NOMURA, Gihei

1. Through all his life the subject person made remarkable efforts towards the respect of personality and security of freedom.

(1) The subject person took every possible measures not to arouse insecurity in daily life for arresting and investigating the persons involved. That is to say, the said person gave warnings to the employers and then released their employees so that the employees might not be expelled or not be treated with distinction on the pretext of investigation. And, as for the investigation of students, the subject person maintained a close contact with the school authorities that the students might not be disturbed in their studies, and never failed to make investigation after school and make them return home without keeping them at a house of detention even if it was deemed necessary.

(2) In autumn, 1936 when a grand military manoeuver was held in Hokkaido, the subject person departed from the precedent in case of guarding and defensing, and did not carry out preparatory arrest. And, as to the visit of the said manoeuver, the said person abolished all the precautions other than was necessary, in order that all the people might enjoy the visit. And again, the said person did not control the freedom of information under the control of police; on the contrary the said person supported the persons concerned with information, by accommodating the convenience for information materials.

(3) In 1939, the subject person abolished the personal detention as the means of arrest and inspection of the suspected persons for breach of the Election Law.

X

2. The subject person was strongly opposed to the Fascistization of administration during the time of War.

(1) As he took, in the so-called "Imperial Rule Assistance Election" of 1942, an absolutely neutral attitude, the subject person was looked upon as a liberalist, but, in the law-suit of election, the said person was testified, by the Opposits Party, to be fair and impartial.

(2) At the time when the Triple Alliance of Japan, Germany and Italy was concluded, a Rightist-like person resident in Fukuoka City proposed that he would hold a congratulatory mass-meeting, but the subject person did not give an approval thereto, being blamed for liberalist or pro-British or American.

SATO, Shozo

1. In 1941, the subject person was ordered by the Ministry of Home Affairs to go and stay in Berlin, but, during his stay there, was opposed to the militaristic politics of Nazi Germany, and often submitted a report to the effect that the dictatorial Nazi Germany would soon be defeated.

As is shown in above instances, the subject person was strongly opposed to the policy of militaristic or ultra-nationalistic politics, and from first to last the subject person continued to support free and democratic politics.

2. The subject person made efforts for the conclusion of the War.

Upon returning from Germany in June 1945, the subject person made a suggestion to the upper circles of the Ministry of Home Affairs and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for the immediate conclusion of the reckless War, thus making efforts for conclusion of the War.

3. The subject person did not forget to make much of personality on the occasion of arresting the persons involved in the case.

(1) At the very time when the subject person was obliged to arrest the persons involved in the case, the said person was cautions enough to treat the arrested, making a personal interview with them and never resorting to the method of inhuman treatment of the torturer.

(2) The subject person was never spoken of bitterly by the arrested; for instance, one of the arrested persons called Hirose so and so admires the humanistic treatment of the subject person.

As in shown in above instances, the subject person made it a rule to make much of personality on the basis of humanism, and made efforts towards the democratic management of police affairs.
