantage of the Queen that these things should be provided by the Government here, but that contracts should be made with Merchants here to furnish those stores at certain prices to be settled, Then the Queen will be at a certainty, because whoever contracts must deliver nothing but what is fit for Service Whereas if the Government does it, there may sometimes happen great loss by the negligence of those that fall the Masts, which by a contract will be avoided. And that your Lordships may be satisfied that the thing is feasible, (E) I herewith send you a copy of a proposal made to me some few days since by very substantial men If the proposal is approved of, I desire your Lords<sup>ps</sup> will let me know it as soon as may be, because they would be preparing those quantities they propose to send for a tryal by Mayday 1704 at the prices mentioned in their proposal; This I thought proper to offer to your Lords<sup>ps</sup> consideration and hope it will be to your satisfaction I am

CORNURY

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 268.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hou<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lord

A. Having appointed the five Nations and the River Indians to meet me at Albany on the 25 day of June, I prepared myself to be there at that time; but having received a message from them to let me know that they could not be at Albany till the 10 of July; I defer'd my going for some days but got thither on the 5 of July. On the 9 of July three of the Canada Indians desired to speak with me On the 10 the farr Indians called Twightwighs and Tionodadees desired the same. On the 15 of July the 5 Nations came to me; And on the 17 of July the River Indians were with me. All the Propositions and Answers at large I herewith send to your Lords<sup>ps</sup> therefore I shall not trouble you with repeating any thing of them; Only I shall observe some few things relating to those People. B. First I look upon the yearly presents made to the Indians to be a very great charge to the Crown, and yet I do not see any possibility of saving of it as long as the French are possessed of Canada, Because if you once give over giving them Presents they will immediatly go away to the French, And the consequence of that will be that the people here will not be able to stir out of their Houses for fear of being scalped. Your Lordships will perceive that the five Nations promised me to be firm in Our Interest. C. but I have some reason to beleive the Ciniques, Cayugos and Onondagos will not be true to us; for I was informed two days agoe that they had received Preists among them And indeed that is one reason of our loosing them, D, because we have no Ministers among them And indeed think it would be a means to keep them much firmer than they are, if We could have two Ministers settled in two of their Castles; E, but I think the only way of securing this whole Continent would be to drive the French out of Canada; and I look upon it to be a very feasable thing and not be a mighty charge neither, considering the advantages that would accrue by it to England; the duties upon the Peltry would alone in a very short time reimburse the charge, For it is certain that they send more goods from Canada in one year to Europe than we do in ten. That the thing may be done with ease is certain: fifteen hundred well disciplined men from England well officered, and eight fourth Rate Frigots joyned with what we can raise in these Provinces will doe that matter effectually, if they are well armed and sufficiently provided with Ammunition. As for victuals, We can supply that in these Provinces And we have small Craft enough here to carry the Provisions to the Places where they will be wanting It will be requisite that 4000 Arms be sent hither to Arm the men we raise here and I propose a Bomb Vessell be added to the eight fourth Rates. I propose this number of men and ships should be thus employed. First I propose the ships and the 1500 men should be at Boston by the end of March or the begining of April, at farthest. When the ships are fitted with what they may want, I propose they should take a thousand men more on board and sail directly up Canada River towards Quebec in order to attack that Place, and that at the same [time] two thousand men more or two thousand five hundred may march by land towards Montreal from Albany. This will make the whole number of men to be employed 5000 at most besides the ships so that the charge may easily be computed the advantages that will accrue are many First, This being done you will be Masters of the Peltry Trade of America Then the constant charge of presents to the Indians will cease, for then the Indians must depend upon you for what they want, so you may do with them as you shall think fit: And the people of these Provinces will apply themselves to the improvement without fear of being Scalped whereas now they are in perpetual fears and alarms. The people of this Province are so sensible of these things that I beleive there is scarce a man in it that would not leave his family and his business to give a helping hand to this undertaking. Thus I have taken the liberty to offer your Lordships my thoughts. If there is any thing that may be of use, I am glad of it; If it is not approved of, I hope you will pardon my Zeal for the service of my Country that made me propose it; If it should happen to be approved of I hope your Lordships will let us know it as soon as may be, that we may be preparing for it in order to be ready against the time that nothing may be wanting on our parts By the next ship I shall send your Lordships an account of the Forts the French have at Canada and the number of men in each Fort. Conference of Lord Cornbury with the Indians.

[New-York Papers; (R. S. T.) T. 40.]

PROPOSITIONS made by two Canada Maquase Sachims called Taquayanout and Sinjaderise accompanied with Degayedore another Indian of Canada to his Excellency Edward Lord Cornbury Capt<sup>a</sup> Génll and Governour In Chiefe of the Province of N Yorke and the Territories depending thereon in America and Vice admirall of y<sup>e</sup> Same &c in Albany the 9th July 1702

Hilletje van Olinda Interpreter.

Taquayanout Speaker

Father Corlaer

Wee heard when wee were at Canada that you were sent by the great King of England to be governor of this Province, and esteem our selfs happy that we have this opportunity to congratulate your safe arrivall, wee are not sent in y<sup>e</sup> quality of Sachims from Canada but are come here to Trade, nevertheless think it our duty to bid you heartily welcome

Since the Peace between the two Crownes of England and France we have had the liberty to come here and trade, and have had the benefite of hunting in Peace & safety, and as a token thereof we present your Lordship with two Bever Skins, the fruits of our Peaceable hunting, and since our Father Corlaer is governour as well of the Indians of y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations as y<sup>e</sup> Christians in this Government of New Yorke, we hope your Lordship will contribute and be Instrumental towards y<sup>e</sup> continuance of y<sup>t</sup> Peace and Tranquillity we now enjoy 2 Bevers

Since Providence has so ordered it that we are here at this juncture, and y<sup>t</sup> your Lordship is pleased to admitt us to speak with you, we presume to inform you Onnondio our Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada has told us that if a warr should break out, between the two Crowns of France and England as is dayly expected, that we Indians should sitt neuters, and not be concerned either way now we desire to know whether you think our Governour real or not, and whether we may depend upon it, and how that your Lordship intends to do with y<sup>e</sup> Indians in your Government whether you will keep them in from warring upon us, we would gladly be satisfied on this particular and to be plain with your Lordship it is y<sup>e</sup> cause of our stay here so long, hoping your Lordship will be pleased to resolve us before we goe hence to Canada do give two Bever Skins

His Lordship asked how long the designed to stay, that he may give them an answer, They said they belevied they would not be ready before the Indian Propositions were over

PROPOSITIONS made by five of y<sup>e</sup> farr Indians called Twightwighs and Tionondadees sent by the Sachims of said Nations who live at Tjughsaghrondie a place where the French have built a Fort last year, to His Excellency Edward Lord Cornbury Capt<sup>n</sup> Gên<sup>l</sup> and Governor in Cheife of New Yorke &c and Vice Admirall of y<sup>e</sup> Same in Albany y<sup>e</sup> 10th July 1702

Coll P Schuyler of H M Council

Tehonwahonkarachqua, a Twichtwigh son in law of y<sup>e</sup> Principal Sachim of Deonondade spoke first and said,

Brother Corlaer

I hope your Lordship will not expect that we should say much being but ignorant mean poor people, in y<sup>e</sup> first place we congratulate your Lordships safe arrival to your Government, and beg leave to bid you heartily welcome doe give a Bever Coat

Rughkiwahaddi, a Diononde Spoke @ said

The greatest part of y<sup>e</sup> Dionondes and many of y<sup>e</sup> Twichtwighs are removed and come to live at Tjughsaghrondie, hard by the Fort which y<sup>e</sup> French built last summer, which said two nations are united, we belong to those Dionondadees who live at Tjughsaghrondie and our Sachims having heard by one of our Indians called Towasquaye now come along with us, that he was kindly treated here about two years agoe, we are therefore sent hither to return thanks and to see if y<sup>t</sup> good treatment and understanding continues, and withall to enquire concerning the Trade of this place we are directed by the Sachims to see if goods be cheaper here than elsewhere and where we find goods cheapest, thither we will bend our course, we designed to go to Canada with our Bever and Peltry, but we ventured and are come here to try, and see whether y<sup>e</sup> Goods be cheaper here than there do give 7 Bevers

Brother Corlaer

We have one word more to say, that is that we being strangers, were much at a losse when we came to the carrying place of Oneyde none of us ever having been that way before (Towasquaye when he came here two years agoe coming by the way of Canada) we do therefore Pray if your Lordship shall be so good, y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> Path over y<sup>e</sup> Carrying Place may be mark'd upon y<sup>e</sup> Trees and y<sup>e</sup> old Trees taken out of y<sup>e</sup> Creek which much injures the Passage of Canoes, and will much facilitate their coming hither

Wee presume to acquaint your Lordship that there are eight of our nations that are now in warr with y<sup>e</sup> Nandowasses by y<sup>e</sup> French called Pani a nation of Indians that live to the Westward towards y<sup>e</sup> Spanyards

My Lord replied

That he was glad to see them and they were very welcome, that M<sup>r</sup> Abraham Schyler and Jean Baptist were appointed by his Lordship to goe along to see they be civilly used by y<sup>e</sup> Traders in the disposall of their Bevers and Peltry they brought along

The Indians prayed to have leave to speak one word more viz<sup>t</sup> that his Lordship would dispatch them as soon as possible with an answer Since their Sachims would think long for their coming back

His Lordship said he would either ans<sup>r</sup> them before they traded or after as they pleased, they should not be detained

The said Farr Indians prayed they may have an answer before they traded, for that the hoped to be despatched before y<sup>e</sup> Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations came—whom they would not have to be privy to this Conference

His Lordship directed them to attend to morrow morning and they should have an answer

The Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations being come to Albany upon his Excellency y<sup>e</sup> Lord Cornbury's Message, they all waited upon his Excellency at his Lodging @ after they had saluted his Lordship after their manner they addressed him by Onucheranorum the old Maquase Sachim thus

Wee the Sachims of the five nations, called Maquase, Oneydes, Onnondages, Cayouges & Sinnekes doe heartily congratulate your Lordship's safe arrivall into this Province and are extreemly glad that the Crown of England has been pleased to send one to be our Governor who is nearly related to that great Woman who reigns now over England and all these parts of America

You are as we are informed of y<sup>e</sup> Queens own blood which is matter of Rejoycing to us

We are come in obedience to your Lordships message and do assure you that we will be obedient to your Lordships Commands

I am glad to see soe many of the Sachims here I thank you for your kind congratulation. I have several things to propose to you which I will do in a short time, and appoint the day for your attendance, in y<sup>e</sup> mean time you shall have provisions delivered to you for y<sup>e</sup> refreshment whatever you shall have occasion for

I thank you for your kind congratulation and am extremely well pleased that I have now an opportunity (which none of my predecessors ever had, to speak with you about the establishment of a Lasting Friendship and Trade which shall always be encourag<sup>d</sup> on my part, and as a token of my sincere intentions and of your being heartily welcome to these parts I doe give you

5 Gunns 10 Bags Powder 5 Lac'd Hatts 3 Stroudwater Coats Some Tobacco and Pipes

I perceive some of your people have left their native country and come to live at Tjughsaghrondie a place where the French have built a Fort last year without leave of the 5 Nations who claim that Country, I am also informed y<sup>e</sup> French are very loath you should come and trade here, fearing that you will receive so much satisfaction that you will for ever hereafter decline going to Canada. I observe further that you have mett with some difficulties in your journey hither at y<sup>e</sup> Carrying place for want of Guides to conduct you hither

As to the first I could wish that since you are removed y<sup>t</sup> you would come and live nearer us at Iagare or some other convenient place, y<sup>t</sup> upon occasion we might be able to supply you without any interruption from y<sup>e</sup> French and I conjure you to acquaint your Sachims that I send them these two Belts of Wampum one to each nation by which I invite them to come and see mee next July when your people come from hunting when the Indian Corn is a blossoming, And I will then order y<sup>e</sup> Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> five nations & y<sup>e</sup> River Indians to meet me here; & gett you and them joyned in a firm League that you may be united in heart & hand against all those who may envy your happinesse by being linked in our Gén<sup>l</sup> Covenant Chain

As to y<sup>e</sup> second, I shall say little to that matter since your own experience will decide it only one thing I must observe to you, that y<sup>e</sup> Rumor of Warr breaking out in Europe has raised the Price of Goods extremely, in so much that a Bever formerly could have purchas'd that which two will scarce doe now never the less I doubt not but you will find that y<sup>e</sup> Goods are farr cheaper here than at Canada

As to y<sup>e</sup> third I will not only give directions to have y<sup>e</sup> Path at y<sup>e</sup> Carrying Place marked out and y<sup>e</sup> Creek cleared of old Trees for y<sup>e</sup> ease and accommodation of all strangers that may be inclined to come & see us, but will upon y<sup>e</sup> least intimation of your Peoples coming this way send guides from hence to convey them hither

I would have sent a present to your Sachims of some of y<sup>e</sup> Commodities of this place but fear it would be too bulksome and heavy for you to carry, have therefore sent them by you some Indian Jewells which I hear are most in request with you Vizt. 110 Wampum Pipes 9 Shells 117 Round small Shells 32 Jewells that they wear in their noses and eares, and some toys for their Children viz 3 Doz Tobacco Tongs 16 Fanns 36 looking Glasses, and you may assure them from me that they may freely come without any fear or Jealousy, that they shall be civilly treated, and have every thing as cheap as any other Indians in Covenant with us, and as the Indians of y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations have found y<sup>e</sup> benefit by a constant inviolable League with us since y<sup>e</sup> first settlement of this Province with Christiaus (which y<sup>e</sup> French cannot pretend to with any of their Indians) So you shall with the unanimous consent of all, be received in the same Covenant, and partake of all y<sup>e</sup> benefits thereof

As to what you say about 8 of your nations warring with the Naudowasses, when your Sachims come next year I will be ready to give them my best advise about that subject till when I shall suspend my Judgment.

in Cheif of her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Province of N. Yorke &c and Vice Admirall of y<sup>e</sup> same to y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations of Indians called Maquase, Oneydes, Onnondagues, Cayouges and Sinnekes in Albany y<sup>e</sup> 15th July 1702

PRESENT—Coll Pr Schuyler of her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Council

Capt James Weemes Major Wessells

The Mayor, Recorder, & Aldermen & sundry gent<sup>l</sup> come from York & Albany
wth many of the Principal Inhabitants

Brethren

I am much greived that I must begin our conference with the melancholy Story of the death of y<sup>e</sup> most high & mighty Prince William y<sup>e</sup> third whom God in his infinite mercy has been pleased to take to himself about 4 months agoe, by whose death y<sup>e</sup> Succession of y<sup>e</sup> Crown of England Scotland France & Ireland is fallen to y<sup>e</sup> most high and mighty Princesse Anne whom God now preserve to reign over us

I am appointed by Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Royall Commission to succeed the late E of Bellemont deceased in the command of this Government, & doe therefore assure you in y<sup>e</sup> name of that great princesse Anne Queen of England &c my mistresse that you shall have all y<sup>e</sup> Protection favour & Countenance imaginable as long as you continue in due obedience @ subjection to the Crown of England as your Ancestors have done before you, and I have sent for you in the beginning of my Govern<sup>mt</sup> to renew the Covenant Chain between us according to y<sup>e</sup> ancient Custome wherein is included all Her Majesties subjects in this main of America, viz Virginy, Maryland, New England and all y<sup>e</sup> rest of y<sup>e</sup> English Provinces and Colonies in this Northern Continent and hope it will be more lasting and bright now on y<sup>e</sup> parts, than ever it was formerly, and that you will answer that good Character I have heard of you in England

I understand y<sup>e</sup> French of Canada have lately made a Fort at Tjughsaghrondie, between the lake of Swege and Ottawawa at which y<sup>e</sup> brethren seem much concerned, I desire to know y<sup>e</sup> truth of y<sup>e</sup> matter and what force they have there and how many men they have in Garrison with y<sup>e</sup> farr Indians

I am desirous to know y<sup>e</sup> State and condition of your country y<sup>e</sup> Strength of your People how many have deserted their native Country since y<sup>e</sup> Peace & gone to Canada, and what are y<sup>e</sup> Causes of their desertion, and what would be the proper means to retrieve them and prevent the rest from the like defection

I am also desirous to know in what State you are with your neighbours called the Twightwighs Dionondadees and the other Nations lying contiguous to them whether y<sup>e</sup> intended Treaty of Peace with those farr Indians has had its desired effect, and if not where the difficulty lyes

It is also requisite I should have an account of your late Treatys with y<sup>e</sup> French of Canada whether Publick or Private, and whether any of your Sachims are gone thither lately, and upon what businesse, what late Messages you have received from y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada what Fortifications y<sup>e</sup> French have made lately and how situate or whether they have made any further Incroachments upon y<sup>e</sup> Brethren's Land, that I may be able truly to represent things home to my great Mistresse Queen Anne

Now to show y<sup>e</sup> brethren that I concele nothing from you of any News that comes from Europe, I doe now acquaint you that we have a Rumor that there will be a warr between England and France, and I am informed y<sup>e</sup> French of Canada design to keep back their Indians from committing any Acts of Hostility, and some of y<sup>e</sup> Canada praying Indians that are now here a trading, seem to be very fond of a Peaceable hunting and are desirous that I may be instrumental and contribute towards their future Peace and Tranquility; I need not tell you what y<sup>e</sup> French are, I understand that you have had the Tryall of them often to your Cost, if they be reall in this it is because their Interest leads them to be, I doe not design to trust them neither would I have y<sup>e</sup> Brethren doe it but be upon their Guard, nevertheless if y<sup>e</sup> warr breaks out I would not have y<sup>e</sup> Brethren be y<sup>e</sup> first aggressors nor commit any Acts of hostility upon the French or their Indians without directions from me, but if y<sup>e</sup> French begin first upon us or any of y<sup>e</sup> Brethren in League with us, we must joyn unanimously and make warr upon them with all Vigor, & not make a lingring war as y<sup>e</sup> former was I know they will be threatening of you and forcing Priests upon you in your Country but I must tell you not to fear the one nor suffer the other as you tender y<sup>e</sup> Preservation of y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain

I hear that you Onnondagues are going to build your Castle 8 miles nearer Susquehanne River towards y<sup>e</sup> Southerd, I wish I had been here sooner to advise you to build your New Castle nearer us towards Oneyde where there is better land and more convenient to be assisted upon occasion

There has been great divisions and animosities among you of late not only occasioned by the French of Canada, but by some evill affected men among [you] who to serve their own private ends and gratify their own malice without regard to the honour and Interest of her Majesty or the Welfare of this Province have encouraged Faction and parties first among the Christians and then among the Brethren if you will discover who they are, I will take such a course with them that they will be cautious another time and I hope you will also take care that those incendiaries be curb'd and severely punished, and for the future you are only to hearken to those whom I shall appoint to manage the Indian Affairs & none els.

I have received express commands from y<sup>e</sup> great Queen of England my mistresse to build such Forts for our and your security as I shall see convenient I design to goe about it with all expedition, first with y<sup>e</sup> Fort at Albany and then at Schennectady and oy<sup>r</sup> out Garisons which I design to view speedily to which Forts you and your Wives and Children may retire in time of danger where y<sup>e</sup> shall be succor'd and protected from all assaults of y<sup>e</sup> Enemy

I shall not burthen your memories with more discourse, only one thing I must recommend to you to send those Gent<sup>s</sup> whom I shall appoiut to manage y<sup>e</sup> Indian Affaires here an account of all news, that comes to your Country & of all remarkable occurances among you, who will take care to send me an account thereof with all convenient Speed

Now Brethren I shall conclude with a hearty Recommendation to keep an Inviolable Fidelity and obedience to the Great Queen Anne my mistresse and to continue in a Steddy affection and Friendship with us your Brethren and Fellow Subjects, You cannot give y<sup>e</sup> Queen a better Testimony of your Loyalty to her than by keeping a Covenant Chain firm bright and inviolable and being obedient to her commands, upon these Terms I doe take upon mee to assure you of y<sup>e</sup> Queens motherly care and Protection of you & in token of Her Majesty's grace and favour to you I doe give you a present by Her directions Viz<sup>t</sup>

Being informed that you are inclined to return to Canada speedily, I shall not detain you but give you an ans<sup>w</sup> to what you proposed to me, tho' in effect you have heard it answered yesterday in y<sup>e</sup> Publick Propositions to y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations.

I return you thanks for your complement in bidding me welcome to my Government & wishing me well I shall be so far from envying your happiness in your peaceable Hunting that I will rather contribute towards it as you desire, provided you hearken not to the French to disturb any of the brethren which are in League with us; for tho you have deserted your native Country & subjected yourself to the French, yet you see that you have the same

Priviledge of Trade with us as y<sup>e</sup> Brethren of y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations have where you find better pennyworths then at Canada, & if y<sup>e</sup> inclination to your Country or the Christian Religion will induce you to return to your people and kindred the same houses which you left are still open to receive you with all the Treasure of a Plentiful Country which can make you for ever happy

As to the question you ask whether I think you Governour is Reall in his Proposals to you of neutrality you will be the best Judges of that, if y<sup>e</sup> Warr breaks out, only I must be plain with you and Reall too, y<sup>t</sup> if you suffer y<sup>r</sup> selves to be deluded by y<sup>e</sup> French or any oyr to make Warr upon any that we are in allyance with, you must expect to loose not only the benefitte of y<sup>e</sup> peaceable Hunting which you so much value, but we will all joyn to destroy those that shall first take up the hatchett to kill any of y<sup>e</sup> Brethren that are link'd in our Covenant Chain was given to the said 3 Indians

Father Corlaer

We thank you for easing of our minds, our hearts are light and rejoiced at your answer we will take care to give our Sachims an account of what you have said, we reckon it would be a great Crime if we should not deliver this message which is of so great moment, with all y<sup>e</sup> faithfulnessesse Imaginable

You need not doubt but we will comply with what your Lordship Proposes as being very desirous to continue in the Peace and Tranquility we now enjoy

@ Governour in Cheife of her Majesties Province of New York &c to the River Indians in Albany y<sup>e</sup> 17 July 1702

I doubt not but you have heard the sad News of the death of y<sup>e</sup> High and mighty Prince King William y<sup>e</sup> 3rd whom God was pleased to take to himself about 4 months, by whose decease y<sup>e</sup> Imperial Crown of England Scotland France and Ireland is descended to y<sup>e</sup> most high and mighty Princesse Queen Anne my great mistresse whom God gr<sup>a</sup>unt a long & prosperous Reign over us

Her Majesty has been pleased to send me to succeed y<sup>e</sup> late Erle of Belmont deceased in the Government of this Province I have therefore sent for you my children as I have for all y<sup>e</sup> five nations in the beginning of my Government to assure you in the name of that great Princesse Queen Anne my mistresse that you shall have all y<sup>e</sup> Protection favour and assistance imaginable so long as you continue in your wonted obedience and readiness to serve this Government

I am therefore now to renew the ancient covenant chain, made between y<sup>e</sup> Christians of this Province and your ancestors in y<sup>e</sup> times of old, when this place was first settled and when you were a strong and numerous people in which Covenant all her Maj<sup>ties</sup> subjects of Virginy, Maryland, Pensilvania, y<sup>e</sup> Jerseys, Conecticut, and the other Parts of New England are included, and I doubt not but will keep that chain clear and bright, by using all endeavours to gett your kindred and relations that live to y<sup>e</sup> Eastward to come and strengthen you at SkochHook and sitt down under that Tree of welfare which is planted there on purpose for you, under whose branches you may live Peaceably and Plentifully

I am desirous to know your Strength y<sup>e</sup> condition of your settlements both above and beneath this Town and whether you have increased your number at Seachhook as you designed last year, whether you expect any eastern Indians to joyn you, what may be y<sup>e</sup> motives to Induce them to come and the reasons of their staying away

I must also admonish you on y<sup>e</sup> other hand to be carefull your people be not duckoyed to Canada, you know how pernicious that would be to you, you have a good example of your Brethren of y<sup>e</sup> five nations who have lost a great deal of their strength by y<sup>e</sup> means

Wee have now the Rumour of a warr breaking out between England and France which I think myself obliged to acquaint you with, that you may be upon your Guard, y<sup>e</sup> French not being to be trusted, altho' some of their Christian Indians have been with me and prayed me to use all endeavours that they may continue in their Peaceable Hunting, and that our people should be kept back from annoying of them, which is not only their request, but y<sup>e</sup> earnest desire of y<sup>e</sup> French of Canada, I have told them that I will not send any of our people out first; and have discharg<sup>d</sup> y<sup>e</sup> five nations to be y<sup>e</sup> first aggressors, and I do likewise tell you the same, that you shed no blood before you have directions from mee your father, but if y<sup>e</sup> French or any of their Indians shall begin to disturb us or any in Covenant with us whether Christian or Indian, then you must be in readiness to join and destroy those that first took up y<sup>e</sup> Hatchett and extirpate their very name from y<sup>e</sup> earth

You need not apprehend any danger about y<sup>e</sup> security of y<sup>e</sup> Wives and Children, for I have orders from y<sup>e</sup> great Queen of England my mistresse to make fortifications in such Places as I shall think convenient where they shall be kindly received succored and protected from all assaults of y<sup>e</sup> enemy, and I design first to begin here at Albany, and then with the out Garrisons

Be sure you acquaint Coll Schuijler and those gentlemen here at Albany whom I shall appoint to manage y<sup>e</sup> Indians affairs with what news you hear, either relating a Warr or any other matter of moment, who will give necessary directions in all affaires, and acquaint me with those things of greatest Interest that I may send them orders how to act therein

I shall conclude with recommending you to keep an inviolable subjection and fidelity to y<sup>e</sup> great Queen Anne my mistresse & to continue in your wonted obedience to me your Father and your Brethren here at Albany in my absence upon those conditions I assure you of y<sup>e</sup>

Queens motherly care and Protection of you and as a token thereof I give you a present by her commands of y<sup>e</sup> following goods viz<sup>t</sup>

20 Gunns	200lb Powder
1 P <sup>s</sup> Duffells	½ Barril Pipes

We are glad that the great Queen of England has been pleased to send your Lordship over to be Governor of this Province and that you are safe arrived to us over y<sup>e</sup> Salt Water

You have been pleased to send for us and we are come upon your message and have been made acquainted with the death of King William which is matter of Greif to us, but on y<sup>e</sup> other hand we rejoice to hear that Queen Anne succeeds to y<sup>e</sup> Crown & is now placed upon y<sup>e</sup> Throne of her auncestors

We are very desirous that the peace which we have enjoyed for some years past may continue, and pray that y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain may be kept inviolable by your Lordship which we now renew according to our Custome @ y<sup>e</sup> Quider meaning Cōll: Schuyler may cheerfully continue to keep y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain fast do give 10 Bevers

Since it has pleased God to take King William to himself into Heaven, we doe bury y<sup>e</sup> Remembrance of it. Condoling his death and as a token thereof doe give 10 Bevers

We speak now to our Brethren y<sup>e</sup> Sachims of Albany that is the Commissioners for y<sup>e</sup> Indian affairs and not to our Brother Corlaer who is come over the sea, you know we said a great deal last year in our Publick Propositions when the Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governor was here, and desired severall things to be done which if they had been comply'd withall, would have proved to our future advantage and welfare as well as yours, but we find by y<sup>e</sup> divisions and Partyes that has been among you you have minded nothing of what we so earnestly requested, and we have no answer from England to this day which we so much long'd for, you have thrown all our Propositions which we made last summer in the water at y<sup>e</sup> mouth of this River, Neverthelesse we do now again renew our Request which we made last year to you our B<sup>r</sup> Corlaer who is sent by Her Majesty to the end that our Great Queen Anne may have a true and right Information of y<sup>e</sup> State of our Affaires, doe now again give 10 Bevers alltho' we threw away severall Bevers last year upon this Proposition and hope our request which we then made may be comply'd withall

You have renewed the Covenant Chain 3 days ago and we y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations doe now the same, our Covenant Chain is so strong that y<sup>e</sup> Thunder and Lightning cannot break but neverthelesse we must beg leave to inform you that we have had but little assistance from our Brethren during y<sup>e</sup> late warr, we have been forced to wage war alone & lost many of our people but see none of our brethren either to assist us or to revenge the blood of those we had lost by y<sup>e</sup> French

In your Propositions to us 3 days ago you tell us that in all liklyhood there will be a war between England and France, and y<sup>e</sup> we are to sitt still and not to take up y<sup>e</sup> Hatchett first; we are glad to hear your Proposition, and approve of it extreemly and if any of y<sup>e</sup> French or their Indians, begin with us or y<sup>e</sup> Brethren, we will then come & consult with our Brother what proper means are to be taken to destroy y<sup>e</sup> enemy

Brother Corlaer

You demand the reason why our Indians goe to Canada, that is easily answered, for in y<sup>e</sup> first place the goods are cheaper there than here, & y<sup>e</sup> Elk & mouse skins are a better commodity there than here, moreover your weights are too heavy which you weigh the Bares and other skins withall, and we are ofentimes not fairly dealt with by y<sup>e</sup> Traders, and lastly the River of Cadaracqui is easier to go down, being with y<sup>e</sup> Stream, then to come hither with the heavy Elk and moese skins And in answer to what you say, which w<sup>d</sup> be the best means to Retrieve our Indians bak from Canada, lett y<sup>e</sup> Goods be cheaper and then there is no doubt, but they will return very speedily

We Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations are unanimously come to this Resolution not to suffer any Popish Priest to come into our Country, & as soon as y<sup>e</sup> goods are cheaper here, then we will consult about having ministers in our Castles, to instruct us in y<sup>e</sup> Christian faith for then we can afford to buy a good honest Coat to go to Church withall, which we cannot now, for it would be scandalous to come to Church with a Bear Skinn on our backs

You did also desire to know what Ineroachments the French have made upon your country in answer whereunto we acquaint you that they have in the first place had Cadaracqui long agoe which lyes on our side, and is built upon our Land, but we never see any care has been taken to remove them, they have on the oy<sup>e</sup> end of us built, noe longer agoe than last year another Fort upon our Land without consent, at a Place called Tjughsaghrondie with high Pallisadoes, and have a garrison of a hundred briskmen in it who have most of them brass Gorgetts about their necks, we do now acquaint you with it & leave it wholly to your Lordship to doe therein as you shall thin.k fitt

As to your Lordships resolution relating to y<sup>e</sup> building of Forts here it is very good, we have been promised formerly that we should have a 'stone Fort built at Onnondage but it never was p<sup>r</sup>form<sup>d</sup> & so have putt it quite out of our heads

Wee are glad to see your Lordship and that quider that is Coll Schuyler stands at your side, we do make this house where we do have our conference Clean and are heartily Glad, that all dark cloudes are dissipated, and that we see matters retired, and things runn in y<sup>e</sup> right Channell again, and to see those who always have had y<sup>e</sup> care and management of our affaires to have your Lordships favour & Countenance, we doubt not but y<sup>e</sup> publick affaires of y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations will now have good success—did give 4 or 5 small of Bever

Brother Corlaer

There has been feuds and animosities among us Christian Indians, and last summer we were recommended to amity and Friendship but it hath not had that good effect upon us as could have been wished for, we have been lately exhorted by your Lordship at M<sup>r</sup> Lydius's y<sup>e</sup> ministers house to unite as Christians and not to live in envy and malice, which are the works of Satan, not becoming Christians, but to live in Peace and concord, and then God would blesse us, which last exhortation hath so wrought upon our spirits, that we are now all united and friends, we return y<sup>r</sup> Lordship our hearty thanks for y<sup>e</sup> pains you have been pleased to take in y<sup>r</sup> affair, and as an acknowledgem<sup>t</sup> of our Gratitude give a belt of Wampum

The said Awanay acquainted y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations that in regard they had also recommended them to unity they had followed their advice, & that there was now a thoro' reconsiliation and as a token thereof gave y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations a Belt of Wampum

His Excellency told y<sup>e</sup> Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> Five Nations that he would consider of what they had now said and would in a short time give them an answer

Ten Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations came and waited upon his Excellency my Lord Cornbury viz 2 of each nation and pray'd leave to explain some of the Propositions which they made yesterday

Wee insist again that your Lordship would be pleased to hearken to us, and take care that our Propositions may not be so sleighted and thrown in some hole, as they were last year, for we not only conveyed a considerable Tract of Land to y<sup>e</sup> King and delivered the deed to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan then Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governor, but acquainted him how that y<sup>e</sup> French inroached upon our country and prayed him to send a person over to y<sup>e</sup> King with y<sup>e</sup> said conveyance & named our Secretary M<sup>r</sup> Livingstone as a fit Person who would have given His Majesty an account of all our affairs, how that y<sup>e</sup> French possesse themselves of our Country build Forts without our leave, & will penn us up that we shall not be able to hunt, but we see there is no notice taken of what we said, but our Proposition thrown in some Pitt disregarded

Wee pray that what we requested last year about that subject may be complied with and that M<sup>r</sup> Livingston Secretary for our affairs may be sent to acquaint y<sup>e</sup> Great Queen of England with y<sup>e</sup> state and condition of us and our Country and that ship with good Sayles may be provided for him accordingly

Wee forgott to answer your Lordship yesterday concerning y<sup>e</sup> rendring an account of y<sup>e</sup> number of our People we cannot conveniently now give your Lordship an exact acc<sup>t</sup> but shall do it as soon as we can. Your Lordship in your propositions requires an account of y<sup>e</sup> affairs of y<sup>e</sup> Country & how affaires stand relating to y<sup>e</sup> farr Indians &<sup>c</sup> which we are now come to give

Upon which one of the Sachims of the Sinnekes stood up and said

That there was about 24 of y<sup>e</sup> farr Indians called Twichtwicks and Dionondadees came to their Castle this spring and told them they were bound for Canada to Trade; and withall acquainted them, that they would deliver up y<sup>e</sup> twelve Sinnekes Prisoners which they had taken in Warr and desired that they might send for them, upon which y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes ordered Owenano one of their Sachims to goe and fetch them from Tjughsaghrondie, they said further that all y<sup>e</sup> five nations ought to be acquainted with this their resolution as also Corlaer y<sup>e</sup> Governour of New Yorke for y<sup>e</sup> Governour of Canada has ordered that said farr Indians should make Peace with y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes, and that there should be an exchange of Prisoners on both sides and they were now going to the Governor of Canada to acquaint him, that they had complyd with his desire, and upon this proposition they laid down a Belt of Wampum to y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes

The said 24 farr Indians said further to the 5 nations we are now come to live at Tjughsaghrondie at one end of your house and having now conclud<sup>d</sup> a firm Peace with you which y<sup>e</sup> Dowaganhaes have done in like manner, we must tell you not to trust too much to y<sup>e</sup> Dowaganhaes for they are a brutish People, and if any of your men happen to be killed by them we would not have you take up the Hatchett against them before you acquaint y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada with it, and they will doe the same if your People should by chance kill any of them, that soe the matter may be composed, and not come to an open ruptre for the Governor of Canada has given such directions, that if either nation should send out a Troop to War upon y<sup>e</sup> other, he will have your Troop or Company if they were 30 delivered up to him to be punished and if that nation or castle should refuse to deliver up the said Company y<sup>t</sup> had so gone out to War without first acquainting therewith, then he would make War upon that Castle & nation & then there was another Belt given by y<sup>e</sup> said farr Indians

The 2 Belts so given we did present to y<sup>e</sup> Oneydes and Cayouges Maqnase and Onnoudages

An Onnoudage called otsakana said that there was a Sachim of their Castle called Great wald<sup>1</sup> out a hunting this Spring a Frenchman comes to him, and bids him to go to Canada which he did, and coming to Mont Royall he went to Mons Marricour and the Preest who said they had not sent for him neither knew they anything of y<sup>e</sup> matter, upon which he returned again to his hunting, @ now when y<sup>e</sup> Sachims were upon their way hither & gett as far as y<sup>e</sup> small carrying place a messeng<sup>r</sup> sent from y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada overtook them and ask'd them to goe to onnondio y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada but they told him they were sent for by Corlaer y<sup>e</sup> gov<sup>r</sup> of N Yorke & were going to him & w<sup>d</sup> not go to y<sup>e</sup> Gov of Canada

His Lordship told him that they sh<sup>d</sup> abide by their conclusion yesterday not to take any Preests into their country

The 10 Sachims being sent for his Excellency my Lord Cornbury told them that he perceived the Principal matter that they insisted upon was the [Proposition] relating to that conveyance of y<sup>e</sup> Tract of Land they made last year, which they alledge was not sent to England together with the account of their Country, How y<sup>e</sup> French invade the same & enroach upon them dayly & that y<sup>e</sup> person they had proposed to go to England to represent these matters was not sent according to their request.

His Excellency has inquir'd about that matter and finds that their request has not been comply'd withall but he will take care not only that y<sup>e</sup> said conveyance be sent home to England but also an account how y<sup>e</sup> French enroach upon their country, & will send a person to y<sup>e</sup> great Queen who will be able to inform her Majesty of all their circumstances and his excellency told them further he would send them word when y<sup>e</sup> person went, and when he returned

His Excellency told y<sup>e</sup> said Sachims of y<sup>e</sup> five nations further. I am informed that some of y<sup>e</sup> brethren have a wrong notion of matters relating to y<sup>e</sup> farr Indians coming hether, as if by their comeing Goods would rise and be dearer, which is just the contrary, for the more Bevers that comes the more Goods will growe cheaper, therefore I conjure ye not only to lett y<sup>e</sup> farr Indians come freely throw your country, but you must assist them in your passage hither

His Lordship told them he had no more to add but that they would be mindful of what he had already said p<sup>r</sup>ularly of 2 things viz<sup>t</sup> that if a war happens not to be the first aggressors upon the French or their Indians & in y<sup>e</sup> 2<sup>d</sup> Place not receive Priests into their Country which the promised to observe very carefully

Then my Lord told them to be careful when their young men went home not to kill peoples Cattle as they passed by which they promised to take care of

Father

We have had a great concern upon us ever since we heard that your Lordship our Father was a coming over y<sup>e</sup> salt water fearing that the ship that your Lordship was embark'd in would beat against some Rock or Sands or that you would meet with Storms, but since God has been pleased to send you safe to us, we are extreemly glad, & thank God for your deliverance, give 2 Bevers

Father,

2 You desired to know our number and the Strength of our people which we now acquaint you withall viz<sup>t</sup>

110 Indians at Skachcock

57 below y<sup>e</sup> Towne

In all 197 fighting men give 2 Bevers

3 Since your Lordships arrivall we have had the sad news of the death of King William y<sup>e</sup> 3rd which greived our hearts much but we hear that y<sup>e</sup> sun shines again in England and that we have got a great mother meaning Queen Anne, who succeeds on y<sup>e</sup> Throne of England Scotland France and Ireland, which rejoices our heart extremly doe give 3 Bevers

4 You have told us to be vigilant and to look out and be goods spyes & acquaint you what news comes, our young men say they will hearken to your Recommendation and look out narrowly and give their Brethren of Albany an account of all occurances what come to their knowledge, do give 3 Bevers & a deer skin

5 You renewed the Covenant Chain 2 days agoe, & we come now and ratify y<sup>e</sup> same & make y<sup>e</sup> chain stronger, which has been kept inviolable, between us and y<sup>e</sup> Christians of this Province this 90 years, and let it goe what way it will we will stay at Skachcock and you may be assured if we hear any thing of moment we will send you an account thereof from Skachkook did give 4 Bevers

7 About 26 years agoe Sr Edmund Andross then Governor of this Province, planted a Tree of welfare at Skachkook and invited us to come and live there which we very luckily complied withall, and we have had the good fortune ever since that wee have encreased that Tree and y<sup>e</sup> very leaves thereof are grown hard @ strong, the Tree is grown so thick of leaves & Bows that y<sup>e</sup> sun can scarce shine throw it, yea the fire itself cannot consume it, meaning that they are now so strong, that they do not much fear y<sup>e</sup> enemy, and we now desire, that our Father Corlaer may strengthen that Tree and cause y<sup>e</sup> leaves to grow so thick that no sunn at all may shine throw it do give 4 Bevers

8 We are thankfull that you confirm and settle that tree that is planted at Schachkook and have desired that we shall invite our Brethren and relations to y<sup>e</sup> Eastward to come and live among us, we design to use all endeavours to persuade them & all other Indians to come and settle there, and for their incouragement, we will goe with the Covenant Chain and tell them they shall be included therein & doe give 2 Bevers

Father

9 You have been pleased to direct that we shall goe out, and hunt peaceably and give no offence nor take up the Hatchett first if a war should happen, we will obey your Lordships commands for why should we not, since we are inclosed in your heart & if y<sup>e</sup> French or any of their Indians shall first attack us we will come & acquaint you before we take up y<sup>e</sup> Hatchett for revenge doe give 2 Bevers

Father

10 There are sometimes Indians that in their drunken fitts will be apt to sell y<sup>e</sup> Land at Skachkook, by which means our young Indians will be scatter<sup>d</sup> and dispersed and therefore pray that no such thing may be tolerate, but that a Record may be made, that they may live peaceably at Skachkook for y<sup>e</sup> future as they have done hitherto doe give 2 Bevers
Father

11 We are glad that we have now got a mother as well as a father and doe bid my Lady Cornbury heartily welcome and do present her with an otter for a muff which they pray Her Ladyship to accept of
Father

12 We thank you for your care and circumspection that none of our People should be Duckoyed to goe to Canada to live there, we will take particular care to prevent that, and if any should design to remove with there wife and family we will forthwith acquaint our Father with it but if any of y<sup>e</sup> young men should be ont a hunting and goe thither, that must not be regarded or taken for desertion for they will return back again doe give 2 Bevers

13 You desire to know what is become of those Messages that are gone from time to time to y<sup>e</sup> Eastward to draw those Indians hither, and y<sup>e</sup> cause of their stay, the only reason of their stay is y<sup>e</sup> French Priests that is in their Castle they detain them frqm coming did give some Elk Skiins

The Sachims being askd who brought this message to Onnondage & from thence hither

They say a Canada Indian called Tchewie and an Onnondage Indian called Tchaidorist brought the message to Onnondage, about 5 days agoe and an onnondage called Sennagariago brought y<sup>e</sup> news hither 2 days ago
Brother Corlaer

Since y<sup>e</sup> receipt of this message we have been somewhat confused and in disorder by some of our people being disguised in drink, but as soon as it was over we acquainted your Lordship with it, because nothing should be concealed that comes to our knowledge, for we remember that it was said in y<sup>e</sup> Propositions that we are to have one eye and one ear, alltho' you sometimes write to Canada, & we know nothing of y<sup>e</sup> matter & laid down the 7 bands of Wampum sent by the Gov<sup>r</sup> of Canada to y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> 4 nations

His Excellency told them

That he took it well that they communicated y<sup>e</sup> message to him, which is a mark of their esteem for y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain which Proceedings His Excellency recommended them to follow with all y<sup>e</sup> strictnesse imaginable & that they will continue this as long as any such thing happens

His Excellency told y<sup>m</sup> further that he thinks it no ways convenient for them to hearken to any Proposition from y<sup>e</sup> French at this juncture because of the uncertainty of Peace or warr, but as soon as his Lordship comes to New Yorke he does not question but he will have instructions from England of which he will send y<sup>e</sup> Brethren of y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations forthwith an account with directions how to behave themselves for y<sup>e</sup> future in relat<sup>n</sup> to y<sup>e</sup> French

And if there be a war between y<sup>e</sup> two crowns of England and France his Lordship will give them an account from time to time of what happens & also Instructions how they shall demean themselves and so His Lordship gave them 7 bands of Wampum & wished them a good journey home

Wee were told last year by the Lieutenant Gov<sup>r</sup> that when we design<sup>d</sup> to goe to y<sup>e</sup> Eastward to y<sup>e</sup> onnagonges that we should first come & acquaint y<sup>e</sup> Governour therewith, and we are accordingly come to acquaint your Excellency that we are ready to goe to y<sup>e</sup> Onnagonges with the first conveniency this is the 3rd time we have made y<sup>e</sup> Government acquainted with this our Intentions, twice in one year 2 year agoe, moreover y<sup>e</sup> onnagongues have been here thrice about y<sup>e</sup> same time, to enter into y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain, and desired to be received as Brethren, we told them, that they should be received as Children in y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain, which they accepted of accordingly & gave 7 hands of Wampum

His Excellency ask'd them who had sent them? when they went & how many in Company, and what there businesse was there

They say they are sent by y<sup>e</sup> Sachims & know not ye exact time when they goe, neither is their number yet concluded upon & their businesse is to confirm y<sup>e</sup> Covenant between them

They were ask<sup>d</sup> how long they would be by the way

Answer 3 months

Whether they intend to goe alone or to take some of y<sup>e</sup> Shachkook Indians with them

They said, that would be in y<sup>e</sup> Choyce of said Skachkook Indians

My Lord told them

That when they Proceeded on their Journey to call here as they went by, that his Lordship would send some message by them

My Lord told them also that when they returned, they should give an account of their negociation here to those Gentlemen his Lordship would leave the management of y<sup>e</sup> Indian affairs withall

Father

We are directed to acquaint you with what news we hear, and accordingly something have come lately to our knowledge we are come to inform you thereof do give 7 hands of Wampum

About two days agoe we see a canoe coming from hosak & were surprized because our People were all at home and it proved to be two Indians come from Pennekook who desired that all y<sup>e</sup> Sachims of Scachkook should be conven<sup>d</sup> who then said,

We are come from Pennekook to acquaint you that y<sup>e</sup> Governor of Canada has sent us a message and desired the Pennekook Indians to break up and come & live at Canada, that there were houses Land and Provisions for their Entertainment & gave a Belt of Wampum

The said Messengers being sent by y<sup>e</sup> governor of Canada repeated their Proposition and that they might be assured they should want for nothing, & gave another Belt

The said French messengers said further we leave it in your Choyce either to come to Canada or to the onnongongues but to remaine here at Pennykoke you must not by any means, y<sup>e</sup> said Messingers gave 5 Belts of Wampum and told y<sup>e</sup> Pennykoke Indians, that y<sup>e</sup> Governor of Canada designed to send y<sup>e</sup> Maquase Praying Indians to the River of Harford & designed to take Hudsons River himself

The Pennykoke Indians answered that they rejected y<sup>e</sup> five belts and would not comply with y<sup>e</sup> Governor of Canadas Proposals, they were in amity with y<sup>e</sup> Government of New York and the Indians of Scachkooks and y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations & they would stick fast to that Covenant Chain with which answer, the messengers returned to Canada and y<sup>e</sup> Sachims resolved as soon as they were gone to send 2 young Indians to acquaint this Government, with what had happened, y<sup>e</sup> said two young men are here present with us the Sachims of Skachkook; and are called Paasquin & Ackkonepak

I am glad to see you so ready to acquaint me with what happens among you & that y<sup>e</sup> Pennekokes are so sensible of y<sup>e</sup> French Intrigues, if they consult their future safety & welfare they will persist in their Resolution to reject all Proffers made to them by the Governor of Canada, and adhere to y<sup>e</sup> Covenant Chain, in which you and the five nations are link'd

I have had a great longing to hear from y<sup>e</sup> Pennekoke Indians, and whether they will at last resolve to come and live with you at Scachkoke where there is land enough, and for their Incuragem<sup>t</sup> you may tell them they shall not only have Land assigned them gratis but a Fort shall be built of Stockadoes to secure you and them from any suddain attempts of y<sup>e</sup> Enemy and in regard your Land is tough and hard to break, I will order next spring a Plow to break up y<sup>e</sup> Ground for them to plant in and they shall be protected and secured as well as any other Indians under the Queen of Englands Protection

To y<sup>e</sup> 2 Pennekook Messengers

You are to acquaint your Sachims with what I now say, and that I take it kindly that they sent you to my Children at Skachkook you shall always find me a true friend to y<sup>e</sup> Pennekoke Indians, if they will come and live under the Protection of this Government, where you shall have land and a fort prepared for you, and therefore I hope your People will come early from hunting next spring, and for your further Incouragem<sup>t</sup> if your people be inclined to be instructed in the Christian Religion the minister here shall teach them, I shall say no more but wish you a good journey home, I doe give you a Belt of Wampum to carry to your Sachims & each of you a gunn and a bag of Powder, & some lead and Flints

The River Indians reply'd They were glad that my Lord spoke so kindly of y<sup>e</sup> Pennekoke Indians & sent them a Belt of wampum, they will as soon as they come to Skachkook ad a Belt to it and send it with y<sup>e</sup> messengers

His Lordship told them that he heard a Squae was dead of y<sup>e</sup> small Pox, that if they had brought her hither to Town, care would have been taken of her as was told them

The Sachims said there had been a court kept now four days about y<sup>e</sup> negroes that killed Minichque, but they had not yet understood y<sup>e</sup> conclusion, Prayed for Information

His Excellency told them

That y<sup>e</sup> four negroes were condemned according to y<sup>e</sup> English Law & that on Wednesday next they would be execute

The Sachim Sackquans says that when Minichque was mortally wounded, they see such great care taken of him by their fater that they went to y<sup>e</sup> Mohogs Country to pursue their publick businesse, in y<sup>e</sup> mean time he dyed, and said before his death, that he was now going the way of all Flesh and had been a faithfull servant to y<sup>e</sup> English, and enjoyned all his friends and relations whom he left behind to follow his example and to be courageous that nothing troubled him more than to be so treated by Negroes that have noe Courage nor heart, if he had dyed with his arms in his hands it would have been more satisfaction

Suchquans y<sup>e</sup> Sachim adressed himself to Coll Schuyler. Robert Livingstone Secretary for y<sup>e</sup> Indian affairs and Dirck Wessells, to speak to his Exc<sup>llcy</sup> y<sup>e</sup> Governor then present, that they now open their hearts and say. True it is they have lost a great Sachim Minichque but he upon his death bed desired that no revenge should be taken of y<sup>e</sup> 4 negroes, that killed him he forgave them, and they therefore desired that said three persons, should intercede with his Excellency, that all y<sup>e</sup> 4 negroes may be saved and prays that they may be reprieved accordingly

His Excellency told y<sup>e</sup> Sachims to meet him on Wednesday next and he would give them his answer to their Proposition

The 19th August 1702 Post merid<sup>a</sup>

His excellency sent for y<sup>e</sup> River Indians and told them he had consid<sup>d</sup> of their Proposition they had made about saving the 4 negroes but he could not gratify them in y<sup>e</sup> whole since blood was shed blood must be shed again and therefore his Lordship had caused one of y<sup>e</sup> 4 negroes to be executed (who was the principle Ringleader) this forenoon, as for the other three, he had reprieved them, being willing to gratify them as far as he could and would cause further satisfaction to be given to y<sup>e</sup> Relations of Minichque (y<sup>e</sup> Indian lately wounded by y<sup>e</sup> Negroes) according to their custome

Brother Corlaer,

I am glad to see your Excellency here in y<sup>e</sup> house where we are wont to speak to one another

I am to acquaint you with a message which y<sup>e</sup> Governor of Canada has sent to our four upper nations viz<sup>t</sup> y<sup>t</sup> 3 of each nation should go to Canada to treat with him but the Mohogs he has nothing to say to, as for my own part I will not goe but will send one of my family

Our Sachims were arrived two days before I came from home There are great divisions in Onnondage one half of y<sup>e</sup> Indians are inclined to have a French Jesuit among them y<sup>e</sup> other half are against it and many of those that are for y<sup>e</sup> Priests seem to be inclined to hearken to Corlaer and to take a minister to instruct them in y<sup>e</sup> Christian faith do give a faddom of Wampum

I am further to acquaint you that about 15 days ago, there are 10 of y<sup>e</sup> Onnondages gone to Canada to speak with y<sup>e</sup> Governor of Canada and 3 of the Cayouge whereof one is the principal Sachim, the Oneydes & Maquase have sent none neither do I know that y<sup>e</sup> Sinnekes have sent any, having not been in y<sup>t</sup> consultation

When y<sup>e</sup> messenger came from Canada for some of y<sup>e</sup> Sachims to go thither, we call<sup>d</sup> Aradgi a Sachim of Onnondage of y<sup>e</sup> french faction came with him & told that a French Jesuit would come to Onnondage, & Tobousiowanne<sup>2</sup> that is great world was gone to fetch him, but I Dekanissore told him I would tell Corlaer, & that I did not approve of it

I understand that while y<sup>e</sup> Sachims were treating with me other of your Sachims went to Canada to treat with the French Governor and departed two days before y<sup>e</sup> other Sachims came home

I cant be but surprized to hear that they are gone to Canada before they heard what was concluded here, since it is determined in the publick propositions that none should goe till further order

I understand also that some of your people are gone to fetch a Jesuit from Canada not with standing it was concluded by all y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations not so much as to suffer one to come into your Country much less to send for him Now Brethren whatever I have promised I will take care shall be religiously observ<sup>d</sup> on my part, and since that is my Resolution I expect that what you have promised should in like manner be punctually observed, I am now sending over to England to be supply'd with ministers to instruct you in the Christian faith and therefore can stand in no need of any from y<sup>e</sup> French I shall conclude and hold fast the Resolutions made when y<sup>e</sup> 5 nations were here last, and hope y<sup>e</sup> brethren will doe the same, in token whereof I give you a faddom of Wampum

Dekanssore told his Excellency that he beleived y<sup>e</sup> French would be arrived in their Country in 12 days time

His Excellency told them that upon their allegiance they should either send y<sup>e</sup> Jesuit back again to Canada or bring him hither, this is no new Proposition but that which has been concluded of long agoe

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lords

I herewith transmit to your Lordships the Acts of Assembly made in April and May last they are seven in all. The first is entituled an Act for continuing the Revenue for two years longer this is a specious title to give an opportunity to them to give away s<sup>ums</sup> of money out of the Revenue therefore I hope that Act will not be confirmed. The next is called an Act for paying the debts of this Government made in the time of the late happy Revolution That which they call the time of the late happy Revolution was the time when Leisler usurped the Government here and robbed severall of the Merchants of divers goods under pretence that they were for the Kings use And now the Province must be charged to pay those Rapines of a Rebell. The third is an Act that if confirmed will destroy the City of New York for it overthrows the Charter, The fourth is the only Act I have nothing to object against. The fifth is a most unjust Act; For either the people of this Province are entituled to the laws of England or they are not: If they are they ought not to be outlawed but according to the laws of England; If they are not it ought to be declared that the people may know what they are to trust to and that an English Governour may know how to behave himself But by this Act here are men outlawed in ten days without any manner of proceedings before had against them The sixth Act is contrived for the burthening the people of some places in this Province who have already as many member of Assembly as they care to maintain. And the last Act is designed to ruin the Town of Kingstown in the County of Ulter These Acts were contrived and intended for the ruin of this Province therefore I hope they will not be confirmed except it be that for continuing the Commissioners of Accounts, I am

My Lords,

Your Lordships two letters relating to the Court of Admiralty of this Province came both safe to my hands, the first of the 17 of July, and the last on this morning. By those letters you are pleased to direct me to send you an account whether the Court of Admiralty here is established by virtue of the Commission that some of my predecessors had from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, or by virtue of a clause under the Great Seal of England empowering them to erect the said Courts of Admiralty In obedience to your Lordships commands I have made the best inquiry I can, and find that the first time there was a regular Court of Admiralty here it was establish'd by Còll Fletcher by virtue of a warrant from the Lords of the Admiralty empowering him to appoint a Judge, Register and Marshall for the Court of Admiralty. After that in my Lord Bellomonts time there was a Commission from the Lords of the Admiralty appointing Còll Smith Judge of the Admiralty here, and since that M<sup>r</sup> Atwood brought over with him a Commission from the Lords of the Admiralty constituting him Judge of that Court. This is the best account I can give your Lords<sup>ps</sup> in answer to your letters, I hope it will be to your Satisfaction, I am

My Lords

I had forgot in my other letters by this conveyance to acquaint your Lordships that while I was at Albany during the time of the Conference four Negroes (belonging to some of the people of the Town assaulted and killed one of the Sachims of the River Indians, which was like to have made a great deal of disturbance But I immediately caused the Negroes to be seized and put into prison and granted a special Commission for the trying of them by virtue of which they were tryed and condemned Upon this the Indians came to my lodging and desired to speak with me I appointed them that Afternoon And when they came their errand was to desire the Negroes might not dye, declaring their Nation was satisfiyed with the care I had taken to bring them to tryal and were very earnest with me that they might not be put to death. I told them that if some of them would come to me on the day appointed for execution, which was the next Wednesday following they would see how farr I would goe towards the gratifying of them; And upon that day he that was the most guilty was hanged, and the other three I have reprieved till her Majesty's Pleasure should be known; which I intreat your Lordships to let me know, that I may behave myself accordingly. To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lords,

I had great hopes before this to have paid my Duty to your Lordships at your Board but have been and am very unjustly detained, and very ungentleman-like used by my Lord Cornbury on a mere pretence that I am in her Majestys debt forcing me to pay subsistence to the 9 of May 1702 when he knows himself' and Agents have received the subsistence and pay for the Soldiers since the 25th December 1701, thò he never told me he had till the 17 September last, but has arrested me to prevent my going in the advice, in an Action at the Queens Suit for £5000 Sterling when the last Post from Boston brings me an Account of several Bills coming protested drawn for Subsistence since his Receipt which will inevitably fall on me and my Estate, without any hopes of Redress to myself and family after so general a Circulation as Subsistence to three or four hundred Soldiers. I see nothing before me but ruin unless your

Lordships honour me with your Patronage. I have this opportunity inform'd Mr Champante of my hard circumstances and desired the favour of him to solicit my affaires, having given him all lights I can at present

My Lords I doubt not evidently to make appear when I am permitted to appear myself, notwithstanding all the dirt my Lord Cornbury has and may endeavour to throw on me, in order to vindicate himself, intirely to return it on his Lordship I am so well assured of your Lordships Justice that even in my affliction it gives me consolation, So will at present give your Lordships no further trouble but am

With great respect

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lords

Since my last to your Lordships of the of by Matthews the first Lieutenant of my Company who went on board her Majestys ship Advice Captain Caldwell Commander, I must acquaint you that the said Captain Caldwell (notwithstanding a positive order to the Contrary which he had received from me in writing) did receive on board his ship the Countess of Bellomont before she had give sufficient Security for the several sumes of money the late Earl of Bellomont in his life time and her Ladyship since his death, or their Agents have received upon account of the four Companies of Fuzileers here, and which have not been paid to the said Companies nor to their use; I send your Lordships inclosed a Copy of the order I sent him which was deliver'd to him by the Attorney General of this Province, Nevertheless he thought fit to carry her Ladyship away by which means the officers here must either loose a very considerable sum of money or must be at very great charges to sue my Lady Bellomont and M<sup>r</sup> Champante for the sumes they have received and detained from the said Officers, This I thought myself obliged to acquaint your Lordships with And likewise to intreat you that I may have some fuller instructions concerning any man of War that may be appointed to attend this Colony. The Captains of the Queen's ships are not willing to think themselves under the Command of the Governour of the Province where they are; Only if the ship is order'd out to cruise they will obey But if there is occasion to send an officer and a few men to make any seizure Or upon any other private Service, and the Governour send to the Captain of a man of War attending upon the Province for any one particular Officer, which he thinks he can better trust than another; The Captain will send the number of men required but another officer, and not him that is desired. Besides, Before he will suffer him to proceed upon the service required, he will see the instructions he receives from the Government That great inconveniences may happen by such proceedings, did in some measure appear when I was at Albany, M<sup>r</sup> Weaver who had upon my issuing a Proclamation against him, surrendered himself and promised to make up his Accounts with the deputy Auditor and some other persons I had appointed for that purpose, when he had given his accounts privately to the Deputy Auditor, thought fit a second time to run away with M<sup>r</sup> Atwood, and leave his bail in the lurch; The Gentlemen of the Council whom I had left in town thought it their duty to pursue those two Sparks: And in order to it they sent to Captain Stapleton (who was then living and Commander of the Jersey) desiring him to send the master of his ship with twelve men, to be sent on an expedition for the Queen's Service; the Captain immediately sent the boat and men but instead of the Master sent a Midshipman to command the men. The Gentlemen of the Council gave their orders in writing to the Midship-man, and bid him proceed immediately; But instead of that he return'd on board the ship and delivered the orders he had received to his Captain, who took them and kept them and gave him orders in Writing from himself, with these orders the Midshipman went to the place to which he was directed which is a small Creek in East Jersey and there he landed and was told that Atwood and Weaver had been there the day before, but were gone to a Farmhouse half a mile further into the Country where they then were; This being a very young man and his orders from his

Captain being to goe to the Creek and no further, he return'd to New York without going to the Farm-house where he had been told they were; So that the taking of those two men was disappointed, Whereas if the officer that was desired had been sent, I am fully perswaded they had been taken because I know him to be a very diligent good officer and fit to be trusted, I hope your Lordships will let me receive your directions how to proceed in the like Cases for the future. Since the Advice Sailed no Vessell has sailed from this Port for England till now, that the Benjamin Store Ship which has taken in all the masts that were provided by the late Earl of Bellomont and as much of the Timber as was brought down to York There is more lies in the Woods which shall be brought down as soon as the frost is hard enough to bear a Sledge, but it cannot be done sooner. I herewith send your Lordships Duplicates of all the letters I sent to you by the last opportunity; So I shall not trouble you with the miserable condition I found this Province in at my Arrival. I hope your Lordships will be pleased to direct that we may be supplied with stores of all sorts, of which we stand in great need especially Cannon, many of those we have being so honey-comb'd that they are are not fit for service, and powder not having two hundred barrells left, and some barrells of that spoiled. The general Assembly of this Colony met (according to the Adjournment) on the 20 of October last at Jamaica, and sat there till the 14 of November on which day I did at the request of the House, adjourn them to New York to meet there on the 16 of November (the sickness, God be praised, quite over) there they continued their Sessions till the 27 of November during which time they passed several Bills in number fifteen of which I send your Lordships Transcripts under the Seale of this Colony for your approbation and hope the Queen will be pleased to approve of them. The first is entituled an Act for the levyng and collecting the Sûme of £1800 for the raising, paying and maintaining 150 Fuziliers with their proper officers And thirty men to be employed as Scouts for five months for the defence of the Frontiers I hope the reason for passing this is so evident that your Lordships will easily consent to the confirming of it. The next is an Act to enable the City of New York to supply the vacancy of their officers in case of death or other disability. The reason for this Act is the defect in their Charter, by which they are not impowered to chuse new officers in lieu of those that dye in the year, The third is an Act for granting to her Majesty £2000. The fourth is an Act to appoint Commissioners to state the Accounts and Debts of this Province This Act I earnestly intreat may be confirmed; For without it it will be impossible to find out the debts of this Province. The next is an Act for destroying the Wolves. This is a very necessary Bill. The sixth is an Act which I think carries its reason in its Title. The 7 is for settling the Militia. If this Act is not confirmed We shall have no Militia at all in this Colony. The 8th for regulating of Slaves is become absolutely necessary through the great insolency that sort of people are grown to. The 9th is absolutely necessary to prevent some doubts that might arise upon the adjournment of the Supream Court. The 10th an Act to repeal several Acts of Assembly This I did refuse to pass for some time, till the House passed the 14th of continuing the Revenue upon which I passed them both; Which I hope you will approve of. The 11th for a free schoole I hope wants no recommendation. The 12th being for the good of the City and a charge upon themselves only I hope will be approved of. The 13th is of very great use to Trade, and therefore I hope may be confirmed. The 15th for the better maintenance of the poor is extremely wanted in this City. And therefore I intreat it may be confirmed. Thus I have given your Lordships an Account of the proceedings of Our Assembly and I have no doubt but at their meeting in Spring they will continue to do their duty to her Majesty to the utmost of their power. I herewith send an humble Address signed by the Governour Councill and Assembly of this Colony, and another from the Assembly alone, which we humbly pray may be laid before her Majesty, I am

My Lords

faithfull humble Servant

Address of the Inhabitants of the Province of New-York to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Papers, E S T.; T. 27.]

WHEREAS many of us live remote and the time of your Lordships arrivall being uncertain, we have presumed to take this method of expressing the sincerity and fervor of our affections. Humbly addressing your Lordship by this Paper, congratulating your Lordship's safe arrivall and that of your noble Lady and Family

We do assure your Lordship that we have and will alwaies conserve a zealous and steady resolution to support and promote, to the utmost of our Power, the Honor and Interest of our most Gracious Soveraign Lord King William (whom God long preserve to Reigne over us) in this part of his Dominions, and if it shall please God, his Majesty see it for the Honor and Interest of the English Nation to engage in a new Warr, wee shall cheerfully undertake the Duty and Charges thereof in these Frontiers Provinces as we have done in all the last Warr, and will not be wanting to your Excellency in the hearty expressions of our duty supporting and supply those your Lordship shall judge necessary to adjust an impartial administration of Government to all his Majesty's subjects Inhabiting this Plantation

We have this entire confidence in your Lordship's great prudence justice, courage and conduct that with the blessing of God upon your Lordships endeavours we doubt not to enjoy safety and protection from our enemies abroad, Liberty of conscience, Peace and tranquility at home, and that the name of Party and Faction may henceforth vanish with every thing contradictory to the true English Interest

That your Lordship be successfull in attaining all the ends of good government, grow in your Prince's favor, and have the due Reverence as well as the cordial affections of the People here under your directions, live long @ happily amongst us to the praise and Glory of Almighty God and your Lordship Satisfaction and contents are the cordial wishes and constant prayers of your Lordships most obedient dutiful and humble Servants.

Address of the Inhabitants of Ulster County to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Papers, R S T; T 27.]

Province of New York and Territories depending thereon in America & Vice Admirall of the same

The humble address of the Chiefest and Principal Inhabitants of the County of Ulster
May it please your Exc<sup>y</sup>

This is not only in the name of those whose hands have already witnesseth their unfeigned rejoicing for your Lórdps safe arrival into this Province and that have expressed their submission by the assurances of their dutiful compliance but also of many others that doe from their hearts, bid and say y<sup>r</sup> Exc<sup>lesy</sup> is right welcome into this Countrey
My Lord

It is our unhappinesse we cannot say tis in the name of the whole for these wedges that have been formerly forged, these last four years have been tempered to that extreame hardnesse that have split the County, almost into two halves, Yet we thank God, can say we are the Chiefest and Greatest Part
Sir

It is us that humbly cra<sup>ve</sup> leave to congratulate your Exc<sup>lesy</sup> extraordinary good successe in the negotiation which the five nations of Iudians which is of that great import to all these Her Majesties Northern Dominions as well as this Province and to expresse our gratefull resentment for your Lórdps untired Fatigues and Vigilance in fortyfying the Frontiers against our Northern Enemies upon w<sup>ch</sup> foundation we can build our glowing hopes of Security as well as our faith to beleive it to be a clear manifestacón and undeniable Proof of your Excellencies great care and conduct and will of necessity oblige every grateful and Loyal Soul cheerfully to contribute not only with heart and hand but wth that also w<sup>ch</sup> is esteemed the Sinews of War
My Lord

The Ingratitude of the nine Leapers putt us in mind to return with the tenth to express our Duty by our thankful acknowledgm<sup>t</sup> for those particular favors rec<sup>d</sup> by Commissionating a Judge of our Court whose affections for the English Interest and uprightness the most malitious cannot blame, and the Sheriff and Clerks Qualifications not to be ashamed by such as have had those places in the time of the two late Gov<sup>rs</sup> these favors we have rec'd from y<sup>r</sup> Lórdps will be more than double ties to us to make it our whole Study upon all occasions to manifest our Allegiance and Loyalty to Her Ma<sup>ty</sup> and our obedience to y<sup>r</sup> Excellency agst all the open and Private enemies to the English Interest and your Lórdps Administration

Sir
The Fears that the Threads of our Ravelled Expression will too much weary y<sup>r</sup> Lordship to wind into Clues doth hinder us from uttering more of our sincere dutiful Obedience but to repeat our prayer that in the whole course of your excellencys administration you may find ease Tranquillity and happiness, and that it may be Steady and durable till your Lórdsp be removed to the heavenly Kingdome shall be our constant intercession to the King of Kings

Reasons for suspending William Attwood Esq<sup>re</sup> from his office of being Cheife Justice of this Province Judge of the Vice Admiralty & of his Majesties Councill

That the said Attwood in y<sup>e</sup> execution of his office of Cheife Justice and as Judge in almost all causes that came judicially before him, by the Gén<sup>l</sup> Report of all present, did openly notoriously & most scandalously & wth wonderfull partiality, in almost all causes, where his son was concerned as councill espoused and indeed pleaded & gave countenance to such cause and finally gave judgement on y<sup>e</sup> side by which meanes justice was perverted, y<sup>e</sup> laws abused and violated & y<sup>e</sup> subjects exceedingly injured, which recommended his son to great practice & large sums of money was by parties given him to buy his fathers favor

Of the said Attwoods partiality I have myselfe always been a witness as often as he hath sate with me in y<sup>e</sup> Court of Chancery here

That upon my arrival att y<sup>e</sup> entrance of y<sup>e</sup> Port of New Yorke Immediately a great number of y<sup>e</sup> principal inhabitants of y<sup>e</sup> Province, English, Dutch, and French together with y<sup>e</sup> minister of y<sup>e</sup> English Church who had for some time before been drove from their habitations of New Yorke and had been forced to shelter themselves and their Goods in the neighbouring Province by reason of a violent & unheard of Persecution by y<sup>e</sup> persons then exercising y<sup>e</sup> Powers of Government in this Province, came to me on board His Ma<sup>ty</sup>s Ship y<sup>e</sup> Jersey and greivously complaining of y<sup>e</sup> great hardships and persecution that they and a great number more of y<sup>e</sup> principall Inhabitants who had been forced to flye into other Provinces more remote, lay under, That had it not been for y<sup>e</sup> hopes of my speedy arrivall from whom the hoped for succour Justice & reliefe, the City of New Yorke especially @ a great part of y<sup>e</sup> Province had been left desolate

That M<sup>r</sup> Attwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver, persons extremely indigent violent, partiall, of unjust and Turbulent Spirits had so prevailed with & imposed upon Capt<sup>o</sup> John Nanfan the then Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governor a young man of small experience & knowledge so that they had drawn to themselves & their party the whole Administration of y<sup>e</sup> Government and had comploted and contriv'd y<sup>e</sup> ruin of the Principall Inhabitants, that their Estates which were very considerable might be forfeited to y<sup>e</sup> King as they reported for the payment of y<sup>e</sup> Debts of y<sup>e</sup> Government, which thro' their mismanagement were grown to be very considerable, that after my arrival in this Port the Weather being stormy before I could Land, The said Attwood and Weaver together with the pretended assembly as then composed did in wonderfull haste, to secure the Interest of their Party, compile passe and publish Acts very destructive to the good subjects of this Government inconsistent with his Majesty's Service contrary and repugnant to y<sup>e</sup> Laws of England

That amongst many other complaints in y<sup>e</sup> said Articles contained w<sup>ch</sup> I think to be clearly proved the Persecution against Coll Nicholas Bayard and Alderm<sup>n</sup> John Hutchins for High Treason for hav<sup>g</sup> themselves and persuaded others to sign three addresses the one to his Majesty one to the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House of Commons in England and the other to myself was to me (as I found it had been to all indifferent persons very surprizing) and had appeared so scandalous & unjust to the Neighbouring Governments that they had earnestly interposed with the persons then in the Government to put a stop to their proceed<sup>es</sup> which seemed to them so extravagant and without Ground or Precedent, but instead of attaining the moderation proposed, were answered with rudeness and contempt

Notwithstanding the said three addresses, were never produced in Court on those Tryalls, nor y<sup>e</sup> matter contain'd in them ever duly proved he proceeded to condemn y<sup>e</sup> said Bayard and Hutchins for High Treason and passed Sentence of death on them for y<sup>e</sup> same

That William Attwood the better to stifle and conceal the Artifice and irregularitys practised in these Tryalls had taken particular care that noe notes should be taken of them in y<sup>e</sup> Court and his concern to prevent an exact relation of what passed was so great that he gave strict order to an officer to search all Rooms neer the Court to discover if there were any taking the Tryall, and gave positive order to prohibit any person taking the same however severall persons had taken memorialls of what their memory could retain and y<sup>e</sup> Tryall of Coll Bayard collected from thence, was soon after delivered to me well attested, by many indifferent persons then present

I have thought it the duty of my Station Impartially and strictly to inform myself of y<sup>e</sup> great clamour and numerous complaints against said M<sup>r</sup> Attwoods behaviour in his sev<sup>l</sup> offices from such persons as I thought most indifferent and best able to give me light therein as well as of this Province as of y<sup>e</sup> neighbouring Plantations and must with great truth say, that they do all unanimously concur that his management hath been so partial & scandalous that His Majesty<sup>s</sup> Government is thereby rendered terrible to y<sup>e</sup> people, That the Proprietary Governments are wonderfully deterred & have greivous apprehensions of the consequences of this mans new and pernicious administration and y<sup>t</sup> the animosities Distractions and Divisions of y<sup>e</sup> People of this Province have been by him greatly fomented and increased

[New-York Papers, B. S. T.; T. 46.]

That upon my enquiry into y<sup>e</sup> causes and Reasons of y<sup>e</sup> great animosity and Divisions of y<sup>e</sup> People of this Province the said Weaver has appeared to me a mischeivous incendiary promoter and Stirrer up of those Disorders and Divisions not only in those Parts but in the Leeward Islands where some time he made his aboad before his coming hither

That in his payment of the Publick money he hath used great Partiality & Corruption contrary to y<sup>e</sup> meathods ordained by the Government and destructive of y<sup>e</sup> Publick Credit

That by his corruption & mismanagement of his office that part of His Majestys Revenue rising by excise hath been very much lessened That of y<sup>e</sup> City of New York alone as I am inform'd being diminished one third since he has been intrusted with the Revenue

That by all the Inquiry I have been able to make I cannot find that he has kept any due acc<sup>t</sup> of the Receipts and payments of His Ma<sup>ty</sup>s Revenue during his executing said office

That contrary to His duty and Instructions he hath neglected to make up his Quarterly Acc<sup>ts</sup> of his Majestys Revenue & transmit duplicates thereof to England every six months that thereby as I am informed he may conceal his corrupt & undue Practises in payment of y<sup>e</sup> Publick money

That the Publick being by the mismanagement & ill Practises of the said Weaver & others brought much in Debt & discredit he entered into combination with other his confederates to cause severall of His Majesty's good subjects in this Colony of plentiful Fortunes to be accused and prosecuted for supposed Treasons and other Crimes that by the Forfeiture of their Estates such Debts of the Government might be satisfied

That pursuant to such his wicked Practises he procured himself to be appointed Sollicitor Gen<sup>l</sup> (a new office in this Government) for that purpose the Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> giving his advice and opinion to y<sup>e</sup> Contrary and declining to appear in such unjust Prosecutions

That in combination with other his confederates he prosecuted Coll Nicholas Bayard & Alderman John Hutchins and caused them to be condemned as Traytors for new Invented and unheard of Treasons the only facts offered to be proved ag<sup>t</sup> them being their advising others and signing themselves and address to His Majesty, and address to y<sup>e</sup> Honble House of Commons and another to myself the last being only a civill congratulation on my arrivall and with much violence endeavoured to procure the said Bayard & Hutchins to be put to death for the same tho' the said three Addresses were never produced in Court on those Tryalls nor the matter contained in them ever duly proved

That at my arrivall here he denied to have any of the Publick money th<sup>o</sup> during the whole time of his Receipt the Colony hath not been burthened with any foreign Warr nor any other extraordin<sup>r</sup> matter to exhaust the Revenue

That from the time of my arrival to the day of his suspension tho' I have very often desired him I never could obtain any account what so ever of y<sup>e</sup> State of y<sup>e</sup> Revenue or other publick money which had come to his hands & he was accountable for

That he has given great interruption and discouragement to the Lawful Trade of the Province maliciously prosecuting and seizing divers ships & other vessels without any just cause only to gratify his own private Quarrells & Revenge

That altho' severall of those ships and vessels were legally discharged from his feigned informations yet in prosecution of his malice & to give y<sup>e</sup> owners and masters further vexation and trouble he again caused them to be seized prosecuted and condemned for y<sup>e</sup> same facts

That the said Weaver in conjunction with Coll Depeyster procured himself to be Paymaster to His Ma<sup>ty</sup>s established Forces here in the management of which matter the officers we[re] upon all occasions delayed and by the said Weaver rudely and scurulously treated and the soldiers unjustly and unduly paid nor could they ever till the time of my arrival procure from them an account & adjustm<sup>t</sup> of their pay & of their Reckoning but were made to believe that their subsistance by them often paid them was advanced out of their own Pockets by which management I am informed the Souldiers were greatly discouraged & was chiefly y<sup>e</sup> Reason so many of them so often deserted His Majesty's Service

That upon my arrival here the said Depeyster and Weaver acquaint<sup>d</sup> me that y<sup>e</sup> Merchants and men of business of this Place were so ill affected to His Majesty's Service that they refused to supply such money as was necessary to subsist His Ma<sup>ty</sup>s Forces upon giving Bills upon the Agent in England as had been accustomed But upon a due enquiry thereunto it appeared to me that those principall Merchants and men of business who usually supply that money were by the violent prosecution upon y<sup>e</sup> account of the afore mentioned addresses constrain<sup>d</sup> to fly out of the Province who immediately came to me and made offer to supply all such money for his Maties said Service

At my arrival at the mouth of y<sup>e</sup> River of New York many of the Principal Merchants & Inhabitants came on board the Jersey some of which were fled out of y<sup>e</sup> Province who made heavy complaints of many abuses and oppressions committed by those then in y<sup>e</sup> Administration of y<sup>e</sup> Government of w<sup>ch</sup> the said Depeyster was one & who by the universal clamour of y<sup>e</sup> people in y<sup>e</sup> said Province is accused as a principal promoter & actor in y<sup>e</sup> disorder & divisions amongst them

That together with M<sup>r</sup> Attwood & Robert Walters he hath arraigned tryed and condemned Col Nich Bayard & Alderman John Hutchins at several days & times between y<sup>e</sup> 19th day of February last & the sixteenth day of March following altho' by the Commission by which they claimed to be impowered they were strictly limited to do y<sup>e</sup> same on y<sup>e</sup> 19th day of February last & not any day or time after

That designing and contriving the ruin and destruction of y<sup>e</sup> said Bayard & Hutchins he maliciously and corruptly declared as his opinion & judgment y<sup>t</sup> the said Bayard & Hutchins for promoting encouraging and signing an address to his Majesty an address to y<sup>e</sup> H<sup>on</sup>ble House of Commons & a third to myself were guilty of High Treason & assisted in passing sentence of death on them accordingly

By confederacy with divers others he procured certain Bills or acts to be passed in form of Law to forfeit and confiscate y<sup>e</sup> estates of y<sup>e</sup> subject without any crime Conviction or attainder to deprive the subject of his just legal and natural right & to prevent the publick Revenue & money of y<sup>e</sup> Government to private & corrupt uses

That since my arrival here he has industriously opposed y<sup>e</sup> right & due administration of justice in y<sup>e</sup> Court of Chancery here shewing great partiality in all causes where any of his party were concerned to the great interruption of justice and equity

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 401.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My Lord,

Your Lordships letter of the 14 of July last, with the several papers relating to Coll Bayard, and the Copy of your letter of Feb<sup>r</sup> the 2. 1698<sup>5</sup> to the late Earl of Bellomont and her Majesty's Order for the restoring M<sup>r</sup> Broughton the Attorney General to the execution of his office came safe to my hands by the way of Boston on the 5th instant. You are pleased to take notice that my letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> of May last was not come to your Lordships hands, And you are pleased to direct me to send constantly duplicates; Which I take leave to assure you I have always done and shall continue to do by the next opportunity: But I intreat your Lordsh<sup>ps</sup> to consider that but few ships goe directly from this port to England, So that I must depend upon the Boston and Philadelphia Posts for conveying my letters to such ships as may be going to England; And some times both those Conveyances faile Your Lordships are pleased to advise me to have it principally in my endeavours the composing of all the heats and animosities that have so unhappily disturbed the peace of this Province I doe assure you I have very heartily applied myself to that worke, and shall continue using my utmost endeavours for the attaining the good end that all honest men here desire. I am very sure I have espoused neither party any further than the Queen's Service and Justice have obliged me to doe. And indeed this Justice I must doe to the English, the Generality of the French and most of the considerable men among the Dutch (who are the people that have been oppressed these last four years) that they have behaved themselves with great moderation; considering the great injuries many of them had suffered, I am afraid there are some men in the other party who are not to be prevailed with by reason. They have been so bewitched by Atwood and Weaver that some of them yet say openly that it will be their turn again shortly And that as soon as Atwood and Weaver arrive in England, they will be justified in all they have acted here. This being positively asserted by some of the Chief men of that party hinders some of the more ignorant of them from seeing their error. However I hope a little time will open their Eyes. One of the things which has the most buoyed up that Party (I mean Leislers faction) is the act of Parliament passed in England in the year 1695 intituled An Act for reversing the Attainder of Jacob Leisler and others, By which Act they pretend that Leisler was intituled to the Government of this Province by an Act of General Assembly And that he was since confirmed in the same by the late Kings letter dated the 13 day of July 1695: But the persons that solicited that Act in England had not ingenuity enough to acquaint the two houses of Parliament that the Assembly which gave him that Authority was an Assembly called by himself, after he had by violence disposed the Kings Lieutenant Governour that then was; So that the Authority he claimed was derived from a body of men authorized by himself who had no power to call them together, consequently an illegal Assembly; And I conceive no illegal Assembly can grant a lawfull Authority. I say more upon this head than I should have done, were I not well convinced that the aforementioned Act of Parliament is the main foundation that Faction builds upon And I do really beleive that if an Act of Parliament were passed in England to explain the above mentioned Act of 1695, it would contribute more to the quieting the disturbances here, than any thing else can doe; For till then they say that Leisler was a lawfull Governour, And that the Parliament of England have declared him so; Tho' I am pretty well assured that the Parliament of England certainly intended not to justify the plain open Rebellion of the Father, but only to do An Act of favour to the son, who was not guilty of the fathers Crime But another use has been made here of that Act. I did by the advice, send your Lordships as full an Account of what relates to Colonel Bayards tryal as I could. I now send you Duplicates of all again. I hope that account will be to your satisfaction as for what relates to M<sup>r</sup> Attorney General Broughton, I must acquaint you that he was not actually suspended but I think worse used: For he was left in the possession of his place but was suffered to do no business in it for M<sup>r</sup> Weaver was made Solicitor General, And all References that ought properly to have been made to the Attorney General, were made to the new Solicitor: However I have acquainted him with her Majesty's favour to him, And he has desired it may be recorded in the Secretaries office which is done, I have received the Cloathing your Lordships are pleased to mention to be sent over by M<sup>r</sup> Champante: And indeed they came very seasonably: for our men were perfectly naked, And the weather began to be very cold. But I must acquaint you that M<sup>r</sup> Champante did not think fit to consign the Cloathing to me, but to Captain Naufan He has not sent over any Account of what the Cloathing amounts to. He has sent no invoice, but only a Scrap of paper with the numbers and marks of the Parcells. I dare assure you he has sent the worst Cloathing that ever was put upon Soldiers backs.

I sent for some of the Cheif Merchants here to see them, and they are all of my mind; And that your Lordships may be convinced of the truth of this, I have ordered one whole Cloathing to be sent over to my Agent, M<sup>r</sup> Thrale to be laid before your Lordships, And likewise an estimate made of the said Cloathing here by several of the ablest and most skilfull Merchants here, by which you will best see how M<sup>r</sup> Champante has used us. Besides he has sent us no Watch-coats, Without which there is no living for a Centry here; Besides he has sent no Swords nor Belts; nor Daggers nor buckles for shoes; And yet I hear he call this a double Cloathing, I have nothing more to trouble your Lordships with at Present, but to assure you that I shall always be very punctual in observing all the instructions you shall favour me with, being

CORNEURY

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 407.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords

Since I answered your Lordships letter of the 14 of July yours of the 16 of July came to my hands By which I find that my Lord High Treasurer has signified to you, that several Bills of exchange are come to his hands drawn by Captain Nanfan upon the late Commissioners of the Treasury for 500 pounds Sterling that his Lordship conceives, and apprehends the same, was no wayes well intended, because of the date of the bills, That his Lordship not thinking fitt to accept the said bills has desired your Lordships to acquaint me therewith, And withall to give me directions that no such bills be drawn hereafter by me or any persons whatsoever upon the Treasury; But that after a new Survey of the Fortifications, I should certify to your Lordships. As to the first part which relates to Captain Nanfan's bills, I can say this. That in some time after my coming hither I heard that Captain Nanfan had made a very odd bargain with Cōll Depeyster about £500 for which I was told that he had drawn bills upon the Treasury in England. I sent for him and asked him about it. He told [me] M<sup>r</sup> Romer wanted money to goe on with a stone Fort at Albany, And that he had taken up some money here, and had drawn bills upon the Lords of the Treasury for it, according to directions received from your Board to that purpose I found he was unwilling to give so full an account of that matter as I could wish. So I pressed him no farther at that time But upon inquiry else where I found the bargain to be thus. Cōll Depeyster was to have bills from Captain Nanfan for £500 Sterling, for which Depeyster was to pay down immediately £200 Currant money of New York And when the bills were accepted and paid in England then Depeyster was to pay down £300 more currant money of New York; So that in truth Captain Nanfan was to have but £500 currant here for £500 sterling paid in England. The £200 paid was delivered to Romer, And has been since employed in the begining of a fort at Albany. This is all that I can say upon the Account of those bills. As for the other part, whereby your Lordships are pleased to direct me to draw no such bills hereafter; I doe assure you that no such bills shall be drawn by me for the future: And I look upon it as one of the greatest misfortunes that could befall me, that I did not receive your orders sooner; Because I should then have drawn noe such bills at all, Whereas upon finding the necessity of carrying on the Fort at Albany, I did draw bills upon the Commissioners of the Treasury (not knowing that my Lord Godolphin was Lord High Treasurer) for £376 Sterl: for which bills I have received £500<sup>c</sup> Curr<sup>t</sup> money of New York which is just £133 currant for £100 Sterling. If in this I have done amiss I hope your Lordships will beleive it only my Zeal for the Service that made me do it. And indeed if I had not found orders for drawing, and those orders not contradicted, I should not have presumed to draw at all; But for the future I shall expect your directions and intreat your favourable interpretation for what I have done, As for a survey of the Fortifications in this Colony, I beg leave to refer you to my letter of the 24 of September last by which you will see how much this poor Province wants the assistance of her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s favour especially considering that I find this Province near ten thousand pounds in debt abundance of Warrants standing out against the Government, and not one farthing of money in the Commissioners hands to pay those debts and what is very unhappy for me is, that this is our condition at the begining of a War,

However I intreat your Lordships to beleive that no dificulty whatsoever shall discourage me from doing my duty as long as the Queen shall please to intrust me with this Government I am

Attorney-General Broughton to the Lords of Trade,

[New-York Entries, E. 453.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

My most Hon<sup>red</sup> Lords

The 3 of September 1701 I paid my duty to your Lordships in a thankful acknowledgment of your favours to me, in my ready dispatch to this place, I wrote one since to M<sup>r</sup> Popple your Secretary by the was of Philadelphia to acquaint your Lordships (as he thought fitt) with the difficulties and hardships were put upon me by M<sup>r</sup> Atwood my fellow travailer here, That letter bore date the 4 of May last, but I fear never came to hand, because others that went with it which I hear nothing; And therefore am surpris'd at your Lordships goodness to me in so great a care and concern for me, as to obtain her Majestys order in Council for my restoration to my office of attorney Generall, in case of suspension from it; The which my Lord Cornbury hath acquainted me with, shew'd me orriginal and given me a copy thereof. But I thank God that dutifull behaviour I shewed to the late Lieutenant Governour upon all occasions, as knowing the Commission he had; kept me so well in his favour (with the help of one freind more, M<sup>r</sup> Noell the late deceased Maior of this City) that he did not suspend me either from my office or Salary; though in my own hearing at the Council Board the latter was, upon occasion of my opinion only (which I now perceive with satisfaction his known to your honours) in great heat and passion moved against me by the then Cheif Justice Atwood. But my Lords I am sensible I could not have supported myself many days longer by any interest whatsoever Had not the most happy arrival of his Excellency our present Governour brought deliverence to the Province and myself also. I doubt not but his wise and just administration will be as well approved on at home as it is here. His Excellency came prepared to heal us knowing our distemper before his access. I am well assured your Lordships have, and constantly will have such exact accounts of the state and condition of this Province from his Excellency that during his Government thereof, I shall have no occasion to trouble your Lordships with particulars in that nature. But in General I may adventure to say so great and good a change is wrought amongst us since his Excellency's arrival, that the Magistracy here hath now put on so sweet a face and Countenance towards us as gives us all hopes of safety and protection, no fears of hurt or injury from it. And that I may continue the enjoyment of this Blessing I must beg leave to address your Lordships to move her Majesty in my behalf that my Commissions of Attorney and advocate Generall for these parts may be renewed to me, Since by the demise of the late King, I fear they are determined; and the order sent me by your Honours is only to restore in Case of Suspension; Which how far his Excellency will favour me on, I cannot tell having not yet had opportunity to put the Question to him I shall not presume to trouble your Lordships further at this time than to assure of all truth and fidelity to her Majesty and her affaires, all duty and obedience to your Lordships and your Commands from

Though I dispatcht the Benjamin on the 14 Instant yet the South-westerly Winds have detained her here still; Therefore I take this opportunity to inform your Lordships that this afternoon I received information from East Jersey, that C<sup>oll</sup> Andrew Hamilton has very lately held a Meeting or Assembly in East Jersey which he calls the Governour of East and West New Jersey assembled in Council. In this Council, so termed he has thought fit to receive several petitions and to make several orders upon them. He has ordered a tract of land to be assigned to Lewis Morris Esq: in consideration of his Services when in England. And he has ordered that the quit Rents due by the said Morris to the proprietors for several tract of land be allowed him This is as far as my information goes, which I thought myself obliged to inform your Lordship of. I am told in a day or two. I shall have a full account of the whole matter with the names of the persons present I[f] this ship is not sailed before that time, I shall acquaint you with what further information I receive, I am

CORNBURY

Mr. Atwood's Answer to Lord Cornbury's Reasons for Suspending him.

[New-York Entries, E. 835.]

The answer of William Atwood Esq: to the pretended grounds and Reasons certified by Mr Honan, as given by Edw<sup>d</sup> Lord Visc<sup>t</sup> Cornbury for suspending the said William Atwood from his offices of being Chief Justice of the Province of New York in America, Judge of the Vice Admiralty and of the Council

This Respondent humbly submitting to Her Majesty's Consideration what would be the consequence if Governours in remote Plantations should be suffered to exercise original Jurisdiction over Judicial proceedings and Acts of State under former Governments and to assume the Offices of Judges and Jurymen and if the bare Certificate of a man so notorious for abetting Pirates and other foul Practices as Honan should be admitted for a charge against a Judge whose Impartial Judgments for the Crown have raised great clamours from open violaters of the law, begs leave to represent

1. That as he humbly conceives, he is not to be thought to be charged in any particular by the Lord Cornbury, since nothing appears under his hand to subject him to an Action if the accusation prove groundless and the Original, if any such there be is in his own Custody.

2. His Lordship tho' he actually suspended this Respondent on the 9 of June last has hitherto given no reason according to the trust reposed in him the supposed reasons not being Certified by himself

3. In the pretended reasons tis said his Lords<sup>ps</sup> was soon after his landing [presented] by a great number of the principal Inhabitants with 33 Articles against this Respondent with a great number of affidavits to support and justify them and yet no Article appears with any bodys hand to it neither has his Lords<sup>ps</sup> or Honan transmitted any one pretended proof prior to the suspension.

4. All the supposed proof now rests in papers depending solely upon the Credit of Honan's Certificates without the Seal of the Province; And if the Attorney General Broughton (who would have his inactivity and coldness in the service of the Crown to say no worse, pass for cause of censuring this Respondents zeal and dilligence) in conjunction with the late Arbitrary Mayor and Mr Rip Van Dam provoked by that lenity which accepted of his acknowledging his offence, have succeeded in their labour to get Affidavits to colour a Suspension first pronounced without any one pretended proof of the grounds, It is to be presumed that they or one of them or else Mr Honan have made such Interlinations and changes that they dare not suffer the originals to be seen, or otherwise it is to Skreen the swearers from prosecutions for perjury; However the affidavits not being taken in any Court or capable of being on Record, no Copies of them can be Evidence.

5. If such papers could be admitted for Evidence it would approve that all the imagined grounds to colour the Suspension, are founded upon Judicial Proceedings wherein if there be Error the law has appointed a proper method of Reversal, but till the[n] Judgments in the Supream Court and Sentences in the Vice Admiralty ought to be looked on as inviolable and to countenance reflections upon them would be a great Prejudice to the Course of Justice especially in the Plantations where that Course is to frequently stop'd at the Sollicitation of Offenders

6. No examinations ought to have been taken by the Lord Cornbury against this Respondent unless in relation to Corruption or some Practice foreign to the Office of a Judge. Indeed the supposition that this Respondent had demeaned himself unduely, unjustly and corruptly was declared has the ground for the Suspension pronounced; but neither before nor since was their

the least proof to colour it. But that General charge will appear founded barely upon a false supposition that this Respondents Proceedings had no legal Warrant, Whereas if they had not, no averment or suggestion will lye against the Office of a Judge.

7. If the Lord Cornbury had an authority to try Causes over again originally in his Chamber, and should have found that there was cause for this Respondents being Suspended, as it is humbly conceived by virtue of the Act of Parliament continuing all Commissions which were in force at the demise of the late King, his Lordship could not suspend having no Authority to make void the Commissions which were to be in force Six months after the demise, unless sooner made void, But by reason of that Act and her Majesty's gracious Proclamation, in pursuance of it, his Lordship ought to have waited for the declaration of her Majesty's Pleasure

8. Whatever his Lordships power might have been in this matter, yet it was unjustly executed in that the Suspension pronounced was not only before any Proof upon Oath against the Party suspended, but without communicating any particular ground to him, or hearing what defence he could make, and what he could upon the place offer to invalidate any testimony which might be brought against him.

9. The only colour for this Respondents suffering what he has hitherto done, his from the Authority and Reputation of a Governour, who labours to make good his undue Censure the real grounds for which cannot be set in a true light without shewing wherein his Lordship would excuse or palliate his manifest renouncing the Authority of an English Governour by breaking the laws of Trade, protecting the notorious breakers of it from Justice, Imprisoning the Sheriff of the County and City of New York in the Fort, for giving liberty to a condemn'd Trator who fully and freely confessed his Crime, Suffering such prisoners to escape and encouraging one of them to bring Actions of ten thousand pounds each against his Judges, violating the Rights of the City, Taking away the freedom of Elections to the General Assembly of the Province, and by such means procuring a Majority to his mind with other enormities whereby he has forfeited that Reputation, the presumption of which is a total defect of Evidence.

Wherefore this Respondent humbly hopes, that he shall not be obliged to make any further or more particular answer till he shall have obtained leave to exhibit Articles against the Lord Cornbury and one of his instruments in Maleadministration, the Attorney General Broughton, upon examination of which, it will appear that, if this Respondent would have connived at illegal Trade, Scarrilous Reflections upon his late Majesty, King William of glorious memory and a manifest defection from the Crown, he might have still enjoyed his offices with Plenty and outward peace but to the breach of his oath and great prejudice of the Crown Trade and Customs of England.

Whereas her Majesty did this day hear Council learned in the law, on behalf of Coll Nicholas Bayard and Alderman [John Hutchins] Inhabitants of the Province of New York, touching

Accusations and Prosecutions for Treason and Misdemeanour objected against them respectively in the said Province upon which they have been indicted and convicted and had sentence of death and Forfeiture and other pains and penalties past upon them, as in cases of high Treason and Misdemeanours, for offences pretended to be committed against an Act of Assembly made in the third year of the late King William of Blessed memory; And William Atwood Esq: who sate as Cheif Judge at the said Tryal and gave sentence therein, As likewise Thomas Weaver Esq: who prosecuted the said persons as Sollicitor General, having been also heard by themselves and learned Council at the Board: Her Majesty having considered the said matter and being sensible of the undue and illegal Prosecutions against the said Bayard and Hutchins as aforesaid was graciously pleased with the advice of her Privy Councill to order as it is hereby ordered that the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Viscount Cornbury her Majesty's Governour in Cheif of the Province of New York, do direct her Majesty's Attorney General in that Province to consent to the reversing the Sentence [and Sentences] given against the said Còll Bayard and Alderman Hutchins and all issues and proceedings thereupon, and to do whatsoever else may be requisite in the law for reinstating the said Bayard and Hutchins in their Honour and Property, as if no such Prosecution or Tryal had been

[New-York Entries, E. 451.]

At the Court of S<sup>t</sup> James's the 21 day of January 1702

PRESENT—The QUEENS MOST EXCELL<sup>t</sup> MAJESTY in Councill

Upon taking into consideration this day at the Board, a Representation from the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations dated the 31 of December last, together with a draught of Instructions for the Lord Cornbury Governour of her Majestys Province of New York, And W<sup>m</sup> Atwood and Thomas Weaver, Abraham Depeyster Samuel Staates and Robert Walters who have been suspended from their places in the Council by the Lord Cornbury for divers irregular and illegal Proceedings having been this day heard with their Council Learned, at the Board; Her Majesty with the advice of the Privy Council, is pleased to order that the said William Atwood Thomas Weaver, Abraham Depeyster, Samuel Staates and Robert Walters be removed from their Places in the said Council, and that the five other persons recommended by the Lord Cornbury be admitted to supply those vacancies; and her Majesty is there upon pleased to approve the said draught of instructions which is hereunto annexed, with the names of twelve persons to be of the Councill of New York, as inserted therein, and to order the same to be prepared for her Majestys Royal Signature, and the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earl of Nottingham her Majestys Principal Secretary of State is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly

JOHN POVEY.

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, E. 349.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury her Majestys Captain General and Governour in Cheif of her Majestys Province of New York and of the Territories thereon depending &c<sup>a</sup> in America, Or to the Commander in Cheif of the said Province for the time being.

My Lords

We have received your Lordships letters of the 16 of June, of the 24 September, four of the 29 of September and one of the 1 of October last; together with the papers therein referd to, and several others not mentioned in any of them.

As to that of the 29 September which relates to the lawes of New York, We herewith return you a particular Answer.

We are preparing a Report to be laid before her Majesty concerning the state of defence of that Province and upon whatever else you write that may require her Majesty's directions. In this report we shall offer to her Majesty Our opinion for a supply of Arms and ammunition, and for some assistance towards the charge of the Fortifications the success whereof we shall acquaint you with. But in the mean time We judge it very requisite that you use all proper endeavours to excite the Assembly to make provision for the charge of the Fortifications on the Frontiers which seem most necessary for the security of that Province

By the Copy of our Representation inclosed in our forementioned letter you will perceive we have already offered to her Majesty Our opinion that M<sup>r</sup> Atwood, M<sup>r</sup> Weaver, M<sup>r</sup> Depeyster, M<sup>r</sup> Staats and M<sup>r</sup> Walters whom you had suspended from the Councill and other imployments, be accordingly displac'd And that we have inserted in your instructions the names of other persons recommended by [you] to fill up their places in Councill. Her Majesty was thereupon pleas'd to appoint that M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver should be heard by their Councill Learned before her Majesty in Council, in their own defence Upon which occasion we furnish'd M<sup>r</sup> Thrale your Lordships Agent with all papers that you had transmitted to us, relating to their proceedings in the matters objected against them. And a hearing having accordingly been had you will perceive by the inclosed Copies of her Majesty's orders in Council that they are displac'd The persons whose names We had inserted in your instructions are made Counsellors. And the Sentences against Còll Bayard and Alderman Hutchins are to be reversed.

We think proper to acquaint your Lordship that in perusing the papers transmitted to us with your Lordships letters, We were surpris'd to find many of them subscribed by M<sup>r</sup> Honan as Secretary. We remind your Lordship that we wrote to you concerning the Character of this man before leaving England and that your Lordship answer'd us the 21 of Dec<sup>r</sup> 1701 from Spithead. We leave this to your Lordships consideration not doubting but you will judg<sup>e</sup> it necessary that the person who exercised a place so considerable as that of Secretary of the Province should be of unblemish'd Credit and Reputation.

We further offer to your Lordship that the only means to preserve the Province and to promote her Majesty's Service there will be that your Lordship will use your utmost Endeavours to extinguish all animosities which have so unhappily divided to Province

My Lord

I answer to your Lordships letter of the 29 September last containing your observations upon the Acts passed in an Assembly held in April and May foregoing We herewith send your Lordship a Copy [of] the Representation which we laid before her Majesty relating to those Acts as likewise a Copy of her Majesty's order in Council thereupon, both dated the 31 of last month; By which you will perceive that her Majesty has upon our Report been pleased to disallow all the Acts against which you have objected And that the Act for continuing the Commissioners of Accounts for one year longer being the only one without exception will of course remain in force till that time be expired

We send your Lordship also here inclosed a list of Acts past in the General Assembly of New York during the Government of the Earl of Bellmont and of Captain Nanfan, which have not yet been either confirmed or repealed We desire your Lordship to consider them very carefully in her Majesty's Council at New York and to report to us your own and the Councils opinion upon each of them respectively with relation to her Majesty's Service and the Interest of that Province We are

P. S. Since the writing of this letter, upon consideration of the Act for declaring the Town of East Chester to be a distinct Parish &c And of the reasons offered to us against it by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of London, We have prepared a report to be laid before her Majesty with Our humble opinion that the same be disallowed.

Petition of the Countess of Bellomont to the Queen.

[New-York Entries, E. 366.]

To the Queen's most Excell<sup>t</sup> Majesty

The humble Petition of Catharine Countess of Bellomont

Sheweth

That your Petitioner after the death of her husband the Earl of Bellomont was obliged before she could return home into England to give £10,000 Security to your Majesty for her appearance at New York in April next, upon Account of money pretended to be due to the 4 Companies there, thó your Petitioner is ready to make it appear, whenever your Majesty shall please to order her account to be taken that there is nothing due to the said Compauiies, of all the money which the late Earl of Bellomont received.

That after the death of the said Earle of Bellomont your Petitioner received Warrants Signd by the Lieutenant Governour for the arrear of his Salary as Governour, and for other disbursments made by him which were allowed by the Council, amounting to the Sume of £1289 14. All which is still unpaid, As also an Arrear to the said Earl, as Captain of one of the Companies there.

May it therefore please your Maj<sup>ty</sup> for as much as the persons who are Security for your Petitioners appearance at New Yorke, are lyable to be put to Trouble upon Account of the said Bond, to grant an order under your Majesty's Sign Manual to discharge the said Bond, Your Petitioner being ready to Account here; As also that the Warrants due to your Petitioner, may be forthwith paid, And the Arrear of the late Earle's Pay, as Captain, cleared here, The said Warrants and arrear of Pay being all that has been saved during the faithfull Service of the Earle of Bellomont in the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New York and New England for almost four years.

And your Petitioner shall ever pray.

Memorial of Mr. Champante to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 371.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trad and Plantations

The humble Memorial of John Champante for and on behalf of John Nanfan Esq: late Lieutenant Gov<sup>t</sup> of Her Majesty's Province of New York

My Lords

Having been desired by the said M<sup>r</sup> Nanfan to apply for Relief against the several hardships he now is under, I humbly presume to lay a state of some of them before your Lordships and hope your Lordships immediate care will prevent his ruine, which must otherwise be unavoydable.

For he has been compelled to account for the subsistence of her Majesty's 4 Companies there from the time of the late Earl of Bellomonts Death to the 9 of May last, Whereas I have received, as his Agent the said Subsistence but to the 24 of December 1701, whereby he stands charged with and has disbursed to the use of her Majesty's said Companies there above £1700 more than has been paid to his order here, And yet notwithstanding he has been arrested in an Action of £5000 in her Majestys name and obliged to find bail to appear to it tho he had before offered to give in sufficient Security for the payment of any just Ballance that should appear due from him, by which severe usage he is confined in the Province, to the very great prejudice of all his affaires

And the further to detain him there several have been encouraged to bring actions against him without any just or legal ground whatsoever; As particularly one M<sup>r</sup> John Graves and one M<sup>r</sup> Roger Prideaux who have now laid actions of £2500 each upon him for false Imprisonment and who were committed by him and the then Council till they should give in Security to surrender themselves to a Secretary of State upon the Oath of M<sup>r</sup> Hasket late Governour of the Island of Providence charging them with very high Crimes.<sup>1</sup> And when the last letters came away from thence, he was under the apprehensions of other such like groundless vexatious Actions

The said M<sup>r</sup> Nanfan therefore humbly hopes that there may be such due and speedy care taken of him that without any prejudice to the Securities he has been forced to give in, he may have liberty to come for England to answer for and defend his Administration of the Government there and to look after his own concerns And he is now and always shall be ready to state and settle his public Accounts upon which as matters stand at present there is a very great balance due to him

All which is humbly submitted to your Lordships

My Lord

Since our letters to your Lordships of the 26 of the last month, we have received several letters from your Lordship by one Conveyance all dated in December last The particular subjects both of them and your former we shall answer fully very soon

At present we will only acquaint you that the Countess of Bellomont having petitioned her Maj<sup>ty</sup> that the Security she has given at New York for her appearance there in April next may be discharged the consideration of which her Majesty was pleased to refer to us And we have thereupon offered our opinion for respiting the time of her appearance for six months after the expiration of the time now appointed And her Ladyship having also laid before us her accounts for the whole time of the Earl of Bellomonts Administration in the Government of that Province and given us a copy of the vouchers which she intends to make use of in justification of her account: A letter has thereupon been dispatched by M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges signifying her Majestys pleasure that six months longer time be granted for the appearance of her Ladyship or her lawfull Attorney at New York in reference to the publick demands and that in the mean time her Sureties be not prosecuted for her Default; Which letter will be transmitted to you by her Ladyship or her Agent.

We have also thought fit to send you Copies of all the foresaid papers which have past through our hands viz<sup>t</sup> The Countess of Bellomonts Petition with the order of Reference upon it, Our report to her Majesty in a letter to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges upon the same subject with the Lady Bellomonts Account and copy of her vouchers, that your Lordship may

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Nottingham.

[Trade Papers, XXIV., (6.)]

Whitehal February the 25th 170<sup>3</sup>

My Lord,

In pursuance of your Lordship's signification of Her Majesty's Pleasure that We should consider of a Proposal made by Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys for settling Packet-Boats between the Isle of Wight and New York, We have several times conferred with him about that matter, and take leave to acquaint your Lordship;

That he offers to furnish two Ships, each of 150 Tuns, 14 Guns, and 40 men, well built for sailing and provided with Oars; One of them to part (in a few days after the agreement is concluded) from the Isle of Wight for New York, to remain there 30 Days and then return; The other to sail from the Isle of Wight about two months after the first, and proceed in the same manner; And so both of them to keep the said course by turns; For his encouragement wherein he desires the Liberty of taking in passengers, as likewise goods for ballast not exceeding 50 tuns in each vessel, to have effectual protection for the seamen both on board and on shore, and 350 pound per month for the hire of the said vessels, reckoning 13 months to the year, to be paid quarterly, and the first three months imprest before hand.

Upon consideration of which proposal, We desire your Lordship to offer to Her Majesty our humble opinion.

That the settling of such a correspondence between this Kingdom and Her Majesty's Plantations on the Continent of America will be of great use to Her Majesty's Service in those parts, and of advantage to the Plantation Trade, especially during the War.

That in order thereunto We humbly conceive it may be convenient the two ships proposed be constantly employed in going and returning between the Isle of Wight and New York ; Which is near the center of Her Majesty's Plantations on that Continent.

That we do not conceive it fit that so long a time as desired by him be allowed for the stay of the said Vessels at New York ; But rather that their stay in Harbour be as short as possible, not exceeding five days either there or at the Isle of Wight : It being the expedition of those Voyages which makes the undertaking most useful. And the answers of letters to New York sent by either of these Packet-Boats may in that manner be forthwith returned from thence ; And from all Her Majesty's other Plantations on the Continent sent thither, to lye in readiness against the arrival of the next Packet Boat, Which will make the course of this Correspondence as regular and expeditious as is possible for two packet boats.

That we humbly conceive it very necessary there be effectual protections granted for the Seamen belonging to both these Vessels.

And we have reason to hope that since he insists upon the carrying of 50 tun of goods in each vessel, out and home ; he will abate of the price he would otherwise ask for his service.

As to the charge of this undertaking, We leave it to the consideration of the Officers of the Navy and Post Office, who will be best able to judge of it and make the agreement. We are

Upon a fresh Application from Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys, We humbly offer that the first packet boat only be permitted to stay 30 days at New York, and bring away such Lrès : as may in that time be ready, But that the stay of the following Packet boats be confined to 5 days and no more, as We have proposed.

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Nottingham.

[ Plantation General Entries, XXXVI, (C.) 222.]

My Lord

In pursuance of your Lordships letter of the 1 Instant we have considered a second proposal offered by Sir Jeffrey Jeffrey's for an experiment of a vessell to make two voyages to New York for settling a correspondence with the Continent of America By which the said Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys desires that his Vessell may be made a Packett Boat and have a protection for forty men during the two Voyages to be performed in six or seven months, that his Vessell may stay thirty days at New York, and take in upon freight such goods & Passenger as offer out and home without any limitation And that for this ndertaking he may have the advantage of the Postage of all letters to be sent & returned by the said Vessell.

Upon which we humbly offer that these Priviledges will be of Benefit to the said Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys by the preference given him in the course of his trade, but of no advantage to the Publick For that the unlimited taking in of what goods he thinks fit will too much retard the sailing of his ship, and the thirty days [s]tay at New York will frustrate the dispatch which is Chiefly designed by the setting up of the Packet boats for the West Indies. This Vessel in the manner now proposed being no more useful for the Conveyance of letters to and from those parts than any other ship trading to New York or other part of the Continent Whereas in the case of his staying five days at New York and not carrying above fifty tunns of Goods as mentioned by us in our first report) the intent of a quick Correspondence was better answered and might have been carried on with little charge; So that upon the whole matter We are humbly of opinion that this last proposal will no ways contribute to her Majestys Service or the benefit of the Plantation Trade. Opinion of the Attorney-General respecting Actions against the Judges and Grand Jury of New-York.

[New-York Entries, E. 439.]

Mr Attorney Generals Opinion about Actions brought by Coll Bayard and Mr Hutchins against their Judges and Grand Jury

Coll Bayard and Alderman Hutchins of the City of New York were tryed, found guilty and condemned for a High Treason grounded on an Act of Assembly of that Province but were reprieved by the then Government of New York till her Majesty's Pleasure should be known.

Upon the arrival there of my Lord Cornbury the present Governor they were allow'd the liberty of the City and have since, their attainers being yet unrevers'd brought Actions against the Judges of the Supream Court before whom they were tryed and against most of the Gentlemen of the Grand Jury who found the indictm<sup>t</sup> BILLA VERRA

Quere Whether they the said Hutchins and Bayard standing yet attainted can have any such Right of Action against either Judges or Grand Jury and whether they could have brought such actions had their attainers been actually reversed

I am of opinion that the actions ought not to have been brought either against the Judges or the Grand Jury and that same will not lye against them for what they did as Judge or Jury; Besides a person attainted cannot sue nor in this case will any Action lye after the attainder is reversed which the said late Earl of Bellomont received, and therefore praying that the said Bond may be discharged. Which Petition having been referr'd to the Council of Trade for their consideration And they having thereupon reported their opinion that her Majesty may be pleased (if she so think fit) to allow the further space of six months beyond the time specified in the Bond for the appearance of her Ladyship or her lawful Attorney to answer her Majesty's Suit as aforesaid, She first giving Copies of her Accounts to the said Council of Trade, in order to their transmitting them by the first conveyance to your Lordship; Which her Ladyship having already accordingly done, I am commanded to acquaint your Lordship that it is her Majesty's pleasure that she be allowed the said Six months beyond the time specified in the said Bond And that your Lordship do therefore give order that the Sureties therein mentioned be not in the mean time prosecuted for her Ladyships Default. Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, E. 351.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury

My Lord

Since our letters to your Lordships of the 26 of the last month, we have received several letters from your Lordship by one Conveyance all dated in December last The particular subjects both of them and your former we shall answer fully very soon

At present we will only acquaint you that the Countess of Bellomont having petitioned her Maj<sup>ty</sup> that the Security she has given at New York for her appearance there in April next may be discharged the consideration of which her Majesty was pleased to refer to us And we have thereupon offered our opinion for respiting the time of her appearance for six months after the expiration of the time now appointed And her Ladyship having also laid before us her accounts for the whole time of the Earl of Bellomonts Administration in the Government of that Province and given us a copy of the vouchers which she intends to make use of in justification of her account: A letter has thereupon been dispatched by M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges signifying her Majestys pleasure that six months longer time be granted for the appearance of her Ladyship or her lawfull Attorney at New York in reference to the publick demands and that in the mean time her Sureties be not prosecuted for her Default; Which letter will be transmitted to you by her Ladyship or her Agent.

We have also thought fit to send you Copies of all the foresaid papers which have past through our hands viz<sup>t</sup> The Countess of Bellomonts Petition with the order of Reference upon it, Our report to her Majesty in a letter to M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges upon the same subject with the Lady Bellomonts Account and copy of her vouchers, that your Lordship may examine the said Account in Council and return to us your objections (if any) thereunto for her Majesty's final directions in that matter. We are

P. S. We have acquainted the Lady Bellomont that she should order her Agent in New York to give his attendance in Council for explaining her Account.

We are informed of divers severe prosecutions in New York upon occasion of the late Government and former Resentments, Whereupon we remind your Lordship of what we enjoyed you as we have often done to your Predecessors that you should no way countenance the Retaliation of former injuries but by all fair means contribute your endeavours for the quieting the minds of the people.

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Nottingham.

[Trade Papers, XXIV., (6.)]

Whitehal February the 25th 1703

My Lord,

In pursuance of your Lordship's signification of Her Majesty's Pleasure that We should consider of a Proposal made by Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys for selling Packet-Boats between the Isle of Wight and New York, We have several times conferred with him about that matter, and take leave to acquaint your Lordship;

That he offers to furnish two Ships, each of 150 Tuns, 14 Guns, and 40 men, well built for sailing and provided with Oars; One of them to part (in a few days after the agreement is concluded) from the Isle of Wight for New York, to remain there 30 Days and then return; The other to sail from the Isle of Wight about two months after the first, and proceed in the same manner; And so both of them to keep the said course by turns; For his incouragement wherein he desires the Liberty of taking in passengers, as likewise goods for ballast not exceeding 50 tuns in each vessel, to have effectual protection for the seamen both on board and on shore, and 350 pound per month for the hire of the said vessels, reckoning 13 months to the year, to be paid quarterly, and the first three months imprest before hand.

Upon consideration of which proposal, We desire your Lordship to offer to Her Majesty our humble opinion.

That the settling of such a correspondence between this Kingdom and Her Majesty's Plantations on the Continent of America will be of great use to Her Majesty's Service in those parts, and of advantage to the Plantation Trade, especially during the War.

That in order thereunto We humbly conceive it may be convenient the two ships proposed be constantly employed in going and returning between the Isle of Wight and New York ; Which is near the center of Her Majesty's Plantations on that Continent.

That we do not conceive it fit that so long a time as desired by him be allowed for the stay of the said Vessels at New York ; But rather that their stay in Harbour be as short as possible, not exceeding five days either there or at the Isle of Wight : It being the expedition of those Voyages which makes the undertaking most useful. And the answers of letters to New York sent by either of these Packet-Boats may in that manner be forthwith returned from thence ; And from all Her Majesty's other Plantations on the Continent sent thither, to lye in readiness against the arrival of the next Packet Boat, Which will make the course of this Correspondence as regular and expeditious as is possible for two packet boats.

That we humbly conceive it very necessary there be effectual protections granted for the Seamen belonging to both these Vessels.

And we have reason to hope that since he insists upon the carrying of 50 tun of goods in each vessel, out and home ; he will abate of the price he would otherwise ask for his service.

As to the charge of this undertaking, We leave it to the consideration of the Officers of the Navy and Post Office, who will be best able to judge of it and make the agreement. We are

Upon a fresh Application from Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys, We humbly offer that the first packet boat only be permitted to stay 30 days at New York, and bring away such Lrès: as may in that time be ready, But that the stay of the following Packet boats be confined to 5 days and no more, as We have proposed.

Lords of Trade to the Earl of Nottingham.

[ Plantation General Entries, XXXVI, (C.) 222.]

My Lord

In pursuance of your Lordships letter of the 1 Instant we have considered a second proposal offered by Sir Jeffrey Jeffrey's for an experiment of a vessell to make two voyages to New York for settling a correspondence with the Continent of America By which the said Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys desires that his Vessell may be made a Packett Boat and have a protection for forty men during the two Voyages to be performed in six or seven months, that his Vessell may stay thirty days at New York, and take in upon freight such goods & Passenger as offer out and home without any limitation And that for this undertaking he may have the advantage of the Postage of all letters to be sent & returned by the said Vessell.

Upon which we humbly offer that these Priviledges will be of Benefit to the said Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys by the preference given him in the course of his trade, but of no advantage to the Publick For that the unlimited taking in of what goods he thinks fit will too much retard the sailing of his ship, and the thirty days [s]tay at New York will frustrate the dispatch which is Chiefly designed by the setting up of the Packet boats for the West Indies. This Vessel in the manner now proposed being no more useful for the Conveyance of letters to and from those parts than any other ship trading to New York or other part of the Continent Whereas in the case of his staying five days at New York and not carrying above fifty tunns of Goods as mentioned by us in our first report) the intent of a quick Correspondence was better answered and might have been carryed on with little charge; So that upon the whole matter We are humbly of opinion that this last proposal will no ways contribute to her Majestys Service or the benefit of the Plantation Trade. Opinion of the Attorney-General respecting Actions against the Judges and Grand Jury of New-York.

[New-York Entries, E. 439.]

M<sup>r</sup> Attorney Generals Opinion about Actions brought by Cöll Bayard and M<sup>r</sup> Hutchins against their Judges and Grand Jury

Cöll Bayard and Alderman Hutchins of the City of New York were tryed, found guilty and condemned for a High Treason grounded on an Act of Assembly of that Province but were reprieved by the then Government of New York till her Majesty's Pleasure should be known.

Upon the arrival there of my Lord Cornbury the present Governor they were allow'd the liberty of the City and have since, their attainders being yet unrevers'd brought Actions against the Judges of the Supream Court before whom they were tryed and against most of the Gentlemen of the Grand Jury who found the indictm<sup>ts</sup> BILLA VERRA

Quere Whether they the said Hutchins and Bayard standing yet attainted can have any such Right of Action against either Judges or Grand Jury and whether they could have brought such actions had their attainders been actually reversed

I am of opinion that the actions ought not to have been brought either against the Judges or the Grand Jury and that same will not lye against them for what they did as Judge or Jury; Besides a person attainted cannot sue nor in this ease will any Action lye after the attainer is reversed

Opinion of the Attorney-General respecting Actions against Provincial Governours.

[New-York Entries, E. 422.]

Mr Attorney Generalls Answer to the letter write him the 26 February 1703 relating to the Private Actions brought against Capt: Nanfan.

In answer to the said Queries

I am of opinion that the Governours of her Majestys Plantations when discontinued, may be arrested and prosecuted in the said Plantations by particular persons for arbitrary and illegal imprisonments and other proceedings without probable Cause for doing the same; But I am of opinion that on the fact stated by the memorial and appearing by the affidavits of Lawrence Quinoe made before the Lord Chief Justice Holt and of John Dogett and Charles Macarty made before the Earle of Nottingham, the said Graves and Predeaux have no just cause of Action against Mr Nanfan for the proceedings against them there appearing sufficient ground for him and the Council to doe what they did against the said Graves and Prideaux However the Actions being brought Mr Nanfan must answer to the same and defend himself against them by shewing the Grounds for his Proceedings, which will justify him thò the Accusers of Graves and Prideaux might misinform the Deputy Governour, who will be justified by the accusation of them on Oath, in what he hath done; And it will be necessary to make his defence particular; and not plead Not Guilty Generally. If Mr Nanfan were in England the parties Greived might sue him here in an Action for false imprisonment, And by the Statute 11. Will: Cap: 12 The Queen may in England indict the deputy Governour for any misdemeanours committed by him during his Government. And may bring him to an account here for any moneys he hath received belonging to her Majesty

Mr. Champante to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, E. 432.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

The Answer of Jn<sup>o</sup> Champante Esq; to the extract of a letter dated 12 of Dec<sup>r</sup>
1702 from the Lord Cornbury to their Lordships

My Lords

I am not at all surpris'd at the ill account your Lordships have received of the last Cloathing sent to New York I had the honour to know my Lord Cornbury very well before he left England; And from the several differences between us which, in respect to his Lordship I sha' n't here particularise I could not expect a better representation than I find is come; Which I shall take the Liberty to follow step by step, and shall chearfully submit the whole to your Lordships severest consideration

The Cloathing sent to New Yorke where consigned to her Majesty's Governour in Cheif of the said Province for the time being or to his assigns, as by the bill of lading which his Lordship is pleased to term a scrap of paper with the numbers and Marks of the Parcels will appear; And therefore how his Lordship comes to mistake himself so far as to acquaint your Lordships that I did not think it fit to consign them to him but to Captain Nanfan, I can't tell. The bill of lading was indeed inclosed in a letter of mine to M<sup>r</sup> Nanfan whom I desired to wait upon his Lordship with it; and to endeavour to be present at the opening of the several parcells; For his Lordship having been pleased to break off all Civill Correspondence with me here I was at a loss what Complement to make him myself, and therefore chose rather to put that office upon my friend whom for many reasons, I should have been very glad to have had a witness of the Condition the Cloathing came to his Lordship in; But that it seems was not thought fitting for a private Commission unknown to M<sup>r</sup> Nanfan (as my advices are) was issued for the taking up and for the examination of them, the first of which Commission was Monsieur Fauconier, a frenchman and a bankrupt here, thó now thought by his Lordship the properest manager of her Majestys Revenue there, and whom your Lordships can't forget, He having with one Honan an Irishman whose Character your Lordships are very well apprised of, yet now acting as Secretary of New York, offered several allegations to this R<sup>o</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board, which your Lordships cou'd not be satisfied of the truth of, and which occasioned your Lordships to think it then for his late Majestys service that I should concern myself in the Cloathing now in question, in which the then Lords of the Treasury upon your Lordships representations were pleased to concur with your Lordships and to desire the Earl of Ranelagh and one of your Lordships to agree with me for a Cloathing, which upon Patterns Sealed of every thing to be provided they accordingly did and reported the charges and Rates thereof to their Lordships, and thereupon his late Maj<sup>ty</sup> issued his Warrant dated 18 February 170½ to answer the same to me out of the offreckonings concerned in Course; So that looking upon your Lords<sup>ps</sup> and the Board of the Treasury to be my principals in this matter I cou'd not think myself under any obligation to send an invoice of the said Cloathing to his Lords<sup>ps</sup> the omission of which he has been pleased to make the second part of his charge against me, which I shall readily admit to be true and shall submit myself to your Lordships censure upon it. But I have now your Lordships orders to lay a particular invoice and estimate of that cloathing before you: In obedience to which I have hereunto annexed the same.

His Lordships heaviest charge comes next, in which he affirms that the Cloathing in question is the worst that ever was put on Soldiers backs and that the cheif Merchants with him are all of his mind Now with all due deference to his Quality, I do positively affirm the contrary and do assure your Lordships that they were as good as any and better than the most In which I don't desire your Lordships to be satisfyed with my bare word but shall be ready to lay before your Lordships such undeniable proof of the goodness of them as must fully clear me in this matter, the several Traders whom the particular Commodities were bought of and the persons concerned in the making and packing them up can fully justify that they were as good as were ever bought for that Service and know very well the extraordinary care that was had to have them so the taylor and packer can satisfy your Lordships that they were exactly made up to the pattern agreed upon And therefore that must fall under his Lordships censure to, tho' it satisfied the persons aforesaid whose judgment I hope may weigh as much with your Lordships as his

But my Lords I can go further yet in my justification which I did imagine notwithstanding all the honest care I took his Lordship might put me to and therefore before the Cloathing were packet up Mr Cardonel, who is now in Holland and his brother and M<sup>r</sup> Panncefort of the pay office and his brother at my repeated request spent some time in the looking of them all over and comparing of them with the respective sealed patterns and fully approved of every thing except of some few hatts which they did not object against for either the stuff or making but for the size of the head which were therefore with some others of the same size changed as to little for larger of the same sort

What I have now offer'd in my own defence your Lordships can easily come to the truth of which I humbly desire your Lordships to examine into, that so I may be able to vindicate myself from this aspersion in giving your Lordships satisfaction as to the justice of my management in this business

I am

My Lords

Your Lordships

Most humble and

most obedient Servant

Representation of the Lords of Trade concerning New-York.

[New-York Entries, E. 442.]

To the QUEEN'S MOST EXCEL' MAJESTY

May it please your Majesty

Having lately received from the Lord Cornbury your Majesty's Governour of New York several letters and papers concerning that Province we humbly represent to your Majesty that we are thereby informed; as to THE STATE OF DEFENCE OF SAID PROVINCE

That the FORT of NEW YORK is in a very ill condition nothing having been laid out upon it since Coll Fletcher came from thence, The parapet being of Sod work is fallen down in many places most of the platforms and of the Carryages quite rotten many of the Guns dismounted and some of them honey-combd so that they cannot be safely fired

That the FORTS at ALBANY SCHENECTADY CANESTIGIONE and another upon Hudsons River called the Half Moon are likewise in a ruinous Condition His Lordship is therefore building a new fort at Albany and designs to put the other forts in a better state of repaire

That very few of the STORES which his Lordship found at New York and at Albany (whereof he has sent us the annexed Inventories) are fit for Service.

That as to the four FOOT COMPANIES which ought to consist of four hundred private Soldiers besides officers There were not in his own Company more than eighty active men In Captain Nanfans Company no more than Seventy Six men; In Major Ingoldsbys Company eighty four men and in Capt: Weem's Company ninty two men So that there are wanting sixty eight men for the Compleating of the said Companies which his Lords<sup>p</sup> desires may be recruited

That his Lordship desires four hundred men more for the better Garrisoning of Albany and other frontier places

That the 4 COMPANIES had suffered very much for want of Cloathing which was then just arrived that their Arms were very bad not more than seven and twenty Muskets fit for use in the two Companies at New York, and but twelve swords and twelve bayonets in each of those two Companies Besides which the four Companies are in need of accoutrements and other necessaries to render them fit for Service

That the MILITIA of the Province is in a very ill state having not been drawn out or exercised for many years last past.

That in consideration of the great charge necessary for carrying on the fortifications and of the low state of the Province which since the Earl of Bellomonts coming there he says is grown much in debt His Lordship further prays that your Majesty would be pleased to direct that he may have some assistance from hence for the fortifications as was intended by his late Majesty.

His Lordship has also transmitted to us the anixed list of the Great Gunns, small Arms and stores which he thinks requisite for the defence of the Province

As for the state of the CIVIL GOVERNMENT his Lordship informs us that he found things in great disorder The animosities between parties were very high And at the time of his arrival the administration of the Govern<sup>t</sup> being cheifly in the hands of unfit and mean persons they had opprest the Cheif and most wealthy inhabitants and brought all to great extrémey which appears by many addresses presented to his Lordship from all parts within his Government for releif

In reference to the FIVE NATIONS of INDIANS bordering upon New York His Lordship gives us an acct of a conference he has had with their Cheif Sachems at Albany where he made them presents as usual in order to confirm them in their submission to your Majesty Which thò a considerable charge his Lordship judges absolutely necessary to be continued lest the intrigues of the french of Canada and the influence of their Priests who frequently converse and sometimes inhabit with those Indians should debauch them from your Majestys allegiance

In relation to NAVAL STORES his Lordship informs us that the Earl of Bellomont having formerly contracted for a parcel of Masts and some Timber for the use of the Royal Navy and a vessell called the Benjamin sent by the Com<sup>rs</sup> of the Navy to fetch the same being lately arrived at New York he had upon examination into the condition of those Masts found them to be Serviceable but not of the dimensions agreed for And having thereupon prevailed with the contractor to abate considerably of the price he had caused them to be put on board the foresidd Vessell together with so much of the timber as was at New York Adding that there was more timber lying in the woods which should be brought down as soon as the frost was hard enough to bear a sledge but could not be done sooner

Upon all which particulars we take leave to lay before your Majesty

That as to the FORRS and FORTIFICATIONS his Lordship may be ordered to use his best endeavours with the Assembly to dispose them to make suitable provision for repairing the old and erecting new fortifications as shall be judged necessary which together with the Quotas of the neighbouring Plantations (wherein your Majesty may be pleased to renew your directions) may be applied towards this work

And as his Lordship represents the PROVINCE to be in so LOW A STATE as to stand in need of assistance from hence we humbly report that upon the like representation from the Earl of Bellomont his late Majesty was pleased to order £2500 should be remitted thither for the said fortifications whereof £500 only was accordingly remitted so that the remaining sum of £2000 has not yet been issued.

As to the stores and materials of war desired by his Lordship according to the annexed list, In case of the 60 pieces of Cannon 1000 fire locks and 200 barrels of powder therein mentioned may not at this time so conveniently be spared, we humbly offer that one third part of the Cannon and one half of the firelocks and other stores therein mentioned be now sent.

As to the four hundred men desired by his Lordship over and above the four Companies, we do not take upon ourselves to judge how far your Majesty can spare any additional number of men

As to the MILITIA of that Province, We humbly report that amongst the Acts, which his Lordship has transmitted there being one for the better settling the said Militia and making it more usefull for the Security and Defence of the Province We have considered the same and can thereupon only offer that his Lordship be directed to take care that it be duly executed; and that in case the said Act be found by experience to be defective, he move the Assembly that further provision be made for that purpose.

In relation to the Recruits demanded by his Lordship for the 4 Companies, We find by the accounts laid before us, that besides what is due from the Executors of the Earl of Bellomont there is remaining in the hands of Captain Nanfan late Lieutenant Governour of New York the sum of £510 for respits from the 9 of March 1700 untill the 8 of May 1702 and in the Lord Cornburys hands £238 for respits from the 9 of May 1702 untill the 24 of December following, whereof a particular account may be made up in the pay office; which respits we humbly propose may be applyed towards recruiting the said Companies And together with what shall appear to be further due from the Pay Office upon the clearings of those Companies (which we judge to be very requisite) may be employed so far forth as the same is applicable to this Service, towards provending Arms Accoutrements and other necessaries, which they stand in need of, according to the particulars hereunto annexed

As to the CIVIL GOVERNMENT of the Province and the unhappy divisions amongst the people We humbly report That having recommended to his Lordship as well as to former Governours the endeavouring to reconcile all parties, he does assure us that he has accordingly applied himself to that work and will continue to do so, without espousing any party further than your Majestys Service and the rules of Justice do oblige him

As to the INDIANS, We are humbly of opinion that the usual method of ingaging them by presents be continued and especially as any extraordinary occasion may require. And we further take leave to observe, that another means to prevent the influence of the French Missionaries upon them and thereby more effectually to secure their fidelity would be that two Protestant Ministers be appointed, with a competent allowance to dwell amongst them, in order to instruct them in the true Religion and confirm them in their duty to your Majesty

As to Naval Stores Having likewise received the annexed proposals from his Lordship touching such as may be procured from New York We humbly offer to your Majesty that the same be trausmitted to his Royal Highness the Lord High Admiral, in order to an examination thereof and such Directions as may be thought fit

All which nevertheless is most humbly submitted

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, E. 461.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury her Majestys Captain General and Governour in Cheif in and over her Majesty's Province of New York and the Territories depending thereon in America Or to the Commander in Cheif of the said Province for the time being

My Lord

We have not received any letter from your Lordship since ours of the 22 February last, wherein we acknowledged the receipt of those where then come to our hands.

We laid before her Majesty some time since a Representation upon the Act for two thousand pounds to be applied to your Lordships use, that her Majesty might please to give leave for your Lordship to receive the same, Which has accordingly been granted; And we doubt not but your Agent will have already transmitted to you the necessary orders relating thereunto, whereof we send here inclosed a copy

We have considered the remaining Acts past at the same Assembly, and are preparing a Report upon them to be laid before her Majesty

We have told you in a former letter that we had prepared a Report with our opinion for disannulling the Act declaring the Town of East Chester to be a distinct Parish &c Which having accordingly been done We likewise send you a Copy of her Majesty's Order in Council for that effect.

We have now presented to her Majesty a Report upon the General State of the Province of New York according to the letters and papers received from your Lordship Whereof We send you also a Copy that you may see what we have offered to her Majesty upon each particular; and have added the Minutes of what has been ordered thereupon, the effect whereof will be diligently solicited.

As to the Fortifications proposed by your Lordship, you will use your endeavours with the Assembly that they make Provision in the best manner for the Defence of the Province

We have sent your proposal relating to an Enterprise against Canada to the Earl of Nottingham that it may be considered of

In relation to the Indians, and the advantage that might accrue by having two Protestant Ministers amongst them, We hope your Lordships care and our Representation will be effectual.

As to what concerns M<sup>r</sup> Weavers accounts, We understand that they are returned to your Lordship for your observations. And we expect that the Accounts of the Revenue be for the future transmitted quarterly.

Having already transmitted the Lady Bellomonts Accounts to your Lords<sup>ps</sup> We have also given to your Agent the copies of whatever has been offered to us by M<sup>r</sup> Champante relating to the accounts of Capt: Nanfan that he may transmit the same. All which accounts We judge most proper for the examination of your Lordship in Council, in order to your returning a Report upon them and of the particular Vouchers. And we do from former experience think ourselves obliged to advise your Lordship not to charge yourself with the Receipt of any publick money or of the pay of the Soldiers otherwise than of your own Company; But to let all such Receipts and Payments pass through the hands of the proper Officers, who are responsible for the same.

Having acquainted M<sup>r</sup> Champante with your Lordships complaint of the Cloathing last sent over by him and received his answer, we have also given a copy thereof to M<sup>r</sup> Thrale for your Lordships information

We have lately wrote a particular letter to your Lordship inclosing M<sup>r</sup> Attorney Generall's opinion relating to Actions brought by Coll Bayard and Alderman Hutchins against the Judges or Grand Jury by whom they were tryed And we here inclosed send you a copy thereof, as likewise of another opinion of M<sup>r</sup> Attorney Generall's relating to Graves and Prideaux.

We observe in one of your Lordships letters the difficulty you found to give us the lists of the inhabitants of the Province as required by your instructions by reason of the ignorance and incapacity of the Sheriffs of some Counties Which we doubt not therefore but you will remedy, so that we may expect those lists in convenient time.

As to your Complaint against the Captain of her Majesty's Ships of War, for their unwillingness to obey the directions of the Governours of Plantations where they come And the instance you give of the ill execution of your Orders by the seamen sent to seize M<sup>r</sup> Atwood and M<sup>r</sup> Weaver; We do not conceive their ought to be any alteration in the method of such orders. Yours must of course be directed to the Captain or Commander in Cheif, And his to those employed under him; After which if any miscarriage happen, those that are the occasion of it must bear the blame, according to the importance of the matter. However upon any information we shall receive from you of the disobedience of Captains of Ships, we shall be ready to contribute what lyes in us towards a Redress.

Lastly As we do expect from your Lordship a constant Account by every conveyance of all matters and transactions within your Government, so we do recommend to your Lordship, that your letters be delivered to persons who will be prepared to sink them with weights, in case they may happen to fall into an apparent danger of being taken by the enemy. Report of Messrs. Thrale and Mercer on Lady Bellomont's Accounts.

[New-York Entries, E. 474.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners of Trade and Plantations

That M<sup>r</sup> Champante and M<sup>r</sup> Thrale in pursuance of their agreement before your Lordship to settle and adjust my Lady Bellomont's Accounts among themselves amicably did in order thereto make choice of Mr Mercer to examine it, accordingly there was a meeting, as alledged and by that her Ladyship is already found above £100 a D<sup>r</sup> from the first account produced. But Mr Mercer has been so engag'd in fixing accounts to pass before the Commissioners for the Army that a second meeting as yet has not been, but will in a week or 10 days, And tho it be a small delay, yet certainly it can be no prejudice to her Ladyship, because she does not expect to receive any money, But on the contrary will be found a D<sup>r</sup> on the Ballance of that account.

That as to the £1650 its certain that will be one of the greatest difficulties her Ladyship will have to clear; But it is not a necessary consequence because that is the greatest, that therefore it is the only difficulty in the Account, which will be as honestly examined and candidly reported as her Ladyship can desire

And as to Mr Taylors suggestion of groundless (or any) Report to her Ladyships prejudice is only a fiction of his own coining, and therefore needs no answer, We are with all due respect

Queen's Letter prohibiting Presents to Governors of Plantations.

[New-York Entries, E. 468.]

ANNE R

Right Trusty and welbelovēd we greet you well, Whereas several inconveniences have arisen to our Government in the Plantations by Gifts and Presents made to our Governours by the General Assemblies, We have thought fit hereby to signify our Express Will and Pleasure, That neither you our Governour nor any Governour, Lientenant Governour Commander in Cheif or President of the Council of our Province of New York for the time being, do give your or their consent to the passing any law or Act for any Gift or Present to be made to you or them by the Assembly And that neither you nor they do receive any Gift or Present from the Assembly or others on any account or in any manner whatsoever, upon pain of our highest displeasure and of being recalled from that Our Government

And whereas the Salary of Six hundred pounds Sterling p<sup>r</sup> ann: assigned for the Governour in Cheif, Out of our Revenue arising there, may not be sufficient for his support, We are hereby graciously pleased to direct that Six hundred pounds Sterling p<sup>r</sup> ann: more be added out of our said Revenue, to your present Salary and to the Salary of the Governour of our said Province for the time being

And whereas by this increase of Salary the Generall Assembly of New York will have an opportunity and be in a condition of applying those sums which they usually gave in presents to the Governours or Lientenant Governours by temporary levies towards such other publick uses as may be most necessary for the defence and safety of the said Province, We do not doubt [but] that in consideration of Our care in exempting our good subjects from this customary burden of presents, The said Assembly may be the more easily induced to contribute in a more ample and effectual manner to their own safety and preservation

And we do further direct and require that this declaration of our Royall Will and Pleasure be communicated to the Assembly at their first meeting after your receipt hereof, and entred in the Registers of our Council and Assembly, that all persons whom it may concern may Govern themselves accordingly. So we bid you farewell. Given at Our Court at St James's the 29 day of April 1703 In the second year of Our Reign

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, E. 476.]

To the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury

My Lord

We send your Lordship here inclosed a Duplicate of our last date the 7 instant, Since which we have not received any from you.

We have been directed to prepare the Letters for her Majesty's Royal Signature which are to be writ to several Plantations relating to the Quota to be furnished by them for the Assistance of New York which will be transmitted to your Lordship by the next conveyance.

We are expecting from your Lordship an answer upon our directions for your examining the several Acts of Assembly the Titles whereof were transmitted to your Lordship by us the 26 of January last, that we may thereby be fully enabled to determine our opinion to her Majesty upon those Acts.

You will observe that some of them require a very particular Answer Viz<sup>t</sup> As to the Act for preventing vexatious Suits and settling and quieting the minds of her Majesty's peaceable Subjects &c. your Lordship will please to inform us what cases there are which may deserve Redress, and how circumstantiated, and what suits are commenced in New York upon any cases whereunto this Act relates, Since the passing of the repealing Act in November 1702. And in relation to the Act for vacating breaking and annulling several extravagant Grants made by C<sup>oll</sup> Fletcher &c, We desire to have the particular opinion of your Lordship and the Council upon each of the several Grants thereby intended to be vacated.

You receive here inclosed her Majesty's letters for augmenting your Lordships Salary in New York, and for settling a Salary in New Jersey, As likewise for prohibiting presents to be made to Governours of Plantations by Assemblies; Which regulation against presents has been signified in like manner to the Governours of all her Majestys Plantations, and is to be observed.

We doubt not but your Lordship will have a particular regard to the letters relating to the Administration of Justice &c in both your Governments which you will also find here inclosed and return us an Accounts of that matter accordingly. We are

Petition of the Countess of Bellomont to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Papers, V. W. X. W 10.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations

The humble petition of Katherine Countess of Bellomont.

Sheweth:—

That your Petitioner did some time agoe lay before Her Ma<sup>y</sup> that she had been oblig'd before she could return for England to give ten thousand pound security for her appearance at New York the sixth of April last, on acc<sup>t</sup> of money pretended to be due from her late husband to the four Companys there, tho' she was ready, whenever Her Ma<sup>y</sup> should order her accounts to be taken, to make appear that there was nothing due, and therefore she pray'd that her said security might be discharg'd; as by her petition referr'd by Her Ma<sup>y</sup> to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> may more fully appear.

That your Lordships upon such reference were pleas'd to represent that all prosecution against your petitioner's said security might be suspended for six moneths from the sixth of the aforesaid moneth; which Her Ma<sup>y</sup> thereupon was graciously pleased to order.

That your Lordships to forward the dispatch of your Petitioner's accounts have sent over to the Lord Cornbury copys of them and of all her vouchers for his Lordship's examination, and your Petitioner according to your Lordships' directions has been ever since and is yet ready to state her accompts with the present Agent of the Province, the officers here, & their Accountant; but they, after some progress therein have neglected for some months to meet upon the same, tho' often press'd thereto by the persons acting for your Petitioner soe that her accompts as yet continue unsetled without any default in her, to the great prejudice of her own affairs.

That it is thereby become impossible that her s<sup>d</sup> accompts should be adjusted and notice thereof arrive at New York before Her Majes<sup>ty</sup>'s said gracious order be expired, whereby her said security will be inevitably ruined unless further immediate care be taken therein.

Your Petitioner therefore hopes that your Lordships will be pleased to represent the same soe to her Ma<sup>y</sup> as that yo<sup>r</sup> Petition<sup>r</sup>'s said security may not suffer and that such Order may be taken for the speedy passing of your Petitioners accompts as shall be thought most fitting.

[New-York Entries, F. 302.]

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations —
My Lords.

I did myself the honour in October last by Her Majesty's ship Advice to convey a letter to your Lordships, wherein I humbly set forth my hardships, and as humbly prayed redress, intirely relying on your Lordships Justice, as I do yet and shall ever; but what I then intimated to your Lordships is now come to pass. Although often I have given my accounts, and the several wayes I have been directed, yet I cannot be able as yet to bring them to an adjustment. The fault is not mine, I humbly conceive; nor in truth I am able to give his Lordship further Accounts, than copies of them his Lordship already has.

My business, My Lords, is to be dispatched to my affaires in Barbadoes, for His Lord<sup>sh</sup> here has stopt my pay, and without any reason assigned or dismiss shewn me from Her Majesty, only telling one Capt<sup>o</sup> Matthews has my company, and that his Lordship has a copy of his Commission from himself tho' never produced to me. Fifteen years My Lords I have served in the Army, but never saw a president of this kind. My Lords, this is not the greatest of my misfortunes; for, besides my often being debarred my liberty in going to Barbadoes, by forcing one vessel which carryed my Wife child and servants, to give £5,000 security that they should take none off without tickets, which I could not procure. My Lords, a president of this never was in any American port or the Islands. But to conclude, because I will not much longer trouble your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s, My Lord Cornbury well knowing himself, or Agent, have received the publick moneys for the Souldiers. Since Mr Champante was discharged 25 Dec<sup>r</sup> 1701. yet has suffered me to be arrested in more than £1200 actions for the protested bills drawn since that time and truly applied to the use of the Soldiers as I can make appear; And now, My Lords, its nine dayes since I have laine in confinement, nor can I get any surety, nor will His Lord<sup>sh</sup> accept my own bond, tho' in a respectful letter I offered it. I must needs, My Lords, think I looke not unlike a designed sacrifice where my bread is first taken away and then my liberty. I shall pray Mr Champante, by way of memorial, to give your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s a light of my hardships, which when your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s please to consider, I shall not doubt of Justice and relief.

My Lords, if I have been any way misrepresented for my Administration, I most humbly pray your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s will please to do me that honour to procure Her Majesty's citation to answer for myself, and not that I lye and suffer here in confinement to my infiute prejudice a prisoner, not at large but close, at the Bene placito of Mylord Cornbury, whose agents, I presume your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s are not unacquainted, have received the Soldiers subsistence since the 25th December 1701. which money I now lye under confinement for, his Lord<sup>sh</sup>s authority protecting him from the arrests —

I most humbly pray your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s that should I in any particular appear too warm in expression, Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s will please to impute it to the difficulties I labour under innocently, and for me who was ever as free as an English-born subject could ever hope for, never in confinement till now, to become a prisoner without engagement for debts owing by others, I most humbly submit to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s great wisdom and am with great regard

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s most faithful
humble servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, F. 306]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

On the 3rd of April last I received a Packet from your Lordships, with several Proclamations inclosed, directing a publick day of thanksgiving to be observed in England, upon occasion of the great and glorious success of Her Majesty's Armes, and your directions for observing a day of publick Thanksgivings here in this province and New Jersey. In pursuance of your Lordship's commands, I issued a proclam<sup>tn</sup> directing the 15th day of April to be observed throughout this province, which was strictly observed. I likewise wrote to some of the Gentlemen of New Jersey, who have acted as Justices of peace in the time of the proprietary Govern<sup>t</sup>, to take care that a day of thanksgiving should be observed in that province; but I did not think it proper to issue a Proclamation there, because my Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for that Govern<sup>t</sup> is not yet come, and I was doubtful whether that people (who are prone enough to throw off all Govern<sup>t</sup>) would obey such a Proclamation, knowing that I have not yet received my Commission. It would be very well, if it were come, for at this time they are under no manner of Govern<sup>t</sup>, which is a great mischief to this Province, as well as to that; for if any servant here is dissatisfied, or any Soldier has a mind to desert, it is but crossing Hudson's River and they are safe. On the 4th of April I received, by the way of Barbados, another packet from your Lordships containing the same directions as the former which came by the way of Boston. On the 7th of this instant May I received two letters from Your Lordships dated the 26 January last with several papers inclosed. I have directed the Acts of Assembly which Her Majesty has been pleased to disallow to be taken out of the Secretary's Office, and to be destroyed. The other Acts, of which you are pleased to send me a list, I will by the next ship, which will saile in about ten days, give your Lordship an account of them. I perceive by your second letter of the 26th that Her Majesty has been pleased to confirm what I had done here relating to Atwood, Weaver and the rest of those I had dismissed from the Council of this province. I humbly thank your Lordships for your favour in those matters. I will endeavour by my behaviour here to deserve the continuation of your protection. I intreat you to believe that I will continue my utmost endeavours to reconcile the differences that still remain, in some measure, among the People of this province, tho' nothing near so much as formerly. Atwood and Weaver still continue writing to the People that are called here the Black party, and encourage them to continue in the same obstinate ways they left them in; but I hope in a little time their eyes will be opened. I perceive by your Lordship's letter of the 22nd of Febr: that you are informed of divers severe prosecutions in New Yorke, upon occasion of the late Govern<sup>t</sup> and former Resentments. I can not enough admire the confidence of those people who dare offer such falsehoods to your Lordships, for I do positively affirm that there has not yet been any one proceeding in any court whatsoever against any person upon occasion of the late Govern<sup>t</sup> and former resentments by the Government. I think Coll: Bayard has brought his action against some of his Jury. I do assure you, I shall always punctually observe whatever you shall think fit to enjoyn me, and I shall always use my utmost care and diligence towards the quieting the minds of the people. The General Assembly of this Province is now sitting. I hope by the next ship to be able to give your Lordships a good account of their proceedings.

I take leave to acquaint you that I have lately had a visit from Coll: Nicholson Governor of Virginia. I find that Gentleman extremely zealous for the Queen's service. He perfectly understands this vast continent; I do not doubt but he will give Your Lordships very good information of all matters relating to these parts. He has promised to come hither again when the great heats are over, at which time Coll: Dudley will be here. At which time we do intend to consider of all such things as may be proper to lay before your Lordships for the welfare of these Colonies, and for the making them more useful to England. And really there will be many things worthy your Lordship's consideration, and particularly with respect to the Charter Governments. I think it my duty to acquaint you that Coll: Hamilton is dead, and Mr Penn's Council have taken upon them the Govern<sup>t</sup>. I have some letters from Philadelphia which inform me that they have lately held Courts of Judicature there, in which they have condemned people to death by Judges that are Quakers, and by a Jury of Quakers, and neither Judges nor Jury under any oath. These proceedings have very much startled the Gentlemen of the Church of England in Pennsylvania. I thought it my duty to acquaint your Lordships with these things and remain faithful humble servant

Colonel Robert Quarry to the Lords of Trade.

[Harleian MSS. (Mus. Brit.), 6213, No. 1.]

Pennsylvania.]

I received your Lordships letter of ye 25th of Feb<sup>r</sup>, with Her Majesty's Order in Council relating to the Courts of Judicature in this Province, and the three lower Counties, which I do assure your Lordships came very seasonably to quiet the minds of the People, which were in perfect ferment, occasioned by the proceedings of the last sessions held the 10th of Aprill.

Courts of Judicature
in Penna

In my last, I gave your Lordships an account that the Gaol of this place was thronged with murderers & felons, and that Governor Hamilton had given a special Commission to two Gentlemen to try and make a Gaol Delivery: But the Jury summoned would not serve in matters of so high a nature as the lives of the Queen's subjects, since Mr Hamilton was not qualified as the Law directs, not having Her Majestie's approbation, so that Commission fell; and in few days after the sessions came on there was a strong debate upon the bench about trying of those murderers & felons, some were cautious, & proposed to have them tried by Judges Jury & Evidences sworn and qualified according to Law. But the major part carry'd it for trying them without any oath, or so much as the affirmation to be taken, either by Judges Jury or Evidences, and accordingly they proceeded. At first the people could not believe that they were in Earnest, But to their great astonishment they found them as good as their words.

Several of the Judges left the bench and refused to act with 'em, and so did Mr Penn's Attorney General; However they quickly appointed another Attorney and proceeded. One person was found guilty of murder, whom they condemned to be hanged, and pronounced the sentence of Death; others y<sup>e</sup> Jury found only guilty of Manslaughter, who were immediately burnt in y<sup>e</sup> hand, and put to their Clergy by the court, all Quakers and others for Rape and less crimes discharged.

As soon as they had ended their sessions they dispatch away a messenger to Colonel Hamilton to sign the warrant of Execution, but he lay very sick then in East Jersey and in two days after dyed, being y<sup>e</sup> 26th of April,<sup>1</sup> so [that] y<sup>e</sup> murderer hath by that means as yet 'scaped hanging. I cannot sufficiently express the great consternation that possess the spirits of people on this occasion, Every one made it their own case, and thought themselves not secure of their lives, under this Quaker government, if they must be try<sup>d</sup> by Judges Jury and Evidence which are under no tye or obligation of an oath, or so much as an affirmation according to Law; so that when your Lordships letter came with the Queen's order in Council, they could not forbear public rejoicing.

And now my Lords, give me leave to acquaint you that in obedience to your commands I attended on the President and Council and shewed them Her Majesty's Order, which was read; after which they were pleased to say that they would readily comply with the Queen's orders in what lay in their power and not contrary to their Consciences. I thought this too general an answer and prest them to give a more positive one, which they have promised to do in fifteen day's time.

I quickly found that they would evade that order by finding persons fit for their purpose that would either take the oaths or the affirmation; But then they conclude that neither the Jury nor the Evidence are obliged to take either by the Queen's order. But we hope that your Lordships will be pleased to get a further explanation of Her Majesty's order, so as to secure Her Majesty's subjects from that greatest evil, and y<sup>e</sup> in Criminal matters they may not be concerned on their affirmation, since the Law excepts them.

It seems very strange to me that this Government should venture to act at this extravagant rate, when they know very well that there are Complaints against them before your Lordships for presuming formerly to try, condemn, & execute the Queen's subjects, without either the Judges Jury, or evidences being sworn. But they think Mr Penn's interest so great with Her Majesty and Ministers of State, that they may venture to doe any thing, and [indeed] many beleive them, seeing he hath interest enough to gain any point. The death of Colonel Hamilton will alter all his measures here, and gives us hopes that all things will be now settled on a sure foundation.

Having perused the two Deeds granted to Mr Pen, by King James, when Duke of York, for the three lower Counties, and finding that no powers of Government is conveyed by them, and that no Commission was granted to him from the Crown to exercise the powers of Government, I could not imagine what colour or pretence he had for assuming all the power of Regal Government. At last by the Assistance of one of his officers in searching the Records of this Province he [I] found the law or act of Assembly made here, which is the foundation of all his pretences, I have here inclosed sent [you] a Copy of it, by which your Lordships will see that he hath no power but what he hath been pleased to give himself.

I have inquired into the circumstances of passing that Act, and have this account from some of the persons who were members of that Assembly, who say, that at M<sup>r</sup> Pen's first coming over into these parts, he did not in y<sup>e</sup> least pretend to the Government of the lower Counties. But after some considerable time he employed his Agents about the Country to persuade the People to petition him that they might be united to his Province, and under one Government with them. They were told what a great advantage it would be to them, which induced them to comply. So that in case the People have power to make M<sup>r</sup> Pen Governor, or he to make himself one, he is duly qualified; But if that cannot be, and is ridiculous to suppose, then I affirme he hath no pretence nor the least right to the Government of the three lower Counties; and yet for him still to assume and exercise all power of Government and to dispute his right of Government with Her Majesty, astonishes us all.

Commission opened after Col. Hamilton's death. After the death of Colonel Hamilton they opened a Commission which M<sup>r</sup> Pen left at his going hence, in the hands of the Secretary, by which he appointed that in case of Col. Hamilton's death, the administration of the Government of Pennsylvania should be in the Council, but whether by design or mistake, he hath made no provision for the Government of the three lower counties. His friends give out that it was by mistake, but others are of another opinion, for when he went hence he had no hopes of continuing the Government, and therefore was resolved to leave the three lower Counties in confusion. I doe most humbly propose that your Honours will please to take some speedy course for settling that country, In the meane time that Her Majesty's letter may be sent to preserve Peace, and keep the Country in Order. The encouragement of the three lower Counties will be of ten times the advantage to Her Majesty in Her revenue, than the province of [The Three Lower Counties valuable to the Crown.] Pennsylvania, for all the Tobacco that is shipped out of this Bay is produced out of those three Countys, the trade of which will increase dayly if encouraged.

One standard of Coyns beneficial to trade and Her Majesty's Provinces I thought myself obliged to acquaint your Lordships that nothing could tend more to the increase of Trade, [and] the prosperity and good of these parts of the world, than what your Lordships have proposed, the reducing all the Coynd of America to one standard. And it will in the first place have this effect — to prevent the Carrying the money in specie out of Her Majesty's Governments of Virginia and Maryland into the Propriety Colonies, it will make most of the money center in England, for those Provinces that do not produce such Commoditys as are fit to be shipt to England must be forced to send the pieces of Eight in Specie, to make returns for the goods they receive from thence, which they are forced to do sometimes now, though the difference of exchange is in some places thirty, forty, and in Pennsylvania fifty per cent worse than Sterling. It will make trade easy, give a general satisfaction to all sorts of people, and prevent the labourers and tradesmen from quitting the Queen's Government to go and settle in the Propriety Governments, on the bare name of great wages when in reality it is but a mear cheat. However this noyse and gingle carries abundance of people from Her Majesty's Plantations where their labour doth vastly augment her Majestys revenue in the improvement of those Commoditys that pay a considerable duty. Whereas all their labour and industry in this and the rest of the Propriety Governments is of no advantage to the Crown.*

* (Here follows an account of West India affairs &c which is omitted—J. R. B.) The matter omitted is supplied on the next two pages from the copy of Col. Quary's letter in 3 Massachusetts Historical Collections, VII., 226-229; and is embraced, as well as other additions from that copy, within brackets.—Ed.

[Account of the Disorders in Carolina.

I received Letters this week from South Carolina, which give me a very strange account of the great disorders which have happened in that Government, since their unfortunate disappointment and miscarriage against St. Augustine. The charge of this Expedition, hath fallen very heavy upon the Country, and the ways and means for raising the money hath left them all together by the Ears. I will not trouble your Lordships with particulars, since you will have it at large from both Parties.

Method of reducing St. Augustine: Advantages of it.

The Warr is continued very briskly, by the Indians which are under the English Government, and those under the Spaniards. Our Indians have in several Battles killed a great number of them, above 500 of them in one battle, besides Spaniards that were amongst them: They have also burnt many of their Towns, and destroyed almost all their corn, and provisions; so that, unless St. Augustine be supplied from the Havana, they cannot subsist long. Considering the condition of that place, it may be reduced with ease, and very little charge to her Majesty. I propose that one or two Men of Warr, in their way home from Jamaica, may as they come through the Gulf, stop at St. Augustine with a Bomb Ketch. Timely notice must be given to the Government of Carolina, that they may goe with their forces by the Inland Passage, which they will undertake very readily, being fully satisfied of the necessity of taking that place; else they must expect nothing but ruine.

I have sufficiently layed before your Lordships, the advantage of reducing this place, not only in reference to Carolina, but to all Her Majesty's Governments on the Maine. It will put a stop to the French designs who are endeavouring from Canada, to secure the Inland parts of the whole Maine.

I have formerly shewn the ways and means they make use of, to effect this great design, but by our securing the Southern Parts, we shall prevent them, and break all their measures by securing the Indians to the Interest of England, which will be easily effected, since they must depend upon us for the supply of Indian Trade.

Port Royal preferable to St. Augustine.

St. Augustine being reduced, Her Majesty may then either make that the seat of Government, or demolish it and settle Port Royal, which is on all accounts a far better place, in respect to its situation, goodness of land, but above all, it hath the advantage of a very good River. I can now assure your Lordships, that a very ingenious man and good artist, hath lately surveyed all that Coast and harbour, and found not less than four fathoms at low water, and it flows about six foot, which is water enough for a fourth rate ship. I have formerly layed before your Lordships, the great advantage it will be to Her Majesty in settling this place which I refer to.

Reasons of the disorder in Carolina.

And to proceed to give the reasons of the present distractions and confusions in South Carolina.

The first step was the great irregularity in the late Governour's venire in the Election of Assembly, in which were forcibly returned several persons, being chosen by persons not qualified, as negroes, aliens, seamen, and members of the Upper House, and all this to serve a turn. And amongst other designs, the main was for drawing out the Country into Arms, to attaque St. Augustines, when at the same time, they had neither Man of War, Bomb Ketch, nor Guns fit to to make a breach; so that the designe was contrary to all reason and sense. However, the Governor was resolved to prosecute the undertaking, though by so doing, he ran the hazard of ruining the whole Country, which will certainly be the consequence, unless your Lordships will please to prevail with Her Majesty, to assist in reducing that Place.

After the defeat of this ill-managed Design, the next thing that lay before the Assembly, was to consider how to pay the Debt contracted on this Occasion, which amounted to no less than 5000 pounds. Those Gentlemen that were against carrying on the Warr, under all these unreasonable circumstances, were, however willing to pay the Debts, provided they might have those late abuses in the Election of the Assembly, and other grievances remedied. But the Governour refused these good offers, which forced more than half of the Assembly to withdraw, and enter their Protest: on which followed a great Ryot for many days. They broke open several Gentlemen's Houses, assaulted, beat and abused several Gentlemen of the best quality in the Country. Complaynt being made to the Governour, he refused to do them Justice, nor could they have Justice in the Court, upon an Indictment brought against the Ryoters. These confusions in the Country forced Sir Nathaniel Johnson to publish his Commission, which till then he had not. The abused complain to him, but he tells them it is now too late, but he would take care for the future, no such actions should be allowed. So for want of Justice, those Gentlemen that were abused and injured, resolved to send persons home, to complain and represent their case to your Lordships for redress. I will not take up more of your Lordships time on this subject, but refer you for particulars, to those Gentlemen that are gone home on purpose to attend on your Lordships about this business.]

The state of New England. I thought myself obliged to make some few remarks upon the Government of New England, In the first place, I beleive it will be impossible for any Governour to serve the interest of the Crown under the present constitution of that Government, for as long as they have the choice of the Councill the Judges, Sheriffs, consequently the Juries, and all the other Officers, they have nothing to hope for or fear from the Queen's Governour. I cannot see what advantage it is to Her Majesty to have only the appointing of the Governour and Secretary, It gives them a colour of opposing the commands of the Crown, and carrying on their own interest, without running any hazard. Whereas were the choice wholly in them it would put them upon their guard—make them very cautious what they did, and very ready to comply with the Commands of the Crown for fear they should forfeit and loose all. But now they have secured all they would have, and in case of any wrong measure, misfortunes or ill conduct in Government they will find pretences enough to lay all on Her Majesty's Governour, so that they think themselves in far better circumstances now than ever.

Influence N. E. hath on ye other Governments. Besides, the present constitution of this Government hath a great influence on all Her Majesty's Governments in America in most of which I can assure your Lordships that Commonwealth notion and principle is too much improved within these few years. The people are uneasy that Her Majesty's subjects in New England and the Propriety Governments should enjoy more Priviledges & benefits in Government and Trade than they do. This puts them upon enquiry, projects and trials of skill with their severall Governours in hopes to gain the same priviledges, which else they never would have thought on; This growing evil requires speedy aplycation, and with humble submission to your Lordships, nothing will so effectually answer the End as reducing all the Provinces on the Maine of America to one standard, rule, and Constitution of Government, as near as circumstances will admitt, and also to one standard of Coyn. The effecting of both is, and hath been for some time under your Lordships consideration; I hope quickly to see it put in practice; It will make all Her Majesty's Governments easy, satisfied and happy, and will tend to your Lordship's Eternal honour, in being the Instruments of so much good to all Her Majesty's Provinces.

Col. DuRoi can prevail in nothing.

Colonel Dudley hath been forced already to dissolve two Assemblies — nor will the third anyways answer his expectation, they being resolved to choose the very same men. He hath shown himself very active in his endeavors to secure the frontiers of that Government, but he cannot make brick without straw; They are resolved to oppose him though he hath studied in all things to oblige and please them, yet he finds that all his parts, ingenuity and long experience of the people cannot stem the current of their old prejudice against him. They say that he hath given several instances of his remembering the old quarrel, and they resolve on their parts never to forget it, so y<sup>t</sup> its generally beleived he will never be able to gain any poynt from them. They do not stick to say that a stranger, cold prevail ten times more with them, which shews the temper and uncharitableness of those people.

A Governor depending on the People's humours for subsistence cannot serve the Crown.

Besides I cannot see how it is possible for any Governor to serve the interest of the Crown that must depend upon the precarious humours of the people for a subsistence. They will never part with their money unless they have an equivalent or something more valuable. It lays the Governor under the temptation of making sometimes a very disadvantageous bargain for the Crown, and stooping below the dignity of his character. A Governor ought to have his support as well as dependance immediately from the Crown, though at the same time the fund ought to come from the People, but by such ways and means as ought first to settle it in the Crown. I doe most humbly begg your Lordships' pardon for this freedom.

Col Nicholson was at N. York.

Col. Nicholson was lately here in order to consult His Excellency my Lord Cornbury about some matters relating to Her Majesty's service. There is a very good correspondency betwixt those two Governors, which will be attended with very good effects.

[The Queen's Governors to meet once a year.]

Your Lordships directions for a meeting once a year of all the Queens Governors on the main, would be of very great service upon severall accounts and more especially in order to the removing all scruples and objections which may be raised against that generall good of bringing all the Governments under one systeme form and Constitution.

And now that I have had occasion to speak of that worthy Gentleman Col Nicholson, give me leave to make some few short remarks on him and the Government of Virginia.

When he found that the Assembly were not willing to pay their Quota for the support of Albany, he being ordered not to press the business too far, was resolved however that Her Majesty's interest should not suffer, though the Assembly would not understand their own.

The necessity of supporting Albany.

Yet no man knew better than he, who by long experience could judge, that the support of Albany is the only security that all the Governments on the Mayn have against the French and all the Indians in their interest. He very well knows that if Albany be not effectually supported, we must loose the five nations that are now in our interest, and are the only barrier against the French and all those great Nations of Indians in their interest. By the neglect of Albany we shall not only loose so many sure friends but shall add so many great and warlike nations to the number of our Enemies; and then I am sure it will be in the power of the French in conjunction with all those nations to be masters of all Her Majesty's Provinces on the Mayn when they please. This is a truth which I am sure your Lordships know very well, and if you please to lay your commands on me I will demonstrate it with such reasonable and convincing arguments as will leave but little or no room for objections. All which Governor Nicholson knows so well that as soon as he found that the Assembly would not see their own interest or comply with her Majesty's Orders, he went immediately to New York, and out of greate zeale to Her Majestys service and security of her Provinces, he gave his own bills for Nine Hundred Pounds Sterling, to answer the Quota of Virginia, wholly depending on Her Majesty's favour & Justice in reimbursing him again out of her revenue in that Province, which by his prudent conduct he hath retrieved, from being left considerably in debt, to more than ten Thousand Pounds in Bank, all public building and debts being paid.<sup>1</sup>

Your Lordships do so very well know that gentleman, that it is needless to say any more of him at present, but will proceed to say something of y<sup>e</sup> present state of Virginia.

The State of Virginia. The People are very numerous—dispersed through the whole province—Their almost sole business is planting and improving Tobacco, even to that degree that most of them scarce allow themselves time to produce their necessary provision, and consequently take little leisure to busy themselves about matters of State. They have always been respectful and obedient to Government—This in the general.

But in every river of this province there are men in number from ten to thirty, who by trade and industry have gotten very competent estates. These gentlemen take care to supply the poorer sort with goods and necessaries, and are sure to keep them always in their debt, and consequently dependant on them. Out of this number are chosen Her Majesty's Council, the Assembly the Justices and Officers of the Government. Many of these gentlemen have of late applied themselves in procuring from their Governors good laws for the better government and improvement of the Country, a thing very commendable had they not been often mistaken in their notions and means of pursuing this end, which they truly are. They consider that this Province is of far greater advantage to Her Majesty than all the rest of the provinces of the Mayn, and therefore they falsely conclude that they ought to have greater privileges than the rest of Her Majesty's Subjects. This put them upon a nice enquiry into the circumstances of the Government, and finding that New England, and the Propriety Colonies are allowed greater Priviledges, both in respect of their Constitution of Government and Trade, this makes 'em very uneasy and sowers their temper to that degree that it is very difficult for any Governor to please them and pursue the Queen's Instructions.

The Assembly they conclude themselves entitled to all the rights and privileges of an English Parliament, and begin to search into the Records of that Honorable house for precedents to govern themselves by—The Council have vanity enough to think that they almost stand upon equal terms with the Right Honorable The House of Lords. These false pernicious notions, if not timely prevented will have a very ill consequence. His Excellency Governor Nicholson by his prudent conduct hath hitherto put a stop to this growing evil, in all parts of the government except a few factious Spirits in the Council.

Your Lordships may see by the Council's last address to Her Majesty, some of the leaven of these notions. They are pleased to justify their former reasons for not obeying the order for paying their quota towards the support of Albany. This they seem to do in opposition to your Lordships judgment in that case, nor do they in that address treat your Lordships with that due respect, which in duty they ought. But when I consider two of the gentlemen that had a hand in drawing it up, I see no reason to expect better from them. I am not a stranger to that secret wheel that gives motion to all these mischievous designs which are fomented in that Government. I am not willing to give particular characters without your Lordships directions; but I assure your Lordships that the mischief lies in a very narrow compass and may easily be removed and prevented by removing two or three, at most, out of the Council who are men of uneasy Spirits and have made it their business to oppose Government. I have much more to say on this subject, but for fear of trespassing on your Lordships will refer to another opportunity. And now that I have laid before your Lordships briefly this growing evil, I am very well assured that your Lordships will apply the proper remedy. I may say that now or never is the time to maintain and support the Queen's just PREROGATIVE, and put a stop to those wrong pernicious notions which are improving daily not only in Virginia, but in all Her Majesty's other Governments. A frown from Her Majesty, now, can do more than perhaps an Army hereafter. I cannot recommend a more effectual means than what I formerly mentioned, the reducing all Her Majesty's Governments on the main under one Constitution of Government as near as possible.

The State of New York.

New York I did in my former memorial give your Lordships a short relation of the miserable, distracted and unhappy circumstances which the Province of New York was reduced to, during the Government of my Lord Bellomont and those that succeeded him, until the arrival of His Excellency the Lord Cornbury. I did also lay before your Lordships the happy change of affairs in relation to all the parts of Government, but could not be so particular as that subject required.

I have since made it my business to inform myself more exactly and nicely into all the circumstances of this Government, which I hold myself obliged faithfully to represent to your Lordships under these several heads—the state of the REVENUE. The MILITIA ARMS and AMMUNITION, the FORTIFICATIONS both for the defence of the Town, and for Albany, and the inland parts, against the French—the State of the Government in relation to the INDIANS, TRADE, LAWS, temper of the PEOPLE, and lastly, in relation to the NEIGHBOURING GOVERNMENTS.

The state of the Revenue of New York.

As touching the Revenue; when my Lord Bellomont received the Government from Colonel Fletcher, there was no more debt due than the arrears of the Revenue, and other taxes would fully answer. But when His Ex<sup>ty</sup> My Lord Cornbury entered upon the Government, he found it at least ten Thousand pound in debt, and yet no new fortifications built, nor the soldiers to be paid out of the Revenue, nor is it easy to guess how all this could be in so short a time. My Lord hath taken much pains to find out the true state of the Revenue, and how all those debts came to be contracted, But Mr Weaver carrying away the Books makes it very difficult to be done. The ill management of the Revenue in my Lord Bellomont's time hath quite ruined the credit of the Government.

I am very well assured that it is [quite] impossible for this country to discharge the debt, and without it be done, the Country must be very miserable.

The constant charge of supporting and defending this Government is very great, and the whole weight of it lyes on a small Country. I am sure it is impossible for them to bear it especially in War time. I do therefore most humbly propose that Her Majesty be graciously pleased to discharge the present debts of this Country, and that some effectual means be found to oblige the other Governments on the main to pay their Quotas towards the support of Albany. There is an absolute necessity that those two points be effectually answered, nor will the case admit of much delay.

There is no depending on the neighboring Governments for supply, since neither their own safety nor the Queen's commands can oblige them to comply. Nothing will do but a short act of Parliament in England, which I am sure will admit of very little debate when your Lordships doe lay before the Parliament. That the Security of Her Majesty's Empire on the Continent is concerned. That the People of the several Governments will not see their own danger or prevent it—That in reason and justice they are obliged—That what is required of them is very small and inconsiderable. Such an act would not only answer this end effectually, but would be of great advantage upon several Accounts. It would open the Peoples eyes to see their own interest, and make them more ready to comply with other of Her Majesty's just demands, and cure them of that sour temper which hath already possessed them in opposition to Government, for as I have already hinted to your Lordships, commonwealth notions improve daily and if it be not checked in time, the rights and privileges of English subjects will be thought by them too narrow.

State of ye Militia of New York. My Lord Cornbury found the Militia of this Province under no regulations at all having neither arms nor ammunition as they ought, nor were they ever so much as drawn out to exercise or view them in all my Lord Bellomont's time, except the Regiment of foot at New York. His Excellency hath taken great pains in settling the Militia under good officers, but he cannot as yet supply the want of arms and ammunition. That must be done from England, and I hope with all speed possible. I am sure the safety of the Government requires it.

The standing forces of N. York. The standing forces were at my Lord Cornbury's arrival under very ill circumstances—quite naked for want of clothes—not half of them had armes fit for service. Besides, the Queen's stores are but very ill furnished, so that in case of action I know not how they will be supplied. My Lord hath taken great care to have all the arms fixed and in a readiness, but without a supply he will be at a great loss.

The condition of the forts of New York. The Forts & fortifications both in New York and Albany were left to my Lord in a miserable condition. The platforms rotten—many of the guns dismounted for want of carriage. My Lord Bellomont built a magazine over the gate of the fort which might now properly be called a Pigeon House. It cost Eight Hundred Pound—though a better could be built for two Hundred, Bât the building can no way answer the end, being exposed to the danger of lightening, and to the shot and bombs of an Enemy, and in blowing of it up, it would not only ruin the Fort, but great part of the City. His Excellency hath for a small charge built an extraordinary vault which will effectually secure the powder from those accidents, and hath already put the Fort into some order, and in a little time designs to compleat that work.

The condition of the Fort at Albany and out Forts. The Fort at Albany and all the out Forts are quite ruined and decayed, being only stockadoed, which were all quite rotten, not fit for any defence. My Lord hath laid the foundation of a Stone fort at Albany, and hath carried it on a great way. It will be very regular and answer the end. I hope His Lordship will quickly finish it. It gives great satisfaction to our Indians, who lay the great stress of their security on the defence of those forts. No other consideration whatever can secure them to the English interest. Whenever they quit it, I am sure the remotest Province on the Main will find the fatal effects of their being our enemies. That, perhaps, will open their eyes to see their Ruine and danger, when too late, though now they will not prevent it, tho' they might on so very easy terms as their small quota. But I hope your Lordships will find a way to secure em, even against their will.

2 ways of securing N. Y. Province. There are two ways of securing this Province—by Land, and by water—That by Land must be by having good forts at Albany and y<sup>e</sup> out places, well manned furnished and constantly supplied, which my Lord resolves to do. I heartily wish His Lordship be not discouraged for want of money to carry on and complete so noble a design. His Excellency hath resolved on the best and only way of securing this place by water, which is by building two stone Batteries at the Narrows, betwixt Long Island and Staten Island, which is the channel where all ships must come, and is so narrow that those batteries will effectually command and secure this harbour. I have taken a full view of it, that I might the better represent it to your Lordships.

The trade of New York. The trade of this place was formerly very considerable, beyond any of the neighbouring Provinces, but hath been extremely ruined and impaired ever since my Lord Bellomont came hither, even to that degree that it will be some years before they retrieve their former trade, which is a very great misfortune to this place which doth so wholly depend upon trade, and did enable them to support and maintain the great charge of the Government, which they find impossible for them to do, under their present circumstances. And now that they are the less able, the tax and charge in supporting the Government is far heavier on than ever, when at the same time their neighbors have all along enjoyed the freedom and advantage of trade, have no frontiers to defend, nor do they pay any taxes, and yet refuse to give them any help, which they think very hard, and makes them very uneasy.

I have been here some time during the sitting of the assembly, which gave me the Opportunity of seeing the temper of the People. They have a very great honour and veneration for His Excellency, which is the only reason that restrains their discontent and uneasiness. However, they could not forbear to make some attempts and endeavours against the Queen's Prerogative. But my Lord quickly saw through their design, and by a prudent conduct put a stop to it.

The Assembly were for asserting rights which never any of their predecessors ever pretended to. My Lord gave such solid reason against their pretences that I believe it hath not only secured the point and quieted them for the present, but if I mistake not, will prevent all future attempts of that nature, especially during my Lord Cornburys Government. I cannot be so particular as the nature of this subject requires, for fear of swelling this Memorial. I will therefore chuse to give your Lordships a state of this business by itself. What this Assembly attempted proceeds from the same spirit that hath infected all the Governments on the main, though not as yet improved here to that degree as in other places.

My Lord hath used of all the proper ways and means to secure the Five Nations, which is a very nice point to manage, Besides a great charge in presents, they are very uncertain people to trust to, and do lye under very strong temptations from the French. It is a very hard case that the security of so many of Her Majestys Provinces and subjects should depend upon the uncertain humour of those Indians. But it is certainly so, nor is there any way to remedy it but one, which will not only put an end to this precarious dependence, but also ease the crown and subjects of this Province from the vast charge of maintaining forces, fortifications, and the constant bribing of the Indians, which amounts to a great constant yearly charge.

Taking of Canada, the only way to give peace to America. This effectual way is that Her Majesty will resolve to drive the French out of Canada, which I assure your Lordships may be effected with great ease. It must cost the crown some treasure, but by effecting the design, Her Majesty will soon be reimbursd the charge, by the trade of that place. Besides there will be saved the yearly charge of maintaining the frontiers, and will entirely secure the Empire of America in peace with the whole trade of the main, and will be of a vast consequence. And all this might be effected by two thousand regular forces, ten men of war, and two Bomb ketches. The effecting of this design is of that consequence that all the main would heartily join in it as one man, I propose that the ships and regular forces should touch at Boston, and go directly from thence to Quebec in Canada, and that at the same time the forces of America should march by land from Albany with all the forces of Indians. The French are not three Thousand effective men in all that Country.

Nothing can be of so great consequence to Her Majesty as the effecting of this business, and nothing is wanting but that Her Majesty resolve on the design, and then I am sure that My Lord Cornbury and all the Governors on the Main will propose the ways and means of carrying on this design. I am sure it will be of far more advantage to the Crown than the taking Martinico. Guadalupa and all the French Islands, for Newfoundland and all the trade of that Coast will of course fall into the hands of the English, which is all I will venture to say on this head, but refer it to your Lordships better Judgment, and now proceed to tell your Lordships

The state of East and West N. Jersey

That the Jerseys have been for a long time in confusion, having no Government, which makes them all heartily wish My Lord Cornbury's Commission for that province were come, that so they might be settled on a sure foundation, which as yet they never have been. The contests of West Jersey have always been betwixt the Quakers and Her Majesty's subjects that are no Quakers.

The Quakers, though the far less in number have always been supported in the Government against the others over whom they have for many years insulted and tyrannized.

The contest in East Jersey is of a different nature, whether the Country shall be a Scotch Settlement or an English Settlement. The Scotch have had for many years the advantage of the English, by the advantage of a Scotch Governor, Colonel Hamilton. But it is the expectation of all that His Excellency My Lord Cornbury will reconcile all these differences—unite all interests settle 'em on a sure foundation—make 'em all easy and happy; they have all a very great opinion and honour for His Lordship, which is a good step to that great worke.

Considerable Quakers in Penna. inclinable to Her Matie's immediate Government.

I find that the most considerable men of the Quakers in Pennsylvania finding that M<sup>r</sup> Pen cannot secure them in their Lawles power of Government are now very willing to be under Her Majesty's Governor, provided that My Lord Cornbury be appointed their Governor. They have a very great respect for him and say that [they] expect more justice from His Lordship than ever they have found from M<sup>r</sup> Pen. All the rest of Her Majesty's good subjects of that Government do heartilie joy'n with them that His Excellency my Lord Cornbury may be the happy instrument of making us all easie and settling us on the same foundation with the rest of Her Majesty's Governments which is all that is wished or desired.

The State of Connecticut.

I did design to have given your Lordships the History of Connecticut, but on a nice enquiry into the state of that place I found that the roguery and villany of that Province both in relation to Government and Trade is enough to fill a Volume, which makes me not willing to venture upon it at present. If the Government be continued longer in these men's hands, the honest trade of these parts will be ruined, and My Lord Cornbury's Commission for commanding the Militia of that Country will be of no use.

Observations on the state of the Guard ships in the Colonies.

I did propose to have shown to your Lordships at large, that the charge Her Majesty is at, in maintaining several men of war in some of the Governments here doth not in the least answer any one end proposed by it, and all by the temper and ill Conduct of these Captains that command Her Majesty's ships. I presume that the main end of all this charge is intended for the security of the Province[s], to prevent illegal trade, and encourage honest trade, but nothing of this is in the least Answered. He that hath the Command of one of Her Majestys ships be they never so small, thinks himself above all Her Majestys Governors, and even above Government itself. They make it their business to oppose Authority, and when there is any faction in any place they are sure to joy[n] with them against the Governor. They will lye in a Harbour for a year together without once going out to cruize. By their ill usage of the men they force them to run away from the ships, and then they ruin the merchants and trade of y<sup>e</sup> place by pressing away seamen from the Vessells— And that instead of encouraging the honest trade they ruin it, and [as] for illegal traders they are safe enough from their search or inquiry after them. The complaints against the commanders of Her Majesty's ships is become general. I presume your Lordships will receive them from Virginia Maryland and New York. It would take a quire of paper to particularize the several rude, Barbarous, and extravagant actions of one Captain James Moody Commander of the Southampton Man of war. He neither spared the gentlemen of the Country the Queen's officers, Nor the Governor himself, because they would not suffer him to marry a gentleman's daughter, when at the same time he hath a wife and children in London. This was a sufficient ground for him to attempt the lives of the gentlewoman's father, several of her relations, and especially a very worthy gentleman, one Colonel Cary that courted the young Lady. The Governor was forced to secure the peace the Country being all in an uproar by this mans extravagant actions. The particulars your Lordships will have from the Governor & Council of Virginia; with a long charge against one Captain Bostwicke—from the President & Council of Maryland—That Gentleman's actions will render him fitter for Bedlam than the Queen's Ship.

His Excellency My Lord Cornbury I presume will give you the Character of one Capt. Rogers, who by the death of Captain Stapylton commands the Jersey man of war, who hath lye[n] here in Harbour ever since my Lord's arrival in this place. Her Majesty was pleased to direct His Lordship to order Captain Rogers to take several vessells loaden with provisions on her Majesty's account in Pensylvania and Carolina, and convoy them to Jamaica, which might have been ready before Christmas last. But in the fall, when My Lord Ordered him to get ready his ship, he pretended she was unrigged and layd up, and could not be ready till the Spring, but then would be ready by the eight and twentieth of March at furthest, Accordingly the ships and provisions were all in readiness, but notwithstanding my Lords repeated orders to him, he lay in the Harbour till the later end of May, all which time Her Majesty pay<sup>d</sup> damage, and the provisions lay on board, which was great damage, and after he went to Philadelphia and took the vessels there under his charge, refused to obey my Lord's orders in touching at Carolina, to take those vessels with provisions under his Convoy; But this is not all the mischief he hath done, but by lying in Harbour so long in New York, and pressing the Men out of the Merchant's Ships, he hath ruined all this summer's trade of that place.

I cannot be more particular at present, These evils will never be remedy'd unless the Captains of the Queen's Ships are ordered to be more immediately under the respective Governors Commands.

I did propose to have layd before your Lordships the great advantage it would be to Her Majesty, if proper methods were taken to encourage y<sup>e</sup> sowing of hemp and flax in these parts where there is a vast quantity of land very proper and fit for it. The people only want the security of a certain market. It would be the interest of the Crown to encourage them at least a few years till they are settled in that manufactory.

Her Majesty might be furnished from thence with Tar, Pitch, [Rozin] all sorts of timber and masts sufficient to supply all the navy, which would be a great advantage, and prevent the money from going out of England. But to represent this fully in all its particulars will require a distinct memorial which I resolve to present to your Lordships very suddenly.

I will not give your Lordships any further trouble at present, but to implore your Lordships pardon, and leave to subscribe myself, as I truly am,

Your Lordships<sup>s</sup>

Most obedient servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 44.]

To the Right Honb<sup>le</sup> the Lords Commissrs for trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I think myself obliged always to give your Lordships an account of the condition of this province, both, with respect to its own circumstances and with respect to the neighbouring provinces by some of which we suffer very much.

And first as to the fortifications of this Province, I beg leave to refer you to my letter of the 24th of September last, in which your Lord<sup>shps</sup> will see the condition they were in at that time. Since that I have begun a stone fort at Albany, upon which I have laid out the remainder of the two hundred pounds which M<sup>r</sup> Romer had received from Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, and I have provided materials to the value of £500 more current money of this province for which summe I had drawn a Bill upon the Treasury, according to the directions formerly sent to My Lord Bellomont (which bill is since come back protested) and I am now going this summer to lay out the 500<sup>l</sup> sterling which I received of my Lady Bellomont, just before her departure from hence, and which had been sent to my Lord Bellomont by the late King to be applied towards the building a Fort at Onondage; and that is all the money I have yet received towards the carrying on that necessary worke, and without which this province can never be safe, as long as the French are possesst of Canada—

I have by the advice of Her Majesty's Council of this Province, repaired, as well as possible the Stockaded Fort a Schonnectady, and built three new Stockaded forts, one at the Half-moon, another at Nestagione and another at Shachook, which is the chief habitation of the River Indians. These three last have cost almost 80<sup>l</sup> this country money. There is another to be built at a Place called Saractoga, which is the Northernmost settlement we have. There are but few families there yet, and these will desert their habitations if they are not protected, and the charge will be but small, and will give great satisfaction to the Indians. Thus your Lord<sup>shps</sup> have an account of the fortifications on the northern frontiers of this Province.—I must now acquaint you that there is lately come to this place one Lawrence Hidding a Dutchman an Inhabitant of this City, who last year was taken by the French before the war was declared, on board a sloop belonging to this Port and going to the West Indies. This man makes oath that, being carried a prisoner into the Havaunah, he heard Mr D'Hiberville say that in his return home from Mischissippi he had been at New Yorke and had sounded all the parts of that port, and was able to carry any ship in without the help of a Pilot; that he had acquainted the King his Master, with it, and had undertaken to destroy this place if he might have four fourth rate Frigats and two Bomb ketches. I had proposed to the Assembly to consider of raising a sum sufficient for the erecting two Stone Batteries at a place called the narrows, where the sea is not quite a mile broad. No ship can come to this City without coming to that place, consequently that well defended, this port is safe. The Assembly were so sensible of this truth that they have passed an act for granting to Her Majesty the summe of £1500 toward erecting two Batteries at the Narrows. I had laid before them an estimate of the charge of the two Batteries which amounted to the summe of 2025.£ current money of this province. I do believe that they would have been prevailed with to have given the whole sum desired, at once, had the province been in a condition to raise it; but really they are not. The money that is granted shall be laid out forthwith, to the uses for which it was given. I hope to get one of the Batteries up this summer.

I herewith send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> an inventory of such stores as we have remaining in the fort here, by which you will see in how ill a condition we are to undertake any thing against an Enemy, I hope, by your representations, we shall be supplied from England; for really, if any occasion should happen that may require the speedy arming two or three hundred men, it is impossible for us to do it.

I have sent directions to Mr Thrale to send us swords, for we have none. The militia is brought into some method; I have seen a Regiment of foot of this City and the Troop of horse, and have ordered the several Captaines to draw out the several companies to exercise, which they have done. The Militia of the County of Albany are in very good order. That of Ulster, begins to come into order again. That of Kings County and that of Queens County are beginning likewise to handle their Arms again. Suffolk County, Richmond County and West Chester County I have not yet seen, but intend, God willing, to see them all this summer, and then shall be able to give your Lord<sup>ships</sup> a full account of this province with relation to the Militia. I did intend to have sent you by this conveyance an account of the number of the inhabitants of this province, but the Sheriffs have been so backward in their duty that I have yet but five Counties, so I still want five Counties, but am promised I shall have them in four days time, so I shall send them to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> by another ship which will saile from hence in ten days for London. In the mean time I herewith send you a list of all the Officers of the Civil Govern<sup>t</sup> and of the Militia of this Province.—

Now, My Lords, that I may rightly inform you of the misfortunes we labour under with relation to the neighbouring provinces, I must begin with Connecticut. And first I must observe the Coast of Connecticut is opposite to two thirds of Long Island by which means they fill all that part of the Island with European goods cheaper than our Merchants can, because ours pay duties and those of Connecticut pay none, nor will they be subject to the Laws of Trade nor to the acts of Navigation by which means there has for some time been no Trade between the City of New Yorke and the East-end of Long Island, from whence the greatest quantity of Whale oyle comes. And indeed the people of the East End of long Island are not very willing to be persuaded to believe that they belong to this province. They are full of the New England principles. They chose rather to trade with the people of Boston, Connecticut and Rhode Island, than with the people of New Yorke. I hope in a short time I shall bring them to a better temper, but in the mean time the Trade of this City suffers very much. Another very great inconveniency we labour under is with respect to our Soldiers, Seamen and servants, both white and Black. If a Soldier of the Garrison or a

Seaman from any of the Queen's ships of War has a mind to desert, it is but going into Connecticut and he is safe. If an Officer is sent after the deserter and finds him there, the first is protected and the Officer affronted and abused. And of this there are several instances to be given; and particularly when Capt<sup>m</sup> Matthews was sent after two Deserters, which he found at Stamford in a house, and sending for Major Selick for his assistance to secure those two men, he being a Justice of the Peace in that Country, the Major came to the house and kept Matthews in a room while the Soldiers made their escapes; and thus it is on all occasions. At Rhode Island it is the same. Several men belonging to the ship Jersey deserted and went to Rhode Island, and some to the East End of Long Island. Upon information of it one of the Lieutenants of the ship was sent in a small sloop to try if he could get any of them. I gave him a warrant to press those he should find at the East End of Long Island, and I gave him a letter to the Governour of Rhode Island to intreat him to assist the Lieutenant in getting any of the men that had deserted from any of the Queen's ships, and particularly from the Jersey. The Lieutenant went and did get some men at the East end of Long Island, but when he came to Rhode Island, he went to the Governour and delivered him my letter, who at first told him that he would do any thing to serve the Queen that lay in his power, but that he knew of no such men there. The Lieutenant told him that at his landing he had seen several that he knew to be deserters and had entered themselves on board a privateer that was then fitting out from that port. The Governour told him he was very sorry it was so, but since they had entered themselves he would not disoblige his neighbours; and in short dismissed him without letting him have one man, tho' at the same time there was then above thirty deserters from the Queen's ships there. These are the only two provinces we suffer by to the Eastward of us. In New England Coll: Dudley and Coll: Povey have been very careful in stoping all deserters that go that way, and within this fortnight they have seized six soldiers who had deserted from Albany this spring. On the other side to the westward of us, we had the same ill accidents attended us till the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New Jersey was surrendered to the Queen, for it was but crossing Hudson's River and they were in Jersey as safe as could be; but that is now at an end; so that if our Deserters will go that way, they must either go into Pennsylvania or Carolina, for if they go into Maryland or Virginia, we are sure of having them. Thus I have given Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> an account of the condition of this province, both in respect to its own Circumstances and to the Neighbouring Colonies. I hope You will pardon me if I take the liberty of declaring my opinion that these provinces will never be so useful to England as they may be till they are brought under the Queens immediate Govern<sup>t</sup>. Then the rule will be the same, and the several Govern<sup>ts</sup> upon this vast Continent will be able to assist each other, as the Queen shall please to Command. I think likewise it would be of great use if the coin that is current in this part of the world, was put upon the same foot in all those Colonies; many inconveniences happen for want of such a Regulation and particularly to this province. For example, a piece of Eight, weighing seventeen penny weights, goes for six shillings and nine pence in this place; but at Philadelphia it goes for seven shillings and sixpence, so that no heavy money is to be found here. I am persuaded the neighbouring Colonies which by Her Majesty's command ought to contribute towards the fortifying the Northern frontiers of this Colony, will never be brought to do it, unless some effectual way be found out to compell them to it. Whether Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will think a short Act of Parliament to be passed in England may be a proper way I shall submit to your better judgements. But I cannot help to acquaint Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that all these Colonies are possessed with an opinion that their General Assemblies ought to have all the same powers that a House of Commons of England has; nay, in this province where I must do them the justice to say there are very many good men among the English Inhabitants of this place, many among the French, and some among the Dutch, yet there were some people who did endeavour to prevail with the Assembly to offer at some things which would have been great incroachments upon the prerogative of the Crown; but they soon desisted and proceeded upon the matters before them. Thus I have offered to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> what relates to this province. I do not question but you will please to apply such remedies as may be proper, which I shall always submit to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> better judgements and remain. My Lords

New Yorke

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 866.]

My Lords,

The letters your Lord<sup>ships</sup> favoured me with by the way of Virginia, and by the Ship Supply, Capt<sup>n</sup> Blackstone Commander, I acknowledged the Receipt of by a small Sloop bound for Bristol, which sailed from this Port on the 1st instant. I did then acquaint Your Lord<sup>ship</sup> that Coll: Nicholson had been here. At his going from hence I perceived that one of his chief reasons of his coming at that time was the refusal that the Assembly of Virginia had given him of raising the quota of money appointed by Her Majesty to be furnished by that Colony towards the fortifications upon the frontiers of this. That Gentleman being very sensible of the necessity of securing the frontiers of this Colony, offered to lend the money, provided they would repay him at their own convenient time. But the Assembly of Virginia would not hearken to that. They were resolved not to supply any money at all. So Coll: Nicholson came to this place and finding the condition of this province much worse than he could have believed it, he gave me three bills of Exchange for nine hundred pounds each upon M<sup>r</sup> Perry and Lane, all three of the same tenour and Date, payable to me or my order, and told me he would write to M<sup>r</sup> Perry and Lane to advise them of it. I received the Bills, but withall told him that I would send them over to my agent M<sup>r</sup> Thrale, with directions to lay them before Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>. I likewise told him that I would make it my request to you, that the Queen might be moved to allow the said sum out of the quit rents of Virginia, of which Coll Nicholson hath a great summe now in Bank in his hands. I hope Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will be so favourable to this province to intercede with Her Majesty that the said nine hundred pounds may be allowed out of the Quit Rents of Virginia. In the mean time I have sent the Bills to M<sup>r</sup> Thrale with orders to lay them before you, and not to tender them to M<sup>r</sup> Perry and Lane till your Lord<sup>ships</sup> shall be pleased to let him know the Queen's pleasure, and if her Majesty is not pleased to allow of what is now proposed I have ordered M<sup>r</sup> Thrale to cancel the bills in presence of M<sup>r</sup> Perry and Lane. I must further acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that I have writ to all the neighbouring Colonies who were appointed by his late Majesty to furnish their Quota towards the fortifying of the frontiers of this Colony. From Maryland I have a letter signed by the President and some of the Council to acquaint me that the Assembly of that Colony have consented to raise three hundred pounds, whereas their Quota is six hundred and fifty.

The province of Pennsylvania have absolutely refused to raise any thing. The province of Connecticut have acknowledged the receipt of my letter, and say that an Assembly have been called upon the subject thereof, but are come to a resolution not to raise any money till they have applied to the Queen and received Her Majesty's answer. The Governour of Rhode Island has likewise sent me an answer to mine; his letter is full of protestations of Loyalty and fidelity to the Crown but no money. Their pretence is that they shall be at very great charges in fortifying their Island; tho' at the same time every body that knows that Place, is sensible that it is not possible to fortify that Island without laying out ten times more than the Island is worth, because it is easy for any body to land in every part of it. Thus your Lord<sup>ps</sup> may see how little help we are like to have from our neighbours upon this Continent, with respect to money. I am afraid if we should be obliged to call upon them for this Quota of men, we should have as unwelcome answers as we had about the money. I am well satisfied that this vast continent, which might be made very useful to England if right measures were taken will never be so till all the proprietary and Charter Govern<sup>rs</sup> are brought under the Crown. The reason of my opinion I have given Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> in another letter by this conveyance, and therefore shall not trouble you with any more upon that subject in this.

The General Assembly of this province did, last Fall, give the summe of eighteen hundred pounds for the maintaining of one hundred and fifty Fuzileers, and thirty men as Scouts, with their proper Officers for a certain time limited in the Act. This service hath been performed, which has kept us so quiet that no attempt has been made by the French or their Indians on our side all the last Winter. I have kept spies abroad ever since the begining of May, and shall continue to do so all this summer; by which means I hope to be informed of any design the French may have against these parts. Two of these Spies came in about a month ago and acquainted me that a party of French and some Indians were preparing to go upon an expedition against the Eastern parts of New England. I immediately wrote to Coll: Dudley to acquaint him with it; upon which he went to the Eastward to put things in the best posture of defence he can. I have two more of those spies come in some few days ago, who informed me, that there has been a very great mortality amongst the people of Canada, occasioned by the small pox which has carried off some hundreds of People. The same people inform me that the French of Canada were in great apprehensions about five weeks ago, having heard that a Squadron of English Men of War was to come into the River of S<sup>t</sup> Lawrence; upon which they drew all their strength down to Quebeck; so that if we had had force sufficient, it would have been very easy to have destroyed Montreal. They have since been informed that the Squadron they had heard of, was gone to the West Indies; so their people are returned to their habitations about Montreal and other places thereabouts. I am still of opinion that it is no difficult matter to drive the French out of Canada, and that by the methods I proposed to your Lord<sup>ps</sup> in my letter of the 29. of September last. I am more than ever of opinion that the charge of that Expedition would soon be reimbursed, not only by the Customes of the Peltry Trade, but likewise by saving considerable sums of money, that are yearly laid out in Presents for the Indians to keep them firm to us, without which it is not to be done. I take the liberty to acquaint Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> that in October last I received a letter from Mylord Nottingham, directing me to order the Jersey Man of war to convoy some Vessells of provisions to the West Indies, which were to be provided by Coll: Quary. It is true (some ice having appeared in the River) the ship was layd up for all Winter in a place called Kipps Bay, which is the usual place for any of the Queen's ships to lay up in, in Winter for fear of the ice which drives down here in winter with great fury. However, in obedience to his Lord<sup>ps</sup> commands, I sent for M<sup>r</sup> Rogers who by being first Lieutenant come to the Command of the ship upon the death of Capt<sup>o</sup> Stapleton ; I told him what orders I had received, and directed him to make all the haste he could to fit the ship for sailing as soon as I should hear from Coll: Quary that his vessels were ready. Two days after that Coll: Quary came to Town. M<sup>r</sup> Rogers waited upon him and told him how inconvenient it would be to fit out the ship at that time of the year ; so Coll: Quary desired me that the ship might be ready by the 25th of March, that being the time that M<sup>r</sup> Rogers had promised to be ready, I promised Coll: Quary I would take all the care I could, and accordingly I sent for M<sup>r</sup> Rogers to me and told him, he must take care to get the ship Jersey ready to saile by the 25th of March .at furthest, wind and weather permitting ; he promised me he would, and on the 12th day of January, I gave M<sup>r</sup> Rogers a press Warrant to press seamen at the East End of long Island and in other parts of this province, being willing to spare this City as much as possible, because it had suffered so much by the sickness last Summer. He complained at that time that he wanted forty men of his compliment, and indeed I do not wonder at it, for he used his men so ill, that none would stay with him but those that could not help it. He sent a Lieutenant out with the Warrant I gave him, having hired a sloop for that purpose for a month ; but instead of returning in a month, he stayed out near two and brought but sixteen men with him, during which time, by the negligence of the said M<sup>r</sup> Rogers, several men deserted from the ship, so that he has had from this place upwards of four score men. I prest him every day to saile, but he still pretended he wanted men, till at last I was informed by one of the Officers of the ship that they had had their complement about three weeks. Then I commanded him to saile immediately, but he was detained by contrary winds at Sandy-hook about eight days. That Gentleman has not behaved himself well here, and really, if there is not some care taken to put the Captains of the Queens ships under some regulations, and that the Governours of these provinces may be informed how to proceed with them, they will often create great inconveniencies in these parts, for they look upon themselves to be under no command, and so do what they please.

The General Assembly of this province have met, according to the adjournment, and have past several acts, and attempted several others which I did not think proper to consent to. The Acts are transcribing to send your Lord<sup>ps</sup> I shall send them by the next ship, and shall then give you an account of those I rejected, with an account of some other proceedings.

I herewith send two addresses to Her Majesty, signed by myself, the Gentlemen of the Council, and the Assembly. The first is an humble address to congratulate the great success of Her Majesty's Arms the last year, and the other is to represent the poor condition of this province, both which I intreat Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will please to lay before the Queen. I likewise send two Quarterly Accounts, that for Christmas quarter and that for Ladyday quarter. I take the liberty to send your Lord<sup>ps</sup> the Laws of Connecticut, and with them a booke writ by one M<sup>r</sup> Buckley,<sup>1</sup> who is an inhabitant of Connecticut. By that you will be informed of the methods of proceeding in that Colony. I did intend likewise to have sent you the Laws of Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, but I have not yet received them. I hope I may get them by the time the next ship sailes. This is all I shall trouble Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> with at this time and remain My Lords

Your Lord<sup>ps</sup>

May it please Your Lordships.

This is to accompany Your Lordships packet from my Lord Cornbury Govern<sup>r</sup> of N. Yorke, which we, with much difficulty sav'd from being taken by the French, who took y<sup>e</sup> sloop I came in called the Thætis, burthen 50 tuns, Nicolas Tienhove command<sup>r</sup> in sight of y<sup>e</sup> Island Lundye, yesterday, w<sup>ch</sup> is 25 leagues from Bristoll, whither we were bounde. We sail'd from N. Yorke y<sup>e</sup> 2 June and on y<sup>e</sup> 8 July being yesterday morn<sup>g</sup> made y<sup>e</sup> Island of Lundye, but happend to see a saile to winderd asson as we spy'd y<sup>e</sup> land, who chas'd and came up with us about 9 a clock in y<sup>e</sup> morning, we being a small vessel and but 11 hands gave y<sup>e</sup> privateer severall gunns, but he having 6 guns 4 patteringoes and 50 men, soon master'd us with his small shott, being one Capt. Francois la Marque, belonging to Rochecaux in France, and after he had taken us, us'd us very barbarously, for we redeem'd y<sup>e</sup> sloop for £150 sterl: and gave a pledge, and after y<sup>t</sup> he had pass'd his word of honor not to meddle with us, not only plunder'd y<sup>e</sup> sloop and took every thing he could carry away, but search'd our pockets and took all from us, and turn'd us adrift, there being a saile in sight, w<sup>ch</sup> proov'd to be y<sup>e</sup> Rye Frigat, who is gone after him. I wish he may be so fortunate to take him, for he is a great plague to these parts, and besides all I have lost he hes got several books & accounts in my chest, that trouble me much.

My Lords, I have been a servant to y<sup>e</sup> Crowne 28 yeares in that Province and have launch'd out all y<sup>e</sup> small fortune I have, and run my self deeply in debt for victualling Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s forces & other Publick Services, and was now constrained to leave my family and concerns to come for England to gett those debts due to me from y<sup>e</sup> Crown, and have unfortunately met with this disaster; but I hope your Lordships will, after you are throwly inform'd of my circumstances, be my intercessors to Her Majestie for releefe. We lye here for a winde, to goe to Bristoll, from whence I make haste to wait upon your Lordships to give an account of y<sup>e</sup> affaires of our Province. We have had no disturbance from y<sup>e</sup> French of Canada, yet, they having had a great mortality amongst them, both Christians and Indians. Our Indians of y<sup>e</sup> 5 Nations prove true hitherto, but are much tamper'd withall by y<sup>e</sup> French, w<sup>ch</sup> causes many to waver. I shall not trouble your Y<sup>r</sup> Lord<sup>sh</sup> any further at present but remain with great respect,

May it please Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 365.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I herewith send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> the Acts of the General Assembly of this province passed last spring. They are in number twelve. The first is an act for raising £1500 towards erecting two Batteries at the Narrows. This act, I hope, will not meet with any difficulty before your Lord<sup>ships</sup>. These Batteries which are proposed to be erected being the only method that can be found to secure the entrance to this port. The second is an act to oblige persons to pay their arrears of the 1000£ Tax formerly granted for erecting a Fort at Onondago, and for applying that money towards the carrying on the Fort at Albany. I hope this Bill will recommend itself sufficiently enough to obtain your recommendation to Her Majesty. The third is an act to reverse the Judgements against Bayard and Hutchins. The only reason I can offer for this Act is, that having received Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s Commands to direct the Attorney General here to consent to the reversing the Judgements against those two men, and all such other things as might best conduce to the restoring the said Bayard and Hutchins to their Estates etc. I sent for Bayard and told him of it; he said he would advise with Council which would be the properest way to do it; and two days after he came to me with his Council, and told me that an Act of Assembly would be the properest way. I told them I thought a writt of Error in the supreme Court would be best for the parties concerned. The Council agreed with me, but then he urged that the supreme Court would not sit till October, that Coll: Bayard was old and that if he should die, the sentence unreversed, it might create a great deal of trouble to his family, and further said that if they did obtain an Act, yet they would bring their Writ of Error in the supream Court, if Bayard lived so long. Upon these considerations, and seeing the draught of an Act which his Council had prepared against the sitting of the Assembly, which contained nothing in it further than what I thought was intended in the Queen's Commands, I assented to that Act and hope Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will approve of it. The fourth is an Act to enable the Justices of the City of Albany to build a Gaol etc. This act I hope you approve of, for it is a very necessary act for that Place, and the charge is to lay upon themselves only. The fifth is an Act to rectifye a mistake in a former Act for defraying the publick charge of this province, whether your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will approve of this act now, or whether you will please to let it lye a little while I shall submit to you. The reason why I offer this is because just now there is a Gentleman come from the Country who says he fears several inconveniencies will arise from this act, which were not foreseen at the passing of it, and I suppose in a short time I shall be able to give you a better account of it. The sixth is an act to prevent the distilling of Rum, and the burning of Oyster shells into Lime within the City of New Yorke. This Bill was occasioned by the noisomness of these two things, which every body thinks contributed very much to the continuance of last Summer's sickness; therefore I hope Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will please to recommend it to the Queen for Her approbation. The seventh is an act for the better maintenance of the Minister of N. Yorke. I humbly intreat this Act may be confirmed. It is to add sixty pounds a year to a hundred pounds a year settled upon him by a former Act. The Gentleman deserves extreamly well. The eighth is an Act to bring the weights and measures of this place, which hitherto have been according to the Standard of Holland, to that of England, which I hope will be a sufficient reason for the confirming of it. The ninth is an Act to enable the Minister and Elders of the French Church to build a larger Church. Their congregation is much enlarged, and they have behaved themselves always well towards the Govern<sup>t</sup>; therefore I hope you will approve of it. The tenth is an Act to supply the defects of [an] act passed last Year for Appointing Commiss<sup>rs</sup> to state the public accounts. Without this Act those Commiss<sup>rs</sup> will not be able to perform what is required of them, for want of sufficient power, which this Act gives them, and therefore I hope will pass. The eleventh is an Act for laying out highways throughout this province. This I suppose will appear so reasonable and necessary a thing that it will want no further recommendation from me. The twelfth is an Act for the more speedy recovery of the forfeiture of six pounds inflicted by a former Act for regulating and settling the Militia of this Province. The method of levying that penalty by the former Act was so dilatory that it rendred the thing itself ineffectual. This Act remedies that evil which will make our detachments upon all occasions much more easy; therefore I hope Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> will approve of it. Thus I have given you an Account of all the Acts passed the last spring, which I humbly submit to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> better judgem<sup>t</sup> and remain with great respect—

My Lords etc.

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entry, B. F. 9. 812.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Her Majesty's Capt<sup>n</sup> General and Govern<sup>r</sup> in chief of Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s Province of New Yorke and of the territories thereupon depending &c<sup>t</sup> in America; or to the Commander in Chief of the said province for the time being.

My Lord,

Since our last letter of the 29th April whereof a duplicate is here inclosed, We have received one from your Lord<sup>sh</sup> dated the 29th of May.

We herewith send your Lord<sup>sh</sup> the several letters relating to the Quota to be furnished by other provinces for the assistance of New Yorke viz<sup>t</sup> by Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland & Virginia, together with copies thereof, that Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> in sending forwards the said letters may write accordingly to the respective Governours. And we desire you to give us an account of the answers you may receive from them.

We writ your Lord<sup>sh</sup> the 7th April that We were preparing a Report upon the Acts past at New Yorke the 27 Nov<sup>r</sup> 1702 which you had sent us in Yours of December following, but We omitted to tell you in Our next the 29th of April, that we had been obliged to postpone the consideration of that Report until We receive your answer to what we writ you the 26th of January, upon a list of Acts past during the Administration of the late Earle of Bellomont and Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan. And since in this letter now before Us, you promise us that answer by the next ships, We shall accordingly expect it.

Whereas you have directed the Acts disallowed by Her Majesty, to be taken out of Secretary's office and destroyed, We can not approve of that method; it not being proper to destroy any Record, which for some time was in force, and to which recourse ought to be had upon occasion tho' not longer in force, nor has this method been practised in any other of Her Majesty's plantations.

We very much approve of Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> resolution of reconciling the differences amongst the inhabitants of the province; and as you say that no proceedings have been made in any Court by the Govern<sup>t</sup>, upon former Resentments, but that Coll: Bayard has brought his private Action against some of his Jury, We hope your endeavours for peace will likewise prevaile upon this as on other occasions.

We have nevertheless to acquaint you that we have received application, by letter from Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, complaining of hardships he lies under, by being confined for sums of money upon account of the four companies, which he alledges in fact he did not receive. We do expect that, besides the account of Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan which your Lord<sup>p</sup> will send to My Lord Treasurer, you do likewise send us a copy thereof, and an explanation of the State of that whole matter. And in the mean time we do recommend to your Lord<sup>p</sup> that, for avoiding any imputation of espousing of parties, your Lord<sup>p</sup> would cause just and reasonable security to be taken for the said Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's answering the Ballance of his account, in order to his being released from his confinement.

The Countess of Bellomont having likewise applied to us for obtaining a longer respite of all prosecution against her security at New Yorke, We send your Lord<sup>p</sup> here inclosed, for your information, a copy of Her Ladyship's petition and of the letter we writ to the Earle of Nottingham upon that subject, upon which, we understand directions have accordingly been given you—

We are, My Lord —

My Lords,

I trouble your Lordships with these few lines only to acquaint you that on Thursday the 29th of July M<sup>r</sup> Byerly M<sup>r</sup> Clark and Capt<sup>n</sup> Matthews arrived here from Virginia, by whom I received the Commissions Her Maj<sup>ty</sup> has been pleased to honour me with; and also Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s instructions which I shall take care punctually to observe. They have likewise delivered me several packets from Your Lord<sup>ps</sup>, to which I will return particular answers, as fast as the nature of things will permitt; and I intreat you to believe, that I shall always exactly observe Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> directions in all things. By the Virginia convoy, which will saile in six weeks, I shall give you accounts at large of most matters relating to these parts—I am

Memorial from Mr. Livingston about New-York.

[New-York Entry, B. F. 876.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Foreign Plantations.

The humble Memorial of Robert Livingston Secretary for the Indian affaires in the Province of New Yorke.

Sheweth

That in obedience to Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> commands he hath collected and presents to Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> the state of affaires in New Yorke, in relation to the Five Nations and other Indians in that neighbourhood, which he is glad to find Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> desirious to have an account of, because those Indians have for two years last past been very pressing upon him to come over and give Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> an account of their condition, as by their publick propositions Anno 1701. and 1702 appears.

The advantages which hath attended Her Majesty's Plantations on the North continent of America by the steadiness and firmness of the Five Nations of Indians and the River Indians unto the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New Yorke, are so obvious that they need not be enumerated; they having fought our Battles for us, and been a constant barrier of defence between Her Maj<sup>ty's</sup> Plantations of Virginia and Maryland and the French; and, by their constant vigilance, prevented the French from making any descent that way; But the late long War, and the great loss which they sustained in their youth hath almost dispirited them, and during the peace the French, who are sensible the mischiefs they suffered from those Indians, have applyed the chiefest artifices they could invent, either to gain them to their side, or so to terrify them, that they may be in continual fear of the French power.

The French Priests, by their insinuations and false pretences, have decoy'd ove[r] to them a great many of our Indians, and have raised a great faction in their Castles; and it's feared a great many more will follow, unless they have Ministers to instruct them in the Christian faith, of which they seem very fond. The Nations of the Sinnekes and Onnondages have also received such impressions of the Christian Religion, that if Ministers were planted amongst them, to convert them to the Christian faith, it would be of great advantage to Her Maj<sup>ty's</sup> Plantations, not only in securing these Indians friendship, but also in being a Cheque and discouragement to the French Emissaries, who frequently visit those Nations and lived there all last winter endeavouring to corrupt their affections from the English, and make ill impressions in their mind, to the apparent prejudice of their Trade, which decays daily more and more. The mischiefs are increased by the French having resettled Cadarachqui, where they entice our Indians coming from hunting and get from them what they take; so that our Indian Trade is not a fifth part so much as it was formerly.

My Lord Cornbury, our present Governour, since his arrival, by his prudence and conduct, has much contributed to the steadying & securing of the Indians of the Five Nations, as well as quelling the heats and animosities he found in that poor and distracted province among the Inhabitants.

My humble opinion, if I may presume to offer it, is that the only way to secure the Northern part of America and the fishery there, would be the taking of Canada, which might be done with less charge to the Crown than has been lately expended at one French Island. Some few Frigats with a Bomb Catch from hence and a Regiment of disciplined men, with some good Officers to head the men that might be got there would do the business. A party detached from the several Colonies, with our Indians are to go by land from Albany in Canoes and to meet the naval force would facilitate the matter; and it would be worth while to keep it too; for the French will otherwise in time grow so formidable, by settling behind all the English Plantations and keeping a constant communication and correspondence with Missesepie, that they will, by the Forts and settlements they erect in the heart of the Country, be able to infest our plantations by daily incursions upon them who lye scattered to and fro without any force to cover them. —

The neighbouring Governours may be directed to meet at New Yorke to consult this matter.

But if the taking of Canada can not be effected next summer, then it will be highly requisite that the frontiers at Albany be better secured, and that the Fort which my Lord Cornbury has begun, be not only compleated with all speed, but that there be a stone Fort built at Shinnechtady also, and Stockadoe Forts at Nastagione, Half Moon, Sarachtoge, Skachhooke & Kinderhoek, and garrisoned with Soldiers, and a Troop of Dragoons and a Company of Bushlopers or Woodrunners to be raised of the youth at Albany in the summer time to goe the rounds daily from Garrison to Garrison, which with scouts kept continually out to range the woods from the several smaller Garrisons will be a means to secure our frontiers that way. Moreover, if these out Garrisons be not secured, the Inhabitants will desert and leave all their settlements above the City of Albany wast; which will be prejudicial to Her Majesty's interest and encouragement to the Enemy. It having been found by experience last war that whilst these out-places were garrisoned the Country was secure, but no sooner were they deserted but the enemy gained ground and scalped our people near the very gates of the City.

This, as I humbly conceive, cannot be well effected without six hundred men; for the four Companies that consist of 400 men there, are much lessened by death and desertion, although all care imaginable has been taken by My Lord Cornbury to prevent it; and their pay, which is all money now, (and a much better way than provisions) has not been punctually complied with all at Albany, there being sometimes twelve or thirteen weeks subsistence in arrears, (without quarters) by reason the Merchant that was to furnish the money was not able to do it punctually. This contributed to their desertion, and if My Lord Cornbury's bills should not be duly honoured it will be of worse consequence, and I doubt not but Your Lord<sup>ship</sup> will prevent such an accident which might prove so fatal as to breake all the Companies and indanger the security of that Province, which is so much impoverished by the late divisions and distractions, and its Revenue so much antipated by the late Administration that seven years accruing Revenue will not pay the debts of the Province ows now, so that it can not be expected they can raise Men to secure the frontiers.

True it is we have had no mischief done by the French or their Indians since the war was proclaimed, but it is every day expected, and the only way to be safe is to be upon our guard and well provided, and that will give heart to our Indians to stick close to us, when they see we are able not only to defend ourselves but to protect them.

And for the encouragement of those Fuzileers that are there, or will be sent over from hence to reinforce the Garrison, I humbly conceive the men ought to be kept no longer Soldiers than four years, and then every year a hundred Recruits send over and a hundred discharged, which would people and settle the Country, and those men take to the employment of making Pitch and Tar and other Naval stores or manure land and they see convenient, which would contribute much to the strengthening the frontiers.

That it will be requisite that a present or bounty be sent, such as your Lordships shall see meet, to be given to those Indians of the Five Nations and River Indians; but not in such quantities to all the nations in General, as has been practised formerly, whereby those of the French faction participated of Her Majesty's bounty as well as those that are true to the English; but the present to be made to such only as are known to be wholly devoted to the interest of the Crown of England, and that some Christians be appointed to be constantly with the Indians in their castles to prevent the French intrigues.

These, My Lords, are my sentiments from the observation I have made by my conversing and living amongst these Indians; and if they are agreeable to Your Lordships opinion I humbly pray that Your Lordships will intercede with Her Maj<sup>ty</sup> to order some speedy and effectual care to be taken that the said province and the Indians may be secured, and the French prevented from making any settlements in those parts.

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 384.]

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

Your Lordships letters of the 26th of January 170<sup>3</sup> Febr<sup>ry</sup> the 22nd 170<sup>3</sup> March the 25th 1703. April 7th 1703 and April the 29th 1703 all came to my hands with all the papers inclosed on the 29th of July last by M<sup>r</sup> Clarke,<sup>1</sup> who at the same time delivered me my Commissions and <sup>1</sup>GEORGE CLARKE was descended from the Clarkes of Somersetshire, whose residence was at Swainswick, near Bath. Having pursued the study of the law, he was appointed Secretary of the Province of New-York, and was sworn into office on the 30th of July, 1703. He was called to the Council in 1715, and became Lieutenant-Governor in October, 1736. He administered the Government until 1743, when he was succeeded by Mr. Clinton, and sailed for England in 1745, having accumulated an estate in this country, estimated, at the time, at £100,000. On the passage he was taken prisoner by the French, but had the good fortune to be soon after released, and indemnified by Parliament for his losses. He retired to a handsome estate in Cheshire, which was purchased, it is said, with his American acquisitions, and died there at a very advanced age—Smith says, "about the year 1761;" Hist. of New-York, II, 68; the Albany edition of that work, p. 453, "in 1763," but in Wheaton's United States Reports, III, 4, it is established that he died in 1759. Mr. Clarke was married to Ann Hyde, a distant relative of Lord Chancellor Clarendon, and thus became connected not only with Lord Cornbury, but even with the Royal House of Stuart. This lady, who died in New-York, is represented as a woman of fine accomplishments. — Ed.

Instruct<sup>ed</sup> for this province, and for that of Nove Coesarea or New Jersey. On the next day I published my Commission for the Govern' of this province, in the usual manner, after which I took all the oathes required and subscribed the test of abjuration. Then I administered the same to all the Gentlemen of the Council who were then in Town. I have likewise sent directions to Administer the oathes to all persons in any offices in the several Counties in this province, and on the 10th of August I left this province to goe into Nova Coesarea or New Jersey.—I have given your Lord<sup>ships</sup> in another Letter, a particular account of all proceedings in that province, so shall so no more of it in this. I am now going to Albany to meet the Indians, who, contrary to their promise to me the last year, have received two priests at the Onondagos Castles. I have sent Coll Schuyler thither to trye if he can prevaile with the Indians to send the priests away; I hope he will be returned by the time I get thither. I shall not stay above ten days there; because the Assembly of this province is to sit here upon the 5th of October. I hope I shall prevail with them to give a fund for a, stronger detachment than last year. We have an account of some preparations the French are making in Canada; particularly several large boats, which we suppose to be intended for the carrying men from Quebeck to Montreal, in order to be ready to attempt something upon our Frontiers this Winter. I intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to believe that nothing shall be wanting on my part to secure this Country from any attempt of the Enemy; tho really the litle security we have of the Indians makes the people who live upon the frontiers very uneasy. I wish we had more regular forces, we should then be better able to defend the Country, to annoy the French, and keep the Indians in awe. In my letter to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> of the 30th of June, I acquainted you that I had kept spies abroad ever since the beginning of May, by some of which I had intelligence of a party of French and Indians, who designed to make some attempt to the Eastward of New England of which I gave Coll Dudley notice. He has since found my intelligence true; for by the last post from Boston, I received a letter from Coll: Dudley, by which he tells me, that a party of French and Indians had surpris'd a place called Wells, where he had posted fourscore men. After that the Enemy went to surpris'e a fort called Casco, where there was twenty men, but they defended themselves so well that they killed several of the Enemy and kept the place.—Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased in your letter of the 29th of April to say that you are preparing letters to be sent to the several Plantations relating to the Quota to be furnished by them for the Assistance of N Yorke. I wish they may be more obedient to Her Majesty than they were the last time; but I am affraid you will find they will not till they are compelled, either by some Act of Parliament of England, or by such other method as the Queen will please to make use of, particularly Connecticut and Rhode Island, from whence I am fully satisfied, we shall not have one farthing from them as long as they can help it. They hate any body that owns any subjection to the Queen. That our people find every day; for if any of our Merchants of this place goes to sue for a just debt in the Court of Connecticut, to be sure he shall have no right if his suite is against one of that Colony.—The next thing your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased to mention in your letter of the 29th is that you are expecting an answer from me upon your Directions for my examining the Acts of Assembly, of which you were pleased to send me the titles in Your letter of the 26th of January last. I hope yet, before these ships goe, to send Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> a satisfactory answer to that matter, and the only reason why I do not send it with this letter is because all the Gentlemen of the Council have not yet declared their opinions. Some of them are very nearly concerned in some of those acts, as you will perceive by the account I shall send of them, in which I shall be careful to send very particular answers as your Lord<sup>ships</sup> require.—

I humbly thank your Lord<sup>ships</sup> for the increase of my salary. I shall not fail of acquainting the Assembly, as soon as they meet, with her Maj<sup>ty's</sup> orders for prohibiting any presents being made to [the] Governour for the time to come. And I intreat you to believe that I will punctually observe Her Maj<sup>ty's</sup> commands in that matter, for I doe assure you I will not take any present from any person whatsoever. As for the Courts of Justice, which your Lord<sup>ships</sup> mention in the last paragraph of your letter, I do assure you that in all Causes that have come before me in Council, I have always given them the best dispatch possible, and I am sure there has never been any delay, unless it were at the request of the parties themselves, or at the desire of some of the Gentlement of the Council; but that has not been for above three or four days. Indeed I have heard that the proceedings in the Supreme Court here have been dilatory; but I can assure your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, since the Queen was pleased to appoint D<sup>r</sup> Bridges to be Chief Justice here, he has applied himself with great diligence to the reforming that abuse. I will not faile to send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> as soon as possible the Account you require relating to the causes depending in the Courts here. I had sent it now, had not this been the time of the Circuit, so that people being out of Town, I can not get so perfect an Account as I ought, and am desirous to send to you; however, if I can not get it ready to send by this, I will be sure to send it by the next conveyance.

In your Lord<sup>ships</sup> letter of the 7th of April, I received a copy of your Report to the Queen, for which I return your Lord<sup>ships</sup> thanks, and for the care you are pleased to take of this province. I will use all the endeavours I can with the Assembly to make provision in the best manner for the defence of the Province. I will take care that for the future the Accounts of the revenue shall be transmitted quarterly if there is any conveyance ready, and if not, by the first conveyance that shall offer.—As for the Countess of Bellomont's accounts, I have laid them before the Council, but finding them very deficient, we have referred them to three able accountants whom we have appointed to meet My Lady Bellomont's agents, to see if they together can adjust it, in order to lay it before the Council, that we may be able to make such a Report as may be proper to lay before Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> which I hope will be to your satisfaction. As for the receipt of any public money, I shall most certainly observe the advice you give me. I will send an answer to M<sup>r</sup> Champante's paper by the next conveyance.

I have likewise received your Lord<sup>ships</sup> letter with M<sup>r</sup> Attorney General's opinions inclosed. As to that relating to Bayard and Hutchins, I can only say that I was told that Bayard has brought his action against one or two of his Jury and one of his Judges. But I did not think it proper for me to stop any man's private actions, especially when there was no application made to me by the other side. As to M<sup>r</sup> Attorney General's opinion relating to Graves and Prideaux, I can only say that M<sup>r</sup> Champanté does not state that case fairly in his memorial. I suppose the parties themselves have made that appear before this time, therefore I shall trouble your Lord<sup>ships</sup> no further upon that matter now, only to inform you what effect those opinions have had here, and that is thus. Those opinions are transcribed and dispersed among those who are called here by the name of the Black party, some of which will never be reconciled to an English Govern<sup>t</sup>, nor to an English Governour, unless they can find one who will betray the English Laws and interest to the Dutch. These persons as soon as they can get these copies, turn them into Dutch and read them to the ordinary people, and tell them that the proceedings of Capt<sup>l</sup> Nanfan and M<sup>r</sup> Attwood are approved at home, and confirmed by the Reports of the Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> in England; and this has happened within these four days past; therefore I desire when you are pleased to send M<sup>r</sup> Attorney General's opinion that I may likewise have the case as it is stated to him, that I may be able to lay the truth before your Lord<sup>pp<sup>s</sup></sup>. As soon as I return from Albany I will give you an Account how I find matters here, and will use my utmost endeavours to keep all things in a posture they ought to be. I herewith send the Acts of Assembly passed the last spring; but no conveyance offering till now I could not send them sooner. I am with great respect— etc

CORNBURY.

P. S I take the liberty to acquaint your Lord<sup>pp<sup>s</sup></sup> that all the packets sent directly from hence I have receipts for, and always injoin the person to whom I deliver them to sink them in case of danger; but those I sent by the way either of Boston or Philadelphia, I can not answer for.

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 392.]

My Lords.

In my letter to your Lord<sup>pp<sup>s</sup></sup> of the 9th of Sept<sup>r</sup> last, I took the liberty to acquaint you that I had appointed the Commissioners to meet my Lady Bellomont's Agents here, to see if they could adjust her Ladyships Accounts, which to me seem not so fair as I could have wished, those Gentlemen have met Mylady's Agents during my being at Albany three times and would have met them oftener, but the persons appointed by My Lady Bellomont refuse to account any further, than according to the account sent to them, as it is stated by M<sup>r</sup> Champanté, which I can not allow to be a fair account, because M<sup>r</sup> Champante accounts for no more than what he says he has received, but he does not produce any account from the Paymaster General's office to vouch the truth of his receipts, so that the only way (that I conceive) remains for us to state my Lady Bellomont's accounts, is for us to make a charge of the full pay due to the four Comp<sup>nies</sup> here, during the time of My Lord Bellomonts Administration, and that My Lady's agents should discharge, that charge, by proper vouchers, in order to the doing this, at the last meeting of My Lady's agents, and the persons I have appointed to state the Account with them in my absence; the persons I had appointed delivered a charge to My Lady's Agents, amounting to £31898-11-8. New Yorke money, which makes up the ful pay of the four companies here according to the several establishments; the Gentlemen appointed by My Lady Bellomont did not [see] fit to proceed upon that charge, but insisted upon the account sent over to them by My Lady, wherein Her Ladyship is made debtor for £10062-15-6½ only and no account from the Office to shew where the Officers, and soldiers must apply for the remaining part of the first summe abovementioned; besides, in the account sent over by My Lady to her agents (which is exactly the same which was sent to me by M<sup>r</sup> Lowndes) there is no notice taken of the thirty per cent, which was appropriated by the late King for the payment of the Staff Officers, and for the repairing the Fortifications. Now I must inform your Lord<sup>pp<sup>s</sup></sup> that during My Lord Bellomont's time, very little has been paid to the Staff Officers, and nothing at all to the repairs of the Fortifications, tho' they stood very much in need of being repaired. I am lately informed that My Lady Bellomont does intend to beg of the Queen the thirty per cent which will much alleviate the demand upon My Lady. Now as I shall never pretend to oppose any favour Her Majesty may be pleased to extend to that Lady, soe I think I should be much wanting in my duty to the Queen if I should not inform Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> of the truth, which is thus: if the Queen is pleased to grant to My Lady Bellomont, the whole thirty per cent, during all the time of My Lord's Administration, then the Staff Officers who have lived here upon credit a great while, must expect to go to prison unless the Queen is pleased to order some other fund for the payment of the arrears due to them, as for the overplus of the thirty per cent which ought to have been applied to the repairing of the Fortifications; I shall submit to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> opinions, what ought to be done with that, only I must say that if the money has been rightly applied, this Fort had not been in that miserable condition I found it.—I came to this place from Albany this day and finding a ship ready to sail towards Virginia, in hopes to come time enough for the convoy, I thought myself obliged to give you this account. I do intend to morrow to send for my Lady Bellomont's Agents to know if they will proceed upon the Accounts or not, if not, I will by the first conveyance acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with it, and send you an account stated as I think it ought to be, and submit it to your better Judgements. I take the liberty to acquaint you that I have met the Indians at Albany, and I hope I have fixed them at least for this Winter, I will by the next conveyance send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> a full account of what passed between us. In the mean time I remain with great respect

New Yorke Oct<sup>r</sup> the 7th 1703.

Captain John Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 85.]

My Lords.

I have twice made my application to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> praying redress by way of letter, the one dated October the 5th 1702. the other 27 May 1703. wherein with all brevity I have endeavoured to lay before your Lord<sup>ships</sup> the difficulties imposed on me, by and thro' the means of My Lord Cornbury. My last told your Lord<sup>ships</sup> I was clapt in Goal for the protested bills of exchange returned hither, and occasioned so protested thro' My Lord Cornbury's means by his Lord<sup>ship</sup> taking up the money and misapplying it by an appropriation of it to his own use instead of paying the bills drawn, when the officer and Soldier by that money taken up here were weekly subsisted, but this your Lord<sup>ships</sup> having been so long and well apprized of I will forbear to proceed on that subject and avoid repetition but I must humbly lay before your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that I am yet in prison for that moneys and God knows when shall be discharged without positive orders from England.

My Lords, the separating me and my family, has, is, and will be very destructive, with the vast expence I have been at already and must be put to, the loss of my time to improve my own small fortune (since what I had from the Crown is taken from me) the blasting my reputation abroad, the confinement of my person in prison here, just so soon as my bread by my company was taken from me without any reason assigned, confirms me in the said opinion I was of in my last to your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, that I am intended a sacrifice, therefore I most humbly pray your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that such care may be taken for my redemption, as a free born Englishman ought to have, and that I may by a Mandamus be commanded for England, there to defend my Administration, or whatever may be objected against me, or that such positive orders may be sent, to permit me to go on my lawful occasions, saving harmless myself and all my securities for the above mentioned debts contracted for the payment of the Soldiers, and that My Lord Cornbury may be obliged, as he has misapplied that very money, to make it good to the creditor, with the charges that his Lord<sup>ship</sup> has occasioned to accrue on that account, and which his Lord<sup>ship</sup>, as I am given to understand, intends to throw on me as drawer, his Lord<sup>ship</sup> being at present in a station above the Law, or any other means for me to procure satisfaction from him.

I humbly pray your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will please to grant this my reasonable request, and I shall be obliged ever to pray for your Lord<sup>ships</sup>

I am with profound respect &c.

New Yorke 11th of October 1703.

JOHN NANFAN

P. S. My Lords, my accounts are allowed right with a great ballance to me and yet I am kept on them Bills in Goal although my Lord Cornbury publicly owms to have received the moneys in England.

Mr. Robert Livingston to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 899.]

The humble memorial of Robert Livingston Secretary for the Indian affaires in Her Majesty's province of New Yorke in America.

Sheweth.

That pursuant to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> commands, he addressed himself to My Lord of London for Missionaries to be sent among the Indians for their conversion, who advised him to apply to the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Society for propagating the Gospell in foreign parts which accordingly he did, and by a memorial prayed, that they would be pleased to send six Ministers, that is: one to each of the five nations, and one to the River Indians, and that each Minister might have a couple of youths who would soon learn the language, and be able to minister to them, and that there might be houses built for the Ministers and a Chappel at each Castle, stockaded round, which by computation may cost 60 or 70 pounds a piece, and that said Ministers might be furnished yearly with some small presents to the value of £10. to give to the Indians, and that the Minister of Albany might be considered for the pains he has taken with the said Indians.

The Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> Society have found out two good men for that purpose, that £100 sterl: p<sup>r</sup> annum will be allowed to each of them and £20 a piece towards buying utensils for them, but he is directed by His Grace the Archbishop & the rest of the Society to acquaint Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, that tho' they think it absolutely necessary for their better accommodation, that there should be small houses built for them among the Indians, and that they should each of them have a servant to attend them, yet the Society, which has already made such large efforts with an incomes so very small, entirely precarious and voluntary, do beg your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to lay the matter before Her Majesty, since this affair is partly civil, and regards the State so far at least as the said Missionaries may contribute to secure those wavering people to the interest of the Crown of England and keep them from falling off to the neighbouring French of Canada.

Your Lordships are therefore humbly prayed that you will be pleased to represent it so to Her Majesty, who no doubt when she is well informed will contribute the remainder and whatever else will be needful for the accomplishing so good a work.

All which is nevertheless most humbly submitted by Whitehall 15th December 1703.

My Lords.

Being just now returned from New Jersey and finding a letter here from Capt<sup>n</sup> Herne (which ought to have come to me a fortnight agoe) to acquaint me that he shall sail in ten days, I take the liberty to trouble your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with these few lines to acquaint you that the Assembly of New Jersey have sat four weeks and some days, they had prepared some Bills, but the season has been so severe that I was forced to adjourn them till May next, at which time I shall meet them at Burlington, I hope they will then prepare such Bills as will be agreeable to Her Maj<sup>ty's</sup> commands in my instructions which I shall endeavour punctually to observe; if this ship stays any little time longer, I shall send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> an account of all our proceedings in New Jersey which is now preparing. I herewith send the account of the Revenue of New Yorke from the 31. of July to the 29 of Sept<sup>r</sup> 1703.—

The humble Memorial of John Champante

My Lords.

The unusuall hardships he is under has so much impair'd his health that, as I am credibly inform'd & I can make it good to yo<sup>r</sup> L<sup>opps</sup>: his life in all probability will be soon in danger if yo<sup>r</sup> L<sup>opps</sup> goodness dont interpose in his behalfe & obtain a speedy reliefe for him.

I humbly submit this to yo<sup>r</sup> L<sup>opps</sup>: considerac<sup>on</sup>, & am with y<sup>e</sup> greatest respect imaginable,
My Lords,

John Chamberlayn, Esq., to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 33.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations

May it please Your Lordships,

Having attempted several times to wait upon your Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board without meeting a favourable opportunity, I am bold to take this method of acquainting your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s, by order of the Society for promoting the Gospell in foreign parts, what measures have been taken by that body towards sending Missionaries among the Indians of the Five Nations bordering on New Yorke and in consequence of the representation made by your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s to the Queen upon that head, your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s must be pleased to know then, that the Society (not without a great deal of pains and time spent to that purpose) have found out two Reverend Divines, M<sup>r</sup> Smith and M<sup>r</sup> Moor,<sup>1</sup> whom they think well qualified for that Errand, that they have agreed to allow the said Gentlemen 100.£ per annum each, over and above which they will have 20.£ a piece to buy them utensils for the little Caban they are supposed to have among the Indians and 10 or 15.£ for books etc. Now, My Lords, I am to tell you that the Society having done so much (and indeed tis too much considering their small and intirely precarious stock) they would gladly know what assistance they may expect in an affaire, that does at least as much concerne the State as the Church (vid: Lord Cornbury's letters etc) either at home by your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s kind representation of the matter to Her Majesty, or abroad from the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New Yorke; especially, My Lords, seeing that there remains so much to be done still; for M<sup>r</sup> Livingston Secretary of the Indian affaires of the abovementioned Govern<sup>t</sup> acquaints us that four more Missionaries are stil wanting, that is to say three more for the Five Nations and one for the River Indians, tho' I am told, My Lords, that these last are no longer formidable to us, they having been almost consumed in former wars; but this is submitted to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s. The said Gent: says moreover that each of our Missionaries must have distinct houses, which for fear of the insults of drunken Indians etc must be Pallisaded; that the cost of such houses

<sup>1</sup> Rev. THOROUGHGOOD MOOR was a native of England. He arrived in the Autumn of 1704, in New-York, whence he proceeded to Albany and at once entered into communication with the Mohawks. He was kept longer than he expected from visiting these people "by a great fall of snow," but succeeded eventually in reaching their Castle. As they were not then prepared to receive him, he returned to Albany where he was detained "near a twelvemonth," by the hope of entering on his Mission. His efforts, however, were rendered nugatory by the Fur traders of the place, and he returned to New-York in 1705. The Rev. Mr. Talbot, of Burlington, N. J., being called to England, at the time, on business, appointed Mr. Moor to serve his church during his absence, who ministered some time in Hopewell, which never had a settled minister, though a church had been built there as early as 1700 or 1702. Mr. Moor also began, about this time, a church at Bristol, Pa. During his sojourn at Burlington, he became so scandalized at the conduct of Lieut. Governor Ingoldsby, that he refused to admit him to the Lord's Supper, and was cast into jail in consequence. Having contrived to escape, he fled, in company with the Rev. Mr. Brookes of Elizabethtown, to Boston, where he met Mr. Talbot, then on his return from England. "I was glad to see them," writes the latter, "but much surprised to meet them both here. They told me what hardships they met from the governors of New-York and Jersey, and how they escaped out of their hands; I was for converting them back again, telling them the dangers of the sea and the enemy, but poor Thorogood said he had rather be taken into France than into the Fort at New-York; and, if they were sunk in the Sea, they did not doubt but God would receive them, since they were persecuted for righteousness, and doing their duty to the best of their knowledge." These ill treated gentlemen sailed from Marblehead in November, 1707, and literally "sunk in the sea." The vessel in which they were passengers foundered during the voyage, and neither they nor any of the crew, or any wreck of the ship, were ever heard of after. Mr. Moor was much lamented by those who knew him, being (says Mr. Bass) a person of morals, meekness, piety and charity. Humphreys' Account of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, 287-291; Collections of the Protestant Episcopal Society for 1851, 67, 60, 63, 64, 67, 70; New-York Documentary History, III.—Ed.

will be 60.£ or 80.£ each; that they can not subsist without two servants to attend each Minister; That there must be presents for the Indians and several other items which swell the account considerably, and which are hardly to be compast by any but a Royal purse, at least not by ours, which has exerted its utmost efforts

I must beg your Lord<sup>PPS</sup> pardon for taking up so much of your time, but the weightiness of the matter as well as the faithful discharge of my duty must apologize for my being so full and particular.

I humbly submit it to your Lord<sup>PPS</sup> great wisdom and remain,

Westminster

P. S. The Society is to meet next Friday morning at the Lords A: Bp<sup>s</sup> library in St Martins, where M<sup>r</sup> Livingston and the two Missionaries will attend &c. May I humbly hope to receive your Lord<sup>PPS</sup> Commands by that time? and if it were not too great presumption, I would beg that I might have it in writing, that your Lord<sup>PPS</sup> meaning may be faithfully represented in your own words.

Sir,

Your letter of the 1st Inst: has been laid before the Lords Commss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantat<sup>ns</sup>, in answer whereunto they have ordered me to acquaint you that her Majesty does allow .£20 a piece to all Ministers going to the Plantations for their passage; that they are of opinion it will be a great encouragement to such Ministers if they can be assured of a Benefice in England after so many years service (as may be thought reasonable) among the Indians; that there being a Society for Evangelizing Indians in New England, which has a considerable Revenue by gifts from particular persons, Their Lord<sup>PPS</sup> think it would be of some service if your Society could inform themselves how such sums of money as have been given for that and have been employed. In the mean time their Lord<sup>PPS</sup> will take care to recommend the said Ministers to the Lord Cornbury Governour of New Yorke.

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 88.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Governour of New Yorke

My Lord,

Since ours of the 29th of July last, a duplicate whereof is here inclosed, We have received several letters from Your Lordship viz<sup>t</sup> of the 30th of June 12th of July the 5. August 9. of Sept<sup>r</sup> and 7. of October last, relating to New Yorke and one of the 9. September relating to your Govern<sup>t</sup> of New Jersey, which we shall answer particularly by itself.

Your two letters of the 30th June being duplicates and originals not received, several papers referred to therein are wanting, a list whereof is here inclosed. Upon this occasion we must advise your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that with the duplicates of your letters you send duplicates of the papers therein referred to; the necessity whereof you will perceive by our want of the inventory of stores of war remaining, which as your Lord<sup>sh</sup> observes, would have shewn us the ill condition that New Yorke is in, in case of an attempt of the Enemy.

As to those particulars your Lordship writes are wanting for the use of the Four Company's, your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s Agent M<sup>r</sup> Thrale has received Her Majesty's orders to provide the same, the value thereof to be deducted out of the pay of those Company's, according to the practice of the Army, which will oblige them to be more careful of their arms hereafter

We shall represent to Her Majesty your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s care in putting in repair several Fortifications at New Yorke, and are glad to perceive the Assembly have contributed 1500.£ towards the raising two Batteries in the Narrows. If your Lord<sup>sh</sup> have got upon one of the said Batteries the last summer as you expected, your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s management therein will be an argument to induce the Assembly to grant the remaining of what is necessary to accomplish that work. But we must upon this occasion advise your Lord<sup>sh</sup> to straighten your expenses as much as possible in reference to Fortifications and stores of War, for that in this time of war and extraordinary charges incumbent on the Govern<sup>t</sup> here, it will be very difficult to obtain any provision of stores from hence without paying for them.

We expect according to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s promise an abstract of the number of Inhabitants in the province of New Yorke.

We are laying before Her Majesty what your Lord<sup>sh</sup> writes in relation to illegal Trade in Connecticut and Rhode Island. Their harbouring of run away Seamen, Soldiers and Servants, and their refusing to comply with the Quota.

We observe your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s care in keeping out Scouts and Spies to gett intelligence of the designs of the French, and the advantage the province has received thereby, we doubt not will have induced the Assembly to grant a sufficient detachment for that and other services.

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s proposals for conquering Canada lye before Her Majesty.

We have under consideration the several Acts received with your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s letter of the 12th July last and expect, according to Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s promise, an account of the inconveniencies feared from the 5th of the said Acts, and therefore shall suspend our determination thereupon, till we hear further from your Lord<sup>sh</sup>.

We also expect Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s particular answer, to what we writ you the 26th January 170<sup>3</sup> upon a list of Acts past during the Administr<sup>n</sup> of the late Earle of Bellomont and Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, not being able to report upon those Acts, till we have your said answer, which we therefore desire may be no longer delayed.

We hope by your Lord<sup>ps</sup> management of the Indians at your meeting of them in September last, they will have been persuaded to send away the French priests that were amongst them, & to renew and confirm their Treaties of Alliance and Friendship with her Majesty.

We send you here inclosed two letters from the Earl of Nottingham by which you will see how you are to Govern yourself in this conjecture in relation to the Spaniards. As also a letter from Her Majesty with Her Majesty's declaration and order as you find it printed in the inclosed Gazette relating to the Officers of the Admiralty and prizes for Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> directions in these particulars.

Upon our representation to Her Majesty relating to the want of Protestant Ministers to reside amongst the Five Nations of Indians, two, have been appointed for that service, and we hope they may be ready to sail with this Convoy.

M<sup>r</sup> Champante having represented to us by memorials, copies whereof are here inclosed, that Capt<sup>o</sup> Nanfan lyes under great hardships by reason of Arrests for the non-payment of bills, he had drawn for the money disbursed by him in subsisting the Soldiers four months and a half longer than subsistance has been received for them here, and that Your Lop<sup>s</sup> Agent has in his hands the money which should have answered those bills; and not having received from your Lord<sup>p</sup> any account of this matter, We sent for M<sup>r</sup> Thrale, who communicated to us an extract of your Lord<sup>ps</sup> letter to him of the 12th of September last relating thereunto, upon which we observe that tho' your Lord<sup>p</sup> may charge Capt<sup>o</sup> Nanfan as an accountant with the whole pay of the Four Companies, yet if you are satisfied, that neither he nor his agent have received the whole, he ought not to be detained, especially if he have given security, as it is alleged in 5000.£ to answer the Queen's demands.

We are further to acquaint your Lord<sup>p</sup> that we have received a letter from Capt<sup>o</sup> Nanfan of the 11th of October last, wherein he acquaints us that his accounts are settled and allowed right, with a great Balance due to him; and yet he is kept in Goal for the foresaid bills, altho' your Lord<sup>p</sup> acknowledges your Agent has received the money here, which, he says, ought to be applied to the discharge of those Bills, and that in case that be not speedily done, he and his family will be ruined. Whereupon we observe to your Lord<sup>p</sup> that if his Allegations be true, we think it is a great hardship, and therefore such measures ought to be taken as are agreeable to Justice. But if on the other hand, what he alleges be not true, then your Lord<sup>p</sup> ought to demand of him such an account as he will stand by, and send us a copy thereof with your observations thereupon, and your reasons against allowing it if you have any.

As to what your Lord<sup>p</sup> writes relating to the Lady Bellomont's accounts, we desire your Lord<sup>p</sup> to use your utmost endeavours to settle the same, with the concurrence and approbation of Her Ladyship's Agents; but in case you shall not be able to effect it, we desire you to send us however a copy of the account they produce, with your Lordship's objections thereunto, as also a copy of her Lad<sup>shps</sup> account as stated by your Lord<sup>p</sup>. And in order to inable your Lord<sup>p</sup> the better to settle the said accounts, as also those of Capt<sup>o</sup> Nanfan, if it be not already done, we send your Lord<sup>p</sup> the copy of the account we received from the Earle of Renelagh's Office of the money paid to M<sup>r</sup> Champanté, from August 1697 to 2nd Jan<sup>y</sup> 170<sup>3</sup> on Account of the Four Company's at New Yorke.

We are—My Lord—&c.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 15 ]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Governour of New Yorke.

My Lord.

Since our letter of the 17th of March we have received one from your Lord<sup>sh</sup> of the 15th of December last promising us a particular acc<sup>t</sup> of the affairs of New Jersey, which we daily expect.

In the mean time we must remind your Lord<sup>sh</sup> of what we writ you the 26th of January 1703<sup>q</sup> upon the Acts past at New Yorke during the Earl of Bellomont and Capt<sup>l</sup> Naufan's Govern<sup>t</sup> to which it is necessary your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s return us speedy answer.

M<sup>r</sup> Thrale your late agent having presented to us a memorial desiring a supply of Stores of War for New York, we desire Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> in order to the better enabling us to lay the same before Her Majesty to give us a particular account of the species and quantities of what is wanting and of the places for which these stores are desired.

Colonel Quarry to the Lords of Trade.

[Plantations General Entries, Vol. XXXVII., (D.) 1.]

My last of the 28 of February by way of Boston in which I give your Lordships an account that the Lieutenant Governor Evans<sup>1</sup> arrived in Pennsylvania to the General satisfaction of the Country having brought with him the Queens Royal approbation he called an Assembly to sett the 10 of April in order to it, writs were issued out to the three lower Counties, M<sup>r</sup> Penns Province would obey no writ but were resolved to stand firm to the late Charter granted by M<sup>r</sup> Penn just at his going for England by which they have power to Assemble themselves when and as often as they please, with many other such extravagant priviledges, as never was granted, to any people before, nor had thus been granted, but that M<sup>r</sup> Penn thought then that the Parliament had resumed his Grant to the Crown, which made him so liberal thó now he repents and wants a fair occasion to damn his own Charter, however Colonel Evans was willing to try if he could reconcile or accommodate these confusions, in order to it, appointed the members of the three Low Counties to meet at Philadelphia which they did and after all endeavours used to accomodate matters, nothing would prevaile with the Quakers upon the former union; they mett upon the Square, The Lower Counties were equal in number with the upper, But now by M<sup>r</sup> Penns New Charter the upper Counties have more than double the numbers of Representatives than the Lower Counties have, so that if there had been nothing else, it is impossible for them to meet and joine upon such terms, after some time spent to no purpose; the Gentlemen of the Lower Counties finding themselves thrown off by the Quakers, and that the must shift for themselves, went back to their own Country, and the Lieutenant Governor: hath ordered them to meet him at New Castle, to see what can be done with them singly in order I suppose for the security of the Country, which lyes so open and exposed to an enemy this war time. But I cannot see how it is possible for them considering their circumstances to undergoe the great charge of it themselves, besides they will be very unwilling to undertake it at their own cost. Since the Quakers of the upper County will reap the greatest benefit, and yet will not contribute any thing towards their own security and defence.

And now may it please your Lordships since the Quakers have thrown off the three Lower Counties I hope your Lordships will think it high time, that her Majesty be graciously please to take those poore people under her imédiate protection.

I am very confident that M<sup>r</sup> Penns proud Province will quickly repent their throwing off the Lower Counties, which will quite ruine their Trade nor can they subsist without being supplied from them; besides in case the Lower Counties be made a Province of itself, or joined to any other Government then the Tobacco, which is all made there, cannot by law be carried to them without first paying the penny p<sup>r</sup> pound Duty, which will ruine Pennsylvania and very much improve the Trade of the Lower Counties.

I am obliged to acquaint your Lordships that besides the two thousand pounds which the Assembly gave M<sup>r</sup> Penn before he went hence, and the Excise on beer, wine &c he had managed the people so with his spacious pretences, that he gott a subscription from all the severall meetings throughout the whole Province, which by a very modest computation amounts to £2500, one of the original subscriptions and an original Receipt from his Secretary and Receiver Generall to the Collector; I have in my possession, a copy of which is here inclosed by which your Lordships will see the pretences he uses to impose upon the poor people, and to gain his point, so that by these ways together with the Quit rents, Supernumeraryland, and the constant sale of land, the Country is quite drained of all the money, there is scarce enough left to goe to markett.

I gave your Lordships a full account of the severall fatall attaques made by the Indians and French on the out settlements of New England, and also that a Party about 300 Indians headed by about 20 or 30 French, had fallen into the Proprietary Government of Connecticut, and cut off a place called Dearfield,<sup>1</sup> they killed 52 of the inhabitants and carried away with them 80 prisoners the Indians and French had fifty of their men killed in this Action, their Cheif Officer was one Monsieur Mareure,<sup>2</sup> who formerly cut off Schenecteda we must expect frequent misfortunes of this nature, in one Province or another, where the Enemy please to fall on us, nor is there any other effectual way to prevent these mischeifs, but by cutting off Canada which may be done with ease if her Majesty would but resolve on it, nothing else can secure her subjects in any of her Provinces or prevent the French from being in time masters of the Main, but I have so often troubled your Lordships on this subject and have been so large on it that I see no room to add more.

His Excellency Colonel Dudley hath dissolved the Assembly of that Province the 21 day of April, I do much fear that he will change for the worse.

The Assembly at New York are now sitting, I hope before this fleet sailes to give your Lordships an account of what they have done, his Excellency My Lord Cornbury designs as soon as they rise to hasten up to Albany to settle the Frontiers, and in order to it he hath adjourned the Assembly of the Jerseys from the 20 of May to the 20 of June, at which time I resolve to attend his Excellency at Burlington where the Assembly are to sitt; I need not tell your Lordships of how great a consequence the effectual securing of the five Nations, and the frontiers of Albany is to her Majesty's service and the General good, not only of that Province but even of all her Majesty's Governments on the Main. I am very confident that my Lord Cornbury will do all that is in his power, but I fear it is impossible for the people of that Province under their present circumstances to support the charge of it. I doe very well know that the inhabitants of New York are suppose to be very rich people, but in reality they are not, its true they had formerly a very great trade and gott abundance of money the last war, when we had a Trade with the Spaniards, besides they had a very profitable thò an unlawfull Trade to and from Madagascar besides the advantage of severall Privateers and Pirates bringing great quantities of money and goods, amongst them, all which is gone to pay their Creditors in England and have very little left amongst them, they have had very great losses this war both going and coming from England, and besides vast losses in the West Indies, their Trade is in effect quite gon the produce of the Country is of little or noe value, nor is there any markt for it any where so that on the whole matter, I do assure your Lordships that their circumstances are very low, and yet the charge of the Government is much higher than it used to be, and their neighbours less able to supply them than ever as I will briefly lay before your Lordships.

<sup>1</sup> Deerfield is in Massachusetts. Compare post p. 1099. A full account of its destruction will be found in Williams' Redeemed Captive; in Penhallow's Indian Wars. Collections of New Hampshire Historical Society, I, 29; and in Hutchinson's History of Massachusetts, 1795, II, 127.—Ed.

<sup>2</sup> Hertel de Rouville commanded the expedition against Deerfield, according to the above authorities, and to Charlevoix' Histoire de la Nouvelle France, 4to., II, 290. Mons. de Maricourt was most probably dead at this time. Charlevoix, II, 298. Paris MS. Documents, VI, 155.—Ed.

And first as to their Northern Neighbours, they have enough to do in defending themselves and their Frontiers from the Enemy, who are so frequently assaulted by them, of which there are soe many fatal instances, so that there can be but very little hopes of assistance from any of them; We must then consider the severall Governments to the Southward and these present circumstances, I will begin with the Jersey, who are able to supply their Quota of men, and subsist them, tho' mony is very scarce amongst them, yet that want may be answered by the produce of the Country. his Excellency my Lord Cornbury very well knows how to manage that point, but there is a fatal obstacle which I fear will ruine all the hopes of being supply'd with men from hence, which is this, when the people of Jersey, find that their next neighbour of Pennsylvania do neither supply the Quota in men or money they will think it very hard that they must be under worse circumstances under her Majestys Government, than their fellow subjects are under a Proprietor, but this is not the worst for those that are sent on this Expedition are generally single men, and rather than fare worse than their next neighbours will leave the Country and go to Pennsylvania, there being only a river that parts the two Provinces by which means her Majestys Service will be defeated her Province depopulated, and M<sup>r</sup> Penns country filled with her subjects, who at present are useless to her; This I can assure your Lordships will be the consequence, and is already in every mans mouth, if we cannot live and enjoy the same quiet and priviledge as they do in Pennsylvania, we will goe a d live there and turne Quakers, that we may be the better entituled to their priviledges, this will be the certaine consequence.

The next Province is that of Pennsylvania from whence I am very well assured they will give noe supply of men or money so long as they remain under their present constitution of Government, so that instead of being an advantage to the Crown or contributing in the least to the Security or defence of her Majestys Provinces or themselves, they will rather contribute their endeavours to hinder others, I have in my former said enough on this head, soe will add noe more but referre to your Lordships due consideration.

The next I come to is the three Lower Counties if we consider them as they are now thrown off by the Quakers of Pennsylvania, and are independent nothing can be expected from them more then the settling a Militia amongst them, and putting them on the most proper methods for their own defence, and in case they find that doth bear hard upon them, then they will have recourse to the same remedy that the people of the Jersey have, and remove themselves to Pennsylvania, which still shews the necessity of that Province being under some other regulation.

I am now come to her Majesty's Province of Maryland, in the first place give me leave to acquaint your Lordships that his Excellency Collonel Seymore arrived there the 11 of April, I was there to attend him, he called his Councill where he and they were qualified by taking the Oaths appointed by law, and his Commission published, the Assembly which were called, and in being in the last reigne, were then on adjournment his Excellency thought fitt to honor them to meet the 24 April in order to renew the Act for laying three pence upon every Hoggs<sup>6d</sup> of Tobacco, which the Assembly had formerly given to Coll: Blakstone but was expired upon his quitting the Government, had his Excellency stayed till a new Assembly was called he must have lost the benefit of that Duty upon all the Tobacco that goes home in this fleet, which is very considerable the Assembly accordingly mett renewed the Act and they were dissolved, his Excellencys Speech to them with their Adress, and what else was done in Council and Assembly goes home with this, to which I refer, there is now writts for calling a new Assembly to meet the

I now return to my former subject, the Assembly of Maryland, did formerly give somthing toward the support of Albany, but there is not a penny of it paid to this day and they are in hopes by some way or other to evade the payment of it; and I have very great ground to doubt whether they will ever be prevailed with to give any more for they are very apprehensive of their own danger from the Indians and French especially since the cutting off the Town of Dearfield I beleive your Lordships may not allow this to be a good reason, but rather think they ought to prevent the approach of their danger so near them by their assistance in supporting Albany However when your Lordships are pleased to consider their other circumstances more especially in relation to Trade, and the effects of it hath on them, I am sure you will give grains of allowance to them but since that doth equally effect and concern them and Virginia a like, and is of very great consequence, I will lay the true state of that matter fully and plainly before your Lordships.

In the first place I must insert this great truth that no trade belonging to England is worse managed than the Tobaco Trade, and therefore do wish that there were a regulation of it, I am sure it would be for the interest of her Majesty the Planter and the Merchant too, but as it is managed it is injurious to all, I cannot give a greater instance or demonstration of it than the last Fleet under the Convoy of the Guernsey and Oxford Men of War, known here by the name of the Smoaking Fleet, it hath done more damage to Trade and the interest of these Provinces than all that were concerned in it were worth, it hath lowered the price of Tobaco both at home and at all foreign marketts almost to nothing, I mean the Aronoca Tobaco it hath in all respects run counter to all the reason and interest of Trade, and yet this is not all the mischief it hath done for it hath entailed such a feud & misunderstanding betwixt the inhabitants that will require some time to reconcile some few that did not see into the reason of Trade were for encouraging them, but the most considering men that saw further, and knew the consequence of such irregular methods gave them all discouragement they could.

And now may it please your Lordships to sett this matter in a true light give me leave to observe to you that these Provinces produce but one Crop of Tobaco in a year that one Fleet of ships may carry home all this Tobaco under a good Convoy this would settle and fix the price of Tobaco here in this Country in England and all foreign Marketts, then all persons concerned in that commodity would buy briskly being very well assured that noe other supply would come into the kingdom till the next years fleet, whereas the late destructive, and irregular way of having severall fleets to carry home this Tobaco ruins Trade, discourages the buyer and lowers the price to the ruin of all persons concerned in that Comodity for when an after fleet is expected they always depend on ten times a greater quantity than really there is, and so deferr buying perhaps their was never such an instance of [this as] from severall fleets that went from hence in fourteen months time, which hath given such a fatall blow to trade that will hardly be retrived by which means severall thousands of Hoggs<sup>ds</sup> of Aronoca Tobaco were not worth to the owner one penny some left on the Masters of the ships hand for the freight, and had not some worthy eminent merchant, who had a true honor for Trade and the interest of these Countries stood in the gap and supported it in that juncture of time, it would have been far worse, however it had this fatall effect that the Tobaco yeilding little or nothing the Planters Bills of exchange were returned protested to their great damage not to be retrived

in a long time, and not only to the disappointment but utter ruin of many in the Course of Trade, nor can they ever hope to recover themselves, but by the advance of Tobacco which must be by the right regulation of that Trade, it must needs be very obvious to all considering men; That the present warr hath cutt us out of the Trade of Spain, France, Flanders and part of the Baltick which took off at least 20,000 Hoggs<sup>ds</sup> of Tobacco every year, and that of the most ordinaries sort too. Whereas now the greatest foreign Markett is Holland which takes of none but our fine bright Aronoca which is but little in comparison of the browner sort, and it is too evident that we have cloged that Markett I must observe to your Lordships, that these several Fleets so different in their interest have very much disappointed the Country of such supply of goods as should answer their necessity's, the smokers fleet thinking to take the advantage of the Planters would not sell their goods, but at a very extravagant Price which they would not give depending on the Grand Fleets coming in the fall, and perhaps they concluding that the Smokers Fleet had pretty well supply'd the Country they slacken'd their hand and sent not so much goods as else they would have done, so that between them both the Country is disappointed, and in great want of goods especially if the Fleet should not be here again before Christmas, that which contributes more to this disappointment, is the loss of severall ships of the Fleet who had a great quantity of goods to a great value on board them, which with the many ships lost going home is another misfortune that these Countries grown under.

And now since that is past cannot be recalled, I will with your Lordships favour propose the remedy of all these evils, for the future.

In the first place, as there is but one crop of Tobacco in a year, so there may be but one sufficient Fleet to carry home the Tobacco under a good convoy, that no ships be permitted to sail, but what goes in the Fleet under convoy, the Assembly of this Province having by sad experience found the ill effects of the late confused and destructive method of Trade, have upon due consideration proposed the properest time for the fleet to sail from England towards this place, and also the fittest time for their going hence, they have given their reasons for their opinion which I hope your Lordships will approve of since they tend to her Maj<sup>ty</sup> service, the interest of these Provinces, and the generall good and advancement of Trade, they propose that the fleet doe sayl from England, some time in September which in all probability will bring them hither in November, by which time great part of Tobacco will be shipt, and packed so that by the time they have delivered their goods, and gott their ships in order the Tobacco may be ready for them to take on board, Secondly by the fleets being on our Coasts in November, is before the Northwest winds set in, so they will in all likelihood meet with smooth short passages whereas if they were come on these coasts in the dead of the winter, they will meet with very hard violent weather such as may force them to bear away to the West Indies, by which they hazard the loss of their ships by the Enemy, or the loss of the mens lives for want of provisions of which we have had to many instances particularly this year, Thirdly by being here in November there will be time enough all the winter for the Merchants to sell their goods, and purchase Tobacco besides by being here at that time, it will be very seasonable for the Planters to furnish themselves with Cloathing for their servants and slaves before the Winter setts in, the want of which this year proved a very great damage. Fourthly by the Fleets being here in November, they may be ready to goe hence in April or May at furthest, by which they will prevent the ships being damage by the worme, and secure the men from those sicknesses which generally attend them in the heat of Summer.

Fifthly that by the Fleets going home in Summer they will have good weather, and moderate winds, so that if the have good convoys they may be kept together and carryed safe home, the contrary of which by going home in the Winter was sadly experienced by the last Fleet.

That after the Fleet is sail'd there be an imbargoe on all ships till the next years Fleet, this regulation would reduce Trade into its proper Channell, and by a right understanding betwixt the Merchants, they may agree on such methods as would fix the Markett of Tobacco both at home and abroad and would tend to her Majesty's interest to the great benefit of these Provinces and to Trade in general

I am obliged to take notice of some difficulties that will arise betwixt London and all the Northwest ports in respect of time place and manner of Joyning the Fleet, and so having the benefit of the Convoy, I cannot think but of these two ways that all the ships in Bristol Channell and all the severall Ports to the Northward must make up a fleet under a particular Convoy appointed for them, and so proceed on their voyage, or secondly that a time [be] fixed for all those ships to be ready and that under a good Convoy this be brought to joyne the Fleet in Falmouth or some other Port in the Channell and so proceed all together, either of these ways may doe, for I do not lay any great Stress on the outward bound Voyage, further than that they doe as near as possible sail at the same time from England, the main thing lyes on the homeward bound Fleet, that they do all sail out of the Capes together and make up one Fleet and that a particular part of the Convoy be ordered to see all the ships into the Ports that are not bound into the Channell If a small runner were dispatched away as soon as the Fleet is got clear of the Capes, it may be of great service by giving notice of their coming that so (during the war) there may be ships of war ordered to meet the Fleet to secure them in the greatest danger being about 60 or 80 Leagues from the Lands end; I need not tell your Lordships the necessity of having a very good Convoy to secure this Fleet home since it is of so great a concern to Her Majesty and for the same reason noe single ships ought to be suffered to run since it lessens the Queens revenue, feeds the Enemy, encourages Privateers, ruins the Planter makes a noyes and perhaps feeds a Markett in word it cannot be for a publick good.

I am obliged to mind your Lordships that it cannot be for her Majesty's Service, that the Comodores orders should confine him to certain fixed days of sailing hence with Fleet, it being impossible for his Royall Highness at so great a distance to foresee the many and great accidents that may fall out and very often doth happen so that I do most humbly propose that some what may be left to the Government and if your Lordships think fit that the Comodore, may be joynd with them, this may prevent many inconveniences & be of great satisfaction to the Country

And now may it please your Lordships that I have laid before you the true state of the Provinces of Virginia and Maryland, in relation to all the circumstances of their Trade, I begg leave most humbly to propose to your Lordships whether it may not be advisable considering the present miserable and unhappy condition of these Provinces by reason of their great losses, the lowness of the Markett which makes ordinary Tobacco of no value, and the little prospect they have, that what they send now will turn to a better account: I say considering all that hath been said on this subject Whether your Lordships may not think fit to suspend for the present the pressing them to pay their Quota towards the supply and support of Albany till they have a little recovered themselves to a more prosperous condition, which wholly depends on the regulation, and good management of the Tobacco Trade, such a gracious and favourable consideration in her Majesty will make the people of these provinces easy & chearfull under their present unhappy circumstances and make them when they are able to contribute far more willing and longer then what is now expected from them, all which is most humbly submitted to your Lordships wisdom, from what I have said I hope your Lordships will not conclude, that I am not in the least changed from my former declared opinion (i e) that the security of all the Provinces on the Maine doth depend on the effectuall defence of Albany and the Frontiers together with securing the five Nations of Indians to the English interest, that the Province of New York are not able to defray the charge of it, that its not reasonable that her Majesty should be at the expence of it, especially whilst she is engaged in so chargeable a War, that it ought to be defrayed by the severall Governments that reap the benefit of it. that no better method can be found than what hath been agreed upon by your Lordships long since the Quota's in proportion to the circumstances of the severall Provinces, but the misserable effects of this present war hath very very much altered the state of the Tobacco Plantations, which may make it adviseable to suspend their payment of it for some time, till they can recover themselves which is all I have to say on this subject, but before I conclude I am obliged to acquaint your Lordships that the Assembly of this Province mett the 20 of April and sate till the 12 day of May & were then prorogued to the 19 of October next during their sitting they past severall good Acts the account of them with the Journals and proceeding of the Councill and Assembly, your Lordships will receive with this, so must refer to them; I have little more to add but to assure you that the factious uneasy spirit is contracted into a very narrow compass the peoples eyes are open to see that those men had no other ground or motive for what they did but their malice and revenge, for not being continued in all places of honor and profit it is generally thought by [many] that Mr Ben: Harrison and the rest of his gang have made their last effort this session: the occasion was this, the Act for laying an imposition on liquors, Servants and Negroes appropriated to the building of the Capitall was expired, the inside work not being quite finished the Assembly brought in a Bill to revive the Act for one year longer and tho this Act noeways concerned her Majesty or the Governor, but purely for the service of the Country yet this Gentleman with his few factious Friends used the utmost of their endeavours to have thrown out this Bill, which did so effectually show the Assembly and the whole Country the true temper of them, that they will never be abuse[d] or imposed upon by them more which proved to be a very happy accident, for after this they could gain noe one point but all things went on very smoothly in the Assembly which cannot be better demonstrated then by the address and Journall of the house of Burgesses to which I refer; the great noyse and clamour which was so improved in the Country of those few uneasy men is now quite blown over, all these malicious storys of his Excellency being sent for home by her Majesty and new Governor sent in his room which they endeavoured to impose on the people are now at an end

I am very unwilling to trespass so far on your Lordships time, but must not omit to acquaint you, that the late expedition in South Carolina under the Conduct of Colonel James Moore<sup>1</sup> against the Apalacy Indians was a brave action and will be attended with this good

<sup>1</sup>Colonel JAMES MOORE of Berkley county, which comprised the country immediately around Charleston, was member of the Council of South Carolina as early as 1683 and down to 1700, when on the death of Gov. Blake he was elected Governor by "the Lords Deputies." In 1702, he put himself at the head of an expedition against St. Augustine, in Florida, an account of which was published in England in 1711, under the title of "The Successes of the English in America, by the March of Colonel Moore, Governor of Carolina, and his taking St. Augustine." Bib. Am., 114. He was shortly after succeeded in the government by Sir Nathaniel Johnson, but retained his seat in the Council and was appointed Attorney, and Receiver-General consequence to secure that Province from any sudden attempt of the Spanyards or Indians against them by land, this Nation of Indians being the Chief that the Spainards depended on for that design Colonel Moore marched with a great body of our Friendly Indians and about 50 Englishmen they killed a great number of the Enemy brought a great number of them prisoners, besides 1300 that came voluntary with them to live under the protection of the English Government.

I hope your Lordships will assist that Government, with a Man of War and a Bomb Ketch in order to taking St Augustine which may with ease be done, and will be of a vast consequence by a total removal of the Spaniards and French from those Southern parts, and bring all the Indians under the English Government.

As for Providence it lyes still ruin'd and depopulated, and so is like to continue, unless her Majesty will please to take it into her own hand and protection then it would be soon settled but noe number of people will ever venture to settle again under the Proprietors, It's pitty such a place should be deserted, I have said a great deal concerning this Island in a former memorial to which I refer, which is all I will presume to add at present, but begg leave to subscribe myself

Lieutenant-Governor Ingoldesby to Lord Nottingham.

[New-York Papers, VI., 9.]

New Yorke June 14. 1704.

May it please y<sup>r</sup> Lordship.

As I am in duty bound to acknowledge all favours and hon<sup>rs</sup> rec<sup>d</sup> from y<sup>r</sup> Lordship, so I thought my self likewise obliged to acquaint y<sup>r</sup> Lordship of my arrivall, after 15 weeks bad weather. I came to Virginia the 9th of January in y<sup>e</sup> Foway Friggott, having lost company with y<sup>e</sup> rest of y<sup>e</sup> Fleett, y<sup>e</sup> Dreadnaught w<sup>ch</sup> was our Comodore on whom was on board Coll Seymer Gov<sup>r</sup> of Maryland, was forced to bare away for Barbados for want of water, and did not arrive in Virginia untill y<sup>e</sup> middle of Aprill but all in health. I being taken ill of an ague and fever in y<sup>e</sup> country could not gett to New York untill y<sup>e</sup> beginning of March, where I found and Judge of the Admiralty Court. In 1703, Gov. Johnson put him in command of a military expedition against the Apalaches, a Creek or Seminole tribe then inhabiting the country called Apalatchia, between the Oemulgee river and the Bay, on the Gulf of Mexico, to which they have left their name. After fighting two battles, one of which was towards Moolle, (see Mitchell's Map of America.) he utterly reduced this tribe, 1300 of whom, as stated in the above despatch, accompanied him on his return to Carolina. On the overthrow of the Proprietary government in 1719, Colonel Moore was chosen Governor by the Convention. "He was," says Ramsay, "a man excellently well qualified for being a popular leader in per lous adventures, and had been removed from his command of the militia for warmly espousing th<sup>e</sup> cause of the people and opposing the proprietors." When the Royal authority was e-stablished in 1721, he was elected Speaker of the Assembly and filled that office until 1725. my Lord Cornbury & his family in good health; his Lordship has been very civill & kind to me, ordered my Cómmission for Leiu<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> to be published in Councill y<sup>e</sup> next day after my arrivall; his Lordships great prudence and stedy conduct has allmost extinguished y<sup>e</sup> divisions y<sup>t</sup> were amongst y<sup>e</sup> inhabitants, and is very much in y<sup>e</sup> esteeme of y<sup>e</sup> people, especially y<sup>e</sup> better sort, who talk very kindly of his Lordship & are willing to use their uttermost endeavours to make him happy and easy in his governm<sup>t</sup>; y<sup>e</sup> debts contracted by his predecessor amounting to at least £12000 are a great subject matter of complaint; the necessary things of the present warr and defence of the Province makes a constant demand of fresh supplies from the people and the staple of y<sup>e</sup> country, y<sup>e</sup> manufactory of flower, being of little value all this warr, a stop being put to y<sup>e</sup> consumption thereof in y<sup>e</sup> Spanish West Indies has much impoverishd the inhabitants. The Assembly are now sitting to provide for y<sup>e</sup> defence of y<sup>e</sup> frontiers amongst other matters, w<sup>ch</sup> I doubt not but y<sup>t</sup> his Excellency has given y<sup>r</sup> Lordship a particuler account of, as soon as the Assembly is up his Lordship designs for Albany where I shall attend him, and afterwards for Burlington to meett y<sup>e</sup> Assembly of New Jersey. As y<sup>r</sup> Lordship has been gratusly pleased to procure me Her Majesties Cómmission for Leiu<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> so I hope y<sup>r</sup> Lordship will be pleased to get some sallary settled upon me; y<sup>e</sup> late Leiu<sup>t</sup> Govern<sup>r</sup> having had £200 per Annum besides this Province made him a present of £500. I find the country very inclinable to do for me, but they say her Majes<sup>tie</sup> has ordered that no present shall be made to any Govern<sup>r</sup> Leiu<sup>t</sup> Govern<sup>r</sup> or Cómander in Cheife, so that I am like to be y<sup>e</sup> only sufferer unless I have y<sup>r</sup> Lordships favour in it. I humbly beg y<sup>r</sup> Lordship will pardon this, and y<sup>t</sup> I may be numbred amongsts, My Lord

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 113.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

I now send your Lordships the accounts of the late Earle of Bellomont, stated as I take it in the proper method; I must acquaint you that M<sup>r</sup> Walters Mylady Bellomont's agent here, told me when I first sent up for him (after I had received Her Ladyship's accounts which you were pleased to send me) that he had not rec<sup>d</sup> any accounts from My Lady Bellomont, but that he expected them daily, and that as soon as he received them he would acquaint me with it; accordingly in few days, he told me he had received them, and told me further that Her Lad<sup>shp</sup> had desired M<sup>r</sup> Ling and M<sup>r</sup> Cholwell (two Merchants of this place and very good Men) to assist him in the stating her accounts, upon which, I appointed M<sup>r</sup> Barbary, M<sup>r</sup> Jamison, and M<sup>r</sup> Fanconier (who are all three excellent accountants) to meet the three persons named by Mylady Bellomont to state the accounts of the late Earle, and I directed them to do it as soon as possible, in order to which there was a meeting appointed; there they differed about the method of making up the accounts, Mylady Agents insisting that My Lady ought to be charged with no more than what My Lord had actually received, but they could not produce any account from the Paymaster Gen<sup>l</sup>'s Office in England to shew what that was; so the persons appointed by me insisted, that since they could not produce any such account, Mylady was to be charged, with all that Mylord had rec<sup>d</sup>, or might have received and that if the account was so stated, it could be no prejudice to Mylady Bellomont, because when that account should come into England, Mylady would be immediately discharged of all such sums as should be found to remain in the pay Office, if any such sums there were, but that I could here pass nothing to Mylady's credit, but what her Agents produced vouchers for, unless they could produce an account of what was actually paid to Mylord Bellomont or his Agents from the Paymaster Gen<sup>l</sup>'s office, attested by the proper Officer, that in case I should charge Mylady according to that account, but till such an account did appear, I must charge Mylady with the whole. The persons appointed by Mylady not liking that method, broke off the meeting that time, since which they have met twice, but to no purpose, but at the last of those meetings, the persons appointed by me gave the others such an account as I thought Mylady ought to be charged with, and desired them to make their objections in writing, to that account, if any they had, they took the account, but we could never get them to meet since. I have several times since that time (which was in September last) asked some of those appointed by Mylady, why they would not go on with stating that account, and they have as often answered me, that they could not consent Mylady should be charged with more than was actually received, and I could get no other answer, by which I perceived it would be impossible ever to state an account as it ought to be with those Gentlemen, therefore, I ordered the accounts to be stated by way of Debtor and Creditor, which being done, I laid it before the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council for this Province, and desired them to send for Mylady Bellomont's agents, and shew them that account, and hear their objections if any they had, then seriously to consider the whole matter, and report to me how they found, with their opinions accordingly; the Accounts were given to Mylady's Agents who after two days returned them and said they could not agree to that method, but they would state their account their own way, and would send it into England and give me a copy of it (but that is not yet done). Then I desired the Gent<sup>l</sup> of the Council to peruse those accounts, and give me their opinion on them, accordingly they met twice, and went through part of them, then they acquainted me, that they found those accounts very long, and they were affraid they should not be able to prepare Report, before this ship sails; I told them however they should go on, and if it could not be done for this ship, it should go by the next; in the mean time, I send your Lord<sup>sh</sup> the accounts stated as I think they ought to be, and are as follows.

The full subsistance of the Four Company's from the first of January 169<sup>5</sup> to the 25th of March 1699 according to the establishment bearing date the 1st April 1694 and ending the said 25th of March 1699 (The Lieutenants their servants and the Adjutant excepted, they having a seperate account) amounts to £9570.6<sup>s</sup>.5<sup>d</sup>. the clearings of the said Forces for said time amounts to £686.1.8<sup>d</sup> in all £10256.8.00. upon these two heads, it does not appear by their own account, or by any other account that I have seen, that they have paid any more than £554.19.1<sup>d</sup> upon this establishment the Company's were hundreds.

The full subsistance of the said four Company's, from the 26th of March 1699 to the 24th of April 1700. according to the establishment bearing date the said 26th of March 1699 and ending the 24th of April 1700. the Lieutenants their servants and the Adjutant, excepted, (they having a separate account) amounts to £2607.15.10 $\frac{2}{3}$ . the clearings of the said forces for said time amounts to £322.9.1 $\frac{2}{3}$  in all £2930.5.00. what has been paid upon these two heads, does not appear to me, because the amount exhibited by Mr Champante, in behalf of Mylady Bellomont, and send to my by your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, bear no date, neither with respect to his receipts nor payments. Now the Company's were fifty's.

The full subsistence of the said four Comp<sup>ys</sup> from the 25th of April 1700 to the 7th of March 170 $\frac{1}{2}$  according to the establishment bearing date the said 25th of April 1700. yet in force (The Lieutenants their servants and the Adjutant excepted, they having a separate account) amounts to £3695.6.3 $\frac{3}{4}$ . the clearings of said Forces for said time amounts to £256.12.4 $\frac{1}{2}$  in all £3951.15.8.

The three Clauses above reciting the three Establishments in force in Mylord Bellomont's time, are all computed in Sterling money, but it must be observed, that by the two first Establishments, there was a deduction to be made of thirty per cent, out of every hundred pounds Sterling, so that the Soldiers here did receive but £100 currant for £100 sterling, but by the last Establishment the forces here were to receive the £120 currant for £100 sterling, so that by the two first establishments before mentioned, Mylord Bellomont is accountable to the Crown for thirty per cent, and by the last establishment for ten per cent only of the whole pay of the four Company's, as will appear by the account N<sup>o</sup> 17.

The subsistence of the Lieutenants who were eight in Number, with their servants (according to the two first establishments, beginning the first of April 1694. and ending the 24. of April 1700) from the 1st January 169 $\frac{5}{8}$  to the said 24th of April 1700. amounts to £1210.00.00 their Clearings for said time amounts to £1048.13.4. The subsistence of said Lieuten<sup>ts</sup> and their servants (according to the last establishment bearing date the 25th of April 1700) the said Lieutenants being twelve in number from the said 25th of April to the 7th of March 170 $\frac{1}{2}$  amounts to £475.10.00. their Clearings for said time amounts to £412.2.00. which four sums amounts in all to £3146.5.4 ster<sup>ls</sup>.

The whole pay for the Adjutant from the 1st of January 169 $\frac{5}{8}$  to the 24 of April 1700. (being the time of the two first Establishments) amounts to £242.00.00 and from the 25th of April 1700. to the seventh of March 170 $\frac{1}{2}$  amounts to £63.5.00. being the time of the last Establishment which make the summe of £305.5.0. Sterling.

By the above articles it will appear that the whole subsistence and clearings of the forces here, during the time of Mylord Bellomonts Administration, allowing the Company's to be compleat, according to the several Establishments, amounts to £20590.5.0. sterling.

Mylord Bellomont is further to be charged with 20<sup>1</sup> per cent for the subsistence and Clearings from the 25th of April 1700 to the 7th of March 170 $\frac{1}{2}$ . (that being the time the forces received £120. currant for every £100. sterling) amounting to £790.7.5 $\frac{1}{2}$ . the 20 per cent for said time upon the subsistence and clearings of the Lieutenants and their servants amounts to £177.10.5. the 20 per cent for said time upon the Adjutants whole pay amounts to £12.13.7. which several articles of 20 per cent for said time, being added together amounts to £980.4.5 $\frac{1}{2}$  New Yorke money.—

This summe of £980.11.5 $\frac{1}{2}$ . New Yorke money being added to the above summe of £20590.0.0. sterling will make the summe of £21570.19.5 $\frac{1}{2}$ . New Yorke money which I take to be the full charge upon Mylord Bellomont, during the time of his Admidistra<sup>m</sup>, upon the two heads of subsistence, and Clearings, according to the several establishments.

The late Earl of Bellomont is to be further charged with the full pay of a certain number of Supernumerary's (which happened to be kept in pay over and above the numbers allowed by the Establishment bearing date the 26th of March 1699; the order for reducing the Company's from hundreds to fiftys, either not arriving here at all, or else so late that the Establishment for making them hundreds, bearing date the 25th of April 1700. prevented the reduction) amounting to the sum of £513.4.0. sterl<sup>r</sup> for which the forces were to receive but New Yorke money, it being part of that time in which the forces received but £100 currant for £100 sterl<sup>r</sup>, so that if this sum of £513.4.0. is added to the forementioned sum of £21,570.19.8<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. they will make the charge upon Mylord Bellomont upon the several heads aforementioned amount to £22084.3.8<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. New Yorke money.

Upon the several heads aforementioned Mylord Bellomont has paid to the Forces here (as appears by the several accounts sent over from England) the several sums following:—

Upon the Establishment beginning the 1st of April 1694. and ending the 25th of March 1699. it appears by the said accounts, that the said Earle has paid the sum of £554.19.1<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. (as I have already observed in the Article of charge upon the said Earle for the said time) besides what may have been paid to the Victuallers which does not appear to me by any account yet exhibited.

Upon the second establishment, beginning the 26th of March 1699 and ending the 24th of April 1700. and upon the third Establishment, bearing date the 25th of April 1700. (which remains still in force) to the 7th of March 170<sup>1</sup>/<sub>1</sub> which is the day the said Earle's payments determined (the Lieutenants, their servants and the Adjutant excepted, they having a separate account No 12.) it appears by the said accounts, the said Earle has paid the summe of £547.3.3<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. New Yorke money, but the said accounts bearing no dates of the times when the several articles, and sums contained in the said accounts were paid, I could not adapt them, to their proper times and places.

Upon the heads of subsistence and Clearings for the Lieutenants and their servants, from the 1st of January 169<sup>9</sup>/<sub>9</sub> to the 7th of March 170<sup>1</sup>/<sub>1</sub> it appears by the said several accounts, that the said Earle has paid the summe of £964.2.5<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>.

The Adjutant appears by the said accounts, to have received upon account of his whole pay upon the three several Establishments aforementioned the sum of £75.19.0.

The Respits during the Administration of Mylord Bellomont upon the three Establishments, as well of Officers, as Soldiers, amount to £951.00.00. for which I conceive His Lord<sup>sh</sup> ought to have credit.

The last five Articles contain all that the said Earle can claim, in discharge of the charge abovementioned, amounting to the sume of £5003 3 10<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. which being deducted out of aforementioned charge of £22,084.3.8<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. the said Earle will remain Debtor in the whole, upon the several heads aforementioned, the sume of £14080.19.10. this I take to be the true ballance of the said Earle's accounts upon the several heads aforementioned, as far as appears to me, by any accounts or claims yet exhibited or made, either here or in England as far as is come to my knowledge.

The head of offreckonings for Mylord Bellomont's time stands thus: from the first day of January 169<sup>9</sup>/<sub>9</sub> to the 25th of March 1699. (being the time of the first Establishment) the Offreckonings amount to £3228.17.4. sterl<sup>r</sup>, upon this Establishment the Company's were 100ths from the 26th of March 1699. to the 24 of April 1700. (being the time of the second Establishment) the Offreckonings amount to £871.4.0. sterl<sup>r</sup> by this Establishment the Company's were to be but fifty's, from the 25th of April 1700. to the 7th of March 170 $\frac{1}{2}$  (at which time Mylord's payments determined) the Offreckonings amount to £1257.8.8. sterl<sup>r</sup> which last summe with the addition of 20 per cent makes £1508.18.5. New Yorke money, so the whole offreckonings in Mylord Bellomonts time according to the severall Establishments amounts to £5608.19.9. New Yorke money.

The said Earle is likewise to be charged with £1680. sterl: upon the head of offreckonings, grown due before the 1st of January 169 $\frac{1}{2}$ . which his Lordship received in England in August 1697. as I am informed; it appears by M<sup>r</sup> Champante's Accounts, that My Lord Bellomont received that summe, but his acc<sup>t</sup> having no date, I can not be positive of the day it was received.

Soe that the whole charge upon the said Earle, on the head of offreckonings amounts to the summe of £7288.19.9. New Yorke money.

In discharge whereof the said Earle has paid as follows:—first; some goods brought by his Lord<sup>sh</sup> from England to this place in 1698. to make cloaths for the Soldiers, for which M<sup>r</sup> Champante charges in the last account sent over hither, to the debit of the Four Company's the summe of £3321.2.3 $\frac{1}{2}$ . including a payment to Capt<sup>n</sup> Matthews, on account of cloathing, but he does not distinguish what that payment amounts to, but Capt<sup>n</sup> Matthews says, it was for making up the goods brought by Mylord Bellomont into cloaths here, and amounts to £272.13.7 $\frac{1}{2}$  New Yorke money as appears by an account (sent over by M<sup>r</sup> Champante) of the particulars of said cloathing according to his own prizes in which the total amounts to no more than £2,308.16.1 $\frac{1}{2}$  which is £12.6.2. less than the total of his last account besides these two accounts I have a copy of an account sent by M<sup>r</sup> Champante to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, and attested by him to be a true copy, intituled (An Account of the Offreckonings of the Four independant Company's at New Yorke) in the first Article of this account on the Credit side, he makes himself Creditor for £729.8.0 as paid by him in England, to the late Earle of Bellomont's order, on account of the cloathing in £1697. and in the said account gives no further credit, neither to Mylord Bellomont nor himself, upon the head of Cloathing for the year 1697—This mighty difference of accounts, gave me curiosity to examine more nicely, than I had done his account of particulars of said cloathing by which it appears to me, that the prime cost of said cloathing in sterling amounts to no more than £966.8.0. the first, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth Articles in his Accounts, being for loss upon Malt Tickets, exchanging of salt Tally's, money given to the Clerks at Mylord Renelaugh's Office, coach hire and expences. Upon this I must observe in the first place, that suppose the £1680 sterl: received by the late Earle of Bellomont has been paid in Tally's, or Malt Tickets, yet there was no manner of reason for loosing £588. for discount of Malt Tickets (as he charges in the first Article of his said acc<sup>t</sup>) because it is certain the Clothiers he dealt with, would have taken those Malt Tickets in payment for the goods they furnished, especially since the cloathing of the whole army at that time, was paid for no otherwise than by such like public funds, which carried on interest along with them. Secondly, besides the £588. loss upon the Malt Tickets, he charges thirty per cent upon the said loss—Thirdly, he charges the Company's with shirts and neck cloaths as bought of one Cratchrode, and at the same time, charges for making of shirts and Neck cloaths £26.3.6. New Yorke money, which last charge I find to be true, because I have certain information, they were made here. I could mention severall irregularities more in his account of particulars but I am not willing to trouble your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with them since I herewith send you copy's of the three severall accounts aforementioned.

The uncertainty of all these accounts, and there appearing no certain account of all the goods brought over by the Earl of Bellomont, I required an account (from the Officers of the several Comp<sup>y</sup>'s (of what goods they have received from Mylord Bellomont upon account of the cloathing in 1697. they having given me an account of the several kinds of goods they received, and the quantity's, I ordered a valuation to be made of those goods, at the highest rates they have been known to be worth here, which amounts to £1300. as by the account N<sup>o</sup> S.

This being the Justest calculation I can make, with relation to the goods brought hither by the Earle of Bellomont, for cloathing and which ought to be paid out of the £1680. received by his Lord<sup>sh</sup> in England, I must be of opinion that no more ought to be allowed than the £1300. abovementioned.

The said Earl is further to have credit for a cloathing sent hither by M<sup>r</sup> Champante in the year 1700. amounting to £999 7 4. sterl: as appears by his own account delivered to me by himself in London in September 1701. to which last summe add ten per cent and that will make in New Yorke money £1099.6.00 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

These two summs of £1300. and £1099.6.00 $\frac{3}{4}$ . added to one another, make the sum of £2399.6.00 $\frac{3}{4}$  which is all the credit the said Earle can claim on the head of Offreckonings—

This last summe being deducted out of the £7288.19.9. mentioned on the other side, to be the Total of the Offreckonings in Mylord Bellom<sup>ts</sup> time the £1680. included, there will remain a ballance of £4889 13 8 $\frac{1}{4}$  either due by the said Earle, or remaining in the Paymaster General's Office, upon the head of Offreckonings.

So that upon the whole it will appear, that the ballance due by the late Earle of Bellomont to the four Companys here, amounts to £18970.13.6 $\frac{1}{4}$  except what he may have paid to the Victuallers, or may yet remain in the pay office in England, what that may be does not appear to me.

The said Earle is to have Credit for the days pay poundage, and Agency upon the whole pay of the forces here, the Lieutenants their servants and the Adjutant excepted, amounting to the several summs following: Upon the first establishment ending the 25 of March 1699. the days pay poundage and agency amounts to £926 3 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ , upon the Second Establishment ending the 24 of April 1700. the day's pay poundage and Agency, amounts to £405 13 4 $\frac{3}{4}$  Upon the last Establishment (still in force) to the 7th of March 170 $\frac{1}{2}$  (the day that Mylord Bellomont's payments determined) the day's pay poundage, and agency amounts to £350.00.2 $\frac{3}{4}$  which three last summs put together will amount to £1681.17.4 $\frac{1}{2}$ . New York money.

The day's pay poundage, and Agency upon the pay of the Lieutenants and their servants for all Mylord Bellomont's time, amounts to £157.17.9 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

The day's pay poundage and agency for the said time upon the Adjutant's pay amounts to £19.8.6.

These two last summs amounting to £177.6.3 $\frac{3}{4}$ . being added to the above sum of £1681.17.4 $\frac{1}{2}$ . will make the summe of £1859.3.8 $\frac{1}{4}$ . New Yorke money, this last summe being deducted out of £18970.13.6 $\frac{1}{4}$ . ballance on the other side, the remaining ballance upon the several heads of subsistance, Clearings, Offreckonings, day's pay poundage and Agency, will appear to be £17.111.9.9 $\frac{3}{4}$  New Yorke money.—

Upon the two first Establishments the Forces here, were to receive but £100 curr: money for £100 sterl: so there remained in the Govern<sup>rs</sup> hands £30. upon every £100. of the pay of the Forces here, which was appropriated by the late King's order, to the payment of the Staff Officers, and the repairs of Fortifications, which said £30 per cent upon those two first Establishments amounts to £6594.4.4. New Yorke money; Upon the last Establishment (still in force) the forces here were to receive £120 currant for every £100 sterl: so there remained in the Governour's hands but ten per cent upon every £100 of the pay of the Forces here (appropriated as aforesaid) which said 10 per cent from the 25 of April 1700 to the 7th of March 170<sup>o</sup> amounts to £616.0.9. New Yorke money; which said sums of £6594.4.4. and £616.0.9. will make the summe of £7210.5.1. which is the whole amount, of the 30 per cent and 10 per cent during the time of Mylord Bellomont's Adminis<sup>o</sup>

This last article ought to have been discharged by the payment of the Staff Officers, and repairs of Fortifications, but the Countess of Bellomont, nor M<sup>r</sup> Champante for her, nor any other person whatsoever, having yet exhibited any account (that I have ever seen or heard of) either of the 30 per cent or ten per cent, I can not make any discharge of the above charge of £7210.5.1. which added to the above ballance of £17111.9.9<sup>3</sup> will make the summe of £24321.14.10<sup>3</sup>.

This I take to be the full and just charge upon the whole account, between the late Earl of Bellomont, and the Forces in this province, and which I think ought to stand good, till the Countess of Bellomont or her Agents think fit to discharge the same by proper vouchers all which is humbly submitted to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s better judgements.

I could trouble your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s with many observations upon M<sup>r</sup> Champantes accounts as for example. M<sup>r</sup> Champante is now to make up an account in behalf of the Countess of Bellomont, of all the several sums of money received by the late Earle of Bellomont or his Agents, upon Accounts of the Forces here, and paid to, or on account of the said forces, and yet he takes no notice in his account currant (nor in any other account yet exhibited by him) of what money was received by the said Earle before he, M<sup>r</sup> Champante came to be his Agent, except the £1680, upon the head of Offreckonings and £500 as received by Sir William Ashurst, but does not mention whether any more has been received or not, tho' in another account delivered to me by himself, before I left England, and signed by him as a true account; the fourth article runs thus: (To money of the Four Company's received from Sir John Stanley, being the ballance of Sir W<sup>m</sup> Ashurst's account £647.14.0) whereby it appears, that in one account he charges Sir W<sup>m</sup> Ashurst, with the receipt of no more than £500. and in the other he makes the ballance of Sir W<sup>m</sup> Ashurst's acc<sup>t</sup> to be £647.14.0 which is a plain contradiction, for the word ballance infers a greater summe due or received, because a lesser summe may be a ballance to a greater, but the greater can not be the ballance to a lesser. I shall further observe, that the account laid before your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s signed by M<sup>r</sup> Pouncefort as a true account from the office (of which you were pleased to send me a copy attested by M<sup>r</sup> Pople to be a true copy) no mention is made of any money paid to the Earle of Bellomont, or his Agents, before the time that M<sup>r</sup> Champante came to be his Agent, though, it is certainly true that considerable sums were received by the said Earle in England, upon the head of substance, & perhaps upon others too. It is true indeed that in the account delivered to me by M<sup>r</sup> Champante in England, in the first article on the Credit side, he gives himself credit for £965 2 0. as received by Sir W<sup>m</sup> Ashurst in part of a summe of £2498.8.9. which he calls in the first article of the said account, on the debit side (the intire substance and Clearings of the Four Company's from the 25th March 1699. to the 24. of Dec<sup>r</sup> following) and now in his account currant he charges the same summe of £2498.8.9. as received by himself, in the fourth Article on the debit side of his said account currant which is impossible, unless the Office has paid £965.2.0. more than they ought to have done for that time. I hope your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s will be pleased to order an account to be laid before you, of all such summes of money as were paid to the Earle of Bellomont or his Agents, by the pay office from the 1st January 1697 to the 25th of March 1699. of which there yet appears no manner of Account that I know of, by which Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will be best informed, how much remains in the pay office, which with humble submission, I conceive ought to be passed to the credit of the said Earle for so much in discharge of the General ballance of £24921.11.10 $\frac{3}{4}$  mentioned on the other side.

The next observation I shall make, is: that M<sup>r</sup> Champante did receive in the year 1697 the Offreckonings for that year, amounting to £1062.5.S. as appears by the first article of M<sup>r</sup> Pancefort's acc<sup>ts</sup>, out of which he sent a cloathing in 1700. amounting to £999.7.4. as appears by his account aforementioned (which he calls a double cloathing) by which it appears that the cloathing sent in 1700. cost £62.18.4. less than the Offreckonings, received by him in 1697. though now in his account currant, in the last article, on the credit side he gives himself credit for the summe of £332.17.S. in part of the said cloathing (as he calls it) at the same time in an account, produced by Capt<sup>m</sup> Nanfan and signed by him as a true copy, of the account of Offreckonings, sent to him by M<sup>r</sup> Champante, the said M<sup>r</sup> Champante gives himself credit for £1014.7.4. for the same cloathing so that the account he gave me in England of that cloathing differs from the Account sent to Capt<sup>m</sup> Nanfan £15. besides the £332.17.S. by him past on the credit side of his account currant, in the Earl of Bellomont's time, in part of the said cloathing.—I could observe that though M<sup>r</sup> Champante in his account currant, charges the Forces here, with £33.6.11. for discount of Tally's and Exchequer bills, besides the £52.S. charged for loss of Malt tickets in the year 1697. he does not think fit to allow them any interest for the Offreckonings received in 1697. though he kept them in his hands till the year 1700. though certainly interest might be demanded of him by much better reasons, than he could charge discount, for the reasons before mentioned. Thus I have given your Lord<sup>ships</sup> the best account I can of the State of the Forces here, during the time of Mylord Bellomont's Administration, and I intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to do me the Justice to believe, that I have done it with all the impartiality imaginable.

I must now inform your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that besides that account, between the late Earle of Bellomont and the forces here, there are other sums of money mentioned in the account M<sup>r</sup> Champante gave me in England, which perhaps your Lordships may be of opinion ought to be accounted for—The first of which is £300. charged as received by himself on account of a present to the Indians—The other is £500. by him charged as received by him towards building of a Fort in the Onnondages Country;—As to the first of these two sums, I can only say, that M<sup>r</sup> Champante's accounts bearing no date, I am not able to inform you at what time that money was received by him, nor whether it was ever laid out, he not having given himself credit for any thing upon that head, in any of his accounts that I have yet seen. As to the second summe the Countess of Bellomont paid that summe to M<sup>r</sup> Fauconier, who was then one of the Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for executing the office of Collector, and Receiver Gen<sup>l</sup> of this province, which was paid by him to M<sup>r</sup> Abeel of Albany, to be laid out in materials for the Fort to be built there, but the said Abeel has not yet made up his account, but I hope to have it ready by the next conveyance.

I must further inform Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, that inquiring into the matter of the Victualers, I found that Coll: Schuyler, and some others that victualled the Company's at Albany, the latter part of Coll: Fletcher's time and the beginning of Mylord Bellomont's, claimed considerable sums of money as due to them upon account of Victualling; so I directed them to give me an account of what sums they had received from those two Governours upon that head which they did; by which it appears, that Coll: Fletcher, paid them to the 1st of May 1697 according to his contract with them, (by which he was to pay them every six months) and I supposed had continued to do so, had not M<sup>r</sup> Gilbert Heathcote who was his Agent, written him word, that he was superceeded by Mylord Bellomont, and he must draw no more Bills upon account of the Soldiers, because his Lord<sup>p</sup> had received the subsistance from the 1st of January 1697 (and that is the reason why I have charged his Lord<sup>p</sup> from that day). that letter came to Coll: Fletcher in October 1697, and the last day of that month, there would be six Months due to the Victualers; Coll: Fletcher sent for them and told them he would pay them no more, upon which they said, if so, they could victual no longer, Coll: Fletcher advised with the Council, that then was, who unanimously agreed that the Victualers should be desired to go on, and to encourage them so to do, it was agreed they should have interest for what was then due to them, and what they should further advance, till the arrival of the Earle of Bellomont, upon this the Victuallers went on, and upon the arrival of Mylord Bellomont they applyed to him for their money, who put them off (as they say) several times till at last Coll: Schuyler pressing his Lord<sup>p</sup> very earnestly for that money Mylord was pleased to give him a warrant of £300 upon the Revenue of this Province (which with submission I think ought not to have been). It is true indeed that by the Account it appears that money was to be repaid to the Revenue, out of the subsistance, when received, but it does not appear to me, that ever that money was repaid. I thought myself obliged to acquaint your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s with this Article, because, tho' it may appear by the Victuallers Accounts, when exhibited that they have rec<sup>d</sup> so much, yet I conceive the late Earle of Bellomont is Debtor to the Revenue of this Province for that summe of £300.

I shall further observe, that at the arrival of the Earle of Bellomont and in some few days after, the debt due to the Victuallers (in pursuance of the Contracts made between them and Coll: Fletcher) amounted to the summe of £1749.7.10½ out of which £300. being paid by Warrants (as abovementioned). the principall summe then and still remaining due to the said Victuallers amounts to £1449.7.10½ for which last summe no satisfaction could be obtained, neither in Mylord Bellomont's time, nor in Capt: Nanfan's neither with respect to the principal summe nor the interest, though application was often made by the Victuallers, who after my arrival here applyed themselves to me upon that subject, by a memorial which I referred to the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council, who made a report to me, upon the whole matter, of which I send your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s a copy.

I shall further observe that the above summe of £1449.7.10½. ought to be paid out of the subsistance growing due at that time, so that if the late Earle of Bellomont, or his agents have received any part of the subsistance for that time, so much of that debt ought to be discharged by his Lordship, and the rest ought to be discharged by the subsistance for said time remaining in the Paymaster General's Office; till which time the Revenue of this province is burthened with interest for the said summe of £1449.7.10½. upon which head the Revenue here has already paid (upon warrants granted by me pursuant to the Report of the Gentlemen of the Council aforementioned) the summe of £578.0.1½. whether this last summe as well as the growing interest for said principal summe ought to lye on the Revenue here, or be paid by the persons who have received the subsistance of that time, I submit to Your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s—

These methods, and others of the like nature have brought the Revenue of this Province so deep in debt, that whereas formerly money was always to be had upon reasonable terms, upon the credit of the Revenue, now there is not one farthing to be borrowed upon that credit, were the Emergencies of the Govern<sup>t</sup> never so great.

Thus I have given your Lord<sup>shps</sup> the best account I can of all accounts between the late Earle of Bellomont and the Forces posted here, and the Province. I hope it will be to your Lord<sup>shps</sup> satisfaction; if any thing has slipt my memory or my observation at this time, I shall inform you of it by the first opportunity. I am etc.

Lord Cornbury to the Earl of Nottingham.

[New-York Papers, VI., 10.]

New Yorke June 22. 1704.

My Lord

Your Lordships letter of the 22nd of July last, came to my hands on the 23<sup>d</sup> of Aprill the Dreadnought having been driven off this coast into Barbados, and did not get into Maryland, till the 13th of Aprill. Your Lordshippe is pleased to signifie to me her Majesty's pleasure that the Captains of the men of warr, which shall be commanded to the West Indies should be used by the severall Governors under Her Majesty's obedience with all civillity, and with that respect which is due to that post: I humbly intreat the favour of your Lordshippe to assure her Majesty that I will diligently obey her commands not only in this, but in all things wherein she will be pleased to honour me with them. I hope his Royall Highness my Lord High Admirall will be pleased to command the Captains of her Majesty's ships of Warr, to be carefull in keeping their men, for sometimes it falls heavy upon these Collonyes, by reason of the desertion of the seamen, and, as this Province is scituate, it falls heavier upon this then upon any other upon the Continent, because of the ill methods of our neighbours of Connecticut and Rhode Island, who protect all deserters, both from the garrison here, and from Her Majesty's ships, and will not let us have them, though we shew them the men. Now if a ship comes into this port, and wants forty men of her complement, the Queen having been pleased to command me to provide soe many men as any of her ships may want, the Captain will have his full complement made up. This often occasions our young men to run away, either into New Jersey or Connecticut, and sometimes settle there, which is a great losse to this Colony. I take the liberty to mention this to your Lordship, hoping you will be pleased to obtain such an order to the Captains of Her Majesty's ships, which will be a greate ease to these Collonyes.

Now I shall take the liberty to acquaint your Lordshippe that the French of Canada and their Indians have done a great deale of Mischief upon the Eastern borders of New England, the last summer, last winter and this spring; they have this last winter cut off the towne of Deerfield, which belongs to the Govern<sup>t</sup> of Massachusetts Bay, but lies to the Northwards of Connecticut, about a hundred and twenty miles from Albany. It was occasioned by the negligence of the people, who did not keep guard soe carefully as they should have done, though I had sent them notice a considerable time before, that the ennemy was preparing to attack them; the design of the French was brought to my knowledge by some spys which I have kept in the Indian Country, ever since the warr has been declared, and they have proved very true to me, for they have brought me word from time to time of all the preparations the French have made of which I have constantly given Collonell Dudley notice. The ennemy have not yet attempted any thing upon our northern frontiers. I will take all the care I can to be in as good a posture to receive them as possible; though I must inform your Lordshippe that all manner of stores of warr are very scarce with us, there having been none sent since I came hither, soe that a great deale of the powder is spoiled. I hope the Queen will be pleased to order us a suply both of arms and ammunition. Your Lordshippes letters by which you are pleased to signifie to me her Majesty's favour to her subjects here, whereby she is pleased to grant them the liberty to trade to the Spanish West Indies, are come to my hands. I have acquainted the merchants here with it, who are very sensible of her Majesty's great goodnesse to them. I will take care to see the orders contained in your Lordships letters obeyd to the best of my power and understanding, as I entreat you to believe I shall always be ready to doe, being with great respect My Lord

humble humble<sup>1</sup> servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

My Lords.

Alter having several times desired Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan to make up his accounts, with the Four Company's of Fuzeelers in the province, after many delays he brought me an account stated by a Dutch Man here which had neither head nor tail; I told Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, his accounts must be stated by way of Debtor and Creditor but it seems the persons he employed, either could not or would not understand that method, for he brought me two accounts afterwards, in no better a method than the first. So seeing there never would be an end that way, I ordered the accounts of the Four Company's to be stated as I have seen it done in England, under the heads of subsistance, clearings, and offreckonings, according to the Establishment and Muster Rolls; which being done, I ordered a copy of that account to be given to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan—After he had it sometime, I laid another copy of that account before the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council for this Province, and desired them, to examine and consider it well, to send for Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan and hear his objections if any he had, and make a Report to me upon the whole matter; accordingly they did make a Report which I here send inclosed to your Lord<sup>shps</sup> with the account above mentioned, which I hope will prove to your satisfaction. I am sure if I had not taken this method, I should not have been able to have sent over his accounts these 3. years.

I shall now observe to Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> that the late Earle of Bellomont dying the 5th of March 170<sup>9</sup> Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan charges himself with the subsistance from the 8th of said March forward which subsistance from the said 8th of March 170<sup>1</sup> to the 24th of December 1701. computed according to the establishment (allowing the Company's to be full hundreds the Adjutant only excepted) amounts in sterling money to £3841.17.8½. to which adding 20 per cent (pursuant to the late King's order to the late Earle of Bellomont) to make it New Yorke money, amounts in the whole to £4610.5.3. by Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's own account, it appears, he has paid in New Yorke money here the summe of £3662.12.11¼, and in England according to M<sup>r</sup> Champante's account in sterling money £278.10.0. which with the addition of ten per cent makes £306.7.0. New Yorke money. So that the whole of what Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan has paid both here and in England amounts to £3968.19.11¼.—So that if the Company's had been compleat, Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan would be debtor to the said Company's upon the head of subsistance only the summe of £641.5.3¾—but the Muster Rolls making out but about 347 effectives, there will remain so many respits as will amount to £604.16.00 sterl: which in New Yorke money amounts to £725.15.2½, which respit if allowed to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan upon his account, he will be Creditor upon that head, the sume of £84.9.10¾ New Yorke money—Besides Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan has advanced to Coll Ingoldsby's Lady £23.17.7¾ which two last summs make the summe of £108.7.6¾, which he seems to be creditor for, upon the head of subsistance.

As to the head of Clearings it stands thus: The whole of the Clearings from the 8th of March 170<sup>1</sup> to the 24. of December 1701. amounts to £769.19.6¼. sterl: money (Adjutant excepted) which with addition of 20 per cent (pursuant to the late King's order to the late Earle of Bellomont) makes in New Yorke money £923.19.5¼: It appears by Capt: Nanfan's own accounts, that he has paid here upon the head of clearings £205.8.1½, besides the poundage, Agency and Day's pay to Chelsea Hospital, amounting to £49.18.7¾, both these last summs New Yorke money, and make together £255.6.9¾, and by M<sup>r</sup> Champante's account, it appears that he has paid in England, upon that head of Clearings £148.0.6. sterl: which makes in New Yorke money £172.16.3¼, which two summs of £255.6.9¾ and £172.16.3¼, make together the summe of £428.3.0½, so that he is Debtor upon the head of Clearings £195.16.4½.

The head of Offreckonings from the said 5th of March 170<sup>1</sup> to the said 24. of Decemb<sup>r</sup> 1701. stands thus: The whole Offreckonings for one year amounts to £1447.16.8. sterl: so that the proportion of Offreckonings for the above said time amounts £1158.5.4. but the said Offreckonings not coming into the hands of the Commanders in Cheif of this Province, nor his Agent, but remaining in the Paymaster General's Office, to answer and pay such cloathing as is provided by the Agent in England, and sent over hither for the soldiers, I have it in this account charged Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan with no more than it appears by M<sup>r</sup> Champante's own Acc<sup>t</sup>, that he has received for cloathis sent hither, which amounts to £1892.16.00 sterl: which make in New Yorke money £2271.7.2½, out of which summe we have had a cloathing, called by M<sup>r</sup> Champante a double cloathing, but so bad a one, that I thought it my duty to have it appraised here by Merchants, who trade every day in those goods, a copy whereof I formerly sent your Lord<sup>sh</sup>ps and now send you enclosed the original estimate signed by the Merchants and Officers present at the valuation, by which it appears that Cloathing could not be worth above £1138.6.7½. sterl: which makes with the addition of 20 per cent £1365.19.11. New Yorke money, add to that the day's pay, Poundage, and Agency for all the Pay except the Lieutenants their servants and the Adjutant, amounting to £268.10.2¾. sterl: which with the addition of 30 per cent makes £342.11.3½. New Yorke money, which two summs in New Yorke money amount to £1708.11.2½, which being deducted out of the £2271.7.2½, abovementioned, there will remain £562.15.11½. which Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan is Debtor for, upon the head of Offreckonings—

The whole pay of the Staff Officers from the 8th of March 170<sup>o</sup> to the 24. Decemb<sup>r</sup> 1701. amounts to £323.12.8 sterl: which with the addition of 20 per cent makes £388.7.2½ New Yorke money, it appears by Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's own account, that he has paid no more than £310.14.2½. New York money, during the whole time of his Administration, so that he is still debtor to the said Officers the summe of £77.13.0¾—

So that upon the ballance of the several acc<sup>ts</sup> before mentioned it will appear that Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan was debtor to the Forces here upon the 24. of December 1701. the summe of £1136.5.4¾ New Yorke money.—

The said Capt<sup>n</sup> is likewise Debtor to the Office (as will appear by the accounts N<sup>os</sup> 1. 2 & 3.) the summe of £524.12.6¾. sterl: which with the addition of 30 per cent, makes the sum of £682.0.3½. New Yorke money.—

This will make the whole debt from the said Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan to the Paymaster Generals Office in England, and to the Forces here amount to £1818.5.8¼. to the 24. of December 1701. inclusive.—

From the 25th of December 1701. inclusive to the 8th of May 1702. inclusive. the subsistence of the Four Company's computed according to the Establishment, (allowing them to be hundreds the adjutant only excepted) amounts in sterl: money to £1381.10— which with the addition of 20 per cent, makes £1657.16.0 New Yorke money— Captain Nanfan has paid here in New Yorke money, upon the head of subsistence, for the above said time the summe of £1473.19.0¾. though neither he nor his Agent have received any subsistence from the Paymaster General's Office in England, for the said time, so that the said Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan seems to be creditor for the abovesaid summe of £1473.19.0¾. and accordingly has credit given him for that summe in the Account N<sup>o</sup> 9. add to this the summe of £108.7.6½ for which he seems to be creditor upon the head of subsistence, from the 8th of March 170<sup>o</sup> to the 24th of December 1701. those two sums will amount to £1582.6.7¼ which is all the credit the said Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan can pretend to, to the best of my knowledge.—

Now to ballance that Credit it will appear by the debor side, of the account N<sup>o</sup> 9. that the said Capt<sup>n</sup> is Debtor to the Office in England, and to the Forces here, the summe of £1818.5.8¼—so that if out of this last summe the £1582.6.7¼ is deducted, the said Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan will remain debtor the summe of £235.19.1—

He is further to be made Debtor for the sume of £18.1.9. for ballance of exchange upon the head of subsistence and £113.1.2½ for ballance of exchange upon the head of Clearings, which two sums added together amount to £131.2.11½.

The said Capt: ought to have credit for the summe of £97.17.0¾. upon the ballance of exchange upon the head of subsistence, from the 25th of December 1701. to the 8th of May 1702. and of his account of Offreckonings, so that, if the summe of £97.17.0¾ is deducted out of the summe of £131.2.11½ he will remain debtor upon the head of exchange £33.5.10¾. which added to the aforementioned summe of £235.19.1. will make £269.4.11¾. New Yorke money,—This I take to be a true state of Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's account in New Yorke money— Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> will please to observe that in the account, marked N<sup>o</sup> 2. the ballance which Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan appears Debtor for in sterling money is £233.16.1¾.

Thus I have given your Lord<sup>shps</sup> the best acc<sup>ts</sup> I can of Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's accounts, with the Forces here, by such accounts as he has thought fit to produce here—

I shall observe to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that by the account sent to me, attested by M<sup>r</sup> Popple to be a true copy of the account laid before you, signed by M<sup>r</sup> Pouncefort, I find Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's Agent charges with the receipt of £4611.0.11. upon the two heads of substance and Clearings, and upon the head of Offreckonings £1500. in part of a Warrant for £.1892.16.0. granted to him by the late Lords Commissioners of the Treasury; whereas by the account exhibited by Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, as sent to him by M<sup>r</sup> Champante, the said M<sup>r</sup> Champante gives Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's credit for no more than £3912.11.7. by which it appears that M<sup>r</sup> Champante had in his hands (at the time when he suffered Capt: Nanfan's Bills to be protested) the sum of £698.9.4. more than he gives Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan Credit for, so that if Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan has been arrested here, by those to whom he had given bills of Exchange, he must thank M<sup>r</sup> Champante, who suffered them to be protested, when he had money in his hands, out of which they ought to have been paid, and he ought not to complain of me who have been in no manner the cause of it—

I shall further observe that whereas M<sup>r</sup> Champante in the account above mentioned gives Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan credit for £3912.11.7. it appears by the same account on the credit side that he had actually paid no more (towards the payment of Bills drawn by Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, and to the two Invalids) than the summe of £3151.2.0. so that it must necessarily follow that at the time of the protest he had in his hands £1429.18.11.—

I must acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that no accounts has yet been exhibited to me of any part of the ten per cent during all the time of Captain Nanfan's Administration—

Thus I have given your Lord<sup>ships</sup> the best account I can, of the Accounts between Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan and the Forces here—I am sure, I have done it with all the impartiality imaginable according to the best of my understanding and not without some pains.—If what I have done receives your approbation I have attained the end I aim at; if any thing has slipt my memory or observation at this time, I shall acquaint your Lordships with it by the first opportunity—I am

My Lords—Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> most faithful

New Yorke

humble servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries B. F. p.—]

My Lords,

I have taken the liberty to trouble your Lord<sup>ships</sup> by this conveyance with the accounts of the Countess of Bellomont, and those of Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, to which I beg leave to refer your Lord<sup>ships</sup>—Only I must acquaint you that there was such an unwillingness in Mylady Bellomont's Agents here to state Her Accounts, that they would never hear of any method, nor would produce any Muster Rolls or other Voucher, unless I would consent to charge Mylady with no more than what they said Mylord Bellomont's Agents had actually received, without producing any account from the Office, by which I might have known the truth of what was paid by the

Agents. This I thought I ought not to do, therefore I have stated her accounts by way of Debtor and Creditor, and have made the charge according to the Establishment, supposing the Company's to be compleat (because I could see no Muster Rolls) and I have allowed in discharge, all that M<sup>r</sup> Champante has (by his accounts) thought fit to give Mylord Bellomont credit for—I hope your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> will approve of this method, which I think will be the shortest way to bring these Acc<sup>ts</sup> to a conclusion—I beg leave to observe to your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> that Mylady Bellomont has presented several pet<sup>ns</sup> to the Queen, whereupon the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Earle of Nottingham, has signified to me her Majesty's pleasure that Mylady Bellomont's security should not be prosecuted yet for some time. These repeated petitions oblige me to inform your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> of the truth of that whole matter, which is thus:—On my arrival in this Province, I had a great number of Petitions delivered to me, by several Officers of the Four Company's here, the Staff Officers, and several other persons who had trusted the Soldiers setting forth that there were great arrears owing to the Company's here by the late Earle of Bellomont, that the Countess was going for England, that they should be ruined unless some care was taken that they might be paid—Upon this I sent to Mylady Bellomont, to desire that she would appoint somebody to state the late Earl's accounts, and I appointed Five Gentlemen here to settle those accounts, with whomsoever Mylady should appoint on her part: after which I went up to Albany, but stoping in the County of Ulster, I received there an account, that Mylady complained that the Commiss<sup>rs</sup> did not attend, which was a delay to her accounts; whereupon I added Four more to the first five, that there might always be a Quorum—Mylady thought fit to trust one M<sup>r</sup> Taylor, who had been the late Earl's private Secretary, who did appear sometimes, but either could not or would not produce all the Muster Rolls for Mylord Bellomont's time. M<sup>r</sup> Ling and M<sup>r</sup> Choldwell, who appeared as friends to Mylady Bellomont, offered that Her Ladyship should account for £9563.13.2 that being all (as they said). that the Earle of Bellomont, or his Agents had received, but not producing any account from the Office to satisfy the Commiss<sup>rs</sup> that it was so, they did not think fit to allow that, and went on with the full charge; but M<sup>r</sup> Taylor seeing that, would proceed no further; being informed of this by one of the Commiss<sup>rs</sup> I wrote to the Attorney General to desire him to go to My Lady Bellomont and acquaint her, that since her Agents did not think fit to go on with stating the late Earles Accounts, and Her Ladyship was preparing to leave this Province, I should expect she would give security to answer all such sums as should appear (upon the stating the late Earles Accounts) to be due to the Crown, or the Forces here, and I directed the Attorney Gener<sup>l</sup> to insist upon a security of £10000; and this I did, because by the complaints made, I had reason to believe, there would be more due—The Att: Gen<sup>l</sup> did as I had directed him, and Mylady sent to me by young M<sup>r</sup> Attwood, the names of several persons, who were willing to be bound with her, to know if I approved of them, I sent that list back, & left it to the Att: Gen<sup>l</sup> to take the persons he should think fit, and he insisting to have the security dispatched, under pretence of the sickness that then raged here, Her Ladyship thought fit to remove from the City into King's County, where she staid till Capt<sup>o</sup> Caldwell, with Her Majesty's Ship Advice, was ready to sail—M<sup>r</sup> Attorney General being informed, that Mylady Bellomont did intend to go privately on board the Advice, took out a writ against her, and sent for the Sheriff of King's County, gave him the writt, and ordered him to make what diligence he could to execute it, and directed him, as soon as he had done so to send him word of it, that he might wait upon Mylady to take her security. The Sheriff took the Writ and I suppose acquainted Her Ladyship with it, for the next day, the Sheriff under pretence of having executed his Writ, sent the Att: Gen<sup>l</sup> word, he had done his duty, and had taken security from Mylady Bellomont, to the value of £10.000., M<sup>r</sup> Attorney surprised at this, went over the water to inquire into that matter, and found that mylady was gone on Board, and that the Sheriff had taken a joint Bond from two men for ten thousand pounds, who are not worth ten pounds a piece—I have never directed any proceedings against them, nor did I intend to do it, till I had directions from England, therefore her Ladyship needed not have troubled the Queen, so often about that matter, when she knows what I say to be true; however I shall always obey the orders I receive—I beg your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s pardon for being so long, but I thought it my duty to acquaint you with the truth.—I am—

faithful humble servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 171.]

My Lords,

I trouble your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s with this letter to acquaint you with an accident lately happened here, which is as follows—On Monday the 13th of March last arrived here the Eagle Galley Capt<sup>n</sup> John Davison Commander; the Collector M<sup>r</sup> Byerly went himself on Board the Galley, when she was about six miles below the Town, at his landing he told me it was a ship belonging to Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys, that she came from London had been at Madeira, and taken a Cargo of Wines there, and that she had some Canary wines on Board, which he said he thought was contrary to the Laws of Trade, since they were not shipped in England but in Madeira. I told him I could say nothing to that till I saw what entry he made. The Ship anchored that evening on the Road, and the next morning M<sup>r</sup> Wenham and Capt<sup>n</sup> Davison came to me, and told me, they were under a very great difficulty, because part of the Cargo of the Ship had been put on Board for the Island of Jamaica the last year, but that having taken a prize near Madeira he landed the goods intended for Jamaica at Madeira, and took on Board his ship as much of the Canary wines that were in the prize as he could and sayled for England, where (as he says) the prize and Cargo were condemned in a Court of Admiralty—that afterwards he was ordered to take on board his ship the goods which he had left at Madeira, and bring them to this Port. Capt<sup>n</sup> Davison further said, that when he arrived at Madera he found all his goods, but that the Cocketts (which he had left with his goods) were lost, and that for want of them the Naval officer here would not take his entry: I told them I was sorry it was so, and the more because I did not see, how I could help them, but that if they could propose any thing that I could do, and that was fit for me to do, I should be ready to give them all the assistance I could; Upon this M<sup>r</sup> Wenham (who is Sir Jeffrey Jeffreys correspondent here) told me he would give me what security I should direct to produce Cocketts in any reasonable time, I told him I would consider of it, and would give him an answer very quickly, and in order to it I sent for the Attorney General, and asked his opinion, how far I might comply with Mr Wenham's proposal, he told me that if the intent of the Law was answered, Trade ought to be encouraged; that if they gave sufficient security to produce Cocketts in a reasonable time, he was of opinion the Queen would be safe, and the intent of the Laws of Trade answered—Upon this I did direct security to be given for the value of the goods according to the prices set down in the invoice with a hundred per cent advance which is the profit commonly made here by Merchants; this being done, the Naval Officer took his entry and certified to the Collector as he ought to do. Whereupon, the Collector suffered the Captain to enter his goods in the Custome house, to unload and carry the goods to Mr Wenham's warehouse where they were exposed to sale and several of them sold—till the one or two and twentieth day of March that the Collector, came to me, and told me, he must seize the Eagle Galley, for she had imported European goods, which were not shipped in England, which he said was contrary to an Act of Parliament, made in the 15th year of King Charles the Second, and that by that Act, the ship and all her cargo was forfeited, and he brought with him a Lawyer, to satisfy me it was so, who produced to me Wingates Abridgement of the Statutes, and turned to the Statute of the 15th of King Charles the second Chapter 7th. After I had read it, I told him I thought that by that Statute it was plain that nothing could be forfeited, but those European goods so unlawfully imported and the Ship, but that no other part of the Cargo could be affected by that Clause—he then told me there was Cocketts wanting for several parcels of goods, I told him it was true, but that Mr Wenham had given me security to produce Cocketts within a limited time; he then said they had no Register, I told him that the Ship was Registered, and that if I had not been satisfied of that, the Naval Officer should not have certified as he did; upon that he told me, he had other things to alledge against the Ship, and that he would seize her and her Cargo, I told him if he told me what those things were he had further to alledge, I would tell him my thoughts of them, but he did not think fit to tell me—On the next day seized the Ship and all the goods as well those for which Cocketts were produced, and those for which I had given time to produce Cocketts, as the Canary Wines. Upon this Mr Wenham brought me a petition (of which I herewith send Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> a copy) setting forth that the Eagle Galley and her Lading had been seized by the Collector upon supposition of some breach of the Act of Trade, of which he did not suppose her guilty, and therefore prayed the Ship and cargo might be discharged and the seizure taken off—Upon this I called a Council, and acquainted them with the whole proceeding, and desired their advice and opinion, what was proper to be done. They desired time till the next day which I gave them, and then they gave me their opinion that they did not think any part of the Cargo of the Eagle Galley, was within the Statute of the 15th of Car: 2nd except the Canary Wines, and the Ship, and they said: that tho' a seizure had been made by the Collector, yet there being no libell filed in the Court of Vice-Admiral, I might discharge the seizure, and said further, that since the goods on Board that ship were sent hither to pay the soldiers, and that the Laws of Trade were not broken, they were of opinion, the seizure ought to be taken off from all the goods belonging to the Eagle Galley, except the Canary Wines, and the ship. Upon this I sent an order to the Collector, to take off the seizure from all the goods belonging to the Eagle Galley except the Canary Wines and the ship etc. This order he obeyed and Mr Wenham went on selling his goods as he did before the seizure—On or about the twenty seventh Mr Collector came to me again, and told me he must seize the Eagle Galley again, I told him I hoped he would consider well what he did unless he could shew me some new cause for it, I should order him again to take it off—he shewed me no new cause, but did seize the Ship again, and all the goods at Mr Wenham's unsold, or at least undelivered.—Mr Wenham came and acquainted me with it, and I sent a second order to the Collector to take off that second seizure, but he refused to do it. In some few days after this Mr Monpesson the Judge of the Admiralty came to town, being sent for by the Collector, he came to me and acquainted me, that the Collector had told me, he had filed a Libell against the Eagle Galley and all her Cargo, and desired him to appoint a Court for the Tryal of the said ship, which he said, he would not do till he had spoke to me—I gave him an account of the whole matter as before recited, and told him, that since I had given Mr Wenham time to produce Cocketts upon the reasons before mentioned, I did not think it would be proper for him, to try the ship upon that head, and that I would send him a Messenger by the Queen's Advocate, which I did, of which I send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> here inclosed a copy. I likewise told Mr Monpesson, that if he thought fit to try the ship upon account of the Canary, I had nothing to say against it. He did hold a Court and upon hearing the Proctors on both sides relating to the importing of Canary Wines from Madera, the Proctor for Capt<sup>n</sup> Davison insisted that the Canary Wines might be imported because they were prize goods, and condemned as such in a Court of Admiralty in England had desired since to prove the same. The Judge thought fit to grant them time which will appear more fully to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> by the proceedings of the Court, which I herewith send you. Thus I have acquainted Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with the whole matter of fact relating to the Eagle Galley. I hope I shall have your approbation for what I have done; if I have erred, I am sure nobody can think I had any private interest in hindering the condemnation of that Ship, it was certainly my interest she should have been condemned, for then, I should have had my third which would have amounted to above three thousand pounds, and perhaps by Her Majesty's grace and favour I might have hoped for the Queen's thirds too, which would have been a much greater profit than I can ever hope for in this Country, but besides that I thought, the seizure of all her cargo unjust in itself; I considered that if all the cargo of that ship was condemned, the forces here must have starved, for Sr Jeffery Jeffery's Corresp<sup>t</sup> would have found it very difficult to have found money to have paid the Forces here, what the consequence of that would have been, may easily be seen, for the Soldiers desert now they are well paid; certainly if such an accident had happened they would all have deserted. I am informed by several persons here that Mr Byerly the Collector here has sent great complaints against me into England—what those complaints are, or to whom they are sent, I know not, but sure I am, that I have never given that Gentleman, any just cause of complaint unless his being disappointed of the Third he thought to have had by the condemnation of the Eagle Galley be a just cause of complaint. Mr Byerly has given me many causes of complaint, yet because I have told him of them I am in hopes he will amend them, therefore, I will not trouble Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with them now, tho' I believe at last I shall be forced to it; in the mean time I beg your Lord<sup>ships</sup> directions in one thing, which is this: In my instructions I am commanded not to suffer any publick money to issue, but by Warrant under my hand and seale signed in Councill, which I have punctually observed in all cases except Mr Byerly's and in his commission, the Queen is pleased to grant him a Salary of two hundred pounds sterl: a year out of the Revenue of this province, which he is directed to retain in his hands; this seems in some measure to contradict that clause in my Instructions, however I have not insisted upon that matter with Mr Byerly, but have suffered him to retain his salary; nevertheless I intreat the favour of your Lord<sup>ships</sup> commands how I shall proceed for the future in this matter. All the favour I presume to begg of your Lord<sup>ships</sup> upon this occasion is, that you would not let any reports or stories make any impression upon your Lordships to my disadvantage, till I may have opportunity to Justify myself, which I do not question the doing to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> satisfaction, whenever you will be pleased to let me know, what I am accused of—I am with the greatest respect imaginable.—My Lords.

Attorney-General Broughton to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 220.]

My most honoured Lords.

I have not presumed to trouble you since the 12th of December 1702. when I addressed your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to move Her Majesty in my behalf, that my Commis<sup>rs</sup> of Attorney and Advocate General might be renewed; I am now and have for a long time been happy in obtaining that of Attorney; but hear nothing of the other of Advocate, from any hand whatsoever, though I have several times put my Friends and Agents in London in mind of it; to my great loss and detriment, Governour Dudley appointing his son to officiate in that place at Massachusetts Bay and Rhode Island, two of the chief places of profit in my Commission especially Rhode Island, which lies as convenient for me as him, I must here beg leave therefore to acquaint Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that I am credibly informed that Coll: Dudley does apply home for a Commission for his son to be Advocate General in these Colonies, as he hath already procured one for him to be Attorney General at Massachusetts Bay—nothing of this nature I am sure can pass without Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> privity. I will therefore be no otherwise troublesome to you on this point than to submit myself and my affairs to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> care, and her Majesty's good pleasure. In hopes neither your Lord<sup>ships</sup> nor her Majesty will think fit to take any profits or advantages from me, which his late Majesty was pleased to bestow upon me, unless it be more for her Majesty's interest and service to have it so, which shall always be the measure and bounds of my desires. The evil treatment I met with by M<sup>r</sup> Attwood's and Weaver's means, the first year of my being here, run me so far in debt, that I can with truth say, Mylords, that the profits of both Commissions hitherto have not maintained my family and discharge it, by above one hundred pounds sterling though I have taken aid of my Salary in England also. The chief ground the Coll: goes upon in this matter I understand, is because I have not been at those places to shew my Commission and take the proper oaths; to which, Mylords, I answer that when M<sup>r</sup> Attwood at our first arrival in these parts, went to Boston to shew his Commiss<sup>n</sup> as Judge of the Admiralty, he was not willing to have me with him, told me there was no business then to be done (though he found some to his no small vexation) and that he would give them notice of my Commission, and it would be time enough to shew it and take the Oaths when there was occasion to hold a Court, which I resolved to do. But no Court of Admiralty being held at those places till after the death of the late King, I thought my Commission determined and applied to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> for a New one, but have not been yet favoured therewith. And divers Courts have since been held at Boston and Rhode Island by M<sup>r</sup> Newton Deputy to M<sup>r</sup> Attwood but no notice given me thereof, tho' several condemnations of value were there had, and they knew of my Commission, yet appointed others to be Advocates, tho' the Queen's proclamation made my Commission good, untill her Majesty's pleasure be further declared and known, and I was ready and willing to have attended and done my duty in my place, had I had the respect and civility of notice given me as I ought. Nor I am Mylords without my uneasiness here in this place of my residence, even from those that have Her Majesty's Commission as well as myself, and should know how to pay a due deference and respect to it, in what hand soever it is. I am sure I observe that rule in my own carriage and behaviour, but to my great Admiration am not treated so by M<sup>r</sup> Byerly Collector and Receiver General in this Province, who takes upon him to controul me in my offices and defame me publicly to the people, with neglect of duty to Her Majesty and her affairs, having behaved himself very Rudely and insolently towards me in divers places and company's, where we have accidentally met, and amongst the rest once at the Chief Justice's lodgings, where he gave me very base and scurvey language, and told me he would appoint whom he pleased to do the Queen's business, which is more than Mylord Cornbury will do, for his Excellency gives me the liberty of choosing whom I think fit to my assistance in all causes of difficulty wherein Her Maj<sup>ty's</sup> [affaires] is concerned, that do require it, without forcing any upon me. These matters, Mylords, reached his Excellency the Governour's ears without my hearing, who of his own accord told me he would do me right therein whenever I would complain and desire it. I have fobore hitherto, Mylords, taking that method in respect to M<sup>r</sup> Collector, knowing him then to be in His Excell<sup>cy's</sup> displeasure for other matters, which I was not willing to stir up afresh against him, but rather chose this way of acquainting Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that he may receive a gentle and proper admonition from you. My Lords, if her Majesty's affaires suffer by my Councell or management I must answer for that, and M<sup>r</sup> Collector is free; but if M<sup>r</sup> Collector err by the advice of others, 'tis his fault, not mine; yet some reflection on one, as though I wanted skill or honesty to perform the trust Her Majesty hath reposed in me, in both which particulars I humbly submit myself and Actions to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> censure, having as I hope approved myself to His Excell<sup>cy</sup> in the variety and multitude of affairs have passed my own hands, without the help or assistance of any, and I think I may say without detriment or prejudice to Her Majesty, or Her interest in any respect, for I want not those watchful eyes upon me, as are ready to take notice of the least trip I make and improve it to my disadvantage; the Lawyers of this place not being over good natured to one another. And now Mylords, the ground and occasion of all this long story was no more than this. The Officer of Excise had made a seizure of some Liquors and was going to proceed irregularly as I thought upon it; so I prayed His Excell<sup>cy</sup> that I might give directions to the Officer and Justices, of the peace, before whom the matter lay, to stay further proceedings, till the matter was better inquired into, and I was in the right of it, as will appear if ever it be necessary to make a more particular State of the case. And I hope Mylords, you will be so far on my side as to allow me the power of staying or proceeding in the Queen's causes as I think proper for Her Majesty's interest, and that the subjects may not be oppressed. But Mylords, here has happened a matter lately that hath sett M<sup>r</sup> Collector more at odds with me. The Eagle Galley coming from England with a very rich Cargo, for the payment of the Garrison here, M<sup>r</sup> Collector consulting some of the Town Lawyers was informed that she was lyable to seizure for breach of the Acts of Trade and Navigation, upon which he sends to me to give him and one of them a meeting, which I did; the points layd before me were the want of a Register, not being duely navigated with Master and Men (either of which I agreed to be a total forfeiture) and importing Canary wines, which were said to be European goods not brought directly from England ette—I differed with that Gentleman in that point of the Wines being European goods, and judged them not within that clause of the Act—But if they were as prize, I thought they might be carried into any Her Majesty's dominions without incurring any penalty. The seizure was made and then his Excell<sup>ty</sup> received a petition from Coll: Wenham to whom the Galley was consigned, that the seizure might be taken off; the Petition was referred to myself, and other Gentlemen of the Council to consider of it, and give our opinions thereupon to his Excell<sup>ty</sup> the next day in Council, which we did; and I with some others were of opinion that the Governour (if he thought fit) might discharge any seizure of this nature before information filed, it being wholly in the Queen's hands and power till then; His Excell<sup>ty</sup> resolved to do accordingly, and appointed an order to be prepared for that purpose; in the mean time M<sup>r</sup> Collector sends to me to draw an information against the Galley and Cargo, or give way to somebody else to do it, I refused both, with this answer: that the matter of the seizure had been under the consideration of Mylord Cornbury and the Council, and I could do nothing in it till I knew the result of that. In a very little time after M<sup>r</sup> Collector received the order of discharge from His Excell<sup>ty</sup> and with great reluctancy, at length obeyed the same, and took off the seizure from the Galley, but in a day or two reseized her again, filed an information and put her in suit without ever consulting me at all, as the way was in M<sup>r</sup> Attwoods time tho' I desired no information might be received but from my hands, the Queen's and Governour's interests being above the Informer's, and oftentimes such lame and imperfect ones have been filed in haste to get the benefit of Informing, that have cost much time and labour to sett them right, and I could heartily wish, some directions to Mylord Cornbury might be obtained from Her Majesty for the settling of this point, or to the Judge of the Admiralty. But to proceed in the former matter Mylords, upon the second seizure of the Galley. His Excellency sent for me, told me he was sure the Galley was well Registered and duly navigated; then there was only the point of the Wines, and some goods that wanted Cocketts, the want whereof (unless I have overlooked and missed the statute) affects not the ship or Vessel, only are liable to seizure themselves, or a double value to be paid by Owner or Lader of them. His Excellency commanded me upon the discourse we had (without any stated points in writing) to peruse the Acts of Trade and Navigation, and give him my opinion of them in relation to the present case under my hand; which I did, as I have above set forth the same to be, for which M<sup>r</sup> Collector declares me opposite to the Queen's interest and consequently not fit to serve Her Majesty, and I know not but he may tell your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> as much, which made me think it necessary to lay a true state of that matter upon your Board, which I will Justifye to a Tittle, and leave it to your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> to judge how farr I am guilty of the accusation, or not Guilty. The cause at present stands upon security to produce Cocquets and make out the point of the Wines to be no forfeiture. I am apt to think his Excell<sup>ty</sup> will give your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> some account of these transactions, and doubt not but he will do me justice therein. I shall not take upon me to give any account of allaires of Govern<sup>t</sup>, your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> will receive that from an abler and properer hand than mine. I thank God the power thereof is now in Her Majesty's subjects of England, tho' I am sorry to say some of them are not so sensible of it, nor thankful for it, as might be expected from them. There are some Republican spirits amongst us, some that retain the Leven of the late factions and disorders, which render the Administration at present not so easy and current as it ought, even the Assembly which are just dismissed have shewed some touch thereof in the disputes they have had with his Excell<sup>ty</sup> this sessions. But they are not many, and His Excell<sup>ty</sup> knows them to a man, and will be vigilant over them. I have no more at present Mylords, but to beg either now, or at any other time a copy of my charge and liberty to answer before any censure be passed upon me. And to renew my assurances to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> of all truth & fidelity to Her Majesty and her affairs, all duty and obedience to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> and your commands from—Mylords—Your Honours most faithful. ette

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 151.]

My Lords.

Having received your Lord<sup>ships</sup> commands to give my opinion of certain Acts of the Gen<sup>l</sup> Assembly of this province passed since the 2nd of March 1698, I ordered copy's of the list You were pleased to send me to be delivered to every member of Her Majesty's Council here, that is in the province, and at last they have made a Report to me upon those Acts, which I here send inclosed to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, by which it will appear, that the two first Acts mentioned in the list, and in their Report, they are of Opinion should be confirmed; the reason they give for it is, because they think the same may tend to the peace and quiet of this province; in this I agree with them, though I must observe, that there are some persons Indemnified by that Act, who have always been the disturbers of the peace in this Country, and are now, and always will be (as far as they are able) irreconcilable Enemies to an English Govern<sup>t</sup>, particularly one Samuel Staats, and one Abraham Gouverneur—the first is a Surgeon who was born in this province of New Yorke in the time of the Dutch Govern<sup>t</sup>, went into Holland to learn his trade, and returned hither again, and was here, at the time the Dutch surrendered this Province to the English; Upon which surrender articles were agreed upon, by which those of the Dutch nation, who had a mind to remain here, were to qualify themselves by certain Oaths, and there was a certain time limited, beyond which they were not to have the benefit of those Articles, if they did not qualify themselves. Accordingly this Samuel Staats stayed here till the time allowed was very nearly expiring, and then rather than endeavour to make himself an Englishman, he left this Province and went to Holland, where he remained till a very little time before the Revolution, then he came hither, and joyned with M<sup>r</sup> Leisler, was one of the most active men in this Country, and will never cease his endeavours, till he brings this to be a Dutch Govern<sup>t</sup> again, if he can. The other is one of those who (at the time of Coll: Fletcher's arrival in this Province) lay in prison, under sentence of death, only for Rebellion and Murther, but was reprieved by Coll: Fletcher, and since has obtained (as he says) a pardon from the late Queen, but he has produced no such pardon here yet. I could mention others tho' not of so dangerous a nature but I am unwilling to make a longer digression, and ask your Lord<sup>ships</sup> pardon for this. The fourth and fifth Acts, mentioned in the list, and the Report, are expired by their own limitation. The eighth act mentioned in the list, and Report is expired by its own limitation. The ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth in the list and Report the Gentlemen of the Council are of opinion ought to be confirmed, and I intirely agree with them in their opinions, because I take them to be absolutely necessary for this province. The thirteenth Act in the list is repealed by Her Majesty, which Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> have been pleased to signify to me. The 14th Act is expired by its own limitation. The 15th Act in the list and Report has been reinforced since my arrival here, by a New Act of Assembly, which I hope Her Majesty will please to confirm. The 16th 17th 18th 19th 20th 21st 22nd 23rd 24th 25th 26th 27th and 28th Acts in the list and Report, were Repealed by an Act of Assembly since my arrival here, and I hope Her Majesty will confirm that Act for the reasons I sent to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with the Act.

The third Act in the List and Report, is Repealed by an Act since my arrival, and I can not help being of opinion that it ought to be so, because that Act could intend nothing but to Justifye Rebellion by a law as will appear by the very words of the Act.

The seventh act is repealed, by the Act above mentioned, and the chief reason that induced me to consent to the repealing of that act, was, because by it, the Church was st[r]ipped of a Lease granted for seven years by Coll: Fletcher under the rent of sixty Bushels of wheat, and soon as that Act was passed, Mylord Bellomont granted the same farm to a Dutchman under the same rent. It is true several grants repealed, or vacated, by the Act passed in Mylord Bellomonts time, were very exhorbitant grants and I think ought to be vacated, particularly that to Capt<sup>l</sup> Evans (which contains near three hundred thousand acres of land) and that for two reasons, first because the quit rent reserved, bore no manner of proportion with the grant, Secondly because the granting so vast Tracts of land to one single person, has notoriously hindred the settling of this Country. I must say the same of the Grants to Dellius, Pinhorn, Banker ettc and to Bayard, all these grants contain vast Tracts of land, and some of them, some of the best land in the Country. I should have thought, that if Capt<sup>l</sup> Evans had had a grant of four or five thousand acres of land it might have sufficed, especially since he nor nobody for him has taken any care to settle or improve that land, which extends thirty miles on the West shoar of Hudsons River and would be a very good place to settle a Town, if those persons who have already offered me to settle there (who are above thirty in number) might have suitable quantitys of land to improve, and I must be of opinion that it would be very proper to have an Act passed here for the vacating of those grants last mentioned, which are really very exorbitant. However, I would not propose any thing of that nature to the Assembly here, till I receive Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> commands upon that subject, which I intreat you I may have; The eighth act mentioned in the List and Report, being the same with the 15th I shall say no more with relation to it. Thus I have given Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> best opinion I can upon the several Acts before mentioned, I hope it will be to Your satisfaction, if so, I am content; and now I am upon this subject I offer it to Your consideration, whether it would not be proper that I should have an account, what Acts of this Province have been confirmed, and what not, the reason of my offering this is, because there is no footsteps in the Secretary's Office of this Province, nor in the Council books, which Acts have been confirmed, or repealed, or neither till the List Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> were pleased to send me, and very often in hearings before me in Council, the Lawyers (in their quotations of Acts) of one side affirm, certain Acts to be repealed, when those on the other side, affirm the same Acts to be confirmed; however this whole matter I refer and submit to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> consideration and am—

My Lords.

humble Servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 194.]

My Lords,

Your Lordships' letter of the 29th of April 1703, and of the 29th of July 1703. are come to my hands with the duplicate mentioned in the first, and Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased to take notice that since that, you have not heard from me; I intreat you to consider, that the losses our people here have had in their shipping is the cause, why we have very few vessells now that go directly for England, I wrote last summer by Simmons, and by Bond, they were both taken; I wrote after that by the Virginia fleet I hope those letters got safe; I sent one letter since by Capt<sup>n</sup> Hern, Capt<sup>n</sup> of Her Majesty's ship Centurion. I beg Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to consider likewise the difficulty I lie under, with respect to opportunity's of writing into England, which is thus—The post that goes through this place goes Eastward as far as Boston but Westward he goes no further than Philadelphia, and there is no other post upon all this continent, so that if I have any letters to send to Virginia, or to Maryland, I must either send an Express who is often retarded for want of boats to cross those great Rivers, they must go over—or else for want of horses, or else I must send them by some passengers who are going thither—The least I have known any Express take to go from hence to Virginia, has been three weeks, so that very often, before I can hear from Coll: Nicholson what time the fleet will sail, and send my packets, the fleet is sailed—I hope we shall find a way to remedy that shortly, for Coll: Nicholson and Coll: Seymour have wrote me word, that they will be here in September, and I do then intend to propose to them the settling of a Post, to go through to Virginia, by which I shall have opportunity to write Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> by every Ship that sails from this Continent—I must further acquaint Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that our letters do not come safe by the way of Boston, I have had several letters by that way, which have been broken open; however I will assure you, I will omit no opportunity of writing. I now send Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> the opinion of the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council of this Province concerning the Acts of Assembly of which you were pleased to send me a List, I have likewise given Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> my opinion upon the particular grants, which I take to be exorbitant—As to the Act for preventing vexatious suits etc, the Secretary informs me there are noe suits commenced in New Yorke, upon any cases relating to that Act—I shall punctually obey all the directions you shall send me. I have received the letters Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> mention in Your letter of the 29th of July for the several Governours, which I have sent to them but have no answer yet; as soon as I have, I shall not fail to transmitt them to you. The Acts disallowed by Her Majesty were taken off the file, but not destroyed, so I have ordered the Secretary to return them into the Office again. I herewith send an account of all the causes depending in a supream Court here, I likewise sent you the Countess of Bellomonts Accounts and Capt: Nanfan's, but having writ a letter upon each of those Acc<sup>ts</sup>, I will not trouble your Lord<sup>ships</sup> upon that subject any more now, Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased to order me to cause just and reasonable security, to be taken for the said Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's answering the Ballance of his account in order to his being released from his confinement—In order to satisfy Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> at whose suit he is confined, I herewith send you the Affidavit of the High Sheriff of this County, by which it will appear that he was arrested at the suit of the Queen, whereupon he gave security to answer such sums as should (upon the stating his accounts) appear to be due from him to the Crown, or to the forces here, upon which he was immediately discharged, he has since been arrested at the suit of private persons, who I am satisfied, would discharge him upon any reasonable security, but I know he has refused to give any, but still insists that I am to pay that money because M<sup>r</sup> Andrews received it, and I had done so, if I had not received advice from M<sup>r</sup> Thrale, that I was to pay the subsistance from the 9th of May 1702 forward, which I have done, it would have been the same thing to me if I had paid from the 25th of December 1703 for I could have paid but once, but it appears by the account sent to me by M<sup>r</sup> Thrale, and will appear by the Accounts now sent to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, that Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan (if he had paid the money he is arrested for), would be still Debtor to the Crown upwards of £200. however upon Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> Commands I will endeavour to prevail with the persons concerned to take reasonable security from Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, and I do not doubt, but I shall succeed if he pleases to give it of which I will inform you by the next. I now beg leave to inform Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that we want all manner of Stores of Warr, some small Arms, great Gunns etc as I have formerly informed your Lord<sup>ships</sup> and upon which you were pleased to make a representation to the Queen, but we have yet received nothing of that nature from England, since I arrived here, only a hundred small Arms and fifty Barrells of powder came with me; I intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will be pleased to use Your endeavours, that we may be supplied, especially now in time of Warr.

The Gen<sup>l</sup> Assembly of this Province have lately satt and passed some Acts which I herewith transmit to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with duplicates of some others formerly sent; the Acts last past were these: first, an Act granting sundry priviledges and powers to the Rector and Inhabitants of the City of New Yorke, of the Communion of the Church of England as by Law established, the second is an Act for the better explaining an Act made in the second year of Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s reign intituled: an Act to oblige persons to pay their arrears of one Thousand pounds Tax etc: The third is an Act to Repeal the last Clause in an Act of Assembly intituled an Act for the quieting and settling the disorders that have lately happened within this Province etc. The fourth is an Act to charge the several Cities and Counties of this Colony with £143.10.10. for fitting and furnishing a Room for the General Assembly etc. The fifth is an Act for the better laying out, further regulating and preserving publick commons high ways etc—The reason for my ascending to the first of these Acts is because the Rector and Vesty of Trinity Church have a charter from Coll: Fletcher, when he was Gov<sup>r</sup> here, and they have been told that Charter is defective, so they applyed to me for one that might be more sufficient; I told them I did not perceive that by my Commission I have any power to grant Charters of incorporation, and that I would not venture to do it without such a power, some time afterwards they came to me again, and desired I would give them leave to offer a Bill to the General Assembly to be passed into an Act for settling the Church, I told them I did consent to it, because by that means the Queen would have the matter fairly before her, and I most humbly intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> favourable representation of that Act to Her Majesty that it may be confirmed; the second is an Act occasioned, by a difference among the Justices of Peace of King's County, which made that Act absolutely necessary for the effectual recovering of those arrears, I hope it will be confirmed—the third is an Act passed in pursuance of Her Majesty's Commands to me; The fourth is an Act I readily consented to because till this time the Assembly has always sat in a Tavern, which I thought was a scandalous thing, and therefore I did several times recommend it to some of the Members of the Assembly to think of some method to provide a place fit for them to sit in, this is now done by this bill, and I hope her Majesty will be pleased to confirm it. The fifth is an explanatory Act (sofar as relates to Richmond County) of a former act passed for laying out highways in this province, of which there is great need, for till now (except a very few places) there are no roads passable, this is so necessary an Act, that I must intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> favourable recommendations of it to the Queen, that it may passe. Thus I have given Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> an account of the Acts past this last Sessions, which has been longer than it needed have been; through the endeavours of some ill affected persons who had a mind to push the Assembly to such extravagant proceedings, as might move me to dissolve them, hoping by that means to get a Dutch Assembly, These methods did prevail with the Assembly to offer at some things which I thought not proper for them to meddle with; however having told them my mind of those things, I thought it more proper to adjourn them, then to dissolve them, hoping they will grow wiser when the hot weather is over;—I will send you an Act what those things are, as soon as their Clerk can prepare a copy of their Journal. I now take the liberty to acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that lately some French Indians have been seen a dozen miles above Albany, I have given the necessary directions for the defence of the frontiers, and shall go up in four days myself—I am

My Lords—

Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> most faithful

Judge Mompesson to the Earl of Nottingham.

[New-York Papers, VI., No. 12.]

New York July 4th 1704.

My Lord.

Tho' I fear I have not the honour of being personally known to yo<sup>r</sup> Lordship, yet I hope my presumption in troubling yo<sup>r</sup> Lordship with these lines will be excusable because I am a serv<sup>t</sup> to y<sup>e</sup> government of Engl. being appointed Judge of Admiralty causes, for this & other Provinces in America (tho' of late my commission has been much abridg'd.) His Excellency my L<sup>d</sup> Cornbury her Majesty's Governor of this Province and New Jersey has been pleased to shew me her Majesty's commands sign'd by yo<sup>r</sup> Lordship, taking notice of complaints that have been made to her Majesty of abuses in the Courts of Admiralty & of irregularities in the disposition of y<sup>e</sup> proceed of prizes, & requiring the s<sup>d</sup> Governour & others whom it may concern to be aiding & assisting in the recovery of her Majesty's dues & of the L<sup>d</sup> High Admirals. And my commission at first extending thro' all that part of America y<sup>e</sup> l<sup>y</sup>s North East of Maryland, I shall crave leave to lay before your Lordship some observations y<sup>t</sup> I made relating to her Majesty's & y<sup>e</sup> Lord High Admiral's dues.

His Excellency my Lord Cornbury dos take all due care in this Province & New Jersey, w<sup>ch</sup> will tend to y<sup>e</sup> prejudice of y<sup>e</sup> trade of these Provinces, if the Governm<sup>t</sup> of England dos not speedily looke after & prevent the abuses in y<sup>e</sup> Proprietary governments; for now most prizes are carry'd thither, particularly to Road Island, for her Majesty's and y<sup>e</sup> Lord High Admirals dues are sunk there. Before I was concern'd there, the Governour and Council tooke upon them to determine Admiralty Causes; and the Governour M<sup>r</sup> Cronston pretended to grant commissions to privateers & by colour thereof a prize was taken & brought into Road Island and condemn'd & adjudg'd a prize to y<sup>e</sup> captor. This was since Coll. Dudley was Vice Admirall there. 'Tis true indeed at first he oppos'd the proceedings 'till his son as Advocate récd. 50 or 60 pieces of eight, besides, &c; and then he suffred them to go on to condemnation; and one Tongerlon a French man or Dutchman never naturalized has lately rec<sup>d</sup> the like commission & has taken five or six prizes Dutch Curaso traders; one of them is sent already to Road Island & y<sup>e</sup> others are dayly expected. And yet I am credibly informed by persons who came thence that he has no other Commission but from the Proprietary Governour Cranston; and I am more enclin'd to beleive it, because of y<sup>e</sup> condemnation before mention'd w<sup>ch</sup> I had from Coll. Dudley himselve & M<sup>r</sup> Newton, who acted as Judge, being Deputy to M<sup>r</sup> Atwood. And indeed they did in all things behave themselves at Road Island when I was there as if they thought themselves out of y<sup>e</sup> dominions of y<sup>e</sup> Queen of E<sup>n</sup>gl; and till they are reduc'd to their due obedience to y<sup>e</sup> Crown of E<sup>n</sup>gl. the Royal Governments will suffer very much in trade. There may be legal ways found out for bringing these people to better obedience, notwithstanding their charters, perhaps by Commissions of Enquiry for informing the Parliament or for grounding a sciri facias agst their patents. And I doubt not but many of the powers w<sup>ch</sup> they exercise, will be found to be usurped, without any pretence of law on w<sup>ch</sup> to ground them, and many forfeitures of w<sup>ch</sup> they had once a right to claim. In the mean time it seems to me that the Governours of Connecticut & Road Island, who are chosen every year and act without y<sup>e</sup> Royal approbation or taking y<sup>e</sup> oath &c forfeit for every year £1000 sterling, by y<sup>e</sup> Stat: 7 & 8. W. 3. c. 22. for preventing frauds and regulating abuses in the plantation trade, sect. 4th & 16th. And that the same may be recovered in the Court of Admiralty in the Plantations, by sect. 7. of y<sup>e</sup> Stat: But 'tis a matter of so great concern that I would not direct such a prosecution before me in Connecticut, without the advice & direction of y<sup>e</sup> government at home, As for Road Island, I have nothing to doe with it; Coll. Dudley having gotten my commission superseded for that place as well as for Massachusetts Bay & New Hampshire, for his friend Coll. Byfield, a true New England man, a merch<sup>t</sup> and Independant Elder or Deacon. But if my commission were continued for y<sup>t</sup> place, I doubt how far I, or any man living, could pretend to be serviceable to y<sup>e</sup> Crown or Church of England under the command or influence of Coll. Dudley or whilst he is Vice Admiral or Capt. General there; or how there can be any due prosecution whilst his son is Attorney or Advocate Gen<sup>l</sup> there. And with humble Submission to yo<sup>r</sup> Lordship, instructions alone, from Eng<sup>l</sup> will not be sufficient; new and larger powers must be given to persons y<sup>t</sup> are willing & able to doe the Crown & Church of England service, and that very speedily, for antimonarchical principles and a malice to y<sup>e</sup> Church of England dayly increase in all those places where y<sup>e</sup> Magistrates encourage them, w<sup>ch</sup> is dou in most Proprietary Governments, not omitting Boston. And to my own knowledge some of their leading men already begin to talke of shaking off their subjection to the Crown of England.

My Lord

There is one thing more I must crave leave to mention, as tending to her Majesty's service & y<sup>e</sup> publick profit, a strict enquiry after pyrates & goods pyratically taken. My Lord Cornbury has made some progress therein in y<sup>s</sup> Province & New Jersey and I doubt not but in a convenient time a good account will be given of y<sup>e</sup> same. But the neighbouring Colonys, especially Road Island have more of such effects amongst them. I began to be prying into them whilst I was there, w<sup>ch</sup> I believe hastned the superseding my Commission for y<sup>t</sup> place & others. The persons concern'd are rich and wealthy men, & should any prosecution be sett on foot ag<sup>t</sup> them whilst the government is there in the same hands as now, both on land and sea, the pyrates would be in less danger than the prosecutors or impartial judges. And tho' Col. Dudley has condemn'd 14 or 15 pyrates on a commission near two years since expired; yet men y<sup>t</sup> will make law & justice their guide expect a renewal of y<sup>t</sup> commission before they proceed in any such causes.

My Lord

I must now beg pardon for my prolixity as well as presumption; but if this finds a favorable acceptance yo<sup>r</sup> Lordship shall always be most readily and faithfully obeyd in all the commands you shall be pleased to lay on

My Lord

Yo<sup>r</sup> Lordships

Most devoted humble servant

(signed)

ROGER MOMPESON.

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 204.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Governour in New Yorke.

My Lord.

We are to acknowledge the receipt of Your letters of the 17th 22nd 24th 26th and 30th June with the papers therein referred to, which we shall take into consideration, and return our answers by the first opportunity, in the mean time we shall only observe that the Acts transmitted with the foresaid letters have not any dates nor so much as the year of the sitting of the Assembly in which they were past, and therefore we desire Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> to inform us thereof by your first letter, and that for the future Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> would take care that the time of Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s passing any acts be always certified by you at the end of the said Acts.

We send you here inclosed Her Majesty's letter under Her Royal signature directing your proceedings in relation to Her Majestys, and the Lord High Admiral's shares of prizes brought into your Govern<sup>t</sup> by any of Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s ships of war, privateers, or others having letters of Mark, which directions you are punctually to observe, and to take care as much as in you lies to prevent embezlements of prize goods and assist the prize Officers, by your Authority as occasion requires in the execution of all orders to them directed, by any Court of Admiralty legally established in Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s Plantations.

We likewise herewith inclose to you Her Majesty's additional Instruction relating to the Acts for Trade and Navigation, by which you will perceive that the Law requiring the Master, and at least three fourths of the Mariners of all vessells importing or exporting any goods into or out of Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s Planta<sup>ms</sup> to be English, is by a late Act of Parliament enlarged, during the present War, so that only the Master and one Mojety of the Marines at least is now required to be English; which Instruction you are also to observe and to give notice accordingly to all Masters and Owners of vessells, and to all other persons concerned in the Collecting of Her Majesty's Customes or anyways inspecting the Navigation and Trade into or out of the Provinces under Your Govern<sup>t</sup>, that they may regulate themselves accordingly during the present war and no longer.

And whereas Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> does by Your letter of the 30th of June represent unto us, that the Colony is in want of all sorts of Stores, having received none from England since those Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> took with you, so that you pray a supply, we are to observe to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that we despair of success in our Application to the Queen for such supply of Stores until your Lord<sup>sh</sup> do give us an account of the disposal of such Stores as have been of late years sent to New Yorke, and more particularly of those your Lord<sup>sh</sup> took with you. And further we desire that upon occasion of such demand, you do enumerate the particulars and quantities, and to what use they are to be applied—We are—My Lord

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s most humble servants.

Attorney-General Northey to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 213.]

May it please your Lordships.

In humble obedience to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s order of reference, signified by M<sup>r</sup> Poppel, I have considered of a Law passed in the General Assembly of New York intituled.

An act declaring the illegality of the proceedings against Coll: Nicholas Bayard, and Alderman John Hutchins for pretended high Treason, and for reversing and making Null and void the said Judgements and all proceedings thereon.

And do humbly certifie your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s that I find nothing therein contrary to Law or Justice or prejudicial to Her Majesty's Royal prerogative. But in regard that the Record of the Attaiuders are to be obliterated or destroyed, persons who have acted innocently under the orders of those who had power to command them may thereby be subjected to actions for what they have so done without any possibility of defending themselves. I wish there had been in the Act a clause for their indemnification, and I submit it to Your Lordships' consideration, whether Coll: Bayard and M<sup>r</sup> Hatchins should not be required under their hands and seals to declare that they will not bring any such Action—

All which is most humbly submitted to

Your Lordships' great wisdom—

Captain Thomas Wenham to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Papers, V. W. X, X. 2.]

I have seen a Proclamation for settling the money in these parts; if intended to doe good they are mistaken the most that can be, for it will certainly ruin these parts, that have not staple commodities of their own produce to answer what effects they receive from England, so all the money must goe, and if noe cash among us, no trade; and as 'tis settled we can't buy a loaf of bread or a joynt of meate for our family; for 'tis hardly possible to weigh or compute every groat & sixpence we pay. If they had sett our small money at a certain rate without weighing and have weighed nothing under a p<sup>1</sup>  $\frac{8}{16}$ , and allowed a piece of eight of seaventeen penny weight to pass for six shillings, must have been tolerable; but to weigh all small money, and to sett the standard at seaventeen penny weight & a half, when not one piece in a hundred weighs so much, we cannot but think those that recomended that to be done understood little of the matter: and if not undone, we are soe.

My Lords,

I trouble Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> with these few lines to acquaint you that D<sup>r</sup> Bridges, whom the Queen was pleased to appoint Chief Justice of this Province, is dead, after a very tedious sickness, and that there might be no failure of Justice I have appointed M<sup>r</sup> Roger Moinpesson to be Chief Justice till Her Majesty's pleasure may be known. I hope she will be graciously pleased to confirm M<sup>r</sup> Mom, ession in that place, he has held two Courts already, in which he has given General satisfaction to all people, and has dispatched a great many causes which had been depending a great while; I dare be bold to say he will serve the Queen with the utmost fidelity, and indeed in this Country that place should be filled by a man of resolution, which M<sup>r</sup> Mompesson does not want. I ask Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> pardon for urging this so much, which I would not have done, did not I think it would be for Her Majesty's service — I am

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 245.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations

My Lords.

In my letter of the 30th of June last I gave Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s an account of the reasons why no more of my letters came safe to Your hands, occasioned by the taking of our homeward bound ships and the want of intelligence here from other parts of the Continent. I did acquaint Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s that I hoped to propose a remedy for the later, at my meeting with Coll: Nicholson and Coll Seymour at which time I likewise hoped we should have seen Coll: Dudley, he having writ me word, that he would meet them here; I did intend to have proposed to them, the laying a Tax in each province by Act of Assembly, for the settling and defraying the charges of the post, which then might have gone from Boston to North Carolina; but this meeting was hindered by several accidents; first, Coll: Dudley was busy about his expedition to the Eastward, Coll: Nicholson was hindered by the sitting of the Assembly of Virginia, and as soon as the Assembly of New Yorke was over, and I thought to go into New Jersey, to the Assembly which was to sit at Burlington, I was forced to adjourn them, in order to go up to Albany where there was an alarm that the French were marching towards that place with a thousand French and Indians. I went, and when I arrived there I found the people in a very great consternation, but that was over in a few days, by the arrival of some Indians, I had sent out, to see if they could discover any number of men marching our way; at their return, they informed me they had been as far as the Lake without seeing any body, but that upon the Lake they had met some Ottawawa Indians who had informed them that three hundred French and Indians were marched with a design to attempt Northampton in New England, but that they could not find, there were any marching our way. However, by this accident, I had an opportunity to see how far we may depend upon our own people, and the Indians too in case of need, and I must say the Militia of the County of Albany were very ready if the Enemy had been coming; I could in eight and forty hours time have drawn together upwards of seven hundred men, reckoning the Garrison, the Militia of Albany, and that of Ulster Counties; and the Indians of the Five Nations were so ready that they all left their Castles and were coming towards Albany before I could send them any orders; at the same time that I was at Albany where I stayed but ten days, there was an Alarum at New Yorke occasioned by a Gentleman who coming from Long Island informed the Council, that ten French Men-of-war were come within Sandy hook, upon this the Gentlemen of the Council sent an express to me to desire me to make what haste I could down to New Yorke, and at the same time sent to the Collonels of the Militia in the several Counties about New Yorke to get their men ready to oppose the Ennemy. I did make all the haste I could, but before I could get to York, their fears were over, for the ten Men of Warr were dwindled away to one French privateer of fourteen Gunns who took just without Sandy hook a ship commanded by one Sinclair who was bound to this Port from England, on board of whom were all the packetts your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s were pleased to send me, they were given into the charge of one Glenerosse a Merchant of this place who left them on Board by which means, they are fallen into the hands of the Ennemy. I can not say that the Militia of this City did their duty, for very many of the Dutchmen run away into the woods, but the Militia of Long Island deserve to be commended; Coll: Willet who commands the Militia of Queen's County, in ten hours time brought a thousand men within an hour's march of New York, the Militia of King's County was likewise in good readiness, but their being no occasion for them they were sent home. By this account Your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s will perceive, how necessary it is to have a standing Force in this Province, where we are exposed to the invasions of the Enemy by sea in the Southern parts of it, and to the attacks of the French and Indians by land in the Northern parts of it. If the proposal I made to your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s formerly had been approved of, I make no doubt but it might have been effected with much less charge than the business of Guardaloupe has cost, and I conceive would have been a much greater advantage to the Crown of England, than the taking of that Island could have been. The more I inquire into that matter the more feasible I find it, but not with a less force than I proposed to your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s. I have seen a copy of a memorial M<sup>r</sup> Livingston laid before Your Board, in which he seems to be of opinion that a Regiment of well disciplined men with some Officers to head the men that might be raised here would be sufficient, and perhaps it might have been so when S<sup>r</sup> William Phipps attempted the taking of it, but the case is much altered since that time, for that attempt though very ill contrived and worse executed, did so fully convince them, how easy it was to take Quebeck, that they have made it much stronger than it ever was, and have erected very good Batteries along the Water-side which will make that undertaking more difficult than it was then, and the reason, that made me propose so much a greater force than M<sup>r</sup> Livingston has mentioned, is because I should be very sorry to propose any thing less than will effect the thing proposed, and if I have proposed a greater Force than is of absolute necessity, I hope I shall not be blamed for that; I did it because I was not willing so good a thing should miscarry for want of sufficient Force, and the same reason still remaining I can not help being of the same mind still.—When the Eagle Galley sailed it was so soon after the Assembly was adjourned, that the Clerk could not get a copy of their proceedings ready to send by that ship, therefore I now send it to your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s by which you will perceive that the Assembly here is going into the same methods, that the Assembly's of some other Provinces upon this Continent have fallen into, who think themselves equal to the House of Commons of England, and that they are intitled to all the same powers and priviledges, that a House of Commons in England enjoys; how dangerous it may be to suffer them to enjoy and exercise such powers, I need not tell your Lord<sup>pp</sup>s, only I shall observe that the holding of General Assembly in these parts of the world, has been settled neither by Act of Parliament in England, nor by Act of Assembly here, so that the holding General Assemblies here is purely by the grace and favour of the Crown. This I have told them often, but notwithstanding that, they will pass no Bill for the service of the Queen, nor even for their own defence, unless they can have such Clauses in, as manifestly inroach upon the prerogative of the Crown or in some measure destroy the power of the Governour (which will pretty well appear by a Bill prepared by them this Sessions, a copy of which I herewith send to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>). I did not think proper to suffer either, so I adjourned the Assembly to the 2nd day of October. I did once intend to have dissolved them, but upon the account I had, that some persons here, had put them upon those methods, in hopes to provoke me to dissolve them, and the assurances I had from several of the members, that they would take better measures if they might have another sessions, I adjourned them to the second day of October, at which time they met, but instead of taking better measures, they have gone on in the same, where they dont only inroach upon my right (for that I should not have minded) but they take it upon them to appoint at what rates the money shall pass here, which I take to be the undoubted right of the Queen—Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will perceive by the copy's I send herewith that the Gentlemen of the Council made proper Amendments to the Bill, but these Gentlemen have thought fit to declare, in their message to the Council on the 4th of this month (that it is inconvenient for that house to admit of any amendment made by the Council to a Money Bill) by which Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will easily see, that they intend to make the Council as inconsiderable as they can, it is a thing was never attempted by any of their predecessors, but as the Country increases, they grow sawcy, and no doubt but if they are allowed to go on, they will improve upon it, how far that may be of service to the Queen I leave Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to Judge. I have lately perused the grant made by King Charles the 2nd to His Royal Highness the Duke of York of all the lands from a place called S<sup>t</sup> Croix to the Eastward of New England to the Eastern shore of Delaware River, by which it appears that, that grant impowered the Duke of York to correct, punish, pardon, Govern and Rule all such the subjects etc, as shall from time to time adventure themselves into any of the parts or places aforesaid, or that shall or do at any time hereafter inhabit within the same, according to such Laws, Orders, Ordinances, Directions and Instruments, as by the said Duke of York, or his assigns should be established, and in defect thereof in cases of necessity according to the good discretions of his Deputies, Commissioners, Officers or Assigns, respectively, as well in all causes and matters capital and Criminal or Civil, both marine and others etc. as will more plainly appear to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> by the Copy I herewith send of the said grant, and it is certain that in the time that Mylord Limerick was Governour of this Province for His Royal Highness the Duke of York, he Governed without Assemblies, and even after King James came to the Throne, the same Lord continued the same method; and certainly if the late King Charles the Second could grant that power to the Duke of York at that time Her Majesty may exert the same power if she pleases. I intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to believe that I am not pleading for the laying aside of Assembly's, it is far from my thoughts, but I think it my duty to acquaint you with what I take to be the Queen's right, especially when Assembly's begin to be refractory; when I have done that, I have done my duty, and shall wait Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> declarations, which I shall always punctually observe—In the mean time, I have this day dissolved the Assembly and intend to issue writts for the calling of another in March next, which I hope will behave themselves better than the last, however I am sure they can't be worse;—I am going to morrow to New Jersey to the Assembly there. I take the liberty to beg your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that I may have all manner of stores sent over, I have not a hundred and twenty barrells of powder left, and several of them are spoiled, I have no small arms at all, no Cartouch boxes nor paper, not one bed for the men to lye upon, but what has been peiced over and over again, not a sword in the Garrison, nor a dagger if the Enemy should attempt any thing upon our frontiers this winter, we shall not have powder enough left for salutes. I intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to intercede with the Queen that some presents may be sent over for the Indians, for if we must buy them here they will cost three times the price they will cost in England and sometimes the goods proper for the Indians, are not to be got here for money, such as light guns, Duffles, Strowds, Kettles, Hatchets, Stockings, Blankets and powder; and till Canada is reduced, we shall never be able to keep the Indians steady without presents. I must further intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to intercede with Mylord High Admiral, that a Man of War may be appointed for this province, if there is not one appointed—The French privateers will intirely destroy our Trade to the West Indies, which will soon destroy our Trade of this place which consists chiefly in flour and provious, and if I may propose, a ship of 40 gunns will be the fittest for this place. Thus I have given Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> an account of our present condition. I intreat you to represent our condition to Her Majesty that we may be supplied early in the spring, else we shall be in a very poor condition even to defend ourselves if we should be attacked; however I intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to believe that nothing shall be wanting on my part for the Queen's service, as long as Her Majesty shall please to command me to serve her here—I am—My Lords,

New Yorke

humble servant

The Lords of Trade to the Queen.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 222.]

To the QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY

May it please Your Majesty,—

We herewith humble lay before Your Majesty an Act, passed in the General Assembly of New Yorke, declaring the illegality of the proceedings against Coll: Nicholas Bayard, and Alderman John Hutchins for pretended high Treason, and for reversing and making Null and Void the said judgement and all proceedings thereon, Upon which having had the opinion of Your Majesty's Attorney General in point of Law, that he finds nothing in the said Act contrary to Law or Justice or prejudicial to Your Majesty's Royal prerogative; but in regard that the Records of the Attainders are by the said act to be obliterated and destroyed, and that persons who had acted innocently under the orders of those who had power to command them, may thereby be subjected to action for what they have so done, without any possibility of defending themselves, and he thereupon wishing there had been in the Act a Clause for their indemnification, we humbly submit to your Majesty whether Coll: Bayard and M<sup>r</sup> Hutchins should not be required to enter into recognizance upon Record, each of them for themselves and for each other, in the penalty of £5000 that they will not either of them bring any such Actions; or otherwise, that a new Act be passed with proper Clauses for the

Indemnification of persons who may be obnoxious to the Law by the defect of this Act; and upon either of the said conditions to be there determined, viz: The return of a new Act so amended, or a certificate from your Majesty's Gov<sup>r</sup> of New Yorke, that the said Bayard and Hutchins have given security as aforesaid, we humbly offer that it may be signified to the said Gov<sup>r</sup> that your Majesty will be pleased to ratify and confirm either this present Act or the said New Act with proper amendments as shall be expedient.

All which is most humbly submitted

Robert Livingston, Esq., to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Papers, V. W. X., X. 1.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations &c

The humble Petition of Rob<sup>t</sup> Livingston

Sheweth.

That he hath by his humble petition sett forth to her Majestie that Coll: Fletcher late Governour of New York suspended your Pet<sup>r</sup> from his Office of Secretary for y<sup>e</sup> Indian Affairs at New York without any just cause, and therefore prayed that Her Ma<sup>tie</sup> would be pleased to vacate the said suspension and restore him to the capacity of receiving the recompence of his long services, and since her Ma<sup>tie</sup> hath been graciously pleased to refer y<sup>e</sup> said petico<sup>n</sup> to your L<sup>ds</sup> who are y<sup>e</sup> only proper and competent judges of y<sup>e</sup> Pet<sup>r</sup>s services in that Office, and that y<sup>r</sup> Ldp<sup>s</sup> are to report your opinion to her Ma<sup>tie</sup> in Council what y<sup>r</sup> Ldps. conceive fitt for her Ma<sup>tie</sup> to doe thereupon, he humbly takes leave to represent to y<sup>r</sup> Ldps. that since his said salary was granted him by his late Majestie upon y<sup>e</sup> concurrent reports of the then Lords of y<sup>e</sup> Committee of Trade, and Lords Commissioners of y<sup>e</sup> Treasury in consideration as well as of his then past as of his future service, and that it is admitted that he constantly and faithfully perform'd y<sup>e</sup> duty ever since; he humbly hopes y<sup>r</sup> Ldps. will be pleased to make a favourable report that y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> suspension may be vacated, since y<sup>e</sup> suspensio<sup>n</sup> was virtually taken off, as far as he could doe it, by the late E. of Bellomont, who examin'd into that matter by his late Ma<sup>ties</sup> instructions, and made a report to y<sup>r</sup> Ldps: in his favor, & commanded your Pet<sup>r</sup> to proceed in y<sup>e</sup> execution of y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> office, giving him warrants upon y<sup>e</sup> revenue there for his said salary; but the revenue of N. York being borrow'd and apply'd to pay y<sup>e</sup> contingencys of y<sup>e</sup> established forces there, in default of timely remittances from England to pay y<sup>e</sup> said forces, the Pet<sup>r</sup>s whole salary amounting to £875. st. to y<sup>e</sup> 25th of March last, remains still unpaid; and he further humbly hopes y<sup>r</sup> Ldps. will recommend him to her Ma<sup>tie</sup> that he may be paid out of y<sup>e</sup> surplus of y<sup>e</sup> 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent accruing by the difference in y<sup>e</sup> value of money current in y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> Province from Sterling money, & mentioned to be deducted out of y<sup>e</sup> pay of said officers by y<sup>e</sup> Commissioners of y<sup>e</sup> Army Accounts, pursuant to a clause in an Act of Parliament made the last Session, entituled an Act for punishing mutiny desertion &c which accordingly is done, & y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> Commissioners of y<sup>e</sup> Army Accounts have certified that there is £2457.14.0½ surplus after y<sup>e</sup> officers and other uses mentioned in y<sup>e</sup> Warrants in that behalf made are satisfy'd, which Her Majesty's Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> is of Opinion is the proper Fond for y<sup>e</sup> Petitioners satisfaction, as by his report to my Lord Treasurer (a copy whereof is hereunto annexed) appears.

Your Pet<sup>r</sup> therefore humbly prays that y<sup>e</sup> Ldps. would be pleased to recommend his Case favourably to her Majestie that he may in consideration of his long and faithfull services for 29 years past, have his Salary ordered out of the surplus of y<sup>e</sup> 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent, & y<sup>e</sup> her Mat<sup>ie</sup> would graciously be pleased to confirm him in his said Office and that his said salary for y<sup>e</sup> future may be directed to be paid out of her Maj<sup>ty</sup> Quit Rents arising in y<sup>e</sup> Province.

And your Pet<sup>r</sup> shall ever Pray &

Attorney-General Northey to the Lords of Trade.

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> Sidney Lord Godolphin Lord High Treasurer of England.

In humble obedience to your Ldps. order signified to me by Mr Lowndes, I have considered of the annex'd case of R<sup>t</sup> Livingston Esq<sup>r</sup> and of the annexed clause in the late Act of Parliament made for punishing mutinys Desertion and false Musters, and in regard the surplusage stated in the case did arise by y<sup>e</sup> application of money rais'd in New York applicable to y<sup>e</sup> payment of y<sup>e</sup> salary of Mr Livingston and others, y<sup>e</sup> Civill Officers, and not to y<sup>e</sup> payment of y<sup>e</sup> Soldiers who were provided for by the Establishment in England, but were paid with that money which was intended to have paid Mr Livingston, I am of opinion in EQUITY & JUSTICE the fund provided for those soldiers became charg'd & indebted to repay so much as was advanc'd to pay y<sup>e</sup> soldiers out of that money provided for y<sup>e</sup> Civill government at New York, in default of remittances from England to pay them; and what was due to y<sup>e</sup> severall Officers intituled to any part of y<sup>e</sup> surplusage or applicable to other uses mention'd in any warrants refer'd to in the clause being satisfied, as y<sup>e</sup> same are alleadg'd to be, Her Majesty may lawfully direct y<sup>e</sup> moneys so advanc'd at New York to be repaid out of y<sup>e</sup> remainder of y<sup>e</sup> surplusage, and applied as it should have been, had it not been advanc'd for y<sup>e</sup> service of the Forces, and this without breaking into y<sup>e</sup> Appropriation, y<sup>e</sup> services in the warrant for w<sup>ch</sup> y<sup>e</sup> appropriation was made by y<sup>e</sup> Act being serv'd, and y<sup>e</sup> fund for y<sup>e</sup> soldiers having had y<sup>e</sup> benefit of y<sup>e</sup> money advanc'd.

All which is humbly submitted to your Lordship's great wisdom

( The Case. )

Within the Province of New York in America there is a revenue arising from the customes, Excise &c which is apply'd to pay the Salary's of the Governour & other Officers & oy<sup>r</sup> charges of y<sup>e</sup> Civill government there

There are likewise four Company's of Soulders kept there upon an English Establishment, & are paid by money remitted thither from England.

By y<sup>e</sup> difference of y<sup>e</sup> value of money current at New York from Sterling money, a surplus of 30 p<sup>r</sup> Cent accrued.

To the QUEENS MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTIE

May it Please your Majestie

In Obedience to your Maj<sup>ty</sup> Order in Council of y<sup>e</sup> 14th of y<sup>e</sup> last Month, upon y<sup>e</sup> Petition of Robert Livingston of New York, setting forth that y<sup>e</sup> Pet<sup>r</sup> having been Constituted Secretary for y<sup>e</sup> Indian affairs by his late Maj<sup>ty</sup> Commission dated y<sup>e</sup> 27 January 169½ with a Salary of 100<sup>lb</sup> p<sup>r</sup> annum, Coll: Fletcher then Governour of y<sup>t</sup> Province suspended him from y<sup>e</sup> said office, and as he alleadges without any just Cause, and praying that y<sup>e</sup> said suspension may be taken off, we have Examind y<sup>e</sup> same, and find by severall Certificates from N: York that he was suspended as aforesaid, and y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> Pet<sup>r</sup> has continued since y<sup>t</sup> time, to be very serviceable in managing y<sup>e</sup> Treaties with y<sup>e</sup> Indians notwithstanding y<sup>e</sup> said Suspension, we are therefore humbly of opinion, that his suspension does not deprive him from having a just pretence to his said Salary, which we apprehend, y<sup>e</sup> Revenue of New York by reason of anticipations will not be able to satisfy, and we doe further humbly offer, That your Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Pleasure be signified y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> suspension y<sup>e</sup> Pet<sup>r</sup> lyes under be taken off. w<sup>h</sup> is most humbly submitted

Mr. Congreve to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 261.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners For Trade and Plantations.

The humble memorial of Charles Congreve setting forth the state of the Garrisons, Forts and Forces of Her Majesty's Province of New Yorke in July 1704. by the direction of His Excellency Mylord Cornbury, with some proposals offered with all submission to your Lordships for the security of the Frontier thereof and encouragement of the Planters.

The Condition of the Forts, Magazines and Stores.

at N. Yorke The wall thereof is faulty in many places, many of the guns are remounted with new carriages and others repaired. The magazine for the powder lately built is large and secure, but the Store Room for the Armes is ready to fall, and all sorts of stores wanting — at Albany The present security of the place the old Fort is repaired, and new palisadoes sett round it and also round the whole City and blockhouses repaired.

at Schoonectady The Fort is of no strength and palisadoes are very rotten. The inhabitants have petitioned for a more regular and stronger Fort to be built for the security of the place.

at the Half Moon There is a Fort, but no Forces posted in it; The several Forts at Nestigaune, Saractoge and Kinderhook, are not in order, but the Inhabitants on the Frontier proposed to have them repaired against Winter, but its feared there will not be men raised to man them as has been usual; the Assembly having represented to His Excellency in their address delivered in 1703. that the Country is not able to raise money (and men) sufficient for that and other services, and the Four Companies (were they all full and fit for service, many of the men being old and have been in the Province this thirty years without being relieved) together with the Forces the Country is able to raise added unto them, are too few to man all the Garrisons and secure the Frontier, there being a necessity of keeping Guards in war time at five several places within the City of Albany, besides the Fort, which with the Garrisons of New Yorke and Schoonectady alone will take 550 Men to be posted thus:

		Number of Men.
New York.	In the Fort at New Yorke.....	200
	In the Fort at Albany .....	150
Albany	{ In the mainguard blockhouse ..... 30 } { In the Burgesses blockhouse..... 30 } { In the little blockhouse next the Fort ..... 10 } { In the horseguard blockhouse..... 20 } { In the blockhouse by the River ..... 10 }	30	On the North
		30	side of the City
		10	} On the South side.
		20 10
Schoonectady	.....	100	men
	And the rest of the Forts, with a Company usually posted on the lake will require 130 more viz:		} 650.
	At the Halfmoon.....	30
	Nestigaune & S <sup>t</sup> &.....	40
	Kinderhook .....	30
	The company on the Lake,.....	30

If the Frontier were secured and the number of Regular Forces allowed during the war and posted as above, the French can not hurt the Inhabitants, and would secure the Merchants and Planters in looking out for Naval stores and encourage them to sow hemp and improve the Wast lands; now that trading is so hazardous near 30 Vessells belonging to New York, have been lost; some worth 12, 14 and £20000. a vessell.

In consideration of what is above set forth and that the Province is more over £10000 in Debt, (contracted in time of the late peace) and out of credit and every poor, by reason of the decay of Trade which was the chief support. Thereof it is humbly proposed:

1st That Recruits for the present Four Companies may be sent at Spring, there being but 325, effective private Centinels in the last Muster Rolls of September and October 1704. so that there wants 75, and there is about 16 old men, and one that has lost one arm, and that the said old and the unserviceable men may be sent to Chelsea Hospital (which are now a burthen on the Province) and for the future to have one hundred Recruits sent over every two years, and the like number discharged at New Yorke, which would prevent disertion and the charge of following Deserters into other Provinces which is often extraordinary.

2<sup>dy</sup> That arms at least as many as were shipped on Board Singclear's ship (and taken by the French) and a sufficient quantity of Ammunition and Stores of all sorts be sent; as great guns for the Stone Fort at Albany, and for the Batteries at the Narrows etc.

3<sup>dy</sup> That two fifth rate men of war be sent early in spring to guard the harbour and cruise on the coast for the security of the Province and of N. Jersey.

The Inhabitants of the Province of New Yorke to shew their willingness to do what is in their power for the security thereof have by the Assembly given £1500. towards the building the two Batteries at the Narrows which will secure it by sea, but the full estimate of the charge is £2025. for that work, the finishing of which and of the Stone Fort begun at Albany is of absolute necessity by reason of the great war-like preparations that are and have been making this three years by the French at Canada, who aime at the destruction of the Frontier of New Yorke the first opportunity, as there is good reason to believe.

Therefore it is well hoped Her Majesty will be Graciously pleased to grant some considerable assistance in money to that Province for the perfecting what is begun which will be the preservation of all her noble provinces and Her subjects on the Main, and that Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> will be pleased favourably to represent their case to Her Majesty in order to obtain such assistance, and what is above proposed—which is most humbly submitted to Your Lordships by

Most obedient Servant

C. CONGREVE.

Captain Nanfan to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 267.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.The humble Petition of John Nanfan late Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governour of New Yorke.

Sheweth.

That Your Petitioner having subsisted the Four Companies at New Yorke for four months and a half more than M<sup>r</sup> Champante received their subsistance from the Pay Office, and the Bills Your Petitioner drew upon that account returning back protested, the Merchants concern'd therein, brought their actions against Your Petitioner, and kept him under arrest from the 19th of May 1703 to the 6th of November 1704. when at last they accepted of Your Petitioner's obligations to make payment in London of the money due on the said bills by the 25th of March next.

That Your Petitioner the very next day after he has so adjusted matters with the Merch<sup>ts</sup>, or their Agents as abovesaid, had private notice that M<sup>r</sup> Matthews and others had entered Actions against him to a considerable value, to the intent, as Your Petitioner can not but conceive, to make him end his life in prison, he being then reduced to a very low state of health by the former hardships he had suffered, and from which state he is not perfectly yet recovered.

That your petitioner to prevent the effects of such a malicious combination, was forced the very minute he had intimation of it, to make his escape and to fling himself on board Her Majesty's ship the Jersey with only the cloathes he had on his back, and so to leave behind him all his effects, and every thing else and so to come to England in a miserable and naked condition. The truth of all which your Petitioner is ready to make good upon oath, and can further prove if ever required.

That Your Petitioner's accounts stand now referred to M<sup>r</sup> Blathwayt and the two Comptrollers of the Army, but he being deprived of present of his Vouchers in the unheard of manner aforesaid, he can only justify his payments by Muster Rolles of the said companies, according to which is allowed by the Lord Cornbury's Agents to have issued the subsistance, and by which there will appear to be due to Your Petitioner above seventeen hundred pounds, to answer which demand of Your Petitioner, there has been, as he is informed, for near these two years past fifteen hundred pounds set aside and which is now in the Widdow Thrale's hands.

May it therefore please Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> in tender consideration of the Premises, so to Represent Your Petitioner's case, that his accounts may be ordered to be stated by the said Muster Rolles, and that in the mean while the said fifteen hundred pounds may be ordered to be paid to him, that he may discharge himself thereby, as far as it will go, of the obligations he is under. Your Petitioner offering to give security sufficient to stand the event of his account, either as stated by the Muster Rolles or upon an examination of his Vouchers, as soon as ever they come to his hands.

And your Petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray etc.

JOHN NANFAN.

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 218.]

My Lords,

Your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> letter of the 29th of June is come to my hands, in which you are pleased to inform me, that Her Majesty, has been pleased to issue Her Royal proclamation for settling and ascertaining the current rates of the Coin in the Plantations, which your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> are pleased to send to me, and to command me to cause the same to be published in the most solemn manner throughout my Govern<sup>ts</sup>, and to take care that due obedience be paid thereunto. In obedience to your Commands, I have caused Her Majesty's Royal proclamation to be published in this province, and have sent orders to Coll: Ingoldsby (who is now at Burlington) to take care to have it published throughout that Province; and now I must acquaint your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> with the consequences which have attended the publication of that Proclamation in this place. It was on Monday the 5th day of Feb<sup>r</sup> that it was published in this city, which is the day the Boston Post sets out from hence; as soon as the proclam<sup>tn</sup> was published, several persons here (pursuant to the directions sent to them from Boston) sent away as much money by the Post, as he could carry, and for four or five days all manner of Trade was stopped; there was no Market, nor one could buy anything with ready money—Two or three days after this a Petition was presented to me, signed by most of the considerable Merch<sup>ts</sup> in this place, setting forth the many inconveniencys that would attend the putting the directions contained in that Proclam<sup>tn</sup> strictly in practice even to the infallible ruin of this province occasioned chiefly by the neighbouring Colonies disobedience to Her Majesty's Commands; I send you a copy of the petition by which you will see how the Spanish Coin has gone not only in this province but in the neighbouring Colonys, particularly that of Pennsylvania, which by raising the value of pieces of eight of seventeen penny weight to seven shillings and sixpence, and the lighter money in proportion, have considerably drained this province of its money, as New England has done on the other side by clipping, which they don't scruple doing openly, as appeared very lately by the purser of Her Majesty's ship Jersey, one Franklin, who was going to pay a sum of money for several things he had had for the use of the ship, during the time she was there Careening, and an acquaintance of his of that place, seeing him lett out a parcel of broad heavy pieces of Eight, asked him what he was to doe with that money, the Purser told him he was going to put it away, upon which his Friend told him if he would let him have it for a few hours he would bring it to him with advantage, the Purser let him have it, and he did bring him back his number of pieces of Eight, and to the value of fifty three ounces of silver more, and this out of sixty pounds currant money of New Yorke. There is another instance of one M<sup>r</sup> Scott a Merchant of this City being last summer at Rhode Island out of one thousand pieces of eight of seventeen penny weight, got seventy three ounces of silver, and the pieces of eight were paid by him at the rate of seventeen penny weight still, and he says that if he would have suffered them to be clipped to fifteen penny weight he might have got above two hundred & fifty ounces of silver. These practices of our neighbours have done a great deal of harm to this Province, both in respect to their Trade to the West Indies, and the other part of the Continent, but now they think they have it in their power to destroy this province effectually, because they are resolved not to obey the Queen's commands contained in her Proclam<sup>tn</sup>. This I was lately informed of by some persons come from Boston, and particularly by M<sup>r</sup> Adolph Phillips, who was present at the publication of Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Royall proclam<sup>tn</sup> at Boston, who asking some of the Merchants there what effect that would have upon their Trade, was answered, that they had published the Queen's proclamation in obedience to Her Majesty's Commands, but that the money would go, as it did before, this we find to be true, by every day's experience. The allegations in the Petition and several things of this nature having been related to me, and proved beyond contradiction, prevailed with me to communicate the aforementioned Peti<sup>tn</sup> to the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council for this province, and to desire them to consider the contents of it very seriously and to let me know their thoughts of it, which they did, and made a Report of which I send your Lord<sup>shps</sup> a copy, by which you will find that some of our neighbours instead of obeying Her Majesty's proclam<sup>tn</sup>, have advanced the value of their coin, by taking pieces of Eight of thirteen pence weight for six shillings, which never went here for more than five shillings and three pence New York money; this is now daily practiced in New England, in order to get all our money from us, and they conclude their Report by saying that if the proclamation be put in Execution, according to the letter thereof, it will be the utter ruin of this province. I took sometime to consider the Report made by the Gentlemen of her Majesty's Council for this Province, as likewise to inform myself of the truth of severall persons, touching the practices of the New England people upon the matter of money, and I find by undenyable proof, that since Her Majesty's Royall Proclam<sup>tn</sup> has been published here, several Merch<sup>ts</sup> at Boston have wrote to their correspondents here, to send all the money they can, whether it be heavy or not, and they will not only take it at the same rates it went at before the publishing of the Proclam<sup>tn</sup> but will likewise allow ten per cent for as much as they can send; this is so true, that very lately a young Man of this Town being at Boston to buy some goods, to the value of five hundred pounds, paid that sum in single Ryals, at eight Ryals for six shillings which is the rate they used to pass at here, and had allowance of nine per cent besides; and he says that if he could have stayed two or three days longer, he might have had ten per cent — This can be intended for nothing but to ruin this place; for before this Proclamation, the money at Boston was twelve and a half better, than the money at New Yorke, soe that if we bought one hundred pounds worth of Goods at Boston, we must have paid one hundred and twelve pounds ten shillings New York money; whereas now by their taking pieces of eight of thirteen penny weight for six shillings, they have raised the coin higher than ever it was before, the consequence whereof will be, that our Merchants will send their money to Boston for European goods, which will in a short time destroy the Trade of this province to England, and make us depend intirely upon Boston for all such commodities as we now fetch in our own ships from England, to the manifest ruin of our navigation; this the people of this Colony think very hard, especially since the people of New England are like to reap this advantage by their disobedience to the Queen's commands.) Having seriously considered these things and observing that Her Majesty in her Royall proclamation is pleased to say, that having had under consideration the different Rates, at which the same species of foreign coins do pass in her several Colony's and Plantations in America, and the inconveniences thereof, by the indirect practice of drawing the money from one Plantation to another to the great prejudice of the Trade of her subjects, and being sensible that the same cannot be otherwise remedied, than by reducing of all foreign coins to the same currant rate within all Her Dominions in America, and it being very evident that Her Majesty's Royal good intentions to all her subjects in America, will be frustrated by the disobedience of her subjects in New England and Rhode Island. And it being very plain beyond contradiction that this province of New York will be ruined beyond recovery if Her Majesty's Royal Proclamation is put in execution according to the letter of it, I have consented to the request of Her Majesty's Council for this province, which is to direct [the] Collector of this province to receive money upon all the branches of the Revenue at the rates it formerly went, till this matter may be layd before the Queen, and her further pleasure be known therein. I therefore most humbly intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to lay this matter before Her most Sacred Majesty the Queen, and that it is not through any manner of disobedience to Her Majesty's commands (which we shall upon all occasions be ready to obey) that we have not immediately complied with the directions of her Royal Proclamation, but only to save this Province from utter ruin, which would most certainly have happened before I could have received her commands upon this representation. And I do further intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to assure Her Majesty that if notwithstanding what I have now offered to you, it is Her Royal pleasure that the directions in the Proclamation should be complied with; her commands shall be punctually obeyed. I hope your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will not look upon my behaviour in this matter as proceeding from any design of disobeying the Queen, I can boldly say, I never had nor shall have any such design, but I consider that delaying the putting that proclamation in Execution, till Her Majesty might be informed of the consequences that would have attended it, could be no prejudice to Her Majesty's service, nor injury to any of her subjects, whereas on the other hand the ruin of this Province was unavoidable—I am with great respect

My Lords.

Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> most faithful
humble servant.—

Petition of the Merchants of the City of New-York relating to Foreign Coin.

[New-York Papers. V. W. X., X 34.]

To His Excellency Edward Lord Viscount Cornbury Capt. Gen<sup>l</sup> Governor and Comander in Chief of the Province of New York and Vice Admirall of the same &<sup>ca</sup>

The humble Representation & Supplication of some of the Merchants and Traders in New York in behalf of themselves and the rest of the Inhabitants of this Province.

Sheweth:—

That the principall staple of the trade of this Province is the manufactory of wheat expended chiefly in the West Indies by the English and in their trade with Spanish subjects upon the Continent that the returns made for England (excepting the small trade of peltry which is now so diminished as scarce worth regarding) were heavy pieces of S. and other produce of the West Indies, which came to us in return of our said manufacture; tobacco and bills are the money as well of the staple of Virginia and Maryland, as are sugar, cotten, wooll, indigo & from the Leward Islands to the inhabitants there.

That by a long usage and custome p<sup>s</sup> of S Civill Filler and Mexico of 15<sup>d</sup> weight at 6<sup>s</sup> and rials at nine pence, were the currant staying money of this Province without any settlem<sup>t</sup> made for p<sup>s</sup> of S. of greater or lesser weight, untill about the 25th of March 1693, so none remain'd with us but such as was lessened by others, and the lightest rials, which answered the necessitys of the poor people in the markt.

That long before the 25th of March 1693 the Merchants of Boston did practise to draw from us our heavy money as much as possible, their money of the date of 1652 being of equall value thereunto; which we often endeavoured to prevent, as being hurtfull to our trade and navigation directly to England.

That the Proprietary Government of Pensylvania then inconsiderable, like the ivy ab<sup>t</sup> the oake, drew strength and nutriment from our substance, whilst by our revenue wee supported the regall government, and by our yearly taxes and subsidies and detachm<sup>ts</sup> of our people to the frontiers of Albany wee gave them protection from almost nothing our young people fledd into their country for sake of ease and they did establish amongst them a currency of money after the rate of 17<sup>d</sup> weight to 7<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup>.—12<sup>d</sup> to 6<sup>s</sup> and rials to ten pence &<sup>c</sup>

The Gentlemen of the Council for this Province discovering the ill consequences thereof, did then represent the matter to Coll: Fletcher then Governor how our heavy money was carried to Boston on the one hand, and our light money to Pensylvania on the other, who being instructed not to [alter] the value of the currant Coin of this Province without his Majesties order, did only order that the heavier and lighter p<sup>s</sup> of S should pass amongst us ratably at 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ <sup>d</sup> for every penny weight more or less, and that Lyon dollars a coin here not well known in value intrinsick, which had spread themselves in great numbers from Carolina and Pensylvania into all the Countrey, should pass at 5<sup>s</sup> 6<sup>d</sup> so that our money then remained a mean between the money of Boston and Pensylvania, and the difference was 25 p<sup>r</sup> Cent.

That upon peace after the last warr the greatest part of the heavy money in this Province was remitted to England.

That since the breaking out of the present warr with France and Spain, our manufacture has been of small value in the West Indies to our great impoverishment.

That the people of Boston publickly & avowedly have practised to clipp and file all the small currant money along this continent to 25 p<sup>r</sup> Cent loss, which practice and the unlawfull proffit coming thereby, did encourage enough to make it their business to carry it thither and return it againe to us & our neighbours, where it passed for same value as formerly; which is now so apparent that, many times, sixteen rials doe not weigh seaventeen penny weight. |

When we heard of Her Majesties royall Proclamation for settling and ascertaining of the currant rates of Foreign Coin in these Plantations wee were prepared to give a dutifull and ready obedience to Her Majesties Cômmands and were gratefully sensible of Her Majesties favour and justice therein; hoping thereby to be fully remedyed and relieved from the great inequality and prejudice of trade wee suffered, and waited with their full expectation of the accomplishment of Her Majesties most reasonable and just proposes therein.

But so it is, May it please Your Excellency that her most gracious Matie and her dutifull subjects are likely to be disappointed of her royall purposes and their expectations, as formerly wee have been when his Matie King William sent his royall Cômmands for the neighbouring Provinces and Colonies to contribute their quotas of men and money towards the security of the Frontiers at Albany

Wee have certaine intelligence that the Governor of the Massachusetts Colony hath caused Her Ma<sup>ties</sup> proclamation to be published at Boston, but that no manner or further notice or regard is had thereunto, and the money pass currant there as before: by means whereof (if Her Maties: subjects inhabiting this Province are holden to the strict observation of said Proclamation) they must be utterly ruined and trade totally destroyed. One hundred Pounds currant in New York here will scarce pay or purchase Fifty Pounds worth of goods when the same money at Boston will goe currant for £100. and purchase to that value. Wee can produce letters from Boston since the said publication, proffering 10<sup>p</sup> Cent advance for heavy money, and the last post carried what money possible he could in the maile, and no doubt the next vessel that goes thither will drain us of all our small money as well as great; so that we can expect nothing to tarry with us but Lyon dollars, whereof none here can judge of their value, and pence, which the people of Boston have always avoided.

It has been the opinion of some grave & discreet persons of quality, and many other of lesser rank and that upon good reasons, that this Country is improveable towards the furnishing of Naval stores for Her Maties Royall Navy and in time may come to perfection; neither is our present staple found useless in the West Indies, to preserve Her Maties. interest, and prevent great danger of ruine to her Maties dutifull subjects

Wee therefore humbly pray your Excellency will be pleased to inspect the truth of our allegations and to make such just representation of the matter to her most gracious Matie,—as be consistant with her Maties honor and interest, and the welfare of her subjects; and that in the mean time your Excell<sup>y</sup> will be pleased to suspend the putting of this Proclamation in execution in this province untill Her Maties pleasure thereon be further signified therein; or to take such other moderate measures therein for our present relief as to your Excell<sup>y</sup> shall seem best expedient, and

Your Petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray &c

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 813.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commission<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> letter of the 29th of June 1704. came to my hands on the 15th of December at Amboy, as I was on my journey to New York. I perceive by it that Her Majesty has been pleased to direct your Lord<sup>shps</sup> to signify to me her Royal pleasure, that Merchants, Planters and others be very cautious in giving any accounts by letters of the public state and condition of the Provinces of New York and New Jersey; and you are likewise pleased to command me to direct all masters of ships or other persons to whom I shall intrust my letters, to sink them in case of danger from the Enemy, and likewise to sink all other letters that they are intrusted with, in case of imminent danger. In obedience to your Lord<sup>shps</sup> commands, I have signified to the Merchants of this place Her Majesty's pleasure, and I have given directions to the Naval Officer, to renew the order to the masters of vessels as often as they come to clear outwards, to sink all letters in case of imminent danger from the Enemy, Thus I hope I have pursued the directions you have been pleased to send me, which I shall always endeavour to observe most punctually. who am.

My Lords,

Your Lordships most faithful
humble servant

[New-York Entries, B. F. 815.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commission<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations

My Lords,

Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> letters of the 24th and 25th of August are come to my hands with the duplicates of several former letters, and Her Majesty's letter under Her Royal signature directing my proceedings in relation to Her Majesty's and My Lord High Admiral's shares of prizes, which I shall take care punctually to observe; as likewise Her Majesty's additional instructions relating to the Acts of Trade and Navigation I will see duly observed. I have obeyed Your Lord<sup>shps</sup> directions in appointing a day of thanksgiving for the glorious Victory obtained over Her Majesty's Enemies, under the conduct of His Grace the Duke of Marlborough, which has been observed. As for what your Lord<sup>shps</sup> are pleased to require of me, relating to the Stores, that is an acct how they have been disposed of, I will endeavour to comply with it, even by this ship, if possible, but if not, by the next you shall most certainly have it.

I take the liberty to acquaint your Lord<sup>shps</sup> that since Dr Bridges's death, there are dead of Her Majesty's Council, for this Province, M<sup>r</sup> Ling, M<sup>r</sup> Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> Broughton and Coll. Smith<sup>1</sup>—and Coll: Romer has not been near me upwards of two years, and I hear is now going for England, so that there are but seven Councillors, in the Province—Coll: Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Renslaer live at Albany, M<sup>r</sup> Lawrence and M<sup>r</sup> Beekman live upon Long Island and Coll: Heathcot in West Chester County, soe, that there were but two in Town, M<sup>r</sup> Van Dam and M<sup>r</sup> Wenham, and indeed all the Winter I can have the assistance of none but those who live in Town, therefore I have lately admitted into the Council M<sup>r</sup> Mompesson, M<sup>r</sup> John Barbarie and M<sup>r</sup> Adolph Phillips, whom I intreat Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> may be confirmed; I think them all three very good Men, and am satisfyed that they will serve the Queen as they ought to doe, else I would not presume to recommend them. As for what you are pleased to mention about the Acts of Assembly sent in June, I can not imagine how that mistake came, but for the future, I shall observe your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s directions and certify all the Acts. I am with great respect

My Lords ettc—

Warrant of Lord Cornbury appointing William Sloper his Agent.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 831.]

Know all men by these presents that I Edward Viscount Cornbury Capt<sup>o</sup> General and Governour in Chief of the Provinces of New York and New Jersey, and the territories and Tracts of Lands thereon depending in America, and vice Admiral of the same HAVE made ordained, constituted and appointed [and] by these presents, doe make, ordain, constitute and appoint William Sloper of London Gentleman, my true and lawful Attorney and Agent for the four Independant companies of Fuzileers now at New York aforesaid, to ask, demand, receive and take of and from the Paymaster General for the time being or any other person or persons as shall be appointed to pay the same all and every sum and sums of money due or which hereafter shall grow due to the said Four Companies belonging to the said province of New York for subsistance, Clearings and Offreckonings or otherwise howsoever, and also to receive and take all and all manner of Stores, Amunitions, Arms, Clothing and all other matters and things <sup>1</sup> WILLIAM SMITH was born at Newton, near Higham Ferrers in Northamptonshire, England, on the 2d February, 1655, and in 1675 was appointed Governor of Tangiers where he married, on the 26th of November of the same year, Martha, daughter of Henry Tunstal, Esq., of Putney, in the county of Surrey. On the abandonment of Tangiers, in 1683, Mr. Smith returned to England, and embarked in commercial pursuits. He continued in business in London until 1686, and on the 26th of August of that year arrived with his family in New-York. He removed a few years afterwards to Brookhaven, L. I., in which vicinity he made large purchases of land, that were erected in 1693 into the manor of St. George. Mr. Smith was recommended by Governor Dongan in 1686 for a seat in the Council; his name was accordingly inserted in the instructions to Governor Sloughter, dated 31st January, 1690, in virtue whereof he took his seat at the Board on 25th March, 1691. He was appointed one of the Commissioners to try Leisler, and in 1692, Chief Justice of the Province, which post he held until 1700. On the death of Bellomont, he became President of the Council, his difficulties with which body are already matters of history. On the withdrawal of Atwood from the country, Col. Smith was again appointed Chief Justice, 9 June, 1702. Commissions, II, 172; HL, 8, and filled that office until April, 1703, when he was succeeded by Mr. Bridges. Ibid., III, 68. He continued member of the Council until his death, which took place at his mansion upon Little Neck, Setaucket, L. I., on 18th February, 1705, in the 51st year of his age. His wife survived him until the 23rd May, 1709. A full account of Col. Smith and his descendants will be found in Thompson's History of Long Island, II, 442.—Ed.

whatsoever which shall from time to time be appointed and ordered for the use of the four companies aforesaid in the said province of New York, and upon receipt of the same, or any part thereof from time to time to make and give discharges for the same. Giving and granting unto my said Attorney and Agent full power and authority for me and in my name, to use and take all such lawful ways and means and Remedys for the obtaining getting and recovering all and singular the money matters and things aforesaid as fully and amply to all intents and purposes, as I myself (as Governour of the said Province) might use and take, and also for me and in my name (as Governour ettc of the said Province) to state, settle, act, doe, execute, and perform all other lawful Act and Acts, thing and things whatsoever touching and concerning the premisses aforesaid, as shall from time to time be expedient and necessary as thoughtly and wholly, as I the said Gov<sup>r</sup> of the said province might or could doe hereby, ratifying confirming and allowing whatsoever my said Attorney and Agent shall lawfully doe and perform in and about the premisses aforesaid, and I (the said L<sup>d</sup> Cornbury Gover<sup>r</sup> aforesaid) by and with the advice and Consent of Her Majesty's Council for the province of New York aforesaid, do by these presents constitute and appoint the said William Sloper to be Agent to and for the said province of New York hereby giving and granting unto the said William Sloper full power and Authority from time to time, to act doe and sollicite all and all manner of affairs, matters and things for the service benefit and Advantage of the said province of New York, as shall from time to time happen and occur, as fully and amply as the same have been usually acted, done or solicited or Lawfully might have been acted done and solicited by other Agents formerly appointed in the said service. Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 278.]

My Lord,

Since ours to Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> which was of the 21th August last, we have received two letters from you both dated the 6th of November, together with the several papers mentioned to be there inclosed, except only the copy of the grant made by King Charles the Second of the lands from S<sup>t</sup> Croix Eastward, to the Duke of York.

As to M<sup>r</sup> Mompession's being Chief Justice in the room of M<sup>r</sup> Bridges deceased, we do not doubt but that he will answer the character you give of him, and the expectation you have that he will discharge his duty; but do not think it needful to apply to the Queen for her confirmation, not judging it to be either of use to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> or advantage to him; since by the Commission given him by your Lord<sup>sh</sup> he is actually Chief Justice, and entituled to the profits appertaining to that Office.

As to the account you give us of your hasty call from Jersey by an alarm at Albany upon some mistaken advice of the French Indians falling into those parts, we are very well satisfied to hear that the Militia was in a condition to anticipate your orders, and that even the neighbouring Indians shewed themselves so steadfast in their being ready to come into their Assistance if there had been occasion.

As to what you write concerning the demeanour of the Assembly and of Your having thereupon adjourned (and afterwards dissolved) them that they might have time to consider better of their duty. We very much approve of Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s care in preserving her Majesty's prerogative and the rights of Govern<sup>t</sup>, and we hope your endeavours will prove effectual to bring them to that moderation and obedience, that may most tend to the publick good. We conceive no reason why the Council should not have right to amend all Bills sent to them by the Assembly, even those relating to money. But more particularly, we can not but blame the Assembly for their assuming a right to settle the value of coin (which as Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> observes does inroach upon Her Majesty's undoubtful prerogative) as to the raising or falling of coin, you have her Maj<sup>ty</sup>'s proclamation upon that subject which we sent you in our's of the 29th June last, which ought to put an end to all disputes upon that subject.

We told your Lord<sup>sh</sup> in our last, the difficulties we should meet with, in representing your want of supplies of stores of War, not having been furnished by your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with exact accounts of what you desire, as likewise of the consumption of those stores you have already had, which we desire you to send on the first occasion.

In the mean time we must take notice to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>, that we do not find there has been any real occasion, for the consumption of powder, & desire you for the future that the powder be frugally managed, and no part thereof wasted in unnecessary salutes.

We are obliged to inform Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that Her Majesty expects you should move the next Assembly, that they raise a fund for the purchasing of Military stores, and for the supplying other uses as the defence of the Province may require.

We further observe that the Soldiers having been once provided with small arms and Accoutrements, those things are afterwards to be furnished out of their pay, so that such arms are not properly to be demanded of Her Majesty.

We have laid before Her Majesty the State of the Province in all respects as Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> gives it us, and have represented that 100 Men may be sent for Recruiting the Four Companies of Fuzileers, the charge thereof to be paid out of the Respits upon the Muster Rolls, of those companies, for which we understand there is more than a sufficient sum to be deducted, since your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s arrival there.

We have likewise offered that 50 Barrills of Powder may be sent, the charge thereof to be repaid by the Assembly to Her Majesty's Office of Ordnance here, and that your Lord<sup>sh</sup> may receive Her Majesty's directions for remitting the value of the said powder accordingly. Having been informed that 100 Fuzils with their Accoutrements which had been provided upon the Account of the Four Companies, were taken the last summer in their passage to N. Yorke by the French, we have represented to Her Majesty, that a like quantity may be again sent instead thereof.

As to the presents for the Indians, we have also offered, that some may be sent of the several species desired, to be disposed of by Your Lord<sup>p</sup> as there shall be occasion.

We have further represented what your Lord<sup>p</sup> writes of the necessity of a Man of war of 40 guns for the protection of the Trade of that province. And Her Majesty has instead thereof appointed two ships of a lesser rate which may be more usefull.

Upon all which as we receive Her Majesty's directions, we will not fail to acquaint Your Lord<sup>p</sup> therewith.

The Act you have sent us, declaring the illegality of the proceedings against Coll: Bayard & Alderman Hutchins has been observed by Her Majesty's Attorney Gen<sup>l</sup> to be defective in a very material point, for which reason, we have not offered it to Her Majesty for Her Royal confirmation, but have proposed our opinion, that the defect may be amended; We therefore send you here inclosed the copy of our representation, together with the Copy of Her Majesty's order in Council thereupon: that you may accordingly take care that Coll: Bayard and Alderman Hutchins, do either enter into Recognizance upon Record as directed, or that a new Act be past in the Assembly with the necessary amendments, upon which Her Majesty will either confirm this or another act as is expressed in the inclosed order of Council.

We send you here inclosed the Copy of a petition that has been presented to us by Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan, wherein he complains that after he had made an agreement with the Merch<sup>ts</sup> concerned in relation to the Bills drawn by him for the subsistence of the Soldiers, which were here protested, he had the next day private notice, that M<sup>r</sup> Mathews and others, had entred actions against him to a considerable value, with intent as he conceives, to detain him still a prisoner there, and prevent his coming for England; which private intelligence obliged him to leave the Province in so much hast and confusion, that he had not opportunity to bring along with him the Vouchers that may be necessary for clearing his accounts. We hereupon desire your Lord<sup>p</sup> to acquaint us, what those actions were which he mentions, and further that you would give such directions as may be fit that no person whatsoever may in any manner hinder his correspondents, from transmitting over hither the Vouchers of his Accounts, which he would refer to, and that your Lord<sup>p</sup> would give your assistance herein, for the expediting his affairs his condition seeming worthy of compassion. We are — My Lord — etc.

DARTMOUTH,	ROBT. CECILL,	PHIL: MEADOWS
W <sup>m</sup> BLATHWAYT,	JOHN POLLEXFEN,	MAT. PRIOR.

POSTSCRIPT. Inclosed we send you Her Majesty's letter, by which your Lord<sup>p</sup> will be more particularly directed in the accounts you have to give of the Public Stores.

We have under consideration the business of New Jersey as transmitted to us by your Lord<sup>p</sup>, and having communicated to the proprietors here what to them appertains we hope to come to a speedy resolution thereupon.

We likewise send you copies of two Acts past here the last Sessions of Parliament for prohibiting all trade and commerce with France and for preventing all Traiterous correspondence with Her Majesty's Enemies which you are to publish in your Govern<sup>t</sup> and which will be a Direction to you in all cases of that nature.

We do likewise inclose to you the several printed acts of Parliament for the encouraging the importation of Naval Stores in this Kingdom, together with a letter from M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges in that behalf, hoping for a good effect from this new undertaking.

26. March 1705.

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 257.]

To the Right Honourable the Lord Cornbury, Governour of New Yorke.

My Lord,

Whereas several complaints have been made to us by your Lord<sup>sh</sup> and Coll: Dudley Gov<sup>r</sup> of the Massachusetts Bay, against the irregular proceedings of the Charter Govern<sup>rs</sup> of Connecticut and Rhode Island. And whereas Her Majesty has been pleased upon our representing the said irregular proceedings, to direct us to transmit unto you a charge ag<sup>t</sup> the said Gov<sup>ts</sup>, we accordingly send you the same here inclosed, together with a copy of Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 12th of Febr<sup>y</sup> last, by which you are directed to send copies of the said charge, to the respective Gov<sup>ts</sup> of Connecticut and Rhode Island for their answers, and you are further to transmit to your<sup>t</sup> Majesty, depositions taken in the most public manner upon oath, to the truth of the several matters, laid in the charge against the said Charter Govern<sup>rs</sup>. And so not doubting of your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s care, in giving such directions, that Her Majesty's pleasure herein may be punctually complied with—we remain etc.

Warrant for the use of a New Seal of New-York.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 259.]

To our Right Trusty and Well beloved Edward Lord Viscount Cornbury, Our Capt<sup>l</sup> General and Governour in Chief of Our Province of New Yorke and the territories depending thereon in America, and to the Commander in Chief of the said Province for the Time being. GREETING.

Herewith you will receive a seal appointed by Us for the use of our Province of New York and the Territories depending thereon in America, the same being engraven on the one side with our Royall Effigies, and two Indians kneeling and Offering presents unto us, with our Royal Titles round the circumference of the said seal, and on the other side with our Royal arms, with the Garter, Crown, supporters and motto, and this inscription round the circumference "Sigillum provincie nostrae novi Eboraci in America"—which said seal we do hereby authorize and direct to be used in the sealing all patents and public grants, of lands, and all public acts and instruments which shall be made and passed in our name, and for our service within our said province and the territories depending thereon, and that it be all intents and purposes of the same force and validity, as any former seal within our province, or as any other seal whatsoever appointed for the use of any of our plantations in America. And so We bid you Heartily farewell—Given at Our Court at St James's the third day of May 1705, In the fourth year of our Reign.

By her Majesty's Command
C. HEDGES.

My Lords,

At the request of the Widdow of D<sup>r</sup> Bridges, I trouble Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s with this letter, to intreat your favour for her, in interceeding with Her Majesty, that the salary which became due to Her husband in England as chief Justice of this Province may be paid to her; she hopes this will not be thought an unreasonable request, because in the order the Queen was pleased to send to me bearing date the 8th of August 1702, in which Her Majesty is pleased to command me forthwith, to cause letters p<sup>at</sup>ents to be passed under the seal of this province constituting and appointing the said D<sup>r</sup> Bridges Chief Justice of this Province etc, together with all and singular, the Rights, profits, Priviledges, and Emoluments unto the said place in as full and ample manner as the said William Atwood or any other person hath formerly or of right ought to have held and enjoyed the same. It seems when M<sup>r</sup> Atwood was sent out of England to be Chief Justice of this Province, the late King was pleased to grant him a salary of 300.£ a year to be paid to him or his order, in England; now Her Majesty having been pleased to allow D<sup>r</sup> Bridges, to enjoy all the Rights, Profits, Priviledges, and Emoluments unto the said place belonging in as full and ample manner as the said William Atwood, so D<sup>r</sup> Bridges never doubted but the Queen would allow him the same salary M<sup>r</sup> Atwood had. The favour therefore which I would beg of Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s in behalf of the Widdow (who is left in a very deplorable condition with a daughter) is, that you would please to recommend her case to the Queen, and to intercede with Her Majesty, that the salary become due to her husband upon the foot which M<sup>r</sup> Atwood had it, may be allowed her; this will not only be an Act of great Grace and favour, but of great charity too. I ask Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s pardon for troubling you so long upon this subject, but I thought I was bound in justice to the memory of the deceased, to recommend to Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s protection the Widdow of a worthy good Man, who during the time Her Majesty was pleased to employ him in her service, served her with the utmost zeal and fidelity imaginable. I am

My Lords, etc.

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 413.]

My Lords.

I trouble your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s with this letter to acquaint you, that after having had several accounts of M<sup>r</sup> Byerley's ill usage of several persons, in the execution of his Office of Collector and Receiver General of this province, besides his ill behaviour to me not to give it a worse form, which was his daily practice, and his constant disobedience to orders made by me in Council; I was at last informed that M<sup>r</sup> Byerly countenanced illegal Trade. I told the person that informed me, that, that was a very general charge, and that unless he would come to a more particular one, I should take no notice of it, upon which he told me that M<sup>r</sup> Byerly gave Bills of store for enumerated commodities, to be carried to foreign Plantations, and gave me for instance, that he had given a bill of Store to one Capt<sup>n</sup> Cholwell (who is a Merchant of this City) for two hundrd weight of cocoa to be put on Board the sloop of one Claas Evertsen, one Zybersten Commander which was bound to Surinam and he told me, that the Bill of Store was in the hand of the Register of the Court of Vice Admiralty. I sent for the Register, who did bring me the Bill of Store under M<sup>r</sup> Byerly's hand, I have it now in my custody. Upon this I inquired what the usage had been here in the time of other Collectors, and by the best information I could get, I find that most of the former Collectors have been very sparing in that matter, and that when they have granted Bills of Store, it has been for some small quantity of Tobacco or Sugar to a Master or some passenger for their use in the voyage and even of those I have not seen any but to vessells bound to some English Plantation, but not to any foreign Colony; I advised likewise with some of the Lawyers here, who were of opinion, that it was a manifest breach of the Laws of Trade and having consulted her Majesties Instructions to me I find that in the last Clause Her Majesty is pleased to express herself in these terms "We take the good of our Plantations and the improvement of the Trade thereof, by a strict and punctual observance of the several Laws in force concerning the same, to be of so great importance to the benefit of this our Kingdome, and to the advancing the duties of our customs here, that if we shall be hereafter informed, that at any time there shall be any failure in the due observance of those Laws, within the aforesaid province of New York and territories thereon depending, by any willful fault or neglect on your part, we shall look upon it as a breach of the Trust reposed in you by us, which we shall punish with the loss of Your place in that Govern<sup>t</sup>, and such further marks of our displeasure, as we shall judge reasonable to be inflicted upon you for your offence against us in a matter of this consequence that we now so particularly charge you with"—So that this matter of fact being so fully proved, I thought it my duty to suspend M<sup>r</sup> Byerly, till I could inform your Lord<sup>sh</sup> in this matter and receive Her Majesties [pleasure] thereupon, and in the mean time I have appointed M<sup>r</sup> Peter Fauconeer to be Commiss<sup>r</sup> to execute the Office of Collector and Receiver General of this Province, he is a man whom I have had experience of, and he has given security to the value of £5000. for the faithful discharge of the Trust reposed in him, till Her Majesties pleasure may be known. If it shall be the Queen's pleasure to approve of the suspension of M<sup>r</sup> Byerly, as I hope she will, I beg your Lord<sup>sh</sup> favour for the Recommending M<sup>r</sup> Fauconier for the place of Collector and Receiver Gen<sup>l</sup> of this Province—he is one of the best accountants that ever I knew, he is a Man of very great application to and diligence in business; And I have by experience found him a very honest Man, he has been Naval Officer ever since I came into this province, which he has executed with utmost diligence, and has taken pains to acquaint himself very well with the Laws of Trade; he will give any security the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> Mylord High Treasurer shall please to require. I must now acquaint your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that this matter had not come to light, had not the sloop being seized, for Illegal trade by the Naval Officer, for carrying Enumerated commodities to Surinam; having taken the same on Board privately, after she had cleared at the Custom house here; the sloop being seized, the Naval Officer Libelled against her in the Court of Vice-Admiralty, where the Master Ebersen appeared to defend her, she was accused of having taken on board at a place called the Watering place, nine miles below the city, some Hogsheads of Tobacco and of Cocoa, the Master to alleviate his crime as much as he could, produced the Bill of Store for the Cocoa in court. I must further observe, that this Sloop had been seized by M<sup>r</sup> Fauconier the Naval Officer before, on suspicion of illegal trade, and as belonging to an Alien, but the proofs not being so full as they ought to be, and the Sloop being laden ready to saile for Surinam, and the Master pressing for leave to proceed on his voyage, he had leave, having first given security to the value of the sloop and Cargoe, if in case she should be condemned; at the return of the Sloop the information was given against her, and she was condemned. This is not the first thing of this nature, that this Gentlem<sup>n</sup> has done, but he had so pesessed the People here with notions of the great interest he has in Engl<sup>d</sup> that they durst not say anything against him, but now things begin to come to light. In Sept<sup>r</sup> 1704. one Hugh Coward Master of the sloop Mary, came from Rhode Island to this Port, & applied himself to the Naval Officer for leave to unload his goods (which were bound for London) here, pretending his Sloop was so leaky, that she could not perform her Voyage, till she was repaired; the Naval Officer upon his making oath before the Mayor of this City, that his Sloop was leaky, gave him a certificate (a copy whereof I herewith send Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>) to the Collector. M<sup>r</sup> Byerly did give leave that the goods should be landed, but instead of taking care that the Cocoa of which the Cargoe consisted, should be put into the warehouses, belonging to the Custom house, by which means he might have been certain, that the same should have been shipp'd again, he lett the Merchant (one Joseph Bueno a Jew, a particular friend of his) carry the Cocoa to his own Warehouse, and has taken no care to see that the same goods should shipped again, and the Merchant finding that Cocoa bore but a low price in England, would never have troubled himself to ship it off, had not M<sup>r</sup> Fauconnier enquired into that Matter and obliged the Jew to ship it off, which is done, and the Sloop is sailed for Virginia in hopes to get a convoy; but the intention of the Jew appears pretty plain by his offering M<sup>r</sup> Fauconnier fifty pounds to pass it by, but he rejected it with contempt—M<sup>r</sup> Byerly ordered the Ketch Mary to be seized, upon suspicion of illegal Trade, he Libelled her, and upon the Tryal the Ketch was discharged but the goods were condemned; M<sup>r</sup> Byerly took the goods into his own custody and sold them for his own use, for he has not given the Queen credit in his accounts for her Third, he has not paid me my third, nor he has not so much as paid the fees of the Court. I could acquaint your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with several other things concerning M<sup>r</sup> Byerly's behaviour here, which I suppose would not be approved of, but I am unwilling to be tedious, I shall not trouble your Lord<sup>sh</sup> any further now, only to intreat you to believe, that I am with great respect—My Lords—Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>

most faithful humble servant

CORNURY.

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 350.]

My Lords,

Since my letters to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> of the 19th Feb<sup>ry</sup> last, which went by the way of Boston to Her Majesty's Ship Advice, I have not had any opportunity of writing to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> till now (except one letter which I sent by the way of Antego) but now Coll. Quarry having informed me, that his affairs called him into England, I make use of this good opportunity, to acquaint you with what has occurred since my last, both in the province of New York and the province of New Jersey—In my letter of the sixth of Novem<sup>br</sup> 1704. which went by Her Majesty's ship Jersey, I gave Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> an account that on that day I had dissolved the Assembly of this Province, and that I intended to call another in March last, but being advised with the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council, what would be the most seasonable time for them to sit, they were all of opinion that the beginning of June would be the best time; upon which I issued writs for the Electing of Representatives to serve in General Assembly to meet on the first day of June last. But the Members not coming at the day appointed, I was forced to adjourn the Assembly by proclamation several times till the eleventh, at which time the great part of the Members being come, I sent for them and directed them to choose a Speaker which they did, and presented him to me on the fourteenth, and having approved of him I acquainted them what I thought necessary to be done this sessions, a copy whereof I herewith send Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>. The Assembly is still sitting for which reason I can not send the Journall, because it is not perfect, but I think myself in duty to the Queen bound to acquaint you with some of their proceedings. And first I must observe that in the Elections the people have generally chosen the same persons, and the representatives have chosen the same Speaker; nevertheless I would not reject him, because I was willing to let them see, that I was not willing to retain any resentment of their ill behaviour the two last Sessions, in hopes that they would have taken better methods than they did before, but it seems the major part of them came possessed with other minds, for having prepared a Bill to raise seventeen hundred pounds for the defence of the frontiers, they insisted (as they did the last Sessions) upon the nominating a Treasurer, and in their Bill, they make that Treasurer accountable to the Gen<sup>l</sup> Assembly, and not to the Queen, which is directly contrary to my instructions, When the Bill was sent up by the Assembly to the Council, I took notice of these things, and I shewed the Gentlemen of the Council the 17th Clause of my Instructions in these words "You are to take care that in all acts or orders to be passed within that our Province in any case for Levying money or imposing fines and Penalties, express mention be made that the same is granted or reserved to Us our heirs and successors for the publick uses of that our Province and the support of the Govern<sup>t</sup> thereof as by the said Act or order shall be directed." and likewise the 21st Clause in these words "You are not to permit any Clause whatsoever to be inserted in any Law for levying money or the value of money, whereby the same shall not be made lyable to be accounted for unto us here in England, and to our High Treasurer or our Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for our Treasury for the time being" and likewise the 23rd Clause in these words "You are not to suffer any publick money whatsoever, to be issued or disposed of otherwise then by warrant under your hand, by and with the advice and consent of our said Council, but the Assembly may be nevertheless permitted from time to time to view and examine the accounts of money or value of money, disposed by virtue of Laws made by them which you are to signify to them as there shall be occasion"—Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will perceive by the Bill a copy whereof I herewith send you, that the Assembly have acted directly contrary to these three Clauses, for in page the first of their Bill, it is enacted that the sum of seventeen hundred pounds shall be levied as therein directed, and for the uses therein mentioned, but it is not granted to the Queen, her heirs and successors; And in folio the second they appoint one M<sup>r</sup> Richard Willet to be Treasurer of New York (an Office not yet known)—In folio the third, they enact that the said Treasurer shall give security to the Queen by Recognizance to be accountable to the General Assembly. Folio the eleventh "it is enacted that a certificate under the hand of the Collonel, Chief Officer or Capt<sup>n</sup> in the County or precincts where any man shall be detached, and a certificate from the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Albany or the major part of them, shall be a sufficient warrant and authority to the Treasurer to pay the moneys by this Act to levy'd" etc—So that it will appear, that in the first folio, they directly contradict the 17th Clause of my Instructions, because they do not grant to the Queen her heirs and successors; in folio the third they do a little more positively contradict the 21st Clause of my Instructions, because they direct their pretended Treasurer, shall give security to the Queen to be accountable to the Assembly; which is no less than to oblige a man to give security to the Queen that Her Majesty's Commands shall not be obeyed, for the Queen is pleased to command that all moneys shall be made accountable for and to herself in England and to Her Majesty's Lord High Treasurer or Commiss<sup>rs</sup> of the Treasury for the time being, but it seems they think themselves wiser, and think it more proper, that their pretended Treasurer should be accountable to them rather, than to Her Majesty; In folio the 11th they most positively contradict the 23<sup>d</sup> Clause of my Instructions, for they enact, that a certificate from a Militia Officer and another from the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Albany shall be a sufficient discharge to their pretended Treasurer, for the moneys he is to pay, whereas the Queen is pleased to command me, not to suffer any publick moneys whatsoever to be issued otherwise then by warrant under my hand, by and with the advice and consent of Her Majesty's Council for this Province (which I am sure I have hitherto punctually observed); but in this likewise, they think themselves wiser than Her Majesty, for they pretend to direct otherwise. Now My Lords, I must observe that they can not plead ignorance, for they have been acquainted with these instructions last sessions, and the last sessions but one; but it is a down right obstinacy, and a design to throw off the authority of the Queen if they can, or at least as much as they dare at once, and I think a pretty good guess may be made of the temper and inclinations of the Men, and what they would do if they could. By the last Clause in their bill folio 14. in which they do not only outlaw all persons without distinction who shall contravene their directions in that Bill, but they take it upon them to deprive Her Majesty of the power of pardoning; and not only of pardoning but even of Reprieving any of the persons who shall be guilty of a breach of their Act, for their words are these: "And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that if any person or persons, shall advise, frame, contrive or put in Execution, any Commission, Act, order, Warrant or Command whatsoever, for diverting or misaplying any of the money hereby to be raised and levied, to any other intent use or purpose whatsoever, then to the uses, intents and purposes by this Act committed and appointed, he or they so offending, shall henceforth be disabled during life, to sue or implead any person in any action, real or personal, or to make any Gift, Grant, conveyance or other disposition of any of his or their lands, Tenements Hereditaments, Goods or Chattels, which he or they hath or have to his or their own use, either by Act executed in life, or by last will or otherwise, or to take any Gift, conveyance or Legacy to his or their own use and be incapable or any ease or pardon from Her Majesty her heirs or successors of the penaltys and disabilities before mentioned or any of them"—This I confess is a step further than I thought they would have attempted to goe. I am satisfied there are some people here, that always have and always will fall out with their Governours let them doe their duty never so well, and that for no other reason that I know of, but because they hate all manner of Govern<sup>ts</sup>; but I did not think they would have attacked the prerogative soe barefacedly as they have now done; but I hope this will convince your Lord<sup>ships</sup> of the necessity of regulating their methods of proceeding in the General Assemblys of these provinces for the future. I send your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with the Bill the Amendments made by the Council to the Bill and sent by them to the Assembly for their concurrence; and I likewise send you the copy of the massague sent back with the Bill by the Assembly to the Council, by which you will see, that the Assembly insist upon it, that the Council shall not make any Amendment to a Money Bill; this a new Doctrine in this part of the world, and never attempted till the last Sessions but one, and was then set up on purpose to hinder any money from being given, and yet to save their credit with the people who would have been uneasy with them, if they had not taken care of the defence of the frontiers, but passing a money Bill with such clauses in it, as they know I could not pass, was thought by them to be the best means to save their money and their credit with the people too. I know very well that some of the factious people in the house have possessed the rest of the Members, that because the Commons of England will not suffer the Lords to make any amendments to a Money Bill there, that therefore, they as representatives of the people here, have the same Right, and that they ought not to suffer the Council to make any amendments to a money Bill. If this Doctrine is suffered to goe on, all that the Governour and Council can doe, will be to hinder the Assembly from doing mischief; but we shall not be able to doe the good we could wish to doe unless Her Majesty will be pleased to declare her pleasure upon this subject, which I will see punctually obeyed, and I believe that will be the shortest and best way to put an end to this method of proceeding and will convince much the greatest part of the House that they have been misled and abused by two or three turbulent Men, who never were nor ever will be faithful to the Queen nor true to their Country, I mean: French, Coddington, and Garton, the first has often declared that he liked no Govern<sup>ts</sup> at all, and the other two have been notorious for opposing at all times anything that the Governours have proposed, and this long before my time. The Assembly is still sitting, and have already prepared several Bills, and are preparing others as soon as they are up. I will transmit to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> such Bills as shall be past, and the Journal of their proceedings by the first opportunity. I must acquaint you that this place suffers very much from want of a man of War—there has been a French privateer upon this Coast, he lay four days off of Sandy-hook, he had taken a Bermuda's Sloop which was bound from this place to Jamaica, a few days before he came upon this Coast he had not been above fifteen days out of Martinico. There is a Brigantine and a Sloop fitted out from Martinico to come upon this coast likewise; this I was informed of by the Master of the Bermuda Sloop, which was taken, whom the privateer had set on shore upon Sandy-hook. I acquainted the Gent<sup>ls</sup> of Her Majesty's Council with the information I had and asked their opinion if it would not be proper to fit out some vessells to endeavour either to take or drive away that Privateer, who were all of opinion, that it should be done—Whereupon I ordered a ship of ten guns that was in this Port, a Brigantine of ten guns, and two sloops, one of four guns the other of eight guns; I put on board these four vessels, three hundred fifty men, who were all well armed, what with their own Arms, and such as we could furnish them with, out of the few Stores we have, they were victualled for ten days, they Cruised as far as the Capes of Delaware to the Westward, and as far as Block Island to the Eastward, but they could not get sight of the Privateer, soe they returned into this port. I am since informed by the Master of a Brigantine that was bound from Jamaica to Virginia, that the privateer lay off the Capes of Virginia, and that he was taken by him, that he was four days a prisoner on Board of the Privateer, and that he took a prize every day while he was on Board. I am likewise informed that since that the Strumbolo went out of the Capes of Virginia in pursuit of the Privateer, whom he fired several guns at, and it is believed would have taken her, had it not fallen calm on a sudden, but it being so and the Privateer having thrown his Periago and guns over board, by the help of his oars got away; soe I hope we shall not be troubled with him any more, and what is become of the other two, I have not heard but however, this has put this province to a very great charge, which would be if a Man-of-War were here, and besides, the Trade of this place would be securer. Therefore earnestly intreat Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to take such care, that we may have a Man of War, if there is not one already appointed. I did in my last acquaint you that we want all manner of Stores—I now send a particular account, how the stores have been disposed of, since my coming into this Province, for, I have never been able to get any account how the Stores were disposed of before, for when I demanded an account from the person who was Store keeper when I arrived here; whose name was Maddocks, he was formerly one of Mylord Bellomont's servants and went into England with the Countess of Bellomont, when asked him for an account of the Stores, he brought me an account of what remained in Store at that time; I told him I must have an account of what stores he had delivered out, he said he could not doe that, for he had delivered them out by verbal orders, and he did not think it necessary to keep any account in writing—Soe I could get none from him, wherenpon I made an order that noe Stores should be delivered out, but by an order under my hand or in my absence, under the hand of the Officer commanding in the Garrison of which I have an account immediately at my return; by which means I am able to give an account of what has been disposed of in my time, and I shall continue the same care. Therefore I hope your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will be pleased to procure stores to be sent over before Winter else we shall be in a very poor condition if the French should attempt any thing upon our Frontiers this winter, which is the season which they commonly choose for their Expeditions. I must again renew my request to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that a Statute Book may be sent hither to remain in the Secretary's Office for the use of the Council, I have one of my own, but it reaches no lower than the two and thirtieth of King Charles the Second, and we are very often at a loss when the lawyers in their pleadings quote any acts since that time. I hope you will likewise please to endeavour that a New Great Seale may be sent hither for this province, the old one is very much worn. Now I beg leave to Inform your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that with respect to the province of New Jersey, very little new has happened, since the Account I gave you by Her Majesty's ship Advice, Capt<sup>m</sup> Morrice Commander, who sailed from Piscataqua sometime in April last, in those letters I acquainted you that I had adjourned the Assembly of New Jersey till May following, at which time I went to Burlington to meet the Assembly according to adjournment; the members of the Eastern Division came to Burlington, but the Members of the Western division did not appear, except those who served for Burlington, soe I adjourned by Proclamation for a few days in hopes the Members would come up, but they did not; the Members of the Eastern Division grew uneasy, and presented a petition to me, to desire that they might have leave to return to their Country affairs, their attendance being to noe purpose, since the Members of the Western Division did not attend and farther prayed, that the Assembly might be adjourned to some more seasonable time—This Petition being delivered to me, and being informed by very good hands that the reason why the members of the Western Division (who are all Quakers except one) did not attend, was because somebody had told them that if the Assembly did not meet, it was dissolved of course, and they had a mind to try a new Election, to see if they could not get some of their friends in for the Eastern Division, and having waited for them upwards of three weeks, and the time for the sitting of the Assembly of New York drawing near, I thought it proper to adjourn the Assembly of that Province to the Month of October next to sit at Amboy, at which time I will not fail to attend my duty there; whether they will come or not, I can not tell; however, by the first opportunity that offers afterwards, I shall acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with all matters that shall happen. In the mean time I intreat you that a great Seal may be sent for that Province, there having been none yet for want of which many things remain undone which should be done. I beg your Lord<sup>ships</sup> opinion and directions, concerning the Clause in my Instructions, in which Her Majesty is pleased to direct me in the words following: “You shall also propose unto the said General Assembly, and use your utmost endeavours with them that an Act be passed for raising and settling a publick Revenue, for defraying the necessary charge of the Govern<sup>t</sup> of our said Province, in which, provision be particularly made for a competent Salary for Yourself as Capt<sup>l</sup> Gen<sup>l</sup> and Governour in Chief of our said province, and to other our succeeding Capt<sup>l</sup> Generalls for supporting the dignity of the said office, as likewise due provision for the respective Members of Our Council and Assembly, and of all other Officers necessary for the administration of that Govern<sup>t</sup>” — This the 22nd Clause of my Instructions. Now what I intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> opinion in is, whether Her Majesty is pleased that the Gentlemen of her Council should have fixed Salaries, and if the Members of the Assembly should have salarys out of the Revenue; and I have two Reasons which move me to desire your opinion upon this matter: the first is because I am affraid it will be a means to induce the Gentlemen of Her Majesty’s Council for the Province of New York to desire the same, whereas they have never yet had any such allowance—the other is because the Revenue will not answer it—As for the Members of Assembly in the Province of New York, the several Countys and Boroughs pay their Representatives without burthening the Revenue with it, and with submission to Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> I conceive it may be ordered the same way in New Jersey without any prejudice, however, I shall observe such directions as you shall be pleased to send me. In the mean time I shall acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that the Revenue is already raised for one year, according to the directions of the Act, and in the places where it falls the heaviest it amounts to no more than two pence three farthings in the pound, and that according to the value set upon the Land in the Bill, which is ten pounds for every hundred Acres, whereas it is certain that land sells in New Jersey from forty pounds to sixty pounds for a hundred acres, so that in truth the tax does not amount to more than three farthings in the pound of the real value, which makes the people very easy. This is all I shall trouble Your Lor<sup>ds</sup> with at this time—Soe I remain with great respect

My Lords. etc.

CORNURBY.

8. July 1705.

Lord Cornbury to Mr. Secretary Hedges.

[New-York Bundles, 8. P. O.]

New York July 15th 1705

Sir,

Since the letter I troubled you with, by Her Majesty's ship Advice bearing date the 25th of February 170 $\frac{1}{2}$ , in which I promised you an account of the two Provinces under my care, I have had no opportunity of writing till now, that Collonell Quary has informed me that his affairs require his going into England, I send you this by him, who is as able to give you a true account of all the parts of this vast continent as any subject the Queen has; if you are pleased to ask him any questions relating to these parts of the world, I dare say he will answer them to your satisfaction. When I arrived in this province, which was the third day of May 1702. I found things in great disorder, several of the Merchants fled into New Jersey and other places, for fear of being prosecuted for signing Adresses to the late King, and to the Parliament, in which they complained of some oppressions they laboured under here, and for signing of which Collonell Bayard, and Hutchins, lay in prison under sentence of death, occasioned by a misconstruction which M<sup>r</sup> Atwood then Chief Justice of this Province, thought fit to put upon a Clause in an Act of Assembly (which has since been repealed here, by Her Majesty's command;) others being afraid of the same usage, thought it better to leave their familys, and retire; presently after my arrivall, they all returned and fell to their Trade as formerly; I found four Companys of Fusiliers posted in this Province, two in the fort at New York, and two at Albany, they were not compleat, they wanted cloths, and swords, and some other things, but in a little time cloaths were sent over, but we yet want recruits, swords, and all manner of Stores of Warr; I found the fort here much out of repair, and the province much in debt, and I am afraid it will continue soe a great while, unlesse Her Majesty will please to give something towards the clearing of that debt. The Trade of this Province consists chiefly in flower and biskett, which is sent to the islands in the West Indies, in return they bring Rum, Sugár, Molasses, and some times pieces of Eight and Cacao and Logwood; to Europe our People send Skins of all sorts, Whale Oyle and Bone, which are the only Commoditys this Country sends to Europe, of its own produce as yet, but if they were encouraged, the people of this province would be able to supply England with all manner of Navall stores in abundance of all sorts, Pitch, Tarr, Rosine, Turpentine, Flax Hemp Masts and Timber of all kinds and sizes, and very good in their kinds. I am very sensible that a Project which my Lord Bellomont had set on foot to supply the Navy with Masts and Timber, has been a prejudice to this Province, because his Lordshippe thought fit to employ unskilful people to cut the masts at the charge of the Crowne, so the charge was greater, much, then the service, but if the Queen is pleased to direct whoever has the honour to serve Her as Gouvernor of this Province, to contract with people here for Masts and Timber at certain rates, according to the severall scantlings (an estimate whereof I have sent to the Lords of Trade at the end of the year 1702) then the Queen would be well served; for the persons contracted with must deliver at New York every thing in its kind, good; soe the Queen would pay for nothing but what is usefull and good in its kind; whereas if masts and Timber are cut at the charge of the Queen the charge is certain, the profit uncertain; when I said on the other side that if the people were encouraged they would be able to supply England with all manner of Naval stores, I mean (by encouraged) if they had a certain sure market for their produce; for as the case now stands, they apply their land to corn of all sorts, but chiefly wheat, because they have a certain Market for that in the Islands, but if they had a sure market for hemp and flax in England, they would greedily fall to the planting of hemp and flax, because they want commodities to make returns to England for the goods they take from thence. Besides, if part of their lands were employed to those uses, their Corn would fetch a better price; besides the want of wherewithall to make returns for England, sets mens wits at work, and that has put them upon a Trade which I am sure will hurt England in a little time; for I am well informed, that upon Long Island and in Connecticut, they are setting up a woollen Manufacture, and I myself have seen serge made upon Long Island that any man may wear. Now if they begin to make serge, they will in time make course cloth, and then fine; we have as good fullers earth and tobacco pipe clay in this Province, as any in the world; how far this will be for the service of England, I submit to better judgements; but however I hope I may be pardoned, if I declare my opinion to be, that all these Colloneys, which are but twigs belonging to the main Tree (England,) ought to be kept intirely dependent upon and subservient to England, and that can never be if they are suffered to go on in the notions they have, that as they are Englishmen, soe they may set up the same Manufactures here, as people may doe in England; for the consequence will be that if once they see they can cloath themselves not only comfortably but handsomly too, without the help of England, they who are already not very fond of submitting to Government, would soon think of putting in execution designs they had long harboured in their breasts. This will not seem strange when you consider what sort of people this Countrey is inhabited by, and that you may be well informed of that, I take the liberty to acquaint you that this province was first discovered by an Englishman whose name was Hudson, and the River which runs by Albany to this City is to this day called Hudson's River, from that man; who, as I am informed did acquaint the Government of England at that time with the Discovery he had made, but in England they did not regard him, soe he went into Holland where the West India Company gave him encouragement and they first settled this Province; afterwards this Province was surrendered by the Dutch to the English, and King Charles the Second granted not only this Province but a much larger Tract of land to His Royall Highnesse James Duke of York, as appears by his Royall letters Pattents under the broad Seale of England bearing date the 12th day of March in the 16th year of his Reign; The Duke of York sent over Collonell Nicholls to be Governour here, who after some time was superceded by Collonell Lovelace, during whose time some Dutch men of warr returning from the West Indies toward Europe, and wanting wood and water came into Sandyhook, intending, to get wood and water at Staten Island, which lyes about eight miles below this City; One Bencas commanded the Dutch Squadron, which consisted of seaven Dutch men of warr, and it is certain they had noe farther thoughts than to wood and water, and so return to Europe; but severall of the Dutch Inhabitants here gave them notice that this place was ill provided, that the Gouvernor was not in the place, and that if they would but appear before it they might take it with great ease (some of the same men are still living in this City and enjoy good estates). Upon this intelligence the Dutch came up, and having fired half a score shot the place yielded, this happened (by the best information I can get here) in July 1673 and they kept to the 31st of S<sup>er</sup> 1674, that it was again surrendered to the English in pursuance of the peace concluded at London between the late King Charles the second, and the States of Holland, who, for satisfaction, were to pay the King eight hundred thousand Pattacoons; The First Gouvernor

His Royall Highnesse the Duke of York was pleasend to send into these parts after the second surrender, was Sir Edmond Andros, who was afterwards superceded by Collonell Dungan now Earle of Limerick, who continued here till the year 1688, that he was again superceded by Sir Edmond Andros;—This Gentleman was Gouvernor of New England as well New York, and Collonell Nicholson was Lieutenant Governor of this Province. At the time that the news of the Revolution in England came to these parts, Sir Edmond Andros was then at Boston, where the people rose against him, seised him, imprisoned him, and sent him to England. At the same time one Leisler a Captain of the Militia of this City with others, surpris'd Collonell Nicholson in a house here, and forced the Keys of the Fort from him and usurped the Government and kept it till the year 1690, that Collonell Slaughter came over to this place with a Commission from the late King to be Governor of this Province. He died here in the year 1691, and in the year 1692 Collonell Fletcher came hither with a Commission from the late King to be Gouvernor of this Province; by whose encouragement a Church was built here, the first English Church that ever was built in this Province. This Gentleman was succeeded in the Government by the late Earle of Bellomont, who landed here on the second day of April 1695. That Noble Lord thought fit to encourage the Dutch people here, much more then the English, by which means the Dutch were got into all sorts of employments, and noe English men in place (or very few at least) where Dutch men could be found to suply them. On the 5th of March 170<sup>3</sup> my Lord Bellomont died here at New York, Captain Nanfan, who was his Lieutenant Governor, took possession of the Gouvernment immediately upon his return from Barbadoes, where he was at the time of my Lord Bellomont's death; he returned hither in the month of June or July, the news of my Lord Bellomont's Death did not reach England till May 1701. In some short time the late King was pleased to grant me a Commission under the great Seale of England bearing date the 9th day of 7<sup>ber</sup> 1701; I arrived here on the 3<sup>d</sup> day of May 1702, at which time I found this place in mighty disorder, as I mentioned to you before. I apply'd myself immediately to repair those disorders by inquiring into the causes of them, which I found proceeded chiefly from some violent proceedings against some persons, which I put a stop to, not thinking them reasonable nor well grounded. I called an Assembly in which severall Acts were passed which I transmitted to England; that first Sessions was held at Jamaica on Long Island, because of the terrible sicknesse that hapned here that year, which hindred me from returning to this City till the middle of 9<sup>ber</sup>; I had left it on the first day of July to goe to Albany, and there I received the first news of the sicknesse, which continued till the time I have mentioned. Then I adjourned to New York, where the Assembly sat a little while longer and were adjourned to the month of April 1703, at which time they met and were adjourned to the 13th day of the same month, that they sat and passed severall Bills which I like-wise transmitted to England. I adjourned the Assembly to the month of 7<sup>ber</sup> at which time they met, and sate to the month of 8<sup>ber</sup> following, and having passed one Act for the defence of the frontiers, I adjourned them to the month of April 1704, at which time they met, passed some Acts and were adjourned to the month of 8<sup>ber</sup> following. Now I must observe to you that till this last mentioned Sessions, the Generall Assembly of this Province went on very smootly with their businesse, but some persons who were uneasy to see things goe on as they ought to doe, began to possesse the minds of some of the Members of the House, that as they were Representatives of the people of this Province, they were intituled to the same priviledges and had a Right to the same powers and authoritys that the House of Commons in England enjoy, and that they ought not to suffer the Queen's Council to make any amendments to a money Bill, that they ought to have a Treasurer of their own, to whom and by whom all the money raised by Act of Assembly should be paid, and who should be accountable to them; this, some of the Members who had a mind to be troublesome, laid hold of, and in a money Bill which they had prepared for the defence of the frontiers, they inserted clauses for the purposes above mentioned, and sent the Bill to the Council for their concurrence. The Gentlemen of the Council having seen some of the Clauses in Her Majesty's Instructions to me, and seeing that by them it was impossible for me to comply with those clauses, they amended the Bill, and sent it to the Assembly for their concurrence to those amendments: but they received for answer a Resolve of the House in these words (Resolved that it is inconvenient for this House to admit of any amendment made by the Council to a money Bill.) Soe seeing they were not to be brought to reason I adjourned them to the month of 5<sup>ber</sup> 1704 as I before mentioned; at which time they met, and took the same methods they had done in the Sessions of April, soe I did think fit to dissolve that Assembly, which I did on the 6th day of 9<sup>ber</sup> 1704 and I did on the 5th of April 1705 issue Writts, under the seale of this Province, for the chusing a New Assembly to meet at New York on the first day of June following: but all the members not being come to towne, I adjourned, by Proclamation, to the eleventh: at which time I sent for the House, and directed them to chuse a Speaker which they did, and presented him to me the 14th; it is one Mr Nichols who was Speaker of the last Assembly. However I would not reject him, because I would let them see that I did not retain any resentment of their ill behaviour the last sessions, and in hopes they would have taken better methods then the last Assembly did; but it seems the major part of them came posest with other minds; for having prepared a Bill to raise seaventeen hundred pounds for the defence of the frontiers, they insisted (as they did the last Sessions) upon the nominating of a Treasurer, and by their Bill they make that Treasurer accountable to the Generall Assembly and not to the Queen, which is directly contrary to my Instructions. When the Bill was sent up by the Assembly to the Council, I took notice of these things, and I showed the Gentlemen of the Council the 17th Clause of my Instructions in these words; (You are to take care that in all Acts or Orders to be passed within that our Province in any case for levying money or imposing fines and penaltys, expresse mention be made that the same is granted or reserved to Us, Our Heirs and Successors for the publick uses of that Our Province, and the support of the Gouvernement thereof, as by the said Act or Order shall be directed: and likewise the 21st Clause, in these words (You are not to permit any clause whatsoever to be incerted in any Law for levying money or the value of money, whereby the same shall not be made liable to be accounted for unto Us here in England, and to our High Treasurer or Our Commissioners of Our Treasury for the time being) and likewise the 23rd Clause in these words (You are not to suffer any publick money whatsoever to be issued or disposed of, otherwise then by Warrant under your hand, by and with the advice and Consent of Our said Council, but the Assembly may be neverthelesse permitted from time to time to view and examine the accounts of money or value of money disposed by virtue of Laws made by them, which you are to signify to them as there is occasion) By this you will perceive, that no money is to be raised, but it must be granted to the Queen Her Heirs and Successors, It must be accountable for to Her Majesty in England, to my Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of the Treasury for the time being, and noe money must issue but by Warrant under my hand by and with the advice and consent of Her Majesty's Council for this Province. Now, Sir, I herewith send you the Copy of a Bill passed by the Assembly for the raising of seaventeen hundred pounds for the defence of the Frontiers, which if you will please to peruse you will find that in folio the first; It is enacted that the sum of 1700<sup>li</sup> shall be levied as therein directed, and for the purposes therein mentioned, but it is not granted to the Queen Her Heirs and Successors, which is directly contrary to the 17th clause of my Instructions; In folio the 2nd they appoint one M<sup>r</sup> Richard Willet to be Treasurer of New York (an Office never heard of in this Province before;) in folio the 3rd they enact that in their pretended Treasurer shall give security to the Queen to be accountable to the Generall Assembly. This is directly contrary to the 21st clause of my Instructions: In folio the eleaventh it is enacted that a certificate under the hand of the Collonell, Chief-Officer, or Captain in the County or Precinct where any man shall be detach and a Certificate from the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Albany or the major part of them, shall be a sufficient warrant and authority to the Treasurer to pay the money by this Act to be levied &c; This you will please to observe is contrary to the 23rd Clause of my Instructions—As soon as I shewd the above mentioned clauses of my Instructions to the Gentlemen of Her Ma<sup>ties</sup> Council for this province, they agreed to amend those clauses in the Bill, which were soe contradictory to the Queen's commands in Her Instructions to me, a Copy of which amendmends I likewise herewith send to you, as they were sent by the Council to the Assembly for their concurrence: but all the answer they could get was, a Resolve of the Assembly in these words (that it is inconvenient for this House to admit of any amendment made by the Council to a Money Bill). Now, Sir, I must inform you that the Assembly can not pretend they were ignorant of these Clauses in my Instructions, for they were acquainted with them the last Sessions, and the last Sessions but one, but it is the obstinacy of three or four factious men who are members of the Assembly, and who have in all times oposed the Government, not only in my time but in all Governours' times, since this Province has had Assemblys (for they have not always had Assemblys) I mean particularly French, Coddington, and Garton; the first of these is a Merchant but a fellow of noe principles, and has been often heard to say that he was against all Government: the other two have been notorious for oposing at all times every thing they thought the Gouvernor had a mind to have done, though never soe reasonable, only because the Governor desired it; and these three Men are the persons who have set up these new pretences. The Assembly is still sitting, soe I can not send you their Journall yet, but as soon as the Session is ended, I will send you their Journall and give you an account of all that shall happen,—in the mean [time] I send you Copys of the above mentioned Bill, the amendmends made by the Council to it, and the Resolve of the Assembly thereupon; by which I hope you will be convinced of the necessity of Her Majesty's declaring Her pleasure in what methods the Assemblys here should proceed, and indeed without that they will never be brought to doe their duty as they ought to doe. I doe know very well that formerly this Province was Governed without an Assembly, money was raised for the necessity's of the Government by virtue of Orders made by the Governor in Council; when first His Royall Highnesse the Duke of York took possession of this Province he sent Collonell Nicholls to be Governor here, and he gave him certain Laws by which the Province was to be governed, which to this day are called the Duke's Laws; indeed Collonell Nicholls called a meeting at Hempstead, of the best men that were to be found in that part of the Country, to advise with them of what rules or Orders were fit to be made for the good of the Country; but that meeting was never called an Assembly. After him Collonell Lovelace governed without Assemblys; after him Sir Edmond Andros governed without any Assembly. Collonell Dungan who succeeded him governed a great while without Assemblys; afterwards he called one

Assembly, but after that again he governed without Assemblys after King James came to the Throne; after that Sir Edmond Andros did not hold any Assembly during the time of his second Government of this Province. Since the Revolution, all the Governours have called Assemblys, and I doe not know that any money has been raised, but by Act of Assembly;—I hope you will not think by what I have said, that I would have Assemblys laid aside, I have no such thoughts, I don't desire any such thing; but what I have mentioned before is only to shew that the people here have no claim of right to Generall Assemblys, There is noe Act of Parliament passed in England that give them any such right, and I am well satisfied they can claim no such thing by any Act of Assembly past here, soe that it is purely the grace and favour of the Crown that allows them to have Assemblys. If that be soe (which I think is past dispute) then the Queen may certainly restrain the Powers and authoritys of those Assemblys, within such limits and bounds as she shall think fit, and I beleive if Her Majesty is not pleased to signify her pleasure how farr they shall be at liberty to proceed, they will be claiming New Rights every day; there are some very good men among us, but you will please to consider that the Inhabitants of this province are of three nations, English, Dutch and French; of these three the Dutch are very much the most numerous, and these are not Dutch by nation only but by inclination, at least generally speaking, which appears here every day; the French have during the disorders which have hapned here formerly always espoused the interest of the English; among the English in this City there are a great many good men, but in the Countrey especially in Long Island most of the English are Dissenters, being for the most part people who have removed from New England and Connecticut, who are in no wise fond of monarchy, soe that they naturally incline to inroach, as often as they can, upon the Prerogative: soe it is noe wonder if they are willing to extend the power of their Assemblys as far as they can. How far it will be for the Interest of the Crown to suffer them to doe it, I submit to your better judgement. Thus Sir I have given You an account of this Province with relation to its Trade, to its People, and to its Government; if it proves to your satisfaction, I shall think myself very happy. Now as to the Province of New Jersey I shall first observe that His Royall Highnesse the Duke of York made a grant of all that land now called New Jersey to my Lord Berkley and Sir George Carteret; they divided it into East and West Jersey, and after that sold it to severall persons who are now called the Generall Proprietors; it is a large and fertile Country it extends from Cape May northwards above two hundred and fifty miles along Delaware River and eastwards it extends in some places fifty four miles, in others upwards of sixty miles; the Eastern Division is inhabited by English, Scotch, and Dutch; the English are the most numerous, but the Scotch during the time of the Proprietary Government had the sole rule in that Division; the Western division is inhabited by English and a few Swedes, who live in the southermost parts of it; the Quakers are pretty numerous in this Division and in the time of the Proprietary Government they had all the power in their hands, and used it very arbitrarily. There is a Church erected here at Burlington, which I have named S<sup>t</sup> Ann's Church and notwithstanding that Burlington is the Chief habitation of the Quakers I have seen a congregation of above three hundred people at Church there. These two Divisions when under the proprietary Government, were two distinct Provinces, had distinct Assemblys, and the laws of one division were not laws in the other; There have for some years past been great disputes between those persons here, who call themselves Proprietors, and the people; by reason whereof there has been noe Administration of Justice for at least two or three years before the Government was surrendered to the Queen, but now I hope a little time will quiet all those disputes; the Assembly of that Province have sat three severall times, in the last of which they have settled a Revenue for two years, of two thousand pounds a year; they did passe some other Acts, all which I transmitted into England by Her Majesty's Ship Advice. Thus I have given you a short account of the Province of New Jersey, I have nothing farther to trouble with, but to intreat you to believe that I shall always punctually observe all such directions as you shall favour me with, and that I am with very great respect

Sir,

Your most faithfull

humble Servant

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 327.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Governour of New York.

My Lord,

We have received your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> letters of the 19th and 25th of Feb<sup>y</sup> last, relating to Your Govern<sup>t</sup> of New York. As to what Your Lord<sup>p</sup>. writes of the coin and of your having suspended the execution of Her Majesty's proclamation, we find that your Lordship was obliged thereunto, by the necessity of the affairs and Trade of that Colony, occasioned by the refractory humours and disobedient proceedings of the people of New England and other Proprieties. Whereupon we have referred the consideration of that whole matter to Her Majesty's Attorney General, in order to the proposing proper means to oblige those people and all other Her Majesty's subjects in the plantations to a compliance with Her Majesty's pleasure therein, and in the mean time, we do expect to hear from you, what has been the effect of the said suspen[sion]. We have laid what you write in favour of the Widdow Bridges before the Lord High Treasurer, and you will have notice when his Lord<sup>p</sup> shall have determined any thing thereupon. We shall expect the accounts of stores of war you promise us.—We have represented to Her Majesty your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> desire that M<sup>r</sup> Mompesson M<sup>r</sup> Barbarie and M<sup>r</sup> Phillips be constituted members of the Council of New York which Her Majesty has been pleased to approve, but we must upon this occasion take notice, that though we have complied with your Lord<sup>sh<sup>ps</sup></sup> desire in this particular, yet we do observe that your Lord<sup>p</sup> could not legally and properly by Your instructions admit the said Gentlemen into the Council, without Her Majesty's previous appointment, the number of the Council then not being under seven, and therefore we desire you would for the future be more punctual in observing your instructions therein, and not fill up the Council above the number of seven, to which number you are limited by your said Instruction, and we must further desire you to be mindful of another of your instructions which requires you to transmit to us the names and characters of 12 persons as you shall esteem best qualified to serve Her Majesty in the Council of New York in order to our filling up of vacancies as there may be occasion, which we desire Your Lord<sup>p</sup> to be careful in for the future.—

We must observe to your Lord<sup>d</sup> that we have not received from you any minutes of Council since your being in the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New York, and therefore we desire you by the first opportunity to send us transcripts of all those minutes since your Govern<sup>t</sup>. We having constantly received transcripts of such minutes from the proceeding Governours. We are.

Secretary Popple to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 236.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Governour of New York.

My Lord,

The enclosed letter from the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and plantations is in answer to your Lord<sup>d</sup>'s letter relating to New York, unto which I have nothing in command to add but only to acquaint your Lord<sup>d</sup> that your letter relating to your Govern<sup>t</sup> of the Jerseys has been received and read, and several of the proprietors having made objections to the Acts your Lord<sup>d</sup> has transmitted and to the proceedings of the Assembly wherein they were past, that whole affair is under consideration, and your Lord<sup>d</sup> will have an account of what shall be determined thereupon by the next shipping.—

Her Majesty having been pleased to issue Her Royal proclamation for a thanksgiving for a victory obtained by Her Majesty's armes over the French in the Spanish Netherlands,<sup>1</sup> I am commanded to send your Lord<sup>d</sup> the said Proclamation as it is in the Gazete, that your Lord<sup>d</sup> may appoint a day in a competent time after the receipt hereof, for offering of publick thanks to Almighty God in both your Governments for so great and publick a blessing.

In mine of the 5th of May, I sent you Her Majesty's New Seals for the provinces of New York and New Jerseys. An I am now commanded by the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations to desire Your Lord<sup>d</sup> upon receipt of the said seals, to cause the Old seals to be broken before you in Council and transmitted to this Board so broken to be laid before Her Majesty in Council as usual. I am. etc.

Caleb Heathcote, Esq., to the Lord Treasurer.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 898.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Treasurer

My Lord,

I cannot but acknowledge it to be the greatest presumption imaginable for me, who am wholly unknown to Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> to take upon me the freedome thus of writing, but when I consider Your Lord<sup>s</sup> uncommon zeal for the discharge of that trust which is so happily placed in Your Lord<sup>s</sup> I cannot but believe that anything offered for the advantage of that Crown Your Lord<sup>s</sup> so faithfully serves will be very acceptable and plead my pardon. I have, Mylord, for some years past been endeavouring (tho' as yet something unsuccessfully) to have laid before the Queen, of how great service, these parts of Her Majesty's Empire might be made to the nation, relating to Naval Stores; but thro' the miscarriage of my letters, and by one misfortune or other though I push'd it forward by several hands, I have as yet neither received any directions therein, nor any accounts what I offered, was not approved of; except what I have heard from My Lord of London, who has taken a great deal of pains therein, but by reason of the great hurry which he is continually in, together with his often indisposition he is not able to be so active therein as he would, and being unwilling to lye any longer under suspense in that matter, I have taken this uncommon freedom of writing to your Lord<sup>s</sup>.—I cannot but take notice by the late Act of Parliament, how zealous the nation is to have a thing of that nature effected, but although what they have already done, may well enough answer their intent, and that speedily, concerning Tar, Pitch, Mast and Rozin, yet unless some new measures are taken, they wont find any benefit thereby relating to Hemp or Flax, which is the most weighty part, and would be of the greatest advantage to the Crown if could be effected, and the reason why there are not any hopes of supplies of that sort is very plain, for notwithstanding the great encouragement of the prices which have been given by the Merchants for Rigging ever since my coming to this province, which is now fifteen years, viz from 56 to 90 pounds a Tunn and seldom or never under the former price. Yet the people have had so little inclination to meddle with it, that four fifths of our supplys have been from England and Holland, from whence several hundred Tunns are imported to North America, that until we can raise sufficient quantitys and at such prices, as will prevent its being brought from hence, England can not hope much from us, nor can this, My Lords, be remedied, unless some further measures are taken to forward that noble design, the effecting of which, and of all the difficult parts relating to Naval Stores, so as this Country may see their true interest and be brought into a general humour of carrying it on, is what I am desirous to undertake and endeavour at; and I do assure Your Lord<sup>s</sup> it is not for want of business, nor purely to gain a fortune, that I tender my service on this score; it having always been my principle and practice to prefer the publick before my own private interest, nor has any man in these parts, so much business of his own on the wheels as I have, nor do I blindly guess at what I am about to inform your Lord<sup>s</sup>. It being the chiefest branch of my business to build Vessells for whom my people do raise Hemp and Flax and make their Rigging, ette sayles, which gives me a perfect and thorough knowledge in affairs of that nature, and is more than has ever been done by any man, either in this or any other parts of the world, that I have heard of. This full experience in my own affairs, concerning Naval Stores, enables me to be very serviceable to the nation therein, because all I have to do, is only to act the same part over for the Crown, which I am daily doing for myself, and as it were, to draw out copies of my own affairs. I would not be supposed, Mylord, to be about to perswade Her Majesty to lanch out sums of money towards the effecting this great design. I am so far from that (that although the things are very extraordinary which I aim at) that Her Majesty will not only be free from advancing one new penny in making the Essay which afterwards may be carried on in a great measure by the same means, but on the contrary, have a certain profit in trying the experiment, let the success be what it will. What I have to propose to Your Lord<sup>s</sup>, and that which I hope under the Blessing and Assistance of Almighty God, to do for the service of the Crown, are comprised under these five heads: Viz, First, that small ships of war may be built in these parts for less than one half as hath ever yet been done anywhere for the Nation. Secondly: that Rigging may be delivered from hence into the Queen's Stores, as good and as cheap as from the East Country. 3<sup>dy</sup> That sayle cloth may be made here, near as good and as cheap as in Europe. 4<sup>dy</sup> That Oak plank may be had delivered at the water at about the following prices: viz<sup>t</sup> Two inch plank four shillings, Three inch six shillings and four inch, nine shillings the 100 feet in sterl: money, and all the other Plank timber and Boards in proportion. Fifthly. That means may be found to save the half of all victualling and other expences whatsoever relating to the guardship. If I am able to do these great things, and without the least detriment to Her Majesty's service in any other respect, Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>, I humbly suppose will agree with me, that the service will be very considerable, and I assure your Lord<sup>sh</sup>, that I hope I shall.—What I have now to do in the next place is, Mylord, to propose the method how an Essay may be made without putting Her Majesty to any new expence, or disturbing my own fortune in order thereunto, which may be done on this manner: That by an order from the Crown, I may have liberty to make use of six men out of each the Established Company's or that in case, they are so thin of Men, that they cant conveniently spare them all, or that such who are for my purpose wont be employed, I may have liberty for a year to inlist others, they not being obliged to remain longer in the service than the time I employ them. That all the subsistance and pay due to those men, be paid to my order in England. I will with the Blessing of God without any other help goe through every thing I proposed, except building the Friggat, in which no projection need be tryed; for if 450.£ be laid out according to my directions in England and insured by the best men which can be found, allowing for that reason 4 per cent extraordinary on the premises, I can for these goods or the value thereof being sold, insurance included, positively Indent with carpenters to build a Frigate or Gally of Deck and half, sufficient to carry twenty four guns, and the Carpenters to find Pitch, Tar, Plank, Boards and all Timber that nothing will be wanting, but the Iron work, except Guns and Stores; for as for Rigging and Sayles, they will naturally flow from the following projection. And if such a Frigate was directed to be built and appointed a Guardship for this Province, and I the liberty to recommend the Capt<sup>o</sup> that I might meet with no obstruction from him in the Management, and the care of victualling left to me, I should not question, with the blessing of God to make it out in every part what I have proposed relating to the ships of war and their subsistance, and besides the very charge which would be saved in refitting, victualling and Manning a Frigate at home of the same bigness, to be sent for this Port, ere she arrives here would cost the Queen as much or more, then the Hull, Sayles and Rigging of one built in the method I have proposed.—Now as for the experiment or Rigging, sail cloth and plank of all sorts; having liberty of the hands above mentioned or so many as I shall think proper to make use of, I will joyn with them the like number of my own people and employ them on these heads in the best ways and methods I can; so that I will not put myself out of the order of my own business nor wander in new paths, and all the produce which can be had from them under the best direction I can give, shall be one half for Her Majesty's use and the other for mine; and that Her Majesty may be satisfied I neither defraud the Crown on the one hand, by taking a greater share of the produce than I ought, nor delude the Queen, on the other in making Her Majesty believe, that the profits are greater than they really are, I will have fair and particular accounts kept on the whole matter and have them made up every quarter, and transmitted on oath, where shall be directed. And whereas it may properly enough be asked what I compute the Rigging may cost the Queen a Tunn sterl: money in the metho: I have proposed and sayle cloth the yard to be delivered on Board ships here; I believe the former will not exceed twelve or fourteen pounds sterl: a Tunn, and the latter tenpence or twelve pence the yard. It may further be demanded, what I compute the charge would be in maintaining a Gally or Frigate of 24. guns, allowing one hundred Men on Board, when on her cruise, my opinion is, that taking all proper advantages in the good husbandry thereof, it may be done: viz<sup>t</sup> Victualling with all repairs and charges whatsoever (unless in case of extraordinary accidents) and Mens wages paid and cleared of, Officers excepted, for about 14 hundred pounds sterl: a year, and I hope less. What I propose from a management of this sort relating to Naval Stores, is not that the Queen should afterwards exactly proceed in those methods in procuring of them, but the chief end is, that a projection of that nature being set on foot, would open the eyes of all Her Majesty's subjects in those parts, who would much more early fall to raising of Naval stores of this kind, when they saw it so fairly acted before them, and fully made sensible of the advantages of it, which, without some projection of this nature, they won't easily be brought to. I have not been wanting in giving them the best example and patron I can, concerning Hemp and Flax, no Man in America having ever seemed to be in earnest about it before; and tho' I have not been wanting to spend my best arguments by how much greater advantage it would be to them than anything else they can go upon; Yet I have as yet been able to make but very few proselytes; but were a thing of this nature so publickly set on foot, it would command their notice, and I would endeavour with the blessing of Almighty God, to put it under such rules, that they must be very blind, and averse to their own interest if they did not do the like.—I have, Mylord, lived 15 Years in this Province, and have with grief beheld the vast sums of money that has often been little better than squandred away in the ships of War, who many times, instead of their being an ease to us, have been a burthen and vexation in pressing and harrassing the People to that degree, that the City has been sometimes almost starved, nobody daring to come to market for fear of being pressed; to which distemper I also will endeavour at a cure, if what I have proposed be approved of. All the objections I can at present reckon up to this design are only two: one, whereof is, that Sir Jeffrey Jeffers having undertaken the victualling, I cannot properly have the subsistance, unless I take it here on the terms he is to pay it, if I receive any Men from the Garrison, they may, till I return them, be left out of their Muster Rolles, and for those I inlist, is no need of being placed there, but may all of them (till the experiment is made) remain in a distinct list or Muster Rolle. The other objection is, that the Garrison will be thereby made weaker, which may likewise be easily answered, for none of the men will be employed above six or eight hours March from the Fort, and may repair there on any alarm. And it may be further offered, that never since a Garrison has been maintained in New York but as great or greater numbers than six out of 100 Men have had furlows for equal distances to benefit private persons, and there is much more reason for the Crown, to make use of the same advantage for an experiment, when so great a good is proposed by it. I have, Mylord, by this Fleet likewise taken the freedom and boldness in writing to Mylord of London, and the Secretary of State on this subject, whose letters contain [the same] matter as this; and all I desire is, that in ease what I have offered is agreeable with your reasons, and believe that it may be for the Queen's service, then that it may be laid before Her Majesty or otherwise, where it may be most proper, and if the Queen is pleased to lay any commands upon me, relating to what I have proposed, I will endeavour to approve myself true and zealous for Her Majesty's service, and that I am.

My Lord,

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s most obedient
humble servant

Lieutenant-Governor Ingoldesby to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 441.]

My Lords,

I have formerly since my arrival into this part of the world tendred my most humble duty to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> and should not have omitted doing the same by every conveyance, had I not been fearful of disturbing your Lord<sup>sh</sup> more weighty affaires without having any matter of moment to acquaint your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with all, for since my arrival and publication of Her Majesty's Commissions appointing me Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of the province of New York and New Jersey, I have not been allowed by Mylord Cornbury to Act as Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> and not having been of the Council, or been acquainted with the affairs of either of the provinces, so as to give an acc<sup>t</sup> of the same unto your Lord<sup>sh</sup> has been the only reason of my silence.

I believe her Majesties intention in appointing me to be Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of the two provinces over which Mylord Cornbury is Capt<sup>l</sup> General, was: that neither of the two Govern<sup>rs</sup> should at any time be wanting of a person to take care of them, and that while Mylord Cornbury was in one of the Govern<sup>rs</sup>, I should be in the other and act according to my Commissions and such Instructions as I should receive from Her Majesty or Mylord Cornbury here; but I have not yet received any Instructions either from home or from Mylord Cornbury here to Act by.—

About the beginning of November last His Lord<sup>sh</sup> left the Province of New York, where I then was, and went to New Jersey to meet the Assembly there, in a little time after a letter came from the frontiers at Albany directed for Her Majesties service to Mylord Cornbury being sent from the Gentlemen at Albany appointed to manage the Indian affairs to him, this letter having been delivered to me and the Messenger that brought the same discoursing in the Town, that several Indians were seen skulking about Albany and Schonectady, and that the people there were much frightened, and I being informed that that letter was sent to Mylord Cornbury, on that head, I conveyed the Council, and took their advice concerning the matter who advised me to open the letter which I did in Council, and found a paper inclosed in Indian and Dutch which I immediately got translated into English, and sent the same Express to Burlington in New Jersey to His Lord<sup>sh</sup> which is about ninety miles distance from New York inclosed in my letter to his Lord<sup>sh</sup> (a copy of which and of the translation from the Indian and Dutch I enclose to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>, together with a copy of his Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s letter to me on the receipt thereof) by which your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will perceive that Mylord Cornbury directs me (while he himself is in New Jersey) to repair thither, he having appointed that for my station and New York to be left without either Gov<sup>r</sup> or Lieut<sup>t</sup> Govern<sup>r</sup>. I immediately obeyed his Lord<sup>ps</sup>'s commands and on my arrival at Burlington waited on his Lord<sup>p</sup> for his directions, but did not, nor have to this day received any instructions from him.—About three months since, (I having been before that time commanded to Burlington by his Lord<sup>p</sup>) and then residing there, one of our Chief Indian Sachims, having travelled from this Comntry to Pennsylvania to Trade and having gott a pass from the Gov<sup>r</sup> of that Province to Burlington, and being arrived here he applyed to me for a pass to the province of New York, which I granted to him, of which Mylord Cornbury being acquainted, told me that I had done what I had no power to do that it was his prerogative only to grant passes, whereon I desired that his Lord<sup>p</sup> would please to give me Instructions, that I might know what I had to do, but he told me, he did not design I should Act at all, and that therefore he would not give me any instructions, adding further that when he was in either of His Govern<sup>ts</sup> of New York or New Jersey, he was in both.

These Mylords are the only two Acts of Govern<sup>t</sup> I have done since my arrival here, of which I believe it my duty to acquaint your Lordships.

I humbly pray that since Mylord Cornbury does not think fitt to give me any directions or Instructions to Act by as Lieut<sup>t</sup> Governour of Her Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s said two provinces, that your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will be pleased to give me directions how I shall discharge my duty to Her Majesty with relation to the Commissions Her Majesty has been pleased to grant me the doing of which none shall be more ready and willing than—Mylords

most obedient servant

Rev. Mr. Freerman to the Commissioners for Indian Affairs at Albany.

[New-York Papers, Y. Z., V. 35.]

Schenectady 2. November 1704.

Gentlemen

Just now I have received a letter from Onnondage by the hands of my Indian, which letter I presently delivered to M<sup>r</sup> Adam Vrooman, who desired me to translate the same, together with Lawrence the Interpreter, the substance of which is as followeth:—

An Onnondage Indian<sup>1</sup> is arrived from Canada and gives an account about the Belts sent by Coll: Schuyler, viz<sup>t</sup> that the two Castles Kagnawage and Kanossadage,<sup>2</sup> were willing to accept of the offers sent by the said belts, but that some of them dare not in a case of that moment agree to it, but would rather refer it to their Governor; whereupon the same being sent to their Governor and recéd: by him, the Governor thanked them that they had submitted the matter to him and acknowledged him to be their head or master.

The Governor answered that Corlaer's lake, or the Lake Rodsio was locked up for them in this matter, as also in regard of merchandize, and that it was ill people that passed that way, but that it was only a path for souldiers and no other; but that the path of peace runn through the Lake of Cadaracqui to Onnondage.

And further that four Kagnawages Indians are gone out to fight against the English, and another number of twenty which this Indian saw go out of Chambly, and sayd that they would go and fight a place called in the Indian language Aorage.

And also that the French this last fall were intended to make an attack somewhere, but it was stopped by the Sachems. As also that an army was preparing with great vigour to make an attack this winter over the ice; but on what place was kept secrett. And lastly this Indian had seen seven French spyes at the hout Kills<sup>1</sup> by the Little Falls.

Gentlemen.

My Indian had forgot to enter down the date of the month; wherefore I send the letter. I think that it has been about the 30th of the last month of October when the s<sup>d</sup> Indian came away.

Your freind

BARNARDUS FREERMAN.

My Lord.

As soon as the inclosed came to my hands and I found it directed for Her Ma<sup>ties</sup> service, I gott together the gentlemen of the Councill who were in town, and opened the same. I believed your Excellency would find it difficult to find any one at Burlington to translate the inclosed letter, that is in Dutch. I therefore herewith send the translation of it. I design not to leave this place untill the return of the messenger who is sent express on this occasion. I am, My Lord,

Sir

Yours of the 12th Instant came to my hands last night, and it was no small surprise to me to find by it that you had opened a letter directed to me, when you had no instruction from me to do it; if I had thought fitt to have left you at New York in the manag<sup>mt</sup> of that govern<sup>mt</sup>, I would have left you proper instructions for that purpose; but you know very well that I have appointed your station in this place. Indeed you desired that you might stay a day or two after me, because of the inconveniency of the inns upon the road, which I readily consented to, expecting you would have followed me; but seeing you doe not, I hereby require you forthwith to repaire to your<sup>r</sup> duty here, that I may not have occasion to accuse you of breach of orders. I expect you comply with this order immediately upon the receipt of this. I am, Sir,

Your humble Servant

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 426.]

My Lords,

By Her Majesty's ship Lastoff which arrived here on the 20th July last, I had the honour of your Lord<sup>sh</sup>ps letters of the 26th of March 170<sup>3</sup> & the 20. April 1705. In the first of which you are pleased to acknowledge the receipt of two of my letters dated the 6th of November with the several Papers mentioned to be inclosed, except only the copy of the Grant made by King Charles the second, of the lands from S<sup>t</sup> Croix Eastwards, to the Duke of York. I can not imagine how that copy was mislaid, but now I send your Lord<sup>sh</sup>ps another copy of it, by which you will find, that King Charles the Second's grant to the Duke of York extends from S<sup>t</sup> Croix Eastward, to the East side of de la ware Bay westwards, so that those lands known by the name of the Lower Counties (which lye on the west side of de la ware Bay, and of which the Duke of York granted a lease to M<sup>r</sup> Penn) is not contained in the grant from the King to the Duke; I do not know of any other grant from King Charles the Second to the Duke of York but this, and I do not hear of any grant made by King James, after he came to the Crown, of those lands, to any person whomsoever; therefore I conceive, those lands are in the Queen to dispose of as she pleases. I am glad you are pleased to approve of the choice I have made of M<sup>r</sup> Mompesson to be Chief Justice, I hope he will discharge his duty to satisfaction.—

I rejoyce extremely to find that your Lord<sup>sh</sup>ps approve of my proceedings with relation to the Assembly, who continue still in the same obstinate way, as you will perceive by the copy of a Bill which I now send you, and by their Journal, which I likewise send; the Bill was for raising the sum of 1700 £ for the defence of the Frontiers, and they inserted the same Clauses in that Bill, which had obliged me to reject the money Bill prepared by the last Assembly; the Council made the same kind of amendments as they had done to the former Bill, and the Assembly made the same answer as the last Assembly had done, so seeing they would not hear any manner of reason concerning that Matter, I adjourned them to the 12th of September, but the Members not being come to town, the house did not sit till the 26th of Sept<sup>r</sup> at which time I recommended to them the providing for the defence of the Frontiers, but they thought fit to proceed as they had done before; I herewith send your Lord<sup>sh</sup>ps the copy of another money Bill, where they have inserted the same Clauses as before, only in this they grant the money to the Queen, but not to her heirs and successors, which is directly contrary to Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s instructions to me; I likewise send you the reasons offered by the Gentl<sup>men</sup> of Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Council, at a conference with the House of Representatives, against some clauses in the Bill, and the Answer of the General Assembly to the reasons offered by the Council. Now give me leave to inform your Lord<sup>shps</sup> that those innovations the Assembly now aims at, are carryed on by the same three men I mentioned to you in my letter of the 5th of July last.

As for what relates to Stores of War, I must acquaint your Lord<sup>shps</sup>, that I sent by the Virginia fleet an account of all the Stores of War expended since my coming to this Govern<sup>t</sup>, to Mylord Duke of Marlborough, and another to your Lord<sup>shps</sup>; if that method is not approved of, I will observe such other Methods as you shall please to direct, and for the future they shall be sent half yearly, according to Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s commands or oftner if any conveyance offers. As for the consumption of powder, there has been no other occasion since I came hither, than the salutes to vessells coming in and going out, who salute the Fort: the Queens happy accession to the Throne, Her Majesty's Birth-day and gunpowder Treason, are days on which we fire guns; and the usage here has been hitherto, to salute the Governour at his return from Albany or elsewhere, but this last I have taken off; if you are pleased to order any other salutes to be forborn, I shall obey your commands. Another occasion of consumption of powder since I came, was this; Capt<sup>n</sup> Rodgers Commander of Her Majesty's ship Jersey, having received orders to go to the Island to Jamaica, wanted powder, & there was then none to be bought in this Town, so he applyed to me for some powder, alledging he could not saile without he were supplied with powder, so upon that exigency, I did let him have out of the stores twenty Barrells of Powder. If I had not supplied him, he must have gone without it. I hope this will not be thought a fault. I shall not fail to move the Assembly at their next meeting to raise a Fund for the providing of Military Stores etc. If I had found small arms here in the condition I ought to have done, I should not have desired any new supply, but I found them all out of repair. How far the Respits will bear the charge of Recruits, I cant tell because I dont know what the charge of raising Men in England will be. I will likewise obey your commands in acquainting the Assembly that they must repay the charge of 50 Barrells of powder to Her Majesty's Office of Ordnance in England, and as soon as I receive Her Majesty's directions for remitting the Value of the said powder, I shall punctually obey Her Majesty's command. I had not desired presents for the Indians, did I not know that it is impossible to keep the Indians steady without presents, I wish that may do. I thank your Lord<sup>shps</sup> for the Representation you have made about a Man of War for this place, if I durst have writ for two, I should have done it, for it is certain a fifth Rate and a sixth Rate will suit this Govern<sup>t</sup> much better than a fourth rate. As for the matter of Bayard and Hutchins, I did send your Lord<sup>shps</sup> an act of Assembly by the Virginia fleet, which I hope will answer the intent. I have received the copy you are pleased to send me of Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's petition to your Lord<sup>shps</sup>, I have considered it well, and I do confess, I have not seen anything like it before; I have inquired diligently into the several things which that Gentleman thinks fit to make causes of complaint in his Pétition to Your Lord<sup>shps</sup>, the first is, that the very next day, after he had adjusted matters with his creditors, he had private notice that M<sup>r</sup> Mathews and others had entered actions against him to a considerable value, with intent, as he conceives to make him end his life in prison, he being then reduced to a very low estate of health, by the former hardships he had suffered, and from which he is not perfectly yet recovered; Now to satisfy you upon this point, I here inclosed send you a Certificate under the hand of the Town Clerk of New York, by which your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will see, what Actions were entered against him, by whom, and for what. As to that part of his complaint relating to the hardships he has suffered, I must take the liberty to say that has never been one minute in prison since I came into this province, but that you may be satisfied as fully as may be, in that part likewise, I send inclosed an affidavit made by the Sheriff who had him in custody, by which Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will see, what the hardships are which he has undergone; the truth of that Affidavit is known to every body here, he was so well used by that Sheriff, that to my knowledge, he has been several days at a time upon Long Island, which is out of the Bailiwick of New York. As for his being deprived of his Vouchers, I am sorry a Gentlemen will offer to say any such thing, for he knows very well, he might have had all his things away with him, if he had pleased. In order to obey Your Lord<sup>ps</sup> orders, in giving such directions as may be fit, that no person whatsoever may in any manner his correspondents from transmitting over to England the Vouchers of his Accounts which he would refer to, I have sent for those persons, whom I have always observed to be the persons he trusted most, namely M<sup>r</sup> Walters, M<sup>r</sup> Abraham Gouverneur, and M<sup>r</sup> de Reimer, I asked them, if they had any Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's papers or vouchers in their hands, and if they had any orders from Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan to transmitt them to England, they severally made answer that they had no papers belonging to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan in their hands, only M<sup>r</sup> Governour said he had an old blotted Book in his hands, and that he had no orders to send it, nor could it be of any use to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan if he did send it. M<sup>r</sup> Walters indeed said that he was bound for Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan in a considerable sum of money to one Theobalds, a Merchant in this City, to facilitate his going for England, that Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan gave him Bills of Exchange for that money, upon his Lady in Barbadoes, and that M<sup>rs</sup> Nanfan returned for answer, that her husband had ordered her not to pay those Bills; M<sup>r</sup> Walters further said, that at this very time he is sued by Theobalds, for that money. I asked those Gentlemen if they knew any body else here, in whose hands he might probably leave any papers, they said, that they know not of any body that he had left any thing with, if any correspondent of Capt Nanfan comes to me for assistance, he shall certainly have it to the utmost of my power; but if I may offer my thoughts, I am apt to believe Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan will be puzzled to find vouchers to his accounts; I am sure, it was so, when he was here; however, I hope, your Lord<sup>ps</sup> will not think fit that the 1500£ he mentions to be in M<sup>rs</sup> Thrale's hands, should be paid to him, till his accounts are stated, because I believe he will appear to be debtor more than the 1700£ he demands, upon the ballance of the Account. I have received the Acts of Parliament you are pleased to mention, and have caused them to be published, in every County of the Provinces of New York and New Jersey, and I will take care to pursue the directions of them upon all occasions. I have likewise received Her Majesty's letter, directing the Accounts I am to send of the publick Stores, which I will be sure to obey; I did intend to have sent one account by this conveyance, but I could not get the account of the Stores from Albany time enough, but if it please God I live till spring, I will send such an Account as I hope may be satisfactory. Thus, I hope, I have answered your Lord<sup>ps</sup> letter of the 26th of March 1705. which relates particularly to the province of New York, that of the 20th of April which relates to New Jersey, I shall answer by another letter. Now I take the liberty to acquaint you, that the Assembly which was sitting at the time when I wrote last, did pass several Bills, that is, a Bill entituled, An Act for the better explaining and more effectual putting in execution an Act entituled, an act for settling a Ministry. An Act for enforcing and continuing a Post Office.—

An Act to prevent running away of Negro Slaves out of the County of Albany, to the French at Canada. An Act to enable the Justices of the peace for the City and County of Albany to raise one hundred pounds for the repairing a common Goal, and City and County Hall. An Act for the preservation of Deer. An Act for reviving and constituting<sup>1</sup> an Act entitled: An Act for regulating Slaves. An Act for an allowance to the Burgess of West-Chester. An Act for continuing an Act for laying out, regulating and clearing common highways in this Colony. An Act to enable William Bradford of the City of New York printer, to sell and dispose of the real Estate of John Dewsbury deceased, for the payment of Debts. An Act declaring the illegality of the proceedings against Coll: Nicholas Bayard and Alderman John Hutchins for pretended high Treason, and for Reversing the said Judgement, and all proceedings thereon. These ten Acts are all that could be passed this sessions; I earnestly intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> to recommend the first Act to Her Majesty for Her Royal confirmation; it is an Act that will make the Ministers in the Country very easy, whereas hitherto they have been very uneasy, because their maintenance was so precarious which by this Bill is made more certain. The second is an Act of absolute necessity, for without it the Post to Boston and Philadelphia will be lost. The third is an Act become necessary by some of their Negroes lately running away into Canada. The fourth is so necessary that their Goal, City and County Hall are tumbling down. The fifth was passed at the request of most of the best people of Long Island, and I think it is reasonable. The sixth is what the Country have found Benefit by, and therefore are desirous it should be continued. The seventh is no more than what the other Members are allowed, and therefore I can not but think it reasonable. The eighth is a very necessary Act, the Commissioners appointed by the former Act not having been able to finish the work in the time. The ninth is a private Act for the sale of the Estate of one Dewsbury; I can offer no better reasons for the passing that Act, than those contained in it, which I hope will appear sufficient. The tenth will likewise speak for itself. I did acquaint Coll: Bayard, what the Queen's pleasure was, and he choose rather to do it by this Act, than to give security. I hope it will answer M<sup>r</sup> Attorney General's objections to the former Bill, therefore I hope her Majesty will be graciously pleased to confirm all the above mentioned Acts. I have received a letter from your Lord<sup>ships</sup> of the 20th of April 1705. and with it a commission for the tryall of Pyrates, which I will take care to pursue upon all occasions, and will give you an account of all proceedings from time to time in that affair.

I am with great respect—etc —

[New-York Bundles, S. P. O.]

Sir

I had the honor of your letter of the 20th of Aprill by Her Majesty's Ship Lastoffe, on July the 20th for which I return you many thanks. You are pleased in it to inform me of Her Majesty's royall intentions of opening a trade with Spain for the advantage of her subjects, which seems to be more perticularly beneficiall to those in the West Indies, and you are pleased to say that you doe not doubt but I will give all encouragement to it that I can. I humbly thank you for the good opinion you have of me and intreat you to believe that nothing shall be wanting on my part to the best of my understanding. I have received the Act of Parliament for encouraging the importation of Navall stores from Her Majesty's Plantations in America which in obedience to the commands you have sent me I have communicated to Majesty's Council for this Province and to the Generall Assembly, and have likewise caused it to be published in every County within this Province, and that of New Jersey. I am well satisfied that that Act will be very advantagious to these Collonys as well as usefull to England, if the people here will take the right methods, which I will endeavour by all the ways I can to perswade them to, and I will endeavour to prevail with the Assemblys of these two Provinces to passe such Acts as may most effectually contribute to the carrying on soe good a work. I am satisfied the gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council will doe anything in their power towards it, and I hope the Assembly may be prevailed with to doe their part too.

Now I shall take the liberty to acquaint you with the proceedings of the Generall Assemblys of these two Provinces of New York and New Jersey, since I had the honour to write to you by the Virginia Fleet, and I shall first begin with the Assembly of New York, who were sitting at the time when I wrote last. I then sent you a copy of a bill they had prepared for the defence of the frontiers, the amendments made by the Council here to that bill, and the resolve of the House of Representatives upon those Amendments. I now send you duplicates of those and likewise a copy of the Journall of the House, by which you will see that they went on in the same methods the last Assembly had done; and the time drawing nigh in which I had appointed to meet some persons at the East end of Long Island upon some matters relating to the Collony of Connecticut, I did adjourn the Assembly to the tenth day of 7<sup>ber</sup> at which time I was ready to meet them, but the members not being come to towne, the Assembly did not sit till the 26th. They then prepared a Bill for the raising of £1600 for the defence of the Frontiers, but they incerted the same clauses they had done in the Bill I sent you by the Virginia Fleet; the Gentlemen of the Council considering how the Assembly had used them in their Sessions of July with relation to the Amendments made to the Money Bill (since they would neither consider of those amendments nor desire a conference, by which means the difference between them might perhaps have been adjusted) were resolved to try another method, and having read the Bill twice before they committed it, they demanded a conference with the Assembly upon the subject matter of that Bill; hoping at that conference to convince the Assembly how impossible it was for me to passe that Bill as it was worded. But the Assembly were resolved not to be convinced; soe when the Gentlemen of the Council saw that, they proceeded as they had done formerly, and made Amendments to the Bill, much of the same nature with those they had made to the former Bill, and the Assembly made the same resolve they had done the last Sessions. Soe seeing they would not make any provision for the defence of the Frontiers, I adjourned them to the first day of May 1706. I herewith send you a copy of the Bill, the reasons the Gentlemen of the Council offered at the Conference against some clauses in the Bill, the Answer of the Assembly to those reasons, then the Amendments made by the Council to the Bill, and the Resolve of the House upon those Amendments. I shall not trouble you with observations upon those proceedings now, having done it upon the like occasion by the Virginia Fleet; only I shall observe their answer to the Council upon Collonell Heathcotts carrying the Bill to them with some amendments to which he desired their concurrence.* It is in these words: the Assembly cannot receive the message this day sent from the Council but with the greatest surprize imaginable, they having often been acquainted with the constant resolution of this House relating to Amendments made to money bills. Thus you see Sir how arbitrary they are in their resolves; but I have said soe much of this matter before that I will not tire your patience any more now upon that subject. The very day that I adjourned the Assembly of New York I went towards Amboy to meet the Assembly of New Jersey, which stood adjourned to the 15th of 8<sup>ber</sup> which was a Munday. I arrived there on Sunday morning before, very early, having been upon the water all night. When I arrived there I found but two of the Gentlemen of the Council come from the Western Division, the rest, being Quakers, think I am bound to wait their leisure. There were none of the Members of the Western Division come neither; they are all Quakers too, except one; but on the 17th the House sat, on the 18th the House came to this resolution, the motion being made and the question put, that His Excellency's speech containing very weighty matter, whether this House shall proceed upon any businesse until it be full or not; it passed in the negative. Soe you see they were not to proceed upon any businesse at all till the House was full. Now Sir that you may the better understand what they mean by the House being full I must acquaint you that at the first meeting of this New Assembly, which was at Burlington in 9<sup>ber</sup> 1704 when the Members came before me in Council to qualify themselves, I administered the oaths to all those who were willing to swear, and then the Quakers were going to take their attestation; but two of the Members of the Council, that is M<sup>r</sup> Revell and M<sup>r</sup> Leeds objected against three of the Members of the Western Division for not being qualified according to the Queen's instructions to me, that is, for not having a thousand acres of land in their own right in the Division for which they are chosen. Upon this I asked the opinion of the Council, who were of opinion that those against whom there was noe objection should qualify themselves and that those three should make proof of their qualifications, that is, of their having a thousand acres of land each, and accordingly the rest were admitted; and I recommended it to the Assembly to proceed in the first place to inquire into the qualifications of those three Members excepted against. But they did not doe as I desired them, but proceeded upon businesse and towards the end of the Sessions they sent me a message by two of their Members in which they acquainted me that they were satisfied the three Members excepted against, were duly qualified. To which I made [answer] that the exceptions were not taken by me, but by two of the Council, in Council, and that if they would impart those proofs to me in Council which had satisfied them, I would admit them immediately. But the pride of the Quakers would not let them doe that, and the House was adjourned in few days afterwards, to the n.onth of May following, and those three Members not admitted. In May I went to Burlington to meet the Assembly, but the Members of the Western Division not coming I was forced to adjourn the Assembly to the month of 8<sup>ber</sup> to meet at Amboy, at which time they made the Resolve mentioned on the other side, and sent me the same message they had sent me a year agoe about the three Members, to which I made the same answer. Whereupon they sent the three Members to prove their qualifications. This took some days, because some papers were wanting: as soon as those papers were come they proceeded to prove that they were each of them possessed of a thousand acres of land, but I can't say it was in their own right; for there is a cause depending concerning some of their lands. However the Gentlemen of the Council were of opinion they ought to be admitted & accordingly they were, and I sent the Secretary to acquaint the House that they had qualified themselves; but instead of proceeding upon business they adjourned till the next day which was a Saturday, and then they adjourned to the Tuesday following. I asked the Speaker how they came to adjourn for soe long a time considering how late it was in the year. He told me he and his friends must goe to the yearly meeting which was to be held at Shewsbury the Sunday following soe that as long as the Quakers are allowed to be chosen into the Assembly, the service of the Queen and the businesse of the country must wait upon their humours. However on Tuesday they met and adjourned again till the next day; they then met & I find in their Journall these words;— Whereas the motion was made and question put that the House should not proceed on any businesse untill such time as it was full, which past in the negative, and that whereas now the said obstruction is removed and the House being full, Resolved that the House shall forthwith proceed upon businesse. Now I must observe to you that at the time they said the House was full, there were three Christian members wanting, but the three Quakers being got in the House was full, soe that it was not a full House of Members that they wanted, but a full House of Quakers, now their being a full House as they call it, they think fit to make an Adresse, of which I send you a copy; how well they have followed their addresse in their actions, their Journall of which I send you a copy will best shew. However seeing they were resolved to doe nothing, and hearing from New York that that part of the Jamaica fleet which had put in there was almost ready to sail, I was forced to adjourn the Assembly to the first day of May next to meet at Burlington; where I will not fail, if I am alive, to be at the time appointed, to see if they will do any thing even for their own good. Thus I have given you an account of what has hapned here since I wrote last; if I have made any mistake in my proceedings here I beg I may receive your commands how to rectifie them, which shall always be obeyed by

Your Most faithfull
humble servant
CORNBURY.

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 884.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Goy<sup>r</sup> of New York.

My Lord,

Since our letter of the 15th of June last, a Duplicate whereof is here inclosed, we have rec<sup>d</sup> your Lord<sup>ps</sup> letter of the 8th July and the papers therein referred to, but we have not received Your Letter of the sixth of November, which you refer us to, and therefore we desire your Lord<sup>p</sup> upon all occasions to send us duplicates of all your letters by different conveyances.— We have considered what your Lord<sup>p</sup> has acquainted us with, upon the Bill for raising seventeen hundred pounds. Whereupon we observe that the Assembly was very much to blame in disputing the Council's Amendments in that Bill, for that the Council has undoubtedly as much to do in the forming of Bills for the granting and raising of Money as the Assembly, and consequently have a right to alter or Mend any such Money Bills, as well as the Assembly. In other Her Majesty's Plantations, the Assemblies do not pretend to the sole Right of framing

Money Bills, but admitt of the Council's Amendments to such Bills, as there may be occasion. No Assembly in the Plantations ought to pretend to all the Priviledges of the House of Commons in England, which will be no more allowed them, then it would be to the Council, if they should pretend to all the Priviledges of the House of Lords Here. We are also of opinion that the Assembly have committed another error in the preamble of that Bill in not granting the Money thereby intended to be raised to Her Majesty, which is more than the Assembly of the Massachusetts Bay under their Charter have presumed to do, and which need not hinder the Assembly of New York from appropriating the money so granted to such particular uses as are found requisite. We do further observe that the penalty in the last Clause of the Bill is of an extraordinary nature, such as no Assembly any where else ever attempted before. It is highly presumptuous in the Assembly to pretend to propose or pass any clause, whereby Her Majesty is restrained in her Royal prerogative of pardoning or Reprieving her subjects, whenever she sees it reasonable and convenient. Besides there are divers other exhorbitant severities in it which may occasion Law suits, and tend to the distruction of families of which there has been examples in New York. The Penalty ought rather to have been pecuniary with imprisonment till the penalty be paid. We desire your Lord<sup>sh</sup> therefore to acquaint the Assembly with these matters that they may avoid the like errors for the future.—We do likewise observe to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that when the Assembly raise extraordinary supplies for particular uses (which is no part of Her Majesties standing and constant Revenue) They may be permitted to name their own Treasurer. And such Treasurer may for such supplies be made accountable to the Assembly and to the Governour and Council also. And such moneys may be issued by warrants from the Collonels, Capt<sup>ns</sup> and according to the direction of the Act; but the Govern<sup>r</sup> ought always to be informed of the occasion of the issuing of such warants, and all persons concerned, whether Collonels, Captains, Treasurer etc, ought to be accountable to the Governour Council and Assembly as aforesaid.

Now having given your Lord<sup>sh</sup> an account of what we think amiss on the part of the Assembly, we hope no occasion has been given by the Govern<sup>r</sup> for any just diffidence, and that Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> has and will lay before them an account of all monies raised by Acts of Assembly whenever they shall desire the same, that upon their being satisfied with the right application thereof they may be encouraged to raise further supplies towards their own support and protection as is expected from them by Her Majesty, whereby an end may be put to the demands Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> makes from hence of arms and Amunition for the defence of the country, it being thought reasonable, that each Colony should make due provision thereof for themselves. And we further recommend that such moderate and persuasive means be used by Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with the Assembly, that her Majesty's subjects in that Province may not be deprived of the succours that are necessary for their preservation—

We are glad Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> is preparing to send us the minutes of the last Assembly, but as we have received none from Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>, We desire that we may have fair transcripts of all Minutes of Council and Assembly, and of all other publick proceedings since Your Lordship's Government.—Two Friggats viz! The Lowestaff, a fifth rate of 32 Guns and 145 Men, Capt<sup>n</sup> George Fane Commander and the Tritton's Prize a sixth rate of 30 Guns and 115 Men, Capt<sup>n</sup> Thomas Miles Commander, having some time since been sent to attend the service of New York; We doubt not but they will be sufficient to protect the coast of New York from the French Privateers.—The Account of Stores of warr expended at New York your Lord<sup>sh</sup> has sent us, is not so particular as it ought to have been, for by that we cannot tell what stores are remaining, and therefore can not ask for any to be sent 'till we know the particular of what is wanting and that your Lord<sup>d</sup> may be the better enabled to give us such an Account as will be necessary, we send you here enclosed a copy of Her Majesty's letter to you, which we forwarded to Your Lord<sup>d</sup> in ours of the 26th of March last, by which you will perceive what sort of account it is Her Majesty expects; unto which we are to add that the province of New York, ought to provide towards its own security, by giving such necessary funds (as is done in other Plantations) for furnishing the Inhabitants with arms, as there may be occasion. And therefore Your Lord<sup>d</sup> will do well, to represent this matter to the next Assembly. And we must caution Your Lord<sup>d</sup>, that none of the publick powder be spent in unnecessary salutes.

It being thought fit that the respective Plantations, should provide themselves with salute Books and such small necessities, where they are wanting, we have acquainted M<sup>r</sup> Sloper Your Lord<sup>d</sup>'s Agent therewith.—The New Seal for the Province of New York was sent to Your Lord<sup>d</sup> by Coll: Nott<sup>l</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of Virginia, and we doubt not but your Lord<sup>d</sup> will have received it long before this.—We have now under consideration an Act we received from Collonel Lodwick, entitled: "An Act declaring the illegality of the proceedings against Coll: Bayard and Alderman Hutchins for pretended High Treason etc<sup>t</sup>" which has no date to it, nor is it signed by Your Lord<sup>d</sup>, so that it does not appear, when it was past; whereupon we must remind you of what we have formerly writ, viz<sup>t</sup> that all Acts ought to express the year of Her Majesties Reign in which they are passed, and also have the time when they passed the Assembly, set down at the bottom, as well as the time when they passed the Council and received Your Lord<sup>d</sup>'s assent, which we desire Your Lord<sup>d</sup> therefore be mindful of for the future.

Her Majesty having thought fit to send Capt<sup>o</sup> Rednap to succeed Coll: Romer for the finishing and repairing the Forts and Fortifications in New England and New Yorke, and the said Rednap having been some considerable time already in New England; your Lord<sup>d</sup> may so soon as he shall have finished his work there, send for him to attend the service of New York—We are—My Lord. etc.

P. S. Our Secretary in sending you the Warrants for using the new Seal, having omitted to acquaint you, that the old one after it was broken was to be returned to us to be laid before Her Majesty in Council. We think fit to give you this notice that you may do the same by the next opportunity.

<sup>1</sup> EDWARD NOTT (incorrectly called Benjamin by Oldmixon) was the first deputy to George, Earl of Orkney, who held the sinecure office of Governor in chief; he succeeded Colonel Nicholson in 1705 and died in 1706. During his brief Administration, a new Digest of the Laws of Virginia, which had been in preparation for several years, was reported to the Assembly and passed.—ED.

containing his proposal for providing certain quantities of Naval stores, at New York, hath been laid before the Board, whereupon they have commanded me, to desire you to lay before his Lord<sup>s</sup> their opinion as follows:

That they find this proposal, if agreed unto, will engage the Crown in great uncertainties, that the transmitting to him of English goods, to the value of four hundred and fifty pounds sterl: for the building of each ship according to his proposal, will necessarily engage Her Majesty in the expence of maintaining an Officer here to purchase such goods, and hold constant correspondence with him there; And as to the iron work necessary for the said ships, he is not particular enough either in the charge thereof, or in the manner of sending it thither.—That they conceive his proposal of making sail cloth at New York not proper to be encouraged, for that it will be more advantageous to England, that all Hemp and Flax of the growth of the Plantations should be imported hither, in order to the manufacturing of it here. That they can not think his proposal of having six Soulders out of each company advisable, especially during this time of War, for that the safety of the Province, will not admit of their being taken from their posts. To which I am to add, that the paying to his order here in England, the subsistance and pay of 24 Men proposed to be enlisted by him will cause great confusion and disorder in the accounts of the Soldiers there. Their Lordships are further of opinion, that the late "Act for encouraging the Importation of Naval stores" was designed as a general invitation to all persons whatsoever to promote that undertaking, and that a compliance with this or any particular proposal (in which the Crown is to be concerned) will tend to the obstructing the publick benefit designed by the Act.—I am etc.

Order in Council revoking Colonel Ingoldesby's Commission as Lieutenant-Governor of New-York, &c.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 452.]

At the Court at Kensington the 11th of April 1706.

PRESENT—THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY in Council.

Upon reading this day at the Board, a representation from the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations dated the 8th inst: in the words following viz<sup>t</sup>:

May it please Your Majesty

Having received letters from New York and New Jersey and particularly from Coll: Ingoldesby, relating to his two Commissions from your Majesty, the one as Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York & the other of New Jersey, wee do find that the execution of the said two Commissions does cause disorders and differences in those Govern<sup>ts</sup> with regard to the Gov<sup>r</sup> in Chief and otherwise, Whereupon we do humbly represent to Your Majesty, that upon the surrender of the Govern<sup>t</sup> of New Jersey to your Majesty the Gov<sup>r</sup> in chief of the neighbouring province of New York, was by a distinct commission constituted Gov<sup>r</sup> of the said province of New Jersey, And whereas the Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York, does most reside at New York and that upon the occasions of his being absent from thence to visit the Jerseys, there is a president and Council in New York for the dispatch of business there, Wee are humbly of opinion, that your Majesties service does no ways require, that there be a Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York, and that therefore the Commission to Coll: Ingoldesby as such be revoked.

And whereas we do find that notwithstanding his being L<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of New Jersey, where it will be his duty to reside, he is not yet appointed of the Council there, wee are further humbly of opinion that your Majesty be pleased to appoint him of the said Council of New Jersey.—

All which is most humbly submitted

DARTMOUTH— ROB<sup>t</sup> CECILL, PH. MEADOWS, JOHN POLLEXFEN— W<sup>m</sup> BLATHWAYT— MAT: PRIOR.—

Her Majesty approving of the said Report, is pleased to order that the Commission for Constituting Coll: Ingoldesby Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York, be revoked, and that he be forthwith admitted and sworn one of the Council of New Jersey, and the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> M<sup>r</sup> Secr: Hedges is to cause a Warrant or Warrants to be prepared for her Majesty's Royal Signature accordingly

Lords of Trade to Lord Cornbury.

[New-York Entries, B. F. 40.]

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Cornbury Governour of New York.

My Lord,

Since our letter of the 4th Febr<sup>y</sup> a duplicate whereof is here inclosed, we have received your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s of the 13th of July, 20th & 26th of November last.—As to the first of your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s said letter relating to M<sup>r</sup> Byerly, we understand that My Lord Treasurer has restored him to the execution of his Office; for that amongst other things he being his Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s immediate Officer, complaint should have been made to him, and his Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s directions received before any suspension.—We have not received the Copy of King Charles the second's grant to the Duke of York for Lands from S<sup>t</sup> Croix to Delaware Bay, mentioned to be in your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s letter of the 20th of November; but instead of it, the draught of a surrender from the proprietors of East and West N: Jersey to His late Majesty King William; however we have an entry in our Books of the said grant, and therefore your Lord<sup>sh</sup> need not send us any copy of it, and are satisfied that Newcastle and the two lower Counties, are not included in the grant; but M<sup>r</sup> Penn having a lease thereof from the Duke of York who was in possession, he does insist upon his own right by virtue thereof.

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> will perceive by our letter of the 4th of Febr<sup>y</sup> that the accounts of Stores of War, which you had then sent us, was not so particular as was expected; and therefore we again inclose in the Duplicate of our said letter; a copy of Her Majesty's letter to you in that behalf and desire that the next accounts of Stores your Lord<sup>sh</sup> shall send, may be conformable thereunto.

Wee have acquainted Mr Sloper your Lord<sup>ps</sup> Agent, with what your Lord<sup>p</sup> writes about the twenty Barrells of powder, which you delivered to Capt<sup>n</sup> Rogers, Commander of Her Ma<sup>ties</sup> Ship Jersey; but your Lord<sup>p</sup> ought to have sent us the receipt of Capt<sup>n</sup> Rodgers for the said powder, which would have facilitated your Agent's procuring the repayment thereof from the Admiralty.

Your Lord<sup>p</sup> having found the small arms out of repair, they ought to have been mended at New York or sent home to England to have been exchanged; however, your Lord<sup>p</sup> will do well, to move the Assembly to settle and appropriate a certain Fund for the buying of arms for the use of the province, as is done in other Her Majesties plantations.

We have communicated to Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan what your Lord<sup>p</sup> writes in relation to his Petition, and as soon as we have his answer, wee shall not fail of giving you notice thereof.

Wee must again remind Your Lord<sup>p</sup> of dating and signing the Acts, for those we have received with your Lord<sup>ps</sup> letter of the 20th of November are again transmitted without dates; and therefore desire that at the bottom of all Acts, the year of Her Majesty's Reign in which they were passed be expressed, as also the time when they passed the Assembly, as well as when they passed the Council and received your Lord<sup>ps</sup> assent.—

Wee have considered your Lord<sup>ps</sup> letter of the 26th of November and the papers therein referred to, relating to the irregularities in Connecticut and Rhode Island, and expect the further proofs your Lord<sup>p</sup> does promise to send us, in order to the laying that whole matter before Her Majesty. In the mean time we send you here inclosed copies of Two Addresses from the House of Lords to Her Majesty upon complaints made to them against the proprietary Govern<sup>ts</sup> of Carolina and the Bahama Islands for Your Lordship's information—

As to Collonel Ingoldesby we are to acquaint your Lord<sup>p</sup> that Her Majesty has been pleased to revoke the Commission to him as Lieut<sup>t</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York and to order that he do reside in New Jersey where he is likewise appointed one of the Council.

Wee are, My Lord,

Your Lordship's etc.

Order in Council for a Commission of Review relative to the Mohigan Indians.

[New York Papers, Y. Z.; Y. 42. Copied from Proprietors, O. 71.]

At the Court of Windsor the 10th of June 1706.

thereof, by the Governour of the Massachusetts and other Comm<sup>rs</sup> for hearing and determining the pretences of the Mohegan Indians to certain tracts of land adjoining to the said Colony; and their Lord<sup>sh</sup> humbly offering it as their opinion that the sentence of Costs given by the Comm<sup>rs</sup> be reversed; but it appearing the Mohegan Indians are a nation with whom frequent treatys have been made, the proper way of determining the aforesaid differences is by Her Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s royall Commission; Their Lord<sup>sh</sup> are further humbly of opinion that a Commission of Review be granted and that in regard of y<sup>e</sup> poverty of the said Nation of Indians and for preventing them from going over to the French the said Commission of Review and all other necessary dispatches be expedited at Her Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s charge, as soon as conveniently may be in favour of the said Indians accordingly.

Her Ma<sup>ty</sup> approving of the said Report is pleased accordingly to order, that the said decree made the 24th of August 1705. for Costs, be, and it is hereby reversed, and that a Commission of Review be granted for hearing and determining the pretensions of the said Indians; Her Ma<sup>ty</sup> being pleased to name the R<sup>t</sup> Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lord Viscount Cornbury, Governour of Her Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s Province of New York, to be one of the Comm<sup>rs</sup> and to refer it to y<sup>e</sup> Lords Comm<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations to propose to Her Ma<sup>ty</sup> such other persons as they shall judge proper to be inserted in the said Commission, and also to prepare minutes to be sent to M<sup>r</sup> Attorney Generall for his instructions for drawing the said Commission for Her Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s royall Signature. And it is further ordered that it be referred to the said Lords Comm<sup>rs</sup> to consider of y<sup>e</sup> petition of y<sup>e</sup> Agent of the said Indians (whereunto annexed) relating to the executing the said Commission in Connecticut, and all other necessary dispatches to be passed and expedited at Her Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s Charge in favour of the said Indians, and to report y<sup>e</sup> same to this Board with all convenient speed.

(Petition annexed.)

To the QUEEN'S MOST EXCELL<sup>t</sup> MA<sup>ty</sup>.

The humble petition of William Wharton Esq<sup>r</sup> in behalf of Owaneco, Chief Sachem of the Mohegan Indians in New England:

That on y<sup>e</sup> 21st of May last past a hearing was had before the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Committee for hearing Appeals from the Plantations upon an appeal of S<sup>r</sup> Henry Ashurst in behalf of y<sup>e</sup> Gov<sup>r</sup> and Company of Connecticut Colony in New England, from a judgement or Decree there given in favour of the said Owaneco the Mohegan Indians, by Commissioners appointed by your Ma<sup>ty</sup> under the Great Seal of England for hearing and determining that matter; that their Lordships having (amongst other things) thereupon reported to Your Ma<sup>ty</sup> as their opinion, for the reasons in the said report given, that a Commission of Review be granted, and that all other necessary dispatches relating thereto be expedited at your Ma<sup>ty</sup>'s charge, in favour of the said Indians:—

Your Pet<sup>r</sup> therefore, in behalf of the said Indians in regard of their great poverty & the want of money amongst them, & of the ill consequences that may attend their going over to the French and other Indians, enemys there, most humbly prays your

Ma<sup>ty</sup>s favour may extend to them, aswell in respect of the charges of executing, as in issuing the said Commission, & that orders may be given for a speedy dispatch & return of said Commission

And your Pet<sup>r</sup> as in duty bound shall ever pray &c

[New-York Entries, B. F. 470.]

At the Court at S<sup>t</sup> James's the 26th of June 1706.

PRESENT—The QUEEN'S MOST EXCELL<sup>t</sup> MAJESTY in Council—

WHEREAS in pursuance of an Order of this Board of the tenth inst: the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and Plantations did this day propose to Her Majesty the several persons hereafter named as most proper to be inserted in the Commission of Review, with the Lord Viscount Cornbury, whom her Majesty has been pleased to nominate first Commissioner for hearing and determining the pretences of the Mohegan Indians to certain Tracts of land adjoining to Connecticut, and claimed by the Gov<sup>r</sup> and company of that Colony viz<sup>t</sup> Peter Schuyler, William Romer, William Lawrence, Gerardus Beckman, Rip Van Dam, Caleb Heathcote, Thomas Wenham, Killian van Ranselaer, Roger Mompesson, John Barbarie and Adolphus Philips Esq<sup>rs</sup> being all of Her Majesties Council of New York, and no ways as the Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> can understatnd interested in this controversy, any five of whom (the Lord Cornbury being one) to be a Quorum. Her Majesty in Council is pleased to approve thereof, and to order that a Commiss<sup>n</sup> be forthwith prepared and passed under the great Seal of England, to the several persons above named for hearing and determining the aforesaid differences, and the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> M<sup>r</sup> Secretary Hedges is to prepare the necessary Warrants for Her Majesties Royall signature accordingly; and Her Majesty is further pleased to order upon the Report of the said Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade and in regard of the poverty of the said Indians and their dependance on the Crown, that the said Commission and all other Dispatches relating to this business, be passed the several Offices here gratis, with all expedition.—

JOHN POVEY.

My Lord,

Her Majesty having been pleased to grant a Commission of Review, for the hearing and determining a difference between the Govern<sup>t</sup> of Connecticut and the Mohegan Indians about certain lands claimed by both parties, and to appoint Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with the Council of New York to be Commiss<sup>rs</sup> in that behalf; Wee have received Her Majesty's further directions, to signify to Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> and the rest of the Commiss<sup>rs</sup> that in regard of the poverty of the said Indians and their dependance on the Crown (the said Commission and other dispatches being past here gratis) they be not put to any expence whatsoever in the execution of the said Commission in those parts. Wee inclose your Lord<sup>sh</sup> the Copy of Coll: Dudley's proceedings upon the first Commission for your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s information, and to the end you may be better apprised of the whole matter upon the arrival of her Majesty's Commission of Review. My Lord,

Finding that Lieut<sup>t</sup> Congrave is not yet gone, Wee take this opportunity to acquaint Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that the Office of Ordnance upon occasion of the Stores demanded by your Lord<sup>sh</sup> for the Colony of New York have Reported to Her Majesty in these words: viz:

“That they have not any account of the remain of the Stores there, so that it is impossible for them to make a true Judgement of what is necessary to be sent.” Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> will therefore find the occasion of Her Majestys not sending of Stores, has been the want of the necessary accounts, which your Lord<sup>sh</sup> should send us and the Board of Ordnance by all conveyances, and particularly an account of remains of stores of all sorts, and an account of the expences and necessity of such expences of the Stores of Ordnance, without which no supply is to be expected from hence; but wee must withall exhort your Lord<sup>sh</sup> again, to lay these wants before the Assembly, that they may make such provision of money as shall be requisite to purchase a supply of Stores of all sorts for their own defence in the Colony of New York which you are likewise to do to the Assembly of New Jersey for their particular security.

Wee are—My Lord—Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s etc.

To the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s letter of July the 15th is come safe to my hands—By the first Clause of that letter, I perceive that you expect to hear from me what has been the effect of the suspension of execution of Her Majesty's proclamation, relating to the coin, which as your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s are pleased to observe I was obliged to, by the necessity of the affairs and Trade of this Colony; and the only effect I can acquaint you with, is, that this Colony has by that means had money enough circulating in it to carry on the Trade of the province, which otherwise would not have been; I must confess that the money we have is very bad, and that is chiefly the fault of the Assembly of this Province and that thus: the people of Boston in New England have a much greater Trade to Old England then the people of New York, by reason whereof, they have much greater quantities of European goods then our people have, and much more then they can consume; they send great quantities of European goods in their sloops to this place, here they sell their goods for ready money and good money, this money they clipp at Boston to a third part less in value then it was when they receive it, and send it back hither to buy our corn in grain (for they seldom take flour) by this means they are able to sell flour made of our own corn in the Islands cheaper than we can; this I have endeavour'd to prevail with the Assembly to prevent by an additional duty laying on all European commodities imported into this place but from England, but they have not been willing to doe it yet. As for the account of Stores of war, I did send to the office of Ordnance by the Jamaica Fleet, an account of all the Stores expended here since I come to this province; I sent your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s the like account by the way of Jamaica, and now I send an account of what Stores are remaining here, by which you will see that we want almost every thing.

Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s are pleased to observe that I could not legally and properly by my Instructions, admit M<sup>r</sup> Mompesson, M<sup>r</sup> Barbarie and M<sup>r</sup> Philips into the Council, without Her Maj<sup>ties</sup> previous appoint<sup>ts</sup> which I acknowledge, and ask Her Majesty's pardon for it, but at the same time intreat you to believe that I should not have done it, had not the Queen's service in a great measure required it; for by my Instructions, I am directed not to Act anything in Council, without five of the Council, unless it be in cases of emergency—Now, when I added those three Gentlemen to the Council, there was then Members of the Council living: Coll: Schuyler, M<sup>r</sup> Van Dam, M<sup>r</sup> Beckman, M<sup>r</sup> Lawrence, Coll: Heathcote, Coll: Romer, Coll: Wenham, and M<sup>r</sup> Renslaer, of those there are only M<sup>r</sup> Van Dam and Coll: Wenham livers in Town, Coll: Schuyler and M<sup>r</sup> Renslaer live at Albany M<sup>r</sup> Beckman and M<sup>r</sup> Lawrence live in Long Island, Coll: Heathcote lives in West Chester County and Coll: Romer has been at Boston almost four years, so that I could be sure but of two Counsellors in winter time, let the exigency be what it would; for those at Albany not come in the Winter, those on Long Island are under as great difficultys for some times for a month or six weeks together, it is impossible to cross from this City to Long Island; Coll: Heathcote is under the same difficulty sometimes, and this I doe assure your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s is the only reason that moved me to admit those three gentlemen into the Council.—I return my most humble thanks to your Lord<sup>sh</sup>'s, for your kindness to me in representing that Matter favourably to the Queen; I will take care not to commit the like error again; I herewith send a list of 12 persons, whom I look upon to be the fittest persons to serve Her Majesty in her Council for this Province. And now I must acquaint you, that I have been forced to dismiss M<sup>r</sup> William Lawrence from the Council, after having borue with him upwards of three years, in many irregularities, and particularly one time having had a complaint against him for assaulting a Man upon a highway, I sent for him, and told him if he would not cease committing those irregular proceedings (of which I reckoned up several that he had been guilty of) I should be forced to remove him, he promised he would amend his ways, but instead of that in a few weeks, I had a complaint by some of the Justices of Queen's County wherè he lives, that he and some other persons moved by him had committed a Riot, and desired leave to proceed against him at Law. I acquainted the Council with this complaint against M<sup>r</sup> Lawrence, who were all of opinion, that he ought to be dismissed from the Council, and indeed I was of the same opinion, being well satisfied that he is in no wise fit to serve Her Majesty in that place nor indeed in noe other, therefore I did dismiss him and ordered the Secretary M<sup>r</sup> Clark to make an Entry in the Council Books accordingly, which he has done. I intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that Coll: Peartree may be admitted into the Council in the room of M<sup>r</sup> Lawrence, whose suspension I hope the Queen will be graciously pleased to approve of. I likewise intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> that Coll: Quary may either come into the Council for the province of New York in the room of Coll: Romer, who has quite left this province, or be added to the number of twelve, as he is in the province of New Jersey. All the Journals of the Assembly and the minutes of Council since my coming into this province, are transcribing in order to send to your Lord<sup>ships</sup>; they would have been ready by this time, but M<sup>r</sup> Cozens who was formerly Clerk of the Council, has been a great while at Rhode Island upon his own affairs is but few days agoe returned to this place and is hard at work upon them; soe I hope in a short time they will be finished, and shall be sent by the first conveyance that offers. In the mean time I remain with great respect—My Lords ettc

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Papers, B. F. 490.]

Mott,<sup>1</sup> late Chaplain to Her Majesty's forces here, and what effects he has left in the Country. As for effects, he has left some books of which I herewith send a Catalogue and a very few cloths not worth in all six pounds, a silver seal, a silver headed cane, and some other trifles all mentioned at the foot of the inventory; I will likewise send you the appraisement of the whole and wait your Lord<sup>ships</sup> further directions before any thing is disposed of; and upon this occasion I must observe, that in the 63rd Clause of my Instructions, the Queen is pleased to reserve the probats of Wills, and the power of granting of Administrations to me; and this observation I make not only because it seems to be an enbroachment upon the power granted to me by Her Majesty's letters Pattents under the great seal of England, but because of the many inconveniencies which must attend such a method of proceedings; for example: a man dyes in New York intestate; before he comes to New York he contracts several debts in England, afterwards he contracts several debts in New York, the creditors in England hearing of the death of the party obtain letters of Administration in England, the Creditors at New York much sooner obtain letters of Administration from the Governor of New York and by virtue of those letters of Administration they dispose of the effects of the deceased; a considerable time after that the Administration granted in England is brought to New York by some impower'd to act for the Creditors in England; this puts a necessity upon the Governor, either of not granting any letters of Administration, at all (not knowing if they are granted in England or not) or else of disallowing the letters of Administration granted in England, which I would not willingly do; therefore I intreat your Lord<sup>ships</sup> consideration of this Matter. M<sup>r</sup> Mott did owe several sums of money in this place, which if not paid out of such effects as he has left here, no person coming from England must expect any credit here, besides if letters of Administration granted in England must take place here, it will cause great difficulty's among Trading Men, for Men will be very cautious how they part with their goods, upon credit, because it is not very easy to know what debts a Man may have contracted in England.

In your Lord<sup>ships</sup> letter of the 4th Febr<sup>y</sup> 170<sup>3</sup>. relating to New York, you are pleased to say that you have not received my letters of the 6th of November—I am sorry for it, and shall observe your directions in sending duplicates by different conveyances, and I am affraid that more of my letters are lost, because by the Master of a Sloop come in last night from Barbadoes, I am inform'd that two sloops belonging to this Port going to Jamaica, are taken by the French, and indeed the conveyance by the way of the West Indies has hitherto proved very uncertain with respect to these Colonys upon the Continent.—

Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased, to say, you have considered what I have acquainted you with, upon the Bill for raising 1700.£. I am very glad to see what has been your opinion upon that matter, and I have obeyed your Commands in acquainting the Assembly with the method they must follow, in the passing of Money Bills for the raising extraordinary supplies for particular uses. I have also acquainted them, that the Queen expects they should provide towards their own security, by giving necessary funds for furnishing the Inhabitants with Arms etc—they are now sitting and I hope will comply.—Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased to say, that you hope no occasion has been given by the Govern<sup>t</sup> for any unjust diffidence, and that I have and will lay before them, an account of all moneys raised by Acts of Assembly, whenever they shall desire the same. In answer to this I take the liberty to acquaint Your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, that whenever they have desired an Account, they have had it, and if you are pleased to direct M<sup>r</sup> Poppel to look into the Journals of the Assembly, which I have constantly sent to you, you will find that they did demand an account of the 1800.£ tax, and they had it. I must observe to your Lord<sup>ships</sup>, that there has been but four money Bills past, since I came to this Govern<sup>t</sup>. The first was for the raising of 2000.£ which the Country made me a present of, and which the Queen was graciously pleased to confirm. The second was for the raising 1800.£ for the defence of the Frontiers the Winter of 1703. The third for the raising of 1500.£ for Fortifying the Narrows, and the 4th for the raising of £1300 for the defence of the frontiers the Winter of 1703. Since that have no money Bills past. I wish the Assembly here may be convinced how reasonable a thing it is, that they should raise funds for the providing Arms and Ammunition, for the defence of the Country, but I much fear it; however, I shall make use of the most moderate and perswasive means I can to induce them to it.

<sup>1</sup> Reverend EDMUND MOTT seems to have succeeded the Rev. Mr. Briseac as chaplain to the forces at New-York. He was interested originally in what is called the Minisink purchase, but having died in July, 1704, previous to the issue of the Patent, his name was dropped, and that of George Clarke inserted in the grant. On his death, his place was offered to the Rev. John Talbot of Burlington, N. J., and on that gentleman declining, it was given to the Rev. John Sharp of Cheesquakes, N. J. Collections of Protestant Episcopal Society, I, xvii, 56, 58; New-York Council Minutes, IX., 470; Licenses and Warrants, VI, 62, 65; Book of Commissions, III, 95.

I hope to get all the minutes of Council and Assembly, ready by this conveyance, but if not I will send them by the way of the West Indies; During the long sickness of my Wife (whom it has pleased God to take to himself)<sup>1</sup> the Clerks have been very negligent, because I could not call upon them myself so often as I would otherwise have done; but now I will keep a steady hand over them till they have finished.

The two Frigates your Lord<sup>ships</sup> are pleased to mention viz<sup>t</sup> the Lovestaff, and the Triton's Prize are both here, and are ships fit for the service for which they are sent. Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane has behaved himself very well since his coming into this Port, and has kept his men in very good order, and not many have deserted as yet; but I can not say the same for Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles, for he has used his men so ill, that in three Months above forty of his Men deserted, and when some of those who remained were asked what was the reason their comrades ran away so fast, they said it was, the ill usage they had from their Capt<sup>n</sup> that forced them to it particularly in giving them ill provisions. And indeed when the two ships lay in Kip's Bay, where the Queen's ships always lye in Winter, Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane took care his Men should have fresh Meat, but Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles's Men had none, but were kept to their salt provisions brought from England—And now I am upon this subject, I must acquaint your Lord<sup>ships</sup> with a practice Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles has used here, and which came very lately to my knowledge, which is thus: The Capt<sup>n</sup> (upon my telling him he should Cruise in a short time) told me that he wanted forty Men. Thereupon I gave him a Warrant, to press Men out of the vessels that should come from Sea for a certain time limited; he does press Men, but afterwards for certain considerations disposes of some of them to some Merchantmen then going out from this Port. Upon another occasion he dismissed one of his Midshipmen, and that man went out Master of a Sloop from this place, and still goes on pressing, which if suffered, will at last be the ruin of this place, and I know but one effectual way of preventing it, and that is: that his Royall Highness Mylord High Admirall would be pleased either to appoint a Clerke of the Cheque in this Port or else to impower the Governor to muster the Men belonging to Her Majesties ships of war in this province by this means as soon as a ship has her complt, the press will cease, and the Merchants will be able to Man their vessells. And indeed I do not find but the people are very willing, the Queen should be served, but they think it very hard, that the Men must be pressed under pretence of the Queen's service, when indeed there is noe need of it; I hope your Lord<sup>ships</sup> will be pleased to represent this matter in such a manner, that this evil may be remedied. I must further acquaint you, that Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles at his first coming into this Port (which was late in the year) he applyed to me for orders to lay up the ship, and after the Winter was over, he came to me for orders to bring the ship down into the Road, and afterwards came to me for orders to press, but when his ship was fit to sail, and I sent him his sailing orders, he sent me word he could not obey my orders; I sent for him, and asked him what he meant by saying, he could not obey my Orders, he told me he had an order from the Prince to follow such orders and directions as he should receive from Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane—I told him if he had any such order, he had done very ill not to acquaint me with that sooner, and that he should not have applyed to me for the former Orders as he had done; I asked to see the Order, and he shewed to me, I desired him to leave it with me, that I might take a copy of it, he said he would send one, but has not done it to this day. Upon his refusing to obey the orders I sent him, I ordered Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane to Cruise, which he did and I did not intend to send any more Orders to Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles, till I had an answer from M<sup>r</sup> Burchett, to whom I wrote to desire him to acquaint His Royall Highness with this Matter, and to desire that I might receive his directions how to behave myself for the future with respect to Her Maj<sup>ty</sup>s ships of War appointed to attend this Port, and this I desire the rather because in the 51st Clause of Her Majesty's Instructions to me it is said: that with other powers of Vice-Admiralty, I shall receive Authority from His Royall Highness upon the refusal or neglect of any Capt<sup>n</sup> or Commander of any of Her Majesty's ships of War, to execute the written orders, he shall receive from me for Her Majestys service and the service of the province under my Govern<sup>t</sup>, or upon his negligent or undue execution thereof, to suspend him such Capt<sup>n</sup> or Commander from the exercise of his said Office of Capt<sup>n</sup> etc. but as yet I have received no such directions, so have forborne doing against Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles; but in a short time after Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane was gone out I received Advice from the West Indies that Mons<sup>r</sup> D'Iberville with a squadron of French Men-of War under his command, had burnt S<sup>t</sup> Christophers, and that he intended to attack some other of the Islands, and then intended to destroy this place in his return to old France. The same accounts came to several of the Merchants of this City from their correspondents, and particularly from S<sup>t</sup> Thomas's one M<sup>r</sup> Serevier a French Merch<sup>t</sup> wrote to M<sup>r</sup> de Lancey one of our Merchants here that he had been on board Mons<sup>r</sup> D'Iberville, and that he had all the reason in the world to believe, that he intended to attempt this place; the people here were so much the more easily perswaded of the truth of this Report because in the year 1701. M<sup>r</sup> D'Iberville came into Sandy Hook with a ship of 50. guns and pressed a Man in East<sup>n</sup> New Jersey to pilot his ship up to a place called the Watering place, which [is] near Staten Island within a sight of this City, and about nine miles from it, he lay there between a Month and six weeks and sounded all the Bay, and the River from the point of the fort of Sandy hook, without Capt<sup>n</sup> Nanfan's taking any notice of it, so that he, is perfectly well acquainted with this Port. These Reports encreasing by every vessell that came from the West Indies, the People here begun to be very uneasy, and full of apprehensions of the danger they were in, considering the Fort was out of repair, the City quite open having noe manner of Fortifications about it and almost all the guns dismantled and the carriages of the rest rotten; so most of the considerable Merchants in Town joyned with the Mayor and Aldermen in a Petition to me, in which they desire that I would give directions for Fortifying the City, and for Mounting the Guns. Upon this I called the Council I acquainted them with the Petition I had received and desired their advice, who told me that the best way would be to encourage subscriptions for the advancing Money to carry on the work, till the Assembly (which stood then prorogued to the twelfth of November) could be got together; upon this I desired the Gentlemen of the Council to appoint a meeting with the Merchants at the City Hall which was accordingly done and subscriptions taken to a considerable value and some money paid down into the hands of four Merchants of this City, who were appointed to receive and pay out the money that should be received upon those subscriptions. The four were Coll: D'Peyster Cap' Lurting Capt<sup>n</sup> Reed and Capt<sup>n</sup> Provoost, upon this I immediately wrote to Boston, to Capt: Redknapp, Her Majesty's Engeneer to desire him to make what haste he could to this place, that we might have his directions and assistance in putting ourselves into a posture of defence; as soon as he received my letter he acquainted Coll: Dudley with it and desired he might have leave to set forward immediately towards New York. Coll: Dudley acquainted the Gentlemen of Her Majesty's Council for the Massachusetts Bay with it, and they were of opinion that Capt<sup>n</sup> Redknapp ought not to be permitted to goe till he had finished some works that were begun there, so that we were deprived of that Gentleman's assistance, though not by his fault, who was very ready to come. Upon this people begun again to be very uneasy and pressed me again to give directions for the Fortifying the City which I did, and in few days we ran a line of Stockadoes from the North River to the East River, which is about 45 chain, and raised a good Brestwork not only there, but along the River side; we have raised three Batteries upon the East River one of two and twenty guns, one seaven guns and one of eight guns; three Batteries on the North River, one of nine Guns, one of five guns and one of three Guns, and one Battery upon a point of Rock under the Fort of eleven guns. We had not guns enough of the Queen's to supply all these Batterys but the City have borrowed 18 guns out of a Scotch Ship which lay at Amboy, and some Merchants here who have some few guns for sale, have likewise lent them. I thought this a favourable opportunity to get the Fort repaired, which stood in great need of it, and I have got the walls repaired every where; the Parrapet (which is of sodd work) all new done and all the guns that wanted carriages, new mounted and others repaired, so that now I have six and forty guns mounted upon the walls and the Courtines and Bastions of the Fort in as good repair as they can be without New building. Upon this occasion notwithstanding my former resolution of sending no more orders to Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles, I did send him an order, to fall down to Sandy hook with the ship under his command, to remain there till Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane came in and then to proceed upon his cruise, this Order he thought fit to obey and so has continued doing, till a few days agoe, that he came in from cruising and send me word that he was at Sandy hook, that the ship had received some damage, and that it was not safe for the ship to ride there in the condition she was in. I immediately sent him an order to bring the ship into the harbour, but this order he would not obey. I doe not write this to your Lord<sup>ships</sup> as a complaint against Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles, but only to let you see, what difficulties, sometimes I meet with, with some of the Gentlemen that have the honour to command the Queens ships, and to desire that I may have directions, how to proceed in cases of the like nature. The New seal for this province came safe to my bands and I herewith send Your Lord<sup>ships</sup> the old one broken according to your directions—I am with great respect

My Lords.

I trouble Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>s with these lines to acquaint you that on the 17th of January 170<sup>6</sup> a man of this town one Jackson came to acquaint me that two Ministers were come to town; one from Virginia, and one from Maryland, and that they desired to know when they might speak with me; I being willing to shew what Civility I cou'd to men of that character, ordered my man to tell Jackson that they should be well come to come to dine with me; They came, and then I found by the Answers they gave to the questions I asked them, that one, whose name is Francis Mackensie,<sup>1</sup> is a Presbyterian Preacher settled in Virginia; the other, whose name is John Hampton, is a young Presbyterian Minister lately come to settle in Maryland; They Dined with me, and talked of indifferent things. They pretended they were going towards Boston; they did not say one syllable to me of preaching here, nor did not ask leave to do it; They applied themselves to the Dutch Minister, for leave to preach in the Dutch Church in this Town, who told them he was very willing, provided they cou'd get my consent; They never came to me for it; They went likewise to the Elders of the French Church, to desire leave to preach in the French Church, they gave them the same Answer the Dutch had; all this while they never applied themselves to me for leave, nor did they offer to qualify themselves as the Law directs; but on the Monday following I was informed that Mackensie had preached on the day before at the House of one Jackson, a Shoemaker in this town, and that Hampton had preached on Long Island, and that Mackensie after having preached here on Sunday was gone over to Long Island with intent to preach in all the towns in that Island, having spread a Report thereto, that they had a Commission from the Queen, to preach all along this Continent; I was informed on the same day from New Jersey, that the same men had preached in several places in that Province, and had ordained after their manner some Young men, who had preached without it among the Dissenters; And that when they were asked, if they had leave from the Govern<sup>mt</sup> they said they had no need of leave from any Governor, they had the Queen's Authority for what they Did; These Reports and the Information I had from Long Island, of their behaviour there, induced me to send an order to the Sheriff of Queen's County on Long Island,<sup>2</sup> to bring them to this place, which he did on the 23<sup>d</sup> day of January in the Evening; The Attorney General<sup>3</sup> was with me; I asked Mackensie how he came to preach in this Government, without acquainting me with it, and without qualifying himself as the Law Requires; he told me had qualified himself according to law in Virginia, and that having so done, he wou'd preach in any part of the Queen's Dominions where he pleased, that this Province is part of the Queens Dominions as well as Virginia, and that the License he had obtained there was as good as any he cou'd obtain here; I told him that Virginia was part of the Queen's Dominions as well as this Province, but that they are two different Governments; That no Order or Law of that Province can take place in this, no more than any order or Law of this Province can take place in that, which no reasonable Man wou'd imagine cou'd be allowed; he told me he understood the Law, as well as any man, and that he was satisfied he had not offended against the law, That the Penal Laws of England, did not extend to and were not in force in America; to which the Attorney General replied, that if the Penal Laws did not take place in America, neither did the Act of Toleration, nor is it proper, said he, that it shou'd, since the latter is no more than a Suspension of the former; Mackensie said that the Queen granted liberty of Conscience to all Her Subjects without Reserve, I told him he was so far in the Right, that the Queen was graciously pleased to grant liberty of Conscience to all her Subjects except Papists, that he might be a Papist for all that I knew, under the pretence of being of another perswasion, that therefore it was necessary he shou'd have satisfied the Govern<sup>t</sup> what he was, before he ventured to Preach; Upon that he told me, that he wou'd quallify himself in any manner, and wou'd settle in this Province; I told him when ever any of the people of either of the Provinces under my Govern<sup>t</sup> had Desired leave to call a minister of their own Perswasion, they had never been Denied it, but that I shou'd be very cautious how I allow'd a man so prone to bid Defiance to Govern<sup>t</sup> as I found he was; He said he had done nothing that he cou'd not answer, so I ordered the High Sherif of this City to take them into his Custody, And I directed the Atorny General to proceed against them, according as the law directs; which he has done by preferring an Indictment against Mackensie for preaching in this City without Qualifying himself, as the Act of Toleration directs; The Grand Jury found the Bill, but the Petty Jury acquitted him, so he is gone towards New England uttering many severe threats against me; As I hope that I have done nothing in this matter but what I was in duty obliged to do, especially since I think it is very plain by the Act of Toleration, it was not intended to tolerate or allow strowling Preachers; But only that those persons who dissent from the Church of England should be at liberty to serve God after their own way, in the several places of their abode, without being lyable to the Penalties of certain laws; so I Intreat your Lord<sup>ps</sup> protection against this malicious man, who is well known in Virginia and Maryland to be a Disturber of the Peace and quiet of all the places he comes into; he is Jack of all Trades, he is a Preacher, a Doctor of Physick, a Merchant, an Attorney, or Counsellor at Law, and, which is worse of all, a Disturber of Governments; I shou'd have sent your Lord<sup>ps</sup> this account sooner, but that I was willing to see the Issue of the Tryal. I am, My Lords,

New York

Oct<sup>r</sup> 14th 1706:

<sup>1</sup> Rev. FRANCIS MCKEMIE, who is said to have been the first Presbyterian clergyman in New-York, was a native of Ireland, and appears to have officiated in the West Indies about the year 1698, 9. In the year 1700 he was sent out by a respectable body of Dissenters in the city of London, to America, and fixed his habitation on the peninsula between the Delaware and Chesapeake Bays, in the county of Accomack, Virginia, very near the Maryland line. While there, he had already been arrested, it is said through the influence of the Episcopal clergy, and carried over the Bay to Williamsburgh, to answer for the crime of preaching. But the result was that he conciliated the Governor, who gave him a general license to preach in the Dominion. After his difficulty in New-York, he narrowly escaped a second prosecution, for preaching another sermon, with a new charge, as some say, of being the author of the Jersey paper called Forget and Forgive. His name is affixed in the catalogues to a Tract entitled,—Truths in a True Light; or a Pastoral Letter to the Reformed Protestants in Barbadoes, 16mo. Edinburgh, 1699. He published another Pamphlet in Virginia, in reply to an Errorist who had charged him with denying the influences of the Holy Spirit. A formal report of his trial was published in 1707, under the title of "A Narrative of a new and unusual American Imprisonment of two Presbyterian Ministers and prosecution of Mr. Francis McKemie, one of them, for preaching one sermon in the city of New-York." It is republished at length in Col. Force's Historical Tracts, IV. iv., from which, and from Miller's Life of the Rev. Dr. Rodgers, the above particulars are mainly obtained. Mr. McKemie was a man of eminent piety as well as of strong intellectual powers. — Ed.

ANNE R.

Right Trusty and Welbeloved, We greet you well. Whereas a representation has been humbly made unto us by our Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade & Plantations, upon an Act lately passed in Our Island of Barbadoes, entituled: "An Act to supply the want of Cash and to establish a method of credit for persons having real Estates in this Island" which being very prejudicial to our subjects in the Course of their trade, as forcing them to receive Bills instead of money, in satisfaction of all debts and contracts whatsoever; Wee have thought fit to disallow and repeal the same; and taking notice of several ill consequences of passing Bills of an unusual and extraordinary nature and importance in Our plantations, which Bills remain in force there, from the time of enacting, until our pleasure be signified to the Contrary; We do hereby will and require you, not to pass or give your consent hereafter to any Bill or Bills in the Assembly of our province of New York under your Govern<sup>t</sup>, of unusual and extraordinary nature and importance, wherein our prerogative or property of our subjects may be prejudiced, without having either first transmitted unto us the Draught of such a Bill or Bills, and our having signified our Royal pleasure thereupon; and that you take care in the passing of any Act, of an unusual and extraordinary nature, that there be a Clause inserted therein suspending and deferring the execution thereof, until Our pleasure be known concerning the said Act, to the end, our prerogative may not suffer, and that our subjects may not have reason to complain of hardships put upon them on the like occasions; so we bid you heartily farewell. Given at Our Court at Kensington the 5th day of November 1706 in the fifth year of our Reign.—

[New-York Entries, B. F. 512.]

To Mr Poppel.

Sir,

I have received your letter of the sixth inst: in which is the copy of Mylord Cornbury Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York his complaint against Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles of the Tryton's prize not only for impressing Men and discharging them again irregularly, but refusing to obey his Lorp<sup>s</sup> orders. In answer thereunto, I do acquaint you that the first part of the complaint will be strictly inquired into when the ship comes to England, and I have not only writ to Capt: Miles not to be guilty of such irregularities for the future but also let him know how he has misconstrued his instructions, and that although they directed him to follow the orders of Capt<sup>n</sup> Fane of the Lowestoffe, yet both ships being put under the immediate directions of the Govern<sup>r</sup> he ought to have obeyed the commands of His Lord<sup>sh</sup>. But as to the letter which his Lordship says, he has writ to me relating to this matter, it is not yet come to my hands. I am—Sir—Your—ette.

10. Dec. 1706.

J. BURCHETT.—

I send you herewith a copy of my letter to Capt<sup>n</sup> Miles, that (if you think fit) it may be transmitted to My Lord Cornbury.

Admiralty Office December 10. 1706.

Sir,

I have lately received a letter from you by which you seem to be apprehensive, that Mylord Cornbury Gov<sup>r</sup> of New York would make a complaint against you, for not obeying his orders, and indeed you had very good reason to be under such an apprehension; for although the Prince's Instructions to you, directed you to follow the orders of the Capt<sup>m</sup>: of the Lowestoffe Capt<sup>m</sup> Fane, for attending on the Island of New York, yet even he was ordered to follow the Gov<sup>r</sup>'s orders, and 'tis strange that you should think you was not to do the like. My Lord Cornbury has not only made this complaint against you, but also that you have frequently impressed Men very irregularly and discharged them as irregularly. The Prince is very much displeas'd at these proceedings of yours, and as they will be stricktly enquired into when you come to England, soe let me admonish you to be more circumspect for the future. I am—Sir—Your humble servant.

J BURCHETT.

Lord Cornbury to the Lords of Trade.

[New-York Entries, G. 26.]

My Lords,

Since my letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> of October in which among other things I gave Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> an account of Capt<sup>m</sup> Miles' behaviour (who was Commander of Her Majesty's ship Triton's Prize) that poor Gentleman is dead: he died on the 20th of October after four days' illness; His Lieut<sup>one</sup> Mr Wilcox came & acquainted me with it; I order him immediately to go on Board the Triton's Prize and take care of the Ship, all things relating to it, 'till His Royall Highness' Pleasure should be known; and I told him I would write into England to Mr Burchett, to desire him to acquaint the Prince with the death of Capt: Miles, which I did immediately, by a Letter I sent by a Sloop which was going from this Port to Jamaica; Mr Wilcox did not go on Board immediately as I had order'd him, and in the mean time Capt. Fane sends his own Lieut<sup>one</sup> Davis, to take Possession of the Triton's Prize, and grants him a Commission to command that Ship, reciting an Authority from His Royal Highness My Lord High Admiral for so doing, of which I send Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> a copy. Upon this I sent for Capt: Fane, and asked him by what authority he pretended to grant Comiss<sup>rs</sup> here, and particularly I asked him if he had any particular order, power or instruction from the Prince to do it, he told me he had; I asked him to see them, then he told me indeed he had no particular Instruction to that purpose, but that Capt. Miles had brought an order from the Prince directing him the said Capt. Miles to follow such orders as he shou'd receive from him the said Capt<sup>a</sup> Fane, and that by Virtue of that Order he wou'd dispose of the command of that Ship; I told him that unless he cou'd shew me a Power from His Royal Highness to empower him to grant Commiss<sup>es</sup> the command of that Ship should go according to the Queen's Instructions to me, and his Royall Highness' Printed orders; Capt: Fane was very uneasy, but did not say much then; The next morning I was obliged to go to Amboy to meet the Assembly of New Jersey; At my return I found that Capt<sup>a</sup> Fane had put his Lieuten<sup>t</sup> in possession of the Triton's Prize, and had confined Wilcox on board, who was Lieutenant to Capt<sup>a</sup> Miles, and ought to have the command of the Ship 'till the Prince's pleasure was known; Being informed that Wilcox was confiu'd, I sent a written order for him to appear before me; this Order was delivered to him by one Huddleston who has made Oath of the Delivery of it, of which Affidavit I herewith send Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> a copy, as likewise a Copy of an Affidavit made by Wilcock's wife who was present; By M<sup>rs</sup> Wilcock's Deposition you will see that Davis took my order from Wilcox, and presently afterwards forced him away from the Triton's Prize, and sent him on board of the Lowestaffe; The next morning I was inform'd of this Violence and sent for Capt<sup>a</sup> Fane to come to me, that I might know the meaning of that proceeding, but he was gone from his Lodgings and was got on board the Lowestaffe where he has remained ever since. Now I must acquaint Your Lo<sup>ps</sup> that the Lowestaffe lay ready to sail for Barbadoes to convoy some Vessells that lay ready to sail for that Port, upon this I sent an order to Capt<sup>a</sup> Fane in writing to send Lieuten<sup>t</sup> Wilcocks on shoar to me; this order he refus'd to obey as you will perceive by a copy of an Affidavit made by the person who carried my order to him. The next day I sent him another positive order to send Lieuten<sup>t</sup> Wilcocks on shoar: this order he likewise refus'd to obey, as will appear by the copy of another Affidavit I send your Lord<sup>sh</sup>; The next day Capt<sup>a</sup> Fane sailed to the Watering Place and carried Wilcocks with him, and I cou'd find no way to compel him to obey orders but firing upon the Queen's ship which I did not think proper to do, tho' it is certain I cou'd have sunck the Ship, for I have from the Fort and the Batteries of the Town Eight and Thirty Guns that bear upon one point at the same time, so that indeed no Ship can go out or come into the Harbour but must be tore to pieces; However I thought it more proper to forbear that, and to acquaint Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with this matter, and intreat you, as I do, that I may have some Instructions how to behave myself with respect to the commanders of the Queen's Ships, some of which think themselves under no manner of controul, but beleive they may do what they please.—When first I came to this Province Capt<sup>a</sup> Caldwell had his Station here, who then commanded Her Majesty's Ship Advice; That gentleman, by his good behaviour here, had the good word of every body in the place; Capt<sup>a</sup> Stapleton who commanded Her Majesty's Ship Jersey had the same good luck, and if he had liv'd, I don't question but all things would have been easy. Capt<sup>a</sup> Fane at his first coming to this place behaved himself very well, and I may say with truth that he has received more civility in this place than any Captain that ever came into this place, both from myself and from the merchants here; But now within these three or four months he has acted as if he had a mind to fall out with every body; As soon as I had left this city to go into New Jersey he took away all the carpenters that were at work on Board of a Privateer which some of our Merchants had fitted out last year, and were fitting out agains this year, under pretence that he wanted some work to be done on board the Lowestaffe; Now upon all other occasions he used to apply to me for Carpenters, and I always took care he had as many as he wanted, without hindring the Merchants' business; but in this case I beleive the Design he had of oversetting the Voyage that ship was intended for, was the reason he did not apply to me before I went; That he had a design appears pretty plain for upon the Application the Merchants made to me I granted them a Protection for some men they had occasion for, to work on board their Ships, and who would not venture without it. Some of Capt<sup>e</sup> Fane's Officers met one of those men on an outward bound Sloop, and pressed him and carried him on Board the same stiffe, notwithstanding the fellow shewed them my protection. At my return the Merchants complained to me of this Violence, I immediately sent an order to Capt<sup>e</sup> Fane to discharge that man, but he, instead of that, put him in irons, and kept him till the day which he sail'd, and then sent him on shoar; however this has so frighten'd the rest of them that I believe the Merchants will not be able to send their Ships out this Winter, which will be a very considerable loss to them; This Gentleman has likewise press'd some Country people who were going out a fishing, so that at last People were afraid of coming to Market, either from New Jersey or Long Island (from whence they must come in boats) for fear of being pressed. Now I have acquainted Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> with some of the Irregularities committed by Capt<sup>e</sup> Fane, give me leave to observe, that unless I receive directions from His Royall Highness My Lord High Admirall, how to proceed in the like cases, no man can be safe in his house, for a Cap<sup>n</sup> of a Merchant Ship may in the night time take any Merchant here out of his house, put him into his Boat, and carry him on board his Ship, and keep on Board himself, till he has a fair wind for sailing, then carry him where he pleases; The Governor may send as many Orders as he pleases the Captain will not obey them, and the Governor has no way to make his orders be obey'd but firing upon the Queen's ship, which I did not think fit to do. I did in my letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> of October acquaint Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that by the 51st Clause in my Instructions from Her Majesty, I am directed in case any Capt<sup>e</sup> or Commander of any of Her Majesty's Ships of war shall refuse to obey the written Orders he shall receive from me or shall negligently or unduly execute the same, to suspend the said Captain or Commander from the exercise of his said Office of Capt<sup>e</sup> or Command<sup>r</sup> and to commit him into safe custody, either on board his own Ship or elsewhere, at my discretion, &c. But at the end of the same clause I am directed not to exercise the power of suspending any such Capt<sup>e</sup> or Commander, otherwise than by virtue of a Commission or Authority from My Lord High Admirall, which I have not yet received; I did in that letter likewise request your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that I might have some Directions how I shou'd proceed with respect to the Commanders of Men of war; I renew the same request now, I only desire to know what I am to do, and I will take care to observe punctually such Directions as I shall receive; And I hope that as I am directed to treat the Captains of Her Majesty's ships of War civilly, so they may be obliged to return the like Civil behaviour, and that they may not be allowed to say over their cups that they do't care a farthing for the Governor, nor the Government, that they will do what they please, and will press whom and when they please; These and the like Discourses have frequently come from Capt<sup>e</sup> Fane of late; many other things I could say but am not willing to trouble you too long upon this Subject, only again beg I may receive Instructions how to Act for the future.

I must now acquaint your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that I sent an order to Davis, who Capt<sup>e</sup> Fane had appointed to command the Triton's Prize, to deliver the said ship to Lieutent Wilcocks, to whom by the Prince's printed Instructions the command of her does of right belong, but he refused to obey that Order, as will appear to your Lord<sup>sh</sup> by the copies of the Affidavits I herewith send; After that I sent an order to him to appear before me, this Order he likewise refused to obey; then I sent a Warrant by the Messenger of the Council to bring him before me, but the Messenger cou'd not meet with him, till he went on board the Triton's Prize, he shewed him his Warrant, but Davis said he would not submit, but would dye upon the ship unless I wou'd go myself, or Words to that effect; Upon this I sent a party of Soldiers from the Fort to fetch him; he had said the day before that if I sent Soldiers he wou'd give them as warm a reception as ever they had in their lives. but he was better advised, for as soon as the Officer went on board and shew'd him my order he surrend'rd himself; and being come to town he said if I would hear him he did not doubt but he should satisfy me upon all points, I told him it was his own fault that he was not heard sooner, for that the first time I had sent for him it was on purpose to hear what he had to say for his method of Proceeding, however I told him that I shou'd never refuse to hear any body, and accordingly I did hear him, What he offer'd was chiefly this, that he accepted of a Commission from Capt<sup>o</sup> Fane because Capt<sup>o</sup> Fane told him that he had power from the Prince so to do, that after he had taken possession of the Ship he came on shoar on purpose to come to me and acquaint me with the whole matter but that meeting with Capt<sup>o</sup> Fane by the way he had commanded him on Board and that who he had acted since he had done it by the advice of Capt<sup>o</sup> Fane that he was ignorant of my Instructions from Her Majesty, else he shou'd not have done any thing in contradiction to them; he farther say'd that he never asked the Officers of the Ship if they wou'd stand by him, as is mentionod in Mr Wilcocks Affidavit, and indeed the rest of the Officers do say the same; Upon this order'd Mr Davis to return to the Ship, and take the command of her till the Prince's pleasure shou'd be known; Thus I hope it will plainly appear, that I had no Inclination to put Davis out, to put another in, nor indeed to meddle in that matter at all 'till I thought the Queen's instructions were contradicted; for If I had had a mind to intermeddle, I cou'd easily have granted a Commission to Wilcocks before Capt<sup>o</sup> Fane cou'd have known of Capt<sup>o</sup> Miles' death, but I did not think that I was sufficiently Impowered to grant Commissions; Therefore when Wilcocks came to me I gave him only a verbal order to take care of the Ship till the Princes' pleasure shou'd be known; however since this Matter has happen'd I intreat the favour of Your Lord<sup>sh</sup> that I may have Directions how to act in the like Cases. I am with great respect My Lords, Your Lord<sup>sh</sup>
