Wong's Habeas Corpus Application in Vancouver Set For To-morrow

Vancouver, June 22—Preparations are being made on many sides for the series of court hearings scheduled for this week growing out of the death of Janet Smith.

J. H. Senkler, K.C., counsel for Wong Foon Sing, the only person in the house when the girl's body was found and who has been charged with murder, will conclude to-morrow his application for Wong's release under a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that no evidence against him, or even evidence that there was a murder, was adduced at the preliminary hearing.

Chief Justice Hunter last time the matter was up gave a ruling against Mr. Carter when he decided he had jurisdiction to read the evidence taken before the magistrate.

PREPARING CASE H. S. Wood, counsel instructed by the Attorney-General in the prosecution of the twelve people charged with the abduction, spent this morning at the provincial police office going into the evidence on that case.

It is stated to-day by W. Norton, the first man arrested, will be a witness for the prosecution on Thursday, as will Wong Foon Sing, the abducted Chinese himself.

Joseph Oliver, counsel for O.B.V. Robinson and his son, William, is seeking to have his clients released on bail before Thursday, but up to early this afternoon no order fixing bail had been pronounced.

MEMORIAL SERVICE (Continued from page 1) Although it brought back a flood of sad memories to many in the vast congregation the service was a striking demonstration, seven years after the Great War and many years after previous wars that the men who died in action live forever green in the memory of their relatives and friends.

THE LAST POST The service opened with the soldier's favorite hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" bringing back memories of the singing of the hymn at many camps in France. Prayer by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Stevenson followed.

French Lieutenant and Six Senegalese Soldiers in Morocco Died Bravely

Paris, June 22—A dispatch from For says Second Lieut. Lapeyre, with six Senegalese soldiers, the only survivors of his original garrison of twenty-two men, blew up his blockhouse in the French Moroccan front on June 14 rather than be taken alive or surrender to the besieging Rifians of Abd-el-Krim's forces.

He had held the post for eight days against the tribesmen. His two cannon had finally been silenced by the enemy. He had repeatedly asked for help, but no rescue party had arrived and the enemy was closing in.

PROROGATION IS EXPECTED THURSDAY

Much Remains to be Done by Both Houses of Parliament in Ottawa

Home Bank, Elections Act and Australian Trade Treaty Still on List

Ottawa, June 22 (Canadian Press)—Prorogation of Parliament is not expected before Thursday. Intensive work in both Houses must occupy the intervening days if prorogation is to be reached by then.

The House of Commons will have to dispose of the Grain Act, which is still in the committee stage with some 200 clauses to be passed; the Dominion Elections Act, which is also still in the committee stage; the Australian Trade Treaty; the Home Bank Reimbursement Bill, which was greatly amended by the Senate; and the supplementary estimates.

The Senate will receive whatever bills are given third reading in the Commons and a conference between the two Houses will probably be required in an endeavor to secure a settlement of the Home Bank legislation. Senator Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate, stated in the Upper House last week that he had hoped to secure three weeks' consideration of the Grain Act in the Senate, but it is doubtful if it will have as many days.

To-day the question of revision of the rules of the House will come before the Commons. Premier King intimated at the close of the Saturday sitting that the report of the com-

RASMUSSEN SAYS AMUNDSEN'S TRIP WAS SUCCESS

Copenhagen, June 22.—Knud Rasmussen, the Danish Arctic explorer, commenting upon Amundsen's attempt to reach the North Pole by air, said that from a scientific standpoint it was of no consequence that Amundsen had not actually reached the pole.

"Having been so close to the pole," M. Rasmussen said, "Amundsen has proved that the time has come to use aeroplanes in Polar researches. The fact that he left Spitzbergen in an aeroplane and returned from near the pole in the same way is the point of real importance. There is every reason to believe his long sojourn at one place near the pole made it possible for him to take a series of observations."

Amundsen's trip was a success, which recommended several significant changes in rules, would be the first order of business this week. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservatives, suggested that the report might well stand over until another session.

MACMILLAN SHIPS TO CALL AT SYDNEY

Craft Bound For Arctic Will Take on Fuel Oil at Nova Scotia Port

Monhegan Island, Maine, June 22.—Lieut.-Commander Donald MacMillan to-day was well started on the first leg of his ninth expedition to the Arctic. Sailing yesterday from this port on board the 155-ton auxiliary schooner Bowdoin, MacMillan hoped to reach Sydney, N.S., where fuel oil will be obtained for the voyage north, on Thursday.

The expedition includes in addition to the Bowdoin the steamer Peary, which will act as tender, and three naval planes, by means of which the explorer hopes to discover great areas of land in the vicinity of the North Pole.

Before leaving here Commander MacMillan said he looked forward to flying from Cape Thomas Hubbard, Axel Heiberg Island, out over the Polar Sea in search of land he believes to exist there. With a flying radius of 250 miles, he said the planes would be able to cover a vast territory and to settle the question whether the areas about the Pole are land or water.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, who is sponsoring and financing the expedition, is a guest on board the Bowdoin and will accompany MacMillan as far as Sydney. The explorer made his formal start for the Arctic from Wisconsin, Maine, Saturday, when official farewells were said. The stop at Monhegan Island is always a part of MacMillan's voyages north. His ship is made ready for the expeditions here and he has many friends on the island.

Deaths of lead poisoning see butterflies and winged insects—much as persons with delirium and convulsions. Victims have been known to pause while at work, gaze intently into space and suddenly leap into the air, clutching "butterflies" which are nowhere to be seen.

Publication was first focused on the poisoning last Fall, when five persons died suddenly in straight jackets from the effects of making "looney gas" at the Standard Oil Company's works near Elizabeth, N.J.

VETERANS ARE URGED TO END DIFFERENCES

Ottawa, June 22.—Unless the ex-service men's organizations of Canada drop their petty misunderstandings and squabbles Earl Haig will likely conclude his Canadian tour in Ottawa," declared Lieut.-Colonel T. Nangle, aide-de-camp of Earl Haig, who arrived in Ottawa yesterday to arrange for the Earl's visit.

Colonel Nangle stated he had already received assurances from the officials of the Great War Veterans' Association that the association is behind the field marshal in his desire for union among the veterans and that all organizations have been invited to participate in a preliminary conference to be held in Ottawa.

Colonel Nangle, who is a staff officer of the British Empire Service League, under the auspices of which the coming conference in Ottawa is to be held, stated Field Marshal Haig was coming to Canada for two reasons; first to preside at the conference, and secondly, to meet the war veterans of Canada. An itinerary for his tour of Canada had been prepared, but various details were to be settled before it could be announced. Chief among the details to be settled, according to Colonel Nangle, was whether or not the Earl would find it worth while to continue his tour.

THIRTEEN WORKERS KILLED BY POISON

Deaths in Eastern U.S. Plants Investigated; Victims Had Hallucinations

"Anti-knock" Gasoline and Radium Watch Dials Cause of Tragedies

New York, June 22.—Deaths from poison in a lead plant which caused its victims to have hallucinations of seeing butterflies have just been revealed in New Jersey in an investigation of fatalities among workers who put radium paint on watch dials. Coincident with inquiries into five deaths and numerous cases of illness in the plant of the United States Radium Corporation at Orange, N.J., it has developed that tetraethyl lead poisoning killed eight persons in eighteen months and made 300 others seriously ill at the Deepwater, N.J., plant of Dupont Company. The plants, now closed, made a lead compound and treated gasoline with it.

GASOLINE WORK

The tetraethyl is a compound used in manufacturing anti-knock gasoline, the sale of which has been stopped in several states because of its possible intoxication into effects on pedestrians from the exhaust gas.

A Word About Silks

PASSING our Store by View or Douglas Streets pedestrians may see in our big corner window, almost any day, a display of Shimmering Silken Fabrics; beautiful in sheen and coloring, soft in texture, yet strong and practical for many uses.

It is a display that at once turns the mind to the silk looms of the Orient and Europe; to the evolution of those wonderful fabrics which, beginning with the tiny silk worm's flimsy thread, comes to us through spinning jenny, loom and dyeing process as the most beautiful fabrications in the world.

Beautiful they are and wonderful in effect when, through the dressmaker's art, they are transformed into entrancing garments for matrons' or maidens' wear. They are inexpensive, too, when compared with the cost of years ago, when only those possessing wealth in abundance could enjoy the pleasures, the fine effects of silken garments.

But times have changed. The modern methods for manufacturing, the greater facilities for cheaper and more direct transportation, combined with greater affluence of riches among all classes, make silken garments a reality with all; not a dream with many, as in days gone by.

A visit to our Department of Silks, a casual examination of the Stocks and a talk with our salespeople will be an education. Here you will learn of the great number of textures into which the flimsy thread of the silk worm has been woven. These range from the fine, clinging, lace-like textured fabrics suitable for finest lingerie and evening wear, to the stouter bodied weaves that are heavy enough for coats, mantles and everyday dresses.

Our Silk Department supplies every make, every shade and shade combination and every weight, all bought direct from the manufacturers.

SS. PRESIDENT MADISON MADE PORT FROM EAST AHEAD OF HER SCHEDULE

Admiral-Oriental Liner Docked Last Night With 112 Saloon Passengers and Cargo Which Included 2,214 Bales of Raw Silk.

Capt. "Fairweather" Quinn brought his ship, the President Madison, into port last night after a particularly fine passage from Yokohama.

The Madison put into quarantine at 7 p.m. and was alongside Pier 2 at 8.15 p.m., disembarking passengers and putting ashore freight.

Under her schedule the ship was due to make port this morning. "Good weather all the way and no delays at Shanghai," a typical Quinn greeting, met the marine reporter as he boarded the ship in quest of news.

Brevity of speech expressive, with a smile and a big handclasp, is characteristic of Capt. Quinn, who has endeared him to everybody on the coast.

He is a smiling, jovial skipper, who invariably has the best weather when sailing the high seas. Hence his title, "Fairweather."

The President Madison brought in 112 saloon passengers in addition to a good stevedore list of Orientals. Her cargo included 2,214 bales of raw silk destined for the New Jersey mills.

After putting off freight here the Madison cleared at 1.30 o'clock this morning for Seattle. Passengers disembarking here were Dr. Malcolm A. Smith, Mrs. M. A. Smith, Master Michaels Smith, Mrs. A. Kazanjian, and "Master" Gordon Kuznesjoff.

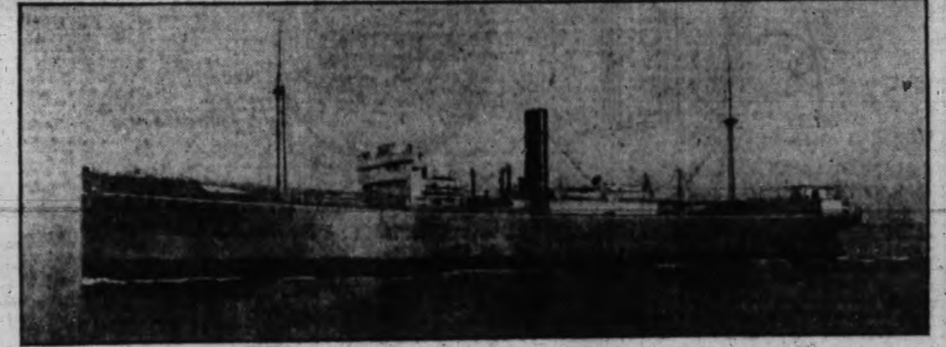

Through passengers included Harold A. Biedent, professor of organic chemistry, Fuchen Christian University, Foochow, F. Clinton Earle, chief engineer of the port of Manila and vice-chairman of the Manila Harbor Board, on a visit to the States.

Frank R. Eldridge, chief of the Far Eastern division of the United States Department of Commerce; Robert MacIntyre, of the Paramount Film Corporation; Myron Simon, head of the China Java Export Company, of Shanghai; Charles B. Spofford, Jr., American Trade Commissioner for India, Burma and Ceylon with headquarters at Bombay.

The excursion ship set out past the breakwater and then rounded Trial Island and Oak Bay. Speeding northward past Ten Mile Point and Cordova Bay, she altered her course, turning in the direction of Friday Harbor and, turning again, soon was opposite D'Arcy Island.

The pleasure of the excursionists was greatly enhanced by the playing of the Sixteenth Canadian Scottish Band, many couples dancing to its lively strains.

PATHS TO PARADISE IS BIG PARAMOUNT SCREEN ATTRACTION

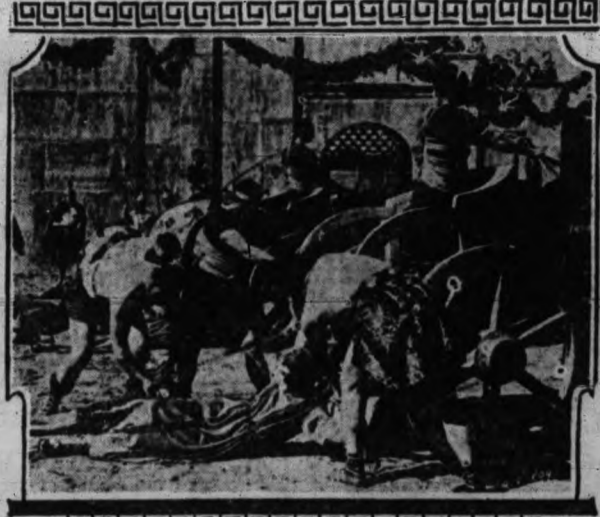

Speedy Work With Action and Rapid-fire Comedy in Picture Featuring Betty Compson at Dominion Theatre To-day.

Much of the fast-moving action of the rapid-fire crook comedy, "Paths to Paradise," which opens at the Dominion Theatre to-day is furnished by a mile-a-minute automobile chase, the principals of which are two clever jewel thieves and the entire San Francisco police force. "Paths to Paradise," a Paramount picture directed by Clarence Badger and featuring Betty Compson and Raymond Griffith, was adapted for the screen by Keene Thompson from Paul Armstrong's play, "The Heart of a Thief." Griffith, a bogus detective, first meets Betty in one of San Francisco's Chinatown dives. The next time they see each other is at a fashionable reception. There are some valuable jewels in the safe, and Griffith has managed to get himself established in the household as official "guard" of the gems, while Betty puts in an appearance in a maid's costume.

After no end of laughs, during which first one and then the other has possession of the necklace, Ray and Betty decide that they love each other and should team up. On the pretence of bringing Betty to the station house as a suspicious character, Ray and the girl make good their escape. The loss is discovered, and every cop in San Francisco hot-locks it after them—and the chase is on.

It is not long before the pair of them discover that they are at the head of a regular police parade and that the further ahead of it they stay the more healthy it will be for both of them. They reach the border and then a strange thing happens. Woman-like, Betty upsets things in general by telling Griffith that they cannot go through with their plan of escaping from the United States. If they are to marry they must be able to trust one another, and they could never do that as crooks. So they decide to return the jewels and back they go right through the police net at breakneck speed, arrive at the house in the nick of time—for the father is about to present the jewels to his daughter as a wedding present. Still believing that Griffith is a detective, the old gent gives him a cheque for a handsome sum for his trouble—and "All's well that ends well." Playing in support of the leading players are Tom Santschi, Fred Kelsey and Bert Woodruff. Griffith, the funny fellow with the high silk hat, seen recently in "Forty Winks" and "The Night Club," is at his screaming best in "Paths to Paradise."

To be distracted with many opinions makes men to be of the least impression and full of change.

Another Musical Success Given by Hincks' Players

"The Girl from Kays" at the Coliseum; "Circe the Enchantress" Film Feature

The Hincks Company at the Coliseum is out to give Victoria the very best as demonstrated by the bills that they are producing. Following fast on the heels of "The Mizdo" comes the announcement that this week's show will be none other than the big musical success "The Girl from Kays" which not so long ago was on everyone's lips as the best thing in musical comedy which had been heard for many a day. Reginald Hincks has secured a strong cast to play this delightful programme in which there is abundance of snappy tuneful music and a whole host of sizzling comedy which should make this an extremely popular show. Special dialogue has been written to bring it up to the minute and no pains have been spared on the scenic effects. Mae Murray is a truly great actress and also a great entertainer. "Circe the Enchantress," her newest Metro-Goldwyn starring picture, at the Coliseum is without doubt one of the best pictures in which this beautiful blonde star has ever appeared.

"Circe the Enchantress" is an original story written especially for Miss Murray by Vicente Blasco Ibanez and it was directed by Robert Z. Leonard. A notable supporting cast, including James Kirkwood, William Haines, Charles Gerard, Thomas Ricketts and Lillian Langdon appear in support of Miss Murray in "Circe the Enchantress." It is a Tiffany production.

Music Lovers' Night at Capitol

To-night the Capitol Theatre will present its Music Lovers' Night, the orchestra being under the direction of A. Prescott. The programme arranged this week for the super-production, "Quo Vadis," will be one that will fit the feature film, and will also be pleasing to all music lovers of this city.

Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows: Overture, "Morning, Noon and Night"; Supper; ballet music from the "Queen of Sheba"; Goldmark; march triumphal, E. Greig; selection, "Samson and Delilah," Saint Saens.

There is a certain actress whose charms and vivacity have long been proverbial. "Father," said a young man, with enthusiasm, "she is an angel, and I love her! Stop! Not a word! I adore her—and I won't allow you to breathe a syllable against her." "Certainly not," said the father, "certainly not. Why, I adored her myself when I was your age."

"Mutt and Jeff" Cartoon Comedy Now at Playhouse

"The Age of Desire," First National Picture Screened this Week

Playhouse audiences will be given a rare treat this week, when Frank Morton Company will present the first of its cartoon musical comedies, "Mutt and Jeff." For years newspaper readers have followed the adventures of the funny pair and their advent on a local stage has aroused much interest. Frank Morton, who made such a tremendous hit as "Jiggs," will be seen as the much abused little "Jeff," with Jess Le Roy, who opens with the company this week, cast as the elongated "Mutt." Familiar incidents from the celebrated cartoon have been used as the foundation of the musical comedy, which is said to be one solid laugh from start to finish. The entire cast of the Morton Company will be seen in "Mutt and Jeff," the principals appearing in important supporting roles with the specialty artists and ensemble chorus furnishing the musical end of the programme. On the screen, Mary Philbin, of "Merry Go Round" fame, Myrtle

Stedman and William Collier, are featured in "The Age of Desire." "The Age of Desire," which is from the pen of Miss Dixie Wilson, and was written while the latter was a member of the cast of the Greenwich Village Follies, is a gripping tale of the cravings of the modern woman. Its theme is one that possesses a powerful appeal and its enfoldment is a series of dramatic highlights. Mary Philbin, William Collier, Jr., and Myrtle Stedman have the leading roles, assisted by Josef Swickard, Frankie Lee, Mary Jane Irving, J. Farrell MacDonald, Bruce Guerin and Frederick Truesdell. The magistrate regarded the urchin with a look in which sympathy for his sad plight and disapproval for his misdeed were equally blended. "My dear boy," he exclaimed, "what possessed you to steal the tortoise?" "I didn't steal it," was the unexpected retort. "It followed me home."
