PREFACE

THE Official Golf Guide for 1902 will be found to contain two hundred more clubs than have ever been included in a similar work. No effort has been spared to make it as complete and accurate as possible, and this end has been attainable only through the co-operation and assistance of the secretaries of the various golf organizations of the country. Date forms were sent to every club which was known to exist, and any inaccuracies in the club reports must be attributed to the fact that from some clubs replies were not received at all, or reached the editor too late for insertion. The editor wishes to thank all those officers of golf clubs and associations who have assisted him in making the guide a complete and authentic record. The articles on special topics by Messrs. Travis, Beach, Lockwood and others have been written from a practical standpoint, and they should be found of particular value to the promoters and organizers of clubs in localities where professional advice and assistance is not obtainable.

Acknowledgments are due to Messrs. Harper & Brothers for permission to reproduce many copyrighted illustrations from Golf.

“The New Domestic”

Embodies TWO distinct principles, viz.:—One for making the double or LOCK STITCH, the other for making the single or CHAIN STITCH. It is practically TWO machines in ONE.

In making a garment that you know must soon be changed or altered, as frequently is the case with children's clothing, use the LOOPER, which makes the CHAIN STITCH and can readily be ripped. The new machine is RAPID, QUIET and VERY FASCINATING. The ATTACHMENTS are a marvel of mechanical ingenuity. The RUFFLER not only ruffles or gathers, but it also plaits, something that has never before been accomplished by one attachment.

MACHINES FOR RENT by the WEEK or MONTH, and sold on easy monthly payments

REMODELING A GOLF COURSE

By Walter J. Travis

Many of our golf courses are badly laid out, both in respect to the distance of the majority of the holes and also to the disposition of the bunkers. This may be regarded as inevitably incident to the game in its primary stage, as most of our courses are less than seven years old, and at the outset they were planned largely with reference to the then existent standard of average play, which was necessarily not very high, without taking sufficiently into account the certain development bound to follow.

The great improvement in the game in recent years has been marked by the reconstruction on a more or less extensive scale—determined largely by availability of ground—of many links; in fact, it is not too much to say that wherever the opportunity for expanding, of more properly adjusting the distance of many of the holes, lengthening some and shortening others, has offered itself, most of our older clubs have embraced it. And many more would follow suit if space permitted. Even where there is no chance of stretching out, from lack of ground, much may be done toward effecting improvement. A long course does not necessarily mean a good course, any more than a short one means a poor one. Let me illustrate my meaning more forcibly by concrete examples of holes, both good and weak, on some of our best-known links. Let us take a few of the good ones first.

The eighth hole at St. Andrews, New York, is a very fine one—an iron shot only. The green is well guarded by a brook diagonally in front, a dry ditch to the right and rough grass elsewhere. The second hole at Garden City ranks in the same class—an immense sand pit yawning some fifteen yards or so from the tee clear across to the green, a semicircular bunker beyond and rough grass elsewhere. Both greens are large and about the same distance, between 140 and 150 yards. Other good holes of the same type are the 11th at Knollwood; the 5th at Fox Hills; the 13th at Ekwanok; the 7th at Essex County; the 10th at Wissahickon; the 5th at Baltimore; the 6th at Jacksonville; the 10th at Ardsley; the 9th at Wheaton; the 5th at Apawamis, and the 3d and 16th at Tuxedo.

Other good single-shot holes, somewhat longer, are the 4th at Meadowbrook; the 5th at Shinnecock Hills; the 10th at Lakewood; the 8th at Atlantic City; the 2d at Dyker Meadow; the 15th at Morris County; the 11th at Nassau; the 3d at Cedarhurst; the 1st at Richmond Hill; the 12th at Scranton, and the 2d at Onwentsia.

Of holes calling for two really good shots, the following are worthy of especial notice: The 5th and 12th at Nassau; the 15th and 16th at Lakewood; the 11th at Onwentsia; the 3d, 8th and 15th at Garden City; the 8th at Oakland; the 18th at Wheaton; the 9th at Atlantic City; the 12th at Ekwanok; the 9th at St. Andrews; the 5th at Westbrook; the 12th at Fox Hills; the 11th at Apawamis; the 4th at Morris County, and the 7th at Philadelphia Country Club. Altogether, apart from the hazards incidental to these holes, the distances are so admirably arranged that they would always be first-class, innocent of any bunkers whatever.

Of other two-shot holes which are very fine, but which possess merit not by reason of but despite their distance, and are converted from absolute mediocrity to the first rank solely by the attendant hazards, the following are splendid examples: The 5th, 6th, 9th and 12th at Garden City; the 7th at Lakewood; the 16th at Essex County; the 8th at Wissahickon; the 9th at Dyker Meadow; the 6th at Fox Hills; the 15th at Tuxedo; the 1st at Westchester Golf Club; 1st at Knollwood; 3d, 4th and 11th at St. Andrews; the 18th at Apawamis, and 2d at Shinnecock Hills.

Probably the best of the three-shot holes are the 13th at Morris County; 13th at Garden City; 5th at Lakewood; 12th at Onwentsia; 5th at Oakland; 5th at Atlantic City; 9th at Ekwanok, and the 7th at Dyker Meadow.

Now let us turn to some weak holes, confining ourselves to the courses already referred to. Single-shot holes it is unnecessary to dwell upon, as anything from 100 yards as the minimum to 200 yards as the maximum can scarcely fail to have merit, unless ruined by injudicious bunkering, as, for instance, a hazard say 170 yards from the tee on a 200-yard hole.

There is, unfortunately, a wealth of material to draw upon in poor two-shot holes. I will simply confine myself to a few of those of the more pronounced type. These are: The 2d at St. Andrews; 3d at Fox Hills; 1st and 15th at Atlantic City; 6th at Wissahickon; 3d and 16th at Apawamis; 2d, 10th and 11th at Tuxedo; 11th at Lakewood; 10th at Morris County; 2d at Richmond Hill; 14th and 18th at Philadelphia Country Club, and 1st and 13th at Nassau. It matters little what happens to the tee shot, the green may easily be reached on the second stroke, with a somewhat longer approach; or in nearly every instance, in case of a good drive, the approach may be topped or scuffed without suffering any penalty. Indeed, on one or two of the above holes a really fine drive will be penalized. These are largely generalizations, as it would far exceed the limits of this article to take each particular hole and point out its demerits in detail.

The essential feature of holes of this kind—levelers, they are aptly named—running as they do from 220 to 280 yards, should be either a bunker to catch a very indifferent tee shot or hazards in front and back of the green to make it imperative to play a very much lofted approach shot or one with decided cut, or, possibly, hazards for both the drive and the approach. Much, of course, depends upon the nature of the ground as to the proper distribution of the bunkers; no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down.

Of weak three-stroke holes the following suggest themselves: 7th at Atlantic City; 1st and 14th at Apawamis—also the 9th, a 600-yard hole, so situated as to be practically unreachable in three strokes; 17th at St. Andrews; 15th at Baltimore; 10th at Onwentsia; 16th at Garden City; 8th at Lakewood; 13th at Fox Hills, and 6th at Tuxedo.

It is, of course, not always feasible, or desirable, for one reason or another, to have every hole laid out approximately correct in respect to length, but where such weakness exists it may very easily be overcome by the placing of hazards on something like scientific principles. If it be possible, on any hole, to miss, or practically miss, a shot, day in and day out, and yet easily reach the green in the same number of strokes as the man who has played each shot perfectly, then that hole needs changing, either in length or in regard to the hazard. The primary idea of a hazard is to punish, to the extent of one stroke, a poorly played shot, and to make recovery exceedingly difficult and, even then, only by virtue of the following shot being extraordinarily good. If this end is not attained, the existing hazard fails to fill its functions.

On many of the minor courses the general hazard scheme is far from being conducive to good golf; rather the tendency is to put a premium on mediocrity by unfairly penalizing good strokes and allowing poor strokes to go scatheless.

It is not too much to say that the very poorest course in the country, irrespective of length, is capable of such alterations and dispositions of hazards as to compel really good golf, with plenty of variety at every hole.

PUTTING-GREENS

By Francis G. Beach

Everybody knows that a putting-green should be "true," "rolling," and neither too "fast" nor too "slow," but few, outside the green committee (and, alas! too often, few inside that committee), know the difficulties in attaining these characteristics. They are so easily stated that they seem simple of accomplishment. Hence the kicks. Hence the disagreements in the committee. Hence attempts at remedy without a definite plan—a very wasteful policy, and hence these kind words of advice.

The ideal putting-green has of course never been realized. But let us imagine one so that we may know what to strive for.

An area of sufficient dimensions, preferably circular or oval; "rolling"—that is, containing one or more gentle undulations or slopes, to obviate the fault of "flatness;" absolutely smooth so as to be "true;" a hardy turf from which springs a close growth of the finest bladed grass; each blade equidistant from its neighbors, and cut to exactly the proper length; not too stiff or too close together, or the green will be bumpy and "slow," not too tender or too far apart or it will be uncertain and too "fast;" and remembering that the surface is so smooth and true that a ball struck an infinite number of times with exactly the same force in exactly the same direction will each time travel the same precise line and stop on the same identical spot.

While it is true that the man behind the putter is incapable of such super-human skill as to perform this feat, it is also true that our endeavor is to have the putting-green in such condition that the greater the man's skill the greater will be the number of successive times he may accomplish the feat.

An approach to these conditions may best be had where the soil is a genuine sandy loam. The genuine article is sandy underneath, with some sand in the covering of loam.

In general the public is warned against imitations of a genuine article. Not so, however, with a putting-green. If you have not the real thing, imitate it as nearly as possible.

If the greens are already in use, do this by sprinkling them with sand, liberally at first, and gradually diminishing the amount. But do it at the right time of year. The sand will gradually work into the soil through the turf and fine down the grass even where the blades are wide and coarse. Be careful, as the hot dry season comes on, that there is very little sand visible on the surface, otherwise, unless there is a very liberal water supply, the greens will be "browns." And remember that where the soil is not naturally sandy the artificial condition of sandiness makes the water all the more essential to success.

All soils differ in quality, so that the exact amount of sand to be applied cannot be stated in a general rule; but under average conditions of richness, the best results will be obtained by covering the green in the autumn, before play has stopped for the season, about one-eighth of an inch deep. This will disappear in a comparatively short time. When the green is closed for the winter—or, if left open for play all the year around, when the ground freezes hard—apply a quarter of an inch more. None of this will be visible in the spring. The snow and rain will pack it down and the working action of the surface of the ground when the frost is coming out will cause it to be actually absorbed. And whether or not the green is closed for the winter, do not cover it except for the sand, unless it is so young and tender that it needs the covering to prevent it from being washed out by the spring rains. In such case use tobacco stems, and do not make the covering more than one inch thick. Never use manure for a covering, because of the practical certainty of introducing weeds; and if any weeds make their appearance, get them out at once by the roots before they scatter their seeds. Likewise get out all coarse and stubby grass by the roots.

With any covering other than sand be careful to get it off early enough in the spring, otherwise there will be a yellowish, unhealthy-looking tender growth started that amounts to nothing more than a forced hot-house grass, which is next to the worst thing possible—the worst being no grass at all. A hardy growth that will stand the wear and tear of a season's use is what is necessary, and leaving a covering on one day too long in the spring may produce exactly the opposite kind.

There are many good mixtures of grass seed on the market, but a mixture composed of

Rhode Island Bent.....	3 lbs.
Kentucky Blue	3 “
Creeping Bent	4 “
Crested Dog Tail.....	4 “
Recleaned Red Top.....	6 “

will be found very effective. The weights given aggregate practically a bushel of the mixture.

The Rhode Island Bent is early and hardy, and withstands heat and dry weather. Kentucky Blue is known as “June Grass.” It is also hardy, early, and fine-bladed. Creeping Bent is a good “filler,” running between and around the tufts of other grasses. Crested Dog Tail is valuable for its dwarf habit, hardiness and its close sod-forming qualities. It is the principal grass in putting-greens in Scotland. Recleaned Red Top grows naturally in wet or cold soils. It has long creeping stems and underground runners bearing numbers of fine root leaves, and produces continuous smooth turf. Having these characteristics in combination, the above mixture will fill nearly every condition.

By no means use any mixture of grass seed containing clover, even for the fair green. Beware of its introduction anywhere on the course. It is a great spreader and will eventually get into the putting-greens, and once in, it is there for three years at least. It makes a draggy green and is the surest producer of bald spots known. The clover evil cannot be remedied, and can be mitigated only by a constant application of grass seed, and then only by industry and attention with each application. A sure way to produce clover without planting any is to use wood ashes as a fertilizer. Wood ashes are all right if the object is to get a crop of hay, because the high, thick grass will kill out the clover by shading it; but where the grass is kept short the clover grows and spreads till it crowds out the grass, and the lower the blades of the mower are set the closer and thicker the clover will come in.

Speaking of fertilizers, cotton-seed meal is the best all-around fertilizer for average conditions. The three chemicals of commercial value in any fertilizer are nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, and they are of value in the order stated. Cotton-seed meal contains as an average 7.14 per cent. of nitrogen, 3.15 per cent. of phosphoric acid and 1.90 per cent. of potash. It does not act like a flash in the pan as nitrate of soda does, but is slower and therefore produces a hardier growth. Besides this there is not the same danger of burning out the grass by getting on a little too much of it as there is with nitrate of soda. Still, except for young greens, which need the nourishment to become thoroughly rooted, fertilizers should be sparingly used. Too much fertilizer produces too heavy a growth and should be avoided in the same way as too much sand, which makes the growth too thin. Another effect of too much fertilizer is an increase in the number of worms, and if there is anything more exasperating than to have a good putt spoiled by an unseen worm-cast, it is the trouble of brushing the worm casts away. Again, where the green is full of worms, the utmost care in brushing up the casts must be used before the green is rolled. They cannot be thoroughly brushed up until they are quite well dried, and rolling before they have dried or been brushed up leaves a number of flat, rich little discs, varying in size up to that of a silver dollar, under which the grass dies out, leaving a green pitted with little bare spots, and looking as if it had had the smallpox.

In the spring, after the ground has warmed up a bit, put on each green a thin coat of finely sifted loam in which is thoroughly mixed cotton-seed meal and slaked lime, at the rate of two pounds each for each one hundred square feet to be treated. In this loam stir in a liberal amount of the mixture of grass seed above given. Better results will be obtained by scratching the green lightly with an iron rake before the coat is applied, and then rolling the coat with a light roller. Frequent rolling with a light roller is much better than occasionally using a heavy roller. The turf is apt to become root-bound with the latter while the light roller only affects the surface of the ground, and does not pack and squeeze the roots into a hard mat through which only by a continuous soaking can any water penetrate.

In the matter of water be liberal. Every green should have a supply, and a thorough soaking twice a week is much better than a daily dash. Perhaps it would be better to say nightly dash, for that is the time when the water does the most good. Watering while the sun is shining on the green simply steams the turf, and in many cases does more harm than good. Wait till the earth has cooled off a little in the evening and not only avoid the steaming process but actually save time and expense, because less water is wasted by evaporation on the surface and more gets where it is needed—in the ground stored up for the interval between the soakings. Only the “rose-sprinkler” nozzle should be used, if the watering is done by hand, and even with that fine spray, it should never be pointed down at the turf, because the earth will be washed about by the force of the water and the surface left rough and pitted. It is not only much safer and better, but more economical, to use the revolving lawn sprinklers, as they do not wash the earth about, and as one man can attend to the moving around of a number of these, working at once on several greens, instead of confining his attention to handling one hose on one green.

It is difficult on a rolling or sloping green to get good results from the application of fertilizers and grass seed to the surface, because they get washed off the higher parts, and as a result these are starved and the lower parts are too much nourished. Perhaps the easiest way to make these things stay put is to apply them and then stab holes in the ground with a pitchfork. Then when the green is watered the fertilizer and seed are washed into the holes. When turf is watered, the roots swell so that the holes are closed up in a very short time, and the mixture is thereby enclosed below the surface where the rains cannot wash it off. The difficulty with this method is that the use of a pitchfork results in holes of uneven depth and at uneven distances apart, and therefore the nourishment deposited in the holes is unevenly distributed, and the growth comes in bunches instead of evenly. In order to insure uniform results the holes should be of even depth and at even distances apart, and this may be accomplished by using a "fertilizer-tamp," constructed as follows: Have fifty wire nails a quarter of an inch in diameter, cut two and a half inches long, and with tapering points. Bore holes of the same diameter as the nails about an inch and a quarter from centers through a piece of maple plank an inch and a half thick and slightly countersink the holes. Push the wire nails through these holes and screw a piece of board on top to hold the heads of the nails from being pushed upwards. An upright handle may be wedged into this top piece with which the tamp may be worked. In the one described there are forty-eight projecting points, so that when the tamp is lifted and dropped with sufficient force there are made forty-eight holes one inch deep, a quarter of an inch in diameter, and an inch and a quarter from centers, and owing to their tapering shape, the points simply spread the roots apart and do not tear the turf. With this tamp it is manifest that an even distribution of nourishment can be had in the roots of the higher parts of the green, and where the nourishment is evenly distributed the growth will be even. This tamp will also be found very useful in repairing bald spots on the green. The loam and grass seed can be rubbed into the holes, and as the seed takes root below, it gets a strength of growth before reaching the surface, enabling it to withstand the pressure of the roller, or even of the heel of the golfer, without being crushed out. Such a growth is almost impossible to get by merely scratching the seed in with a rake.

When the greens are first opened in the spring for play, it is a good thing to place the cups as near as possible to the edge of the green nearest the next tee. After holing out, the player always travels in the shortest line toward the next tee, and unless the cup is placed as indicated, a path will be distinctly marked on the tender grass across the whole length of the green, even in one day's play. Make that concentration of wear and tear as short a line as possible.

A green should not be opened for play in the spring until the grass has been cut at least three times, and don't let it get too long before the first cutting. A frequent mistake is made in giving greens what is called a "rest" before a tournament, and then setting the blades of the mower as low as possible on the first day of the event. This results in a weakened condition of the turf, and the green changes in appearance till it has a pale brown look that demonstrates its unhealthy condition, besides leaving a stubble to interfere with good putting. Keep the blades of the mower set low throughout the spring and raise them a little as the hot weather approaches. The grass will retain its freshness and color and stand the heat much better, because the roots will be more shaded than if the green is kept shaved close. In the late fall, as the cold weather approaches, raise the blades again so that the grass will have a stronger growth and be less apt to suffer from the winter exposure. It is good for a green to change the direction in which the cutting is done. Unless the greens are small enough to be gone over both ways at the same cutting, it is a good plan to alternate directions by cutting in a northerly and southerly direction at one time, and at the next in an easterly and westerly direction. The rolling should follow the direction of the cutting, except in the immediate neighborhood of the cup, where the green should be cut and rolled in both directions. And a roller should always be pulled, and never pushed, on account of heel marks. Throughout the spring grass catchers should be used on the mowers, but as the hot weather approaches take off the catchers, leaving the clippings of grass on the green as an additional protection for shading the roots.

If there are not many worms, it is better to let them alone. They ventilate the turf and prevent it from becoming root-bound. But if the worm-casts are so thick as to be really troublesome, and some sort of exterminator is deemed necessary, do not make the mistake of following the directions for use always accompanying a patented article. These direct that the diluted mixture shall be applied in the evening after the sun has gone down. After some experimenting in this line by following out these directions without much success, it seemed as if the directions gave the wrong time of day for applying the exterminator. In the evening, after the green has been played on during the day, and swept, cut and rolled, in preparation for the day's use, it is natural that the worm-holes should be pretty well stopped up at the surface. It was therefore determined to experiment in the morning, before sunrise, at which time the worm-holes being open, the exterminator would more readily get into them. The result was that where an evening application produced only about two quarts of worms, a morning application two days afterwards on the same spot produced eight quarts. As a substitute for the expensive preparations on sale in the market, Mr. Travis suggests dissolving two bars of common yellow laundry soap and diluting with thirty to forty gallons of water, and making a few applications in the spring and autumn months when the worms are thickest.

The enumeration of receipts, processes and results contained in this article may convince even the kicker that a good putting-green is only to be had by the utmost intelligent care and much expense, and it may further convince him when it is stated that eighteen good putting-greens take eighteen times as much as one.

THE PLACING OF HAZARDS

By Arthur G. Lockwood

The primary object of hazards, as every one knows, is to mete out justice to a badly played shot; the secondary, to test the brains of the player in the judging of distances. It is, therefore, very important to have all the hazards properly placed.

In America, where the game is comparatively new, on almost every course which I have seen or played over, a number of the bunkers have been placed without any regard to the length of the shot in reaching the green. On courses where natural hazards are few and far between, artificial bunkers must be constructed; these are generally of two kinds, the cop-bunker and the sand-trap. Of the two, the latter gives the best results on the whole, as an opportunity is afforded the player of showing his powers of recovery after making a bad stroke, and this is one of the most interesting and spectacular features of the game.

The cop-bunker, owing to its height and straightness of face, offers but little chance for a forward shot to be made, unless the ball is lying exceptionally well, the consequence being that the player either plays back or out sideways without any attempt to gain distance.

Playing a clean-lying ball out of a sand-trap when the sand is loose and dry, whether with a brassie or mashie, requires an abstruse knowledge of the finesse of the game, to calculate exactly how to play the shot, and how much sand to take. It is forbidden to touch the sand in a bunker with hand or club, so it is hard to know exactly whether the sand is loose or firm, but a close guess may be made by the feel of the sand under the feet when taking up the stance. Many men have gained a world-wide reputation through their wonderful ability in recovering, and no more fitting example can be cited than the late "Freddie" Tait, who was always to be considered most dangerous when his ball had found a resting place in a bunker. Time and time again, men playing against Tait thought victory was within their grasp, when "Freddie" had been caught by a hazard, only to have their hopes blasted by seeing the ball shoot out from its hopeless position amidst a cloud of sand and land on the green, often within holing distance. The sand dunes round the British coast offer better opportunities for making these brilliant recoveries than do the little sand-traps with which we are so familiar on American links. But these little sand-traps are excellent hazards if properly placed. One great mistake is often made; they are not deep or broad enough, so that a hard half-topped shot will frequently run through them, especially after a heavy rain storm or if the sand has been raked.

To return to our original theme of placing hazards, it is extremely difficult to lay down any hard and fast rule as to the distance which they should be placed from the tee and through the green, so much depending on the nature of the ground and the lie of the land.

Where natural hazards are at a premium, artificial bunkers must be constructed, but care should be taken to secure a reasonable variety of difficulty. The stereotyped plan, so often seen on inland courses of a cop-bunker, to drive over, a cop for the second shot, and a cop protecting the green, becomes very monotonous, the only possible change being in the club with which we play. Bunkers crossing the line of flight should be placed from 120 to 135 yards from the tee, but if the rubber cored ball or any other wonderful patent comes into general use these distances will have to be increased from ten to fifteen yards. I am not in favor of a longer carry from the tee than 135 yards, as the short driver is entitled to some consideration, and the long drivers have to exert themselves a little if they wish to reach the other side safely in the teeth of half a gale. Another disadvantage is that a badly topped shot often escapes punishment as it does not reach the hazard which is intended to entrap it; this makes but little difference to a good player on a hole short of 380 yards, since the only punishment is a slightly longer second shot. Of course there are holes on the leading Scotch and English links where topped tee shots come to no harm, the renowned St. Andrews boasting of no less than twelve such holes, but the greens are so well guarded and the distances so well arranged that a shot will be lost in almost every instance.

Some of the British courses boast of very long carries, so long that none but the strongest and longest drivers can expect to negotiate them. One of the most prominent examples which comes to mind at the present moment is the fifth hole at Westward Ho! This bunker is nearly 180 yards across from the medal tee, and if carried straight it is possible to reach the green in two very long shots. For the pawky player the "Duffers Knoll," a spot of green turf some 20 yards in diameter, and about 130 yards from the tee, is a favorite spot to try for. It is situated on a little plateau with the bunker on every side, and it takes a very pretty cleek or iron shot to reach. But it means the loss of a stroke in reaching the green, so it is a sore temptation to try and carry the bunker at the full distance.

Sand-traps on the right and left hand sides of the course about 160 yards from the tee make good hazards, and will often catch a sliced or pulled drive. It should always be remembered that the long erratic driver deserves to be punished if he gets off the line, just as much as the short player.

Holes which are over 400 yards long should have a combination of hazards for the drive, second shot, and one to protect the green. This last should be at least 30 yards short of the green, so that a full cleek or brassie can have a chance to run up onto the green. If the ground is soft and sandy this distance can be decreased a little, but if hard and clayey, 50 yards is none too much.

On holes which take a very long shot to reach, such as a brassie or full cleek, the bunkers should never be placed too close to the back of the green. This was one of the fatal mistakes made by the green committee of the Garden City Golf Club, when the Amateur Championship took place on their links in 1900. Several of the greens were guarded by sand traps, or long grass close to the back of the green, the green actually being carved out of very long grass. Consequently a shot running not more than 10 yards past the hole would find a resting place in the long grass, or sand-trap. The 13th, or long hole, was the most notable example. The first and second shots were good golf, but two topped shots could get the green comfortably, while the man who played boldly with his brassie, and just ran over the green, was badly punished by the long grass and sand-trap. This was a great mistake, as it does away entirely with the old adage, "Be up."

The sand bunkers of the Garden City Golf Club are the best I have seen, of their kind, in this country; and other clubs might do well to take a leaf out of their book and build their cop-bunkers with the sandy sides slightly graded off, instead of having a perfectly upright face. One mistake was made, however, in having these bunkers constantly raked. In consequence they presented so smooth a surface that a hard half-topped or running approach would skip over the hazard instead of sticking in it, as it would if the footprints of previous players had been left untouched.

THE PLACING OF HAZARDS

A great deal of variety and ingenuity may be applied to the protection of the greens by the judicious placing of hazards. A great deal, however, depends on the natural position of the green, and this should be carefully studied when laying the hole out. A hole which is a drive and an iron shot or short pitch should be well guarded on all sides, and the hazard in front of the green should be placed comparatively close up, so that a topped tee shot, if unpunished, should call for a very difficult second. At Atlantic City it made but little difference whether the first shot was topped or not, on many of the holes. So long as the ball went straight for 120 yards or so, several of the greens were within easy reach with a long iron, and the advantage gained by a long drive amounted to very little.

MR. ARTHUR G. LOCKWOOD

A few greens on every course should be protected by high bunkers so that a cut shot is necessary to stay on them, while others can be left unguarded in front, but well bunkered on the other three sides, so as to permit a running-up approach to be played.

On a hole of, approximately, 330 yards it is an excellent plan to have a long bunker running diagonally to the direct line of flight, about 20 yards from the hole at its nearest point. In playing such a hole as this an accurate idea of distance as well as of one's own capabilities is essential. If a short drive has been made, the bunker may be carried at its shortest angle, but if the drive has been long, then the angle can be drawn as fine as the player will dare. The eleventh hole on the links of the Myopia Hunt Club is prettily guarded by one of these hazards. The Royal North Devon Golf Club in England has two bunkers of this description to be carried from the tee, but in this case the hazard is composed of clumps of tall rushes armed with formidable spikes, some six feet in height. These rushes have a world-wide reputation among golfers, as not only are they a formidable obstacle to the player, but they often impale his person if he is unfortunate enough to have to play out. It would indeed be a hardy and courageous golfer who ventured to play out of these rushes, clad in the light flannel trousers and thin shoes which are so familiar to American players.

Complaints are frequently heard that American courses are being made too hard, or in other words, that the courses are laid out entirely for the best players and that the duffers have no voice in regulating the number of hazards put in. This no doubt is partly due to a desire to avoid the monotony inseparably connected with the playing of flat courses where there are nothing but artificial hazards, but I have yet to see the course in America which possesses a tenth part of the bunkers of any of the prominent British links along the seaboard, while one sand-dune alone often stretches over a hundred yards in breadth and is as high as the average three-story house. When playing over such mountainous hazards as these the delight of the game is increased 50 per cent., and the feeling of expectation is always to the fore when walking over such rugged country. Is your ball lying clear, is it a good or a bad lie, or have you driven sufficiently far to get home with a raking second shot?

In conclusion, I would like to make a few remarks anent the absurd rule which exists on many American courses, that a ball driven into a hazard from the tee, which is placed to catch a bad second shot, may be lifted and dropped behind without penalty. Golf is a game of science and judgment rather than brute force and hard hitting. The judging of distances and wind conditions should receive just as much consideration from the tee as through the green. Of course it is rather hard lines to drive an extra long ball and then find it in a bunker, but if the mighty hitter is not possessed of sufficient sense, under certain conditions of wind, etc., to take an iron club and play short, he justly merits his fate. Men play short of hazards with iron clubs on their second and third shots without making any difficulty about it, so why should they not do the same from the tee. Was such a rule ever heard of at St. Andrews or on any of the British Championship courses? I trow not!

THE CADDIE QUESTION

By Grey Thistle

The caddie question, or perhaps it would be more correct to say "the caddie grievance," is one of the conditions incidental to the American phase of the evolution of golf; and to dismiss it with a complaint, and a comparison of their shortcomings with the virtues of caddies in other lands, leads to no fruitful results.

That there are very paragons of caddies abroad is absolutely immaterial. We cannot import them; we must make a virtue of necessity—take the material at hand and make good caddies out of it. Goodness knows, some of it is bad enough, too! justifying even the virile language anent them which Mr. Price Collier uses with terse directness, some of them are, indeed, "the chartered libertines of outdoor hobbledehoydom."

It is annoying, even to exasperation, to see unfold, with damning iteration, the phases of ignorance and impudence sometimes inflicted upon one. It is not a good start, for instance, to have to look for your caddie after his assignment to you and to find him taking advantage of your momentary absence, in a carefully selected corner, dissipating the last whiff of an evil-smelling cigarette, and when this is followed by having to roar at him like a very "Bull of Bashan" to "watch the ball," it is no more soothing to the nerves. It seems to dawn on you early that the little imp is working on a system of his own, having for its object a task not within the purview of his duties, i. e., the cultivation in his employer of the Christian virtues of mental and vocal repression; but the end is not yet. The chances are that, by the time you have arrived at the ball's location, he has sidled off, upwind, so that you have to yell like a Comanche Indian for the particular club you want; and when the green is reached you may be edified by a squabble, more forcible than elegant, between him and the other caddie, as to whose duty it is to take out the flag. When these peccadillos have been continued with endless variations of detail, through eighteen holes, and your experience ends with a wrangle about the rate of pay (of which most likely you have not, if a stranger, been made acquainted ere you started), and the head caddie has joined in the heated fray, you have had a nerve-racking two hours which makes you greet the nineteenth hole as a camp of refuge indeed. Happy the man who does not raise the sleeping dogs of discontent there, and have to listen to the experiences of some fellow-sufferers. If he does, there is a chorus which, if it operated physically, would send the offenders en masse to a place where their sins of omission and commission justify a warm reception.

But there is another side to the shield, and as on the election of a high church dignitary "The devil's advocate" is entitled to have his say, so let me voice the caddie's defense. First of all, he will say, with much justice, "You rate me too high; you are asking the boy to be father of the man. According to the rules, I know I am to be your friend and adviser in the game; in which regard I stand on privileged ground, but I know next to nothing of it, and that's your fault! I am not one of those boys across the water who have had golf bred in their bones for generations, and played in all its forms since they were knee high. To such a one the phrases of the game and their meanings are as his native alphabet; to me they are largely a foreign tongue. His knowledge of what you want, and why you want it, is as the mentally committed multiplication table. I have to do my summing on my fingers. I am a poor little fellow who never heard the word 'golf' until two years ago, and never saw a game until this year. I have never been taught my duties; like Topsy, I have been left to 'grow up.' Then there is nobody to enforce discipline. I have to fight for what I think are my rights, and I have to fight the other fellows at every step, or I should get trampled on. Furthermore, I am not in this job for life. There's no future here for the caddie, except to grow out of his job. The caddies I hear you talk about, on the other side, have got the chance to make golf their life's vocation. When they grow beyond caddiehood they have the chance to go into the shop and learn the trade of the club-maker, beyond which is the possibility of instructor, and maybe, in time, a green, for his reward. Everybody can't be President, but it's mighty often held up at school as a magnet, and it don't help you to feel good to know you must always remain a golfing 'frog in a pond.' You have filled all the top notches of the golfing ladder with imported instructors, green men and club-makers, who are a standing example of my argument, for they were all once caddie boys, as I am now, only they had a future and I have none. Why, I can't even ever hope to go down to history as an old caddie, like the men about whom I hear the players crack jokes and laugh over, although it's thirty years since they last saw them—such as 'Old Aleck of Blackheath' and 'Long Willie of St. Andrew's.' That sort of a caddie don't grow in this air; we sha'n't have such glorious old mossbacks in a hundred years.

"But I wouldn't so much grumble at the future if you would make our present tolerable, by teaching us our little trade, and making it sure we should get even-handed justice—equal rights and equal pay. There's too many of us mostly; there's too little sustained order of going out. There's often favoritism. There's boys that earn a dollar like falling off a log, and there's boys don't get a chance at ten cents in a day. Some players pamper, and bribe, and make fools of themselves with familiarity; and some are severe, aloof, sour and mean. Boys are sharp-eyed and intuitive. You can't fool a caddie boy very well. Yet it's easy enough to drill him into being what he ought to be—quick, resourceful, obedient and happy. In the language of the class, Mr. Club-manager, 'It's up to you.'"

I agree it is "up to us," and "What are we going to do about it?" Well, I don't know, offhand. It opens quite a big problem. I suppose I am like a good many more—I don't know, with much exactness and fullness, what more than one or two clubs have done in the matter; but I know, in a general way, that many other clubs have other methods. We are like the Church was before the Reformation; there are various uses—"Some follow the Salisbury use, some the use of Hereford, and some that of Bangor."

Perhaps it would be a good thing to take stock of where we really are at on this caddie question, and, as a foundation for intelligent action, ask a hundred or so of the best and most progressive clubs a few questions, which they could easily, specifically and enlighteningly answer. Every club would from these answers learn from the others the present conditions; the lines of omission would certainly crop out, and it may be that out of the mass and the best points in each there could be formulated a set of suggestions which would be eagerly welcomed, and in time this might become the basis of concerted, uniform, just and beneficial caddie regulations.

May I venture, tentatively, to suggest a few items on which information would be desirable?

1. How do you limit, and extend, the supply of your caddies?
2. Do you allow any unaccredited caddie to ply on your links?
3. Under whose authority do you place them?

THE CADDIE QUESTION

4. Do you allot them to service on a "Hobson's choice" system; or allow a player or any officer to select at will?

5. Do you have any caddie taught the practical duties, and given his credentials?

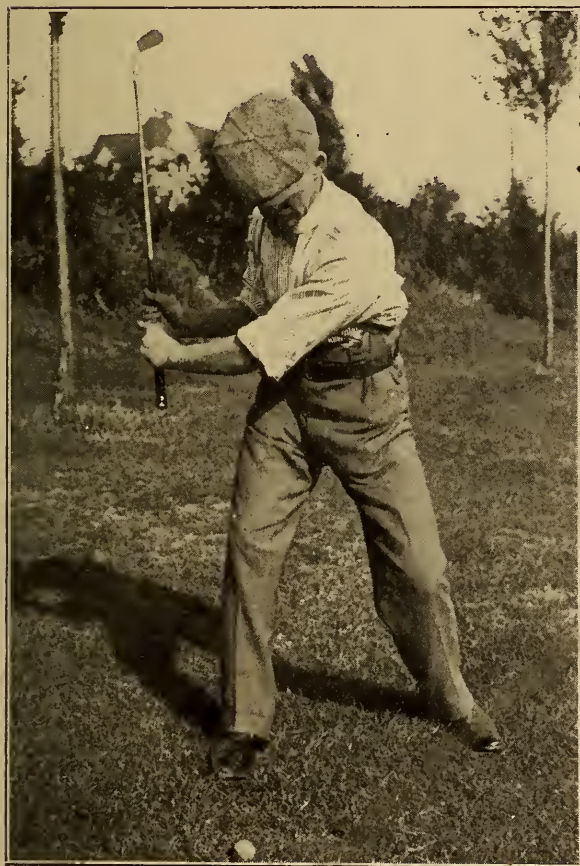

6. Do you give caddies badges denoting length of service?

7. Are your club members asked systematically to report on the ability and conduct of the caddies they hire?

8. Have you a code of rules by which caddies and members must abide? If so, what are they?

9. Do you pay your caddies a salary? or do they depend on fees? If so, are they paid by the hour or round?

10. Have you tried girl caddies to accompany the women, or the same generally? If so, why, and what has been the result?

TEEING-GROUNDS

By Wilson K. Farrington

In this country, in the majority of cases, far too little attention is paid to the condition of the teeing-grounds. How often do we see, even on a first-class course, a tee on which it is next to impossible to find a satisfactory place to stand, to say nothing of a good place to put the ball. In teeing a ball, the first thing to be done is to select a good place for the feet; having selected your footing, then look for a good, level spot on which to place the ball. Always see that there are no small hummocks behind the ball to catch the club on the upward swing, as it is extremely difficult to stop the swing when once started. If you hit the ground in your backward swing and succeed in stopping yourself, always re-tee the ball, as in trying to avoid striking the ground you are liable to bring back the club in more of an ellipse than is natural, with disastrous results; and who is most to blame? Surely the green committees, for allowing such conditions to exist.

Half the pleasure of many golfers who are not quite in the first class is to have a good "smack" at the ball. Ask any number of them what stroke in golf gives them the greatest satisfaction, and in nine cases out of ten they will say, "a long drive," and even the expert takes delight in getting a good ball away. But how can this be done if the green committees do not give us good teeing-grounds?

Tees may be divided into three classes: First, the dirt tee; second, the grass tee with all the grass worn off; and third, the first-class grass tee, nicely cut and rolled. Of these three, the dirt tee is the greatest abomination. In nearly every case it is built up, which is a large expense to start with, as it requires at least half a ton of rocks underneath to give it sufficient drainage before the clay and dirt are put on the top. Then, again, the clay is generally full of small stones, which play havoc with wooden clubs. The ball is bound to be teed up, as it is impossible to get down to it with a driver if laid flat on the ground, and this means driving a poor high ball when we require a low one. In dry weather, the tee becomes like a sand bunker, as the clay all gets crushed into dust, and when it is wet you sink up to the ankles in mud, which makes it impossible to get a good foothold; and again, there is such a very slight contrast between the color of the tee and the ball that it is considerably harder to keep your eye on the ball when driving. This style of tee should be utterly abolished, as it is a detriment to good golf, and does not accustom the player to drive a good ball through the green. When Vardon was in this city he was asked his opinion of dirt tees, and he replied: "They are terrible things to drive off; it is very seldom that I can get away a straight ball. I invariably pull or slice." If Vardon cannot drive straight off these tees, certainly the rest of us poor imitators cannot hope to do so.

The next question is the grass tee which once had grass but now boasts of only a few withered shoots here and there on its surface. In this case both the green committees and the green-keeper are to blame. The last-named for not changing the discs before the tee gets worn out, and the first-named for not seeing that the green-keeper does it. It is a very small job for a green-keeper to walk around and change the discs which mark the tee and move the sand-box. The damaged ground is thus given a chance to recuperate; especially does this apply to the teeing-ground at a hole where iron clubs are used, as the ball is generally placed on the ground and a small divot taken out in playing the shot. These tees should be changed almost daily, if the green is a popular one. In many of the English clubs, spare tees are made at the sides, and one tee is put back farther than all the others. This tee, being used for medal days and club matches, frequently adds twenty, thirty, or even forty, yards to the hole, making a former cleek shot drive and a hole that can be reached from the practice tee with a drive and a mashie shot, a drive and a full mid-iron; and who is entitled to be called a first-class golfer unless he is able to adapt himself to all sorts and conditions of shots and come out of them with a favorable result? It is for this reason that a record score made in a club competition is always of more value, as the course is then (or should be) stretched to its utmost limits, the full medal tees being used.

Now, as to making first-class teeing-grounds, many points have to be taken into consideration. Never have a tee which is elevated at the front, unless placed at the bottom of a steep hill, in which case a quick rising ball is required to carry the hazard; and then, again, avoid a very hanging tee. A slight hang is a great advantage when driving against the wind or down a steep incline, and all first-class golfers will tell you that the longest ball can be driven under these conditions from a slightly hanging lie.

To construct a tee with a slight hang requires very expert work. It should be built up from behind and gradually sloped down level with the ground in front. As a general rule, however, the tee should be absolutely flat. Do not build it up above the surrounding level if it is possible to avoid it. Make your teeing-ground of reasonably large size; there should be space enough to admit of at least four changes. In addition, a medal tee should always be constructed if possible. Tend your tees as carefully as you would your greens; have them cut and rolled frequently. Do not let long grass grow immediately in front or behind the tee. It should be cut quite short for at least four clubs' length in front, so as to give a low ball a chance to get away, and at least a club's length or more from behind, so that the eye shall not be distracted from the ball by the waving of long grasses. Always re-turf the tee if it does get worn out; it is cheaper in the end; but if the above instructions are carefully followed out, such a contingency will not arise. Always have the tee at least twelve feet in length and two clubs' length broad. Commence your season by teeing at the front of your teeing-ground, and then work back; you will find the greater majority of players will tee as near as possible to the front discs (frequently in front of them), and the ground will not be worn much farther back than one club's length. It is for this reason you are more likely to get more tees off the teeing-ground than if you start at the back and come forward.

Teeing is front is a practice that should be discountenanced; the rule on this point is very strict in medal play, disqualification being the penalty, and it is a pity the match play rule is not made more stringent, the recalling of the stroke at the opponent's option being far too lenient.

It is to be hoped that green committees during the coming year will give the same attention to their teeing-grounds as they do to the putting-greens, and not spend most of the club's money on the latter, which is frequently done.

CONDUCTING A TOURNAMENT

By William Elliot Burlock, Jr.

When a club wishes to give a tournament, a committee should be appointed to take entire charge of the arrangements and they should be impressed before undertaking it that their duties will be no sinecure.

To run off a meeting properly requires a lot of hard work and nothing redounds more to a club's credit than to give a tournament at which everything runs smoothly, just as nothing gives it a worse reputation than to bungle over the details.

In the first place, an hour should be set for the first pair to start and a pair sent away at that precise moment.

The etiquette of golf says that a pair in front should be allowed to play their second shot before the next pair leave the tee, but it is better to allow a little more leeway than this. In the Amateur Championship the pairs start at four-minute intervals and no better plan than this can be adopted. One man of the committee should have charge of the starting and his word be absolute.

In the Championship a scorer follows each pair in the medal play rounds, but this is not necessary in a club tourney.

At the eighteenth green another committeeman should be in waiting to receive and check the cards, and as soon as this is done a third member should immediately post the figures for each hole on a blackboard. A minor point, but a good one to remember, is to jot down the totals for each nine holes as well as the total for the eighteen. Arrangements should be made to have luncheon ready by the time the first pair complete their rounds so that they may lunch and be ready to start again and so keep the course clear, and the committee will have many blessings showered upon them if they have a sufficient number of servants on hand to supply the players' wants quickly, for your golfer is both a thirsty and an impatient soul.

During the active golfing season there is hardly a week goes by without an open golf tournament being run off, and it would seem that with this great number added to the championships of the United States Golf Association that every one would be conversant with the method upon which they are played.

Such, however, is by no means the case, and many golfers have no idea of the process of elimination by which two men are finally left to fight it out for the winner's laurels out of the entire number who started on the first day of play.

The most common style of tournament is one conducted as is the Amateur National Championship, and that has for a number of years been decided in this way.

All the entrants upon the first day of the tournament play thirty-six holes of medal play. The best thirty-two scores are then selected and drawn by lot into sixteen pairs. These pairs play each other at thirty-six holes match play.

Upon the third day the winner of pair Number One has played the winner of pair Number Two, and so on down the list.

Likewise, on the fourth day the winner of the meeting between pair Number One and pair Number Two has met the winner of the meeting between pair Number Three and pair Number Four, and so on until but one pair is left and the winner of that match is declared the champion. The ordinary Open or Invitation, which is the style of tournament most in vogue in the United States, is run on exactly the same basis, except that it usually lasts but three days; Thursday, Friday and Saturday being generally selected from the fact that it is easier for men to get away from business on these days. The qualifying round of medal play may consist of but eighteen holes and be run off in the morning of the first day. It is almost unheard of for more than sixteen to qualify for the chief cup, except in the National Championship, or for the first, second or third match play rounds to be of more than eighteen holes each. With these conditions the first round of match play may be run off during the afternoon of the first day.

The second round can easily be completed on the morning of the second day of the tournament and the third round during the afternoon.

This will leave all day Saturday for the finals, which if the tournament has been conducted under the above conditions, usually is at thirty-six holes.

Another method of conducting a tourney is to have the qualifying medal round at thirty-six holes, thus occupying the entire first day, the first and second rounds of match play on the second day and the semi-finals and finals in the morning and afternoon respectively of the last day, the finals in this case, however, being at eighteen holes, like the other match play rounds.

The first method is, however, preferable because of the fact that medal play is not only much less popular among the tournament followers, but because it is not nearly so good golf. In fact, some old Scotchmen declare stroke play is not golf at all.

These two methods are on the whole the most satisfactory under which to hold a tournament, for they are the most simple and nearly every one who enters understands the conditions. Strange as it may seem, however, although golf is supposed to be a game in which only persons of wealth, refinement and, supposedly, education, take an interest, there are invariably one or two contestants in a big field who cannot comprehend the conditions of play, and if any additional complications are introduced, their protests and appeals for light on the mysteries are likely to occupy a large share of the tournament committee's time and patience.

A few experiences of this kind, and the more dense the man is, the more persistent and insistent is he likely to be, will likely cure the tournament committee of all desire for complicated tournaments, but if their enthusiasm is high and experience low, they may add to the latter and subtract from the former by introducing a match play handicap. To carry out this programme it will be necessary to have the entries close the night before the tournament begins instead of allowing post entries, as is usual. The tournament committee can then sit down to the joyful and friendship promoting task of arranging the handicaps. Between the man who is mortally offended at receiving a stroke more than he thinks his skill warrants, and becomes angry at the apparent aspersion cast upon his ability, and the man who will break a lifelong friendship if he does not receive an allowance large enough to enable him to win the cup hands down, and playing with his eyes shut, the handicappers have an enjoyable task before them, unless they stick absolutely to the Metropolitan or the New Jersey State League ratings. These two associations (the Metropolitan consisting of all the clubs within a radius of fifty miles of New York City, and the New Jersey of the clubs of that State) have an official rating of each player in each of their clubs, and it is a much closer estimate of the different players' ability than any club's tournament committee could get up over night. The ratings are based on medal play, but it is customary to allow at match play either two-thirds or three-fourths of such an allowance at match play. The following tables show what the strokes would be:

Besides the match play rounds on the last day of the tournament, it is customary to have a medal play handicap of either eighteen or thirty-six holes, with prize for the best gross and the first, second and third best net scores.

In the foregoing paragraphs I have spoken only of the procedure of those who qualify in the first sixteen. It is customary to allow such succeeding sixteen to keep on for cups under the same conditions as given those who qualified for the chief trophy.

During the past year, two or three tournaments were held at which both amateurs and professionals were eligible, and this was found to create much interest. Play was at either thirty-six or seventy-two holes, medal play. The "pros" received their prizes in money, but the amateurs, of course, took plate.

TWO SPLENDID GOLF COURSES

One of Eighteen Holes (Six Thousand Yards). By common consent among players the best in the South. One of Nine Holes (equally good) for beginners. Handsome, well-appointed club-house, with two professionals in charge.

PINEHURST is a private estate, about ten miles square, ranking second only among the estates in the South in size and attractiveness to Mr. George Vanderbilt's "Biltmore." It has an altitude of about 1,000 feet above sea level, and is, therefore, free from the cold wintry climate of higher points. Among its many natural charms is the large percentage of bright sunny days it enjoys during the winter months, and its absolute freedom from damp, penetrating winds. The best quail shooting in America is in the neighborhood of Pinehurst. The only village in the country where consumptives are excluded.

PINEHURST, NORTH CAROLINA, GOLF CLUB HOUSE

THE PINEHURST GOLF LINKS are by general accord the finest in the South. They are kept in the highest state of perfection, and were pronounced by Harry Vardon to be most satisfactory. The fair greens have a fine set of grass and the clay greens, sixty feet square, are as smooth as billiard tables. The Winter climate of Pinehurst permits of playing during the entire season, and the peculiarly invigorating air makes out-of-door life delightful. The Links are in charge of Donald and Alex. Ross, Professionals. The 9-hole course is designed for the use of beginners. See advertisement on preceding page.

VERMONT

Organized, 1899; incorporated, 1899. Initiation fee (at least one share of stock), $50. Annual dues, $25. Visitors pay $1 a day, or $5 a week. $25 for season. Open from June to November. A course of 18 holes., 6,012 yards. The course is distinguished for its picturesque beauty, and as a test of golf it has no superior in the country. All the hazards are natural and the distances are as nearly perfect as the united consensus of half a dozen golfing experts could make them. The fair green is a delight—one always finds his ball cocked up—and the putting greens are superb, true and smooth as velvet. No better golf can be found than Ekwanok at its best. Distances and bogey figures: 1. 370, 5; 2. 345, 5; 3. 340, 5; 4. 400, 5; 5. 315, 4; 6. 185, 3; 7. 351, 5; 8. 179, 3; 9. 555, 6; 10. 312, 4; 11. 352, 5; 12. 507, 6; 13. 150, 3; 14. 342, 4; 15. 210, 4; 16. 302, 4; 17. 395, 5; 18. 402, 5. President, Edward S. Isham, of Chicago; First Vice-President, George H. Thacher, Albany, New York; Second Vice-President, James L. Taylor, of Brooklyn, New York; Secretary, Albert M. THE KEMPSHALL GOLF BALL.

Golf has become a national game since its introduction in the United States. During the first ten or fifteen years everything used for the sport was imported from the other side, but gradually enterprising and inventive American firms began to improve on the implements of the game, and the importations have become more and more insignificant. The Kempshall Mfg. Co. at 475 Broadway, New York, has for months labored to perfect a Golf Ball and has admirably succeeded. In order to accomplish this end, they have constructed elaborate tools and built a variety of testing machines for proving the results obtained, and now they are ready to put their perfected product on the market.

Let us briefly describe the improvements of the Kempshall Golf Ball and its advantages to the player:

They are constructed of a moulded Rubber core under distension by a hard center, the whole covered with a compressed Gutta-Percha Shell. By this construction and the method of manufacture the said company produces a Golf Ball that is unequalled in accuracy and distance of flight by any other ball.

They are uniform in size, weight and action.

These balls are made in tool steel dies which are true spheres and of the highest uniformity of dimensions and brambling, thus insuring the least possible variation in diameter of the product. The dies are made with tools especially designed for this work. The brambles are cut one at a time in an index machine.

The distended Rubber Cores are made in moulds that insure great uniformity of weight and diameter, and the covers are moulded of uniform size and weight before being put onto the balls.

The superior flying qualities of "the Kempshall Golf Balls" are obtained by their great accuracy of construction, and their trueness of flight is due to the fact that the balls are true in centering. This is effected through the precision of the Kempshall moulds, which allow of a minimum of variation in the thickness of wall in cores or shells. The finished product has therefore the least possible opportunity for variation. High accuracy in the approach and put is another valuable feature of the Kempshall ball.

"The Kempshall Golf Ball" is not a cheap article. The material used therein is the best the firm can procure. The rubber used for the core is the best gum. Therefore the balls have the highest possible elasticity and springiness.

The Gutta-percha shells are made from material imported direct by the firm from the most reliable sources in Great Britain, and prepared there for the firm's special use.

The following illustrations show two views of the Kempshall "Golf Gun." The machine was designed and built for the sole purpose of making comparative tests of various golf balls.

Figure 3 is an illustration of THE KEMPSHALL PUTTING MACHINE. This machine was perfected for the purpose of making tests of the putting qualities of golf balls. After thorough investigation and exhaustive experiments they have found that the accuracy in putting with all golf balls depends largely upon what portion of the ball is struck.

FIGURE 5.

PUTTING MACHINE DIAGRAMS.

PUTTING MACHINE DIAGRAMS.

On the Charts in Figures 4 and 5, the full lines show equator blows, the dotted lines polar blows and the dot and dash lines blows midway between equator and pole.

The five leading Golf Balls designated in our Charts as "A," "B," "C," "D" and "E," show, when hit upon their poles in putting, or upon a space equally distant between the pole and the equator, fairly uniform results; but when hit upon the equator, the run of the ball is in every case most erratic, deviating markedly to the right or left and practically never holing out. The tests of these balls were made in the, KEMPSHALL PUTTING MACHINE by an automatic hammer over a perfectly level surface and with a uniform stroke.

The KEMPSHALL GOLF BALL and the process by which it is made are patented. The firm has also branched out in various directions and secured the exclusive right to make a large variety of playing balls, differing more or less in detail of construction.

It has been our pleasure to test these balls, inspect the factory and the delicate and fine tools with which the KEMPSHALL GOLF BALL is made, and we must unhesitatingly declare that there is no doubt in our mind that golfers all over the country will hail the arrival of this improvement. A good golfer without a true ball is an impossibility, and an expert with a ball of such excellence and precision as the Kempshall golf ball should accomplish marvellous results.

THE CHICAGO No. 3.

The Chicago Writing Machine Co. has put a new Typewriting Machine on the Market which deserves the attention of the Public. It has the standard Keyboard, thirty Keys and two shift Keys, printing in all ninety characters. The important punctuation marks are placed in both upper and lower case so that these can be written without use of shift Keys.

The typewriter is equipped with steel type which is interchangeable, admitting of printing in all languages in various styles of type. The characters, engraved in 9 rows of 10 characters each on a steel type cylinder, do not easily get out of order and can easily be cleaned. One of the principal objections to typewriting is that the letters do not print all on the same line, but the perfect and permanent adjustment of this machine has overcome this difficulty.

One feature of particular praise, is that the full written Page is in constant view of the operator.

There is also a novel erasing device by which the erasures can be made without changing the position of paper which deserves mention.

There is also a back spacing Key at the right hand side of the spacer which saves much time and labor.

The Touch of the Chicago No. 3 is Elastic and buoyant and the speed is marvelous. It makes less noise than other machines and is therefore on that account alone preferable.

We congratulate the Co. on their new product.

THE RANKING OF 1901.

The "roll of honor" that follows was prepared, at the request of the editor, by three well-informed and impartial critics, men who play the game themselves, and who know how it should be played.

It is perhaps unnecessary to say that there can be no absolute standard of performance from which a player's rating can be obtained. Golfers in different sections of the country may play through the whole season without meeting in any open tournament, outside of the national championship, and certainly the mere numerical reckoning by first and second cups, qualifying score prizes and the like, is altogether untrustworthy, since the character of the entry lists, the playing conditions and other contingencies may be widely different.

It is, therefore, only through a system of comparison that the balance may be struck, and so far as possible the relative rankings are based upon such generally accepted authorities as the Metropolitan and New Jersey handicap lists and the results of the big and truly representative sectional meetings, the supreme test being, of course, the amateur championship. For, after all, the Amateur Meeting is the final Court of Appeal, and other things being equal, the best golfer is he who can do his best at the time when his best is required. The omission of the names of several well-known golfers is due to their practical abstention from the game during the past twelve months. Among these may be mentioned Ex-Champion H. M. Harri- man, H. B. Hollins, Jr., Quincy A. Shaw, A. L. Ripley, T. M. Robertson, and Walter B. Smith.

BY-LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES GOLF ASSOCIATION

By-laws of the United States Golf Association, as revised by the Executive Committee, Jan. 31, 1902, and Feb. 28, 1902:

Section 1. The following order of business shall be observed at meetings of this Association:

1. Roll-call.
2. Reading minutes of previous meeting.
3. Report of Executive Committee.
4. Treasurer's report.
5. Election of officers and committees.
6. General business.
7. Adjournment.

Section 2. In the event of an appeal from an order of discipline imposed by the Executive Committee, it must be heard at the next regular or special meeting of the Association, and any member or person who is proved, to the satisfaction of the Association, to have been guilty of fraudulent or discreditable conduct of any kind, may be declared ineligible to compete at any competition, suspended or expelled.

Sec. 3. All complaints or disputes between clubs of this Association shall be decided by those members of the Executive Committee who are in no way connected with the clubs interested.

Sec. 4. The President shall appoint such special Committees as shall be found necessary.

Sec. 5. The Executive Committee shall interpret the Rules of Golf.

Sec. 6. The amateur, open and women's championship tournaments shall take place on the links of an associate club, in selecting which due consideration shall be given to accessibility, accommodations and conditions of course. It shall be determined at the annual meeting each year over which links the championship prizes shall be contended for that year. The Executive Committee may delegate the power of naming the time and regulating the order of starting and determining the handicap of players to the Green Committee of the club over whose grounds the Association competitions are played, and of appointing such other committees as are necessary to govern such a competition, and shall have full charge of all details concerning the same.

Sec. 7. No person shall be considered an amateur golfer or shall be eligible to compete in the amateur championships of this Association, who receives a money consideration, either directly or indirectly, by reason of connection with or skill displayed in playing the game of golf or other branches of athletics.

Protests against an individual concerning any violation of the letter or spirit of this Section must be made by a member of a club belonging to the Association, and must be submitted in writing to the Secretary of the Association, properly certified to by an officer of his club.

BY-LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES GOLF ASSOCIATION

Any properly submitted case will be decided by the Executive Committee on its individual merits.

Sec. 8. Any person having become ineligible by reason of a violation of Section 7 may be duly reinstated upon his giving satisfactory evidence of meriting it.

Sec. 9. In the Amateur, Open or Women's Championship golf competitions, the entrance fee shall be $5, and it must be received by the Secretary of the Association not later than 6 P. M. one week previous to the opening of the competition.

Only members of clubs belonging to this Association, and those entitled under the rules of any such club, to the use of the links, in whole or in part, for a period not less than the entire current season, may compete for the amateur and women's championships. Competitors must enter for the championships through the secretaries of their respective clubs, who, in sending their names, shall be held to certify that the players are qualified amateur golfers in accordance with the terms of Section 7.

Sec. 10. The Competitions shall be played in accordance with the Rules of Golf, as adopted by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, with such special rules as are in force and published on the green over which the competition takes place, and with such modifications as the Executive Committee may from time to time adopt.

Sec. 11. In the amateur competitions, the contestants shall first play eighteen holes medal play. The best sixty-four scores shall then be taken, and the contestants making these scores shall then play eighteen holes match play until but two competitors remain, who, upon a separate day, shall play the final game consisting of thirty-six holes match play.

Sec. 12. The contestants shall be paired by the Executive Committee and the result published three days before the competition.

In case of an uneven number of entries, the Executive Committee shall appoint a player to play with the contestant drawing the bye.

Sec. 13. The pairings for the preliminary round at match play shall be determined as follows:

The first sixty-four players shall be ranked in accordance with the scores made by them in the medal play round, equal scores to be numbered as they stand upon the score sheet. Number one shall then be paired with number thirty-three, and shall constitute pair number one; number two shall be paired with number thirty-four, and shall constitute pair number two, etc., etc. Odd-numbered pairs shall be placed in the first half, and even-numbered pairs shall be placed in the second half, according to this method, and the complete pairings made as in the accompanying schedule. Winners to play winners. First Round—Nos. 1 to 33, 9 and 41, 13 and 45, 17 and 49, 5 and 37, 21 and 53, 25 and 57, 29 and 61, 31 and 63, 27 and 59, 23 and 55, 17 and 39, 19 and 51, 15 and 67, 11 and 43, 5 and 35, 2 and 34, 10 and 42, 14 and 46, 18 and 50, 6 and 38, 22 and 56, 26 and 58, 30 and 62, 52 and 64, 28 and 60, 26 and 56, 8 and 40, 20 and 52, 16 and 68, 12 and 44, 4 and 34. Second Round—Nos. 1 and 9, 13 and 17, 5 and 21, 23 and 29, 31 and 27, 23 and 7, 19 and 15, 11 and 3, 2 and 10, 14 and 18, 6 and 22, 26 and 30, 52 and 28, 26 and 8, 20 and 16, 12 and 4. Third Round—1 and 13, 5 and 23, 27 and 7, 15 and 3, 2 and 14, 6 and 26, 28 and 8, 16 and 4. Fourth Round—1 and 5, 7 and 3, 2 and 6, 8 and 4. Semi-finals—Nos. 1 and 3, 2 and 4. Final—Nos. 1 and 2.

Sec. 14. In the event of a tie or ties for the sixty-fourth place in the medal play round, the contestants so tied shall continue to play until one or the other shall have gained a lead by strokes, the hole or holes to be played out. In the event of a tie in any match play round, contestants shall continue to play until one or the other shall have won a hole, when the match shall be considered won.

Sec. 15. The winner of the competition shall be the champion amateur golfer of the year, and the trophy shall be held for that year by the club from which the winner shall have entered. The winner shall receive a gold medal; the second, a silver medal; the third and fourth, bronze medals.

Sec. 16. In the women's competition the contestants shall first play eighteen holes medal play. The best thirty-two scores shall then be taken, and the contestants making these scores shall then play eighteen holes match play until but two competitors remain, who upon a separate day shall play the final game, consisting of eighteen holes match play.

Sec. 17. The pairings shall be made in the same manner as in the amateur competition.

Sec. 18. Ties for the thirty-second place in the medal play round and ties in the match play rounds shall be played off in the same manner as in the amateur competition.

Sec. 19. The winner of the competition shall be the champion amateur woman golfer for the year, and the trophy shall be held for that year by the club from which the winner shall have entered. The winner shall receive a gold medal; the second, a silver medal; the third and fourth, bronze medals.

Sec. 20. The open-championship competition shall consist of seventy-two holes medal play, thirty-six holes to be played on each of two days in succession.

Sec. 21. The contestants shall be paired by the Executive Committee.

Sec. 22. The open championship prizes shall be as follows:

First, $200 and a gold medal to the winner of the championship, the winner to have custody of the championship cup; but he must, if required, give security for its safe keeping; second, $150; third, $125; fourth, $100; fifth, $80; sixth, $70; seventh, $50; eighth, $40; ninth, $30; tenth, $25.

In the event of an amateur winning any of the above prizes, he shall be given the equivalent in plate.

Sec. 23. All entries are subject to the approval of the Executive Committee of this Association.

Sec. 24. All disputes shall be settled by the Executive Committee of this Association, whose decision shall be final.

Sec. 25. Contestants paying their entrance money shall be considered thereby to have submitted themselves to the Rules of the Association, both as to restrictions enjoined and penalties imposed. On these conditions alone they are entitled to enjoy all the advantages and privileges of the Association competitions.

Sec. 26. It shall be incumbent upon the club holding any U. S. G. A. championship event to admit, without payment, during the tournament, as visitors to its course all members of the Association.

Sec. 27. These By-laws may be altered, amended or suspended without notice, at any regular meeting of the Executive Committee, by a two-thirds vote of the members present, or at any special meeting on notice given in the call for such meeting.

THE RULES OF GOLF

AS APPROVED BY

THE ROYAL AND ANCIENT GOLF CLUB OF ST. ANDREWS

IN 1899

WITH RULINGS AND INTERPRETATIONS BY THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF

THE UNITED STATES GOLF ASSOCIATION IN 1900

The United States Golf Association, in making these Rulings and Interpretations, has made no change in the wording, nor in the import, of the Rules of Golf, as adopted by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, but has only added such definitions and explanations as appeared to be called for, or suggested by custom and decisions of competent experts.

FEBRUARY, 1900

1. DEFINITIONS:—(a) The Game of Golf is played by sides, each playing its own ball. A side consists either of one or of two players. If one player play against another, the match is called "a single." If two play against two, it is called "a foursome." A single player may play against two, when the match is called "a threesome," or three players may play against each other, each playing his own ball, when the match is called "a three-ball match."

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Match Play" is decided by the number of holes won.

"Medal Play" is decided by the aggregate number of strokes.

"Col. Bogey" is an imaginary opponent, against whose arbitrary score each competitor plays by holes; otherwise bogey competitions are governed by the Special Rules for Stroke Competitions, except that a competitor loses the hole:

When his ball is lost;

When his ball is not played where it lies except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.

(b) The game consists in each side playing a ball from a teeing-ground into a hole by successive strokes, and the hole is won by the side which holes its ball in fewer strokes than the opposite side, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules. If the sides hole out in the same number of strokes, the hole is halved.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

In Competitions:

In Match Play, when two competitors have halved their match, they shall continue playing hole by hole till one or the other shall have won a hole, which shall determine the winner of the match.

THE RULES OF GOLF

Should the match-play competition be a handicap, the competitors must decide the tie by playing either one hole, three or five more holes, according to the manner in which the handicap ceded falls upon certain holes so as to make the extra holes a fairly proportionate representation of the round.

In Medal Play, when two or more competitors are tied, the winner shall be determined by another round of the course; except that By-laws 15 and 19 of the United States Golf Association provide that, in case of ties for the sixteenth place in the Amateur Championship medal rounds, or the eighth place in the Women's Championship medal rounds, respectively, the contestants so tied shall continue to play until one or the other shall have gained a lead by strokes, the hole or holes to be played out.

(c) The teeing-ground shall be indicated by two marks placed in a line, as nearly as possible at right angles to the course.

The hole shall be $4\frac{1}{4}$ inches in diameter, and at least 4 inches deep.

(d) The term "putting-green" shall mean all ground within 20 yards of the hole, except hazards.

(e) A "hazard" shall be any bunker, water (except casual water), sand, path, road, railway, whin, bush, rushes, rabbit scrape, fence, or ditch. Sand blown on to the grass, or sprinkled on the course for its preservation, bare patches, snow, and ice are not hazards. Permanent grass within a hazard shall not be considered part of the hazard.

(f) The term "through the green" shall mean all parts of the course except "hazards" and the putting-green which is being played to.

(g) The term "out of bounds" shall mean any place outside the defined or recognized boundaries of the course.

(h) "Casual water" shall mean any temporary accumulation of water (whether caused by rainfall or otherwise) which is not one of the ordinary and recognized hazards of the course.

(i) A ball shall be "in play" as soon as the player has made a stroke at the teeing-ground in each hole, and shall remain in play until holed out, except when lifted in accordance with the Rules.

(j) A ball shall be considered to have "moved" only if it leave its original position in the least degree, and stop in another; but if it merely oscillate, without finally leaving its original position, it shall not be considered to have "moved."

(k) A ball shall be considered "lost" if it be not found within five minutes after the search for it is begun.

(l) A "match" shall consist of one round of the Links, unless it be otherwise agreed.

A match is won by the side which is leading by a number of holes greater than the number of holes remaining to be played. If each side win the same number of holes, the match is halved.

(m) A "stroke" shall be any movement of the ball caused by the player, except as provided for in Rule 4, or any downward movement of the club made with the intention of striking the ball.

(n) A "penalty stroke" is a stroke added to the score of a side under certain rules, and shall not affect the rotation of play.

(o) The privilege of playing first from a teeing-ground is called "the honor."

(p) "Addressing the ball" shall mean that a player has taken up his position and grounded his club, or if in a hazard, that he has taken up his position preparatory to striking the ball.

(q) The reckoning of the strokes is kept by the terms—"the odd," "two more," "three more," etc., and "one off three," "one off two," "the like." The reckoning of holes is kept by the terms—so many "holes up," or "all even," and so many "to play."

2. A match begins by each side playing a ball from the first teeing-ground.

The player who shall play first on each side shall be named by his own side.

The option of taking the honor at the first teeing-ground shall be decided, if necessary, by lot.

A ball played from in front of, or outside of, or more than two club lengths behind the two marks indicating the teeing-ground, or played by a player when his opponent should have had the honor, may be at once recalled by the opposite side, and may be re-teed.

The side which wins a hole shall have the honor at the next teeing-ground. If a hole has been halved the side which had the honor at the last teeing-ground shall again have the honor.

On beginning a new match the winner of the long match in the previous round shall have the honor, or if the previous match was halved the side which last won a hole shall have the honor.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for playing a ball outside of the limits of teeing-ground:

In Match Play, the ball may be at once recalled by the opponent, no stroke being counted for the misplay.

In Medal Play, disqualification.

Penalty for leading off the tee out of turn:

In Match Play, the ball may be at once recalled by the opponent, no stroke being counted for the misplay.

In Medal Play, no penalty—but it is customary in Medal Play to observe the honor.

3. A player shall not play while his ball is moving, under the penalty of the loss of the hole. But if the ball begin to move while the player is making his upward or downward swing, he shall incur no penalty, except as provided for in Rules 10, 18, and 27, and a stroke lost under Rule 27 shall not in these circumstances be counted as a stroke of the player.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for playing a moving ball [except at the tee]:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

But if the ball move while the player is making his upward or downward swing a penalty is only incurred if the player is deemed to have caused it to move, under Rules 10 and 18, by moving or touching any loose impediment, or under Rule 27, by grounding his club, or in a hazard, by taking his stand to play it, in which cases the penalty shall be:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

4. If the ball fall or be knocked off the tee in addressing it, no penalty shall be incurred, and it may be replaced, and if struck when moving no penalty shall be incurred.

5. In a threesome or foursome the partners shall strike off alternately from the teeing-grounds, and shall strike alternately during the play of the hole.

If a player play when his partner should have done so, his side shall lose the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

6. When the balls are in play, the ball farthest from the hole which the players are approaching shall be played first, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules. If a player play when his opponent should have done so, the opponent may at once recall the stroke. A ball so recalled shall be dropped as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

“Otherwise provided for” in Rule 32, and Medal Rule 11.

Penalty for playing out of turn:

In Match Play, ball may be at once recalled by the opponent, no stroke being counted for the misplay.

In Medal Play, no penalty—the ball may not be recalled.

7. The ball must be fairly struck at, not pushed, scraped, nor spooned, under penalty of the loss of the hole.

THE RULES OF GOLF

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes.

8. A ball must be played wherever it lies or the hole be given up, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

“Otherwise provided for” in Rules 9, 11, 13, 15, 17, 22, 23, 28, 31, 32, 34.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes, except otherwise provided for in Medal Rules 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

9. Unless with the opponent's consent, a ball in play shall not be moved, nor touched before the hole is played out, under penalty of one stroke, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules. But the player may touch his ball with his club in the act of addressing it without penalty.

If the player's ball move the opponent's ball through the green, the opponent, if he choose, may drop a ball (without penalty) as near as possible to the place where it lay, but this must be done before another stroke is played.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

“Otherwise provided for” in Rules 11, 13, 15, 17, 22, 23, 28, 31, 32, 34, and Medal Rules 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

Penalty:

In Match Play, for moving or touching, one stroke.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

If a competitor's ball be displaced by another competitor's ball it must be replaced, or its owner shall be disqualified.

10. Any loose impediment (not being in or touching a hazard) which is within a club length of the ball may be removed. If the player's ball move after any such loose impediment has been touched by the player, his partner, or either of their caddies, the penalty shall be one stroke. If any loose impediment (not being on the putting-green) which is more than a club length from the ball be removed, the penalty shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for ball moved (not in hazard) after removing loose impediment within club length of the ball:

In Match Play, one stroke.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

Through the green, for removing loose impediment more than a club length from the ball:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes.

11. Any vessel, wheel-barrow, tool, roller, grass-cutter, box, or similar obstruction may be removed. If a ball be moved in so doing, it may be replaced without penalty. A ball lying on or touching such obstruction, or on clothes, nets, or ground under repair or covered up or opened for the purpose of the upkeep of the Links, may be lifted and dropped without penalty, as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole. A ball lifted in a hazard, under such circumstances, shall be dropped in the hazard.

A ball lying in a golf hole or flag hole, or in a hole made by the greenkeeper, may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

“As near as possible” shall mean within a club length.

If a ball lie on or within a club length of a drain-cover, water-pipe, or hydrant, it may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

THE RULES OF GOLF

12. Before striking at a ball in play, the player shall not move, bend, nor break anything fixed or growing near the ball, except in the act of placing his feet on the ground for the purpose of addressing the ball, in soling his club to address the ball, and in his upward or downward swing, under penalty of the loss of the hole, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

“Otherwise provided for” in Rules 11, 13, 30.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes.

13. When a ball lies in or touches a hazard, nothing shall be done to improve its lie; the club shall not touch the ground, nor shall anything be touched or moved before the player strikes at the ball, subject to the following exceptions: (1) The player may place his feet firmly on the ground for the purpose of addressing the ball; (2) In addressing the ball, or in the upward or downward swing, any grass, bent, whin, or other growing substance, or the side of a bunker, wall, paling, or other immovable obstacle may be touched; (3) Steps or planks placed in a hazard by the Green Committee for access to or egress from such hazard may be removed, and if a ball be moved in so doing, it may be replaced without penalty; (4) Any loose impediments may be removed from the putting-green; (5) The player shall be entitled to find his ball as provided for by Rule 30. The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes.

14. A player or caddie shall not press down nor remove any irregularities of surface near a ball in play. Dung, worm casts, or mole-hills may be removed (but not pressed down) without penalty. The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes.

Pressing down the surface behind the ball by prolonged or forcible grounding of the club shall be deemed a breach of this Rule.

15. If a ball lie or be lost in water, the player may drop a ball, under penalty of one stroke. But if a ball lie or be lost (1) in casual water through the green, a ball may be dropped without penalty; (2) in water in a hazard, or in casual water in a hazard, a ball may be dropped behind the hazard, under penalty of one stroke; (3) in casual water on a putting-green, a ball may be placed by hand behind the water, without penalty.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, one stroke.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

A ball lifted from a recognized water hazard may be dropped under a penalty of one stroke even if the hazard be dry at the time.

If the water in a recognized water hazard overflow its usual boundaries the overflowed portion of the course shall be considered as part of the hazard, and not as casual water.

If a ball lie or be lost in casual water in a hazard, a ball may be dropped without penalty, behind the water, but in the hazard, keeping the spot, where it entered the water, in line to the hole.

16. When a ball has to be dropped, the player himself shall drop it. He shall face the hole, stand erect behind the hazard or casual water, keep the spot from which the ball was lifted (or in the case of water or casual water, the spot at which it entered) in a line between himself and the hole, and drop the ball behind him from his head, standing as far behind the hazard or casual water as he may please. If it be impossible to drop the ball behind the hazard or casual water, it shall be dropped as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole. If the ball so dropped touch the player dropping it, there shall be no further penalty, and if the ball roll into a hazard, it may be re-dropped without further penalty.

THE RULES OF GOLF

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for a ball not dropped in accordance with this Rule:

In Match Play, the opponent may call for the player to drop again; if the request be not complied with the player shall lose the hole.

In Medal Play, the ball must be dropped again or the competitor disqualified.

17. When the balls lie within six inches of each other on a putting-green, or within a club length of each other through the green or in a hazard (the distance to be measured from their nearest points), the ball nearer the hole may, at the option of either the player or the opponent, be lifted until the other is played, and shall then be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay. If the ball farther from the hole be moved in so doing, or in measuring the distance, it shall be replaced without penalty. If the lie of the lifted ball be altered by the player in playing, the ball may be placed in a lie as nearly as possible similar to that from which it was lifted, but not nearer the hole.

18. Any loose impediments may be removed from the putting-green, irrespective of the position of the player's ball. The opponent's ball may not be moved except as provided for by the immediately preceding Rule. If the player's ball move after any loose impediment lying within six inches of it has been touched by the player, his partner, or either of their caddies, the penalty shall be one stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

19. When the ball is on the putting-green the player or his caddie may remove (but not press down) sand, earth, dung, worm-casts, mole-hills, snow, or ice lying round the hole or in the line of his putt. This shall be done by brushing lightly with the hand only across the putt and not along it. Dung may be removed by a club, but the club must not be laid with more than its own weight upon the ground. The line of the putt must not be touched, except with the club immediately in front of the ball, in the act of addressing it, or as above authorized. The penalty for a breach of this Rule is the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

The "line of the putt" does not extend beyond the hole.

The "player or his caddie" shall include his partner or his partner's caddie.

20. When the ball is on the putting-green, no mark shall be placed, nor line drawn as a guide. The line of the putt may be pointed out by the player's caddie, his partner, or his partner's caddie, but the person doing so must not touch the ground.

The player's caddie, his partner, or his partner's caddie, may stand at the hole, but no player nor caddie shall endeavor, by moving or otherwise, to influence the action of the wind upon the ball.

The penalty for a breach of this Rule is the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

21. When on the putting-green, a player shall not play until the opponent's ball is at rest, under penalty of one stroke.

THE RULES OF GOLF

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, one stroke.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

22. Either side is entitled to have the flag-stick removed when approaching the hole. If the ball rest against the flag-stick when in the hole, the player shall be entitled to remove the stick, and, if the ball fall in, it shall be deemed as having been holed out at the last stroke. If the player's ball knock in the opponent's ball, the latter shall be deemed as having been holed out at the last stroke. If the player's ball move the opponent's ball, the opponent, if he choose, may replace it, but this must be done before another stroke is played. If the player's ball stop on the spot formerly occupied by the opponent's ball, and the opponent declare his intention to replace, the player shall first play another stroke, after which the opponent shall replace and play his ball. If the opponent's ball lie on the edge of the hole, the player, after holing out, may knock it away, claiming the hole if holing at the like, and the half if holing at the odd, provided that the player's ball does not strike the opponent's ball and set it in motion. If after the player's ball is in the hole, the player neglect to knock away the opponent's ball, and it fall in also, the opponent shall be deemed to have holed out at his last stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty—If player's ball knock in the other ball:

In Match Play, the latter shall be counted as holed out in the last stroke.
In Medal Play, the latter must be replaced or its owner disqualified.

—If player's ball displace the other ball.

In Match Play, the other ball may be replaced at its owner's option, but this must be done before another stroke is played.

In Medal Play, the other ball must be replaced or its owner disqualified.

23. If a ball in motion be stopped or deflected by any agency outside the match, or by the forecaddie, the ball must be played from where it lies, and the occurrence submitted to as a "rub of the green." If a ball lodge in anything moving, a ball shall be dropped as near as possible to the place where the object was when the ball lodged in it, without penalty. If a ball at rest be displaced by any agency outside the match, excepting wind, the player shall drop a ball as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty. On the putting-green the ball shall be replaced by hand, without penalty.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Ball at rest displaced:

In Match Play, must be dropped, or if on putting-green replaced, as near as possible to where it lay, or the hole shall be lost.

In Medal Play, must be replaced as near as possible to where it lay, or its owner must be disqualified.

24. If the player's ball strike, or be moved by an opponent or an opponent's caddie or clubs, the opponent shall lose the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty incurred:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, no penalty.

If the player's ball strike the other competitor or his caddie or clubs, it is a "rub of the green" and the ball shall be played from where it lies. If a player's ball at rest be moved by the other competitor or his caddie, the ball must be replaced or the player disqualified.

25. If the player's ball strike, or be stopped by, himself or his partner, or either of their caddies or clubs, his side shall lose the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

THE RULES OF GOLF

26. If the player, when making a stroke, strike the ball twice, the penalty shall be one stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, one stroke.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

27. If the player, when not intending to make a stroke, or his partner or either of their caddies, move his or their ball, or by touching anything cause it to move, when it is in play, the penalty shall be one stroke. If a ball in play move, after the player has grounded his club in the act of addressing it, or, when in a hazard, if he has taken up his stand to play it, he shall be deemed to have caused it to be moved, and shall lose a stroke, which shall be counted as a stroke of the player, except as provided in Rule 3.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for moving the ball or causing it to be moved as under Rules 10 and 18:

In Match Play, one stroke.
In Medal Play, one stroke.

28. If a player play the opponent's ball, his side shall lose the hole, unless (1) the opponent then play the player's ball, whereby the penalty is cancelled, and the hole must be played out with the balls thus exchanged, or (2) the mistake occur through wrong information given by the opponent or his caddie, in which case there shall be no penalty, but the mistake, if discovered before the opponent has played, must be rectified by placing a ball as near as possible to the place where the opponent's ball lay.

If it be discovered before either side has struck off from the next teeing-ground (or, after playing the last hole in the match, before any of the players have left the green) that one side has played out the hole with the ball of a party not engaged in the match, that side shall lose that hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for breach of this rule:

1st. Playing the opponent's ball with exceptions (1) and (2) above noted in the Rule:
In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, no penalty. The ball must be replaced.

2d. Playing out with the ball of a party not engaged in the match:

In Match Play, if discovered before the next tee stroke, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, the player must go back and play his own ball, or, not finding it, return as near as possible to the spot where it was last struck, tee another ball and lose a stroke (Rule 6, Medal Play) or else be disqualified.

29. If a ball be lost, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules, the player's side shall lose the hole; but if both balls be lost, the hole shall be considered halved.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 15, 31.

Penalty for lost ball:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, the competitor must return as near as possible to the spot from which the lost ball was struck, tee a ball and lose a stroke.

30. If a ball be lost in fog, bent, whins, long grass, or the like, only so much thereof shall be touched as will enable the player to find his ball. The penalty for a breach of this rule shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, two strokes.

THE RULES OF GOLF

31. If a ball be driven out of bounds, a ball shall be dropped at the spot from which the stroke was played, under penalty of loss of the distance.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the distance.
In Medal Play, loss of the distance.

32. In a three-ball match, if a player consider that an opponent's ball on the putting-green might interfere with his stroke, he may require the opponent either to lift or hole out his ball at the opponent's discretion.

If an opponent consider (1) that his own ball, if left, might be of assistance to the player, he is entitled to lift it, or hole out at his discretion; or (2) that the ball of the other opponent might be of such assistance, he may require that it be either lifted or holed out at the other opponent's discretion.

33. A player shall not ask for advice from any one except his own caddie, his partner, or his partner's caddie, nor shall he willingly be otherwise advised in any way whatever, under penalty of the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.
In Medal Play, disqualification.

34. If a ball split into separate pieces, another ball may be put down where the largest portion lies, or if two pieces are apparently of equal size, it may be put where either piece lies, at the option of the player. If a ball crack or become unfit for play, the player may change it, on intimating to his opponent his intention to do so. Mud adhering to a ball shall not be considered as making it unfit for play.

35. If a dispute arise on any point, the players have the right of determining the party or parties to whom it shall be referred, but should they not agree, either side may refer it to the Rules of Golf Committee, whose decision shall be final. If the point in dispute be not covered by the Rules of Golf, the arbiters must decide it by equity.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Such decisions may be finally referred to the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association.

SPECIAL RULES FOR STROKE COMPETITIONS

1. In stroke competitions, the competitor who holes the stipulated course in fewest strokes shall be the winner.

2. If the lowest scores be made by two or more competitors, the tie or ties shall be decided by another round to be played on the same day. But if the Green Committee determine that to be inexpedient or impossible, they shall then appoint the following or some subsequent day whereon the tie or ties shall be decided.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Except that By-Laws 15 and 19 of the United States Golf Association provide that, in case of ties for the sixteenth place in the amateur championship medal rounds, or for the eighth place in the women's championship medal rounds, respectively, the contestants so tied shall continue to play until one or the other shall have gained a lead by strokes, the hole or holes to be played out.

3. New holes shall be made for Stroke Competitions, and thereafter, no competitor, before starting, shall play any stroke on a putting-green, under penalty of disqualification.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Competitors must always assume that new holes have been made. Practice strokes may be played through the green, and in hazards.

THE RULES OF GOLF

In Match-Play competitions, other than bogey competitions, practice strokes may be played on the putting-greens.

4. The scores shall be kept by a special marker, or by the competitors noting each other's scores. The scores marked shall be checked after each hole. On completion of the round, the score of the competitor shall be signed by the marker, countersigned by the competitor, and handed to the Secretary or his deputy, after which, unless it be found that a card returned shows a score below that actually played (in which case the competitor shall be disqualified), no correction or alteration can be made.

5. If a competitor play from outside the limits of the teeing-ground, the penalty shall be disqualification.

6. If a ball be lost (except as otherwise provided for in the Rules of Golf), the competitor shall return as near as possible to the spot from which the lost ball was struck, tee a ball and lose a stroke. The lost ball shall continue in play, if it be found before the player has struck another ball.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for breach of this Rule shall be disqualification.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 15, 31.

7. If a competitor's ball strike himself, his clubs, or caddie, the penalty shall be one stroke.

8. If a competitor's ball strike another competitor, or his clubs or caddie, it is a "rub of the green," and the ball shall be played from where it lies. If a competitor's ball which is at rest be moved by another competitor, or his caddie, or his club, or his ball, or by any outside agency excepting wind, it shall be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty.

9. A competitor shall hole out with his own ball at every hole, under penalty of disqualification. But if it be discovered, before he has struck off from the next teeing-ground or, if the mistake occur at the last hole, before he has handed his card to the Secretary or his deputy, that he has not holed out with his own ball, he shall be at liberty to return and hole out with his own ball without penalty.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

If he fail to find his own ball he shall return as near as possible to the spot from which he last struck it, tee a ball and lose a stroke. (Medal Rule 6.)

10. A ball may be lifted out of a difficulty of any description, and teed, if possible, behind it, under penalty of two strokes. If it be impossible to tee the ball behind the difficulty, it shall be teed as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

11. All balls shall be holed out, under penalty of disqualification. When a competitor's ball is within 20 yards of the hole, the competitor shall not play until the flag has been removed, under penalty of one stroke. If the ball nearer the hole might either interfere with the competitor's stroke, or in any way assist the competitor, such ball must be holed out or lifted, at the owner's option. Through the green a competitor may have any other competitor's ball lifted, if he find that it interferes with his stroke.

12. A competitor, unless specially authorized by the Green Committee, shall not play with a professional, and he may not willingly receive advice from any one but his caddie, in any way whatever, under penalty of disqualification.

A forecaddie may be employed.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Each competitor may have a forecaddie.

13. Competitors shall not discontinue play on account of bad weather, under penalty of disqualification.

14. Where, in the "Rules of Golf," the penalty for the breach of any rule is the loss of the hole, in stroke competitions the penalty shall be the loss of two strokes, except where otherwise provided for in these Special Rules.

THE RULES OF GOLF

15. Any dispute regarding the play shall be determined by the Rules of Golf Committee.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Such decision may be finally referred to the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association.

16. The Rules of Golf, so far as they are not at variance with these Special Rules, shall apply to Stroke Competitions.

ETIQUETTE OF GOLF

1. A single player has no standing and must always give way to a properly constituted match.

2. No player, caddie, or onlooker should move or talk during a stroke.

3. No player should play from the tee until the party in front have played their second strokes, and are out of range, nor play up to the putting-green till the party in front have holed out and moved away.

4. The player who has the honor should be allowed to play before his opponent tees his ball.

5. Players who have holed out should not try their putts over again when other players are following them.

6. Players looking for a lost ball must allow other matches coming up to pass them.

7. On request being made, a three-ball match must allow a single, threesome or foursome to pass. Any match playing a whole round may claim the right to pass a match playing a shorter round.

8. If a match fail to keep its place on the green, and lose in distance more than one clear hole on those in front, it may be passed, on request being made.

9. Turf cut or displaced by a stroke should be at once replaced.

10. A player should carefully fill up all holes made by himself in a bunker.

11. It is the duty of an umpire or referee to take cognizance of any breach of rule that he may observe, whether he be appealed to on the point or not.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

The "Etiquette of Golf" shall be as binding upon players as the other Rules of the game.

GLOSSARY OF TECHNICAL TERMS EMPLOYED IN THE GAME OF GOLF

- Addressing the ball*—Putting one's self in position to strike the ball.
- Approach*—When the player is sufficiently near the hole to be able to drive the ball to the putting-green his stroke is called the "approach shot."
- Baff*—To strike the ground with the "sole" of the club-head in playing, and so send ball in air.
- Baffy*—A wooden club to play lofting shots.
- Bent*—Rush, bent-grass.
- Bogey*—Usually given the title of Colonel. A phantom who is credited with a certain score for each hole, against which score each player is competing.
- Bone*—A piece of ram's horn inserted in the sole of the club to prevent it from splitting.
- Brassie*—A wooden club with a brass sole.
- Break-club*—An obstacle lying near a ball of such a nature as might break the club when striking at the ball.
- Bulger*—A club with a convex face.
- Bunker*—Generally any rough, hazardous ground—more strictly, a sandpit.
- Bye*—Any hole or holes that remain to be played after the match is finished. They are played for singly; unless the sides agree to make another match of them.
- Caddie*—A person who carries the golfer's clubs, and who can usually give him advice in regard to the game.
- Cleek*—An iron-headed club of considerable driving power, and sometimes used for putting.
- Club*—The implement with which the ball is struck. The heads are of three kinds—wood, wood with a brass sole, and iron only.
- Course*—That portion of the links on which the game ought to be played, generally bounded on either side by rough ground or other hazard.
- Cup*—A small hole in the course, usually one made by the stroke of some previous player.
- Dead*—A ball is said to be "dead" when it lies so near the hole that the "putt" is a dead certainty. A ball is said to fall "dead" when it does not run after alighting.
- Dormy*—One side is said to be "dormy" when it is as many holes ahead as there remain holes to play. (This word is probably derived from the French, like many Scottish terms.)
- Draw*—To drive widely to the left hand. (Identical in its results with Hook and Screw.)
- Driver*—See Play-Club.
- Face*—First, the slope of a bunker or hillock; second, the part of the club-head which strikes the ball.
- Flat*—A club is said to "flat" when its head is at a very obtuse angle to the shaft.
- Fog*—Moss, rank grass.
- Fore!*—A warning cry to any person in the way of the stroke. (Contracted from "before.")
- Foursome*—A match in which two play on each side.
- Gobble*—A rapid, straight "putt" into the hole, such that, had the ball not gone in, it would have gone some distance beyond.
- Grassed*—Said of a club whose face is slightly "spooned" or sloped backward.
- Green*—First, the whole links; second, the putting-ground around the different holes.
- Grip*—First, the part of the handle covered with leather, by which the club is grasped; second, the grasp itself.
- Half-one*—A handicap of a stroke deducted every second hole.
- Half-shot*—Less than a full swing.
- Halved*—A hole is said to be "halved" when each side takes the same number of strokes. A "halved match" is a "drawn game"—that is, the players have proved to be equal.
- Hanging*—A "hanging" ball is one which lies on a downward slope.
- Hazard*—A general term for bunker, long grass, road, water, whin, mole-hill, or other bad ground.

TECHNICAL TERMS

Head—This word is a striking specimen of incongruity and mixed metaphor. A head is the lowest part of a club, and possesses, among other mysterious characteristics, a sole, a heel, a toe or nose, a neck, and a face!

Heel—First, the part of the head nearest the shaft; second, to hit from this part, and send the ball to the right hand.

Hole—First, the four-inch hole lined with iron; the holes going out are marked with white, and those coming in, with red flags. Second, the whole space between any two of these.

Honor—The right to play off first from the tee.

Hook—See Draw.

Hoſe—The socket in iron-headed clubs, into which the wooden shaft fits.

Iron—A club made of the material its name implies, with the head more or less laid back to loft a ball. A most deadly weapon in a good player's hands.

Jerk—In "jerking," the club should strike with a quick cut behind the ball, and stop on reaching the ground.

Lie—First, the inclination of a club when held on the ground in a natural position for striking; second, the situation of a ball, good or bad.

Like—See under Odds.

Like-as-we-lie—When both sides have played the same number of strokes.

Links—The open downs or heath on which golf is played.

Loft—To elevate the ball.

Long odds—When a player has to play a stroke more than his adversary, who is much farther on—that is, nearer the hole.

Made—A player, or his ball, is said to be "made" when his ball is sufficiently near the hole to be played on the putting-green next shot.

Mashie—A club which, both in its make and its uses, is a compromise between the niblic and the iron.

Match—First, the sides playing against each other; second, the game itself.

Miss the globe—To fail to strike the ball, either by swinging right over the top of it, or by hitting the ground behind it, is counted a stroke.

Neck—The crook of the head where it joins the shaft.

Niblic—A small, narrow-headed, heavy iron club, used when the ball lies in bad places, as ruts or whins, etc.

Nose—The point or front portion of the club-head.

Odds—First, means the handicap given by a strong player to a weaker in a single match, consisting of either one, two, three, or more holes to start with, or one stroke per hole, or every alternate hole, or at every third hole, etc.; second, to have played the "odds" is to have played one stroke more than your adversary. Some other terms used in counting the game will be most easily explained here altogether. If your opponent has played one stroke more than you—that is, "the odds"—your next stroke will be "the like"; if two strokes more—that is, "the two more"—your next stroke will be "the one off two"; if "three more," "the one off three," and so on.

One-off-two, One-off-three, etc.—See under Odds.

Play-club—A wooden-headed club, with full-length shaft, more or less supple; with it the ball can be driven to the greatest distance. It is used when the ball lies well.

Press—To strive to recover lost ground by special hard hitting—a very dangerous thing to attempt.

Putt—To play the delicate game close to the hole. (Pronounced u as in but.)

Putter—An upright, stiff-shafted, wooden-headed club (some use iron heads), used when the ball is on the putting-green.

Rind—A strip of cloth under the leather to thicken the grip.

Rub on the green—A favorable or unfavorable knock to the ball, for which no penalty is imposed, and which must be submitted to.

Scare—The narrower part of the club-head by which it is glued to the handle.

Sclaff—When the club-head strikes the ground behind the ball, and follows on with a ricochet.

Scruff—Slightly razing the grass in striking.

Set—A full complement of clubs.

Shaft—The stick or handle of the club.

Sole—The flat bottom of the club-head.

Spoons—Wooden-headed clubs of three lengths—long, middle, and short; the head is scooped, so as to loft the ball.

Spring—The degree of suppleness in the shaft.

Square—When the game stands evenly balanced, neither side being any holes ahead.

Stance—The position of the player's feet when addressing himself to the ball.

Steal—To hole an unlikely "putt" from a distance, but not by a "gobble."

Stroke—The act of hitting the ball with the club, or the attempt to do so.

TECHNICAL TERMS

- Stymie*—When your opponent's ball lies in the line of your "putt."
Swing—The sweep of the club in driving.
Swipe—A full driving stroke.
Tee—The pat of sand on which the ball is placed for the first stroke each hole.
Third—A handicap of a stroke deducted every third hole.
Toe—Another name for the nose of the club.
Top—To hit the ball above its centre.
Two-more, Three-more, etc.—See under Odds.
Upright—A club is said to be "upright" when its head is not at a very obtuse angle to the shaft.
Whins—Furze or gorse.
Whipping—The pitched twine uniting the head and handle.
Wrist shot—Less than half a shot, generally played with an iron club.

The Pianola

in the Club or Country Home

The Pianola is a source of entertainment which is always available. It furnishes a simplified method of playing the piano. With its aid any one can play any selection desired, classic, popular, dance or accompaniments to dance or sing.

NOTE—The Aeriol piano is a complete piano playable by the keys in the ordinary manner. But in addition it has the Pianola action inside the case. It is the ideal instrument for the club. Send for Catalogue.

The cost of the Pianola is \$250.00. The Aeriol piano, which is built in two sizes, 65 note and $7\frac{1}{3}$ octaves, cost respectively \$600 and \$850. These instruments may be purchased by moderate payments.

DREER'S LAWN GRASS SEED GOLF LINKS GRASS

Were awarded the "Gold Medal" at th Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., 1901, for Purity, Cleanliness, and Beautiful, Permanent Results

With these special grass mixtures the most permanent and satisfactory turf can be produced in a remarkably short time. This was demonstrated by us at the Pan-American Exposition Grounds, where we sowed seed during the Autumn of 1900, and at the time of opening the Exposition in May, 1901, it had made a beautiful, thick, velvety lawn which was pronounced by experts to be the finest piece of turf on the grounds. Golf Clubs, Athletic Associations, and others desiring to make new lawns or renovate old turf should use either of Dreer's Special Grass Mixtures offered below.

PRICES FOR DREER'S SPECIAL GRASS MIXTURES

	QUART BY MAIL	PECK BY EXPRESS	BUSHEL BY EXPRESS
EVERGREEN LAWN GRASS	30 cts.	$1.00	$4.00 (20 lbs. to bus.)

THE DREER LAWN MOWER BEST STRONGEST CLEANEST WORK

Built to stand the wear and tear of constant use. In construction it is the most simple and best of all; it has the latest improvements; is self sharpening; has perfect train of gear, large drive wheels, brass bearings and can be set within $\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch of the ground. It runs easily and smoothly at high rate of speed, and is the least complicated of any good Lawn Mower known.

Prices for the Dreer High Wheel Mower: 10 inch drive wheel, Four Blades, 15 inch $8.00; 17 inch $9.00; 19 inch $10.00; 21 inch $11.00. We can supply same sizes with five blades at one dollar extra to above prices.
