ELECTION MESSAGE TO WOMEN VOTERS
One Made Public by Mr. Meighen

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 25.—Premier Meighen has handed out the following message to the women of Canada: "The call is out now to the men of Canada to stand by their country. But the call is still more to the women of this Dominion. Because of her numerical strength, the voice of woman predominates. On the consciences of our women now rests the chief responsibility for determining what is to be done with Canada."

"I ask the women of Canada as well to take a look into the future. We cannot have prosperity, we cannot get on and get up in the world except on a strong and stable Government. You cannot maintain responsible government at all unless parties appeal as parties upon defined and understood principles."

"The women of our country rose to their rights by patience, their exertions, their sacrifice in war. They will find the full measure of citizenship, the most treasured, the most solemn privilege of citizenship, when they exercise their franchise. Just a few days from now, the women of the Dominion will show by their first great assertion of suffrage that they require, first of all, and most of all, consistency in public men, fidelity to pledges, frankness from political leaders, honor from political parties. They will show, too, that they prize as men—those who through many a test have prized the commercial integrity of our country, a policy of courage and of spirit, policy that breathes always fidelity to Canada and all that Canada means, in the great principle that is opening up of a more secure and happier world."

BOY SCOUT LEADERS MEET IN SEATTLE
British Columbia and Washington Cities Represented

Seattle, Nov. 25.—One hundred and eighty-six boy scout, patrol leaders from twelve cities in Washington and British Columbia are in Seattle for the second Pacific Northwest Patrol Leaders' Convention. Forty-two more from Victoria and Vancouver, B. C., will arrive this morning. With the Seattle patrol leaders more than 300 boys are attending the convention sessions. They represent more than 3,000 boy scouts.

There were 30,000 boy scouts in Canada last year and there are 35,000 now. The number of scouts in British Columbia has doubled in the same time. Twenty new patrols have been started within the last three months. As Sir Baden Powell said at the scouts' jamboree in England last year, they have served well in war, but now must carry the message of universal co-operation and peace. These conventions are fine, for they bring Canadian and American boys into closer relationship and promote the friendship on which to base world peace.

IN BUSINESS
The General Manager of a large industry in an important Ontario town writes: "It may be needless to say that in a great measure the studies have transformed my daily course of life. In fact, I cannot but feel the advantages on the five sides of my life, physically, mentally, morally, socially and spiritually."

IN THE HOME
A mother on finishing her course writes: "When I first decided upon subscribing for the Pelman Course my husband said I would never finish it, believing that my household and social duties would prevent. I soon found that determination to regulate the household affairs more efficiently gave me time for study and as I advanced I became entranced with the course. It has been a constant delight. Much of my timidity has disappeared, and recently I prepared and read a paper before the Missionary Society, something that in former years would never have been attempted."

WHAT A UNIVERSITY GRADUATE FOUND
An honor graduate from one of our Universities, now filling a responsible position with a large corporation, writes: "The great benefit I have received from the course is the revelation of the workings and power of the human mind. If I had only known how my mind worked during my college life, I know I should have attained success sooner. "Pelmanism has effected a complete revolution in my manner of thinking and my outlook on life. It has supplied me with the necessary instruction for using my brain to the best of its ability and has enabled me to discipline my mind in the way which should have been done long ago. It has been a delayed start, but already most gratifying results are beginning to appear."

A CLERGYMAN'S CONVICTION
"The course has been a great source of mental development. Books that used to be as dry as dust have become to me real living realities, and my pulpit work has a new delight. Anyone who will thoroughly digest its teachings on Interest, Aim, Energy, Will-power, Concentration, Personal Magnetism, Analysis and Self-expression will receive a great inspiration. I would not have missed this course for many times its cost."

A TEACHER'S TRIBUTE
"It would be one of the greatest blessings of the age if the scholars of to-day were trained according to Pelman methods. They would get a great deal more benefit from their studies and would appreciate their education more. It would create a greater desire for learning, and hence they would grow into a generation of brilliant thinkers and men of action."

MINISTER IS HEARD ON TARIFF

Large Audience Listen to Arguments of Hon. S. F. Tolmie

W. G. Gaunce and W. C. Moresby Speak For Candidate

Hon. S. F. Tolmie addressed a large gathering at the Royal Victoria Theatre last evening. He defended the tariff, summed up the record of the Meighen Government, and said that after "sizing up" the three political leaders in Canada to-day "it would not take me a minute to select the man I would choose to carry out a big stroke of business. I feel that in Mr. Meighen we have one of Canada's greatest products, a capable, conscientious and progressive executive who tries to represent every interest."

With regard to the situation which brought about the loss of the Arizona contract to Esquimalt, he stated that charges for the use of the Esquimalt drydock have been reduced for the next six months to their old level by the Department of Public Works.

"Canada's tariff compares favorably with that of other countries; it is but 22 per cent. in the average—the lowest Canadian tariff since 1878, and the lowest of any considerable country in the world," said Dr. Tolmie. "The United States tariff averages about 30 per cent., and the United States is raising its tariff in several places. They are raising the tariff on us in spite of the fact that Canada is the second largest buyer of goods from the United States, and it is only reasonable to expect that the tariff will be raised from time to time against us on various lines. It is a remarkable thing that while the American farmer is crying for protection, the Canadian farmer is wanting a lower tariff."

Branch Factories.
"Now there are many U. S. branch factories in Canada, taking advantage of the situation. Now if we lower the tariff those factories will be closed and thousands of good Canadian workers will be thrown out of their employment. The exchange which "We are trying to lower would be raised very considerably. 'What has happened to those industries from which the tariff is being removed? Take binder twine for instance—a necessity for this country. Out of twenty-five binder twine factories, twelve are in liquidation, seven are closed definitely, three had accidental fires, and of the three still remaining two have side lines such as the making of rope on which they continue to operate. The remaining one had a very difficult time, and is only now passing out of that phase. The price of binder twine rose from seven to twenty-one cents, and the imported twine has risen from fifty to eighty per cent. In other words our binder twine industry is at the mercy of the United States harvester trust."

Fruit.
"Now let us look at another point, where the tariff has been of assistance to the farmer. In connection with the fruit industry, the Canadian farmer could not compete with the dumping of apples of poor quality at reduced prices in the Prairies, and the apple growers of the States of Washington and Oregon."

Since the duty of thirty cents per box was put on imported apples, the Okanagan fruit industry has grown and this year one railroad alone will ship 8,000 carloads of fruit at a value of over $6,000,000. Hops are another instance of the same thing, and our hog industry is rapidly becoming important. How do our opponents propose to meet the tariff question?"

"They say they will place a tax on land; now we have $180,000,000 to make up, or about $180 an acre for every cultivable acre in Canada. I can just see how our farmers would get up on their hind legs over that. I claim unless they can propose a reasonable substitute they should not propose to raise the tariff."

In this connection the Minister said: "I hope that no one will misunderstand my position and think that I am a high protectionist. Most emphatically I want to tell you that I am not a believer in high protection, but I believe the Government is justified in taking the action necessary to preserve Canada for the Canadians."

Railway Matters.

"We have been criticized for taking over the C. N. R. system," he said, "but what else could we do? People get tired along the system, expecting fair treatment, and they should get it, and I feel that it won't be long until many of the nationally-owned lines, now operating at a loss will be paying their way."

"This year the Canadian Pacific Railway system handled only 7.34 per cent. more freight than the C. N. R., and without any reflection on the Canadian Pacific Railway I say that the Canadian National Railway system is taking good care of the increased freights."

In the period from September 1 to October 20, 1920, the C. N. R. handled 20,000,350 bushels of wheat; in the same period this year, 42,000,000 bushels. In the same period of 1921, 16,692 cars were used; this year, 33,738 cars. Thirty-seven per cent. of the freight was carried by the C. N. R. in 1920 as compared to 42.4 per cent. by the C. P. R. The C. N. R. percentage advanced to 45.8 per cent. in 1921, as compared with 53.6 per cent. for the C. P. R. The Great Northern branches handling the balance.

The speaker at this point dealt with road improvements through Canada, stating that $1,250,000 had been spent by the Federal Government as their share of road work in British Columbia this year.

"As a result of its appropriations, 140 road projects are now under way in Canada, and 18,000 miles of road are being constructed. The cost of this work will be $81,000,000. The Dominion is meeting this expenditure up to 40 per cent., the Provinces providing the remainder."

"Another point that we realize is that we must get our freight rates down to a reasonable figure as soon as possible," continued the speaker.

Immigration.
"Then there is a necessity for wise immigration. I was born on a farm near Victoria and there was only one Chinaman in the neighborhood. I have watched the Oriental spread throughout the whole of Canada, and I realize that this is a great danger. I think this Government should take such measures as would protect the country from this source."

At this juncture the speaker rehearsed the work of the Meighen Government in fostering immigration and agricultural education, stating that it had expended four and a half times as much in one year as the Liberal predecessor did in its best year, and praised in this connection the work of the experimental farms, stating that they were productive of much good. The speaker referred to the co-operation between the farmer and packer to produce a better grade of article for sale in Great Britain, to meet European competition, stating that $25,000,000 was the value of Canadian dairy products, while Canada led in the production of cheese. The Minister referred in brief to the unemployment situation, saying that the Government had always been sympathetic to the lot of the unemployed and fostered all means of winter work possible, as well as bearing a fair measure of the burden of their relief.

for the next six months, and, said Dr. Tolmie, it was hoped to bring other contracts here. The present Government had spent $6,613,341 in marine works in Victoria, or more than four times that of the Liberal Government in a corresponding period. "With regard to the Choborg shipyards," resumed the speaker, "I am very sorry indeed that this matter has not had a better result. It required a great deal of hard work to secure that $700,000 for the venture. Up to the present, the ship had been completed and has now been loaded, while the completion of the construction of another has been decided upon definitely. There is a good deal to clean up yet about that situation. I understand there are 800 shareholders in Victoria, and I can assure you that if I am returned I will make every possible effort to have that situation righted. I will do that whether I am returned or not, as it was in my constituency that the work was undertaken."

The Minister said that the Government realized that the only way to effect economy was not to cut down expenditures, but to reorganize the importance, however, of cutting out wastage and eliminating heavy expenditures on non-productive departments.

He pointed out that the Canadian per capita tax towards the maintenance of army and navy and air force was only $1.55, as compared with $6.50 for Australia, $5.85 for South Africa, $3.86 for New Zealand, $2 for Great Britain, and $1.13 for the United States.

"It is a great pleasure for me to return to my native city and receive such hearty support," stated Dr. Tolmie. "This city has been of very great assistance to me—your business men, your council and your Mayor in particular have all rendered me able support while I was at Ottawa, keeping me advised of the situation locally."

"In Canada we have a wonderful country, great in extent and boundless in natural resources. All it needs is sane government to become the most successful country in the world."

"Our resources are vast and diversified; but the country must be governed with due regard to each and every one of these resources. There must be no class government—whether farmer or lawyer—class government can not run this country properly. If we are going to obtain the very best results all industries must be considered. A disaster to one industry in the country would affect all others. We will have to develop all these resources together to make Canada a good home for the manufacturer and other industries—and if we succeed the agriculturist will benefit along with everybody else."

W. G. Gaunce opened the meeting with a characteristic speech. "The hope for the future lies in

To the Electors of Victoria:

Speaking in the House of Commons on Thursday, May the 14, 1914 at the time when $45,000,000.00 was being voted for the Mackenzie and Mann Railways.

R. B. BENNETT, then member for Calgary East.
Now
Minister of Justice in Meighen's Cabinet.

On being interrupted by the Hon. Arthur Meighen who was in charge of the Bill said:

"If the GRAMOPHONE (Meighen) of Mackenzie and Mann thinks I consider that as other than an insulting remark he is mistaken."

Again Mr. Meighen interrupted, and Mr. Bennett said to him:

"I will not be diverted from my argument by the impertinent interruptions of this young man. . . I do not propose that the thread of my argument, as is obviously his intention, shall be broken merely by the honorable gentleman's standing in his place and repeating the RECORD HE (Meighen) HAS RECEIVED FROM THE GRAMOPHONE."

The Hon. S. F. Tolmie should tell the people of Victoria:

- Was the Hon. Mr. Bennett telling the truth?
- Is Mr. Meighen still the gramophone of Mackenzie and Mann?
- If Bennett was telling the truth then, how can Tolmie support Meighen now?
- Why did Dr. Tolmie refuse to let the Liberal Opposition obtain facts about the contracts and management of the Canadian National Railway?
- Why, when the money for the completion of the C. N. R. terminals is actually in the bank, did he refuse to allow this work to go forward?
- Why is the C. N. R. on the island not being completed, when the people of British Columbia have paid the money for it, and the Dominion Government has assumed the obligation to build the line?
- Why are the Outer Docks allowed to lie idle after the expenditure of millions on them by the Canadian people?

"More Men Than Women Have Nervous Troubles"

This is the statement of a specialist on Nervous Diseases who comes in contact with many thousands of cases. The increase in diseases of the nerves during the last five years has been enormous.

Overwork
Sleeplessness
Rheumatism

Is it any wonder that men's nerves are giving out? Look back over the history of the last few years. Think of the enormous burden of responsibility which has been put upon the shoulders of business executives. The excessive mental strain. The worry and anxiety. The physical effort. This has surely been great enough to break the nervous systems of the strongest men. The war strain. The unsettled conditions of business and employment. These are responsible for the rapid aging of men which you notice everywhere. You feel out of sorts. You do not sleep well. You find yourself losing your grip on business. Your daily task is more than you can stand. There is, perhaps, no organic disease. But you find your energy and ambition petering out. Your doctor tells you to take a rest for a few months. But you do not want to be put up on the shelf. Your business cannot spare you at this critical time.

Perhaps you cannot afford complete rest when living expenses are so high. But you can take things easier. And you can profit by the experience of others and build up your exhausted nervous system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This is the most rational treatment available, and is endorsed by more common-sense, reliable people than any medicine recommended for the restoration of the nervous system. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is universally used by women as a means of restoring the nervous system. Your wife, or sister, or mother, will be able to tell you something about its remarkable upbuilding influence. But more men than women now have nervous troubles. And Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is no respecter of persons. It builds up new energy and strength in the most natural way imaginable by enriching the blood. It supplies to the blood in condensed, easily assimilated form the elements which nature requires in order to replenish the depleted nerve cells and restore the vitality of the human system. These certified letters may be from people you know. They are worth reading, anyway. For they are the honest opinion of people who have been benefited by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX.

Were the Government of this Province in control of some secret agency whose manipulation would result in collecting taxes from sources unknown the general public would not waste sympathy upon the Premier and his Cabinet in their financial dilemma.

STARVING BRITAIN.

As Russia's condition continues to inject its disquieting influence into every effort to restore the economic equilibrium of Europe various students of international problems and their relation to the New World have emphasized the necessity of all nations to go to the help of Russia as nations.

Before the war Russia was our great source of food supply. Nearly half the food Europe needed to import came from Russia. In an average year Russia used to export 400,000,000 bushels of grain.

Consideration of the points raised by Sir George Paish takes the Russian question out of the realm which revolves about the combatant forces of Bolshevism and so-called Capitalism and places it upon a practical plane with a tangible import.

truism that the industrial and economic fabric of the world, and particularly of Europe, will be unstable as long as these two countries represent such an ugly breach.

WILL IT FAIL?

If it were not for the fact that Ireland has enjoyed a fairly long period of comparative peace it would be reasonable to assume that the negotiations in their present stage are no nearer to a solution than they were on the first day of the conference.

CENSORING FILMS.

Censoring moving pictures in this or any other Province is not an easy task and this particular Department of the public service will always come in for a certain amount of intelligent and more or less flippant criticism.

WHOLE THING TRIVIAL.

While the official and authentic reports which indicate the serious condition of affairs in India it is just as well to bear in mind that recent events in Bombay are nothing like as bad as the early information would have us believe.

AFGHAN FRIENDSHIP.

If the Amir of Afghanistan has gained in experience since he came to the Throne nearly three years ago the treaty of friendship into which Great Britain and his country entered last week should mark the commencement of a new era of development in which the tribesmen should considerably benefit.

The pact itself is a recognition on the part of the British Government of the complete independence of the Amir's Kingdom which no doubt does away with the annual emolument which it was customary to pay to the Afghan ruler as a recompense for his good behavior.

MR. PATTULLO'S HOPES.

From among the depressing vapors distributed by the Ancient Order of Blue Ruiners it is consoling to lift the optimistic prophecies of the Hon. T. D. Pattullo. If the visit of the Minister of Lands did nothing else to his vision it succeeded in convincing him that we in British Columbia have a good deal for which to be thankful.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Some of the London reviews this week have lost their enthusiasm over the prospects of the Washington gathering because of the attitude of France and Japan. It is to be hoped that the chorus of faint-heartedness will not be swelled or the reactionaries the world-over will begin to get in their work.

From the "agony column" of a recent issue of The London Daily Telegraph the following is culled: "The Board of Inland Revenue acknowledge receipt of £40 income tax from F. W. C. Similar amounts of "conscience money" forwarded to the Hon. John Hart would earn the more personal touch and get a letter of thanks in warm terms.

Large advertisements in the newspapers and multi-colored lithographs on the hoardings, none the less the size of the far-flung area which represents the Cariboo constituency, have moved The Kamloops Telegram to remark upon the influence of the bank roll in an election. It points out that although the Peace River Block is accessible only by a detour through Alberta and a long wagon drive the departure of the Meighen organizer for a second excursion during the last few weeks shows that there is no need to forget the "back block" while the "fat campaign bank roll has something to do with winning elections."

POLITICS. Consider the Ford. Why Profits Grow Like Mushrooms. One Thing Is Certain. Canada's Chief Stand Patter. And Still Sir Harry Smiles.

Consider the Ford. It has a lot to do with the present election as Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General of Ontario, pointed out in a recent speech. The price of Fords here, he observed, is the American price plus the duty of thirty-five per cent. In other words, notes The Toronto Star, as it proceeds to analyze Mr. Raney's address, these cars, according to their kind, cost the Canadian buyer from $150 to $250 more than the same cars cost American buyers.

The Canadian Ford Company was started in 1905 with a capital of $125,000. Mr. Raney shows that the dividends it has paid and the present value of its stock amount to $30,000,000. In ten years its profits amounted to $8,000,000. Where does the money come from? The price of a Ford Sedan bought at Detroit and brought into Ontario, with duty paid, is $1,014.40 plus freight from Detroit. The price of a Canadian Ford sedan is $1,014.50 plus freight from Ford City. The tariff talks here quite openly and tells you just what its effect is. Its effect is to enable the Ford people to charge $263 more for a car made and sold in Ontario than for the same car made and sold in Michigan.

In a world of jarring uncertainties one absolute certainty stands out clear-cut and unmistakable—the great majority of Canadian electors do not intend to vote for the Meighen Government. Nor are the reasons for this decision obscure, The Manitoba Free Press continues. Most electors have a very clear understanding of the considerations which have led them to the decision not to vote for Mr. Meighen. They might be summed up in the general statement that they have no confidence in the ability of the Government to administer the affairs of Canada successfully in the trying days that are ahead.

Canada's next Minister of Militia in the new government to be formed after the general election will be a returned soldier who shared in the fighting in France, the Ottawa correspondent of The Toronto Globe understands. It is learned unofficially that both Hon. Mackenzie King, the Liberal Leader, and Hon. T. A. Crerar, the Progressive Leader, have indicated their desire to recognize the nation's soldiers by placing a service man at the head of the Militia department.

Among the Liberal soldier candidates who already are being mentioned in connection with the position are Major Harry Hamilton of West Algonia, Major J. E. L. Streight of West York, and Brig-General Victor O. Odlum of Vancouver, all of whom have distinguished service records.

Sir Harry Drayton's recent adventures in Blunderland, as a Toronto Star writer calls his nomination troubles, turned the spotlight away from the Premier for a day or two and concentrated its full glare upon the Finance Minister. And he is much easier to look upon than Mr. Meighen, one would gather.

Sir Henry has scores of virtues, the greatest of which is the cheerfulness which distinguished Mark Tapley. Whatever happens, his hat maintains its saucy slant; his cane swings merrily, and his inward urge to literary expression never dies. Statesmen in difficulties find solace in reflecting that there have been others. The greater than man the greater the difficulty. Misery loves company. If a man is known by the company he keeps, Sir Henry would prefer to be known just now as one who is with Gladstone, Balfour and Asquith. Also Sir Robert Borden; for did not he, as Conservative leader, in 1904, lose Halifax, and find Carleton a county of refuge? The unkindwill point out that Sir Henry is in a class by himself—the only minister wandered around looking for a nomination, and for weeks found none.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY. Victoria Daily Times, November 26, 1896. The City Council is about to commence a complete investigation into delay in the commencement of work on the new Point Ellice Bridge. Transcontinental railway services are now back to normal after being disrupted by recent floods. Hon. J. L. Tarte, Federal Minister of Public Works, conferred with the Provincial Government to-day on many Provincial matters, among them, the removal of the Indians from the Songhees Reserve. Mr. Tarte promised to lay the Provincial Government's views before his colleagues at Ottawa. Hon. Colquhoun Baker, Provincial Secretary, returned to the coast to-day from Ottawa.

THE STORY OF CAROL KENNICOTT By SINCLAIR LEWIS

Carol had unconsciously slipped from her attitude of departure into an attitude of listening, her face full toward him, her muffs lowered. She fumbled: "Yes, I suppose so." Her own grudge came in a flood. "I don't see why you shouldn't criticize the Jolly Seventeen if you want to. They aren't sacred."

is stupid. What makes you think so? "Oh, trust us borers into the foundation to know about your leisure class. Fact, Mrs. Kennicott, I'll say that far as I can make out the only people in this man's town that do have any brains—I don't mean ledger-keeping brains or duck-hunting brains or baby-splanking brains but real imaginative brains—are you and me and Guy Pollock and the foreman at the flour-mill. He's a socialist," the foreman (Don) said. "I guess that Lynn would fire a socialist quicker than he would a horse-thief!"

To the Electors of Victoria: Do You Realize

That in 1896 unemployment was worse in Canada even than to-day. That under progressive development policy of Liberal administration from 1896 to 1911, Canada enjoyed the greatest prosperity in history. That immediately the Tory administration took charge, the decline set in. That in the past ten years over 1,500,000 people left Canada, because they could not find satisfactory or any work.

Do You Know

That the indebtedness on railways of Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific is approximately $1,000,000,000. That the railway deficit is about $128,000,000 per year. That Canada's deficit is over $200,000,000 per year. That the cost of government in Canada (Dominion, Provincial and Municipal) is about $1,000,000,000 per year. That in addition we must in the next three years refund indebtedness to the extent.

THESE ARE THE FACTS

With a decreasing population, a yearly deficit, and large debts to pay.

A Life Insurance Primer. III. "Options"

It sometimes happens that after carrying a life insurance policy twenty years, a man finds that he no longer needs the insurance protection. If he has a Traveler's Guaranteed Low-cost Life Policy, he has several attractive options he can exercise. He can assure himself a liberal amount of paid-up life insurance. He can have a lump sum in cash, or a pension for life. Or, on certain policies, he can have a lump sum and a certain amount of paid-up insurance. Three generous options are some of the many good features of a Traveler's contract.

DONKEY POWER WOULD HAVE CHECKED FLOOD

Chief Engineer of Canadian Importer Testifies Before Marine Commission

Vancouver, Nov. 26.—A theory that the drain pipe of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine freighter Canadian Importer was cracked by frost while the vessel was still on the Atlantic coast was advanced at the marine inquiry as an entirely new theory for the leaking of the ship during her last voyage. J. F. Edmonds, one of the court, stated that he had seen pipes made of the same material crack through frost in a similar manner to the pipe on the importer, which was exhibited in court.

F. K. Brown, chief engineer, said that a donkey boiler on the main deck would have saved the situation when the flooding of the engine room prevented the firemen getting up steam. Steam from this boiler would have aided in pumping out the ship and could have been applied to the winches in order to heave the deck load of lumber overboard.

Alfred Laird, second officer, told of the journey in the lifeboat from the foundering vessel. Portland, Oregon, was their objective. A heavy gale drove the boat out of its course and it was necessary to head towards San Francisco. It was 75 miles from land when picked up by a tug coming to the aid of the importer.

Mr. Laird admitted that the importer was in a dangerous position when the lifeboat left its side. She was listed at 22 degrees to starboard and at that angle there was danger of straining or of capsizing, he said.

If the 55,000 employees of the C. N. R. were demobilized in one spot, instead of being spread from one end of the country to the other, they would constitute a city larger than Victoria.

AUTOMATIC ALARM TO REPLACE HUMAN WATCHERS ON SHIPS

International Shipping Conference Resolves to Consider Feasibility of Scheme

London, Nov. 26.—Life-saving appliances and wireless installations occupied the final session of the international shipping conference here yesterday. Resolutions were adopted in favor of appointing an international committee to consider what modifications are advisable in the 1914 shipping convention of London in the light of recent expenditure and especially to report on the possibility of providing an automatic alarm device to replace human watchers on vessels, which were provided for in Article 34 of that convention.

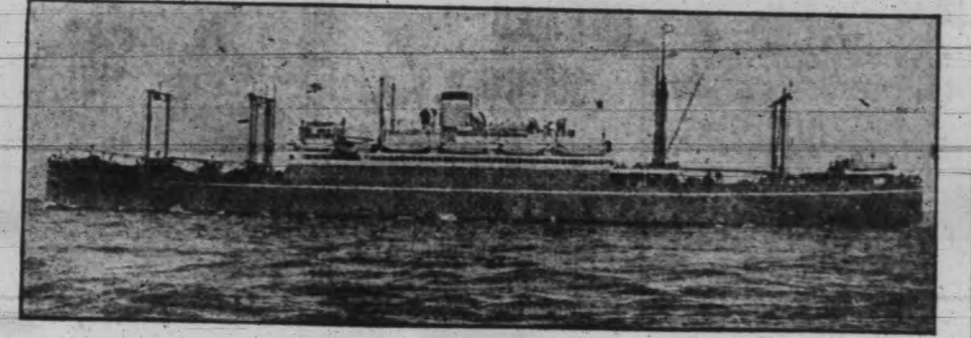

Portland, Ore., Nov. 26.—The freighter Springfield, owned by the North Atlantic-Western Steamship Company, went aground on Peacock Spit near the mouth of the Columbia River to-day—as a result of engine trouble, but was released and proceeded to sea after repairs were made, according to reports from Fort Stevens and Hammond coast guard stations.

Taking Out Record List of Chinese for Line

SIMON TOLMIE GOES TO SEA ON MAIDEN LUMBER VOYAGE

ment. The Government agreed to loan the Victoria Shipowners $700,000 on the understanding that the balance of the $1,000,000, covering the cost of four ships, be raised by local subscription. The cost of building the S. F. Tolmie exceeded the estimate, and construction work was suspended.

Last Summer the Dominion Government took over the control of the ships and the shipbuilding plant, and later tenders were called for the making of the Tolmie ready for sea. This work was awarded to the Victoria Machinery Depot, Ltd.

Ship Under Charter.

In accordance with the decision of the Government to operate the ship the Tolmie was taken to Vancouver and equipped with crew and supplies and a charter was arranged for the vessel to load lumber at Nanaimo for delivery in Japan.

The S. F. Tolmie is being operated by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd., and is making her maiden voyage. The ship was loaded at Nanaimo with 1,600,000 feet of lumber.

Launched Last December.

The Tolmie was launched from the Choberg yard here in December last and very shortly afterwards work on the vessel ceased owing to the development of financial difficulties with the Victoria Shipowners, Ltd., which concern inaugurated the construction of the ship under an agreement with the Dominion Government.

Some delay is anticipated in the departure for the Orient of the Admiral liner Silver State late to-day in view of the fact that the big ship is embarking over four hundred Chinese steerage passengers at this port.

The Silver State, Capt. Bartlett, on her third voyage to the Orient, sailed from Seattle at 11 o'clock this morning and is due at the Outer Docks here about 4 o'clock this afternoon. It will probably be 8 o'clock to-night or even later when the liner gets away for Yokohama, Manila and Hongkong.

The local agents, Rithet Consolidated, Ltd., stated this morning that the Silver State is taking out from this port 419 Chinese in her Asiatic accommodation. This is the largest number that has yet been booked on a vessel of the Admiral Line. The company is now getting a large share of the Asiatic business. Chinese list the Silver State is taking out 56 saloon passengers from Seattle and several will go aboard following the arrival of the vessel here.

Among the local saloon passengers will be Augustus Brostedt, formerly general freight agent at Vancouver for the Canadian National Railways and newly appointed manager for the company in the Far East.

Another liner clearing here this evening is the O. S. K. Arabia Maru. The Arabia Maru is taking out from here 140 Japanese.

PROTESILAUS HELD TO LAND ORANGES

Bulk of Freight Being Shipped East Over Canadian National Railways

Then thousand boxes of Japanese oranges, the largest shipment of its kind to be landed here, were put ashore yesterday from aboard the Blue Funnel liner Protesilaus, inbound from the Orient.

Most of the oranges were destined for Vancouver and overland, and in order that they might be landed here for early delivery, the ship was held here longer than is customary.

The Protesilaus completed the discharge of her orange shipment at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and left here at 3 o'clock this morning for Seattle.

The bulk of the oranges for shipment to Eastern points are handled by the Canadian National Railways, and are being sent over to the main-land from Patricia Bay by the ferry Canora.

The Canadian National also handled several cars of oranges from the Osaka Shosen Kaisha line Arizono Maru.

PRINCESS LOUISE DUE HERE MONDAY

New Canadian-Pacific Coastwise Boat Will Run Her Official Trials

The SS. Princess Louise, all-British Columbia product, and newest addition to the coastwise fleet of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is expected to arrive here from Vancouver on Monday, according to a statement made this morning at the offices of the B. C. Coast Steamship Service. Movable furnishings intended for the are to be staged off this port, had not been definitely set to-day, but will be held next week over the measured mile at Parry Bay.

The marks at Parry Bay have been examined and every precaution taken to assure the complete success of the speed test.

Following the arrival of the Princess Louise here on Monday the SS. Princess Margaret, when that vessel was taken over by the British Admiralty for war service, and shipped out to this port, will be placed aboard the new craft. Andrew Wallace, head of the Wallace Shipbuilding Company, builders of the Princess Louise, together with a staff of builders, experts and engineers, will come to Victoria on the boat and will remain here until after the trials.

The Princess Louise will be dry-docked at Esquimalt before she is sent over the trial course.

READY TO SERVE LOCAL INTERESTS

Ships Will Come Here If Freight is Offering, Says B. C. Keeley

"We are ready to bring our ships into Victoria or any other island port with sufficient cargo offering, and are prepared to assist the lumber trade in any way by transshipping 'or' cargoes," said B. C. Keeley, manager of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd., in the city to-day from Vancouver.

"I wish emphatically to contradict any reports that have been circulated in the past that the C. G. M. M. appeared to be discriminating against the island ports.

"It is the Canadian National policy to give the best service all round, and we always stand ready to give Victoria at the service of the shipper, providing, of course, the freight is offering.

"There has been an impression among business men on the Island that the C. G. M. M. was disinclined to co-operate in efforts to move freight. I wish to remove that impression, if it exists. The C. G. M. M. is at the service of the shipper. We want the business and, if it is offering, we are ready to go after it. That has always been the policy of the C. G. M. M."

Mr. Keeley stated that a ten-day service is now in operation between British Columbia and California ports, including regular calls at Victoria. The steamship Canadian River is due here to-morrow with freight from the South.

Mr. Keeley is on one of his periodical business visits here and will remain in the city until to-morrow.

CANADIAN VESSELS CAPTURE NEW MARKETS

Canada's flour is the standard of the world. As an instance of the increasing popularity of Canadian flour, it is interesting to note that Dr. A. H. Stafford, born in Winnipeg but for some time past domiciled in Jamaica, recently said that until the steamships Canadian Forester and Canadian Fisher of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine service entered Kingston last spring, every pound of flour used on the Island was imported from the United States. Now it all comes from Canada. This very valuable market for Canadian products has been captured by three ways, Dr. Stafford affirms. The fact that Canada had ships to deliver it there; the quality of the flour itself; and the fact that the people of Jamaica desire closer commercial relations with the people of Canada.

Double Your Energy

Eat two slices of Bread instead of one.

Bread—the greatest energy food—saved the famous "Lost Battalion" in the Argonne.

Daring aviators brought bread to the courageous but exhausted doughboys surrounded by the enemy.

Bread furnished the little band with new energy—the fighting force that made possible their historic struggle to safety.

Bread is ready to furnish the same dynamic power to meet your daily struggle in peace times.

More Bread equips the housewife with more zest to meet her tasks.

Bread gives the wage-earner a wealth of strength and vigor.

Plenty of Bread for the "kiddies" means an abundance of energy for active, healthy play.

Bread as a food is unequalled as a body-builder—the only economical food to-day.

Victoria-baked Bread is your best food—always wholesome, tempting and highly nutritious.

Eat it.

CREW OF FUKUI MARU LANDED AT YOKOHAMA

Officers and members of the crew of the ill-fated steamship Fukui Maru, who were rescued 1200 miles off Cape Flattery by the American freighter U.S.S. Itasca, landed at Yokohama November 9. The survivors of the Fukui Maru were in good health despite their experience in the great storm which engulfed their ship. Although it was reported that a search of the position in the North Pacific was made by the American cutter "Itasca," none of the Fukui Maru has been seen, and she is believed to have foundered.

How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sunnyside, Ky.—"I suffered for more than two years with my back and nervousness,
and was not able to help my mother do the housework. I took treatment from two doctors and they did not do
me any good.
Mother saw Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised
in the paper and I took about ten bottles. It has done me a great deal of good. I weigh 133 pounds and am in good health. I will gladly recommend Vegetable Compound to anyone who suffers with the troubles which I had, and you are welcome to publish my testimonial."

VELMER HENDRICK, Route 1, Sunnyside, Ky.

To many American girls life is often a heavy drag in consequence of illness, and every mother should heed the first manifestations, such as cramps, backaches, headaches and nervousness. Mrs. Hendrick did for her daughter, and give Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. For over forty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been relieving women of just such troubles.

consideration, the Opposition Leader had no right to discuss the general question. Mr. Bowser resented this and having gained his point through appealing to the Speaker, informed the House that he might talk for the next hour or two. He spoke of the original plan to found a university, and said that there was every justification for the action of the old Government. It was impossible at that time to foresee future financial stress and the world war, both of which had had considerable to do with the Government being unable to proceed with the erection of permanent buildings at Point Grey.

Mr. Bowser took the Government to task for not proceeding along the lines laid down by the Minister of Education a year and a half ago. He said that at that time it was the intention to proceed with town planning of the lands owned by the Government in the Point Grey district, so that the proceeds from the sale of the land would pay for the new university. He wondered why this policy had not been followed. He claimed that the governors of the institution were best able to judge of the needs of the people, and he thought that something should have been done at once.

After "killing" considerable time, Mr. Bowser retired from the "scrap"
and left it to others.

The Hon. J. D. Maclean declared that the Government had been sincere in its intention to proceed with the erection of permanent buildings. He still agreed with the contention of the governors that extension work must be carried on;
hence the present vote of $445,000.
However, he did not think the present was the opportune time to spend a large sum of money if it were at all possible to get along under present conditions.

Mr. Bowser showed that whereas the vote for university assistance was only $7,400 in 1910, it had increased rapidly, until in 1914 it was $20,000 and to-day $445,000. He objected to the proposal of the finance minister to put this amount in the bank pending the spending thereof.
"What bank are you going to put it in?" he asked.

"Oh, perhaps a gravel bank," returned the Premier.

"That might be all right, if you put Dr. Baker in charge of the bank," responded Mr. Bowser.

"Or Mr. Perrin," retorted the Government Leader.

Mr. Bowser added that it was useless to try and get an announcement of policy from the Government on this or any other issue.

Kenneth Duncan, member for Cowichan, moved an amendment that the vote should be cut from $445,000 to $200,000. Mr. Guthrie supported him. J. E. Clearhue argued that higher education was essential, but he thought there was some overlapping of educational votes.

Mr. Guthrie made a strong plea for university assistance and extension. He said that it was false to contend that the institution existed only for the education of the sons and daughters of the rich. The poor man had the same opportunity as the man of better means. He thought that a democratic institution should be established, so that the general principles of free education might be fostered.

The Vancouver member argued that one of the finest things which could happen a young man was to go through the stress attendant upon the securing of an education. It would be a crime, he added, to withhold support from the university.

Mr. Duncan asked how the poor man of his riding could hope to attend the university.

Capt. Mackenzie responded by saying that with a bony and a bag of outland young Scotchmen attended the university at Aberdeen.

Canon Hinchliffe was a strong advocate of the very best to be had in education, but he took the opportunity to suggest that the entire educational system of the province be revised. He wanted to encourage young people to get all the education they could, but he thought the Vancouver member was in error when he suggested that the poor as well as the rich could attend the institution for higher learning. That was all right in theory, but it did not work out in fact, he said.

Mr. Bowser took the floor again to oppose the Duncan amendment.
He did not wish to see the vote cut down, but he did oppose the government's attitude toward education in general. He asked the Cowichan member to withdraw his motion. This the latter refused to do and the vote was taken. The amendment was lost by a two to one vote and the University of British Columbia will receive $445,000 next year as last.

BIG HONOR FOR LOCAL BOY.

Cecil Hay, of Victoria, has been elected captain of the McGill University track team for next year. He is one of Canada's best sprinters.

Halderson Arrives Along With Freddie Both Looking Fine

"Slim" Is Built Like Lester Patrick and Expects to Have Good Season in West; Sprung Into Fame From "Corner Lot" Hockey; Frederickson Thinks He Will Have Better Season This Year.

Frank Frederickson, last year's sensation of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association, and Harold "Slim" Halderson, who may this season replace "Freddie" in the hall of fame, arrived in town this morning from the prairies. They are both looking fit and are hoping for a great season.

Everyone knows what Frederickson looks like. He brings no innovations with him. He still parts his hair and rubs his chin when in doubt. He looks good for another season and will have an added incentive for showing the folks how the game is played as Mrs. "Freddie" has come along to see how the Coast fans acclaim her hubby.

Folks are more concerned over Halderson than Frederickson. They are anxious to know whether he is in the class with his former Falcon brother.

Another Pretty Boy.

One thing is certain, he will enhance the beauty of the squad about 10 per cent. Victoria boasts of plenty of good-looking and Halderson is in keeping with the rest of the squad.

"Slim" is a big bird. When the average individual talks to him it is necessary to look up with as much as to "how's the weather up there?"

As Big As Lester.

To give the fans an idea of the newcomer a comparison can be made with Lester Patrick. "Slim" is exactly the same height as the manager, bumping the beam at six feet and one-half inches. He carries 160 pounds around with him, but as he is only 23 years of age it is quite certain that he will add weight as he gets older. "Slim" is a brunette and a quiet, unassuming fellow. He was born in Winnipeg and sprang into fame overnight.

"Slim" never came to light as most hockey players. He never played in junior and intermediate leagues. He played "corner-lot" hockey and popped into senior hockey with the Saskatoon Crescents.

Lester Patrick handed him a contract last fall, and "Slim" put his screw to it. Halderson will work out with the Aristocrats on Monday afternoon. He says he is in good condition. The fans will take more interest in the workouts of this athlete than any of the others. They hope he will make good, as he is a youngster. He has a long reach which will hold him in good stead.

Halderson is a right-wing man.

Frederickson had a lot to say after getting rid of his baggage this morning. As usual, he is full of something to say. That is quite natural as he has been selling insurance in Winnipeg this summer so fast that it took half a dozen stenographers their time making out the policies.

"Freddie" also found it impossible to hoof it about after his "prospects," and he got a tin-lizzie. He thinks that the flivver may have put his legs out of condition, but is determined to get into shape as soon as possible.

He's Going to Be Good.

"Freddie" proved by a row of arguments that he should have a better season this year than he did last. Of course, hockey players always do.

"Freddie" lives to be ninety and still plays hockey he will always say that "I expect to have a better season this year than last." It's in the blood and can't be helped.

The rest of the players should arrive in over the week-end. Poor old "Moose" Johnson ran into a snow-storm 30 miles out of Portland, Ore., and it looks as though the old veteran will either have to dig his way out or wait till the thaw sets in. The chances are a dozen that "Moose" will wait for a thaw he'll improve a pair of snowshoes and trek for the warmer climes.

It Begins to Look as Though This Famous Battler Is Slipping Back

MIKE GIBBONS

Boston, Nov. 26.—Tom Robson, of Malden, last night won the decision over Mike Gibbons, St. Paul middleweight, in 10 rounds. Robson fought at his best for a long time and floored the westerner twice. He caught Gibbons coming out of a corner in the third round and with a right to the jaw knocked him down for a count of eight, repeating shortly with another right which splattered Gibbons again.

Ringside observers said that Gibbons' talk saved him a possible knockout by Robson in the same round, he being hard pressed by the Malden boy, who was said to have paid too much attention to Mike's sallies. Gibbons appeared to be slipping up.

Cecil Hay, Victoria Boy, Will Captain The McGill Track Team Next Year

Montreal, Nov. 26.—Cecil Hay, star sprinter and all-round athlete, has been elected captain of the McGill track team for next season. Cecil Hay is one of the best athletes Victoria has ever developed. He is a native son and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hay, reside at 654 Dalhousie Road. Cecil is now in his fourth year medicine at McGill.

He attended the Boys' Central, South Park and High Schools of this city. He is now 22 years of age and is a big, powerful lad. Not only is he a star on the cinder track but he is a basketball star if not, having captained many championship school teams in this city. He was a regular member of McGill's last year team and is again a member this winter.

Cecil excels on the track. He is good at all the sprints and runs the 330 in creditable time. When attending school here he has never defeated in his own class. Quite often he went into higher classes, and while at times beaten he was victor in numerous events.

When home on his summer vacation Hay went over to Vancouver and competed in the B. C. championship track meet. He won the 880 handily and was just noosed out in the 440-yard.

Since going to McGill he has always been on the track team and is one of the star sprinters. Cecil is well-known in this city and his many friends will be glad to hear of the signal honor which has been conferred upon him.

PRESIDENCY WINNER OF INDIAN CRICKET

London, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Presidency of Bombay was elected today. William Neill was elected president and Arthur Wilcox secretary. It was decided to adopt the rules and regulations of the National Bowling Association of America.

Before very long the teams in the league will be hard at work struggling for the city championship. Things look particularly rosy this season for the maplesmashers. The alleys have been overhauled and put in first-class shape, and interest in the game is decidedly on the increase with the improved facilities.

Entries for the league must be in by December 3, and the first scheduled games will be played on December 5. Five teams have already notified their intention of competing, namely, the Printers, the Elks, the Wests, the Travelers and the Gyro Club. It is expected that entries will also be forthcoming from the War Veterans, Spencers and the Rotary Club.

WEDNESDAY LEAGUERS WILL ENTER TEAM IN JACKSON CUP SERIES

At the regular weekly meeting of the Wednesday soccer league held last night games for next week were arranged as follows: Spencers vs. Kirkhams at Beacon Hill. Referee, Wilcox. Garrison vs. Retail Clerks at Work Point. Referee, Faulkner.

Weller's a bye. Kick-off will be at 2.30 p. m. It was practically decided that a combined team of the Wednesday leaguers should be entered for the Jackson Cup.

Things Shaping Up Well For Opening Of Amateur Hockey

Schedule Adopted Last Night and Important Business Transacted; All Players Will Be Insured Against Injury; Jack Stevens Is New Secretary; Contracts All In By Next Monday Night.

Things are shaping up well for the opening of amateur hockey at the Arena on Monday, December 5. At a meeting of the executive of the Victoria Amateur Ice Hockey League last evening the schedule was drafted and various other items of business transacted.

The Elks and Garrison will have the honor of making the first bow to the public and will be followed in the double-header by the War Vets and Senators.

Still In Doubt. Last night the managers gave no linking as to who they have signed this season. It was made clear that all contracts must be handed in to the league by Monday night next.

The league decided to again insure all its players and will allow each club $200 as expense money. Owing to the pressure of business Dave MacFarlane resigned as secretary of the league last night, and Jack Stevens was elected to take his place. "Steve" is well known in sporting circles, having acted as secretary of the amateur baseball league last summer.

Next week the executive will hold its final meeting before the opening of the season and will consider the players' contracts submitted by the managers and also conclude negotiations for the insuring of the players. The various managers are hot on the trail of several players who have not decided what club they will play with.

Senators Land Dowd. Alex Straith, who is handling the Senators in the absence of his brother George, announced this morning that Leo Dowd had decided to play with last year's champions. Leo is one of the star shots among the amateurs and his services were wanted by all the teams. He, however, yielded to the coaxing of his old club and will again wear the yellow and black uniform of the Senators. This will give the Senators their old shooting line of Dowd, Dieldel and Harry Smith.

The remaining unsigned players must be booked before next Monday night or they will be unable to play.

Victoria "High" To Play For B.C. Title

Defeated Oak Bay School Yesterday, and Will Meet King George Team, of Vancouver, at Oak Bay Park on Saturday Next

In the Victoria and Oak Bay High Schools rugby encounter yesterday afternoon the city boys once more handed an easy defeat to the battling green and white squad, earning the honor of playing King George High School of Vancouver for the British Columbia School championship and the Thomson Cup.

Yesterday's game certainly showed Victoria superior boxing championship, and in the weight of the scrimmage, although they only gained one touch-down in the first half Victoria made up for their lost time when the teams clashed in the second period of their game, running up a score of twelve points, four touch-downs, in twenty minutes. The final score was 15-0.

From the beginning Oak Bay fought hard, and indeed, during the first half, they played very evenly with their opponents. Several times did Frank and Wilf McGregor break away, and make short gains up the field, but the splendid tackling of the Victoria three-quarter line stayed the rushes before they actually became serious.

Oak Bay Presses. After the first ten minutes of the game the Oak Bay squad gained the enemy twenty-five yard line, and it was then that a score seemed imminent. The three-quarter line broke into a rush with the ball going nicely with them, but they were stopped in the ten yard area, and during the remainder of the game never got so close to a score. The Victoria boys were driven to a "rouge," however, and secured a twenty-five-yard kick, at the same time setting their fast forward line in motion. Cameron, the centre scrum man, who has only been out of bed three days, clove his way through the Oak Bay boys' defence again and again.

The two teams clashed near the Oak Bay goal line for the next few minutes of the game, and at last McMillen gained a score for Victoria, which was not converted.

Second Half. The second half of the game was faster, and far more exciting than the first, with the Victoria team rushing to the attack, and going through by sheer weight and strength. There was little time or opportunity for a display of skill, and the two teams fought in loose scrimmages and scrums close to the Oak Bay line. After a great deal of hard struggling the Oak Bay team pushed the attackers to a slightly safer distance, but while concentrating their efforts on the Victoria left wing the forwards snapped the ball into the hands of the three-quarter men, who sped away towards the Oak Bay goal. Ed Lore, who had been switched into the three-quarter wing position, after receiving a pass, outran his pursuers and crossed the line for the second score of the game.

The Victoria squad, following up Ted Loke's return kick into Oak Bay territory, drove their way once more into the warm part of the field. Despite the efforts of Hennel, Clarke and Adamson, the latter having sustained a split head, and all of whom played an excellent game, the Victoria boys kicked the ball across the Oak Bay line and Ted Dunn, following up hard, fell upon it, a bare foot ahead of the Oak Bay runner.

Looking Things Over

By Archie Wills. Canadian Rugby to the Fore. The question asked in this column last Saturday, "Why not Canadian rugby in B. C.?" has aroused much discussion not only in this city but also in Vancouver. It has caused the hope to bound in the breasts of the many Eastern Canadians who now live in this city that they may in the future, whether near or distant, see the national pastime become one of British Columbia's premier sports.

Of course there have been arguments. That is inevitable. There are those who favor the different systems of rugby and who get together to form a national association with their own game, support it and in most cases fail to be "shown."

There has been one criticism offered to Canadian rugby in British Columbia. It came from The Daily Province, of Vancouver. It points out that no team in this Province would be able to go East after the national championship through the fact that rugby west of the Rockies is scarcely started before the finals are being played in Toronto.

As conditions now exist this argument is sane and sound. But if Canadian rugby were adopted in B. C. there would be nothing to prevent the season opening here as early as it does east of the mountains. At present September is an off month for sports. The rugby schedule could be started then and the British Columbia championship decided in plenty of time for the winners to go to Alberta to play in the elimination series. One thing is certain, that if rugby was played in the months of September and October when the weather is usually fine there would undoubtedly be larger crowds on the sidelines than is the case at present. Conditions would be more agreeable not only to the fans but also to the players.

The bulk of British Columbia's present influx of people is from the prairies and Eastern Canada. Folks down that way know only the Canadian game. They have been brought up to it. When they move to the coast they forget about rugby because their game is not played here.

British Columbia students who go to the Eastern universities seldom if ever make the first teams. They are under too great a handicap. In the West they have played the English game and cannot compete against the collegians who know only their national game.

There promises to be more talk over the proposal for a change here. The more talk the better. It will help along a good cause. The last two seasons English rugby has been drawing less than a hundred spectators to the regular league games. The rep. games between Vancouver and Victoria are better patronized. Perhaps the Canadian game might draw better. The point is worthy of consideration.

How Folks Like to See a Champion Topple.

It's strange how to-day the public will acclaim a new champion and tomorrow be anxious to see someone come along and knock his block off. When Willie Hoppe, the U. S. 18-2 balt-line billiard champion, was defeated this week by Jake Schaefer, everyone was happy. They forgot about the cue and balls and the many times they had cheered him. They revelled in his defeat. So it is in every walk of life. The world went on the warpath looking for a white-hope who would lick Jack Johnson. They found one in the person of Jess Willard. Then they wanted another individual to put the Utah farmer to sleep and again they were satisfied. Now they want a superman to appear and send Dempsey cuckoo. Some day this battle will appear. So it is with Benny Leonard, the lightweight king, and Jack Johnson. Did the press laud him? No. They went after him and practically called him a coward. They were greatly perturbed because the pampered idol of France, a man of great wealth, would not exert himself to make a success of the show after promising to appear. They showed where many other heroes, totally blind and maimed, had gone through intense pain to appear at the same show. Georges may have to step down and out. He is lucky in one way. He is well provided with this world's goods and will not have to go to the poor-house.

Look at the Case of Georges Carpentier.

Look at the case of Carpentier, who was raised to a higher pinnacle of idolatry than any other athlete the world has ever known. France thought almost as much of him as she did of Napoleon. Now look at the poor fellow. Even in Paris, his stronghold, Georges is no longer cheered and kissed whenever he steps out to the street. The press is throwing bricks at him. He is sick and cannot condition himself for the ring. Recently he was to have appeared at a benefit show in Paris for dependents of his fallen comrades. At the last moment he asked to be excused on account of his illness. Did the press laud him? No. They went after him and practically called him a coward. They were greatly perturbed because the pampered idol of France, a man of great wealth, would not exert himself to make a success of the show after promising to appear. They showed where many other heroes, totally blind and maimed, had gone through intense pain to appear at the same show. Georges may have to step down and out. He is lucky in one way. He is well provided with this world's goods and will not have to go to the poor-house.

GIBBONS POPS ANOTHER ONE

New Orleans, La., Nov. 26.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, knocked out Dan Dowd, Boston, in the sixth round of a scheduled 15-round bout here last night. Dowd was knocked down six times before he finally went out. He was sent down twice in the first round, once in the second and three times in the fifth.

Will the Destruction of Warships Destroy War?

"The hell of war is always paved with proposals for disarmament," remarked a cynical German admiral when asked his opinion of the Harding Hughes plan for the reduction of navies. Through the world-wide chorus of acclaim that greets America's proposal to join with Great Britain and Japan to scrap nearly 2,000,000 tons of battleships and to build no more for ten years sound occasional discordant voices that range from the cynicism of the German expert in Berlin to the reluctant skepticism of certain sincere friends of disarmament who see only fear is that the United States Government's revolutionary programme is not drastic enough.

Naval disarmament will not insure peace, asserts Arthur Brisbane in The New York American, because "all Europe and all civilization outside of American can be wiped out from Russia or Asia with never a map or gun used afloat." The New York Call also "declines to share in the general rejoicing because it expects from the Washington Conference "the same disillusionment that followed the 'war to end war.'"

W. G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, avers that "bold, drastic and courageous measures are required if civilization is to be snatched from the brink of the fateful chasm upon which it now stands." The Philadelphia Record thinks that "the only means ever devised for preventing war is the League of Nations, which the United States has thus far refused to join," while The Louisville Courier-Journal asserts that "the Conference can reduce taxation, but it cannot insure peace."

There is much enthusiasm in the British press over the proposed arms limitation, while in Japan the American proposal is "not far removed from a basis of common understanding," according to The Tokio Asahi.

All phases of the arms limitation proposal are shown in the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, November 26, which also gives a vivid reflection of public opinion in Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

ADVANCE POLLS OPEN NEXT WEEK

Traveling Employees to Cast Ballots Dec. 2, 3 and 5

Advance polls for sailors, railway employees and commercial travellers are authorized at 352 points in the Dominion at: New Brunswick, 25; Nova Scotia, 25; Prince Edward Island, 3; Quebec, 61; Ontario, 98; Manitoba, 22; Saskatchewan, 43; Alberta, 24; British Columbia, 23; Yukon, 3. The hours for advance polls are seven to ten in the evening for three days, exclusive of Sunday, immediately preceding election day.

The advance poll in Victoria will open in accordance with the terms set out above, on Friday next, December 2, in 315 Pemberton Building, Commercial - Returning Officer R. P. Clark, and will continue Saturday evening and again Monday evening the night before the general election. The purpose of the advance poll is to give men whose work keeps them constantly on the move an opportunity to cast their ballot.

A Remarkable Situation. There has been some criticism by the Liberal Association officials regarding the stated intention of the National Liberal and Conservative campaign organization in support of Hon. S. F. Tolmie to establish committee rooms in the Veterans of France Building, where the people will cast their ballots on election day. General Clark has expressed disapproval of such a move, but there is nothing in the Federal Election Act to prevent it. It was explained to-day.

Some objection was also raised to using the Chamber of Commerce rooms for a polling booth as would be necessary climbing up a flight of stairs. In answer to this General Clark says that he would be glad if someone could suggest a better accommodation in the vicinity. "All of the polling booths are laid out well, the heating and other accommodations are good and all the booths are centrally located. The arrangements are infinitely better than they have ever been before and the comfort and convenience of the people attending to cast their ballots has been considered," said General Clark.

ACROSS THE BAY

Insertion of a clause in the consolidated Vancouver Incorporation Act to give the city the right to establish and operate motor bus lines for passengers and goods on any or all streets, was defeated in committee of the Legislature at noon to-day by a vote of 9 to 1. Mr. Bowser, Capt. Mackenzie, James Ramsay and J. W. Jones were among the few who voted for the insertion of the clause.

The committee eliminated a clause to give the power to the council to fix the admission prices to all theatres and moving picture shows.

Mr. Farris said that the Province was deriving a large revenue from the tax on admission to theatres and now the city came along and wants to regulate the prices of admission to private enterprises.

The Attorney-General moved during the consideration of the Vancouver bill to delay the elimination of two sub-sections dealing with the regulating by the city of places of amusement. One of these clauses proposed to give the city the right to impose licenses on theatres in accordance with their seating capacity.

G. W. V. A. IS RE-ORGANIZED IN VICTORIA

A meeting of the members of the Great War Veterans Association was held in the headquarters, Law Chambers, Bastion Street, last night. Comrade J. Food was elected to the chair.

The meeting was called on account of a petition being signed by 69 members in good standing asking that the Local Branch be reorganized on the grounds that although the Victoria Branch has sent a charter to headquarters, none of the other ex-service organizations has, up to the present time, seen fit to take similar action.

It was pointed out by several speakers that the G. W. V. A. were just as strong for amalgamation as ever, but they feel on account of recent events, when it was understood that all the organizations were going out of existence in Victoria. This, the speakers stated, was not done and the situation at present is that the Victoria Branch of the G. W. V. A. have done everything in its power to bring about amalgamation.

It was further stated that on account of the distress amongst comrades who through inadequate re-establishment were walking the streets to-day. It was further pointed out that the policy of the new branch will be the same as the old Local, that is, irrespective of the comrade was a member, those needing it would receive every assistance possible during the coming Winter.

Resolutions were passed to apply for a new charter, etc., and a provisional committee appointed to bring about the formation of the new Local of the G. W. V. A., viz.: Chairman, Comrade J. Food; Comrades J. H. Reppn, M. G. McLeod, W. G. Stone, S. A. Grimmond, S. H. Creech, J. Les, A. J. Welsh; and secretary, Comrade A. E. Prescott.

Did you ever try to find an important adv. in this paper. We proudly feel that there are none such.

BEER CLAUSE TO BE UP IN LEGISLATURE EARLY NEXT WEEK

The way was cleared to-day for the introduction of a beer clause in the Provincial Legislature probably on Monday, when Capt. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal member for Vancouver, gave notice that he would move a motion "that the House resolve itself into committee to consider the question of the sale of malt liquors under the Government Liquor Act of 1921." It is expected that the beer question will be thrashed out in the House early next week as a result of Capt. Mackenzie's decision to introduce this motion.

UNEMPLOYED TO ASK COUNCIL FOR WORK IMMEDIATELY

Victoria's unemployed will march into the City Council Chamber within the next few days and ask the Mayor and aldermen to find them jobs.

This announcement was made by leaders of the unemployed to-day after 35 minutes' play. Mr. Oliver promised to take their request up with the Cabinet immediately and give a definite answer Monday. It is planned to hold the mass meeting of unemployed on Monday if possible, so that the jobless men may see the Council Monday night.

The delegation which met the Premier, said that Mr. Oliver had put the question up to the Council. Members of the delegation added that they wanted work and were not particular what kind of work was given. They said that the city's famous "wood cutting" scheme would be of little use this winter.

Falling use of the Drill Hall a public gathering will be held in the streets.

NEW DRYDOCK A FLOATING ONE

Vancouver, Nov. 25.—Following the announcement last night by Hon. H. H. Stevens that an Order-in-Council had been passed granting a subsidy to J. Coughlin and the Wallace Shipyards for construction of a floating drydock, it was stated here to-day that work on the new drydock would start just as soon as official notification is received from Ottawa that the subsidy has been granted.

The announcement means that Vancouver is to have a floating drydock and not the large graving-basin which was planned some time ago with the aid of a Federal subsidy. The graving dock plan was abandoned.

PHILLIPS' MILITARY SOLES AND HEELS

Boys are hard on shoes—just count up the cost of your youngster's boots—what you spend for, soles and heels.

You can cut that bill in half by attaching Phillips' Military Soles and Heels to his boots.

They're made of solid rubber—tough as a pig's nose—are non-slipping—can't mar the floor. They lift the leather sole clear of the wet—and you know what wet means to the life of a leather shoe.

Your boy will be tickled—he'll be wearing just what the soldiers wore at the front.

You'll be pleased—when you come to figure up what his shoes are costing.

ROYAL VICTORIA

Only six hours of sunshine in four weeks. That was the difficulty under which "Snowblind," Goldwyn's new Reginald Barker Production, which will be shown again to-day at the Royal Victoria Theatre, was taken.

"Snowblind" is not a faked picture. Every snow scene is real. To get these wonderful scenic "shots," the Goldwyn company—making the picture spent a month in and around Banff, Canada, during the season of the year when the sun comes up at 10 o'clock and goes down at 1 o'clock. Outdoor scenes for the movies cannot be taken without sun, and in addition to this short period of sunlight each day, there were many days of heavy fog. Old timers said making 140 scenes in four weeks of this weather was impossible.

Some of the finest snow scenes ever photographed were taken by Percy Hilburn, Goldwyn cameraman, for "Snowblind," which is a Katherine Newlin Burt story.

As an extra attraction, Mrs. Douglas McCannan, the well-known Victoria singer will render the following songs at the evening performances: "Love You So" from Chu Chin Chow, and "The Wind from the South." A very funny comedy and a scenic make-up—the balance of a good programme.

Critics Unite in Praising Heifetz as Master of Instrument

A portion of a full page article signed W. J. Henderson in the N. Y. Sun gives us a clear conception of the gifts that now place Jascha Heifetz "at the top of his profession" to quote Mr. Henderson. Heifetz is to play here on Monday and an appreciation of his art is worth reading. Says the New York critic: "Heifetz possesses an exceptional and exquisitely beautiful tone. His bowing is alive with sensitivity. His style is ravishing in its purity. And these three qualities are prominent in spite of a technique which excites amazement and admiration. The boy's technique which must have been inborn and instinctive at first, is fastidious to the last degree, but there is nothing emasculate in his playing."

"If however this constituted a complete summary of his qualities it would be sufficient to satisfy any music lover that the boy was of unusual merit. But there is something to add and that something is of paramount importance. Heifetz is a sound artist in that he has sound musical judgment backed up by aesthetic perceptions of the most delicate type. Dignity discloses itself in his physical poise, and publishes itself in the aristocratic features of his face. Heifetz, though a youth, has to be considered by the standards applied to the art of the masters."

VALUE OF CLUB IS APPRECIATED

Automobile Convention Shows Good Work Done

The value of the work being done by the Victoria Automobile Club was demonstrated at the dinner and convention held at the Dominion Hotel this week at which an important programme of suggestions were dealt with, all affecting materially the welfare of the automobile owner.

The Nanaimo Automobile Club was well represented at the convention and the views of those residing in different parts of the Island were thus brought forward during the discussions. Never under the auspices of the Victoria Automobile Club has a more important meeting been held in so far as the questions under discussion were concerned.

As a result of the meeting several matters will be brought to the attention of the Provincial Government by a delegation of motorists. Chief among these will be the objection to an increase in the rate of taxation as at present proposed. A number of road projects will also be recommended.

Veteran Motorist Joins.

The membership of the Victoria Automobile Club is steadily increasing and embraces a great many of Victoria's prominent business men. Among those who have joined since the publication of the last list of members is Thomas Pimley, veteran automobile dealer of the city who has always taken a very prominent part in all that pertains to the promotion of the interests of the motorist. Mr. Pimley is very popularly known, particularly in motoring circles and his experience and advice will be of material assistance in the work of the club.

Secretary R. R. Webb, Pemberton Building, will always be glad to furnish information about the Club to those who call personally or telephone 3209.

CAMP SITES NECESSARY

At the conference held Wednesday night of the Vancouver Island Automobile Clubs the matter of camp sites were brought up.

Messrs. Kahanovsky and Kidd, of Nanaimo, instructed the gathering on the plans made by the Nanaimo body to bring about the introduction of camp sites for the attraction of the tourist.

Many members present joined in the discussion, each telling of camp sites that would serve admirably for the purpose. The matter, it was decided was a little too late for this year, but will be earnestly advocated at the next favorable opportunity. Camp sites not only attracted the tourist—but held him—until such time as he could learn sufficiently about the Island to make a more extensive stay than would otherwise be the case.

CITY COUNCIL CO-OPERATES

The Victoria Automobile Club, originated little over one year has now reached a membership of 230, stated Norman A. Yarrow, president at the Island Automobile Clubs' Conference Wednesday.

Automobile clubs in England were looked to by the authorities for advice, and had proved a great benefit to that country, Mr. Yarrow said. The Victoria Automobile Club in the past year had accomplished much, including the elimination of certain danger spots, repairing of roads, and the establishment of extra lights at necessary places. In this the city council had cordially aided. It was stated, the president expressing his appreciation of the attitude of the Victoria City Council to the automobile club.

"We are most anxious to help, and would like to co-operate with all B.C. automobile clubs to the common good," stated Mr. Yarrow in conclusion.

TAKING SCENERY ON THE RUN

Following a general discussion on the preservation of scenic beauty, at the conference of the Vancouver Island Automobile Clubs, held Wednesday night, it was stated that the tourist of to-day needs to have his scenery brought to him. In the United States, it was affirmed, the tourist was able to drive right up to the edge of the canyon or gorge that he wished to view, taking scenery on the run from the comfort of his car, as it was stated, Vancouver Island had unsurpassed scenery to offer, but little of it was accessible, it was held.

Good roads and greater access to natural beauty was necessary to attract the tourist in the numbers that was the due portion of the Island on the merits of its wonderful scenic beauty. Mount Arrowsmith and the adjacent timber should be preserved and made accessible as a park, which would be perpetuated for the benefit of tourists forever. The "tourist industry" was a problem that would be well for more extended thought, it was concluded.

There will be a mass meeting of Vancouver motorists in the lower dining-room of the Hotel Vancouver on Tuesday night to frame a protest against the increased motor taxes. The meeting is being called by the Vancouver Automobile Club.

The executive of the Automobile Club met on Wednesday afternoon and decided to call this meeting. R. Agar, of the New Westminster Automobile Club was present, and stated that his club would hold a similar meeting in the Royal City.

In addition to deciding to call a mass meeting of protest, the executive endorsed the action of the Victoria Automobile Club in circulating the members of the Legislature to vote against the increased taxes when they come before the House.

LOSING MILEAGE

Statistics prove that a tire good for an average of 6,000 miles when it leaves the factory will lose approximately 2,000 miles of its life by being carried unprotected as a spare for one year. A tire cover will outlast many tires and it looks better on the rear of the car.

GARAGE SERVICE EXCELLENT FOR PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

How about tracing out trouble in the electrical circuits on your car; or correcting the timing of the motor; or grinding the valves? Could you do these things if either were necessary in an emergency?

Most garage men believe that you are to be congratulated on your knowledge if you are one of the old fashioned few who can do any of these things.

The long and short of it seems to be that the substantial construction of the car and its parts, and the frequency of service stations makes all this "do it yourself" knowledge superfluous. The up-to-date driver, instead of loading up his memory with a mass of details, remembers only a few items of routine care—things that he must do to keep the car running smoothly and continuously. It is this sort of information that the industry has made popular.

Hardly a day goes by in any garage or service station without their noting the effect of the educational work that has been done by the accessory manufacturers and car builders during the past few years. The storage battery in particular has received an unusual amount of attention. The accessory concerns have found that the greatest part of their sales and service work is really educational in nature, they must teach the battery user how to take care of his battery.

There can be little doubt that the car owner owes a good deal of his satisfaction to the efforts of the manufacturer and his representatives who have taught him what to do to keep each part of his car in prime condition.

Should you want a new top or side curtains for your car or the old ones repaired you will save money by investigating my prices.

that competition our little country cannot succeed without protection. "We feel assured of the sue on December sixth," he continued likening the United States to the farmer with 110 hens and Canada as farmer with ten hens. "What we need is a hen tight fence," he continued amid laughter. "They have built one, why should not we, the American hens were bred to scratch."

W. C. Moreby also spoke in favor of the candidate, giving an insight into the legislation that was passed to deal with the question of Oriental immigration. The present Government had done more to properly control Oriental immigration than its Liberal predecessors, stated the speaker, who gave figures for the various years.

In passing an order in council permitting students to university and even high school to enter Canada without the head tax the Liberals had opened the door for the Oriental invasion that followed, he alleged Mr. Moreby, recited how he, paid by the Orientals here, had gone to Ottawa to plead with the present Government to stand by the promises of the Liberals in the previous legislation, but had been repulsed, showing the speaker the attitude of the Government on this important question. The Government, further, he claimed had stopped the leaks in the present act whereby merchants and pseudo-merchants sought admission under a blanket clause admitting members of partnerships.

In introducing the speaker of the evening Mr. Warren eulogized Dr. Toimie's past record, remarking: "The Honorable S. F. Toimie has been complimented by the Premier on being the most efficient Minister of Agriculture that Canada has ever had. He has secured the lifting of the embargo of Canadian cattle, and having a representative of that callbre it would be ungrateful of us to elect anyone else."

Mrs. Douglas McConnan rendered thanks to the speaker for the course of the evening, accompanied by an orchestra, which added a musical programme before the address.

front doors, without having a large retinue under Dr. Baker going around the country.

The leader of the Opposition declared that the department should be discontinued. He said that a young man, Wade, walked around to the Court House in Vancouver every month and drew a cheque for $100 from the moving picture department and did nothing for it.

"He is a useless boy and all he does is to go around for his cheque," Mr. Bowser went on.

He then said the Cowboy Keen, who took pictures for the Government, was anxious to have his contract with the Government terminated and because of that had been doing no work. If such were the case, he proposed it was only another argument for closing down the whole department and saving the salary of $100 a month for Keen who was anxious to make more profitable connections.

Mr. Farris replied that many of the pictures had been useful and instanced the films taken by the Province which were used to help B.C.'s fight on the freight rates case. Hon. E. D. Barrow told of agricultural films which had recently been shown by private interests for exhibition in England, which would be good advertising for the Province.

Premier Oliver asked that the vote stand over for further consideration. This was agreed to.

Mr. Farris said that he agreed that there was a field for economy in the police administration of the Province, as there were now city police, Provincial police and now the Dominion mounted police.

Theoretically I think we should have one police force in B.C., but I feel that if there were a single police administration the people would be chary about it and not be satisfied," he went on.

The police vote passed without any further discussion.

front doors, without having a large retinue under Dr. Baker going around the country.

The leader of the Opposition declared that the department should be discontinued. He said that a young man, Wade, walked around to the Court House in Vancouver every month and drew a cheque for $100 from the moving picture department and did nothing for it.

"He is a useless boy and all he does is to go around for his cheque," Mr. Bowser went on.

He then said the Cowboy Keen, who took pictures for the Government, was anxious to have his contract with the Government terminated and because of that had been doing no work. If such were the case, he proposed it was only another argument for closing down the whole department and saving the salary of $100 a month for Keen who was anxious to make more profitable connections.

Mr. Farris replied that many of the pictures had been useful and instanced the films taken by the Province which were used to help B.C.'s fight on the freight rates case. Hon. E. D. Barrow told of agricultural films which had recently been shown by private interests for exhibition in England, which would be good advertising for the Province.

Premier Oliver asked that the vote stand over for further consideration. This was agreed to.

Loss of Weight and Vigor

Far-reaching Effects of Kidney Disease

If you are losing strength, weight and vigor, it is highly probable that your kidneys are not performing their natural functions in a proper manner. In many cases, people have allowed themselves to be sapped of their vitality before realizing the true cause. A backache, constant headaches, painful urination, and other similar pains are frequently signs of kidney derangement. Indifference, or delayed treatment, will surely result in loss of weight and vigor, and in the development of more serious ailments, such as rheumatism or sciatica, lumbago, swollen joints or stone in the bladder.

Gin Pills

FOR THE KIDNEYS

Gin has always been recognized as a remedy for kidney and bladder troubles. Gin Pills, however, contain none of the harmful alcohol, but all the healing qualities of the Juniper Berry. These properties are compounded with seven other diuretics and anti-septics, and the result is a pill which stands out as the finest restorative and corrective for deranged kidneys. If you have any of the dreaded symptoms, get a box at once from your druggist or dealer—50c. If you obtain no relief, we will refund your money. Or, write to us for a free sample, sufficient to convince you of their value. Act without delay.

FILM STUDIOS NO PLACE FOR B. C. OFFICIALS

Mr. Bowser Fears Entanglements From Trips There

Dr. Baker's "Movie" Department Again Assailed

Objection to the recent trip of the moving picture censor of British Columbia and his assistant to the studios at Universal City was taken in the Legislature by J. J. Bowser, Leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Bowser said that the trip was at the invitation of the film corporation and that the expense was considered as an investment as it was used to influence the B. C. officials in the interests of a special film the corporation was planning to put over.

"Such excursions to Los Angeles can only be made for one purpose and that is not a good purpose," Mr. Bowser went on. "I don't think that consorting with the people around film studios is a good thing for our officials. I think these studios from recent revelations of life, there are good places for our officials to keep away from. They should keep in their own offices in our own province and away from the entanglements in any studio."

J. A. Catherwood, member for Dewdney, asked whether any suggestion had ever been made towards bringing about a general censorship of pictures in Canada by the provinces getting together and forming one common body and thus cutting down expenses.

Mr. Farris replied that he did not know whether the people of the Province would be willing to accept the censorship of other provinces.

Mr. Pooley objected to some of the advertisements of moving pictures and read a lurid one about a gun-play film to the House.

Mr. Farris said it would be interesting to see how far the film lived up to the advertisement. He explained that the department had no power directly to censor moving picture advertisements, but could only do it through moral suasion.

The moving picture censor's vote totalling $15,572 passed.

When the vote of $6,000 for the Government moving picture department came up, Mr. Farris in reply to questions, said that none of this was for the salary of Dr. A. R. Baker, as that had already been suspended and his resignation was awaited.

Mr. Pooley then declared that the vote should be cut out altogether, declaring that there was no necessity of such a department any longer.

Mr. Bowser said he could not see what good was done by showing pictures of B. C. scenery in B. C. theatres to the residents of this Province who could go out and get all the scenery they wanted at their

Kenneth Duncan Believes It Would Improve Schools

The bill of Kenneth Duncan, independent member for Cowichan, to amend the Public Schools Act to reduce the statutory number of pupils from forty to thirty before a new school could be erected, was ruled out of order by Speaker Manson yesterday. The Speaker said that such a reduction would involve the expenditure of public money, which could be brought in only by the Government.

Mr. Duncan asked if the Minister would make a statement of policy on the matter. The Speaker said that the member might put a resolution on the order paper asking for such a statement.

Bobby's Adventures In Swan-Land

CHAPTER IX. (Continued.)

W HILE Bunny was still wondering what he should do, he heard a voice, which sounded far away, calling, "Oh, Bunny." Bunny tried to answer, but his voice seemed to have no weight, and only echoed about the hole as if to mock him. Now the shouting seemed to come nearer. Soon he could hear footsteps approaching, so Bunny shouted as loud as he could, "Here-er. In a few moments a form appeared at the top of the hole, and looking up Bunny could see his little companion looking down at him.

"What ever are you doing down there?" Bobby asked.
"Oh, nothing," answered the rabbit. "But how did you get there?"
"I just fell," said Bunny.
As Bobby reached down to pull him out he began to laugh.
"I don't see anything to laugh at," said the rabbit, as soon as he was out of the hole.
"Well, if you had a looking glass you would," replied Bobby. "It is easy to see where you have been," he added, pointing to his swollen face.
"Anyway, now I know what Hornet-land is like," answered the rabbit.
"When I awoke and found that you had gone," said Bobby, "I thought I had better come and look for you. It is lucky that I did for you never would have gotten out of that hole alive. However, we had better be getting on now or else we will never get to Hate Beetleland."

So the two started once more in the direction of Elevator Mountain. As they walked along they could hear a great hammering in the distance as if hundreds of carpenters were all working away at the same time. "Rap-a-tap-tap, rap-a-tap-tap," it went.
"Do you hear that tapping, Bunny?" asked Bobby.
"Yes, I hear it," answered Bunny. "They must be building a big city."
"I wonder what it can be?" said the boy.
"Let's hurry and see," said Bobby.
"Let's," replied the rabbit.
Off they both ran, Bobby in the lead, with Bunny following along behind—tip-it-e-kilp, lip-it-e-kilp.

As they drew near the tapping seemed to become much louder, but soon it ceased altogether, and as they passed out of the orchard they came to a forest of tall stumps.
"Well," said the Bunny, "this doesn't look much like a city, does it?"
"No," said the boy, "but there certainly was hammering going on some-where."

"Yes, but where?" asked Bunny.
"I couldn't say," answered Bobby, and then almost with the same breath, he exclaimed, "Oh, I know, the woodpeckers," and looking up they could see four holes in every stump, and out of each hole popped a little head with a long sharp beak that was all red from its recent breakfast of berries.

Passing through the woodpecker colony, our little travelers soon came to the foot of Elevator Mountain. Turning to the north as the Canary Queen had advised, and walking for about half a mile, they came to the great door, which was set firmly in the mountain side by two giant hinges. Taking hold of the handle, Bobby gave it a pull, and to his great surprise it swung open quite easily. There in front of them was a huge bird-cage, and they both stepped inside. The cage at once commenced to ascend. The great door in the mountain side closed with a bang, as up, up, they went on their way to the top of the mountain. As they approached the top a huge trap door opened getting in a flood of golden sunshine. Now they were on the top. Bobby pushed the cage door open and they both stepped out. Down, down, down, went the cage again, and shut went the trap door.

"Now we are fixed," said the rabbit. "There is no possible way of getting off here. The walls are straight on either side."
"I know that," said Bobby, "but you are forgetting our magic feather."
"I never thought of that," admitted the rabbit, "but just the same I'll bet you that it won't get us out of this pickle."
"What is the use of getting cold feet now," said Bobby, "we have come this far afloat, and I have no doubt we can do the rest."

From where they stood they could get a splendid view of the surrounding valleys. On one side the great Birdland could be seen, and on the other Hate Beetleland, far away to the east they could see the castle of the wicked old Crow Witch.

"Now let's see what our magic feather will do," said Bobby, and, taking it out of his pocket, he blew on it three times and said, "Take us to Hate Beetleland." At once they were lifted up into the air and carried away over the tree tops. At first they were somewhat frightened and both held tightly to the other, but they soon became more at ease as they began to settle down into Hate Beetleland.

Hate Beetleland is that section of the great Swanland that is dominated by a very wicked old Crow Witch. No birds live in this land, except a few black ravens, which are servants to the Crow Witch and do her bidding. Everything else that should be so unfortunate as to visit this land is at once turned into Hate Beetles by the wicked old Crow Witch; and now we shall see how our little travelers fared.

After coming down to earth again, in Hate Beetleland, Bobby and Bunny stood for some minutes rubbing their eyes to make sure that they were not dreaming, for before them lay a very strange country. Here everything seemed to be just the opposite to what it was in the rest of Birdland. The grass under their feet was yellow and had a dried-up appearance. The ground was very rough and uneven, the branches of the trees grew down instead of up, and hung in clusters close to the trees' trunks. All the flowers were colorless and hung their heads. In fact everything looked as though it hated fresh air and sunshine.

Bobby was the first to break the silence. "This is surely a funny-looking place, isn't it, Bunny?" he said.
"Well, I'll tell the world," answered the rabbit, using slang that he had heard some little boys using at home. "I don't like this," he added, "let's go back."
"No, we must stay, now that we are here, and try to find the Pigeon Prince," answered Bobby.
"Well, let's hurry up and get it over with," said the rabbit. So off they started across the rough country in search of the lost Pigeon Prince, who was turned into a Hate Beetle by the wicked old Crow Witch. Soon they came to a tree that was covered with bunches of beautiful yellow fruit, which very much resembled plums in appearance.

"Here is where I have a treat," said Bobby, as he filled his pocket with the fruit, and selecting a nice large one, as boys always do, he took a big bite.
"Oh, wow," he cried, as his mouth began to pricker.
"What is the matter?" asked Bobby, "don't you like them?"
"I should say not," answered the boy, as he quickly emptied the fruit from his pockets. "Lemons taste like honey compared to those."
After traveling on for some time, they came at last to a road. Here they found that instead of having to walk on the road, that the road was slowly moving, and all one had to do was to step on to it and be carried along. You see, the roads were built in two sections, one section going in one direction, and the other section going on the other; like two huge belts lying flat upon the ground.

The cross-roads, which were of the same style, cut the main roads at right angle, and when you reached a crossing you must jump to the main road on the other side.
Bobby and Bunny sat down on a large rock to rest a while, and watch the slowly moving road. Presently the rabbit exclaimed, "Look what is coming now."
Bobby looked around, and there he saw the funniest looking beetle approaching. It had a big, black, shiny body, six long, black shiny legs, two long, black, shiny horns, a little, black head, and two big, black, shiny eyes. It walked, or rather stood on its front legs with its head down and its hind legs up in the air. The boy and the rabbit waited until the road brought it up to them. Then Bobby said in a polite way, "Good morning, Mr. Hate Beetle," but the beetle paid no attention to them, whatever, as the road carried it slowly by.

Naval Brigade Band

Band of Boys Naval Brigade, which is now enjoying excellent facilities for practice in the new quarters at the Drill Hall, Menzies Street, under their instructor Bandmaster Rumsby.

Boys' Naval Brigade Makes Steady Progress

THE Boys' Naval Brigade, now safely ensconced in the Old Drill Hall at Menzies Street, is practicing twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, under instructors. The public is cordially invited to witness the training undergone by the boys, and to make an inspection of the interesting and graphic manner in which seamanship is taught.

The use of the Old Drill Hall has permitted the Brigade to branch out in training, with ample accommodation for every requirement. The building was obtained temporarily through the courtesy of the Provincial Government, and the boys are making the most of the rosy opportunity.

One week from to-morrow the boys will muster for a church parade to be held in the Old Drill Hall, when parents will be made cordially welcome. The Brigade has now very nearly sixty boys at sea on ships of the British merchant marine, of these the majority being cadets, in training for the position of officer when experience has rounded out their ability, in the near future. Several boys also have entered the Naval College at Halifax to train for H. M. Canadian Navy. The work of the Brigade is interesting in the extreme, and the invitation of the instructors to view the boys at work should be readily accepted.

AUTO RACER.

AND HERE'S HOW YOU MAKE IT

Our drawing may give a fellow the idea that this toy auto racer is a mighty complicated thing to make. But it isn't if you study the dimensions and parts carefully. It doesn't make much difference which piece you start on first, but let's begin with parts C and D, the bases of the body. Use straight-grained wood, not too hard. The only difference between the two pieces is the hole in D, where the part G fits.

The wheels next. Get them perfectly round. Drill a very small hole in the exact center of each wheel for a wire axle.

Next, cut from tin parts A and B, punching holes for the axle, which, of course, should turn freely. From 1/4-inch wire cut two pieces long enough to permit each piece to extend a little beyond the outside of the wheels on each side of the car. These are the axles. Insert them in A and B. Flatten the ends of the axles, and B. Flatten the ends of the axles, and B. Flatten the ends of the axles, and B.

Lay out and cut parts E and F. The works of an old alarm clock make the motor for the racer. It is best to place in the racer by means of two pieces of tin which rest across C and D. In each piece cut notches to conform with the shape of the frame of the clock works. This frame must be soldered to the two pieces of tin. Before doing so, however, you will need to locate the works in the frame of the car. The stem which held the hands of the clock, must fit into part G, which in turn fits into the hole in part D. Mark this location, then lay aside the works and the parts for a time.

Cut from tin the hood and body. Lay out the pattern in half inch squares. Start soldering and assembling now. Go back to the wheels and axle. Force the flattened ends of the axles through the wheels. With a knife make a small groove in each wheel around the end of the axle. Place solder in this groove at the hub. Let the solder form a hub. The tin forming the back of the body of the car should be soldered next. Then solder the clock works to the two braces previously prepared for it. Set the works on the frame of the auto.

A small hole must be made in the tin hood through which the winding stem of the motor projects. The body and hood are fastened to the parts E and F by means of small brads.

In attaching parts A and B to C and D, be sure that they are parallel to each other and at right angles to a line running lengthwise through the car.

Part I is the steering wheel. It is made from a piece of reed bent and fastened with a tiny piece of tin as at X. The cross-braces of the wheel are made by cutting a piece of tin in that shape and bending the ends to each other and at right angles to the wheel is made from reed. Bore a small hole in E and fit the upright into it.

When the machine has all been assembled thus far, solder a small piece of sheet-iron to the winding stem of the motor, which projects through the tin hood. This makes a handle for the steering wheel.

And after attaching a tight waxed string from G to H, your car is all ready for running.

Tommy Worked Hard To Avoid Work

I CAN'T go to school, I'm not well," Tommy wailed. "But, dear, what can I say to your teacher, this is the third day you have missed this week!" asked his mother despairingly.

"Well, say I was sick. I am not going," retorted Tommy, as he frowned over the breakfast table. Now, the truth of the matter was that Tommy had been detained the day before for not knowing his lessons, and was sure of the same treatment to-day, and for the same reason.

He had not meant to tell a lie, but it just slipped out. He was quite well, but it had been too easy to say he was not, and that, as you know is what happened. The incident passed, and Tommy settled down to a lazy day at home. His father returned for lunch. "What, why aren't you at school, young man?" "He said he was not feeling well," stated his mother. Tommy held his peace.

"Why, that is too bad, and I was going to take him to the theatre to-night," replied his father. "Oh, that will be great," piped Tommy, but it would not work. "No, sir, not well enough for work, not well enough for play," was the order, and Tommy sulked.

Supper time came, and there was a special treat for supper, one of Tommy's favorite dishes, and he had many favorite dishes, but this was in the nature of a treat that he would work well to obtain. He would even cut the grass, and pack in wood if his mother would make him this dish.

Tommy sat up to the table, his excitement plainly visible. His mother was helped, his sisters, his dad, but no plate came Tommy's way. "Aren't I going to have any?" he complained. "No, dear, this is much too rich for you, when you are not feeling well." Tommy sulked, but nobody seemed to worry.

Eight o'clock came around. "Now, Tommy, off to bed," said his dad. Usually Tommy went to bed at ten o'clock, after he had done his lessons for the next day, but he had no lessons to-night. Resistance was useless, he went to bed, and sulked.

It was a new Tommy that came downstairs the next day, he was ready for school. You see he had figured it out in the night. To miss school he had missed a show, a good treat, and had been sent to bed early. In fact his whole day had been spent doing things he had no wish to do, he would be better off at school, he thought, and so he went. Tommy was kept in that day, too, and for the same reason, but he bore it manfully, having learned a lesson.

Canadian Scouts Visiting in Seattle

A PARTY of thirty scout officers and patrol leaders of Vancouver and Victoria left yesterday afternoon for Seattle, where they will attend the Pacific Northwest Patrol Leaders Conference as the guests of the Seattle Boy Scouts. The B. C. delegation is headed by Provincial Commissioner Ross Sutherland, who crossed the previous day.

While in Seattle the boys will be the guests of the individual members of the Seattle scout troops, and will be entertained at their various homes. The Canadian party is made up of some twenty-five boys from Vancouver and some fifteen from this city, including scoutmasters, cubmasters and patrol leaders of the various troops. The invitation extended to the Canadian Boy Scouts is the first of its kind west of the Rockies and was eagerly responded to by the B. C. troops.

The provincial command of the scouts heartily welcomed the courteous invitation extended by the Seattle scouts and the cream of the scouting personnel will attend in Seattle for the three-day conference. The boys are to be entertained at several banquets and will have a thoroughly enjoyable time. It is held that this will be but the forerunner of many similar occasions of happy intercourse between Canadian and American scouts, both groups working for nearly the same ideals.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the city of Seattle alone had 2,000 scouts enrolled, functioning in some seventy different troops. Their training is very nearly alike to that of the Baden Powell Scout of Canada, though, of course, their individual regulations are slightly different.

Scouting in Canada is progressing favorable, according to the last census, including to the end of June last. There are now 35,069 scouts in the Canadian organizations, or an increase of 22 per cent over the previous year, when the total was 28,626.

Junior Riflemen Take Keen Interest In Medal Shoots

THAT better endowment for the future can a boy have than a clear eye and a steady nerve?

These two qualities are taught to a very marked extent by the knowledge of firearms and the ability to use them. Every boy has at some time in his career an intense longing to handle a rifle, and to be able to shoot well with that weapon. Usually the expense of a rifle and ammunition is more than the average boy can afford out of his pocket money.

The Winchester Junior Rifle Club, inaugurated by the Winchester Ammunition Company and conducted in this city under the auspices of Messrs. Plimley & Ritchie, View Street, give ample scope for all boys to indulge in their fancy in this direction, for the cost of the actual ammunition they use. Though inaugurated only last year, already the Victoria branch of the Winchester Rifle Club numbers a hundred and is increasing so steadily that the miniature range at Plimley & Ritchie's headquarters has been called into service for two nights a week.

Clarence Dibble has recently become connected with the miniature rifle club as an instructor and is meeting with a great measure of success. The boys are turning out in large numbers, and shoot in sections. Under a scheme of target shoots arranged by the parent ammunition company the boys are enabled to shoot for progressive medals, over sixty of which were won by local boys last year, and still more in the early part of this year. Several boys have graduated throughout various tests until they now stand as sharpshooters.

Under admirable guidance and able instructors the boys are taught to use a rifle and to take care of it in all its works. They are taught to be cautious with firearms and learn discipline in a very pleasant and easy manner. It is not a wise thing as a rule to let very young boys have rifles of their own, for the danger is great in uncertain hands, but here under instruction the young shots are developing into marksmen with a capacity for the work that promotes great if friendly rivalry between all groups. The Winchester Junior Rifle Club is now preparing for its Winter programme and additional boys will be taken on, the accommodation having been considerably enlarged. Full particulars may be obtained from G. W. Robinson, at Plimley & Ritchie, Ltd., who is in charge of the affairs of the club. Parents are taking a keen interest in the actual shooting, and last Summer many parents competed against their own boys in the series of weekly rifle shoots held in the basement of the store on View Street.

THE DAY'S RESULT

(By Edgar A. Guest.)

Is anybody happier because you passed his way?
Does anyone remember that you spoke to him to-day?
This day is almost over, and its toiling time is through;
Is there anyone to utter now a kindly word of you?

Did you give a cheerful greeting to the friend who came alone?
Or a chirlish sort of "Howdy" and then vanish in the throng?
Were you selfish, pure and simple, as you rushed along your way,
Or is some one mighty grateful for a deed you did to-day?

Can you say to-night, in parting with the day that's slipping fast,
That you helped a single brother of the many that you passed?
Is a single heart rejoicing over what you did or said?
Does a man whose hopes were fading now with courage look ahead?

Did you waste the day or use it, was it well or poorly spent?
Did you leave a trail of kindness or a scar of discontent?
As you close your eyes in slumber do you think that God would say
You have earned one more to-morrow by the work you did to-day?

The Prince of Wales.

Albert, as well as General Schreckenstein, was much affected. He was losing his favorite child, whose opening intelligence had already begun to display a marked resemblance to his own—an adoring pupil, who, in a few years, might have become an almost adequate companion. An ironic fate had determined that the daughter who was taken from him should be sympathetic, clever, interested in the arts and sciences, and endowed with a strong taste for memoranda, while not a single one of these qualities could be discovered in the son who remained. For certainly the Prince of Wales did not take after his father. Victoria's prayer had been unanswered, and with each succeeding year it became more obvious that Bertie was a true scion of the House of Brunswick. But these evidences of innate characteristics only served to redouble the efforts of his parents; it still might not be too late to incline the young branch, by ceaseless pressure and careful fastenings, to grow in the proper direction. Everything was tried. The boy was sent on a continental tour with the picked body of tutors, but the results were unsatisfactory. At his father's request he kept a diary, which, on his return, was inspected by the Prince. It was found to be distressingly meagre: what a multitude of highly interesting reflections might have been arranged under the heading: "The First Prince of Wales visiting the Pope!" But there was not a single one. "Le jeune prince plaist à tout le monde," old Metternich reported to Guizot, "mais avait l'air embarrassé et triste." On his seventeenth birthday a memorandum was drawn up over the names of the Queen and the Prince informing their eldest son that he was now entering upon the period of manhood, and directing him henceforward to perform the duties of a Christian gentleman. "Life is composed of duties," said the memorandum, "and in the due, punctual and cheerful performance of them the true Christian, true soldier, and true gentleman is recognized. . . . A new sphere of life will open for you in which you will have to be taught what to do and what not to do, a subject requiring study more important than any in which you have hitherto been engaged." On receipt of the memorandum Bertie burst into tears. At the same time another memorandum was drawn up, headed "confidential: for the guidance of the gentlemen appointed to attend on the Prince of Wales." This long and elaborate document laid down "certain principles" by which it is thought may conduce to the benefit of the Prince of Wales. "The qualities which distinguish a gentleman in society," continued this remarkable paper, "are:

- (1) His appearance, his deportment and dress.
- (2) The character of his relations with, and treatment of, others.
- (3) His desire and power to acquit himself creditably in conversation or whatever is the occupation of the society with which he mixes."

A minute and detailed analysis of these subheadings followed, filling several pages, and the memorandum ended with a final exhortation to the gentlemen: "If they will duly appreciate the responsibility of their position, and taking the points above laid down as the outline, will exercise their own good sense in acting upon all occasions upon these principles, thinking no point of detail too minute to be important, but maintaining one steady consistent line of conduct they may render essential service to the young Prince and justify the flattering selection made by the royal parents." A year later the young Prince was sent to Oxford, where the greatest care was taken that he should not mix with the undergraduates. Yes, everything had been tried—everything . . . with one single exception. The experiment had never been made of letting Bertie enjoy himself. But why should it have been? "Life is composed of duties." What possible place could there be for enjoyment in the existence of a Prince of Wales!

Baron Stockmar.

The same year which deprived Albert of the Princess Royal brought him another and a still more serious loss. The Baron had paid his last visit to England. For twenty years, as he himself said in a letter to the King of the Belgians, he had performed "the laborious and exhausting office of a paternal friend and trusted adviser" to the Prince and the Queen. He was seventy; he was tired, physically and mentally; it was time to go. He returned to his home in Coburg, exchanging, once for all, the momentous secrets of European statecraft for the little-tattle of a provincial capital and the gossip of family life. In his stiff chair by the fire he nodded now over old stories—not of emperors and generals—but of neighbors and relatives and the domestic adventures of long ago—the burning of his father's library—and the goat that ran upstairs to his sister's room and ran twice round the table and then ran down again. Dyspepsia and depression still attacked him; but, looking back over his life, he was not dissatisfied. His conscience was clear. "I have worked as long as I had strength to work," he said, "and for a purpose no one can impugn. The consciousness of this is my reward—the only one which I desired to earn."

Apparently, indeed, his "purpose" had been accomplished. By his wisdom, his patience, and his example he had brought about, in the fullness of time, the miraculous metamorphosis of which he had dreamed. The Prince was his creation. An indefatigable toiler, presiding for the highest ends, over a great nation—that was his achievement; and he looked upon his work and it was good. Put had the Baron no misgivings? Did he never wonder whether, perhaps, he might have accomplished not too little but too much? How subtle and how dangerous are the snares which fate lays for the wisest of men! Albert, certainly, seemed to be everything that Stockmar could have wished—virtuous, industrious, persevering, intelligent. And yet—why was it?—all was not well with him. He was sick at heart.

The Baron's Failure.

For in spite of everything he had never reached to happiness. His work, for which at last he came to crave with an almost morbid appetite, was a solace and not a cure; the dragon of his dissatisfaction devoured with dark relish that ever-growing tribute of laborious days and nights; but it was hungry still. The causes of his melancholy were hidden, mysterious, unanalysable perhaps—too deeply rooted in the innermost recesses of his temperament for the eye of reason to apprehend. There were contradictions in his nature, which, to some of those who knew him best, made him seem an inexplicable enigma; he was severe and gentle; he was modest and scornful; he longed for affection and he was cold. He was lonely, not merely with the loneliness of exile but with the loneliness of conscious and unrecognized superiority. He had the pride, at once resigned and overweening, of a doctrinaire. And yet to say that he was simply a doctrinaire would be a false description; for the pure doctrinaire rejoices always in an internal contentment, and Albert was very far from doing that. There was something that he wanted and that he could not get. What was it? Some absolute, some ineffable sympathy? Some extraordinary, some sublime success? Possibly, it was a mixture of both. To dominate and to be understood! To conquer, by the same triumphant influence, the submission and the appreciation of men—that would be worth while indeed! But, to such imaginations, he saw too clearly how faint were the responses of his actual environment. Who was there who appreciated him, really and truly? Who could appreciate him in England? And, if the gentle virtue of an inward excellence availed so little, could he expect more from the hard ways of skill and force? The terrible land of his exile loomed before him a frigid, an impenetrable mass. Doubtless he had made some slight impression; it was true that he had gained the respect of his fellow workers, that his hobby, his industry, his exactitude, had been recognized, that he was a highly influential, an extremely important man. But how far, how very far, was all this from the goal of his ambitions! How feeble and futile his efforts seemed against the enormous coagulation of dullness, of folly, of slackness, of ignorance, of confusion that confronted him! He might have the strength or the ingenuity to make some small change for the better here or there—to rearrange some detail, to abolish some anomaly, to insist upon some obvious reform; but the heart of the appalling organism remained untouched. England lumbered on, impervious and self-satisfied, in her old intolerant course. He threw himself across the path of the monster with rigid purpose and set teeth, but he was brushed aside. Yes; even Palmerston was still unconquered—was still there to afflict him with his jauntness, his middle-headedness, his utter lack of principle. It was too much. Neither nature nor the Baron had given him a sanguine spirit; the seeds of pessimism, once lodged within him, flourished in a propitious soil. He questioned things, and did not find one that would answer to his mind. And all the world appeared unkind.

He believed that he was a failure and he began to despair. Yet Stockmar had told him that he must "never relax," and he never would. He would go on, working to the utmost and striving for the highest, to the bitter end. His industry grew almost maniacal. Earlier and earlier was the green lamp lighted; more vast grew the correspondence; more searching the examination of the newspapers; the interminable memoranda more punctilious, analytical, and precise. His very recreations became duties. He enjoyed himself by time-table, went deer-stalking with meticulous gusto, and made puns at lunch—it was the right thing to do. The mechanism worked with astonishing efficiency, but it never rested and it was never oiled. In dry exactitude the innumerable cogwheels perpetually revolved. No, whatever happened, the Prince would not relax; he had absorbed the doctrines of Stockmar too thoroughly. He knew what was right, and, at all costs, he would pursue it. That was certain. But alas! in this our life what are the certainties? "In nothing be over-zealous!" says an old Greek. "The due measure in all the works of man is best. For often one who zealously pushes towards some excellence, though he is pursuing a gain, is really being led utterly astray by the will of some Power, which makes those things that are evil seem to him good, and those things seem to him evil that are for his advantage." Surely, both the Prince and the Baron might have learnt something from the frigid wisdom of Theognis.

Change in Albert.

Victoria noticed that her husband sometimes seemed to be depressed and overworked. She tried to cheer him up. Realizing uneasily that he was still regarded as a foreigner, she hoped that by conferring upon him the title of Prince Consort (1857) she would improve his position in the country. "The Queen has a right to claim that her husband should be an Englishman," she wrote. But unfortunately, in spite of the Royal Letters Patent, Albert remained as foreign as before; and as the years passed his dejection deepened. She worked with him, she watched over him, she walked with him through the woods at Osborne, while he whistled to the nightingales, as he had whistled once at Rosenau so long ago. When his birthday came round, she took the greatest pains to choose him presents that he would really like. In 1858, when he was thirty-nine, she gave him "a picture of Beatrice, life-size, in oil, by Horsley, a complete collection of photographic views of Gotha and the country round, which I had taken by Bedford, and a paper-weight of Balmoral granite and deers' teeth, designed by Vieky." Albert was of course delighted, and his merriment at the family gathering was more pronounced than ever; and yet . . . what was there that was wrong?

No doubt it was his health. He was wearing himself out in the service of the country; and certainly his constitution, as Stockmar had perceived from the first, was illadapted to meet a serious strain. He was easily upset; he constantly suffered from minor ailments. His appearance in itself was enough to indicate the infirmity of his physical powers. The handsome youth of twenty years since with the flashing eyes and the soft complexion had grown into a pallid, tired-looking man, whose fleshiness, betrayed the sedentary laborer, and whose head was quite bald on the top. Unkind critics, who had once compared Albert to an operative tennor, might have remarked that there was something of the butler about him now. Beside Victoria, he presented a painful contrast. She, too, was stout, but it was with the plumpness of a vigorous matron; and an eager vitality was everywhere visible—in her energetic bearing, her protruding, enquiring glances, her small, fat, capable and commanding hands. If only, by some sympathetic magic, she could have conveyed into that portly, flabby figure, that desiccated and discouraged brain, a measure of the stamina and the self-assurance which were so pre-eminently hers.

Narrow Escape.

But suddenly she was reminded that there were other perils besides those of ill-health. During a visit to Coburg in 1860, the Prince was very nearly killed in a carriage accident. He escaped with a few cuts and bruises; but Victoria's alarm was extreme, though she concealed it. "It is when the Queen feels most deeply," she wrote afterwards, "that she always appears calmest, and she could not and dared not allow herself to speak of what might have been, or even to admit to herself (and she cannot and dare not now) the entire danger, for her head would turn!" Her agitation, it was only surpassed by her thankfulness to God. She felt, she said, that she could not rest "without doing something to mark permanently her feelings," and she decided that she would endow a charity in Coburg, "£1,000, or even £2,000, given either at once, or in instalments yearly, would not, in the Queen's opinion, be too much." Eventually, the smaller sum having been fixed upon, it was invested in a trust, called the "Victoria-Stift," in the name of the Burgomaster and chief clergyman of Coburg, who were directed to distribute the interest yearly among a certain number of young men and women of exemplary character belonging to the humbler ranks of life.

Shortly afterwards the Queen underwent, for the first time in her life, the actual experience of close personal loss. Early in 1861 the Duchess of Kent was taken seriously ill, and in March she died. The event overwhelmed Victoria. With a morbid intensity, she filled her diary for pages with minute descriptions of her mother's last hours, his dissolution, and her corpse, interspersed with vehement apostrophes, and the agitated outpourings of emotional reflections. In the grief of the present the disagements of the past were totally forgotten! It was the horror and the mystery of Death—Death, present and actual—that seized upon the imagination of the Queen. Her whole being, so instinct with vitality, recoiled in agony from the grim spectacle of the triumph of that awful power. Her own mother, with whom she had lived so closely and so long that she had become a part almost of her existence, had fallen into nothingness before her very eyes! She tried to forget, but she could not. Her lamentations continued with a strange abundance, a strange persistency. It was almost as if, by some mysterious and unconscious preoccupation, she realized that for her, in an especial manner, that grisly Majesty had a dreadful dart in store.

Death of Albert.

For indeed, before the year was out, a far more terrible blow was to fall upon her. Albert, who had for long been suffering from sleeplessness, went, on a cold and dreaching day towards the end of November, to inspect the buildings for the new Military Academy at Sandhurst. On his return, it was clear that the fatigue and exposure to which he had been subjected had seriously affected his health. He was attacked by rheumatism, his sleeplessness continued, and he complained that he felt thoroughly unwell. Three days later a painful duty obliged him to visit Cambridge. The Prince of Wales, who had been placed at that University in the previous year, was behaving in such a manner that a parental visit and a parental admonition had become necessary. The disappointed father, suffering in mind and body, carried through his task; but, on his return journey to Windsor, he caught a fatal chill. During the next week he gradually grew weaker and more miserable. Yet, depressed and enfeebled as he was, he continued to work. It so happened that at that very moment a grave diplomatic crisis had arisen. Civil war had broken out in America, and it seemed as if England, owing to a violent quarrel with the Northern States, was upon the point of being drawn into the conflict. A severe despatch by Lord John Russell was submitted to the Queen; and the Prince perceived that, if it was sent off unaltered, war would be the almost inevitable consequence. At seven o'clock on the morning of December 1, he rose from his bed, and with a quivering hand wrote a series of suggestions for the alteration of the draft, by which its language might be softened, and a way left open for a peaceful solution of the question. These changes were accepted by the Government, and war was averted. It was the Prince's last memorandum.

He had always declared that he viewed the prospect of death with equanimity. "I do not cling to life," he had once said to Victoria. "You do; but I set no store by it." And then he had added: "I am sure, if I had a severe illness, I should give up at once, I should not struggle for life. I have no tenacity of life." He had judged correctly. Before he had been ill many days, he told a friend that he was convinced he would never recover. He sank and sank. Nevertheless, if his case had been properly understood and skillfully treated from the first, he might conceivably have been saved; but the doctors failed to diagnose his symptoms; and it is noteworthy that his principal physician was Sir James Clark. When it was suggested that other advice should be taken, Sir James pool-pooled the idea: "there was no cause for alarm," he said. But the strange illness grew worse. At last, after a letter of fierce remonstrance from Palmerston, Dr. Watson was sent for; and Dr. Watson saw at once that he had come too late. The Prince was in the grip of typhoid fever. "I think that everything so far is satisfactory," said Sir James Clark. The restlessness and the acute suffering of the earlier days gave place to a settled torpor and an ever-deepening gloom. Once the failing patient asked for music—"a fine chorale at a distance"; and a piano having been placed in the adjoining room, Princess Alice played on it some of Luther's hymns, after which the Prince repeated "The Rock of Ages." Sometimes his mind wandered; sometimes the distant past came rushing upon him; he heard the birds in the early morning, and was at Rosenau again, a boy. Or Victoria would come and read to him "Perveril of the Peak," and he showed that he could follow the story, and then she would bend over him, and he would murmur "liebes Frauechen" and "gutes Weibchen," stroking her cheek. Her distress and her agitation were great, but she was not seriously frightened. Buoyed up by her own abundant energies, she would not believe that Albert's might prove unequal to the strain. She declined to see Dr. Watson. Why should she? Had not Sir James Clark assured her that all would be well? Only two days before the end, which was seen now to be almost inevitable by everyone about her, she wrote, full of apparent confidence, to the King of the Belgians: "I do not sit up with him at night," she said, "as I could be of no use; and there is nothing to cause alarm." The Princess Alice tried to tell her the truth, but her hopefulness would not be daunted. On the morning of December 14, Albert, just as she had expected, seemed to be better; perhaps the crisis was over. But in the course of the day there was a serious relapse. Then at last she allowed herself to see that she was standing on the edge of an appalling gulf. The whole family was summoned, and, one after another, the children took a silent farewell of their father. "It was a terrible moment," Victoria wrote in her diary, "but, thank God! I was able to command myself, and to be perfectly calm, and remained sitting by his side." He murmured something, but she could not hear what it was; she thought he was speaking in French. Then all at once he began to arrange his hair, "just as he used to do when well and he was dressing." "Es ist kleines Franchen," she whispered to him; and he seemed to understand. For a moment, towards the evening, she went in to another room, but was immediately called back; she saw at a glance that a ghastly change had taken place. As she knelt by the bed, he breathed deeply, breathed gently, breathed at last no more. His features became perfectly rigid; she shrieked one long wild shriek that rang through the terror-stricken castle—and understood that she had lost him for ever.

CHAPTER VII. Widowhood.

The death of the Prince Consort was the central turning-point in the history of Queen Victoria. She herself felt that her true life had ceased with her husband's, and that the remainder of her days upon earth was of a twilight nature—an epilogue to a drama that was done. Nor is it possible that her biographer should escape a sinister impression. For him, too, there is a darkness over the latter half of that long career. The first forty-two years of the Queen's life are illuminated by a great and varied quantity of authentic information. With Albert's death a veil descends; only occasionally, at fitful and disconnected intervals, does it lift for a moment or two; a few main outlines, a few remarkable details may be discerned; the rest is all conjecture and ambiguity. Thus, though the Queen survived her great bereavement for almost as many years as she had lived before it, the chronicle of those years can bear no proportion to the tale of her earlier life. We must be content in our ignorance with a brief and summary relation.

The sudden removal of the Prince was not merely a matter of overwhelming personal concern to Victoria; it was an event of national, of European importance. He was only forty-two, and in the ordinary course of nature he might have been expected to live at least thirty years longer. Had he done so it can hardly be doubted that the whole development of the English polity would have been changed. Already at the time of his death he filled a unique place in English public life; already among the inner circle of politicians he was accepted as a necessary and useful part of the mechanism of the State. Lord Clarendon, for instance, spoke of his death as "a national calamity of far greater importance than the public dream of," and lamented the loss of his "sagacity and foresight," which, he declared, would have been "more than ever valuable" in the event of an American war. And, as time went on, the Prince's influence must have enormously increased. For, in addition to his intellectual and moral qualities, he enjoyed, by virtue of his position, one supreme advantage which every other holder of high office in the country was without: he was permanent. Politicians came and went, but the Prince was perpetually installed at the centre of affairs. Who can doubt, that, towards the end of the century, such a man, grown grey in the service of the nation, virtuous, intelligent, and with the unexampled experience of a whole life-time of government, would have acquired an extraordinary prestige? If, in his youth, he had been able to pit the Crown against the mighty Palmerston and to come off with equal honors from the contest, of what might he not have been capable in his old age? What Minister, however able, however popular, could have withstood the wisdom, the irrefragability, the vast prescriptive authority, of the venerable Prince? It is easy to imagine how, under such a ruler, an attempt might have been made to convert England into a State as exactly organized, as elaborately trained, as efficiently equipped, and as automatically controlled, as Prussia herself. Then perhaps, eventually, after some powerful leader—a Gladstone or a Bright—the democratic forces of the country might have followed in which the Monarchy would have been shaken to its foundations. Or, on the other hand, Disraeli's hypothetical prophecy might have come true. "With Prince Albert," he said, "we have buried our sovereign. This German Prince has governed England for twenty-one years with a wisdom and energy such as none of our kings have ever shown. . . . If he had outlived some of our 'old stagers' he would have given us the blessings of absolute government."

The English Constitution—that indescribable entity—is a living thing, growing with the growth of men, and assuming ever-varying forms in accordance with the subtle and complex laws of human character. It is the child of wisdom and chance. The wise men of 1688 moulded it into the shape we know; but the chance that George I could not speak English gave it one of its essential peculiarities—the system of a Cabinet independent of the Crown and subordinate to the Prime Minister. The wisdom of Lord Grey saved it from petrification and destruction, and set it upon the path of Democracy. The chance intervened once more; a female sovereign happened to marry an able and pertinacious man; and it seemed likely that an element which had been quiescent within it for years—the element of irresponsible administrative power—was about to become its predominant characteristic and to change completely the direction of its growth. But what chance gave chance took away. The Consort perished in his prime; and the English Constitution, dropping the dead limb with hardly a tremor, continued its mysterious life as if he had never been.

One human being, and one alone, felt the full force of what had happened. The Baron, by his fireside at Coburg, suddenly saw the tremendous fabric of his creation crash down into sheer and irremediable ruin. Albert was gone, and he had lived in vain. Even his blackest hypochondria had never envisioned quite so miserable a catastrophe. Victoria wrote to him, visited him, tried to console him by declaring with passionate conviction that she would carry on her husband's work. He smiled a sad smile and looked into the fire. Then he murmured that he was going where Alberta was—that he would not be long. He shrank into himself. His children clustered round him and did their best to comfort him, but it was useless; the Baron's heart was broken. He lingered for eighteen months, and then, with his pupil, explored the shadow and the dust.

Her Sore Affliction.

II.

With appalling suddenness Victoria had exchanged the serene radiance of happiness for the utter darkness of woe. In the first dreadful moments those about her had feared that she might lose her reason, but the iron strain within her held firm, and in the intervals between the intense paroxysms of grief it was observed that the Queen was calm. She remembered, too, that Albert had always disapproved of exaggerated manifestations of feeling, and her one remaining desire was to do nothing but what he would have wished. Yet there were moments when her royal anguish would brook no restraints. One day she sent for the Duchess of Sutherland, and leading her to the Prince's room, fell prostrate before his clothes in a flood of weeping, while she adjured the Duchess to tell her whether the beauty of Albert's character had ever been surpassed. At other times a feeling akin to indignation swept over her. "The poor fatherless baby of eight months," she wrote to the King of the Belgians, "is now the utterly heart-broken and crushed widow of forty-two! My life as a happy one is ended! The world is gone for me! . . . Oh! to be cut off in the prime of life—to see our pure, happy, quiet, domestic life, which alone enabled me to bear my much disliked position, cut off at forty-two—wien! I had hoped with such instinctive certainty that God never would part us, and would let us grow old together (though he always talked of the shortness of life)—is too awful, too cruel!" The tone of outraged Majesty seems to be discernible. Did she wonder in her heart of hearts how the Deity could have dared!

But all other emotions gave way before her overmastering determination to continue, absolutely unchanged, and for the rest of her life on earth, her reverence, her obedience, her idolatry. "I am anxious to repeat one thing," she told her uncle, "and that one is my firm resolve, by irrevocable decision, viz., that his wishes—his plans—about everything, his views about everything that are to be my law! And no human power will make me swerve from what he decided and wished." She grew fiercer, she grew fiercer, at the thought of any possible intrusion between her and her desire. Her uncle was coming to visit her, and it flashed upon her that he might try to interfere with her and seek to "rule the roast" as of old. She would give him a hint. "I am also determined," she wrote, "that no one person—may be ever so good, ever so devoted among my servants—is to lead or guide or dictate to me. I know how he would disapprove it. . . . Though miserably weak and utterly shattered, my spirit rises when I think any wish or plan of his is to be touched or changed, or I am to be made to do anything." She ended her letter in grief and affection. She was, she said, "ever wretched but devoted child, Victoria R." And then she looked at the date: it was the 24th of December. An agonizing pang assailed her, and she dashed down a postscript—"What a Xmas! I won't think of it."

At first, in the tumult of her distresses, she declared that she could not see her Ministers, and the Princess Alice, assisted by Sir Charles Phipps, the keeper of the Privy Purse, performed, to the best of her ability, the functions of an intermediary. After a few weeks, however, the Cabinet, through Lord John Russell, ventured to warn the Queen that this could not continue. She realized that they were right: Albert would have agreed with them; and so she sent for the Prime Minister. But when Lord Palmerston arrived at Osborne, in the pink of health, brisk, with his whiskers freshly dyed, and dressed in a brown overcoat, tight grey trousers, green gloves, and blue studs, he did not create a very good impression. You need not rub

You need not boil your clothes

If you have a washing machine—

Foot the clothes overnight in the Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

The wonderful new soap in granules, just soaks the dirt out of your clothes in a few hours. No need to use the wash board or boiler.

Moreover, Rinso saves your clothes. In these pure, cleansing suds they soak as safely as in water alone. There are no harsh chemicals to eat the fabric. Just rich, pure, suds, so mild they do not even redden your hands.

B. C. TO SAVE MONEY ON SCHOOLS

New Buildings All on Modest Lines

Domestic Science and Summer Schools Attacked

Matters pertaining to the erection of new schools in British Columbia were discussed in the Legislature.

Thomas Pearson, Conservative member for Richmond, suggested a standardization policy, pointing out that in some districts buildings were erected costing three times as much as buildings serving the same purpose in other parts of the province. He referred to one school in South Vancouver which cost $52,000 and another in Point Grey, which cost $175,000. Both served about the same purpose.

Hon. Dr. MacLean, Minister of Education, explained that the schools which were being erected now in British Columbia were along modest lines. Every effort was being made to economize, and while at times all the latest improvements were not being included, still it was felt by the department that the safest course was being followed.

Mr. Pearson took exception to the increase in the vote for the examination of papers prepared by students. The minister claimed there was no room for this criticism, since British Columbia had the lowest per capita examination cost of any province. It meant the expenditure of 26 cents to examine the papers of a student in British Columbia, 33 cents in Alberta and 28 cents in Manitoba. He thought this showing should warrant the expenditure.

The increased cost of carrying pupils to consolidated schools was criticized, until the minister explained that many more students had to be carried from their homes and back again, owing to the consolidation of rural schools. However, the general idea had been to save costs and provide the best service possible, and he claimed that this had been accomplished.

Vote 105, for $3,600, to provide scholarships in France, was withdrawn. An argument arose over vote 106, for $2,000, to provide reading matter for loggers and men in camps in various parts of the province.

Samuel Guthrie, Socialist member for Newcastle, asked that the vote be withdrawn, since he considered that the literature provided did little good. He said if the government would substitute the "Federationist" or good O. R. U. literature, he might support the vote. The loggers would appreciate something that would put sense into their heads, but he doubted the wisdom of the present expenditure.

Hon. Dr. MacLean explained that the $3,000 was spent to furnish books of fiction and travel for the entertainment of the men in the camps. The vote was put and carried.

Dealing with the vote covering the Oakalla prison, Canon Hinchcliffe said

WHAT MR. IVEL STANDS FOR

WM. M. IVEL
The Only Liberal Candidate

A Greater Victoria—By promotion of trade, development of the Harbor, creation of a Free Port, utilization of Outer Docks, and commercial use of Esquimalt Harbor.

Completion of C. N. R. in accordance with agreement, and establishment of terminals.

Thorough Revision of C. N. R. Management—A policy of making it pay its way, development of lands and industries along lines—Accounts must be subject to examination in Parliament—No interlocking Directorates.

Freight Rates—The West should be on same basis as East.

Extension of trade agreements, especially within Empire, to find outlet for our timber, minerals, farm products, fisheries and manufactures.

Total exclusion of Oriental labor.

Development of Canadian Trade on the Pacific and businesslike operation of C. N. Merchant Marine, making Victoria its base.

Soldiers—General investigation into and equitable settlement of re-establishment and pensions matters. Equalization of pensions irrespective of rank. Pensions to provide a reasonable living at lowance in view of circumstances in each particular case. First preference in Civil Service to disabled men, next to other returned men; all things being equal.

Tariff for Revenue—In the interest of the consumer, not the monopolist.

A National Rediscout Bank—So that local banks can be established, competition in banking secured, and the money of Canada kept in Canada for development of Canada.

*Group Domination
—A Menace
to the development of Canada and the unity of our people*

THE original movement out of which the Crerar policy has developed, was set in motion by a group of grain traders in the West, headed by Wood, a Missourian, for the sole purpose of controlling Western wheat. The main interest of both Crerar and Wood, is not the raising of, but the exploitation of wheat.

As selfish interests were the foundation of the movement, so in its development selfishness continued to be its chief characteristic.

In fact, so selfish and dangerous has Crerar's policy become that a number of the men who originally took a leading part in the movement, men highly respected in farming communities, such public-spirited and patriotic men as Clark, Fletcher, Henders, Ferguson and others, have withdrawn from Crerar's group and have repudiated his plans as a step towards national suicide.

Crerar advocates everything for the special benefit of his group without regard to the great majority of the people and with no thought for the welfare of the Dominion as a whole.

He is committed to his group to destroy every vestige of the Tariff and introduce Free Trade—which would surely destroy the industries of our towns and cities, throwing many thousands of Canadian men and women out of work and driving them to the United States for a livelihood.

Crerar's policy presents Group Domination in a most menacing form, and as Fletcher said:

"We must stamp out this system as we would deal with a dreaded disease and we have a right to expect the assistance of all people who respect Canadian institutions."

that he intended to investigate complaints regarding the incarceration of men and women in that institution.

R. H. Pooley, member for Esquimalt, asserted that domestic science should be taught at home and not in the schools when the vote of $2,500 for a supervisor of domestic science came up. He said that he himself could go out and cook a roast or joint as well as anyone, and he had never taken a domestic science course in any school.

These pupils are given a lot of stuff that will be of no use to them unless they are going as chefs or something like that down at the Empress Hotel," Mr. Pooley said. "The place to begin to cut is right here."

The Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Education, explained that instruction in domestic science was optional with the local school authorities and the vote passed.

On the item of $78,220 for inspection of schools, Dr. MacLean quoted figures to show that this Province carries out its school inspection at a lower unit cost than any Western province, quoting the rates at $1.12 for Saskatchewan, $1.14 for Alberta and 85 cents for British Columbia.

Mr. Pooley also attacked the item of $10,000 for Summer schools, calling Summer schools "only half shakes and good times at the cost of the people." He declared that the department of education was the worst in the Government, and urged that inspection of schools be done away with for a couple of years, and the money saved to the Province.

J. W. Jones, member for South Okanagan, said there was duplication in inspection work between the municipalities and the Province, as both maintained their inspection services in the municipalities, and urged that the two should get together to cut down expenses.

Dr. MacLean replied that Mr. Pooley should visit the schools himself and see the work that is being done. He pointed out that as far as the Province was concerned it was incumbent on it to see that the standard of instruction was kept up in all schools, no matter what the municipalities did.

Both the votes passed.

In reply to Mr. Ewaser, Dr. MacLean said that the per capita grant from the Government to the cities and municipalities for schools was at the same rate this year as last. The increase in population was responsible for the increase in the vote for cities and municipalities from $1,070,000 last year to $1,110,000 this year.

Advent Sunday at St. John's

—Sunday being the First Sunday in advent there will be Holy Communion in St. John's Church at 8 a. m. and also at the 11 o'clock service. In the evening the pastor, Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will commence a series of advent sermons based upon the second lessons for each Sunday, the 24th and 26th chapters of St. Matthew. According to the canon of the synod the offertories for the day will be devoted to the Diocesan Mission Fund.

Bishop of Saskatchewan.—The Anglican Synod of the diocese of Saskatchewan will meet on St. Andrew's day, Wednesday, November 30, for the special purpose of electing a bishop to succeed Bishop Newham who recently retired after many years' service in the Canadian North West.

ADVENT SEASON TO OPEN TO-MORROW

Bishop Appeals for Church Attendance and Support

Sunday, November 27, will be especially observed in all Anglican churches to-morrow as Advent Sunday and the beginning of a new church year. Throughout the diocese of Columbia, it has been the custom for many years to give members of the Church of England the opportunity on Advent Sunday to participate in the larger work of the Church—carried on in Vancouver Island and surrounding islands, and maintained through the Diocesan Mission Fund.

The advent season, which according to ancient Christian precedent, begins on Sunday nearest to St. Andrew's Day, November 30, is marked by certain outstanding features in the liturgical services of the Anglican Church, all designed to "prepare for and lead up to the more joyous welcome of the Christmas festival."

The bishop of the diocese, Right Rev. C. D. Schofield, is appealing for more general church attendance by Church of England people. While encouraging reports of progress in church work have been gathered from many parishes in the diocese, it is hoped that many Anglican Church members who have become irregular in attending public worship on Sundays, will start afresh the habit of church attendance from Advent Sunday. To these an appeal is made to take a new interest in the Church, in the progress of its existence and to share with all fellow-church members in its maintenance and support.

Diocesan Work Reviewed.

During the year, church people in the Diocese of Columbia have contributed generously to the many objects of the Anglican Forward Movement. At the present time the Columbia diocese is possibly unique among Canadian dioceses in the fact that there is no parish or mission in the Forward Movement, salaries of all clergymen working in the diocese have been increased to approach a living wage, but with the full number at present employed in all parishes and missions, most of which are not supporting entirely the work carried on in their communities, further necessary assistance is granted from the Diocesan Mission Fund.

CHRISTIANIZING CANADIAN ORIENTALS

Rev. S. S. Osterhout, Ph. D., superintendent of Oriental missions of the Methodist Church, returned last week from the East. He attended the annual meeting of the general board of missions of the Methodist Church and also an important meeting of various churches engaged in work among the Chinese in Canada. This meeting was interdenominational and was held in Toronto. The object of the conference was to reach some uniform method of carrying on work among the Chinese. There are now some 400 Chinese in Toronto, 4,000 in Montreal, 450 in Ottawa and smaller number in many Eastern cities. The meeting was very harmonious and was able to make some plans that will mean the betterment of the work.
On his way home Dr. Osterhout visited Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Cranbrook, Kelowna and other places in the interest of his work. At Kelowna the Japanese mission members have made a canvass for funds for the erection of a suitable building for the mission and $5,000 has been subscribed. Funds have been prepared and have received the approval of the mission board. Dr. Osterhout is well pleased with the work at the missions. He is visited from Montreal to Vancouver and found the workers gathering around them enthusiastic congregations, bringing the touch of rising civilization to the Orientals of Canada.

ORGANIST FOR ST. LUKE'S

F. Kidgell, of Woodley, near Reading, England, has been appointed organist at St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill. For a number of years Mr. Kidgell has been organist at Woodley Church and elsewhere in the Old Land, while his first appointment in Canada was as organist at St. Philip's Church, Toronto, where he served until he went to Calgary to fill the position of organist at St. John's Church. He has come here from Penticton after spending the Summer in the Okanagan. Mr. Kidgell is also a composer, among his being the music which he wrote for Queen Victoria's thanksgiving service in 1857.

AN HISTORIC CHURCH.

At the Thanksgiving service last week at St. Mary's, Sapperton, New Westminster, many references were made to the early history of this famous little church, built by the Royal Engineers. Among the audience was Mrs. Devoy, one of those who came round the Horn in 1859.
Mrs. Sillitoe recounted some very interesting reminiscences of early days at St. Mary's when many distinguished visitors, including Sir John A. Macdonald and three Governors-General, one of whom was the Marquis of Lorne and his wife, Princess Louise, were guests of Bishop and Mrs. Sillitoe at St. Mary's Mount and attended St. Mary's Church. She also described some of the difficulties and hardships of those pioneer days.
Mrs. Patchell spoke of some of the early clergy, beginning with Archdeacon Woods, and she commended the work of the present vicar, Rev. F. Plaskett, and of his faithful band of workers in the Women's Auxiliary. The vicar gave an account of the work of restoration.

NOT even the "Lady of Quality" could escape the trying calls of baking in Norman days. Not though she lived in a great stone castle, with serfs to do her will! She still found it necessary to superintend every stage—from the mixing of the dough to the rising of the loaf and its baking, processes calling for watchful care. How the Norman "Lady of Quality" would have envied you—no need even to superintend baking, but with Shelly's 4X Bread delivered to you daily, unfailingly fresh and sweet, with thin, toothsome crust always evenly "golden-brown."

As a Result of Treating the Trouble Through the Blood.
The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that most quickly relieves and banishes the pain. J. Knight to Appeal for Famine Stricken People Joseph Knight, who spent five months in Russia early this year, will address a meeting in the Trades Hall, Broad Street, at 8 o'clock next Wednesday.
Mr. Knight has a wonderful story to tell of the way Russia is meeting the problems of education, child welfare work, and other matters. Large audiences in many cities of Canada have eagerly listened to him during the past few months.
A special collection will be taken for the purpose of sending food supplies to the famine-stricken districts of Russia where millions are facing starvation. If Victoria's contribution is at all proportionate to the sum contributed in several other cities, substantial help will be sent forward.

FIFTEEN BOILS ON NECK AT ONE TIME
Any one who has suffered from boils can sympathize with poor old Job.
There was no Burdock Blood Bitters in those days, so Job had to suffer in silence. Now-a-days no one need endure the misery of boils.
Boils are simply evidences of the bad blood within coming to the surface and just when you get rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.
All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not stop more coming.
What you have to do is take BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS and the blood will be cleaned of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.
Mr. Roy McSwain, High Bank, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with boils for some time, and had as many as fifteen on my neck at once. After taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, they commenced to get better, and after I had taken two bottles I was relieved of them and felt much better. I think B. B. B. is a grand blood medicine, and can recommend it highly."
For the past 45 years B. B. B. has been manufactured only by The E. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. (Adv't.)

LIFE OF WILLIAM MORRIS
Before The Theosophical Society in their rooms 101 Union Bank Building on Sunday at 8 o'clock, John Kyle, A. R. C. A. London will deliver an illustrated lecture on "William Morris—his Life and Work." Mr. Kyle is well known throughout British Columbia and may well be described as a disciple of the great poet and craftsman, William Morris. Probably no one influence has been so great as the life and work of Morris at the close of the last century in bringing some sense of reality and beauty into the life of the British people in their homes, in the communal life and in their work. Morris declared a man's joy should be in his work. Much yet remains to be done in this direction and doubts edly in the hands of Mr. Kyle. Fresh inspiration will be given to all his hearers. The meeting is free and all are welcome.

GAME BOARD PROBE ADJOURNED TO SIT IN VANCOUVER
Commissioner Shaw Will Subpoena Members to Attend

The Game Board probe closed here yesterday afternoon with an adjournment until Thursday afternoon next, when the commission will sit in Vancouver. Commissioner Magistrate H. C. Shaw of Vancouver announced that he would subpoena every member of the Game Conservation Board, as well as Inspector Owen of the Vancouver Provincial Police, now acting as game inspector, and the secretary of the Board. The books of the Board are also to be produced before the commission. In the afternoon session of the commission sitting as an inquiry into the acts of Dr. Albert Richard Baker, Chairman of the Game Conservation Board, and J. A. Hird, Chief Game Warden, two witnesses were heard, Thomas Cole and W. G. Walter.

Two Witnesses.
In reply to J. N. Ellis, K.C., counsel for the Government, Mr. Cole gave evidence of letters of instruction to himself from the Board requesting an investigation in the activities of Robert N. Campbell and his brother, regarding the collection of certain royalties. The royalties collected amounted to $102.62 of which $44 was for marten.

William G. Walter, late game warden of this district for a year, and discharged by the Board on August 31 last, gave evidence of his interview in relation to Dr. Baker. Witness claimed there was a discrepancy between the statements of Dr. Baker to himself and in the answers of the latter to the questions of R. H. Hooley in the House.
Witness stated that he had been told that his services were no longer required, as the Board was making a reduction in its staff, but some days later witness had heard that three additional men were appointed in this district alone, and the shooting season was then about to open, with its need for greater vigilance.

Alleges Discrepancy.
Witness stated that in his reply to the questions in the House Dr. Baker had said that the witness was discharged on a request from the Chief Game Inspector, but that latter individual had told witness he had not heard of the matter at all, and certainly made no request. Witness stated he had a letter from the late game inspector Hird which stated that in the opinion of the writer the witness had got a "raw deal."
Dr. Baker, stated witness had further told the House the employment of the witness had been but temporary, while witness was a regular member of the civil service, and had his superannuation allowance taken off in the regular manner.
Under cross-examination by Donald Donaghy, counsel for Dr. Baker, witness stated he had been laid off, but re-instated shortly before the end of last year. He had been reinstated following an interview with Mr. Whiteside, M.P.P., for New Westminster.
At this stage the Commissioner decided to examine Mr. Hird in Vancouver, and to resume the sitting here.

Before announcing an adjournment Magistrate Shaw asked all present if they could give evidence or know of others who were in a position to tender their names to J. N. Ellis, K.C., counsel for the Government, "before the Vancouver sitting, which will be held on Thursday afternoon next, and so advertised."
