The National Republican League of the United States was organized in Chickering Hall, New York City, December 15-17, 1887, by delegates from about 350 Republican clubs of the United States, assembled in national convention, pursuant to a call issued by the Republican Club of New York City. It is composed of the Republican clubs of the United States, organized by States and united in a national organization. Its purpose is "Organization and Education." It aims to enlist recruits for the Republican party, particularly the younger men and the "first voters." National conventions have since been held at Baltimore, 1889; Nashville, 1890; Cincinnati, 1891; Buffalo, 1892; Louisville, 1893; Denver, 1894; Cleveland, 1895; Milwaukee, 1896; Detroit, 1897; Omaha, 1898 (biennial sessions afterward); St. Paul, 1900; Chicago, 1902; Indianapolis, 1904; Philadelphia, 1906; Cincinnati, 1908; New York, 1910; Chicago, 1912. At the close of the campaign of 1908, the league, including the Taft campaign clubs, comprised approximately 4,000 clubs, with a membership of 1,500,000. Officers—President, John Hays Hammond, Gloucester, Mass.; Secretary-Treasurer, D. B. Atherton, New York City.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

FOR THE INCREASE AND DIFFUSION OF KNOWLEDGE AMONG MEN.

OFFICERS OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION:

Ex-Officio Presiding Officer of the Institution, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States; Chancellor of the Institution, Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States; Secretary of the Institution, Charles D. Walcott; Assistant Secretary in Charge of United States National Museum, Richard Rathbun.

Board of Regents, Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States, Chancellor; Thomas R. Marshall, Vice-President of the United States; Henry Cabot Lodge, Member of the Senate; William J. Stone, Member of the Senate; Henry F. Hollis, Member of the Senate; Scott Ferris, Member of the House of Representatives; Ernest W. Roberts, Member of the House of Representatives; Maurice Connolly, Member of the House of Representatives; Andrew D. White, citizen of New York; Alexander Graham Bell, citizen of Washington, D. C.; Charles F. Choate, Jr., citizen of Massachusetts; George Gray, citizen of Delaware; John B. Henderson, Jr., citizen of Washington, D. C.; Charles W. Fairbanks, citizen of Indiana.

The Institution at Washington, D. C., was established by statute in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, who bequeathed his fortune in the fund a building, known as the Smithsonian Building, was erected on land given by the United States. The Institution is legally an establishment having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice-President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents consisting of the Vice-President, the Chief Justice, three members of the United States Senate, three members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. It is under the immediate direction of the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution who is the executive officer of the board and the director of the Institution's activities.

For the increase of knowledge, the Institution aids investigators by making grants for research and exploration, supplying books, apparatus, laboratory accommodations, etc. It occasionally provides for lectures, which are published. It has initiated numerous scientific projects of national importance, some of which have been turned over to the Government and resulted in the creation of independent Government bureaus. It advises the Government in many matters of scientific importance, especially in those that have an international aspect. It co-operates with national scientific bodies, such as the National Academy of Sciences, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Historical Association, etc. It issues three regular series of publications: Annual Reports, containing papers of general interest intended to keep the ordinary reader abreast of the progress of science; Contributions to Knowledge, the distinct feature of which is that each memoir constitutes an original contribution to knowledge; Miscellaneous Collections, which contain bibliographies, reports of expeditions and of various scientific researches, and standard tables. All these publications are distributed gratuitously to important libraries throughout the world.

The Institution maintains a library, in co-operation with the Library of Congress, which numbers 265,000 volumes and consists mainly of the transactions of learned societies and scientific periodicals. While the body of the library is deposited in the Library of Congress and accessible to all its readers, a working library is maintained at the Institution. Lists, bibliographies, rules for cataloging and library work have been published. The Institution supports a table at the Naples Zoological Station. All these and numerous other activities may be carried on solely from the income of the Smithsonian fund. The Regents are empowered to accept gifts without action of Congress, in furtherance of the purposes of the Institution, and to administer trusts in accord therewith.

The parent Institution has the administrative charge of several branches which grew out of its early activities and which are supported by Congressional appropriations. These are the National Museum, including the National Gallery of Art; the International Exchange Service, the Bureau of American Ethnology, the National Zoological Park, the Astrophysical Observatory, and the United States Regional Bureau for the International Catalogue of Scientific Literature.

THE UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural history, geology, paleontology, archaeology and ethnology of America, and has unique collections of American history, as well as many series relating to fine arts and the industrial arts. It is both an educational and a research museum, and issues numerous scientific publications. The National Gallery of Art consists largely of the collections of etchings and engravings of George P. Marsh, the collections of Charles L. Freer, containing numerous paintings and etchings by Whistler, and examples of Chinese and Japanese art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including works of a number of the greatest English portrait painters, and the collection of William T. Evans, of one hundred and forty-seven paintings, representing some of the best work of one hundred and five American artists.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE, carried on in accordance with the terms of treaties entered into between the United States and various foreign nations, is for the free interchange of scientific, literary and governmental publications between the Government of the United States and foreign Governments and institutions, and investigators in the United States and foreign lands. It has correspondents in all parts of the world, and since its establishment more than 4,000,000 packages, containing many millions of publications, have been handled by it.

THE BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY, for the study of the American Indian; THE ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY, for the investigation of solar phenomena; THE NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK at Washington, containing about 1,400 animals; the Regional Bureau of the INTERNATIONAL CATALOGUE OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE, for the preparation of a classified index to the current scientific literature of the United States, and the LANGLEY AERODYNAMICAL LABORATORY are also branches of the Institution.

COPYRIGHT LAW OF THE UNITED STATES.

DIRECTIONS FOR SECURING COPYRIGHT UNDER ACT OF CONGRESS OF MARCH 4, 1909.

THE copyright law approved March 4, 1909, which took effect on July 1, 1909, provides that the application for registration of any work "shall specify to which of the following classes the work in which copyright is claimed belongs":

SUBJECT MATTER OF COPYRIGHT.

(a) Books, including composite and cyclopaedic works, directories, gazetteers, and other compilations; (b) periodicals, including newspapers; (c) lectures, sermons, addresses, prepared for oral delivery; (d) dramatic or dramatico-musical compositions; (e) musical compositions; (f) maps; (g) works of art; models or designs for works of art; (h) reproductions of a work of art; (i) drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character; (j) photographs; (k) prints and pictorial illustrations. The amendment of August 24, 1912, adds: (l) motion picture photo-plays; (m) motion pictures other than photo-plays.

The application for registration of any article should distinctly specify to which one of these classes the work belongs. An article is not entitled to registration unless it is reasonably possible to class it under one or the other of the designations named in the statute.

STEPS NECESSARY TO SECURE COPYRIGHT REGISTRATION.

For works reproduced in copies for sale: 1. Publish the work with the copyright notice. The notice may be in the form "Copyright, 19... (year date of publication) by ... (name of copyright proprietor)." 2. Promptly after publication send to the Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., two copies (or if the work is by a foreign citizen and is first published in a foreign country, one copy only) of the best edition of the work, with an application for registration. In the case of motion picture photo-plays and of motion pictures other than photo-plays a description of the work must be filed and a money order payable to the Register of Copyrights for the statutory registration fee of $1.

In the case of books by American authors, or permanent residents of the United States, the copies deposited must be accompanied by an affidavit, under the official seal of an officer authorized to administer oaths, stating that the typesetting, printing, and binding of the book have been performed within the United States. Affidavit and application forms will be supplied by the copyright office on request.

Books of foreign origin in a language or languages other than English are not required to be manufactured in the United States. In the case of a book in the English language published abroad before publication in this country, an ad interim copyright for 30 days from the day of the deposit of the foreign copy may be secured by depositing in the Copyright Office one complete copy of the foreign edition within 30 days after its publication abroad. If two copies of such book manufactured in this country are deposited with application for registration and fee ($1) during the ad interim term, the copyright shall be extended for the full term of 28 years.

For works not reproduced in copies for sale: Copyright may also be had of certain classes of works (see a, b, c, below) of which copies are not reproduced for sale, by filing in the Copyright Office an application for registration, with the statutory fee of $1, sending therewith: (a) in the case of lectures or other oral addresses or of dramatic or musical compositions, one complete manuscript or typewritten copy of the work. This privilege of registration, however, does not exempt the copyright proprietor from the deposit of printed copies of a dramatic or musical composition or lecture where the work is later reproduced in copies for sale. A new application must be made in such cases and another fee of $1.00 paid. (b) In the case of photographs not intended for general circulation, one photographic print. (c) In the case of works of art (paintings, drawings, sculpture); or of drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character, one photograph or other identifying reproduction of the work. In the case of a motion picture photo-play, a title and description and one print taken from each scene or act. In case of a motion picture other than a photo-play, a title and description with not less than two prints to be taken from different sections of a complete motion picture. In all these cases, if the work is later reproduced in copies for sale, two copies must then be deposited.

COPYRIGHT FEES.

For registration of any work subject to copyright, $1, which sum is to include a certificate of registration under seal. But only one registration at one fee is required in the case of several volumes of the same book deposited in the Copyright Office at the same time. For every additional certificate of registration, or copy of record under seal, 50 cents. In the case of photographs the fee shall be 50 cents where a certificate is not requested. For recording and certifying an assignment of copyright, or for a certified copy of an assignment, $1, if the instrument is not over three hundred words in length; if more than three hundred and less than one thousand words in length, $2; if more than one thousand words in length, $1 additional for each additional one thousand words or fraction thereof over three hundred words. For comparing a copy of an assignment with the record of such document in the Copyright Office and certifying the same under seal, $1. For recording the transfer of the proprietorship of copyright articles, 10 cents for each title of a book or other article, in addition to the fee prescribed for recording the instrument of assignment. For recording an extension or renewal of copyright, 50 cents. Remittances should be made by money order payable to the Register of Copyrights. Forms for application for copyright registration will be furnished on request.

DURATION OF COPYRIGHT.

The original term of copyright runs for twenty-eight years. Within one year prior to the expiration of the original term, the author, if living, or the widow or widower of the author, or the children of the author if he be not living; or if none of these be living then the author's executors, or in the absence of a will, the author's next of kin may secure a renewal for a further term of twenty-eight years, making fifty-six years in all. In case of composite works, if the proprietor secured the original copyright, he may also secure the renewal.

ASSIGNMENTS.

Copyrights are assignable by any instrument of writing. Every assignment of copyright must be recorded in the Copyright Office within three calendar months after its execution in the United States or within six calendar months after its execution without the limits of the United States. "In default of which it shall be void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for a valuable consideration, without notice, whose assignment has been duly recorded." Every assignment of copyright executed in a foreign country must be acknowledged by the assignor before a consular officer or secretary of legation of the United States authorized by law to administer oaths or perform notarial acts. The certificate of such acknowledgment under the hand and official seal of such consular officer or secretary of legation is prima facie evidence of the execution of the instrument.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT RELATIONS.

Copyright is not secured in foreign countries by action in the Copyright Office, but only by complying with the legislation of such countries.

Copyright relations have been established with the following foreign countries by proclamation of the President: Austria, Belgium, Chile, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain and her possessions, Italy, Luxemburg, Mexico, Netherlands and possessions, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunis.

Copyright treaties have also been entered into with China, Japan and Hungary (the latter in effect on October 16, 1912). The Copyright Convention of Mexico of 1902 has been ratified by the United States and is effective from July 1, 1903, as between the United States and Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador.

STATE FLOWERS.

The following are "State Flowers," as adopted in most instances by the vote of the public school scholars of the respective States:

Alabama.....	Golden Rod	Montana.....	*Bitter Root
Arizona.....	†Ocotillo	Nebraska.....	Golden Rod
Arkansas.....	Apple Blossom	New Jersey....	††Golden Rod and Violet
California.....	Golden Poppy	New Mexico.....	Cactus
Colorado.....	Columbine	New York.....	Rose
Connecticut.....	Mountain Laurel	North Dakota....	Wild Rose
Delaware.....	Peach Blossom	Ohio.....	*Scarlet Carnation
District of Columbia.....	†Nasturtium	Oklahoma.....	Mistletoe
Florida.....	*Orange Blossoms	Oregon.....	Oregon Grape
Georgia.....	Cherokee Rose	Pennsylvania.....	*Daisy and Violet
Idaho.....	Syringia	Rhode Island....	Violet
Illinois.....	The Native Violet	South Dakota....	Anemone Patens
Indiana.....	Carnation	Tennessee.....	Golden Rod
Iowa.....	Wild Rose	Texas.....	Blue Bonnet
Kansas.....	Sunflower	Utah.....	Sego Lily
Kentucky.....	Golden Rod	Vermont.....	Red Clover

In other States the scholars or State Legislatures have not yet taken action. * Adopted by State Legislature, not by public school scholars. † Not adopted but generally accepted. ‡ A slight preference for the former.

In England the primrose is worn on the birthday of Lord Beaconsfield. On the anniversary of Parnell's death his followers wear a sprig of ivy. The Jacobites wear white roses on June 10. In France the Orleanists wear white daisies and the Bonapartists the violet. In the United States the carnation is worn on the late President McKinley's birthday.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

The Referendum has been defined as "the referring of legislation to the people for final rejection or acceptance"; the Initiative as "the giving to the people the right of proposing legislation to be acted upon." It has been further said that the Referendum as it is now generally advocated requires that no law save a strictly defined class of urgent measures for the public peace, health and safety, which usually must have a two-thirds or three-fourths majority to pass, shall go into effect without waiting a fixed time, say ninety days. If, during this time, a part of the voters, say ten per cent. sign a petition for the Referendum on that law, it would not go into effect till the next regular election, when the people would vote on it, and if a majority voted "no" it would not be a law. The Initiative gives the people the power to originate laws. If a certain percentage of the voters, say ten per cent., sign a petition for a law and file it with the proper official it must come before the Legislature and perhaps be referred to the people. Sometimes the law requires that legislation be referred to the people, whether they petition it or not. This is called the "Compulsory Referendum." Where the Referendum is taken only when a certain number petition for it, it is called the "Optional Referendum." The Referendum and the Initiative provide for direct legislation, that is, legislation directly by the people.

For adoption by States from 1897 to 1908, see 1913 ALMANAC, from 1909 to 1913 inclusive, see 1914 ALMANAC.

1914—Returns from three referendum questions submitted to the voters of Massachusetts at the general election of this year showed that the State had abolished party enrolment for primary elections and had granted Saturday half-holidays for State employes.

The voters of California adopted a proposed law prohibiting prize fights.

Washington cast a majority for an initiative prohibition law and for an initiative law prohibiting the collection of fees from workers for securing employment.

Louisiana adopted a constitutional amendment providing for the recall of all elective State of-icers except Judges, by a vote of 23,208 for to 7,650 against.

In Wisconsin a majority was cast against the initiative and referendum and against the recall of elective officers, except judicial officers.

A proposed amendment to the State Constitution of Kansas providing for the recall of public officers was carried by a vote of 240,240 for to 135,630 against.

South Dakota adopted an initiative and referendum law relating to school laws.

Missouri—A referendum on the Full Crew law rejected the law by a vote of 159,892 to 324,384.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

The Library of Congress was established in 1800, destroyed in 1814 by the burning of the Capitol, afterward replenished by the purchase by Congress of the library of ex-President Jefferson, 6,760 volumes (cost, $23,950); in 1851, 35,000 volumes destroyed by fire; in 1852, partially replenished by an appropriation of $75,000; increased (1) by regular appropriations by Congress; (2) by deposits under the copyright law; (3) by gifts and exchanges; (4) by the exchanges of the Smithsonian Institution, the library of which (40,000 volumes) was, in 1866, deposited in the Library of Congress with the stipulation that future accessions should follow it. One hundred sets of Government publications are at the disposal of the Librarian of Congress for exchange, through the Smithsonian, with foreign Governments, and from thence are received about 12,000 volumes annually. Other special accessions have been: The Peter Force collection (22,529 volumes, 37,000 pamphlets), purchased 1867, cost $100,000; the Count de Rochambeau collection (manuscript), purchased 1883, cost $20,000; the Toner collection (24 484 volumes, numerous pamphlets), gift in 1882 of Dr. Joseph M. Toner; the Hubbard collection (engravings).

The collection is now the largest in the Western Hemisphere, and third in the world. It comprised at the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1914) about 2,253,309 printed books and pamphlets (including the law library of which, while a division of the Library of Congress, still remains at the Capitol), manuscripts, maps and charts, pieces of music, and photographs, prints, engravings, and lithographs numbering about a million.

The collection is rich in history, political science, in official documents, National, state, and foreign, and in Americana, including important files of American newspapers and original manuscripts (Colonial, Revolutionary, and formative periods). Many of the rare books and manuscripts belonging to the library are exhibited in show cases on the second floor.

The library is rich in special collections acquired since 1897.

In Prints—the Hubbard collection, gift in 1898 of Mrs. Gardiner G. Hubbard; Noyes works of Japanese artists; Garrett, 19,113 prints (on deposit); George Lothrop Bradley, 1,980 engravings; prints issued by the Government calceographies of France, Germany, Italy, Japan and Austria-Hungary.

Manuscripts—The PAPERS OF NINE PRESIDENTS: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren, Polk, Pierce, and Johnson. AMERICAN STATESMEN AND POLITICIANS: Franklin R. Morris, Hamilton, Van Buren, Duff Green, Washburne, Clayton, Chase, Crittenden, Lyman Trumbull, E. M. Stanton, John Sherman, Gideon Welles (deposited); James H. Hammond, J. L. M. Curry. MILITARY PAPERS: Pickett papers, Gen. George B. McClellan; Gen. W. T. Sherman. DIPLOMATIC: Wm. Short papers. NAVAL PAPERS: Preble; John Paul Jones. COMMERCIAL HISTORY: Ellis, 1805-1853; Bourne, 1776-1816; Galloway (early part of the eighteenth century); letters of William Taylor (the latter part of the eighteenth century); of John White, cashier of the Bank of the United States at Baltimore; Edward Dixon, merchant of Port Royal, 1743-1796. Middle papers (Bank of the U. S.), deposited. DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA: Papers of William Thornton; George Watterston. EUROPEAN ARCHIVES: Stevens Index, 1763-1783; upward of 100,000 folios of transcripts of documents relating to American Colonial history. STATE PAPERS: Continental Congress; House of Representatives. COLONIAL DOCUMENTARY HISTORY: Records of Virginia Company; Spanish papers of New Mexico and Florida; Philippine and Guam documents. SCIENTIFIC: Maury papers. MEXICAN HISTORY: Yturbide papers; Inquisition papers, 1759. LITERARY: Louise Chandler Moulton collection of letters.

Maps—The Kohl Collection; manuscript maps of Lord Howe (and many other manuscript maps); the Lowery Collection of maps of SPANISH POSSESSIONS NOW WITHIN THE LIMITS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Printed Books—The Weber library (Sanskrit literature, 3,018 volumes, 1,002 pamphlets); Hattala (Slavic, about 1,500 volumes); Yudin (Russian, 80,000 volumes); the Huitfeldt-Kass (Scandinavian, 5,000 volumes); the John Boyd Thacher collection of Incunabula (deposited); the DeRiad collections of Hebraica, comprising upward of 14,000 titles, were given to the Library by Mr. Jacob II. Schiff in 1912 and 1914.

In 1897 the main collection was removed from the Capitol to the building erected for it under the acts of Congress approved April 15, 1886, October 2, 1888, and March 2, 1889, at a cost of $6,347,000 (limit by law, $6,500,000), exclusive of the land, which cost $585,000. The architects who furnished the original designs were John L. Smithmeyer and Paul J. Pelz. By the act of October 2, 1888, before the foundations were laid, Thomas L. Casey, Chief of Engineers of the Army, was placed in charge of the construction of the building, and the architectural details were worked out by Paul J. Pelz and Edward P. Casey. Upon the death of General Casey, in March, 1896, the entire charge of the construction devolved upon Bernard R. Green, General Casey's assistant, and under his superintendence the building was completed in February, 1897, opened to the public November, 1897. The building occupies three and three-quarter acres upon a site ten acres in extent at a distance of 1,270 feet east of the Capitol, and is the largest and most magnificent library building in the world. In the decorations some forty painters and sculptors are represented—all American citizens. The floorspace is 326,195 square feet, or nearly 8 acres. The book stacks including the new stack built over the southeast interior court, contain about 100 miles of shelving, affording space for 3,540,000 octavo volumes and 84,000 volumes of newspapers.

The library is maintained by annual appropriations by Congress for various purposes, including the purchase of books. Total appropriation for 1914—$606,085.00. For service and contingent expenses, $406,760.00; purchase of books, $98,000.00; building and grounds, $101,325.00.

Library Service.—Library proper, 255 employés; copyright, 91; distribution of cards, 34; disbursement and care of building and grounds, 128. Total, 508. By virtue of the act of 1897, employés in the library proper are appointed by the Librarian of Congress "solely with reference to their fitness for their particular duties."

Copyright Office.—The Copyright Office is a distinct division of the Library of Congress, and is located on the ground floor, south side; open 9 to 4.30. It is under the immediate charge of the Register of Copyrights, who, by the acts of February 19, 1897, and March 4, 1909, is authorized "under the direction and supervision of the Librarian of Congress," to perform all the duties relating to copyrights. Copyright registration was transferred to the Librarian of Congress by the act of July 8, 1870. Of most articles copyrighted two copies, and of some one copy, must be deposited in the Library of Congress to perfect copyright.

Entitled by statute to draw books for home use are the following: The President, the Vice-President, Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress (no books may be given out upon the orders of members in favor of those who are not members); Heads of Departments; the Justices, Reporter, and Clerk of the Supreme Court; the Judges and Clerk of the Court of Claims; Judges of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia and Judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; representatives at Washington of foreign Governments; the Solicitor-General and Assistant Attorney-General; the Secretary of the Senate; the Clerk of the House of Representatives, the Solicitor of the Treasury, ex-Presidents of the United States; the Chaplains of the two Houses of Congress; the Secretary and Regents of the Smithsonian Institution; the members and Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Chief of Engineers of the Army.

Inter-Library Loans.—While not a lending Library, but a reference Library, primarily and essentially, the Library of Congress maintains an inter-library loan system by which special service is rendered to scholarship by the lending of books to other libraries for the use of investigators, engaged in serious research, which it is not within the power or duty of the library in question to supply, and which at the time, are not needed in Washington.

Hours.—The Library building is open to the public all days in the year excepting 4th of July and Christmas. The hours are from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. week days, from 2 P. M. to 10 P. M. Sundays and holidays, and 9 A. M. to 1 P. M. on Saturdays from June 15 to September 15.

The Main Reading Room, and Periodical Reading Room are open to the public from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. week days, and from 2 P. M. to 10 P. M. Sundays and holidays.

The Librarian's Office is open for the transaction of business from 9 A. M. to 4.30 P. M. week days, and from 2 P. M. to 6 P. M. Sundays and holidays.

The other administrative divisions of the Library, including the Copyright Office, are open for the transaction of business from 9 A. M. to 4.30 P. M. all days in the year, excepting legal holidays and Sundays.

Librarians Since the Inception of the Library.—1800-1814, the Clerk of the House of Representatives (for the time being); 1815-1829, George Waterston; 1829-1861, John S. Meehan; 1861-1864, John G. Stephenson; 1864-1897 (June 30), Ainsworth R. Spofford; 1897-January 17, 1899, John Russell Young; 1899 (April 5), Herbert Putnam.

General Administration.—Librarian of Congress, Herbert Putnam; Chief Assistant Librarian, Appleton P. C. Griffin; Chief Clerk, Allen R. Boyd; Secretary, Jessica L. Farnum.

NEW YORK ELECTRICAL SOCIETY.

President—Frederick A. Scheffler, 85 Liberty Street, New York City. Secretary—George H. Guy, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York City. Treasurer—Henry J. Hoeltge, New York City. Membership 792.

The object of the society is: "The dissemination of the knowledge of theoretical and applied electricity—to be accomplished by periodical meetings for the reading and discussion of relevant topics, by collective visits to places of interest, and by such other means as may be advised by the Executive Committee—and the promotion of social intercourse among its members." Headquarters, Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York City.

THE PRINCIPAL LANGUAGES OF THE WORLD.

THERE are said to be 3,424 spoken languages or dialects in the world, distributed as follows: America, 1,624; Asia, 937; Europe, 587; Africa, 276.

The English language is spoken by more than 150,000,000 of people.
 German by more than 120,000,000 of people. Spanish by more than 55,000,000 of people.
 Russian " " " 90,000,000 " " Italian " " " 40,000,000 " "
 French " " " 60,000,000 " " Portuguese " " " 30,000,000 " "

The English language contains approximately 600,000 words. Of this total nearly one-half consists of scientific terminology seldom met outside of text-books and of archaic, obsolescent or obsolete terms.

Various estimates of the sources of English words have been made at different times. On the basis of the Lord's Prayer, George Hickeys calculated that nine-tenths of our words were of Saxon origin. Sharon Turner's estimate was that the Norman were to the Saxon as 4 to 6. Trench computed 60 per cent. Saxon; 30 per cent. Latin, including those received through French; 5 per cent. Greek, and 5 per cent. other sources. Prof. W. W. Skeat in the recently published fourth edition of his Dictionary, which contains approximately 20,000 words, shows the following sources:

Anglo-Saxon and English.....	3,681	Spanish.....	108
Low German.....	126	Portuguese.....	21
Dutch.....	207	Greek direct or through Latin, Late Latin,
Scandinavian.....	693	French or other sources.....	2,493

Celtic.....	170	Hybrid.....	675
Latin (direct).....	2,880	Unknown.....	12
Provençal, from Latin.....	25
Italian.....	99	Total.....	19,160

As regards the number of words in the principal other languages no estimate of any practical value has been made in recent years, but existing dictionaries show the following facts:

The vocabulary of the New Standard Dictionary of the English Language aggregates approximately 450,000 words.

The German word-book (Kürschner's Universal-Konversations-Lexikon) contains not more than 300,000 words, including personal names.

NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY.

ASTOR, LENOX AND TILDEN FOUNDATIONS.

ESTABLISHED by consolidation of the "Trustees of the Astor Library," the "Trustees of the Lenox Library," and the "Tilden Trust," May 23, 1895, twenty-one trustees being chosen from the Trustees of these corporations; in 1902 the number of Trustees was increased to twenty-five, of which number the Mayor of the city of New York, the Comptroller, and the President of the Board of Aldermen serve ex officio. The agreement of consolidation provided for the establishment and maintenance of a free public library and reading room in the city of New York, with such branches as might be deemed advisable for the continued promotion of the objects and purposes of these several corporations.

The Trustees soon after consolidation in 1895 determined to pursue a liberal policy and to create a great library system that would serve the needs of scholars and of the general reading public as well. An act was passed by the Legislature and approved May 19, 1897, giving the city the necessary authority to issue bonds for the construction of a building on the present site and to contract with the New York Public Library for its occupancy. Carrère & Hastings were appointed architects of the building on December 9, 1897. The corner-stone was laid November 10, 1902, and the building was opened to the public on May 23, 1911.

The building is in the form of a rectangle 390 feet long and 270 feet deep, built around two inner courts, each about 80 feet square; it has a cellar, basement, and three upper floors. The area covered is about 115,000 square feet, the cubic contents 10,380,000 cubic feet. The material is largely Vermont marble (375,000 cubic feet), bonded in brick walls. There are seats for 768 readers in the main reading room and seats in other public rooms bring the total capacity up to 1,760. In the main stack room are 331,530 feet (63.3 miles) of shelving, with capacity for about 2,500,000 volumes. Book stacks in the special reading rooms amount to about 70,000 feet, with capacity for about 500,000 volumes.

The building fronts on Fifth Avenue, looking east. On the basement floor, with entrance from Forty-second Street, are the rooms for circulation of books, for children's reading, for newspapers, a Library School and its offices, and public telephones; on this basement floor, with entrance on Fortieth Street, are the shipping rooms and the printing and binding offices. On the first floor are the business offices of the circulation department, the offices of the Bursar, a reception room, an exhibition room, and reading rooms for current periodicals, technology, patents. On the second floor are the offices of the Director, a lecture room, the ordering and cataloguing rooms, and reading rooms for Jewish literature, Oriental literature, Slavonic literature, science, economics and sociology, and public documents. On the third floor are the public catalogue room and the main reading room, the latter occupying nearly the whole of the west front of the building, in size about 300 feet long by 80 feet wide, with seats for 768 readers. Along the south side of the third floor are special reading rooms devoted to American history, maps, and engravings. Along the Fifth Avenue front are the art and architecture reading room, the Stuart room, the picture galleries, and the manuscripts division. Along the north front of the third floor are reading rooms for music and for genealogy and local history.

On March 12, 1901, Mr. Andrew Carnegie offered to give $5,200,000 to the city for the construction and equipment of free circulating libraries upon condition that the city should provide the land and agree to maintain the libraries when built. This communication was submitted to the Mayor on March 15, and on April 26 an act was passed authorizing acceptance of the gift by the city upon the terms imposed by Mr. Carnegie. An agreement with the city was executed on July 17, the library acting as agent for Mr. Carnegie, under which forty-two buildings are to be erected in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Richmond (later increased to fifty), on sites to be selected and purchased by the city with the approval of the library, the buildings to be leased to the library and to be under its control. The city agrees to provide adequate yearly maintenance, 10 per cent. of the cost of each building being agreed upon as a minimum.

On November 7, 1901, an agreement was made with three firms of architects in New York to prepare plans and specifications for these branch libraries. On June 6, 1902, an issue of bonds for $250,000 was authorized for purchase of sites. The first Carnegie building, known as the Yorkville branch, was opened December 13, 1902, at 222 East Seventy-ninth Street; the second, providing a new home for the Chatham Square branch, was opened November 2, 1903, at 33 East 1 roadway. By the end of 1911 thirty-two branches had been opened under this contract.

THE SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM.

(From a Statement Prepared by Dr. Talcott Williams, Director.)

THE School of Journalism in Columbia University, New York City, on the Pulitzer Foundation opened September 30, 1912. On November 1, 1914, it had in all 167 students, of whom 36 are women. Divided by classes, there are 61 in the first-year class, 46 in the second-year class, 33 in the third year class, and 27 in the fourth-year class. Of the women who will take their degree in the School of Journalism, 29 are in Barnard, and 25 of the men at present registered in Columbia College are taking courses in the School of Journalism. Of the first-year class entering last Fall, 45 are men and 16 are women. Of this number, 41 men entered on examination and 4 under the provision laid down by the late Joseph Pulitzer in his gift, that students of maturity, experience and marked fitness should be admitted without examination. Of the women, 15 entered Barnard College, to be there two years, on examination, and 1 without examination. This provision, as Mr. Pulitzer expected, has enabled a number of journalists to enter the school. On pursuing courses for two years with credit, these students are admitted to candidacy for the degree of Bachelor of Literature in Journalism. This degree was conferred on 15 graduates in the course at the last commencement of Columbia University; of the fourth-year class, 14 were in the school last year in the third-year class, and 13 are graduates of other colleges. This is a notable step toward giving the school a graduate character.

The total attendance is far larger than was expected and establishes the leading position of the school among institutions of its kind in this or any other country. The number attending is greater in proportion to the number of journalists in the country than the number attending the law and medical courses in Columbia University is in proportion to the number of those practicing law and medicine. In September, 1913, the school entered its new building, for which $500,000 was provided by Mr. Pulitzer's bequest. The building is excellently equipped in every way for training in journalistic work, and contains a reference library, files of a hundred daily papers, American and foreign, and a morgue of 400,000 newspaper clippings made under the supervision of the Director during the last thirty years.

No step in professional education has attracted wider public attention or awakened a more general approval in the American press. When Mr. Pulitzer proposed the school twelve years ago its plan, purposes and need were all challenged. From the announcement of the appointment in February, 1912, of its Director, Talcott Williams, formerly of the NEW YORK WORLD staff and for 38 years in active journalism, to its successful opening and full operation the school has commanded the confidence of newspapers and journalists. One-third of its teaching staff of 25 have been in active service on newspapers.

The plan of the school and its course of study were approved and at many points directed by an Advisory Board of twelve journalists, including Mr. John Langdon Heaton, of the editorial staff of the NEW YORK WORLD; Mr. Ralph Pulitzer, President of the Press Publishing Company (the NEW YORK WORLD), and Mr. George S. Johns, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The other journalists on this Advisory Board, of which President Butler of Columbia University is a member, are Samuel Bowles, Springfield Republican; Victor Fremont Lawson, Chicago Daily News; St. Clair McKelway, Brooklyn Eagle (Chairman); Charles Ransom Miller, New York Times; Edward Page Mitchell, The Sun, New York; Melville Elijah Stone, Associated Press, New York; Charles H. Taylor, Boston Globe, and Samuel Calvin Wells, Philadelphia Press.

The administrative work of the school is conducted by an Administrative Board, composed of President Butler, the Director, Talcott Williams; the Associate Director, Prof. John W. Cunliffe; Frederick P. Keppel, Dean of Columbia College; William P. Trent, Professor of English Literature; Henry R. Senger, Professor of Political Economy; James T. Shotwell, Professor of History; Ashley H. Thorndike, Professor of English, and Charles A. Beard, Associate Professor of Politics.

While there are 31 universities and colleges which give courses in various phases of journalism and several which have schools of journalism, no other school has an endowment so large, reaching $1,000,000 at present, with other gifts in prospect from the Pulitzer estate; none has a course giving so much time to the solid study needed for the training of the journalist, and this has also the crowning advantage of a metropolis like New York in which to train its students in reporting by sending them to see and to write upon events as they come in the life of a great city. The City Hall, the departments and the regular newspaper assignments have all been used to train men in getting news as well as in writing it. Attendance on first-night performances is employed in training for dramatic criticism. From the second year on, the students are under direction and correction, writing articles on financial and business subjects, editorials, special articles, and in other fields of newspaper work. The headquarters of the political parties in New York City have given opportunity for training in National and State politics.

This practical training in the work of the journalist in the greatest news centre of the country comes in the last two years, but of the four years' course four-fifths are devoted to the study of history, constitutional law, political science, economics, statistics, American and European literature, etc.; a mastery of either French or German is insisted on. These studies follow the lines laid down by Mr. Joseph Pulitzer in his plan for the school. They are taught with the comprehensive thoroughness only possible in a great university. The work and study required is on a professional standard. Taking the technical work of reporting and their studies, the students of the school are working as hard as in a newspaper office, covering the same range of subjects and writing under close supervision and correction from men trained as journalists.

Literature of 1914.

BY FREMONT RIDER.

The European war overshadowed American book publication in 1914 as it did every other line of business enterprise. To it can be blamed the marked falling off in number of publications, due in part to publishing ventures postponed, in part to difficulty in securing delivery of importations.

FICTION in 1914, in contrast to the year previous, was mediocre. Several books on DANCING reflected the popular craze; while FEMINISM and DRAMA continued to inspire the book makers. Toward the end of the year began the flood of WAR books, which threatens to inundate us next year.

The following 700 odd titles, out of some 12,000 published in 1914, aim to include the most important, not only in the sense of having more or less enduring value, but also because of their popularity, possibly transient, but no less significant, as evidenced by sales or repute. Where choice was necessary, emphasis has been laid on the popular and practical, rather than the scholarly and theoretical. Endeavor has been made in other words to list books of legitimate interest to the stenographer as well as the economist, to the farmer as well as the reader of belles-lettres. The classification adopted is a rough adaptation of the Dewey Decimal classification for books, which is in wide international library and bibliographical use.

Several topics of special current interest receive special attention: Note, for example, the headings: WOMAN, EUGENICS, EUROPEAN WAR, DANCING, MEXICO, RAILROADS, PANAMA.

Mr. Fremont Rider, editor of The Publishers' Weekly, furnished the statistics from which the above figures were compiled.

THE DICKENS FELLOWSHIP.

THE Dickens Fellowship is a world-wide league of English-speaking men and women whose purpose is to exemplify the teachings of Charles Dickens and to cultivate and diffuse the spirit which pervades his writings—the spirit of innocent festivity and mirth, of religion without bigotry, of charity without coldness, of universal philanthropy and human kinship. The society began its existence in London in October, 1902. The object and aims of the Fellowship are:

"To knit together in a common bond of friendship lovers of that great master of humor and pathos, Charles Dickens. To spread the love of humanity, which is the keynote of all his work. To take such measures as may be expedient to remedy or ameliorate those existing social evils which would have appealed so strongly to the heart of Charles Dickens, and to help in every possible direction the cause of the poor and the oppressed. To assist in the preservation and purchase of buildings and objects associated with his name and mentioned in his works. To do all such things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects or any of them."

The Fellowship is open to all, without restriction as to class, creed or nationality. Headquarters, Whitehall House, 30 Charing Cross, London. Branches of the Fellowship have been formed not only throughout Great Britain but in the United States and Canada, India, Australasia and New Zealand, 24,500 members in all. It is estimated that there are 24,000,000 copies of Dickens' works extant.

ORDER OF THE BLUE GOOSE.

A national organization of general and special agents of fire insurance companies for social purposes. Each State organization is known as a "State pond" in the United States, and "Provincial pond" in Canada, and the general organization as the "Grand Nest." The following are the national officers: Most Loyal Grand Gander, Fred. W. Ransom, Ohio Pond; Grand Supervisor of the Flock, J. B. Stewart, Ontario Prov. Pond; Grand Custodian of the Goslings, E. G. Carlisle, Illinois Pond; Grand Welder of the Goose Quill, B. A. Lehnberg, Wisconsin Pond; Grand Keeper of the Golden Goose Egg, W. J. NATIONAL MODEL LICENSE LEAGUE.

President—T. M. Gilmore, Louisville, Ky., Vice-President—George G. Brown, Louisville, Ky., Treasurer—O. H. Irvine, Louisville, Ky., Secretary—G. R. Washburne, Louisville, Ky.

The purpose of the organization is to conduct a national educational campaign in favor of legislation intended to take the liquor question out of politics and to put law-breakers out of the liquor business. It advocates limitation of licenses in proportion to population, thus preventing undue competition; mandatory penalties suspending and cancelling licenses of law-breakers; moderate license fees enabling the license holder to make a legitimate profit, and the renewal of a license so long as the holder obeys the law, and so long as the business is not outlawed by vote of the people, thereby relieving the liquor dealer of the domination of politicians.

The league's legislative plan has been adopted as a whole by Indiana and Ohio, and in part by Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, Michigan, Louisiana, Iowa, Connecticut and Oregon. The league was organized in October, 1907. Its membership comprises leading distillers, brewers, wholesalers and retailers throughout the country, and includes numerous professional and business men.

ACADEMIC DRESS.

Academic dress, the acknowledged badge of the scholar, is now worn by the majority of universities and colleges in this country. Mr. G. C. Leonard, Director of the Intercollegiate Bureau of Academic Costume at Albany, N. Y., adapted the gowns, hoods and caps now used in America from the English styles, to a system formulated by an Intercollegiate Commission, whereby the exact degree of each wearer may be determined. This code has been officially recognized by over five hundred institutions and the bureau is now chartered by the University of the State of New York.
 There are three distinct types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's. The bachelor's gown is most commonly worn and has long pointed sleeves; the master's gown has long closed sleeves with a slit through which the forearm protrudes; the doctor's gown has velvet bars on round open sleeves and velvet facings down the front. Caps worn with such gowns are the regulation mortar boards with black silk tassels.

HONORARY AND MISCELLANEOUS FRATERNITIES.

United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa.—The Phi Beta Kappa Society was founded at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., December 5, 1776, and now consists of 86 chapters located in as many of the leading colleges and universities in the land. The total living membership is about 26,000—20,000 men and 6,000 women. Until 1883 the growth of the society was comparatively slow, but since the organization of the United Chapters the development has been rapid, many chapters having been organized. Women were first admitted in 1875, and the first charter to a woman's college, Vassar, was granted in 1898. Smith, Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke and Goucher College of Baltimore have since received charters. The first woman to be honored by election to the Senate was President Mary E. Woolley of Mt. Holyoke College. The present officers are: President, Prof. Edwin A. Grosvenor, LL. D., Amherst, Mass.; Vice President, Dean Edward A. Birge, Madison, Wis.; Secretary, Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, D. D., 350 East 146th Street, New York City; Treasurer, David Layton, M. S., New York, N. Y. "The Phi Beta Kappa Key" is the official publication of the United Chapters which was authorized by the tenth National Council. The society is growing rapidly, many new members being received each year. The eleventh National Council of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa was held at the College of the City of New York on September 10, 1913, at which time the revived chapter at the University of Alabama received recognition and eight new chapters were granted. President Woodrow Wilson is a Phi Beta Kappa man, as are his predecessors, William H. Taft and Theodore Roosevelt. Presidents Lowell of Harvard, Hadley of Yale, and Hibben of Princeton are members, as is Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes of the United States Supreme Court.

Sigma Xi.—An honorary scientific society founded at Cornell University in 1886, and having twenty odd chapters in the principal colleges and universities of the country. It is not secret. The performance of creditable scientific research in the natural and applied sciences, together with a high standard of scholarship, constitutes the basis of membership. Women are admitted as well as men.

Sigma Tau.—An honorary engineering fraternity for Juniors and Seniors with three requirements, viz., scholarship, practicality and sociability. It was founded February 22, 1904, at University of Nebraska and now has 452 members and eight chapters. Prof. F. A. Wirt of 815 Poynty Ave., Manhattan, Kan., is National Secretary.

Tau Beta Pi.—An engineering honorary society founded at Lehigh University in 1885. It now has 27 chapters and about 6,000 members. R. C. Mathews, University of Tennessee, at Knoxville, is the National Secretary.

Alpha Omega Alpha.—An honorary medical society in which scholarship is the membership qualification, and which admits women on the same basis as men. It was founded by Dr. William W. Root at College of Physicians and Surgeons at Chicago in 1902. It now has 17 chapters and 1,600 members. Dr. William W. Root, Slaterville Springs, N. Y., is the National Secretary.

Acacia Fraternity.—An intercollegiate organization for Master Masons founded at the University of Michigan in 1904, now has a membership of 2,179 and 24 active chapters. The National Secretary is Harry E. Kilmer, Centerville, Mo.

Theta Nu Epsilon.—Is the only Greek letter inter-fraternal class society. It was founded at Wesleyan University in 1870, was badly disorganized for several years and was reorganized in 1907. The society is incorporated under New York laws and is represented in fifty-three colleges of the United States, the membership being 16,000. Prof. Thomas J. Smull, of Ohio-Northern University, is President and the National Secretary is George R. Beecher, Lansford, Penn.

The Professional Fraternities now number over 50, with a membership exceeding 40,000. They are located in both technical and professional schools. With the exception of Theta Xi (Engineering-Scientific), members of professional fraternities may also belong to the general college fraternities.

Local or "One-College" Fraternities exist in nearly all colleges, and some date back as early as 1825. There are about 75, with a membership approximating 10,000. The women's local fraternities number about 50, with a total membership of about 5,000.

* The French Academy is one of five academies, and the most eminent, constituting the Institute of France. It was founded in 1635 by Cardinal Richelieu, and reorganized in 1816. It is composed of 40 members, elected for life, after personal application and the submission of their nomination to the head of the state. It meets twice weekly, at the Palace Mazarin, 23 Quai Conti, Paris, and is "the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric, and poetry, and the publication of the French classics." The chief officer is the Secretary, who has a life tenure of his position. The office is at present vacant. A chair in the Academy is the highest ambition of most literary Frenchmen.

The other academies of the Institute of France are: The Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres, with 40 members; Academy of Sciences, with 68 members; Academy of Fine Arts, with 40 members (as follows: Painting, 14; sculpture, 8; architecture, 8; engraving, 4; musical composition, 6), and Academy of Moral and Political Science, with 40 members. All members are elected for life.

UNIVERSITY FORUM OF AMERICA.

An educational institution of travelling professorships of eminent men of action, and original investigators, whose lectures are based on personal experience and observation. The lectures are delivered before the leading universities, colleges and other educational bodies throughout North America, Europe, and in other parts of the world.

The forum acts as a standing committee, a bureau of information, a clearing-house, through which universities and colleges may promptly and readily secure national leaders to speak at first-hand and authoritatively concerning their particular line of life-work and activity.

President—Alexander Cumming, LL. B., A. M., Ph. D., 550 West 113th Street, New York. Secretary—Almeron W. Smith, A. M. Treasurer—Henry Clews, Ph. D., LL. D.

* Previous ancestors:—John Rockefeller born in Germany in 1834. Johann Peter, his son, born in Germany in 1682. This man emigrated to America with his cousin Diell, and from these two all the Rockefellers in the country are descended. Peter Rockefeller his son, born in Segendorf, Germany, in 1711. He married Mary Bellis. William, their son, born in Amwell, N. J., in 1756. He married Christina Rockefeller, who was a daughter of Simons, who was a grand-daughter of Diell, the other emigrant.

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF ARTS AND LETTERS.

The first seven members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters were selected by the National Institute of Arts and Letters from its own body in 1904 by ballot. The seven were William Dean Howells, Augustus St. Gaudens, Edmund Clarence Stedman, John La Farge, Samuel L. Clemens, John Hay and Edward MacDowell. In order to become eligible to the American Academy one must first be a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. This society was organized at a meeting of the American Social Science Association in 1898. The qualification for membership is stated in the Constitution. "It shall be notable achievement in art, music or literature." The number in the Institute is limited to 250, and the election is by ballot.

The American Academy of Arts and Letters numbers fifty members, and the officers are William Dean Howells, President; William Milligan Sloane, Chancellor; Robert Underwood Johnson, 327 Lexington Ave., New York City, Permanent Secretary.

The following are the present members of the Academy, there being two vacancies:
William Dean Howells	William Cray Brownell
Henry James	Basil Lanneau Guildersleeve
Henry Adams	Woodrow Wilson
Thomas Raynsford Lounsbury	Arthur Twining Hadley
Theodore Roosevelt	Henry Cabot Lodge
John Singer Sargent	Francis Howkinson Smith
Alfred Thayer Mahan	Edwin Howland Blashfield
Daniel Chester French	William Merritt Chase
John Burroughs	Thomas Hastings
James Ford Rhodes	Hamilton Wright Mable
Horatio William Parker	Brander Matthews
William Milligan Sloane	Thomas Nelson Page
Robert Underwood Johnson	Ellhu Vedder
George Washington Cable	George Edward Woodberry
Andrew Dickson White	Kenyon Cox
Henry van Dyke	George Whitehead Chadwick

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION.

The State of New York granted a charter to the Rockefeller Foundation in 1913. The exact amount of money to be donated was not stated. The incorporators are John D. Rockefeller, John F. Rockefeller, Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Harry Pratt Judson, Simon Flexner, Starr J. Murphy, Jerome D. Greene, Wickliffe Rose, and Charles O. Heydt. The officers are: President—John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Secretary—Jerome D. Greene. Treasurer—L. G. Myers. Assistant-Treasurer—Harry T. Fish. Members of the executive committee are: John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Jerome D. Greene, Simon Flexner, Starr J. Murphy, Charles O. Heydt. Headquarters, 26 Broadway, New York City.

ART PROGRESS IN THE UNITED STATES.

BY HENRY TYRRELL.

In the fine arts representation at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, February 20 to December 4, 1915, is realized the fruition of that practical and Nation-wide artistic revival which, notably stimulated by the intervening World's Fairs of Chicago and St. Louis, may be said to date specifically from the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876. Whatever the effect of European war upon art affairs in general, and upon art's commercial relations in particular, it cannot be doubted that native art as well as native industry is in a way to reap material, permanent benefit. A large share of the $200,000,000 annually spent by American tourists in Europe in former years will now find its way to the Pacific coast; and hundreds of American artists who hitherto have studied, produced, exhibited and sold their works abroad will turn their energies homeward. The activities of the artists, together with the interests of dealers and the attention of the entire art-loving public, naturally converge in the unprecedented show at San Francisco. Evidence of this tendency is shown, for instance, in the announcement by the Fine Arts Committee of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh that the customary international exhibition will not be held there this Spring—a wise and patriotic course decided upon "in view of the fact that the Government will present an international exhibition of paintings at the Panama-Pacific Exposition."

The aggregation of vast exhibition palaces, courts, esplanades, and fountains covering the 635 acres of the reservation grounds beside the Golden Gate, where will be accommodated approximately 60,000 exhibitors representing between thirty and forty foreign nations in addition to our own States and Territories, forms in itself an architectural display of comprehensive variety and imposing magnificence. The main structures are of Roman travertine, with roofs of Pompeian red, domes of copper green, and portals whose columns are integral castings of red Sienna and Numidian marble imitation, or verde antique and bronze, enhanced by rich Italian blue and gold. Practically every American sculptor of note, besides scores of lesser artisans, have been employed for two years on the colossal groups, friezes, triumphal arches, façades, and decorations innumerable. Among the eminent mural painters covering wall spaces in the main halls are Edward Simmons, Frank du Mond, William L. Dodge, Robert Reid, Jules Guerin, Childe Hassam, and Frank Brangwyn.

The exposition's Department of the Graphic and Plastic Arts, under the chief direction of John E. D. Trask, is international in scope. Its period is, in the main, contemporary. The United States section will occupy more than half of the entire exhibit space in the Palace of Fine Arts; and the plans of the management—aided by advisory committees of artists covering every section of this country as well as Great Britain, under the chairmanships of John S. Sargent, John W. Alexander, Edmund C. Tarbell, Walter McEwen, Edward W. Redfield, Frank Duveneck, Paul W. Bartlett, and Eugen Neuhaus—give assurance that the showing of contemporaneous works by American artists will be the climax of the whole exhibition. In order that no ground may be left for the error of supposing that American art of to-day is without ancestry, there will be a chronological historical showing of American painting and sculpture covering the period from Colonial and Revolutionary times down to the years just preceding our own. And as this line of descent in our country has been swayed by the influence of foreign schools, the latter will be represented by comprehensive loan collections covering past periods of European art in addition to the works of to-day shown in the regular foreign sections of the exposition. These loan collections, besides illustrating the main influences from abroad upon the fine arts in America, will at the same time serve to indicate the vast wealth and comprehensiveness of public and private collections in the United States. Altogether, including the aforementioned historical and loan collections, there will be about 2,000 paintings in the United States section alone. Of pictures in all other media than oil, including prints, there will be perhaps 2,000 more. In addition to these, at least 1,000 works in sculpture will be shown. Not alone Europe and North America, but also South America and Asia will be summarized in their present-day activities. Whenever the strictly contemporaneous character of these exhibits is departed from, it will be at the expense of possible participation in the competition for the awards to be bestowed by the international jury. No work produced prior to the year 1904 will be eligible for honors. It is possible, however, that the expenditure of the guarantee fund of $500,000 for the purchase of pictures to remain permanently in California may be less restricted in its range.

The Metropolitan Museum of New York City has at the present moment installed and on public view (without taking into account the Morgan collection, which remains as an indefinite loan) three recent gifts of exceptional magnitude, any one of which might suffice to give it distinction among the world's greatest treasure houses of art. These are (1) the Benjamin Altman collection of paintings and objects of art, bequeathed to the museum in 1913 and opened to the public last November in temporarily arranged galleries, formerly occupied by the Crosby Brown collection of musical instruments, pending completion of the new south wing which is in course of construction for their accommodation. The Altman paintings, as well as porcelains and bronzes, being of exceptional quality and distinction, the collection is to be kept an inviolable unit. Its money value is conservatively estimated at $15,000,000. It includes world-famous examples of Titian, Giorgione, Mantegna, Velasquez, Botticelli, Holbein, Memling, Franz Hals, Vermeer of Delft, and no less than thirteen Rembrandts. (2) The William Henry Riggs collection of arms and armor, also donated in 1913, and announced as ready for exhibition as THE WORLD ALMANAC for 1915 goes to press. Representing the life work of a wealthy and enthusiastic connoisseur, who entered this field over half a century ago when sources of acquisition of choice historical pieces of armor now closed forever were still available, the Riggs collection embraces a total of perhaps 2,500 objects, many of them unique and priceless—an assemblage of storied arms and armor that is admittedly without rival among the world's private collections. (3) The collection of Chinese and Japanese paintings which belonged to the late Charles Stewart Smith, now presented by his family to the museum, of which he was long a trustee. These rare and beautiful paintings, the fruits of expert selection in the Orient, number about sixty, all bearing important attributions. In addition there are 338 drawings by Japanese masters, including over 200 by Hokusai.

Development of the relation of art museums to the public schools is producing significant results. More than fifty of the six hundred important public museums in the United States are art museums. Practically all of these are actively engaged with work in the schools. In addition to this, a large majority of the public libraries have picture collections and loan exhibitions. The School Art League of New York City provides art instruction to 50,000 pupils in twenty-five schools. During the Summer of 1914 the Metropolitan Museum lent seventy-eight paintings to the Municipal Art Gallery of the Washington Irving High School; and this is the beginning of a movement for the establishment of branch museums in school buildings throughout the greater city.

Regarding commercial values as affected by the passing of older art buyers like Messrs. Morgan, Altman and Hearn, it is likely that, under normal conditions, readjustment rather than a general drop will result. The Altman treasures go to the museum, not to the market. Should the Morgan collections be sold, a possible 50 per cent. depreciation in value of antiques might be compensated by objects and pictures from the 18th century to date retaining or augmenting their prices.

ACTORS' FUND OF AMERICA.

President—Daniel Frohman. First Vice-President—Joseph R. Grismer. Second Vice-President—F. F. Mackay. Treasurer—William Harris. Secretary—E. D. Miner. Assistant Secretary—W. C. Austin.

The Actors' Fund was established in 1882 to provide assistance for disabled and needy members of the theatrical profession, and burial for such as leave no means therefor. The Actors' Fund Home, West New Brighton, Staten Island, under the direction of the Actors' Fund of America, was opened May 10, 1902. This is a home for aged and needy actors and actresses. There are 31 honorary members and 417 life members. Office, 1476 Broadway, New York City.

THE DRAMA SOCIETY.

It is an organization of art-loving playgoers on a basis that secures to regular members of the society the best seats, for the best productions only, at the box-office price. There are no dues, and no initiation fees. The only condition imposed is that the members yearly attend ten productions found worthy of the intollent playgoer, within the first month of the run. By insuring that intelligent plays receive immediate attendance and financial support, the society hopes to encourage the better forms of dramatic art.

President—Mrs. E. R. Hewitt, New York City. Secretary—John Corbin, 131 East Fifteenth Street, New York City. Treasurer—Thomas W. Lamont, 23 Wall Street, New York City. Executive Committee—Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. George G. Haven, Jr., Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mrs. Frederic B. Pratt, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., Mr. Walter P. Eaton, Mr. Robert P. Perkins and Dr. Percy R. Turnure.

THE ALFRED B. NOBEL PRIZES.

The Swedish scientist, Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, died in 1896, bequeathing his fortune, estimated at $9,000,000, to the founding of a fund, the interest of which should yearly be distributed to those who had mostly contributed to "the good of humanity." The interest is divided in five equal shares, given away. "One to the person who in the domain of physics has made the most important discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important chemical discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important discovery in the domain of medicine or physiology, one to the person who in literature has provided the most excellent work of an idealistic tendency, and one to the person who has worked most or best for the fraternization of nations, and the abolition or reduction of standing armies, and the calling in and propagating of peace congresses."

The prizes for physics and chemistry are awarded by the Swedish Academy of Science, that for physiological or medical work by the Caroline Institute (the faculty of medicine in Stockholm), that for literature by the Swedish Academy in Stockholm, and the peace prize is awarded by a committee of five persons, elected by the Norwegian Storting.

In accordance with these statutes the awarders of the prizes (the four above named institutions) elect fifteen deputies for two consecutive years, the Academy of Science electing six, and the other prize awarders three each. These deputies elect for two consecutive years four members of the Board of Directors of the Nobel Institute, which board, exclusively consisting of Swedes, must reside in Stockholm. A fifth member, the President of the board, is nominated by the Government. The Board of Directors has in its care the funds of the institution, and hands yearly over to the awarders of the prizes the amount to be given away. The value of each prize is on an average $40,000. The distribution of the prizes takes place every year on December 10, the anniversary of Mr. Nobel's death. Full information can be obtained from "Nobelstiftelsens Styrelse" (The Board of Directors of the Nobel Institute), Stockholm, Sweden.

Prizes for 1914 had not been awarded at time ALMANAC was printed. For list of awards prior to 1914, see 1914 ALMANAC.

It was officially announced in London on December 9, 1914, that the Parliamentary Nobel Committee had resolved not to sit in the current year for the distribution of the peace prize.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a permanent Commission of Fine Arts is hereby created to be composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts, who shall be appointed by the President, and shall serve for a period of four years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified. The President shall have authority to fill all vacancies. It shall be the duty of such commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments directed under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of artists for the execution of the same. It shall be the duty of the officers charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President, or by any committee of either House of Congress.

Sec. 2. That to meet the expenses made necessary by this act an expenditure of not exceeding ten thousand dollars a year is hereby authorized. Approved, May 17, 1910.

Headquarters, 1729 New York Avenue N. W., Washington, D. C.
Chairman—Daniel C. French, New York City; Vice-Chairman—Frederick Law Olmsted, Brookline, Mass.; Thomas Hastings, New York City; Cass Gilbert, New York City; Charles Moore, Detroit, Mich.; Edwin H. Blashfield, New York City; Pelce Anderson, Chicago, Ill.; Secretary and Executive Officer—Col. Wm. W. Harts, U. S. A.

AMERICAN SCHOOL PEACE LEAGUE.

Organized in 1908 to promote through the schools and the educational public of America the interests of international justice and fraternity. Membership: All teachers in the schools of the country; students in secondary schools; normal schools, and colleges; persons otherwise enlisted in the general work of education may become members, without the payment of dues, by signifying their devotion to the purpose of the league.

President—Randall J. Condon, Cincinnati, Ohio. Secretary—Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, 405 Marlborough Street, Boston, Mass. Treasurer—Miss Gertrude W. Lyndon (temporary), Town Hall, Brookline, Mass.

Music.

WHAT will be one of the most memorable years in the history of the Metropolitan Opera House opened November 16 with Verdi's "Ballo in Maschera" ("A Masked Ball"), making the first time that his work ever opened a season—that is, in this country. With war conditions abroad and European opera at a standstill, naturally all musical interest will be centred in this country's musical offerings, and especially the quality of those given at the Metropolitan Opera House. In fact, it is the only place in the world to-day where opera of the highest standard is given with artists of first rank. This opera house was dedicated by Henry E. Abbey away back in 1883, just thirty-two years ago. "Faust" was the opera and Nilsson and Campanini the artists on that occasion. The second night was given over to the début of Semblich in "Lucia." German opera was popular under the Damrosch directorship for six years, during which time "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin" were first introduced into the repertoire. In 1890 Italian opera was mounted by Stanton, and Alberto Franchetti's "Asrael" was brought out. Next came Abbey & Grau, who introduced Eames in "Romeo and Juliet," which was followed in 1893 by Calvé in "Carmen." Other artists followed—Melba in "Lucia" and Eames and the de Reszkes, until Conried presented Caruso in 1903 in "Rigoletto." Farrar made her début in "Romeo and Juliet" and Semblich appeared with Caruso in "La Bohème." In 1906 Hammerstein came into the operatic field and produced excellent opera. Though successful from an artistic standpoint, he lost financially. In 1908 Gatti-Casazza appeared on the operatic horizon in New York and, beginning with "Aida" on the opening night of the season that year, has engineered the destinies of the Metropolitan Opera House ever since.

There are several names added to the list of prominent singers for the current season—three sopranos, one mezzo-soprano, three tenors, two baritones and two basses. Among the sopranos is Mme. Melanie Kurt, who for the past six years has been the dramatic soprano of the Royal Opera House in Berlin. Replacing Bella Alten is a German lyric soprano, Mme. Elisabeth Schumann, a native of Thüringen, who has a varied repertoire. Mabel Garrison, who possesses a pleasing coloratura voice, is an American, having been born in Baltimore, where she studied at the Peabody Institute. The new mezzo-soprano, Mme. Raymonde Delaunoi, is a Belgian and claims Mons as her native city. She has been a popular singer in Germany for several years.

The particular Verdi opera which opened the season was brilliantly performed. Caruso, in his best voice, deserved the ovation which he received after his glorious singing of Riccardo; Emmy Destinn, as Amelia, added a new triumph to her long list, and Margarete Matzenauer was an effective Witeh. In the first scene of the last act Amato brought forth a round of applause for his excellent performance of Renato, and Andrea de Segurola showed his ability as a great character artist in the rôle of Samuele. Frieda Hempel had the light part of the Page. Toscanini, in his usual masterful manner, conducted.

For its second offering the management brought forward Wagner's "Lohengrin," with a new principal, Arthur Middleton, an American with a voice of good quality, as the Herald. Mme. Gadscki, as Elsa, did not come up to the standard she set in her former appearances in the same rôle. Mme. Ober was vocally satisfactory and her acting convincing in the part of Ortrud, and Urlus was a capital Lohengrin.

"Carmen" was again restored to the Metropolitan's repertoire, from which it had been absent for five years, on November 19. All concerned devoted much energy to its preparation. The American soprano, Geraldine Farrar, was the heroine of Bizet's work. There was considerable curiosity as to the manner in which the rôle would be acted by this artiste, owing to the achievements of her predecessors in the rôle. Miss Farrar added new laurels to her many successes, and was proclaimed as one of the best impersonators of the wayward Spanish girl. Caruso, who was the Don José of the last performance of the opera at this house, again assumed the rôle and gave an impressive portrayal. His singing was superb. Escamillo, as sung by Amato, was a delight, and Alda capably handled the character of Micaela. All the artists came in for a hearty welcome in the way of great applause. The scenes were picturesquely mounted; in fact, the whole performance was one of the most brilliant and musically excellent offerings ever heard here. To Mr. Toscanini should go the highest honors for the success of the opera's presentation, because of his artistic excellence in bringing out all the color, grace, vivacity and dramatic life of the score. Others who sang parts in this presentation were Lenora Sparkes, as Frasquita; Sophie Braslau, as Mercedes; Albert Reiss, as Dancaïro; Angelo Bada, as Remendado; Léon Rothier, as Zúñiga, and Désiré Deferre, as Morales.

"Der Rosenkavalier" was mounted November 20. It had a familiar cast with the exception of Mme. Schumann, who appeared as Sophie, the intended bride of Baron Ochs, and disclosed a soprano voice clear in quality and agreeable in timbre. Besides, she is also prepossessing and should be a worthy addition to the list of artistes.

"The Magic Flute," by Mozart, commenced the second week's bill. Carl Braun gave a distinctive performance of Sarastro, and Frieda Hempel was an impressive Queen of the Night. Elisabeth Schumann made a good Papagena, though she hardly equalled the work done by Bella Alten in the same part. Tamino's music was sung by Jacques Urlus and Alfred Hertz conducted.

"Parsifal," with Johannes Sembach in the principal part and Clarence Whitehill again as the Knight of the Grail, was heard on the afternoon of November 26. The former, a new German tenor, deeply impressed his audience. This singer has been appearing for several years in opera in Dresden, though he is only in his early thirties. Mme. Matzenauer was Kundry.

Ponchielli's "La Gioconda" was the bill on November 25, under the baton of Mr. Polacco. It was an enjoyable performance that had Emmy Destinn as La Gioconda, Margarete Ober as Laura, Caruso as Enzo and Amato as Barnaba.

The night of November 26 added "Traviata" to the current list of the Opera House, with Hempel as Dumas's Lady of the Camellias.

"Carmen" was repeated November 27, with two changes in important parts—Bori, who made a delightful Micaela, and Clarence Whitehill as Escamillo. Mabel Garrison made her initial bow with the company as Frasquita.

One of the chief novelties which will be mounted, according to present plans, during the year is "Prince Igor," a work which was left unfinished by the composer, Borodine, and completed by Rimsky-Korsakoff and Glazounoff. The story of the opera is based on a Russian legend of the barbaric times of the twelfth century. Prince Igor makes war on the Khan of Polovets, and disregarding the unfavorable omen supposed to be represented by a total eclipse, is captured by the enemy. With him is Prince Vladimir. His city of Poulitvle, which has fallen into disorder, is taken by the Polovets, and Prince Igor meanwhile is given a chance to escape. Vladimir, however, refuses to accompany him because he has fallen in love with Konchakovna, daughter of the Khan. Igor returns alone to his city and is there received with honors. Another new work to be heard is "Mme. Sans-Gêne," which is a version of Sardou's comedy set to music. Miss Farrar has been selected for the part of Mme. Sans-Gêne and Pasquale Amato will impersonate Napoleon. The third novelty, which will really be a revival, is Weber's "Euryanthe," first produced at Vienna in 1825. Beechoven's "Fidelio" will be mounted in January and will be conducted by Hertz, and "Il Trovatore," with entire new scenery, will follow in February, conducted by Toscanini. Franco Leon's "L'Oracolo," a one-act opera from Chester B. Fernald's "The Cat and the Cherub," a story of the Chinese quarter of San Francisco, is another work to be heard by New Yorkers this Winter for the first time.

CENTURY OPERA HOUSE.

The Century Opera House threw open its doors for the second season of grand opera on September 14 under the management of Sargent and Milton Aborn. At the end of their last season they promised more adequate and meritorious presentations of opera than hitherto. That they have kept their promise is evidenced by the improved quality of the performances given so far. To begin with, the seating capacity of the opera house was increased some 1,200 seats and the plan of giving performances changed. Instead of shifting the bill weekly, with principals exchanging first rôles with each other, the management arranged to alternate the performances so as to permit one complete set of principals to sing an opera for two weeks. Aside from this there is a new artistic director, Jacques Cohn, remembered for his able stage management at the Manhattan Opera House, and who has wonderfully improved the performances in the Century. Another welcome step forward is in the line of acquiring some good English translations of librettos in foreign languages.

Among the newcomers in the company, Marcella Craft, who has had a Continental career extending over ten years, is an American, having been born in Indianapolis, Ind. She recently appeared at the Opera Royal in Munich and previously sang in Mayence and Kiel. Miss Maude Santley, who was born in the Isle of Wight, created in English the rôles of Waltraute in "Die Götterdämmerung," and Fricka, both in "Walküre" and "Das Rheingold," with the Beecham Opera Company at Covent Garden. Louis D'Angelo, who although an Italian by birth has been in this country since he was four years old. He made his debut with Henry Savage's English production of Puccini's "The Girl of the Golden West." Augusta Lenka, born in Cape Colony, is remembered for her Wagnerian rôles since her debut as Ortrud in Erfurt, Saxony, several years ago. Graham Marr, a baritone, is wholly American taught. He sang for the Moody-Manners Company and assumed the title rôle of Mendelssohn's oratorio of "Elijah" in Liverpool. He made his first appearance in America at the Century in the title part of Rossini's masterpiece, "William Tell." Bettina Freeman, a dramatic soprano born in Boston, who made her initial bow with the Beecham Opera Company and afterward sang at Covent Garden and the Royal Court Theatre in London. Helen Stanley, to whom fell the honor of creating the rôle of Blancheffeur in Klengel's "Kubreigen" when that opera was accorded its American première by the Chicago Grand Opera Company in Philadelphia two years ago. Miss Stanley, who is a Cincinnati girl, had returned to her native land after a successful career abroad. She first appeared in America in the characterization of Prince Charming in Massenet's "Cinderella." Ellen Castles, a young lyric soprano born in Australia of Irish parentage, who was heard as Musetta in "La Bohème." Alexander Smallens, born in Russia, and who was with the Boston Opera Company, Elizabeth Campbell, Canadian contralto, who, as a member of the Century Company, made her debut as Stephano the page in "Romeo and Juliet" at the opening of the second season, September 15.

From a coal miner to a star in grand opera is the accomplishment that Hardy Williamson, the lyric tenor, has attained. Although known as the Welsh tenor, Mr. Williamson was born in England and is a native of Murton, Durham County. His natal city is the centre of a mining district and his first dollars were earned by strenuous labors several hundred feet beneath the earth's surface.

The first two operas mounted were Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet," on September 14, and Bizet's "Carmen" on the following night. The proceeds of these performances were for the Red Cross War Relief Fund. Both English librettos were written by Algernon St. John Brenon, whose work bore evidence of his scholarly and musical abilities. The title parts were taken by Lois Ewell and Orville Harrold. Both won praise as Shakespeare's immortal lovers. Henry Weldon (Hughes), son of an American Admiral and a basso of wide reputation, shared in the honors of the evening by his splendid singing of the important music of Friar Laurence. This was his initial bow to a New York audience. He sang the same rôle at Hammerstein's London Opera House a few seasons ago. Then he was hailed as the best in the rôle since Pol Plançon, whose pupil he was. Another first appearance made at the Century on the opening night was that of Hardy Williamson, the tenor. In this performance of Gounod's work he took the minor part of Tybalt, Juliet's quarrelsome cousin. Elizabeth Campbell, also a new addition to the personnel of the company, was the Page, and Stella Riccardi was Gertrude, the Nurse. The other rôles were sung by Alfred Kaufman as Capulet, Frank Mansfield as Benvolio, Gilbert Wilson as the Duke, John Mercer as Paris and George Everett as Gregorio. The baton was in the hands of Mr. Jacchia. The orchestra was augmented by a number of musicians, chief among them being Hugo Riesenfeld, the former Hammerstein concert master. It showed vast improvement, as did the chorus newly trained by Josiah Zuro, another of the able Manhattan Opera House lieutenants, and which was almost entirely composed of American voices. The ballet is again under the direction of that finished artist, Luigi Albertelli, whose master, Enrico Cecchetti, founded the Russian ballets of the Czar.

The excellent presentation of Bizet's "Carmen" was in keeping with the initial effort. The orchestra, chorus and principals, as well as the staging, were uniformly at their best. Kathleen Howard and Morgan Kingston, two favorites of last year, were the Carmen and Don José respectively. Both artists sang better than formerly, though the acting of Miss Howard could be more convincing. Myrna Sharlow, whose voice is agreeable, sang the music of Micaela, while Louis Kreidler triumphed in the Toreador Song of Escamillo. Others in the remaining parts were Alfred Kaufman, who effectively sang the Captain's part; George Shields, Alice Eversman, Elizabeth Campbell, Hardy Williamson and George Everett. Josiah Zuro made his bow as a Century conductor and deserved the highest praise for his excellent work.

For the fourth offering the Aborns brought out on September 29 Verdi's lyric drama, "La Traviata" with Lois Ewell in the title part and Morgan Kingston as Alfred Germont. During the first fortnight of opera at this house 34,956 persons purchased tickets at the Century. The first week's attendance was 16,167, while that of the second week was 17,789. These figures show that opera in English at popular prices has met with favor with the public.

Rossini's "William Tell" which was revived September 22, made a favorable impression on the audience. It is an opera in four acts. Words by Etienne Jouy, Hippolyte Bis and Armand Marast, taken from Schiller's drama, English version by Natalie Maclaren. While the first act went slowly, Lois Ewell and Orville Harrold fully made up for it in their rendering of the lovers' duet in the second act. The whole performance was excellent and the artists were in good voice. Hardy Williamson sang the Fisherman's air, Kaufman was Gessler, Louis Kreidler was William Tell and Kathleen Howard was Hedwiga.

The debut of a singer new in this city and the revival of the popular "Tales of Hoffmann," by Offenbach, were the chief features of the Century Opera House on November 3. The débutante of the occasion was Miss Florence Macbeth, an American coloratura soprano, who last season was a member of the Chicago company and who shared honors with Titta Ruffo, the great Italian baritone, when she sang Gilda to his Rigoletto in Chicago, Philadelphia and the cities visited by that organization. Miss Macbeth hails from the Middle West. She proved an admirable addition to the singers, in the part of the mechanical doll, and was warmly received. Bettina Freeman as Gulletta, and Lois Ewell as Antonia, were in splendid voice, while Kathleen Howard was Nicklaus, one of her best rôles. Louis Kreidler, in the triple rôle of the evil genuses of Hoffmann, gave a good account of himself. Under the able conductorship of Josiah Zuro the chorus and orchestra were entirely satisfactory. Alternating with this opera was "La Bohème," with Helen Stanley as Mimi, Morgan Kingston as Rudolph, Thomas Chalmers as Marcel, Henry Weldon as Colline and Louis d'Angelo as Schaunard. All the roles were well handled and the opera was well mounted.

It may be recalled that the previous year's attempt at Wagnerian opera was a sad failure. However, the company retrieved itself on October 6 with an excellent performance of "Lohengrin." All the chief roles were well sung and the orchestra, under Ernest Knoch, who made his first appearance at this house on this occasion, deserved warm praise. Bettina Freeman enunciated clearly and used her voice with discretion. Ortrud was not so capably handled by Augusta Lenska. The Lohengrin of Morgan Kingston was among the best performances that he had done so far.

Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna" was added to the list of operas October 20. Gustav Bergman was warmly received on his return to the company on this occasion. He gave a fine characterization of the devout blacksmith, Lois Ewell deserves high praise for her singing of the big song in Act II. and Louis Kreidler was in splendid voice throughout the entire performance.

The staging was artistically accomplished under the directorship of Jacques Cointi, and Mr. Makallf and Mlle. Rasch were delightful in their dance in the Camorristi's den.

The last week of the Fall season began November 10 with "Aida," an elaborate offering. The English libretto was well put together and understandable. Miss Ewell impressed her audience with her sympathetic and appealing performance. Mr. Kingston's Rhadames was a great improvement over his singing of the same part last year.

The Zuro Opera Company began a season of grand opera at the Grand Theatre in May. They gave splendid performances of "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" in the afternoon of May 10, and "Aida" in the evening. In the second named work Miss Baroness made her initial appearance with the company as Santuzza. Charlotte Lund, who had been singing in concert, was the Nedda in "Pagliacci," and A. Antola, an excellent baritone, delighted his audience by his splendid singing of the Prologue. "Aida" was well mounted. Miss Andreani, an eighteen-year-old prima donna, was Aida. Signor Cecotti ably sang the music of Rhadames, Emma Careli was Amneris and Alessandro Modesti sang Amonasro effectively. The others in the cast were Messrs. Anzeloni, Nemo and Giulloni and Miss Hays. Ignacio de Castillo conducted all three performances. On May 11 "Faust" was presented with P. Sinagra in the title part and Mme. Zavaschi as Marguerite. P. Bayron admirably handled the part of Mephistopheles and Antola was the Valentine. Alice Gentle, who appeared several years ago at the Manhattan Opera House, sang the music of Azucena in "Il Trovatore."

She also was heard as the "Carmen," and her singing as well as acting was admirable. Other works mounted by this company were "Thais," "The Tales of Hoffmann," "Lucia" and "Traviata."

Mr. Andreas Dippel's plan to give opera-comique in New York City met with favor when he presented his first offering, "The Lilac Domino," at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, October 19. Mr. Dippel intends to give New York a season of opera-comique such as has never been equalled in Europe or America. "The Lilac Domino" was composed by Charles Cuvillier, who was called to the front for France and was with the forces near Verdun; book and lyrics are by Emerich von Gattl and Bela Zebach; English adaptation by Harry B. Smith; English lyrics by Robert B. Smith. The book, which really has merit, concerns the loss at cards of the fortunes of three young men who decided that the only way out of the difficulty was that one of the number marry an heiress, the heiress hunter to be chosen by the result of a game of dice. Count Andre de St. Armand throws the high number. He falls in love at a masked ball with a girl who wears a lilac domino, Georgine, daughter of Vicomte de Brissac and wealthy, and whom he intends to marry according to his agreement with his friends. But Georgine, hearing of the dice game and believing that Andre only wants her for her money, dismisses him, though she herself is in love with him. His efforts to re-establish himself in her good graces furnish the love motif of the piece.

The scenes are laid in Nice during the carnival season. There is a pretty intermezzo depicting the life along the Riviera, and colored moving pictures show the carnival episodes while this piece is being played. Throughout the work are scattered twenty musical numbers, the principal one being a delightful waltz. This production introduced to New York several singers of unusual talent. Eleanor Painter, from the new Deutsches Opera House in Berlin, where she made her debut as Madame Butterfly, and where she continued for two years, was born in Walkerville, Ia., just twenty-five years ago. Miss Painter was charming in the character of Georgine. Besides acting admirably, she has a voice of birdlike sweetness. Especially well rendered was the duet with the baritone in the second act, "What Is Done You Never Can Undo." Wilfrid Douthitt, who was chosen to take the part of the Count, is a splendid baritone, regarded in England, where he was born in 1888, as the successor to Santley. When the first performance of "Parsifal" was given in England Mr. Douthitt was the soloist, and he also enjoys the distinction of being the only male singer who ever appeared as the principal boy in pantomime at the Drury Lane Theatre, the part on all other occasions having been sung by a girl. Alternating with the principals mentioned are Mabel Riegelman, who has been singing with the Chicago Opera Company and George Everett, late of the Boston Opera Company. Other members of the cast are the Metropolitan singer Jeanne Mauoung, a Danish artist of ability; Einar Linden and James Harrod, as alternate tenors; George Cutzon, René Dettling, as well as John E. Hazzard, Robert O'Connor and Harry Hermesen in comedy roles.

Mr. Dippel's organization will remain at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre until the first of February, when it will move to the Century Opera House.

Here, in conjunction with the Pavlova Ballet Company, "La Reginetta delle Rose" will be heard on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings and at Saturday matinées. Wednesday matinées and Friday nights are to be reserved for ballet performances by Mlle. Pavlova and her company.

Tuesday evenings Mr. Dippel plans to devote to revivals of old operettas, which will be repeated at Thursday matinées, when popular prices, 25c. to $1, will rule. The operettas to be revived will be selected from the following works: "Don Caesar," "Manon," "Mamselle Nitouche," "Erminie," "Chimes of Normandy," "Bocaccio," "Madame Angot," "The Beggar Student," "Gasperone," "Girofé-Girofa," "Fatinizza," "Gypsy Baron," "The Merry War," "A Night in Venice" and "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief."

Special subscriptions will be opened for these performances, and Mlle. Pavlova and her ballet will also be given as a subscription series, and the programme will be changed at every performance.

The American composer Horatio Parker, and the librettist Brian Hooker, duplicated their winning of the $10,000 prize for their opera "Mona" by being awarded a like amount for their opera "Fairylund," by the National Federation of Musical Clubs. This sum was offered for the best grand opera written in English. The production will be made in Los Angeles next Summer.

"Madame Butterfly" ushered in the third week of the present season at the Metropolitan Opera House. Martinelli sang the music of Pinkerton and Geraldine Farrar was Cho-Cho-San.

Boris Godunoff has become one of the firmly established works of the Metropolitan Company since its introduction two years ago. November 28 it was given for the first time in the present season. It had a familiar cast with few exceptions. Miss Raymond Delaunais, the new mezzo-soprano, sang the music of the boy Theodore admirably. Mr. Toscanini conducted.

The afternoon of December 5 was given over to the double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci." In the former opera Lucca Botta, who made a great success in "Oberon" in Colon last year, appeared for the first time at this house as Turlddu and made a favorable impression. Riccardo Tegani, another newcomer and who is an Italian baritone who enjoyed popularity in Italy, Spain and South America, was Alfio.

Interest centred on November 23 in a performance of Mozart's "Die Zauberflöte," which was given last year. Miss Hempel's singing of the two arias of the "Queen of the Night" was delightful, and Carl Braun and Emmy Destinn, Otto Goritz and Albert Reiss were all in good voice. Miss Elisabeth Schumann had the rôle of Papagena for the first time in New York and she sang the music charmingly. Mr. Hertz conducted. At this opera's second performance the feature was the first appearance as Tamino of the new tenor, Johannes Sembach. The lyric quality of this singer's voice is admirably suited to the music of that rôle. He made a deep impression on his hearers last Spring, when he sang in "Parsifal" and "Die Meistersinger" in Paris.

Wagner's love drama, "Tristan und Isolde," was heard December 3. Mme. Gadski was Isolde, which is by no means her best rôle. Mme. Matzenauer was an unsatisfactory Bragane.

Two other new additions to the list of artists at the Metropolitan are Sivio Burkenroad, an American with an excellent baritone voice, and Max Bloch, a German light tenor, who sings the music of such rôles as Mime and David.

Chicago—The first performance in Chicago of Février's "Monna Vanna" was given on January 28 and received a cordial welcome. All the singers were in excellent voice, and Mr. Campanini read the difficult score in a masterly manner. In the cast were Mary Garden in the title rôle, Muratore as Prinziville, Marcoux as Guido, and Huberdeau as Marco.

Frieda Hempel made her début with the local company as Violetta in "La Traviata." Giordano's "Fedora" was cordially received by a large audience when added to the répertoire of Chicago opera on January 7. Campanini conducted the brilliant performance. Bellini's almost forgotten work, "La Sonnambula," was given on January 15.

The Century Opera Company started a four months' tour in this city November 23 with "Aida" at the Auditorium. The second evening "Madama Butterfly" was the bill with Lois Ewell as Cho-Cho-San. "Carmen" was heard November 25. Kathleen Howard was the cigarette girl, Florence Macbeth the peasant Micaela, Eileen Castles was Frasquita, Gustav Bergman was Don José, and Graham Marr was Escamillo.

Cleveland—Two weeks of opera were given at the Metropolitan Theatre by the San Carlos Company under the management of Helen De Kay Townsend, in October. The répertoire consisted of "Lucia," "Traviata," "Faust," "Tales of Hoffmann," "Carmen," "Rigoletto," "Ballo in Maschera," "Cavalleria Rusticana," and "Pagliacci."

Philadelphia—For the first time in America, Vittorio Gecchi's opera, "Cassandra," was mounted at the Metropolitan Opera House on February 26. The libretto was by Luigi Illica. "Cassandra" is an old tale of unhappiness and murder, and, although the music displays able workmanship, the opera on a whole did not create any marked impression. The events of the opera take place previous to the story of "Elektra" and might be considered as a sort of prelude to Richard Strauss's work. The story is introduced by a prologue sung by a baritone who appears in the courtyard of the royal palace of King Agamemnon, for whose safe return from Troy maidens are singing to the gods. There is a scene between the faithless Queen Klytemnestra and her lover, Aegisthus, and the triumphant return of the King. Klytemnestra avows her constancy to the King, but is denounced by Cassandra. Klytemnestra murders her husband. Cassandra calls upon Orestes, the son of the King, for vengeance. Charles Dalmores was an imposing Agamemnon. Polese was heard as Aegisthus, Julia Claussen was Cassandra, Rosa Raisa was the Queen, while Francisco Federici sang the prologue.

Boston—Felicé Lyne, the Kansas City, Mo., girl who won fame when she appeared at Hammerstein's Opera House in London, sang in opera for the first time in the United States at the Boston Opera House on March 20. She appeared in the same rôle which introduced her to the London audience, Gilda, in "Rigoletto."

Kansas City, Mo.—The Chicago Grand Opera Company presented "Rigoletto" on April 10 with Polese as the Jester, Florence Macbeth as Gilda, and Giorgini as the Duke. At the matinée on the same date Mary Garden appeared in her famous rôle of "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame." "Parsifal" was heard on April 12.

St. Paul—The season in St. Paul consisted of six operas, beginning with "Rigoletto," with Florence Macbeth as Gilda, Titto Rufo as the Jester, Giorgini as the Duke, Huberdeau as Sparafucelle, Beatrice Wheeler as Maddalena, Louise Berat as Giovanna, and Nicolay as Monterone. Massenet's "Manon" was the second work heard. Alice Zepilli sang the title rôle, Hector Dufranne was Lescaut, and Campagnola was the Des Grieux. The other operas given were "La Bohème," with Rosa Raisa; "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," with Titto Rufo as Tonio, Bassi as Canio, and Alice Zepilli as Nedda. In "Cavalleria" Rosa Raisa was Santuzza. The season ended with "Parsifal."

Havana, Cuba—Marie Barrientos, a famous coloratura soprano, gave a brief season at the Gran Teatro del Politeama in April. Among the works she appeared in were "The Barber," "Lucia," "Linda de Chamounix," "Dinorah," "Mignon," "Rigoletto," "Bohème," "Ellsír d'Amore," and "Sonnambula."

Seattle—Seattle has her own Standard Opera Company, which began its first season on April 20 with a performance of "Carmen." Romayn Jansen was Carmen and Neal Begley was José.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Chicago Opera Company visited Des Moines, Ia., in April and presented Mary Garden in "Thals." Mr. Dufranne and Mr. Campanini shared the honors on the occasion.

St. Louis, Mo.—A deficit of $2,500 was the result of the season of opera, which closed April 18 with "Tosca" in the afternoon with Miss Garden, and "Aida" in the evening with Julia Claussen as Amneris, Carolina White as Aida, and Bassi in the rôle of Rhadames.

The evening of November 14 ushered in a season of popular priced opera by the San Carlo Opera Company under the directorship of Fortune Gallo at the Odeon. "Rigoletto," with Florencio Constantino as the Duke, Antola, a fine baritone, as Rigoletto, and Edviga Vaccari as Gilda, was the first offering. The following night the company sang "Lucia" at Alton, Ill. "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" was the bill on November 16. In the former Esther Adaberto sang Santuzza, Stelia De Mette, a contralto formerly with the Metropolitan Opera House, was Lola. In "Pagliacci" Antola gave a splendid performance of Tonio. Among the other works rendered were "The Barber of Seville" and "Traviata." In the latter Regina Vaccarino was Violetta, Agostini was Alfredo, and Modesti was Giorgio. "Aida," "The Tales of Hoffmann," and "Carmen" were also given.

Atlanta, Ga.—The fifth season of grand opera by the Metropolitan Company was a great success. It opened with Massenet's "Manon," with Caruso, Farrar, and Gilly in the principal parts. Other works given were "Il Trovatore," "Der Rosenkavalier," "Un Ballo in Maschera," "Madama Butterfly," "Lohengrin," "Cavalleria Rusticana," and "Pagliacci." The attendance at the performances reached the total of 37,289, while the receipts were nearly $100,000.

New Orleans—For the first time in America Bizet's "L'Arlésienne" and Saint-Saën's "Phryné" were given in February.

Rome—A new work by Mascagni, "Parisina," was mounted at the Costanzi in March. It was first heard in Milan three months previously. While the principals in the opera were well chosen,

"Parisina" did not meet with any degree of success. The title rôle was taken by Mme. Lina Pasinil Vitali, Lazzaro was Ugo, Sammarco was Nicholas d'Este, and Elvira Casazza was Stella de-Assassino. "Parsifal" was given for the first time in Italy at Rome and Bologna on January 1.

Milan—Twenty-two performances of "Parsifal" were given at La Scala, with Serafin as conductor. Ponchielli's opera, "I Meri di Valenza," was given in July and met with a fair amount of success.

Turin—A new opera, entitled "Finlandea," libretto by Alberto Calantuoni and music by Emerede Francassi, was staged at the Regio Theatre.

Monte Carlo—The last opera written by Massenet, entitled "Cleopatra," had its initial presentation in February. Louis Payen wrote the libretto. The principal rôles were sung by Mme. Kousnetzoff, the Russian soprano, as Cleopatra, M. Maguenat as Marc Antony, and Lillian Grenville as Octavia.

Berlin—On September 28 Engelbert Humperdinck's opera, "Die Markentenderin," was heard at the Deutsches Theatre, Charlottenburg, with Adolf Klein as Blücher and Bertha Stolzenberg as the vivandiere.

COVENT GARDEN.

During the season at Covent Garden, which closed in July, Mme. Edvina created two new rôles—one being that of Fiora in "L'Amore del Tre Re," by Montemezzi, and the other Francesca in Zandonai's "Francesca da Rimini." In the latter opera Martinelli sang the principal male rôle and Signor Cirada was Giovanni. Another feature of the season was the revival of Verdi's "Falstaff," with Polacco as conductor. There were 86 performances of opera given. Verdi's and Puccini's works ranked first with 21 performances, and Wagner second with 18.

On July 4 Sir Beecham brought out at the Drury Lane Josef Holbrook's music-drama "Dylan." Edmund Burke sang the music of the Sea King. Among the other works Beecham mounted were "Rosenkavalier," "Die Zauberflöte," "Boris Godunoff," "Ivan the Terrible" and "Prince Igor."

John McCormack impersonated Faust in the second performance of Boito's "Menstefole." Claudia Muzio was Marguerite. Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro" was revived after four years' absence from the repertoire. Rosa Raisa was the Countess, Alice Zepplini was Susanne, Louise Berat was Marcelline and Maggie Teyte was Cherubino.

The following is a review of the season 1913-14 continued from the 1914 ALMANAC:

On February 5 a new tenor, Rudolf Berger, from the Berlin Royal Opera, made his initial American bow as Siegmund in "Die Walküre." Mr. Berger, who was formerly a baritone, pleased his listeners with his big, vibrant voice. But on February 14 this new tenor was very disappointing when he sang Tristan in the great love music drama "Tristan and Isolde."

A new Siegfried and a new Wanderer in the persons of Carl Jörn and Carl Braun respectively created added interest to the third music drama of the "Nibelungen Ring" on February 12. Both artists gave praiseworthy impersonations of their rôles, and their singing was creditable.

Of the new operas heard, Montemezzi's (1886) "L'Amore del Tre Re" ("The Love of Three Kings"), mounted on January 2, was the most praiseworthy. The young composer furnished an original score of great merit for Sem Benelli's admirable libretto. This opera was successful and produced a year previous in Milan. The story is laid in the Middle Ages. After a barbarian invasion of a principality of Italy, Altura, the leader of the invaders, Archibaldo, who has become blind, forced a marriage between his son, Manfredo, and a young Princess, Fiora, of the conquered inhabitants of Altura. She was betrothed in childhood to Avito, a Prince of her own province. In the absence of Manfredo, who is away subduing the Alturians, Avito is welcomed and kept by Fiora in secret. Archibaldo, knowing his son loves her, is incensed at her faithlessness and chokes her to death. He then puts poison on the dead Fiora's lips to discover on whom she bestowed her favors. Avito visits the crypt, kisses Fiora and dies, but not until he tells Manfredo the truth. The latter also kisses the poisoned lips, and he too meets death.

This work shows the young composer's understanding of operatic technique, dramatic art, and the needs of the voice. The music throughout is free from the style of the present Italian operas. The composer's individuality and his seeking for melodic beauty stamp his score throughout. A notable feature of the occasion was the appearance for the first time at the Metropolitan of Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana. As Avito he displayed to advantage his splendid dramatic tenor voice, which is especially resonant in the upper ranges. Lucrezia Bori, in addition to her beautiful singing, disclosed added capabilities as a tragedienne. Mr. Didur enacted the blind King with dramatic force and power. Amato skilfully sang the part of Manfredo. He was in glorious voice. Mr. Toscanini brought out in a masterly manner all the beauties of the score.

English opera was given another opportunity by the Metropolitan Company when "Madeleine," a one-act opera in English by Victor Herbert, had its first performance on the afternoon of January 24. The libretto of "Madeleine" is by Grant Stewart, an actor-playwright, and is taken from a short French play by A. Decourelles and L. Thiboust. The story, which unfolds itself in an hour, takes place on New Year's Day in Paris about 1760. The scene is laid in the salon of Madeleine Fleury, a favorite prima donna of the time. She invites Chevalier de Mauprat to dine with her, but he declines because of a previous engagement with his mother. Then the Duc d'Esterre arrives, and after receiving a similar invitation he refuses because he also has to dine with his mother. His refusal piques Madeleine and she writes an invitation to his rival, De Fontanges. The latter too refuses, owing to his promise to dine with his mother. Finally Madeleine turns to her maid, Nicheite who also declines for the same reason. Thoroughly chagrined, Madeleine gives way to a burst of hysterical weeping, which is interrupted by the arrival of Didier, a poor portrait painter. He brings with him a portrait of Madeleine's mother which he has been renovating. Didier invites the diva to dine with his mother, but she declines. Placing the picture of her own mother on the table before her, she gazes on it. As she does so a ray of sunshine lights up the face, and Madeleine is content that she too is "dining with her mother." The work, though it contains several captivating arias, was very disappointing. The music is not appropriate to the theme of the moment and is not apt to add any new laurels to the reputation of its composer. Frances Alda made a charming Madeleine and Lenora Sparks deserved praise for her delightful singing of Nicheite. Paul Althouse made an admirable Chevalier de Mauprat and his enunciation was good. Polacco conducted.

For its French opera novelty the Metropolitan was indebted to the allied Chicago-Philadelphia Company, who presented on February 3 Jules Massenet's "Don Quichotte." The story is taken from the "Don Quixote" of Cervantes, the great Spanish novelist. This opera was given for the first time in America in New Orleans on January 30, 1912. The score contains a melodious prelude to the fifth act, a delightful intermezzo before the last scene in the same act, and some sympathetic passages in the death of Don Quixote. But aside from these there is nothing of great musical import in the whole work. Mr. Campanini brought out all there was of value in the score by his able conducting. Vanni Marcoux, a baritone who on this occasion made his first appearance in New York, was an effective actor in the title rôle, though his singing left much to be desired. Mary Garden had a rôle in Dulcinea that did not seem suitable to her. The Sancho Panza of Hector Dufranne was appealing. He sang with all the power and beauty of his voice.

As the second novelty, the Chicago-Philadelphia Company brought out Henri Fevrier's version of Maeterlinck's "Monna Vanna" on February 17. It could not be said that the music of the new work made any marked impression. The scene of "Monna Vanna" is laid in Pisa in the fifteenth century. Mary Garden was Monna Vanna and Lucien Muratore was Prinzi Valle. This appearance was his first in New York, and he disclosed a colorful and powerful voice. Vanni Marcoux sang Guido and Campanini conducted.

For the first time anywhere, except in Paris, Gustave Charpentier's "Julien," a sequel to the same author's "Louise," was given on February 26. This opera, the libretto of which the composer himself supplied, consists of four acts and eight scenes, the first of which is a prologue showing the poet in the Villa Medici, Rome, where he is engaged in finishing plans for a work he hopes will make him famous. He falls asleep, and the scenes that follow reveal his dream. They are entitled Enthusiasm, Doubt, Impotence, and Degradation. The music contained several beautiful passages. Caruso sang the arduous rôle of Julien, and Geraldine Farrar characterized the parts of Louise, Beauty, the Peasant Girl, the Grandmother, and the Grisetite. In the cast were Dinh Gilly as the High Priest Marla Duchene, Sophie Breslau, Rosina Van Dyck, Vera Curtis Marie Mattfeld, Lila Robeson, Reiss, Ananlan, Lambert Murphy, and Bada. Mr. Polacco conducted.

On March 25 another new work was presented, entitled "L'Amore Medico" ("Dr. Cupid"). It was a lyric comedy in two acts by Wolf-Ferrari, the libretto by Enrico Golisciani after Molière's "L'Amour Médecin." While the opera contains some delightful music, the audience received it coldly. The action of "L'Amore Medico" takes place in the gardens and also in a villa outside of Paris in the reign of Louis XIV. Wealthy Arnolfo has an only daughter, Lucinda, who is in love with Clitandro, but the father wishes to keep his daughter with him. Lucinda pretends illness and four physicians arrive to prescribe for her ailment. They disagree over their opinions. Clitandro is summoned and, disguised as a doctor, prescribes a mock marriage ceremony. Arnolfo consents and is outwitted by the happy pair. Lucrezia Bori made a delightful Lucinda, and she sang with her usual brilliancy and finish of style. Cristalli as Clitandro was not satisfactory. His voice lacks color. Pini-Corsi was at home in the rôle of Arnolfo. The four doctors were Messrs. Rothler, De Seguro, Leonhardt, and Bada.

THE DRAMA.

THE past season has been one of the most disastrous, financially, in the line of theatrical enterprises in many years. Success was attained mostly by the many comedies and melodramas which were furnished, and which in several instances enjoyed long runs. Among these was "Kitty MacKay," a quaint comedy of Scottish life of fifty years ago, in which Miss Molly McIntyre did some charming acting; Frank Craven's "Too Many Cooks;" Edward Peple's "A Pair of Sixes;" the more recent "On Trial" at the Candler Theatre; "It Pays to Advertise;" "The Dummy," by Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, authors of "The Argyle Case;" "Innocent," and several others.

The important issue to be reckoned with in the theatrical world is the ever increasing number of new houses. Scarcely a prominent location in the entire city does not boast of a theatre or one in the course of construction. Whether enough good material can be forthcoming to meet the requirements of so many auditoriums or whether there is enough demand by the public for them is the question. The short-lived productions and the number of empty seats during the present season are what confront the managers. Then the encroachment of the "screen shows" cannot be overlooked. The small cost of admission and the good entertainment usually furnished by these houses draw the patrons, especially of the cheaper seats, from the larger producing houses.

On reviewing the plays of the present season it will be noticed that a large number have come to our stage after having had successful runs or are still playing abroad, especially in London. Several had their premieres in this country that originally were to be first seen across the water. Among the visitors to our shores were the English comedienne, Marie Tempest, and her London company who opened an engagement, November 3, at the Comedy in Henry Arthur Jones's comedy, "Mary Goes First." This play, a satire on English middle-class manners, is about the struggle of two English women for social precedence in a small town. The play was successfully given by Miss Tempest in London. Later in her season at the Comedy it is her intention to be seen in "At the Barn," "The Marriage of Kitty," and "Art and Opportunity." Supporting Miss Tempest is W. Graham Browne as leading man.

The latest play from the pen of George Bernard Shaw, "Pygmalion," reached Broadway by way of the Park Theatre October 12. In the London production at His Majesty's Theatre Sir Herbert Tree had the rôle of Prof. Higgins, the word specialist and author of Higgins's Universal Alphabet, who takes the little flower girl of the London streets, Eliza Doolittle, to experiment with her dialect with the purpose of polishing her speech and manner and passing her off as a duchess. He succeeds, but discovers that while training the girl she falls in love with him, and then he realizes that she is necessary to him. In the American production this rôle was taken by Philip Merivale, who was in the original cast. Mrs. Patrick Campbell gave a sympathetic portrayal of the Cockney flower girl who finally enunciated herself into a duchess. She received a cordial reception from her audience; moved to Liberty Theatre and then to Wallack's (Lieber & Co., 80 times). Mrs. Campbell appeared also in two performances of "Mrs. Tanqueray."

Phyllis Nelson Terry, the English actress and niece of Ellen Terry, made her initial appearance in this country at the Liberty Theatre on November 23 in "Twelfth Night." Henry E. Dixey was Malvollo. It was in this Shakespearian work that Miss Terry received favorable notice at His Majesty's in London several years ago. Eben Plympton was cast as Sir Toby, and Jessie Busley was Little Maria (Lieber & Co.).

Originally produced in the Nouvel Ambigu theatre, Paris, under the name of "L'Épervier," "The Hawk" a drama of modern French life in three acts by Francis de Croisset, translated by Marie Zane Taylor, was mounted at the Shubert on September 28. In this forceful and vivid work William Faversham has the rôle of Comte de Dassetta, a Hungarian who becomes a bird of prey and with his wife plunders his victims at cards on the Riviera. In Rome the wife meets a young Frenchman who falls in love with her and stirs within her a loathing of the means by which she and her husband accumulated the riches they scatter over Europe. Dassetta guesses the truth of his wife's attachment for the younger man and leaves her with him. Months later, when she realizes what a wreck her husband has become, she goes to him and they start life afresh. The rôle of the wife introduced to New York Mile. Gabrielle Dorziat, which part was hers when the play was first presented in Paris. A great deal had been heard of this actress's accomplishments, therefore she came in for her share of close attention. She fulfilled expectations by displaying her expertness in the emotional and finished performance of the wife of the card cheater. Mr. Faversham did some brilliant work in the acting of the Hawk's downfall and final regeneration. Others in the cast were Frank Losee, who was the gullible American victim, and Conway Tearle as the infatuated young Frenchman.

The breaking out of the war changed the plans for the production in England of the play "Evidence." Hence its premiere at the Lyric on October 7. It was an English play in a prologue and three acts by J. and L. du Rocher Macpherson. An eminent lawyer divorces his wife upon what seemed to be incontrovertible evidence of unfaithfulness. She is loved by another man who possesses proof of her innocence but fears that if the truth were known she would return to her husband. The play was interpreted by an able cast headed by Aubrey Smith (22 times).

"Consequences," a comedy by H. F. Rubenstein at the Shubert, October 8, told the story of the prejudices of Jews and Gentiles against intermarriages. It was originally presented in Manchester and later in London last year (37 times).

Now in its second season at the Strand Theatre, London, "Mr. Wu" came to Maxine Elliott's October 14. It is an Anglo-Chinese play by Harry M. Vernon and Harold Owen, opening with the discovery by the Mandarin Wu Li Chang, a prominent man in his native city of Hongkong, that his daughter, Nang Ping, had been betrayed by Basil Gregory, whose father is the owner of a large shipping concern. In reprisal a series of disasters, planned by Wu, befalls the house of Gregory, ending in financial ruin. But just when Wu intends to have a still more terrible vengeance and he tortures Mrs. Gregory with the threat of a like dishonor, his sudden death intervenes and he falls a victim of his own machinations. The scenes are laid in China and were effectively staged. Mr. Walker Whiteside, who gave an impressive portrayal of the Oriental character in "The Typhoon," skillfully delineated the subtle and inscrutable mandarin, a part played in the London performance by Matheson Lang. In fact Mr. Whiteside's acting is the mainspring of the whole performance. Others in the cast were Antoinette Walker as Wu's daughter, Frank Wupperman as the romantic lover, Basil Gregory, and Deirdre Doyle as the mother, Mrs. Gregory (50 times).

The craze for crime and detective plays which has been rampant during the past two years does not seem to be on the wane. But the type of underworld dramas like "The Lure" and "The Fight" of a year ago are now few and far between. Good melodramas are attracting attention. The beginning of the Autumn season was marked by two plays of this brand being mounted—"On Trial" and "What Happened at 22." In the melodrama "On Trial," by Elmer L. Reizenstein, at the Candler Theatre, August 19, a murder occurs on the stage, while "What Happened at 22," another melodrama, by Paul Wilstach, August 21, at the Harris, concerned forgery and murder.

"On Trial" was one of the interesting plays to reach the footlights. It introduced a new method in presenting upon the stage the record in the prosecution and defence of a man on trial for murder in the first degree and permits the audience to see the truth, bit by bit, as it unfolds itself by the testimony of witnesses on the stand. Robert Strickland is charged with murdering his friend, Gerald Trask. Witnesses proved that he did the killing, but his attorney wants to find out what happened before the shooting in the library. As each witness begins telling his or her story, the stage darkens and the story is acted before the audience, which, like the jury, is carried back to see things as they really happened. The solution to the case is withheld until the very end. The author was fortunate in having the parts of his play in competent hands. Mary Ryan made an appealing wife and Frank Young was a capital judge. Among others in the cast whose acting was creditable were Frederick Perry, who splendidly played the rôle of the defendant, Thomas Findlay, William Walcott, George Barr, Lawrence Eddinger, and Howard Hall (Cohan and Harris).

After a prosperous run in Boston, "Under Cover," a well written and clever melodrama by Rol Cooper Megrue, came to the Cort, August 26. The story dealt with love, bribery, smuggling, and the Secret Service. Because of smuggling, the story goes, at the port of New York, the Custom House officials are upset at rumors that the Government has started a bribery investigation with a mysterious and successful "R. J." of the trail. A deputy customs inspector, Daniel Taylor, hears that Steven Denby is about to smuggle a $200,000 pearl necklace with the aid of Monty Vaughn. The two are travelling with a Mrs. Harrington, who is socially prominent and at whose house they are going to spend the week end. Here Taylor intends to trap them. He gets Ethel Cartwright, one of the guests, by threatening to arrest her sister who has defrauded an insurance company, to help him. Denby and Ethel met and fell in love in Paris, therefore reluctantly Ethel agrees to the plan. Denby finds out that she is watching him and he tells her about the necklace. Denby later finds Ethel, who falls into a snare, in his room searching for the jewel. In persuading her to tell the reason for her treachery he unwittingly gives a signal and the customs men come into the room, but in the confusion he evades them. However, Ethel again attempts to trap Denby, this time successfully, with the aid of Taylor, who is hiding in Denby's room. The surprise of the affair at this crisis is that Denby succeeds in getting Taylor to take a bribe and then reveals that he is the mysterious "R. J." of the Secret Service. The acting was well done. William Courtenay was Steven Denby, Lily Cahill was Ethel Cartwright, and De Witt C. Jennings was the customs inspector (Selwyn & Co.)*

George Broadhurst's play, "The Law of the Land," a melodrama in four acts, at the Forty-eighth Street, September 30, like his "Bought and Paid For" is an incongruous mixture of horror and laughter, with a little too much of the former. There are but two women rôles, the principal one being Mrs. Harding, played by Julia Dean, who was the wife in the same author's former work. She competently handled the rôle. George Fawcett was the warm-hearted Police Inspector, and Charles Lane was the husband*.

In the way of packing thrilling events into a short space the new American melodrama, "Life," at the Manhattan, October 21, by Thompson Buchanan, was about the best sample of melodrama seen in a long time. Among the pictorial features are a college boat race, a racing scene with a crowded four-horse tally-ho, a debutante's ball, the front of St. Patrick's Cathedral, an automobile race, besides motion pictures which carry the story between the acts. In the large cast were John Bowers as the collegiate hero, Eflingham Pinto, who gave a portrayal of an ex-convict turned dancing master, Kathleen MacDonell as Ruth Stuyvesant, and Walter V. Greene as Dennis O'Brien (W. H. Brady)*.

One of the latest crook plays found its way to the Longacre, October 19. It was entitled "Kick In," and was in four acts, by Willard Mack. The story concerned Chick Hewes, a forger who served time. He is married and has lived honestly since release, and the police know it, but his friends are those of his former life. The complications which this sort of company brings about form the events of the play, which are told in good melodramatic style. It was ably acted by a cast including John Barrymore as Chick Hewes, a part which he acts admirably; Jane Grey as Molly and Forrest Winant as Molly's brother (A. H. Woods)*.

Willard Mack furnished another play and, in addition, acted in it. This second product of his pen was entitled "So Much for So Much," and was seen at the Longacre, December 4. The story is of a pretty stenographer, Mary Brennan, and an unscrupulous employer who is an old libertine. Mr. Mack acted the rôle of the hero-reporter who rescues his sweetheart just in time, and Miss Marjorie Rameau skillfully handled the part of the stenographer*.

Mr. A. H. Woods began an experiment of the dollar scale of prices for his attractions at the New York on October 10. On this occasion he introduced John Mason as the star in "Big Jim Garrity," a melodrama by Owen Davis.

Farces seemed to be a very popular brand of plays. One of these, "Twin Beds," by Margaret Mayo, had its initial performance at the Fulton Theatre, August 14. The stage version was taken from Edward Salisbury Field's story of that title. The humorous complications brought about by a drunken man who gets into the wrong apartment at night and is not discovered until morning by the young wife whose husband was at his club furnished the laughable incidents throughout the farce. Madge Kennedy was the young wife who found intruders continually dropping into her apartment from the flat above. She played her part delightfully. Miss Ray Cox was the wife of the Italian tenor who mistook the flat below for his own, and scored a hit; and Charles Judels was amusing in the rôle of the intruder*.

"It Pays to Advertise," a farce by Roi Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett, laughed itself into favor on September 8 at the Geo. M. Cohan. It is brimful of humor and the right cast has been selected to bring out all the joyousness in the farce. A soap king has a lazy son whom he tricks into work by conspiring with his secretary to fall in love with the boy so that he might disown him. The plan works, but the young man launched out in an advertising soap business and by means of clever advertising receives enormous orders. Finally the father is compelled, because of the large business of the young magnate, to buy him out by paying a huge sum, and becomes converted to the gospel of advertising. John W. Cope was Cyrus Martin, Grant Mitchell as his son, Ruth Shepley as the secretary, Will Deming as the advertising man, and Louise Drew as the Comtesse de Beaurien; all acquitted themselves with honors (Cohan and Harris*).

"Apartment 12K," a farce which opened early in the present season at Maxine Elliott's, proved a sad failure (16 times).

The Brady offering, "The Elder Son," in three acts, by Lucienne Nepoly, adapted by Frederick Fenn, opened at the Playhouse September 15. Except for the admirable acting of the cast the play was not important. The company was mostly English and included Lumsden Hare, Cynthia Brooke, Eric Maturin, Mona Hungerford, Norman Trevor, Madeline Moore, Robert Adams, Edna Hopper, Ira Marshall, Nell Compton and Edward Walton (15 times).

Charles Frohman presented "The Beautiful Adventure," a comedy in three acts, by George Egerton, from the French of R. de Flers and A. de Caillavet, the authors of "Love Watches," at the Lyceum on September 5. It ran originally for a year in Paris. Of the 30-odd parts in the piece the principal ones were assigned to Charles Cherry, Ann Murdock, Ernest Lawford and Mrs. Whiffen. The latter declared it would be her last appearance on the American stage (90 times).

The twenty-third season of the Empire Theatre opened on September 7, with John Drew in "The Prodigal Husband," by Dario Niccodemi and Michael Morton. The gist of the play is that difficulties leading to separation between man and wife sometimes need but very little and oftentimes but a fresh point of view for both to end in mutual happiness through life. The scenes were laid in Paris and Brittany, and the plot designed so that there were three leading ladies—Jessie Glendinning, Helen Hayes Brown and Grace Carlyle (48 times).

Under Henry Miller's direction Jean Webster's "Daddy Long Legs" was brought out at the Gaiety September 28. It was a dramatization of the author's book of the same title and had been successfully acted in Chicago and other cities previously*.

"Innocent," a play in a prologue, four acts and an epilogue, by George Broadhurst, was brought out with Pauline Frederick in the leading rôle on September 9 at the Eltinge. It was the story of a young girl who was brought up without worldly knowledge and is left by her father to the care of his friend, a young roué. Miss Frederick distinguished herself by her capital performance of the siren, John Milner gave a notable portrayal of the guardian, and Julian L'Estrange impressively characterized the rôle of Horace Irving (A. H. Woods, 112 times).

Messrs. Shubert presented "The Modern Girl," by Marlon Fairfax and Ruth C. Mitchell, at the Comedy September 10. The head of an old Kniekerbocker family, whose fortune was imperilled, sought financial assistance of a young man. His daughter, in a lark, goes to visit the same man in masquerade costume, ignorant of her father's appeal to him. Dame Rumor, becoming active, did the rest (17 times).

"The Story of the Rosary," a melodrama by Annie Saker that had provided entertainment in London last season, was given its first performance on September 7 at the Manhattan Opera House under the management of Comstock & Gest. Among the actors in the cast who had originally appeared in the London offering were Annie Saker, Alfred Paumier and James Berry (49 times).

"The Miracle Man," seen at the Astor September 21, represents George Cohan's first effort in several years as the writer of a serious play. Mr. Packard's book, of the same title as the play, furnished excellent material for dramatization, and Mr. Cohan took full advantage of the opportunity. On the outskirts of a village in Maine, the story goes, an old man, known as "The Patriarch" and believed to have the power of healing, lived for 40 years. "Doc" Madison, a New York swindler, at once recognizes a chance in the villagers' faith in the old man to make money. Madison brings to the village a girl to be the Patriarch's grandniece, a white-faced youth supposed to possess a cough, which is wonderfully cured, and a pickpocket posing as a cripple, who is also suddenly cured. Soon the report of the wonderful cures by the old man is spread throughout the village and money comes in abundance to the coffers of the plotters. Then they find, to their surprise, that the "Miracle Man" has wrought his real miracle on themselves—faith in the Patriarch and disgust for their own method of life—and they determine to start life afresh, after the death of the old man. In the excellent cast were William H. Thompson as the Patriarch, George Nash as John Madison and Gail Kane as Helena (Cohan & Harris, 99 times).

At the Booth, opening October 5, Charles Klein again shows his ability to dramatize current events. This time he took the much discussed problem of financial railroad wrecking for his theme and gave it the title of "The Money Makers." Mr. Klein named the principal railroad wrecker James Rodman, a man who pays $2,000,000 for a railroad, bonds it for $20,000,000, waters the stock and floats the securities on a Stock Exchange. Alexandra Carlisle did excellent acting in the part of the wife, while Emmet Corrigan skillfully characterized the financier, Rodman (Selwyn & Co., 24 times).

The following night David Belasco opened the season at the Belasco with Leo Ditrichstein in his excellent American version of Ferenc Molnar's Hungarian play "The Phantom Rival," a brilliant comedy in three acts. The author took for his motive the idea that the first lover of a woman remains in her mind continually, even after she has married; that she idealizes him and makes him a creature of her fancy rather than of reality. The husband's jealousy is aroused, and especially so when he reads a letter from her former suitor she received before his departure, in which he tells her he will return. As she sits watching the freight she dreams she meets again Tatcheff, the Russian lover. He passes before her in all the guises in which she had pictured him. But when she actually meets the hero of her dreams, there comes an awakening, and in the contrast between the man of her visions and the very prosaic Russian Attaché she meets disillusionment. Leo Ditrichstein gave an admirably finished characterization of the Russian Tatcheff. Laura Hope Crews admirably impersonated the difficult rôle of the wife. Malcolm Williams gave an impressive and effective portrayal of the jealous husband. The piece was excellently staged*.

"My Lady's Dress" came to the Playhouse on October 11. It is in three acts and nine scenes, by Edward Knoblauch, who wrote "Kismet" and collaborated with Arnold Bennett in the writing of "Milestone." The story is about Anne and John, a married couple with money and position, though not quite as much of either as Anne would wish or is determined to have. They squabble on the excessive cost of her latest gown. Anne takes a nap, during which she dreams of the fashioning of a woman's gown, from the weaving of the goods to its completion at the French establishment. Leon Quartermaine gave an able performance of the seven varied rôles which fell to him, and Mary Bolland had an opportunity to display her versatility in the acting of seven contrasting characters (59 times).

Owen Johnson, the novelist, dramatized his story entitled "The Salamander" and retained the same name for his new play which Selwyn & Co. presented at the Haris on October 23. It was an interesting work but unconvincing, and made but slight impression. In the cast were Beverly Sitgreaves as Miss Snyder, Orme Caldara as Garry Lindaberry and Carrol McComas as Doddo Baxter (16 times).

Wlnthrop Ames brought the entertaining comedy in three acts entitled "A Pair of Silk Stockings," by Cyril Harcourt, to his Little Theatre October 20, thereby offering an agreeable and attractive production to the theatregoers. The rôles in this importation from the London stage were those of Molly, played by Caroline Bayley; Irene Maitland, taken by Sybil Carlisle, hitherto seen as Madame Lucie in "Pomander Walk"; Sir John Gover, acted by Cyril Harcourt, and Sam Thornhill, ably portrayed by Kenneth Douglas*.

After an absence of two years William Elliott returned to the stage as Youth in his production of the George V. Hobart modern morality play "Experience," at the Booth on October 27. Youth, which Mr. Elliott plays with considerable charm, starts from the garden "where dreams begin" and progresses along life's pathway learning the bitter lessons of experience.

The Lieblers presented Louis N. Parker's "The Highway of Life" at Wallack's October 26. It is founded on "David Copperfield," by Dickens. Lennox Pawle played the part of Micawber, which had been scheduled to be created in London by Beerbohm Tree, but owing to the war the plans were changed. This play was really an elaborately mounted arrangement of episodes for the stage, and the author had chosen to present in eleven scenes some of the most beloved of characters from the novel. Emmett Corrigan gave an excellent portrayal of that ancient mariner Dan Peggotty, and Lennox Pawle, who was seen in "Pomander Walk" and "Liberty Hall," brought out all the richness in the humor of the immortal Micawber (25 times).

Adele Blood appeared at the Garrick on October 29 in J. C. Drum's drama, "My Lady's Boudoir," the chief character in which was a young actress who was having her first experience as a New York star. The play had but four performances when it was suddenly withdrawn.

On the same evening "The Battle Cry," a dramatization of Charles Neville Boek's story of the same name, was produced at the Lyric. The story is about a Kentucky feud in which a young girl goes to the Cumberland Mountains to start a school for illiterate children in that section (18 times).

Elsie Ferguson made her first appearance at the Lyceum November 2 in a four-act play by Hubert Henry Davies, entitled "Outcast." The scenes are laid in London and tell the story of a middle-aged Englishman who was jilted by a woman in his own social set and comes in contact with Miriam, a woman who had had a taste of the vicissitudes of life. Though they are socially far apart they have much in common, and their regeneration follows. The author of "Outcast" is an Englishman and known to New Yorkers as the writer of "Cousin Kate" and "The Mollusc." Miss Ferguson, in her skillful and artistic performance, met the full demands of her rôle. Charles Cherry's part of Geoffrey was well suited to him. This same play was given at Wyndham's Theatre, London, in September, with Gerald Du Maurier and Ethel Levey in the principal parts (Charles Frohman and Klaw & Erlanger).

Mme. Nazimova made her first appearance under the management of the Lieblers at the Harris on November 6. "That Sort" was the play, and B. MacDonald Hastings the author. Mme. Nazimova's emotional powers as an actress were well suited to the rôle which she played, Diana Laska, and Vincent Serrano ably portrayed the part of Diana's paramour, while Charles Bryant gave a creditable performance of the kind-hearted doctor (28 times).

"The Marriage of Colombine," a comedy in four acts, by Harold Chapin, which had been successfully given in England and Scotland, opened the Punch and Judy Theatre on November 10. This theatre is quite unlike any other house in the city. The auditorium seats but 299 persons and is Old English in style. Charles Hopkins, besides having caused the theatre to be built, and under whose management it will be run, designed the plans and interior decorations of the house, which are unique. Hanging from a very high ceiling are Old English candle fixtures carrying electric lamps. The stage is thirty feet from footlights to back wall and thirty-nine feet between the side walls. From the footlights to the front of auditorium is forty-nine feet, there being eighteen rows of seats. In addition to these two hundred and forty-seven seats there are fifty-two seats in the boxes which run around the three sides of the mezzanine floor. These boxes accommodate two, three, four, and six persons each, are constructed so as to appear to be individual Punch and Judy booths, and are handsomely decorated with dark tapestry. The theatre is a complete unit, occupying by itself alone the ground on which it stands, in dimensions 40 x 100 feet. The play given, while not a very exciting comedy, was artistically staged and possessed qualities of merit. It is a view of the home life of performers in the circus ring. Scaramouche was played in a pleasing manner by Mr. Hopkins, whose wife made a pretty and convincing Colombine. Mrs. Louise Closser Hale was the eccentric ex-circo rider, and Edward E. Emery was Salomandro. The author of this play, Mr. Chapin, is an American, and has written several other works, including "Fancy Free," besides a great many one-act plays (32 times).

Mr. Charles Gilmore presented by arrangement with Cohan & Harris the comedy by A. E. Thomas and Clayton Hamilton, "The Big Idea," at the Hudson November 16. This clever farce, which had been running in Boston for some time under the name of "Wanted, $22,000," had for its theme a novel idea, and it scored a hit. Ernest Glendinning played the self-sacrificing son with sincerity and skill; Desmond Kelley did admirably as Elaine; William Courtleigh was the manager, and Forrest Robinson was the bank president (24 times).

Lev Fields appeared in legitimate farce comedy on August 26 at the Republic Theatre as Ludwig Klinke, a mustard king, in "The High Cost of Loving," adapted by Frank Madel. Under the title of "Die Spanische Fluge" the play was popular on the Continent, although the English adaptation of it was a complete failure when acted in London (A. H. Woods*).

"Cordelia Blossom," another farce comedy, made its appearance at the Gaiety on the last day of August. It was by George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester, but the same success was not made of this story in its writing that was made of his previous work, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," though the new work was full of amusing incidents (Klaw & Erlanger, 16 times).

"A Perfect Lady," seen at the Hudson, October 22, cannot be favorably compared with the entertainment which first brought forth Rose Stahl as a favorite—"The Chorus Lady." The authors of this latest work, which is but feebly entertaining, Rennold Wolff and Channing Pollock, sought to fit the play to the actress, and in the attempt failed to produce the desired results (28 times).

One of the most notable and pretentious presentations made by the Lieblers was "The Garden of Paradise," at the Park Theatre, November 20. It was an arrangement of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale, "The Little Mermaid," by Edward Sheldon, who followed the Danish author's story closely. The successive stage pictures which the play unfolded in nine scenes were majestically spectacular and dominated the entire production. Emily Stevens was the Princess Sutherland, Renee Kelly was a lovely Queen of the Southland, Blanche Walsh read the lines of the Sea Witch, and George Reiph was the King. The production did not succeed financially and ceased playing after several performances.

"What It Means to a Woman" was given its first New York performance at the Longacre, November 19, and was a complete fiasco (H. H. Frazee).

David Belasco began preparation for the presentation of "The Love Thought," by Henry Irving Dodge. Janet Beecher was engaged for the principal rôle—that of a woman doctor who protects an abused boy and makes his life more pleasant by preaching "the love thought" to his relatives. Mr. Dodge is the author of "The Whirlpool" and "The Higher Court."

Chauncey Olcott's annual engagement at the Grand Opera House commenced November 23 with Rachel Crother's comedy, "The Heart of Paddy Whack," a bachelor romance, with its scenes laid in Ireland in 1830.

At the Princess Theatre, November 24, Holbrook Blinn brought together four of the best one-act plays that have been put on at the little house since its initial opening. Two of them were especially meritorious. These plays combine the thrills and comedy that has been the policy of the Princess players to present. "Across the Border," by Baulah M. Dix, was the most elaborate offering. It was in four scenes and had for its material the war on the Continent of Europe, setting forth the horror and uselessness of war. A young officer brought to a hospital, wounded, dreams that he has died. In the "other world" those he meets make him realize the horrors of the life of a soldier. He comes back to the world to preach to his former comrades a message of peace. Holbrook Blinn played the Master of the House, and David Powell gave a splendid and sincere performance of the Junior Lieutenant. His acting was one of the best pieces of work seen at the Princess.

The humor of the evening was furnished by George Ade's amusing little playlet, "Nettie," which concerns three men who meet at the same table, and two of whom are made to realize that all of them have been providing for Nettie, who is a veritable Salamander, while the third, failing to understand, is left with his illusions. Holbrook Blinn in this work had the rôle of Jimmy Bates, while Mr. Trevor and Mr. Edgard were Billy Donelson and Freddie Nichols respectively. The third play was an ably written dramatic piece by Frederick Truesdell, called "The Fog." It was about a man who was away on a trip and returns to his home to find his attractive wife gaily dressed and awaiting a call from her lover, who is to escort her to a ball. The husband realizes the truth, and he also waits. A fog drives a passing man in evening attire to take shelter in the seafarer's shop and the husband mistakes him for the man for whom he is waiting. In order to protect the reputation the wife confirms the husband in his mistake. The other attraction on the programme is "The Denial," by J. B. Larric. The scenes are laid in the death-house keeper's office in Sing Sing. This play had a heart-appelling interest as well as dramatic fervor and told of a young man convicted of murder who, before his execution, denies to his mother that he is her son in order to spare her the shame of his disgrace. He invents a story which convinces her that her son died honorably. The whirl of the dynamo, as the culprit is being electrocuted, furnished the "thrill" of the performance, but it carried with it too much of the mechanical style to be at all convincing. Mr. Stein ably played the convict and Mrs. Holcombe was appealing as the mother.

It seems that managers are deaf to the cry of too many playhouses in New York City and still continue to add palatial houses to the overcrowded list. One of the first of these new houses was the Candler Theatre, with "Antony and Cleopatra," one of the most stupendous photo plays ever thrown upon the screen, as the attraction. This house, in Times Square, threw open its doors on May 7. In this piece it is said that nearly 10,000 persons took part in the scenes before the camera.

On September 15 the Broadway Rose Garden threw wide its doors. It was a new combination of enjoyments, the features being motion pictures, dancing, and concert numbers, in addition to dining facilities. From the spacious auditorium it is possible for the combined entertainment of the dancing, the concert, and the restaurant privileges to be indulged in at one's pleasure. A spectacular film production, "Under the Sea," was the first offering to be presented in the hall adjoining and which is exclusively for moving picture features. These pictures were remarkable submarine views which were taken at the bottom of the sea around the West Indies. The thrilling part of these pictures was the combat between a man and a man-eating shark in the deep sea. After several weeks these pictures were followed by several special feature photo plays.

Added to the playhouses in the Bronx was the new Crescent Theatre at One Hundred and Sixty-eighth Street and Boston Road, which opened with "The Round-Up."

Announcement was made of the plans for opening the Bandbox Theatre, formerly the Adolf

Phillipp, on December 22 by the New York Play Actors. "Poor Little Thing," a comedy by Jerome K. Jerome, will be given for the first time. It is an adaptation from the French play of the same theme, by Jules Lemaitre, which Gaiety mounted in Paris last year. The new enterprise will have a company of professional players who will be assigned individual rôles according to their fitness for it and there will be no stars. A new play will be given each month.

Oscar Hammerstein opened his new opera house in Lexington Avenue, between Fifth and Fifty-first Streets in August and operated it as a moving picture and vaudeville theatre. The chief vaudeville features were snatches from grand operas, and the singers some of the artists Mr. Hammerstein engaged for his grand opera venture. It was later turned into a vaudeville house.

The most recent addition to the uptown theatre colony is the Standard Theatre, on the southwest corner of Ninetieth Street and Broadway, which was built for the presentation of high class dramas and musical productions in this locality. It is a commodious house and follows the latest design in recognizing the infringement of the movies on its patronage by banishing the gallery and providing orchestra and box accommodation with chairs in the balcony. It was planned to seat 1,493 persons and is designed in the period of the Italian Renaissance. This house opened under John Cort's management with William Elliott's production of "Kitty MacKay" with Molly McIntyre, direct from its long and successful run at the Comedy. The theatre is devoted to popular priced attractions, each of which will play an engagement of only one week, with matinees Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. The plays scheduled to be presented here include "The Crinoline Girl," by Julian Eltinge, December 14; "Widow by Proxy," with May Irwin, December 21; "The Midnight Girl," December 28; "The High Cost of Loving," with Lew Fields, January 4; "Innocent," with Pauline Frederick, January 11; "Potash and Perlmutter," January 18; and Marie Tempest in one of the plays in her present repertoire, January 25.

Cohan & Harris announced that they would give a comedy, by Max Marcin, in the first of the new year, entitled "The House of Glass."

December 1 brought "Polygamy," a play in four acts, by Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, to the Playhouse. This play is totally different from the same authors' other recent plays, "The Dummy" or "The Argyle Case." In this instance the Mormon Church is attacked. The story is a forceful and interesting one and the writers have displayed skill and sincerity in its telling. It concerns Daniel Whitman and his wife, Zina, who have lived peacefully without any interference by orders of the Prophet. Zina's brother, Brigham, and the widow, Annis Grey, who loved him but was kept separated from him because he was an apostate, for which he was hounded by the church. Daniel is ordered by the Mormon Church to marry again, and the widow, Annis, is selected as his second wife. But the four people revolt and resolve to escape from Utah. An excellent cast was selected for this performance. Among them were Chrystal Herne, who made an appealing and charming young wife, Zina; Katherine Emmet, who admirably played the unhappy Annis; Lizzie Hudson Collier, who was Esther; Willard B. Mack, who was convincing as the brother; and Ramsey Wallace, who was impressive in the rôle of the husband.

A new musical comedy, "Lady Luxury," book by Rida Johnson Young, music by William Schroeder, was booked for the Casino on Christmas afternoon.

For her third offering at the Comedy Marie Tempest revived "The Marriage of Kitty." Lylda Lopokova, the Russian dancer, will be presented in a comedy by Ethel Watts Mumford, entitled "Miss Forsell." Another production scheduled for the first part of the year is Edward Sheldon's dramatization of Sudermann's "The Song of Songs," which A. H. Woods will present.

Charles Frohman announced that he would present the Haymarket Theatre, London, success "Driven," by E. Temple Thurston. In the cast will be Alexandra Carlisle, Charles Bryant, Leslie Faber, Haldee Wright, and Lumsden Hare.

MUSICAL PIECES.

In the musical comedy line there were several plays that were pretty and tuneful. Among them were "The Queen of the Movies" and "Sari."
"The Girl from Utah," music by Paul Rubens and Sidney Jones, was seen at the Knickerbocker, August 24. The book, by James T. Tanner, did not amount to anything. Whatever diversion the production had was supplied by Julia Sanderson and Donald Brian, who did the singing and dancing, and by Joseph Cawthorn, who provided the comedy (Chas. Frohman, 123 times).

"The Midnight Girl" introduced a new prima donna, Miss Margaret Romaine, a sister of Hazel Dawn, who proved that she is an artist of ability. In addition, George McFarlane appeared as a featured star.

The latest vehicle used to bring forth Montgomery and Stone again was "Chin Chin, or a Modern Aladdin," a diverting musical comedy by Anne Caldwell and R. H. Burnside, music by Ivan Caryll, at the Globe in October*.

Klaw & Erlanger presented a tuneful piece, "Papa's Darling," by Harry B. Smith and Ivan Caryll, at the New Amsterdam, November 2. The piece is adapted from a French farce, "Le Fils Surnaturel," by Gnet D'Ancourt and Maurice Vaucaire (40 times). On the same evening at the Thirty-ninth Street, another musical comedy, "The Only Girl," opened. It was the work of Henry Blossom, music by Victor Herbert, and proved a refreshing and delightful diversion.

Lew Field's "Suzie," adapted by Otto Hauerbach from the Hungarian operetta by Franz Martos and Aladar Remy, at the Casino, was a tuneful work. Charles Dillingham presented "Watch Your Step" at the New Amsterdam on December 8. Harry B. Smith furnished a good story to go with Irving Berlin's music and an excellent company displayed all the entertaining features of the production*.

John C. Fisher brought out Hazel Dawn as a star at the Knickerbocker on December 7 in "The Debutante," a comedy of European life, by Harry B. and Robert Smith, with a musical setting by Victor Herbert. Miss Dawn was seen as an American girl who appears as a professional violinist at a masquerade, encourages the attentions of an impecunious French nobleman, and by so doing excites the jealousy of an indifferent fiancé and brings him to terms*.

The plays that were mentioned in the 1914 ALMANAC and that were still running when the book went to press, with the number of their performances, are as follows:

"Madame President," 134; "The Family Cupboard," 144; "At Bay," 125; "Seven Keys to Baldpate," 321; "The Marriage Game," 77; "Potash and Perlmutter," 448; "Gaiety," 83; "The Rembrandt Journey," 140; "The Man Inside," 113; "To-day," 300; "The Secret," 208; "Within the Law," 562; "The Yellow Ticket," 185; "The Beauty Shop," 89; "High Jinks," 39, at the Casino; "Sari," 107, at the Liberty; "Peg o' My Heart," 604.

Selwyn & Co. brought Margaret Illington to the Harris in "The Lie," a drama, by Henry Arthur Jones, December 24, and five nights later the same producers mounted "In the Limelight," a romance of the theatre, by James Forbes, in which were featured Douglas Fairbanks and Patricia Collinge. Others in the cast were Zelta Sears, George Sidney, Edna Aug, William Sampson, and Olive May.

Charles Frohman opened at the Liberty December 29 with Otis Skinner in a drama by Jules Eckert Goodman, entitled "The Silent Voice." It is in four acts and is based on a story by G. Morris.

Ethel Barrymore appears in a new play in the latter part of January, entitled "The Shadow," by the authors of "The Prodigal Husband."

THE DEVELOPMENT OF

THE MOVING PICTURE.

In writing of the accomplishments in the amusement world the influence of the moving picture must not be lightly considered. Some of the best known legitimate dramatic producers have entered this field and prominent actors perform before the camera. It is estimated that in the United States alone there is $1,000,000 a day paid by 5,000,000 people who patronize thousands of houses devoted to moving pictures. There is $500,000,000 invested in this enterprise, of which $100,000,000 is placed right in New York City, where there are over 900 moving picture theatres, including airdomes.

hundreds of people, of to-day. The tremendous progress of this newest of industries is one of the most amazing features of the present century. Up to that time players had been hired haphazard. This, of course, led to the discovery that the popularity of the performers could be turned into a valuable asset, and the result was one of the most powerful of the influences which have aided in bringing the silent drama into its own.

Aboard the motion picture film trade is also making rapid strides, except in China, where promoters are not finding the undertaking very remunerative at present, owing to the objections of the Chinese to participate in the making of films of scenes, customs, etc., of their own country. In the treaty ports, where they come in touch with Western civilization, they take more kindly to this form of entertainment. There are less than fifty cinematograph shows in all China and Macao. In the Philippines there are reported to be about seventy-five. Moving picture shows are the most popular form of indoor public diversion in Brazil, especially in Rio de Janeiro. The same applies to Spain. Theatres in Seville in Winter are largely devoted to film plays, and in Summer nearly all the available plazas of the city are the scenes of open-air exhibitions. Trieste, Austria, has about twenty-two theatres devoted to motion pictures, while there is hardly a town of any size in South Russia that does not harbor a place of amusement of this kind. Only one cinematograph house operates in Karachi, India. There the performance is long and the admission to a reserved seat is two rupees (65 cents). Motion pictures are the most popular form of amusement in Bavaria. In Munich there are thirty-two such theatres, while Nuremberg has fourteen. Leeds, England, boasts of sixty-one picture houses with a seating capacity of 31,000. In Dundee, Scotland, there are twenty-five buildings used for cinematograph shows, and Aberdeen and Glasgow claim the distinction of having the finest picture palaces in the world. From Norway comes the report of the growing demand for film shows.

It is almost four years since the Kalem Company turned its attention to the famous play written by Dion Boucicault, "The Colleen Bawn," and later "The Shaughraun" and "Arrah-na-Pogue." Nor was attention confined solely to Irish dramas. "The Octoroon," probably one of the best known plays on the stage; "Shenandoah," "The New Minister," and the late F. S. Chanfrau's "Kit, the Arkansas Traveller" were also filmed.

The big feature production has assumed an important place in the motion picture industry. It is said that this or that multiple reel feature cost sixty or seventy thousand dollars to produce. One of the first in point of magnitude, importance, and expense was the feature production, a five-part Biblical story, "From the Manger to the Cross."

Here is a film which cost in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars to produce; which was made possible because of the assistance rendered by the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and the diplomatic departments of this country and of Turkey; which practically revealed for the first time that the motion picture could be of tremendous assistance to the educator.

Another big production was "Wolfe; or, the Conquest of Quebec," a five-reel feature which tells of one of the most momentous events in the history of North America. As in the case of "From the Manger to the Cross," every scene of which was produced in authentic locations in the Holy Land and Egypt, this massive production was filmed in authentic locations in Canada.

There are 1,000 feet of film used in a one-reel picture. As some plays are given in as many as six reels, 6,000 feet of film are often used in a single production.

It is a far cry from the modest little single-reel motion picture of seven years ago to the stupendous multiple reel production, involving the expenditure of thousands of dollars and the use of mounted pictures at an estimated cost in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. They included "A Million Bld.," "Mr. Barnes of New York," "Captain Alvarez," "Shadows of the Past," "Bingle's Melodrama," "My Social Wife," "Uncle Bill," "The Painted World," "Florida Enchantment," "413," "The Tangle," "The Locked Door," "Sylvia Gray," "Two Women," "The Little Angel of Canyon Creek," "The Juggernaut," "The Silent Plea," "The Man Behind the Door," and "C. O. D."

In addition to the turning of playhouses, formerly devoted to the legitimate drama, into abodes for the films, there are constantly being built new additions to houses devoted to the silent drama. The largest and most elaborate of these is the Strand, which seats 3,500 and cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Here were seen such pictures as "The Avenging Conscience," an adaptation of Edgar Allan Poe's "Tell Tale Hearts;" "The Spoilers," "Brewster's Millions," "The Sea Wolf," "House of Temperley," "Home, Sweet Home," "The Master Mind," "Hearts of Oak," "The Wrath of the Gods," "Only Son," "Greyhound," "Germania," "Eagle's Mate," "Little Grey Lady," "Man on the Box," "Scales of Justice," "Call of the North," "Valley of the Moon," "St. Elmo," "Lost Paradise," "Virginian," "An Odyssey of the North," "Such a Little Queen," "Marta of the Lowlands," "Where the Trail Divides," "The County Chairman," which had its first release October 18, brought out Henry W. Savage as a motion picture producer. George Ade's comedy drama had Maclyn Arbuckle as Jim Hackler and Willis Sweatnam, one of the original members, as Sassafras Livingston. Other Strand productions were Frank Baum's "The Patchwork Girl of Oz," "Behind the Scenes," "The Man From Mexico," with John Barrymore; "The Man From Home," "Aristocracy," "Mrs. Black Is Back," and "The Rose of the Rancho," with which David Belasco made his bow as a moving picture producer. With Jesse Lasky, he is filming his great successes. In this particular picture Bessie Barriscale is the Spanish señorita and J. W. Johnston is Kearney.

"Cabiria," produced from a scenario by d'Annunzio, survived a long run at the Knickerbocker and at the Globe. Besides being a remarkable photograph, it told an interesting story, and it was said to have cost $200,000 in the making. Jean Valjean lived again when the photo-drama "Les Misérables" ran at the Carnegie Lyceum for some time. Henri Krauss, a French actor in the company of Sarah Bernhardt, acted the rôle of the victim of blind criminal justice before the camera.

George Kleine's film "Quo Vadis?" showed how a great novel could be reproduced in the motion pictures. The arena scene was estimated to have cost $10,000 and required the services of 900 actors.

Also acted on the screens were "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," with Mrs. Fiske; "Queen Elizabeth," with Sarah Bernhardt; "Monte Cristo," with James O'Neill; "The Prisoner of Zenda," with James K. Hackett; "The Span of Life," a famous melodrama of twenty years ago, with Luke Wilson as the hero. He played the same part in the original production in London, 1891; "The Virginian," with Dustin Farnum; "Manon Lescaut," seen at the Republic, with Lina Cavalieri as Manon.

Charles Frohman entered the realm of moving pictures on an extensive scale. He formed an alliance with the Famous Players' Film Company by which all plays under his control will be photographed for the "movie" screens.

The Shubert interests inaugurated a film enterprise last Summer and will make photo plays of the regular stage productions controlled by them. Klaw & Erlanger also came into the "movie" field and intend to produce several of their successes. Daniel Frohman, another well known theatrical manager, became interested in screen plays. "Ireland, a Nation," written by Walter MacNamara, was another popular photo play.

A gigantic undertaking was the production of "Damon and Pythias," by the Universal, and which was put upon the screen at the New York, November 30. The story is told in six parts, and more than 1,000 people take part in the several hundred scenes which are shown.

MUSIC LEAGUE OF AMERICA.

President—Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer. First Vice-President—Mrs. Willard D. Straight. Second Vice-President—Mrs. Otto H. Kahn. Secretary—Dave Hennen Morris. Treasurer—Alvin W. Krech. Corresponding Secretary—Miss Marie Kieckhoefer.

The league was founded January 15, 1914, and is not in any sense a charitable organization. It will assist young singers and instrumentalists of talent, industry, health, and character to help themselves and their art, and without destroying the individual spirit of independence. Where musicians of unquestioned skill have been prevented, through force of circumstances, from obtaining opportunities necessary to enable them to make reputations the league will offer substantial help in endeavoring to secure engagements.

THE EUGENICS RECORD OFFICE.

The purposes of this office are to serve eugenical interests in the capacity of repository and clearing house; to build up an analytical index of the traits of American families; to study the forces controlling and the hereditary consequences of marriage matings, differential fecundity, survival and migration; to investigate the manner of inheritance of specific human traits; to advise concerning the eugenical fitness of proposed marriages; to train field workers to gather data of eugenical import; to maintain a limited field force actually engaged in gathering data for eugenical studies; to co-operate with other institutions and with persons concerned with eugenical study; to encourage new centres of eugenical research and education; to publish the results of researches and to aid in the dissemination of eugenical truths.

The Eugenics Record Office was organized in October, 1910, by Charles B. Davenport with funds provided by Mrs. E. H. Harriman, who has remained the principal patron of the work. It has also received generous support from John D. Rockefeller.

Chairman—Alexander Graham Bell. Resident Director—Charles B. Davenport. Superintendent—H. H. Laughlin. Address, Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, N. Y.

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION.

The Actors' Equity Association has for its object equitable arrangement of all business matters pertaining to those who follow the art of acting, and especially pertaining to those who are members of the association. It is a voluntary association, formed to advance, promote and foster the profession of acting and those engaged therein. To protect and secure the rights of actors. To inform them as to their legal rights and remedies. To procure appropriate legislation in matters affecting their profession. To do such things as shall appear advantageous, or refrain from doing such things as shall appear disadvantageous to the profession of acting, or to the members of this association.

At what age does one become "old"? Five centuries ago a man was old at fifty. But the hale and hearty gentleman of to-day who has just turned sixty would probably protest against being classed among old people, even if famous. That his susceptibilities may not be wounded, therefore, a separating dash has been discreetly introduced after age sixty-five.

Expositions

PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

THE Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, lasting from February 20 to December 4, 1915, is the national celebration of the completion of the Panama Canal, authorized and sanctioned by the Congress of the United States, and financed partly by the Federal Government, partly by the California State Government, partly by the city and county of San Francisco and partly by public subscriptions among the people of California. In point of magnitude, cost and diversity of exhibits it is the greatest world exposition ever held, and notwithstanding the fact that more than half the world was plunged into war just as the exhibit palaces were nearing completion, the celebration can boast a record for foreign participation. In financial value the completed exposition represents a total investment of more than $50,000,000.

The unprecedented volume of foreign participation indicates a sane estimate by the world's nations of the tremendous value to international commerce of the Panama Canal, which has shortened the sea route around the world by some 8,000 miles. The magnitude of the exposition is entirely adequate to the herculean engineering task whose termination it commemorates.

The first spadeful of earth was turned on the exposition site by President Taft on October 14, 1911, in the presence of a tremendous crowd. Addresses were delivered by the President, the Governor of California and the Mayor of San Francisco. Naval parades and military parades in the streets of San Francisco were parts of the celebration. In August, 1914, the last of the eleven great exhibit palaces was completed, and in the same month the first exhibit was installed in the Palace of Machinery. The early completion also constitutes a world record in the annals of expositions.

The exposition area covers 635 acres of ground and has a frontage of two miles along the bay of San Francisco, immediately inside the Golden Gate, and a width of one-half mile. It is divided into three main sections; the western portion, the section which is nearest the Golden Gate, is reserved for the foreign and American state pavillons; the central section is occupied by the eleven main exhibit palaces, and the eastern division forms the amusement section, called "The Zone."

The eleven main exhibit palaces are devoted, respectively, to Machinery, Mines and Metallurgy, Manufactures, Varied Industries, Liberal Arts, Transportation, Food Products, Agriculture, Education and Social Economy, Fine Arts and Horticulture.

With the exception of the Palaces of Fine Arts, Horticulture and Machinery a uniform design of architecture has been followed in the construction of the exhibit palaces. With the exceptions enumerated the palaces are built together in an immense group, interspersed with splendid courts of honor and imposing colonnades. The group is Oriental in architecture, reminding one strikingly of a picturesque Mohammedan city in the Levant. Each palace is capped by a dome 160 feet high and 110 feet in diameter. In the centre of the group looms the majestic Tower of Jewels, which is 435 feet high and covered with scintillating "jewels" of cut glass, made in Austria, which glimmer brilliantly in the sun by day and in the rays of the gorgeous artificial illumination by night. The tower is flanked by two lesser towers of Italian design.

There are five spacious courts in the group, each surrounded by tall colonnades and covered with rare plants and flowers. Beautifully sculptured fountains sparkle in the centre, and costly statuary adorns all conspicuous points. The walls behind the colonnades are covered with magnificent mural paintings, executed by some of the greatest artists in the United States, and many of the canvases have cost more than $5,000 each. The courts are named Court of the Four Seasons, Court of the Universe, Court of Abundance, Court of Palms, and Court of Flowers.

To the north of the Oriental Palace group is the Palace of Horticulture, whose dome is entirely of glass and constitutes the largest glass dome in the world. It is 185 feet high and 152 feet in diameter. This palace is built in the style of a Turkish mosque and is surrounded by beautiful minarets.

To the west of the main group is the Palace of Fine Arts, which is absolutely fireproof, being constructed throughout of steel and concrete. This is to safeguard the costly exhibits, which include some of the world's greatest masterpieces, borrowed from the celebrated art galleries of Europe. The art treasures in this palace are valued approximately at $5,000,000. The building is constructed in the shape of a crescent, facing a placid lagoon.

To the east of the main group is the Palace of Machinery, which is conceded to be the largest wooden structure in the world. It is 968 feet by 368 feet. Four carloads of nails and 1,500 tons of bolts and washers were used in its construction.

The balance of the central division is laid out in beautiful gardens, planted with the flora of all lands and well filled with exquisite statuary. There are over 250 distinct groups and hundreds of individual pieces of statuary ornamenting the exposition grounds. Tiny lakes and pools add to the attractiveness of the gardens.

The "Zone" combines amusement with education. There are many features of great educational value in this section. The concessionaires have invested over $10,000,000 in "The Zone," which may give some indication of its magnitude. Among the features are reproductions of the Grand Canyon of Arizona, Yellowstone Park, the Panama Canal and submarines in action.

In the State and foreign sections are nearly 100 buildings, each possessing some distinct feature of architecture.

Every State and Territory in the Union and more than forty foreign countries are represented here. Despite the war, some of the foreign nations, such as Argentina and Holland, increased their original appropriations for participation in the exposition as late as September, 1914, while others, notably Japan, requested additional exhibit space after the outbreak of hostilities.

Most of the foreign countries have voted official appropriations in addition to the money expended on participation by private exhibitors. Others, including Great Britain and Germany, are not participating officially, but are nevertheless amply represented by private exhibitors. Each has its pavilion. In the following list of foreign nations participating officially in the celebration the amount is added only in the case of those that have voted a governmental appropriation.

Austria: Argentina, $1,700,000; Australia, $400,000; Bolivia, $250,000; Brazil, $500,000; Bulgaria; Canada, $600,000; China, $750,000; Chile, $180,000; Costa Rica; Cuba, $250,000; Denmark, $350,000; Dominican Republic; Ecuador; France, $400,000; Guatemala; Hayti; Holland, $400,000; Honduras, $125,000; Italy, $400,000; Japan, $600,000; Liberia; Monaco; Newfoundland; New Zealand, $200,000; Nicaragua; Norway, $68,000; Panama; Persia, $200,000; Peru; Portugal, $100,000; Rumania; Salvador; Slam, $250,000; Spain, $100,000; Sweden, $160,000; Switzerland, $60,000; Turkey, $300,000; Uruguay; Venezuela, $400,000.

On account of the exposition San Francisco has attracted numerous conventions during 1915, most of which take place in the recently completed exposition memorial auditorium, constructed at a cost of over one million dollars, in the civic centre of San Francisco. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 10,000 and becomes the property of the city of San Francisco when the exposition is over. The number of conventions and congresses to be held here approximates 350.

Celebrations of various sorts will be held in Festival Hall, a beautiful building in the French theatre style, with a seating capacity for 3,000 people, on the exposition grounds.

Among the special events is the great live stock exhibit and various international athletic meets, military and naval drills, motorboat races, etc. The international regatta and other aquatic events take place just off the exposition site. The beautiful esplanade, forming the northern boundary of the exposition and following the bay shore for three miles, affords room for 100,000 spectators.

All communications should be addressed to the President of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, Cal. Eastern Headquarters are located in the Æolian Building, West 42d Street, New York City.

SAN DIEGO PANAMA-CALIFORNIA EXPOSITION IN 1915.

SAN DIEGO, California, has raised $3,500,000 for a Panama-California Exposition to be held throughout the entire year of 1915. It is an exposition intended to especially exploit the resources, opportunities for development and possibilities for immigration, colonization and commerce of the Western States of the United States. It will be international in scope, and will have exhibits from all of the countries of the two Americas and from some of the European and Oriental countries. G. A. Davidson, U. S. Grant, Jr., John D. Spreckels, Lyman D. Gage, A. G. Spalding, D. C. Collier, and other men of prominence are behind the enterprise. The President is G. A. Davidson, of San Diego, and Mark S. Watson of San Diego is Director of Exploitation and Publicity.

One of the spectacular features will be an elaborate exhibit showing the progress of man from primitive times down to 1915. Another great feature will be a floral and horticultural display with immense botanical gardens and groups of citrus and deciduous fruit trees in bearing, and an immense lath house—the largest ever built in the world—covered with flowering vines and surrounded by all of the tropical trees, plants and shrubs that are known to the botanical experts. There will be a special exhibit of such things as irrigation, reforestation, reclamation and all of the things that enter into the development of the West.

A number of States have already furnished appropriations for participation, and nearly one million dollars has been spent upon the grounds, which are embraced within an immense fourteen hundred acre park, known as "Balboa Park," and lying in the very heart of the city of San Diego.

San Diego offers as a reason for holding this exposition in 1915 the fact that it is the first port of entry on United States soil north of the Pacific opening of the Panama Canal, and she desires to demonstrate to the world what possibilities lie in the vast region tributary to her as a commercial seaport, as well as what avenues of commerce may be developed with the countries North and South on the Pacific Coast, and with the Orient.

The exposition in its entirety will cost $10,000,000, or more.

NATIONAL CORN EXPOSITION.

ORGANIZED and held annually under the direction of the National Corn Association. Association officers are: E. D. Funk, Shirley, Ill., President; E. G. Montgomery, Ithaca, N. Y., First Vice-President; C. P. Bull, St. Paul, Secretary and Treasurer. About thirty States are represented by Vice-Presidents.

The National Corn Exposition has been held six times. The first was in Chicago, 1907; the second and third in Omaha, Neb., in 1908 and 1909; the fourth in Columbus, Ohio, 1911, and the fifth at Columbia, S. C., 1913; the Sixth National Corn Exposition was held at Dallas, Texas, February 10 to 24, 1914.

The slogan of the National Corn Exposition is the "Betterment of Agriculture." The exposition is composed of three prominent factors: (1) Educational exhibits from twenty-five to thirty-five State agricultural colleges and experiment stations, demonstrating experimental work and principles and facts in agriculture. (2) Competitive exhibits from thirty or more States, selected from State contests. (3) Comprehensive and complete educational exhibits from the Federal Department of Agriculture, devoted to many phases of agricultural endeavor.

Four trophies are awarded: (1) Indiana Ten Ear Trophy, for best ten ears of corn, value $1,000. (2) Colorado Oat Trophy, for best peck of oats, value $1,500. (3) Kellogg Single Ear Trophy, for best single ear, value $1,000. Farm and Fireside Wheat Trophy for best peck of wheat, $48,000 in cash premiums will be offered.

CELEBRATION OF ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE.

It was proposed to begin a celebration about Christmas, 1914, and extending into 1915, the centennial of the Treaty of Ghent, marking one hundred years of peace between the United States and Great Britain. The matter was first discussed with President Roosevelt in 1908 at the Harvard Commencement, when the Hon. W. L. King, Minister of Labor of Canada, urged that a memorial be erected on the frontier at Niagara. Subsequently it was discussed at the Mohonk Peace Conference in May, 1910, and at a meeting on June 10 a temporary committee on organization was formed, and later was made permanent. Honorary Chairman, Theodore Roosevelt; Honorary Vice-Chairmen, William Jennings Bryan, Joseph H. Choate, Alton B. Parker, Elihu Root, Levi P. Morton; Chairman, Andrew Carnegie; Vice-Chairmen, Edwin Ginn, William Church Osborn, Thomas Nelson Page, Daniel Smiley, Oscar S. Straus; Secretary, Andrew B. Humphrey, 31 Nassau Street, New York City. Executive Committee: Honorary Chairman, Charles W. Fairbanks; Honorary Vice-Chairman, Theodore E. Burton; Honorary Secretary, J. Horace McFarland; Chairman, John A. Stewart; Vice-Chairman, Theodore Marburg; Secretary, William H. Short. Headquarters, 50 Church Street, New York City.

The National Committee, of which Andrew Carnegie is Chairman, will act in conjunction with similar organizations in Great Britain, Canada, and other parts of the English-speaking world. A number of suggestions have been made regarding the nature of permanent memorials. One proposes a monument in the form of a watergate to be erected at Detroit, Mich., and Windsor, Ont., on the American and Canadian sides of the Detroit River; another that an arch be placed on the Canadian frontier over the New York-to-Montreal Highway, now being constructed. It has also been advocated that a building be erected in the city of New York to be dedicated to the cause of peaceful progress in which international congresses and public meetings can be held.

A suggestion was made by Senator and ex-Secretary of State Elihu Root that for a given five minutes on February 15, 1915, the anniversary of the ratification by the British and American Governments of the treaty signed at Ghent, all human activities, so far as possible, shall absolutely cease, and that the 150,000,000 English-speaking people throughout the world "shall engage in silent prayer and contemplation."

Owing to the uncertainty as to the length of the war in Europe, much of the programme of the committee has been modified, but it is expected that the original plans for the celebration eventually will be carried out. Regardless of this fact, however, the committee issued early in October a historical review of the century of peace by Prof. William H. Dunning, with an introduction by Viscount Bryce and a preface by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, as a part of its programme, and during the month of February, 1915, lectures on the subject will be delivered by men of eminence at the principal American universities. On February 24, 1915, church services will be held throughout the Nation.

LATIN-AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

THE following expositions are expected to be held in 1915: Chile—Exposición Nacional de Valparaiso (March-October). Colombia—Industrial and Agricultural Exposition at Cartagena (November 11 to December 31). Cuba—National Agricultural Exposition, at Havana (no date given as yet). Panama—Panama National Exposition (in commemoration of the discovery of the South Sea, or Pacific Ocean, by Balboa), to be held from January 1 to April 30.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF FAIRS AND EXPOSITIONS.

THE following statement is furnished to THE WORLD ALMANAC by J. C. Simpson, President of the American Association of Fairs and Expositions. Headquarters at St. Paul, Minn.

The American Association of Fairs and Expositions comprises fifty-two fairs and expositions of the United States and Canada which have reached the stability of permanent institutions. In most instances they are State, Interstate or Provincial organizations, and thus represent the North American Continent in the progress made in agriculture, horticulture, stock raising, manufacturing, domestic science, public welfare, education, transportation, good roads, art, etc., etc.

TREASURERS OF THE UNITED STATES.

CONTINENTAL TREASURER—The germ of the Treasury Department was planted when, on July 29, 1775, the Continental Congress appointed two Treasurers. The appointments were Michael Hillegas and George Clymer. The latter soon resigned to accept his seat as delegate to the Congress. Mr. Hillegas discharged the duties of Treasurer until September 11, 1789. The Treasury Department was organized under the act of September 2, 1789. Strictly speaking, it was reorganized, for the department, under various names, had been in existence since 1775. The Constitution went into effect March 4, 1789. Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States April 30, 1789. It will thus be seen that Mr. Hillegas was Treasurer for nearly five months after the inauguration of Washington, and for nine days after the Treasury Department was organized under the Constitution.

FEDERAL IMPEACHMENTS IN HISTORY.

The Constitution of the United States, Article II., Section IV., provides that civil officers of the United States may be removed from office on impeachment and conviction of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors; that the House of Representatives has the sole power of impeachment, and the Senate the sole power to try impeachments; that the Vice-President shall preside at impeachments except when the President is tried, when the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court shall preside; and that two-thirds of the members present must vote for conviction before a person impeached shall be deemed guilty. Only nine persons have been impeached and tried before the Senate, and only three of them have been convicted. The record is as follows:

William Blount, Senator from Tennessee; impeached July 7, 1797, for conspiring to wage war with Spain in favor of Great Britain, to excite the Cherokee Indians against Spain, and to create disaffection among the Indians toward the United States; trial, December 17, 1798, to January 14, 1799; vote, 11 guilty, 14 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

John Pickers, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire; impeached 1803 for drunkenness and disregard of the terms of the statutes; trial, March 3 to March 12, 1803; vote, 19 guilty, 7 not guilty; verdict, guilty; punishment, removal from office.

Samuel Chase, Associate-Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; impeached 1804 for misconduct at trials of persons charged with breach of the Sedition Law; trial, November 30, 1804, to March 1, 1805; vote, 9 guilty, 30 not guilty, and 15 guilty, 19 not guilty, on different counts; verdict, acquittal.

James Peck, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Missouri; impeached for tyrannous treatment of counsel, 1830; trial, May 11 to May 30, 1830, and from December 13, 1830, to January 31, 1831; vote, 21 guilty, 22 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

West H. Humphreys, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Tennessee; impeached 1862 for supporting the secession movement and unlawfully acting as Judge of the Confederate District Court; trial May 22 to June 26, 1862; vote, 32 guilty, 4 not guilty, and 38 guilty; verdict, guilty; punishment, removal from office.

Andrew Johnson, President of the United States; impeached for usurpation of the law, corrupt use of the veto power, interference at elections and high crimes and misdemeanors; trial, March 30 to May 26, 1868; vote, 35 guilty, 19 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

William W. Belknap, Secretary of War of the United States; impeached for accepting bribes; trial, April 5 to August 1, 1876; vote, 5 guilty, 25 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

Charles Swayne, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Florida; impeached 1905 for misconduct in office; trial, February 6 to February 27, 1905; vote, 55 guilty, 37 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

Robert W. Archbald, Associate Judge of United States Commerce Court, was impeached July 11, 1912, on thirteen articles charging him with corrupt collusion with coal mine owners and railroad officials while in office. The Senate began his trial December 3, 1912, and ended January 13, 1913. Verdict guilty; removed from office.

On June 12, 1914, District Judge Alston G. Dayton was impeached.

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

The University of the State of New York, governed by the Board of Regents, established and incorporated in 1784, includes in its constituent membership all public schools of the State and, as institutions in the University, all secondary and higher educational institutions incorporated in the State and such libraries, museums, institutions, schools, organizations and agencies for education as may be admitted to or incorporated by the University. The President of the University is also the Commissioner of Education, the chief executive officer of the entire State educational system. The assistant commissioners are Augustus S. Downing for higher, Charles F. Wheelock for secondary and Thomas E. Flanagan for elementary education. The State Library, James I. Wyer, Jr., director, and the State Museum, John M. Clarke, director, are departments of the University.

* With suburbs, † Estimated, ‡ American Consular report.
 (a) New York City, including all boroughs, on July 1, 1914, according to Census Bulletin, 5,233,537. According to Board of Health Bulletin for the same date, 5,583,371, making the estimated population of Greater New York, including Westchester and New Jersey suburbs, 7,500,000. (b) Population of Registration London in 1911, was 4,522,964, and with metropolitan city and police districts, 7,252,963. (c) Population of some cities shown in this list have been, temporarily at least, materially affected by the war in Europe, e. g., official figures on the census of Paris, September 21, 1914, within the city walls, showed that there were in the capital 362,454 f-mer families than in 1911. Consequently a third of the resident families had left.

Note—The population of Chinese-cities other than those mentioned in this list is omitted, because reports respecting it are untrustworthy. There are many Chinese cities omitted from this list, whose inhabitants are numbered by rumor at from 200,000 to 1,000,000, but there is reason to believe that the estimates of population in many instances covered districts of country bearing the same names as the cities, instead of definite municipalities.

DWELLINGS AND FAMILIES IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE following tables summarize the data collected by the Thirteenth Decennial Census with regard to the number of dwellings and families and the average number of persons per dwelling and per family. Data are presented for each State and for the principal cities. Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and other outlying possessions are not included.

In census usage a "dwelling" is any building in which one or more persons reside. A mere cabin, or a room in a warehouse, occupied by a single person, is a census dwelling, while on the other hand an apartment house containing many families constitutes only one dwelling.

The term "family" as here used means a household or group of persons, whether related by blood or not, who share a common abode, usually also sharing the same table. If one person lives alone, he constitutes a family, while on the other hand those who dwell in a hotel or institution in which many people live are also treated as forming a single family.

Statistics for the United States as a whole, regarding dwellings and families at each census from 1850 to 1910, except that the data regarding dwellings for 1860 and 1870 are omitted because they are not comparable with those for the other censuses.

* Exclusive of population (325,464) specially enumerated, for which statistics as to dwellings and families are not available.

† Dwellings reported in 1860 and 1870 include both occupied and unoccupied dwellings.

‡ Dwellings and families returned for free population only.

Number of dwellings and families in 1910 and the average number of persons per dwelling and per family for each of the last three censuses by geographic divisions and States:

FOREIGNERS IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE Census Bureau issued a bulletin in August, 1914, making the following statement regarding foreigners in the United States in 1910:

There were 13,515,886 persons of foreign birth in the United States in April, 1910. These 13,515,886 foreigners constituted 14.7 per cent. of the total population of the United States in 1910; 13,345,545 of them were whites, the remainder, which was only 170,341, representing chiefly Japanese and Chinese. The foreign born in the United States in 1900 numbered 10,341,276 and constituted 13.6 per cent. of the total population.

FOREIGN-BORN WHITE BY COUNTRIES.

The countries of birth of the 13,345,545 white foreigners in 1910 were as follows:

The figures on the foreign-born population of the United States make no distinction as to the length of residence in this country; they include those who have been here fifty years or more as well as immigrants who arrived during the first three months of 1910, just before the census was taken. The increase in the number of foreign born from year to year does not represent necessarily the number of immigrants who come to the United States. The foreign born are constantly being drawn upon by return migration and by death, and immigration must make up for these losses before there can be any increase in the total number.

The figures given above relate only to conditions as shown by the reports of the last Federal census, taken as of April 15, 1910, and no cognizance is taken of the large body of immigrants who have come to this country since that date.

NATIVE LANGUAGE OF THE FOREIGN WHITE STOCK IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE Census Bureau on December 2, 1913, published the following table showing the mother tongues of the foreign born population and natives of foreign-born parents in the United States, according to the Census of 1910.

The full list of mother tongues as reported at the Thirteenth Census is given for the total foreign white stock (which includes the foreign born and natives of foreign or mixed parentage) and for the foreign-born whites separately, as follows:

CITIES UNDER COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

(From a Report of the Census Bureau of June 12, 1914.)

THERE are sixty-nine cities out of 195 in the United States having an estimated population of over 30,000 inhabitants each, which have already adopted a commission form of government, having discarded the former plan of being governed by a Mayor and council. This report covers the transactions of the calendar year 1912, or the fiscal year closing on dates prior to February 1, 1913.

The sixty-nine cities which have adopted, or by legislative enactment have been placed under, the commission form of government are as follows:

ALABAMA—Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery.

CALIFORNIA—Berkeley, Oakland, Sacramento, San Diego and Pasadena.

COLORADO—Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Denver.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA—Washington.

ILLINOIS—Decatur and Springfield.

IOWA—Cedar Rapids, Des Moines and Slouss City.

KANSAS—Kansas City, Topeka and Wichita.

KENTUCKY—Newport, Covington and Lexington.

LOUISIANA—New Orleans and Shreveport.

MASSACHUSETTS—Haverhill, Lowell, Lynn and Salem.

MINNESOTA—Duluth and St. Paul.

MISSOURI—Joplin.

NEBRASKA—Omaha and Lincoln.

NEW JERSEY—Atlantic City, Passaic, Trenton and Jersey City.

OKLAHOMA—Muskogee and Oklahoma City.

OREGON—Portland.

PENNSYLVANIA—Allentown, Altoona, Chester, Erie, Harrisburg, Johnstown, Lancaster, McKeesport, New Castle, Reading, Wilkes-Barre, Williamsport and York.

TENNESSEE—Chattanooga, Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis.

TEXAS—Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston and Houston.

UTAH—Salt Lake City.

WASHINGTON—Spokane and Tacoma.

WEST VIRGINIA—Huntington.

WISCONSIN—Oshkosh and Superior.

COST OF COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

The cost per capita for the general expenses of all the municipal departments, and also the per capita net debt at the close of the year 1912, of these sixty-nine cities which have adopted the commission form of government, respectively, are shown in the statement following. The term "net debt" as employed in the report is the funded and floating debt less sinking fund assets; and the term "general expenses" of the municipal departments includes all costs of city government, except interest on debt and outlays for permanent improvements.

The first figure following the name of the city in the statement shows the per capita cost of municipal government for 1912 and the second figure the per capita net debt at the close of the year 1912:

ALABAMA—Birmingham $3.64—$38.55, Mobile $8.53—$54.54, Montgomery $9.68—$65.35.

CALIFORNIA—Berkeley $13.32—$19.06, Oakland $14.82—$36.68, Sacramento $18.94—$26.07, San Diego $20.07—$87.40, Pasadena $19.07—$45.14.

COLORADO—Colorado Springs $16.94—$73.48, Pueblo $10.94—$57.27, Denver $20.13—$3.82.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA—Washington $25.43—$24.09.

ILLINOIS—Decatur $8.66—$9.79, Springfield $12.29—$20.82.

IOWA—Cedar Rapids $11.88—$32.62, Des Moines $14.30—$30.09, Slouss City $10.57—$31.38.

KANSAS—Kansas City $9.73—$57.98, Topeka $11.58—$36.72, Wichita $9.61—$40.17.

KENTUCKY—Newport $7.88—$38.66, Covington $9.88—$41.51, Lexington $11.46—$24.78.

LOUISIANA—New Orleans $12.79—$122.31, Shreveport $11.06—$19.08.

MASSACHUSETTS—Haverhill $13.93—$37.66, Lowell $13.10—$24.22, Lynn $13.65—$36.32, Salem $13.09—$27.12.

MINNESOTA—Duluth $13.95—$78.29, St. Paul $13.01—$43.19.

MISSOURI—Joplin $7.96—$10.25.

NEBRASKA—Omaha $16.36—$109.23, Lincoln $10.79—$25.98.

The corresponding average figures for the entire 195 cities included in the report are, respectively, $17.34—$68.74.

WASHINGTON LED OFF.

Washington, D. C., was the first city in the United States to be governed for any number of years by a commission, coming under that form of government by the terms of an act of Congress that became effective June 11, 1878. The application of this form of government to the Capital of the United States grew out of the relation of the National Government to this particular city, and the city of Washington was not considered as an example to other municipalities with reference to its form of government.

The great need of improvement in sanitary conditions of Memphis, Tenn., following a severe visitation of yellow fever in 1878, combined with the fact that at the time the city had incurred an indebtedness equal to its authority for borrowing money, led the Legislature of Tennessee in 1879 to put an end to the existence of the city as a municipal corporation and to create in its stead a taxing district whose affairs were conducted by a small body of officers having practically the authority of the Commissioners in the cities under the new or commission form of government. After the recovery of the city from the difficulties which made this form of government necessary, Memphis was reincorporated as a city with its earlier form of government, and its experience was not deemed such as to encourage the substitution of this form of government for that of Mayor and council.

A destructive storm having overwhelmed Galveston, Tex., on September 1, 1900, and left the city prostrate financially, as Memphis had been in 1878, Galveston was placed under a government by a commission in 1901. The experience of Galveston under this form of government was such that in 1905 it was adopted by Houston, Tex. Two other cities, having 30,000 inhabitants, adopted it in 1907, two in 1908, eight in 1909, six in 1910, fifteen in 1911, nine in 1912, twenty-one in 1913, and three in 1914.

THE CITY MANAGER PLAN.

An act of the Ohio Legislature, approved May 6, 1913, provided for a form of municipal government to be known as the "City Manager plan," the council to consist of five members in cities of less than 10,000 inhabitants, of seven members in cities of from 10,000 to 25,000 inhabitants, and of nine members in cities having over 25,000 inhabitants, the council being elected in all cases for a term of four years. This council is to constitute a governing body with power to pass ordinances, adopt regulations, appoint a chief administrative officer to be known as the "City Manager," fix his salary, approve all appointments made by him (except as otherwise provided), and appoint a Civil Service Commission and all boards or commissions created by ordinances.

So far as information has been received by the Bureau of the Census, the only city of over 30,000 inhabitants organized under the "City Manager plan" is Dayton, Ohio. Some of the smaller cities of that State have adopted this plan, and some of the smaller cities of other States have adopted a plan somewhat similar, one or two having adopted it prior to the enactment of the given statute.

MAYORS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

BEFORE the Revolution the Mayor was appointed by the Governor of the Province; and from 1784 to 1820 by the Appointing Board of the State of New York, of which the Governor was the chief member. From 1820 to the amendment of the Charter, in 1830, the Mayor was appointed by the Common Council. In 1898 the term of the first Mayor of Greater New York (Van Wyck) began.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE PLAN.
PRESIDENT WILSON'S PEACE PROPOSAL.

The parties hereto agree that all questions of whatever character and nature in dispute between them shall, when diplomatic efforts fail, be submitted for investigation and report to an international commission (the composition to be agreed upon); and the contracting parties agree not to declare war or begin hostilities until such investigation is made and report submitted.

The investigation shall be conducted as a matter of course upon the initiative of the commission, without the formality of a request from either party; the report shall be submitted within (time to be agreed upon) from the date of the submission of the dispute, but the parties hereto reserve the right to act independently on the subject matter in dispute after the report is submitted.

SUPPLEMENTARY MEMORANDUM BY THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

In the peace plan proposed by the President to all the nations the composition of the International Commission is left to agreement between the parties, and I am authorized to suggest for the consideration of those who are willing to enter into this agreement:

1. That the International Commission be of five members, to be composed as follows: One member from each of the contracting countries, to be chosen by the Government; one member to be chosen by each of the contracting countries from some other country, and the fifth member of the Commission to be agreed upon by the two Governments, the Commission to be appointed as soon as convenient after the making of the treaty, vacancies to be filled according to the original appointment.

2. The time also is to be agreed upon, and it is suggested that that time be one year. If a year is considered too long or too short this Government will consider either a greater or a less period.

3. This Government is prepared to consider the question of maintaining the status quo as to military and naval preparation during the period of investigation, if the contracting nation desires to include this, and this Government suggests tentatively that the parties agree that there shall be no change in the military and naval programme during the period of investigation unless danger to one of the contracting parties from a third power compels a change in said programme, in which case the party feeling itself menaced by a third power, shall confidentially communicate the matter in writing to the other contracting party and it shall thereupon be released from the obligation not to change its military or naval programme, and this release will at the same time operate as a release of the other contracting party. This protects each party from the other in ordinary cases, and yet provides freedom of action in emergencies.

All of these suggestions, however, are presented for consideration, and not with the intention of imposing any fixed conditions. The principle of investigation being accepted, the details are matters for conference and consideration.

Treaties embracing this peace plan have been signed up to December 15, 1914, by thirty countries, as follows:

Salvador	Bolivia.	Costa Rica.	Norway.	Chile.	China.
Guatemala.	Portugal.	Dominican	Peru.	Paraguay.	Russia.
Panama.	Persia.	Republic.	Uruguay.	Great Britain.	Ecuador.
Honduras.	Denmark.	Venezuela.	Argentina.	France.	Greece.
Nicaragua.	Switzerland.	Italy.	Brazil.	Spain.	Sweden.
Netherlands.

All of these treaties, with the exception of those with the Dominican Republic and Panama, have been approved by the Senate, and the treaties with Guatemala, Great Britain, Costa Rica, Norway and Portugal have become effective by the exchange of ratifications.

REQUIREMENTS REGARDING REGISTRATION OF VOTERS.

(Continuation of "Qualifications for Voting," on preceding pages.)

The registration of voters is required in the States of Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi (four months before election), Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania (in cities), South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In Ohio it is required in cities of 11,800 to 100,000 population in Presidential years; annually in cities of 100,000 or over.

In Illinois registration of voters is required by law. In all incorporated cities, villages and towns, which have adopted the Election Commissioner act of the State, persons not registered are not entitled to vote; but elsewhere generally they can vote if not registered by swearing in their votes, and producing one witness, a householder and registered voter of the voting district, as to their qualifications as electors severally.

In Iowa in cities having 3,500 inhabitants. In Nebraska in cities of over 7,000 inhabitants.

In Kentucky in all cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes, in Kansas in cities of the first and second classes, in North Dakota in cities and villages of 800 inhabitants and over, in Ohio in cities of the first and second classes.

In Missouri it is required in cities of 100,000 inhabitants and over. In Oklahoma it is required in all cities of the first class. In Rhode Island non-taxpayers are required to register yearly before June 30. The registration of voters is not required in Arkansas or Texas.

In Washington registration of voters is required annually in all cities and towns, and in all voting precincts having a voting population of two hundred and fifty or more.

In Maine, in cities and towns of over 2,000 inhabitants.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

In the United States women possess suffrage upon equal terms with men at all elections in Wyoming, established in 1869; in Colorado, in 1893; in Utah, in 1896; in Idaho, in 1896; in Washington, in 1910; in California, in 1911; in Arizona, Kansas, and Oregon, in 1912; and in Nevada and Montana, in 1914. During 1913 the Territorial Legislature of Alaska granted full suffrage to women, and the State Legislature of Illinois extended all the franchise rights within its power to bestow, namely, for all the offices not created by the State Constitution.

During 1914 the woman suffrage question was acted upon as follows:

The efforts to obtain Congressional sanction of the woman suffrage cause received a setback February 3, when the Democratic members in caucus declined to agree to the proposition that a committee on woman suffrage be created by the House. The caucus adopted a resolution that equal suffrage was a question pertaining to the States and not the National Government. The New Jersey Assembly, February 3, passed the resolution for an amendment to the Constitution giving women the ballot. The South African Assembly, February 18, rejected a bill providing for the enfranchisement of women. The Woman Suffrage bill was killed in the Maryland House of Delegates, February 18. The measure provided for the submission of a constitutional amendment to give women the right to vote. The New Jersey State Senate, February 24, passed the House resolution amending the New Jersey Constitution to give votes to women. It must pass the next Legislature before going to the male voters for ratification. The proposed amendment to the Massachusetts State Constitution which would give the women the right to vote was passed by the State Senate March 10. This is the first time such an amendment ever passed either branch of the Legislature. March 10, by a vote of 38 to 3, the New York State Senate passed Senator Foley's bill for the appointment of women watchers at the polls when the proposed constitutional amendment, providing for woman suffrage, is submitted to the voters. The Virginia House of Delegates, March 11, rejected the Woman Suffrage bill. March 13, the Kentucky House rejected a woman suffrage constitutional amendment. The joint resolution providing for submitting to the States a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage was put on its final passage in the United States Senate March 19, and received a majority of one, the vote being 35 to 34. As a two-thirds vote was necessary, the resolution was killed. March 26 the Massachusetts House adopted a woman suffrage provision previously passed by the Senate. A Woman's Suffrage bill was introduced in the Porto Rican Legislature in March. Women helped to decide elections in Alaska in April, which was the first election since the Territorial Legislature passed the Enfranchisement act. May 6 the British House of Lords rejected a measure extending the Parliamentary suffrage to those women who already vote in municipal elections. June 9 the Danish Chamber of Deputies passed a measure giving the suffrage to women, removing the property qualification and changing the method of electing members of the upper house. A Woman Suffrage bill was rejected by Parliament, August 23, in Sweden. The vote on it was favorable in the Second Chamber, but adverse in the First.

At the election held November 3 the equal suffrage amendment was defeated in five out of seven States which voted on the amendment. The States in which it was defeated were Nebraska, Ohio, Missouri, North Dakota, and South Dakota.

Women have school suffrage in Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Alaska. In Iowa women may vote at all school or municipal elections upon any proposition to vote bonds or increase the tax levies.

Abroad, women have full Parliamentary suffrage in Australia, New Zealand, the Isle of Man, Finland, Norway, and Iceland. They have municipal suffrage on the same terms as men throughout the British Isles and in Denmark and Sweden, and a certain measure of municipal franchise rights in nine of the provinces of Canada, and in the cities of Belize in British Honduras, Rangoon in Burmah, and Baroda and Bombay in British India. In certain districts of Austria, Germany, Hungary, and Russia women who own property are allowed to cast their votes on various communal matters either in their own persons or through proxies. In Belgium, Bulgaria, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Rumania, and Switzerland women have no political rights whatever, but are permitted to vote for certain administrative boards—educational, philanthropic, correctional or industrial.

The International Woman Suffrage Alliance is composed of National Woman Suffrage Associations comprising twenty-six nations. Its officers are: President, Carrie Chapman Catt, 2 West Eighty-sixth Street, New York City; Vice-President, Millicent Garrett Fawcett, London; Second Vice-President, Anni Furuholm, Finland; Treasurer, Mrs. Stanton Colt, London; Corresponding Secretaries—First, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Boston, Mass.; Second, Rosika Schwimmer, Hungary. Headquarters, 7 Adam Street, Adelphi, London.

The officers of the National American Woman Suffrage Association are: Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, New York, President; Jane Addams, Hull House, Chicago, Ill., First Vice-President; Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Lexington, Ky., Second Vice-President; Katharine B. WOMAN SUFFRAGE—Continued.

Auditor; Mrs. Medill McCormick, Chicago, Ill., Second Auditor. National Headquarters, 505 Fifth Avenue, New York.

The New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage has its central office in New York City. Its officers are as follows: Miss Alice H. Chittenden, President; Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, Mrs. Ellhu Root, Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, Mrs. Francis M. Scott, Miss Eleanor G. Hewitt, Mrs. George D. Miller, and Mrs. William P. Northrup, Vice-Presidents; Mrs. John A. Church, Treasurer; Mrs. M. E. Loomis, Secretary, Engineering Societies Building, 37 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York City. There are also organizations in Massachusetts, Illinois, Oregon, Iowa, Washington, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Ohio, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Nevada. These are founded with the object of testifying to legislative committees and through the medium of the public press that the opposition to woman suffrage is based upon what is claimed to be "intelligent conviction of the majority of representative women in all lines of social, industrial and domestic progress." Pamphlets with information as to the objects of the association may be had from the Secretary.

New York State Woman Suffrage Association, founded at Saratoga, N. Y., in 1869. President, Mrs. Raymond Brown, 294 West Ninety-second Street, New York City; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Nicolas Shaw Fraser, Geneseo, N. Y.; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. H. W. Cannon, 288 Madison Avenue, New York City; Treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Childs. The number of enrolled members of the association is 200,000; assembly district organizations, 154; campaign district Chairmen, 12. Headquarters, 303 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN VOTERS.

MAN-SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO POLITICAL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN.

Treasurer, Louis T. Romaine; Secretary, Arthur B. Church. Headquarters, 27 William Street. "This society organized in 1913 for the purpose of showing to legislative committees and the people generally that the giving of political suffrage to women generally would draw their interest and attention from home duties which they alone can discharge, would bring selfish and artful women to the front, attract them by political prizes, and tend to produce freak legislation. We call ourselves the Home Rule party."

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE OF CLUBS.

President, Frank S. Clark, Indianapolis, Ind.; Secretary, William C. Liller Indianapolis, Ind.; Treasurer, C. Arthur Haulenbeck, Jr., Manhattan, Kan.

The National Democratic League of Clubs is engaging actively in the work of adding to the Democratic vote in the nation. Its labors are purely a party work, aiming simply at the increase of Democratic strength. The league exists as a vote-getting auxiliary of the regular Democratic organizations, and its success depends upon the hearty co-operation of Democrats throughout the country. It is the aim and endeavor of the National Democratic League of Clubs to aid in work of organization and to help the regular organizations to achieve greater success.

The league is a union or federation of Democratic clubs and associations, in all parts of the country. It is now in its seventh year. At the bi-annual meeting held in Washington, D. C., December 3-4, 1912, thirty-three States of the Union were represented. Its management is intrusted to a board of directors composed of some of the foremost men in the party, who take an active interest in its success.

The National Democratic League of Clubs is not organized for the purpose of either advocating or opposing any Democrat before he shall have been chosen by the constituted bodies or of furthering the interests of any man or set of men, before being indorsed by the party, but for the attainment and preservation of unity, the upbuilding of the party, and the promotion of its principles and welfare. Nor is it intended that any club or the League of Clubs shall usurp the functions of the several State, county or district committees, but rather work in harmony and in co-operation with them.

The National Democratic League of Clubs aims:

To make loyal Democrats of young men who are about to cast their first votes.

To explain clearly to the foreign-born voters the practical helpfulness and patriotic purposes of the Democratic party, and to enlist the new-made citizen in its ranks, thus making them good Democrats and therefore better Americans.

To confirm in the wavering an inclination toward Democracy and to make a habit of party fealty.

To preach early and late, day in and day out, the politics of Jefferson and Jackson.

To enlist voters, regardless of previous party affiliations, in the cause of Democracy, by every honorable means.

State Leagues or Federations of Democratic clubs, co-operating with the National League, have been organized in forty of the States and have a membership in excess of 875,000. Affiliated clubs have been organized in every State.

The league has headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind., and at Washington, D. C.

SOCIALIST PARTY NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

WALTER LANFERSIEK, Executive Secretary, 803 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill. This organization, known nationally as the Socialist Party, is officially known as the Social Democratic Party in Wisconsin, and the Public Ownership Party in Minnesota, to conform to the election laws in those States. The National Executive Committee is composed of five members, elected by the National Committee. The Executive Secretary is elected in like manner. The term of office is one year. The following are the Executive Committee: Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee, Wis.; J. Stitt Wilson, Berkeley, Cal.; Lewis J. Duncan, Butte, Mont.; James H. Maurer, Reading, Pa.; Adolph Germer, Springfield, Ill. The National Committee is composed of representatives from each organized State or Territory, of which there are 49. Representation is as follows: The National Committee consists of the State Secretaries of all organized States and Territories, or such other person as the members of the party in the State elect by referendum vote, with one additional member from each State or Territory for every three thousand members in good standing in such State or Territory. For the purpose of determining the representation to which each State or Territory may be entitled, the National Secretary computes the beginning of each calendar year the average dues-paying membership of such State or Territory for the preceding year. Three years' consecutive membership in the party is necessary to qualify for membership in the National Committee.

SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY.

ARNOLD PETERSEN, National Secretary, 45 Rose Street, New York City. Representative on International Socialist Bureau, Arthur Elmer Reimer. National Executive Committee—California, Sidney Armer; Colorado, Andrew Ohman; Connecticut, J. P. Johnson; Illinois, Jacob Bobinsky; Indiana, Ernst Viewegh; Massachusetts, Arthur E. Reimer; Michigan, Max Eisenberg; Minnesota, Samuel Johnson; Missouri, H. J. Poelling; New Jersey, Wm. Carroll; New York, Patrick E. De Lee; Ohio, John D. Goerke; Pennsylvania, G. G. Anton; Texas, K. E. Choate; Virginia, Godfrey Kinder; Washington, John C. Shafer; Wisconsin, Albert Schabel.

The party is organized in local organizations known as "sections," such sections existing in thirty States. Seven persons, five of whom must be actual wage-workers, may form a section, providing they acknowledge the platform, Constitution and resolutions of the Socialist Labor party and do not belong to any other political party. But if more than seven propose to organize a section then at least three-fourths must be actual wage-workers. In places where no section exists, or where none can be formed, any person complying with the aforesaid provisions may become a member-at-large upon application to the National Executive Committee. Sections are not permitted to charge initiation fees. All questions of importance arising within the party are decided by general vote. At each meeting of the section a Chairman is elected, and the same rule holds good with all standing committees.

STREET ACCIDENTS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

(Report of United States Consul-General, London.)

HIGHWAY accidents have increased so rapidly in the United Kingdom since the very extensive introduction of mechanically propelled vehicles that in the twelve months ended December 31, 1913, the number of those killed on the highways in town and country reached the large total of 2,099, while 42,544 were injured, which was an average of nearly six killed and of more than 122 cases of injury for each day of the year. The statistics for the past five years are given below:

YEARS.	Killed.	Injured.	Total.	YEARS.	Killed.	Injured.	Total.
1909.....	1,151	16,872	18,023	1912.....	1,764	36,833	38,597
1910.....	1,327	29,750	31,077	1913.....	2,099	42,544	44,643
1911.....	1,557	33,653	35,210

CLASSES.	Fatal.	Non-Fatal.	CLASSES.	Fatal.	Non-Fatal.
Motor cars, motor vans, etc.	971	18,497	Horse-drawn trams.....	40
Motor omnibuses.....	226	3,722	Other horse vehicles.....	717	13,511
Electric trams.....	178	6,708
Horse omnibuses.....	7	66	Total.....	2,099	42,544

In the succeeding table the fatal accidents for the four years 1910 to 1913, inclusive, classified in accordance with the character of the vehicle causing it, are given:

CLASSES.	1910	1911	1912	1913	CLASSES.	1910	1911	1912	1913
Motor cars, motor vans, etc.	478	633	751	971	Horse omnibuses.....	15	10	7	7
Motor omnibuses.....	82	117	199	226	Horse-drawn trams.....	1	4
Electric trams.....	112	123	135	178	Other horse vehicles.....	639	670	672	717

In the city of London proper, which embraces the mile square in what may be called the financial section of London, 17 persons were killed and 1,210 injured in 1913, while in the metropolitan police district 579 were killed and 18,365 injured. In the whole of the London area, which includes both the city proper and the metropolitan police district, 190 of the deaths resulting from street accidents were caused by motor omnibuses, 187 by other motor vehicles, 58 by electric trams, and 161 by horse-drawn vehicles other than trams or omnibuses.

Injuries to 7,174 persons were inflicted by motor cars, motor vans, etc., while 3,683 accidents were caused by motor omnibuses, 3,053 by electric trams, 20 by horse omnibuses, 25 by horse-drawn trams, and 5,720 by other horse-drawn vehicles.

The following is a resumé of fatal and non-fatal accidents in the London metropolitan police district and the city proper for the past five years:

YEARS.	Metropolitan Police District.		City of London.		YEARS.	Metropolitan Police District.		City of London.
	Fatal.	Non-Fatal.	Fatal.	Non-Fatal.		Fatal.	Non-Fatal.	Fatal.	Non-Fatal.
1909...	287	11,731	16	1,354	1912...	514	15,291	24	1,360
1910...	348	12,493	19	1,363	1913...	579	18,365	17	1,210
1911...	385	13,849	25	1,405

Liverpool came next to London, with 33 deaths and 1,765 accidents, followed by Birmingham with 44 deaths and 1,546 accidents, by Manchester with 41 deaths and 1,085 accidents, and Glasgow with 40 deaths and 845 accidents.

State Party Platforms of 1914 on National Issues.

The following references to national questions appeared in the platforms of State Conventions in 1914. In all the conventions purely State or local matters were also considered, and in many occupied more space than that devoted to national issues.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

California—We declare our faith in the wisdom and patriotism of Woodrow Wilson and pledge him our support in discharging the grave duties and solving the complex problems imposed upon him by the high office to which he was called by the people. In dealing with the painful problems of the stricken Republic of Mexico he has won and deserves the unstinted approval of his fellow-countrymen.

We indorse all the legislative acts of the present Congress and commend the Administration for cleaving to a line of party progress and for being keenly sensitive to the settled will of the people.

We reaffirm the Democratic policy of opposition to Asiatic labor in the United States of America and favor Federal action which will make the exclusion of such labor permanent.

We believe in the principle of the Primary Election law.

We favor the establishment of an American merchant marine so that our products may be transported over seas under the American flag.

Colorado—We condemn violence, whether by corporations or labor organizations. Beyond the limits of self-defence of life and property no organization should be allowed to take upon itself the Governmental function of the preservation of law and order.

We favor local option in the prohibition of the liquor traffic and the rigid enforcement of all laws and ordinances for its regulation.

Connecticut—The Democratic party of Connecticut, in State Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the time-honored principles of Democracy and heartily indorses the Democratic Administration of national affairs under the able leadership of Woodrow Wilson.

We again declare in favor of that system of party nominations known as the direct primary and nomination by petition, and also the initiative and referendum.

We favor the short ballot, general laws which will do away with the necessity for special legislation, a central purchasing agency for State institutions, the fostering and encouragement of agricultural interest, the extension of the good roads movement as rapidly as a sound administration of the State's finances will permit and the extension of the State's campaign against tuberculosis.

We favor such changes in the Workmen's Compensation law as the experience of two years has shown are needful for its most beneficial operation.

We recognize the widespread interest in woman suffrage and pledge ourselves to support the submission of a constitutional amendment enfranchising women to the votes of the State.

Illinois—In the light of this Nation's need of further constructive legislation and administration along the lines of the record already made, we believe that public interest demands that Woodrow Wilson be re-elected President of the United States, and we now pledge to him the support of the Democratic party of Illinois for re-nomination and re-election in 1916.

The platform calls attention to the successful handling by the Democratic National Administration of the following problems: Mexican situation, income tax, tariff revision, currency law, anti-trust laws and the European war.

Establishment of a merchant marine, the restoration of the United States to its rightful place among the maritime nations and the upbuilding of our foreign trade go hand in hand.

Iowa—The party has given the people in Woodrow Wilson a Chief Executive endowed with a vision of democracy, the genius of equipment, the seal of noble purpose and the morality of the truly great.

We favor such changes in the Workmen's Compensation laws as will protect heads of families engaged in the industries of Iowa against the present unjust discrimination in favor of the unmarried man and the correction of other existing inequalities in the law.

Favoring as we do the principle of the initiative and referendum, we recognize in that principle the best method of submitting to the people the question of woman suffrage, questions of extraordinary State expenditures and similar questions of State-wide character.

We advocate an amendment to the Interstate Commerce act which will restore the common law rule. A shipper or passenger should not be bound by a limitation upon the value of property or baggage lost or destroyed through the negligence of any railroad when the terms of such limitation are brought to the knowledge of and assented to by such shipper or passenger.

Kansas—We, the members of the Democratic party council, assembled this 25th day of August, 1914, extend greetings and congratulate the people of the United States upon the marvellous achievements of the Administration of President Woodrow Wilson.

The question of prohibition has become a national question, and the Democratic party of Kansas hereby declares itself to be in favor of an amendment to the Federal Constitution in harmony with the Kansas Constitution and laws prohibiting the manufacture, importation, transportation or sale of intoxicating liquors.

Maine—We rejoice in the glorious achievements of our great national party in the administration of the affairs of the Nation, and to that pure patriot, wise statesman and honest and fearless Executive, Woodrow Wilson, and those associated with him in their accomplishment, we extend our sincere congratulations and express our fullest satisfaction.

As a further measure of justice, we favor more liberal pensions to the soldier's widow and the early enactment into law of the McGillicuddy bill for the weekly payment of pensions by the coupon system.

We favor the passage of such laws as will enable laborers injured in the employ of others to receive just and reasonable compensation for the injuries so received and insist that the compensation be adjusted and speedily paid to all laborers.

We favor the regulation of rates, service and capitalization of public service corporations in the interest of the public either by direct legislation by the enlargement of the powers of the railroad commission, or by any other proper method.

The Democratic party believes in prohibition wherever prohibition is practicable. Recognizing the fact that State-wide prohibition in Maine has proved impracticable, we demand the submission of the prohibitory amendment to the people, and advocate its repeal in order that the city or town may be substituted for the State as the basis of laws designed to control or abolish the liquor traffic.

Massachusetts—We indorse the administration of Woodrow Wilson in its entirety, and ask every voter to think twice before voting to rebuke a President who has saved this country from all the horrors of war.

We declare anew our faith in the direct primary and the popular election of United States Senators, reforms initiated by the Democratic party.

We reiterate our demand for the adoption of the initiative and referendum.

We believe that the question of equal suffrage should be submitted to the vote of the people in the manner provided by the Constitution.

Michigan—Detroit, September 30, 1914—The United Democracy of Michigan, in convention assembled, do cheerfully proclaim anew their allegiance to the principles of their party, the truth of which has been so generally recognized within the last few years in our State and Nation.

We rejoice in the absolute neutrality of the United States as proclaimed by our President in the present unfortunate strife in Europe and we pledge ourselves as citizens and as Democrats to uphold such neutrality to the utmost. Our hearts go out in profound sympathy to the people of the war-torn nations and to all who suffer or mourn because of the war.

We are opposed to the liquor traffic and we favor the submission to the electors of an amendment to the State and Federal Constitution providing for the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

We favor the Federal prohibition of child labor; the minimum wage for women; prohibition of night work for women; the eight-hour day for women; the eight-hour day for continuous 24-hour industries; one day of rest in seven; publicity of wages, hours and conditions of labor and public inspection of all tallies, weights, measures and check systems on labor products.

A treaty with Colombia is now before the United States Senate for ratification by which it is proposed that the people of the United States of America pay an indemnity of $25,000,000 to the Government of Colombia. We denounce this treaty as an attempt at political blackmail, and pledge our earnest opposition to the giving away of this great sum.

We believe the right of labor to organize and conduct collective bargaining should be encouraged to this end, and to the end that the public may be correctly informed as to the issue involved in industrial disputes. We favor the creation of a court of inquiry.

Missouri—That President Wilson is one of the wisest and greatest of all the Presidents; enumerates the things accomplished during his administration and those nearing completion, and indorses the President and the work done by the Democratic Congress.

Urges Congress to make appropriations for river and harbor improvements.

Favors additional legislation to make the work of the Public Service Commission more effective.

Favors law enforcement; legislation to provide a reasonable minimum wage scale for women; such insurance legislation as will better safeguard the public interests, favors the passage of a workmen's compensation law.

Nebraska—That the Democratic party has reached its highest service under the leadership of President Woodrow Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan.

We recognize the right to submit the Workmen's Compensation law under the referendum and demand release of waters stored in interstate reservoirs for the use of growing crops.

New Hampshire—In the highest and most unqualified terms we indorse the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

With the frightful carnage and impoverishment of stricken Europe, we contrast our happy state of industry and peace, and our friendly relations with all the peoples, including distracted Mexico.

We believe in genuine local option.

New Jersey—Woman suffrage was favored. President Wilson was lauded for saving the country from war. The platform declared for humane treatment of convicts, extension of prison convict camps, convict road building, more adequate State school facilities and preservation of health of school children.

New York—President Wilson is praised for wisdom and patriotism, and support of the Democratic party in this State for his administration is pledged. The Administration is indorsed as in complete accord with party promises and responsive to the will of the country. For the future the platform recommends the least possible interference with industry and business.

The platform denounces the recall of Judges and of judicial decisions as "a dangerous and vicious attack" on American institutions. It pledges unalterable opposition to any amendment of the Federal Constitution designed to curtail in even the slightest degree States' rights and powers.

Gov. Glynn and his administration are indorsed.

Among the achievements of recent Democratic administrations, these are set forth as entitling the Democratic party to continuance in power:

(1) The creation of a land bank. (2) The construction of highways. (3) The enactment of the Workmen's Compensation law. (4) The reorganization of the State Labor Department. (5) The revision of the factory laws. (6) Amendments to the labor law, prohibiting child labor and night work by women. (7) Creation of a Conservation Commission. (8) The economies of Gov. Glynn, which, it is claimed, averted a direct tax. (9) Enactment of the so-called home rule law. (10) Educational reforms, the creation of free scholarships, and opening of school houses as social and recreation centres. (11) Revision of the banking laws for the greater security and protection of depositors. (12) Revision of the insurance laws. (13) The passage of a Direct Primary and a Massachusetts Ballot bill.

Among the promises for statutory reforms and constitutional amendments in the event of Democratic success are the following: (1) Development of the State's forest lands through a proper forestry system. (2) Development of the immense water powers under State ownership and control. (3) Prison reforms. (4) Financial provision for new buildings, and the enlargement and improvement of the charitable institutions of the State. (5) Civil service reforms, including a judicial extension of the merit system. (6) Opposition to sumptuary legislation interfering with personal liberty. (7) The elimination of dangerous grade crossings. (8) Amendments to the primary and election laws. (9) Constitutional amendments looking to a modified form of the short ballot, with the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Comptroller and Attorney-General the only elective State officials. (10) Changes in the Constitution, giving the Governor the absolute power of appointment and removal of officers without the consent of the Senate. (11) Constitutional amendment to provide for biennial sessions of the Legislature. (12) Greater powers of local legislation by mandate of the Constitution. (13) Submission to the voters of a constitutional amendment giving women the ballot, either by act of the next Legislature or of the Constitutional Convention. (14) Constitutional amendments which would permit a plan of development for the State's forest lands to make them productive of revenue.

The Democratic State platform closes with a sweeping challenge to the critics of Democratic rule at Albany to produce proof in support of the broad charges of corruption and maladministration that have been made by the Republicans and Progressives.

Ohio—We most earnestly indorse the administration of President Woodrow Wilson.

We urge upon the National Congress the enactment of a workmen's compensation law similar to that in this State, to the end that those of our laborers employed in interstate commerce may enjoy the same protection that their fellow-employees in Ohio now enjoy.

Pennsylvania—In a single year the present National Administration has written a record of achievement which commands the admiration and support of a vast majority of the people of the country. We commend and approve the whole of that record.

The woman suffrage plank says: "The denial of the right of suffrage of the women of our State has aroused a deep feeling that they are deprived of those equal rights to which, as American citizens, we believe they are entitled. We favor an immediate referendum on this important question."

The Initiative and referendum are indorsed as follows: The people of the State have been left without power to initiate or veto legislation. This should be corrected, not by destroying the whole representative system of government, but by giving to the people for use in an emergency the Initiative and referendum.

Rhode Island—We indorse unreservedly the administration of that patient, fearless and wise leader of the Democracy, Woodrow Wilson.

The Democratic party pledges itself to support suffrage to men and women alike.

Tennessee—The Democrats of Tennessee, in convention assembled, reaffirm their allegiance to the National Democracy. We heartily indorse the able administration of President Woodrow Wilson.

We are opposed to the repeal of any of the temperance laws now in force, and we pledge the Democratic party to their maintenance and to such additional legislation as may be necessary to insure their rigid enforcement.

We commend the Pure Food and Drugs laws now in force and favor such additional legislation as will further protect the health and safety of the people of the State.

Utah—We glory in the achievements of President Wilson and the Congress.

We unqualifiedly indorse President Wilson's Mexican policy.

We pledge our legislative candidates to the enactment of a fair and just workmen's compensation law.

We favor an amendment to the Federal Constitution extending right of franchise to all, regardless of sex.

The question of the prohibition of the liquor traffic should not be made a party issue. It is a moral issue upon which individuals of all parties honestly differ. We declare that such questions should be determined by the referendum provided for in our Constitution, which we pledge ourselves to make effective by proper legislation.

Wisconsin—We, the Democrats of Wisconsin, assembled, pursuant to law for the formation of and declaration of principles, do declare that we are in entire accord with the administration of Woodrow Wilson and his principles.

Wyoming—That we indorse the National Administration under the patriotic leadership of Woodrow Wilson, and deplore the fact that Wyoming's delegation in Congress is antagonistic to the President in his unswerving fidelity to the highest ideals.

That we, as citizens of a woman's suffrage State, urge equal suffrage by State legislation in all States of the Union.

That we favor legislation which will make the initiative and referendum of practical value to the people.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.

California—We believe in aiding American shipping by such enactments, State and Federal, as will revive the merchant marine of the Nation, essential to the national defenses and growth of our foreign trade. We favor the enactment of laws regulating registering of ships, port charges, pilotage and taxation that will attract shipping at home and abroad.

We especially reassert our faith in the tariff policy of the Republican party.

We demand that tariff duties be levied in a manner to equalize the difference in cost of production at home and abroad, and we favor a return to the Republican policies of protection to American industry, American labor and the American producer.

We approve in principle the Workmen's Compensation act.

We believe that a more economical method should be found for adjusting the differences which at times arise between large employers and those who labor as employés, and a scientific and just method for arriving at a clear understanding of the issues involved and for adjusting them in the interest of humanity, economy and efficiency.

Colorado—We do not oppose any union of either capital or labor when organized to accomplish lawful objects by lawful means, but beyond this they must not go.

We pledge our best efforts to the just enforcement of all laws on the subject of liquor now existing or that may hereafter be enacted.

In discussing national affairs, the party demands the adoption of an amendment to the Federal Constitution that will insure votes for women; liberal appropriations by Congress for good roads, especially over lands owned or controlled by the Government, and the preservation of the rights of the States to the waters of the streams that are within their borders. The efforts of the Reclamation Service to prevent the utilization of these waters by the people of Colorado are condemned as unjust and contrary to law.

The party goes on record as favoring an efficient farm loan law; a workmen's compensation act that will insure to the dependents of men who are killed a reasonable payment by the industry in which the loss occurred; favors a strict enforcement of the Civil Service laws. The platform invites the immigration to the State of industrious, honest and healthy residents of Europe, and demands that the vicious and ignorant temporary sojourners be discouraged and that those who refuse to become American citizens be denied employment by individuals and corporations doing business in the State.

Connecticut—We hereby indorse and renew our allegiance to the time-tried Republican policy of protection.

We believe in a protective tariff, subject to revision from time to time by schedule, on the recommendation of a permanent non-partisan board of experts.

Illinois—The Republican party pledges itself, if restored to power, to work for the following reforms, which it believes to be of paramount importance in the legislative and administrative work of the State:

The enactment of a comprehensive corrupt practices act applicable to all public offices.

The extension of civil service principles to all branches of the State service.

A comprehensive reform of our State revenue system, to the end that the burdens of taxation may be justly and equitably distributed.

The granting of unlimited suffrage to women voters.

Indiana—We are in favor of a non-partisan tariff commission.

We have no reason to apologize or express regret for our treatment of Colombia in the concession to build the canal—for that country, through its President, eliminated itself from the canal equation, and the act of the Administration in apologizing to that country for our treatment of the matter, and in offering to permit the Colombian ships of commerce to pass through the canal without paying toll, by a recent proposed treaty with that country, is to be deplored.

We emphatically disapprove the course of the Democratic Administration toward Mexico, but we pledge our undivided support to the Government at Washington in whatever it may undertake for the vindication of the Nation's honor or the Nation's rights in Mexico or elsewhere.

It was the Republican party which first advocated the settlement of international differences by arbitration, and it was a Republican Administration which first proposed international treaties on that subject. We pledge our continued support of this principle.

We favor now the most generous provisions for the soldiers of the Republic, their widows and orphans.

We protest against theoretical advocacy of popular government and of the "new freedom."

We are in favor of submitting the question of extending the suffrage franchise to women to the proposed Constitutional Convention, should such convention be held, and, if not held, then such question should be submitted to the people in the form of a proposed separate amendment to our present Constitution.

Iowa—We emphatically reaffirm our faith in the cardinal policy of protection of the Republican party. We assert that all tariff duties shall be levied so that it will equalize the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, and we favor an immediate return to the Republican policy of protection of American industry, American labor and the American farmer.

We ratify the action of the National Republican Committee in respect to determining the basis of the representation of the next National Republican Convention. In doing this, however, we do not indorse the election laws of Southern States, unjustly disfranchising thousands of American citizens in contravention of the 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and we demand that so long as such discrimination continues the representation in Congress be reduced accordingly, and we recommend to the next National Convention the further modification of the rules governing the holding of national conventions, so that the representation in succeeding national conventions shall be substantially in proportion to the Republican votes cast in each State.

We favor such amendments to the Sherman Anti-Trust law as will make it effective in accomplishing the purpose for which it was enacted, and we indorse the policy of a trade commission for the better control, regulation and enforcement of the laws governing large aggregations of capital, commonly known as trusts, and we favor the enactment of such laws as will completely control the issuance of stock and securities by corporations engaged in interstate commerce by the Federal Government, to the end that all stock or bonds issued should represent capital actually invested in the enterprise.

Kansas—We reaffirm our faith in a protective tariff, with a schedule of duties upon imports high enough to afford protection to the American farmer, laborer and manufacturer.

The experience of Kansas for 34 years exemplifies the moral and economic value of the prohibition of the liquor traffic. Basing our judgment upon our knowledge of the beneficent results of this policy in the State, we declare, unreservedly, for national prohibition.

We favor the extension of the principle of primary elections to the nomination of President and Vice-President.

We are opposed to the life tenure of Federal Judges, except Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

We favor the repeal of that provision in the Massachusetts Ballot law which provides that assistance can only be given to voters who are physically disabled.

Maine—We earnestly reaffirm our belief in a protective tariff high enough to yield a sufficient revenue and to adequately protect American industries and labor.

We believe in a readjustment of the tariff schedules from time to time to meet changing conditions but believe that revisions should be based upon accurate information obtained by investigations carefully conducted by a scientific, permanent, non-partisan tariff board.

We condemn the National Democratic Administration for its hurried surrender to Great Britain in the matter of the Panama Canal.

We condemn that Administration for its vague and vacillating policy in dealing with conditions in Mexico.

We believe prohibition to be the settled policy of this State and that the people want no more resubmission but demand the faithful enforcement of the law by the regular officers elected for that purpose.

We further declare in favor of Federal legislation that shall make the principle of national prohibition practicable and effective and shall ultimately prohibit the sale, the manufacture for sale and importation for sale of intoxicating liquors for use as a beverage in the United States and all Territories subject to its jurisdiction.

We pledge our support to the enactment of a workmen's compensation law in harmony with similar laws now in force.

Believing that the people of the State demand the submission of an amendment to our Constitution granting equal suffrage to women we shall in the next Legislature, as we did in the last, advocate such an amendment.

We favor the enactment of a law for Presidential preference primaries so that every individual voter may express effectually his personal choice of the President and Vice-President.

Maryland—We reaffirm and declare anew our allegiance to the great Republican policy of protection to American industry, in accordance with which the vast field of American business is conserved.

We favor the exemption from the payment of canal tolls of American vessels engaged in coastwise commerce. We favor every legitimate encouragement to our struggling merchant marine.

We condemn the so-called Colombian Treaty proposed by the Democratic Administration.

To starve the railroads is to starve the Nation, and we believe that the deplorable condition of the railroads of the country calls for relief through the proper governmental agencies, fully without stint, freely without delay, for the benefit of the railroads as public carriers and for their hundreds of thousands of employes.

Massachusetts—We believe in a protective tariff equal to the difference in cost of production here and abroad, determined so far as possible by a competent and independent commission, established by a Republican Congress but repealed by a Democratic Congress, sufficient also to attract here every practical production, that this Nation may be industrially independent and self-sustaining. American goods for the American people.

We denounce the present tariff law.

We believe in national laws re-establishing our merchant marine and protecting it by an adequate navy, so that every American citizen may sail the seas and ship his merchandise under the American flag. Independent production cannot exist with dependent transportation.

Such changes in the Federal Constitution and laws should be made as are necessary to secure national charters for interstate corporations, national control of the hours of labor and national regulation of the employment of women and children.

We protest against the wanton disregard of the solemn obligations of their party platform by a Democratic Congress; to a vicious sectionalism it has added an immeasurable extravagance. To the violation of the civil service policy it has added an un-American caste system of segregating the colored people in Government departments.

We commend to the State and Nation the study of a method by which separate items of appropriation bills may be vetoed.

We demand that the commercial, industrial and transportation interests of the Commonwealth and Nation be relieved from the further burdens imposed by new legislation, at least until the return of normal business conditions.

We favor a complete reorganization of the diplomatic and consular services of the United States.

A national diplomatic school founded on the lines of Annapolis and West Point is also urged.

Michigan—We favor laws designed to secure and insure equal and impartial rights to protect and conserve the common good, to properly restrict the employment of children, to encourage and foster education and the home and to uplift and advance the situation and conditions of labor, industry, agriculture and the productive arts.

We advocate the provision of means to facilitate the adjustment of differences between capital and labor, including investigation into the subject of the feasibility of providing a forum wherein such disputes or differences may be investigated, tried, determined and adjudicated without necessary recourse to present courts of law.

We believe in, and approve of, the principles of the Workmen's Compensation law.

We reaffirm our belief in a protective tariff, high enough to yield a sufficient revenue and to adequately protect American industries and labor.

Missouri—We are in favor of a non-partisan tariff commission.

The Panama Canal is a United States enterprise. We bought, paid for and own the canal. It is as much our property as the Mississippi River. It is, however, a great public highway for the use of all foreign nations upon terms of exact equality.

Under the treaties with other countries, under the Monroe Doctrine, and in justice to ourselves, no other nation can be permitted to share in its management or control.

The Republican party has consistently supported and championed the expansion of our merchant marine.

We emphatically disapprove the course of the Democratic Administration toward Mexico.

The Republican party of Missouri deeply deplores a war—perhaps the most destructive in the history of the human race—now in progress in Europe, and again affirms its belief that international differences should be settled by arbitration.

We favor the most generous provisions for the soldiers of the Republic, their widows and orphans.

We favor such national legislation as will develop a modern system of rural credits, such as will prevent excessive interest rates and commissions.

Nebraska—We favor a non-partisan tariff commission which shall be authorized to make tariffs, to the end that all duties shall be adjusted to the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad.

We believe Colombia has no shadow of claim on this Nation for the acquisition by the United States of the Panama Canal Zone, and we condemn this Administration for its proposal to yield to Colombia's unwarranted demand for the payment of $25,000,000, as set forth in the treaty now pending.

New Hampshire—The Republican party of New Hampshire reaffirms its faith in the protective principle and pledges itself to aid in the re-enactment of a tariff law which will equalize labor costs, protect the American standard of living, foster and promote the growth of American industries and insure the employment of American labor at the highest wages paid anywhere in the world.

The present grave crisis in Europe, with the consequent interruption of trade, has emphasized in sensational manner the acute need of an American merchant marine.

New Jersey—We favor the submission to the people of the woman suffrage and home rule amendments to the Constitution; also the more flexible method of amending the Constitution and permitting excess condemnation of land for public improvement.

New York—The broad charge of incompetency and unfitness to govern is brought against the Wilson Administration.

Congress is charged with being "deliberately sectional, and," particularly hostile to the State of New York.

The platform declares the new tariff has thrown great numbers of American workmen out of employment and opened domestic markets to foreign producers without opening any new foreign markets to American industry.

Of the Currency act the platform says: "Its ill-concealed purpose was to injure the State of New York and to drive capital to other States. It opens facilities for inflation of the currency which may lead to disaster."

Sectional intent, the platform declares, dictated the present income tax. The State of New York has been unjustly deprived of a large source of taxation and a large amount of capital, while the law's exemptions have relieved four-fifths of all the property owners in the country of national taxation.

The Wilson Trust bills would give to the Federal Government undefined and inquisitorial power over the business activities of the country so vast that the mere threat has "alarmed or paralyzed industry."

The Democratic State Administration is accused of "gross abuses in administration and legislation" during the last four years.

Workmen's Compensation Act—This law is declared burdensome and expensive to industry and oppressive to wage-earners.

Election Law—The platform denounces it as deliberately inviting repeating and colonizing in cities, and of deterring the honest voters in rural districts from coming to the polls.

Direct Primary Law—This law, the platform declares, was passed to increase the power of Tammany Hall. The platform recommends that the State Convention, with delegates elected by direct vote at the primaries, be restored.

The platform favors "conservation under conditions which will safeguard the rights and interests of the State."

Civil Service—Return to strict observance of the merit system is pledged.

"Reasonable" appropriations by the Legislature for the "gradual" elimination of grade crossings are recommended.

The platform recommends that in revising the State Constitution the Constitutional Convention purge it of all matters of detail that should be left to statutory law.

Short Ballot—"A substantial reduction" in the number of elective officers is recommended.

A reorganization of the administrative branch of the State Government, cutting down the number of departments, is recommended.

Legislation—Provision in the new Constitution to separate the consideration of local and private bills by the Legislature from the consideration of general legislation is recommended, where legislation of State-wide importance often is slighted.

Sinking Fund—The platform recommends greater safeguards in issuing and retiring bonds of the State and its political sub-divisions.

A system of official budgets is advocated as a more effective restraint upon the expenditure of public funds.

Initiative, Referendum and Recall—These devices are denounced as rendering more complicated the machinery of government and as increasing the powers of the practical politician.

"If any judicial determination does not accord with permanent conviction of the people, the orderly and regular course of constitutional amendment should be followed," the platform declares.

Recall of Judges—This doctrine is assailed. The platform recommends the simplification of the legal procedure for the removal of Judges.

A thorough reform of judicial procedure, to eliminate needless delay of process and decrease the cost incident to the administration of justice, is recommended. The platform favors a short and simple Practice act.

The platform recommends that the new Constitution prohibit the granting of permanent franchises for transportation, water powers, or any other purpose.

Home Rule—As to personal and property rights, the city or county must be merely the agent of the State. The State must retain for its central government the power to determine general policies equally applicable to every part of the State.

The constitutional provision that no county shall have more than one-third of all the State Senators and that New York City, regardless of population, shall not elect more than one-half of the total number of Senators, should be left intact.

Woman Suffrage—The submission to the voters in 1915 on a referendum either by legislative or constitutional act as a separate proposition without any party recommendation of the question of giving women the ballot is recommended.

The platform urges that the Republican National Convention in 1916 support a policy to curtail the representation in Congress of States where discrimination is practised against negro voters.

Ohio—We reaffirm our adherence to the principle of protection to American industries for the investment of American capital, and in the employment of American labor at the American standard of wage.

We favor such legislation by the National Congress as will provide an adequate merchant marine for the extension of our trade to all parts of the world in times of peace, and will enable us in time of war to provide ample transportation of products of neutral countries, especially those of the western continents.

The Republican party, recognizing the debt the country owes to the volunteer soldiery, declares its opposition to the recent policy of the National Administration to drop from the Government service the veterans of the civil war.

Pennsylvania—We deplore the great war now raging in Europe, and express our earnest hope for the early restoration of peace.

As part of the protective system, we urge the immediate upbuilding by proper legislation of a merchant marine, which shall consist of vessels built by Americans, owned by Americans, manned by Americans, carrying American cargoes under the protection of the American flag to every foreign port, and we demand the absolute neutrality of our Nation.

We are in favor of the maintenance of an adequate navy for the national defence and for the protection of our merchant marine. We declare our purpose to maintain peace and promote prosperity.

We deplore the policy of the present Administration in connection with affairs in Mexico. We are not in favor of any annexation of Mexican territory or of any political interference with Mexican affairs, but we declare that it is the duty of the Nation to demand adequate protection for American citizens and American property in Mexico. We are opposed to war with Mexico for the purpose of interference or aggrandizement.

We favor the passage of a Workmen's Compensation law.

A plank favoring woman's suffrage; an increase in the appropriation by the State for mothers' pensions; granting of pensions by the Federal Government for soldiers and sailors and their widows, and such amendments to the Public Service law "as will more effectually safeguard the rights of the people" were also contained in the platform.

Rhode Island—We again assert the necessity of a reasonable protective tariff to restore the home market to American laborers and business men.

Utah—Foreign war has demonstrated the imperative need of an American merchant marine. Once more we favor the creation of an American marine in a way that will reflect the dignity of the United States and enable us to deliver our goods and crops to their markets. Never has a better opportunity presented itself for our emancipation from a foreign shipping trust than at the present moment.

We heartily indorse the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention of 1912, and especially those planks of that platform in reference to good roads.

We commend the principle of employers' liability and workmen's compensation, as outlined in the acts introduced by Senator Sutherland in the United States Senate.

We condemn the treaty contracted by the present Democratic Administration with Colombia.

Vermont—We declare our adherence to the Republican policy of protection to American industry, and our belief in a tariff system that will insure the continuous and profitable employment of American labor and American capital.

We favor the enactment of a workmen's compensation law so framed as to afford continued assurance of just and harmonious relations between employer and employe.

We recommend that at the first opportunity afforded constitutional amendment giving women an equal right of suffrage with men be submitted to the voters of this Commonwealth.

Wisconsin—We reaffirm our belief in a protective tariff limited to the difference in the cost of production here and abroad, to the end that business may be encouraged, our workmen protected, agricultural interests safeguarded and prosperity again restored upon a safe and firm basis.

To accomplish these results we favor the establishment of a scientific, non-partisan tariff commission.

We favor the control of railway capitalization by the United States Government to prevent over-capitalization and the misuse of corporate funds and for the reassurance of small investors.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY CONVENTIONS.

California—The Progressive party of California hereby declares its continued allegiance to the principles of the Progressive party as announced in the platform adopted by its National Convention.

We believe in a protective tariff which shall equalize conditions of competition between the United States and foreign countries.

We believe in the establishment of a permanent non-partisan tariff commission, wholly removed from the possibility of political pressure or improper business influence.

Connecticut—We hereby indorse the national platform of the Progressive party adopted at Chicago, August 7, 1912.

The establishment of the Presidential preferential primary.

The extension of the suffrage to women.

The limit of election expenses in proportion to the size of the constituency.

More just State and Federal laws regulating the inspection of all food and dairy products.

Indiana—Among the features included were:

The initiative, the referendum and the recall applied to all elective executive administrative and legislative officers.

Direct primaries for the nomination of all elective officers, including candidates for President and Vice-President, and of all officials of party organizations, to be held by all parties on the same day.

We favor the short ballot and proportional representation.

We favor equal suffrage for women on all questions.

We pledge ourselves to give to the voters of Indiana the earliest possible opportunity to vote on the question: Shall the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage be prohibited throughout the State?

We favor liberal pensions to soldiers.

We condemn the so-called policy of "watchful waiting" pursued by the President with regard to Mexico and call on the National Administration to propose a constructive policy toward our southern neighbor.

We are unalterably opposed to any treaty with the Republic of Colombia which provides for the payment of $25,000,000 from the pockets of American taxpayers.

Events have served to strengthen our demand for a protective tariff based on the difference in the cost of production of agricultural and manufactured products at home and abroad. Events, likewise, have strengthened our demand for the immediate creation of a permanent, non-political, expert tariff commission.

We favor the establishment of a Federal non-political commission which shall have active supervision over industrial corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

Iowa—We favor the establishment of a bureau of employment in the Department of Labor to the end that the number of the unemployed in the United States may be lessened by bringing together workmen seeking employment and employers seeking workmen.

We denounce the proposed treaty with the United States of Colombia as un-American and an unworthy attempt by the present Administration to discredit the former Administration.

We especially indorse the national platform in respect to its provisions relative to equal suffrage.

We especially commend the tariff and trust planks of the national platform of 1912.

We believe that the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage is a social and economic evil, both State and National. We favor the submission of an amendment to both our State and National Constitutions prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

Kansas—We reaffirm the pledges for national legislation made by the national Progressive platform of 1912.

In addition to these we bind Kansas Congressmen and the Senators elected at this election to vote and work in committee and in the House and Senate for the following: For the national prohibition of the liquor traffic. For an amendment giving women a right to vote in all the States. For the prohibition of the use of the mails to gamblers in grain and cotton and securities of every kind. For a farm credit law that will aid home building without encouraging speculation.

For a protective tariff law with revision of one schedule at a time, considering the consumer and the producer, the laborer and the manufacturer, with rates to equalize conditions of competition in the United States and foreign countries and based upon data gained by a non-partisan, scientific tariff commission.

For taking the issuance of money out of the control of Wall Street, thereby preventing great financial institutions borrowing the money of the people at a low rate of interest and lending it to the people at a high rate of interest, as they may do under the present Democratic Currency law.

For a strong trade commission with ample powers to regulate and control our great industrial corporations for the purpose of suppressing the evils of monopoly and other unfair trade practices.

For amendment providing for popular election of all Federal District Judges for limited terms.

For taking post-offices out of politics and promoting to postmasterships postal experts from the postal service.

For giving more liberal pensions to our war veterans and their widows.

For the strict enforcement of the merit system of the Federal Civil Service.

For a Presidential preference primary.

We bind our legislators to vote for a mothers' pension law.

Massachusetts—We pledge our allegiance to these principles and policies:

Uniform national labor laws. A non-partisan tariff commission. Regulation of the trusts. Restoration of competition by effective control rather than by ineffective Government prosecution, and revision of the Patent laws. Conservation and development of our natural resources in the interests of all and not of the favored few. Equal suffrage, initiative and referendum. Adequate power for the Minimum Wage Commission. Old-age pensions and adequate provision for mothers with dependent children.

We favor the submission to the States of the so-called Sheppard-Hobson amendment to the National Constitution providing for Nation-wide prohibition.

We favor national prohibition.

We stand for the substitution of law for war, and to that end we stand for a real international court of justice where disputes between nations may be heard and decided, and a real international Parliament where international questions may be discussed and settled. We stand for military armaments for police duty only.

Michigan—We reaffirm our allegiance to our national and State platforms of 1912.

We favor equal suffrage; the short ballot; an improved and simplified primary law; non-partisan municipal, township, village, county, and judicial elections; State election ballot which shall dispense with political party columns, but provide for grouping the names of party candidates under the respective offices to which election is sought; a national Presidential primary and the recall.

Equity demands an improved corrupt practices act, and to this reform we pledge ourselves.

We pledge ourselves as favoring a protective tariff scientifically arranged upon the basis of the findings of an expert non-partisan tariff commission.

We favor a Federal trade commission with powers over industrial corporations doing an interstate or foreign business similar to the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission in reference to common carriers, including the power to fix reasonable prices for commodities.

We favor an adequate workmen's compensation act, including within its benefits those who suffer from occupational diseases.

Missouri—The platform demands that the right of suffrage be given women, and pledges the party to work for a suffrage amendment to the Constitution.

Favors a workmen's compensation law and a non-partisan tariff commission. Declares emphatically against any alliance or amalgamation with the Republicans.

New Jersey—In adopting their platform for the coming campaign the Progressives of New Jersey reaffirmed the national platform of 1912 and the State platform of 1913, which declares for the initiative, referendum and recall, in addition to several new planks. Woman suffrage is included in the platform as one of the most important features, caucus rule condemned, and a law fixing the quality of gas urged. Local option, a land tax, and abolishment of capital punishment are also advocated.

An investigation of the food supply is favored.

New York—National and State Platforms of 1912—These are "ratified and confirmed," with the declaration that "the time is not opportune to write new platforms in this State."

People Must Rule—On this topic the platform says: "The first need is to get back into the hands of the people of the State the power of their own political and government affairs, which has long been denied them."

Barnes and Murphy—The platform declares: "Once rid the State for all time of Barnes at Albany, and Murphy at Albany will go by the very force of circumstances."

Fusion is practically impossible under the present Direct Primary law, but the platform invites co-operation to rid the State of Murphy and Barnes.

The Hughes Direct Primary bill is indorsed and the present Direct Primary law is denounced as a deliberate bi-partisan perversion.

Ohio—We urge the adoption of a legitimate protective tariff, scientifically provided by a permanent commission armed with full authority; we urge measures that will permit American labor and capital to develop an American merchant marine that will win back the markets of the world; we demand the overthrow of the foolish academic policy that offers millions of blackmail to a Central American State.

We pledge our support to the constitutional amendment granting suffrage to the women of Ohio.

We pledge our party to the adoption of the State-wide prohibition amendment initiated by the temperance people. We favor an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing national prohibition of the liquor traffic.

Pennsylvania—The Progressive party in Pennsylvania is pledged to a protective tariff drawn up by a non-partisan commission.

The proposals to give Colombia $25,000,000 for the Panama strip and to repeal the tolls provision are condemned.

The national Progressive platform of 1912 is reaffirmed and approval is given to the Interstate Trade Commission bill, the Copley Child Labor bill, and the Nolan Convict Labor bill now before Congress. On State issues the platform reads:

We stand for the right of the people to deal directly with the liquor traffic. We therefore reaffirm our position upon this matter and pledge ourselves to the immediate passage of a local option law with the county as unit. We believe that the Hobson amendment to the Federal Constitution should be submitted to the States.

We believe women should be enfranchised. We advocate the passage by the next Legislature of the resolution submitting the suffrage amendment to the voters, and we pledge ourselves to do our utmost to secure its ratification.

We believe that the obligation to pay veterans is primarily a Federal obligation, and that every effort should be used by our representatives in Congress to have this obligation generously fulfilled. We believe, however, that the State should provide for the Emergency Men of 1863.

Utah—We indorse and renew our allegiance to our national party platform adopted at Chicago and we particularly emphasize the necessity for the initiative, referendum and recall, and the direct primary in all elections.

We strongly favor the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which shall confer upon women the right of franchise.

Vermont—We reaffirm our belief in the principles enunciated by the national Progressive platform of 1912.

We advocate the establishment of a non-partisan expert tariff commission.

We favor the passage of the joint resolution now before Congress providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating liquors to the several States for adoption or for rejection.

We demand that at the next session the Legislature enact a law which shall give to women the right to vote so far as not prohibited by the Constitution and such amendment to the Constitution as will eventually allow women full right of suffrage.

PEOPLE'S PARTY NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The National Convention of the People's Party was held at St. Louis, August 13; adopted a platform but made no nomination for President.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION OF 1916.

The next Presidential election will take place on Tuesday, November 7, 1916.

The President and Vice-President of the United States are chosen by officials termed "Electors" in each State, who are, under existing State laws, chosen by the qualified voters thereof by ballot, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November in every fourth year preceding the year in which the Presidential term expires.

The Constitution of the United States prescribes that each State shall "appoint," in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in Congress; but no Senator or Representative or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be an elector. The Constitution requires that the day when electors are chosen shall be the same throughout the United States. At the beginning of our Government most of the electors were chosen by the Legislatures of their respective States, the people having no direct participation in their choice; and one State, South Carolina, continued that practice down to the breaking out of the civil war. But in all the States now the electors are, under the direction of State laws, chosen by the people on a general State ticket.

The manner in which the chosen electors meet and ballot for a President and Vice-President of the United States is provided for in Article XII. of the Constitution, and is as follows:

The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate.

The same article then prescribes the mode in which the Congress shall count the ballots of the electors, and announce the result thereof, which is as follows:

The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

The procedure of the two houses, in case the returns of the election of electors from any State are disputed, is provided in the "Electoral Count" act, passed by the Forty-ninth Congress. The act directs that the Presidential electors shall meet and give their votes on the second Monday in January next following their election. It fixes the time when Congress shall be in session to count the ballots as the second Wednesday in February succeeding the meeting of the electors.

The Constitution also defines who is eligible for President of the United States, as follows:

No person except a natural-born citizen or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years.

The qualifications for Vice-President are the same.

THE DETERMINATION OF THE RESULT OF THE 1912 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION WAS AS FOLLOWS:

Feb. 12, 1913, the two houses being assembled in the Hall of the House of Representatives for the count of the electoral vote, and the count having been duly made and certified to, and the announcement thereof made to the two houses assembled, the statement of the Tellers closed in these words:

"This announcement of the state of the vote by the President of the Senate shall be deemed a SUFFICIENT DECLARATION OF THE PERSONS ELECTED PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, each for the term beginning March 4, 1913, and shall be entered, together with a list of the votes, on the Journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

"The count of the electoral vote having been completed, and the result announced, the joint meeting of the two houses was dissolved, and

SALARY OF THE PRESIDENT.

The salary of the President of the United States was the cause of discussion in the First Congress, in view of the fact that the Constitution declared that the President should receive compensation for his services. Washington had notified his fellow citizens that he desired no salary. The limits suggested in Congress ranged from $15,000 to $70,000. The salary was finally placed at $25,000 and this remained the compensation until President Grant's second term (March 3, 1873), when it was increased to $50,000. Chapter 2918 of the Laws of the Second Session of the Fifty-ninth Congress, approved March 4, 1907, appropriated "for travelling expenses of the President of the United States, to be expended at his discretion and accounted for by his certificate solely, $25,000." In the Second Session of the Sixtieth Congress the matter of increasing the President's salary was again considered, and it was decided that the President's salary be fixed at $75,000 a year.

REFERENCE NOTES TO THE TWO FOLLOWING PAGES.

*The candidates starred were elected. (a) The first Republican Party is claimed by the present Democratic Party as its progenitor. (b) No candidate having a majority of the electoral vote, the House of Representatives elected Adams. (c) Candidate of the Anti-Masonic Party. (d) There being no choice, the Senate elected Johnson. (e) Eleven Southern States, being within the belligerent territory, did not vote. (f) Three Southern States disfranchised. (g) Horace Greeley died after the election, and Democratic electors scattered their votes. (h) There being a dispute over the electoral vote of Florida, Louisiana, Oregon, and South Carolina, they were referred by Congress to an electoral commission composed of eight Republicans and seven Democrats, which, by a strict party vote, awarded 185 electoral votes to Hayes and 184 to Tilden. (i) Free Democrat. (j) Free Silver Prohibition Party. (k) In Massachusetts. There was also a Native American ticket in that State, which received 184 votes. (m) Middle of the Road or Anti-Fusion People's Party. (n) United Christian Party. (o) Union Reform Party.

Presidential Elections.

NOTE.—There is, properly speaking, no popular vote for President and Vice-President; the people vote for electors, and those chosen in each State meet therein and vote for the candidates for President and Vice-President. The record of any popular vote for electors prior to 1828 is so meagre and imperfect that a compilation would be useless. In most of the States, for more than a quarter century following the establishment of the Government, the State Legislatures "appointed" the Presidential electors, and the people therefore voted only indirectly for them, their choice being expressed by their votes for members of the Legislature. In this tabulation only the aggregate electoral votes for candidates for President and Vice-President, in the first ten quadrennial elections appear.

ELECTORAL VOTES.

1789. Previous to 1804, each elector voted for two candidates for President. The one who received the largest number of votes was declared President, and the one who received the next largest number of votes was declared Vice-President. The electoral votes for the first President of the United States were: George Washington, 69; John Adams, of Massachusetts, 34; John Jay, of New York, 9; R. H. Harrison, of Maryland, 6; John Rutledge, of South Carolina, 6; John Hancock, of Massachusetts, 4; George Clinton, of New York, 3; Samuel Huntington, of Connecticut, 2; John Milton, of Georgia, 2; James Armstrong, of Georgia; Benjamin Lincoln, of Massachusetts, and Edward Telfair, of Georgia, 1 vote each. Vacancies (votes not cast), 4. George Washington was chosen President and John Adams Vice-President.

1792. George Washington, Federalist, received 132 votes; John Adams, Federalist, 77; George Clinton, of New York, Republican (a), 50; Thomas Jefferson, of Virginia, Republican, 4; Aaron Burr, of New York, Republican, 1 vote. Vacancies, 3. George Washington was chosen President and John Adams Vice-President.

1796. John Adams, Federalist, 71; Thomas Jefferson, Republican, 68; Thomas Pinckney, of South Carolina, Federalist, 59; Aaron Burr, of New York, Republican, 30; Samuel Adams, of Massachusetts, Republican, 15; Oliver Ellsworth, of Connecticut, Independent, 11; George Clinton, of New York, Republican, 7; John Jay, of New York, Federalist, 5; James Iredell, of North Carolina, Federalist, 3; George Washington, of Virginia; John Henry, of Maryland, and S. Johnson, of North Carolina, all Federalists, 2 votes each; Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, of South Carolina, Federalist, 1 vote. John Adams was chosen President and Thomas Jefferson Vice-President.

1800. Thomas Jefferson, Republican, 73; Aaron Burr, Republican, 73; John Adams, Federalist, 65; Charles C. Pinckney, Federalist, 64; John Jay, Federalist, 10 votes. There being a tie vote for Jefferson and Burr, the choice devolved upon the House of Representatives. Jefferson received the votes of ten States, which, being the largest vote cast for a candidate, elected him President. Burr received the votes of four States, which, being the next largest vote, elected him Vice-President. There were 2 blank votes.

1804. The Constitution of the United States having been amended, the electors at this election voted for a President and a Vice-President, instead of for two candidates for President. The result was as follows: For President, Thomas Jefferson, Republican, 162; Charles C. Pinckney, Federalist, 14. For Vice-President, George Clinton, Republican, 162; Rufus King, of New York, Federalist, 14. Jefferson was chosen President and Clinton Vice-President.

1808. For President, James Madison, of Virginia, Republican, 122; Charles C. Pinckney, of South Carolina, Federalist, 47; George Clinton, of New York, Republican, 6. For Vice-President, George Clinton, Republican, 113; Rufus King, of New York, Federalist, 47; John Langdon, of New Hampshire, 9; James Madison, 3; James Monroe, 3. Vacancy, 1. Madison was chosen President and Clinton Vice-President.

1812. For President, James Madison, Republican, 128; De Witt Clinton, of New York, Federalist, 89. For Vice-President, Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, 131; Jared Ingersoll, of Pennsylvania, Federalist, 86. Vacancy, 1. Madison was chosen President and Gerry Vice-President.

1816. For President, James Monroe, of Virginia, Republican, 183; Rufus King, of New York, Federalist, 34. For Vice-President, Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York, Republican, 183; John Eager Howard, of Maryland, Federalist, 92; James Itoes, of Pennsylvania, 5; John Marshall, of Virginia, 4; Robert G. Harper, of Maryland, 3. Vacancies, 4. Monroe was chosen President and Tompkins Vice-President.

1820. For President, James Monroe, of Virginia, Republican, 231; John Q. Adams, of Massachusetts, Republican, 1. For Vice-President, Daniel D. Tompkins, Republican, 218; Richard Stockton, of New Jersey, 8; Daniel Rodney, of Delaware, 4; Robert G. Harper, of Maryland, and Richard Rush, of Pennsylvania, 1 vote each. Vacancies, 3. James Monroe was chosen President and Daniel D. Tompkins Vice-President.

1824. For President, Andrew Jackson, of Tennessee, Republican, 99; John Quincy Adams, of Massachusetts, Republican, 84; Henry Clay, of Kentucky, Republican, 37; William H. Crawford, of Georgia, Republican, 41. No candidate having a majority of the electoral vote, John Quincy Adams was elected by the House of Representatives. For Vice-President, John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina, Republican, 183; Nathan Sanford, of New York, Republican, 30; Nathaniel Macon, of North Carolina, Republican, 24; Andrew Jackson, of Tennessee, Republican, 13; Martin Van Buren, of New York, Republican, 9; Henry Clay, of Kentucky, Republican, 2; Calhoun was chosen Vice-President.

NOTES TO THE TABLES OF THE PRESIDENTS, ON THE TWO PRECEDING PAGES.

* Monroe abandoned the profession of law when a young man, and was afterward, and until his election, always holding public office. † Jackson called himself a South Carolinian, and his biographer, Kendall, recorded his birthplace in Lancaster Co., S. C.; but Parton has published documentary evidence to show that Jackson was born in Union Co., N. C., less than a quarter mile from the South Carolina line. ‡ Or of departure from college.

§ Widows. Their maiden names are in parentheses. ¶ She was the divorced wife of Captain Robards. (a) The Democratic party of to-day claims lineal descent from the first Republican party, and President Jefferson as its founder. (b) Political parties were disorganized at the time of the election of John Quincy Adams. He claimed to be a Republican, but his doctrines were decidedly Federalistic. The opposition to his Administration took the name of Democrats, and elected Jackson President.

(c) Randall, the biographer of Jefferson, declares that he was a believer in Christianity, although not a sectarian. (d) While President Johnson was not a church-member, he was a Christian believer. His wife was a Methodist.

Washington's first inauguration was in New York, and his second in Philadelphia. Adams was inaugurated in Philadelphia, and Jefferson and the Presidents following elected by the people, in the city of Washington. Arthur took the Presidential oath of office first in New York City. John Adams and Jefferson died on the same day, the Fourth of July, 1826, and Monroe died on the Fourth of July five years later. John Quincy Adams was a Representative and Andrew Johnson a Senator in Congress after the expiration of their Presidential terms, and both died while holding those offices. Tyler was a Representative in the Confederate Congress from Virginia, and died in office.

Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were assassinated while in office. Lincoln at Ford's Theatre, Washington, D. C., April 14, 1865, from a pistol shot fired by John Wilkes Booth, who was killed near Fredericksburg, Va., April 26, 1865, by Sergeant Boston Corbett. Garfield was shot in the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, Washington, D. C., July 2, 1881, and died at Elberon, Long Branch, N. J., September 19, 1881. The assassin was Charles Jules Guiteau, who was hanged at Washington, D. C., June 30, 1882. McKinley was shot twice September 6, 1901, while in the Temple of Music of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., and died from his wounds at the home of John G. Milburn, Buffalo, September 14, 1901. The assassin was Louis Czolgosz, who was electrocuted at Auburn State Prison, New York, October 29, 1901.

Jackson was shot at in the Capitol at Washington, D. C., January 29, 1835, by a house painter named Richard Lawrence, escaping because the pistol of the assassin missed fire. Ex-President Roosevelt was shot and wounded by John Schrank, an insane man, at Milwaukee, Wis., October 14, 1912.

Cleveland after taking the oath as President, kissed the open bible, his lips touching Psalm CXII., verses 5-10, inclusive. Garfield's first act after taking the oath was to kiss his mother.

The sixth President was the son of the second President, and the twenty-third President was the grandson of the ninth President. William Henry Harrison was the eighth and Benjamin Harrison the tenth in descent from Pocahontas and John Rolfe. Lincoln was the first President wearing a full beard. Grant the first wearing a mustache. Buchanan and Cleveland were bachelors when they entered the White House as Presidents, but Cleveland surrendered during his first term. Washington, Monroe, Pierce and Hayes were born on Friday. J. Q. Adams, Pierce and Garfield were inaugurated on Friday. Tyler, Polk and Pierce died on Friday. Lincoln was assassinated on Friday.

There were remarkable coincidences in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. Both were born in Kentucky; Lincoln in 1809, Davis in 1808. Both removed from their native State in childhood, Lincoln to the Northwest, Davis to the Southwest. Lincoln was a Captain of Volunteers and Davis a Second Lieutenant of Regulars in the Black Hawk War of 1832. They began their political careers the same year, 1844, Lincoln being a Presidential Elector for Clay, and Davis for Polk. They were elected to Congress about the same time, 1845 and 1846. They were called to preside over their respective governments the same year and within a few days; Davis, February 8, 1861, Lincoln, March 4, 1861.

Washington, Monroe, and Jackson were soldiers in the Revolutionary war; Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, and Buchanan in the war of 1812-15; Lincoln in the Black Hawk war; Taylor, Pierce, and Grant in the Mexican war; Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, B. Harrison, and McKinley in the civil war, and Roosevelt was in the war with Spain. Adams and Jefferson were signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Washington and Madison of the Constitution.

Grant was christened Hiram Ulysses and Cleveland, Stephen Grover. W. H. Harrison was the oldest man elected to the Presidency, and Roosevelt the youngest, Grant being the next youngest by six months. Cleveland was the only President married in the White House, and his second daughter the only President's child born therein. Monroe's daughter (Mrs. Gouverneur), Grant's daughter (Mrs. Sartoris), and Roosevelt's daughter (Mrs. Longworth), were the only children of Presidents married therein. Wives of Tyler and Benjamin Harrison died in the White House. W. H. Harrison was father of the largest family, six sons and four daughters. Eight Presidents: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson were Virginians by birth. Six Presidents: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, B. Harrison, McKinley and Taft were Ohioans by birth.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

The Presidential succession is fixed by chapter 4 of the acts of the Forty-ninth Congress, first session. In case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the President and Vice-President, then the Secretary of State shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice-President is removed or a President is elected. If there be no Secretary of State, then the Secretary of the Treasury will act; and the remainder of the order of succession is as follows: The Secretary of War, Attorney-General, Postmaster-General, Secretary of the Navy, and Secretary of the Interior. The acting President must, upon taking office, convene Congress, if not at the time in session, in extraordinary session, giving twenty days' notice. This act applies only to such Cabinet officers as shall have been confirmed by the Senate and are eligible under the Constitution to the Presidency.

TITLE AND TERM OF THE PRESIDENT.

The address of the President is simply "The President of the United States." In the First Congress, there was debate over a title and it was proposed by some members that he be addressed as "His Excellency" and by others as "His Highness," but a committee reported that "it is not proper to annex any style or title other than that expressed in the Constitution." In the Constitutional Convention the first report fixed the term of office at seven years without eligibility to re-election. In debate various periods from "during good behavior" to twenty years were favored. The limit to four years was finally adopted in grand committee and ratified by the convention.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN THE BEGINNING OF THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM.

On November 26, 1913, a sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate reported to the Committee the following joint resolution changing the time of the beginning of the terms of the President and Vice-President of the United States, from March 4 to the second Monday in January. Action has not yet been taken on the resolution:

"The terms of the President and Vice-President of the United States shall commence on the second Monday in January following the election of Presidential and Vice-Presidential electors, and such electors shall assemble at the Capitols of their respective States and cast their votes for President and Vice-President on the first Monday in December following their election.

"The terms of Senators and Representatives shall commence on the first Monday in January following their election.

AMUSEMENT PLACES IN MANHATTAN AND BRONX.

Seating capacity is given from information furnished by the owners or managers of the theatres, but as some houses are able to add extra seats during important engagements the figures in a few cases are likely to vary slightly. On Dec. 13, 1911, the Board of Aldermen adopted a charter amendment permitting standees in theatres. The amendment provides that "any number of persons or rows of persons" may stand in the aisles back of the seats on the orchestra floor provided that a space six feet wide be kept clear when the aisles are sixteen feet wide or under, and that ten feet shall be kept clear when the aisles are more than sixteen feet in width. Only one row of standees is permitted in the galleries.

* Vaudeville and moving pictures. † Moving pictures. (a) Century Lyceum in same building seats 730.

The hour for beginning theatrical performances in New York varies, being dictated by the length of the plays. Curtains rise between 8 and 8.30 P. M.; doors at all theatres open at 7.30 P. M. Saturday matinees are given at all theatres; mid-week matinees are given on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays, the days varying at different theatres and attractions. A few popular-price theatres and all-vaudeville houses give daily matinees. Such afternoon performances begin about 2 P. M.

The standard price for the best seats in New York theatres of the first class is $2, and in some houses $2.50, the scale grading down to fifty cents, according to location. Some theatres provide only orchestra and box accommodations.

The standard price for the best seats at the so-called popular-price theatres is $1, the scale grading down to twenty-five cents, according to location. At these theatres matinee seats are usually sold at reduced rates. A number of large theatres in New York are being used as mixed moving-picture and vaudeville houses. Among such theatres are the Savoy, Lincoln Square, Third Avenue, New Star, Grand Street Theatre, Proctor's 23d and 58th Street Theatres, Circle, Herald Square, American Roof, Bijou, Broadway, Miner's Eighth Ave., The Nemo, the Greeley Square at 6th Ave. and 30th St., and Hammerstein's Roof Garden; Delancey Street, Delancey and Suffolk Sts.; Avenue B, 5th St. and Ave. B; 86th Street Theatre, 86th St., near 3d Ave.; National, Bergen and Westchester Aves.; Boulevard, So. Boulevard, near Westchester Ave.; Eighty-first Street, 81st St. and Broadway; Gotham, 125th St. and 3d Ave.; Miner's Bowery (Royal), Bowery, near Delancey St. The prices of admission vary at these houses when used for moving-picture entertainments, some as low as ten cents.

The standard price for the best seats at the Metropolitan Opera House is $6, the scale grading down to $1, according to location. At this house seats and boxes are sold by annual subscription also. Some of the boxes are leased or owned outright; such boxes are valued as high as $100,000.

In the number, beauty and convenience of its theatres New York now leads all other cities of the world. Architecturally and in art treasures, however, some of the municipal and State endowed theatres of Continental Europe still excel. The New York Hippodrome, seating 5,200 people, is the largest and finest place of amusement of its kind in the world. The depth of the stage from the footlights to the back wall is 110 feet, while there is a width of 200 feet.

The Court of Appeals of the State of New York has decided that a theatre ticket is a personal contract which may be cancelled at the will of the management of the theatre. But the holder of a ticket which entitles him to a seat at a given time and place of amusement, upon being refused admission, must be refunded the full price of such ticket at the box office.

BANKS IN MANHATTAN AND BRONX.

THE Clearing-House is at 77 Cedar Street, Manhattan Borough. Wm. Sherer is Manager, Wm. J. Gilpin, Assistant Manager. Forty-six banks and fifteen trust companies are associated for the purpose of exchanging the checks and bills they hold against each other. Other banks, not members of the association, clear through members. The representatives of the members appear at the Clearing-House at 10 o'clock A. M. every business day, with the checks and bills to be exchanged. The resulting balances are ascertained in about an hour, and before 1.30 o'clock those indebted pay their balances, and after that hour the other banks receive the amounts due them. The Clearing-House has been in operation since 1853.

Following are extracts from the Manager's annual report for year ending September 30, 1914: The Clearing-House transactions for the year have been as follows: Exchanges, $89,760,344,971; balances, $5,128,647,302; total transactions, $94,888,992,273. The average daily transactions: Exchanges, $296,238,762; balances, $16,926,228; total, $313,164,991. Total transactions since organization of Clearing-House (61 years): Exchanges, $2,509,034,041,053; balances, $117,797,140,257; total, $2,626,831,181,311.

Banks are open from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M., and on Saturdays from 10 A. M. to 12 noon. Commercial paper, except sight or demand bills, falling due on Saturday is payable on the following business day.

HACK AND CAB FARES IN MANHATTAN BOROUGH.

THE legal rate of fare, of which an official copy shall be furnished by the Bureau of Licenses, and carried by every licensed hackman, shall be as follows:

Maximum rates of fare shall be as follows:

Motor Vehicles (Except Sight-Seeing Cars)—For not more than two passengers: For the first half-mile, or any fraction thereof, 30 cents; for each succeeding one-quarter mile, or any fraction thereof, 10 cents. For three or more passengers: For the first half-mile, or any fraction thereof, 40 cents; for each succeeding one-sixth mile, or any fraction thereof, 10 cents.

Sight-Seeing Cars—No rates are hereby established for sight-seeing cars, but a schedule of the rates charged for each trip shall, before the trip, be prominently displayed upon the car, and a charge greater, or attempt to charge any passenger a sum greater than that set forth in said schedule shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

Horse-Drawn Vehicles—For cabs: For the first mile, or any fraction thereof, 50 cents; for each succeeding one-half mile, or any fraction thereof, 20 cents. For coaches: For the first mile, or any fraction thereof, 70 cents; for each succeeding one-half mile, or any fraction thereof, 30 cents. Hourly rates (applying only to horse-drawn vehicles when shopping or calling, and not including park or road driving, nor driving more than five miles from starting point): For the first hour, or any part thereof, $1.50; for each additional one-half hour, 50 cents. In case of public hacks on which taximeters are not affixed, when driving on the numbered streets or numbered and lettered avenues in the Borough of Manhattan, twenty blocks north and south, and seven blocks between the numbered and lettered avenues constitute a mile for the purpose of this ordinance. The rate card, as provided for hereafter, shall state the number of blocks constituting a mile in the Borough of Manhattan.

Applying Both to Motor-Driven and Horse-Drawn Vehicles: For waiting time at the rate of $1.50 per hour. For each piece of luggage carried outside, 20 cents. No charge shall, however, be made for hand bags and suit cases. Ferriage and tolls in all cases to be paid by the party using the vehicle.

Any violation of the provisions of this article, or any charge or any attempt to charge any passenger a greater rate of fare than that to which the public hack is entitled under the provisions of this article, shall render the offender liable, upon conviction thereof before any City Magistrate, to a fine of not exceeding $10, or in default of payment thereof to imprisonment in the City Prison for a period not exceeding ten days.

Every driver of a public hack, immediately after the termination of any hiring or employment, must carefully search such hack for any property lost or left therein, and any such property, unless sooner claimed or delivered to the owner, must be taken to the nearest police station and deposited with the officer in charge within twenty-four hours after the finding thereof, and the Captain of the precinct to which such report shall be made shall forward a written notice to the Bureau of Licenses with brief particulars and description of the property.

Every driver of a public hack shall have the right to demand payment of the legal fare in advance, and may refuse employment unless so prepaid, but no driver of a public hack shall otherwise refuse or neglect to convey any orderly person or persons upon request anywhere in the city, unless previously engaged or unable to do so. No driver of a licensed hack shall carry any other person than the passenger first employing a hack without the consent of said passenger.

All disputes as to the lawful rate of fare shall be determined by the police officer in charge of the police station nearest to the place where such dispute is had; failure to comply with such determination shall subject the offending party to a charge of disorderly conduct, punishable by a fine of not exceeding $10, or in default thereof, imprisonment for not more than ten days.

EXHIBITION OF MANUFACTURES IN URUGUAY.

(Statement of United States Vice-Consul at Montevideo.)

A PERMANENT exposition will be established in the Museum of Manufactures of the Uruguayan National School of Commerce, according to an announcement furnished by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (a translated copy of which may be had from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C.) The ministry requests that the contents of this announcement be made known in the United States in order that manufacturers may have an opportunity to contribute to the exposition.

The exposition will be free to exhibitors and will be an important factor in developing direct business by informing local merchants of the origin of the different articles with data that will facilitate their purchase. It is hoped that many American manufacturers will take advantage of this opportunity to display samples. Correspondence should be addressed to the Ministerio de Instrucción Pública, Montevideo, and the samples marked "Para el Museo Merciológico de la Escuela Nacional de Comercio." It is requested that manufacturers who send samples, etc., inform this consulate of that fact for its own information.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA GOVERNMENT.

THE municipal government of the District of Columbia is vested by act of Congress approved June 11, 1873, in three Commissioners, two of whom are appointed by the President from citizens of the District having had three years' residence therein immediately preceding that appointment, and confirmed by the Senate. The other Commissioner is detailed by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, and must have lineal rank senior to Captain, or be a Captain who has served at least fifteen years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army. The Commissioners appoint nearly all the subordinate official service of said government, except the Board of Education, which is appointed by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Commissioners: Oliver P. Newman and Frederick L. Siddons (Democrats), whose terms expire July 19, 1916, and Major Charles W. Kutz (non-partisan), Corps of Engineers, United States Army, detailed during the pleasure of the President of the United States; Secretary, William Tindall, Offices of Commissioners, District Building, Washington, D. C.

The Judiciary—Court of Appeals: Chief Justice, Seth Shepard; Associate Justices, Charles H. Robb, J. A. van Orsdel. Supreme Court: Chief Justice, Harry M. Claibough; Associate Justices, J. Harry Covington, Thomas H. Anderson, Ashley M. Gould, Walter I. McCoy, Wendell P. Stafford.

PUBLIC MARKETS IN NEW YORK CITY.

The present public markets of the city are West Washington, Gansevoort, Washington, Jefferson, and Delancey in Manhattan, and Wallabout in Brooklyn.

Washington Market—Located at Fulton and West Streets. It covers an area of about 175 x 203 feet, and was established in 1812. It is a jobbing and retail market. Meat, fish and game, butter, eggs, cheese, fruits, and vegetables are sold there. The city charges for space in this market by the square foot.

Jefferson Market—Located at the corner of Greenwich Avenue and Sixth Avenue, and occupies about 36,000 square feet. This is a retail market. Space is rented by the city to dealers by the square foot.

West Washington Market—Established in 1889 at Gansevoort and West Streets. It covers an area of about 369 x 400 feet. There are ten buildings—two-story structures built in blocks of twenty stands each, with marketing space on the first floor and offices on the second. It is strictly a wholesale market in which meat, garden produce, and live poultry are sold. The stalls in this market are leased by the square foot.

Gansevoort Market—An open market square bounded by West, Little West Twelfth, Washington and Gansevoort Streets. It has no buildings of any kind. It is by legislation restricted to the use of farmers and gardeners for the sale of products they themselves have grown. Each farmer is charged a fee of 25 cents daily for space occupied by his wagon. It is mostly a wholesale market for dealers to purchase from farmers.

Delancey Street Market—A pushcart market located under the approach to Williamsburg Bridge at Pitt and Willett Streets, where fish, vegetables and fruits, and miscellaneous dry goods are sold. It occupies a space 400 x 100 feet. In the fish market places rent for from $1.00 to $2.00 a week, according to location. In the rest of the market a fee of 25 cents a day is charged for each cart.

Wallabout Market—Located in Brooklyn, and has an area of about thirty-six acres of irregular shape. It extends from Clinton Avenue to East Avenue, to Wallabout Basin. In this market the city owns the land and the ground is leased out to individuals on ten-year leases, with a renewal of ten years at the expiration of that time after appraisal. A great many farmers use this market to sell their produce to dealers, and pay 25 cents a day for each wagon space in the market. Mostly all the purchases are wholesale in this market.

The city of New York also has four open markets, which were opened on September 1, 1914, under the direction and supervision of Borough President Marcus M. Marks of Manhattan, as follows:

Manhattan Bridge Open Market—Located under the Manhattan Bridge at East Broadway and Market Street. Wholesale and retail business may be carried on in this market. All kinds of foodstuffs are on sale at very low prices. No fee is charged for space occupied by dealers. It is estimated that 10,000 purchasers use this market daily.

Queensboro Bridge Open Market—Located under the Queensboro Bridge at Fifty-ninth Street and First Avenue. Wholesale and retail business is carried on at this market. All kinds of foodstuffs are on sale at very low prices. Fresh farm produce may be obtained by the consumer direct from the farmer at considerable saving to the purchaser. No fee is charged for space occupied by dealers. Delivery service may be had at this market at very reasonable rates. It is estimated that 10,000 purchasers use this market daily.

Harlem Bridge Open Market—Located under the Harlem Bridge at 129th Street and Third Avenue. Wholesale and retail business is carried on at this market. All kinds of food supply are on sale at very low prices. Fresh farm produce may be obtained by the consumer direct from the farmer at a considerable saving to the purchaser. No fee is charged for space occupied by dealers. Delivery service may be had at this market at very reasonable rates. It is estimated that 15,000 purchasers use this market daily.

Fort Lee Ferry Open Market—Located in an open space at 130th Street and the North River. Wholesale and retail business is carried on at this market. All kinds of food supply are on sale at very low prices. Fresh farm produce may be had by the consumer direct from the farmer at a considerable saving to the purchaser. Fresh fish may be obtained direct from the fishermen's boats at very low prices. No fee is charged for space occupied by dealers. Delivery service may be had at this market at very reasonable rates. It is estimated that 10,000 purchasers use this market daily.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL SERVICE.

Organized 1898. President—Dr. Josiah Strong. Lecturer—Dr. Jas. H. Ecob. Treasurer—John T. Perkins. Object: The gathering and disseminating of information on all branches of social thought and service. Supplies information and advice as to methods by correspondence, by its publications, by lectures and by its special reference library, open to the public. Publishes The Gospel of the Kingdom, a monthly magazine (75 cents per year) devoted to studies in social reform from the Christian standpoint, used by classes in churches, Sunday schools, church brotherhoods, colleges, Y. M. C. A.'s and Y. W. C. A.'s in all parts of the United States and Canada. The 1915 series will be devoted to the subject of war in its relations to civilization—its causes, its costs, its effects, and its final conquest. The headquarters of the institute is at Bible House, Astor Place, New York.

THE PRODUCTION OF DIAMONDS.

M. de Launay, the well known metallurgist, published in April, 1913, an estimate of the diamond production of the world from the earliest time to the present day. He gave it as 28 2-5 tons, which would fill a space of 10 1-2 cubic yards and have a value of about $1,000,000,000. These figures, however, only concern the stones before cutting, which reduces their weight volume by half but multiplies their value by five. A box three feet high, six wide and eight long would thus hold the total world's output of these gems in their finished condition and would have a market value of $4,700,000,000, according to present prices. Of this quantity, according to M. de Launay, 10,000,000 carats of the value of $85,000,000 have been contributed by India, the source of all diamonds from ancient times up to the eighteenth century, and 12,000,000 carats of the value of $100,000,000 by Brazil between 1723 and 1910. These fields are now, however, practically exhausted. Gems representing 142,000,000 carats of the value of $700,000,000 is the estimate for South Africa, which is now almost the sole source of the world's supply.

BRIDGES IN AND ABOUT THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

The bridge connecting Manhattan and Brooklyn over the East River from Park Row, Manhattan, to Sands and Washington Streets, Brooklyn, was begun January 3, 1870, and opened to traffic May 24, 1883. Total cost of the bridge to date about $23,200,000.

The tolls are: For foot passengers, free; railway fare, 3 cents, or 2 tickets for 5 cents. Roadway tolls for vehicles abolished July 18, 1911. On August 23, 1897, the bridge railway was leased to the elevated railroad companies (now operated by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit), paying therefor 10 cents per car; trolley cars, 5 cents per round trip. About 125,000 surface cars cross the bridge each month.

The following are the statistics of the structure: Width of bridge, 86 feet. Length of river span, 1,595 feet 6 inches. Length of each land span, 930 feet. Length of Brooklyn approach, 998 feet. Length of New York approach, 1,562 feet 6 inches. Total length of carriageway, 6,016 feet. Total length of the bridge, with extensions, 7,580 feet.

Size of Manhattan caisson, 172 x 102 feet. Size of Brooklyn caisson, 168 x 102 feet. Timber and iron in caisson, 5,253 cubic yards. Concrete in well holes, chambers, etc., 5,669 cubic feet. Weight of Manhattan caisson, about 7,000 tons. Weight of concrete filling, about 8,000 tons.

Manhattan tower contains 46,945 cubic yards masonry. Brooklyn tower contains 38,214 cubic yards masonry. Depth of tower foundation below high water, Brooklyn, 45 feet. Depth of tower foundation below high water, Manhattan, 78 feet. Size of towers at high water line, 140 x 59 feet. Size of towers at roof course, 136 x 53 feet. Total height of towers above high water, 272 feet.

Clear height of bridge in centre of river span above high water at 90° F., 135 feet. Height of floor at towers above high water, 119 feet 3 inches.

Grade of roadway, $3\frac{3}{4}$ feet in 100 feet. Height of towers above roadway, 153 feet. Size of anchorage at base, 129 x 119 feet. Size of anchorage at top, 117 x 104 feet. Height of anchorages, 89 feet front, 85 feet rear. Weight of each anchor plate, 23 tons.

Number of cables, 4. Diameter of each cable, $15\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Length of each single wire in cables, 3,578 feet 6 inches. Ultimate strength of each cable, 12,000 tons. Weight of wire, 11 feet per pound. Each cable contains 5,296 parallel (not twisted) galvanized steel, oil-coated wires, closely wrapped to a solid cylinder, $15\frac{1}{4}$ inches in diameter. Permanent weight suspended from cables, 14,680 tons.

MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

Manhattan terminal, Bowery and Canal St.; Brooklyn terminal, Nassau, near Bridge St. Estimated cost, $26,000,000; of which $14,000,000 is for structure, $8,000,000 for land in Manhattan, and $4,000,000 for land in Brooklyn.

Width of bridge, 122 ft. 6 in. Length of river span, 1,470 ft. Length of each land span, 725 ft. Length of Manhattan approach 2,067 ft. Length of Brooklyn approach, 1,868 ft. Total length of roadway, 6,855 ft. Bridge is of double-deck design, first deck to have one 35-foot roadway in centre and two subway tracks on each side and one 11-foot footwalk on each side, top deck to have four trolley tracks. Approximately 40,000 cubic yards excavation for each anchor pier; approximately 115,000 cubic yards masonry and concrete in each anchor pier.

Height of cables at top of tower above mean high water mark, 322 ft. 6 in. Height of roadway at centre of bridge above mean high water mark, 149 ft. Grade of roadway $3\frac{1}{2}$ ft. in 100 ft. Number of cables four, 37 strands in each cable; 256 wires in each strand; 9,472 wires in each cable; 37,888 wires in four cables. Size of wire 0.192 inches in diameter. Size of cable completed $21\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter. Length of each wire 3,223 ft. 6 in. (anchor to anchor). Ultimate strength of each cable, 30,000 tons.

Weight of steel cables and suspenders, 8,000 tons. Weight of each tower, 6,300 tons. Weight of main span, 9,000 tons. Weight of each side span, 5,000 tons. Weight of steel in each anchorage, 1,300 tons. Weight of Manhattan approach, 8,500 tons. Weight of Brooklyn approach, 8,000 tons.

Work of construction of tower foundation in Brooklyn commenced October 1, 1901. Roadway opened for traffic December 31, 1909. East footwalk opened to pedestrians July 18, 1910. West footwalk opened May 11, 1911.

WILLIAMSBURG BRIDGE.

The tower foundations for the bridge in Manhattan are at the foot of Delancey Street, and in Brooklyn at a point between South Fifth and South Sixth Streets. The bridge ends at Clinton Street in Manhattan, and at Havemeyer Street in Brooklyn. Construction commenced November 7, 1896. Size of Manhattan caissons (2), 76 x 60 feet; Brooklyn caissons (2), 79 x 63 feet. Depth of tower foundations in Manhattan, north caisson 55 feet, south caisson 66 feet below mean high water; in Brooklyn, north caisson 107 feet 5 inches, south caisson 91 feet 9 inches below mean high water. Height of masonry in Manhattan and Brooklyn towers, 23 feet above mean high water. Total height of towers above mean high water, 332 feet 9 inches. Size of both anchorages at top, 149 feet x 127 feet 5 inches. Length of main span, 1,600 feet; each side span, 596 feet 6 inches; Manhattan approach, 2,650 feet; Brooklyn approach, 1,865 feet. Total length from Clinton Street, Manhattan, to New Street, Brooklyn, 7,308 feet. Width over all, 118 feet. Two roadways, each 20 feet wide, two footwalks, each 17 feet 8 inches wide. Height of roadways at towers, 125 feet 8 inches above mean high water. Height of bridge for channel width of 400 feet, 135 feet above mean high water. Clear height of bridge above mean high water, 135 feet. Diameter of each cable, $18\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Length of each single wire in cables, 2,985 feet. Total length of wire in four cables, 17,404 miles. Weight of four cables, including suspenders, 4,900 tons. Weight of structural steel and iron in main bridge, 23,800 tons; in approaches, 16,600 tons; total, 45,300 tons. Bridge opened for pedestrians and vehicles December 19, 1903. Surface railway for Brooklyn lines began operation November 3, 1904. Surface railway for Manhattan lines began operation February 9, 1905. Elevated railway began operation September 16, 1902. Cost of construction, including station in Manhattan, \$14,200,000. Cost of land, \$9,100,000.

QUEENSBORO BRIDGE.

Plans approved by the War Department, February 23, 1901. Main bridge is a continuous cantilever. Bridge, with approaches, extends from Second Avenue, between Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Streets, Manhattan, to Crescent Street, Queens. Construction commenced

BRIDGES IN AND ABOUT THE CITY OF NEW YORK—Continued.

June, 1901. Height of highest masonry piers, 124 feet above mean high water. Length of Manhattan approach, 1,052 feet; west channel span, 1,182 feet; island span, 630 feet; east channel span, 984 feet; length of Queens approach, 2,672 feet 6 inches. Total length from Second Avenue to Crescent Street, 7,449 feet. In addition, the Queens plaza has a length of 1,152 feet, extending from Crescent Street to Jackson Avenue. Width over all, 89 feet 6 inches. Width of roadway, 53 feet. Two sidewalks, each 16 feet wide. Height of roadway in central portion of bridge, 143 feet above mean high water. Height of foot-walks in central portion of bridge, 165 feet above mean high water. Height of lower balconies on towers on Blackwell's Island, 202 feet, 6 inches above mean high water. Height of upper balconies on towers on Blackwell's Island, 333 feet above mean high water. Clear height of bridge for channel width of 400 feet for both east and west channels, 135 feet above mean high water. Weight of steel and iron in main bridge, 54,200 tons; in approaches, 20,300 tons. Total, 74,500 tons. Bridge opened for pedestrians and vehicles, March 30, 1909. Surface railway began operation, September 19, 1909. Cost of bridge construction, $13,500,000; cost of land, $4,400,000; total, $17,900,000.

HELP IN CASE OF ACCIDENTS.

Drowning. 1. Loosen clothing, if any. 2. Empty lungs of water by laying body on its stomach, and lifting it by the middle so that the head hangs down. Jerk the body a few times. 3. Pull tongue forward, using handkerchief, or pin with string, if necessary. 4. Imitate motion of respiration by alternately compressing and expanding the lower ribs, about twenty times a minute. Alternately raising and lowering the arms from the sides up above the head will stimulate the action of the lungs. Let it be done gently but persistently. 5. Apply warmth and friction to extremities. 6. By holding tongue forward, closing the nostrils, and pressing the "Adam's apple" back (so as to close entrance to stomach), direct inflation may be tried. Take a deep breath and breathe it forcibly into the mouth of patient, compress the chest to expel the air, and repeat the operation. 7. DON'T GIVE UP! People have been saved after hours of patient, vigorous effort. 8. When breathing begins, get patient into a warm bed, give WARM drinks, or spirits in teaspoonfuls, fresh air, and quiet.

Burns and Scalds. Cover with cooking soda and lay wet cloths over it. Whites of eggs and olive oil. Olive oil or linseed oil, plain, or mixed with chalk or whiting. Sweet or olive oil and lime-water.

Sunstroke. Loosen clothing. Get patient into shade and apply ice-cold water to head. Keep head in elevated position.

Mad Dog or Snake Bite. Tie cord tight above wound. Suck the wound and cauterize with caustic or white-hot iron at once, or cut out adjoining parts with a sharp knife. Give stimulants, as whiskey, brandy, etc.

Fainting. Place flat on back; allow fresh air, and sprinkle with water. Place head lower than rest of body.

Tests of Death. Hold mirror to mouth. If living, moisture will gather. Push pin into flesh. If dead the hole will remain, if alive it will close up. Place fingers in front of a strong light. If alive, they will appear red; if dead, black or dark. If a person is dead decomposition is almost sure to set in after 72 hours have elapsed. If it does not, then there is room for investigation by the physician. Do not permit burial of dead until some certain indication of death is apparent.

Cinders in the Eye. Roll soft paper up like a lamplighter, and wet the tip to remove, or use a medicine dropper to draw it out. Rub the other eye.

Fire in One's Clothing. Don't run—especially not downstairs or out-of-doors. Roll on carpet, or wrap in woollen rug or blanket. Keep the head down, so as not to inhale flame.

Fire from Kerosene. Don't use water, it will spread the flames. Dirt, sand, or flour is the best extinguisher, or smother with woollen rug, table-cloth, or carpet.

Suffocation from Inhaling Illuminating Gas. Get into the fresh air as soon as possible and lie down. Keep warm. Take ammonia—twenty drops to a tumbler of water, at frequent intervals; also, two to four drops tincture of nux vomica every hour or two for five or six hours.

Rules in Case of Fire (consult Index).

ANTIDOTES FOR POISONS.

First. Send for a physician.

Second. INDUCE VOMITING, by tickling throat with feather or finger. Drink hot water or strong mustard and water. Swallow sweet oil or whites of eggs.

Acids are antidotes for alkalis, and vice versa.

Arsenic. All the compounds of this substance are extremely poisonous, operate in the same manner, and require the same treatment.

SYMPTOMS. Burning pain in stomach, with sickness and faintness, violent vomiting and retching, great thirst, hoarseness, difficulty of speech, cramps in legs, feeble, rapid, and small pulse; cold, clammy sweats; countenance expressive of great torture and anxiety; tongue and mouth parched; delirium, coma, and finally death.

ANTIDOTES. Evacuate the contents of the stomach by emetics (mustard is the best), give milk, farinaceous or slippery elm decoction both before and after vomiting has begun. The chemical antidote is the "hydrated sesquioxide of iron," readily prepared by adding ammonia water to the common tincture of iron—both of which are found in every drug store; of the precipitate thrown down on mixing these teaspoonful doses in water may be freely given. An insoluble and therefore inert substance is formed with the arsenical compound.

Opium and its active principles, Morphine, Codeine, Narcotine, etc.

SYMPTOMS. Giddiness, stupor, slow breathing, pupils contracted; the patient lies motionless and insensible. As the poisoning advances the features become ghastly, pulse feeble or imperceptible, and muscles relaxed.

ANTIDOTES. Emetics such as sulphate of zinc or mustard; stimulants such as ammonia, atropine hypodermically. The patient should be continually roused. Stomach pump should be used if solid opium has been taken, but it is of little use when morphine or laudanum has been taken.

PARKS IN MANHATTAN AND BRONX.

CENTRAL PARK.

The great park of New York extends from 59th St. to 110th St., being over 2½ miles long, and from 5th Ave. to 8th Ave., being over half a mile wide. It covers 843 acres, of which 185 are in lakes and reservoirs and 400 in forest, wherein over half a million trees and shrubs have been planted. There are 9 miles of roads, 5¼ of bridle paths, and 31 of walks. The landscape architects of the Park were Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux. Work was begun on the Park in 1857. The following fanciful names have been officially applied to the several entrances to the Park: 5th Ave. and 59th St., Scholar's Gate; 6th Ave. and 59th St., Artist's Gate; 7th Ave. and 59th St., Artisan's Gate; 8th Ave. and 59th St., Merchant's Gate; 8th Ave. and 72d St., Woman's Gate; 8th Ave. and 81st St., Hunter's Gate; 8th Ave. and 85th St., Mariner's Gate; 8th Ave. and 96th St., Gate of All Saints; 8th Ave. and 100th St., Boy's Gate; 8th Ave. and 110th St., Stranger's Gate; 5th Ave. and 67th St., Student's Gate; 5th Ave. and 72d St., Children's Gate; 5th Ave. and 79th St., Miner's Gate; 5th Ave. and 90th St., Engineer's Gate; 5th Ave. and 96th St., Woodman's Gate; 5th Ave. and 102d St., Girl's Gate; 5th Ave. and 110th St., Pioneer's Gate; 6th Ave. and 110th St., Farmer's Gate; 7th Ave. and 110th St., Warrior's Gate.

PARKS IN BOROUGH OF BRONX.—Bronx, north of E. 182d St. and White Plains Road; 719½ acres. Claremont, Belmont St., Clay Ave. and 170th St.; 38 acres. Crotona, Fulton, 3d, and Arthur Aves.; 154½ acres. De Voce, Sedgwick Ave. and 188th St.; 5¾ acres. Echo; 4 acres. Franz Sigel, Walton Ave., and 158th St. and Mott Ave.; 17½ acres. Macomb's Dam, Jerome Ave. and 162d St.; 27 acres. Pelham Bay, on Long Island Sound and East Chester Bay; 1,756 acres. Poe; 2½ acres. St. James, Jerome Ave., Creston Ave. & E. 191st St.; 11¾ acres. St. Mary's, 149th St., St. Ann's and Robbins Aves.; 34¾ acres. University; 2¾ acres. Van Cortlandt, northern boundary of city; 1,13¾ acres. Washington Bridge, Sedgwick Ave., Harlem River; 8½ acres.

On August 26, 1911, the City Record published a report of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, placing a value on the parks in the Bronx at $56,627,000. The Borough of the Bronx contains 26,017 acres, of which nearly 4,200 acres, or about 15.2 per cent is devoted to park purposes, giving one acre of park land to each 130 of the people living in the Borough.

FACTS ABOUT PUBLIC PARKS.

Union Square was purchased by the city in 1833 for $116,051; Madison Square, in 1847, for $65,952; Tompkins Square, in 1854, for $93,358; Washington Square, in 1827, for $77,970, and Manhattan Square, in 1839, for $54,657. The latter is assessed as a part of Central Park. The other four are assessed at over $16,000,000, and are easily worth $20,000,000, while their original cost to the city was only $353,331. Prospect Park, Brooklyn, contains 525 1-6 acres. In woodland, 110 acres; in lakes and watercourses, 77 acres; in meadows, 70 acres; in plantations, 359 1-6 acres; in drives, 9 miles; in bridle roads, 3 1-10 miles; in walks, 12 miles. Ocean Parkway is 5 1-2 miles long and 210 feet wide. Eastern Parkway is 2 1-2 miles long and 210 feet wide. London has 271 public parks, containing 17,876 acres of ground. The largest European city park is in Denmark; it contains 4,200 acres. The great forest of Northern New York covers an area of 3,588,803 acres.

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS.

NEW YORK CATHOLIC SCHOOL BOARD.

Headquarters, 23 East 51st Street, New York. President, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney, V. G. Secretary—Rev. Thomas A. Thornton. Superintendents—Revs. Joseph F. Smith and Michael J. Larkin. This board gives the following report of Catholic Schools: In 1914 there were in the Archdiocese of New York 174 Catholic Elementary Schools with a registration of 83,742 scholars. The valuation of land and buildings for school purposes in Manhattan was $9,769,500; Bronx, $1,362,000; Richmond, $216,000 and the city of Yonkers, $345,000. In 1912 there were 173 Catholic Elementary Schools in Greater New York, at which the enrolled attendance of pupils was 135,000.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF NEW YORK CITY.

PUBLIC education in New York City began with the founding of the Free School Society (after 1826 the Public School Society) in 1805. The society started in a small way, depending upon private subscriptions, but soon received aid from the city. It gradually expanded, and until 1842 had control of the moneys supplied for educational purposes by the city and the common school fund of the State. This condition of affairs was unique. The society, being under the direction of high-minded citizens, enjoyed a large degree of public confidence. So anomalous a system could not last, however, and by an act of the Legislature, passed in 1842, the Board of Education was established. The Public School Society continued to conduct its schools until 1853, when, by mutual consent, they were all taken over by the board. The society at that time had more than a hundred schools; the value of the property it transferred to the city was estimated at $450,000, and during its existence it educated some 600,000 children. The Board of Education was an elective body from 1842 to 1871, the members being chosen first by wards, and from 1863 by school districts; since 1871 they have been appointed by the Mayor. In Brooklyn a Board of Education was created in 1843; the members were chosen by the Common Council until 1862, in which year the appointing power was vested in the Mayor. When consolidation took effect, in 1898, separate school boards were provided for the several boroughs (Manhattan and the Bronx being united), with a central Board of Education (a delegated body) having charge of the finances, the erection and repair of buildings, the acquiring of sites, the purchase and distribution of supplies, etc. This system was dropped on the revision of the Charter in 1901, and since 1902 there has been one Board of Education for the city. It consists of forty-six members—twenty-two for Manhattan, fourteen for Brooklyn, four each for the Bronx and Queens, and two for Richmond. Their term of office is five years.

The Board of Superintendents, consisting of the city superintendent of schools and eight associate superintendents, has large powers in the nomination, promotion, and transfer of teachers, the recommendation of text-books and scholastic supplies, the determination of courses of study, the fixing of qualifications for teachers' licenses, etc. Its important acts require the approval of the Board of Education. There are twenty-six district superintendents, whose duties are to visit schools and observe the work of teachers. The Board of Examiners (consisting of the city superintendent and four examiners) conducts all examinations for would-be teachers, and prepares eligible lists. The school superintendents and examiners, as well as the supervisor of free lectures, the superintendent of school buildings, the superintendent of school supplies, and the director of attendance (whose duties are indicated by their titles), have terms of six years each. The Board of Education appoints all these officials and also a secretary, an auditor, and a director of reference and research, having no fixed term. Principals and teachers are appointed by the Board of Education on the nomination of the Board of Superintendents. The merit system is in full operation, and teachers are appointed in order of standing. Beginners are on probation for three years, their licenses being renewable from year to year; when permanently licensed, their tenure is assured, and they cannot be removed except on charges. New teachers are appointed only after pursuing a training school course.

The budget appropriation of the Department of Education for 1914 was $38,203,406.92, of which $31,485,975.17 constituted the general school fund (for teachers' salaries). For 1915 the appropriation is $39,990,349.90, the general school fund being $32,759,695.92. Under the so-called Equal Pay law (Chapter 902, laws of 1911) teachers (men and women) in elementary schools serve three years at $720; they then advance, with yearly increments of $60, to $1,500. This applies to the great majority. In the upper grades the maximum salaries are $1,820 and $2,260. Assistants to principals (heads of departments) receive $2,400, and principals $3,500. In high schools salaries range from $900 to $3,150; in training schools, from $1,000 to $3,250. Principals of high schools and training schools are paid $5,000, and $5,000 is the salary of district superintendents. Examiners and the director of attendance receive $6,000. Associate superintendents and the director of reference and research receive $6,500. The salary of the city superintendent is $10,000. The number of elementary schools and annexes is 594—168 in Manhattan, 200 in Brooklyn, 79 in the Bronx, 108 in Queens, and 39 in Richmond. The number of high schools is 23. There are also three training schools for teachers, three vocational schools, and three truant schools. In the elementary schools there are 1,368 men and 16,346 women teachers; in the high schools 976 men and 1,001 women. In the evening schools (high and elementary) there are 2,544 teachers. One hundred and fifty-six attendance officers enforce the Compulsory Education law. The latest available figures show the attendance as follows:

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 790, Greater New York Charter, all uniformed members of the Fire Department are entitled to retire at the expiration of twenty years' continuous service on a pension equal to not less than one-half of the salary they may be receiving at the time of their application. The Fire Commissioner also has the power to retire members of the department who, from any cause, are found to be unable to perform active duty in the department. If the disability occurs from injuries while in the discharge of duty, the pension must equal one-half of the salary; if from natural causes, the Fire Commissioner can decide upon the amount of the pension.

PAWNBROKERS' REGULATIONS IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Pawnbrokers in New York City are regulated by statute. The rate of interest fixed by law is 3 per cent. a month or any fraction of a month for the first six months, and 2 per cent. per month for each succeeding month upon any loan not exceeding $100, and 2 per cent. a month for the first six months and 1 per cent. a month for each succeeding month on any loan exceeding $100. Pledges cannot be sold until after they have been kept one year, and then at public auction by a licensed auctioneer, after publication of at least six days in two daily newspapers designated by the Mayor. Pawnbrokers pay a yearly license fee of $500 to the city and are under the control of the Mayor. The license is issued through the Department of Licenses, and their books must be kept open to the Mayor, Criminal Courts, Magistrates, Police and Bureau of Licenses.

PROVIDENT LOAN SOCIETY.

(Executive office, 346 Fourth Ave., cor. 25th St.) Loaning offices: 346 Fourth Ave., 186 Eldridge St., 180 E. 72d St., cor. E. Houston and Essex Sts., 736 Seventh Ave., 124th St. and Lexington Ave., 409 Grand St.; Bronx, Courtlandt Ave. at 148th St.; Brooklyn, 24 Graham Ave., Pitkin and Rockaway Aves., Smith and Livingston Sts.

Office hours: 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.; Saturday to 6 P. M. Ticket good for one year only. Loans may be paid by instalments, in sums not less than $1. Rates of interest: One per cent. per month, or any fraction thereof. Only one-half month interest charged on all loans redeemed within two weeks after date of pledge. Condition of loan agreed to by the holder of the ticket in consideration of interest being charged at less than the rate allowed by law. The Provident Loan Society of New York shall not be liable for loss or damage by fire, breakage, dampness, theft, or moth; nor shall it be liable in any event for more than 25 per cent. in addition to the amount loaned. Robert W. de Forest, President; Frank Tucker, Vice-President; James Speyer, Treasurer; Mortimer L. Schiff, Secretary.

When making payment by instalment, the full amount of interest due on the sum loaned must be included, and the ticket must be returned. The interest due on the loan cannot be paid by instalment. The society has thus far limited the classes of personal property on which it has made loans to clothing and so-called "jewelry," including under that designation all articles of gold or silver, precious stones, opera-glasses, eye-glasses, also men's clothing in good condition, and ladies' and men's furs.

THE MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK.

The Merchants' Association of New York is a commercial organization whose object it is "to foster the trade and welfare of New York," to develop its industries, and to protect its interests. The association was founded in 1898. Headquarters, Woolworth Building, 233 Broadway. It has about 3,600 members, doing business in all the five boroughs of the city. President—William A. Marble. Secretary—S. C. Mead.

The organization includes a Research Bureau, a Traffic Bureau, an Industrial Bureau, a Convention Bureau, a Publicity Bureau, and a Membership Bureau. It is a membership corporation, governed by a Board of Directors elected by the membership and has twenty-seven standing committees, who make recommendations to the directors. Among the subjects to which it is giving attention are the proposal to establish a "Free Port" in New York, and the improvement of the postal service. It initiated the proceedings which led to the reform of the methods of the express companies and the reduction of rates. The annual dues are $50.

NEW YORK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

ORGANIZED April 5, 1768. Incorporated by George III, March 13, 1770. Reincorporated by the State of New York April 13, 1784. Its object is indicated in the following words of the original charter: "Sensible that numberless inestimable benefits have accrued to mankind from commerce; that they are, in proportion to their greater or lesser application to it, more or less opulent and potent in all countries; and that the enlargement of trade will vastly increase the value of real estates as well as the general opulence of our said colony;" and "to carry into execution, encourage, and promote, by just and lawful ways and means, such measures as will tend to promote and extend just and lawful commerce."

During the decade 1760-1770, according to Lord Sheffield's Observations, the average yearly value of American Colonial imports from Great Britain was £1,763,409, and of exports to the same country £1,044,591. Up to the evacuation of the city by the British and its occupation by the Americans, on the 25th of November, 1783, the New York Chamber of Commerce had had seven Presidents, thirteen Vice-Presidents, eight Treasurers, one Secretary, and 135 members. In May, 1763, the Sandy Hook Lighthouse was lighted up for the first time. In 1786 the Chamber of Commerce first suggested the construction of the Erie Canal, and in 1784 petitioned the New York Legislature (which so ordered) that duties should be levied under a specific instead of an ad valorem tariff.

As a society the Chamber of Commerce is limited to fifteen hundred resident and two hundred and fifty non-resident members. Initiation fee, $50. Annual dues, $50 per annum. Non-resident members, $25 per annum.

The building of the Chamber is at 65 Liberty Street, New York. Officers: President—Seth Low; Secretary—, Assistant Secretary—Chas. T. Gwynne; Treasurer—William H. Porter.

SUBWAY SYSTEMS IN NEW YORK CITY.

For Tunnels in and about New York City, see Index.

EXISTING SUBWAYS.

The subway operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company comprises:

A four-track trunk line from City Hall Park through Lafayette Street, Fourth Avenue, Forty-second Street and Broadway to Ninety-sixth Street.

A two-track southern extension from City Hall, down Broadway to the Battery, there connected by the Rapid Transit Tunnel under the East River to the Brooklyn subway, which extends along Joralemon and Fulton Streets to Atlantic Avenue.

Two northern branches from Ninety-sixth Street, viz. (a) the Broadway and (b) the Lenox Avenue.

(a) The Broadway or West Side branch extends along Broadway, St. Nicholas and Amsterdam Avenues, and Broadway to 242d Street (Van Cortlandt Park). It has three tracks from Ninety-sixth Street to 137th Street and two beyond. Part of it is an elevated structure.

(b) The Lenox Avenue branch has two tracks (portions of which are carried on an elevated structure) with a terminal at Bronx Park. The Lenox Avenue branch leaves the trunk line at about 103d Street, runs eastwardly to and under the northwest corner of Central Park, thence north through Lenox Avenue to about 141st Street, where it branches off to the eastward and runs through various streets to Westchester Avenue, through Westchester Avenue to Southern Boulevard, and through Southern Boulevard to the terminus of the line at Bronx Park, or 180th Street.

Total length of all the above routes, 26.3 miles, having 85.2 miles of track. Standard four-track cross section (two for express trains and two for local) 54 feet 8½ inches wide over all and 16 feet 7 inches high, with roof supported by steel columns. 97,500 tons of structural steel and 725,000 cubic yards of concrete used. The contract for the subway in New York north of City Hall was awarded January 15, 1900, to John B. McDonald and completed by him October 27, 1904, as far as 145th Street. The Bronx extensions were not completed until some time later. The contract for subways south of City Hall and in Brooklyn were awarded after the one in New York to the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, and were completed in 1908. Total cost about $75,000,000, of which $50,000,000 was expended on the construction of the subway, and $25,000,000 on the equipment, viz., power house, rolling stock, signals, etc.

The Hudson and Manhattan Railroad operates a system of subways popularly known as the McAdoo Tunnels. These tunnels connect the business section of New York with the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad, the Erie Railroad, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad terminals on the New Jersey side, and in addition operate to a station at Summit Avenue, Jersey City, and thence over the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Manhattan Transfer and to Park Place, Newark. There are two sets of tunnels under the Hudson River. On the New York side the downtown tunnel terminates in the Hudson Terminal Building at Church and Fulton Streets. The uptown tunnel terminates at Sixth Avenue and Thirty-third Street. It is planned to extend this line to the Grand Central Station at Forty-second Street. The total length of the system is 7.91 miles, of which 3.16 miles are in New York and 4.75 miles in New Jersey.

SUBWAYS UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

The Public Service Commission for the First District, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city of New York, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company) concluded their negotiations for the construction and operation of new rapid transit lines in New York City. These lines comprise what is known as the Dual System, so called because two companies already engaged in city transportation, viz., the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, obtained leases for the operation of the new system. The contracts were signed March 19, 1913.

The new contracts call for the construction of 44.55 miles of new subway, 53.19 miles of new elevated road, and 19.8 miles of third track and other additional tracks on the existing elevated railroads. A portion of the work is under contract, and some of it is already completed. The completed portions embrace the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn, comprising four miles of four-track road running from the Manhattan Bridge to Fourth Avenue and Forty-third Street, Brooklyn; the Centre Street Loop, a four-track subway a mile and a half long, running from Park Row and Chambers Street to Manhattan and Williamsburg Bridges; and the Belmont Tunnel (Steinway Tunnel) under the East River from Forty-second Street, Manhattan, to Long Island City.

Other work under contract consists principally of the construction of the Lexington Avenue subway, contracts having been let from Forty-second Street north through Lexington Avenue, under the Harlem River and out Jerome Avenue as far as Woodlawn Road, the terminus of that branch; also in 138th Street and Southern Boulevard from Alexander Avenue to Whitlock Avenue. The contract for the elevated section of this latter branch from Whitlock Avenue out Westchester Avenue to Pelham Bay Park has not yet been awarded. Work is also in progress on the first section of the Southern Boulevard extension of the Lexington Avenue subway in 138th Street and Southern Boulevard between Alexander Avenue and 147th Street. These two subways are a part of the lines to be operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

On the lines to be operated by the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) work was started in the lower part of Manhattan on that portion of the Broadway subway between Morris Street and Trinity Place on the south and Bleecker Street and Broadway on the north. Contracts have been let for 10 miles of elevated railroads in the Borough of Queens. These lines will be operated jointly by the Interborough and Brooklyn companies. All extensions of the subway system, whether underground or elevated, will be owned by the city of New York, although both companies contribute toward the cost of their construction.

The Dual System plans call for the extension of the existing subway from Forty-second Street up Lexington Avenue, with branches in the Bronx, and an extension down Seventh Avenue to the lower part of Manhattan, with a tunnel to Brooklyn and an extension out Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, for operation by the Interborough Company; and the tying in of existing elevated railroads in Brooklyn, owned by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, with the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn and the Centre Street Loop in Manhattan, both owned by the city, the extension of the Fourth Avenue subway down Fourth Avenue from Forty-third Street to Eighty-ninth Street, and the third tracking and extension of the principal Brooklyn elevated railroads.

the Dual System. The proposed tunnel from Brooklyn to Staten Island, while provided for in the Dual System, is left for future construction. The Centre Street Loop subway has been in operation for more than a year. The two westerly tracks in that subway were placed in operation by the New York Consolidated Railway Company August 4, 1913. The other two tracks are being re-constructed and will soon be placed in operation. The next subway to be placed in operation will be the Fourth Avenue in Brooklyn, from the Manhattan Bridge to Thirty-sixth Street and Fourth Avenue.

The Dual System will be completed, it is expected, by January 1, 1917. When in full operation, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit trains will be able to enter Manhattan by means of four bridges across and two tunnels under the East River, and can be operated northward through Broadway and Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street, and eastward through Fifty-ninth Street and over the Queensboro Bridge to Astoria and Corona in Queens. On the Brooklyn side the system will include the lines to Coney Island and other remote parts of the borough. Over the whole Brooklyn part of the system the fare will be five cents and transfers will be freely given, so that it will be possible for a passenger to take a train at Corona, near Flushing, ride through to Manhattan at Fifty-ninth Street, south to Canal Street, and then across the Manhattan Bridge and through the Fourth Avenue subway and its connections to Coney Island for a single fare. As soon as the South Brooklyn elevated railroads are rebuilt and it is possible for the Brooklyn company to operate continuous trains from Manhattan to Coney Island, the five-cent fare to Coney Island will be an assured fact.

On that part of the system to be operated by the Interborough Company, the length of the five-cent fare will be greatly extended. A passenger will be able to ride from Pelham Bay Park, through the Bronx into Manhattan, down the whole length of Manhattan, under the East River to Brooklyn and out Eastern Parkway and Livonia Avenue to New Lots Road for a single five-cent fare. Transfers will be given upon all parts of the Interborough system, except that there will be no further transfers than are at present allowed between the elevated railroads and the subway.

In the Dual System the rapid transit lines now operated by both the Interborough and Brooklyn companies will be linked with the new lines built and to be built by the city and by the companies, so that old and new in each company's territory may be operated as one system. Toward the new system allotted to the Interborough Company, the city contributes the existing subway, and the company the existing elevated lines in Manhattan and the Bronx. Toward the new system for the Brooklyn lines the city contributes the Broadway, the Fourth Avenue, Fourteenth Street and Centre Street Loop subways, with 110 miles of track, and the company contributes the existing elevated railroads in Brooklyn, with 105 miles of single track. The elevated railroads in each case are owned by private companies, but the existing subway is owned by the city of New York, although under lease to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

The city is to furnish most of the money for the building of the new lines under the operating contracts, but each company is to contribute toward the cost of construction and is to bear the entire cost of the equipment. The equipment is to become the property of the city of New York when placed in operation, and the cost of it is to be amortized out of earnings. The cost of construction and equipment of the entire system will be about $330,000,000, of which the city of New York will pay about $164,000,000, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company $105,000,000, and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation $61,000,000. Of the amounts to be paid by the companies, $58,000,000 of the Interborough's total and $13,500,000 of the New York Municipal Railway's total will be expended upon the construction of lines to be owned by the city of New York. The balance of the money will be spent for equipment, which, at the end of the lease, will also become the property of the city.

NEW YORK WATER SUPPLY.

NEW YORK CITY has grown so rapidly in the past ten years that the water system, which when first planned was considered ample for many years, has been taxed to its limit, and there is at present an urgent need for the new system, which is being built, for bringing the water from the Catskill Mountains. The city consumes every day about 550,000,000 gallons of water, and, assuming a population of 5,500,000, then every man, woman and child uses nearly 100 gallons a day. The new Catskill Aqueduct will have a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons a day, and the largest reservoir in the system (the Ashokan), once filled, could supply the city for eight months at the present rate of consumption, without any water flowing into it.

THE PRESENT SYSTEM.

The water supply of the city of New York is divided by boroughs, those of Manhattan and Bronx being taken together, as they are practically supplied from the same sources. In the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx the supply is by means of gravity, the water being pumped to the higher parts of the boroughs. In the lower part of Manhattan and certain business districts of Brooklyn an independent system, known as the high pressure fire service, is used exclusively for fire protection purposes. The high pressure fire service system is connected up with the regular distribution mains; in case of emergency provision has been made so that salt water can be used.

DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM.

The Boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx are supplied from both the Croton and the Bronx and Byram watersheds. The Croton covers an area of 360 square miles, and from various reservoirs water is brought through more than 30 miles of masonry conduit to distributing reservoirs in the boroughs. The Bronx and Byram watershed covers about 22 square miles.

In Manhattan, Croton water is used entirely, but in the Bronx about one-half the population is supplied with Croton water, the other half being supplied from the Bronx and Byram Rivers. Approximately 350,000,000 gallons are used every day in Manhattan and the Bronx.

In Brooklyn about 80 per cent. of the water comes from wells, and the remainder from small streams, the watersheds having an area of nearly 170 square miles. All the water is pumped and about 150,000,000 gallons are consumed daily from municipal and private sources. Flatbush and Borough Park are supplied by private companies from wells.

The city supplies only the first and third wards in the Borough of Queens, while the other wards are supplied by private companies. The water is taken from wells and the consumption averages 34,000,000 gallons daily.

In Richmond, the city owns the wells which furnish about 11,500,000 gallons daily.

HIGH PRESSURE FIRE SERVICE SYSTEM.

The high pressure fire service system in Manhattan is bounded by Twenty-third Street, Irving Place, Fourteenth Street, Third Avenue, Bowery, Houston Street, East River, Battery and North River, and covers an area of 4.8 square miles.

There are two pumping stations, one located at Gansevoort and West Streets, and the other at Oliver and South Streets. Each station has six electrically driven centrifugal pumps that are connected to the Croton Supply (see above), the Gansevoort and West Street station being also connected to the North River, and the Oliver and South Street station to the East River. Thus, either fresh or salt water may be used, the latter, however, only being used in emergencies. Each pump can deliver 3,000 gallons a minute against a head of 300 pounds at the station. The combined capacity of the two stations is equal to about 50 fire engines delivering two good sized streams. The pumping stations respond to every alarm with a pressure of 125 pounds per square inch.

The distributing system consists of 108 miles of mains, 8 to 24 inches in diameter, and about 2,372 four-nozzle hydrants and the necessary valves.

The pressure at any point can be increased or decreased by telephoning to the pumping stations. For this purpose there are approximately 315 telephone boxes, besides telephones communicating with the Fire Headquarters and with the main and subsidiary stations of the New York Edison Company.

The present system cost about $6,100,000 for stations, land, mains and appurtenances. The system has been extended to the Battery, and contracts for future extensions are in force.

In Brooklyn there are two high pressure fire service systems, one protecting the business and manufacturing districts, and the other the amusement section of Coney Island.

The one for the business and manufacturing districts is bounded by the upper New York Bay, Hudson Avenue, Tillary Street, St. Edward's Street, St. Felix Street, Fort Greene Place, Fifth Avenue, Twenty-fourth Street, Thirty-ninth Street to the water front, and covers an area of 4.8 square miles.

The supply is furnished by two stations, the main one being located at the foot of Joralemon Street, and the reserve one at Willoughby and St. Edward's Streets. Both draw their supply from the Ridgewood mains, the main station being also connected to the East River.

The pumps are electrically operated in both stations, and have a combined rated capacity of 24,000 gallons per minute against a pressure of 300 pounds per square inch.

The distributing system consists of about 34 miles of mains, 8 to 20 inches in diameter, with the usual hydrants.

The Coney Island high pressure system protects an area of 470 acres. The pumping station is located at West Twelfth Street and Coney Island Creek. Gas engines driving pumps are installed, the total capacity being 4,500 gallons per minute pumping against a pressure of 150 pounds per square inch. The water is distributed through 6 miles of mains, 8 to 10 inches in diameter, having hydrants where necessary.

THE CATSKILL MOUNTAIN SYSTEM.

The new water supply system, which is nearing completion, consists of the building of the following reservoirs, viz.: Ashokan for impounding the water, Kensico for storage, Hill View for equalizing and distributing, and the Silver Lake for distributing and serving as a terminal reservoir, and besides these reservoirs the Catskill Aqueduct for conveying the water. In New York City the system will be inter-connected with existing works, and no changes need be made in the present pipe lines. However, the city pumping plants in Manhattan, having a capacity of 75,000,000 gallons daily, in Brooklyn 25,000,000, and the various private plants of 30,000,000, may at any time be dispensed with, as the water brought by the new system will have sufficient pressure to reach the twentieth floor of a building situated at tide level.

ASHOKAN RESERVOIR.

The main supply will be impounded or collected in the Ashokan Reservoir, which is 13 miles west of Kingston, N. Y., from its tributary watersheds, the Esopus, now being developed, 255 square miles in extent, with the Schoharie, 228 square miles, and the Catskill Creek, 163 square miles, available for development in the future. The reservoir, formed by the building of the Olive Bridge Dam and a number of dikes, is approximately 12 miles long by one mile wide, with a maximum depth of 190 feet. When full, the surface of the water is 590 feet above sea level. The impounding of water was begun in September, 1913.

CATSKILL AQUEDUCT.

Leading from the Ashokan Reservoir is the Catskill Aqueduct, into which, through future development, may also empty the Lackawack Reservoir (supplied by the Rondout watershed, having an area of 131 square miles), the aqueduct bringing the water to Storm King, four miles above West Point, then under the Hudson River in a tunnel to Breakneck Mountain, from Breakneck Mountain to Kensico Reservoir, and from the latter to Hill View Reservoir in Yonkers, just north of the city line.

The type of construction depends entirely on the nature of the country the aqueduct crosses. Wherever possible it is built in the open, that is in cut and cover, but in many cases tunnels and siphons are required. The cut and cover portion is of concrete, having a horseshoe shaped cross section, 17 feet high and 17 feet 6 inches wide, with the flat part resting on the ground. The dimensions of the tunnels range from approximately those just given to a circular section 14 feet 6 inches in diameter. The entire waterway is concrete lined.

The most difficult tunnel to bore was the one under the Hudson River between Storm King and Breakneck Mountains. Here it was necessary to cut through solid rock at a distance 1,100 feet below the surface of the river. From Breakneck Mountain to Kensico Reservoir (east of Tarrytown, N. Y.) cut and cover construction, with an occasional tunnel or siphon, is followed; similarly the Kensico Reservoir is connected to the Hill View Reservoir, and from the latter is the tunnel for supplying New York. The Catskill Aqueduct from the Ashokan reservoir to the city line at Yonkers is about 92 miles long, 55 miles being cut and cover, 31 miles tunnels and 6 miles of steel pipes.

CITY TUNNEL OF CATSKILL AQUEDUCT.

The tunnel from Hill View Reservoir will pass under the Borough of Bronx, the Harlem River, the Borough of Manhattan, the East River and terminate in Brooklyn, a distance of 18 miles. At the Brooklyn terminal pipes will extend to Queens and to Richmond, the pipes to the latter being of cast iron, crossing the Narrows and discharging into an equalizing reservoir at Silver Lake, 225 feet above sea level.

The tunnel will be circular in section, reducing from 15 feet to 11 feet in diameter, lined with concrete, and varying from 200 to 750 feet deep in solid rock. It will thus pass far below all subways and building foundations. About every 4,000 feet connections will be made to the present distributing system, through controlling valves set to furnish the water at any lower pressure than that in the tunnel, which existing conditions may require.

The tunnel will deliver 500,000,000 gallons daily, the water rising at the Brooklyn end to nearly 240 feet above tide water, a height sufficient to supply without pumping the highest sections of the borough. The estimated cost of the tunnel and pipes within the city and the reservoir on Staten Island is $25,000,000.

The total cost of the entire system as projected, including the development of four large Catskill Mountain watersheds, as needed by the growth of the city of New York, the necessary reservoirs, Catskill Aqueduct and all appurtenances, will be about $176,000,000. It is estimated that the work now under contract will be completed in 1915.

Up to October 1, 1914, about $99,400,000 worth of contracts had been awarded, the waterway completed to the city line and about 96 per cent. completed to Staten Island, while about 90 per cent. of the contract work of the present development is done.

THE INTERCOLLEGIATE PROHIBITION ASSOCIATION.

This association was incorporated in 1901, is organized in 230 colleges and universities, and has an enrolled membership of 6,500. It conducts journalistic contests among colleges, preparing students to collect and write news related to the reform, to get into touch with the news organs, and to learn the value of publicity to this and other movements for social betterment. President—D. The Property Clerk of the Coroner's Office received during the course of a year thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry and money found upon and belonging to the dead, which is promptly delivered to the relatives of the dead or to the Public Administrator, as required by law.

The Coroners' Physicians, owing to the large number of autopsies which they perform in the course of a year, obtain knowledge and information which are of great value to medical science.

As a result of investigations made by the Coroner's Office into deaths by casualties, laws have been enacted aiming at the prevention of unnecessary and reckless loss of life, by compelling employers to furnish proper and safe scaffolding, stricter care in employment of men working in caissons, fire prevention law, and forbidding the transferring of dying patients from one hospital to another.

CONSTANCY OF EMPLOYMENT OF WAGE-EARNERS.

THE Census Bureau on November 24, 1911, issued a statement showing greatest variation in the number employed by the leading industries in the United States. The average number of wage-earners employed in all these industries during 1909 was 6,615,046; the largest number, 7,006,853, was employed in November, and the smallest number, 6,210,063, in January, equal to 88.6 per cent. of the maximum. The statistics are embraced in the following tables:

Henry V. as king and prince (in "Henry IV." and "Henry V.") has 1,987 lines to speak, and Falstaff, in both parts of "Henry IV." and "Henry V." and in the " Merry Wives," has 1,895.

NEW YORK CITY.

A RETROSPECT OF THE CITY'S PROGRESS AND MATTERS OF LOCAL INTEREST UP TO THE SIGNING OF BILL CREATING GREATER NEW YORK.

OVER three hundred years ago the Manhattan Island, which now forms part of New York City, was inhabited only by Indians who belonged to the race of North America. They were ferocious and crafty, and differed from the neighboring tribes. The northern part of the island was rocky and scattered throughout with dense woods, while the lower portion was rich in fruits, flowers, nuts, etc. Where the Tombs now stands, at Centre and Franklin Streets, was the scene of a beautiful fresh water pond, and a like body of water was at the corner which is now Bowery and Grand Street. Stretching across the island was a chain of waters from James to Canal Street.

In 1524 Jean Verrazauli, a Florentine, was the first to enter the harbor of New York. Previous to that Sebastian Cabot, a Venetian, explored the country from Labrador to Florida. The Dutch, who were a wealthy nation, in turning their attention to enlarging their commerce, fitted up expeditions in search of a shorter route to the trade in the Eastern seas, but were unsuccessful. Henry Hudson, in trying for a passage through the Polar seas to China and Japan, found himself anchoring in New York Bay on September 11, 1609. The following day he made his way up the river which now bears his name.

Hendrick Christiaensen, from Holland, was appointed the first agent for the fur trade in 1613. He built a redoubt with four houses on the site which is now No. 39 Broadway.

Adriaen Block built from the timber of the island, about 1614, the first vessel ever launched on the waters of Manhattan, and called it the Restless. In 1625 Peter Minuit arrived at Manhattan in the Sea Mew to become the new director of the island. He purchased the island from the Indians for the Dutch West India Company for the sum of 60 guilders. The island was fifteen miles long and from a quarter of a mile to two miles in breadth and had an acreage of 22,000. The original purchase of the island was reported in a letter to the authorities in Holland as follows:

1625—Old Dutch Mill, built on or near the corner of Maiden Lane and Broad Street.
(Translated.)

High and Mighty Lords: Yesterday arrived the ship The Arms of Amsterdam, she sailed from the river Mauritius (Hudson), in the New Netherlands, on 23 September. They report that our folk there are prosperous and live in peace; their women have borne children there already; they have purchased from the Indians, for the sum of 60 guilders, the Island of Manhattan, which is 11,000 morgen large. They have already sowed grain by the middle of May and reaped by the middle of August; samples of summer crops have come, such as wheat, rye, barley, oats, buckwheat, canary seed, beans, and flax.

P. SCHAGHEN.

In 1633 Everardus Bogardus, the first clergyman, and Adam Rolandsen, schoolmaster, arrived at Manhattan. In the same year the first church was built on Broad Street.

1642—Gov. Kleff built a stone hotel on northeast corner Pearl Street and Coenties Slip (Stadt-Huys).

1642—First city lot sold on record; 30x100, on Broome Street; price $9.60.

1642, April—First school opened in the Stadt-Huys, taught by La Montagne.

1656—First map of city, consisting of seventeen streets. A census disclosed 120 houses and 1,000 inhabitants.

1657—Dehoogh Street, now Stone Street, was the first street paved.

1665, July 15—Capt. Thomas Willett of Plymouth, England, first Mayor of New York.

1673, August 9—New York surrendered to Dutch and name changed to New Orange.

1684, January 16—James Graham commissioned first Recorder.

1696, June—First printing press in New York, set up by William Bradford.

1696, June—Nassau Street opened.

1697—Streets lighted with lanterns.

1700—City Hall on Wall Street completed; cornerstone laid 1699.

1709—Jewish synagogue built on Mill Street.

1709—A slave market was erected at the foot of Wall Street slip, where Negroes or Indians stood in readiness for bidders.

1719—First Presbyterian church erected on Wall Street between Nassau Street and Broadway.

1725—Fraunces's Tavern was built. Washington took his farewell of his officers there about December 4, 1783.

1725, October 16—First newspaper, the New York Gazette, a weekly, published by William Bradford.

1732—Monthly stage route began between New York and Boston.

N. B.—The total appropriations in 1913 for State Tax, for interest on and redemption of the city debt, for education, health and sanitation, protection of life and property, and for charitable purposes, were $151,730,536.76, or 79.69 per cent. of the total budget appropriations for said year. For 1914 the appropriations for these purposes aggregate $151,428,499.65, or 79.49 per cent. of the total budget. In other words, of every $1,000 provided in the budget of 1914, $794.90 is for these six functions or purposes.

The most notable increases in the budget of 1914 over those of 1913 are for education, $3,177,107.28; protection of life and property, $1,030,919.86; streets, highways, and bridges, $911,832.78; charitable purposes, $549,808.98; and for judicial, $449,598.61. The 1914 State Tax is the third direct State tax which has been levied against the city since 1906. The notable decreases in the budget of 1914, as compared with 1913, include a reduction of State Taxes of $3,370,728.53; debt service is reduced by $2,365,863.69, and rents are reduced $404,192.08. The reductions in these three elements alone aggregate $6,140,784.30.

ASSESSED VALUATIONS OF TAXABLE PROPERTY AND TAX RATE FOR 1914.

Valuation of Property—The aggregate taxable valuations of property within the city of New York for the year 1914, by boroughs, are as follows:

BOROUGH.	Real Estate.	Personal Estate.	Total.

Guaranteed Low Cost Life Insurance

The Travelers has been the principal exponent of this form of insurance for forty-three years and has now $316,000,000 of insurance in force.

In these policies a guaranteed lower cost or from 15% to 25% more insurance from the beginning takes the place of the indefinite dividends of participating companies. Every result is known to the insured from the day he insures. Among the unique policies offered by the Travelers are the Monthly Income, Insurance Annuity 65, Premium Reduction and 20 Payment Guaranteed Endowment Additions.

The Travelers famous disability clause is embodied in all its regular contracts, under which in case the insured becomes totally and permanently disabled before age of sixty, the contracts immediately mature for the full value by the payment of a guaranteed income to the disabled insured.

Accident Insurance

The Travelers accident policies are the standard of what such policies should be, insuring against temporary disability as well as against loss of life, limb and sight. Business men will be interested particularly in The Travelers Maximum Policy, which covers all accidents but pays a maximum of $40,000 for accidents of travel at a cost of $35.

Compensation and Liability Contracts provide the most complete coverage prescribed by law. In this line as well as in accident The Travelers is the leading company of the world and offers in connection with its policies the most effective service for the prevention of accidents.

In 1913 it made over 166,392 inspections for the improvement of working conditions.

The Company also issues automobile, elevator, teams and public liability policies.

THESE MEN

Have the World's Most Wonderful MEMORIES

THEY can instantly give the population of any place in the world of over 5,000—

THEY can give every important date in world-history—

THEY have 300,000 Facts and Figures stored away in their brains.

William, Max and Felix Berol are the names of these three remarkable men, and a few years ago their memories were distressingly poor. The Berol brothers' amazing efficiency was developed through their own simple, practical method.

The Berol method is now being taught under the direction of William Berol with great success to large classes in leading educational institutions in New York City.

William Berol will teach it to YOU, by mail.

He Can Build YOUR Memory So That It Will Never Fail

You need never forget Names, Faces, Dates, Telephone Numbers; this simple system will cure mind-wandering and teach concentration; you can remember the facts in a book after one reading; you can recall any episode that you wish; you can become a clear thinker, and in public speaking never be at a loss for a word.

Give William Berol a few spare minutes daily, at home, and you will be astonished. He guarantees to strengthen your memory immeasurably.

Going Deaf? Good News!

An engineer who had ear trouble for years finally became so deaf he could not hear the sound of a steam engine, bells or voices. After vainly seeking relief he was compelled to give up his position. His case seemed hopeless. His deafness was aggravated by head disturbances, dry catarrh, nervousness and despondency.

To the surprise of all, he began to hear and continued improving until he could listen to conversations, could hear a train at a distance and even the singing of the birds in the trees. His head and nerves became tranquil. He got his position back again. This was no miracle; no surgery, no artificial hearing devices, no electrical apparatus, no loss of time.

Whoever is becoming deaf can obtain particulars free by writing to Edward Gregory, 176 C. Forbes street, Jamaica Plain, Mass., inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. He will tell you how he and many others have been wonderfully benefited.

$25 to $50 a Week for Speed on Typewriter

BIG DEMAND FOR EXPERT TYPISTS —NEVER OUT OF A JOB.

Why be content with a small salary all your life when a little spare time study will make you an expert typist—bring you the expert's pay—$25 to $50 a week?

There is a big demand everywhere for expert typists. Business to-day is in a hurry—speed-up is the cry. Business men are tired of slow, bungling work on the typewriter. They want rapid, accurate typing that doesn't have to be done over. And they are willing to pay big salaries to get it.

QUICKLY LEARNED IN SPARE TIME.

Trained fingers is the way to more pay—learn to strike the right key without looking at the keyboard and without thinking about it, just as a pianist plays the piano—become a genuine touch writer, instead of a slow "sight" writer.

The Tulloss Touch system makes this wonderfully simple and easy. Just in spare time—without interfering with your regular work—you can easily become an expert in just a few weeks—can increase your speed to 75 or 80 words a minute and write that fast without effort—can absolutely free your work from errors—can add $10 to $30 or $40 a week to your present salary, exactly as thousands of others have done. And you will find the lessons as simple and easy as A B C.

ENTIRE COURSE ON TRIAL.

Absolutely no risk—you can take the entire course on trial—it won't cost you a single cent if you aren't thoroughly satisfied with results. We absolutely guarantee to make you an expert.

GET THIS FREE BOOK.

If you want to make your work easier—if you want more money in your pay envelope, write for free book of proof. Tells all about the Tulloss Course—how it is based on a new and revolutionary principle never taught in business schools—how it has been the standard speed system for over 13 years with thousands of successful graduates—how it won't cost you a single penny if you aren't thoroughly satisfied—how even middle-aged men who had never used a typewriter quickly acquired speed—and gives actual letters from hundreds of students telling how this course has raised their pay.

Better write to-day before you forget.

Will Be Sent to You For a Year's Trial

More than 250,000 people have saved from $100 to $150 on a high grade piano and from $25 to $50 on a first-class organ in purchasing by the Cornish plan—and so can you. We offer to send you an instrument, freight paid, if you wish, with the understanding that if it is not sweeter and richer in tone and better made than any you can find at one-third more than we ask, you may at any time within a year send it back at our expense, and we will return any sum that you may have paid on it, so that the trial will cost you absolutely nothing—and you and your friends to be the judge and we to find no fault with your decision.

You Choose Your Own Terms

Take Three Years to Pay if Needed. The Cornish Plan, in brief, makes the maker prove his instrument and saves you one-third what other manufacturers of high grade instruments must charge you to protect their dealers and agents.

Let Us Send to You Free the New Cornish Book

It is the most beautiful piano or organ catalog ever published. It shows our latest styles and explains everything you should know before buying any instrument. It shows why you cannot buy any other high grade organ or piano anywhere on earth as low as the Cornish. You should have this important information before making your selection. Write for it to-day and please mention Dept. W. A.

Mail Order Business!!

The big-money business of this age—and by far the most interesting and most fascinating business ever known—is the modern business of selling by mail. Here is the one business of great promise which can be started by young and old, experienced or inexperienced, in city, town or country, with only a few dollars or with thousands—and it is a business which offers surer and greater rewards for the time, money and effort invested in its upbuilding than any business I have ever known.

SELL ANYTHING BY MAIL

NEW PARCEL POST ADDS MILLIONS OF MAIL-ORDER BUYERS EVERYWHERE!

There is practically nothing that cannot be successfully sold by mail. Millions of dollars are sent through the mails every month in the purchase of practically every commodity and every class and kind of professional service. The statement has been made by one of America's great mail-order advertisers that the new Parcel Post has put the mail-order dealer in direct touch with at least 20 million additional buyers. JUST IMAGINE WHAT THIS MEANS TO THE MAIL-ORDER BUSINESS! Right now is the time for you to learn of the great possibilities of the mail-order business and to get ready to launch a business of your own and get your share of the millions that are being made in the business of selling by mail!

Unsere Schriftleitung.

Von den vielen deutsch-amerikanischen Zeitungen ist die „Lincoln Freie Presse“ die vorbreiteste. Sie wird allwöchentlich von Hunderttausenden aufmerksam gelesen, die darin Neuigkeiten aus aller Welt, Belehrung und Unterhaltung suchen und finden.

Die „Lincoln Freie Presse“ wird sorgsam redigirt. Vom Vollen das Beste, — so lautet das Motto der Schriftleitung. In überhäufiger Bearbeitung finden die Leser im Depeschenteile Berichte über die Vorgänge und Ereignisse des In- und Auslandes; in den Leitartikeln werden brennende Tagesfragen von einem unparteiischen Standpunkte aus beleuchtet.

Unsere Aufgabe.

Die deutsche Presse hat in diesem Lande eine schwere, aber segensreiche Pflicht zu erfüllen. Sie soll die Liebe zur alten Heimath, zu deutscher Sprache, Art und Sitte zu erhalten streben und zugleich die Leser mit den Verhältnissen und Einrichtungen der neuen Heimath bekannt und vertraut machen, so daß sie gute Bürger dieses Landes werden. Daß die „Freie Presse“ dieser Aufgabe gewissenhaft nachzukommen strebt, wird allseitig anerkannt; sie trägt zur Erhaltung der deutschen Sprache in hohem Maße bei und ist stets darauf bedacht, daß dem Deutschthum im Völkergemeine Amerikas die Stellung eingeäuert wird, die ihm auf Grund seiner Bedeutung, seiner Geschichte und seiner Verdienste zukommt.

Deshalb ist es, daß so viele Deutsche in America die „Freie Presse“ unterstützen, lesen und darin siegen

HYPNOTISM

Be a Hypnotist and Make Fun and Money!
 It takes but a few hours to learn. The study is both easy and fascinating. Hypnotism is an endless source of fun and wonder. If you know how to hypnotize you can perform some of the most marvellous things imaginable. You can do a hundred amazing things that other people cannot do. You can surprise your friends and make yourself popular. You can place others under this strange and mystic spell. You can compel them to think, act and feel just as you wish. If you want to make money you can do so by giving entertainments, treating diseases or teaching the art to others. Why work for others when you may master this money-making profession so easily? Investigate now! You may learn at your own home. I will send you my free treatise for the asking. It tells you about Hypnotism and how you may easily learn it. It is profusely illustrated and is written in a simple style easily understood by all. Anybody may learn from it of how the hypnotic spell sways the will of its subjects, heals the sick, reforms the degraded, overcomes bashfulness, helps to trade or position, amuses an audience for profit, and gains for the operator himself courage, will-power and a means to health, wealth and happiness. It also treats fully on Personal Magnetism and kindred subjects. Remember, this treatise is absolutely free. Simply write for it, and it will be sent by next mail, all charges paid. Don't send any money or stamps, but send your name and address to-day. Address:

Potato Planter

Profitable for the large or small grower. Plants potatoes at lowest possible cost. One man operates it. Opens the furrow—drops the seed any distance or depth required—puts on fertilizer (if wanted)—covers up—marks the next row. Accurate, automatic and dependable. Sold with or without Fertilizer Attachment.

Here's why you should select the Eureka Potato Planter: Furrow Opening Plow is directly under the axle—that means uniform depth at all times. The seed drops in sight of driver. Steel and malleable construction makes long life and few repairs. Made in three sizes—for one or two rows.

$1.50 Worth for 25 Cents!

Old Secrets and New Discoveries

This book is a combination of six books, formerly published at 25 cents per copy, under the following titles; (1) Old Secrets; (2) Secrets for Farmers; (3) Preserving Secrets; (4) Manufacturing Secrets; (5) Secrets for the Housewife, and (6) The Secret of Money Getting by P. T. Barnum.

This Book Tells how to make persons at a distance think of you—something all lovers should know; how you can charm those you meet and make them love you.

It Tells how to make a cheap Galvanic Battery; how to plate and gild without a battery; how to make a candle burn all night; how to make a clock for 25 cents; how to detect counterfeit money; how to banish, and prevent most-quitose from biting; how to make yellow butter in winter; Secret Writing Ink; Cologne Water; Artificial Honey; how to cure drunkenness and stammering.

It Tells how to make a horse look badly foundered, to make a horse temporarily lame, to make him stand by his food and not eat it, to cure a horse from the crib or sucking wind, to cover up the heaves, how to make him seem to have the glanders, make a true-pulling horse balk, to nerve a lame horse, etc. These horse secrets are being continually sold at one dollar each.

It Tells how to make the Eggs of Pharo's Serpents, from which, when lighted, though but the size of a pea, there issues a coiling, hissing serpent similar to a real serpent.

It Tells how to perform "Spirit Mysteries," which have astounded so many audiences. Also many other wonderful things which we have not space to mention.

OLD SECRETS AND NEW DISCOVERIES contains 250 solid pages of reading matter, and will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of only 25 cents.

Rheumatism Conquered

Free from Rheumatism

I say that I can conquer rheumatism with a simple home treatment, without electrical treatment, stringent diet, weakening baths, or, in fact, any other of the usual treatments recommended for the cure of rheumatism.

Don't shut your eyes and say "impossible," but put me to the test.

You may have tried everything you ever heard of and have spent your money right and left.

I say "well and good;" let me prove my claims without expense to you. Let me send you, without charge, a trial treatment of Delano's Rheumatic Conqueror. I am willing to take the chance and surely the test will tell.

So send me your name and the test treatment will be sent you at once. When I send you this I will write you more fully, and will show you that my treatment is not only for banishing rheumatism, but should also cleanse the system of Uric Acid and give great benefit in kidney trouble and help the general health.

This special offer will not be held open indefinitely. It will be necessary for you to make your application quickly. As soon as this discovery becomes better known I shall cease sending free treatments and shall then charge a price for this discovery which will be in proportion to its great value. So take advantage of this great offer before it is too late.

Remember, the test costs you absolutely nothing.

ECZEMA SUFFERERS

"Cheer Up!-- Your Case Is Not Hopeless --Just Write Me"

"Let Me Tell You This Life Story?"

Dr. J. E. Cannaday

I am spending my life on just one work—curing Eczema. My free book tells you how and what I have done for thousands as I can do for you. Eczema can be cured to stay, and when I say cured I mean just what I say, C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched for a while, to return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting 12 years of my life on this one disease, and handling in the meantime nearly a half million cases of this dreadful disease. Now I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. Let me take your case as a regular physician specialist in just one disease—ECZEMA—at my risk. I offer you ECZEMA SALVATION—Instant relief—All you need to do is to write me about your case so that I'll know you have Eczema. I refuse all other diseases. I am no "cure-all" and don't pretend to be. If you will but send for a Free Trial of my mild, soothing treatment you will be more convinced in a day than if or anyone else could in a month's time tell you what my treatment will do for you. If you are disgusted and discouraged I dare you to GIVE ME A CHANCE TO PROVE MY CLAIMS.

Get My FREE TRIAL Treatment

Answer this offer and you have a lifetime of future happiness to gain—at no risk. I want to hear from only real ECZEMA sufferers or their friends and I promise you all the best there is in me and my treatment to CURE YOU or you will not have to pay me a penny of my small fee. I charge only one small fee if you say yourself I deserve it after 30 days. WRITE ME NOW.

References—Third National Bank, Sedalia, Mo. Could you do a better act than to send this notice to some poor sufferer of Eczema, even a stranger to you or a friend?

MAN'S HEALTH FORTIFIED

By living a healthful, active life and assisting nature in obviating the strains due to severe physical exercises and with the assistance of a celebrated "SCHNOTER'S" Army and Navy Suspensory, which will give and keep you in better bodily vigor than all the patent medicines that were ever introduced to the public. Ask your physician about this.

Remember these words:

"A walk of a mile in the open air will save you more than your nickel fare. For in God's out-doors the air is good. It will clear your brain and redden your blood. And bring you more vigor and health by far Than you can possibly get in any old car."

RUPTURE VICTIMS!

Free!

Free!

WONDERFUL INVENTION REPLACES TRUSS. ACTUALLY CURES RUPTURE. FREE TRIAL OFFERED EVERY SUFFERER. READ THIS.

Hurrah! the day of the old fashioned, ill fitting, uncomfortable, ever-slipping steel spring, elastic band or leg strap harness is gone forever. A wonderful new device has taken its place. Nothing like it has ever been known before, and the results from its use are bringing joy to the hearts of hundreds of rupture victims who have been truss tortured for years.

Now is the time—here is your chance to obtain the comfort and relief you have been so long looking for—the actual CURE you have hardly dared to hope for.

The Wonderful Schulling Rupture Lock

is something that the thousands of rupture sufferers have been waiting, looking, hoping, longing for—something that can be worn with comfort, day and night, asleep or awake, at work or at play, all the time, everywhere; cannot slip, bind, pinch, gouge or "gauld" the flesh; holds the rupture, single or double, big or little, with the firmness of a vise and yet so gently, softly and comfortably that the rupture is soon forgotten. But that is not all—

It Is Actually Curing Rupture

Think of it! CURING RUPTURE, healing the openings, closing them up, so that it is possible to go without the Lock, and without support of any kind. Think of it, rupture sufferers—think what this means—not only comfort and perfect holding ALL the time, not only relief—but actual CURES are being effected. Investigate this—you can try the WONDERFUL SCHULLING RUPTURE LOCK at your home and wear it, use it, test it in any way you like for 30 days—FREE.

Send This To-day Send coupon below or post card with your name and address and send it NOW—TO-DAY. It takes but a moment—costs nothing—means everything to you. The grandest surprise of your life and joyous, glorious relief awaits you.

Praise of Hundreds Proves It

Mr. John Schinnerer, Columbus, Indiana, 81 years old, says: "I was fitted with a Schulling Rupture Lock four months ago, and now find ruptured openings entirely healed up."

Mr. E. E. Dickerson, Grand Rapids, Mich., says: "It held my rupture as nothing before had done." Wore it eight months and was completely cured."

John Gorend, R.R., Arlington, S. C., says: "It is the pleasure of my life to confess to you that after five months of service from your Rupture Lock I am now a cured man."

Trial Offer and Rupture Book Free

Write this very day for the Schulling Book, "HOW TO CURE RUPTURE" and FREE TRIAL OFFER of the WONDERFUL SCHULLING RUPTURE LOCK. THINK OF IT! you can get this and wear it, try it, test it, use it—for a whole month without taking any chances, without risking a penny or going to any trouble whatever. Write now—now, now, now, while you're thinking of it. You'll be thankful the longest day you live.

HOW SHE STOPPED

Her Husband's Drinking

Write to Her and Learn How She did It.

For over 20 years James Anderson of 152 Elm Ave., Hillburn, N. Y., was a very hard drinker.

His case seemed a hopeless one, but 10 years ago his wife in their own little home gave him a simple remedy which much to her delight stopped his drinking entirely.

She also tried this remedy on her brother and several neighbors. It was successful in every case. None of them has touched liquor since.

She now wishes every-one who has drunkenness in their homes to try this simple remedy, for she feels sure that it will do as much for others as it has for her. It can be given secretly if desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell you what it is. All you have to do is write her a letter asking her how she cured her husband of drinking and she will reply by return mail in a sealed envelope. As she has nothing to sell do not send her money. Simply send a letter with all confidence to Mrs. Margaret Anderson at the address given above, taking care to write your name and full address plainly.

These great tablets have restored to me perfect manhood at 43. After having been without manly vim, vigor and vitality for more than eight years. I had rheumatism and pains in my legs; in fact, mine was a case of general debility. I tried doctors and brother druggists, being a druggist myself; but only got slight relief, till I finally started to experiment on myself with the above results. Any man or woman who wants perfect health, vim, vigor and vitality, no matter how old they are, or how bad they feel, have now a chance to get what they want,

DRINK HABIT

For the good of those who are victims, directly or indirectly, of the drink habit, I have written and published a very interesting illustrated book which describes how I was freed completely from the craving, and for several years I have not had any desire to touch a drop of anything alcoholic. My book contains information, by following which thousands of drinkers have admittedly been saved.

Many men who do not want to be freed of drink curse have been secretly saved by wives, mothers or sisters. They did not realize what was happening until they found all desire had left them—they couldn't drink any more whisky or beer—then they rejoiced at having been saved. My book has been proven many times worth its weight in gold to a multitude of families. Praised by physicians, judges, editors, clergymen and legions of others. Don't lose this notice; it may not appear again. Simply write Edward J. Woods, 657-H, Station E, New York, N. # TOBACCO HABIT

A very interesting book has been published on tobacco habit—how to conquer it quickly and easily. It tells the dangers of excessive smoking, chewing, snuff using, etc., and explains how nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness, weak eyes, stomach troubles and numerous other disorders may be eliminated through stopping self-poisoning by tobacco. The man who has written this book wants to genuinely help all who have become addicted to tobacco habit and says there's no need to suffer that awful craving or restlessness which comes when one tries to quit voluntarily. This is no mind-cure or temperance sermon tract but plain common sense, clearly set forth. The author will send it free, postpaid, in plain wrapper. Write, giving name and full address—a postcard will do. Address Edward J. Woods, 657 K, Station E, New York City. Keep this advertisement, it is likely to prove the best news you ever read in this almanac.

THIN FOR YEARS

"Gains 22 Pounds in 23 Days"

"I was all run-down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days."

"Sargol has put just 10 pounds on me in 14 days," states W. D. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, enjoy what I ate and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

"I weighed 132 pounds when I commenced taking Sargol. After taking 20 days I weighed 144 pounds. Sargol is the most wonderful preparation for flesh building I have ever seen," declares D. Martin, and J. Meier adds: "For the past twenty years I have taken medicine every day for indigestion and got thinner every year. I took Sargol for forty days and feel better than I have felt in twenty years. My weight has increased from 150 to 170 pounds."

When hundreds of men and women—and there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land voluntarily testify to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 35 pounds, given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader, that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh building after all.

Hadn't you better look into it, just as thousands of others have done? Many thin folks say: "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight," but when someone suggests a way they exclaim, "Not a chance. Nothing will make me plump. I'm built to stay thin." Until you have tried Sargol, you do not and cannot know that this is true.

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted, and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just take it and watch weight pile up, hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing and normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is absolutely harmless. It is a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh producing ingredients. It prepares these fat making elements in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But thin folks' assimilative organs do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case will surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying?

50c BOX FREE

To enable any thin reader, ten pounds or more under weight, to easily make this test we will give a 50c box of Sargol, absolutely free. Either Sargol will increase your weight or it won't and the only way to know is to try it. Send for this Free Test Package to-day, enclosing 10c in silver or stamps to help pay postage, packing, etc., and a full size 50c package will be sent by return mail, free of charge. Mail this coupon with your letter to the SARGOL CO., DEPT. 200-A HERALD BLDG., BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

If you want a beautiful and well rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, if you want to gain some solid pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh, if you want to increase your weight to normal—weigh what you should weigh—accept this Free 50c Package today.

Relief for Catarrh Sufferers Now FREE

How the Remedy for Catarrh Was Discovered

By the new method the nose and throat are treated by an effective local remedy applied directly to the afflicted membranes.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the cause of the trouble has been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

The Elixir, taken into the stomach, has a direct influence upon the mucous membranes of the body and cures the disease by removing the cause.

On test cases, he could completely remove all signs of Catarrh from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.

Careful experiments and investigations have shown that as the troubles were expelled from the nose and throat, the real cause of the disease was overlooked and in a short time the Catarrh would return stronger than ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the ordinary methods of treatment and has provided a remedy that

Removes the Cause and immediately Gives Relief to the Nose and Throat

Reese Jones, of Scranton, Penn., says that after trying many other treatments, he used this new method and—"My nose is now entirely clear and free and I am not bothered by the disease any more. The New Combined Treatment is worth its weight in gold."

Temporary relief from catarrh may be obtained in other ways, but the New Combined Treatment must inevitably be accepted for permanent results.

Sarah J. Cape, Mount Pella, Tenn., says: "I suffered the pains and distress of catarrh for thirteen years and, needless to state, tried nearly every method. But by your new method I was completely cured and you cannot imagine the joy that has come over me."

Trial Treatment FREE

This new method is so important to the welfare of humanity, so vital to every person suffering from any form of catarrh, that the opportunity to actually test it and prove its results, will be gladly extended without one cent of cost.

A large trial treatment, with complete, minute directions, will be sent free to any catarrh-sufferer.

Send no money, take no risks, make no promises. Simply clip, sign and mail the coupon and the test package of the New Combined Treatment will be sent, fully prepaid, together with the valuable book on Catarrh.
