FROM CHILI.

Letters and papers have arrived at the department of state, from Mr. Hamm, our charge d'effaires to tials on the 24th May. In consequence of which, the vice-president, Fernando Erauzuriz, acting as president, in his address on the opening of congress on the first of June, savs:

The new envoy from the United States has given us flattering testimonials of that powerful and idustrious republic." To afford an idea of the present state of that country, a decree is published, calling a convention to frame a constitution of government. The following is the preamble to this decree:

"The national congress of Chili, conceiving that the present dreadful crisis, in which the nation ap-pears to be on the eve of all the horrors of civil war, and anarchy, bitherto averted only by the special interposition of Providence, has been brought about by the imperfections of the political constitution of 1828, which experience has shown to be eial interposition of Providence, has been her incompatible with the public safety and tranqu lity, and for the revision of which a great majority of the Chilian people have manifested their wishes-after the most accurate examination and mature delibera-~ing decree,'
