FIRST DIVISION OF SESSION IN COMMONS SET FOR TO-MORROW

Debate on Address in Ottawa is Expected to End and Vote Take Place Tuesday Evening; Liberals and Progressives to Approve Address; Announcement of Government's Expenditure and Revenue Plans Awaited

Ottawa, March 17.—The debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne will end in the House of Commons to-morrow. The agreement to this effect reached between the party whips, it was intimated to-day, still stands good unless later developments make postponement of the division necessary.

The principal speakers to-day will be Hon. Hugh Guthrie, for the Conservatives, and Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, for the Government.

To-morrow night, when the vote is taken, the Liberals and Progressives are expected to unite and vote down the Conservative amendment and adopt the address.

Premier King, who rested for a week, paying a visit to New York and other United States points, is back in the capital.

Following the conclusion of the debate on the address, the estimates will be brought down. From indications in the Speech from the Throne and elsewhere the estimates are expected to show some sweeping reductions in proposed expenditures for the coming financial year. The estimates are now ready for submission to the House, it is intimated, and will probably be brought down Wednesday.

RAISING OF REVENUE

The story of the estimates, when revealed to the House, should be one of interest. But of even greater interest will be the budget in which Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, will tell how and where the Government proposes to raise its revenue. The budget seems likely to be brought down this year earlier in the session than is usual. It will indicate that for the first time since the war a balance between revenue and expenditure has been attained. There will be reduction in taxation. This has already been announced by the Premier, and that the income tax will be reduced is the general expectation. There are likely to be changes in the sales tax administration and, from statements in the Speech from the Throne the inference has been drawn that the Government plans either to reduce the duty on agricultural implements or place them on the free list.

An the budget, apart from the question of raising revenue, will have an important bearing on the political situation, for its financial proposals should indicate to what extent the Government's policy is veering toward the Western Progressive point of view.

Civil Service Bonus Reduction Is Rumored

Ottawa, March 17.—Although a report is abroad that a bonus reduction in the civil service is to be enacted, it being stated that all Government employees receiving $1,680 or more are to be so treated, no official announcement has been made here.

Ottawa, March 17.—To back their request personally before the Government, a delegation representing all branches of the postal service commenced a conference here to-day which is expected to continue all week.

It is expected that through it postal employees will put up a stiff fight for immediate salary revision to replace the bonus system. In this way the Government's reported intention of cutting the bonus will not require consideration.

The delegates would make no com-

Government Refutes "Finnerty Charges" With Cost Figures

The Oliver Government started to-day to overthrow the Provincial Party's "Finnerty charges" in which it is accused of paying forty cents per foot for cribbing work on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which cost only seventeen cents a foot.

Before Mr. Justice Gauthier, Royal Commissioner on P.G.E. affairs, this morning P. J. Finnerty, sub-contractor who did the cribbing work in question, finally admitted that he had not understood the true conditions when he made the charge of excessive payments for cribbing. He had been paid seventeen cents a foot for the work by the Murdoch Company, he said, and the Murdoch Company had charged the Government forty cents a foot. He had not been aware, he admitted, that out of this forty cents the Murdoch Company had paid heavy costs for filling, the establishment of roads, the keeping of books and other big expenses. He had assumed, he said, that the company had been allowed extra payments for these expenses by the Government.

S. S. Taylor, K.C., senior Government counsel, after a grilling cross-examination of Mr. Finnerty lasting almost all morning, declared that he would prove that the Murdoch Company had paid heavy costs for filling, the establishment of roads, the keeping of books and other big expenses. He had assumed, he said, that the company had been allowed extra payments for these expenses by the Government.

Mr. Finnerty was called by A. H. MacNeill, K.C., senior Provincial Party Counsel, when this morning's session opened. Mr. MacNeill produced an affidavit signed by laborers who were taken from Squamish and up the P.G.E. on passes under Mr. Finnerty's guidance. This affidavit stated that the laborers' action in sending these men on passes and to support his statement that P.G.E. officials knew that passes were being used.

Mr. Finnerty testified on the piling contract which he had taken with the Prelock Contracting Company. Under this agreement he was to get out piling at 12 1/2 cents a foot for use on the P.G.E. For this contract he had received full payment.

Mr. MacNeill then turned Mr. Finnerty over to S. S. Taylor, K.C. (Concluded on page 2.)

LAUDS PROVINCE FOR LEAD SET ON GENEVA TREATIES

British Columbia First to Ratify the Labor Recommendations

Dr. W. A. Riddell Canadian Club Speaker To-day

Deploring the apathy of provincial legislatures throughout the Dominion of Canada towards the conventions of the International Labor Office at Geneva, Dr. W. A. Riddell, chief of the agricultural section of the League of Nations, speaking before the Canadian Club to-day, said that British Columbia was up to the present, the only Province that had ratified the recommendations which were aimed to raise the standard of labor conditions throughout the world.

J. D. McIven, Provincial Deputy Minister of Labor, also pointed out that British Columbia had done more than any other province in Canada along a line of social and labor legislation.

THE CONVENTIONS
After dealing with the conventions drawn up by the International Labor Office, Dr. Riddell remarked:

"I am trying to get the provincial legislatures to take action with regard to these conventions or recommendations as they are as far as Canada is concerned. The Government of British Columbia is the only Government that has taken action, and I think I think a lot of the credit to them."

INITIAL MOVE FOR CANADIAN LABOR PARTY

Would Extend to B.C. Policy of National Industrial Group

Convention Called in Vancouver For End of April

Looking to the establishment of the Canadian Labor party in British Columbia, as already existing in some parts of Canada on similar lines to the British Labor party, a conference will be held in Vancouver, commencing April 29.

The gathering of delegates is called together by the B. C. Executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and will be a step forward in the movement to make the organized labor movement more in line with parliamentary labor parties in other countries. While the Congress will not go into political action, its members desire some avenue by which to express themselves, and individual members in several places have organized locals in affiliation with the organization which it is hoped to make really representative of Canadian labor in the political, as the Congress is in the industrial field.

TYEE DISASTER REGALLED BY THE FINDING OF BODIES

Remains of Capt. Frederick J. Anderson and William Davies Recovered

Floating to and fro on the tide for nearly three months, since the ill-starred tug Tyee sank off Rocky Point on Christmas Eve, the bodies of Captain Frederick John Anderson, the master, and William Davies, mate, have been recovered.

Residents at Rocky Point made the gruesome discovery late yesterday evening, and notified the Provincial Police. At first one body only was sighted but police officers searching the shore found the second. The remains were brought to the city and lodged with the McCall Funeral Company, where an inquest will be held by Coroner (Dr.) Hart at 11 a.m. to-morrow.

The Tyee foundered off Rocky Point in a sudden squall when returning from Port Angeles at 9 o'clock on Christmas Eve. A crew of five men were on board at the time. Her owner, A. Pike, and a mate, A. C. Warder, managed to reach the shore after a terrible buffet in the reef strewn water. (Concluded on page 2.)

1890 Census is Basis of New U.S. Immigration Bill

Washington, March 17.—The Johnson Immigration Bill was re-introduced in the House to-day retaining the 1890 census as a basis for a two per cent quota, but otherwise revised to meet the suggestions of Secretary Hughes relative to treaties and administrative features.

With the 1890 census retained the Japanese clauses remain unchanged.

Lafollette May Be Third Party Candidate in U.S.

Washington, March 17.—Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin will accept a third party nomination for the presidency of the United States if the Republican convention at Cleveland next June nominates President Coolidge and adopts a "conservative" platform.

RAILWAY COMMISSION HEARS ARGUMENTS IN THE EXPRESS RATE CASE

Ottawa, March 17.—E. H. Phippen, K.C., representing the Express Traffic Association, presented his argument to-day before the Board of Railway Commissioners on the association's application for an increase in express rates.

Mr. Phippen reviewed judgments made by the Board in express rate cases since its establishment. The principles on which the Board had made its awards in the past were substantially the same to-day, he said.

The late Chief Commissioner Mabee was quoted as having said in a judgment in 1910 that the fact that the express companies were owned by the railways made no difference in the express companies' rights.

It was possible, contended Mr. Phippen, to determine the fair return due to an express company on the same basis as returns to a railway company could be fixed. Express business was a personal service requiring continual care, economy and efficiency, he said, and such service should be compensated with a view to the personal elements that entered into it.

TELLS OF LOSSES
The Dominion Express Company operated at a loss of more than $1,000,000 in 1919, Mr. Phippen told the board, and during four months of the year the company was operating under the railway board's award of 1919. During the two years following the establishment of the rates of 1919 the Dominion Express Company lost more than $2,500,000.

But about an application of the Express Traffic Association for an increase of forty per cent in the rates in Eastern Canada and thirty per cent in Western Canada, the judgment of the board was made in February, 1921. In 1922 the Dominion Express Company lost $400,000 and $252,000 in 1923.

Since 1914, said Mr. Phippen, the company had not made a dollar, except during one year. He claimed the express companies had been operated with every regard to economy.

PRINCE RETURNS TO YORK HOUSE

Heir to British Throne Recovers Rapidly After Being Thrown From Horse

Newspapers State People Concerned Over Way He Risks His Life

London, March 17.—The Prince of Wales, who was thrown from a horse while participating in a race at Arborfield Saturday, is making such good progress in recovering, it was stated this morning, that he will return to York House this afternoon from Aldershot, where he has been attended since his mishap.

The accident, the Prince's twelfth mishap while riding, is made the text of editorial homilies addressed to him by several of the morning newspapers, which tell him the people are very concerned over the manner in which he continues to risk his life. The writers remind him that he is not a private person but a national asset and say that though he is fully entitled to recreation, especially in view of the hearty and thorough way in which he performs his public duties, it is time he imposed restraint on his plucky spirits.

LABOR PAPER'S COMMENTS
All the comments are framed in the kindest tone, expressing anxiety for his safety, except that of the Labor newspaper, The Daily Herald, which insinuates that the Prince of Wales spends his days hunting and steeple-chasing and his nights dancing. It adds that it is time he took life more seriously and devoted his energies to occupations more worth while.

The Europeans were met by the superintendent of the local branch of the Soldier Settlement Board, and before half an hour had elapsed each man had been provided with a farmhand job in the south.

FLIERS LEAVE FIELD AT SANTA MONICA, CAL., TO ENCIRCLE EARTH

Chosen Airmen of United States Army Expect to Leave Seattle April 1 and Go Northwest Along Coast of British Columbia; Hope to Complete Flight By Latter Part of August

Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., March 17.—The army aeroplane flight around the world started at 9:32 a.m. to-day. Word received here said the planes had passed over Fresno at 12:23 p.m.

The squadron, which is made up of four biplanes known as Douglas World Cruisers, is expected to leave Seattle about April 1. The planes will fly northward by way of Sacramento, thence to Portland, Ore., and Seattle. At the last named city the planes will be fitted with pontoons for water landings, which will be made in sheltered harbors along the coast of British Columbia, Alaska, through the Aleutian Islands and along the coast of Japan.

The flight is in command of Major Frederick L. Martin. He is accompanied by Lieutenants Lowell H. Smith, Erik H. Nelson and Leigh Wade. All four are experienced pilots, each with a record of more than 1,500 hours flying time. Lieutenants Leslie E. Arnold and Claude D. Schuler are alternates. They also have fine records for actual flying time that compare with those of the other four. The personnel also will include four enlisted men.

OBJECTS OF FLIGHT
The four principal objects of the flight are: To gain for the air service added experience in long distance flying and piloting; to solve the many problems connected with such flights; to complete an aeroplane flight around the world in the shortest practicable time; to demonstrate the feasibility of establishing a commercial airway around the world; to obtain for the United States the first prize of practical aviation, the honor of being the first nation to encircle the globe entirely by air.

PREPARATIONS
The most careful preparations have been made for the flight by the army air service, which has had valuable assistance from the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America. Through the latter organization several scores of American business corporations with representatives abroad have been enlisted to aid the fliers at various points.

The squadron will be made up of four biplanes known as Douglas world cruisers.

After the squadron has left Seattle, stops for fuel, food and supplies will be made at the following places: Prince Rupert, B.C.; Sitka, Cordova, Seward, Dutch Harbor, Alaska; Akutan or Dutch Harbor, Unalaska; Nainan, Island of Attu; Chicago; Island of Attu; Paramushira Island (Kuriles); Bettobu (Kuriles); Akkeshie, Aomori, Tokio and Nagasaki, Japan; Chemulpo (Jinsen); Tsingtao, Shanghai, Amoy and Hongkong, China; Haiphong, Tientsin and Aden; French Indo-China; Bangkok, Siam; Rangoon and Akyab, Burma; Calcutta, Allahabad, Delhi, Multan and Karachi, India; Chahbar, Bandar Bushire, Persia; Bagdad, Aleppo, Syria; Konia and San Stefano, Turkey; Belgrade, Vienna, Strasbourg, Paris, London, Hull, Kirkwall in Orkney Islands; Thorshavn in Faroe Islands; Reykjavik, Iceland; Anagnin, Hamilton Inlet, Labrador; Mingan, Que., Quebec, Montreal.

TO VISIT NEW YORK
Leaving Montreal the fliers will proceed to New York, thence to Washington and probably to Dayton, Chicago and by easy stages westward to the starting point in California.

A theoretical schedule has been worked out and while it is not expected that this will be strictly adhered to because of unforeseen local contingencies, it is hoped to complete the flight by the latter part of August at the latest.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS
Washington, March 17.—Canada will meet Cuba in the first round of the American zone Davis Cup international tennis championship, according to the draw made at the White House to-day.

ARGENTINA HAS NEW OLD AGE PENSIONS

Fund May Total 5,000,000,000 Pesos in Ten Years

Buenos Ayres, March 17.—The national old age pension law recently enacted by the Argentine Congress is regarded as unique in such legislation in that it makes provision for nearly every employed person in the country and creates probably the largest pension fund in the world. While the bill was pending it was hailed as a great step forward in social legislation, but now it is being severely criticized as being defective in many respects.

FOREIGNERS DISTURBED

The law makes definite provision for the creation of the fund, but otherwise the public is left in the dark as to when and how benefits will be distributed. Foreign residents and foreign corporations especially are disturbed by the law because while they come under its provisions they are unable to determine whether in the event of foreigners leaving the country their contributions to the fund as well as those of their employees will be returned.

MONTHLY CONTRIBUTIONS

The law provides for the maintenance of the fund by the enforced monthly contribution of a sum equal to ten per cent. of nearly all salaries and wages earned by Argentina's population of 9,000,000 people. Half is to be paid in by the employee and half by the employer, and as an initial addition contribution each employee must pay in a month's wages in twenty-four monthly installments. No official estimate has been made of the vast sum the scheme will yield. But according to some unofficial calculations the accumulation of at least 5,000,000,000 pesos (more than $2,100,000,000) within ten years is within the range of probability. This is four times the country's monetary circulation. The funds are to be invested, fifty per cent. in Government securities and fifty per cent. may be utilized in granting mortgage loans to employees to enable them to build or acquire homes.

FIUME FORMALLY ANNEXED BY ITALY

Thousands Attended Ceremony; Address of Welcome For King

Fiume, March 17.—Welcomed by cheering thousands who held places at all vantage points along the route of the procession, KING Victor Emmanuel entered Fiume Saturday to be present at the formal ceremony of annexing the city to Italian rule. The city was filled with thousands of persons from all the surrounding towns. At the governor's palace, the square before which was packed with people, the king, accompanied by General Caetano Giardino, the Military Governor, came out on the balcony and General Giardino read a formal proclamation annexing Fiume to Italy. The king was presented with an address of welcome and the keys to the city.

2,100,000 ARE AT SCHOOL IN CANADA

Total Disclosed in Report Issued by Bureau of Statistics

Ottawa, March 17.—Canada has more than 2,100,000 persons, or nearly one-fourth of its population, at school, according to the annual report on education statistics issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Of these, about 100,000 children are in private schools, of whom 55,000 are in schools subsidized but not controlled by the state; more than 60,000 are registered at colleges and universities, 12,000 attend Indian schools which are supported partly by religious denominations and partly by the Federal Government; 3,000 attend schools for teacher training, 1,600 attend schools for the blind and deaf, 30,000 attend schools or classes of a vocational nature under state control, and 1,360,000 attend ordinary day schools under state control.

FIRE LOSSES IN THE U.S. IN 1922 WERE $506,541,000

New York, March 17.—Fire losses in the United States in 1922 totalled $506,541,000, according to a report issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Careless smokers again were found to be the cause of the greatest number of fires, the board holding them responsible for a toll of $25,776,951.

ROASTING GIVES KICK TO COFFEE

Hamburg, March 17.—German and Swiss scientists who have been investigating the effect of coffee, tea and cocoa on the human system have reached the conclusion that coffee and cocoa are stimulating chiefly because of the chemical changes brought about by roasting. Experiments were made upon both men and dogs to discover the effects of the three drinks which are commonly used throughout the civilized world. These showed that tea was less exhilarating than coffee and cocoa. Coffee from which the caffeine had been extracted also was tested, and men who had used this beverage without knowing the change made in it underwent the same stimulation enjoyed by those drinking ordinary coffee. They did not, however, have the increase in blood pressure which came to those who drank coffee from which the caffeine had not been extracted. The investigators have concluded that the roasting of coffee and cocoa change them in such a manner that when used in drinks they cause a secretion of acidity in the stomach which has a refreshing effect and increases the power for mental effort.

"BEEF-EATERS" THREATEN STRIKE

London, March 17.—The "Beef-Eaters," who guard the Tower of Eton, have threatened to go on strike unless the Government officials see fit to reduce their hours of work. The Yeoman Warders, as they are officially termed, who are all old army sergeants with spotless records, claim they were promised an addition of five members to their corps, which would reduce the individual working hours from ten to eight daily. The five have never been appointed.

EXPRESS ARGUMENTS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Various Parts of Canada Are Asking Reduced Rates Applications Heard by the Railway Commission in Ottawa

Ottawa, March 17 (Canadian Press)—Argument probably will be concluded before the railway commission on Wednesday on the applications of various municipalities for reduced express rates in Canada. The principal week-end witness was Alex McDonald, of Winnipeg, representing the Government of Saskatchewan, who submitted figures for the various periods from 1908 to 1922 showing an increase in express revenue to the Canadian Pacific Railway. From 1909 to 1911, compared with 1908, the increase was twenty-four per cent. he said. From 1912 to 1915, compared with 1912, express receipts increased twenty-four per cent. From 1917 to 1921, compared with 1916, the revenue from express increased seventy-three per cent. he said. The witness gave train mileage and per passenger car mileage figures from 1908 to 1922 showing larger percentage increases in express revenue than in revenue from passengers. FIGURES ANALYZED

An analysis of the passenger rail revenue and operating expenses of the Canadian Pacific Railway for 1923 showed that it cost the passenger department of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1923 almost a dollar to earn a dollar. In express revenue the road received about thirty-six cents per express car mile and the express department's operating expenses, according to the information submitted to the commission by the company, was thirty cents per express car mile, giving a net earning of about six and a half cents per express car mile or twenty-two per cent. more than the actual operating expenses per express car mile.

TERMS OF CONTRACT

Mr. McDonald said the contract between the Canadian Pacific Railway and its express department appeared to be the most unique in express history as the railway company exacted a higher percentage of the transportation charges of the express department. The fares of the express messengers were charged to the express department and the appropriate amount was over $400,000 a year. The amount was charged at the rate of a minimum of $40,000 a month for space in station buildings. It was further shown that the American Railway Express Company, which operates the express messengers on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence canal railway mileage of the United States, paid the railways for the privilege of doing business on the trains as follows: 1920 forty-three per cent., 1921 thirty-nine per cent., 1922 forty-two per cent., the fractions of one per cent. being eliminated.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Tangled String

Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate (By Howard R. Garis)

Uncle Wiggily was sitting, half asleep, in his easy chair one afternoon, when there came a knock on the door of his hollow stump bungalow. Nurse Jane had gone down to the five and six cent store to buy new pianos, and the rabbit gentleman was all alone. "My goodness!" wonder who that could be," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily to himself, awakening as he heard the knock. "I hope it isn't any of Nurse Jane's animal friends; I haven't shaved yet and I don't look very stylish to go to the door." The knock sounded again, and this time Uncle Wiggily thought it might be the Bob Cat or the Fuzzy Fox. "I'm not going to the door to let in either of the bad chaps," he whispered

"Oh, it's all tangled up!" howled the Fox.

"Not that I mind them seeing me unshaved, but if I let them in they may try to nibble my ears!" I wonder who it can be?"

Again the knock sounded, louder than ever, and a voice called: "It's me in, Uncle Wiggily! Please let me in!"

"Oh—it's Baby Bunty!" laughed the rabbit gentleman, for well he knew the voice. "There is no danger from Baby Bunty," he said to himself. "That is unless she wants me to chase her and play tag. And I can't do that to-day on account of my rheumatism."

It was because of his rheumatism pains that Uncle Wiggily had remained in that day—not going out to seek an adventure.

"Let me in, Uncle Wiggily! Let me in!" called the voice of the little rabbit girl outside the hollow stump bungalow.

"I'm coming! I'm coming!" answered Mr. Longears. "Baby Bunty seems very lively to-day," thought the rabbit uncle. "I hope she doesn't want me to play leap frog—Ouch! Ouch! that pain!" he cried as he hopped to the door.

"What's the matter, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Baby Bunty, as she scrambled in. "Why did you make me wait so long?"

After-Eating Distress

And then—all of a sudden—in through the door, which Baby Bunty had forgotten to close—came the Fuzzy Fox. "I want ears to nibble! I want ears!" he cried. "I am very good at nibbling ears!"

"Are you good at getting tangled out of string?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "If you are, try this!"

The rabbit threw the tangled string at the Fox. It wrapped around the sharp, pointed nose of the bad chaps, and he tried to get it off with his paws. Then his paws became caught in the snarl of string, which was very strong.

"Oh, I'm all tangled up—all tangled!" howled the Fox. "Good!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I thought you'd be!" And the Fox was so tangled in the cord that he couldn't open his mouth to bite the bunny nor use his paws to scratch.

Then Uncle Wiggily and Bunty took the stove poker and drove the Fox out of the bungalow. And when he was gone the door

BRITAIN AND FRANCE—A CONTRAST

WRITERS on international and political questions are impressed with the difference just now in the outlook in Britain and that in France.

The contrast is borne out in the highlights of recent news from across the Atlantic. In Britain a minority party is in power as a Government, retained there by the consent of a majority of the House of Commons.

Paris is just recovering from the outbreak of threats and duel challenges in the Chamber a couple of weeks ago and feeling runs high.

Look at the present Government, the way they have buckled to and played the part of Englishmen first. I think it is very splendid. We must give the devil his due.

In contrast with the confidence in London, Paris appears enshrouded in doubt, worried by the fall of the franc and disappointed by the recent collapse of the Francophile-Belgian cabinet of Theunis.

Political change in France seems at least possible, if not probable. It may be what France needs to revive her, just as it has brought a brighter outlook to Britain.

BRITISH PENSIONS

THE latest official report of the British Ministry of Pensions shows that since the Armistice (but excluding the present fiscal year) £460,000,000 have been expended by the Ministry, all but about 5 per cent. of which went direct to beneficiaries of pensions and relief services.

The highest expenditure of the Ministry in a single year was £106,645,516 in the year April 1, 1920; March 31, 1921.

The Bankers Trust Company of New York is advised by its British Information Service that about 2,500,000 persons (including the wives and children of disabled men, and widows) were beneficiaries of the Ministry in the last fiscal year.

The British Government has compromised with the Rodney family over the pension which has been paid to them for many years in the sum of £42,000. This pension amounting to £2,000 a year, was won by Lord Rodney, the famous naval hero, in 1783.

The Seattle Daily Times yesterday contained an article on the transmission of mail by aeroplane between Seattle and Vancouver, B.C., the first port of call from the Orient on this continent.

GETTING THE OIL FACTS

AFTER the deluge of tittle-tattle which has been pouring out from the Senate investigating committee at Washington, the American people will now be able to learn the facts of the oil leases.

The Government's lawyers will seek to prove that the leases were not in the best interests of the country and should be annulled. Fraud and false representations are alleged in regard to some of the leases.

The Senate committee in much of its investigation has been more concerned with the effect on the coming election campaign than it has been with eliminating irrelevant matter.

PREFERENCE AND PROTECTION

HIGH protection and British preference do not seem to get along very well in Canada.

During the last year twenty woollen mills have closed down in Canada. Manufacturers blame the British preference and say that it is putting them out of business.

The trouble is, of course, to convince the man trying to keep warm and make ends meet on the backwoods concessions or on the Prairie farms that he should pay more for his apparel in order that an industry may be established in some far-off Eastern city.

A lot of people in the cities out here, who like the sentiment and the practical benefits of British preference, will require some convincing, too.

Where are the winters of yesteryear, asks The Toronto Telegram. We don't know where they are, but they have not been seen out this way lately.

President Coolidge has been invited to go lion hunting. Probably because it is thought that it will be less nerve-racking than the graft hunt in Washington.

The most compelling reason yet for a strike comes from China where pilots on the Yangtze have gone out and refused to work because the competing junk men have threatened to massacre them.

The Conservative caucus at Ottawa last week is described as a circus, with the members engaged in a species of blind man's bluff, hunting under chairs and tables for a perfectly safe amendment to the address.

University presidents are not usually as outspoken as Marion Leroy Burton was in his convocation address to students at the University of Michigan last week when he said: "You students are lazy. You loaf, you gamble, you spend week-ends in the big cities and then you wonder why we don't want you here."

Ideas of news values vary from place to place. Mr. Paul Cowles, superintendent on the Coast of the Associated Press, told a meeting of editors in Seattle of a small town Southern journalist who delayed a race riot story of twelve negroes being lynched "because only important news was to be sent over the wire at day rates."

The British Government has compromised with the Rodney family over the pension which has been paid to them for many years in the sum of £42,000. This pension amounting to £2,000 a year, was won by Lord Rodney, the famous naval hero, in 1783.

Irish Celebrated

'Twas St. Patrick's Day, 167 Years Ago, When English Bulwark At Fort William Henry, Might Have Been Lost, But French Missed Their Chance

This Day in Canada's Past—March 17, 1757

FORT WILLIAM HENRY at the southern end of Lake George was the English bulwark facing the French Fort Ticonderoga at the northern end of the same lake.

In view of the drabness of fortress life it is no wonder that the Irish soldiers seized the occasion of St. Patrick's Day, March 17, 1757, to get themselves gloriously drunk on rum, or that the Rangers enlisted in the monotonous vigil they kept through the frozen months when attack from Canada or molestation from Ticonderoga was most unlikely.

THE idea was Vaudreuil's. He was hardly in accord with his chief subordinate, the capable, chivalrous, and generous Montcalm, who commanded the regulars.

Unfortunately the expedition stayed too long by a day or so at Ticonderoga. When in the morning hours of the nineteenth the alert French or their Indians had been incautious enough to chop wood and light a fire for warmth far in the distance but within earshot and sight of the English watchmen.

During the daytime of the nineteenth the invaders appeared again in a wide circle about the place and kept up for hours a brisk discharge of musketry which was harmless enough to the English under cover.

NEXT day at noon the whole French expedition marched ceremoniously in column from the woods, the scaling ladders borne threateningly at intervals, and advanced in line across the ice.

That night the tramping on the ice once more warned the English, who stood to in expectation of a desperate attack.

Next day nothing happened, but on the day after a raiding party fired a sloop on the stocks and a number of scows and storehouses misad before.

The day after this Rignaud led his expedition homeward. He had not accomplished his object. His French-Canadians and Indians were useless for the steady work of taking a fortress, weak and ill-garrisoned as this one was, by assault.

GERMANS TO BE TAXED AS HEAVILY AS OTHER NATIONS

Must Pay Maximum of Capacity in Reparations, Say Experts

New Bank of Issue; Big Mortgage on German Railroads

Paris, March 17.—The report of the First Committee of Experts, under the chairmanship of Brig-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, which has practically been agreed upon by the experts although the working out of some details and the drawing up of the text may require another week, is based on these fundamental findings:

The German people must pay as much in taxes as any of the people of the Allied countries. Germany must pay the maximum capacity in reparations. The German economic machine must be free to function under German control, unhindered by any interference from the outside.

Minimum sums must be paid at once or in the immediate future on reparations, these to be increased in proportion to the revival of Germany's prosperity and according to her economic conditions.

NEW BANK OF ISSUE

In order to put Germany in a condition to carry out her part of the programme, which the report will suggest to the Reparations Commission on the basis of these general principles, the experts propose to set up an international bank, to have the exclusive right to issue German currency on a gold basis.

The setting up of a bank of issue is expected not only to assure permanent stability of the mark but to furnish a flexible medium through which reparations payments may be effected without resorting to the purchase of foreign money in markets.

The Reich is supposed, under this plan, to deposit in this bank the sums required to pay interest on loans and the necessary amount of the reparations fund proportionately to their percentages fixed at Spitz. They may cheque out cash or draw cheques payable for products imported from Germany on the reparations account. Thus the Reich may pay its obligations in its own money.

which the minimum reparations instalments are to be paid. It will be suggested that in case these revenues are insufficient at any time, the balance must be made up by additional taxation. This proportion is based on the conviction of the experts that Germany will almost automatically recover her capacity to pay something, and if the money is not forthcoming from people's pockets.

The suggestion of the experts that Germany's economic machinery be free of any interference from outside means that the French and Belgians must hand over the administration of the Ruhr and Rhineland railroads and abandon economic supervision of the Ruhr mines and industries.

The French and Belgians will be left free to maintain garrisons in the Ruhr or immediate vicinity. So, while Germany falls to carry out the terms, they will be able at any time to put their hands on the Ruhr industries if Germany fails to give up the maximum satisfaction of the Allied representatives.

BANK BOARD

The bank board, according to the plan, will be made up of fourteen members, seven Germans and seven Allied and neutral members, with a German president. The board will draw up proposals for the maximum interest to the creditors of Germany with minimum annoyance to the Germans.

RAILROAD MORTGAGE

The railroad control remains to be completed, the indications being that it will be on the same lines as control of the bank of issue. In order to provide immediate funds which the Allies may have in hand in partial satisfaction of the reparations obligations the experts propose a 10,000,000,000-mark mortgage on the German railroads, which would be handed over to the Allies.

TWIN SISTERS LIVE ONE LIFE; TEACHERS RETIRE TOGETHER

Elma and Emma Clark, Amazingly Alike; Have Taught Twenty-five Years

Somerville, Mass., March 17.—Can two persons live one life? There have been numerous cases of one person living two lives—the role of Jekyll and Hyde often has been portrayed in real life. But who has heard of the other? Yes, if such a thing is possible, it has been the lot of the Misses Elma and Emma Clark, school teachers.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

The arrival of St. Patrick's Day, with its "wearing of the green," suggests a few thoughts about the value of this beautiful color in the decoration of the home. I sometimes think there is no color in which the difference in shades is so important. The right green is not only a delight in itself, but is excellent background for other colors. When it is set off by brighter colors, the wrong green is an unpleasant odor or a sour taste. There are certain yellowish-greens which should be carefully avoided. A double daffodil that blooms very early in my garden is a bliffoos-looking affair with its greenish tinge in the yellow petals; and the only reason I let it keep on blooming is that it comes at least two weeks earlier than any other Spring bulb except the crocuses. Almost any flower is lovable when it is the only one there!

Polish Girl Finds Course of True Love Somewhat Erratic

Halifax, March 17.—A "courtship by proxy" that seemed about to reach a happy conclusion, suffered complications when the woman in the case, Vladislawa Novak, a pretty Polish girl, who landed here yesterday, on route to Toronto to marry a man she had never seen, told the immigration authorities that she desired to marry a fellow countryman whom she had learned to love on the voyage out to Canada. She was traveling alone, and was booked through to the care of her sister in Toronto, who has made all arrangements to furnish her with a husband immediately on her arrival. The immigrant laws would not permit her to follow the dictates of her heart. As the couple traveled West on the same special train they still had hopes of overcoming the obstacle in the way of consummation of their romance.

The very attractive programme will include vocal solos by Miss Eva Hart, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. L. M. Knight, Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Miss Dorothy Hartree, Rev. Father McLeilan, Messrs. J. Q. Hallett in the principal roles. J. D. O'Connell will take the chair.

MAH JONG DRESS APPEARS IN PARIS

New Fashion Consists of Three Distinct Frocks Worn at Once

Paris, March 17.—The mah jong dress has made its initial bow to the Parisian public at the Automall race track. The dress consists of three distinct frocks, entirely independent one from another, but worn all at the same time and presenting a delightful "fused color" effect. All over inner dress of yellow crepe is placed a similar dress of grey and over that one of black. Other colors blend with less success. Some Sunday presented a rather rainbow effect. The three dresses can be worn singly, jointly and severally.

Eastern Star Concert

Under the auspices of Ruth Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, a pleasing concert will be held in the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, when piano solos will be given by Mrs. Edith Wright, Mrs. Edmonds, soprano; Miss Nora Jones, contralto; George Guy, tenor, and J. P. McCall, baritone, violin solos by Miss Anita Holt and recitations by Miss Nora Hunter.

FIVE HUSKY PAIRS OF LUNGS!

While Nature can afford to do almost anything outdoors, with her background of deep blue sky, we have to be careful in our homes not to get a color that is vaguely depressing. The blue-greens are in general more sympathetic than the yellow-greens and combine better with other colors. Rosedust, or sage green, with its soft grayish hue, is perhaps the happiest green to use indoors, unless one goes in for very bright colors. In that case, the never-fading green is most joyous and this has a large proportion of blue in it. Olive green, with its yellow wash, is not a good choice as a general thing. Of course, a clear, bright green is always likable when combined with the right contrasting shades, and if a very light shade of green is wanted, Nile green is sometimes good, though I feel it to be rather innocuous. Emerald green is almost too insistent, except in small quantities.

DELIGHTED CROWDS SAW "THE GEISHA"

David Spencer Musical Company to Repeat Brilliant Production Here

"The Geisha," that melody of tuneful music, clever libretto and charming settings which has delighted the world for many years, you still retain its pristine charm, is coming to the Royal Victoria Theatre on Friday and Saturday evening of this week, under the direction of the David Spencer Musical Society of Vancouver. Following its very successful production in Vancouver two weeks ago, of this production the critic of the Vancouver World said in part: "If any members of the audience which last week at the Orpheum greeted the presentation of 'The Geisha' by the David Spencer Musical Society, witnessed in the same theatre the production of 'Il Trovatore,' they must have experienced a feeling of satisfaction that two Vancouver companies, drawn from the American continent, should be able to encompass such artistic successes. Not that 'The Geisha' is comparable in magnitude or music with Verdi's great opera, but it has its difficulties to overcome and the tuneful music, songs once so popular in every mouth, and enterprising and artistic, are well negotiated by this company of young amateurs in a manner which was rightly deserving of the vociferous applause and repeated encores. That the splendid house was full of friends prepared to applaud anything and everything was clear from the outset; but those taking part had no need to claim the indulgence, and Madama Norimont, of North Vancouver, the producer, and Mr. J. C. Wallace, of Vancouver, who assisted her, and Mr. F. T. Moseley, the conductor, and also a Spencer employee, are to be congratulated upon the result of their efforts. Not only was the chorus a strong one and excellently drilled, but the costuming and settings were elaborate and artistic, and the general ensemble at once colorful and vivacious. Unqualified praise was also lavished upon the gifted principals and chorus."

LAKE HILL COMMUNITY CENTRE

The people of the Lake Hill district are active these days. Last year they built a small Community Hall, as the first unit of its complete design. During the past Winter the hall has become a very popular place for community sings, card parties, dances, addresses by public men and economic addresses before the Women's Institute.

Tucks of Varied Width Give This Frock its Charm

The chic little frock of simple line is the frock of the moment. When it uses tucks in horizontal rows, the tucks varying in width from the daintiest possible ones at the neck to wider ones at the hem, it is particularly desirable. This youthful and colored crepe de chine model features the tucked collar and cuffs and brown and sand two-toned grosgrain ribbon at the girdle. The same model would be effective of white crepe de chine with lemon yellow organdie and ribbon.

Culture in the Comics

Historians of the future will not turn to "Main Street" for information on these early days of the twentieth century but to that indigenous form of native art, the funny paper.

According to Ernest Bennet who studies "The Real Mission of the Funny Paper" in the March Century, the "funny" is an extremely powerful organ of social satire and a keen commentary on our contemporary culture.

Like all the pictorial satire that preceded it, the funny paper wasted little of its time in the pursuit of the good and the beautiful in life; it concentrated on the true things, and limited itself rather strictly to the merry and unsightly; it eagerly and joyfully turned out the seams of our civilized clothing and gaily exhibited the soup stains on our moral waists.

The funny paper has consequently become not only a faithful reflection of the tastes and ethical principles of the country at large; it is also manifestly an extremely powerful organ of social satire. The whole great sub-structure of essentially human weakness, the seventy times seven deadly sins that are the precious heritage of man since the days when the gullible Eve listened to the serpent, and the uxorious Adam listened to his wife, form the ground-tone, the great tonic triad upon which the funny paper is forever building its glittering life symphony.

This laudable predominance of the universal is characteristic of the work of one of the best practitioners of the art, Briggs, the originator of "When a Feller Needs a Friend" and "Mr. and Mrs.," has indeed explored the immense prairie of contemporary culture with greater completeness and thoroughness than most other cartoonists. His interests range from knickerbockers and hair-cuts to international politics and the divorce problem, but he has displayed throughout the keenest insight into character, has exhibited the truest, subtlest psychology.

ANAESTHETIC WAS ADMINISTERED; YOUNG WOMAN DIED

Vancouver, March 17.—Mrs. Evelyn Fingard, twenty-one-year-old bride of David Fingard, stockbroker, formerly of Winnipeg, died at a hospital here Saturday night after taking an anaesthetic for a minor operation. An inquest is to be held, it is understood.

Mrs. Fingard was married three weeks ago in Stettler, Alta., and the young couple spent their honeymoon in Calgary and Banff.

WAR VETERANS FORM AUTO PARTNERSHIP

National Motor Co. Seeks Out to Messrs. Pemberton and Duke

One of the largest sales of automotive road goes into effect to-day when Messrs. W. P. G. Pemberton and L. de S. Duke take over the plant of the National Motor Company, Ford dealers at 831 Yates Street. J. W. Morris, perhaps the senior Ford dealer in the length and breadth of British Columbia, is relinquishing his interests in favor of the new partnership.

The company will continue to handle Fords exclusively, and will make a specialty of Ford repairs. A full supply of accessories and parts will be kept in stock. Both Mr. Pemberton and Mr. Duke saw service overseas during the war, the former as a Major in the 103rd Battalion, and the latter in the 8th Battalion. Mr. Duke transferred to the Royal Flying Corps later, and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his services in the air. The purchase price is not stated, but the deal is the largest turnover of automotive gear within recent years.

IN FIELD AND WOODLAND

NATURE NOTES BY ROBERT CONNELL

AMONG THE MOSSES

In the absence of the flowering plants it is in Winter that we turn with most interest to the mosses. The warm dry months are for them a period of rest and with the welcome rain they glow again with color. Yet it is with them as with other plants, Spring is the time of growth and the mosses, as a fraction of an inch in height, which clothe the edges and crevices of suburban cement sidewalks and which are burnt up in the summer so that the pressure of the fingers revolves them into dust are new born with the showers of rain.

For weeks past these little plants have borne their little capsules above their dark green velvet piles, each wearing a little peaked cap fit for a fairy. In the woods the mosses are particularly worth notice now for the new growth is rising as a slender, reddish stem from last year's growth. It has not yet developed its little side branches but bends in a graceful curve forwards. If one of these plants be removed it will be found to consist of a series of feathery stems rising from the centre of the last stem and bending forward, the most recent being slightly more erect. The older stems in the distance show the dark green of coalment and decay. There are occasional exceptions to this rule of growth as to all rules. The fern-like appearance which is the result of the first of the main stem, and then again (and sometimes again) of the stem stems, its botanical name, Hypnum means "wood-dweller," and it may well be given this distinction among our mosses, for though by no means the only "wood-moss," its striking appearance and universal association with the pleasant parts of our forests make it pre-eminently the Wood Moss.

AN OLD WORLD FLOWER

At William Head last Sunday I was delighted to see in full blossom on the rocks a handsome member of the Crucifer family. Its striking appearance, its botanical name, Hylis green glossy leaves with a tinge of purple as to the heads of yellow flowers. Barbara vulgaris is very common in the mountains of the northern hemisphere, and in olden days in England it was known as St. Barbara's plant. For some reason, which I have not been able to ascertain, it was dedicated to her, and so belongs to the fairly numerous group of flowering plants associated with the Church and the Calendar of Saints. It is a very close relative of the Water Cross, and its taste is faintly suggestive of the fact.

WILD FLOWER WASTE

It is now close to the time when we should be treated to the annual spectacle of the despoiling of our wild flower heritage. Grown-ups and children will be seen returning with huge half-wilted bundles of erythroniums or Spring lilies and smaller ones of our dainty pink ladies' slippers. These charming orchids will not, infrequently be found to have their bulbs attached and the lilies will be accompanied to a liberal extent by their leaves. For years it has been pointed out that this ruthless wasteful plucking means before long the practical extermination of these interesting and charming flowers, at least in places accessible to the public. In private gardens and woods and in such places as St. Mary's churchyard, Metcalf, a few years ago has led to wonderful increase of the erythronium, but it will be more difficult with the gradual disappearance of our forests to save the orchids. Every one, parent, teacher, or any other with influence, should endeavor to teach children to care for their little sisters of the fields, and to avoid anything like this, boastful and wasteful gathering. As for the selling of these flowers it ought to be effectually and promptly prohibited. The do-gooder has been great sufferer from the depredations of passers-by for many years. The consequence is that it is comparatively rare in the neighborhood of the city, or where found is generally on the higher branches. It is beautiful enough there, it is true, but dogwood blossom is at its best when it clothes the tree almost from the ground up with its pure white robe. However, come what may, there are still places off the beaten track where the flowerer may meet his friends in undisturbed tranquility. But the erythronium is a lover of open places and thereby is the more easily exposed to attack.

EARLY FLOWERING TREES

Now that the peach trees are headed with pink blossoms the question arises as to why such delicate trees should bloom so early. The peach is very sensitive to cold and hence it is this part of the world the protection of a wall to guard it from the late north winds. In districts of colder winters, such as those of the Okanagan and Ontario, the blossoms are effectively checked till all danger of cold is over, and so the peach can grow in the open as do other orchard trees. I suppose the early blossoming of the peach in our milder climate is due to the necessity for ripening the fruit by midsummer, a necessity impressed upon it in its warmer place of origin where the heat of late Summer was to be avoided. Hence it is in California it is preceded in late January or early February by its near relative, the Almond, whose flowers look like drifts of snow in the dark mass of the leafless orchards around. The apple, on the other hand, can afford to wait. The whole order of flower and leaf unfolding is a very fascinating one. Some of our native trees, like the Bird-turtle, while our aboriginal oaks wait on in sombre patience as if "con-firmed in such a way to keep." But they are late in rising, they go to bed late, and are among the last to retain their leaves which rustle on their branches long after Autumn has dyed them brown. The alder again is fairly early and holds its green leaves sometimes, as during this past Winter, long after their use has ended with the decrease of sunshine and the arrival of cool moist weather. One is left wondering at the great diversity which marks every department of life, and gives it the bewildering effect of a Kaleidoscope.

THE HILL-TOP SAXIFRAGE

I notice that Saxifraga rufidula is on the verge of blossoming in the hills. It comes from the summits of our western hills and might well be called the Hill Top Saxifrage for its want of another English name. Its white flowers, with their crimson stamens are supported by stems which rise from a rosette of oval leaves. The edges of these are out-curved, and the under side of the leaf is of a purplish red. It is a pretty little plant and loves high places. The sight of it therefore, with its feathery heads reminds one that it will soon be time for the trek to the hills where the air will be sweet with manzanita, and the saxifrages will be out on the fresh green of the Rock Brake. Every crevice will be filled with blue and gold and vibrant green. A little walk and a scramble in the open air, for a millennium away from the age of gasoline, though gasoline may have brought you to the foot of the hill.

YOUR HEALTH

IT IS WHEN YOU ARE "SOFT" THAT YOU EASILY CATCH COLD

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

We think of colds in connection with chilly days, raw winds, snow and slush. Unfortunately, these parts are not limited to the Winter time. The first two days of Spring are pretty certain to be followed by a big crop of sniffing, sneezing, coughing and common colds.

How do you account for it? Well, you are apt to get into bad habits during the Winter. We coddle ourselves and get "soft." City people keep their houses and offices hot and take taxis and street-cars when ever they go out, to avoid the slush and the winds. Country people hug the comfortable fire instead of keeping their circulation brisk by out-door exercise.

Some of us cut out our cold baths during the Winter and take the daily dip in the open air, but close the system if we don't help to take care of them in this way. Some of us wear heavy underclothing and bundle up when we go outdoors. No, suppose you have done one or all of these things and have become "soft"—what are you going to do when the first really warm days come?

Will you go out the first warm day dressed in your Winter underclothes? Will you throw off your overcoat or wrap as soon as you get heated? Will you sit in your office with the furnace heat turned on, or with the fire blazing until you are in a perspiration and then turn off the heat and throw open the windows? Will you eat hearty meals, just as you have been doing all Winter?

If you do, you will go home that evening with that tired, cross, stuffed-up feeling we all know so well—perhaps with a headache or the "heartburn." The next day you will probably go out without an overcoat. You will take a breakfast of coffee and toast and a lunch of salad. You will go home after sun-down shivering. And you will come down with a "heavy cold."

The best way to treat a Spring cold is to avoid it. Lead a regular life. Wear moderate weight clothing and a wrap. If it is too warm to wear the wrap when you start out, take it along. Keep your diet to your work and don't jump from a December to an August menu all at once. Keep your room ventilated all the time, and don't wait to throw open a window after you are steaming hot. After exercising, put on a wrap—don't throw it off.

Unless you are an invalid, don't neglect to take a daily bath. If you are frail and the sudden plunge into a cold tub gives you a shock, take your bath warm and finish with a cold shower or sponge as cold as you can stand. And if you are very frail, take your bath at least two hours after eating, instead of before breakfast.

In short, keep fit, and you won't take cold.

FIERCE STORM IS RAGING IN NORTH PACIFIC WATERS

Ss. Frank H. Buck Disabled; Sea Ranger Goes to Assistance

San Francisco, March 17.—Gales which have been lashing the waters of the North Pacific Ocean off the California coast for forty-eight hours have disabled at least one large vessel, delayed transpacific liners and caused apprehension in local marine circles for the safety of smaller craft.

The tug Sea Ranger is battling billowy seas in the teeth of fierce winds to-day en route to the assistance of the Associated Oil Company's steel tanker Frank H. Buck, a vessel of 2,850 net tons, disabled off the northern California coast.

Western Hockey Title Is Won by Calgary Tigers

Vancouver Failed to Show Any Form in Final Game Played on Winnipeg Ice

Fans Disappointed With Display; Vancouver Meet Canadians in First Game

Winnipeg, March 17.—Calgary Tigers reached the final stage of the Stanley cup play down here Saturday night when they took the Vancouver Maroons into camp to the tune of 3 to 1 in the final game of the best two out of three to decide which team would get the bye in the professional championship with the Montreal Canadiens.

Whether the players were taking the contest very seriously or were held in check to stop the more important games in the East, is hard to say, but at any rate at no time did they provide much excitement. There was a lot of pretty hockey, some dazzling stick handling, fast combination and heady defence play.

The Calgary boys earned the verdict through their superior speed. They were much more aggressive than the coaches and outside of about ten minutes in the closing period, had a commanding edge in the exchanges. The Tigers were much faster, and when they broke away were hard to stop, and it took a clever three-man defence real hard.

Calgary scored a goal in each of the first two periods, and the Patrick crew showed their best form of the night, and when they finally found the net on a pretty individual effort by Cook.

Winnipeg was greatly interested in the Vancouver team, as it was the first time the Maroons have appeared on local ice. But their performance was very disappointing, as they only showed flashes of championship hockey.

Much was expected of Art Duncan, the big smooth working defence star of the coast leagues. But he failed to show anything spectacular on Saturday night outside of some powerful defensive tactics, and was much too slow in his rush to make his rushes worth while.

Frank Boucher was the outstanding player on the Vancouver team. He uncovered a poke check which rivals that of the famous Nighbor, of Ottawa, and was the only player to do any checking in centre ice, and intercepted many promising rushes by intercepting passes. He was tricky on the attack and hard luck in not notching a goal.

Hughie Lehman was very much in the limelight with his saves at critical moments and showed a lot of class.

Calgary seemed to have youth and speed in their favor, and it carried them to victory. Charlie Reid, in goal, looked a lot better than on his last appearance here. He proved a regular wizard with his uncanny stops, and was at his best on close shots, and he broke up warm attacks by rushing out of the nets on several occasions when the ice was not frozen.

Robbie Benson, Merv Dutton and Gardiner did some very useful defence work, and kept their opponents shooting from range most of the evening. Harry Oliver was the best of the forwards, and was the most dangerous player on the ice.

Line-Up: Calgary Position Vancouver Reid, Goal, Lehman; Gardiner, Defence, Cook; Dutton, Defence, Duncan; Oliver, Forward, Boucher; Wilson, Forward, Eastrom; Morris, Forward, Skinner; Crawford, Substitute, Mackay; O'Brien, Substitute, Parks; Benson, Substitute, Matte; Official, Jimmy Gardner.

Summary: First period—2, Calgary, Gardiner, 15.00. Second period—2, Calgary, O'Brien from Oliver, 10.30. Third period—3, Vancouver, Cook, 6.50; 4, Calgary, Morris from Crawford, 1.25.

Penalties: First period—None. Second period—Mackay and Crawford. Third period—Crawford.

Goals: Crawford, 15:27. By Reid, 17:12, 18:21. By Lehman, 18:12, 18:21.

WINS ANOTHER CUP

SUZANNE LENGLEN

Nice, France, March 17.—Suzanne Lenglen yesterday added another cup to her immense collection by winning the tennis championship of Southern France. She defeated Mrs. Covel, England, 6-2, 6-0. Mrs. Covel reached the finals through her victory on Saturday over Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the California girl.

In addition to winning the singles championship, Suzanne also was victorious in the mixed doubles, paired with M. Cochet, defeating Mrs. Shephard-Barton and Baron de Mornay in the semi-final, 6-0, 6-4, and in the final, Miss Ryan and Washer, 4-6, 6-1, 7-4.

Old Wanderers Team Beaten by Officials Of N.H.L. at Hockey

Montreal, March 17.—A crowd of more than 4,000 fans contributed voluntarily to the Children's Memorial Hospital when they witnessed the annual game between the Canadiens and Ottawa used in the League officials and the old Wanderers at the arena Saturday night. The funds were swelled by the auctioning of a football stick upon which all the N.H.L. players had affixed their signatures. The two packs which the Canadiens and Ottawa used in the playoff games this year were also auctioned off. The game was won by the officials after a thrilling overtime battle. The Canadiens' Neway Lalonde was on the officials' lineup.

Very pretty score after sixteen minutes of very slow action. Vancouver never got inside the Calgary defence, and was kept busy on the defensive most of the time. There were some fine works in the second session, and Mackay and Boucher had hard work in not knotting the count for the Maroons, but poor finish and pretty work by Reid spoiled their chances. Calgary kept pressing, and when they had the advantage, or an extra man, finally followed up a rebound from Oliver's stick and batted the puck into the net.

LEHMAN OUTGUESSED: The third period found the Maroons pressing hard, and they were finally rewarded when a counter from Cook skated up the right boards and stick handled through the centre to lift the puck from an angle into the corner of the net from about five feet out. Reid had to make some clever saves in the next minute, but a bad play by Lehman gave Calgary a chance to get the goal back. Lehman rushed out to the side to try and intercept a pass between Crawford and Morris, but missed the puck, and Morris shot the rubber into an empty net for the final score of the game.

There was little hard checking, and only three penalties were handed out. The teams left Sunday morning for Montreal, where the Vancouver team will engage the Canadians in the first game of the Stanley cup series.

Line-Up: Calgary Position Vancouver Reid, Goal, Lehman; Gardiner, Defence, Cook; Dutton, Defence, Duncan; Oliver, Forward, Boucher; Wilson, Forward, Eastrom; Morris, Forward, Skinner; Crawford, Substitute, Mackay; O'Brien, Substitute, Parks; Benson, Substitute, Matte; Official, Jimmy Gardner.

Summary: First period—2, Calgary, Gardiner, 15.00. Second period—2, Calgary, O'Brien from Oliver, 10.30. Third period—3, Vancouver, Cook, 6.50; 4, Calgary, Morris from Crawford, 1.25.

Penalties: First period—None. Second period—Mackay and Crawford. Third period—Crawford.

Goals: Crawford, 15:27. By Reid, 17:12, 18:21. By Lehman, 18:12, 18:21.

Cardiff's Loss Due to Absence Of Four Players

International Games Overshadow League Football in England Saturday

Morgan, of Burnley, Breaks His Leg; Hat Trick Performed Twice

London, March 17.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The international games somewhat overshadowed league football on Saturday and although the matches were favored by the weather, the crowds were not up to the average.

The hat trick of three goals was performed by Rookford, for Blackpool, who scored six goals against Port Vale's two, and Watkins, for Southampton, who piled up five against Northampton's one. Chelsea and Birmingham engaged in a one-goal draw and Liverpool and Blackburn drew in a goalless game at Liverpool.

Helped Westham Win: Westham have found another centre-forward in Campbell, who signed less than a week ago at Jarrow. He scored a very good goal ten minutes after taking the field, and by his all-round play helped Westham to record their first victory in more than two months, when they defeated Everton, two to one.

Although the Arsenal's defeat, two to one, at Nottingham, places them in great danger of relegation, the team showed improvement, which suggests that they may yet escape. Leeds Scored Quickly: There was a sensational finish to the Leeds United-Pulham game won by the former, three to nothing. The United were only one goal ahead two minutes from time, but Leeds forced two corners and obtained a goal from each.

Burnley's left half, Morgan, had his leg broken in a heavy fall, and this accident greatly handicapped his side and accounted to some extent for their three to nil defeat by Sunderland. Chelsea obtained their one-goal draw against Birmingham by means of a penalty kick half way through the first half.

The two to one defeat of Cardiff City by Notts County on their own ground is accounted for by the fact that the team was weakened by contributing four players to the international soccer match.

There is one man in Europe whom Carpentier might meet in order to qualify for Tunny. This is Jack Bloomfield, an English Major-General, London promoter, has been trying for months to match Bloomfield with Carpentier. He is apparently prepared to take the boat from Havre than from Calais.

First Canadian Hoop Titles at Stake This Year

Men's Basketball Championship to Be Held in East and Ladies in West

Toronto, March 17.—The Canadian Basketball Association is making arrangements to hold the "hoop" game right through to a Canadian championship this season, both in the women's and men's games. Plans are now about complete for the play-offs. The ladies' finals have been awarded to the West and the men's finals to the East for the first season, with the allotment reversed for the season of 1925.

The Union Jacks of Raymond, Alta, have cleaned up the West, and in the East, the H. H. Richardson are ready to meet the winner of the Windsor-London series, and in the M.A.A.A. are waiting for a final for the national title. If this programme goes through it will be the first time a recognized Canadian basketball championship has ever been completed for.

Clearwater, Fla., March 17.—Miss Glenna Collett paired with Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, defeated Arthur Havers and Jas. Ockenden, the British golf cracks, by three and two here yesterday. The British golfers conceded a handicap of six bisques which were used on their first nine holes and which gave the women golfers an advantage of four up.

Wholesalers Win First Golf Match With Retailers At Olympic Games

Sydney, N.S.W., March 17.—Andrew Charlton has accepted the invitation of the Australian Olympic Council to become a member of the Australian Olympic swimming team for the events at Paris. Charlton recently set a world's record for the 150-yard swim.

The monthly medal competition of the ladies of Uplands Golf Club was played on Saturday and resulted in a tie between Mrs. Foscock, Mrs. Hopburn and Miss Maxwell, all having a net score of seventy-eight.

Paris, March 17.—Marcelus, owned by Antonio Gosset, and ridden by Jockey Salmon, won the first big race of the year at Auteuil race track Sunday. He was neglected in the betting at 15 to 1, and defeated the odds-on favorite. The distance was 3,800 metres, with eleven obstacles, and the stakes were 30,000 francs to the winner.

Seats Snapped Up In Hurry For First Stanley Cup Game

Montreal, March 17.—Tickets for the first two games on Tuesday and Thursday nights between Vancouver Maroons and Montreal Canadiens were placed on sale Sunday, and by noon the entire reserved seats for the first game had been concluded. There were fully 2,000 enthusiasts on hand in the morning and all they left were tickets for the unreserved seats at either end of the rink.

If the weather remains as at present and the ice keeps, the entire programme of games between Vancouver, Calgary and Canadiens will be played here. Not since the Portland Rosebuds played here in 1914 have Montrealers had the chance of witnessing a Stanley Cup series, and the ardent devotees were on hand early Sunday to be among the most favored ones to obtain seats from the limited accommodation.

Should a third game be necessary between Vancouver and Montreal it will be played Saturday, otherwise the series between Calgary and the winner of the Montreal-Vancouver series will commence on that night.

"FASTEST HUMAN" IS REINSTATED BY A.A.U.

Paris, March 17.—Georges Carpentier is to make another farewell tour of the United States. According to Manager Francois Descomps' present plans, Georges may battle Gene Tunney, United States light heavyweight champion, and Tom Gibbons of St. Paul. To many here who are conversant with the present form of the former champion, it seems that unless Tunney is woefully out of tune the duel may prove to be a rather short solo.

Georges has fought only twice since he suffered his crushing defeat at the hands of Battling Siler. He met Joe Beckett's chin as the latter collided with his right fist. Both fist and chin were badly injured, but Beckett was contented with the smiling Georges nursed a broken knuckle for a month. It took Georges eight rounds to dispose of the former champion, who has since been polished off by Barabara, of Rome, in half a round, and by Romero Rojas of Chile in three rounds.

There is one man in Europe whom Carpentier might meet in order to qualify for Tunny. This is Jack Bloomfield, an English Major-General, London promoter, has been trying for months to match Bloomfield with Carpentier. He is apparently prepared to take the boat from Havre than from Calais.

Saturday night's hockey games played at the V.I.A.A. gymnasium, Victoria West, resulted as follows: Midgets—Fairfield Tigers 4, Red Rovers 4. Intermediates—Times 5, Monarchs 4. V.I.A.A. 3, Bluebirds 1. Seniors—Cougars 4, V.I.A.A. 7.

The best game of the evening was that between the Times and Monarchs, and by virtue of their win the Times, Monarchs and James Bay Capitals will have to play off to ascertain which team shall enter the play offs with the Senators for the city championship. The first game will be played to-morrow evening, and the final game on Wednesday evening.

Saturday night's game was very even and exciting. Both teams played splendid hockey, although the Times had an edge in combination play. The scores in the game were Nuts 3 and Forbes 2 for Times, and Unwin 4 for Monarchs.

The midge game between the Tigers and Red Rovers also proved to be a good game. The defence of the Rovers was a little weak, with the result that the Tigers' shots at goal counted. The scores were Champion 5 and Sent to them, 2, and Cradams 3 and Dumford 1 for Rovers.

The V.I. vs. Bluebirds' game was keenly contested, and the win of the former was due to their superior team play. The Bluebirds played hard, but fell down in front of their opponent's goal. The point-setters in this game were Smith 2 and Wallace 1 for the V.I., and Cox 1 for the Bluebirds.

Over Time Game: The senior game was very exciting, and in order to settle the argument the game went into overtime. Both teams were evenly matched, and the play was very close. The Cougars, who had lost every previous game this season, but have turned up for every one of their fixtures against much stronger teams, certainly deserve praise for their sportsmanship, and their win of Saturday was a credit to them. The scorers in this game were Halsey 6 and Doherty 2, while the V.I.A.A. scorers were Gillan 1, Doherty 1, Smith 3 and Allen 2. All of the goals were referred by James Kennedy.

To-night's game at the V.I.A.A. gymnasium will be as follows: Midgets—Fairfield Rovers vs. Fairfield Tigers. Intermediates—Times vs. V.I.A.A. Seniors—Colonists vs. Times. The Colonist team will be as follows: Westendale, Bothwell, Delahanty, Mahwiner, McConnell, McPhee, Holden and Bryant.

Bluebirds Win Game From Shawnigan Lake Basketers by 40-26

In another fast and interesting game played at the Drill Hall on Saturday night the basketball team representing the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association went down to defeat at the hands of the local Bluebirds by 40-26.

The Bluebirds opened the scoring, but the up-land boys came back in great style and netted two baskets in quick succession. The score was soon evened up by the local team, but the Bluebirds were into the lead once more. The first half was exceptionally close, no more than five points separating the teams at any one stage with the Bluebirds holding a slight advantage throughout half time being reached with the score 15 to 15 in their favor.

Early in the second half the local team gradually increased their lead as a result of superior combination and shooting, their shot making completely baffling the opposing defence at times. The Lake boys, who were not out of the game by any means, came back to the offensive and netted two or three nice baskets. Art Boyd, star centre man of the First Presbyterian team, of this city, was the star of the visiting team and was in the limelight during the whole of the game. Rutledge, Downs and Underwood did most of the scoring for the local team, being the last cog in the machine in the respective combination rushes. Keating, although not appearing much in the score column, played his usual stellar game, figuring in several pretty combination plays.

Falcons Defeat Greys, and Land S.S. Hoop Title

Intermediate Basketball Championship Decided on Saturday Night

Christ Church Girls Too Speedy For St. Andrew's and Win With Ease

S.S. basketball results: Intermediate "B" Boys—Falcons 45, The Greys 18. Senior Girls—Christ Church 30, St. Andrew's 12.

The Falcons are the champions of the Intermediate "B" Sunday School Basketball League for the season 1923-24. By scoring a decisive victory over the Greys at the Trades Hall on Saturday night they won the championship.

The Greys made a game fight in the first period when they held the speedy Falcons down to a twelve all draw, but in the middle of the second period the Falcons turned loose a barrage of shots which won the game handsly.

PLAY VANCOUVER: The new champions are a speedy lot and should make a fine showing against the Vancouver Sunday School League winners in this division.

Doug Robertson and McQueen are the forwards of the winning team. Skilling is the strike man and Foubister and Ed MacLean compose the guard division with Ogilvy as spare.

Belmonts were the winners of the intermediate "B" section last season, and while they succeeded in beating the Falcons a short time ago and gaining top place, they were unexpectedly beaten by the St. Andrew's Meteors, thus dropping back to second place and leaving Falcons on top.

St. Andrew's senior girls turned out a weakened line-up against the fast Cathedral five. With Iola Worthington missing from the forward line they were unable to figure much in the scoring column, while the Christ Church girls were in fine form, playing a speedy game and running up a large score. Florrie Gates and Kathy Wellburn were, as usual, very successful with the ball and scored rapidly.

The league standing remains about the same, with possibilities of three teams being tied for top place next week.

The teams were: Christ Church—Florrie Gates, Phyllis Gates, Kathy Wellburn, Grace Wellburn, Margie Wiffin. St. Andrew's—Kathy Kelly, Aida Moffat, Helen Miller, Helen Cradshank, Dorothy Melville. Referee, C. Ferris.

Three Teams Tie For Second Place In Roller Hockey

Times, Monarchs and Bays to Playoff For Right to Meet the Senators

Saturday night's hockey games played at the V.I.A.A. gymnasium, Victoria West, resulted as follows: Midgets—Fairfield Tigers 4, Red Rovers 4. Intermediates—Times 5, Monarchs 4. V.I.A.A. 3, Bluebirds 1. Seniors—Cougars 4, V.I.A.A. 7.

The best game of the evening was that between the Times and Monarchs, and by virtue of their win the Times, Monarchs and James Bay Capitals will have to play off to ascertain which team shall enter the play offs with the Senators for the city championship. The first game will be played to-morrow evening, and the final game on Wednesday evening.

Saturday night's game was very even and exciting. Both teams played splendid hockey, although the Times had an edge in combination play. The scores in the game were Nuts 3 and Forbes 2 for Times, and Unwin 4 for Monarchs.

The midge game between the Tigers and Red Rovers also proved to be a good game. The defence of the Rovers was a little weak, with the result that the Tigers' shots at goal counted. The scores were Champion 5 and Sent to them, 2, and Cradams 3 and Dumford 1 for Rovers.

The V.I. vs. Bluebirds' game was keenly contested, and the win of the former was due to their superior team play. The Bluebirds played hard, but fell down in front of their opponent's goal. The point-setters in this game were Smith 2 and Wallace 1 for the V.I., and Cox 1 for the Bluebirds.

Over Time Game: The senior game was very exciting, and in order to settle the argument the game went into overtime. Both teams were evenly matched, and the play was very close. The Cougars, who had lost every previous game this season, but have turned up for every one of their fixtures against much stronger teams, certainly deserve praise for their sportsmanship, and their win of Saturday was a credit to them. The scorers in this game were Halsey 6 and Doherty 2, while the V.I.A.A. scorers were Gillan 1, Doherty 1, Smith 3 and Allen 2. All of the goals were referred by James Kennedy.

MAKES GREAT FINISH

WALTER HAGEN

Bellair Heights, Fla., March 17.—Although Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Ridge, ran away with the west coast open championship here yesterday, there was plenty of excitement for the large gallery who saw Walter Hagen make one of his famous finishes, breaking the Clearwater course record with a sixty-five and outdistancing the other players who were bunched at noon and fighting for the second place. Farrell finished with 283 and Hagen with 290.

James Ockenden was the best of the English professionals. He finished in eighth place, eight strokes ahead of Havers, the British champion, who had a total of 368 and tied for tenth place.

St. Andrew's senior girls turned out a weakened line-up against the fast Cathedral five. With Iola Worthington missing from the forward line they were unable to figure much in the scoring column, while the Christ Church girls were in fine form, playing a speedy game and running up a large score. City Teams Gain Even Break With Saanich Players

Fidels Defeat Saanichton Girls While St. Andrew's Men Go Down to Defeat

Two good basketball games were played at the Agricultural Hall, Saanichton, on Saturday night, the Fidels girls winning their game by 24-4, while the home team was successful in the men's game against St. Andrew's by 27-17.

Fidels' girls played well, with Beth Campbell starring on the forward line. Isabel Crawford and Hilda Best also were in good shooting form.

St. Andrew's girls played well, with Beth Campbell starring on the forward line. Isabel Crawford and Hilda Best also were in good shooting form.

The senior men's game was a closely contested one, each team taking the lead in succession until half time Saanichton led by 14 to 13. On resuming play St. Andrew's scored four baskets in rapid succession, gaining a nice lead. Saanichton then showed speed with Bull at centre, playing a rare game, and Lannan and Turgoose scoring some great shots from out near centre. St. Andrew's tried to even things up again, but lost out by five points after a fast period.

Wards Will Meet Sons of England In Final for Cup

Northerners Earned Right to Battle For Jackson Cup by Defeating Broad St.

Wednesday League Team Suffers Defeat in Semi-Finals

By defeating Broad Street on Saturday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park by the score of three goals to two the North Wards football team earned the right to meet the Sons of England in the finals for the Jackson Cup on March 22. Saturday's match was the semi-final game of the cup series.

The Wards had three-quarters of the play, and if their forwards had been in form the score would have been doubled, as time and time again chances were missed to score goals. Half time the Wards were leading by a two to one count, and although Broad Street managed to tie up the score shortly after the beginning of the second half, they were unable to hold their opponents, who a few minutes later scored their winning goal.

From the start the Wards took the offensive and with the fine work of Harry Copas at centre half for the Wednesday League, kept the opposing forwards from breaking through. The Wards passed the golden opportunity to score when Howden missed an open goal by booting the leather to the side of the goal. Broad Street established a lead when Howden, in the second half, scored a goal, but the Wards' net custodian, was given a few wicked ones to save.

TOTTY SCORES: The Wards soon rushed the play to the other end of the field and Totty put his team up when he lodged the ball in the corner of the net with a fast drive that gave Peden, the Broad Street goalie, no chance to save.

From the kick-off Broad Street attacked, and only the sure kicking of Taylor and Bell, the Wards' full-backs, saved them when they were scored on. A few minutes later Broad Street was awarded a penalty when Taylor hit the ball with his arm in the sacred territory. Petch made no mistake and placed the ball in the goal with a low shot, evening up the score.

This seemed to put new life into the Wards and they stormed the Broad Street citadel. McInnes added another to their total when he beat Peden with a soft one, the ball slipping through the goalie's arms into the goal. The half-time whistle blew a few minutes later.

CLARKSON EVENS UP: As the result of a rush after the beginning of the second half Clarkson put the teams on even terms when he booted Patterson's centre into the goal, hitting the cross-bar and deflecting into the mainstay of the net fifteen minutes after the start of the game. The Wards aimed shot after shot at the Broad Street goal, but none of them managed to slip through the Wards' defence, and other fine chance to score when Howden miskicked on a pass directly in front of the goal mouth.

Totty scored his second goal of the game when he took a pass from McInnes and rammed the ball into the side of the net for the winning goal. Although Broad Street tried to slip through the Wards' defence, they were unable to score. The final whistle blew with the Wards leading by one goal.

WARDS HAVE DONE WELL: Great credit is due to the wards for the fine showing they have made in the Jackson Cup series. They have played a real brand of football, and centre half Peden has been a tower of strength at centre half.

For Broad Street, Harry Copas, at centre half, has been a tower of strength at centre half. Payne handled the whistle, and the teams were: Wards—Taylor and Bell; Brynjolfson, McKinnon and Wolsey; McInnes, Howden, Totty, Downs and Stroger. Broad Street—Peden; Petch and Newman; Copas, Lynn and Jaffray; Clarkson, Nez, Davidson, Richardson and Patterson.

A NEW SERIAL STORY

By MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER V A DANGEROUS PROMISE

Madelon had not been mistaken in her belief that Duane Farley would not lightly accept his dismissal at Lane's hands.

But his efforts to see Madelon were neatly foiled by that master antagonist. Even her mail was censored, and no message from her lover found its way to her.

Barbara and Ann Ordway, whom she had met and instantly liked, kept her diverted as much as possible. Lane was not fond of society, so Barbara took little part in the activities of the fashionable world in which her position and her beauty entitled her to leadership. But Ann was a cheery, companion-loving soul. She had great vogue with the younger set, as well as those nearer her own age. Sarcously an afternoon but what a group of young people descended unheralded upon her, rolled up the rugs in her charmingly appointed apartment, and danced until dinner time. She had tea and cakes and a cheery greeting for them all. Sometimes she wasn't even at home when they came, but their welcome was an accepted fact, and they went ahead with their fun just the same.

Madelon, with the spontaneity of youth, found it hard to be unhappy over Farley. She missed his devotion, but when she faced the matter squarely and truthfully, she realized that her resentment at Lane's arbitrary dismissal of his suit was greater than her actual unhappiness at having to put him out of her life.

There came a day when Farley made one last effort. He determined to see Barbara and beg her intervention. It was a vain hope, he felt, but he desired to leave no avenue untried.

Madelon admitted him distrustfully. His impassive countenance betrayed a momentary flicker of surprise when Farley handed him his card, and requested that it be given to Mrs. Lane.

Barbara did not keep him waiting long. "It is very good of you, Mrs. Lane, to grant me the privilege of an interview," he said after she had greeted him kindly. "It was rather an imposition, my asking it—"

"I promised Madelon that I would see you," she told him gravely.

He looked up eagerly. "Then she has not entirely forgotten me?"

"Hardly," Barbara smiled. He looked so unhappy, so forlorn.

"You know about everything?" he asked.

Barbara inclined her head. "You think there isn't any hope?"

"Mr. Lane rarely changes."

There was dejection in his pose. Barbara had an absurd desire to reach over and lay her white fingers on his tawny hair. He looked so boyish, so wretched.

"Perhaps, in time—"

"I am sorry," she said quietly. "She knew she was holding out a vain hope."

"Oh, time," he echoed with the impatience of youth. "I want to marry Madelon now. I don't want to wait until we're both old and grey. I can support her. True, I'm just starting out in my profession, but I've something from a legacy, and I've got a big plan that the chamber of Commerce here is considering. It'll go through, I know it will."

"I say," he looked at her, boyishly appealing, "may I tell you a little about it—and you can tell Madelon?"

"Please do," smiled Barbara.

So Circe may have invited Ulysses, down through the ages, women have unlocked man's heart with the key of his confidences.

Farley talked eagerly. Half an hour passed. Barbara was a flattering listener. He found himself divulging his hopes and fears, his plans for the future, basking in her sympathetic silence.

He did not realize yet—that she was beautiful, that her hair was a dusky halo framing the pallor of her face, that her lips were living crimson and softly curved, and through the lace of her graceful gown, gleamed white shoulders and flawlessly rounded arms. He only knew that her purple-black eyes were eloquent with sympathy and appreciation, and her silence was invitation to further confidence.

He did not even sense the light footsteps of Madelon passing the drawing-room door on her way to keep an engagement with Ann.

Ann was planning a tea for Madelon.

"Drop in this afternoon and meet some of the youngsters in advance," she invited. "We'll make plans for the big shindig next week."

A number of girls and young men were gathered in Ann's cozy living room when Madelon arrived. The rugs were rolled back in the library and hall, and a victrola blared dance music from an unseen corner. Ann called a greeting from behind the tea urn, and introduced everybody with informal carelessness.

It was nearing the end of afternoon when the maid ushered in a late-comer, who was hailed with delight by the entire company.

Through the eager circle that immediately closed around him, Madelon caught a glimpse of a good-looking bronzed young man, who towered over the dancing youths beside him.

Ann deftly extricated him from the laughing group and led him up to Madelon.

"This is Julian Barton, Madelon. Watch him, he's a heartbreaker!"

Madelon looked up into dazzling brilliant grey eyes.

Something stirred in her heart. This man was to be her fate.

CHAPTER VI THE SONG OF SONGS

"We have met before—somewhere—haven't we?"

Julian Barton's eyes, suddenly grave, questioned Madelon.

"I think not," Madelon shook her head smilingly. "Do I remind you of someone?"

"Yes," he seated himself beside her, his attention as completely focussed upon her as though, for him, the rest of the company did not exist.

She waited enquiringly for him to explain, but he only said gravely: "Curious, isn't it, what tricks one's imagination plays? I had a momentary vision of a girl I always wanted to know. I thought you were she, that is all."

"Where did you see this girl?" asked Madelon, idly curious.

"I never saw her. She doesn't exist," he answered briefly, and then, as the victrola blared forth again: "I'm sorry that I don't dance."

That's a confession that usually makes girls murmur. "Excuse me but I see Mother looking for me."

He smiled suddenly, revealing very white teeth, whiter than ever in the bronze of his face. "Are you going to do that too? I hope not."

Madelon smilingly disavowed any such intention.

"I don't dance either," she confessed.

His amazement was genuine. "Child, where have you lived?"

"In a convent mostly, in southern France."

He leaned forward interestedly, his brilliant grey eyes searching hers.

"Tell me about it!"

"Don't let Julian pump you," warned Ann, passing with a tray of sandwiches. "It's a lawyer and he has a way about him. You find yourself babbling—and live to regret it."

Canadians Exclusively Control this Treasure of Peru—

In the heart of a sun-baked desert of Peru, a little community of Canadian pioneers are engaged in the development of the petroleum resources of this richest of all lands.

To these Canadian-Peruvians, Canada owes possession of oil fields which supply her motorists with the finest lubricating oil in the world—Imperial Polarine Motor Oils, made from the famous crude petroleum of Peru.

Why has Imperial Oil Limited secured control of these Peruvian

Oil fields at a great expenditure of money and effort? Why is this oil transported to Canada from far Peru in preference to using supplies nearer at hand?

These are questions you can answer for yourself after you have your crank case cleaned and operate your car for a short time on the grade of Imperial Polarine Motor Oils specified on our Chart for your particular make and model of car or truck.

Madelon smiled up at Barton demurely. "Shall I regret talking to you?"

"I hope not," he answered gravely. "But I know that I should regret very deeply if you didn't talk to me."

She gauged him with laughing eyes. Was he, after all, the flirt that Ann had termed him?

She couldn't quite believe it. His eyes were too frank, too steady. His well-shaped forehead indicated the brain behind it. She liked his clean-cut mouth and firm chin, the easy pose of his broad shoulders, the little length of him. There was a suggestion of strength, of determination about him that told her, even on this short acquaintance that, as a friend, he would be a tower of refuge.

He made an effort to conceal his ready admiration of her. He was charmingly courteous to the other girls who claimed his attention from time to time, but he always returned to Madelon. His eyes, his manner, were indicative of a suddenly awakened interest.

As for Madelon, she felt herself borne along on a strong current. She was powerless to struggle against the interest which she had felt from the moment she first met his steady grey eyes. She was bewildered to find herself fighting under his gaze. Queer new pulses fluttered in her throat. She was strangely, unaccountably happy.

When he told her that he was going to drive her home, she accepted the statement docilely. It never occurred to her to resent his mastery. It seemed as certain as Fate.

With the sense of being carried along unresistingly by a powerful invisible force, she stepped into his car, waiting outside Ann's door. Barton took his place behind the wheel.

"If I may, I'm going to drive you around the Park for a bit. I want to talk to you."

She murmured assent.

The car threaded its way through the home-going traffic, up the Avenue, where the arc lights were pricking through the November dusk. The strip of sky between the tall buildings was mellow with the after-glow of sunset. The tang of burning leaves drifted in through the opened windows of Barton's car.

Madelon stole a glance at the man beside her. His strong, clear profile was sharply etched in the gloom. The set of his broad shoulders and his lean, brown, unglowed hand on the wheel, gave her a queer thrill.

She remembered guiltily that she had not given a thought to Duane Farley that whole afternoon.

But there was no room for regret. Faithfully as yet, but none the less inevitably, the eternal melody was singing in her heart—the song of songs for which some listen in vain.

AT THE THEATRES

"Wild Oranges" Features Virginia Valli Again

Heroine At Capitol Had Been Absent Over a Year From Screen

The Goldwyn picture, "Wild Oranges," which is now at the Capitol, is the second production in which Virginia Valli has appeared since her return to the screen after an absence of over a year.

Miss Valli had just achieved stardom when she suffered a nervous breakdown after making several big feature pictures. Although absent from the studios for more than a year, her face has continued to appear on the screen. The pictures were not all released simultaneously, but were placed before the public one by one.

King Vidor, youthful Goldwyn director, who is responsible for the remarkable success of the screen version of Joseph Hergesheimer's "Wild Oranges," decided that Virginia Valli would be the only one capable of interpreting the important role of Millie Stope.

The director used careful judgment in making his choice, because there is but one feminine character in the play.

Miss Valli was in Chicago visiting her parents at the time Vidor decided to use her in the picture. Her vacation was interrupted one morning by a telegram instructing her to go to Jacksonville, Florida, immediately. In Jacksonville she joined the King Vidor company and started work on the production. The majority of the scenes were photographed in the wild orange groves and swamp lands along the St. John's River.

The return of Virginia Valli to the screen in "Wild Oranges" brought about an interesting reunion. Two years ago she was featured as the leading lady opposite Frank Mayo in several big Universal productions. This is the first time they have appeared together since the old Universal days. Frank Mayo and Virginia Valli have been considered one of the best stellar teams in motion pictures.

Mussolini Acted Part in the "Eternal City"

Filming of Hall Caine's Story Attracted Wide Attention

In the official archives of the Italian Government there is a print of "The Eternal City," the first National picture produced by George Fitzmaurice which is playing at the Dominion Theatre this week. It is being carefully guarded there, under orders of Premier Mussolini, for it possesses unusual value to him. He aided in its production.

Should it be considered, doesn't it? But, nevertheless, it is a fact.

Determining to film the story in the locale of Sir Hall's Caine's novel, Mr. Fitzmaurice approved of the plan for the purpose of enlisting his aid in getting the proper atmosphere.

Mussolini received him graciously, and granted permission for the locations, such picturesque and historic places as the Coliseum, the Forum, the Roman Baths, the Old and New St. Peter's Basilicas, and many of the most important scene streets in Rome.

Not content with this assistance, Mussolini ordered the entire army to place itself at the command of the producer. Entire thoroughfares were roped off for his use, battalions of soldiers were delegated both to work in the picture and to guard the players from interference. And, to cap the climax, the Premier actually played a small part in the picture.

Mussolini showed keen interest in the making of "The Eternal City," and several times during the course of filming he showed up on location, watching the intricate details for hours at a stretch with as much interest as the average "movie fan."

When Fitzmaurice had completed his work he called on the Premier to thank him and, in return for his cooperation, promised to send him the first print of the picture. This was done—and now if the Prime Minister of the picture and to guard the players from interference. And, to cap the climax, the Premier actually played a small part in the picture.

Seen as "Tomboy"

At the Royal

"Painted People" Will Occupy Screen This Week

Colleen Moore became famous for her "tomboy" roles before the present-day flapper stepped into the limelight. Following the film fashions, she essayed a flapper role in "Flaming Youth," and, in theatrical parlance, "knocked them cold," for "Flaming Youth" was the sensation of the year.

She can again be seen as a tomboy in her latest offering, "Painted People," a First National picture which opened this afternoon at the Royal Theatre for an engagement of four days, Monday to Thursday, and is enjoying unusual success. The picture was directed by Clarence Badger from Richard Connell's famous story, "The Swamp Angel," which ran serially in Collier's Weekly.

It is doubtful whether a more perfect cast has ever been assembled than that which graces "Painted People." Cast as Ellie Byrne, a small town hoyden with an ambitious soul, Miss Moore has a part peculiarly fitting to her talents and she overlooks no opportunity to lure a laugh—an accomplishment at which she is so adept. Playing opposite her is Ben Lyon, the young lover of "Potaash and Perimutter," and other famous names to be found in the list are Anna Q. Nilsson, Charlotte Merriman, Bull Montana, Charles Murray, Mary Alden, June Elvidge, Mary Carr, Joseph Striker, Russell Simpson and Sam de Grasse.

Film Depicts Life on Verge Of the Law

"The Day of Faith" Is Columbia Offering

Every great motion picture director, no matter how many successes are chalked to his credit, no matter how versatile he may be, has a flair for some certain phase of the cinematic art.

Griffith and Flynn tend toward poignant romance, Rex Ingram and Marshall Neilan favor the exotic, while Maurice Tourneur and Scastrom, the great Swedish director, find their best expression in the spiritual.

Tod Browning, Goldwyn director, is noted for his moulding of underworld dramas. While his genius has found notable expressions in photoplays like "The King of Kings," "Drifting," and "Under Two Flags," it is the story touching on crime and criminals he most favors.

Browning is essentially a realist, and where may humanity be better studied than in the lives of those who haunt the fringe of the law?

The basis of drama is emotion, and emotion fills the lives of the people of the underworld. Their lives, fraught with constant danger, shrouded with mystery, make their stolen joys the more poignant, their tragedies the more gripping. Browning believes.

In "The Day of Faith," which Browning directed at the Goldwyn studios and which comes to the Columbia Theatre to-day, the locale of the story is in the underworld where the highlights of life flash brilliantly.

That Browning is right in his contention that no walk of life is so filled with drama as the underworld is testified to by the increasing popularity of his screen productions.

"The Day of Faith" the crook characterizations are enacted by Charles Conklin and Ford Sterling, once noted for their ability as comedians but now steadily gaining favor in dramatic roles.

Other well known players in the adaptation from Arthur Somers Roche's story are Tryone Power, Eleanor Boardman, Raymond Griffith, Wallace MacDonald, Ruby Lafayette, Edward Martindell, Winter Hall and Jane Mercer.

Spectacular Film Showing At Playhouse

Famous Rex Beach Production - Is Based on Alaskan Development

"Stirring melodrama with all of the spectacular features and none of the crudities of the popular style of entertainment" is the classification that the motion picture officials have given to the new big Rex Beach production of the great Alaskan railroad story, "The Iron Trail," which is the feature at the Playhouse Theatre, beginning to-day.

The new Beach production was made under the watchful eye of the famous author himself. Every location was approved by him as being faithful to the Alaskan country in which the theme of his story is laid, and the all-star cast that portrays the leading roles and the incidental characters were approved by him before any of the scenes were made.

In reproducing the spectacular railroad construction scenes Mr. Beach in close collaboration with Director R. William Neill elaborated on his original vivid descriptions, and the reported result is that the film version is twice as blood-stirring as the book.

Snow and ice, rain and thaw, and the feverish rush to the tracks of the pioneer railroad through the Alaskan wilderness before the terrific winter closed down on the workers, and the desperate opposition of enemies in human form a profusion of high spots that keep intense interest suspended from start to finish.

Those who have read the book and who are acquainted with the popular artists that play the leading roles, will anticipate the strength of this new production in visualizing Wyndham Standing as "Murray O'Neil," Thurston Hall as "Curtis Gordon," Reginald Henry as "Dan Appleton," Harlan Knight as "Tom Slater," Betty Carpenter as "Natalie," Lee Beggs as "Dr. Gray," and Eulalie Jensen as Mrs. Curtis Gordon.

The production was made under the direction of R. William Neill from the scenario of Mr. Beach's prepared by Dorothy Farnum.

Francis Compton Will Present "A Little Bit of Fluff" Soon

Francis Compton, who gained great popularity in Victoria when he and his company presented weekly shows at the Playhouse Theatre, is returning to this city on March 27, when "A Little Bit of Fluff" will be presented at the Pantages Theatre.

Mr. Compton's return to this city will be greeted with enthusiasm by many of his old admirers who tried so hard to retain him and his company in Victoria, and it is certain that a capacity house will welcome him.

The company's engagement at the Pantages will begin March 27, and continue until March 29, including a Saturday matinee on the last day. The seat sale begins at the opening of the Pantages box office, Monday, March 24, at 10 a.m.

ANOTHER COMPANY GOES TO STEWART

Barite Gold Mines Will Locate on Bear River; Head Office in Victoria

A company which will work and develop claims on the north side of the Bear River, 23 miles from Stewart, B.C., in the Portland Canal area, where one of the most flourishing mining camps in Canada is being established, has received its certificate of incorporation. The head office of this company is in Victoria, 513-14 Campbell building, and the concern itself will be known as the Barite Gold Mines, Limited, of non-personal liability, Seattle, who is president of the new company and owner of the claims until the concern's formation, states that there are three distinct ore veins on the property, all of good width and easily discernible on the surface for about 1,400 feet in the case of the first, and about 1,000 feet in that of the other two. Lateral cross veins connect the three main ore bodies. These three run parallel. The ore is fine grain calcareous, with values in gold, silver and copper. An assay made by the United States Assay Office, Seattle, gives the values to the ore of the property: gold, $100; silver, 11.51, and lead, 43.69 per cent. Total value is $293.31.

The house in Portland, United States, where Longfellow was born, had become a number of years ago, a tenement of the poorer part of the city, mostly inhabited by Irish.

A teacher was giving a lesson on the life of the poet. At the end of an hour she began to question her class.

"Where was Longfellow born?" she asked. A small boy waved his hand vigorously. When the teacher called on him, his answer did not seem to astonish the rest of the class, but it was a shock to her.

"In Patsy Magee's bedroom," he said.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

FINE SELECTIONS ON IRISH NIGHT

Band Concert at Capitol Marks St. Patrick's Festival

Among the melodies of the "Emerald Isle" are songs as perfect as any ever written, and many of these have been from time immemorial endeared to the hearts and minds of all people. It is no wonder then that a programme of Irish music attracts more than the usual interest. As an instance the "Irish Night" with the band of the 14th Canadian Scottish, in their Winter Sunday evening concert, attracted the attention last evening of a large gathering of people at the Capitol. The programme consisted entirely of Irish numbers, those given by the band under the alert and able direction of bandmaster James M. Miller were the "Songs of Ireland," in which were old and well-remembered examples of the Irish folk-art, the "Bohemian Girl" overture; the ballads, "Which Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Mother Machree" and "Molly Dear," and the paraphrase on the well-known Irish song, "Warrior of the Great," in all of which there were throughout the evening keen and sincere expressions of delight, and requests for additional numbers.

Those assisting were Iona Robertson, soprano; Mrs. Templeton, mezzo-soprano, and Handley Wells, basso. The last mentioned is already well-known in local music circles. His singing of "Off to Philadelphia," made a big hit, and he was compelled to appear again, singing with considerable expressive results Trotter's beautiful song, "Ashore."

Iona Robertson has just returned from a tour extending as far as New York, where the critics proclaimed her as one of the most artistically-equipped concert singers heard in that city for a number of years. She selected two numbers (a) "The Rose of the World Over" (Stanford), (b) "Killarney" (Balfe), in which her rich mezzo-soprano carried a charm and grace above the conventionalities of singing, combined with her usual refined artistry.

Mrs. Winston Templeton, a new vocalist to the community from Ottawa, where she occupied a prominent position in music circles made a distinct and favorite impression. She possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of much sweetness, and her diction is of a high standard. In the number, "An Irish Love Song," an Irish mother's lullaby, she gained instant success, responding to the hearty plaudits of her hearers with "To My First Love" (Herman Lohr). Mrs. Clifford Warn accompanied admirably as usual.

Green Room Notes

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mantell open this evening for a week's run at Seattle, where in addition to the repertoire played here, three additional Shakespearean plays will be presented, "King Lear," "Macbeth" and "The Merchant of Venice."

Mr. Mantell would have played Shylock here, but owing to an amateur performance of the "Merchant of Venice" co-inciding, a change was made accordingly.

A wonderful presentation of "Brutus" was given by Mr. Mantell at the Pantages Theatre in Julius Caesar" on Saturday evening. Outstanding in the performance was the work of Henry Buckler in the role of Cassius, and George Stillwell as Mark Antony. The latter's interpretation of the funeral oration over Caesar's body was of the highest merit.

Those who are looking forward to the visit of Sir John Martin Harvey, who is now in Winnipeg, will be interested to learn the selected plays on this tour. Last week he appeared in "The Breed of the Treshams," "A Cigarette Maker's Romance," "Garrick" and "The Burgomaster of Sillemunde."

This last named piece, of Maurice Meaterlack's, which is a master study of the German occupation of Belgium, was the concluding selection of Sir John's plays when last in Victoria.

Sir John has been playing for several years in "The Breed of the Treshams," and the opinion in Winnipeg is that he is giving an even more effective presentation on this occasion.

Of famous books which have been adapted for the stage, and later for the screen, few are better known than "The Eternal City." Those who have admired the stage performance will be greatly interested this week to see how the screen version justifies the stately story of high politics depicted on the legitimate stage.

The Margaret Jenkins P.T.A. will hold a dance, bridge and 500 party on Friday, March 21, in the school auditorium from 8.30 to 12 p.m. Heaton's orchestra will play the latest dance music. Prizes will be given for cards and refreshments will be served. A. E. Denny M.C. for dancing, Mrs. W. White will have charge of the coat-room.

PRINCE ERIC AND BRIDE ABOARD SHIP.—Prince Eric of Denmark and his bride, formerly Miss Lois Booth, granddaughter of J. R. Booth, millionaire lumber king of Ottawa, are shown above aboard the Berengaria which carried them from New York to Southampton. As a result of the dockers' strike, their baggage was held up at the port. Accordingly, when invited to a royal reception at Buckingham Palace they lacked the suitable clothes in which to appear. The difficulty was solved by Prince Eric motor-ing down to Southampton and acting as his own "luggage ruster."

GENERAL VIEW OF WRECKED NITRATION PLANT.—Almost two-score persons were killed and about a hundred injured when a ter-rific explosion wrecked the plant of the Nixon Nitration Works at Nixon, four miles from New Brunswick, N.J. The concussion rocked houses within a radius of many miles and was heard as far away as lower New York City and Brooklyn. Photo shows general view of the wreckage, taken by an Nea staff photographer before the dust had settled. The explosion is believed to have started in the boiler room of the plant. All that remains of the boiler room is shown in foreground of picture.

ANOTHER SCANDAL.—Left, Leonard Wood, jr., who claims that oil interests tried to bribe his father, Major-General Leonard Wood, right, to make Jacob Hammond Secretary of the Interior as a condition to the Republican nomination for the presidency.

QUITS MARCHING, BUT COXEY, AT SEVENTY, FIGHTS ON.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey isn't leading any more "hobo armies." But to-day, at seventy, he is even more belligerent in his fight—against the "prevailing money system" that he was in 1894, when he besieged the capital. He is drafting a bill for the abolition of interest charge on money. In-terest, he says, hurts business and keeps wages low. In Mas-sillon, Ohio, Coxey is considered a successful business man. He is president of a sand company that was established in 1881—also its traveling salesman. Last year he covered 43,000 miles in his flivver.

AMBULANCES CARED FOR INJURED.—Ambulances from Nixon and New Brunswick, N.J., were rushed to the wrecked plant of the Nixon Nitration Plant following the heavy explosion which took a toll of many lives. Photo shows one of them about to leave with the last of the injured. Most of the 150 men and women employed in the plant were lined up for the Saturday pay when the explosion occurred.

MAY BE CARDINAL.—Arch-bishop Mundelein, of Chicago, who, with Archbishop Hayes, of New York, has been nominated as cardinal. The consistory will be held March 24.

PROPOSES SALARY CUTS.—Harry Leader, Progressive M.P. for Portage, Ia. Prairie, who in-tends to move that the salaries of Ministers, Senators and M.P.'s be reduced 12 1/2 per cent. as an economy measure.

REAL PRINCE.—Prince Wolf-ang Maurice von Hesse, son of Princess Margaret of Prussia, sister of the former Kaiser, reached New York the other day. He came over "incog" as Wolf-gang Wildof, "a Hapsburg busi-ness man."

AFTER CADET HAZERS.—Major-Gen. J. H. Maclehn, Chief of General Staff who is directing from Ottawa the Royal Military College probe following charges by Cadet Florent Arnold.

RESCUE PARTIES WERE FORMED QUICKLY.—Aid came quickly to the many injured in the explosion of the Nixon Nitration Works plant at Nixon, N.J. Photo shows one of the rescue parties caring for injured. It also shows close-up of the tangled mass of wreckage. It was believed the num-ber of dead would reach two-score.

"Advertising Is to Business as Steam is to Machinery"

7 REASONS WHY WE SHOULD BUY AT HOME

1. Because it is practical loyalty to our City.
2. Because every dollar sent out of the City is an irreparable loss.
3. Because our merchants pay heavy rents, most of the taxes that keep up the City payroll, and employ our sons and daughters.
4. Because if everyone bought goods out of town, we would not have any retail stores.
5. Because if our incomes are earned in Victoria they should be spent here.
6. Because local merchants have bought their stocks for our needs and climatic conditions, and depend upon our trade for support.
7. Because if we buy from our merchants, they in turn can buy from our local manufacturers and farmers. Every dollar spent here helps Victoria. Money spent elsewhere helps some other city.

Famous Lawsuits About
Flathead Oil Leases Are Recalled
Facts Brought Out in Trials
Read Like a Romance

Once more John Watt, pioneer prospector, is in the city to soften the heart of the B.C. Government with regard to the Kootenay oil leases which occasioned so much litigation, parliamentary action, and departmental negotiation in the period between 1900 and 1908.

These leases were for coal and petroleum rights on Sage and Akinana creeks, tributaries of the Bulkley River, those to the international boundary. Their story, which goes back to staking in 1900, was told to the Times by Mr. Watt, who is staying at the Dominion Hotel, and who wants Premier Oliver to interest himself again in securing some recognition for the discoverer.

In the Summer of 1900, Mr. Watt staked fifteen claims on properties which appeared to him to be oil bearing. On tendering the necessary fees he was informed on the part of the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, that these lands were reserved from sale. These leases were filed upon in 1903 by the Canadian Pacific Railway claiming them as alien lands in place of tracts that were alienated from the subsidy lands that had previously been conveyed by statute to the company in return for the construction of the Columbia and Western Railway. After the railway company's claims had been extinguished by special act of the Legislature, the Chief Commissioner gazetted an announcement that the lands would be open on June 15, 1904, for licenses and for coal and petroleum. Watt, armed with the licenses and the necessary order-in-council, took a surveyor to the area, and they went to work just ahead of their competitors, whom they alleged to be the same persons who were associated with claim-jumping between 1900 and 1904.

WAS IT ARSON?

The survey was going on merrily under a Victoria land surveyor when a fire took place during the absence of the men from camp. Watt asserts he was the last in camp, that he had a fire guard constructed, and all fires were out. At any rate, the fire, whether accidental or otherwise, proved a success from the standpoint of their opponents, as it burned out the whole camp in a short time, together with the records, and then spreading to the oil impregnated surroundings proved an excellent method of destroying the boundary posts of the locators.

However, undaunted, the survey party went back to town and re-located, and then completed its work. Unfortunately no provision was made by the Department here, to limit the number of records that could be filed on the properties, so that a registered map exists with three or four sets of records for which the legal fees were paid.

Watt and his associates failed to secure title, and were challenged by other recorders, particularly in regard to block 4593, as a consequence of which the case reached the County Court in Kootenay. Mr. Watt applied for a declaration that as a holder of a special license under the Coal Mines Amendment Act of 1907, he was entitled to obtain the priority lease of the claims covered by the licenses. claimants, and after a lengthy argument the County Judge found against Watt, alleging that he could not have staked the land so accurately as it had been determined by the check survey of professional surveyors later. The case was heard twice before the Full Court on Appeal early in 1908, and the decision of the lower court confirmed. On appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, their lordships referred the matter back to the Government for adjustment. RECEIVES A CHEQUE

After months of uncertainty and waiting, Watt received a cheque of the value of $30,000 from the McBride Government in "full" settlement, from which he paid his associates and lawyers, and then had very little left.

Disgusted with the situation, after eight years of effort, Mr. Watt went to Portland to live, with practically nothing for his effort.

He has been stirred, to action by the advertisements in the Mainland papers, that brokers are now selling the very land on which he first placed his stakes, and are backing up the claims by a quotation from production of well 2,500 feet down by another company right on his original claim on Sage creek.

MANY INTERESTED IN PASS SYSTEM

Careful Scrutiny is Made of Potential Passengers on Interurban Line

With a view to advertising and explaining the idea of the weekly pass to the residents of the Saanich Peninsula, two members of the B.C. Electric organization have been making a canvass of the district, most likely to find the pass a convenience. "Taking it all through we have met with a most favorable reception everywhere," said one of the canvassers. "Our experience has ranged all the way from being chased off the premises by dogs of uncertain temper and still more uncertain ancestry, to being invited to stay while and partake of refreshment. We've been taken for hoboes, peddlers, evangelists, real estate agents and tourists. At some places the door was ceremoniously closed in our faces before we had a chance to say anything. At others we were obliged to explain our mission through a door held ajar by some suspicious housewife who usually finished by fully opening the door as soon as she was satisfied we were not trying to sell anything or collecting subscriptions."

Said the keeper of a typical general store along the Peninsula, "Personally, I believe the pass system is going to be a good thing for all of us. It's going to help build up the district by encouraging people to come and live on here and be the means of making those who are already here contented to stay. It may take a little time for people to realize what an advantage it is to possess such a pass, but they'll realize it quickly enough after it has been in operation for a month or so."

"Why can't I bring in the whole family at once?" was another question requiring explanation in several instances.

"Don't you expect to find the pass system will be abused?"

"Suppose my wife and I both want to use the pass at the same time? Better have one each," was the reply to this poser.

"It has been a most interesting experience; every day bringing some new indication as to the way the pass system is going to prove a popular innovation and will be used in increasing numbers as time goes on—especially during the Summer season when people go about more and the Summer homes and camps begin to fill up."

As already announced in these columns, the pass system on the interurban goes into effect on March 21. Passes will, however, be on sale to the public several days before that date. An announcement as to the rates will be made this week.

ISLAND HOTELS WOULD WELCOME CITY VISITORS

Good Time of Year For Vacations, Proprietors State
Trip Now Would Prevent Congestion in Summer

Pointing out that the present is the most desirable time of the whole year for a visit to Up-island points, hotel proprietors situated at the popular resorts on Vancouver Island at the same time stress the fact that fishing is good, and the very best of accommodation can be offered.

In a few months tourists will be flocking to the island, and the hotels will find their accommodation taken. Both from the point of view of Victoria vacationists, tourists and hotel men, a more general spread of business is desirable. Some Victorians are recognizing this, and as a result are taking advantage of the good fishing now available.

At Cowichan Lake last week one angler made a catch of twenty-eight in one day. At Alberni, Great Central we took the fish, it is asserted is better now than at any time of the year, and the advice is offered to enjoy the sport ahead of the tourist rush.

It is also pointed out that there are good hotels situated at all the points mentioned.

FIFTH REGIMENT RECEIVES PRIZES

Honors Won in Dominion Competition Presented

Four trophies won last year by the Fifth Regiment, C.G.A., were presented Saturday by Brigadier-General J. M. Ross to Lieut.-Col. F. Robertson, D.S.O., O.C., who received them on behalf of the regiment.

The trophies won last year were the Lansdowne Cup, and the Hugh Blair Cup. The Gwatkin Cup is the first prize for general proficiency and was captured by No. 2 Battery, of the Fifth Regiment, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel J. C. Harris. This cup was presented for competition to the Canadian Artillery Association in 1914 by Major-General Sir Willoughby Gwatkin, K.C.M.G., C.B., and was won by the Fifth Regiment in 1914 and 1923.

The Macdonald Trophy is first prize for gun-laying and signalling, and was also won by No. 2 Battery. This trophy was presented in 1921 by the late Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Macdonald, K.C., of Guelph, Ont. This new trophy was won by the Fifth Regiment last year for the first time.

The Lansdowne Cup is second prize for general efficiency, and was won by No. 1 Battery, commanded by Major M. Kirkpatrick Crockett. This cup was presented in 1894 by the Marquis of Lansdowne when Governor-General of Canada. It has been captured by the Fifth Regiment in 1898, 1899, 1909, 1913, 1922 and 1923.

No. 1 Battery also won the Hugh Blair Cup, the second prize for gun practice. This trophy was presented by the late Lieut.-Col. E. H. Edinburgh, Scotland, and has been won by the Fifth Regiment in 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913 and 1923.

Would Tell Pupils Fleet's Value to Imperial Cause

When the deputation from the cities of Victoria and Vancouver waited on Premier Oliver on Saturday to ask for a grant to help to finance the welcome to the British Special Service Squadron in the two cities, they asked the Premier to inaugurate through the Department of Education some instruction on the special significance of the visit from an Imperial standpoint.

The formal letter said: "We are convinced that your Government will give all possible assistance to the Imperial committees and make it possible for us to extend a welcome of such a character that it shall be broadcast throughout the whole Empire, and acknowledged by the personnel of this fleet to be second to no other within the scope of this cruise."

"Our committees are giving very careful consideration to the question of getting this unprecedented naval event in the history of our Province so brought before the minds of our school children that they will take a keen and an intelligent interest in the visit of this the most powerful British fleet ever seen in Canadian waters representing the glorious British navy, but for which Canada's men and Canada's grain could not have been transported during the recent world struggle."

"In this matter we seek the assistance of your Government."

ance of your Department of Education requesting that some special instruction may be given upon this fleet's mission.

"We realize that our children will be the guardians of British Columbia and of Canada in but a few years from now, and therefore we hope to give as many as possible the privilege of visiting these ships (not only the children of our two cities, but those from our rural districts and other towns as well). This will involve the expenditure of several thousand dollars, yet such money, we feel, will be well spent. This effort we are confident is worthy of your Government's most generous assistance, and we feel that you will agree."
