Judges, Anno 11 Ric. II.

FOR APPROVING the OPINIONS of certain JUDGES concerning the STATUTE and COMMISSION 10 Ric. II., and for REPEALING all PROCEEDINGS in the PARLIAMENT of 11 Ric. II.	21 Ric. II. c. 12.	Ib.	101
Recital, that Questions put to the Judges, An. 11 Ric. II. respecting the Statute 10 Ric. II. and the Commission then made, as follow:—	Ib.	Ib.	101
1. If the same Statute be derogatory to the King's Prerogative?	Ib.	Ib.	Ib.
2. How the Procurers and Advisers of the same were punishable?	Ib.	Ib.	Ib.
3. How they ought to be punished that did interrupt the King, so that he might not exercise those Things that pertaineth to his Prerogative? And that of one Assent it was answered, that they ought to be punished as Traitors.	Ib.	Ib.	Ib.
4. Whether the Parliament can proceed on other Business than that limited by the King? And that of one Mind they answered, that the King in this Party shall have the Rule; and if any do contrary, he ought to be punished as a Traitor.	Ib.	Ib.	103
5. Whether the King, whensoever it pleaseth him, might dissolve the Parliament? And that it was of one Mind answered, that he may; and if any would proceed in the Parliament against the King's Will, he is to be punished as a Traitor. - - 21 Ric. II. c. 12.

6. Whether the Lords and Commons might, without the King's Will, impeach Offenders upon their Offences in the Parliament? And that it was by one Mind answered, that they might not; and he that doth contrary is to be punished as a Traitor. - - Ib.

7. How he is to be punished that moved in the Parliament for Production of the Record of the Deposition of King Edward II.? And that of one Accord they answered, that as well he that so moved, as the other which by force of the same Motion brought the said Statute into the Parliament House, be as Traitors worthy to be punished. - - Ib.

8. Whether the Judgment against the Earl of Suffolk in 10 Ric. II. were erroneous and revocable? And that of one Assent they said, that if the same Judgment were now to be given, the same Justices and Serjeant aforesaid would not give the same, because it seemed to them that the same Judgment is revocable as erroneous in every Part; and that in witness thereof the Justices and Serjeant aforesaid to this Present did set their Seals. - - Ib.

And that it was demanded of all the States of the Parliament, how they thought of the Answers aforesaid; and they said, that they thought that the said Justices made and gave their Answers duly and lawfully, as good and lawful liege People of the King ought to do; and in the same Manner, Sir Thomas of Skelton, learned in the Law, and William Hankeford and William Brenchley, the King's Serjeants, demanded by the King of their Advice in this Behalf, said that the Answers were good and lawful; and that they would have given the same Answers, if the said Questions had been demanded of them. And my Lord William Thirning, Chief Justice of the Common Bench, said that the Declaration of Treason not declared belongeth to the Parliament; but if he were a Lord, or a Peer of the Parliament, if he had been demanded, he would have said in the same Manner; and in like Manner said my Lord William Rikehyll, Justice of the Common Place; and after the coming of my Lord Walter Clopton, Chief Justice, he said in likewise: and that therefore the said Answers should be adjudged and affirmed for good and sufficient in the said Parliament. - - Ib.

The Proceedings in Parliament 11 Ric. II. repealed, and the Parties restored to their Lands. - - Ib.
